In some respects, it must be admitted, the sham battle was disappointing and suffered by comparison with the affair of four years ago, with the same theatre of war. It was more of a Red force—Royal Grenadiers, Lt.-Col.

For the last day of October, as everybody remarked at some time or other during the day, the conditions were ideal. Daring Aviator Went Up 9714 Feet, 528 Better Than the Previous Record - Completely Lost Sight of the Earth - Moissant Ignores Grahame-White's Challenge

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 .- A "baby" Wright roadster, with Ralph Johnstone at the wheel, glided gracefully to earth in the twilight at the close of the international aviation meet at Belmont Park this evening, with the barograph registering a new world's record for altitude. The little machine of only 35 horsepower was up 9714 feet, exceeding by 526 feet the height attained in France on Oct. 1 by Henry Wynmalen of Holland.

But Johnstone's sky-climbing feat was not the only notable incident of the closing day of the meet. Claude Grahame-White, the athletic Briton, who carries away the Gordon Bennett trophy, which takes the next international tournament to England, sharpered the sporting appetite with a challenge to John B. Moisant, the Chicagoan, to race again from the park around the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor and return.

Moissant, who won $10.000 for his first flight around the statue yesterday, refused to consider the challenge unless Grahame-White agreed to fly in a 50 horse power Bleriot, a machine equal in power to his own. Grahame-White, who made the statue flight in a White, who made the statue flight in a 100 horse power Bleriot, declined to entertain this counter offer.

When the finish flag went up, two hours after the Lt.-Col. A. V. S. Williams, Lt.-Col. H. E. Burstall, inspector of horses and field artillery, and Major A. H. STRIKING EXPRESSMEN

More Than 10,000 Now Out-May Call Out 'Everything on Wheels' in New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The striking en gained adherents to-day, when between 1500 and 1800 workers of Monahan's Express, the Boston Despatch and the Manhattan Delivery Co. joined them. The platform men of the American Express Co. at the Grand Central Station, and the company's way-bill clerks went out in sympathy. It had previously been re ported that the Boston Despatch and the Manhattan Delivery Co. were involved, but the walkout did not occur until to-day. More than 10,000 men are now on strike, demanding increased pay and shorter hours.

It was announced at strike headquarters this evening that a conference with Mayor Gaynor had been arranged for to-morrow, when the representatives of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters will formally protest to the mayor against the employment of the

It was said also that a meeting of the executive heads of the local unions had been arranged for to-morrow, to discuss the advisability of calling a general strike of "everything on wheels in the city," affiliated with the unions, except railroads.

There were many small disturbances in various parts of the city to-day.

There were many small disturbances in various parts of the city to-day, when strikers attacked wagons manned by strike-breakers. Stones and other missiles were thrown, and several drivers and their helpers were badly hurt. William Hoyt, a helper on an American Express wagon, had his skull crushed by a brick-bat, and probably will die. All the disturbances were quickly quelled by the police, who dealt in no gentle manner with the strikers. Many arrests were made and heavy fines imposed. Waterloo Second on the List to Use the White Coal.

WATERLOO, Oct. 21.—Hydro-electric power was turned on in Waterloo for the first time this afternoon. The 18,200 voits came humming into the large transformers in the municipal power house at 30 clook, and immediately Engineer Gross put the switches in place, which distributed Nilsgara power throut the town, making this place the second on the list to use the white coal. Everything worked without a single hitch. Representatives of the Hydro-Electric Commission engineering department were present, and well satisfied with the outcome. The layout of the local power house is exemplary and most complete.

In recent years many of the American railways have given a great amount of attention to the beautifying of the grounds surrounding their stations, freight sheds, etc. The Grand Trunk Railway System have not been behind in this good work, as is observed by an editorial in the October number of The Railway Master Mechanic, published in Chicago.

They say: "If anyone doubts that landscape gardening has no place in railway repair shop operation, let him visit the 'gold plated' shops of the Grand Trunk at Battle Creek, Mich. While threading his way thru the beds to sickness," which he believes to be simple to the public even heard of the arrangement.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—A French physiologist has discovered what he calls "aviation stekness," which he believes to be accountable for many of the tragic accidents which happen to flyers. It is due, he says, to a depression of the diaphragm caused by the rarity of the air at a certain height above the sea level, the speed and vibration of the aeroplane, besides producing a disturbance of the brain centres in which is localized the sense of equilibrium.

