CRIMINAL CASE.

King vs. John Prodder, charged with shooting Miss Elizabeth

Frank with intent to kill.

One criminal case and twelve civil actions were on the list at the opening of the fall assizes at the court house this afternoon, Justice Teetzel, of Toronto, presiding.

His lordship, in charging the grand jury, explained to the members their duties.

"Fortunately," he said, "your duties are not very heavy, but one criminal case being entered. It is a very serious case, however, the prisoner being charged with shooting with intent to murder."

CANON TUCKER TO SUCCEED LATE REV. CANON DANN

It Is Said He Will Be Named by

Bishop as Rector of St.

Paul's.

It was stated to The Advertiser

this afternoon on excellent authority that Rev. Canon Tucker, of Toronto, secretary of the missionary society of the Church of England in Canada, will succeed the late Precentor Damm as rector of St. Paul's Cathedral.

It is stated that the appointment has already been made, and that Canon

Tucker will arrive in the city and take over his duties very shortly.

Canon Tucker is well known in this city, and when last he spoke at the big gathering held in connection with the Laymen's Missionary Movement. His address was one of the most brilliant of any delivered on that occasion, and he fully maintained his reputation of being one of the best orators in the Church of England today.

Canon Tucker comes from Montreal, where he worked for many years.

After leaving there he went to the west, and for a number of years was in charge of the church of which Rev.

Mr. Owen, formerly pastor of the Memorial Church here, now has charge.

RICHARD POWERS MUST SERVE FIFTEEN MONTHS*Stole a Bicycle From in Front of the Public Library.

Richard Powers, thirty-seven years old, who came to Canada seven years ago, was sentenced to serve fifteen months at the Central prison by Judge Elliot at the court house Saturday morning.

Powers pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing a bicycle belonging to Gordon Wootton, of 714 Maitland street, from in front of the public library some days ago and of attempting to pawn it with a Clarence street broker fifteen minutes later.

He has already served terms for theft, including nine months in the Central. He claims to have no relatives in this country.

$100,000 BETTER
THAN YEAR AGO*Building in September Was Excellent —Figures' Increase From Friday.

Building seems to be on the move. After the statistics had been compiled Saturday at 2 o'clock, the London Concrete Machinery Company took out a permit for a building on Cabell street to cost $6,000.

City Architect Nutter, in his official statement, shows that buildings to the amount of $148,950 were commenced in September.

This amount is nearly $100,000 better than September last year, when but $54,890 worth were taken out. The total for the first nine months of the year is about $70,000 less than last year.

MORE INFANTILE
PARALYSIS REPORTED*Several New Cases Are Being Treated in City and District.

Infantile paralysis is becoming epidemic in London and vicinity according to the latest reports.

One physician in the city has three new cases, all in South London.

In Dorchester Township, and in the vicinity of Thamesford, there are many cases. Four in one family have been seized with the malady, while others in the neighborhood are affected by it.

TRUTHFUL MAN
REGISTERED BIRTH*A Humorous Incident Over the Registration of a Birth.

Many amusing incidents occur at the city hall, but the clerks are laughing at a real funny one today.

It took place over the registration of a birth. One of the questions asked on the new form is the following: "Were you present when the child was born?"

One truthful man answered today: "No, but the mother was."

MAY BUILD NEW TEMPLE NEXT SUMMER*Masons Will Not Attempt To Do Anything This Year.

The new Masonic Temple to be erected on Queen's avenue will not be built until some time next summer.

The property, bonded some time ago has been purchased and the houses have been rented for the winter.

Next spring the plans will be considered. It is said, and it is expected that this construction work will be completed about July 1. The temple will be ready for occupancy by Jan. 1, 1912.

MISSION WILL BE HELD IN ST. MARY'S*Two Dominican Priests From New York Will Be in Charge.

It was announced at St. Mary's Church yesterday morning that a mission will be held there during the two weeks commencing Nov. 6. Two Dominican priests from New York city will be in charge of the special services.

The annual pilgrimage of the Catholics of the city to St. Peter's (Roman Catholic) Cemetery will be held on Sunday afternoon next.

CITY CLAIMS COMPANY
WILL BUY POWER*Look to Have Street Railway for Niagara Product Customers.

The hydro-electric commission have not submitted a new schedule of power rates to the London street railway.

So far as can be learned matters are at a standstill, both sides apparently waiting for the other to make a move.

The London street railway is using all the power it can produce, and very shortly arrangements will have to be made for more power.

The winter load is heavy, and unless something is done very shortly the company may have difficulty in obtaining power.

In addition to paying $31 per horsepower on the peak load basis, the company will have to install motors to change the alternating to direct current. Exact figures could not be obtained, but it was thought this machinery would cost at least $5,000.

It is claimed that negotiations will be opened within a short time, and it will likely result in the city having the company as customers.

A SPECIAL RECRUIT
CLASS FOR 7TH*Vacancies for a Few Good Men Are Open.

The Seventh Regiment will shortly resume drill, and the vacancies caused by members leaving the city during the summer will give a number of young men an opportunity of joining the regiment.

A special recruit class is being started, so that those joining now will be trained and ready to turn out with their companies when battalion drill commences.

Those desiring to join the regiment should apply at the orderly room, the Armories, on Monday evenings between 8 and 9 o'clock.

R. GRAHAM NAMED
TEMPORARY ENGINEER*Will Superintend Installation of Electrical Machinery.

Mr. R. Graham has been appointed electrical engineer for the city temporarily. He has been connected with the hydro-electric commission for some time, but was loaned to the water commissioners until such a time as Mr. Van Cleve is able to be on duty, and look after the appointment of an engineer to succeed Mr. Roberts.

Mr. Graham will oversee the installation of the machinery at the Horton street plant.

EXPLAIN THE BYLAW
TO THE CONTRACTORS*At the Present Time Nobody Seems to Know What Is Demanded.

Mr. Frank Harding, who had a barn on Maitland and recently streets moved and repaired some time ago, appeared in the police court Saturday morning to answer a charge of violating the bylaw, prepared by City Architect Nutter.

The matter will be settled to the satisfaction of the inspector.

The magistrate recommended that the city architect address a meeting of contractors and explain to them what the bylaw requires. His worry is also of the opinion that every man should have inserted in his contracts a clause to the effect that all work must be done in accordance with the building regulations.

RALLY DAY IN
EMPRESS AVE. CHURCH*Large Congregations Were Present at All the Services.

Yesterday was rally day at the Empress Avenue Methodist Church, and the attendance at all the services was the largest in the history of the church. In the morning Rev. George Dewey preached on the "Meaning of Rally Day," under the headings: revival, all together, light, love, you, the first letter of each word, put together, forming rally. Mr. Dewey's remarks were listened to with great interest. In the afternoon addresses were given by Dr. S. P. Reynolds, of Askin Street Church, and Rev. David Williams, of the High Street Church. It is estimated that 325 people were present. In the evening Mr. Dewey preached.

