Waiting the Result of Repeal.

MANCHESTER, Nov. 1.—The Guardian in its commercial article says: The market is decidedly quieter. There is no disposition to transact business for India merchants there, awaiting the effect of the repeal of the Silver Purchase Act by the American Congress. The large business already done for Calcutta is, however, sufficient to account for the pause there.

Praising the French Army.

PARIS, Nov. 1.—A sensation has been caused among French military men by the report of Baron Von Planitz, nephew of the Saxon War Minister, prising highly the efficiency and warlike spirit of the French army. The baron comments upon the disappearance of the efiete generation of the empire and argues that the entente between France and Russia ought to inspire in Germany unfailing vigilance.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Duke Alfred of Saxe-Cobourg and Gotha (the Duke of Edinburgh) arrived in London to-day. This is his first visit since his accession to the throne of the German Duchy. He received at Clarence House, his London residence, several members of the royal family and a number of aristocrats, who congratulated him upon his newly acquired dignity as a ruler in the German Empire. He will go to Balmoral at once to visit the Queen.

Slavery Shielded by the French Flag.

ZANZIBAR, Nov. 1.—The captain and crew of a French slave dhow that was captured by the British cruiser Philomel in April last has been acquitted by the court at Ravion, at which the prisoners were sent for trial by the French consul here. The acquittal has caused a sensation, as it practically gives immunity to the slavers, who carry on their business under the French flag.

The official estimates made at various periods during the past 50 years show that not more than 3 per cent. of the slaves shipped from African ports have been captured by her Majesty's cruisers. As 200 slaves were captured in Zanibar waters during one month it was safe to estimate that that number represents 4,000 slaves shipped and many of these were no doubt destined for the Island of Pemba, which absorbs many thousand slaves in cultivation of the clove. Others are smuggled into Zanzibar to be let out as porters to caravans. The British protectorate of Zanzibar, which includes the Island of Pemba, where thousands of slaves are employed, depends for much of its revenue on the Pemba clove. The British and Foreign Anti-Slavery Society has urged upon the British Government the importance of proclaiming the abolishment of the statutes of slavery in the island, but its efforts have met with poor success.

Connection With the Antipodes.

MELBOURNE, Nov. 1.—The cable project is being heartily supported, and the coming conference with Canada is regarded as being of the greatest importance. It is said here that it will be held early next year and that Great Britain will send a delegate to discuss the Pacific cable project. The laying of the first section of the cable commenced at Gomen, New Caledonia, on Aug. 30, and it has been completed to Budenberg, one of the centers of the sugar industry in Queensland. This places French and English territory in the South Seas in communication with each other. It is believed by the supporters of the new line that this is only the beginning of a cable which is to connect Canada and Australia, and thus complete the telegraph circle of the world.

The course is from New Caledonia to Fiji, thence to Samoa, and from there to Honolulu, thence to Vancouver. The rulers of the islands which have been included in the route have promised subsidies and the assistance of the Canadian Government is counted upon if the construction of the section from Honolulu to Vancouver is to be an accomplished fact. The promoters of the new cable hope also to induce the other Australian colonies to contribute to the guarantee.

Mowing Down the Matabeles.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—A special dispatch to the United Press from Cape Town says the troops under command of Major Forbes and Dr. Jamieson, administrator of the British South Africa Company, occupied Buluwago after several fights in which the Matabeles suffered heavily. The first fighting occurred between Hope Fountain and Buluwago, where the Matabeles had concentrated in force. The Matabeles were armed principally with their native weapons, assegais and knat-kerries, although some of them had rifles that proved of little service to them. The natives fought bravely and made desperate attempts to get within striking distance of the British. The latter, however, with the superior arms and Gatling guns, were able without trouble to prevent them getting into close quarters. During one of the fights Major Forbes' columns made an onslaught upon the Matabeles and destroyed half of a regiment, numbering hundreds of the natives. The British loss in all ten engagements was light. The natives were finally forced to retreat, followed by the Chartered Company's forces. They followed the road to Buluwago, where everything was in the greatest confusion, runners from the scene of the fighting having arrived with news of the Matabeles' defeat. No stand was made at Buluwago, and all the people left at the kraal joined the fleeing army, the course of which was northward along the foot of the Motoppo hills.

It is thought that the Matabeles will make for the Zambesi River or for the comparatively uninhabited country to the westward of the Umniata River. The imperial troops took no part in the fighting. They followed Major Forbes and Dr. Jamieson to Buluwayo, arriving there some time after the advance columns had taken possession of the place. King Lobenguela accompanied his regiments in their flight northward.

Spain's Forces on the Defensive.

MADRID, Nov. 1.—Advices received today from Melilla show that the situation is not so bad as has been painted, for Gen. Macias, commanding the troops, has informed the Government that his troops are sufficiently strong for defensive purposes. The sortie made by Gen. Ortego had much to do with the changed situation. It can be said that prior to this the outlook for the Spanish troops in the forts was not of the brightest. For two days Fort Bostrogouroo and Fort Cabrerarzio were so infested by the Riffians that no communication could be had with Melilla. The food and water supplies were exhausted and Gen. Ortego decided to take what looked like desperate chances to replenish their supplies. The sortie was a dashing one, At the head of his troops Gen. Ortega advanced at the double upon the trenches of the Riffians. The latter poured a hot fire at the advancing Spaniards, but their aim was remarkably bad. Over the trenches went the Spaniards with fixed bayonets, whereupon the Riffians broke and fled in disorder. While some of the Spanish troops pursued them, others devoted themselves to provisioning the forts. In the meantime those in the forts laid in a supply of water, and by the time the troops returned the forts were ready to withstand a two weeks' siege. The Spanish loss in the sortie was four killed and twelve wounded. The Riffians lost many killed and a large number were captured.

The war office adheres to the figures given out the day before yesterday as to Spanish losses in Sunday's fighting. No official or unofficial information confirms the report sent out by a certain cable agency that 100 Spaniards were killed, more than 300 wounded and more than 100 captured.

LEGAL QUIBBLING

Caused the Partial Failure of Previous Prohibitory Laws—Canon Dumolin's Opinion.

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—At the morning session of the Prohibition Commission Henry Totten, chief officer of the Provincial license department, was examined at length on the working of the present law and the experiences of the department under the Crooks, Dunkin and Scott Acts. The more or less partial failure of these measures he attributed mainly to the legal quibbles raised over every attempt to enforce the law and the consequent expense and discouraging effect on the temperance people.

Rev. Canon Dumolin gave evidence, and his antagonism to prohibition created a sensation. He did not believe it was either a wise or workable law, and declared such a law had no divine sanction.

The United States Debt.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The debt statement issued this afternoon shows a net increase in the public debt, less cash in the treasury during Oct. 5, of $5,141,059 01; total debt, $961,946,492 63; total cash in the treasury, $729,447,614 95; gold reserve, $84,384,862; net cash balance, $17,969,429.

Smothered in a Cotton Bale.

ADA, Ark., Nov. 1.—Pitifully smothered to death, the little child of J. H. Harkey was found to-day in the center of a bale of cotton. He disappeared several days ago, and search was made without success. Mr. Harkey remembered that he had last seen the little fellow playing about his ginhouse, and finally he began to rip open the bales. How the child fell into the press is a mystery.

Scotch-Canadians Entertain the Governor.

MONTREAL, Nov. 1.—Scotch-Canadians turned out en masse last evening to attend the Caledonian Society's concert, which was an unqualified success. Mr. James Harper, the president of the Caledonian Society, was in the chair, and Lord and Lady Aberdeen received an ovation when they entered the hall. Later in the evening his Excellency received and replied to an address.

Went Too Far.

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—Inspector Archibald, of Toronto, who seized and opened a safe supposed to belong to W. G. Osgoodby and which resulted in a suit for $10,000 damages, has escaped a possibe verdict by the withdrawal by the crown of all the charges of conspiracy to defraud preferred against Osgoodby, A. H. Cobett and Wm. H. Stacey. The alleged offenses consisted of guessing competitions in connection with the Scott Seed Company, the Exquisite Toilet Company and the Chemical Supply Company.

TRICKS END IN TRAGEDY.

Terrible Sequel to Hallowe'en Pranks.

An Old Man Splits His Nephew's Skull Open With an Axe—Fatal Shooting Affair Near Moncton.

SOUTH DURHAM, Que., Nov. 1.—Last night being Hallowe'en someone took a set of harness belonging to John Goodfellow, who lives four miles from here, and buckled it to a fence for a joke. This so enraged the old man that he took an axe, and going to the stable where his nephew, Henry Johnston, was, dealt him two blows on the head with the axe, splitting open the young fellow's skull and exposing the brain, exclaiming: "Why did you take my harness?"

The doctors have no hope of Johnston's recovery. The victim is 19 years old, and his uncle is a man of 70.

ANOTHER FATALITY.

MONCTON, N. B., Nov. 1.—The Hallowe'en celebration last night at Smith's Hills near Cocagne, Kent county, was marred by a deplorable fatality. The boys in that vicinity turned out, as usual, for the night's amusement and shortly after 8 o'clock three young men, among whom was Flonan Leblanc, aged 22 called at the schoolhouse. As they were effecting an entrance they were greeted by a discharge from a rifle, fired through a window by Theodore Gognane. Thinking possibly it was a joke, the party did not decamp, whereupon Gognane fired through a panel of the door, the bullet passing through Leblanc's body inflicting fatal injuries. Gognane has not yet been arrested. He is 50 years old.

HARRISON'S FUNERAL.

A Hundred Thousand Citizens View the Mayor's Remains—An Immense Procession.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—All night long there was the same ceaseless procession on either side of the black casket in the corridor of the city hall that was narrated yesterday. Midnight saw some slight diminution in the throng. At half past 6 o'clock this morning the people were passing through at the rate of 90 a minute. At 9 o'clock probably 6,000 people were still awaiting admission at the eastern portico. The funeral arrangements, however, necessitated the doors being closed. Preparations for the removal of the body were then commenced. The casket was then lifted from the bier and the lid closed. On top was placed the Maltese cross with the inscription "Father" and the pillow of lilies with the name of "Papa," which were the tributes of the daughters and sons of the murdered man. In the meantime the various societies and organizations whose representation in the parade had been accepted, were forming on the lake front and the streets adjacent thereto. At 7:30 o'clock the doors of the building were again opened and with heads uncovered and reverently bowed the guard of honor passed down the steps. Behind them, borne by eight sturdy members of the police force and fire departments came the casket. The heads of the thousands of spectators were bared as the casket was borne down the sidewalk and placed upon the funeral car. This was a large and magnificently decorated vehicle and its use had been tendered by a Cincinnati firm. A signal from the chief marshal, Austin J. Doyle, and the head of the procession moved. A platoon of police led the way. Then came the Iowa State Band, rendering a mournful dirge. The chief marshal and the 72 assistants were followed by two detachments of the Fifteenth Infantry, United States troops. Behind the regulars rode Brig.-Gen. H. A. Wheeler, of the first brigade of Illinois National Guard, with his staff. Then followed 5,000 uniformed troops. The next division was that of the department of police. A band of nearly 150 pieces preceded. More troops followed escorting the honorary pallbearers. Then came the funeral car and on either side marched the active pallbearers representing the police and fire departments. Now it was the turn of the people. In detachment after detachment for over an hour marched Masons and Oddfellows, members of Republican, Democratic and labor organizations; representatives of German, Polish, Bohemian, Irish, French, Canadian, Scandinavian, Italian and British societies; Gov. Altgeld and the State officials. The Catholic Order of Foresters, the Building Trades Council, the societies affiliated with Trade and Labor Assembly, the Brewers' Association, and numerous other labor organizations in force. Bringing up the rear was a line of carriages, two abreast and several miles in length, containing citizens. Many hotels, business houses and residences displayed evidences of mourning. It was nearly noon when the second division reached the Church of the Epiphany. The sermon was brief, but eloquent. When the preacher concluded the choir sang the anthem "Who are these that are arrayed in white robes."