For Business Use

There are a great many places and occasions when the possibility of getting extra heat immediately effects an economy by decreasing the discomfor of the worker. In the office, in the early morning or late at night, before or after the steamheat is on, it is of importance to have extra heat. In the builder's outside office, in the shipping room, in the checker's shack, on exposed lofts. in railroad stations, in studios, the is often a necessity. It is safe, smokeless and odorless. Apply a match, and it gives heat quickly. With four quarts of oil it burns nine hours. Has automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so that the wick can be cleaned in an instant.

It has a cool handle and a damper top. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cap it is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and consequently, it can always be easily unscrewed in an instant for rewicking. The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in Japan or nickel. It is strong, durable, well made, built for service, yet light and ornamental.

U. S. Tariff Board Takes up Schedules Which Would Be Affected. WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.-The possiollities for reciprocity with Canada have progressed to the point where the tariff board is about to take up some

The chemical schedule, upon which a start was made several weeks ago, will be allowed to wait, tentatively at least, and it is said to be not unlikely that a revision of the lumber schedule, which would be one of the principal factors in a reciprocity agrangement. factors in a reciprocity arrangement, will take its place.

Experts who have been working on the pulpwood and paper schedule, in which the Canadian arrangements also would be concerned, are making progress beyond the expectations of the board. SOME DIFFICULTIES IN BIBLE TRANSLATION.

Some of the difficulties in Bible That deadens the sound and expunges the the New Testaments. In translating And is drawn in the name of "the good the New Testament into the Nama or of the game."

[Hottentot larguage of South Africa. | Hottentot larguage of South Africa, The good of the game!" O, the jobs and the very name of Jesus creates a The good of the game: O, the jobs and intrigues
That shibboleth covers in clubs and in leagues;
The deceptions and foibles, the plots and the tricks,
From the shifting of cuts to the selling of bricks;
The high hands and underbands reeking of shame.

Gifficulty from which no escape is possible except by strict conformity with the grammatical and morphological peculiarities of this somewhat primitive form of human speech. The device, so commonly resorted to by biblical translators, of simply transplanting the Latin Jesus and Christus, planting the Latin Jesus and Christus.

The high hands and underbands reeking of shame.

That are pulled—and forgot—"for the good of the game."

We have waded before thru these harrowing scenes;

The game hasn't changed, nor the men, nor the means

That plotters employ to the sinister end They condemn in the light and in darkness defend.

The cross and the double cross work out the same.

And the blot is wiped out "for the good of the game."

"For the good of the game." If you'd sell out a friend or to breaking a foe your assistance you'd lend—

If a job of your own you would wish to put thru

You can help out on something that's nothing to you,
And get help in return for the job that you frame.

Then preach to the gawks "for the good of the game."

You can shift and evade, you can lie in and out.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31.—Old Pimilico closed her biggest turf meeting in recent years to-day in a blaze of glory. As the day's feature, the classic Bowle Stakes, was offered and drew to the barrier probably the greatest lot of thorobreds that ever faced a starter in a two-mile event. Excellent Opening of the Cow-Jag Season of 1910.

It would be hard to part with the all too searce snake stories were it not for 'cow-jag" stories that have suddenly been thrust upon us. How true it is that every season has its blessings, and how readily we recognize our ancient friends, the stories of the day, as they appear regularly in the march of time! A well-known farmer of Sutton went to his barnyard recently and instead of finding his two cows engaged in a chewing match found them in the delights of an early fall spree.

The cows, not being furnished with a little of the mild beverage, decided to grind their own, and as a result overbut allowed them to sleep it off, when he gave them a severe talking to.

The only explanation is, of course, that the cows had partaken too freely of apples that had fallen into the yard, and their intoxication of delight had later merged into an intoxication of a minute been catching fish weighing anythat and their intoxication of a minute been catching fish weighing anythat and their intoxication of a minute been catching fish weighing anythat and their intoxication of a minute. He has been noticing the stories of low water in Kansas treams, but also that in these same streams the disciples of Ike Walton where from 50 to 300 pounds. "That and serious kind. While this method might be somewhat hard on the cows, we should think it would be an excellent way of securing a few quarts of milk punche. This particular farmer, however, being a teetotaler, says he has no use for milk punches or inebriated cows, either, and is going to force ated cows, either to sign the pleage.—Boston Herland Complete with those that will not "complete with the quantity of apple is of proper quality. In fact, apple is of proper qualit

The Winning Sires.

The Winning Sires.

Up to the close of the fall meeting at Louisville on Saturday. Oct. 22, 425 two-year-olds had won 918 races and $857,820 in first money, an average of less than two races and $1000 a head. These youngsters represent the get of 178 sires, many of which have but one winning representative of this age. Cesarion leads the list of sires in number of winners, he having sixteen two-year-old sons and daughters that have won winning brackets. Star Shoot is second, with thirteen winners, and Ornament third, with ten. James R. Keene's grand old sire, Kingston, leads the list from a money point of view, his two-year-old representatives having won the magnificent sum of $74,000, $72,850 of which was won by Novelty, the largest money-winning horse of any age on the American turf this season, he having won individually more than the entire get of any one stallion.

