CHAUTAQUA IS IN FULL SWING

Program on Opening Day was one of Finest Ever Presented—Rare
Treats are in Store

Hartland's fourth Swarthmore Chautauqua began yesterday afternoon with the program by the Apollo Concert Company both afternoon and evening indicates that this year's program will be fully up to every expectation and surpass the best that has been given here. Most people who try to be funny fall miserably, but Ralph Bingham makes a business of it and gets away with it far better than most men who have tried. Such wholesome, fresh, clean, exciting humor as this versatile genius poured forth last evening tickled the young people and rejuvenated those with graying hair. He is also a talented violinist and pianist. He is an artist. Chautauqua parade on Monday evening created much enthusiasm and many outsiders came into town to see it. The advance agent, Mr. Cahill, and the junior leader, as well as Rev. W. R. High, gave stirring addresses from the balcony of the Keith & Plummer building.

The program for this afternoon and evening will be the Ernest Gamble Concert Company which will consist largely of classical music. There will be a lecture by Harry R. McKee on "Your Community in Revolution" at the afternoon session. The charming English lady, Miss Ada Ward, known as "the little English woman with the big message" will capture the audience tonight with her talk on "Your Folks Over Here".

The remainder of the seven days program will be found on the last page of this paper. On Sunday the sacred program will open at 2 p.m., in the big tent and there will be no admission charge, to which everybody is invited.

Chautauqua week is a great thing for Hartland. It brings a lot of visitors to town. The community spirit is well established, and while the people are being treated to entertainment of the highest class, they are also being given mental food that cannot fail to lead their thoughts into the higher and better and more substantial things of life.

Those who failed to purchase season tickets before yesterday noon are regretting much their lost opportunity. Single admissions may be secured for 75 cents each except on play nights, when the price is $1.

Some have been heard to bemoan the fact that Chautauqua will take a great deal of money away. This is rather a childish complaint because for other things a great deal more money is being sent away every week than Chautauqua takes, and when a man buys a first class automobile, which most men hereabout have done, nobody is heard to bemoan the sending away of the money; and close to a quarter of a million has been sent from this immediate vicinity to pay for automobiles.

There may be no Chautauqua in Hartland next year as arrangements have been made that if Florenceville will undertake the burden next year, Hartland enthusiasts will support them in their guaranty, and Hartland people will take as many season tickets as Florenceville has done this year.

Unusual Services Held at Windsor on July 15.

On Sunday morning, July 15, a most noteworthy service was held in the Union Church, Windsor, Rev. Willard S. Tedford, Falcoona, Ind., son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Tedford, some time deceased, preached a very impressive sermon to a large congregation, among them being eight of his own brothers and only sister. A quartette number by four brothers—Jesse, Victor, Bead's, Willard and Allan followed the address. In the afternoon a somewhat similar service was conducted. Rev. A. Lawrence Tedford, pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist church, St. John, occupied the pulpit. After an eloquent address, a duet was given by two of the brothers.

On the following day a picnic was held in an orchard, near the site of the old home. There were gathered together at this reunion the children and grandchildren numbering about forty in all. Those present were: Ralph H. and wife, of Apascario, California, who came to Huntington, West Virginia by rail and from there motored in company with Addington C. M. D. and wife, Arthur W. and three children, of Bancroft, Me.; Harry A., wife and four children, Westbrook, Me.; Joe E. and wife, Exeter, Maine; Willard C., returned missionary, India, wife and two sons; A. Lawrence, wife and three children, St. John; L. Victor, wife and two children, Sioux City, Iowa. There remain Jesse E., who is the only remaining brother at home, and the sister, Mrs. Percy E. Dickinson, also of Windsor. One brother, Fred C. and family, of Boston, were absent. A wire received late Saturday afternoon stated his inability to reach here for the happy festival.

This was an unusual reunion. Because of the fact that the large family still remain unbroken and were able to be together again after long years of separation, gladdened the hearts of all the participants and made it truly a happy event.

Students requiring board will please make application to Alexander Sharp, Woodstock, as early as possible to enable the billeting committee to make the necessary arrangements. Application will receive reply by mail (if plenty of time is given) stating the home provided.

It will not be necessary to remit the registration fee in advance, but should be paid on arrival. Any person may attend these schools, irrespective of creed or nationality.

The Woodstock school will be held in the Methodist church.

