CHAPTER VIII.

"Oh, yes I am," said Mr. Vandike, shaking his head with a sigh. "Don't you say no; please don't. I'm such an unlucky fellow always. The thing never will come right when I want it, and I never can get the shadows in; there's always something comes and spoils my picture. Now I've got hung at the Academy, you won't spoil my pleasure by saying no, Miss Muriel, surely!"

Muriel, with the instinct of her womanhood knew that the wound was only skin deep, and that his love for her was of that kind which, in artistic jargon, he would have called "half tint," so she acted on the impulse of the moment and wisely.

"Mr. Vandike," she said, "I'm a simple country girl, a farmer's daughter; you are the nephew of a lord, a gentleman and an artist. Look me in the face and tell me as a gentleman and an artist if you think in your heart of hearts I am a fit wife for you. There is nothing in common between us. You would tire of me—before a month had passed, and would sigh for a proper companion in one of the great London ladies, who understand your life and its purpose. Am I speaking too wisely for such an ignorant girl? I can only say what I feel. Dear Mr. Vandike, I have been so happy together, but if I thought you really loved me I should be miserable for every merry hour we have so enjoyed. You don't love me—no, you won't make me unhappy by pretending to be very much hurt when I say what dear father has said already."

Mr. Vandike looked out of the window. Muriel laid her hand gently on his.

"You have forgiven me for speaking so forwardly," she said, "and we shall part as friends?"

"That we shall," Miss Holt, said the young gentleman, suddenly removing his gaze to her face and grasping her hand. "And—and I shouldn't be acting honorably if I didn't say that I think you're right, after all. Not that you are not worthy to be the wife of a king, but—but that I don't love you half so well as you deserve, though if I stayed here within sight of you another day," he added earnestly, "by Jove! I should love you all that and a trifle over. So I'll go, and I wish you a better man Miss Holt, good-by."

"Good by," said Muriel, and she struggled against her fears, for she knew the worth of the heart that beat beneath the veneer of fashion and London manners—"good-by. We shall meet again, I feel sure, and then be better friends than ever. You will be a great man, whom your wife will be proud of, and I shall cry over every success you make—so, there! I'm almost crying now. Good-by."

"Good-by," said Mr. Vandike, shaking her hand again, and away he went, stopping, however, at the corner to look back and mutter:

"I'm half afraid I do love her now, by jingo! I wish I had a study of her in sepia to cry over."

Muriel, though she had no sepia sketch of Mr. Vandike had a good cry, not over her departed lover, but for him who was near at hand, and for herself, who was so unhappy as to have so many proposing suitors when the favored one was compelled to hold his peace.

In came the farmer and found her, not in tears, but scarcely recovered from them.

"Well, lass," he said, eyeing her earnestly, "that artist fellow is packing his traps and is off to London. Has he been to say good-by?"

"Yes, father," said Muriel, and her tears threatened again.

"Hem!" said the farmer, chuckling. "See what it is to have a pretty face, lass. Every idiot on the highway fancies himself in love with it. But dry your eyes, my dear, there's good corn among the weeds. Heaven be praised, and a fair sample is coming this way. Alfred comes back to-night!" she said in that absent way one uses when speaking because speech is expected of us.

"Yes, Mr. Heatherbridge," repeated the farmer, coming behind her and laying his hand on her head. "But why so cold and stately, lass? A little while ago it was 'Alfred, sweet and kind like, now it's Mr. Heatherbridge, prim as a parish clerk. What's that old song your poor mother used to sing, something about the milking pail? Here, by the bye, that sets me off again. What'll you think, lass, of our neighbor, young Leigh?"

Muriel's heart leaped, and her head dropped lower over the needle.

"What has he done, father?" she said in a low voice.

"Took a drove of stock, a hundred cows if there was one, tramping down the avenue like the beasts out of Noah's Ark. Oh, why didn't I buy that farm and so be rid of it?" And he groaned.

"Why didn't you, father?" asked Muriel, afraid to remain silent, yet knowing not what to say.

"Why, eh? Because I didn't," said the farmer. "Perhaps I had something else to do with the money, lass," and he stroked the beautiful head. "Perhaps I'm a fond old idiot—indeed, as Alfred 'ud say, most like I am. But there, you love your old father, lassie, dear, don't you?"

Muriel turned and threw her arms round the old man's neck without a word. She could not trust herself to speak. It seemed so hard to love him so dearly and yet keep a secret—such a secret, too—from him.

"Ah!" sighed the squire, "I don't like my new neighbor; young men—farmers especially—are so pig-headed there's no trusting them. What's he want a hundred cows, for? What will he do next? Something unpleasant and awkward, I'll be bound."

"Oh, father!" said Muriel in a low voice. "Tis not like you to be so unjust. Mr. Leigh has never done an unkind or unneighborly thing to you yet. It was not pig-headed, surely, to take so much trouble about the straw yard, the first night, too, and so late. He has had so much trouble that makes him quiet, and he works so hard, and for all the annoyance he gives us the Holme might be empty now."

"Holy-toity!" exclaimed the farmer, sinking into his chair with his usual violence. "Mr. Leigh's in your good books, lass! Quite the champion, I do declare. But nobody's finding fault with him, as yet; plenty of time to pity him when they do. I'm only agrieved over the avenue, and you know it's a sore point with me."

"Why do you not make some arrangement with Mr. Leigh? Buy the avenue if it is his to sell. He would make another entrance—do anything—rather than give you a moment's pain!"

"Hem!" said the farmer, looking at her till he forgot to light his pipe, and the wisp of paper was burnt out. "You seem to know a deal of young Leigh, most of his mind included. Have you seen much of him?"

Before Muriel could reply the dogs set up a warning bark, a tap came to the door, and glad of the excuse to hide her sudden flush, she ran to the floor and opened it.

Mr. Heatherbridge stepped in. "Hullo! Alf, my lad!" exclaimed the farmer, setting down his pipe. "Welcome back—quiet, you dogs—welcome back, my lad; it seems an age since I saw thee!"

Mr. Heatherbridge shook hands then turned to Muriel, who stood glad and yet sorry, to see her old playmate back again.

"Not a word for me, Muriel?" he said half reproachfully.

"Yes, a great many," said Muriel, and shook hands.

"Sit down—sit down," said the farmer, "and tell us the news. Muriel can ring for a jug of ale and a pipe."

R. G. ASH & Co., Wholesale Distributors, St. John's

When Muriel, instead of ringing, fetched them with her own hands, Mr. Heatherbridge opened his budget of news.

As he had expected, his aunt Dorothea had left him the farm and all the money she died possessed of. "Unto those that have much shall be given." But, though it was as plain as a pikestaff, the lawyers managed to find a hole in the will, and Mr. Heatherbridge had been mending it in London at no small expense.

While he told his tale his eyes wandered constantly to where Muriel sat, and a smile grew on the farmer's face as he noticed the errant glances.

"And so it's all settled, Alfred," he said. "Fill your glass, lad; I'm almost as glad to see you as the father was the prodigal son—and you're quite a wealthy man. Fancy the Howe and Mrs. Dorothea's, what a responsibility! Ha! ha!"

"Yes, indeed," said young Heatherbridge, glancing at Muriel nervously. "Almost more than a young fellow can manage—alone."

"Not more than he can enjoy," laughed the farmer. "Well, we've taken care of the farm for you, lad. There's Muriel, there, been a mother to the chickens, and looked after the birds as if they'd been her own."