THIRTY YEARS
A Slave to Coffee.

Many persons do not realize that coffee-drinking may become a powerful, enslaving habit.

They are not all aware that coffee contains a drug, caffeine, which ought never to be taken into the system except when prescribed by the doctor.

The coffee habit grows on most users and is more harmful to some than others. But a drug that acts upon the heart and nerves in the caffeine does is not without greater or less harm to all who drink coffee.

"For thirty years," writes a Washington housewife, "I have been a steady coffee drinker. I wanted it at every meal."

"But I would have sick headache most of the day, and often throw up my food. I really suffered awfully from coffee, yet thought I never could stop it."

"Then I heard how good Postum was for such cases, and began to use it. At first I did not care for Postum. I felt sleepy and had headache. I soon found that this was because of the bold coffee had on me, for in about three days after I had used Postum I began to use Postum the headache left me, had no more nervousness and palpitation. In about a week I felt like a new woman."

"I have used Postum three years and when it is made according to directions (boiled 15 minutes) it is as pleasant as coffee and don't hurt anyone. I ought to know for I was bad off. Now I am well."

Don't Think

OFFICERS FOR THE YEAR*Rev. Dr. Manning Is Honorary
President and Mr. Cowley Is President.

No. 8 Club of the Dundas Centre Methodist Sunday school held its annual meeting yesterday afternoon in the Sunday school room, when the reports of the officers were read and new officers elected for the year.

The new officers are: Hon. president, Rev. Dr. Thos. Manning; president, A. Cowley; vice-president, F. W. C. McCutcheon; secretary, Geo. F. Copeland; associate secretary, Reyburn Hourd; treasurer, J. Cahill; past president, D. C. McNaughton.

Executive Committee—J. C. Richardson, Sld. Martin and Dr. Moore. Representative to the Methodist Athletic Association, Clarence Armstrong. Leader, Prof. J. Bowman; associate leader, Mr. Althous.

The report of Will. Armstrong, the secretary, showed an increase over the attendance of the year previous, while the treasurer, Roy Thomas, reported a splendid balance.

Week-night meetings will be instituted, and if the enthusiasm of the members counts for anything, the club has a prosperous year ahead of it.

Clubs and Amateur Sports*"A Winning Miss" Tonight.

The surest way to judge an attraction nowadays is by the criticisms of larger cities that have witnessed the attractions we are to have in the near future at the Grand. Among the many notices of the good things in store for this city is Boyle Woolfolk's "A Winning Miss," a large musical show, direct from the Grand Theatre, Chicago, where it played 220 performances. All the criticisms of the larger cities in the States are of a very laudatory nature, and an ideal musical show is guaranteed for tonight, Monday, Oct. 3. Seats now selling.

"A Travelling Salesman."

Dallas Tyler, who plays Beth Ellett in "The Travelling Salesman," this season, but who has been out of the business for the past two years on account of illness; has been spending that period at her childhood's home at Cloughton, Birkenhead, England, and owes her recovery largely to the exercise obtained from horseback riding. Miss Tyler, when a child, rode a great deal, and was wont to follow the hounds on cross-country jaunts after the nimble red fox, her father allowing this on account of the way in which she sat her saddle, her riding comparing favorably with the older hunters in the country. When she came to America and took up dramatic work, her riding was forgotten, and she doubtless would never had returned to it, but for the fact that the memories of her childhood were so closely associated with it. When she became convalescent two years ago, she asked permission of her doctor to ride, and one of the best hunters in the country, the Duke of Westminster was placed at her disposal; his country seat at Chester, on the River Dee, being near her home. So enthusiastic did Miss Tyler become, that she brought back to America with her her favorite horse. Since riding has had the beneficial effect of restoring to the American stage one of its most promising leading women, Henry B. Harris has instructed the advance agent of "The Travelling Salesman" to secure a saddle horse in every city for Miss Tyler's use, and during the engagement at the play at the Grand Tuesday night, Oct. 4, she will doubtless spend her mornings in the saddle. Guaranteed attraction.

Aborn Opera Company.

The majority of the music lovers of London were not present at the Grand Opera House on Saturday, when the Aborn English Grand Opera Company produced "The Barber of Seville" and "Faust." It is a pity for the reputation of the city that two such sterling performances should have been practically ignored. No more delightful singing was heard, and it was done full justice by the excellent company. Miss Edith Helena Russo gave a splendid impersonation to that of the Countess.

Miss Helena was excellent. Her voice is a pure lyric soprano, of wide range, and sweet in quality. She is an artist in her finger tips, and with the endorsement of super voice, she made an ideal Lucia. It is an exacting role, but never once did she fail to measure up to her opportunities. Her singing of "Mad Scene" was a treat, and she did not suffer from comparison with the very best in the profession. Russo is a standard artist, and is well remembered. As the passionate, sorrow-stricken lover, he was magnificent. The other roles were well taken, and the chorus was superb.

Harry Luckstone, as Sir Henry Ashton, possessed fine baritone voice, while William Schuster, as the chaplain, showed marked ability both as an artist and vocalist.

In the evening Miss Paula Braendle, the American dramatic soprano, sang the role of Marguerite in "Faust." Her reputation as an artist had preceded her, but she more than lived up to it.

Russo sang "Faust" with striking success. George Shields sang the part of Meville, with rare judgment. Harry Luckstone, Louise Le Baron, Hattie Belle Ladd, and Frank Wooley, in the other roles, were very capable.

Many Londoners certainly missed a treat when they failed to take advantage of the opportunities afforded them of hearing the Aborns.

THE CULTURE OF FISH FOOD.

There is no state in the Union that has a greater extent of watercourses, rivers, lakes and inlets from the sea than Louisiana, yet few commonwealths do less to protect and replenish the fish supply than this state. It is true that our stock of fish has been so plentiful in the past that there has seemed to be no special need of protection or artificial propagation, but this fortunate state of things cannot last forever—in fact, the supply of fish in our waters has greatly dimin-

That an unknown, highly cultured people, of whom neither history, tradition nor legend has preserved any record, flourished in or near the valley of Mexico and enjoyed spiced chocolate and aromatic beverages from transplanted tropical fruit grown by them in a marvellously built garden at Oaxtepec from 1,500 to 2,000 years ago, is the latest theory of Guillermo Telles regarding the recently discovered garden of Montezuma.

Mr. Telles applied to the department of public instruction for a special permit to make explorations in the garden.

He has been devoting a large part of four years to studying the plants found there. Through the inscriptions he has been able to glean historical data concerning 21 successive civilizations. Tropical trees, flowers and fruits were transplanted from the isthmus of Tehuantepec and Central America to this garden, and there were grown cocoa, vanilla, papaya, yucca, loxochilli, mezoachilli and another rare flower which gives off its odor in the night.

