IN BIG BATTLE YESTERDAY RUSSIANS DROVE BACK JAPS

Fierce Engagement in the Valley of the Lioa River, and the Mikado's Losses Heavy.

RUSSIANS ACCIDENTALLY TORPEDO BRITISH SHIP

Liao Yang, Wednesday, July 20. — The Russian eastern army today attacked the Japanese on the outside of the valley of Lioa River. Lieut. Count Keller, after a hard fight, compelled the Japanese to retreat with great losses.

Gen. Herschelmann, July 19, had a successful engagement forcing the Japanese to rapidly retreat on their main force.

The Russian losses were 200 men killed or wounded. Bands of Chinese bandits have appeared in this neighborhood. They attack the Russian sentries.

Gen. Kuroki is suffering from malaria and he follows his army in a litter. Gen. Oku, it is rumored, has resumed his advance beyond Kai Chou.

The Russians are expecting a battle. The heat at Liao Yang registers 99 degrees.

Hit British Ship. — Tien Tsai, July 21. — A letter was received here today from Newchwang saying that the commander of a Russian torpedo boat had reported that while in the Gulf of Pechili he had accidentally torpedoed a British steamer.

It is surmised here that the vessel referred to is the Hip Slang, now five days overdue from Newchwang. The Hip Slang belongs to Indo-China Navigation Company.

It is reported that a heavy bombardment of Port Arthur was heard yesterday and heavy gun firing was heard at Newchwang the same day.

London, Thursday, July 21. — The Standard's correspondent with the first Japanese army, cabling under date of July 19, says: "Our right flank has been engaged since morning."

A delayed dispatch from Ta Tche Kiao, dated July 19, says: "Sharp fighting was reported yesterday to the northeast, and it is stated that the Japanese lost two guns. Their forces were pushed back and their positions occupied as far as Saimatze. If this is true, it indicates a heavy engagement."

A Naval Raid. — St. Petersburg, July 20. — It is probably the purpose of Admiral Bezdobrozoff with the Vladivostok fleet to raid the coast towns of Japan, capture merchantmen, make a naval demonstration off Yokohama and generally create a panic among the population, in order to compel Rear Admiral Togo to reinforce Admiral Kamimura and thus weaken the fleet off Port Arthur. The idea that Admiral Bezdobrozoff would seriously attack large ports of Japan is, however, rejected owing to the danger from submarine boats, mines, torpedo boats and shore batteries. A report is current that the Vladivostok squadron is homeward bound, under orders to effect a junction with the first division of Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky's Baltic squadron, which is ready to go out on a trial trip in the Baltic. Both the war office and the admiralty are without important war news today.

Headed Southeast. — Tokio, July 20, 6 p.m. — The steamer overhauled by the Russian Vladivostok squadron was the Takashima. She arrived at Moran at noon today and reports that she left the Russian vessels steaming to the southeast at great speed. This course creates the impression here that they are holding for Saigon, the capital of French Indo-China, although it is possible that this course is a ruse to deceive the Japanese.

Sama Old Story. — Che Foo, July 21. — A French priest, living in Che Foo, who is a personal friend of, and who is in communication with General Stoessel, received information today that the Japanese suffered severe losses north of Port Arthur, and were driven back to Nago Pass.

Fear the Bandits. — St. Petersburg, July 21. — The increased activity of Chinese bandits near the railroad between Liao Yang and Mukden, which the paper declares, may become dangerous in connection with the Japanese advance towards Haijing.

To Improve Railroad. — St. Petersburg, July 21. — Eleven million dollars has been allowed by the Government for important improvements on the Siberian Railway.

Waited too Long. — St. Petersburg, July 21. — The military critics of the Russ think Gen. Kuroki has delayed too long to let the Japanese get into the Liao Yang, where Gen. Kuropatkin now is too strong.

Sint Siney In Manchuria, July 21. — St. George's crosses and medals for bravery were distributed today to Cosakoff, who has returned from the Korean raid carrying 20 of their wounded comrades about 550 miles. A number of Chinese bandits bands are operating in Mukden Province.

JAPANESE STONE KAMIMURA'S HOME

Tokio Mob Incensed at His Failure to Catch Vladivostok Fleet.