Only twelve sires have as much as $10,000 placed to their credit this season by their two-year-old representatives. They are:

"What's the News ?"

What's the News?"

We are apt to wonder at the scholarship of the men of three centuries ago and at certain dignity of phrase that characterizes them. They were scholars because they did not read so many things as we. They had fewer books, but these were of the best. Their speech was noble because they lunched with Plutarch and supped with Plato. We spend as much time over print as they did, but instead of commencing with the choice thoughts of choice spirits and unconsciously acquiring the grand manner of that supreme society, we diligently inform ourselves and cover the continent with a cobweb of telegraphs to inform us of such inspiring facts as that a horse belonging to Mr. Smith ran away on Wednesday, seriously damaging a valuable carryall.

We, while we might each in his humble way be helping our fellows into the right path, or adding one block to the climbing spire of a fine soul, are willing to become more sponges saturated from the stagnant goose-pond of village gossip. This kind of news we compass the globe to catch, fresh from Bungtown Centre, when we might have it fresh from heaven by the electric tines of poet or prophet.—James Russell Lowell.

gregation was weakened by the loss of Barber, their fast outside wing, and Hueston, a weighty middle, while Ottawa, tho having played a heavy game on Saturday, showed to better advantage than against the Argonauts. For T.A.A.C. Degruchy, and, in fact, the whole back division, did splendidly, while the Burkhart Brothers on the line were effective. For Ottawa Johnston, Williams and Gerrard behind the line and Kilt on the front performed the service, and McCann, with a wonderful run from the T.A.A.C. 30-yard line in a chase, added 5 points, while Williams put over a neat drop kick for 3 more, having secured a former 5 on a fast follow to a fumble. A fitting souvenir of the game to Referee Mr. Billy McMaster would be a set of burglars, tools and a dark lantern.

The teams lined up as follows:
Ottawa (16): Full, Johnston; halves, Rennedy, Williams, Gerrard; quarter, O'Neil; scrimmage, McCuaig, Kilmartin and Barrymore; wings, Church, Phillips, Disney, Kuhn, Kilt and McCann.
T.A.A.C. (7): Full, Capreol; halves, Powell, Degruchy, Fleming; quarter, Cory; scrimmage, Drummond, Hoar and Holden; wings, Burton, Thompson, B. Burkhart, McKenzie, D. Burkhart and Harcourt.

WOMEN AND THE SUFFRAGE.

In the current issue of the Ladies' Home Journal there is a severe indictment of women in connection; with their indifference to the results .obtainable thru the use of the suffrage in those states which have adopted it for women. The Home Journal is avowedly an opponent of women's suffrage. It sent an investigator to the states in which suffrage is exercised to report upon the conditions and the results, and it states that the report results, and it states that the report will give an address on "Combating is an impartial one. There is nothing Mail Orders," it being desired to assaid to show that there is anything wrong with woman's suffrage. The argument to be derived from the report is not that women should not have suffrage, but that when they have it they need to exercise it.

The Journal contends, however, that the states which do not give women the suffrage have better laws for women and children than the states that have suffrage. This may be, but the matter cannot be held to rest there. Oklahoma, it is said, has the best laws in the Union. But when it drew up these laws Oklahoma did not go to the suffrage states for its models, but to New York and Ohio and other eastern states where men do the legislating. In matters of child labor, of divorce, of social laws, and such mat- Nov. 2. ters as women might be expected to be interested in, Colorado and Wyoming and Idaho and Utah are behind sicner Black's figures, based on the the times. In Colorado it was found that a measure intended to benefit women was utterly neglected by the present population 17,500, a gain of 9 suffragists, who were busy in the per cent over last year. Of course, if one's mind is biased being $11,837,615.

The Toronto World tiese facts may be used against woserviceable on the other side. If men are to be deprived of the voting privilege because they neglect useful measures in order to elect certain persons into office there would be a sweeping disfranchisement every electien. And it might be argued that the election of a woman to office who would see the laws observed might be of more importance than the passing of a measure that would be neglected by the authorities. Such arguments are two-edged.