These plants and their friends were which were the favorite beverage of the Aztec lords when Cortes arrived. The garden was visited by Acamaixtli and Ihuicamina, the second named being identical with Montezuma. It is claimed that Montezuma Ihuicamina appropriated this beautiful garden to his personal royal uses and pleasure.—Exchange.

SETTLING THEIR NICKNAMES.

"A traveller from Liverpool got hopping man the other day because he the proper name, for people who live in Liverpool. He pointed out that it isn't easy to designate the inhabitants of all cities by a euphonious name. New Yorker, Londoner, Parisian, Chicagoan, are so obvious that it would be difficult to say anything else, but how about cities that do not affiliate so readily with 'er,' 'an,' or 'ite'?" Those are the suffixes most commonly used to designate a set of natives. Take Cork. A man from Cork may be a corker, but that does not apply to a whole cityful of people

Neither does Corkite nor Corker sound right. Then there is Memphis. What do you call a man from Memphis, or from Amsterdam or Dallas or Bruges or Bath? By the time you have studied out the proper appellation for inhabitants of all cities you will be apt to strike something that sounds funnier than Liverpoolian.—New York Times.

Years of Suffering

A Desperate Case of Catarrh in the Head.

"My father had catarrh in the head for a long time. It was such a desperate case that he didn't know what to do, but one of his friends recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla. He got a bottle immediately, and as soon as he commenced taking it he felt relief and after the use of two more bottles he was completely cured. He was so well pleased he has ever since recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla." Delle Aline Begin, Lewis, P. Q.

BEGIN TO WEARY OF JAP FRIENDS

English Do Not Want Renewal of Alliance With Proud Asiatic Power.

London, Oct. 1. — By no means general satisfaction has been caused by the German report that the Anglo-Japanese alliance will be renewed at the end of its present term. There is still five years unexpired, and in that time there will be many representations to the foreign office against the continuance of the arrangements.

Already the China association—a powerful politico-commercial organization of British merchants and ex-officials in London and the Chinese ports—has voiced the white man's objections to a treaty with the Japanese, and a strong protest against the aggressiveness of the latter in Korea, the misappropriation of British trademarks, the repudiation of the latter after samples had been copied in Japan, and general selfishness in commercial transactions. Moreover, the Chinese are angry that the safe-guarding of British interests in Chinese waters should have been left almost entirely to the Japanese fleet, notwithstanding the conviction of the Australians that the Japanese have eyes on their territory for future colonization.

The present treaty was concluded just five years ago, for ten years, succeeding the former treaty of 1902. At first it was limited to China and Korea, but it was soon extended to Eastern Asia and India. Moreover, the original treaty confined mutual assistance to a commercial and a combination of powers, whereas the treaty today provides for such unity in the event of "any action arising on the part of any power or powers."

Japan was given a free hand in Korea, and the decision of India was similarly outlined with such distinctions as to pledge Japanese assistance in case of conflict with another power. But since then the Japanese have been the Japanese agreement with Russia has entered the situation, so that if the main principles of the Anglo-Japanese

ADVERTISER PATTERNS
BEAUTY PATTERN COMPANY.Read the Best:
Prose and Poem
[BY MEG.]

"Now stir the fire, and close the shutters fast,
Let fall the curtains, wheel the sofa round,
And then, like dogs that cheer but not inebriate wait on each,
So let us welcome peaceful evening in."

How apt these easy lines of Cowper seem at this season, when the "peaceful evenings" close in upon us so early. Summer days are over, and we naturally seek new pursuits and pleasures after a period of comparative idleness. Amid all the plans for merrymaking and work, let us also determine to devote a portion of our evening hours to reading—real reading. Not merely the conning of a popular magazine or novel, but the reading of something which will develop us mentally and give us a wider outlook of the world and our fellow men.

Of course, the lighter class of literature is excellent in its way and often lends diversion to a otherwise dull evening, but we should not be content with this form of reading only. The body requires light foods in summer, and a stranger, more invigorating diet for winter. Surely then we may safely assert that our mental food should be varied as well.

Cultivate Best Books.
The saying "As a man thinks, so is he," might be modernized into "As a man reads, so is he." If we fill our minds with nothing but idle tales of people, places, and incidents, often false, colored, and distorted in a "silly" style, we are lessening our capacity for genuine appreciation of the best and most beautiful in prose and poetry.

Individual tastes differ so much that it is impossible for one to map out a course of reading for others. Some prefer books on travel, viewing from different sides, say, one country each month. A boy of mine I know, took a merry tour through Europe by means of books.

Besides travel, there are most interesting books of history, ancient and modern; biographies, inventions, sociology, archaeology, and many other "ologies," each appealing specially, no doubt, to different classes of readers. Poetry must not be neglected in our winter's course, and the study of Shakespeare's plays will also prove profitable.

Probably some London folk are not aware of the treasures contained in the public library. Investigation will reveal a goodly variety of books on an extensive range of subjects, and an hour or two spent there from time to time may open to us wider the door of knowledge.

Always read with a note book and pencil beside you, ready to jot down an important line; strive to concentrate your thoughts upon the subject in hand. If honest criticism comes in, I feel sure that the springtime will find us deeper in thought, better informed, and quite glad we have spent our hours in "the peaceful evenings" in company with books.

A SON OF THE IMMORTALS

BY LOUIS TRACY.
Author of "The Stowaway," "The Morning," "The Wings of the Morning," etc.

They were steel and magnet at once. Delgado had none of the boulevardier's abounding self-conceit, or Joan would never have given him a second look, while Joan's frank comradeship was not more alluring than the skilled coquetry that left him cold. Physically, too, they were well matched. Delgado, a slender, well-proportioned man, with a willowy grace for the other by a discriminating Providence. They were just beginning to discover the fact, and this alarmed Joan. She could not shake off the notion that he had walked her this morning for a purpose wholly unconnected with the suggested visit to the polo ground. So tall and athletic though he was, she set every nerve on edge, and she was through the lower galleries that further intimate talk became impossible. Atalanta well knew that she was about to be seen by her suitors to death, and Melanion showed a deep insight into human nature when he changed that she should later occasionally.

Delgado, however, had no golden apples to drop in Joan's path, could not produce a conversational phony, but he was young enough to believe in luck, and he hoped that fortune might favor him, once the painting was in his hands. Each was so absorbed in the other that the Louvre might have been empty. Delgado, however, had no golden apples to drop in Joan's path, could not produce a conversational phony, but he was young enough to believe in luck, and he hoped that fortune might favor him, once the painting was in his hands.