The casket was again borne from the church and the march to the tomb was resumed. At North avenue, about two miles distant, the rear portion of the procession disbanded and the mounted escort and and carriages continued on to Graceland Cemetery. Here about 4 o'clock this afternoon, amid the solemn rendering of the committal service, the remains were placed in the receiving vault.

From the time the mayor's body was placed in the city hall yesterday a continuous procession moved through the corridor and past the bier. For 24 hours the line remained unbroken, and when the corridors were closed it was estimated that fully 100,000 people had filed past the body.

Owing to the magnitude of the procession it did not reach Graceland Cemetery until 5 o'clock and the services were concluded twenty minutes later. The remains were placed in a vault in the mortuary chapel, where they will remain for some time.

THE LUCKEY TRAGEDY.

Continuation of the Son's Trial on the Charge of Murder.

BROCKVILLE, Nov. 1.—At the opening of court this afternoon, J. A. Whiting, the old man who is reported to have said he saw Mrs. Luckey killed, but went to the States without telling of it, was put in the witness box. Being 88 years of age and very excitable he was a hard witness to manage.

He said he had, when near the Luckey place, seen a man strike a woman. The man had a knife but witness could not say whether he used it or not. The woman was also dragged about by the hair of the head. He was not very well acquainted with the Luckeys, but had passed the place often. All attempts to get anything out of him in cross-questioning failed.

Several witnesses testified to meeting a man the night of the fire answering the description of the prisoner coming from that direction carrying a parcel. One witness testified to seeing Mr. Whiting in the vicinity of Luckey's on the day of the tragedy.

Chief McGowan, who made the arrest told of the footprints found near Luckeys, in which the prisoner's shoes fitted.

Several other witnesses told of conversations had with prisoner while he boarded in Smith's Falls and after the arrest. To all of these witnesses prisoner gave as his reason for calling himself Kingsley that he was ashamed to be known as Luckey, having just got out of prison. He admitted to several witnesses having been at his father's that day, but denied all knowledge of the crime, though he said he saw the fire and sat on the fence and watched it.

The defense will endeavor to show that some suspicious character was in the neighborhood near Luckey's that day.

RAN INTO THE RIVER.

Shocking Accident in Portland, Oregon.

A Loaded Electric Car Plunges Through an Open Drawbridge—Seven Are Drowned and the Rest Escape by Jumping.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 1.—Portland's second street railway catastrophe within a year occurred early this morning, when an electric car from Milwaukee—an east side suburb to this place—plunged through the open draw of the Madison street bridge, and sank in the Willamette River.

There were eighteen or twenty passengers aboard when the car started to cross the bridge, and all but seven of them saved their lives by leaping from the car on the brink of death.

Five corpses have been recovered from the river, and a man and boy are missing.

The dead are: Charles Beckman, bookkeeper, of Sellwood; John P. Anderson, cabinetmaker, Milwaukee; Jos. Startler, laborer, Oak Grove; Alex. Campbell, saloon-keeper, Milwaukee; Theodore Bennick, cabinetmaker, Milwaukee.

Paul Oder and Charles S. Albee, aged 14, are the two missing.

It was about 6:45 when the car arrived at the bridge. A dense fog enveloped the river and a sharp frost covered the rails with a coating of ice. The draw had just been opened to allow the passage of a river steamer, and the usual precaution of closing the gates and displaying red signal lights had been taken. Owing to the frost, however, the car could not be stopped in the usual distance and crashed through the frail gate and into the river.

SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD'S STATUE

Unveiled by the Present Premier of the Dominion

In the Presence of a Large Crowd of Spectators—A Number of Public Men Present—Rain Curtails the Proceedings.

HAMILTON, Nov. 1.—The ceremony of unveiling the statue of the late Sir John A. Macdonald took place this afternoon on the gore at the intersection of John and King streets in the presence of several thousand spectators, including a number of prominent public men.

Shortly after 3 o'clock Senator Sanford, chairman of the committee, followed by Sir John Thompson, Sir O. Mowat, Sir A. Caron, Hon. C. H. Tupper, Hon. Clarke Wallace and others, ascended the platform, and were received with cheers. Rain began to fall, but the crowd waited.

The Bishop of Niagara offered a prayer. Senator Sanford made a few remarks, stating the object of the gathering and at once called on Sir John Thompson, who before unveiling the statue, congratulated the city of Hamilton on being first to erect a statue in memory of Sir John Macdonald. He then pressed an electric button and the flag fell to the ground displaying the magnificent bronze statue of Canada's late Premier. Cheers rent the air and the Thirtieth Battalion Band played a selection.

Sir John Thompson then read an address of considerable length, which referred in eulogistic terms to the departed statesman.

Addresses were also given by Sir A. Caron, Sir Chas. H. Tupper and Sir O. Mowat. During the addresses of the last two speakers rain began to fall heavily, and the proceedings were curtailed.

The statue, which is cast in bronze, is 8 feet 3 inches in height. It presents Sir John with closely buttoned frock coat, standing in an easy posture, with right arm slightly extended, and a pleasant expression on his face, as though addressing a sympathetic audience. The pyramid-shaped pedestal, on which it stands is 11 feet high, of gray New Brunswick granite. The names of each of the provinces are carved upon the pedestal, and upon the front is a carved shield with an inscription bearing the name: "The Rt. Hon. John Alexander Macdonald," with his titles and the date and place of his birth and death. At the bottom of the shield are the words: "A Canadian statesman who valued British institutions as a true basis of the strength and prosperity of the Dominion." Another shield on the opposite side is inscribed with the periods in which he held office.

The cost of the statue alone was $3,500 and the total cost of the memorial will be about $6,000.

At 6:30 in the evening Sir John Thompson and the other Ministers of the Crown left for the east to attend the funeral of Sir John Abbott and the dinner to have been given by Senator Sanford had to be canceled.

In the earlier part of the day Sir John Thompson and Sir Oliver Mowat were received in the court house by the Hamilton Law Society and were then dined at the Hamilton Club.

THE GRAND TRUNK.

Port Huron People Exercised in Regard to the Movements of Officials.

PORT HURON, Mich., Nov. 1.—A special train consisting of two official cars and a tunnel engine, and containing several officers of the Grand Trunk and Lehigh Valley railroads, stopped here on a mysterious errand. An air of secrecy was maintained about the whole affair, not a member of the party condescending to impart the least bit of information.

The cars were drawn by the huge engine No. 691, of the St. Clair Tunnel Company, which contains an electric dynamo and search light.

The company included Sir Henry Tyler, Mechanical Superintendent Roberts, Assistant Slack, Chief Engineer Hobson, all of the Grand Trunk; Mechanical Superintendent Sayer, of the Lehigh Valley, and prominent Pennsylvania railroad officials. They came from Canada yesterday afternoon, the entire company occupying comfortable seats on a flat car in front of the engine, on their way through the tunnel. It transpires that one purpose of the trip on the part of the Pennsylvania railroad officials is to inspect the mechanism of the tunnel, with a view of giving the Grand Trunk a large amount of business. The special train left here for Detroit. The tour is also said to be the forerunner of a deal for a complete change in the management of the Grand Trunk.

The Parent Branch of the P. P. A. at Work.

A Protest Against Influence Used in Michigan.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The Youmans memorial asking for the unseating of Congressman Linton, which was sent to the committee on elections in the House yesterday, declares that Mr. Linton and the supporters represented that Youmans was a Roman Catholic and that the Pope controlled his vote while he was in Congress; that owing to the purchase of arms by the A. P. A., the Saginaw district has been terrorized, and that many persons were frightened into voting for Linton. Exhibits of letters and circulars sent out by officers of the A. P. A. are attached to the memorial. They all breathe the same hostility to Roman Catholics, and call upon "all true and loyal Protestants to vote for Linton."

A copy of oaths which are said to be taken by members of the A. P. A. Association are attached to the memorial. The oaths are as follows:

No. 1 is a secretive oath, in which the candidate declares his honesty of purpose, and in which he asserts that he is not the spy of any theological institution, and more especially the Catholic Church.

No. 2 asserts the candidate's intention to deal justly with his fellow-men.

No. 3—taken on a dagger—prohibits the candidate from divulging what takes place in the order, commits him to the support of the United States Government, makes it obligatory to keep the Church and State separate, renounces all foreign powers, temporal or ecclesiastical, and asserts that he will take up arms if need be to defend the principles of his faith there set forth.

In No. 4 the candidate swears he will make warfare against all ignorance and fanaticism and will use his utmost power "to strike the shackles and chains of blind obedience to the Roman Catholic Church from the hampered and burdened conscience of a priest-ridden and church-oppressed people." That he will promote interests of Protestants everywhere, will not employ Roman Catholics if he can secure the services of a Protestant; that he will not aid the Catholic Church, but will do all in his power to retard and break down the power of the Pope; that he will not enter into an agreement with Catholics for a strike where Protestants might be displaced and Catholics employed. The closing part of this oath is as follows:

"I furthermore promise and swear that I will not countenance the nomination in any caucus or convention of a Roman Catholic for any office in the gift of the American people, and I will vote only for a Protestant—should there be two Catholics for the same office I will erase the name from the ticket I vote. That I will at all times endeavor to place political positions in the hands of Protestants, to the entire exclusion of the Roman Catholic Church, or the members thereof and the mandate of the Pope."

Oath No. 5 is as follows:

"I hereby denounce Roman Catholicism. I hereby denounce the Pope, sitting at Rome, or elsewhere. I denounce his priests and emissaries and the diabolical works of the Roman Catholic Church and its Pope. Amen, amen, amen."

In No. 6 the candidate swears that he will use all endeavors to keep Roman Catholics out of office; oppose the efforts of Catholics to obtain control of public schools, and will hold these principles above party affiliations and will give a brother of the order preference in all matters of business, and also with his elective franchise.

SARNIA, Oct. 31—(Special.)—A convention of temperance workers was held in the town hall here this afternoon to organize with a view of the January prohibition plebiscite. Between 100 and 200 delegates were present, representing various parts of the county. The following is a partial list of those in attendance:

Edwards, Sarnia; Jas. Walker, Wilkesport; John R. Moody, Corunna; Joseph E. Sutcliff, Aberdeen; A. W. Gifford, Forest.

Rev. C. C. McLaurin presided, Rev. H. Hossey acting as secretary. Mr. Spence was not present when the meeting commenced, but arrived at a later stage. After considerable discussion as to the propriety of forming two associations, one for each riding, it was decided to form only a county association to conduct the campaign, and the following officers were elected.

President—Rev. C. C. McLaurin, Sarnia.
Vice-President—Mr. D. Cameron, Petrolea.
Secretary—Mayor LeSueur, Sarnia.
Assistant Secretary — Mrs. Laurence, Sarnia.
Treasurer—Mr. Jas. Saunders, Petrolea.