"I'm very grateful to Muriel," said Mr. Heatherbridge, looking round at her tenderly. "I know she'd be kind enough—she is all kindness and thoughtfulness."

"No, I'm not," said Muriel. "I am all forgetfulness, for to-night's Saturday night, and I've forgotten the clothes. Have you any more news? If so, please save it until I come back." And, with a smile, she took up a candle and left the room.

Mr. Heatherbridge rose to open the door and stood looking after her for a full minute. Then he came back and seated himself at the table, and commenced fidgeting with the black studs at his wrist.

"I'm glad to get back," he said presently.

"No doubt—no doubt, my lad," said the farmer. "A farm's ill-gadding without a master."

"Aye, but for more reasons than the farm," said young Heatherbridge. "Farmer, did Muriel ever tell you of a conversation we had before I went away?"

"No," said the farmer, puffing hard at his pipe; "no, lad."

"Well, I thought perhaps she had. I asked her to be my wife, farmer; MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR SALE EVERYWHERE.

indeed, I've loved her a long time." Farmer Holt's heart beat fast and his eyes winked.

"Yes, lad," he said, "and what did she say?"

"She gave me no answer," said young Heatherbridge nervously; "indeed, she ran away." And his face clouded.

"Ha! ha!" laughed the farmer; "she did, did she, the mix? Don't look so down, lad; you don't understand 'em; they're coyer than you think. Run away, did she? Ha! ha!" And he laughed at such an excellent joke as any girl running away from the owner of the Howe, Mrs. Dorothea's farm, and ever so many thousands in the County Bank.

Mr. Heatherbridge's face brightened.

"You don't think she meant to give me the cold shoulder, farmer?"

"Not she," retorted the farmer. "Haven't you been boy and girl together since ye were girl and boy? Ah, lad, ye don't know 'em. If she'd topped I'd a' said things looked awkward, but she run away. Ha! ha!"

"And what do you say, farmer?" asked Mr. Heatherbridge eagerly. "You know me and my affairs; you know I'm as fond of Muriel as I can be, head over heels in love with her, and that I'll do everything that's handsome in the way of settlement, if you'll give your consent, and she'll give her hand, I'll lay down twenty thousand pounds for her—or more, farmer, if you think it well!"

"No, no; that's plenty, lad," said Farmer Holt, beginning to draw a plan on the table with his finger.

'Two-Year Corns' Can be Ended in Two Days

Your oldest corn—pared and doctored since you can remember—can be forever removed in this simple way.

Apply a little Blue-jay plaster. It is done in a jiffy, and the pain stops instantly.

Then that wonderful wax—the B & B wax—gently undermines the corn. In two days it loosens and comes out. No pain, no soreness, no inconvenience. You simply forget the corn.

A million corns a month are removed in that way. And they never come back. New corns may come if you continue tight shoes, but the old ones are gone completely.

All this is due to a chemist's invention, which everyone should know.

Blue-jay Corn Plasters

Sold by Druggists—15c and 25c per package. Sample Mailed Free. Also Blue-jay Bunion Plasters. (26)

Bauer & Black, Chicago and New York, Makers of Surgical Dressings, etc.

For Dandruff, Falling Hair, or Itchy Scalp—25c. "Danderine."

SAVE YOUR HAIR! DANDERINE DESTROYS DANDRUFF AND STOPS FALLING HAIR AT ONCE—GROWS HAIR, WE PROVE IT.

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous you must use Danderine, because nothing else accomplishes so much for the hair.

Just one application of Knowlton's Danderine will double the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots fallish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, don't hesitate, but get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. It eventually—why not now? A 25 cent bottle will truly amaze you.

To Blame or Not to Blame

ing to offer my solution of it in this column.

This is my letter friend's story. A friend of hers had a dearly loved cousin visiting her. The cousin had planned to return home on a certain day. Her hostess was so loath to have her go that she urged her to stay another day. The cousin at first protested vigorously, but finally yielded rather against her better judgment, and put off her return until the next day. On that day there was a terrible train wreck and the girl was killed in it.

"And now my friend is almost insane with grief," writes my correspondent. "And it isn't only that, but she is tortured by remorse. She says she was to blame for her cousin's death because if she had only let her go when she wanted to, she would have reached home safely. I tell her that is all nonsense but she won't listen to me. She is making herself sick over it. What do you think?"

What do I think? Well I most heartily agree with my correspondent that her friend's attitude is all nonsense. Of course, it is inevitable that she should feel regret, but I don't think it is a case for remorse at all.

"Blame" and "fault" are very difficult words to deal with. Only the All Wise can see and understand sufficiently about our motives and our temptations, our intentions and our mistakes, to be sure of using these words aright. But this is the way it seems to me. One is not to blame for the chain of events which follows some act except insofar as one is to blame because the act itself was wrong.

I do not think that one can claim credit for all the events that follow one's act except insofar as the act itself was creditable, and so I think the converse holds true. For instance, if this woman had persuaded her cousin to stay another day and the railroad wreck had occurred on the day on which she had intended to go home, I do not think the woman would have deserved credit for saving her cousin's life. Conversely she does not have reason to accuse herself of being to blame for the girl's death.

In this case there was neither praise nor blame attaching to the act itself. But suppose that the woman had for purely selfish reasons unfairly tricked her cousin into staying and the girl had been killed. Then I think the woman would have been to blame for her deceit and selfishness, not for the tragedy. And suppose on the other hand she had made some special sacrifice or effort to make it possible for her guest to stay and the accident had been avoided, then I think she would have deserved credit for the sacrifice and effort but not for saving the girl's life.

If we were to blame or credit ourselves with all the long series of events which often follow our simplest act, we should certainly have a hard time keeping score.

We must inevitably feel regret when something unfortunate happens which would not have happened if we had acted differently, but if our act was not intrinsically wrong I do not think we ever need feel remorse.

HOW BLOOD IS MADE.

The liquids and the digested foods in the alimentary canal pass through the wall of the canal into the blood. This process is called absorption and takes place chiefly from the small intestine. After absorption the blood carries the food through the body, and each cell takes from the blood the food it needs. A pure glyceric extract made from bloodroot, mandrake, stone, queen's root and golden seal root, and sold by druggists for the past forty years under the name of gives uniformly excellent results as a tonic to help in the assimilation of the food and in the absorption by the blood of the food it requires. Eradicate the poisons from the blood with this alternative extract which does not shrink the white blood corpuscles, because containing no alcohol or other injurious ingredients. Thus the body can be built up—strong to resist disease. This is a tonic taken from Nature's garden that builds up those weakened by disease. Sold by druggists everywhere. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Mr. CHAS. FARRER, Jr., of 222 Woodlawn Ave., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "I was troubled with my stomach for almost three years. Tried several doctors and most everything anybody recommended to me, but kept getting worse and honestly did not care to live as I was never well even though, at times, I had no pain. My symptoms were as follows: Always tired, my whole body a throbbing ache, pain and soreness in the stomach, vomiting, constipation, could not eat or sleep, and was generally unwell. But after taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with the Pleasant Pellets it has made me a well man which is something to live for."

Fashions and Fads.

Chiffon and velvet ribbons are in great demand for trimmings. They come in most exquisite shades and are used, with brocade often to accentuate one of the colors of the design.

Very fashionable are the white felt hats, faced with dull-finished old gold faille. This facing should be the only suggestion of color about the hat, all of its top trimming should be white.

The new tailored suits show skirts mostly draped and either short or three-quarter cutaway coats. The pleats take the form of pleated panels or of a pleated skirt beneath a drapelonaise.

