HENRI BOURASSA THE REAL MASTER

Boss of the Borden Administration, Says Mr. Carvell in Stinging Attack.

SPEECH DEBATE GOES ON

The Government Forces Writhe Under Criticism of Messrs. Carvell, Macdonald, and Hon. Mr. Pugsley.

Ottawa, Nov. 21. — The Opposition promptly renewed the attack when the House of Commons met today, and kept the Government, manifestly embarrassed, ill at ease and on the defensive throughout.

The issue for which reciprocity stood in the recent campaign, the securing of larger markets for the Canadian producer, was not dead, declared Mr. F. B. Carvell, who resumed the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne. "I care not what you call it," said he. "The Government which would loyally serve the interests of this great and growing Dominion must set itself to secure good markets for its increasing productiveness." The policy of raising tariff barriers higher and higher could not ultimately survive.

Hon. Mr. Foster interrupted: "It is not necessary," said he, "to place a larger protection on imports to make a home market."

"I am glad to have this intimation from the minister, that there is to be no increase in tariff, at any rate," responded the New Brunswick Liberal.

This brought Mr. Foster to his feet again with alacrity. "I did not say that," he observed, amid Liberal laughter.

"Ah," observed Mr. Carvell, smiling, "I thought the honorable gentleman had gone farther than he intended.'

Bourassa Is Boss.

Proceeding, he arraigned the Government for conducting an election campaign based upon race and religious prejudices, and, dealing with the naval question, scored the com-

BOARDER BOUND OVER TO KEEP THE PEACE

John Houghton Charged With Assaulting Alfred Bishop Was Found Guilty.

John Houghton was charged in the police court this morning with assaulting his landlord, Alfred Bishop. It seems that Houghton had been boarding at Bishop's house, but wished to leave. On the day that he was leaving, Bishop was very drunk, and got into an argument with his boarder, with the result that it led to blows, and Bishop got a very black eye.

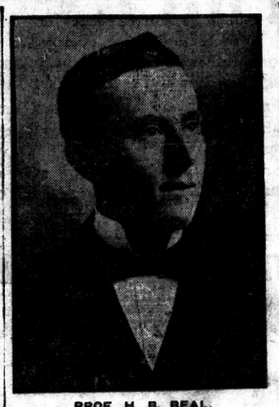

Mrs. Bishop laid the charge against Houghton, but later wanted to withdraw it. Her husband also wanted to apologize to Houghton, but the latter would have nothing to do with him, and it is claimed threatened to give him another black eye if he said any more. Houghton pleaded guilty to the charge, and the magistrate allowed him to go after binding hi mover for $50 to keep the peace.

Ira Halliday, an Indian lister, was fined $25 or 30 days for getting drunk. William Howard, a first-timer, was let go.

Nettie Smith, who claimed that she just came from Detroit, and intended to go back there next week, was found on the street at 4 o'clock this morning. She was lying in a doorway, and was charged today with being drunk. She denied the charge, however, and said that she had lost her way, and had just sat in the doorway to rest. She did not explain why she was out at that hour of the morning, though. She promised to go back to Detroit if let go, and the magistrate gave her the chance. She was allowed to go.

ALEK MUST DIE.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—On the advices of the cabinet H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught has declined to interfere in the sentence of death passed upon James Alek, a Hungarian, who murdered his wife and her parents near Saskatoon. There were no extenuating circumstances. This is the first capital case to come before the new governor-general.

STEEL MEN ASK FOR BOUNTY ON PIG IRON

Want It as Provisional Expedient Until Tariff Can Be Revised.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—There was a heart-to-heart talk over bounties today between the Government and the representatives of all the steel and iron companies in Canada.

The conference lasted over two hours. The companies applied for a bounty on pig iron as a provisional expedient, to be effective until the tariff could be revised. The discussion was almost entirely confined to this application of the question of aid by bounty on steel rods will be dealt with at another time.

The Government gave the steel men a sympathetic hearing, and asked for statistical information.

ACTION FOR $10,000 NOW BEING FOUGHT

O'Neil vs. London Township Et Al Being Heard Before Judge Middleton.

Trial of the action brought by Melvin O'Neil, of London Township, against the Township of London and T. Clatworthy, proprietor of the weigh scales established by the municipality at Ilderton, for $10,000 damages for personal injuries commenced before Justice Middleton at the non-jury sessions of the high court yesterday afternoon, and is still in progress today.

A great deal of evidence is being taken in the matter, the plaintiff himself being examined very closely by counsel for all three parties interested regarding the overturning of the load of hay on the scales when he met his injuries.

Medical evidence was also submitted to show that Mr. O'Neil's injuries are of a very serious nature. Mr. T. G. Meredith, K. C., and Mr. P. H. Bartlett are acting for O'Neil; Meredith & Meredith for the township, and J. M. McEvoy for the co-defendant, T. Clatworthy.

The Evidence.

The greater portion of the time this morning was spent with G. McCandless, a farmer, who was on the scene shortly after the accident, in the witness box. His testimony chiefly concerned the location of a certain rotten plank in the roadway, which it is said had considerable to do with the overturning of the load of hay when O'Neil was hurt.

When asked how much of the plank was exposed above the dirt on the road, McCandless repeatedly asserted that it was "five feet, more or less." Mr. McEvoy endeavored to have him use the word approximately instead of more or less, as he claimed that his assertion meant nothing with such a qualifying phrase. The judge also tried to obtain a more definite answer to the query, but with no more success.

"The witness appears to be protecting himself," commented Mr. McEvoy. "I think he is," assented Justice Middleton. Mr. T. G. Meredith objected strenuously to any such remarks from counsel, but the matter passed off, the judge cautioning the solicitors not to so offend again.

The case will probably take up the greater part of the afternoon.

CHOOSE THE CELL INSTEAD OF FINE

The Unrepentant Suffragettes Go to Jail for Tuesday's Demonstration.

MANY ARE MERE GIRLS

Fashionable Club Members Were Driven From the Windows by a Shower of Stones.

London, Nov. 22.—Unrepentant suffragettes to the number of 223, many of whom are apparently still in their teens, appeared at Bow street police court this morning to answer for their sins of yesterday, and were sentenced to fines, or alternative terms of imprisonment, varying from a fortnight to a month. The women invariably chose prison instead of a fine.

Counsel for the public prosecutor said in speaking to the charge, that he could not adequately describe the "disgraceful and discreditable scenes of organized disorder," of which the accused were guilty.

From the evidence it is quite certain that the militant suffragettes acted yesterday on a complete plan of campaign. As soon as they were repulsed by the police they ran up in Parliament Square, where they dispersed into small groups, who mixed with the crowds.

Fought With Vigor.

These were kept in constant movement by the police. Occasionally a missile was hurled from the middle of the throng, but the police were unable to detect the thrower. This gave the militants more confidence, and as they came within reach of the Government offices in Whitehall, and on the surrounding streets, the throwing of stones became more frequent and excited shouts of "Votes for Women!" were raised. It was here that the most of the arrests were effected. Some fought their captors with great vigor.

Stoned Club Windows.

At the National Club on Thames Embankment the excitement reached

HALLOWAY SETTLED CASE FOR $300

Action Against the City for Damages Did Not Go to Trial at Sessions.

One case is still in progress, and three have yet to come before the court of the eleven set down for trial at the non-jury sessions of the high court now in progress before Mr. Justice Middleton here.

Judgment has been reserved in the first and most important, that of Parsons vs. the City of London; one has been settled out of court; the plaintiff has won in another, and three have been postponed by consent.

The result of the court's work since Monday afternoon is shown in the following:

The Results.

John M. Parsons vs. the City of London and Royal Bank. Judgment reserved.

John Clark vs. C. B. Keenleyside. Judgment for plaintiff for $1,000 and interest.

McConnell-Fergusson vs. Vanderhoof & Co. Postponed by consent.

William Hollaway vs. City of London. Settled out of court for $300.

Eleanor Mills, et al., vs. John Freel. Postponed by consent.

Osler Wade vs. John Mensour. Postponed by consent.

Melvin O'Neill vs. Township of London and Clatworthy. Now on trial.

Joseph Wood vs. James Catanach. To be tried next.