Vice-presidents were then chosen for the various municipalities throughout the county to act as conveners for their respective districts. The list is as follows:

Wyoming—Rev. Mr. Baldwin.
Watford—John Thomas.
Petrolea—John Fraser.
Warwick Township—W. J. McAlpine.
Oil Springs—F. S. Vandewater.
Moore Township—Thos. Hayne.
Sarnia Township—Reeve A. B. Duncan.
Plympton Township—Rev. Dr. Hindley.
Bosanquet Township—Thos. Hancock.
Forest—Rev. Mr. Hayhurst.
Sombra Township—Warren T. Henry.
Enniskillen—W. R. Duncan.
Point Edward—J. B. Beveridge.
Thedford—Rev. Mr. Currie.
Euphemia Township—Rev. J. E. Holmes.
Dawn Township—Wm. Nisbett.
Brooke Township—W. G. Willoughby.
Alvinston—Malcolm Gillespie.
Arkona—Dr. Brown.

A motion urging all Christian Endeavor, church, and temperance societies to give their assistance and support to the securing of a large vote for prohibition, was carried unanimously. Messrs. T. Houston, Jas. Saunders, and Mrs. R. E. LeSueur and Mrs. D. Clark, were appointed a committee on finances. A literature committee to control the distribution of campaign literature was also appointed, consisting of Messrs. John White, Frank Kenward, and Mrs. A. Merrity and Mrs. Kerfoot, all of Forest.

The finance committee reported that $100 would be necessary for county campaign purposes, it being understood that the various municipalities should bear all their own local expenses. The report was unanimously adopted. After a few words from Mr. Spence the convention adjourned.

The evening meeting was held in the town hall and was largely attended, great enthusiasm being manifested, a large number of ladies being in the audience. The chair was occupied by Mayor R. E. LeSueur, the principal speakers being Mr. Spence, of Toronto, and Senator Vidal. The meeting before closing pledged its hearty support to the plebiscite.

Corn Sowing

Is a process conducted by the agency of tight boots all the year round. Corn reaping is best conducted through the agency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, the only safe and sure-pop corn cure. Putnam's Extractor is now widely imitated. Beware of all poisonous and sore producing substitutes; they are dangerous to use and are sold simply because they afford the dealer larger profit.

OUR BEST MOVE!

On the Commercial Checker-Board was when we permanently planted "COLWELL'S POPULAR MUSIC HOUSE" in the Union Block, at 189 Dundas Street—only a few doors East of the old place. These handsome premises were secured at great expense and trouble. But the change is so very satisfactory that we are all delighted with it, and feel confident our patrons will appreciate the wonderful improvement.

We now have a larger and better store—nicer location—greater facilities, and decreased expenses. Our stock of Musical Instruments, Strings, Fittings and Music Books is abundant and well selected. Experience and money does it. The Piano Parlors are UP-STAIRS—away from street noise and dust. This desirable departure will commend itself to all lovers of music—particularly intending buyers.

As USUAL, we make a specialty of the GENUINE Heintzman & Co. Pianos, Emerson Pianos, Goderich Organs and White Sewing Machines. The Repairing and Tuning Sections are in full swing, and all work promptly and carefully attended to.

In the various Departments our Prices and Terms are always reasonable, and quality unexcelled. During the next three months special inducements will be offered to cash buyers. From old and new friends we solicit inspection, correspondence and patronage.

Fairy tales are often told, and as MISTAKES sometimes happen, please make none in our new address, or the right name of the Pianos so successfully handled at C. P. M. H. Telephone, 97 or 87.

"Prohibition!"

The Watchword Given Increased Emphasis.

South Huron Organizes for the Plebiscite Campaign.

An Enthusiastic Convention of Temperance Workers at Hensall — Chairmen Appointed for the Various Municipalities.

Carmel Presbyterian Church, Hensall, was yesterday the scene of a prohibition gathering characterized by enthusiasm and unanimity. The object of the meeting was to organize in order that a complete vote of the electors in South Huron might be given to the plebiscite. Whether favorable or unfavorable, it was thought by those present that the interests of temperance would be best served by securing a full quota of opinion on this engrossing and vital question. A partial vote would, it was believed, only give rise to subsequent complications and misunderstandings. The way in which it was decided to reach the vote was by the appointment of sectional committees. These, it is understood, will make

A PERSONAL CANVASS.

Each of the ministers in the riding will be asked to see that a deputation is appointed in connection with their churches for a similar purpose.

Among those present were noted: Mr. D. D. Wilson, Seaforth; Rev. W. M. Martin, Exeter; Mr. John Muir, Exeter; Mr. Gustavus Hogarth, Steven township; Rev. Wm. McDonagh, Exeter; Rev. Wm. Walker, Hensall; Rev. J. S. Henderson, Hensall; Rev. Francis Swan, Hensall; Rev. Colin Fletcher, Thames road; Mr. M. Y. McLean, Seaforth; Mr. William Mayer, Mr. Robert Maclaren, Mr. Wm. Craig and Mr. Alexander McPherson, Hensall.

During the afternoon the following ladies were attendants, listening interestedly to the proceedings: Mrs. James Carlyle, Mrs. John Cameron, Mrs. Wm. Mayer, Mrs. Wm. Buchanan, Miss Hunter, Mrs. Benj. Hogarth, Mrs. James Trayer, Miss Mary Brown, Miss Jennie Murray, Mrs. Wm. Lammie, Mrs. Alex. McEwen, Mrs. George White and Miss Jessie Mayer.

CHAIRMAN WILSON'S REMARKS.

Mr. D. D. Wilson, of Seaforth, who took the chair, said that he presumed most of the people in South Huron would be willing to submit to Biblical precepts in regard to temperance. Paul's injunction upon the Corinthians to do nothing that would make their brothers to offend fitted exactly in its application to the present question. There was a diversity of opinion, he thought, as to whether or not the country is ripe for prohibition. The best means of ascertaining how the Province stood on this question was the plebiscite. He believed that one section of the people had a right to take away from another section the means of injuring themselves. He would tell them candidly that he was a prohibitionist. At present 399 out of every 400 persons in Ontario were prohibited from selling liquor. The present agitation would only lead to the prohibition of that "one" out of the 400 from continuing the trade. In taking the vote he personally would not want any electors to be pressed into voting against their will. Only those who were prepared to conscientiously support a prohibitory law when passed should do so.

OFFICERS SELECTED.

Rev. William Martin, of Exeter, was appointed secretary.

Mr. D. D. Wilson was made president on motion of Rev. William McDonagh, seconded by Rev. C. Fletcher.

Mr. John Muir, owing to the onerous duties which would devolve upon the secretary, and which the appointee for that position was unwilling to wholly shoulder, was elected associate secretary.

Rev. William McDonagh was made vice-president.

Mr. Septimus Hogarth, of Stephen township, who has been an enthusiastic temperance worker for years, was elected treasurer.

"The South Huron Prohibition Association" was the name adopted for the new organization.

HOW TO CANVASS.

The best mode of operation in canvassing was a much-discussed question. Mr. McDonagh thought that the churches should be interested, and advocated the appointment in each congregation of a committee to further the work.

Mr. Hogarth was of the opinion that, aside from congregational work, the municipal method should also be adopted. In the latter event the whole ground would be more fully and more efficiently covered—where the one method fell short, as in the case of Lysander, who when the lion's skin fell short, eked it out with the fox's, the other plan would supply the deficiency.

Mr. Fletcher thought that it would be well for the president and vice-president to stump the various municipalities together—the one could talk State and the other Church.

Someone referred to the persecution which had fallen to the lot of Mr. Wilson during the Scott Act campaign. In commenting upon the remark Mr. Wilson said that although he had not come to Paul's state of mind—"glory in persecution"—he had decided long since that the antagonism of some persons was inevitable in doing the correct thing.

MUNICIPAL CHAIRMEN.

The following gentlemen were appointed provisional chairmen in the municipalities mentioned for the purpose of inaugurating local organization: Exeter, T. H. McCallum; Stephen, Rev. G. Baker, Crediton; Osborne, John Cann, Lumley; Hay, Wm. Buchanan, Hensall; Tuckersmith, S. Smiley, Hensall; Seaforth, J. H. Pyper Seaforth; Stanley, John Torrance, Varna; Bayfield, John Whiddon, Bayfield; Goderich township, Samuel Rathwell, Varna.

Mr. Buchanan suggested that as far as possible exciting and close contests in the municipalities should be induced. No difficulty would then be experienced in bringing out the vote. If the acclamation plan prevailed the vote would only be desultory.

Some of those present thought that, besides the officers of the association, a few others should also act upon the executive. Rev. C. Fletcher, M. Y. McLean, William Buchanan, Thomas McCallum and Rev. J. S. Henderson were appointed to act in such a capacity.

LOCAL TALENT WILL BE RELIED UPON.

The itinerant campaign orators are not going to have any sway whatever in South Huron. The convention declared against them in unmeasured terms. Local talent is to be relied upon entirely to cope with local exigencies.

Mr. Henderson thought that these traveling speakers were too officious—and attempted to thrust themselves upon local committees. They were sometimes successful in this, but the work they did had often to be undone by residents.

Rev. Mr. McDonagh thought that sordid work of that kind did not advance the interests of temperance. These men had no local interest in the contest and their efforts were often wide of the mark. Their work was generally amusing and entertaining, but they did not grapple with local interest and local prejudices which were against the prohibitionists.

Mr. Wilson said that the benefits derived from outside speaking were not a sufficient compensation for the pecuniary outlay involved. In the present contest, however, this kind of thing was not at all necessary. The object of the present vote was to secure a true, fair and full criterion of opinion on the question of prohibition to be used in securing future legislation.

ANOTHER RIDING CONVENTION.

The association expressed its desire for another riding convention at as early a date as is deemed advisable by the executive.

WOMAN'S INFLUENCE AND POWER.

Mr. McDonagh expressed the pleasure he felt at the attendance of the ladies. The interest taken by them in the temperance question had always been a matter of happy augury. The influence of women, he thought, should be universally extended from ardent, personal influence to silent, powerful votes.

A "RESPECTABLE" HINDRANCE.

Mr. Wilson wanted prohibition in the widest sense of the term. An awful influence had to be removed—the ostensibly respectable man, who drank moderately and was still respected. This class of person did more for the anti-temperance cause than even the drunkard in the gutter. He urged all present to do the utmost to secure a free, candid expression of the electorate on the question of prohibition.

It was decided to take up a collection at all campaign meetings throughout the riding to defray necessary expenses.

MUSKOKA WORKERS BUSY.

PORT COLBORNE, Nov. 1.—On Monday evening a meeting of temperance workers was held to organize for the prohibition vote. In the unavoidable absence of Rev. E. S. Rowe, the president of the Muskoka Prohibition Association, Reeve Hanna was voted to the chair, and in a neat speech announced the object of the meeting. After a short address by Mr. Johns, followed by a rousing one by Rev. J. H. Stonehouse, a committee was appointed to look after voters in their several polling divisions and get the full vote out on the 1st of January.

THE MOVEMENT IN WEST HURON.

CLINTON, Ont., Nov. 1.—A largely attended and most enthusiastic meeting was held in the village of Auburn to-day for the formation of an association to look after the plebiscite in the west riding of Huron. Every municipality in the riding was well represented. Fred Metcalf, Blyth, was elected president; Dr. Ferguson, Blyth, secretary; W. H. Irwin, Blyth, treasurer. Arrangements were made to properly organize each municipality, and the prospects are that West Huron will roll up a large majority for the plebiscite.

AN ANCIENT ORACLE!

A Modern Wonder!

The most ancient oracle was that of Dodona; but the most famous was that of Delphi. Crœsus rendered himself renowned for the magnificent presents which he gave to that of Delphi.

It is difficult to determine which is the oldest cough remedy in the world. There are many that claim ancient origin without being able to show a record of good works. These old mixtures are fast disappearing; soon their names will be forgotten.