FLORENCEVILLE MAN KILLED IN KENTUCKY

Amy R. Merrill, 103 Mechanic street, has received word of the death of a brother, Fred Ross, a former resident of Florenceville, aged 30 years yesterday, in a mine cave-in in Harlan, Ky., where Mr. Ross was engaged as a civil engineer. A large piece of slate fell, causing the cave-in, and he was buried under the debris.

Mr. Ross was a graduate of the University of New Brunswick at Fredericton, where he was born. The year after his graduation in 1915 he made his home with Dr. Merrill here. He removed to the South soon after and was married there about a year ago.

A few years ago a brother, Edward, met a violent death in a Michigan railroad accident. During the winter his father, Stephen D. Ross, died suddenly while sitting in a dentist's chair in the Warren block.

Besides his wife, Mr. Ross leaves his mother, Mrs. Drusilla Ross, a sister, Mrs. Merrill, a brother, George of Los Angeles, Cal. He was a member of the Psi-chic fraternity.

The body will be brought to the home of Dr. Merrill for burial in Marsboro. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

(The foregoing is from the Worcester (Mass.) Gazette and the accident occurred on July 5.—Editor).

SLASH-BURNING TO BE STOPPED

A strong sentiment in favor of the elimination of spring and summer slash-burning has been created by the recent disastrous forest conflagrations in New Brunswick, many of which have been traced to slash burning sources. Residents of many sections of the province, particularly those most seriously affected by forest fires, are demanding greater precautions in the control of slash burning fires.

As an example of this public sentiment which has been aroused, the Restigouche County Council in semi-annual session recently adopted a resolution in support of the elimination of spring and summer burning and asking the Department of Lands and Mines to take steps in this direction. These demands which are being received from various sources also advocate the supervision of slash burning under qualified persons during periods when the fire hazard is at a minimum in the Fall. Forestry officials have long ago advocated such steps stating that sooner or later the elimination of burning during the period mentioned, would become imperative.

ILLEGAL HUNTING ENDS IN TRAGEDY

Nathan Orr, member of a party engaged in illegal hunting was accidentally shot and killed about 11 o'clock Saturday evening, on the dead water of the St. Croix, near Masardis. Orr was mistaken for a deer by Clarence Knapp, one of the party.

Clarence Knapp, Arthur Gooding and Ray Grass, all of Masardis were on a hunting trip and according to their own confessions were engaged in jacking deer. Two of the party were in a boat, Orr having placed a light about his head to attract the deer. As they approached the land, Knapp, thinking that the small light which showed but indistinctly through the fog, was the eye of a deer, fired and instantly killed Orr.

The men were overcome by the accident and decided to state that Orr killed himself accidentally and, indeed told that story to Sheriff E. W. Grant when he arrived at the scene. The investigation, however, showed that Orr had been shot in the back and that the bullet had come out through the shoulderblade. Then the men made the statement that Orr had been accidentally killed by Knapp giving the details as above and explained the shooting in the back by the statement that the boat was well by the men on the land when Knapp fired.

The three survivors of the party were arraigned in the Houlton Municipal court, Monday morning. Knapp on the charge of manslaughter and also of illegal hunting, the others on the latter charge. All pleaded guilty. Gooding and Grass were fined and paid, while Knapp on the manslaughter charge was bound over to the Supreme court term. Orr, who was a section man on the B. & A. at Masardis was married and had one child. He was about 32 years of age.—Houlton Times.

Miss Marion Trafton is taking summer school work at Sussex.

Miss M. A. Daigle of the Fraser Co's staff is taking her vacation.

Rev. N. Franchetti is attending the Woodstock Deanery at Plaster Rock this week.

Mrs. Ralph Gunter of Fredericton spent Sunday here and returned to Fredericton on Monday.

Mrs. E. Miller and daughter, Miss L. Miller, went to St. John on Wednesday to spend a few days.

Mrs. Jessie Amos left on Wednesday morning for a brief visit to her old home in Derby and Newcastle.

Dr. Wade, Medical Health Officer of the Province, was in Edmundston on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

F. D. Tweedie of Woodstock has been in town this week making arrangements for the Big races of next week.

We are glad to know that Miss Marjorie Odell who has been ill with typhoid fever is gaining strength, and is now sitting up. She is a guest at the home of Rev. N. Franchetti.

The Western Union Office has an entirely new staff. Miss Miller who was such an efficient Manager and had been there so long has resigned her position, in order to take a more responsible position later we understand. The present manager is Miss McLean, who comes from Cape Breton.