O. C. Holmes vs. Richard Pincombe. Final case for this court.

NOT GUILTY VERDICT IN CONSPIRACY CASES

No Case Made Out Against Messrs. Downs, Fraser, Ferguson and Watson.

[Canadian Press.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—This morning the cases against Alex. Fraser, A. S. Downs, Dr. John Ferguson and John Watson, charged with conspiracy in the Farmers' Bank case, were heard before Judge Riddell. After the crown had put in all its evidence, Judge Riddell informed the jury that no case had been made out, and that they must return a verdict of not guilty. He, hereupon, discharged the four accused men.

Judge Riddell decided this morning to postpone the sentence on Roy Britnell, who killed Mrs. Elizabeth Saulter, of Oshawa, with his auto on Yonge street, till next Wednesday.

THE KING AND QUEEN REACH PORT SAID

The Khedive and Lord Kitchener Pay Their Respects to the Royal Couple.

Port Said, Nov. 21. — The Khedive of Egypt, Lord Kitchener and other notables paid their respects to King George and Queen Mary of England aboard the steamship Medina here today. The visitors remained for luncheon. The Medina, which is taking the King and Queen to India for the durbar, arrived last night.

SUNDAY CAR AGITATION MAY AGAIN INTEREST THE ELECTORS

A Move Is On Foot to Ask the City Council to Have Another Plebiscite Taken So That Further Representations May Be Made to Government at Toronto.

There is a possibility that a vote on Sunday cars will be taken at the municipal elections on Jan. 1.

An agitation is on foot at the present time, and The Advertiser was informed by several gentlemen behind the movement that in all probability they will ask the council to submit another plebiscite to the people on the question.

"The reasons for asking that a plebiscite be submitted at this time is the unsatisfactory results from the census," said one of the gentlemen interested. "It was fully expected, not only by the committee who interviewed the Premier, Sir James Whitney, but by the cabinet, that London would have 50,000 people when the next Dominion census was taken. That census has been decided, and it shows that we are practically 4,000 people short. The people have come to London but they have moved to the suburbs, and when these are considered it can be shown that London is nearer 55,000 than 46,000. Our idea is to submit a vote to the people. We believe that Sunday cars will carry by a big majority, and backed by this opinion we can again approach Sir James Whitney, if he is returned to power, and ask him to allow us to have Sunday cars. It makes no difference morally whether we have 45,000 or 50,000. I think that is what we will do. We are discussing the proposition, and a definite announcement will be made shortly."

LONDON MISSIONARIES ARE SAFE IN FLOWERY KINGDOM

A number of London missionaries are among those which a morning cablegram reports as having arrived safely at Shanghai from the Province of Sz Chuan.

Dr. Wallace Crawford and family, and Rev. A. J. Elson and family, are among those who have already reached Shanghai. The cablegram added that others were constantly expected. Mr. and Mrs. Percy Westaway, Miss Ethel McPherson and others from London are also working in Sz Chuan, and letters telling of their safety were recently received by relatives in this city.

Their relatives in London are expecting them home on furlough pending the termination of the revolution.

AMERICANS BUYING KINGSVILLE SPAWN

Special Government Steamer Sent to Get Whitefish for Hatchery.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Kingsville, Nov. 22.—The United States Government boat Perry is here with a special agent on board, who is buying all the whitefish spawn he can obtain for the Government hatchery on Put-in-Bay Island. He has already secured a quantity, but there are some who feel that it is not a wise proceeding to deplete the local fisheries to the extent that will be done if any very large amount of spawn is sold. It is stated that 90 per cent of the spawn secured here will be hatched successfully, while in the methods employed in the hatchery only about 10 per cent is hatched.

FLEET AT BERMUDA.

Hamilton, Bermuda, Nov. 22.—The British fourth squadron arrived here this morning, 24 hours late, owing to a heavy gale which was encountered off the islands.

Rear Admiral Bradford, who is in command, was received by officers of the corporation and a guard of honor from the Bedfordshire regiment. There will be a big reception at the Government House on Saturday. Bermuda will otherwise entertain the fleet during its stay here. It is five years since there has been a rear admiral at the station.

Chestny—Codling.

A quiet wedding was celebrated this afternoon at the Talbot Street Baptist Church parsonage, 134 Maple street, when Mr. Harold Chestny and Miss Olive Myrtle Codling, both of Paris, were united in marriage by Rev. H. H. Bingham. The young couple were unattended. After a honeymoon in London, they will reside in Paris.

Mothers' Club Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Wortley Road Mothers' Club was held in the school on Tuesday evening and was largely attended. An interesting paper was read by Mr. E. W. G. Quantz, instructor of music in the public schools on "Music in the Home." At the conclusion of the meeting, Mr. Quantz answered a number of questions asked by the mothers on the subject of the lecture.

NO EVIDENCE OF ROBBERY

Delbert Bottrel Appears in Court on Charge Laid by W. Chivas.

TWO STORIES ARE TOLD

Bottrel Says He Found Money on Floor of Bar, and at Once Returned It to Owner.

The magistrate reserved judgment until Monday in the case of Delbert Bottrel, who is charged with robbing William Chivas of a sum of money. The evidence was taken in the case, but there was nothing to prove that Bottrel had actually stolen the money.

Chivas was very drunk at the time, and hardly knew what had happened to him. The alleged robbery is supposed to have taken place in the Bank Hotel on Friday night.

Chivas and Bottrel, together with a man named Scott, all had a drink together. Chivas had about twenty dollars in his possession. They went out into the hall, and Scott tried to persuade Chivas to go home.

Called Thief.

Bottrel was standing beside Chivas when suddenly the latter put his hand in his pocket and yelled out that he was robbed. He turned on Bottrel and called him a thief, and then Bottrel handed him a five-dollar bill, telling him that there was his money, and that he had found it on the floor. Chivas claimed that there was more money than that and began a big disturbance about somebody having stolen it out of his pocket.

Bottrel left in the midst of it, and Chivas was put out of the hotel and later arrested. Bottrel told the magistrate that he had found the money on the floor and had handed it back to Chivas as soon as he had picked it up. There was no evidence to show that Bottrel had taken the money from Chivas, and none to dispute his word that he had picked it up.

Has Bad Record.

Bottrel, however, has a big police court record, and has spent a great deal of time behind the bars. He recently arrived from Detroit, where he served 60 days for stealing a carpet.

Mr. J. F. Faulds appeared for him, and asked for his acquittal on the evidence. The magistrate stated that had it not been for his record he would discharge him, but the fact that Chivas had lost some money and it was just a question of whether it had been lost on the street or that Bottrel took it, the matter would have to be deeply considered. The P. M. then decided to reserve judgment until Monday.

CHARGED WITH DESERTING WIFE IN HAMILTON

Geo. H. Summers, Alias Woods, Taken in Custody in London.

George H. Summers, an Englishman, was arrested this morning in the city, on a warrant from Hamilton charging him with wife desertion. The capture was made by Detectives Egelton and Down, who had no difficulty in spotting their man.

Summers has been in the city some time, coming from Hamilton. He passed here under the name of Woods, and was employed at several places. The local police were notified to be on the lookout for the man, and the detectives soon rounded him up. He will be taken back to Hamilton some time this afternoon. Summers is about 50 years of age, and has been in Canada some years.

GEORGIAN BAY CANAL

Canadian Federation of Boards of Trade Ask for Its Construction.

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—A deputation representing the Canadian Federation of Boards of Trade waited on the Government today and formally asked for the construction of the Georgian Bay Canal. Argument was based on the advantage of such a waterway, and the fact that the scheme was practically the child of the Conservative party.

Premier Borden stated that the Government had not yet had time to adopt any definite policy as regards the canal's construction, but promised to give the problem earnest consideration.

MR. PRESTON RESIGNS.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—The trade and commerce department has received the resignation of W. T. R. Preston, commissioner to Holland, which was foreshadowed by cable some days ago. Mr. Preston says his retirement is due to insomnia.

G. T. R. WON'T RENEW LEASE

Company Told Manufacturer Land Might Be Needed for Improvements.

A VERY HOPEFUL SIGN

Businessman Who Was to Spend $15,000 on Factory Finds that the G. T. R. Won't Renew.

That the Grand Trunk still has London improvements in view is shown by the fact that several local manufacturers who occupy property which the company has purchased at one time and another cannot renew their leases.