Chicago, July 21. — A Tokio cable to the Tribune says that a mob of Japanese men, women and children, led by members of the families of the soldiers who went down on the transports sunk by the Vladivostok squadron, has stoned the house of Admiral Kamimura, the commander of the Japanese squadron which has failed in its several efforts to head off Admiral Skrydloff's raiders on the sea.

Consols Up Again. — London, July 21. — Consols, which opened at 88, have since been marked up 3, and the feeling on the stock exchange generally improved.

NEW CAFE CAR STARTS. — The Grand Trunk has put on a new cafe car, which is said to be the best on the road. It goes from London on the 21st and westbound at 11:45 a.m. and eastbound at 4:15 p.m. It is a fine car that has just been turned out of the Pullman shops. Conductor Sam Crossley, of this city, starts on the new run today.

Coshocton, O., July 21. — Dr. Frank Eastwick has returned home from Madrid, where he was dentist to King Alfonso. He will return to Spain in a few days and will later go to Fez, Morocco, where he will fill the cavities in the Sultan's molars.

Dr. Eastwick will also attend to the teeth of the women in the harem, but while at work there two eunuchs will stand over him with battle-axes.

CHATHAM TO WINDSOR

American Company May Build New Electric Road.

Windsor, Ont., July 21. — Overtures have been made to Samuel Stover, of this city, for the purchase of his property at the price by a company of American capitalists, who intend making it a recreation ground. The company, Mr. Stover states, contemplates building an electric railway to connect Chatham and Windsor.

ESCAPED IN A CAX

Convict Had Himself Shipped as a Case of Washboilers.

Wheeling, W. Va., July 21. — John O. Smith, who is serving a term for burglary in the state penitentiary at Mountsville, escaped by boxing himself up this afternoon and being hauled out of the prison by an expressman, who thought he was carting a case of washboilers.

Smith was to be released in September, but he knew that he was wanted by the Pennsylvania and the California authorities for forgery and so planned to escape. He was in communication for months to a shipping clerk, and when he marked a large box as for shipment he ingeniously fastened himself into it. The expressman took the box and passed the guards safely.

On the outskirts of the town Smith got out and ran. A posse from the prison with bloodhounds in on his trail, but he has a two hours, start.

A large company assembled, including the Lord Rector, representatives of the municipality, professors and students of the university, Principal Salmons of the United Free Church College, and undergraduates. Lord Ritchie introduced the new Strathcona, whose name was a household word in every part of the civilized world.

His Lordship later, after addressing the students, said that if dressing the part he was to take her place in the race for commercial supremacy she and her universities must keep abreast of the times.

A MYSTERY OF THE ATLANTIC

Big Ship Ablaze Off the Coast of Long Island. SEEN DRIFTING OUT TO SEA

May Have Been Abandoned by Her Crew—Commander Aurania Also Sights Doomed Craft.

New York, July 21. — A large ocean steamer was observed yesterday to be on fire about thirty miles off East Port, L. I.

Attention was first attracted to her about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon through the volumes of smoke arising against the sky. She was too distant to discern the outline with unaided eye, but through powerful glasses from a high position the shape of a large steamer was vaguely made out.

A high northwest wind prevailed and the vessel, after being first sighted drifting slowly out to sea, creating the belief that the crew either abandoned her, or if remaining on board were unable to direct her course.

A vigilant watch was maintained along the coast last night in the hope that some of the crew of passengers of the burned vessel may reach the shore in the lifeboats.

RUSSIA STATES CASE TO BRITAIN

Czar's Ambassador Promises Immediate Inquiry

INTO SEIZURE OF THE MALACCA

Belovkd That Commander of the St. Petersburg Made a Grave Mistake in Holding Up P. and O. Boat.

London, July 21. — The Associated Press learns that Count Benckendorff, the Russian ambassador, at a conference yesterday afternoon, made what may be considered to be a preliminary reply to the British protest against the seizure of the steamer Malacca. He assured the foreign secretary that his government has no intention of infringing on the rights of Great Britain or any other neutral power, and that a mistake had been made in the seizure of the Malacca, and that the steamer would immediately be restored and damages paid.