Modern science and research has produced the famous Harvard bronchial syrup, the most wonderful of all cough remedies. No other cough medicine of the present day can show such a record of marvelous cures; no other has attained such popularity. All classes of our country have tested Harvard bronchial syrup for coughs, sore throat, enlargement of the tonsils and irritation of the bronchial tubes, and have received almost instant relief and cure. It requires but one trial to convince the most skeptical that Harvard bronchial syrup has no equal in this world as a reliever and banisher of every form of throat and bronchial trouble.

THE rubber plant that has become so common a piece of domestic decoration is not the plant that yields the rubber of commerce. That is derived principally from two varieties of rubber tree that grow in Brazil and attain a large size. The rubber plant of our American parlors and greenhouses, with its long, glossy leaves, would not pay for tapping. It is a species of fig, and India is its habitat. A gum can be obtained from nearly every plant that exudes a milky sap, even from the common milkweed, and the number of rubber yielding plants is estimated at about 500.

—Some of the electrical supply firms in the British metropolis are taking very sensible and practical steps to enable the public to readily enjoy the advantages of electric heating. Besides these ovens there are breakfast cookers, in which eggs and bacon may be cooked on the breakfast table. It will be a happy day of emancipation from kitchen heat and discomfort when, through the competition of the gas stove with the electric apparatus —perhaps by the joint use of both—the old cook stove can be sold to the junk man.

This Canadian association express the belief that an exhibition of the products of the various Provinces of Canada will foster and encourage trade, and continue and further develop the pleasant relations now existing between their native provinces and the home of their adoption; consequently they earnestly solicit the cooperation of all governments and boards of trade throughout the Dominion in making the exposition a success. The enterprise of the Pacific coasters certainly deserves recognition.

WHO ARE THE DISTURBERS?

In Toronto they have been discussing the drawbacks that bad manners or inconsiderate conduct bring upon public entertainments. One of the complaints made is against those people who decline to stay till the end of a programme, and cause disturbance by their exit while one or more numbers are still to be given. The condemnation of this class has generally been far too severe, if not entirely undeserved. Why should the man who purchases a ticket to listen to a programme of ten pieces, and who desires to catch his car and be home by a reasonable hour at night, be rated as unmannerly and as a public disturber because he resolves to keep faith with his original resolve? He is not the transgressor. The trouble must be laid at the door of the men and women who are not satisfied with the ample programme originally outlined, but indulge in hideous noises with hands and feet after every number. The greedy individuals are generally aided and abetted by a backboneless chairman, who dare not say "no" to a custom that has grown to be a nuisance. Jointly these two elements in the majority of popular entertainments conspire to prolong public amusements to a length out of all reason. Is it to be wondered at if the result is a united rebellion on the part of those who believe in sticking to the programme and in closing at a reasonable hour?

REV. MR. STOTT of Deerness Shetland was startled during his sermon on the 1st of Oct. by the entrance of a man carrying a rifle and a game bag. The preacher did not resume his discourse until the belated one was seated.

THE SILVER BILL.

The principal British newspapers warmly approve of the repeal of the silver purchase bill by the United States Congress. This re- of the long and bitter struggle in the United States Senate is credited in the first instance to President Cleveland's unbending fidelity to principle, and in the next to irresistible public opinion as voiced by the newspaper press, which has been proof against the seductive influences that were so hardly pressed in the direction of surrender.

There seems to be but little doubt that if the Cleveland Administration had not stood firm as a rock in favor of carrying out the plank in the Democratic platform that called for the unconditional repeal of the ill-advised silver purchase measure, a surrender would have been negotiated long ago. But Cleveland refused to give up the principle at stake, and he had the warm support of many leading newspapers on both sides of politics. The silver issue was by no means a party issue, for while 23 Republicans and 20 Democrats voted for the repeal of the Sherman Act, 19 Democrats, 9 Republicans, and 4 Populists voted to continue the alliance of the Government with the silver producers.

The reform of the tariff is the next measure to which the United States Administration is committed. It has been held that the repeal of the silver purchase law will tend to strengthen business, but the "protectionists" who tried to effect an alliance with the silver men are just as anxious to keep back tariff reduction, and even more solicitous to have it believed that the dullness in trade has not been caused by the unsettlement of values under the silver legislation, but by the fears that the taxes will be reduced. For this reason, it is argued that the Democratic members of the ways and means committee should, if possible, have the new tariff measure ready for presentation to the House by the middle of this month, in order to have the bill well under way before Christmas. But the Republican members who hope to profit by delay do not wish to have the measure presented to the House before the regular session in December, as they say they will need that time to prepare their views. Thus it may be late in the winter before the measure reaches the Senate, where, owing to the slim majority of Democrats, it is expected to reach the critical stage of its existence.

If a fair measure of tariff reduction can be carried out at a reasonably early date, the change will not only prove beneficial to the great mass of the people, but be one more proof that President Cleveland, who has always had a trade freedom goal before him, is entitled to be regarded as the greatest American statesman of the present generation. Is there cause for Canadians to rejoice in these developments? There is. A nation progressing towards freedom in trade increases its own prosperity in the first instance, but it cannot relieve its people of barnacles without indirectly benefiting those with whom it exchanges commodities.

CANADA'S DESTINY.

Letter from Mr. Goldwin Smith.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

If among your readers there are any who desire to see the question of Canada's destiny freely discussed before the people and think that the time for its practical consideration is drawing nigh, let them not imagine that the subject is dropped, or that the movement is dead, because there is a temporary pause in the debate. There can be no use in carrying on controversy without an immediate object. On the contrary, dispute and friction ought as much as possible to be avoided when the subject is one about which great sensitiveness naturally exists and angry passions are apt to be set at work. To suspend action in regard to this question three things have intervened:

First, there has been the financial crisis in the United States. As I said before, this is a storm in the stock market caused by unwise currency legislation; it has not touched the vital sources of national prosperity. But so long as it lasts it entirely absorbs attention and prevents the Canadian question, or any other external question from finding a place in American thoughts, while it produces natural alarm and revulsion on the side of our people. The financial horizon in the United States already begins to clear, and now that the silver law is repealed, the storm, after wrecking a number of fortunes, will probably soon subside.

In the second place, our people are looking hopefully for changes in the American tariff which will restore to them, partly at all events, the market of the United States; and before entering into any question of political relations they wish, naturally enough, to see what the issue of commercial revision will be. What changes will be made nobody at Washington, so far as I can learn, yet knows. It is hardly to be expected that they will be very extensive, because the state of the revenue at this moment is opposed to great reductions. But whatever advantages we may gain, they will be like those which we have before owed to American tariff arrangements, not only partial, but precarious. What one American party does to-day the other, if power in the United States changes hands, may to-morrow undo. The Canadian farmer may sow for the American market under a liberalized tariff, and before he reaps, protectionism may again be in the ascendant across the line and shut the fiscal door against his harvest. Already there are some symptoms of a reaction in favor of the Republican party, which is that of a high tariff, and McKinley, though beaten in the Presidential election, has triumphed in his own State. What we want and must have is a permanent abolition of the customs line.

In the third place, our elections, both Dominion and Provincial, are coming into view. Our people are falling back into their old party lines and their thoughts are engrossed for the time by the approaching battle. That the party struggle for office at Ottawa has much to do with the substantial interests of the county, I, for one, find difficulty in believing. But the people fancy that it has, and at all events their minds are for the present fixed upon the impending fray. When this battle is over they will have time and leisure to think of such questions as independence, imperial federation, or continental union.

In the meantime, by the discussion which has taken place already, one great point, we may hope, has been gained. Liberty of thought and speech, the only security for wise and patriotic counsels, has been asserted and made good alike against official intimidation and social persecution. There are interests, official, social and commercial, which I do not wish to hurt or disparage, but which are not identical with the broad interests of the whole Canadian people. These have been inclined to apply the gag. But they have been made, I think, to understand that whatever differences of opinion there may be among us on the points of controversy, the gag, in a free community, will not be endured. The public voice, evoked by their own acts, has told them that under popular government he and he alone will be deemed really loyal who seeks with singleness of heart the public good. Such, I believe, is the sentiment of the London ADVERTISER, whatever its position in regard to the particular issue may be.

The continental union organization remains on foot. Its office is still open and its literature continues to circulate. When the temporary obstacles which I have mentioned are removed the movement will resume its march. Yours faithfully,

GOLDWIN SMITH.

ENDEAVORERS RALLY.

A Fine Gathering in St. James' Church —Splendid Address by Rev. Dr. Jackson, of Galt.

A large and representative assembly of Christian Endeavorers met last evening in St. James' Church to celebrate the third anniversary of the society. President E. Wyatt was chairman. The church was most beautifully and most elaborately decorated. Around the front of the gallery bunting was hung and sheaves of wheat and barley and shields with suggestive scripture mottoes. The speaker's platform was walled in by a bank of flowers and foliage plants, while the organ was gay with many colors and greetings to the guests. Nearly every Christian Endeavor Society in the city was represented and took part in the exercises.

Short addresses were delivered by Rev. Canon Richardson and Messrs. N. I. McDermid, and R. Kirkpatrick, and Miss E. Carson, and Rev. Mr. Talling. Dr. Jackson, of Galt, gave the main address of the evening. He said that the Christian Endeavor movement sprang out of the church, and was necessitated by the spiritual tide and life of the church. The movement could not have been started successfully ten years earlier. The church was not ripe for it, any more than Europe was ripe for the Reformation, when Huss, 100 years before Luther, sounded his Gospel trumpet. Another element contributing to the phenomenal success of the Endeavor movement was its joint principle, "For Christ and the Church." Dr. Jackson complimented the St. James' Society upon the success of their work and the evidences of prosperity, and was glad to see the large delegations from the other societies of the city. He counseled them to pray for the church, attend the church, and interest others in the church. He had confidence in the members of the Christian Endeavor Societies. They might all help the church in these directions. Prayer brings down the divine blessing. A full church makes an eloquent ministry and is wonderfully attractive to strangers, and if young ladies and gentlemen would only exercise consecrated tact, they would leaven the community with Christian influence and fill the church and make it a mighty power in the community. But the young people must be single-hearted. Mr. Sayer, of the Y. M. C. A., led a most interesting consecration meeting, after which all united in singing the Christian Endeavor hymn, "God Be With You," and Rev. Mr. Gage pronounced the benediction. The attention and interest of all was kept up till the last moment.

Nice Wedding Present, This.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 1.—R. Millar, president of the St. Paul Railway system, who is to be married within a few days, gave the 10,000 employes of the company an agreeable surprise yesterday. He announced that their wages, which were cut 10 per cent. a few months ago, will be restored to the old amounts beginning Nov. 1.

Less Football, More Study.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 1.—The faculty of Rutger's College have forbidden the football team to make their trip south on account of all but two of the members of the eleven being behind in their studies. In consequence of this the annual football day will be abandoned and it is thought the team will be disbanded.

A Veteran's Story

Jos. Hemmerich.

Mr. Joseph Hemmerich, an old soldier, 529 E. 146th St., N. Y. City, writes us voluntarily. In 1862, at the battle of Fair Oaks, he was stricken with typhoid fever, and after a long struggle in hospitals, lasting several years, was discharged as incurable with Consumption. Doctors said both lungs were affected and he could not live long, but a comrade urged him to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. Before he had finished one bottle his cough began to get loose, the choking sensation left, and night sweats grew less and less. He is now in good health and cordially recommends

COURTS OF PEACE.

Proposal to Discourage Litigation in Canada by a New Method.

It Works Well in Switzerland and Norway.