The latest notes from Paris say that elaborate combs will be worn again. Some are fan-shaped; others are narrow and curved to fit around the back of the head, just over a heavy roll on the neck.

For Fall wear the jabot has gained immense proportions, frequently covering the front of the blouse and appearing in pointed and round effects that are somewhat like the bishop's jabot of the summer.

For the little girls there are charming little hats of velvet, velour, beaver and cloth. A bell-shaped model of tau velour has a ruffling of brown ribbon velvet about the crown and a flat box at the side.

A very becoming costume is made of navy blue silk with a draped open shirt and bodice trimmed with porcelain buttons, a white nixon blouse and collar. A navy silk sash with fringing to match, lined with rose-colored silk.

Many of the new blouses are made of silk and have linen collars and cuffs. A very pretty blouse is made surplusage fashion with a sailor collar and undercuffs of dainty hand-embroidered linen, which can be removed and laundered.

Evening dresses are trimmed with pearl, bugle, mother-of-pearl embroideries, or iridescent spangles and beads, or again of floss or mercerized silk on net, tulle or mousseline de soie. The most expensive are trimmed with fur and mock jewel embroideries.

The Directorate collar AS expressed in fur has wonderful charm and becomingness, threatens to become almost too popular. It will be made of ermine, and a note of black will be introduced by the tails, which will act in place of the frills of lace.

The new models show many bright touches of color; for instance, cuffs and collars are trimmed with tanager, lemon and gold, combined, or black and white, lemon and light blue, chartreuse, navy and light blue.

Nearly all the evening wraps are big, shapeless mantles, which fall in soft folds in which the wearer can drape herself with grace. The manner in which these mantles are worn is of much importance. They are tight about the legs and very full about the hips.

Some of the new velvet coats are made in a plain straight shape, with collars and cuffs of the same material, and others are slightly draped in panier effect, the soft folds being brought over on one side and held in place by motifs of silk cord passementerie.

For pretty afternoon dresses there is a large choice of materials, but the most attractive are the fancy velvets. The colors and shades have never been more numerous. Some have narrow stripes or lines of dark velvet on satin, while others are speckled.

The French raincoat is a very excellent one to consider if you expect to wear it with your finer gowns. They are made of rubberized crepe de chine and peau de soie. They are excellent protectors, and yet are so light weight that they will not leave their imprint on a beautiful gown.

As some of the evening gowns have very short sleeves, some are even sleeveless, thought should be given to the glove length. Very long gloves will be worn. The afternoon and street dresses have long sleeves, trimmed with lace at the wrist, almost covering the hand; in that case short gloves are necessary.

Autumn Musings.

The falling leaves float, dippy, on every vagrant breeze; and some one should get busy and glue them to the trees. I hate to see them falling down to the grassy tombs; they bring reflections galling of death and sable plumes. The end of all endeavors they seem to typify; I can't hang on forever, like them I'll wilt and die. Like them I'll whirl and eddy and land down in the mud, and there I fear, steady, I'll make no louder thud. Man thinks that when he'll perish, his friends will break their hearts; his memory they'll cherish; alas! when he departs—it is a sad confession—the world but lightly grieves; he makes no more impression than do the falling leaves. His creditors may languish a while and tear their hair, and utter some words of anguish, but they alone will care. He'll far the solar system when he departs in death's tarn; but dead, no one has missed him, and no one cares a darn. Such thoughts the leaves, now falling, suggest, and make us sad, and we are caterwauling when we should all be glad.

A BEAUTIFUL BABY

Gained Wonderfully After Being Put On A Well Known Food.

Mrs. E. Warner of 32 Winnifred Ave., Toronto, in writing about Neave's Food, says, "I have used Neave's Food for my baby and it has agreed when everything else failed. He has gained wonderfully since I started giving it to him."

Mr. A. J. Forgue, Labelle Street, Montreal, writes, under date 13 Oct: "My little daughter, born Aug. 13th, likes Neave's Food very much. She is a bunch of fat."

Mrs. J. Fallon of Whitty, Ont., says "Neave's Food is the only food that has agreed with our little boy. He is brighter, and his flesh is firmer, since taking it."

Neave's Food has been the standard Infant's Food in Great Britain for more than 85 years.

Mothers and prospective mothers may obtain a free tin of Neave's Food and a valuable book, "Hints About Baby", by writing Edwin Utley, 14 Front Street East, Toronto, who is the Agent for Canada. (Mention this paper.)

Neave's Food is sold in 1 lb. air tight tins by all Druggists in Canada.

SAURDAY, Oct. 12th, 1912.

Exportation of Foxes.

On September 10th, the Inland Fisheries Board issued a notice in the Royal Gazette of some new rules and regulations, which were signed by the Secretary, Mr. Mercer.

One section related to fox farms and the exportation of foxes. No person was to keep a fox farm, unless he had obtained a license to do so, and being licensed was called upon to report quarterly as to the number of foxes on the farm, etc.

The rule, which has all the force of law, runs as follows:—
Foxes—(1) No person shall export from this Colony or its Dependencies any live foxes, except such as have been bred in fox-farms in this Colony.

This is of course an example of the general tendency of the day to place people more and more under the thumb of departmental law, making against which a vigorous protest is being made in England at the present time.

It is somewhat singular that the rule was made some weeks ago after a story was going the rounds of a Minister of the Crown, purchasing two valuable foxes. He that as it may, the rule undoubtedly prohibits the exportation of foxes, whether they are very valuable or not, which have been captured by trappers in the woods or by those who purchase the captured foxes. The rule is in the interest of fox farmers. These are the only persons who will be able to purchase from trappers with a view to profit. It follows therefore, that the market of trappers will be limited, very limited. They will have a cinch, and the trapper cannot look for any very great remuneration, while the temptation to "forget" the law will be almost overpowering. These remarks are suggested by the following clipping which we took out of the North Sydney Herald, of Oct. 9th, which runs thus:—

MORE FOXES ON WAY TO P. E. I. FROM NEWFOUNDLAND.
Two Valuable Silvers Taken to Charlottetown This Morning, and More to Follow.

A batch of foxes, ten in all, cooped up in three innocent looking boxes, came up on the Newfoundland steamer yesterday, and this morning went on the express train bound for Charlottetown, where they are consigned to one W. J. Gillis. The animals are valued in the neighborhood of $7,000. Of course they are not black; if they were they would represent more like $70,000. They are silvers, however, and some day they will be worth a great deal more than the first named figure. This is the second lot of foxes to come to this town from Newfoundland, and another batch is due to arrive this week from Channel, where they were sold by Mr. Lake of that place to local people. From this it would seem that the law recently enacted in the Ancient Colony prohibiting the export of foxes, is more or less of a sham, with evidently no other intention but to keep certain peo-

At The City Hall.

At the meeting of the Municipal Council held yesterday afternoon, the Mayor presided and the full Board was present. The Secretary of the Cabmen's Union, Mr. J. Neville, asked that sections 10, 11, 14 and 15 of the new tariff be enforced by the Council. Some of the drivers it was said boasted that they did not pay their licenses and did not have to. The Council will see to it that all pay up and no matter whether drivers possess one or a dozen horses he must pay the tax on each one whether it is worked or kept in the stable. It was shown that one carter who possesses a number of horses paid in lump sums and while it was known that he kept his taxes paid up to the mark, in future the Council will collect the tax per horse.

TAXATION OF SIGN BOARDS.