One large manufacturer stated to The Advertiser today that his firm had contemplated making improvements to its plant to the extent of about $15,000.

As the lease on the building expires in less than two years it was deemed advisable to write and ask the company for a renewal before the money was expended.

The Grand Trunk wrote, stating that they could not renew the lease, as the property may be required for new work in London.

As a result the improvements will not be made.

Other firms who are occupying Grand Trunk property have also been advised that their leases cannot be renewed.

FARRAR'S SON IS NO LONGER ROYAL CHAPLAIN

London Society Circles Startled by Cancellation of the Appointment.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 22.—Much talk has been aroused in society circles by the official announcement in the London Gazette that the appointments of the Rev. E. P. Farrar, son of the late Dean Farrar, as domestic chaplain to King George and Queen-Mother Alexandra are cancelled. It is also reported by the Daily Express that the Rev. Mr. Farrar has resigned the living of Sandringham.

ORDERED TO CHINA

Fifteenth United States Infantry Will Be Reinforced to Full Strength.

Manila, Nov. 22. — The Fifteenth Infantry, which is due to arrive here on Dec. 1, will probably be sent at once to China. The soldiers will arrive on the transport Thomas and will leave for China on the same boat. The regiment will be reinforced to full war strength by transfers from other regiments and will be prepared before departure for a long stay in Chinese territory. Army officials conferred here today regarding preparations for the trip.

BEATTIE SERIOUS NOW

Is Reconciled to His Fate and Spends Time With Minister.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 22.—H. C. Beattie, jun., condemned to die next Friday for wife murder, is reconciled to his fate. Today he spent several hours with the Rev. J. J. Fix, of the Presbyterian Church, in bible study. Douglas Beattie, his brother, is authority for the news of this abrupt change in Henry, from an attitude of smiling indifference to one of serious thought and solemn preparation.

Hundreds of persons all over the country, some in high position, have applied for permission to witness the electrocution. Only the jury, required by law, however, will be present.

CUMMINGS CAUGHT

Wanted by Montreal Police in Connection With Wife's Death.

[Canadian Press.]

Montreal, Nov. 22.—John Cummings, for whom the police have been looking in connection with the murder of Mrs. Cummings last night, was located this morning and is now in custody.

When arrested Cummings remained self-possessed and upon being told of the information against him declared that he knew nothing of the killing of Mrs. Cummings, and, in fact, stated that the first he had heard of the crime was when placed in custody. He declares that he was not even in the vicinity where the crime was committed.

The coroner's inquest will be held tomorrow.

YOUNG PEOPLE WILL MASS BEHIND MORAL MOVEMENTS

Rev. H. H. Bingham, of Talbot Street Baptist Church, Tells of Proposed Federation—Rev. J. Gibson Inkster Also Tells of Purposes of Organization.

Considerable interest is sure to be taken by citizens generally in the proposed new federation of all the Young People's Christian Societies in the city. A meeting will be called shortly for the purposes of detailed organization and definite plans will be made for active work.

"An interdenominational union of the young people of the city," said Rev. H. H. Bingham, pastor of Talbot Street Baptist Church, this morning, "will enable them to give effective support to every moral reform movement which comes up in the city. In the United States the young people's societies have done much to secure political purity and social and moral reforms. The question of license reduction would be one of vital interest to the federation should it be brought up during the coming year. The young people will be able to mass themselves behind every social and moral reform proposed. The interdenomination-fellowship will also be beneficial and will bring the young people of different denominations into closer sympathy."

Purposes of Organization.

"The purpose of the organization," said Rev. J. G. Inkster, "will be primarily religious. The question of first and foremost importance will be their own religious life. The union will aim to enlist young people outside of the church in Christian and moral work. The support and sympathies of the young people of the city will as far as possible be made a unit in accomplishing good. Civic and social work will be side issues. The main issue will be religious.

"No, we do not think that London needs such an organization more than other cities, but the young people in American cities have done good work by means of similar federations, and we want to enlist the young people of London on the side of good citizenship."

HIGH SCHOOL ENTRANCE EXAMS. WILL BE HELD HERE IN JUNE

Dates Are Fixed for June 20, 21 and 22—All the Departmental Examinations Will Also Be Held in This City in June.

The department of education has notified the local educational authorities that the entrance and departmental examinations will be held here in June.

In other years these examinations were dragged along in July, and it was thought that the hot weather did not give the students an opportunity of showing at their best.

According to the circular just issued, there will be two entrance examinations this year. The first is called the senior public school entrance examination, and will be held during the second week in June.

This applies largely to rural and city schools where continuation classes are being held. The students who are successful in this examination will be promoted to the middle forms of the Collegiate Institute or high school, where they will pursue their courses, it means the saving of a couple of years of high school work.

Situation in London.

London is not affected in any particular by this order, as there is no fifth class, or continuation school, in the city.

It is expected, however, that a number of pupils from the rural schools in Middlesex County will try the examinations here.

The other examination is called the junior high school entrance, and is similar to the present test. It will be held on June 20, 21 and 22, a little more than a week ahead of the usual schedule.

There is an examination known as the junior public school graduation examinations, but it does not apply to London. It will, however, apply to the rural schools where continuation classes are the order, and to those towns and cities where fifth classes have been established.

All the departmental examinations will also be held in June. The time for these has not been set.

HAY IS PLENTIFUL AROUND TIVERTON

Thousands of Tons Are Being Shipped Continually to All Parts of the Country.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Tiverton, Nov. 22.—The greatest business in hay that has been done here in a long time is being carried on just now, and tons of it are being shipped to all points. The crop last season was a splendid one, and farmers all through this district are reaping the benefit. Hay finds a ready sale at $10 per ton. As the snowfall is very light so far, there is only sleighing for cutters and light loads, and those bringing in hay use wagons.

The last few days has been a record-breaker for high winds.

The political atmosphere is decidedly normal here, neither party as yet having selected candidates.

Rev. Silcox, the Dominion Alliance representative, addressed a large audience on the subject of temperance. He described the three-fifths clause as iniquitous, and made a strong appeal for doing away with the liquor traffic.

SEAFORTH INDUSTRY MADE BIG EXTENSION

Work on Fine New Kilns of the Canada Furniture Company Are Completed.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Seaforth, Nov. 21. — Two sections of the new dry kiln at the Canada Furniture Manufacturers' plant have been completed, and are now filled with lumber which under the new process is steamed for some time before being dried at a temperature of 175 degrees. The men are now busily engaged in removing the old system from the other part of the kiln which will be replaced by the new system, giving a total kiln capacity of many thousands of feet of lumber, no more than is required by the company. Mr. Henry Edge, of this town, had the contract for the building, and the drying system was installed by Sheldons, Limited, of Galt, under the supervision of John Bain.

Rev. David MacLaren, of Toronto, gave a lecture in the Presbyterian Church last evening entitled "Around the World in Eighty Minutes." The address was much enjoyed by a large audience.

Mrs. Rowtelle, of Muskegon, Mich., returned home yesterday after a pleasant visit with her cousin, Mrs. Rudolph. It is forty years since she was here before.

Mrs. I. V. Feare and Miss Helen have gone to Paris, where they will spend the winter with friends.

Miss Florence McDonald has returned home from Mount Clemens.

Miss Gertrude B. Reid has resigned her position in the telephone office, and leaves for London shortly to study for a nurse.

Mr. Thomas McGrieve has leased the D. D. Wilson egg emporium, and will convert it into an implement warehouse and showroom.

Miss Mabel Strasser has taken a position in the telephone office.

Mr. John Jurner and Mr. W. R. Cole have returned from their hunting trip, each bringing home a deer.

NEW MITCHELL RINK

Work on a Splendid Building Is Being Rushed Along.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Mitchell, Nov. 22.—Work on the big new skating rink is being rushed along and the big wooden arches are now being raised. The rink will be opened as soon as possible, and when completed it will be one of the best in any town in Ontario.

At a largely attended meeting in Knox Church last night Dr. McLaren gave a most interesting address entitled "Around the World in Eighty Minutes." The lecture was illustrated by splendid views showing eleven countries in which missionary work is being done.

Frank Canning, formerly of Mitchell, is dead at Galt after a long illness with cancer.

