Whence the Wonderful Bread-Life in Five Roses

DO YOU know, Madam, that billowing from the Lake of the Woods clear to the snow-peaked Rockies are the finest wheateads that ever threw back golden kisses to a smiling sun? Our selection of a birthplace was indeed most judicious. We cannot too fervently congratulate ourselves over being born Canadians, can we?

All the infinite resources of Provident Nature have concentrated to produce in our own Northwest a perfect food berry.

It is the cream of the Manitoba wheat crop, and the scum milk, the matchless FIVE ROSES quality.

While our western wheat berries are made in generous measure to make Manitoba wheat the pride of the world, yet you must not overlook the rich, vigorous soil tilled by our skillful Canadian farmers.

Just listen to the explanation of James Grant, a real C.M.G.:

"The intense winter frost penetrates deep into the ground. In the spring when the soil is ploughed, frozen and platted, the lower depths are not greatly disturbed; but in the warm months of June, July and August, the gold-colored chamber of nature imparts gentle moisture to the roots of the grain, keeping it cool during the intense heat."

Therein lies the goodness of the only wheat fit for FIVE ROSES.

If you, Madam, housewife, with your own white hands, were to pick the very cream of this fine

It would mean perfect flour, and it is. It is the finest that you could buy. It is the finest that you could buy. It is the finest that you could buy.

As you wouldn't let Mrs. Brown buy wheat buying and selecting. When the finest crops are harvested you would find one of the 75 FIVE ROSES elevators, sifting the perfect berries.

Years of practical knowledge and experience stand behind each buyer, who is well-paid to know where the rare grains grow.

We have the money and the skill to control the very best.

Certainly your interests are well looked after.

Estimate us, Madam. FIVE ROSES contains only the purest, wholesome, well-filled berries of the spring wheat; the medium sun-ripened, translucent berries.

All this and more is yours if you will but say "FIVE ROSES" to your grocer.

FIVE ROSES bread—life, health, fulness, purity, strength, economy. Read the label, Madam, and be flou-happy all last.

HENRY II. HAT WITH UPSTANDING FEATHER

Period military is on every land—rather on every head, and Henri II. and IV. Louis XIII and XVII chapeaux mingle at every fashionable festivity. The jaunty Henri II. hat has very little trim-his friend was sleeping. After a while, he wrote several letters and sealed them, for he had determined that he would pay the penalty for his crime—that he would confess his sin to Sam Millington, and abide by its consequences. It was the only way, as he believed, by which he could purge his soul of the stain he had put upon it.

When at halfpast six o'clock the bell rang, and the capatall entered the room. If Jack had been, in fact, as he would have been, he would have seen the man who had just confessed his sin to Sam Millington, and who was now, as he believed, purging his soul of the stain he had put upon it.

"Is that you, governor?" Whenceupon the old man, after a woe and a weeping, looked into the face of the man who had just confessed his sin to Sam Millington, and who was now, as he believed, purging his soul of the stain he had put upon it.

"Oh, yes, he did," was the reply. If you are feeling now, my boy?

"Very much better," the son gave answer. "I'll soon be home, and I'll be fixed everything all right in Chicago. Things there are in a better condition now than ever. And, oh, by the way, there is one thing I nearly forgot! If you should happen to go to the Westmoreland—"

"I have already been there," interrupted the father, his face darkening.

"Have you?" Jack questioned, placidly.

"Did you meet the X. L. sign?"

"Yes, all of it. Do you know where it is?"

"Certainly," came the answer. "Your whole amount, no very much. Somebody has been putting up a job on you, governor."

"What do you mean?"

"Why, I mean that you will find your stock in the safe in my room, at the house. I got in from Chicago last night at ten, too late to go to the Westmoreland. It is all in my safe at home."

For a moment, the old man was too greatly astonished to speak. Then, he said:

"Are you sure? All of it?"

"Yes."

"Did you take it from the safe-deposit company?"

"Thought I might need it. That's what you left the keys with me for, wasn't it? But it occurred to me you might miss it and be worried, particularly when I remembered your long message. I suspect that somebody—Trevor, maybe—started the rumor that got to you."

"I was worried—gratefully," the elder Millington confessed. "What is the combination of your safe, Jack?"

"Three, thirteen, thirty-three," was the reply. "You had better take out the stock, and take it back to the Westmoreland."

"Yes, I'll do so at once," the capitalist agreed. "You won't need me any more tonight?"

"No," the son answered. "Morris will look out for me. He's better than any trained nurse, for me."

Sam Millington felt that he owed Lathrop, and for the sake of his peace, and therefore, as he passed through the parlor, he held out his hand. The young man, however, was making the fire, and again appeared not to observe the movement.

"Lathrop," the old man said, "I want to express to you my gratitude for your kindness to Jack."

"Pray, do not say a word, Mr. Millington," came the quick interruption. "But there's something that I must say to you."

"Morris," the invalid called from the bedroom.

"Not a moment," Lathrop replied. "Not a moment," was the imperious reply. "I want you now! Come here. Go along, father, if you please. You can talk with Lathrop some other time."

At that, the elder Millington hurried away obediently, and Lathrop had no further opportunity for confession.

"He has gone?" Jack demanded, as his father approached the bedside.

"Yes," Lathrop answered.

"Thereupon the suppositious invalid uttered a lusty and joyous shout. Then, he gave the bed a kick which sent him perfectly sprawling across the room, and followed it up by leaping nimbly out of bed into the centre of the chamber. While Lathrop regarded him with distended eyes, "Morris Lathrop," he remarked incisively, "you will please control that lateful temper of yours and give me as full a measure of your attention as you can. Otherwise you would get Edna Trevor into trouble, and, if you are the man I suppose you to be, you will not choose to involve that girl."

THE THREE KEYS BY FREDERICK ORMOND

"I told them all to go out and walk around the block when you came in. There is nobody there," he ordered. "Have you got the package tied up?"

"Yes."

"Good! Put it under the pillow again. Was that all paper up, and check it in to a corner, and then come around here, and sit down. Now, what is that confession of yours?"

"There is no more to it than that. I deliberately, and with premeditation, robbed your father's safe of seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars' worth of X. L. fifty thousand dollars' worth of X. L. I stole it as any other thief would have done. For God's sake, isn't that enough?"

"No," the pseudo-invalid declared, with conviction. "Why did you steal it? You seem to like the world, so I'll use it. Why did you steal it?"

Lathrop hesitated, and while he did so, a ring of the electric bell announced a new arrival. At the same instant, Edna hastened in upon them.

"There is someone at the door," she said, breathlessly. "What shall I do?"

"Do not go to the door," replied Millington, who was surprisingly alert for one so severely injured as he was supposed to be. "I will go myself. I will see to the presence of Edna Trevor."

"It may be your father," the girl suggested.

"Edna! That's so!" Millington agreed. "Wait a minute, Morris! If that is the governor, you're not to say a word. I'll die in three minutes if you do. Will you promise?"

Lathrop sighed, wearily. "Why not make a clean breast of the whole thing at once, and have it over?" he urged.

"I won't have it," Edna declared. "I won't have it. I got through with you, you can do all the confessing you want to, whether I'm dead or alive. By Jove, the governor'll ring that bell off my head. Let him in, Edna. Pass that medicine, Morris. And mind that you do as I say." He was pantingly sipping at the X. L. stock. He did not even see Jack drop.

"Look here, governor, drop it, will you exclaim Jack. It isn't half so bad as all that; and, besides, I'm not worth it, anyhow. Then, he remembered the father, brushing aside his tears, and by a strong effort of will controlling himself, he said: "How did you get here?"