Councillor Mullaly referred to parties using vacant lots where they erected sign boards for advertising purposes and wanted to know if the city was collecting taxes for these. He showed that owners of these vacant lands had to pay their taxes, and as these erections brought revenue to the lessees, these latter should pay the taxes. He asked that the appraisers before finishing their work visit the places where such boards are erected and report to the Council. He also suggested that the Solicitor report upon the matter at the next meeting. The Council's suggestions were approved by the full Board.

Elderly Men and Women Must Not Use Calomel, Salts or Violent Cathartics.

You old people, Syrup of Figs is particularly for you. You who don't exercise as much as you need to; who like the easy chair. You whose steps are slow and whose muscles are less elastic. You must realize that your liver and ten yards of bowels have also become less active. Syrup of Figs is not a drug, it is a natural and gentle laxative. Don't regard Syrup of Figs as physic. It stimulates the liver and bowels just as exercise would do if you took enough of it. It is harmless. Syrup of Figs gives to a torpid liver and weak, sluggish bowels is harmless, natural and gentle.

When eyes grow dim, you help them, bowels when they make them less active. There is nothing more important, Costive, clogged-up bowels mean that decaying, fermenting food is clogged there and the pores or ducts

Board and will be acted upon immediately.
COUNCIL WILL DO WORK.
The Solicitor made a report on the decision of the Magistrate in the case of the Council vs. K. R. Prowse, Administrator of Hutcheson's Estate. It was stated in the report that Mr. Prowse being only the Administrator and being tried in a charge where only imprisonment was the alternative, could not be held responsible according to the ruling of the Court. This decision resulted from a case instituted by the Council to have the Administrator of Hutcheson's Estate put in severance at 97 New Gower Street. The Solicitor advised that by law the Council could enter on the property, have sewerage installed and then claim on the Administrator for the amount. It was decided that tenders be asked for the work which, when completed, must be paid for by the Administrator.

AN IMPOUNDING CASE.
A cow owned by Mr. John Rice was impounded during the week and quite a discussion ensued over the matter. The owner claimed that the cow had been taken and kept unlawfully and held over after he had paid the impounding fee. The belief was that Duffett, the Impounder, on leaving the Sundry Stables took away the key with him, and the animal was kept for hours without being milked. He is now threatened with prosecution for cruelty to animals. Some of the Councillors wanted the work and hours of Duffett to be defined and Duffett in future must report daily. He will also be instructed to prevent goats wandering about the city destroying gardens, etc.

OTHER BUSINESS.
The Health Officer reported twelve new cases of Scarlet Fever and three cases of Diphtheria to have occurred during the week. Several houses that were under quarantine have been disinfected and released.
Permission was asked by Mr. P. Collier to install water and sewerage in house on Forest Road. He intimated that he would stand expenses provided the Council would permit both pipes to be laid in the one cut. Subject to approval of Engineer.
The report of the Engineer was read and showed that excellent work had been done during the week in laying sewers. Reports from the Road Inspector were also received. The meeting adjourned at 5 o'clock.

Bowdring and Cahill Wedding.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at St. Michael's Church, Bell Island on Thursday evening, October 3rd, when Mr. Michael Cahill, of the D. I. & S. Co., was married to Miss Stand, Bowdring, formerly teacher at Bell Island. The Rev. J. J. McGrath officiated. The bride was becomingly gowned in handmade lace over white duchesse satin, with veil and orange blossoms. Miss Hettie Bowdring, sister of the bride, dressed in blue silk with black picture hat, was bridesmaid, while the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. W. Cahill. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the residence of the bride's parents where a reception was held, after which the happy couple left for their future home, Church Avenue.

Pains Of Rheumatism

ARE ENDED BY ZAM-BUK.
When you have any deep-seated pain in the joints, the back, the wrists or elsewhere, place a liberal supply of Zam-Buk on the fingers or on the palm of the hand and rub it in. The penetrating power of this "embrocation-balm" is very great. It kills pain and removes stiffness.
Mrs. Frances Wyatt, of 25 Guy Avenue, Montreal, says: "I have found Zam-Buk most soothing and valuable in a very bad case of rheumatism, and also for stiffness of joints and muscles. I suffered long and acutely from rheumatism, and tried one liniment after another in vain. I also took medicines internally, but it remained for Zam-Buk to effect a cure. I began applying this balm when I felt the aches and pains of rheumatism coming on, or felt any of the stiffness. The result was truly wonderful. Zam-Buk seemed to penetrate to the very seat of the pains, driving them completely out, and I am now quite cured."
If rubbed on the chest and between the shoulders in cases of cold, Zam-Buk will give speedy relief.
Apart from its use as an embrocation, Zam-Buk is a cure for eczema, rashes, ringworm, cold sores, ulcers, abscesses, chapped hands, piles, varicose veins, cuts, burns, bruises, etc. All druggists and stores at 50c., or post free from Zam-Buk Co., St. John's, Nfld., for price. OUR FALL FASHION

1912. EXHIBIT. 1912.

THE GOODS now on exhibition in the various departments of our store are typical of the accepted and authoritative fashions for the Fall and Winter season. We desire to impress upon you the fact that our efforts in making this collection were not confined solely to the higher priced kinds, for we have gone to the extreme to procure a very extensive assortment of goods at popular prices. Every woman in St. John's should see the splendid exhibit in its entirety; for an hour or more spent here will give you a correct idea of the styles being worn this season. The prices? Ours are always fair, generally lowest, invariably satisfactory, because they are attached to nothing but satisfactory goods.

New Fall Millinery.

A beautiful showing of Exquisite Fall Styles. Beautiful Millinery in hosts of new designs and rich Autumn colorings is now being shown in our Millinery Section. See this exposition of the reigning styles. Never was there a more beautiful selection of feminine headgear shown in Newfoundland. Come and see; you'll find it a scene to admire and remember.

Fur Exhibit.

Always a leading House with FURS, we have this year surpassed all previous efforts. Never was our stock of Furs so extensive, both in variety and quality. The price range is more extensive because it starts lower.

The most popular Furs worn this season are Fitch, Kolinski, Caracul, Coney, Grey Squirrel, Dyed Squirrel, Black Seal and Mink Marmot. Prices range from $4.50 to $100 a Set.

Our New Fall Coats,

This season, as heretofore, the latest and most correct Fashions in Women's Coats, are a characteristic feature of our opening display. From the season's most elaborate and exclusive creations to the more conservative models, our stock is wonderfully complete.

Particularly do we feature garments of unquestionable worth in quality and workmanship; that reveal a modification of the season's more striking style ideas, at a price range to fit every woman's needs.

Come and see this matchless Collection of Fall Coats—you are welcome to look or buy.

WOMEN'S BLACK CLOTH COATS.

Made in different Styles with Collars, Reverses, etc. Trimmed with Braid and Buttons. Prices $6.75 up to $29.50.

WOMEN'S COLORED CLOTH COATS.

CABLE NEWS.

TORONTO, To-day.
Sir Charles Ross, Chief Justice of Appeal of Ontario, is dead.

MONTREAL, To-day.
There was a mix-up between students of McGill and the police yesterday. One man has concussion of the brain. Six youths were arrested.

LONDON, To-day.
Hopes are revived in diplomatic quarters that a general war in the Balkans may be avoided. It is thought that the warnings of the Powers may have caused the Balkan States to pause. The Bulgarian Government denied Turkish reports of fighting on the Turco-Bulgarian frontier.