In New York and the east where good legislation affecting women and children has been secured, it is well known that the pressure brought to bear by suffragist agitation has had a great effect and been influential in securing these measures. The minority in which women find themselves in the western states is another reason why no valid deductions can be made regarding the results of women suffrage. In the east, where women are in a preponderance, the suffrage would probably have different effects. Unpart of women than from anything else, and the Ladles' Home Journal will of interest in their own affairs. A POPULAR PARLIAMENT TO BE GRANTED IN CHINA

Grand Council Announce That Request of the Senate is to Be Complied With-The Significance.

PEKIN, Oct. 31.-It is believed that the throne has decided to accede to the demand of the senate and provincial delegates for the early con-vincial delegates for the early convocation of a popular parliament.

In the senate to-day, and in the presence of the leading grand counciliors, Prince Yu Lang, a member of the grand council, stated that the entire nation, from the highest to the lowest, was agreed upon the necessity of the early establishment of a general parliament.

The senators who understood this to mean that their memorial would be granted received the declaration of the prince with loud cheering.

The importance of this concession on the part of the government can be scarcely overestimated, in view of its recent refusal to entertain a similar request made by a delegation from the provincial assemblies last June.

The program fixed by the late empress dowager provided for the constitution of a general representative legislative body, to be known as the Imperial Parliament, in 1915, at the end of a nine-year period of preparation. No sooner has this plan been made known in a decree than a popular agitation was begun to influence the throne to advance the date when China might have a truly representative government.

The provincial assemblies met and discussed the matter and received the report of the merchants thruout the report of the merchants thruout the country. They sent a delegation to Pekin to memorialize the throne, but the prince regent promptly announced that the original program would be adhered to. On Oct. 3 last, the new senate met for the first time. Of its 200 members 100 had been appointed by the throne and there was every indication that it would accomplish but little except as it reflected the wishes of the central government.

Nevertheless, early in its history the senate developed an opposition party composed of the provincial delegates, and this party has since conducted an active campaign looking to the recognition of the senate by the grand council, as a body with executive power, rather than that its deliberations should be of an advisory

Meantime the viceroys and govern-ors of provinces supported the opposi-tion by memorializing the throne retion by memorializing the unrone re-garding an early opening of the pro-posed parliament. On Oct. 26 such progress had been made that the sen-ate adopted by an almost unanimous vote a memorial to the throne pray-ing for the establishment of a popular parliament at the earliest possible

Tells His Story.

Two days later the throne ordered the grand council to consider the memorial, and to-day's announcement by frince Yu Lang is accepted as the design of the grand councillors that the popular demand should be granted.

One of the most delightful events ever celebrated in West York was that of to-night, afforded by the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. F. That he will be successful is generally conceded. labor hours were also factors in this problem.

Here Dr. Taylor congratulated the Y.M.C.A. upon the proposal to station officers at ports where emigrants departed for America, and he also viewed with favor the suggestion to have men appointed to travel among the steerage passengers on the voyage across the Atlantic. With the view of guiding them to proper centres of employment. It was uncless to send the peasant to the city, or the man of southern birth to a northern collecte, as not only were environments strange, but the the device processes strongs, but the telegral conditions in compatible.

While exhausing uniqueness character co-operation, he constrained the parameter for the parameter for the parameter for the parameter for the parameter in the parameter for the parameter for years of experience, that it was impossible to interest the boys to do what was right from the academic standpoint. He declared that Christ was the one solvent that he had found for all the problems that concerned the boy, but that was only accomplished by getting him to accept Christ as Teacher, as Lord, as Friend. There were three things which interested the boy. (f) Achievement, (2) adventure, (3) companionship, and these in turn led to a regard for courtesy, self-government and the development of thought.

"Don't feed the boys on undesirable food, give them what they want," he sald. As a practical application of this principle, he instanced the work of the boy scouts movement, which appealed to all that was active and imaginative in boy character. The trend of this work was to change the attude of the boys from shiftlessness and ignorance to that of responsible citizens and helpful companions, to be large boys and so to be large men in the making.

"The typical boy leaves school at the age of 14," said Emest Thompson Seton. "Between the ages of 14 and 18 he is forming his character, and during these years the typical boy is allowed to drift." He did not believe in preaching to the boys, that had been inadequate. It had scared the boys. The average boy thought more of John L. Sullivan than Darwin, Hendrosed the sentiments of Col. Wakefield with reference to the advantage of the movement involved in the organization of the boy scouts, and suggested that after the element of self-government had been established and rightly directed then came the elements of faith and altruism. The chief end was to get the boy to do right from the mere joy of doing right. It would make for good citizenship, and that was altruism.

They exposed themselves sufficently and kept up a brisk enough musketry fire to convey the artful impression that the invaders were massed in main strength north of the golf grounds. They seemed to succeed. At any rate, a company of Grenadiers was lured into actually crossing the river, which is conveniently shallow, a movement which surprised the attacking force, which had assumed that Toronto's bulwark would stick to the farther side of the Credit with the tenacity of Wellington's army behind the Torres Vedfas line.