F. E. Titus, Toronto.]

There is a general concensus of opinion that we have too much legislation. Can it be lessened? By many amendments to our legal system we have had its cost decreased, but what is needed is an earnest attempt to lessen the amount. Apparently our legislators are convinced that they have done their duty when they have provided the means by which litigants can wage their warfare assisted by all the modern machinery of law. Yet is there not a better way? Is it possible to devise some method by which legal strife may be prevented and quarrels settled before they have resulted in loss of means and the incurring of life-long animosities? The genius of our race should not find this difficult; or, if difficult, it should not stand dismayed by the task. In these days, when nations are learning that it is wiser to settle differences amicably instead of resorting to the stern decision of war, individual men may be expected to greet with pleasure any proposition which looks towards a peaceful solution of their individual disputes.

THE COST OF LITIGATION.

The large amount of money expended in the futherance of law suits, the time wasted by the litigants in supervising their cases, instructing their own advisers and agents, procuring witnesses and other evidence; together with the time and energy devoted to the preparation and conduct of this civil warfare of other people by the intelligent body of men who constitute the legal profession, the judges and other officers of the courts, as well as the large amount annually paid out of the public funds for the equipment and maintenance of the buildings, offices and courts, all constitute a very severe drain upon the wealth and wealth-producing power of our community.

THE MORAL INJURY.

When we turn from the financial to the moral side of the question of loss, reasons as much stronger as the moral must ever be of more importance than the mere material, force themselves upon us for our consideration. From some trifling dispute or misunderstanding, which, if the parties could have been brought face to face in a friendly way, might have been explained and adjusted without difficulty, there have arisen family or neighborhood feuds which have estranged relatives and friends and led to life-long hatreds and moral deterioration. Seldom does any man emerge from a lawsuit without some lowering of his moral tone, some loss of self-respect. Personal advantage is placed in the scale against that absolute rectitude which requires one to tell the truth without a bias, color or shade, as though he were entirely disinterested. The temptation to deviate from the straight path is too often too strong. Some shade of meaning favorable to his own supposed interest will be given. As every such departure, however slight, loosens the moral fibre, renders the man less manly, less able to resist temptation of every kind, and makes further descent easier, the certainty of moral injury makes it a serious factor.

THE CAUSE OF LITIGATION.

Being satisfied that the situation is wrong, we should find a remedy. But first let us consider some of the causes tending to produce an undue amount of litigation; that is: A determination, by means of a lawsuit, of questions which could be as well, if not better, determined in some other way, involving less expense and less injury.

Why have we so much litigation? One reason is because our whole legal system is so constructed that by it litigation is encouraged when it should be discouraged.

His own vanity, his hopes and his fears are all potent forces in preventing the litigant, or prospective litigant, from approaching, with a view to settlement, the opposing party.

From the inception to the end of an action the aggrieved and the oppressor find themselves surrounded by those whose interests are served by a continuation of the strife.

Litigation benefits the lawyer, the division court clerk and his bailiff, the sheriff and his assistants.

We find among these men many who are moved by nobler impulse than that of selfish interest, and such prevent or shorten litigation; but then there must be something utterly wrong in a system which continually tempts any man or class of men to foment strife.

THE TRUE OBJECT OF LEGAL MACHINERY.

The object of the existence of legal machinery should be to settle differences between people as cheaply, expeditiously and fairly as possible. From the bottom to the top of the system it should in every part be so arranged as to accomplish these objects.

In this paper I propose to deal with one place where our legal system fails in some of these respects. That failure is at the very beginning of trouble whose difficulties have not yet assumed the large proportions to which they afterwards often grow, and where, consequently, they could be settled far more easily than afterwards, with less expense and less ill-feeling between the parties.

Although we have many courts for the carrying on of litigation, we have no court organized for the purpose of settling differences by reconciling the parties, and thus preventing the strife which is carried on in every court of law.

COURTS OF CONCILIATION.

To meet the deficiency I suggest that within every municipality there should be selected a number of commissioners sufficient to perform the duties which I shall presently indicate. These commissioners should be selected, not for their technical knowledge of law, although that should not be an objection, but particularly with a view to their intelligence, good common sense, natural sense of fairness and justice and for their ability as peacemakers, each of those commissioners with his clerk to form a court of conciliation.

METHOD OF PROCEDURE.

Before any civil action could be brought the parties should be compelled to take the following or similar proceeding: The party complaining, should in writing, in plain, simple, everyday language, as he would recite his grievances to his friend, state his cause of complaint and what he wishes the other party (the defendant) to do or refrain from doing, and requesting that the defendant be required to meet him in the court of conciliation. Upon this (in duplicate) being delivered to the commissioner he should write the summons of the court, fixing the day of hearing upon the complaint and cause the same to be delivered to the defendant, at the same time notifying the plaintiff of the time and place of meeting.

The parties to the controversy are to attend in person, and no other person is to be permitted to attend on behalf of either of them, except when the same is rendered necessary by the sickness, infancy, insanity or other sufficient reason or disability of the party of which the commissioner is to be the judge; and in no case is any lawyer to be permitted to attend on behalf of any other person.

If a party fail to appear without good excuse he should be compelled to pay the costs of any subsequent proceedings in a court of law, even though he should win the case, and no action of the class mentioned should be permitted to be brought in the courts of law until after the same had been brought before the court of conciliation.

The parties having thus been brought before the commissioner, they should there state their grievances, it being the duty of the commissioner to endeavor to reconcile their differences and bring about a settlement between the parties.

The proceedings before the commissioner should be strictly private and without prejudice to subsequent ligitation, and the information there obtained and the admissions there made should not be available for any purpose whatsoever in any subsequent proceedings.

PROCEEDINGS STRICTLY PRIVATE.

The commissioner in endeavoring to reconcile the parties should not be fettered by legal fictions or technicalities, but should endeavor to do that which seems to him right as between man and man. The parties in their own language state their respective sides of the case. Everything which would assist the commissioner in arriving at the merits could be brought before him. A commissioner of intelligence would be able, oftentimes better than is possible in a court of law, to sift out the true from the false, and, having learned what is the real matter in dispute, he can urge each to sacrifice some portion of that which he considers his rights in order to come to a friendly settlement. The heavy expense of litigation; the uncertainty as to the result; the worry, anxiety and loss of time involved in its prosecution; the bitter feelings which are likely to be engendered might thus be avoided, and in their place would be the absolute certainty that the two parties considered jointly must be in a much more favorable condition if the dispute between them has been settled upon the spot. Even he who wins often pays too dearly for his victory. All these things can, by one who possesses the confidence of both parties, be presented in such a strong light that the folly of litigation will be perceived by the parties. Then a suggestion to each as to where he can yield a point without serious injury to what he considers his rights, and a final suggestion to meet each other half way will nearly always result in immediate settlement.

JUDGMENT TO BE FINAL.

If the settlement is reached a certificate to that effect should be forthwith signed, a copy given to each, and either can enforce it in the same manner as other judgments of courts, it to be final and conclusive.

In the event of a failure to settle, the commissioner should give his certificate to the one who makes the fairest offer, and if subsequent litigation is undertaken and the opposite party does not, in its event, secure a more favorable verdict than the offer thus made, he should be compelled to pay the whole costs of both parties to the litigation. The fear of such a result would be a strong incentive to peace.

THE COMMISSIONERS AS ARBITRATORS.

In addition to their powers as peacemakers the commissioners might be given the power to act as arbitrators. If the parties fail to agree they could request the commissioner to act as arbitrator in the matter; or, if the case is one for the recovery of a debt, it could be submitted to their decision in the capacity of a judge, the decision in either case to have the force which now attaches awards and to judgments.

OBJECTIONS CONSIDERED.

Whenever there is suggested a radical change for the better, whether in things political, social or economical, there are always to be heard voices declaring that, however desirable such a change or such an object as is the one in view may be, the proposition is utterly unfeasible, impracticable, and will never be accomplished. Utopian is the word which to them settles the whole question, and consigns the reform and the reformer to forgottenness.

I have no doubt that by many, who limit possibilities by their own achievements, and whose dogmatism upon this as upon other questions is equaled only by their ignorance of events, such expressions will be made with reference to the reform here proposed.

HAS EXISTED IN NORWAY FOR ONE HUNDRED YEARS.

Yet such a system as I have outlined has been in existence in Norway for nearly a century. Its workings and results are, in the Atlantic Monthly, portrayed by Nicoloy Grevatad. To his excellent article I am indebted for the most of the suggestions I have here made.

HOW THEY WORK IN NORWAY.

I make the following extracts from his article:

"In Norway every city, every village containing at least twenty families, and every parish constitutes a separate 'district of conciliation.' The districts are small, in order to make it as easy as possible for the parties to attend the courts, as personal attendance is the main feature of the proceedings. The court, or commission, as the statute styles it, is made up of two members, one of whom acts as chairman and clerk. These officials are chosen for a term of three years at a special election, by the voters of the district from among three men nominated by the city or parish council. Only men above 25 years of age are eligible, and the law expressly provides that only 'good' men may be placed in nomination. The court meets at a certain place, day and hour, every week in the cities and every month in the country districts. It is not public. The proceedings are carried on with closed doors and the commissioners are bound to secrecy. Nothing of what transpires is permitted to reach the outside world. Admissions or concessions made by one party cannot be used against him by his adversary if the case should come up for trial in the regular courts. But a party willing to settle before the commissioners is entitled to a certificate to that affect.

"Before this informal tribunal all parties to civil or private cases must appear. Failure to answer in person—except in specially presented cases when a representative, other than a lawyer, is allowed—is punished by the obligation to pay all costs of the formal trial subsequent, whatever be its decision. A fee of 25 cents charged the plaintiff for issuing the summons, and a second of 50 cents in case of conciliation, are all the costs possible.

"The office of the commissioner has come to be one of great honor, and the best men in the country are selected, nor have the 'courts' been allowed to come into 'politics.'

"The influence of the court of conciliation is brought to bear upon a legal controversy while it is yet possible to bridge the chasm by peaceable means. The injured party has made up his mind to seek redress, but before he can rush into court he must pass through the gates of peace."

The writer says that 75 out of every 100 cases are peaceably adjusted in these courts.

In Norway it is regarded as one of the corner stones of the national system of justice, and it is not an exaggeration to say that any attempt to abolish it would provoke a revolution.

ALSO IN SWITZERLAND.

The same method of settling their differences is also in force in Switzerland. Before any action can be brought in the courts of law there, it is necessary for both ligitants to appear before a functionary known as the "Juge de Paix," who is elected and is always one of the worthiest citizens of the community. Each then states his side of the case, and the duty of the "Juge" is to endeavor to reconcile the differences. As the only persons permitted to be present are the "Juge" and the ligitants, in nearly every case this effort is successful.

THE MORAL GAIN.

Although the benefits are great, regarded from a financial point of view, yet a result more important, a benefit far greater than that which may flow from the saving of time, money and energy wasted in the pursuit of our fellow-man in the courts of law, will be the gradually increasing recognition of the rights of others; a growing ability in the individual to see both sides of a question, and, resulting from this, a fairness of mind which must tend eventually to render not only courts of law, but even courts of conciliation, unnecessary.

I can imagine few grander objects, few more far-reaching reforms than this which tends to broaden the mind, and which rests upon the basis of love and conciliation, a marked contrast to our courts of law, causing as they do, feelings of revenge and bitter enmity. Upon the intellect, courts of law produce cunning, sharpness; courts of conciliation produce wisdom, breadth.

In a litigious people there must be dissension and the seeds of national decay; while on the other hand, a people who have developed a character which finds no occasion for courts of law, have in that character a better safeguard against national death than is to be found in mere engines of war.