CHESLEY MEETINGS

Temperance Campaign in Centre Bruce Was Most Effective.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Chesley, Nov. 21.—The temperance campaign in Bruce County was most effective. Mr. Tibbs, of Wycliff College, Toronto, gave an excellent address in the Anglican Church here, and Mr. Joseph Gibson, of Ingersoll, president of the Dominion Alliance, addressed a big mass meeting in the town hall. Mr. Dennery, of Toronto, rendered several solos most acceptably during the meetings.

CONSERVATIVE RALLIES

Hon. W. J. Hanna Principal Speaker at St. Marys and Harriston.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

St. Marys, Nov. 22.—Hon. W. J. Hanna, John Bennewiss, the local candidate, and ex-Mayor Johnston, of Sarnia, were the speakers at a Conservative rally here last night.

Hon. Mr. Hanna reviewed the record of the Government, and spoke of Mr Rowell's platform having the same principles as the work the Conservatives were doing at the present time.

HARRISTON MEETING.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Harriston, Nov. 22.—West Wellington Conservatives heard from Hon. Mr. Hanna at a meeting here a full account of the prison farm at Guelph. Mayor Spotton presided at the meeting, and addresses were also given by W. G. Chambers and Warden Fox.

AYLMER.

Aylmer, Nov. 21.—Mrs. Isaac Hugman is in Windsor this week attending the funeral of her sister.

Mr. Andrews, of Toronto, is in Aylmer attending the funeral of his brother, the late Rev. Mr. Andrews.

Joseph Pocock, of London, is in Aylmer on business.

Mrs. Leo James, of Detroit, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Zoff.

TILLSONBURG.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Tillsonburg, Nov. 21.—John Carruthers was a Toronto visitor yesterday.

Miss Leila McClintock is the guest of friends at Springfield.

Mr. Barnum, of Aylmer, was here yesterday.

R. Woulds left today to take a position at St. Catharines.

Mr. A. S. Reavely, of St. Thomas, was here yesterday.

T. L. Armstrong, of Waterloo, is spending a few days here.

The first social evening of the Avondale Guild was held last night, and was a decided success. Although the programme was somewhat curtailed on account of the illness of some expected to take part, the abundance of appetizing refreshments more than made up, and the large crowd present were delightfully entertained.

Mrs. Reid and Miss Reid, who have been the guests of the former's daughter, Mrs. Charles Conn, have returned to their home at Port Dalhousie.

George Godby, of Griffins Corners, was in town yetserday.

Mrs. Warnock, of Galt ,is the guest of Mrs. G. W. Tillson.

J. M. Clark, of Toronto, is ill at his home here.

Donald Barrett is spending a two-weeks' vacation with his grandmother, Mrs. W. Cartwright, at Aylmer.

Mrs. Kennedy, of Zenda, spent yesterday with friends here.

Newbury, Nov. 2 —Will Robinson, of Detroit, visited at his home here yesterday.

Mrs. Frank Robinson and daughter Marjorie are visiting her parents in Brussels, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Pryne.

Miss Messer, of Bluevale, is the guest of Miss Lily Gage for a few days.

Mr. Will Grant, of Detroit, is visiting at his home here.

Henry Powell, of Sarnia, has returned to his home after spending a pleasant visit with his sister, Mrs. Robinson.

J. W. Merner, with his family, have moved into Newbury.

Mr. H. D. Johnston, inspector, paid a visit to the public school. A very pleasant feature of the afternoon session was the presentation of the Ross prize to Mamie Fennel, who had the highest marks at the entrance examination at the Wardsville school last June.

SMALLPOX ABOARD.

New York, Nov. 21.—The steamer Duc D'Aosta, which arrived today, from Naples, was held for further examination at Quarantine with one case of supposed smallpox in the steerage.

WAS ALL RUN DOWN.

Doctors and Medicine Failed To Cure Him.

Many people become run down, but don't know just exactly what their trouble is. As a rule it is improper circulation of the blood, owing to not just taking proper care of themselves. All they want is a good tonic to build up the system and put their blood in proper shape, and for this purpose there is nothing to equal Burdock Blood Bitters. It regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, purifies the blood and tones up the entire system. Mr. Murdock A. Morrison, Tarbot, N.S., writes:—"I am now writing to tell you what Burdock Blood Bitters has done for me. Last Summer I was all run down, and doctors and medicine failed to cure me. At last I decided to try a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking one bottle I began feeling better, and after I had taken the remedy for two months I was completely cured. I can safely recommend your remedy to anyone."

WHITNEY'S CANDIDATE DISAGREES WITH HIM

Col. Craig Declares Against Government's Policy in Regard to Schools.

Fergus, Nov. 21.—Sir James Whitney began the second week of his tour in one of the ridings that members of the Government frankly place in the doubtful class. East Wellington was represented in the last Legislature by Colonel Craig, but his supporters, and even Colonel Craig himself, are not confident of the outcome on Dec. 11 next. The meeting was held in the town hall, and about five hundred people crowded inside to hear the Prime Minister.

Sir James covered the same ground as in his addresses last week. That portion of his speech dealing with the future was largely confined to declarations of what the new administration at Ottawa was going to do for the Province. Colonel Craig attempted to convince his constituents that all was well with educational matters in the Province, and in doing it he gave Hon. Dr. Pyne and his colleagues a backhanded slap. "The Government," he said, "has been criticised for abolishing the model schools. They have since, as you know, restored some of them. Well, for my part, I would never have restored one of them." Col. Craig gave three reasons for disagreeing with the judgment of the Government on the school question. He admitted the scarcity of teachers, but insisted that this condition was due first to the general prosperity which kept young people out of the teaching profession, and, secondly, to the higher wages paid in the west. His third reason for considering the restoration of the model schools unnecessary was that there are now one thousand more teachers in Ontario than in 1904.

Whitney Boasts.

Sir James is holding closely to the speech he delivered at Cobourg, Hagersville and Ingersoll. He recited the story of Government achievements, and again promised great things for Ontario as a result of the change of Government at Ottawa. He evaded responsibility for the absence of a vigorous policy for Northern Ontario by trying to show that the Dominion Government should bear the larger share of the expense. He was confident that the Ottawa Government would see the matter in that light. In fifteen days he announced there would appear in the estimates of the House of Commons large appropriations for good roads, colonization and agriculture.

The Prime Minister, in telling of the progress of technical education, stated his belief that the Dominion Government would give a considerable sum to supplement the work of the Provincial Government.

Referring to Mr. Rowell's statement at Guelph that he had forced his opponents to take him seriously, Sir James said: "He seems to be regretting that. Why, God bless me, I'll take him as a joke if he wants me to."

Some of the Government supporters in Toronto who have come out absolutely against the bilingual schools will appreciate Sir James' reference to the opponents of the present system. "People with no self-respect or regard for the truth or for the quiet that should always obtain in the discussion of this question in a country such as ours," he said, "are going about the country and writing in the newspapers telling abominable falsehoods regarding the question."

Mr. C. R. McKeown, late member for Dufferin, wound up the proceedings with a brief address.

DEFENDS THE DECREE WITH A MANIFESTO

Archbishop Bruchesi Issues a Statement in Regard to Mixed Marriages.

Montreal, Que., Nov. 22.—Archbishop Bruchesi has issued a manifesto dealing with the "ne temere" decree, by means of which he intends to correct a number of misconceptions which he states evidently exist throughout Canada.

The manifesto deals with the famous decree and its application to mixed marriages," as drawn attention to by statements recently made in the Toronto and Winnipeg papers."

"Marriages are only valid when contracted before the cure or the ordinary, or by a priest delegated by one of them before the two witnesses."

This is no new thing, he states, as it was dealt with at the Council of Trent in 1563, and has always been in force here.

He also points out that the decree says nothing about marriage contracted by non-Catholics among themselves.

The archbishop then refers to headings in Toronto and Winnipeg papers regarding the Shaughnessy-Graham marriage, in which Sir Thomas's son (a Roman Catholic) married the niece of Sir Hugh Graham (a Protestant).

"The ne temere decree has nothing to do with the Shaughnessy-Graham marriage. The marriage ceremony was celebrated exactly according to the laws of the church, before a priest. No other ceremony has taken place. The Protestant party signed before witnesses all engagements of the church."