"I arrived this morning, Jack," replied the father, brushing aside his tears, and by a strong effort of will controlling himself, he said: "How did you get here?"

"Where are you hurt? What do the doctors say? Tell me all about it. You seem stronger than I dared to hope."

"There isn't much to tell, father," was the evasive answer. "I met an automobile on the street, and neither of us turned out. Go and see Randall; he'll tell you all about it."

"Ah, did you have Randall?" the father questioned reassured.

"Yes," the invalid replied. "He can supply you with all the details. . . . Pass that medicine, Morris, please."

"How do you do, Mr. Lathrop?" said the older Millington, rising then, and extending his hand which the young man pretended not to see, as he busied himself with the glass. "I was so agitated when I entered the room that I saw nobody but Jack."

"I think father," the son added, "that you had better run up, and get those particulars from Randall. I know you are anxious to have them. Besides, I fancy that I'm sitting at his table. You can come in again, along toward night."

"Yes, yes, I'll do that," the capitalist agreed. "I'll see Randall at once. I am that you were doing. Thank God, it was a false report. Good-bye, Jack. I'll run in about six or seven. Good-bye, Lathrop. Take good care of my boy. I'll not forget it." A moment later, the door closed behind him.

It would have been a matter of difficulty to analyze the conflicting emotions which in Jack Millington's breast thrummed and throbbed as he heard the door close. This imposed on the feelings of his father.

GERMANY MUST WAIT

Ottawa, Nov. 26.—The government has no intention of entering into negotiations with Germany or other foreign countries for trade favors until all the matters in connection with the French treaty have been disposed of.

This was the diplomatic answer given by Mr. Fielding to Mr. Armstrong in reply to a question asked in reference to Canada's trade relations with Germany.

Mr. Fielding, in answer to a question by Mr. Lennox, stated that the existing commercial treaty with France provided for twelve months' notice by either party, but that it also had a provision that in the event of Canada increasing her duties upon certain classes of wines, the treaty could be terminated by France without any notice.

MANY APPLY UNDER SMALL HOLDINGS ACT

Result of First Year's Work—Reclaiming of Lands

London, Nov. 26.—It is officially declared that the small holdings act of 1908 has given a great stimulus to the provision of small holdings by private land owners direct.

The result of the first year's work for the country at large since the act came into operation has been that 23,285 applications have been received by county councils for 373,801 acres; that 13,392 applications have been approved provisionally as suitable; that the estimated quantity of land required for the suitable applicants is 385,988 acres; that 21,417 acres have been purchased, and 10,071 leased; that the land acquired will provide for about 1,300 of the applications, and that 504 of them were in actual possession of their holdings on December 31, 1908.

Out of the approved applications about 34 per cent were agricultural laborers. It is estimated that at the end of September of this year not less than 20,000 acres were obtained, but few of these applicants desired to purchase their holdings.

Out of 23,285 applications received during the year, only 629, or 2.7 per cent, expressed a desire to purchase.

No doubt considerable land has been supplied by land owners direct, mainly through the intervention of county councils, stimulated by the provisions of the act.

During 1908 there were in Devon and Cornwall 722 applications for 12,271 acres. The councils purchased 440 acres and leased 128 acres. In the southwest of England there are large areas of crown lands once under cultivation, but now neglected, that will doubtless be brought back in the near future to suitable and profitable husbandry by the hands of the people.

DAIRY PLANTS MUST REGISTER

New Ontario Act Will Go Into Force in January

Toronto, Nov. 26.—The director of the dairy branch of the Ontario department of agriculture has issued notice that all cheese and butter factories, milk condenseries and milk powder factories or other establishments for the manufacture of milk products must be registered with the minister of agriculture of the province before January 1st, 1910. This is in conformity to the act to regulate the manufacture of dairy products passed by the legislature at its last session.

All factories commencing the manufacture of milk products after the first of January, 1910, will require to have their plants and buildings approved by the minister of agriculture for the province as far as equipment and sanitary conditions are concerned. By this means it is intended to raise the standard of the manufacturing plants of the province to an unimpeachable standard. This of course will take time but the improvement though gradual will be none the less effective.

Copies of the act and forms for registration have been sent to all representative officers of factories.

New York, Nov. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Harold T. Creighton went to Paris on January 1 to submit to noted oculists of France the case of their toy French bulldog, Regent, Regent, prize winner and pet is nearly blind. Mr. and Mrs. Creighton have a country place at Deal where they have interested themselves in breeding dogs of Regent's race, but none like him.

His seal brown coat, a rare color for his breed, is so fine and thick that it is like fur, and his sneezing goes back through seventy-one generations of record. Bred in Boston three and a half years ago by Mrs. Brooks, his father was Smart, out of Zola by Bennett, and his mother Sapho—a distinguished line of toy English bulldogs. Mrs. Creighton bought Regent as a puppy for $50 and showed him in Madison Square Garden three years ago. He swept off the first prizes in every class in which he was entered.

CULTURE OF ALFALFA

Washington, Nov. 26.—A valuable bulletin on the irrigation of alfalfa has been issued by the department of agriculture. The material used in this report is based on the best irrigation practiced in the arid regions, and is intended for the use of those who are engaged in alfalfa culture under the large canal systems now under construction.

Experience in the growing of alfalfa for more than two thousand years shows that it thrives best in the soil and climate of arid and semi-arid regions. The abundant sunshine, the warm and the deep, rich soil prevailing throughout the western half of the United States seem to be well suited to its requirements.

Alfalfa requires more water than most crops. This is accounted for by the character of the plant, the rapidity of its growth, the number of crops produced in one season and the heavy tonnage obtained. If the crop is intelligently handled, the report states it cannot be excelled in value and a single ton may save the lives of many head of stock by providing a ration during the short periods of cold, stormy weather.

ARTHUR DEARNESS WRITES OF BRANDON, HIS ADOPTED HOME

St. John Man's Interesting Description of Life in the Winnipeg City—Comparisons With Ourselves

The following letter descriptive of the city of Brandon, (Man.) was written by Arthur Dearness, formerly of this city who recently accepted a position in Brandon. He writes:—

"What is Brandon like?" Population of about 15,000. Boasts of three railroad stations and they are all in the heart of the town, the C. P. R. the Great Northern, and the Canadian Northern (the new transcontinental will have a station here in a short time) in view of this it is destined to be a railroad town.

The river is north of the C. P. R. station. The thoroughfares are classed as streets and avenues. The streets are numbered, First, Second, etc., the avenues are named, the principal business avenue is Rosser and I should say it is about three or more miles long. The avenues run east and west, the streets north and south.

Each block contains numbers within the hundred, viz first block up to 100, the second up to 200 and so on, the length of the thoroughfare. The town covers more ground than St. John, (N. B.) a hill on either side of the town breaks the monotony of the prairie, the hill, however, is not a hill in the sense that an escarpment means, why the hill on this side of the town amounts to a mere grade, similar to the grade from No. 1 fire station to the Dufferin Hotel (St. John) probably 30 per cent.

Many of the streets are being fixed as boulevards, many trees having been set out, and certainly they present a very pretty appearance. The schools are a credit to the place, and would be to St. John. The Baptist college is located here, another college called the Collegiate is also located here. There are several four-story buildings here, the majority of buildings are but three stories. The Y. M. C. A. building is four stories. Rooms are rented to young men and at the present time 87 fellows have rooms in the building, meals are prepared outside, an up-to-date gymnasium in the building, shower baths on every floor, lighted by electricity (every room). The whole city is lighted by electricity. For amusements they do not want two or three moving picture houses, and a theatre. The water is extremely hard. A chap remarked the other day: "If you try to drink the water here you will break your teeth."