VIENNA, To-day.
Austria is providing extraordinary military credits. The Minister of Finance says Austria believes international deliberations regarding the consequences of the war in the Balkans may ensue and in that case "we probably would make our voice heard more successfully if we were well armed."

CONSTANTINOPLE, To-day.
The Porte's reply to Powers on Sunday next will acquiesce in the views of the Powers and offer to submit the terms of the reforms proposed in Macedonia. Turkey wishes to gain time. She is trying to separate Greece from the Balkan quartet by special inducements, which, however, Greece spurns. Russia is preparing to mobilize the Black Sea fleet in order to support representations made by Turkey and Russia, regarding restriction of the traffic in grain.

Diphtheria.

Diphtheria is on the increase in the city and five new cases were reported to the Health Authorities last evening from Pennywell Road. The affected ones are children whose ages range from five to twelve years of age. Four of the patients are being nursed at home, and the other has been removed to the Fever Hospital.

GOO FISHING.—At Lower Island Cove the past week the fishermen secured a plentiful supply of squid and herring and cod being plentiful they each day secured from 1 to 3 qts. per boat.

The schr. Pilot arrived here last evening fish laden from the French Shore. On Thursday last, when off Cape Bonavista, she was caught in a gale, her mainmast was sprung and her foremast head carried away, while she was also damaged about the decks. The crew ran the vessel into Elliston for shelter, "fished" the broken masts yesterday and made their way along here.

STOLE LOBSTERS.—Two young men who were under the influence of drink, and who had during the week been working on the premises, went deliberately into C. F. Bennett & Co.'s store and kicked open a case of lobsters and stole a tin each. They then ran up the archway and were followed by an employee, who informed Sergt. Noseworthy of the occurrence. They were arrested.

BE SOBER AND WATCH.—The members of the St. John's T. A. & B. Society are requested to meet in their Hall on Sunday morning next, at 7.15 (sharp), preparatory to attending 8 o'clock Mass in a body. A large attendance is particularly desired. By order, G. J. COUGHLAN, Sec.—oct11,21

Meeting of Slattery Memorial Committee.

Yesterday afternoon the Slattery Memorial Committee held their final meeting in the chambers of Justice Johnson in the Supreme Court. Judge Johnson was moved to the chair on motion of Hon. J. D. Ryan with Mr. W. F. Carroll as Secretary. The object of the meeting, which was to formally tender to the Rev. Superior of Mount Cashel the beautiful memorial tablet to be placed in the new wing, was explained by the chairman following the confirmation of the minutes of the last meeting. Judge Johnson referred to the good work having been accomplished by Bro. Ennis, the present Superior, particularly in the building and completion of the new wing which now stands as a memorial to the late Bro. Slattery. Reference was made also to the passing of the Hon. D. J. Greene. The chairman on behalf of each individual member of the Committee then presented the tablet formally to Bro. Ennis, and in doing so thanked Hon. J. D. Ryan for his valuable services in looking after the engraving of the tablet in Dublin. A meed of praise was also given to the Rev. Bro. Superior of Ireland, to His Grace Archbishop Howley and to Rev. Bro. Ennis for their approval of the text of the inscription.

Hon. J. D. Ryan rose and said:—In thanking the chairman for his kind expression he intimated strongly that the Rev. Brother Superior of the order of the Christian Brothers in Ireland had authorized him to convey to Judge Johnson and the committee their sincerest thanks for the tribute paid the memory of the late Bro. Slattery.

J. M. Kent, Esq., K. C., highly appreciated the beautiful design of the tablet and tendered, on behalf of the Committee, thanks to the Chairman and Hon. Mr. Ryan, for their work in connection with it.

Rev. Brother Kennedy, a contemporary and co-worker of the Rev. Bro. Slattery, tendered on behalf of the order, their thanks for the beautiful tablet and for the kindly words expressed on it.

Mr. M. O'Flannigan suggested, supported by Mr. W. Clouston, that the members of the Committee contribute in equal amounts to the expense of erecting the tablet. The Secretary will receive these contributions and those at the meeting handed in their amounts. A vote of thanks was proposed by Hon. J. D. Ryan to the secretary, when it was learned that he first to suggest this memorial to be the memory of Mr. Slattery was Mr. Justice Johnson, in a note to the News on the day of Bro. Slattery's death. The vote of thanks was then carried by acclamation when the chairman bore witness that it was a labor of love with him to help carry into execution anything which would show the appreciation which Newfoundlanders always held for the benevolent labors of the deceased Brother during his many years residence here.

Should Be Looked Into.
Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—For some time past the friends of Mary had been somewhat anxious as to what had become of her, but early last week the public were delighted to hear from her once more. Her friends thought she had gone artridge shooting, or that she was on the search for a gun. My sister had gone over to New Harbor or some other place near it, she might have secured one. A story is told about a poor man going that way and succeeded in getting one, and came near getting into trouble over it. It is the opinion of many persons that the authorities ought to know the circumstances.

Now, Mary, I must be a little pointed, over your Harbor Grace news, you seem to come down very hard on our Police Inspector. I am told you hurt his feelings very much, and it will be some time before he will get over the hard things you said concerning him. I believe if you go at him any more the chances are that he will throw up his position and go west. If he is running a hotel and the Government paying him a regular salary, surely it is only a side line to supplement that small salary. A man who talks big, looks large, and weighs—I don't know how much—requires a good income to meet the requirements. The poor people who are trying to get a living by keeping boarders are not able to compete with the Inspector, therefore, they have to wait for the big man to let his rooms, and then they come in for the remainder. Now, it seems to me that something ought to be done to help our Inspector, whose monthly pay is something like eighty dollars per month, to have some addition to his salary in order to save him from doing other things directly outside his official work.

Mary, you will regard my rambling remarks as a mere joke, suppose you are correct and call for an investigation over the case, and then we shall have men who are paid out of the Revenue, keeping strictly to their duty.

I remain yours,
MARTHA.

HAD RHEUMATISM IN ALL MY BONES

"Sometimes I Could Hardly Walk!"
2 Boxes of Gin Pills Cured Me

I SUFFERED from Kidney Trouble for five long years. I also had Rheumatism in all my bones and muscles—could not sleep at night—and sometimes could hardly walk. I was treated by some of our best physicians but without relief. I lost over fifteen pounds, was very weak, and friends, who had not seen me for some time, were astonished. One day, I met one of our leading hotel keepers, who had been cured by Gin Pills, and he advised me to try them, so I bought two boxes at my druggist's.

Before I had used one box, I felt a big change for the better, and before the second box was gone, I was completely cured. I assure you I can hardly believe it for if I had known what I know now about Gin Pills, I would not have spent over one hundred dollars for nothing, when two boxes of Gin Pills cured me.

Anyone suffering from Kidney Trouble or Rheumatism, should never be without Gin Pills. EUGENE GRESNELL, Chief City Circulation Agent, "La Patrie" Montreal.

Drive your old enemy out of your system. Be free of pain. Be able to walk and work and enjoy life. Away with pain in the back, Rheumatism, and Kidney Troubles. Take Gin Pills. A few boxes now, will mean ease and comfort for the rest of the year. Remember, Gin Pills are sold on a positive guarantee to give satisfaction or your money refunded. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50. Shannahan and Tucker Take in The Frog.

Tucker, the Cute Man and myself started for Rossley's show last night. We had heard so much about the "Frog Man" that we decided we'd take it in, but it was only after giving the matter a good deal of thrashing out that we went, because there's a lot of humbugging going on about shows and we're a kind of tired of being faked. People who run shows in this town should bear in mind that they have a limited amount of people to cater to, and if these people get hoaxed more than four times a week they will soon awake from their slumbers and "Hear the Birds Sing."