The manifesto continues: "People profess to be scandalized because a marriage, really null and void, has been so declared by competent authorities," and goes on to speak of divorce, drawing attention to the fact that there are eighteen bills of divorce coming before the Canadian Parliament this session. These divorces, it points out, are not, as the Hebert-Cloutare case, in which a marriage really void was declared null, but real marriages which are to be broken. "Yet," the manifesto says, "there seems to be no outcry as in the Hebert-Cloutare case."

"The Only Thing That Will Relieve Neuralgia."

The piercing pains of Neuralgia, which often follows a bad cold or La Grippe, are frequently almost unbearable and few medicines afford any relief to the sufferer.

"I am a rural mail carrier and have been a user of the Dr. Miles medicines for years.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills can't be beaten. They are the only thing I have found that will relieve my neuralgia and I have tried most everything, besides medicine from the doctor. I am willing to tell anyone what the Anti-Pain Pills did for me."

CHARLES HILDERBRANDT,
Box 205 Woodvill. Ohio

If you, like Mr. Hilderbrandt, "have tried most everything" in vain, why not do as he did, fight your aches and pains with Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. Let the pills bear the brunt of the battle. No matter how stubborn the contest, they will come out victorious.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills stand on their record, which is a long list of cures extending back a generation.

Druggists everywhere sell them. If first package fails to benefit, your druggist will return your money.

U. S. BREEDS DISSIPATION

Says Wealthy American Who Will Have Her Boy Educated Abroad.

New York, Nov. 21.—In her opinion scions of American wealth who grow up in idleness are not "a particular credit to society," and therefore Mrs. William B. Leeds will educate her 8-year-old son William elsewhere than in this country.

Mrs. Leeds has just arrived from London for a visit and in her first interview today denied that she intended her son should become an American citizen.

"I do not know where that report started," she said. "I think I shall educate William in England. You see he is fortunately or unfortunately wealthy in his own right. He will grow to be rich and I do not think the sons of American millionaires are a particular credit to society because in their idleness they become dissipated. They do not work and most of them drink. Hostesses here often have to apologize for the condition of their young men guests, whereas in England no man in an intoxicated state would ever appear twice. Of course the young men in the social life of England don't work, but they go in for sports and are healthy, strong and normal—and they do not drink as much as the idle young men of America."

Mrs. Leeds has found English social life much more to her liking than that of America.

"Instead of talking politics, of art, of the opera and other interesting things," she said, "the American society people waste much time in stupid small talk—in gossip—in petty dissensions which are tiresome and more than useless."

Asked if she intended to marry again, Mrs. Leeds said:

"If love comes I should not hesitate to marry, and I shall never marry except for than one thing."

BURGLARS BEWARE.

Greenwich, Conn., Nov. 21—Burglars will have little chance of escaping with their lives if they ply their trade in the vicinity of the Rockefeller estate here. Two imported English bloodhounds, each weighing 210 pounds, have been installed there for the protection of the house at night. In case there are any robberies in Greenwich the hounds will be lent to the police and put on the trail of the burglars. The dogs are said to be the only imported specimens of this breed in America.

HETTY GREEN IS 76

Strikes Bargain With the Butcher and Works All Day at Office.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Nov. 21.—Today was Mrs. Hetty Green's birthday. She declared herself too busy to celebrate, and said that a birthday was as good as any other day for hard work at her desk in her Broadway offices.

"Yes, I'm 76, and proud of it," she remarked, "and still young and still happy." Talking with friends, she said that she intended to continue in active business for at least another decade.

Mrs. Green has stopped riding in the street cars. Her son, Col. Edward H. R. Green, has a big 60-horsepower automobile, in which Mrs. Green rides down to her office at 9 o'clock every morning, and the chauffeur calls for her at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

She still does her marketing, however, and bright and early every morning she takes her market basket and goth forth to strike a bargain with the butcher.

Thursday REMNANT SALE Tomorrow

200 Ends Colored Dress Goods — HALF PRICE — 50 Ends Black Dress Goods

Tomorrow all Dress Goods Remnants will be cleared at half price. Our entire stock of blacks and colors has been searched from end to end, and all short ends will be found on the counter Thursday morning at half price.

REMNANTS nowadays have more than usual attraction for shrewd buyers, owing to the economic styles now in vogue, as very few ends are too short to make a fashionable skirt, and misses' and children's dresses take but very few yards. Therefore, these are the most useful ends we have offered for some seasons. Almost every kind of goods will be found amongst them, suitable for suits, coats, dresses, skirts, waists and children's dresses, broadcloths, tweeds, serges, cashmeres, poplins, vicunas and cheviots. All sorts of goods in all sorts of lengths, from 1½ to 5¾ yards. Some good ends in mantle cloth, also for children's coats, at half price.

All Colored Remnants at Half Price

Everything in colored goods, no matter what the length may be under six yards, will go at just half price. The regular price will be figured up on the ticket and cut in half, so that for every dollar you spend in these remnants tomorrow you will receive two dollars in value. COME EARLY FOR THE CHOICE ENDS.

Black Remnants, Half Price

About 50 ends of black dress goods to clear at half price also. These are in lengths from 1½ to 2¾ yards long, in serge, voile, cashmere, poplin, mohair, etc. Almost everything in the stock is represented, and all are good materials, suitable for waists and skirts. Black remnants are rare, and always go quickly. COME EARLY.

50 Black Dress and Suit Ends at ¼ Off

We also have laid out for sale tomorrow about 50 ends of Black Dress Goods and Suitings at one-quarter off. Here you will find some very exceptional values in the wide 48 to 52 inch widths. Some ends of our very best materials will be found, such as serges, worsteds, broadcloths, venetians, vicunas, etc., in lengths sufficient for skirts or suits. Also in the finer materials, 44 inch widths, in resildas, poplins, henriettas, voiles, armures, etc., fine materials suitable for dresses. These are exceptionally good, and as in the colors almost everything carried in stock is represented in these lengths. Goods ranging in price from 50c per yard up to $2.00. All at one-quarter off tomorrow.

Look these over. The dress you want may be in these ends, or perhaps the Christmas gift you are looking for is here.

Sale Begins at Eight Tomorrow

THIS WILL BE A MORNING SALE, and we advise an early start. Come at 8, if possible, and you won't be disappointed, as this will be the most important remnant sale of the season. Dress Goods—Main Floor.

ROUT OF THE SUFFRAGETTES BY THE BOBBIES OF LONDON

Militant Section Attempt to Storm the Commons But Are Frustrated and Resort to Window Smashing—Two Hundred and Twenty Three Placed Under Arrest.

London, Nov. 21.—The militant section of the suffragettes have not been long in making good their promise to re-begin their old tactics. They warned Premier Asquith of this last week, and tonight between 8 and 11 o'clock some two hundred martyrs to the female cause were marched tenderly by burly London bobbies to various police stations in the neighborhood of the House of Commons. They made a fine demonstration, but it suffered in comparison with their earlier efforts.

The programme, which was announced well beforehand, was that the women assemble at their headquarters in Caxton Hall, march to Westminster, beard the ministers in their den, and make demonstrations from the floor of the House. They gathered at Caxton Hall in goodly numbers, but fewer than on previous occasions, and speeches were made vigorously condemning the Government's manhood suffrage bill as an insult to women. Resolutions were adopted demanding equal franchise rights for both sexes. Then the chosen deputation marched forth to storm the House of Commons. A large force of police immediately broke up the procession, the members of which made their way by twos and threes to Parliament Square. Here, and at all the approaches to the Parliament Buildings, several thousand people had gathered to see the fun. There was also an army of police, probably a couple of thousand, who effectively preserved the precincts of Parliament from the slightest desecration.

Met By Smiling Bobbies.

A solid smiling cordon surrounded the buildings, held every approach, kept the crowd moving and invested the whole proceeding with a sense of good-natured, smiling discipline. So long as they kept moving, onlookers might go everywhere except through the cordon which guarded the Parliament Buildings. Wheeled traffic was impeded, but not stopped anywhere. Whereas the crowds during the previous Suffragette attacks on the House of Commons were so enormous that all traffic in the vicinity of Parliament Square was diverted, tonight cabs, buses and carts passed through easily, if slowly.