A good many people were interested in the show which grows in the swamp near the Fraser Co. Pulp Mill, which produces a blossom which has a cottony down attached to it. These balls of down are very fine, and this year there was a great quantity, and many people have wondered if it were not possible to manufacture it into some kind of fabric. The Observer sent a sample of the shrub and the downy blossom to the central experimental station at Ottawa, and this particular of it and received the following reply from the Botanist, Mr. Groh: "This is one of the many more or less similar willows which occur in Eastern Canada. The silky hairs or down attached to the seeds have been suggested from time to time as a material for fabrics, but I cannot find that any progress has been made in devising a method for its use. Doubtless this would have been done if the down had proved of enough value for this purpose. It would need to have a considerable value to compete with a crop so well adapted to cultivation as cotton, and for which such cheap labor has been available as in the South."

On August 2 there will be an Old English Fair held in Edmundston, with all kinds of attractions, including The Human Checker Game. The Human Checker Game has been played in a great many places, and only a few weeks ago a tremendous crowd was gathered at Revere Beach, Boston, to see this novel entertainment. It is believed that a great many people will be attracted to it in Edmundston, and advance tickets will be on sale at the end of next week. The game will be played between two checker enthusiasts on a specially prepared board in the open air.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. McKinley and family left this week for their vacation which will be spent on a tour

Montreal Honors First Skipper in Port

1. C.P.S.S. Montrose bringing first passengers to Montreal, 1922 Season. 2. Captain Edmund Aikman, Commander of the Bellingbrooke.

TWENTY years ago Montreal was but a "mere calling place for ships." It had practically no modern cargo-handling devices or equipment, its wharf sheds were just wooden shacks which were actually taken down in winter to prevent them being blown away, and much of the merchandise was stored in the open air at the mercy of the wind and weather. Now Montreal is the greatest riverside stopping place for ships, it has stepped into the front rank of ocean ports, and has become equipped with facilities for the accommodation of ships and for the handling and storing of freight that are unrivalled on the continent. Despite the fact that Canada has less than 10,000,000 population and that the United States has more than 110,000,000, Montreal now handles a greater volume of business than any port on the American continent with the solitary exception of New York.

The principal reasons for Montreal's supremacy are the facts that it is nearly one thousand miles inland from the ocean, at the head of deep water navigation with direct access to the Atlantic, and that behind it is a through route right up to the head of the Lakes at the Twin Cities, a thousand miles further inland. Were it an all year port, Montreal would be the chief one of the continent, but for some months winter closes the beautiful St. Lawrence route, and the vessels fretting at the mouth of the great river must wait until the ice goes out in the spring before they can make their way westward.

About fifty years ago, the Harbor Master originated the idea of presenting a tall silk hat to the captain of the first vessel to arrive in the spring with a transatlantic cargo, then, as the top hats lost their popularity, a gold headed cane was presented instead by the Harbor Commission.

This year the cane was presented to Captain Edmund Aikman, of the Canadian Pacific S.S. Bellingbrooke who had just completed his first voyage in command. The Bellingbrooke left London for Montreal on April 9th, calling at Antwerp en-route, arriving three hours ahead of her nearest competitor on May 3rd. The liner "Montrose" of the same line, the first passenger vessel to reach the port in 1922, arrived two days after.

Canada Faces the Future With Confidence

CANADIANS have always been noted for courage, optimism and faith in their country.

Canada was not built up by pessimists, nor will Canada continue to develop if her people allow themselves to become croakers and grouchers. Canada is fundamentally an agricultural country. We have a soil and climate which can grow the world's finest agricultural products.

Canadian farmers who have earned the capital invested in their farms out of profits in farming are numbered in thousands. These successful farmers have paid off their mortgages, stocked their barns and stables, bought their machinery, made a good living and brought up their families. It meant hard work, but today they are independent.

Prices of agricultural products are regulated by world supply and demand. Hence, decreasing production will not help the Canadian farmer.

Money in Mixed Farming

In recent years, at different points on the prairies, oats fed to steers have brought from 70c to $1.07 as against the Fort William price of 42c per bushel, while barley used for the same purpose has brought as high as 90c as against the Fort William price of 57c per bushel. Farmers marketing their coarse grains in this way lower marketing cost, have a sure market and make money on their grain, while at the same time they market their roughage, otherwise often wasted.

The cattle embargo is now off. Steers are worth more money and certain to make good money for the Canadian farmer from now on.