Anyway, what we want to say is that the performance of the "Frog Man" was genuine, and his marvellous acrobatic feats brought forth thundering applause. Looking through the Hall a fellow couldn't but feel like admiring the pleasing sight. Here were hundreds of men and women enjoying an evening of clean amusement for the small fee of ten cents; workmen with their wives or sweethearts were there as well as the clerks and business men, who 'just dropped in' after a day of hustle and bustle, forgetting for a time at least the worry of the day.

Some people say Shannahan is crazy when he says that these shows should not be taxed, but even at the risk of that he and Tucker contend that he is right, and would go further and say that amusement for the people should be encouraged in every way. Before now Tucker and Shannahan and men of their class had to meet at a corner to pass the time away, whereas since these shows have been started in our city we see few loiterers around our streets. The splendid entertainment furnished nightly by the Nickel, at Mr. Duff's "Wonderland" and Rossley's help to make the lives of the working class worth living and also prove a means of education to many of us. Here we can get a glimpse of the big cities of the world and the doings of other people. We can behold industries that open our eyes and show us what is going on in the big world outside, all helping to broaden our ideas and giving us an opportunity of seeing sights which we could never hope to see if it wasn't for this great invention—the moving picture business.

The "Frog Man" is a wonder, and Tucker says that coming events cast their shadows before, for we are likely to have a lot of frog men around here next fall, acrobats of the political type who will be doing acrobatic feats in jumping to the side that they think will win. Look out for the frog men during the next twelve months and notice how majestically they will tumble and how many of them will sustain injury from compound fractures.

Alleged Cruelty.

Inspector General Sullivan received a message from Portugal Cove last evening acquainting him of alleged cruelty to a horse. The nature of the cruelty was that a horse was found in a field in a battered condition, showed that it had been killed with some sort of blunt instrument. There were also shot wounds found in the carcass. This morning Sergeant Noseworthy was despatched to the Cove to investigate the case.

Special to Evening Telegram. NEW YORK, Oct. 11. Boston Red Sox defeated New York Giants in the third game of the World's Baseball Championship series by 3 to 1.

Special Evening Telegram. LONDON, Oct. 11. Greece to-day purchased the Chinese cruiser Chao Ho, recently built at Newcastle. The Turkish government made an attempt to acquire the ship but was forestalled.

Special Evening Telegram. MONTENEGRO, Oct. 11. The Montenegrin troops followed up their success in capturing Detatched Mountain from the Turks, by also taking late last night the Turkish Tushi from Schiponack Hill. The Turks offered a more stubborn resistance, but the Montenegrins succeeded in rushing the position after prolonged fighting. Several furious attacks were repulsed by the Turks before they were finally overcome. Both forces suffered heavy losses in killed and wounded. Fighting lasted fourteen hours. The road to the Turkish town of Tushi from the north is now open to the advance of the Montenegrin army.

LONDON, Oct. 11. A heated debate on the British Government's contract with the Marconi Wireless Company for the establishment of an Imperial Wireless service took place to-day. Sir Rufus Isaacs, Attorney General, Postmaster General Samuel and Chancellor Lloyd George denied that they had profited by the Government's contract with Marconi. Several newspapers had demanded an investigation, and strongly hinted that corruption underlay the remarkable rise in the price of Marconi shares from $3.75 to $45.00 before the public knew of the agreement. Several M. P.'s attacked the Government for making the contract without giving other wireless systems the chance to tender. A committee was appointed to investigate.

PERTH, West Australia, Oct. 11. Sam Langford was given the decision to-day over Sam McVey, in the eleventh round. McVey claimed a foul. This was not allowed and he refused to continue.

BERLIN, Oct. 11. Germany's first sign of sympathy for Turkey is reported. News from Constantinople says that the Kaiser has ordered the German ambassador there to place a large part of the embassy at the disposal of the Turkish foreign minister for hospital purposes and the accommodation of wounded soldiers. The foreign minister accepted the proposal with an expression of gratitude for this signal mark of the Kaiser's friendship. It is explained here that there is nothing unusual in the Kaiser's friendship. It is explained here that there is nothing unusual in the Kaiser's action, which is intended merely as a mark of courtesy. It is recalled that the German Government furnished hospital equipment to Russia in the course of the Japanese war, took care of a number of convalescent Russian officers in a sanitarium in Germany, and also offered hospital equipment to Italy for use in Tripoli, but it was not needed.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 11. No fewer than 140,000 Turkish troops from Asia Minor will, it is estimated, be concentrated within a week in European Turkey. This will bring the effective force of the Turkish army there up to 400,000 men. The military depots are full of stores, and the army equipment complete and of good quality. If the Bulgarians could not on the superiority of their organization and the greater rapidity with which their army can be mobilized, to give them a material advantage, they will, according to Turkish officers receive a disagreeable surprise. The Ottoman authorities have for months been strengthening defenses, and concentrating troops in the important zone, comprising Adrianople and Kirk Killissia, just south of the Bulgarian frontier. Since the general mobilization was ordered a great stream of men has been pouring into the district, latterly at the rate of 20,000 a day. The men of the second reserve, who are now being brought from Asia Minor, are determined, once and for all, that the Bulgarians, whose persistent nagging and intrigues in Macedonia have, the Turks say, caused them to be constantly called from their homes, shall receive a sound lesson. It is to be 'war to the knife' the men say. They have decided to take no prisoners and give no quarter. The Turkish officers recognize the splendid qualities of the men in the ranks of the Bulgarian army, also of their junior officers, but they have a less favourable opinion of the commanding officers. Montenegrin efforts in Albania are not taken very seriously here, but the existence of the Greek fleet inspires some misgivings. The Albanians of the North are expected by the Turkish authorities to keep the hands of the Montenegrins full.

The Timber on The West Coast

GIVEN AWAY TO AMERICAN FISHERMEN.

Judge Prowse the Authority for Statement.

Judge Prowse, who is Special Correspondent for the "Standard of Empire," and paid a pension by the Government, is responsible for the statement that "The Government has made a grant of large timber limits to a group of capitalists to provide wood for making the barrels and boxes required in the shipment of tinned salmon, lobsters and other fish." This was cabled to the "Standard on the 11th, September. The Judge became enthusiastic in an attempt to boom the Morris government and gave away the secret deal.

The following is the whole cable as it appeared in the London "Standard":—

CAPITALISTS AND THE FISH TRADE.

("Standard of Empire" Cable.) ST. JOHN'S, Sept. 11. A large fish-curing establishment at Bay of Islands, on the West Coast, has been taken over by a group of capitalists.

In connection with this deal the Government has made a grant of large timber limits to provide wood for making the barrels and boxes required in the shipment of tinned salmon, lobster, and other fish. Everything will be on a large scale, and the most modern methods will be employed. The increasing attention paid to the resources and industrial possibilities of the island has been very noticeable since the present Government came into power, and the prosperity of the Colony is growing rapidly.

Sir Edward Morris, the Prime Minister, has been continuing his tour of his constituencies by visiting the West Coast and Labrador. He has been well received everywhere, and his journey has been a great success in every respect.