Each was so absorbed in the other that the Louvre might have been empty. Delgado, however, had no golden apples to drop in Joan's path, could not produce a conversational phony, but he was young enough to believe in luck, and he hoped that fortune might favor him, once the painting was in his hands.

So he turned on his heel and descended to the street and his waiting victoria, waving that delicate hand and smiling with the manner of one who said: "Fancy that of Alec! The young scamp!" Joan was copying Caravaggio's "The Fortune Teller," a masterpiece that speaks in every tongue, to every eye. Its keynote is simplicity. A girl of Milan, clothed in buff-colored doublet slashed with brown velvet, a plumed cavalier hat, a red velvet cloak, a white ruff caught up with a string of seed pearls, his neck, is holding out his right hand, his fingers of his left hand rest on a sword hilt. The woman is young and pretty, her eyes are a mere, and her snugg aspect of divinity is happily contrasted with the youth's excitement at hearing that fate has in store.

"There!" cried Joan. "What do you think of it?"
"You have almost completed the gypsy, and there was already a suggestion of the light lights in the youngster's face and his brightly colored garb."
"I like your copy more than the original," said Delgado.

"You must be a great master would like me to be inspired."
"No, indeed; but he demands knowledge at the back of truth. Now, mark that! You should have put the fire in the corner of the woman's eye? It gives life, intelligence, subtle character. Just a little bit of paint, but there, 200 years ago, yet it conveys the whole story in trade of the fortune teller. Colossal numbers of men and women have gazed at that picture, a multitude that must have covered the whole range of human existence, and yet the artist never failed to carry the same message to every beholder. Do you think that your poor reproduction will achieve the same?"

"You have chosen the only good look in the painting," he declared stoutly. "Look at the boy's face, the hand of the woman, the modelling of a girl's. Joan whirled round on him. "Are you a prince?" she gasped, each word marking a crescendo of wonder.
"But what I do to do? What am I to say? Must I drop on one knee and kiss your hand?"
"I cannot help it," he growled. "And I was obliged to tell you. You would have been angry with me if I had kept it hidden from you. On the other hand, Joan, don't laugh! That is irritating." "My poor Alec! Why did they make you a prince?"
"I was born that way. My father is one of the great lords of the realm. I do mean to say you have lived in Paris a year and he never seen you in the newspapers. My people read about everywhere. The Prince and Princess Michael Delgado, you know." "I do not know," said Joan deliberately.

Her alert brain was slowly assimilating this truly astonishing news. She did not attempt to shrink its significance, and her first thought was to frame some excuse to abandon the cost to the day; this friendship must go no farther, she decided. The decision would be made, but not at all, for Joan, who had visited the dentist rather than endure tooth-pulling, was not averse to a serene smile, nor was she minded to forget him. "But it hurt," he had begun to call her a heartless creature, and hard-worked artists must not love serene highnesses.

Delgado was watching her with a growing anxiety, and that itself carried a warning. "You see, Joan, I had to tell you," he repeated. "People make such a fuss about these empty honors—Joan caught at a straw. She hoped that a display of sarcastic humor might rescue her. "Honors!" she broke in, voice was naturally sweet and harmonious. "Is it an honor, then, to be born a prince?"

"If a man is worth his salt, the fact that he is regarded as a prince should matter him princely."
"That is well said. Try and live up to it. You will find it a task, though, to regulate your life by copybook maxims."

The princedom is worth nothing otherwise. It is a handicap. Most young fellows of my age have some sort of career before them, while I really am what you call a "tag-along." I didn't like the taunt from you, but it was true. Well, I am going to make a man of myself. I am tired of posturing as one of Daude's "Kings in Exile." We expelled potentates all live in Paris; I don't dare to meet you too often lest I should send me away. I have given me a purpose in life. You have created a sort of hunger in me, and I refuse to be satisfied any longer with the easy-going existence of the last few years. No, you must hear me out. No matter what you say, now, I have seen of things is irrevocable. I almost quarrelled with my father last night, but I told him plainly that I meant to make a place for myself in the world. I refuse to live the life he lives, and I am here today because the awakening is due to you, Joan."

TAFT CALLS PARTY A PROGRESSIVE ONE

Lauds Roosevelt and Says Nice Things About the Insurgents.

New York, Oct. 3.—President Taft delivered what will probably be his only public address of the present campaign at the banquet of the National Republican League at the Hotel Astor Saturday night. The speech was marked by an unusually conciliatory tone toward the insurgent wing of the party. He gave "all factions of the party" due credit for their share in helping to put through Congress the legislative programme which the President outlined in some detail. The record of the past eighteen months, he declared, was an earnest desire of the party to fulfill its platform promises and obligations, and he promised that if the Republican majority in Congress should be continued at the coming elections, the work thus far left undone would be completed.

Upon the whole Republican party the President bestowed the title of "progressive." Then he undertook to define just what is meant by "progressive."

"A party of true progress is not a party of radicalism," he declared amid cheers. "It is not a party of ultra-conservatism," he added. "A progressive Republican," the President went on, "is one who recognizes existing and concrete evils and who is in favor of practical and definite steps to eradicate them."

Twice President Taft mentioned Theodore Roosevelt by name in connection with the campaign against corporate abuses, and a third time by inference, when he referred to the New York situation. The cause of Republicanism in this state, he said, had been heartened by a brave declaration of principle and by the nomination of a candidate for governor of the highest character and ability. At the same time Mr. Taft did not take an altogether sanguine view of the benefits that are to accrue from direct primaries experiments, but he hoped that the idea could be turned to a useful and permanent betterment of politics.

"But however effective these suggested changes may prove at first," he added, "I venture to say that no great permanent good can come from them unless they are accompanied by a change in the individual voter, and his awakening to the necessity for constant watchfulness and effort on his part to prevent the old evils from appearing in a new guise."

RELIC OF ST. PATRICK.

Philadelphia, Oct. 2.—More than 100,000 persons in this city received the papal blessing from Cardinal Vannutelli, legate of Pope Pius X, when he and other high dignitaries of the Roman Catholic Church attended the dedication of the first Greek Catholic Ruthenian Cathedral in the United States and the laying of the cornerstone of the new edifice for St. Patrick's Church. The stone, which was cut from the rock on which St. Patrick preached in Ireland, was laid by Cardinal Logue, primate of Ireland.

The congregations of six other churches, including one in the Italian district and an African Rood Catholic Church, were visible in the course of the day by Cardinal Vannutelli.

AIRSHIPS COLLIDE.

Milan, Oct. 1.—The aviators Dickson and Thomas collided while circling the aerodrome here at a rapid pace today. The machines locked together and crashed to the ground. Dickson was taken out of the wreckage probably fatally hurt internally. Thomas was injured about the legs, hands and head, but his condition is less serious.

YOU CAN INTEREST HIM.

Any Man Over Fifty.