Money in Pigs

The Dominion Experimental Farms have proved by actual test that there is a profit in feeding pigs. Last year at the Central Farm, Ottawa, after paying for feed, labor, interest and depreciation, the net profit per pig was still $4.63.

Profits from Sheep

As money-makers, sheep are hard to beat. In every Province from Prince Edward Island to British Columbia are found many flocks returning generous profits to their owners.

We Must Cut Production Costs

Canada is meeting with the keenest competition in the marketing of her products. To hold her own and regain her place on the world's market, she must reduce cost of production.

The only way to do this is to increase production per acre, per cow or per other unit.

But improved quality, also, is essential to meet market demands.

The quantity and the quality of the products and the cost of production in competitive countries is beyond our control.

Prices of agricultural products are regulated by world supply and demand.

Hence, decreasing production will not help the Canadian farmer.

Poultry Pays

Poultry makes money for those who adopt modern methods, whether East or West. Little Prince Edward Island markets co-operatively in cartons, shipping annually upwards of one million dozen eggs.

The British Columbia Co-operative Poultry Men's Exchange markets in the same way, thus saving valuable glut in their local market.

There is a market for good Canadian horses, whether light or draught.

Grow Seed

Canada's Northern grown seed possesses extra vitality. There is a large market for it to the south. Canada exports seed potatoes, but imports other seeds. She has the opportunity to grow seeds for herself and for export.

The Future

Ten years from now the pessimists of today will have been forgotten. Britain has removed the embargo against our cattle. She wants our beef and bacon, our cheese, butter, eggs and apples, our wheat and flour. As the population of the United States increases, she will compete less and less against us on the British market. Eventually, she will herself be an importer of many other food stuffs besides wheat from this country.

Canada has the men, the climate, the land, the stock and the potential markets necessary for agricultural success. Let us farm with all the industry and science we can muster. Let's get to work and pay our debts. Canada is moving forward with confidence in its future. Let us keep going ahead.

W. R. TRAFFORD & SON

EAST FLORENCEVILLE, N. B.

A delightful program was served Friday morning about 5 o'clock by the raucous roar of fire. Dressing hurriedly and hastening out of doors, the garage on Mill Street owned by C. N. Boyer was found to be in flames. The proprietor and his family occupied apartments over the garage and the blaze, having originated in the lower part of the building, barely gave them time to escape. The building and contents were a total loss, as there was not even opportunity given to save any of the house furnishings. Three automobiles were burned, a Chevrolet owned by Mr. Boyer, an Overland by Dr. Brown and a Ford delivery by G. E. Wilson, Ltd. While the fire was at its climax an adjacent set of buildings occupied by Harry Grant caught fire and blazed merrily. A volunteer brigade however, removed the contents of the house, and by strenuous efforts with buckets and fire extinguishers, were able to put out this second conflagration. The rain of the day previous probably was the means of preventing the fire from assuming uncontrolled proportions and assisted the bucket-brigade in checking its progress.

HUNGRY HEARTS

THAT POWER LINE

The Government has promised that on August 7 it will render a decision with regard to the proposition to bring an electric power line from Bridgewater to Woodstock. While The Observer and other local newspapers have not given this important topic the continued boosting that it deserves, the people all along the proposed line are indeed very enthusiastic—first, because of the great need of power and light, and, secondly, with the encouragement that the government gave to the delegation. Granting that the cost is $100,000, it would be difficult to expend that amount of money in any way that would benefit so great a number of people and so many industries. The expenditure would eventually pay its own interest and all the up-keep costs, and at the same time assist in the development of the country. All the people of Carleton are awaiting with eagerness the result of the government's deliberations next Tuesday.

WHAT ADVERTISING MEANS TO YOU

Every now and then we like to talk to our merchants about advertising and we like to do it in this way because the subject is of equal interest to the public. Frankly the interest of the public, the interest of the merchant and the interest of the local newspaper publisher are inseparably linked.

The public always is best served by buying advertised goods. Goods that are advertised are goods that are more extensively manufactured and consequently cheaper because of increased production. Moreover advertising today is a guarantee of merit. No one need be afraid either of the honesty of the price or the quality of advertised goods. Competition compels honesty even if there should be a wish to avoid it.

There is another benefit, too, in local newspaper advertising. When advertising is thoughtfully employed it means the building of trade for our local merchants and this reacts in increase in real estate values generally. A prosperous business section means added population and increased conveniences. The whole scheme of advertising, merchandising and buying is one of cooperation to mutual advantage.