Vedfas line.

A rather amusing incident occurred at this point. A detachment of 91st Highlanders, concealing themselves in the bushes, were entirely unobserved by the easer redcoats, who passed them at close range and sallied boldly forth into the enemy's territory. The Highlanders, being vastly outnumbered, discreetly held their fire, but an umpire happening along was puzzled as to whether they should be ruled off or not. Had they been seen, they would certainly have been decimated, but they weren't. He finally compromised by penalizing them to the extent of ordering them to remain stationary for ten minutes.

the extent of ordering them to remain stationary for ten minutes.

Occupation of Erindale.

The desenders spent their time apparently, looking for an attack in force somewhere between the golf grounds and Erindale. They detrained at the latter place, and, between 10 and 11 am. there was much buzy preparation. The Queen's Own were conspicuous in their khaki uniforms, at least the Aldershot contingent were, the others being in the traditional rifle green. The Grenadlers were moved south to form the extreme left flank, with the Queen's Own as the army of the centre, and the 48th Highlanders held in reserve on the right flank.

Had the defenders pushed forward a detachment of engineers to destroy (by implication) the bridge at Port Credit, the main body of the attack would have been seriously incommoded, if not altogether frustrated, in their plans, as the Credit near its mouth is not fordable as in the upper reaches. But the invaders found the structure in good repair, and crossed it gleefully. Then they moved north and east up the Stave Back-road, and it was not until about 1.30 p.m., when the head of the column reached the Dundas-street intersection, that the men had any real opportunity to make use of their ammunition.

Chief Howard attact the origin of the ma-iority of fires during the past year could be traced directly to the accumulation of combustible rubbish and waste paper, etc. He advised the chiefs to take up in earnest a systematic campaign against this evil. All had faced similar propositions, but the debatable question was whether or not bylaws compelling better conditions would be feasible.

Acting upon the advice of Chief Thompson, Toronto, the convention decided that it was better in every instance to use persuasive methods with the manufacturers and to solicit their co-operation in the d the crackle of musketry fire, and when the whistle blew, the attackers had still more than a mile to go to reach the coveted ridge.

Encouraged by the sound of firing indicating that the main attack was being vigorously pressed, a force of the 38th, who had been sharing in the feint movement, forded the Credit and followed up the Stave Back-road. They hadn't gone far before they observed three companies of 48th Highlanders advancing over the plowed fields, and, taking up a good position behind a snake fence, they poured in a raking fire. Several of the Highlanders distinguished themselves by reckless courage, disdaining to remain under cover, and dashing forward in the teeth of the leaden hail. An umpize intervened by ordering the outnumbered 38th to retire.

Protecting Factories.

It was stated by firemen that the paper read by Chief Corbett of the Massey-Harris fire department on "Private fire protection," was one of the best ever delivered on such a subject. He rehearsed the practical methods and strict adherence to same by his department, and stated that in twenty-five years his fire loss had only been $500, which goes to show the advisability of private corporations taking the necessary precautions to safeguard their own property.

This afternoon the delegates are to be entertained and shown thru the factories of the following Toronto mamufacturers: Christie Brown, T. Eaton, Massey-Harris, National Fireproof Shutter Company and the Northern Electric and Manufacturing Company.

After it was all over, the officers foregathered in the Erindale churchyard for the expected "pow-wow," but Gen. Cotton, calling them together for a brief two or three minutes, stated that he would reserve his decision until the reports of the umpires had been carefully examined.

Altho hostilities ended early in the afternoon, it was not until after 6 p.m. that the last of the Toronto troops reached the city. It required several hours to assemble them all at the Erindale station, as they were spread over a wide extent of territory and stragglers were numerous. All were, however, found in their places and no accidents of a serious kind resulted from the day's operations. The special C. The special