THE TURF.

TIPS.

Nelson, 2:09, has a cracked hoof, hence his temporary retirement.

It is said that Directum, 2:05¼, will be out as a pacer next year.

There are now 26 pacers in the 2:10 list.

Nancy Hanks earned $17,552 this year. She will probably never be started in another race.

ATHLETICS.

MAY FIGHT IN MONACO.

BOSTON, Nov. 1.—Charley Mitchell, who is now in Boston, announces that Atkinson, of London, offers a big purse for a battle between Corbett and Mitchell, to take place in Monaco, in Southern France. Mitchell says he will agree to fight Queensbury rules and with an American referee. Mitchell thinks there is no prospect of a fight in America, and expresses a desire for a mill in private. The indications are strong that Mitchell is bluffing.

THE BATTLE CREEK WRECK.

Examination Postponed—Mrs. Eveline Aldrich, of Edwardsburg, Indentified.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Nov. 1.—The examination of Conductor Scott and Engineer Wooley, charged with manslaughter, was adjourned until Nov. 15. This will give the coroner's jury time to bring in its verdict.

Dr. Sweetland has identified body No. 2 in the vault as that of Mrs. Eveline Aldrich, his aunt. A post-mortem examination was resorted to, which revealed the fact that the body was that of an old woman. The remains will be taken to Edwardsburg to-night.

In working with the spade the proportion of right-handed men grasp the spade with the left and push with left foot and right hand, though when using an ax the same individuals would grasp farthest down with the right. The Persians mount their horses from the right side, which is the diffirent side from that mounted by Europeons.

THE Mexicans do not use ice, but nevertheless there is no country where a man can get a glass of cool, sweet water quicker than in Mexico. The water jars are made of a porous pottery which allows the water to ooze out through the material of the tanks and evaporation keeps it always cool. It is not cold like our ice water but it is all the better on that account as a man can drink twice as much and never feel in the least injured, no matter how large his draughts.

FASHIONABLE ATTIRE

within the reach of everybody. All during the season our big stock of Mantles has been the most stylish, the most elegant, the most sought after. What was the largest stock of Fall and Winter Wraps ever brought to London has been so much reduced that we were compelled to repeat our order. One case came to hand last week. Another came in yesterday. These are our finest. They are absolutely incomparable in quality, trimmings and fineness.

COMFORTABLE

to look at and comfortable to wear. Beside, they fit the form so gracefully that they are the subject of remark on all sides. Where one has been sold it in many cases has been the means of selling several. And this is the way the large assortment has distributed itself among our numerous patrons. Do not allow the balance to pass out without procuring one. Such an opportunity to buy first-class garments, fashionably made, at so very low prices, should appeal to every one who desires to economize. The enormity of our business enables us to purchase cheaply in large quantities, and this advantageous factor is in part handed over to our friends. We do the Mantle business for Western Ontario. We have the stock, the trade and the conveniences. Our prices are right. They tell every time.

FOR AMATEUR SINGERS.

The Advantage of Singing Over Other Accomplishments—Mistakes to be Avoided.

Good singing has a great advantage over other accomplishments. It gives the greatest amount of pleasure to others, and, as a rule, is a never failing source of delight to the singer. It is also an exercise which is so beneficial to the lungs that it has been proved beyond all doubt that many persons with weak chests have been permanently strengthened by a careful and judicious use of the vocal organs. We may here observe that the practice of singing, particularly in the case of young children, should be insisted upon by parents, as, although there may be no evidence of any disease of the lungs in them, yet by the daily practice of vocal exercises their lungs are invigorated and rendered healthier, and many chest complaints which might have developed in the course of time are thus warded off.

It is a great mistake for women who wish to become good singers to indulge in the pernicious habit of tight lacing. It is a matter of fact that nothing can be more injurious to the respiratory organs than to compress them into a more limited space than nature has already provided for them. The practice of tight lacing makes it utterly impossible for the singer to inflate the lungs to their fullest extent, which is absolutely necessary for the proper development of the voice. The Housewife, authority for the foregoing, has the following to say concerning the selection of a song:

"In the choice of a song the student should be guided by the sentiment contained in the words and the beauty of the music. Due regard, however, must be paid to the compass and capabilities of her voice, and she must be careful to avoid all nervous habits, such as beating time with the hands or feet, moving backward and forward, etc., but she must aquire an easy and natural attitude."

In conclusion, we would impress upon students to avoid all eccentricity of style and contortion of the features when singing. The latter may be overcome by practicing in front of a looking glass, which will have the effect of correcting all tendencies to such bad habits.

LONDON, Wednesday, Nov. 1.

WEEKLY REVIEW:

Business on this market has been quite active during the week just closing, with prices mostly ranging steady and in some cases favoring sellers a little. We note an improvement in the price of oats and wheat towards the close; also some more strength in eggs. Outside of these the market was practically unchanged.

The receipts of wheat were good; the closing value was 95c to $1 62 for red—mostly $1 to $1 02. White sold up to $1 05, but in the majority of cases the price paid was $1 02 to $1 04, the latter price for all really good samples; 95c only was paid for very poor quality, such as was fit for feeding purposes only.

Oats have been going slowly all week, and at close the actual advance for the week was 3c per cwt, the range being 91c to 94c, with the bulk of sales at 92c to 93c.

Peas were in good demand, selling at 90c to 94c; 93c to 94c was the general price for good samples.

Barley dull; malting samples, 85c to 86c; colored, 80c to 82c, mostly 80c; light receipts.

No rye offered.

Buckwheat sold at $1 early in the week and 90c at the close.

Corn offered and sold at $1 to $1 02 per cwt.

Beans sold at $1 25 to $1 35 per bushel for hand-picked and $1 10 to $1 15 for unpicked The bulk of sales were made at $1 25.

Eggs active and stronger at close of week; 16c to 17c was paid for strictly fresh lots by the basket; 15c in store lots; the retail price was 18c to 20c.

Butter was steady at 25c to 26c for best quality of pound rolls in baskets. Crocks brought 23c to 25c, and tubs from 15c to 22c, the latter only when quality was extra good. Chickens, turkeys and ducks were steady and unchanged in values. Meats quiet, the only change occurring in dressed hogs. They sold at much lower prices; $6 for rough and $7 to $7 25 for choice.

Fruits quiet and no change in price. Apples, 50c to 85c per bag; grapes, 3c to 5c per pound; pears, $1 to $1 50 per bushel.

Potatoes plentiful, selling at 65c to 70c by the load and 75c to 80c by the bag.

Cabbage, beets, turnips, carrots and cauliflowers steady and unchanged; receipts good.

Tomatoes, almost none of good quality offering; sales, 58c to 75c per bushel.

Hides, skins and tallow quiet and unchanged.

Hay closes easier for the week, selling at $5 to $8 50 per ton.

Caught in the Act.

Constable J. Everingham, of Wardsville, brought a prisoner to the city last night and lodged him in the county jail, where he was charged with burglary. He was found on Tuesday night in the house of Isaac Saylor, on the Longwood road. Saylor had been away from home, and, on returning with a friend found his place lit up. Thinking it was a Hallowe'en prank, he crept quietly up and found a man going through cupboards, bureaus, etc. He had broken in the door and fastened a plank from the inside. Saylor rapped and was admitted. He knocked the tramp down and obliged him to disgorge. The man had found some money in Saylor's clothes and also had watches and jewelry in his pockets that belonged to members of the family. He gave his name as William Hope, a German, from Philadelphia, and admits having just completed a six months sentence there. Some jewelry was found on him that did not belong to the Saylor family.

"SOMETHING UNPRECEDENTED"

Properly Describes the Closing-Out Sale of "Burns, the Clothier"—Splendid Chance to Save Money in Purchasing Winter Clothing.

There is perhaps not a better known establishment in London in the tailoring and gent's furnishing line than that of "Burns', the Clothier," at 154 Dundas street. For years it has been recognized as one of the leading clothing houses in the city, and it has come by its reputation honestly and fairly on the merits of the work produced alone, and not by spasmodic booming or spouting. The firm know the value of printer's ink, and excellence of workmanship, coupled with the required amount of judicious advertising, has made for the establishment an enviable record. From their advertisement in another column it will be seen that the members of the firm have decided to retire from the retail clothing business, and a rare opportunity is offered to the public, who at this season of the year find it imperative to lay in a generous supply of clothing. This is not a "supposed to be" retiring sale, but a genuine clearing out of stock. They are now offering to their customers and the public generally their unsurpassed stock of woolens for the fine ordered trade, at prices that will inconvenience no one. The same style, workmanship and finish that have hitherto characterized goods kept by the firm will be continued throughout the present sale. Their furnishing stock is second to none none in the Dominion, comprising every variety of men's and boy's fine neckwear, collars, cuffs, hosiery, gloves, umbrellas and underwear. The first-named are necessary at all seasons of the year, but umbrellas and underwear are an absolute necessity at the present time, in view of the cold and wet fall weather. Intending buyers should remember when they want one or both, to go to "Burns." They will get more than value for their money every time. The range of stock to select from is very wide, comprising, as it does, the best English, German, American and Canadian manufactures. Great bargains and values can now be secured in the gent's furnishing line. In "ready to wear" clothing there is a superb assortment of suits and overcoats suitable for men, youths, boys and children. The stock is very complete and the different sizes numerous enough to satisfy every purchaser, whether he be a giant or a pigmy. This is the season of the year when citizens want and must have their winter supply of clothing, and if they want—and they certainly do—to get the best value for their outlay, the best clothes for the money, the acme of fit and style, they will do well to give "Burns, the Clothier," a call, and save at least 25 per cent. on every purchase.

LOCAL POLICEMEN.

Enjoy Themselves in the Y. M. C. A. Parlors.

The Ladies Lend a Willing Hand—Speeches by Revs. W. J. Clark, Walter Rigsby and Wm. Walker.

The quarterly meeting of the Christian Police Association was held in the Y. M. C. A. parlors yesterday afternoon. One object of the association is to bring the police of the city under the influence of the Gospel and judging by the success attending the efforts of the promoters a deep interest is taken by all the members. The chief of the force, though not a member, is heartily in sympathy with the movement, as are the remainder of the city's protectors who are not already connected with the society.

At yesterday's meeting something out of the ordinary routine was in store for those who were able to add pleasure to the proceedings by their presence. A number of the local clergymen—Methodist, Presbyterian, Congregational and Baptist—consented to attend, and some of them at the parlor meeting delivered short and pleasing addresses, full of good advice, chiefly for the bluecoats, but suitable for all. Nor can the Ladies' Auxiliary be passed by without being complimented on the manner in which they carried out their share of the work. Ex-Mayor W. M. Spencer has always made an excellent chairman on such occasions, and his pleasing manner yesterday won the admiration of all.

Among those present were: Revs. W. J. Clark, Robt. Aylward, Walter Rigsby, Chas. Smith, D. M. Mihell, Wm. Walker and W. H. A. Claris; Mr. C. R. Sayer, secretary of the Y. M. C. A.; Sergt.-Major Adams, P.C.s Woolway, Campbell, Walter Smith, Gillson, Green, Ralph, Berryhill, Monaghan, Gall, Weir and McDonald, and the following members of the Ladies' Auxiliary: Mesdames (Dr.) Eccles, Sayer, Spencer, Holmes, Arnott, Campbell, Jones, Bowman, Smith, Westman, Adams, Isaacs and Alton.

After all had been seated in the parlor the chairman opened the meeting with a few remarks, after which a short song service was held, in which all joined heartily, Mr. Spencer leading in the singing and Mrs. Jas. Bowman presiding at the piano. Rev. Chas. Smith then engaged in a short prayer, after which the speakers were introduced.