The ambassador pointed out that it would be unreasonable to suppose that the Malacca had been seized without the commander of the St. Petersburg having good grounds to believe that she had contraband on board. Unless this suspicion is effectually disproved the matter will have to go before a prize court, which procedure Great Britain herself follows.

In the meantime, Russia will make full investigation to find out definitely the grounds on which the commander acted. The ambassador also informed Lord Lansdowne that he telegraphed the British protest to St. Petersburg, and said that he would receive the immediate answer of the Emperor. Subsequently, Count Benckendorff and the British ambassador had inquiries were at once begun and that a prompt reply would be made.

There is reason to believe that the Russian authorities incline to the conclusion that the commander of the St. Petersburg made a grave mistake in seizing the Malacca.

TO BE TRIED IN TORONTO

Murderer of Soo Constable Brought to Queen City.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 20. — Joseph Chartrand, who is charged with shooting and killing Provincial Constable William Irving at Webbwood, June 17, and has been in the district jail here since his capture two days ago, was removed today to Toronto for trial.

He left for that city in charge of Provincial Detective Wm. Green, who is known only to the jail officials and detectives. Chartrand's trial may take place in Toronto, and the authorities decided on Chartrand's removal, owing to the insecurity of the prison here during the progress of the investigations to the court house and jail.

SENSATION IN A GERMAN COURT

Public Incensed Against Russia for Compelling Trial of Seven German Socialists.

Koenigsberg, July 21. — At Tuesday's trial of the seven Social Democrats accused of smuggling anarchistic pamphlets into Russia, the defense created a sensation by declaring that Russia was responsible for the assassination of King Alexander and Queen Dragslava, and of Premier Stambouloff of Bulgaria.

To prove their charges, the attorneys for the defendants moved the court to summon Mayor Petkoff of Sofia, Bulgaria; a former Russian draughtsman, Jacobson, of Ruzhich, Bulgaria; and the editor of a Sofia newspaper, in order to prove that the Russian Government had been keeping agents in the Balkans since 1881 to stir up the people against their rulers.

They supported their motion by the declaration that Russia is not a civilized state, and is not therefore entitled to the protection of the German courts. The paragraph refers to the matter under consideration and adjourned.

Another sensation of the day was a telegram from the foreign office stating that a treaty between Russia and Germany, covering paragraph 260, of the Russian penal code, does not exist. The paragraph refers to punishment for high treason against foreign potentates, which was shown to apply only where a treaty explicitly provides for the same.

The seven Social Democrats under arrest are German subjects. They were arrested after being accused by the archbishop of smuggling into Russia, the archbishop literature into Russia. The pamphlets in question appeared to the army, giving the soldiers to make common cause with the people, to disobey the command to fire upon the people, to shoot into the air, and to turn their bayonets against the officers.

The arrest of the seven men has caused widespread indignation throughout Germany, and has done much to crystallize German popular sympathy against Russia in the present war.

The Russian Government has filled German illustrated papers with editorial comment in all parts of the empire is running strongly against the Russian Government.

The details of receipts and expenditures in connection with Russo-Japan affairs places these expenditures at 57,000,000 yen, being estimated at about 62% of the national money. This total includes a reserve fund of 40,000,000 yen for emergencies.

VOLUNTEER FLEET PERMITS P. AND O. BOAT TO PASS

Port Said, July 21. — The Peninsular and Oriental steamers Malacca, which was seized by the Russians in the Red Sea a week ago, on a charge that she had on board contraband of war, and which arrived here Tuesday, has left this port. Her destination is not declared, but she is probably bound for Cherbourg and Labau.

Aden, Arabia, July 21. — The Russian volunteer fleet vessels continue to patrol this vicinity. They did not attempt to interfere with the P. and O. steamers Palawan, which passed here this morning. Steamers of the French lines are allowed to pass unchallenged.

British Fleet at Hand. — Alexandria, July 21. — The British cruisers Furuse and Venus have arrived here. The remainder of the fleet is expected to reach this port shortly. The bill of health of the Malacca, which left port with a Russian prize crew on board, was marked "Russia."

The British cruiser Leander and Lancaster, accompanied by three torpedo-boat destroyers left here during the night to rejoin the Mediterranean squadron.