The merchant always wins favorably when he talks frankly in his advertising to the people and shows them he is dealing honestly with them and making a normal profit. The man who weeps with week consistently in his advertising shows he holds the public interest at heart is the man who wins. Many merchants lose the substance of public confidence in grasping for the shadow of immediate sales.

LULU LAWRENCE

The community of Knoxford was saddened Friday, July 6, by the death of Lulu Lawrence, aged 12 years, two months and one day. She was confined to her bed for two months, during which she bore her suffering patiently. Her kind and loving disposition won for her many friends who will greatly miss her in the home, Sunday school and day school. It may truthfully be said of her, "none knew her but to love her." She leaves to mourn, her father and mother, George and Jennie Lawrence; one brother, Lewis; three sisters, Mrs. Fred Wheeler, of Lower Knoxford, Ina and Blanche, at home, besides a large circle of relatives and friends. The funeral was held from the Upper Knoxford Baptist church, Sunday, July 8. Rev. Mr. Chowan of Florenceville spoke comforting words from St. John 10:10. "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." J. A. Margison had charge of the service. The pall-bearers were, Stanley and Alton Reid, Lee Congie and Clay Gallupe. Her class-mates paid their last tribute of respect by marching around the grave and dropping in a white rose. Interment was made in the Upper Knoxford cemetery.

The Story opens across the sea in troubled Europe. Savage bands of soldiery make life a terror for the Levin family and they set forth from their peaceful village to find security in the great democracy of America. We see them in the turmoil of New York City, a little group of humanity, dreaming of love, power and beauty in the new land—and finding adventure and struggle here more thrilling than anything they had ever imagined. The father, wrapped up in his ancient learning, proves to be a poor bread-winner. Wife, daughter and even the children are obliged to help in the battle for existence. Sara, the pretty daughter, yearning for the good things of life becomes janitress and in this capacity meets David, nephew of Rosenblatt the landlord and the latter's rent collector. David notes the courage and beauty of this little girl of the Old World. He tells her to read and write. He tells her that some day soon he will open his own law office and be independent of the money-grubbing uncle who has paid for his schooling at law. Friendship has become fervent love when David's uncle refuses to sanction the match. And Sara refuses to stand in the way of the young man's career. They part tearfully, broken heartedly.

Rosenblatt angered at his ambitious tenants raises their rent without mercy and Sara's mother rendered temporarily unbalanced by the slings of fortune breaks in the walls of the little home they loved. For the offense the Levins are haled to court. The young lawyer, David, rises in the emergency and stages brilliant defence for the harassed people in the face of his brutal uncle's protest and the Levins learn that in America there is justice for all. David persuades Sara that she is indispensable to his career and on the wings of success the family is carried to the suburbs where they see once more the fields and flowers they love.

To the great motion pictures of all time—to the few truly great films that have touched the heart of humanity—to all those works of the screen that have raised the standard of motion pictures as an art and an industry—to these worth-while products of the screen add Goldwyn's "Hungry Hearts."

It is a picture big in story, real as life itself and utterly beautiful in the character of its production. It is the heart hunger, the soul craving, the passionate outpouring of the spirit—the soul of humanity throbbing on the screen.

The book of immigrant stories by Anzia Yezierska from which this film was made is a modern sensation. Its author has been called a second Zola and editors everywhere have declared this book to be a classic contribution to the human stories of the world. Dr. Frank Crane says of the author: "From Sweatshop workers to a famous writer. All because she dipped her pen in her heart. I have laughed and cried over 'Hungry Hearts' as if I had seen an alien people's naked soul."

Goldwyn sent Miss Yezierska out to California to see that every detail of her story was produced with truthfulness and accuracy. The result is a brilliant human document, E. Mason Hopper's greatest triumph. We predict confidently that this motion picture will reap fame and fortune in the next season. It will stand out not only as one of the greatest pictures of all time, but as one of the greatest money-makers ever offered to the exhibitors of America.