I have not looked into the fire houses as yet, although I saw some of the apparatus on the street, out for exercise. The ladder truck has two men attached, one as driver, the other as pilot, one the other trucks the equipment, men wear uniforms. This is a very strong fraternal society city. I had two of the prominent men look me up before I had worked half a day, and they certainly extended a very warm welcome. They are men on most any business are the Bank of Montreal, and British North America.

Business houses are quite progressive. Dry goods, groceries, clothing, boots and shoes, and hardware are well represented. Oh, yes! drug stores. The trade done in these stores is a fairly trade—men come from the country districts and lots for the crowd, consequently sales are good. Many of the country chaps fill up on booze before they start for home. People move rapidly, buy and eat rapidly as well as talk quite loud, all are very friendly.

The climate is fine, the weather has been very mild to date. The sun shines very brightly.

FIVE DEAD IN NEW YORK FIRE

Sixty Trapped by Flames in Upper Stories of Tenement House—Mother Hurts Baby Out

New York, Nov. 24.—A fierce fire started last night in the four-story frame tenement at No. 1490 Herkimer street, East New York, and before the tenants could all be aroused it swept from cellar to roof.

Five persons, according to firemen who managed to get a look into the cellar of the building, were burned to death. They were so blackened that the firemen could not tell whether they were men or women.

There were about sixty persons in the house, four families being crowded upon each floor. They were mostly foreigners, and when they saw escape by the stairways cut off some of them threw themselves and their children out of the windows.

At least eight or ten were seriously injured. The building was completely destroyed and it seemed likely at midnight that there might have been more bodies in the cellar besides the ones the firemen saw. As is usual in the case of fire in dwellings occupied by foreigners, it was charged that the blaze was of incendiary origin. Nothing could be found, however, to substantiate this charge.

Mrs. Rose Montoro, standing at a window on the top floor with her three-month-old son James in her arms, screamed for help, and Harry Miner, a special policeman at the Broadway Theatre, Brooklyn, rushed down the street. He shouted: "Throw the baby, but don't jump yourself."

The woman complied. The baby, which was enshrouded in shawls, was dropped, and Miner caught it in his overcoat. He was knocked flat on his back, but not injured. The baby was not even stunned.

A few seconds later, the mother, frantic and enshrouded in smoke, either fell or jumped from the window. She struck an extension outside of a store on the ground floor and fell to the street on her feet. She was not hurt.

FERRY SESSION A SPIRITED ONE

Ald. Potts and His Mutinous Committee Men—Some Hot Shot

There was a lively discussion in the ferry committee yesterday among Ald. Potts, Scully and Belyea over recent developments. Ald. Belyea submitted a written resignation and it was recommended that the council accept it. The director's report as to the renewing of the west side ferry boats and the improvement of the ferry service was read. The cost of the renewal was $202.00. The report was adopted.

Reports of the damage to the west side boats and the promotion of Mate Miles to captain and of repairs to the Ludlow, were adopted. It was recommended that the pay of Capt. Leonard Estabrooks be increased from $60 to $70 a month.

After a lengthy discussion over the new system of ferry collection it was decided both boats on the route to accommodate heavy traffic during rush hours, namely, noon and 1 p. m., 2 p. m., 4 p. m., and 6 p. m., was left to the director.

The War Ald. Potts here arose to discuss recent developments in the ferry committee. He said: "I did not know until I arrived in New York on Saturday night last that there had been any rearrangement of the ferry committee. Then I saw in a St. John paper that had been sent to me that two of the members had resigned. To the two members who stuck by the committee I desire to express my gratitude. In reference to the delay in the service during the time the west side floats were being repaired I will say that had I been in St. John at the time I would have given the people a service if I had had to hire tugs to do it. There would have been no delay. I feel that it was cowardly for two of the aldermen to resign during my absence. When one of these went further and tried to get another member to resign, telling him he would be sorry if he did not, I felt that it was beneath the conduct of an alderman. I will do my duty in regard to this ferry service and I want it understood that I am tending to no class or section and what I am doing is in the interests of all. It is probably just as well that the delay should come now and at the next meeting of the council I will have the names of two other aldermen to submit to replace those who have gone out. The west side people will find before the year is out that they will get a better service."

Ald. Scully had been in the ante-room during the first portion of Ald. Potts' remarks and when he returned he addressed the chairman and said, "Do I understand you to say that an alderman asked another alderman to resign?" Ald. Potts—"I did."

Ald. Scully—"Who do you mean?" Ald. Potts—"Well, there are only two of you."

Ald. Scully—"While the ferry service was so bad my life as a member of the ferry committee was not worth living and I resigned. I did not talk about it and even until after I had resigned." Turning to Ald. Belyea, Ald. Scully said, "Did you say to me that you had resigned in a minute what I know?" Ald. Belyea—"There was no meeting of the committee called while you were away. No one asked me to attend any meeting."

Ald. Potts—"I think you might have waited until I returned before you resigned."

Ald. Scully said if any one said he had asked any other member of the committee to resign it was an untruth.

Ald. Holder explained that he had called no meeting of the ferry committee during Ald. Potts' absence because he had been sick. When he had been telephoned about the accident to the west side floats he had instructed them to go ahead with the work of repair.

Ald. Belyea—"If evil has been done by Scully and Belyea in resigning from the board that good might come of it so much the better for the traveling public who are obliged to use the west side ferry. There have been many innovations in the ferry management. The chairman claims he made a recommendation for fifty tickets for foggy cents but I made that motion in amendment and Ald. Potts voted against it. The chairman quotes from the newspapers but he does not quote correctly. He says only half of it. I said that the people of the west side want a bridge. I will support a bridge but until we get it we want a free ferry and a good service. The chairman has made many misleading statements. Ald. Scully did not coerce me into resigning. When I found out that it would be better to wait until Ald. Potts returned, I was not satisfied and I said I would resign and I did resign, but my resignation did not hamper the committee for there was no meeting called. Ald. Holder says he was sick. He was not sick the day he was asked to call the committee together and he said he would not dare to. Ald. Scully used very gentle language in saying your statement was an untruth. In the school I was brought up in they put it differently and I say it is a d—n lie."

Ald. Potts—"If you say that the language of the ferry management is an untruth, I will talk louder. I did say that the present ferry service was continued a bridge would be an absolute necessity. At the time of the trouble I asked Ald. Holder if he was going to resign but I said it in a joke."

Ald. Holder—"I have been six years at the board and I never heard such language used here as has been used during the six months Ald. Belyea has been at the board."

Ald. Belyea—"Did gentlemen at the board during the past six years lie indiscriminately about other gentlemen as they are doing now? Ald. Holder, you are, I believe, a good carpenter but you don't know much about the ferry service and I would not like to be classed in the same boat with you."

At this juncture Ald. Holder moved that the committee adjourn and the motion carried.

WILLIAM WILSON & SONS

(Established 1810). EMPRESS AT SAND POINT AGAIN. The royal mail steamer Empress of Britain, the first C. P. R. boat of the season, arrived in port last evening and docked at No. 3 Berth, Sand Point, at 9.30 o'clock. The big liner left Liverpool on Friday, November 19, and had an uneventful passage, reaching Halifax at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. After landing the mail and about thirty passengers she left for St. John shortly before midnight and arrived off Partridge Island at 6.15 o'clock, coming up to her berth about three hours later, at half tide.