ALL NOISE SAY RUSSIAN

St. Petersburg, July 21. — The St. Petersburg Gazette referring to the seizure of vessels in the Red Sea by Russian warships says: "Whether or not the Dardanelles has nothing to do with the right of search and seizure. All this noise will have no effect."

Landed the Crew. — Washington, July 20. — The Japanese legation has received the following cablegram from the foreign office at Tokio: "At 9:20 a.m. July 21, the Vladivostok squadron fired on and sunk a Japanese steamer, 318 tons, off the coast of Isoda, about 100 miles from Hakodate. All of the crew were landed safely at Yesan."

More Steamers Captured. — London, July 21. — The insurance correspondent of the Times says: "The China Mutual Company's (A. Holt & Co.) steamer Peking, believed to have been captured in the Red Sea by Russian cruisers, was from Middlesbrough and Antwerp for Yokohama. It is reported also that the Hamburg-American liner Sambia has been seized. The Peking is of 1,447 tons, was built in 1885, and is uninsured. The Sambia was also uninsured. In both cases, as with the Malacca, there are considerable cargo interests here. Antwerp has all through been the port of shipment for goods of a contraband character for Japan, and the Russians are apparently marking down the steamers."

MR. FITZPATRICK GIVES DENIAL TO G. T. P. SOLICITORSHIP STORY

Declares There Was Not the Slightest Truth in Report of Mail and Empire.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, Ont., July 21. — The Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick took occasion today to give a most unqualified denial to a report in the Mail and Empire that he was to be the solicitor of G. T. P. He said that public men expected to be charged with all crimes in the public calendar, short of murder, but it was a different thing when men were attacked professionally. The report in the Mail and Empire was an attack on him professionally. "I may say," he added, "that there is not the slightest truth in the report, no such offer was ever made, ever contemplated, ever intended. The G. T. P. knew better than to make such an offer. They knew better than to imagine that any such offer would be entertained. The statement is all the more unjustifiable in view of the fact that when it was first made I contradicted it, and that contradiction appeared in the Mail and Empire. What I ask is that this denial be given as much publicity as the charge that has been made against me. That much I ask, and that much I am going to have."

The Danger in the Near East

The right of Russian warships to search vessels under neutral flags for contraband of war is perfectly clear. The European powers, in the treaty of Paris, assented to these propositions:

1. A neutral flag covers the enemy's goods, with the exception of contraband of war.
2. Neutral goods, with the exception of contraband of war, are not liable to capture under the enemy's flag.

Under the first article Russia asserted the right to seize mails addressed to Japan carried by the German steamship Prinzess Alice. These mails have been returned to the Prince Heinrich, with the explanation that Russia does not contend for the right to take general mail for Japan, but only official correspondence. Germany's complaint is that Russia violated international law in confiscating the mails, without ascertaining whether they were of a contraband nature or not. The case is analogous to the act of a British warship in taking mail bags from a German steamer in Delagoa Bay in 1899 during the Boer war. For this offense Great Britain had to pay damages.

Within the past week three British steamers have been overhauled and searched by Russian cruisers. The first, the Walpara, was held for four hours and then released. The second, the Malacca, of the Peninsular and Oriental Line, was seized as a prize, charged with carrying munitions of war to Japan. It is claimed by the steamship company that the stores were consigned to the British dockyards at Hong Kong, and were marked with the broad arrow, the British Government's stamp. The third British steamer seized, the Alentou, was carrying coal to Japan in fulfillment of a contract made long before the outbreak of the war.

The term contraband was originally applied to certain prohibited domestic trade in time of peace. It was first used internationally in the treaty of Southampton, 1625, between Charles I. of England, and the States-General of Holland. The treaty declared that all foodstuffs, munitions of war, ships, arms, sails, silver, iron, etc., carried to Spanish ports would, along with the carrier ships and crews, be "good prize." It is partly from such treaty stipulations, and partly from the custom of belligerents at the beginning of a war to issue formal declarations to neutrals, forbidding all trade in certain articles with the ports of their enemies, that the international law of contraband grew up. It is very evident, however, that a convention of the powers will be necessary to frame a more rigid definition of contraband. Russia has taken it upon herself to place coal in that category, against the express understanding of the other great maritime powers. This arbitrary declaration was the subject of protest in the British House of Commons, and the Government is giving the matter serious attention.