THE THEATRES

" At the Royal Alexandra

"The Merry Wives of Windsor." According to a tradition better worthy of credence than some attaching to Shaksperan history. "The Merry Wives of Windsor" was written to command of Queen Elizabeth, who as the knell of a condition of things to command of Queen Edizabeth, which cannot be paralleled short of the Spanish inquisition. But this phase write a play of Sir John Falstaff in of Mr. Klein's great play has been love, which," adds Gildon, "I am very dwelt upon to an extent which overwell assured he performed in a fort-shadows the artistic quality of the drama and its human interest, quite drama and its human interest, quite night; a prodigious thing when all is well contrived and carried on without the least offence." Good Queen Bess was not alone in her appreciation of the inimitable features of the fat old knight but it must be confessed her request betrayed anything but good judgment. To Falstaff, love in the real sense was impossible, and Shakspere's unerring genius felt the obvious in compatibility. This probably enough led him to dispose of the ungrateful task with the utmost expedition, and may have accounted for his failure to fulfil the expectations suggested by the epilog to Henry IV. But Falstaff might easily have gone the way of Mercutio in Romeo and Juliet, whose sudden end another tradition ascribes to the difficulty the dramatist found in maintaining that effervescent delineation. the least offence." Good Queen Bess Nevertheless, The Falstaff of "The Nevertheless, The Falstaff of "The Merry Wives" contains an ample measure of the opulence of wit, ingenuity and good humor displayed in his original setting. Love being impossible to him. Shakspere was constrained to adopt the only artistic alternative that of making him the victim of his overweening self-confidence. Against overweening self-confidence. Against the conspiracy of the virtuous Windsor dames, even Falstaff's inventiveness and assurance only lead to his more and assurance only lead to his more complete disconfiture. But his collapse the love romance of Sweet Anne Page.

To present "The Merry Wives" with satisfactory degree of dramatic completeness requires a company of players selected on other principles than distinguish current stage methods. Such a company it has been the object of the New Theatre of New York to secure and certainly the splendid performance at the Royal Alexandra yesterday afterneon and evening would alone justify its existence. Tho the exigencies of the modern stage will not permit the plays of Shakspere to be produced in their literary form, ensatisfactory degree of dramatic compermit the plays of Shakspere to be produced in their literary form, enproduced in their literary form, enough was left to reveal the essential story of the comedy, and the interpretative ability of the artists. The play, too, gained much from the really beautoo, gained much from the really beautoo, gained much from the really beautoon, gained much from the really beautoon and gave a splendid performance.

Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Page, satisfied the most careful study and an elaboration most exacting ideal. Shakspere did not markedly differentiate between them. Indeed, they almost inevitably occupy the relation of twinship. But as played by Miss Matthison and Miss Coghlan the parts are subtly distinguished without disturbing their conceptional harmony. The interpretation was a veri-table triumph of dramatic particularzation redolent both of domestic virthe abandonment of natural liveliness. Miss Helen Reimer was no less happy in the role of Mistress Quicky, and pictured to the life the fussy, meddling old gossip, who wants to be everything to everybody, but still favers the gallant who rewards her with his purse as well as his confidence. Miss Leah Bateman-Hunter made a charming Anne Page, rendering the part with delightful naivete and suficient coquetry.

The part of Sir John Falstaff is one of the most exacting in the whole range of Shaksperean character, and to those who know its fulness, the difficulties are rather enhanced than diminished when placed in the atmosphere of the merry wives. Louis Calvert would have won deserved praise for a less finished interpretation than that he gave, but he did far more by erving a real harmony between the Falstaff of Henry IV. and his later exposure, as the butt of those who would but have given him occasion for the excellence of the sport. This is the excellence of the actor's art, and Mr. Calvert's best tribute. Ford, the Jealous husband, and Page, the embodiment of the eld Engcountry gentleman, were finely lered by A. E. Anson and Lee Baker. Ben Johnson's Justice Shallow was good, and as Slender, next to Falstaff, the most finished sketch in the play, Ferdinand Gottschalk was a desuccess. Caius was a clever piece of characterization, and the famous trio of followers-Bardoiph, Nym and Pistol-had good exponents in John Sutherland. Stewart Baird and Pedro de Cordoba. The other roles were filled with equal regard to artistic symmetry, and, need, no more satisfactory presentation of "The Merry Wives" could be looked for than that given at the Royal both performances showed hearty ap- harrowed by a performance which is sure to elicit their deepest interest. preciation and the engagement is already assured of unusual success.

"The Third Degree."

In "The Third Degree," at the Princess this week, Charles Klein has given thods which the public has recognized apart from the police episode, which, strong as it is, is merely incidental. acter of Annie Jeffries, played by Fer-nanda Elisou. This young actress takes the part as Nazimova or Kalisch or Mrs. Patrick Campbell might not take it, but with art and skill and interpretation on quite as high a level as any of these great actresses have accustomed us to see. The motive of the play is the psychology of this wo-man's love and the patience and endurance and insight which it generates. Her husband had been forced into a hypnotic confession of a murder which never occurred, and the man who com-mitted suicide is believed by the police to have been her paramour. There to have been her paramour. There was no immorality at all, but the suicide had embezzled money, and by virtue of an old love affair had con-strained Annie's step-mother-in-law to visit him on the night of his suicide. Annie, to shield her namesake, allows it to be thought that the letter addressed to Mrs. Jeffries, senior, was really addressed to Mrs. Jeffries, junior. The lawyer in the case, the hus-

and assurance only lead to his more complete discomfiture. But his collapse is partially covered by the wonderful circle of sharply individualized characters with which Shakspere has environed him, and the rapid development of the leading theme is set in contrast with exquisite passages of Elizabethan domestic life and the beauties of English country scenery. Nor is keen pleasure lacking in the consummate skill that interweaves and supports the main story with the subordinate motives and in the charm of the love romance of Sweet Anne Page.