You can interest any man over fifty years of age in anything that will make him feel better, because while he may not as yet have any positive organic disease he no longer feels the buoyancy and vigor of twenty-five, nor the freedom from aches and pains he enjoyed in earlier years, and he very naturally examines with interest any proposition looking to the improvement and preservation of his health.

He will notice among other things that the stomach of fifty is a very different one from the stomach he possessed at twenty-five. That great est care must be exercised as to what is eaten and how much of it, and even with the best of care, there will be increasing digestive weakness with advancing years.

A proposition to perfect or improve the digestion and assimilation of food is one which interests not only every man of fifty but every man, woman and child of any age, because the whole secret of good health, good blood, strong nerves, is to have a stomach which will promptly and thoroughly digest wholesome food because blood, nerves, brain tissue and every other constituent of the body is entirely the product of digestion and no medicine or "health" food can possibly create pure blood or restore shaky nerves, when a weak stomach is replenishing the daily wear and tear of the body from a mass of fermenting half-digested food.

No, the stomach itself wants help and in no roundabout way either; it wants direct, unmistakable assistance, such as is given by one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal.

These tablets cure stomach trouble because their use gives the stomach a chance to rest and recuperative energy of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contains digestive elements sufficient to digest 3,000 grains of ordinary food such as bread, meat, eggs, etc.

MUST LEARN NEW WAYS OR GET OUT

'Jarveys,' of Dublin, Are Forced to Abandon Their Old Jaunting Cars.

Dublin, Oct. 1.—The next six months will witness the passing of one of the most picturesque and world-famous institutions in Ireland, the Dublin "jarvey." Like his brothers of Liverpool, Glasgow, Manchester, Edinburgh, and other cities in Great Britain, he is soon to be sacrificed to the march of the all-conquering taxi-cab.

Not since the wizardry of science put the London "cabby" out of commission has the "taxi" threatened so notable a collection of jehus as the Jarveys of Dublin. The ancient, doddering horse-cabs and the still more ancient jaunting cars seem so necessary and integral a part of Dublin life, that it seems impossible to part with the glib-tongued, sharp-witted drivers who lent them their peculiar and everlasting tradition. But the march of progress must go on, and the Irish jarveys, in one reluctant city at a time, must fall before it.

But the Jarveys of Dublin have determined to put up a hard fight. When the news came the other day that a taxi-cab firm was to open business in Dublin the Jarveys rose in arms to a man. A mass meeting, where the indignation was no less hot from being of a strange and un-English unanimity, resulted in the formation of the "Anti-Taxi-Cab Organization."

Get But Little Cash. This wretched innovation, ran the tenor of the speeches, was about to destroy hundreds of dollars' worth of property and an old established industry. Patriotic feelings were inflamed by the disclosure that the invading company was not an Irish one at all, but an English firm.

"Dublin begged to support an English monopoly," was the cry, while sympathy was eloquently exhorted, as well for the feelings of the attendant trades of farriers, harness and carriage makers, horse-dealers and what not, who must also fall in the path of this devastating progress.

Although there have been many such inflaming speeches and several densely-crowded meetings, the collections of hard cash taken up have been very scanty, and already the fight is on the wane. This is partly on account of a shrewd counter-move on the part of the invading taxi-promoters.

Give Lessons Free of Charge.

R. S. Byrne, representing the English firm of Mors & Co., Limited, offered to give as many Jarveys as sent in their names to him, free lessons in managing the mysteries of the refractory taxi. He has since been overwhelmed with applications, chiefly from the younger members of the Jarvey fraternity, and has been obliged to hire a force of assistants to aid in the instruction of these children of progress. So every day now the charioteers that are soon to change the face of Dublin can be seen speeding about the smooth roads of Phoenix Park.

Whenever the newly-initiated taxi-drivers pass a cab stand there is a good deal of howling from the ranks of the conservative Jarveys, but so far the heralds of progress have suffered no violence. The taxi-cab firm has yet to get its licenses, but in view of the increasing public opinion in their favor, there is every prospect that this will be an easy matter. On the whole, Dublin people have become reconciled to the retirement of the Jarvey. It now only remains for the Jarvey to retire as gracefully as possible.

GEOGRAPHICAL HONORS

Society To Reward Such as Promote Geographical Welfare.

Toronto, Oct. 3.—According to the Ontario Gazette the Canadian Geographic Society is given a charter. Its stated object is the diffusion of geographic knowledge and to "confer public recognition and to give rewards to persons or organizations influential and instrumental in promoting the geographical welfare of the country."

The provisional directors are Hugh John Macdonald, F. H. Lytle and James Earle Lawson, solicitor. Other companies incorporated were: The Windsor Overall Company, Ltd., Windsor, $30,000.

The Foley, Rieger Pulp and Paper Company, Ltd., Thorold, $50,000.

The Western Business College, Ltd., London, $40,000.

Canadian Linderman Company, Ltd., Woodstock, $160,000.

Imperial Electric Company, Ltd., Windsor, $50,000.

CATECHISM AND SCHOOL

Question As To Whether It Can Be Taught After Dismissal Comes Up.

Ottawa, Oct. 2.—An interesting point of law will be settled at the next high court regarding the teaching of catechism in the public schools.

In the union school section of No. 12, Cambridge Township, and No. 11, Russell Township, there is a preponderance of Roman Catholics. Last spring there was a resolution passed, it is claimed, by the trustees, instructing the teachers to teach the Roman Catholic catechism in the school. It was found that this was irregular in a public school. Therefore another resolution was passed instructing the teacher to close school at 3:30 o'clock, instead of 4 o'clock each afternoon, allowing the Protestant children to go home, and teach the catechism to the Catholic pupils until 4 o'clock by the teacher.

This keeps the school open the required five hours a day, according to the school act, so that the dispute will be whether the teacher can be instructed to teach catechism in the school.

Mr. Morris Shaver, representing the Protestant minority on the school board, has issued a writ against this action, and F. B. Proctor filed it yesterday.

WIPED OUT BY FLAMES.

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 2.—The village of Camden, a thriving farming community situated ten miles north of Rome, was nearly wiped out by fire early today. The blaze started in the Whitney House from an unexplained cause, and before it was brought under control, twenty buildings, including several business blocks and ten residences, were reduced to ashes. Incendiarism is hinted at.

SAW HIMSELF ON FILMS

Whereat Victoria Hotel Clerk Repented His $500 Theft and Surrendered.

New York, Sept. 30.—Charles G. Mayer, 17 years old, former night clerk at the Hotel Victoria, entered police headquarters in Pittsburgh last week and told the chief he had stolen $500 from the hotel and wanted to be sent back to New York to stand trial. The skeptical chief wired the Victoria and found that the story was true. Mayer and $500 had disappeared on Aug. 2 last.