Rev. W. J. Clark was the first called, and delivered one of his always interesting and instructive addresses. As a subject for consideration he chose the words, "Should I become a Christian?" The speaker thought that all should, as it was a duty devolving upon all and especially upon parents to bring their children up to the Christian Church. "In every gathering," said he, "we may rely upon it that the Lord knoweth his own. I hope that all—and especially those present—are his, and he knows whether you are truly loyal or not. Should there be one present who has not yet embraced Christianity it would not be out of place to review one or two reasons why we should be one of God's children. From my standpoint there is one reason important enough in itself to fully answer the question taken as my subject. That is because it is right. There is an 'ought' in life. Some things we ought to do; some things we ought not to do. And I am sure there is no one here nor on this earth, but what knows there is such a thing as sin. It brings sorrow and trouble to homes; it breaks up friendship. In every case it is right to follow what is good. The second reason I would bring forward is that only through the serving of God is true joy of heart to be found. This I will say, that there is nothing in this vast universe in the way of material possession that can satisfy the human heart. But the last reason for becoming a Christian is that you alone can decide this question. God comes to you and pleads; he will not make you a servant against your wishes. He says: 'Turn ye, for why will ye die?' The answer should be the becoming of a Christian, and the way will then be clear."

Rev. W. Walker spoke for a few moments on "The Way of Salvation." To reach this goal there was a guidance in the words: "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." Without forgiveness and the shedding of blood there is no remission of sin.

Rev. Walter Rigsby was the last speaker, and "The After Path" was his subject. A personal salvation was the great necessity. Mr. Rigsby impressed upon the members of the police force the great danger in which they were always placed. It was not, he said, with the best classes they had to come in contact. It was the lowest—the scum of the country—and the officer's life, as a result, was always in danger.

The company then made their headquarters for the remainder of the evening in the large hall upstairs, where an excellent table had been prepared by the ladies. After justice had been done in this respect a few short addresses were delivered. In the meantime Revs. J. W. Annis and M. P. Talling arrived, and along with Revs. W. Rigsby and W. Claris and Segt. Adams, Monaghan, Woolway, Alton, Campbell and Robinson delivered a few remarks.

The secretary of the association, P. C. Gall, in his report, expressed satisfaction at the progress made during the year, and thanked Mrs. Thornley and Mrs. Bowman and the city clergymen for assistance given the association.

The proceedings were then brought to a close, everybody voting it the most enjoyable gathering yet held.

LUCK, OR PLUCK?

CHAPTER XXVIII.

"Well, Lou Ann," said Farmer Hayn one morning when the month of May had reached that stage when farmers forget their coats except on Sundays, "it'll seem 'most like takin' boarders again to have such a big crowd of city folks in the house, won't it?"

"Not quite as bad as that," said Mrs. Hayn, carefully moving an iron over one of the caps which she reserved for grand occasions. "Only Mr. and Mrs. Tramlay an' the two gals."

"Well, you orn't to forget that Phil is city folks now, an—I declare to gracious, I believe I forget to tell you that Miss Dinon—that splendid gal I told you about, that owns a lot of stock in the company—Phil's writ that like enough she'll come down too. She an' her mother want to pick a lot for a house for themselves before it's too late for much of a choice."

"Well, I can't understand it yet," said Mrs. Hayn carefully picking the lace edging of the cap into the proper neglige effect. "It seems like a dream. Here's me, that's sometimes been almost addyin' to get away from this farm an' into the city, an' there's a whole passel of city folks goin' to leave their palaces in New York an' come down here to live on little pieces of our farm an' other farms along the ridge. I tell you, I can't understand it."

"Well," said the farmer, picking some bits of oat chaff from his shirt sleeve, "it ain't always easy to understand city folks at first sight. Now, there's that feller Marge. When I fust saw him in New York I wouldn't have give him his salt for any work he'd do in the country. Yet now look at him! Them roads an' drives through the company's property wouldn't have been half so near done if he hadn't come down here an' took hold to hurry things along for the spring trade. Why, some of them fellers that's doin' the work has worked for me on the farm, off an' on, for years, an' I thought I knowed how to get as much out of 'em as ther' was in 'em; but, bless your soul, he manages 'em a good deal better."

"They do say he's a master hand at managin'," Mrs. Hayn admitted, "an' that it's partly because he takes right hold himself, instead of standin' round bossin' like most city men."

"Takes hold? Why, he works as if he'd been brought up at it, which I'm certain sure he never was. You can't see the fun of it, because you never saw him in New York. Why, if you could have seen him there you'd have thought that a gate-post with two pegs in the bottom of it would have had as much co as him. I've reely took a likin' to him. More'n once I've let him know that I wouldn't mind if he'd leave the hotel in the village an' put up with us, but somehow he didn't seem to take to it."

"That's strange, ain't it?" said Mrs. Hayn, with a quizzical look that made her husband stare.

"Oh!" said the old man, after a little reflection.

"You're growin' dretful old an' short-sighted, Reuben," said Mrs. Hayn; and the farmer made haste to change the subject of conversation.

A day or two later the party from the city arrived, and great was the excitement in the village. Sol Mantring's wife, who had learned of what was expected, made a trip to Hayn farm daily on one pretext or other, reaching there always just before the time of the arrival of the train from the city, received the deserved reward of her industry, and before sunset of the day on which the party arrived everybody in the village knew that when Lucia stepped from the carriage at the farm-house door Mrs. Hayn caught her in her arms and almost hugged the life out of her. Everybody knew, also, that the party was to be there for only 24 hours.

The shortness of the time at their disposal was probably the reason that Phil and Lucia disappeared almost immediately after the meal which quickly followed their arrival. They went to the lily pond; there were no lilies yet upon the water, but the couple did not notice their absence; they could see it just where they should be—just where it was ten months before. They got again into the old birch bark canoe; it was not as clean as it should have been for the sake of Lucia's expensive traveling dress, for the small boys of the Hayn family had not taken as good care of it as Phil would do, but Phil made a cushion of leaves, which Lucia slowly expanded into a couch, as she half reclined while she identified the scenes which her farmer boy guide and boatman had shown her the summer before. Phil thought her expression angelic as she dreamily gazed about her; yet when her eyes reverted to him, as they frequently did, he informed himself that there were even gradations of angelic expression.

They even rode in the old beach wagon; the ocean was still as cold as winter; bathing was out of the question, but Phil had a persistent fancy for reminding his sweetheart of every change there had been in their relations, and in himself; and Lucia understood him.

"It's dreadfully mean of those two to go off by themselves and not help us have any fun," complained Margie to Agnes Dinon, when the latter returned from a stroll with Mr. and Mrs. Tramlay, during which she had selected a satisfactory cottage site. "Let's have a run. I know every foot of this country. Do you see that clump of dwarfed cedars off yonder on the ridge, with the sky for a background? They're lovely; I've tried again and again to sketch them. Come over and look at them."

Away the couple plodded. As they approached the clump they saw that a road had been partly sunk in front of it; and as they drew nearer they saw a man sodding a terrace which sloped from the ridge to the road.

"That's not right," said another man, who was looking on. "That sod must be laid more securely, or the first rain will wash it away. I'll show you how to do it. See here."

"Agnes Dinon!" exclaimed Margie, in a tone which suggested that a mouse, or at least a snake, was in close proximity. "Do you hear that voice?—do you see that man? Do you know who he is? That is the elegant Mr. Marge."

Miss Dinon manifested surprise, but she quickly whispered:

"Sh-h-h! Yes, I knew he was here, looking after the company's interests. He is one of the directors, you know."

"Yes, I know; but see his hat and his clothes, and his brown hands. This is simply killing! Oh, if I had crayons and paper, or, better still, a camera! The girls at home won't believe me when I tell them; they'll think it too utterly preposterous."

"Why should you tell them?" asked Agnes, turning away. "Isn't it entirely honorable for a man to be caring for his own and fulfilling his trust, especially when so valuable a property as this is demands his attention?"

"Yes, yes, you dear old thing; but——"

"Sh-h!" whispered Agnes, for just then Marge climbed the slope and appeared a little way in front of them, shouting back at the man:

"Cut your next sod here; this seems to have thicker grass."

Suddenly he saw the ladies and recognized them. It was too late to run, as he assuredly would have done if warned in time, but he had the presence of mind to shout to his workman:

"No, it isn't, either. Get the next from the old place!"

"Good morning, Mr. Marge," said Miss Dinon, with a frank smile and an outstretched hand.

Marge raised his hat, bowed, and replied: "The hand of the laboring man is sometimes best shaken in spirit. I assure you, though, I appreciate the compliment."

"Then don't deny me the honor," said Miss Dinon. "It's a positive pleasure to see a man doing something manly. It is my misfortune that I see men only in the city, you know, and doing nothing."

Her hand was still extended, so Marge took it, again raising his hat. Margie turned away; the situation was so comical to her that she felt she must laugh, and she knew by experience that her laughter was sometimes uncontrollable when fairly started.

"Mr. Tramlay says you've worked wonders since you've been here," said Miss Dinon, as Marge released her hand; "and as old Mr. Hayn is his authority, I have no doubt it is so."

"I imagine that I deserve the company's thanks," Marge replied, though I'm astonished at having mastered some portions of the work so quickly. I think I can astonish you, also, by an honest confession; I really wish something of this sort had turned up years ago; I'm a great deal happier at it than I ever was while worrying my wits over stocks in Wall street. I think the work far more honorable and manly, too. You're quite at liberty to repeat this to any of our mutual friends in the city; I'm sure 'twill amuse them, and their laughter won't annoy me a particle."

"They wouldn't laugh," said Miss Dinon, "if they could breathe this glorious air awhile, and foresee the gold which this ground will yield, unless appearances are deceitful."

Life is Misery

To many people who have the taint of Scrofula in their blood. The agonies caused by the dreadful running sores and other manifestations of this disease are beyond description. There is no other remedy equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla for scrofula, salt rheum and every form of blood disease. It is reasonably sure to benefit all who give it a fair trial. b

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills.

Orchid hunters and other collectors have so ravaged Sarowak that Rajah Brooke has prohibited the collection of natural history specimens. Many species of the fauna and flora of his country were in danger of becoming extinct.

Rest and Health to Mother and Child.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for over FIFTY YEARS by MILLIONS of MOTHERS for their CHILDREN WHILE TEETHING with PERFECT SUCCESS. It SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all PAIN; CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

The new Decimal Coinage Association has organized with considerable evidence of strength for the purpose of decimalizing English coinage.

Carter's Little Liver Pills must not be confounded with common Cathartic or Purgative Pills as they are extremely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority.

In a town in Liegnitz an announcement for a dance ends with "Ladies without shoes will not be allowed to participate."

Worms cause feverishness, moaning and restlessness during sleep. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is pleasant, sure and effectual. If your druggist has none in stock, get him to procure it for you.

Onida's mother is dead. She is described as a very charming, aristocratic old lady, with a particularly sweet voice.

Piles Piles Piles Itching Piles.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. The Earl of Mount Cashel has married the daughter of a neighboring farmer. The Earl is 67 and the bride is 26.

A mans' wife should always be the same especially to her husband: but if she is weak and nervous, and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they will make her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so too.

ANOTHER CRAZY CRANK.