The steamer carried 813 passengers, which is considered a large number for this time of year. There were 45 saloon passengers, 157 second cabin and 613 steerage. Of these four saloons, ten second cabin and 227 steerage passengers are en route to the United States and of the balance nearly all are bound for western Canada.

The officers are practically the same as last season. J. A. Murray is in command, with Lester J. Turnbull, chief officer; A. E. Philip, chief engineer; W. Webber, purser; W. P. Gale, M. D., C. M., surgeon; and B. Coyle, chief steward.

The saloon passenger list was as follows: Miss Helen M. Anderson, Charlottetown (P. E. I.); E. Ashburner, Lethbridge; Mr. and Mrs. M. Baermann, Antwerp; A. Barclay, A. S. Baxendale, London; Mrs. Bauld and the Misses Bauld, Edinburgh; J. H. Brooke, Bradford; Miss Brookfield, J. F. Brown, Belfast; Mrs. Carmichael, G. Hogarth, Oxford; W. Jackson, Mar. C. B. Kenrick, Hamilton (Ont.); Mrs. L. Magill, Dublin; Mr. and Mrs. A. H. May, Hounsbury; Miss McColl, Edinburgh; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Molyneux, New Westminister (B. C.); J. Muir, Quebec; A. Graham Newton, London (Eng.); W. G. Nutman, Winnipeg; J. F. E. Pridoux, London (Eng.); J. A. Scott, Quebec; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Sprague and Miss Vanou, New (B. C.); Capt. C. M. Stephen, Portsmouth; Mrs. L. G. Townsend, Boston; W. S. Veau, London (Eng.); Major J. D. Ward, Tisbury Wells; W. Widdowson, Nottingham.

Among the second cabin passengers were Rev. Sister Joseph Marie and Rev. Sister Marie du Sauveur, of Paris, who are on their way to Three Rivers (Que.) The Empress brought a large general cargo and she will carry away a good cargo. The passenger list is expected to be unusually heavy as many will be going to the old country to spend the Christmas holidays.

WHO GAINS MOST BY MARRIAGE--MAN OR WOMAN?

What Would Happen if the Suffragette Threat Were Put in Force and There Were a Strike of the Sexes--Is the Assumption Correct That Marriage is an Unequal State?

(Harold Owen in the London Chronicle.) Taking advantage of the parliamentary lull, with its opportunity "to change the topic," I venture to rush in--perhaps rashly--with the abrupt question, "Who gains most by marriage--man or woman?"

I am content merely to put the question without rashly attempting to answer it. For the significance of the question lies in the fact that it should ever be asked, and yet it is implicit, even if it be not directly asked and faced, in one of the current controversies of the day--the controversy concerning the position of woman.

Woman has become self-conscious, restless, critical. She is, in a word, in revolt. Now it is characteristic of all revolutions that they do not end with their object. They either fall short of it, get deroute altogether, or go beyond it.

A Divided Household Well, a few nights ago I got a glimpse, not of the hidden future, but of a state of mind towards it and the whole problem in a representative woman of the movement--a cosmopolitan, highly intelligent, entirely amiable matron, whose house and family are neatly divided on the whole question, all the men being against, and all the women being for "votes for women," with all its implications, consequences and tendencies.

The Man And as to the comparative tribulations of the married state, does the man who marries give no hostages to fortune beyond those provided by his collaborator? Is it for his own selfish creature comforts that he holds his breakfast, rushes for the morning train, and sits in the office--all to earn an income for which he personally spends only a fifth or a sixth?

Has the compound word "henpecked" crept unawares into our language? Has no man's "individuality" been sapped or overwhelmed by an overpowering personality in petticoats? Though it be true that a wife has no more to do as a husband allowed to husband his? Though a wife may be "a slave to her husband," has the converse phrase the same reason for its existence? And though a mother be "a slave to her children," has a father no parental care?

Are there no households in which a father has to sink his "individuality" and preferences and wishes--allow his meals to be fixed, where he shall live, when and where he shall take his holidays, and even how long he shall remain in harness--for the sake of the children? Is a "devoted husband" merely a contradiction in terms? Is marriage always bare and skittles for the husband, and never cakes and ale for the wife? And as to the comparative losses and gains of entering the marriage state, does the man standing at the altar surrender nothing and incur no responsibilities from which he would otherwise be free, and does the woman acquire nothing but the burden of fresh duties and a gold standard of a somewhat monotonous pattern?

I apologise for the elementary and homely character of these interrogatories. But the fact that they arise out of a current controversy shows, where that controversy is taking us. And it is well that we should either go forward with our eyes open, or retrograde with our eyes shut. It is not surprising that the question in the parliamentary arena of the word "opportunity" may be sharply divided, of course, but the question of marriage is a matter for timely discussion. Who gains most by marriage, man or woman? And that question cannot be answered without answering the deeper question: "In the interest of which sex (apart altogether from the institution of home and the entity of family) is it most necessary that the institution of marriage should be preserved?" And when that question has been debated and answered, we shall know better where we are, and how to take our bearings in these unsteady days of woman's unrest.

Every time we order a suit of clothes we feel like kicking Adam for having eaten that apple.

As a "Trade" Well, if these assumptions be fallacious, and yet are at the very foundations of woman's unrest, it is well that they should be examined and discarded if only for her own peace of mind and to soothe her overstrung nerves. And that they do govern the attitude of the restless woman is evidenced from the most of the literature she is now turning out on the subject. Miss Cicely Hamilton, for instance, has formulated the indictment of her sex against marriage in a volume whose title sufficiently indicates its point of view: "Marriage as a Trade." The point of view from which marriage is seen as a trade is not likely to discern or disclose--what would, indeed, be wholly incompatible with its optical function--any non-economic "moral" notions that immortal institution; and so it is not surprising to find that the author of "Marriage as a Trade" sums up the special advantages of marriage to a woman as being:

1. The right to wear a gold ring of approval, but somewhat monotonous pattern.

2. The right to walk in to dinner in advance of a woman unfringed in the gold ring of the approved monotonous pattern, which the unmarried woman is supposed to remain in the seclusion of her bedroom.

Well, certainly if there be nothing more to be said for the advantages and privileges of the married state, it is hard to wish a woman's while to get married at all--though it would be interesting to know, if marriage is such an unattractive trade for women, what other staple industry they purpose to adopt. And yet the surprising thing is that the married woman does still take the frankly superior position among her sex.

KNOW THE RIGMAROLE (Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.) A good story is going the rounds about a drummer and a pretty waitress. Here is what happened, according to report:

The dapper little traveling man glanced at the menu and then looked up at the pretty waitress. "Nice day, little one," he began.

"Yes, it is," she answered, "and so was yesterday, and my name is Ella, and I know I'm a little peach, and have pretty blue eyes, and I've been here quite a while and like the place, and I don't think I'm too nice a girl to be working in a hotel, but I did of quit my job, and my wages are satisfactory, and I don't know if there's a show or dance in town tonight, and if there is I shall not go with you, but I've been very hungry, and a cup of coffee and some hot cakes would do."

Our idea of a satisfactory wife is one who refuses to purchase ties and cigars for her husband.

Do You Suffer From Headaches? There are few people who have never experienced a headache from one cause or another. It effects all ages and both sexes alike, but the female sex is naturally more effected through the higher nervous development and more delicate organization of the system. Those also of a nervous temperament and studious or sedentary occupation are subject to it.