To present "The Merry Wives" with the sustained interest in the susta prison, not guilty of anything, but true to friends he would not betray. She of feeling, the sustained interest in the development of the weaknesses and the sympathies of the other characters, constitute the elements of strength knitted dialogs to a satisfactory close The company as a whole is cast with fine consideration of fitness. If any thing is lacking it is, perhaps, that there is rather more artificiality in the reading of Richard Brewster's part than is necessary. But the part is purely that of a foil to Annie Jeffrica, > of the portrait which only stops when the artistic effect requires it. Instances could be multiplied. During the interview in the lawyer's office there were many. "I'm going to move heaven and earth till I've brought his father round to my way of thinking," she says, and then there is a glance lawyer, the slyest, drollest, most pitiful look in the world, timidity and courage, hope and fear, tragedy and strength all in one, as she ventures-"I've got you already." The dignity of sium woman as she walks across the stage wiping her eyes after the passionate outburst in the lawyer's office-"Why don't some of you do something?" shows another phase of her devotion, but there is a breathless ent when she steps with as much dignity but with a subdued consciousness that the last card is to be played to hand the letter to the detective, and is intercepted by the lawyer, a very clever stage device of Mr. Klein's. Another natural note which brought down the house was one of many references to her father-in-law. "I only had one interview with him, and it finished him for all time with me. He's not a father (a pause, then conclusive-

Other features of the bill includ crobatics, dancing, singing and jokring. The clog dancing was distinctly clever, and the work done in that same line on roller skates deserves especial mention. It was as good a stunt in its way as anything given recently in Toronto.

At the Star

The Empire Burlesquers, as seen at the Star Theatre by two crowded audiences yesterday, proved a revelation in burlesque. The performance is clean and comical, presenting a variety of music, comedy and funny situations cleverly put on. Frank Damsel has provided under the title of "O, You Lemon," an opening skit that is absolutely new. He, himself, takes the star role of Lem. N. Taker. The skit is bristling with originality and gives splendid opportunity for chorus work by a clever aggregation of beauties, both in light and heavy costume. The Catharine Ross set the ech with three catchy illustrated songs-one burlesquing Teddy Rooseveit's jungle hunt; one sentimental, and one comic. "I won't Be Home Till August," will be whistled from this morning on Young Bros, as Chinese acrobats, bit of comedy work, and Mike Irish and Dutch comedians. "Tempta-tion," is a very artistic and fetching Irish and Dutch comedians. pantomime, based on the oriental dance in which Miss Blanche Martin shows exceptional grace and art. "A Night on the Roof Garden," is the closing burlesque and treats gloriously of life in New York.

At the Gayety.

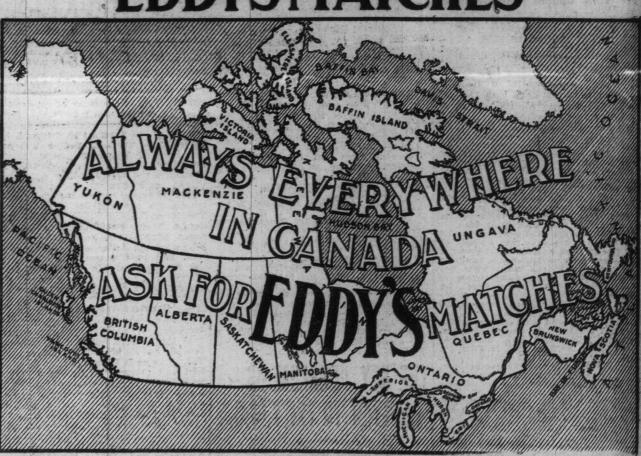

"Vanity Pair" at the Gayety this week is right up-to-the-minute in hurlesque production. On the whole the entire company is above the average, and individually, the members leave little to be desired in their various departments. The chorus, altho aggregation of girlies, and sing well. "A Night At the Roadhouse" is a one-act farce that is the cause of considerable laughter, and Billie Ritchie is the big feature. Dorcas Huxley, Rena Lacouvier and Winnifred Francis were best received in the songs "Mine, All Mine," and "The Hollanders." Rena Lacouvier's Red Raven Cadets, twelve pretty girls, were well elved in their military drills and tactics In the last part entitled, "Fun In a Music Hall," the highest notch in burlesque comedy, is reached, and the mimic theatre that is presented on the stage is equal to a half an hour's joy-