Florenceville Facts

(Telegraph Correspondent) The Florenceville Women's Institute held a special meeting on Tuesday evening, July 24, at the home of the president, Mrs. Wilbur Taylor. It was decided not to award any school prizes next year. The members are busy preparing a patchwork quilt for the institute exhibit this fall. Carleton Lodge held their regular meeting on Tuesday evening, July 26. V. M. Jim Lee was in the chair. The special school meeting of the Florenceville united district was held on Friday evening, but the financial statement was not ready. Two auditors, Hedley Jewett and George H. Wheeler were appointed, and it is hoped to have the work completed soon. The continued wet weather is discouraging to the farmers, who have just started their haying operations. The potato crop has not suffered as yet, as the weather has been cool, which prevents rust during wet weather.

Henry Lovely, of Gordonville, underwent an operation in Fisher Memorial Hospital recently; his condition is serious.

HARPER-KIMBALL

On July 18 the home of Mrs. J. F. Harper, Jacksonville, was the scene of a very happy event when her daughter, Lillian Blanche, was united in marriage to Miles George, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot Kimball, of Waterville, in the presence of the immediate relatives and a few friends.

The bride was becomingly gowned in brown tulle and sand colored lace drapings and sand colored lace gloves. She carried a bouquet of Opheelia roses and gypsophylla. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Stanley Young assisted by Rev. P. A. Fitzpatrick. At the close of the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served after which Mr. and Mrs. Kimball left, amid showers of confetti and followed by the good wishes of their many friends, for an auto trip to Fredericton, St. John and other provincial points of interest.

The bride's going away suit was navy blue tricotored with hat to match, grey shoes and a grey squirrel neck piece, the gift of the groom. The gifts were numerous consisting of cut glass, silver, linen and money. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Kimball will reside at Waterville.

All the above lands hereby conveyed containing one hundred and fifty acres more or less (save and except) that portion of the Frederick Morehouse Grant, which lies between the said River Saint John, and the Main Highway Road, and north of a certain Brook, locally known as the Rideout Brook. DEFAULT having been made in the payment of the principal money and interest thereby secured. ALBERT A. HAWTHORNE, Assignee of Mortgage. M. L. Hayward, Solicitor.

Are they willing to see that it gets the advertising to which it is entitled, and the backing and encouragement that counts for just as much as hard cash when the two are linked together? Are they willing to give the paper the very heartiest support they can muster, or do they think the paper can exist on good wishes? The town is going to ask these questions. And if the answer isn't right he is a very foolish man if he doesn't leave the town still wanting a paper. It is one thing to want a newspaper, but another thing to want it best enough to support it as it should be supported if it is going to be a success.—(Uniontown Wash.) Journal.

The Neighborhood Theatre announces as Saturday's attraction Shirley Mason in "Very Truly Yours," her latest Fox photoplay. The story has to do with the matrimonial experiment of a very charming young hotel stenographer—an experiment which threatens disaster for a time because a fortune the girl thought was there was not there after all. Not a wholly novel situation in itself, but said to be developed in this case with extraordinary cleverness and charm.

WONDERFUL IS HUMAN MIND

Man Believes What He Wants to Believe, and Then Finds Reasons to Confirm Convictions.

A wonderfully curious organ is the human mind, a never-failing source of humor—that is, the minds of other people. And that is a part of the humor. "If I kill you, it's all right," Leech made one of his Punch characters say to another; "but if you kill me, by Jove, it's murder."

We clearly see the defects in the reasoning of acquaintances. Our friends, of course, are more logical, but that is because they are our friends. Or, rather, they are our friends because they reason as they do. Their opinions have drawn us to them. They agree with us.

And this agreement is evidence of the correctness of our own beliefs. It proves our ability to interpret conditions and to draw conclusions, or it would be proof of such a self-evident fact necessary. The agreement of our friends shows that we are free from the mental weaknesses of them who do not agree with our views.

It also proves the intelligence of our associates. And we would not have unintelligent friends. That is our reason for choosing them, or, rather, the reason why our opinions choose them. We think that we select our friends, but this is one of the human delusions. Our opinions are the selective force. This is a phase of our defensive social behavior. It preserves our good opinion of ourselves.

We believe what we want to believe and then find reason to confirm our convictions. Of course, we do not deliberately seek arguments for views which we already hold. Usually, we are not even aware that our opinions are fixed, so subtly have they gained the mastery.

We think that we are open-minded seekers after truth. But business and social interests have determined our views and we are really trying to justify them so as not to think ill of ourselves. Self-esteem is even more important psychologically than the esteem of others. And this human craving for self-justification by argument sets in motion the defensive neutral mechanism which gives the mental correlate, defensive thinking. We must justify ourselves to ourselves.—Edgar James Swift, in Scribner's.