"I saw the $500 put into an envelope by a guest," said Mayer in Jefferson Market court yesterday. "I had no reason for stealing the money, and if I had wanted to clear out with a lot of cash there was plenty in the clerk's desk I might have taken."

"I don't remember much what I did after that. I was in Youngstown and Alliance and finally landed in Pittsburgh. I drank a good deal, a thing I never did before, and I guess I must have been out of my head. One day I went to a moving picture show and saw a film about a bank clerk who got away with a big roll and how bad his mother felt about it. That's me," I said to myself. Later I thought how bad my mother would feel, and I wrote to my brother. He sent word that mother's heart was broken. Then I decided to give myself up."

"The Pittsburgh police chief treated me fine. They won't give you more than two years," he said, "and when you get out if you don't find a job come to me and I'll get you one." "All I want, judge, is a quick trial and a chance to pay back the money." The complainant against Mayer was Angus Gordon of the hotel. He said Mayer had worked for hotels in Denver and for one at Atlantic City and had come to the Victoria with excellent references. Magistrate Corrigan held the boy in $1,000 bail for trial.

LANGTRY'S FRIEND DIED QUIET POOR

Gebhard Left $10,000, But Will Ignores His Wife.

New York, Sept. 30.—Fred Gebhard, once the favorite of stage folk, and of society, with an income of $100,000 a year, a private car and blooded horses and dogs, left an estate valued at less than $10,000. His will, making no mention of his widow, was filed yesterday in the surrogate office.

Gebhard, popularly known as "Freddie," was for years one of the best-known sportsmen and clubmen in New York. He died at Garden City, on Sept. 8 last. His will provides that his entire estate shall be given to his sister, Mrs. Mary Isabel Nielson. Mrs. Nielson, who is the mother-in-law of Reginald Vanderbilt, lives at the Plaza Hotel.

The will is dated June 21, 1905. This is some time prior to his marriage to his last wife, formerly Marie Wilson, one of the original "Florodora" tette girls. They were wedded early in 1903, but were reported to have separated. Mrs. Gebhard returned to him some time before he died.

The testament was witnessed by Supreme Court Justice James W. Gerard and John S. Rogers. Jules Blau Nielson, a nephew, and Mary Elizabeth Hunnewell, a niece, are named as the next of kin to receive the estate, in equal shares, in case Mrs. Nielson's death preceded that of the testator. Mrs. Hunnewell and John M. Bowers are named as executors of the estate.

The petition attached to the will states that Gebhard died possessed of no real estate. His wife will have no dower interest on this account. Mrs.

Gebhard now resides at No. 1207 Kenyon street, Washington, D. C.

Gebhard, the son of a wine merchant, was heir, with his sister, to a large estate. His career as sportsman, owner of racing stables, yachtman and devotee of the stage, ate up his fortune. A few years before he died he was forced to sell many of his valuables.

Gebhard attracted public attention over twenty years ago as an admirer of Lily Langtry, the English court favorite, who came to this country as a stage beauty. Gebhard accompanied her about the country and purchased a ranch adjoining her ranch in California. Later she returned to England to become Mrs. Hugo de Bathe, and Gebhard wedded Lulu Morris. She divorced him and became Mrs. Henry Clews, jun.

Gebhard was a member of the Brook, Metropolitan, Knickerbocker, New York Yacht and Racquet Clubs.

Another Big Merger in Metals

Toronto, Oct. 2.—It was learned today that behind the incorporation of the Steel and Radiation Company of Canada, Limited, with a capital of $5,000,000, lies the most important industrial merger that has been achieved since the organization of the Canadian Steel Corporation.

Although the new company will control plants at several other important centres in the Dominion, the names of only two have been disclosed. They are the King Radiator Company, which has extensive works on St. Helen's avenue, Toronto, and the Expanded Metal and Fine Frothing Company, the factories of which are on Fraser avenue, Toronto.

The activities of the merged companies will include the manufacture of iron and steel products required for the building trade, and its plants will be specially designed to treat the raw material from the pig iron state.

Other factories will be situated at Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver. The corporation will be a close one.

FATAL RIOTING ON CIRCUS TRAIN

Negroes Start Robbing, and White Man Is Shot to Death.

Augusta, Ga., Oct. 2.—Following rioting early today aboard the first section of a circus train en route from Columbia, S. C., to Augusta, in which a white man was shot to death, a negro forced to jump from the rapidly moving car, and an attempt made to rob employees of the circus, wholesale arrests have been made by the Augusta police. Three negroes, one of whom confessed to causing a part of the trouble on the train, are in jail charged with murder and rioting.

Paul Williams, a Southern Railway shipping clerk at Columbia, was shot to death, his body robbed, and then thrown from the train. A negro who was forced to jump from the train is believed to have been killed, and J. C. Weekly, a companion of Williams, saved himself from the negroes by concealing himself beneath a canvas.

The negroes are said to have started through the train to rob other employees, when they were arrested by the circus detectives.

GALLANT RESCUE OF SHIP'S CREW

Steamer Sinks On Michigan Just As Sailors Leave.

OLD VESSEL HELPLESS

Rescuers Fight Their Way to Doomed Boat Through Mountainous Seas.

Mackinaw City, Mich., Oct. 2.—During a terrific gale which swept this section last night, the freight steamer Metak foundered 30 miles northwest of a number of lights.

The steamship Metak, which was passing within a few miles of the New York, caught the signals of distress and, although the large Metak, which was towing, stood by and rescued the officers and crew, the last man being taken from the ship only a few moments before she went to the bottom.

The Metak, under the skillful seamanship of Captains Regan and Graham, the latter commander of the Holly, launched two lifeboats, and although the heavy seas threatened each moment to engulf the small boats, each was able to reach the sinking vessel and take off its share of the officers and men.

The New York was one of the old wooden type of packers, and although built many years ago for the Erie Railroad, and the gale that swept across the lake last night, one of the upper works of this big vessel was in a few minutes after it was hit by the storm.

Waves Were High.
The waves, unusually high according to the report received here, swept the boat from stern to stem and made it almost impossible to take any measures to control or save her. Several of the small boats were swept away when the gale struck the vessel, and those remaining were not big enough to hold the entire crew, nor large enough to hold out any hope of safety in the heavy weather.

An endeavor was made to run for the nearest port, which is Alpena, but the storm, which increased in violence, and it was impossible to drive the vessel through the heavy seas.

When the Metak gave in sight signals of distress were sent, but it was at first feared that they would not be noticed by the passing steamer. Until the Metak sighted the Metak, it seemed certain that the entire crew would be lost, but the storm was momentarily increased.

Even when the Metak signaled that she would stand by, it was uncertain whether the members of the New York crew could be taken off, as it was feared that the seas would swamp any small boat as soon as it struck the water.