The most dangerous question involved in these seizures is the character of the so-called Russian cruisers, which are patrolling the Red Sea. They passed the Dardanelles as merchantmen, with guns concealed in their holds. As soon as they reached the Mediterranean the guns were hoisted to the decks, and the so-called merchant vessels were transformed into warships. This evasion of the spirit of the treaty of Paris, which interdicts the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus to warships, brought no protest from the Sultan of Turkey. It was a successful piece of sharp practice on the part of Russia, which is now in a position to say to the powers, "What are you going to do about it? Great Britain cannot treat the Russian cruisers as pirates, without inviting war. More likely she will refrain from raising the question of the violation of the treaty of Paris while the war with Japan is in progress, and confine herself to demanding reparation for the wrongful seizure of British ships and goods.

The situation is fraught with peril to the peace of Europe. If Great Britain fights Russia she must fight Russia's ally, France, and the new growth of friendship between the French and British nations would be strangled in its infancy. Unless Russia is deliberately courting war with Great Britain, in order to cover up her humiliation in the far east, and compel France to come to her aid, prudent counsels at London and St. Petersburg will surely find a way out of the danger.

Punk Loyalty.
 Sure enough, the statement that the British Government might expect some choice abuse from Canadian Tories for calling Dundonald home has been verified. In the House of Commons yesterday Colonel Sam Hughes opened a familiar brand of punk loyalty as follows:

"The Imperial Government is cowardly in relation to its colonies; it has always bowed down to disloyal acts rather than bring on an election."

"Mr. Arnold-Forster has no mandate under the law to use such language towards Lord Dundonald as he is reported to have used."

"If Lord Dundonald is the man I take him to be, he will tell Arnold-Forster that he has been within his rights, and will return home when it suits his own sweet will."

"If the spirit of liberty is dead in the old land, it is not dead here."

It is always the same. Your professional loyalist and flag-waver is the loudest squealer when he can't have his own way. When Colonel Hughes got into a row with General Hutton he described Imperial officers as dubs and woodheads, and the war office as a petticoat preserve. Dr. Sproule, another vociferous patriot, accused the King of hatching a plot against British Protestants because he visited the Pope. A species of Tory loyalty consists in the belief that the Tories have a divine right to office. When we say Tories we don't mean the mass of Conservatives, who are just as broad as their Liberal fellow-citizens, but there is a certain element which hugs the tradition of the old days of the family compact and Governor Metcalfe, and which imagines that it is a privileged class, and alone possesses the genius of government. When it can't run the country and sees the hated Liberals—rebels and traitors—enjoying the confidence of the Imperial authorities and acting as his majesty's advisers, then good-bye to its loyalty. In the present instance the Tories are peculiarly exasperated because a Conservative Government in Great Britain has endorsed the Liberal Government of Canada by ordering Lord Dundonald home. Col. Hughes hopes that Lord Dundonald will defy the Government of his country and stay in Canada. And that is just about the size of Tory loyalty.

It is pretty safe to say that Mrs. Maybrick will now turn over a new leaf.

According to Sam Hughes the Tory Government of Great Britain is disloyal.

When his opponents want to be particularly severe on the Minister of Militia they call him Doc Borden.

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association have places for 6,717 workmen and still they complain of the tariff.

If Lord Dundonald stayed much longer he would be in danger of being coupled with Gamey as a Conservative hero.

Mr. Monet is finding out from the Opposition press what a fine fellow he is. If Mr. Bourassa would step out, too, he might stand a show for the Quebec leadership of the Conservative party.

The assertion in yesterday's edition that Mr. Bourassa protested against Canada's interference in "wars of her own making" obviously should have read "wars not of her own making."

La Presse of Montreal is unfair to Lord Dundonald in describing him as a wolf sent by Chamberlain to the Canadian sheepfold. And Lord Dundonald is unfair when he describes La Presse as a Government organ.