The Newfoundland fishermen, planters, and merchants, are not given large timber limits in order to encourage their enterprise and facilitate their operations. Oh, no; the givings out are reserved for those who compete with our own people in the fish trade, and compete with them unfairly too. The Americans under a recent Treasury Order may pass in to their markets duty free fish obtained in Newfoundland, while the Newfoundland shipper of fish to American markets has to pay duty. John Alexander Robinson declared in the "Daily News" on one occasion that Sir Edward Morris had a peculiar liking for capitalists. The Reid Deals, the Timber Steals, and the Fishery Schemers that have made the Morris regime notorious certainly justify the declaration.

McMurdo's Store News.

SATURDAY, Oct. 12, 1912. We are just now showing a fine new line of hair brushes, a carefully selected stock, intended to meet the needs of ladies and gentlemen, of those who like a long haired, or a short haired, hair brush, of those who like a stiff, and those who require a soft one. They are as good a lot as we have ever been able to show and contain some remarkable values. We will be glad to let our friends have a look at them, and help in selecting those best suited to their needs. There are others whose prices vary from 50c. to $4; but all are good at their respective prices.

There are also a line of Nail Brushes just open; several different styles; with wooden and bone handles, from the fibre scrubbers to the best hogs hair. The prices range from 10 cents to $1.50 each.

10 Children Burned

To Death in Their Home Following Explosion of Kerosene Lamp.

St. Bernard, Que., Oct. 2.—Left alone in their home by their parents, who went out to a neighbor's to play cards, the ten children of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Gravel of this place, were burned to death at a late hour last night. The home was completely destroyed.

The fire is believed to have been due to the explosion of a kerosene lamp. The dead children, the oldest 16 years and the youngest 16 months, had no chance to escape.

The Gravel's were startled from their game of cards by seeing a bright reflection in the sky; rushing out of the house in which they were visiting they discovered their house was in flames. They had no opportunity to attempt a rescue any of their children, for the roof fell in while they were dashing towards the burning building. The bodies of all the ten children were burned to a crisp. St. Bernard is four miles from Scotts Junction, Beauce County, on the line of the Quebec Central Railway.

How He Escaped An Operation

And Was Completely Cured of Piles of 14 Years' Standing by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. Chas. Beauvais.
Doctors say that about one person in every four suffers more or less from piles, and who can imagine a more annoying, torturing, disagreeable ailment?

After trying a few treatments without success, and as the ailment grows worse, the medical doctor is consulted. An operation, he says, is necessary. You think of the suffering, expense and risk to life itself, and hesitate before taking such a step.

In many thousands of such cases Dr. Chase's Ointment has made thorough and lasting cures. Read this letter for the proof.
Mr. Charles Beauvais, a well-known citizen of St. Jean, Que., writes: "For 14 years I suffered from chronic piles, and considered my case very serious. I was treated by a celebrated doctor who could not help me and ordered a surgical operation as the only means of relief."

"However, I decided to try Dr. Chase's Ointment, and obtained great relief from the first box. By the use of three boxes I was entirely cured. This is why it gives me great pleasure to recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to all who suffer from piles as a treatment of the greatest value."

Klark-Urban Co. Elder Keslake's Farewell.

A large audience witnessed the production of "The Sign of the Four" at the Casino Theatre last night and the Klark-Urban Company scored another success. The characters were creditably produced by the performers, the sensational parts showing up well. Sherlock Holmes was capably portrayed by Fred Schreiber who won unstinted applause. Harden Klark and Wm. Pendexter impersonated Dr. Watson and Scotland Yard Inspector Jones and won high encomiums. Charles B. Archer did well in handling the character of Major John Sholto, while Frank Field's delineation of Jonathan Small, as the man with the wooden leg, won very favorable comment from the audience. Billy Webb gave a clever interpretation of Wiggins, and proved a valuable assistant to Sherlock Holmes. Frank Urban, as Mordcaid Smith, A. L. Irving as Jim Smith, Maizie Cecil as Mary Marston, Marie Fontaine as Mrs. Sholto, Al Canton, as Tongus, the Indian, Dot Carroll as Mrs. Hudson, and Ella Hunt as Bessie, were excellent. The stage settings were superb. The scene in the third act depicting the river side at night time and the moonbeams sparkling over the waters was pleasing. The performers in the specialty acts evoked much applause. To-night it will be reproduced and none should miss it. The bill for this afternoon's matinee is "Wildfire."

The Pumpkin.

BY M. L. RANN.

The pumpkin is a short-waisted species of autumn fruit which is used to tickle the faded appetite of man and beast. It was brought to this country by the Pilgrim fathers, who consumed it with great fervency of spirit three times a day and it introduced the popular habit of eating pie with a knife.

The pumpkin is a corrupt form of the sour canteloupe which is served at restaurants in lieu of actual dessert. The flavor is somewhat similar in both, which causes irritable patrons to push back from the table and object in a high voice.

The favorite variety of pumpkin is known as the Mammoth pumpkin. This is a very obese species, and is seldom eaten as one meal. It is raised for the purpose of taking first premium at the county fair, in company with the amateur water color and the Swedish turnip. A touch of romance is added to rural life by depositing several double-chinned Mammoth pumpkins on the bosom of a vacant corn field.

The Mammoth pumpkin would be more popular if it had handles. It is a difficult task to lift one of these pumpkins into a spring wagon without starting a vindictive creak in the back or parting with a new set of suspender buttons.

The pumpkin pie is a fall delicacy which is eaten with great gusto and a dull knife by people whose appetites will not shy at anything. It is usually served cold, and when washed down with hard cider makes a very comfortable and filling concoction. A staple New England breakfast consists of a cross-section of pumpkin pie, a pint of apple cider and a chapter from the book of Deuteronomy.

There are several varieties of pumpkin pie, the most famous of which is the kind mother used to make. This pie disappears from circulation immediately after a man gets married, but is constantly being injected into the conversation for the purpose of improving the brand of home cooking.

Mary Disgusted.

Her indignation Finds Vent in Poetry and Prose.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—The whole factory nuisance was bad enough, to have a stinking whale factory here, and sending outsiders to do the work, our people only getting the smell. But now that whales are scarce the men go in and gather the berries on the hills. I wanted to go myself and get a few, but to and behold these men went over yesterday and filled a bag of marsh berries. I don't mind Tom, but really I could not go in where these whalers were berry-picking. It is not fair to have them going in scraping the hills, and if all the women of the South Side were of my mind they would soon put a stop to it. Here is a few verses I penned to-day, perhaps you will publish them:
We are seven, said the whale factory men
As they entered our harbour ferry,
As we have no whales and the day is fine
We'll leave not one marsh-berry.
A bag they filled right up to the mouth
With twenty gallons or more,
In turns they carried it to the boat,
While Edgar helped them on shore.
You women of South Side, tame creatures you,
To allow these men to treat you so;
If you all had Mary's pluck and heart
You'd tell these men to go.

To Hong Kong if you like, my men,
And remain there for a spell;
The factory is no good for us,
We get nothing but the horrid smell.
Yours, etc.,
Oct. 11, 1912. MARY.

Fought to the Last.

STRUGGLE OF ZULU AGAINST BRITAIN AND BOER.

The South African War has Obscured the Zulu Campaign of 1879 When the British Forces Broke Up One of the Most Remarkable Negro Empires of Modern Times—The Campaign Against the Cetewayos.