The Suffragettes, except in force, could not make a very imposing show. The usual method of securing arrest was for two or three to run up against a solid line of bobbies, who would gently push them back into the laughing crowd. If this course of action was persisted in often enough it would secure an arrest. Three policemen would be brought out from the reserves behind and they would take the Suffragettes to the police station, mounted policemen making a way for them through the crowd. In this manner 223 Suffragettes, including three men, were taken to the police stations.

There was one feature of this demonstration, namely, window smashing. This was not done by the hooligans in the crowd, which was chiefly composed of respectable men and women, but by flying squadrons of Suffragette volunteers for a "danger service," the object being apparently to draw the attention of the police from the House of Commons.

Girls Throw Stones.

Three girls threw stones through a large window of the dining-room of the Westminster Palace Hotel, just before 8 o'clock. The room was full of diners at the time, but fortunately the table by the window which was broken had not yet been occupied. There was scarcely a building on the left side of the Parliament Square which did not have its windows smashed. The war office windows suffered extensively, as did those of the National Liberal Club. Another flying squadron of "danger volunteers" smashed windows in the Strand.

This part of tonight's proceedings will do much to counteract the advance made by the suffragist cause last week by alienating public sympathy and stiffening the opposition of Premier Asquith and other foes of female suffrage.

All those arrested were bailed out tonight, and will appear in Bow street police court tomorrow.

The women realized that their attack with stones was erratic and resolved to make sure of smashing the glass. Many of them, therefore, used hammers and nearly all the smashing of glass in the treasury building was done with these weapons as well as in the shop windows on the Strand. One member of the danger squad raided as far east as Fleet street and used her hammer on the windows of the Daily Mail. After two or three windows had been broken the editor sent a polite message to the raider, asking her to spare the remainder of the winodws and all would be forgiven. The marauder scornfully rejected the offer and resumed her smashing, continuing it until she was arrested. More than $5,000 worth of glass was smashed altogether.

Several women were injured in the scramble, while others fainted or became hysterical and required the attention of the ambulance men. The battle was fierce but short.

An hour after the women emerged from the hall Parliament Square had been cleared of the attacking forces, except half a dozen women who had chained themselves to the railings, and whose chains the police had to file or break.

The demonstration was not so large as those of last year. The damage to property was greater than ever, however, and the number of arrests establishes a new record. Cannon Row station in Whitehall was crowded with prisoners, and the police were occupied for hours in making charges against them. Among those arrested were: Mrs. Lawrence, who is joint editor of Votes for Women; Lady Constance Lytton, sister of Lord Lytton, and the Hon. Mrs. Evelina Haverfield, daughter of Lieut.-Gen. Lord Abinger.

The militant tactics of the Suffragettes followed a statement by Premier Asquith that the Governmnet was unable to introduce a bill to enfranchise women, as the cabinet was divided on the question, but would allow an amendment to be introduced to the proposed manhood suffrage bill, leaving it to the House of Commons to decide whether women should be given a vote.

CHAUFFEUR GUILTY OF WILFUL NEGLECT

Brintnell May Get Two Years In Kingston For Causing Death of a Woman.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—After having considered the case for over five hours, the jury in the criminal assizes yesterday found Roy F. Brintnell, chauffeur, on trial on a charge of manslaughter, guilty of "wilful neglect," which is the third count in the indictment. This is the first case in which a driver of a motor car has been charged with causing a person's death by wilful negligence.

Mr. T. C. Robinette, K.C., for the defence, asked the judge to defer pronouncing sentence until today, to which Mr. Justice Riddell agreed. The court would not, however, consent to bail being granted in the meantime, but intimated that he would like to have been able to do so did the law allow him.

"I wish that my duty were cosistent with my desires in the matter," he remarked in refusing the application. "I am not going to dispose of this case in a hurry, because it is a very painful case."

Brintnell will appear for sentence this morning. The maximum term which the law provides for the crime of wilful neglect causing death is imprisonment for two years. The three counts in the indictment against him were manslaughter, wanton driving and wilful neglect.

FIRE THREATENED TO WIPE OUT RODNEY

Two Big Stores Were Destroyed in a Destructive Blaze.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Rodney, Nov. 22.—Fire, which for a time threatened to wipe out the whole business section of the town, completely gutted Wm. Morris' general store and did a great deal of damage to Leidner & Walker's furniture store. The fire was discovered early in the evening, and spread rapidly, getting beyond the control of the volunteer bucket brigade.

An urgent appeal for help was sent in to St. Thomas, but finally as the flames subdued a little the hard work of the volunteers told and the blaze was checked. The loss will amount to several thousand dollars, and is partially covered by insurance.

LINDSAY NOT GUILTY BANK CASE DECISION

Jury's Verdict Thus Given on the Advice of the Presiding Judge.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—Acting on the advice of Mr. Justice Riddell, and without retiring to consider, the jury in the assize court yesterday found W. J. Lindsay not guilty of conspiring with W. R. Travers to illegally obtain the charter of the Farmers' Bank from the Dominion treasury board.

After all the evidence of the crown had been put in Mr. Justice Riddell asked the jury to retire, and discussed points of law with the counsel. It appeared to him, he said, that there was barely more than enough evidence produced by the crown to give the case to the jury. The only evidence connecting Lindsay with conspiring with Travers was that of Travers himself. It was always inadvisable to accept the unsupported evidence of an acknowledged accomplice.

The jury was accordingly called in, and this was explained to them. Still remaining in their seats they held a brief conference and returned a verdict of not guilty.

LAW WAS BROKEN; NO INQUEST HELD

Peculiar Situation Has Arisen in Connection With Railway Accident.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Chatham, Nov. 21. — What promises to be a most interesting case has just come to light in connection with the death of W. H. Grant, a Pere Marquette brakeman, who was killed near Courtright on Sept. 9.

Though the law makes obligatory the holding of an inquest on a railway employee killed while at work, no inquest was held. The fact has just been learned in connection with a projected damage suit against the company, and may lead to the entire case being reopened and an inquest being held. Mrs. Grant has written to the Attorney-General's department laying the facts before it.

FATALLY BURNED.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Windsor, Nov. 21.—Mrs. R. Sheldon, who some days ago was terribly burned when a gasoline stove exploded in her home, died in the hospital here today. She was 40 years old and a widow.

DODGING THE ISSUE.

Mr. Rowell sharply reproves Sir James Whitney's worse than evasions of the bilingual school question.

Sir James in his latest speeches flatly asserts that no bilingual schools exist in Ontario. He has the audacity of the farmer at the circus, who, after steadily gazing at the giraffe for five minutes, shook his head and exclaimed, "There ain't no such animal!" Sir James is quibbling, but his quibble is an accusation of the education department. Schools attended wholly by French children are bilingual in name, and under the law. If they are not bilingual in reality—if they are one-language instead of two-language schools, and fail to give the pupils a working knowledge of English—whose fault is it? It is the fault of the education department, and of the Ontario Government, which is the overlord of the department. The responsibility reaches directly to Sir James Whitney himself. Whatever else he is, he "the master of the administration." Mr. Rowell challenges him in these words:

"The failure of the Government to frankly state its position on the question of bilingual schools, and its evident desire to run with the fox and to hunt with the hounds, is largely responsible for the widespread agitation which is disturbing the public mind today in this Province. Sir James evidently hoped to avoid a declaration of policy by bringing on the elections before the receipt of Dr. Merchant's report, but, like Banquo's ghost, it will not down. Sir James seeks to evade the issue by declaring that there are no bilingual schools in Ontario, and yet Conservative candidates in certain sections of the Province are pledging themselves to abolish bilingual schools. Sir James evidently realizes that the public is not satisfied with his method of dealing with the question, and now Hon. Mr. Foy, the attorney-general, is coming to the rescue in a carefully-prepared opinion. Mr. Foy states that the law does not authorize bilingual schools, and that if there are any such they must cease to exist. The Attorney-General misse sthe point: it is not the law, but the administration of the law, which has created the trouble, and given rise to the present agitation

"Sir James claims to have opinions of his own. If so, will he tell us what he thinks of the manner in which the law has been administered in connection with these bilingual schools during the past seven years? Is he satisfied with the present conditions? If so, let him have the courage to defend them, and tell his supporters that all further agitation is useless. Is he dissatisfied with the present conditions? If so, let him have the courage to say so, and let him tell us why he has not taken steps to remedy them, and what steps he now proposes to take to remedy these conditions. If he is ignorant of the present conditions, then there must be incompetency in the management of our educational affairs, such as we had not even suspected."