Said He Must Kill a Senator—Put in the Asylum.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 1.—A crank who has for some time been sending letters of advice to Gov. Pennoyer has been captured here. He is Charles Lundegger, a German, 40 years of age, and a gardener by occupation. In his letters Lundegger alleged he is a reformer who has been delegated by God to run an independent ticket for the presidency of the United States; that it has been revealed to him that he is the only man living who can safely guide the Government through the present crisis. He thinks it will be necessary to kill Senator Mitchell, who, he says, is working against the interests of the great northwest. He says his relatives shut him up in an asylum, saying he was crazy and wanted to marry Queen Victoria. Lundegger was adjudged insane last night and sent to the asylum.

Making Paper of Sunflower Stalks.

SALINA, Kan., Nov. 1.—The paper mill at this place has made from sunflower stalks several tons of paper, which will be sent to experts in the east. The paper is regarded as superior to straw paper, and marks a great departure in paper making. The raising of sunflowers will now be one of the industries of the country. The mill is now buying sunflowers, and proposes to make sunflower paper a specialty. Last evening a local paper printed its entire paper on the sunflower paper.

An Awful Tragedy!

Thousands of lives have been sacrificed, thousands of homes made desolate by the fatal mistake of the "old-school" physicians, still persisted in by some, notwithstanding the light thrown upon the subject by modern research, that Consumption is incurable. It is not. Consumption is a scrofulous disease of the lungs, and any remedy which strikes right at the seat of the complaint must and will cure it. Such a remedy is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a certain specific for all scrofulous complaints. It was never known to fail if given a fair trial, and that is why the manufacturers sell it under a positive guarantee that if it does not benefit or cure the money paid for it will be refunded. The only lung remedy possessed of such remarkable curative properties as to warrant its makers in selling it on trial!

May—I saw dust on Cholly's knees. Did he propose? Gladys—Yes; but I refused him. The dust was in the wrong place, and there wasn't enough of it, either!

"Remarkable Cure of Dropsy and Dyspepsia."—Mr. Samuel T. Casey, Belleville, writes: "In the spring of 1884 I began to be troubled with dyspepsia, which gradually became more and more distressing. I used various domestic remedies and applied to my family physician, but received no benefit. By this time my trouble assumed the form of dropsy. I was unable to use any food whatever except boiled milk and bread; my limbs were swollen to twice their natural size; all hopes of my recovery were given up, and I quite expected death within a few weeks. Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY having been recommended to me, I tried a bottle with but little hope of relief; and now, after using eight bottles, my Dyspepsia and Dropsy are cured. Although now 79 years of age I can enjoy my meals as well as ever, and my general health is good. I am well-known in this section of Canada, having lived here 57 years; and you have liberty to use my name in recommendation of your VEGETABLE DISCOVERY, which has done such wonders in my case." l

Bilkins—Looking a wild animal in the eye steadily always subdues him. Bluecloth—I have never found that that has any effect on the tiger.

The great lung healer is found in the excellent medicine sold as Pickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It soothes and diminishes the sensibility of the membrane of the throat and air passages and is a sovereign remedy for all coughs, colds, hoarseness, pain or soreness in the chest, bronchitis, etc. It has cured many when supposed to be far advanced in consumption.

IMPORTANT!

"Win a Crown and wear it," is a very good motto. HEINTZMAN & CO. having worked for and obtained a reputation as first-class piano manufacturers, do not feel that they are called upon to share it with any other firm, who by fallacious argument try to make the public believe that the Piano they make or sell is "just like THE HEINTZMAN," or that it is THE "Heintzman." The public and intending purchasers especially, are asked to bear in mind that there is only one HEINTZMAN & CO. Piano. Our trade mark is registered, therefore do not be induced to buy a piano unless it bears the good old name of "Heintzman & Co." It is a safe guarantee that the piano bearing it is reliable in every particular. We have some new and beautiful designs in stock at our London Warerooms, "C. P. M. H." 189 Dundas street. Also some excellent bargains in second-hand Pianos and Organs by other makers. Inspection invited, terms easy.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

Would you oblige by answering the following: Have the Mowat Government brought into force a law exacting a percentage of a testator's will at death of the testator? If so, what is the percentage claimed by the Government?

London, Oct. 31. J. HOLMAN.

[The Succession Duty Act, 1892, affects estates of persons dying testate or intestate since July 1, 1892. When the estate, after the payment of debts, exceeds $10,000, unless given for religious, charitable or educational purposes, and unless when not exceeding $100,000 it passes to the father, brother, husband, wife, child, grandchild, daughter-in-law or son-in-law of the deceased; and when so passing and exceeding that sum the duty is 2½ per cent., and when so passing and exceeding in value $200,000 the duty is 5 per cent. When the property exceeds $10,000 and passes to the grandfather, grandmother, brother, sister, nephew, niece, uncle, aunt or cousin, the duty is 5 per cent. and when to other relatives or strangers the duty is 10 per cent. When the whole value passing to any one person does not exceed $200 the same is exempt from duty. The duty is to be paid to the Provincial Treasurer and is applied by the Government to the fund for defraying the expenditure for asylums for the insane and idiots, institutions for the blind and for deaf mutes, hospitals and other charities.—EDITOR ADVERTISER.]

—Says a traveler: At the first intimation of danger, jump for the upper rail in a railway coach, the bundle rack, the hat spike, anything high up, and draw up your legs. This has saved life and limbs before now; it may save more in future if we can only bear it in mind and put it in practice when the awful moment comes.

—Rain somewhat marred the usual enjoyment of the weekly run of the London Hunt Club yesterday and also interfered materially with the attendance. Several enthusiasts turned out and participated in a run in a northwesterly direction. Among those who followed the hounds were Huntsman Bowman, Messrs. Gibbons, Kilgour, Strong and others.

—Hallowe'en was celebrated by a majority of the city's youth on the streets, but the junior members of the Y. M. C. A. and their friends, to the number of 150, took a different course. They gathered in the parlors, and the boys had prepared a splendid programme, consisting of club swinging, slack-wire walking, etc. And it was not necessary to have the aid of a number of policemen to watch the happy youths.

—The murder of Detective Allan, acting game warden at Long Point, shows the poachers to be reckless and desperate men. The law setting apart game preserves for the benefit of certain individuals is contrary to the ideas of all lovers of genuine sport in Canada, and it seems that the poachers take full advantage of this public sentiment. It was a mistake to create the crime of poaching within the Dominion.—[Toronto Globe.

—The wheat stealing case of John Delaney was heard before Squire Smyth Tuesday afternoon. —The Richmond Street North Methodist Mission held their third annual anniversary services on Sunday and Monday. All the Sunday services were crowded to the utmost capacity of the church. On Monday evening it was almost impossible to obtain standing room. A choice programme was rendered by the children of the school. The report of the secretary for the year ending Sept. 30, 1893, showed a very creditable growth in the school and a cash balance of $27 13 on hand at that date. Mr. Geo. Robinson occupied the chair.

—At Hamilton, Tuesday night, Mrs. Frank MacKelcan, the vocalist and her sister were victims of a Hallowe'en joke that came near resulting seriously. The ladies were being driven along Catharine street in a hack, when the vehicle struck a telegraph pole that had been laid across the street. The driver was thrown headforemost to the ground and the horses started. After the ladies had got over the fright of the shock, they recovered presence of mind, and by leaning out of the cab doors and speaking soothingly to the horses they quieted them down and prevented a serious runaway.

—Corinne, the peerless little prima donna of the Kimball Opera Comique Company, has a fancy, an expensive one to be sure, but a strong fancy nevertheless, for collecting blue gems, and already her collection contains a fine array of valuable turquoises and sapphires. She is thoroughly impressed with the idea that hard work will advance her in many lines in her profession, and she is constantly giving attention to improving herself in her singing, her dancing, her acting. The result is apparent to all who have seen her this season. Corinne's engagement in "Hendrick Hudson," supported by the Kimball Opera Comique Company, is announced for to-morrow night.

The defendant contended that the master had improperly refused to receive certain evidence and to consider the defendant's surcharge. E. R. Cameron (London), for the plaintiff, opposed the defendant's appeal, and also appealed from the report, seeking to increase the amount found due. Reserved.

A Middlesex Boy's Death.

The following recent dispatch from Butte City, Montana, refers to a son of Mr. E. Nash, of Mount Bridges: Harry Nash, brother of S. Nash and J. W. Nash, of this city, died this morning of typhoid pneumonia. Mr. Nash was in his 26th year, a bright, active and promising young man. He was born in Canada and came to Butte about three years ago. Until the disease which proved his death seized him, three weeks ago, his health had been good. He was exceedingly popular in Butte and a wide circle of friends will learn of his death with the deepest regret. The body will be shipped to Mount Brydges over the Great Northern road to-morrow morning. It will be accompanied by J. W. Nash. Harry Nash was not married, but in addition to brothers living in this city he will be mourned by another brother, Frank, in Dakota, and by his parents, who are still living at Mount Brydges.

Detective Allan's Funeral.

The funeral of the late Detective B. B. Allan, the victim of the Long Point tragedy was held yesterday from his late residence, 305 Dundas street, to Dorchester Cemetery. There was a large attendance, including many of his late comrades on the county and city constabulary forces. The services at the house were conducted by Rev. Ira Smith, of Talbot Street Baptist Church, and Rev. D. M. Mihell, pastor of Adelaide Street Baptist Church. Rev. Mr. Smith, in the course of his remarks to the friends and relatives assembled, drew particular attention to the uncertainty of life, and as an instance cited the case of Detective Allan, who one week ago left home in the best of health and spirits. The necessity of at all times being in readiness to meet death was also dwelt on with equal force. The pall-bearers were chosen from deceased's fellow-officers and included Constable Logan, G. T. R.; Detective Nickle, Medical Detective Wesley Webb, High Constable Schram, Detective Crawford and Chief Northgraves, of Ingersoll. The late detective's father arrived in the city this morning accompanied by his son-in-law and was grief-stricken on being told the particulars of his son's sad and sudden death.

A School for Stammerers.

This is the age of invention and discovery, and scarcely a day passes that has not to record a step in advance of all previous knowledge in the development of the arts, sciences and industrial pursuits. For some time past it has been the intention of the Globe to draw attention to an institution in this city which during the past three years has been doing a great good in a quiet, unostentatious way, so quietly, in fact, that many who would gladly have availed themselves of its advantages and opportunities have had no knowledge of its existence. This institution is Church's Auto-Voco School for the cure of stammering, of which Mr. S. T. Church is the founder and principal. After twelve years of theoretical study, followed by three years of practical application, Mr. Church is to-day in possession of a perfected system for the relief of all kinds of stammerers, a system which has already amply proved by its wonderful results that it is the most successful method in the world to-day in effecting the work it professes to accomplish. No advance fee nor deposit is asked of those entering the school, as eloquent a fact as can be offered of the confidence and faith the author himself has in his system, and this is essentially a case where confidence begets confidence. Mr. Church stands high with his friends and acquaintances as a man of sound judgment and good executive ability and with more than ordinary force of character.

The Globe has taken some trouble to examine into the working of the school and the merits of the methods adopted therein, and finds the stamp of worth and efficiency upon both. Stammerers have come into the Globe office unable to utter a word and returned at the end of a course in the school light-hearted and happy and able to talk with perfect ease and freedom. Over 100 stammerers have entered the school within the past two years, and those who have completed their course and gone out again into the world are most convincing testimony to the value of the institution and its work.—[Toronto Daily Globe.

Regular prices do well enough for ledger trade—which we leave to the regular dealers—but when people go buying with the ready cash in hand they look into the windows of the "close-cutters" for bargains, and naturally enough go in and spend their money in the place where they have nerve enough to sell an article for 25 cents, if they can, even if it would be cheap enough at 50 cents. Our aim is to sell cheaper than others, and our profit comes in the big quantity handled.