The presence of headache nearly always tells us that there is another disease which, though we may not be aware of it, is exerting its influence. It is a warning sign that we have an opportunity to assert itself.

Burdock Root is bitter but, for years, been curing all kinds of headaches, and if you will only give it a fair trial we are sure it will do for you what it has done for thousands of others.

Mr. John Connors, Burlington, N.S., writes: "I have been troubled with headache and constipation for a long time. After trying different doctors' medicine a friend asked me to try Burdock Root Remedies. I am completely cured after having taken three bottles. I can say without hesitation that it is all."

PREFERENTIAL DUTIES

Conditions Observed by France, Germany, Spain and the Netherlands

London, Nov. 26—A return showing the fiscal advantages at present enjoyed by France, Germany, Spain, the Netherlands and the United States on goods imported from their colonial possessions and, conversely, by the said colonial possessions to goods from their mother country has been published as a White Paper.

The return shows that natural or manufactured products of Algeria imported to France direct and by French ships, also those of Guadeloupe, Martinique, French Guiana, Indo-China, Madagascar and certain other possessions enjoy a rebate of the customs duty for sugar and "colonial produce," and freedom from customs duty for other products, on condition that the origin of the products is proved. In the case of Algeria, bauxites, preserves, chocolate and certain other products are admitted free into the mother country. Subject to the conditions of proof of origin and direct shipment by French vessels, nearly all products from Tunisia, whereas foreign products are taxed. A large number of Corsican products are admitted free, but, on the other hand, others are subject to the same duties as foreign imports. As regards colonies and possessions in Africa, India, and Oceania, certain preferential advantages are given. French products, both natural and manufactured, except sugar, are admitted into Algeria free of customs duty, if shipped direct and by French vessels. French sugar is taxed the same as foreign sugar, but is exempted from the "surtax" or import duty proper. With certain exceptions, foreign products pay an import duty on Algeria as duties charged by the tariff of Continental France. Most French products and manufactures, shipped to French colonies and possessions, are admitted free, if imported direct, but there are some exceptions.

Germany treats the products of her colonies in the same way as those of countries enjoying the most favored nation treatment, and German goods imported into German colonies enjoy such treatment only.

Spanish possessions in Africa enjoy a preferential tariff in the case of a large variety of goods shipped to Spain, while others are subject to the ordinary, through minimum rates on articles of foreign origin. Products and manufactures from the Canary Islands are subject to ordinary (minimum) import duties, with the exception of vegetables, cochineal, basmati, fish, and a few other articles. Imports into Spanish possessions in Africa are admitted free, or charged either the same as, or less than, the duties on foreign goods. The Canary Isles grant no preference to articles from the mother country.

As between Holland and her colonies there is no preferential system at all. In the case of the United States, there is free trade with Porto Rico, Hawaii and Alaska. The products of the Samoan group of islands belonging to the United States are admitted free, under certain conditions into that country; no preferential treatment is accorded by them to products from the United States. Certain products and manufactures in the Philippines are admitted into the United States free, while others are taxed. United States products and manufactures are admitted duty free into the Philippines.

THE STUDENT VOLUNTEER MOVEMENT, A GATHERING

(By F. P. Turner, General Secretary, New York.) The bare announcement that the Sixth International Convention of the Student Volunteer Movement is to be held at Rochester during the Christmas holidays and that it is likely to call together 3,000 delegates from colleges and universities, from the various missionary boards and their foreign fields, from the many young people's organizations and from many minds, "What is this 'Volunteer Movement' which is creating such a stir?"

Its Origin The Student Volunteer Movement originated in the summer of 1889 at Mt. Hermon, Mass., in connection with the first international Christian student conference ever held. The conference was called together by the late Dr. L. Moody, at the suggestion of Luther D. Washburn, who was at that time the secretary of the student association of America. The object of the conference was that the students might come together for a month of Bible study and the consideration of Christian work in the colleges. Among the 250 delegates at this conference a few had decided to offer themselves as missionaries. An opportunity offered to these students pressed upon their feet delegates the need of the non-Christian world and the necessity of facing the question of personal devotion to foreign missionary service. Soon the paramount interest of every man was one which these few had brought to the front, Platform addresses, Bible study, even the athletic sports of the afternoon, converged upon the subject of missions. Such struggles as the woods and halls of Mt. Hermon witnessed had probably never been paralleled. As a result, at the end of the month an even hundred men had signed a card, reading, "I am willing and desirous, God permitting, to become a foreign missionary."

During the conference it was decided that the missionary message ought to be carried into all the institutions of the country, and that P. Wilder and John N. Corbin were selected for this task, and spent the following year in visiting the colleges, with the result that large numbers of students decided to offer themselves for the foreign missionary service. In 1888 the movement was formally organized. The executive committee, consisting of John R. Mott, chairman, Miss Nettie Dunn and Robert P. Wilder, were selected to direct the work of the movement in the colleges of the United States and Canada. In 1898, the executive committee was increased in numbers, and its members consisted of the following members: John R. Mott, chairman; J. Ross Stewart, vice-chairman; H. P. Anderson, secretary; and Miss Bertha Condit.

Its Aims What does this movement attempt to do, and how is the work done? To reach student centers, traveling secretaries to the number of eight or ten a year go from college to college, where they try to accomplish four things: To bring the missionary message to the entire body of students in an intelligent and direct way as possible; to interview and direct those who are called to foreign missionary service; to organize these volunteers where the number permits, into a Volunteer Band, whose business it is to carry out the missionary program; and to be mutually helpful to one another in the matter of preparation for the foreign field. The work of the movement is to see that everything which will tend to foster and maintain the interest in the college is brought into its life. The methods that are most useful in this connection are the purchase of up-to-date libraries of missionary giving, and the organization of meetings from time to time to discuss the work, the promotion of missionary giving, and the organization of study classes and immigration of Americans to the Dominion Rev. J. A. MacDonald Addresses the "Why Go to Canada" Exhibition in Chicago

Warning his hearers that the United States is as powerless to prevent her people from following the lure of the Great Canadian West as she is to prevent them and their children from throwing up their caps and shouting "God Save the King," after they have heard a while of the Rev. J. A. MacDonald in the Auditorium Annex in Chicago at the opening of the "Why Go to Canada" exhibition. Said Mr. MacDonald, "I tell you frankly, you cannot bring back to your American states those who have crossed the boundary and settled in the northwestern and western Canada. No inducements you can offer, no land schemes you may devise, no reclamation proposals that have answered the call of the northwestern zone. They are now good Canadians, as good as any under the flag. They find their property secure, their persons safe, their social surroundings congenial, their citizenship free. They sing 'God Save the King,' as loyally as the native born, and they teach their children more, you cannot completely or for long block the way of those who are still in your country, but upon whom has been laid the spell of 'No. 1' hardy. You may keep them today, but tomorrow they will be in the third day they will pitch their tents under the northern lights. The exhibition was given for the purpose of furthering the campaign which intended to turn the tide of emigration into Canada from the United States and other parts of the Union where there is land plenty. Both state and federal governments are behind the movement, and the purpose of which is to help the United States hold on to her people. Exhibits of grain, vegetables and products of the arid and semi-arid districts of the United States fill the Coliseum, and the show will be held beyond the northern sky line, and in the third day they will pitch their tents under the northern lights. Governor Deneen admitted in his speech that Canada had made greater progress in the last ten years than any nation in the world. Mr. MacDonald was cheered when he praised the United States for reclaiming their deserts and giving land to the landless from the cities, reducing the mob elements and enriching the country. But he warned them that after they had done their best, the most virile and enterprising of their people would answer the call of the hard west from the northwestern zone, and that they would be glad to become good Canadians. "ELECTRICITY IS LIFE"

If you want to get up in the world and make your mark; if you want to be pointed at as a successful man; if you want to be a Man among men, you must be full of electricity—spending hours and hours regretting your past follies and mistakes—departing of help will not add to your capital of nerve power—will not help you down the shadows and get you into the sunlight of happiness and success. You aren't the only fellow after the volume—the high places. Thousands are in the strife, and he prizes go to the wide-awake—the men of courage and energy. Life is made of hurry and worry, hard knocks and excitement.