There's the rub: is Sir James satisfied with present conditions, or if he is dissatisfied, why has he allowed them to develop, and what remedy does he propose? He has prematurely dissolved the Legislature so as to forestall Dr. Merchant's report, which would compel the Government to face the issue, and give the electors the groundwork for the adequate discussion of the question during the election campaign.

THE WOMEN SUFFRAGISTS AGAIN.

The forcible-futile demonstration of the British women suffragists was inspired by a reverse in the midst of triumphant anticipations. The Government had promised facilities for the conciliation bill, enfranchising a million women, which was certain of passing the House of Commons. The measure was all the militant suffragists wanted at present. They had been for months celebrating what they supposed was a famous victory.

Then came the Government's announcement of a manhood suffrage bill, which abolishes all the technicalities and restrictions upon which the conciliation bill was built. The number of electors in England and Wales on the register at present is 6,387,716, but there are 8,552,436 males over 21 years of age who would be entitled to vote on a manhod suffrage basis. Including Scotland and Wales, there would be an addition of 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 males if manhood suffrage prevailed. To place the sexes on an equal footing under the new act would be to confer the ballot on all women over 21 years of age. In the United Kingdom they outnumber the males by considerably more than a million. The Government has offered to allow the House of Commons to extend the vote to women on these terms, but while the House would have voted to enfranchise a million women, under the Conciliation Bill, it is very doubiful whether it would venture to make women the majority of the whole electorate.

Here is where the grievance of the women suffragists comes in. They assert that the manhood suffrage bill is an expedient of Premier Asquith to wreck their cause, to which he is opposed. The Government has a strong defence in the anomalous condition of the present franchise. It is a jungle of technicalities. Men vote as property-owners, tenants, lodgers, occupiers, and in other categories which would scarcely be understood in Canada. Manhood suffrage would simplify the franchise, and be a measure of justice to the poorer classes. The women suffragists do not oppose it, but they ask the Government to include the women, and stand or fall by them. As the ministers are divided on the question of woman suffrage they refuse to do this. They throw the whole responsibility on the House of Commons, leaving their supporters free to vote as they please.

THE BANKS OF LOCH LOMOND.

In the west of Scotland at the present time a series of demonstrations is being held to voice the protests of hundreds of thousands of humble toilers against the complete commercialization of "the bonnie, bonnie banks of Loch Lomond." The rights of the people to gather on the shores that are shrined in song have been gradually curtailed by private interests until, as the final injury, the proposal has come to shut out the pilgrim from the one route left by which he might approach and look upon the lake even though but for a glimpse.

Along the ways of freest access leading to the lake, the land-owner has raised barriers to keep the people of Glasgow and all the outside world from their poetic heritage. For just as Scotland inherited the immortal memories of the 'och, so she will reclaim her rights to roam the heather-clad fells, the open moorland, the narrow passes, and the great green straths.

The landlord has claimed the protection of private privilege: walls have been built, keepers and dogs set on the watch. One of the public roads that formerly skirted the lake's shores has been moved behind an estate, and every yard of shore land has been claimed as private property. Only at Balloch has one been able to secure a boat and row up the river into the loch. One must not risk the chance of landing, or the keepers would be about his ears, and to moor a boat in the centre of the lake one must contribute five shillings. Now the land from which the public has embarked for years has been claimed by private owners, and they are making efforts to move some of the boat owners who serve the public. Should they be successful in the courts, there will be no free way into Loch Lomond. As one writer has it, the beauty spot will have become "a glorified cinematograph show." But the whole of Scotland is rebelling, and the probability is that patriotism will triumph over privilege.

The Ottawa Opposition is still keeping the Government in hot water on the naval question.

Sugar is dear in Great Britain, and Russia has a surplus, but Russia cannot export it because of an international agreement, to which Great Britain subscribed five years ago. The British people are clamoring for the cheap Russian sugar, and the British Government asks the powers to allow them to have it. It is a warning against interference with the natural course of trade which will not be lost on a nation that has to import most of its food.

THE WARFARE OF MONEY-GETTING

[Montreal Herald.]

In the warfare of money-getting we allow both ourselves and our friends (everybody who is making money is a friend of everybody else who is doing the same, in the present state of our society) to do things at the expense of the poor and ignorant of today and the helpless of posterity, things for which there is no excuse in any code of ethics save the jungle's. We have taken a virgin country of gigantic richness, and permitted it to blossom with slums which rival those of the most ancient and burdened cities of Europe. We have found a land where food can be had for the tickling of the soil; and—largely by our unanimous grabbing for privileges and "inside interests" and our capitalizing of those privileges into a perpetual charge against posterity—we have made it cost more to live here than it does to live in the least-favored countries of the old world. We have invited the peoples of Europe, by a trumpet-call of summons, to come and help us develop our heritage; and when they arrive we allot to many thousands of them, as well as to many thousands of the less fortunate of our own people, a wage which will barely keep them living without crime or immorality.

HAD SOME EFFECT.

[Hamilton Herald.]

Mr. Rowell's speech, says the Toronto News, will not set the country on fire. Maybe not, but it has at least made Sir James flare up.

WHY?

Mr. Bonar Law, it seems, never lived in Hamilton, Ont., as was reported. Then why did he leave Canada?

NEARLY 1,000,000 OLD AGE PENSIONERS.

[London Daily News.]

Particulars are given in the 40th annual report of the British Local Government Board, just issued, of the old age pensions. The number payable on March 31 last was:

England	575,789
Wales	38,084

The total for the United Kingdom was 907,461. The effect of the removal of the pauper disqualification on old age pensions is shown by the decline in the total number of aged paupers, as follows:

Jan. 1, 1910	195,944
July 1, 1910	186,984
Jan. 1, 1911	148,439

ONE MORE UNFORTUNATE.

[Puck.]

Take her up tenderly,
Lift her with care;
Skirt fashioned slenderly,
Too strong to tear.

So, when she tripped a bit
Where it was rough,
Though the thing ripped a bit
'Twasn't enough.

Down she went, tottering
Into the dirt,
Fervently muttering:
"Blame such a skirt!"

Loop up her tresses,
Great Scott, what a thatch!
Her many-hued tresses,
While wonderment guesses
Why don't they match?

Fashioned so slenderly,
Come, gentlemen,
Take her up tenderly,
Start her again!

THE CROSS ROADS.

[S. E. Kiser.]

How many people have halted here
Where the roads that cross lead out?
How many with hope and how many with fear,
And how many with foolish doubt?

How many have halted to rest awhile
Beneath yon sheltering tree,
Remembering many a weary mile
Or dreaming contentedly?

The signs are dim on the post which leans
Where the cross-roads wind away
Past smiling fields or to dismal scenes,
To happiness or dismay.

What songs of hope and what sad refrains
The murmuring stream has sung—
Songs for the greedy of worldly gains,
Of love for the gladdened young?

Many a brow has been dampened here
And many a hope reached high,
And many a purpose strong and clear
Has here been left to die.

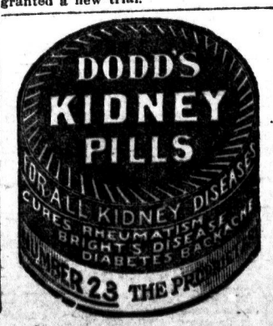

And who may tell you and who may guess
Which one of these parting ways
Shall lead to happiness and success,
To victory and to praise?

The signs are dim and the post is frail
And the roads which cross are long,
And here is doubt for the weak and frail
And hope for the sure and strong.

How many chose wisely? Who shall tell?
And how many have chosen ill?
How many have finished the journey well,
And how many are trudging still?

A LYNCHING IN SIGHT.

Mobile, Ala., Nov. 22.—Information from Louisville, Mississippi, this forenoon, says a mob has formed there, and is threatening to attack the jail to lynch Ben Walker, a private detective, under arrest for perjury. Walker is involved in the Janie Sharp murder case. It is believed he had much to do with the arrest of two men, later freed, in connection with the killing of Miss Sharp. One man now stands convicted for the murder, but he has been granted a new trial.

JANUS
BY BERTON BRALEY

In public he's jolly and pleasant,
A man you'd be tickled to meet,
He's nice to the prince or the peasant,
His smile is caressingly sweet;
His manner is oozy with unction,
As many a person can vouch,
He's gay at a party or "function,"
But all he brings home is his grouch.