Ten years ago the British in South Africa subjugated the Boers. The reverses and final victory of that long campaign have dulled the memory of the English to the events of 33 years ago when their encroachments were questioned defiantly and their interference resented by a brave and black foe—the proud Cetewayos who replied to an unwarranted ultimatum by sending an ox hide to the Colonial Government with the message: "Count the hairs upon this, and then you may number the Zulu warriors." The British high commissioner in South Africa, Sir Bartle Frere, had made up his mind that a powerful and independent Zulu kingdom to the north was a menace to the advancing English colonists.

The time was near when these mighty chiefs with their thousands of followers, fighting, like Homer's heroes, hand in hand, armed with stabbing assegais and shields of ox-hide, would melt away with broken power into insignificance before the terrible rifles of the Boers and the British. War was declared and Britain's troops marched upon the natives.

The British forces met with a stubborn resistance as soon as they crossed the Tugela river, in January, 1879. A strong force of Irregular Horse were attacked in the Devil's Pass on Zibobane Hill and suffered heavy losses, but a determined rush on the British laager the next day was repulsed. A few days later, however, the British met with a terrible calamity at Isandiana. The Zulus swarmed like bees around the British position, upon which they advanced under a heavy fire, regardless of consequences, and came at once to hand-to-hand fighting with their assegais and short swords. The Imperial troops were broken and back to back, they fought and disputed every inch of the ground. One square of 60 men defied the repeated attacks of one horn of the Zulu army and their ammunition failing, the gallant little band to a man, fell as they had fought side by side. The carnage was dreadful. At last the Zulus made a combined attack. From every black throat rung out the victorious war whoop, 'Isita! and they reached the camp. Fearful slaughter now ensued; it was one infuriated mob stabbing wildly on every side. Panic-stricken, those who were still alive sought to escape by flight, but there was no path, no track—rocks and ravines everywhere. The Zulu reserves closing in, the panting fugitives were pursued with redoubled vigor; no quarter was given, danger and death was all around. Horses, mules, oxen, men on foot and horseback, white and black all intermingled in one mad stampede. Night closed in at last, and as the young moon arose on that fatal 22nd of January, she looked down upon all that remained of a thousand British slain.

At Isandiana, the Zulus captured $300,000 worth of commissariat stores, besides immense quantities of arms and ammunition, two cannon, and the colors of the Twenty-fourth Infantry. England was stunned by the disaster. Reinforcements were hurried to South Africa. The invading army stood on the defensive. Early in March, the Zulus inflicted another serious reverse on the British, capturing a convoy and wiping out its escort. It was not until June that the British commander felt prepared for a general advance on Ulundi, the Zulu capital. Opposed to a greatly strengthened and well-equipped army, Cetewayos recognized the futility of the struggle and made overtures for peace but his white flag was fired upon "to test their sincerity" and his messengers put in irons. Disaffected chiefs deserted the king and surrendered, and the combined British army occupied Ulundi after a most determined resistance by the remnant of Cetewayos's forces. Soon afterward Cetewayos was captured and sent to Cape Town as a state prisoner.

The military system was abolished. The country was divided into 13 districts, each of them under a native chief or kinglet, and over all was a governor-resident in the person of John Dunn, an Irishman, who had been for many years Cetewayos's right-hand man and principal lieutenant. This divide and conquer policy was not working satisfactorily, Cetewayos was reinstated in 1883, but his glory had departed and he was soon driven out by some of the recalcitrant chiefs, and died in exile the following year. Soon afterward the empire of the dynasty of Chaka, the black Napoleon of Africa, became a mere appanage of the British colony of Natal. The power of the Zulu was broken and a few years later, the last determined stand with assegai and shield was made far to the north in Rhodesia, when the Matabele fought valiantly, but unavailingly, against the steady advances of Cecil Rhodes and the Chartered Company.

The rise of the Zulu kingdom began with Chaka, who was born in 1787. He was educated in all the Kaffir accomplishments of a prince and a warrior, and in his early youth determined to become an African Napoleon. Some shipwrecked English sailors told him of the deeds of the great emperor, then at the zenith of his career, and the recitals fell on fruitful ground. Becoming ruling chief, on the death of his father, he entered upon an unchecked career of conquest. He subjected the whole male population to compulsory military service, and created an imperial guard of 15,000 veteran warriors, who were ready to march 50 miles in any direction. King Chaka's reign was marked by extreme cruelty and one of his savage outbursts cost him his life. He was assassinated and his brother, the great Dingaan, ascended the throne.

What Actresses And Actors Are Paid.

"Maude Adams is said to have a guaranteed salary of $1,000 a week for forty weeks in the year, and besides this a share in the profits of whatever play she is appearing in. This share in 'What Every Woman Knows,' brought her $20,000 a year ago.

"As for the playwrights, several of them are becoming millionaires through the success of their recent plays. George Broadhurst's 'Bought and Paid for' has made a net profit of over $100,000 so far, and that is only a tithe of what it will make before it goes into stock, and even then will continue to earn large sums for its successful author. Harry B. Smith has become a millionaire through writing librettos for musical plays, while the playwrights of the underworld, Paul Armstrong and Wilson Mizner and George M. Cohan, the brilliant young play-wright of 'Broadway,' have realized that the man of the hour has plenty of money to spend on what he likes.

"The amount of money that rolls in through the ticket-windows of vaudeville houses is hard to estimate. But the fact that higher salaries are paid in the vaudeville than on the legitimate stage, high as it is, shows how the wind blows, as does the fact that Percy G. Williams considered his six vaudeville theatres in New York worth $5,000,000, and that he was actually paid that sum by B. F. Keith for the possession of them.

"That 'all the world's a stage' was never so true as it is of New York in the present day. The community may be divided into many classes, but the easiest way is to divide it into just two, players and audience."

Mother's Face.

Three little boys talked together. One sunny summer day, And I leaned out of the window To hear what they had to say.

"The prettiest thing I ever saw," One of the little boys said, "Was a bird in grandpa's garden, All black and white and red."

"The prettiest thing I ever saw," Said the second little lad "Was a pony at the circus— I wanted him awful bad."

"I think," said the third little fellow With a grave and gentle grace, "That the prettiest thing in all the world Is just my mother's face."

On Second Thought.

BY JAY E. HOUSE. Some men look at the goods in the show windows. Others hope to catch a reflection of themselves in the glass. New Jersey will employ goldfish to fight mosquitoes. The matter of providing the goldfish with an excuse seems finally to have enlisted attention.

The world makes some progress. In Coatsville, Pa., the barbers refuse to cut hair on Saturdays. Eph Wiley says he is not as unreasonable as some. Eph doesn't wish to be able to sleep under a blanket during the hot months. All he asks is to be able to sleep comfortably on top of the spread. Another good thing to avoid is the "record breaking" crowd. Cheer up. No matter what the wise men say about it, there occasionally is a piece of big league material that never gets out of the "bushes."

As between the two, the public prefers a grouch to a glad-hander.

INSTANT POSTUM

the Newest food-drink

is made by stirring a level teaspoonful, more or less according to strength desired, (direct from tin) in a cup of hot water, then adding sugar and cream to taste.

No boiling required.

Instant Postum is regular Postum, but in concentrated form—nothing added. It tastes much like delicious, mild Java coffee, and it costs less.

Instant Postum is absolutely free from caffeine, the drug in tea and coffee. If you appreciate the advantage of steady nerves and a clear brain, try it.

A 100-cup tin of Instant Postum costs 50c at grocers—1/4c per cup. (Smaller tin 30c.) Regular Postum, Lge. Pkg. (must be boiled 15 min.) 25c. Tea and coffee average about double that cost.

Send 2-cent stamp (to cover postage) for free 5-cup Sample.