To Sell Forgotten Pictures.

Copies of the masterpieces of the Louvre made by unknown or struggling artists and long stored in the basement of the museum are to be sold.

Most of the copies have been in storage for more than thirty years, abandoned and forgotten by those who painted them. Some tell stories of ambitious beginnings and discouraged endings. Many copies are but half finished, while still others are but dabs of paint.

Many American names appear in the corners of these pictures of students who have long since left Paris. A majority of the names are impossible to read, but a few have been discovered of men and women recognized in the world of art today. For obvious reasons, the youthful efforts of these are not to be exposed with the names apparent.

The lovers of art have been invited to come and see these unique pictures and to buy them at their own prices, so that the basement may be cleared for another batch of abandoned efforts.

A Habit With Them.

George Ade was being told by an admirer just how wonderful that admirer thought authors were, and he responded by telling a story. "You remind me," he said, "of the time right after the appearance of my first book when I went to spend a week at a summer resort outside of Chicago. The landlord of the hotel said to me:

"Mr. Ade, you are a literary man, I believe."

"I blushed and smiled and answered that I had written a few trifles."

"I have several literary men stopping here," said he. "I like literary men."

"Well," said I, "I am glad of that."

"Yes," said he. "I like literary men. They never object to paying in advance. They're used to it."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

In Anchored Huts on an Island.

Three hundred miles from the eastern coast of Queensland there is an islet with a coral reef fringing it on three sides. On this small dot of the Pacific, Willis Island, an important wireless experiment is being conducted in the interests of meteorology and shipping. Capt. J. K. Davis, commandant of the station, is the wireless director of the experiment, spending five months on this island with a wireless plant and two operators and they will not be relieved until next April. The island is swept by storms and the huts erected on it have been "anchored" with chains, so that they will float if the island is temporarily under water. The cost of this experiment is estimated at about $6,000.

"Said it with Milk." Last year I started going with a farmer boy whose motto was not "Say it with flowers, candy or music." Instead, it seemed to be, "Say it with milk." Fresh milk was very hard to get in the town where we lived, so every time that he came to see me he would bring two mason fruit jars full of milk and present them to me with a grin from ear to ear. It was all right, until some of my friends found it out and began to tease me about it. This was more than I could stand, but we surely did miss the milk.—Chicago Journal.

BACK TO ROYALTY

Egyptian King the "Patron Saint" of Suspenders.

Modern Man Must Concede That He Owes Much to Monarch of Many Centuries Ago.

Perhaps if suspenders could be said to rise to the dignity of a "patron saint," old King Nar-Mer, of the earliest dynasty of ancient Egypt, would be the logical candidate for the job. He possessed the first of the series of what we know as the dynastic kingdoms of Egypt more than 6,000 years ago. Nar-Mer is undoubtedly the first royal patron of suspenders, as testified plainly by his delineation wearing the article, found on a slate palette dug up in the ruins of Hierakonpolis late in the last century. His lone suspender, however, differed from the present models.

Perhaps his royal ribs would be glad for old associations' sake to know suspenders are "coming back" after pretty nearly losing their grip on that part of the public who wear trousers. But, though Fashion may have rung the gong on suspenders some years ago, the fickle old dame has done a reverse now, according to the haberdashers' reports. These purveyors of all the latest in ladda gents' furnishings say that their sales are steadily increasing wherever suspenders have been put on display.

The very latest styles from London (where our styles in pan-beg pardon, trousers—are born, doncher?) prescribe cuffless trousers to a very large extent. And as we male models of form know but too well, cuffless pants are the very deuce to hang without the aid of suspenders. They're quite as unsatisfactory in most cases as going to a dance in evening clothes without the aid of braces. And of all the uneasy feelings ever inflicted on man by the uncertainties of dress dependability, this torture is maybe the worst. For if his trousers should slip—good night! Also, good night, style! Of what avail is the highest art of super-tailors if the darn things don't look right? And the out of ten of the cuffless kind don't, unless galls are attached to give them the absolutely necessary proper catch and hang.

But a whole lot of nice things can be said favoring the return of suspenders, besides the above. They are the fat man's friend, and the thin man's ally.—Philadelphia Ledger.

May Bet in Abyssinia.

British Consul General Gerald Campbell told about his experiences in Abyssinia at a lecture recently. Although it is a land rich in archeological material, he said, the world could not avail itself of the aid this would be in illuminating many doubtful pages of early Christian history because the Abyssinians would permit no one to make excavations there.