You Have Heard It Said That Opportunity Knocks But Once in a Lifetime The fact is, she makes several calls, but she doesn't come as with a brass band to wake you up. Nature carved you in the image of a man, a man you can be as we can show you. If you have exhausted your vitality through temptation and folly, if you have exhausted your vitality through excitement and worry, use your God-given brains and judgment for a few moments. Take an inventory of yourself. Seek the truth. Study your weakness. Don't further wreck your nervous system and betwixt you by pills, drugs, stimulants, but use that great wondrous power, electricity, as I apply it with

Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt I can point to hundreds of men to-day who came to me broken in health and spirit—absolute physical wrecks, hopeless, despondent. They have gained a good deal of their vitality and are getting on in the world. Many of them say that my Belt saved their lives. I have worn one of my Electric Belts for three months. It has done more for me than I expected, and I feel that I am perfectly cured. I cannot speak too highly of it, and hope that it will do as much for others as it has done for me. G.T.P. NOW RUNNING PASSENGER TRAINS Regular Service Between Winnipeg and Edmonton Started This Week

Montreal, Nov. 26—This week the Grand Trunk Pacific started running through trains direct from Winnipeg to Edmonton. This would have been done some time earlier, but for the ruling of the railway commission that the through service could not be started until the line was completely fenced. In this work was completed last week by the contractors, and regular passenger service was at once started. Under the new schedule there will be daily trains each way, a straight passenger train running Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and mixed trains on the alternate days, but the straight passenger service as yet will only extend as far as Winnipeg, the rest of the way being made up of freight trains. The passenger trains will leave Winnipeg at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and will reach Edmonton at 3 the following morning, while the further trip to Edmonton will take 36 hours, the service thus making 36 hours for the 722 miles, which is pretty fair going for a new road, the trains still being operated by the construction department. The mixed trains will, of course, take much longer, but they are primarily intended to take care of local traffic. At Edmonton, the G. T. P. will for some time to come use the Canadian Northern terminals, with the probability that in a few years a big union station will be built. As matters now stand the only gap in the train service for the Grand Trunk Pacific between Fort William and Edmonton is the 200 odd miles of National Transcontinental between Superior Junction and Winnipeg, which will not be ready for regular traffic for some time to come.

CLAIMS A FIND IMPORTANT IN WORKING OF IRON Process Which Will Overcome the Presence of Titanium—Results of Experiments Spokane, Wash., Nov. 26—Magnetic iron ore, heretofore looked upon as worthless because of the prevalence of titanium, an element which prevented its reduction, will be used by the Washington Steel & Iron Company in its plant to be erected in the northern part of Spokane. The company has been incorporated under the laws of the State of Washington with a stated capitalization of $1,000,000 and these officers—President, M. A. Corner; secretary and treasurer, O. P. Moore, and E. H. Rothbert, general manager. Mr. Rothbert has perfected a process for the manufacture of high grade wrought iron and steel from this base ore, of which there is 3,000,000 tons in sight on a tract of 270 acres in western Oregon, leased by his company on a royalty basis. The cost of producing crucible steel is placed at $20 a ton, while tool steel can be made at twenty-five cents a pound. The minimum market price of the first named is $100 a ton, the latter selling at from sixty cents to $225 a pound. Experts declare that by solving the problem of overcoming the titanium with this new process of smelting, large bodies of the ore in various parts of the United States and Canada will become available for commercial purposes and add millions of dollars to the wealth-production of the country. Mr. Rothbert has been experimenting at Hopium, Wash., for several years, and has produced steel for saw, knife-blade, razor and other edged tools said to be equal to the best output of European mills. "I do not claim to be able to revolutionize the steel industry," he said, "but I have discovered a process by which we can utilize this ore in a commercial way."

BUSINESS MEN DECLARE AGAINST TELEPHONE INCREASE

Mayor Bullock, J. N. Harvey, A. O. Skinner and J. Willard Smith Express Themselves--Legislature Must Act

The ultimatum issued yesterday by the N. B. Telephone Company has caused no little indignation among business men. The general feeling is that if the public now really has no protection against further extensions by the telephone monopoly, steps must be taken to secure from the legislature provision for control over rates and safeguards against arbitrary increases whenever the telephone company feels like ordering them. On all sides yesterday it was said that the telephone merger would never have been allowed to pass at Fredericton had not the public believed it was secure against increased telephone charges.

It was learned yesterday that many telephone subscribers had refused to sign agreements at the advanced rate, the number including some holders of telephone stock.

Many citizens were outspoken yesterday in discussing the telephone situation. Some are quoted here:

J. N. Harvey—"I am opposed to any increase in the rates, and I refuse to sign a new contract for my telephone at the increased rate for business reasons. I believe there was an understanding on the part of the merger that if the merger was allowed to go through there would be no increase in the rates. This I have no authority as a member of the provincial legislature. I also understand that one-third of the stock of the telephone company is watered stock, and I don't see why the people should be forced to pay six or eight per cent on water. The legislature has a right to protect the people, and if the company has the power to increase the rates, then the government should be approached at once and urged to take over the company's business, not at the amount of the stock-including the water—but at the actual cost of the plant."

In reference to the railway commission having control of the company's rates I wrote to Dr. Daniel about this and he said he asked the question but the minister of justice gave him an evasive answer, saying it was a legal question and the information should be sought in the usual way.

"My own case I regard as a hold up. On June 16, 1903, I signed contracts for two phones, one in the store and one in my house. Later, for convenience, I changed my store phone to a desk phone and was told the contract would have no effect on my previous one, the only increase being the difference in cost between a wall phone and a desk phone. Now a representative of the company tells me that the contract for the desk phone nullified my previous contract, and that unless I pay the increased rate the phone will be removed in January. I have written to the telephone company asking if they intend to remove the phone and I will take legal advice before I submit to it."

"I was also informed by a friend that a director of the company had told him that they had the authority of the governor-in-council to make the increase. I asked a member of the legislature about it and he told me they had no such authority. If their charter gives this authority I think the boards of trade all over the province should take action and the government

CATCH POACHERS ON LAKE SUPERIOR

Dr. Cutten Accepts Presidency of Acadia--Sussex Fire--Canadian News Notes

Toronto, Nov. 26--News of strenuous fight near Otter Head on Lake Superior between two fishing tugs and a provincial vessel in charge of Overseer Calbeck reached parliament buildings yesterday.

The engagement, which resulted in the capture of the two tugs and a quantity of fishing nets, took place yesterday. The tugs were engaged in illegal fishing. Though Calbeck's dispatch does not say so, it is surmised they are United States boats.

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 26--About 7 o'clock last evening an unknown man entered the ten year old daughter of Thomas Stanford into a shed at the rear of the house and brutally assaulted her. She is now confined in the Hotel Dieu.

Woodstock, N. B., Nov. 26--(Special)--Mrs. Alma McArthur, with her child, arrived from Hamilton (Ont.) today to visit her husband in the hospital, who is in a critical condition from injuries received by falling from the C. P. R. new bridge at Upper Woodstock on Sunday morning.