Recital To-Night. A program rich in variety will be presented this evening in Association Hall by Miss Ethel Cocking, assisted by Messrs. P. Bickell & Co. say at the close of the market:

Wheat—Lower. Weak foreign cables and continued dulness in cash demand, were again the factors for liquidation, values recording new lows for econidecline. We expect rallies occasionally, but on all good bulkes we advise sales, as supplies are burdensome and unless cash demand becomes active values must decline to a commercial level and reduce visible materially before the long side has safely covered.

Erickson Perkins & Co. had the following at the close:

Wheat—The market opened weak and so continued thruout the session, rallies so continued thruout the session, rallies so weak as our own, with Minneapolis leading the decline. The selling in this leading the decline of the long wheat for country account and advices state that there is no improvement in the flour demand, buyers being pretty well filled up at a higher level of values. Kansas City quoted cash wheat le to 2c per bushel lower. The underlying facts, however, in the world's position of wheat offer no incentive as yel, to a speculative long. Corn—The market showed surprising the tast few world good rallies, as we are unable to see but one ultimate outcome to values.

Oats—Prices followed closely the course

He was arrested with dif-ficulty. When searched, Ardino had in his possession a 38 calibre revolver and an ugly dirk.

aliy for exporters, but all classes of cattle were lower, except milkers and springers.

The main causes for exporters being lower, was that the British markets last week closed lower and weak, and the big run at Chicago of 35,000 yesterday, selling at lower prices on that market, settled it that prices had to be lowered here and down they went from 15c to 25c per cwt. and in some instances 20c per cwt. was evident that there would be a sharp decline for the heavy export cattle, owing to the big supply, as well as the British markets beling lower and the news fiashed over the wire of the heavy receipts at Chicago, which were being sold at lower prices on that market.

The sellers hed out until 11 a.m. before any concessions were made, but buyers were apathetic and would scarcely look at the cattle unless the seller was prepared to chop off 25c per cwt. from last week's prices.

S. B. Playfair of Playfair, Martens & Co., has just returned from an extended interview he said: "The trails are in very bad condition and it is difficult getting any one who is interested in gold mining should not miss the opportunity of seeing the camp in the early stages. I do not base my enthusiasm simply on what I saw myself, but on the fact that such men as Mr. Frechevelle of the Anglo-French Exploration Co., and Mr. H. H. Webb of the South African Consolidated,

The pace of the two previous weeks had been altogether too rapid, and much of the advance in that period was quickly lost. Altho the rise in the market ly lost. Singularly enough the situation has developed so that there is little or no danger of a crisis in this country, and that if a crisis is to occur at all it will most probably be in London, just where the warning to America has originated.

The technical situation of the market is good. Stocks are in strong hands, and prices generally upon a level that should be attractive to investors. The chancel situation is a construction of announcement of the financial bian, perhaps within forty-eight was particularly strong. Western bankers seem to anticipate a plethora of idle funds next winter, which means that money will ultimately accumulate at this centre and bring in lower rates and fising bank reserves. AMERICAN WEAKNESS IS INFLUENCE ON CANADIANS.

World Office

Monday Evening, Oct. 31.
Canadian exchanges were closed to-day. The New York market was weak, but not more so than local opinion coincided with. In another week the American elections will be on, and another move in United States economics decided. The London market for Canadian listed issues was firm to-day, disregarding entirely the American market. Canadian issues are expected to be temporarily influenced by those of the American republic, but otherwise than this there is not the slightest apprehension felt in the matter of securities locally listed. It is not improbable that with an unsatisfactory New York market more attention will be again given to the Toronto exchange.

There is no doubt but that the crop has been severely damaged by the recent cold wave, and there is little hope for a satisfactory top crop, but leading interests continue to oppose an upward movement in the view that the next ginning report will make a bearish showing. BUY ON THE WEAK SPOTS

The Cobalt market affords as good opportunities for investment or speculation as the larger exchanges, and with much less risk, because the Cobalt stocks are bought outright. A spell of weakness, owing to profit-taking, is now in effect in some of the mining issues, and advantage should be taken of this to gather in the shares, which will sell higher in a short time. We have this to gather in the shares, which will sell higher in a short time. We have strongly recommend purchases of these around present prices.