The queen of Abyssinia says she is a direct descendant of the queen of Sheba and King Solomon. Abyssinians consider themselves very highly civilized, the lecturer said. Their laws are based on the Justinian code, which might be all right, he continued, if it were not for the betting that goes on and with legal sanction. Judges are sometimes called upon to settle a wager, and as they are sometimes the recipients of the stakes, their interest in such cases is keen.

Another crude form of justice is the habit of chaining plaintiff and defendant together while the trial goes on.

TO EXPECTANT MOTHERS

A Letter from Mrs. Smith Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Trenton, Ont.—"I am writing to you in regard to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I would not be without it before each of my children was born and after-wards, and find it a great help. Before my first baby was born I had shortness of breath and churning in my ears. I felt as if I would never pull through. One day a friend of my husband told him what the Vegetable Compound had done for his wife and advised him to take a bottle home for me. After the fourth bottle I was a different woman. I have four children now, and I always find the Vegetable Compound a great help as it seems to make confinement easier. I recommend it to my friends."—Mrs. FANN H. SURRIS, John St., Trenton, Ont.

Inbound ships from the United Kingdom are averaging 4,500 tons of freight for discharge at Vancouver. Outbound they take about 4,000 tons per vessel. Last year the average outward tonnage was practically the same while the inbound was only about one tenth of what it now is.

Announcement has been made that a Government wireless station is to be erected on St. Paul's Island, which stands in the entrance to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, off the most north-easterly point of Nova Scotia. Two Government wireless engineers have arrived there and are making arrangements for the erection of the station.

One hundred and forty thousand Canadian school boys have been banded into an army of guards to watch for and prevent forest fires in the Dominion this year, according to an announcement made by the Canadian Forestry Association. The new organization, which is known as the Young Canadians' Forest League, will, it is expected, save several million dollars' worth of timber from fire ravages.

That "prospects for increased immigration into Canada are excellent" was one of the most important statements made by E. W. Beatty, K.C., upon his return from an extended tour of England and European capitals. The president of the Canadian Pacific Railway believes Canada is progressing in the matter of immigration, but intensified efforts are essential, he considers, to offset erroneous impressions abroad that Canada does not require new settlers.

A record run between Winnipeg and Quebec was recently made by a special Canadian Pacific train when passengers from the Orient were, through delay caused by landslide, in danger of missing their connection with the C.P.S.S. "Empress of Scotland" at the eastern port. The train covered the 1,579 miles in a little over 36 hours, whereas the schedule time for trains between these two cities is 53 hours. The passengers had crossed the Pacific on the C.P.S.S. "Empress of Russia" and were taking advantage of the 21 day Orient-to-Europe service of the Company.

The United States has invested in Canada $2,500,000,000, according to the Bankers' Trust Company of New York, which has just completed a survey of Canadian industry and the amount of United States capital invested. Of the total sum invested, $1,500,000,000 is in bonds, and the remainder in farms, mortgages, small businesses, industrial enterprises, banking and private loans. It is computed that more than 200 branch factories were opened in Canada by United States concerns in 1919, and a great number in 1920 and 1921, and that late in 1922 the number of these came to 700.

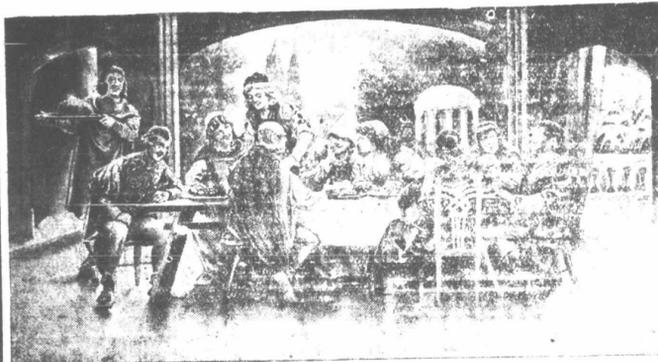

A collie dog is reported to have saved the life of a London West girl, while accompanying the child to a nearby store. On the way she stopped on the O. F. R. railroad tracks in the path of a westbound train. Realizing the child's peril, the dog threw himself against her with sufficient impact to knock her clear of danger, and was cut to pieces by the train before he could regain safety.

The girl's mother tried to discourage the dog from going when the daughter started for the store, but he went, and was the means of saving the child's life, and died heroically as a result.