Halifax, Nov. 26--Rev. Dr. Cutten, now in the United States, has accepted the presidency of Acadia College. The position was offered to him some days ago. He signified his acceptance in a telegram tonight to the governors.

Sussex, N. B., Nov. 26--Two barns containing 100 tons of hay and a lot of valuable farm machinery, owned by David Aiton, who lives about two miles from Sussex, was totally destroyed by fire at 1:30 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Aiton says his loss is about $3,000 with only a little insurance on the buildings and none on the contents.

Halifax, Nov. 26--(Special)--The Young Men's Christian Association have sold the vacant lot on the corner of Barrington and Salter streets for $16,000. The purchasers are a committee acting for the Masonic body, whose hall the lot adjoins. The price is $16,000. The lot is about 50 by 60 feet. The Y. M. C. A. will occupy their new building on a rectangular lot immediately north, 80 by 100 feet. The extension for the foundation is now under way.

The British schooner Loyal, Halifax for New York had her decks cleared of several thousand bundles of laths and put into a boat in the recent storm. She put into Gloucester.

ANGER OF FOOD SHORTAGE SAYS HILL

Cowboys Shoot up a Town--Mother of Twenty Babes Dead--News Notes From States

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 26--While not entirely agreeing with the recent statement issued by Bradstreet, which intimates that the consumption of food products in this country has caught up with production, James J. Hill says that the point has been nearly reached and that we are so close to it that there is reason for alarm.

"It is a matter which should be seriously considered," said Mr. Hill today. "Our present heavy trade is an indication that the margin between our production and consumption is becoming narrower. A comparison of the figures of ten years ago and those of today shows that our enormous balance of that time has dwindled away. We are not exporting foodstuffs as we were. We are consuming them ourselves."

"The increase in price this year and dearth of food is a matter of supply and demand."

Egglewale, N. D., Nov. 26--Two cowboys last night fatally shot Louis Maxwell, a cowboy, known as the Great Broiler, who has not been found. In a pool room fight last night Maxwell was shot by one of the brothers. The man who fired the shot was born at St. John's (Que.), Canada. He took possession of the town. Firing volley after volley with large revolvers, the two parties ran the streets and forced everyone to do their bidding until long after midnight. They then galloped off, much to the relief of the inhabitants.

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 26--Mrs. Zelina Bollean, of Cleveland, Ohio, the mother of twenty children, died today, aged 77 years. She was born at St. John's (Que.), Canada.

Bangor, Me., Nov. 26--While hunting in the town of Maxfield this forenoon Frank Parsons, of Bangor, aged 24, was accidentally shot by his companion, Chas. Lowell, receiving a probably fatal wound.

THIS ATHLETE OF FIFTY-TWO YEARS

Says He Owes His Wonderful Energy to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Was Tortured With Rheumatism and a Cripple Until the Great Kidney Remedy Cured Him.

Six Nations, Ont., Nov. 26--(Special)--Fifty-two years of age but still vigorous enough to captain the lacrosse team, John Silverthorn of this place can truly be looked on as a wonderful athlete. One would naturally think he was all his life a healthy man--and it was far otherwise, and he lamentably states that his wonderful energy and vitality are due to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I suffered with Rheumatism for over seven years," Mr. Silverthorn says in telling his story, "and it finally made a complete cripple of me. My back was bent nearly double, and when I tried to walk I had to use crutches. Latterly I could not get around at all and I suffered excruciating pain."

"Two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills were sent me; sixteen boxes cured me completely."

Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure Rheumatism because Rheumatism is caused by disordered Kidneys and Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure disordered Kidneys.

ARMORY FOR ST. JOHN WILL COST TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND

First Vote of $35,000 Passed in Parliament Yesterday--Other New Brunswick Public Buildings--Mayer Matter Revived by Crockett

Ottawa, Nov. 26--When the estimates for public buildings in New Brunswick were under discussion today, Hon. William Pugsley explained, in connection with two items of $15,000 each for public buildings at Fairville and Grand Falls, that the estimated cost of the buildings in each case would be $20,000 and $25,000.

"The Hartland public building, on which a vote of $5,000 was proposed, was to be used as an armory, post office and customs house."

O. S. Crockett, referring to this item, suggested this and similar works in the constituency were undertaken for the benefit of good Liberal friends of Dr. Pugsley. He made an allusion to Mr. Mayer in connection with the Mayer dredging contract, and said he believed in the truth of Mayer's statement as to $2,000 received by Dr. Pugsley from Mayer for professional services.

"That statement of Mayer was false," retorted Dr. Pugsley, with some warmth, "and I must ask the honorable gentleman to withdraw his remarks. Mayer is a shameful and wretched perjurer."

Chairman McIntyre interposed and asked the members to confine themselves to the item under discussion.

Items totaling $117,750 for public buildings in New Brunswick were passed. Dr. Pugsley intimated that the St. John drill hall for which there was a vote of $35,000 would cost about $20,000.

A house of commons had a meeting of British Columbia politics to-day. The Conservative members of that province interrupted the ordinary course of business to indulge in a piece of cheering over the triumph of their party at the polls.

To enable the opposition to have a hearing J. D. Taylor, New Westminster, professed to be greatly concerned over rumors that F. O. Wade, K. C., a Liberal candidate in the recent election in British Columbia, was to be appointed lieutenant-governor of the province.

He intimated that Mr. Wade had been promised the lieutenant-governorship as a reward for taking part in the campaign and protested that Mr. Wade was unfit for the office. When he declared that there had been an election in British Columbia the opposition cheered wildly.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier sharply rebuked Mr. Taylor, by informing him that it would be time enough to criticize the government when they had made the appointment.

Mr. Boreas assumed that Mr. Wade had been promised the lieutenant-governorship as a reward for his services in the campaign.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier emphatically denied that there had been any promise or hint of such a thing.

Then Mr. Burrell, Yale-Cariboo, suggested that J. A. MacDonald, the former opposition leader in British Columbia, was to be appointed chief justice of British Columbia as a reward for taking part in the campaign.

Hon. Mr. Fielding scored the opposition by laying down the doctrine that taking part in a political campaign was an offence which disqualified a man from public office. He completed the business of the opposition critics by recalling that one of his own opponents in Halifax had been appointed a judge by the Conservative government shortly after his defeat.

The house then got into supply.

THE ELECTIONS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 26--From returns received today it is apparent that in a house of forty-two members, thirty-eight straight Conservatives are elected, with one independent Conservative, Dunsmuir, and one Liberal, McPherson.

The five remaining seats are divided between the Liberals and Socialists. The Liberals are Jardine, of Esquimalt, Alexander, of Alberni, and Eggleston, of Nanaimo. The Socialists are Hawthornthwaite, of Nanaimo, and Parker Williams, of Newcastle.

The Liberals have therefore lost ten seats and the Socialists one, Grand Forks. The only opposition effort to these seven government gains is the defeat of the official government candidate in the three-cornered fight in Comox.

Local opinion appears to have been carried by the country as a whole, but this is not certain yet.

Many returns are incomplete, especially from such distant constituencies as Alton and the two Caribous, but the Maritime supporters have rolled up such large majorities, as to indicate that little change is likely to be made from the above; and they are the official count.

The opposition leader, John Oliver who ran for Delta, his home, and in Victoria, was defeated in both places.