Mr. Chamberlain's tariff committee reports in favor of giving high tariff favors to colonies which give an adequate preference to British manufactures. Will our Conservative friends explain how adequate protection and an adequate preference can live in the same house?

The Cleveland Plaindealer points out that the Washington Government cannot consistently protest against the immigration propaganda of the Canadian Government in the United States. Canada has simply taken a leaf out of Uncle Sam's book and is now doing precisely what several western states of the Union did immediately after the civil war, when their agents were sent to Europe to promote immigration.

The Wrong Kind.
 [Washington Star.]
 "Many a man," said Uncle Eben, "runs an iron constitution by putting a wrong kind of lubrication in his stomach."

Met Them Before.
 [Chicago News.]
 Gunner—So you went around posing as a real Bohemian. How did you like it?
 Guyer—I had to give it up. Every one avoided me for fear I wanted to borrow money.

A Last Farewell.
 [L. W. Foley, in New York Times.]
 A soldier of the powers was on picket in Algiers—any place you choose that finds a rhyme for tears).
 The battle had been bloody, and the rival allies lay
 On gory blades, preparing for another one next day.
 A figure from the darkness crept—a figure stern and grim.
 Approached the watchful picket where he stood, and spoke to him:
 "I pray you bear this message to the powers, when they see me here:
 For 'T'm the Hague tribunal, and I've come to say good-bye."
 "Give my regards to Nicholas, and tell him as I went
 I left him this delightful scheme for 'world disarmament.'
 My palace at The Hague, give that to William; I suggest
 He fit it up with nurses, and let bullets do the rest.
 Oh, soldier, please remember me with kindness to each one,
 And tell them that you saw me, and that I was on the run.
 For I've packed my bag and baggage, and shipped all my household goods,
 So tell them when you saw me I was taking to the woods."
 "Fray, soldier, drop a tear for me, and bless me ere I go,
 I tried to take your job away, but you'll forgive me, I know
 Men petted me and cherished me, and I was glad to be a boon,
 But now I see that I was born a century too soon;
 We powers may not meet again; I bid you my farewell,
 And when again you see the powers, soldier, you may tell—
 Tell them—his voice was broken, and he smothered a great sob,
 "Just tell them when you saw me, I was looking for a job."

Scotch Can't Be Humbugged.
 [Toronto Star.]
 The attempt to play upon the feelings of Scotchmen in Canada in connection with the Dundonald affair is not likely to succeed so well as to be repeated on any future occasion. The Scotch are not so easily humbugged as some of those who are now making clumsy attempts at the job appear to think. The people of Scotland more than once showed that they cared not a rap for men of high degree when they were asked to name any one good result that came from the belching of Charles I. "Weel," said he, "it laughed all kings that even a king has a lilt in his haughty life was a lesson that had its uses. The question that will be asked by the people of Scotch descent in Canada will not be "Is Dundonald a Scotchman?" but "Was Dundonald right?" To seek to stir the Scotchmen of this country into anger because the Government has decided to send Lord Dundonald home is a poor party trick, and is bound to fail. The questions in dispute must be considered on their merits.

Getting Rich Off Grasshoppers.
 [Utah State Journal.]
 Farmers of Central Utah have organized to rid their fields of grasshoppers and are exterminating the insects by the ton.

The grasshoppers are particularly numerous in San Pete County, and have become so great a menace to the agricultural interests that the State has placed a bounty of one cent a pound on them. The county clerk of San Pete County has reported that the State has paid bounties on over 8,000 pounds of grasshoppers captured in the neighborhood of the town of Ephraim alone. Dozens of men and boys have dropped their farm labors and are devoting all their attention to catching grasshoppers.

Can't Play.
 [Washington Star.]
 "You say Miss Putnam can't play golf?"
 "Yes," answered Miss Cayenne. "She's clever enough at hitting the ball, but she can't find an appropriate costume that is in the least becoming."

 She's very intellectual.
 That's why she went away.

A Sterling Fellow.
 [Detroit Free Press.]
 Dick—I don't see why you girls speak of blankly as such a sterling fellow. I used to know him years ago, and he had the reputation of being a regular dub.
 Mabel—You probably haven't heard that since then he has fallen into a large fortune.