The Metak lowered its two largest boats to the leeward side, where they were somewhat protected by the ship, and a crew of volunteers tumbled into each and made a dash for the sinking New York. Time and tide again it seemed that the frail boats would be swamped and the men on board the Metak, hardly able to stand on the ship's plank, peered through the gloom until the sea again became more calm.

They approached the New York on the windward side and threw lines to that ship. These were made fast and the men were taken on board the little craft, until the captain, last to leave, was aboard.

Finally the small boats reached the side of the Metak when the New York plunged beneath the waves.

GUARDING THE BOOKS

British Museum Will Endeavor To Prevent Filching of Its Volumes.

London, Oct. 2.—The authorities of the British Museum have under consideration a set of new rules regarding the reading room and the library.

It has been found that occasionally frequenters of the room take home with them books which they have perused up to the closing hour, returning them on the following morning.

This is contrary to the regulations, which forbid the removal of books from the reading room.

Now and then according to one of the officials, the borrowers omit to take back the volumes.

Therefore, one of the new proposals is that all handbags, "disposable cases," and similar articles into which books might be slipped, shall be left with the attendants outside the doors of the room.

As far as regards handbags this precaution has been enforced for some time, but the most professional-looking dispatch box and cases are allowed to be taken in by readers.

The reading room attendants keep a sharp but unobtrusive watch upon the students and literary workers. If at the closing hour or subsequently a book should be missing, immediate steps are taken to trace it.

An average of 720 readers use the room daily, and in the course of a year they are supplied with close upon 1,500,000 volumes.

TOM LOATES' FORTUNE.
Brighton, Eng., Oct. 1.—Jockey Tom Loates, who died here Wednesday, left a fortune of about $1,250,000, largely the result of careful investment made by him under the guidance of Leopold Rothschild, his chief employer.

Loates twice won the Epsom Derby—in 1889 on the Duke of Portland's Donovan, and in 1892 on H. McCallum's Isinglass. In this latter race the time 2 minutes, 33 seconds, is still a record for the event.

DISASTER AT LOS ANGELES

Destruction of Times Building Causes Score of Deaths.

OWNER'S HOME BOMBED

Proprietors of Paper Say Affair Is Result of Clash With the Unions.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 2.—An attempt to destroy the residence of General Harrison Gray Otis, publisher of the Los Angeles Times, by an infernal machine, was made yesterday, following an explosion, which earlier in the day killed 19 men and destroyed the buildings and plant of the Times, and a subsequent effort to blow up the auxiliary plant of that paper. A powerful infernal machine was also found yesterday in the residence of Secretary Zeehandelaar, of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association.

General Otis, who is on the way home from Mexico, and the other responsible heads of the Times, unhesitatingly charged the Times building disaster and the narrowly averted attempt at the destruction of property and life to labor union sources. The leaders of the labor unions repudiate the accusation, and offer all aid in their power to detect the culprits.

The Times made public the following telegram from General Otis:

"Your wire with its terrible news reached me this morning. I am amazed at the desperation of the criminal conspirators in destroying the Times building, and slaying its local defenders, whose loss I deeply deplore, but the Times itself will live on, bravely defending the vital and essential principle of industrial freedom under which law must yet triumph." (Signed) Harrison Gray Otis.

For twenty years, following a quarrel with the Typographical Union, and the destruction of the Times by a non-union paper, General Otis has fought unionism. He has been allied seconded in this fight by the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, whose secretary's residence was the object of a frustrated dynamite attempt yesterday.

Union Men Indignant.
The Times has for years been run as an open shop. Recently union labor forces have been engaged in a bitter struggle in Los Angeles with the merchants inclined to favor the open-shop system.

As a result, and before there was the slightest proof that the disaster was anything other than a pure accident, enemies of union labor voiced the suggestion that the disaster was attributable to the labor trouble.

Union officials indignantly deny this, and will probably demand a rigid and searching investigation to prevent capital being made of the accident. They say that the investigation will prove that the disaster was due to carelessness and lack of safety device precautions.

Loss Half a Million.
The property loss is estimated at upwards of half a million dollars, but the publication of the Times will not be suspended. So bitter has been the feeling against the paper that the management, it developed today, has for many months kept a duplicate plant in a warehouse here, to be used in just such an emergency.

A large part of the editorial force had knocked off work at the time the explosion occurred. Most of the dead were employed in the composing, setting and mailing rooms.

Immediately after the first explosion a sheet of flame seemed to envelop the entire building, sweeping upward through the four-story structure. Before an alarm could bring the fire apparatus a series of smaller detonations shook the neighborhood for blocks.

Place Filled With Gas.
Employees who had just left the building when the explosion occurred say that gas had been leaking somewhere in the building all evening, and that the smell of gas pervaded the entire structure. This has led the police to believe that gas caused the explosion.

TWO POOR FAMILIES TO SHARE $35,000,000

They Are Heirs of Alfred Lonsdale, Who Died in New York Leaving No Will.

Vienna, Oct. 1.—Two poor families at Kalish, Poland, and Penlar, at Prague, have suddenly become immensely rich through an American heritage.

About eighteen months ago Alfred Lonsdale, known as "the Beer King," died suddenly in New York. He left no will disposing of a $35,000,000 estate, partly in London and partly in America.

Two attorneys—Dr. Smith, of London, and Dr. Tennykiff, of New York—were appointed administrators. They advertised various Jewish newspapers for heirs.

Lonsdale's real name was Isaac Grotzenstein, of Poland. After many ventures he opened a beer shop in London, which developed into a smart restaurant. Then he assumed the name of Lonsdale, speculated on the exchange in brewery shares, and finally purchased large beer houses in America, where he died.

His heirs are too poor to prove their relationship and a company has been formed to do so. The company assumes all costs and will take its payment out of the heritage.

Herren, Ullman and Neuland, Berlin bankers, will go to London in October and receive the money there which was deposited in New York. In the meantime they will lay before the court proofs of the relationship of the alleged heirs.

Lonsdale owned breweries in New York, Texas and Canada.

The style of beard King George wears is appropriately named the "Torpedo" in the navy, and since the King's accession many of the younger men in the service have started to grow them.

A TERRIFIC STORM HITS MONTREAL

Gale With Lightning Sweeps Across the Metropolis Early Sunday Afternoon.

Montreal, Oct. 3.—Several persons were killed or injured during a terrific storm which swept across the city today, while great damage was done to property.

The storm broke early in the afternoon, and in a few minutes the wind increased to hurricane proportions, while the rain and lightning compelled a complete cessation of business, the street car, telephone and telegraph services being completely tied up.

James Turner and Thomas Reddick, laborers, who were installing a stone-cusher at a quarry in Outremont, were killed. The first blasts of the gale demolished the scaffolding they were on, and Turner was instantly killed. Reddick being so badly injured that he died on Sunday.