NEW LAW IN STATES HITS LIQUOR TRADE

Prohibition States Most Seriously Affected--Heavy Penalty For Violations

Washington, Nov. 26--The jug trade in intoxicating liquors, which has flourished in interstate commerce to prohibition countries, is apparently endangered by the new criminal code of the United States. The new statute was enacted at the very close of the final session of the last congress, and signed by President Roosevelt. Though it was not until today that the law took effect, it contained much that the legislators in general knew nothing about.

It is claimed here that the new code in some important particulars restricts the well established and thriving business of transporting liquors into prohibition states. This may affect the trade into Maine, although it is said to bear most heavily upon trade into the prohibition states of the south.

Chapter 9, section 228 of the new code forbids any officer or agent of railroads to express companies from delivering original packages of liquors to fictitious persons. A maximum fine of $5,000 and imprisonment for a term of not more than two years are imposed as penalties. Such agents shall be penalized not more than $5,000 for collecting the purchase price of such liquors or for taking any part in the transaction, save in actual transportation and delivery.

The containers of wet goods are required to put plainly upon the label the name of the consignee, the nature of the contents and the quantity. The penalty for violating that provision is the forfeiture of the property to the United States and a fine of not more than $5,000.

Local option communities, quite as much as prohibition states, are concerned in these provisions. Fall River (Mass.) is cited as an example, because of its proximity to Rhode Island, from within whose borders considerable quantities of original packages of liquor have been shipped over the line.

In some southern communities local prohibition laws have been defied by the shipment of John Doe jugs and other containers, that could be called for and purchased by any thirsty citizen. The language of the new code will strike at the continuance of that practice.

The code also imposes a maximum fine of $10,000 or ten years' imprisonment, or both, for giving advance information about crop reports. This is aimed specifically at such offences as caused scandal in the de-

AT ST. LUKE'S

St. Luke's Sunday school was the scene of a most successful congregational social evening, which was largely attended and formed a fitting culmination to a week of notable services. Several of the members of St. Luke's were present and greatly enjoyed the evening. Jones and chatters furnished music and the ladies of the church served refreshments. The setting of an immense St. Luke's birth cake was a feature of the evening. Sunday the pupils of St. Luke's will be occupied at both services by Archdeacon Armitage, of Halifax.

Suffered Terrible Pains From His Kidneys.

Perhaps no other organs work harder than the kidneys to preserve the general health of the body. And most people are troubled with some kind of kidney complaint, but do not suspect it.

There is no sign of getting the kidney poisons out of the system except through the kidneys, and no medicine is effective in taking them out as Doan's Kidney Pills.

They help the kidneys to flush off the acid and poisonous impurities which have collected, thus clearing out the kidneys, bladder and urinary passages.

Doan's Kidney Pills are entirely vegetable, and may be safely taken by old and young.

Mr. Donald A. Melrose, Broad Cove Banks, N.S., writes:--"I was troubled with my kidneys for two months, and suffered with such terrible pains across the small of my back all the time that I could hardly get around. After using two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills I began to feel better, and by the time I had taken three I was completely cured."

Price 50 cents per box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WENT TO BEG, BUT HOUSE WAS POLICEMAN'S HOME

Fred MacAfee's Mistake Led Him to Police Court—Doctor Will Examine Him

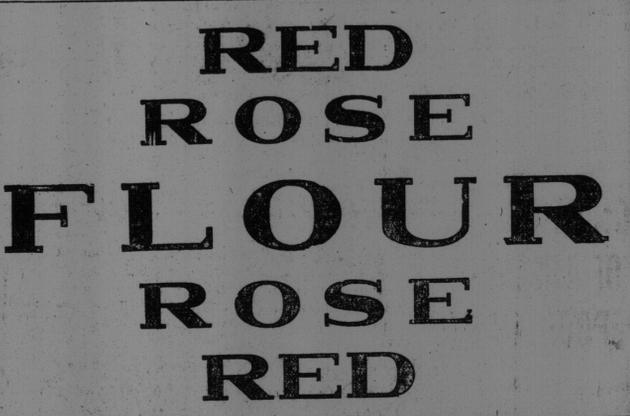

Fred MacAfee pleaded guilty this morning in the police court to a charge of begging in Acadia street. He said that he had been forced to do so, as he had no place to board and his uncle had turned him from his home in Sheriff street. He had worked around the steamer for two days this week. He was hungry yesterday and asked for a meal.

Policeman Delya, who arrested him, said that he was violent and was found begging frequently about the streets. He went to the house of the witness yesterday and demanded his supper.

MacAfee said that he would not be present in the court this morning if it were not for "a doctor in the asylum and a clergyman, who were down on him because he was bashful." But he would fix them! He would land them in jail if they were not careful.

MacAfee was remanded, and Dr. James Christie will examine him.

JUDGE FORBES DISMISSES THE APPEAL

Supports Judge Ritchie's Decision in Matter of Groceries and Beer in Same Premises

In county court chambers this morning before His Honor Judge Forbes, the matter of the appeal in the case of Timothy Dickey, defendant, by Judge Ritchie, of selling beer unlawfully in his premises, Mill street, and fined $50, came up for hearing and was dismissed.

His Honor said that he had carefully examined all the evidence and he supported the decision given by the police magistrate. The defendant had said that he had sold beer after 5 o'clock and, although there was a large number of people in the store after 8 o'clock, no groceries were sold. The place was called a "beer shop," even by the defendant.

His Honor said that while he could not reduce the fine imposed in one case, $50, which was the minimum, he could and would reduce that in the other case of $30 to $20, the minimum, and the matter of costs would be dismissed.

HUGHES CASE TO COME BEFORE M.P.A.A. AGAIN

Re-Instatement Not Settled and Matter of Playing Professional Baseball Will Be Taken Up

In connection with the reinstatement of Frank Hughes, of Amherst and Fred Ericson, concerning which the Fredericton Gleaser has had much to say, a letter from the secretary of the M. P. A. A. in response to an enquiry from the St. John committee, states that Hughes' name was not on the list as having played professional baseball last summer, and that this matter will be taken up at the next meeting of the executive, which will shortly be held. The president and vice-president are at present in Toronto attending the meeting of the C. A. A. U.

The Hughes matter, therefore, is not yet settled and it is unlikely that he will play hockey this winter.

That he was reinstated in September was due to the fact that the M. P. A. A. had not then a representative committee in New Brunswick. The Gleaser will be glad to know that there is such a committee now, and that it is disposed to do the square thing all round.

PUT IN CELL TO MAKE UP MIND TO GO TO SCHOOL

A short juvenile court session was held this morning by Judge Ritchie, when a case of truancy was before him. James Watson, an eleven-year-old colored boy, was charged with not attending school. Truan Officer McMan said that the boy had been absent from school for twelve days during the present month.

Mr. Dykeman, principal of the Alexandria school, said that the boy was very self-willed and seemed unwilling to learn.

Mrs. Williams, an aunt of young Watson, and his guardian, said that she had tried by every means in her power to help the boy along and provide for him, but he was ungrateful and so unruly that she had but little control over him. She was afraid at night to send him on errands, as he would not come back.

The youngster remained in school for ten days on his own accord, but was kept home for two days to have his clothes washed and mended. He would not come home at night but would sleep out in barns and other places. Mrs. Williams said she had tried to frighten him by locking the door at a certain hour after tea and if he was not home by that time she would not allow him in. This had made him worse and he slept away from home quite often. He had to be brought to court today by the police, as he had not been home last night.

His honor said that it was a strange fact that a strong, able woman could not control a lad of eleven years and make him attend school. He ordered the boy sent below until he would promise to go to school regularly.