High Art.
 [Chicago Tribune.]
 Sign Painter—I don't see any suitable vacant space on your walls. Where do you want the motto, "Terms Strictly Cash," painted?
 Barber Shop Proprietor—On the ceiling, of course.

Three of a Kind.
 [Cincinnati Tribune.]
 Rebecca—You see, met Martha, and she is so hard to get away from.
 Rachel—How funny! I've heard her say the same thing.
 Rebecca—Wee, that beats everything. I've heard her say it about you, too.

Tolstoi's View of Death.
 [New York Press.]
 Count Tolstoi has now reached the time of life when he "remembers his approaching end, and dwells some time on the future life. From some of his recent letters, extracts of which appear in the Independent, we take this:
 "It is not given unto man to know, for his own good, what sort of life there will be after death, and it is not necessary to know, for if people knew it, and knew that life beyond the grave would be better than this life, they would be more afraid of death than they are now. If they knew that life beyond the grave would be better than this life they would not concern themselves about this life and life would hasten to die."
 No simpler could be than this, nor could the reason for the mystery of life be put in words in simpler way.

Some Advice.
 [Toronto Star.]
 In torrid times like these, my friend, There's really just one rule That's safe to follow to the end, And that is this: Keep cool.

Not That Kind.
 [Scottish American.]
 An old farmer who by hard work and parsimonious habits, had got together a little fortune, decided that the time had at length arrived when he was justified in ordering a family carriage. He went to a carriage builder's and described in what kind of a vehicle he wished to buy.
 "Now, I suppose you want rubber tires," said the builder.
 "No, sir," replied the old farmer, in tones of resentment. "My folk ain't that kind. When they're riding they want to know it."

And One Had Love.
 [National Magazine.]
 One man had riches for his gift, and knew
 The emptiness thereof;
 Another, where Fame's topmost summits lift,
 All pyrrhic peaks above,
 Felt the keen pangs of lofty loneliness;
 And one had love.
 Down in the lowly valley paths of life
 His years were spent;
 Where, far removed from madding din
 and strife,
 Brooded song and bird song blend,
 Babbed of quiet things, of resting peace,
 And deep content.
 Yet there was something in his cup of days
 Ineffably more sweet
 Than e'er he knew who in the siddy maze
 Of fortune set his feet,
 Or quaffed Fame's goblet, wreathed with true and bays,
 And found it incomplete!

IS ON TICKET OF LEAVE
 Conditions Under Which Mrs. Maybrick Was Released.
 London, July 21.—Mrs. Maybrick's imprisonment was terminated after more than fourteen years of her life in Aylesbury prison before the arched doorway of the white Ephyphany in this little town, with the black-robed sisters softly uttering their

"My niece's little baby boy, two years old, was so badly afflicted with eczema that it needed constant watching. It was all over his face and he scratched the sores constantly. Mornings his clothes would be stained with blood, and his face and hands would be covered. His family never could take him out, as his face was always full of large sores. They had medical treatment, and tried everything they heard of. She commenced using the Cuticura Resolvent last spring and found that the sores left his face and he was entirely cured, and now his face is as smooth and rosy as though no sore had ever been there to mar it."

Mrs. L. J. ROOT,
 JERUSALEM, N. Y.,
 Feb. 13, 1898.

On March 7, 1903, five years later, Mrs. Root received the carriage of Miss Daley, secretary of the sisterhood, and was driven rapidly to St. Austell, a small station fourteen miles away, where, after exchanging good-byes with her companions, she boarded a train and started on her journey to France. She will not go to America until her presence there is considered necessary.

Mrs. Maybrick is not freed unconditionally. She is out on ticket-of-leave, but to all intents she is as free as any other person, can go where she will and will not have to make a report to any of the sisters. Subsequently Mrs. Maybrick is abroad she will be outside British jurisdiction. The Baroness De-roques has made preparations at Ronen for Mrs. Maybrick's arrival at her quiet home there, where she will begin a new life. When Mrs. Maybrick first arrived she was kept under strict surveillance, never leaving the convent walls. Even for a walk in the grounds she would have to be under the escort of one of the sisters. Subsequently she was allowed to walk in the quiet streets of this picturesque place and in the country lanes in the published portraits of Mrs. Maybrick soon got to recognize the black-robed woman with her black bonnet and flowing strings, and gave her kindly greetings, which frequently passed unnoticed.