A number of houses were unroofed, and a horse and rider were blown down, with considerable loss, and will probably demand a rigid and searching investigation to prevent capital being made of the accident. They say that the investigation will prove that the disaster was due to carelessness and lack of safety device precautions.

BURIAL OF BELLE ELMORE.
London, Oct. 2.—The coroner issued an order yesterday for the burial of the body found in the east of the harbor of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, and which the coroner's jury found to be that of Belle Elmore, the doctor's wife. The women of the Music Hall guild are arranging for the service.

Throughout the city the storm raged, and enormous damage was caused. Shade trees, while several big electric lights were demolished from the roofs of buildings, windows were broken, and general chaos reigned.

With such widespread damage no estimate can be made, but it will undoubtedly run into many thousands.

The Banner Nine.

Last year a reward was offered for the "hygienic nine," taking the greatest interest in the prevention of tuberculosis. The southeast branch has won this distinction by hard work, such as searching out incipient cases, observing improved methods in the home, and extending this knowledge among others. The reward has taken the form of a banner, handsome in design and bearing in gold letters the motto, which was adopted in March, 1908: "Prevention is better than cure." The reverse side shows the single word, "Inasmuch," Matthew xxv, 45.

The entertainment is guaranteed to be distinctly high-class, and the patronage of the people of London is solicited for a cause which should appeal to all. Tickets may be secured from members of the society. S. STEVENS, President.

STRUTHERS' EMPLOYEES HELD A BIG PICNIC

The Heads of the Firm Were Eulogized and an Enjoyable Time Was Spent by All.

The annual picnic of the employees of R. C. Struthers & Co. was held at Sprackham on Saturday, and proved to be one of the most enjoyable outings of the season.

The programme of sports was capably managed by a committee consisting of Messrs. R. H. Morrison, Tony Grant and C. H. Bending.

The results were as follows: Baseball—Tony Grant's team vs. Harry Struthers' team, 6 to 4 in favor of Harry Struthers' team.

100 yards dash, for men—1 Lorne Gillies, 2 Jack McCall, 3 J. S. Abraham.

50 yards race, for ladies—1 Mrs. C. H. Bending, 2 Miss P. Carter, 3 Mrs. J. S. Abraham.

Boys' race—1 Earl Stevens, 2 Alex. Morrison, 3 B. Abraham.

Donkey race—1 Jack McCall and Miss Carter, 2 Tom Chitto and Mrs. Bending.

Girls' race—1 Verda Vincent, 2 Cora Fligg, 3 Lena Short.

Ladies' egg race—1 Mrs. Vincent, 2 Mrs. Abraham, 3 Mrs. Bending.

Those race, for men—1 Fred Blackwell, 2 Tom Chitto.

Wheelbarrow race—1 A. Vincent and B. Thompson, 2 Harry Struthers and C. McFarlane.

Girls' race—1 Miss Lewis, 2 Miss Vincent.

Sack race, for men—1 L. Gillies, 2 Harry Struthers.

Three-legged race—1 Tony Grant and Harry Struthers, 2 Jack McCall and Frank Whitton, 3 L. Gillies and Bob Willis.

Ladies' sack race—1 W. C. Coe, 2 R. Abraham.

Donkey race—1 Miss Abraham, 2 Miss Lewis.

Tug-of-war—Married vs. single men: Won by married.

Novelty pillow fight—Won by Jack McCall.

A Banquet.

While the sports were being concluded a dainty supper had been arranged for the ladies in the pavilion, and was partaken of by a jolly crowd of over one hundred.

After supper the health of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Struthers was proposed in a few well-chosen words by Mr. H. G. Harper.

He called for three cheers for Mr. and Mrs. Struthers, which were most heartily responded to.

In replying Mr. Struthers spoke of the pleasure it gave him to see among those present so many who had formerly been in his employ. He particularly impressed upon all that he would rather think of his employees as co-workers, and not as employees.

This made the statement that without the loyalty and co-operation which existed between the employees and himself, the firm would not today enjoy its enviable position.

He concluded by expressing the pleasure it gave both Mr. Struthers and himself to be present.

The tremendous applause which followed his remarks gave ample proof of the heartiness in which he is held.

Three hearty cheers were then given for Mr. Harry Struthers, to which he fittingly responded.

After the adjournment to the dancing hall of the pavilion, where the evening was spent in dancing, interspersed by vocal selections, all of which were thoroughly enjoyed.

At 11 o'clock the party returned by special car to the city, more than pleased with the best picnic they had ever attended.

CRITICS SEEK AID BUT DO NOT FIND IT

Problem of Late "First Nights" Remains Unsolved After Conference.

London, Oct. 2.—A discussion on first aid to dramatic critics has occupied the attention of the London Institute of Journalists during their conference this week. According to the distinguished editors who spoke at the meeting, the London dramatic critic has a pretty hard time of it. Plays do not finish until very late on first nights and newspapers go to press earlier than they used to, so the critic has to work like mad to get his notice written in time for the first edition. To find some way to remedy this hardship and give the critic more time was the object of the discussion.

A number of persons prominent in theatrical affairs were asked to make suggestions. Among them was Sir Herbert Tree, who had two remedies proposed. One, which he had recently tried himself at his production of "Henry VIII," was to have the play start an hour earlier than usual on the first night, and so give the critics an hour's lead.

The other remedy was to have the critics' notices printed in the first edition of the play, a brief report of its production the next morning and a lengthy and carefully thought out review the following day. This idea of criticism on the installment plan did not appeal to either Harry Lawson, M. P., president of the institute, or to T. P. O'Connor, M. P. They and a number of others at the meeting, as there were no daily papers printed in London on Sunday, all premises should be held on Saturday nights, thus giving the critics all day Sunday to write.

That would be thoroughly practical and satisfactory if there were four or five Saturday nights in each week, as there are about that number of premieres every week in London during the season, and the most agile critic can be in only one theatre at once.

Dress Rehearsals Vetted.

It was finally decided that Sir Edward Clarke's proposition that the French system of "repetition generale" or public dress rehearsals for the critics was the best way out of the difficulty. This custom was formerly quite general in London, but of late years has been almost abandoned. Managers claim that the play is always ready at a moment's notice, and rehearsal and don't like the critics to judge a play from it. So there you are.

Probably nothing will be done and the critics will have to get along as best they can. As things are now, they are able somehow or other to write extremely long notices, fully as long as the average reader has patience to read. It is appalling to think what they would turn out if given an hour or so more to write.

FEATURELESS CARD AT THE COLUMBUS MEETING

Grand Circuit Stars Fling to Set New Marks at Closing Session.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 1.—There was no great excitement at the closing of the Grand Circuit season at the driving park today, the races not being up to the standard of the rest of the week, though the fast time was made in two of the events. Favorites won all three events, although choice in the best betting race of the day would be beaten by a horse which was never thought of.