Mrs. Maybrick seeking so far as possible to avoid the attention of the convent. Her time at the convent was taken up with sewing, reading and for his own good, what sort of life there will be after death, and it is not necessary to know, for if people knew it, and knew that life beyond the grave would be better than this life, they would be more afraid of death than they are now. If they knew that life beyond the grave would be better than this life they would not concern themselves about this life and life would hasten to die."

No simpler could be than this, nor could the reason for the mystery of life be put in words in simpler way.

BURIED IN THEIR BLOOD
 Strange Ritual for Jews Who Fall in Far East Battle.
 St. Petersburg, July 21.—Rabbi Drabkin, in an interview had with him by the Associated Press correspondent, asserted that there were 15,000 Jews fighting in the Russian army in Manchuria. The Rabbi calls attention to the fact that when Jews fall in battle their burial is different from that of other ways. The Talmudic law requires that those who fall in battle should be buried in their blood. Therefore, the bodies of such are not placed in shrouds, but are interred in their clothes.

Although Jewish soldiers can officiate at such burials, Rabbi Drabkin thinks rabbis should be sent to the Far East, to go there with the instruments prescribed by the Jewish ritual, the only place in that region where there now are being buried. The Jews in Russia are subscribing immense sums for the aid of the families of their coreligionists in the field. Odessa alone having subscribed $150,000.

PULLING HIS LEG
 Trying to Stretch a Yankee Militiaman Required Length.
 Springfield, Mass., July 21.—Pending the outcome of an attempt to stretch Sergeant George E. Burr, of Worcester, one-half inch longitudinally, there will be no election of a colonel of the Second Regiment, Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry. The office was vacated by Col. E. P.  Loggers lead a life which exposes them to many perils. Wounds, cuts and bruises cannot be altogether avoided in preparatory work, where wet and cold combined are of daily experience; coughs and colds and muscular pains cannot but ensue. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, when applied to the injured, or administered to the afflicted, works wonders.

Dr. Wiley, of the United States department of agriculture, says that hardly a pound of real Mocha coffee is sold over the counter, and that about all of this coffee coming to the United States is for private orders.

Died in Paris recently Count Emile de Keratry, who could boast that his grandfather, born in 1699, was a page in the household of Louis XIV. FIGHTING FOR A NAME.

CHAPTER XLIII. But could Ned have known the treachery of which his dear one was about to become the victim, his joy over the recent conquest which he had achieved would have been greatly marred.

But as we have seen, he was associated with Gould, in his various crimes and schemes, and it was only with his assistance that the man had been able to carry out to a successful issue the bold robbery of the Bank.

Gould protested that such a proceeding would be very unwise, if not dangerous; they would have enough to do, he said, to look out for their own safety, without burdening themselves with a woman.

But Bill was obstinate. He said they could drop Ned at the first opportunity, and he would never suspect that the girl was on board.

Gould knew that he was in the fellow's power, and he did not dare to oppose him, with him. Therefore, he appeared to yield his objections, though he secretly vowed that he would get her out of there at the first opportunity.

She owned a farm a few miles out of the city, and she thought it might be a pleasant change for Gertrude to spend a day or two there, while she herself had business with the farmer, which would require her own presence there.

But the poor girl had spent such a wretched night, that she was not able to rise from her bed until Friday morning dawned, so the trip for her was utterly out of the question.

While thus engaged the door bell rang a violent peal and presently a servant entered the drawing-room and handed to her a note, bearing the local postmark.

AN ENTERPRISING FIRM. Messrs. Jackson Bros., of Clinton, have placed their order for a complete electric light and power plant with the Electrical Construction Company of this city. It is pleasing to note how the various manufacturing concerns throughout Ontario are equipping their factories in the same up-to-date way.

Another Convert. One by one the large manufacturers of this country are realizing the fact that it is a good business proposition for them to install their own electric light and power plant. The Carling Brewing and Malting Company has placed their order with the Electrical Construction Company for a complete direct-connected electric plant. Every up-to-date manufacturing concern should do the same, because it pays.