Though down-town he's bowing and smiling,
And cheerful and kind and polite
With ways that are truly beguiling,
At home he is simply a fright.
His children are sturdy and pretty,
His wife, you can bet, is no slouch,
And yet it is true—and a pity—
That all he brings home is his grouch.

Downtown he is good to the stranger,
Unselfish and gentle and fine;
At home he's a dog-in-the-manger,
An ugly old brute—rain or shine—
You'd think he'd mix acid with honey
At work, but he doesn't, I vouch,
For that would be losing him money;
It's only at home he's a grouch.

TRANSPORTING MILK IN BAGGAGE CARS

The Railway Commission Issues Order for Better Methods of Carriage.

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—An order has been issued by the railway commission that milk can be transported in baggage cars upon certain conditions. This is the result of the application made by the Montreal Milk Shippers' Association, asking for a reduced rate on milk and an order fixing more advanced and convenient methods of carriage and delivery.

The order sets forth that milk should be transported in baggage cars from now on, on condition that the name or initials of the owner, name of the shipping station and a shipping tag addressed to consignee be on the can; that the covers be securely attached; cans loaded by shippers at the shipping point; empty cans returned by the railway company to the shipping point without other charges other than the payment of original tolls. Where the number of empty cans is 20 or less, unloading at the shipping point is to be done by employees of the railway company, where more than 20 and less than 40 the shippers are to provide one man to help unload; where more than 40, two men. When trains are 30 minutes or more late all cans are to be unloaded by employees of the railway company. Railways will not be required to accept for transportation any cans less in capacity than eight gallons, either full or empty. Cans shall be handled on memorandum forms. Shippers must have their milk ready 15 minutes before the time of leaving of trains, and railway companies will not be liable to damage unless caused by thir own negligence.

GODERICH MAY TAKE LOCAL OPTION VOTE

Big Petition Is Being Prepared by the Temperance People.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Goderich, Nov. 23.—The W. C. T. U. are organizing to bring on another vote on local option in this town in January next, and have had a large petition signed to present to the council. Local option was only defeated by six votes last time it was voted on. It is said it will be defeated by a much larger vote now.

The two large steel scows that are under construction for Contractor Connolly are about completed. One was launched a few weeks ago, and the other is ready to be launched. They are 100 feet long and 40 feet wide, with a draft of water of 10 feet, and cost $35,000 each. It has taken a large gang of men all summer to build them. Mr. Connolly intends using them on a large contract he has in Quebec.

A New Pastor.

Rev. J. B. Fotheringham, of Toronto, will be the new encumbent in St. George's English Church. He will take charge next Sunday, and succeeds Rev. Mark Turnbull, who was called to Mexico. Rev. Mr. Hill, of Regina, has been officiating for the last few Sundays. He returns to Regina on Monday next.

The new dredge that has been under construction all summer for the Marlton Dredging Company and was launched about a week ago, is now ready for work. This is a very powerful dredge, and is much larger than the one they now operate, being 75 feet long, and having 100-horsepower. The dipper is also much larger, and takes one and a half times as much as the other dredge. It is also constructed to dig rock, and will cost about $50,000.

its height. The club was full of members and their friends. These flocked to the windows as the crowds approached, but were soon forced to retreat in order to avoid the showers of well-aimed stones which crashed through the lower windows. Many more arrests were made here, and also along the Strand, where the telegraph office was attacked, as well as a number of stores.

Some of the suffragettes rode on horse and motor cabs, from which they launched stones when opportunity offered. Newspaper offices situated over a mile away from the House of Parliament suffered in this way, and in some instances the assailants succeeded in escaping, but in others they appeared to seek arrest.

Attacked Somerset House.

Somerset House, where all the public records are kept, was also the object of attack, but its distance from the sidewalk and its formidable walls prevented much damage being done.

Most of the women arrived in court this morning carrying grips with a change of clothing in anticipation of spending a period in jail. A number of them who had broken windows of a value exceeding $50, were committed for trial at the London sessions. All of these, however, were allowed out on bail.

A poster circulated by Mrs. Pethick Lawrence calling on women to assemble in their thousands and "see fair play and protect women from being brutally victimized by the police in uniform and plain clothes, as they were on Black Friday, 1910, when one woman died and many were seriously injured," was produced in court. Counsel for the Government warmly condemn this as a disgraceful and unworthy production.

Many of the women sentenced this morning to summary imprisonment or committed for trial at the London sessions, are prominent in society, as well as being leaders in the women's suffragette movement. A number of them have suffered previous imprisonment on account of their activities at demonstrations.

Lady Constance Lytton, aister of Lord Lytton, has been in jail on several occasions since 1909, and caused considerable sensation during one of her sentences by refusing to eat the prison food.

Mrs. E. Haverford, a daughter of Lord Abinger, has also been in jail for resisting the police during a suffrage demonstration.

Mrs. Pethick Lawrence is a well known writer in favor of the women's cause and is editor of Votes for Women. She has been arrested on several occasions.

Most of the prisoners were persons from provincial cities, without previous record in connection with the suffrage movement. Among the more prominent of the accused were Vera Wentworth and Cecilia Wilcox, both of whom were committed for trial at the sessions; Ada White, who had been previously convicted, was sentenced to a month in jail without the option of a fine; Mrs. Arnicliff Sennett, who broke a window of a newspaper office, went to jail for a week rather than pay a fine.

The prisoners are so numerous that the hearing will last several days.

The London Advertiser Ermaline Paper Bag Cookery

These Cooking Bags are now available by mail or at The London Advertiser Office in quantity and at cost, as stated on coupon, which must be clipped out and presented or sent with order. A Paper Bag Cooking Coupon will be found in every issue of The London Advertiser as long as the bags are on sale.

Directions---How to Use Cooking Bags:

1. Select one that "fits" the food intended to be cooked.

2. Grease slightly the inside of the bag, except in the case of vegetables, or when water is to be added.

3. When the food has been prepared for the bag, place the same on the table, and lift the uppermost edge of the bag while you insert the contents.

4. Fold the mouth of the bag two or three times and fasten with a clip, or pins, or in any other way that will secure as nearly as possible a hermetical closing.

Should it ever happen that a bag leaks, simply transfer it with contents undisturbed to another bag.

5. The oven, any kind of which will do, should be kept clean, and if properly heated, as with the old style of cooking, results should satisfactorily follow. Average oven heat should be about 200 degrees, Fahr., and when the bag is put into the oven this heat should be reduced by about 30 degrees In the case of ovens with solid shelves, a wire grid should be placed on the shelf with a space between and the bag with contents on the grid. Experience will soon teach the cook when the oven is hot enough without the use of a thermometer.

6. The oven door will not require to be opened every now and then "to see how the roast is doing." The whole force of the heat is playing upon the bag and from within it cannot escape.

7. Exercise care in taking the bag out of the oven, and if gas is used the bag should be kept out of danger of contact with the flame.

A plate inserted under the bag will best remove it from the oven.

8. When taken out for use the bag should be ripped open from the top and the fragments thrown away.

After-Supper Talks

With Cynthia Grey

Many a young man hugs to his bosom the delusion that the world at large shuts its eyes to his follies, such as staying out late at nights, taking a glass of champagne too much, attempting to flirt with every pretty maiden who crosses his path, and pranks too numerous to mention.

This seems to be an anxious time in the life of his mother. With tears and sobs she confided hesitatingly to his father the fear that Billy isn't going to turn out well. She receives the annoyed retort: "Let the young fellow alone; he is sowing his wild oats. Tell the people that, if they're inquiring."

The mother gets back at him by adding, with alacrity: "The people are saying, too, that he's a chip off the old block."

The father has something to ruminate over when the door has closed after the partner of his joys and sorrows and he finds himself alone.

Then, and not until then, does he look facts fully in the face. He knows there's more truth than poetry in the homely phrase "about a chip from the old block." He knows that the wild oats sown in early youth produces a harvest of trouble later on and that it is no easy matter for a man to change the habits he has formed—not even after the conditions of his life has changed.

The story books inform him that after people marry they live, good, useful—aye, exemplary—lives forever after. His opinion, based on the observance of every day life about him, causes him to take issue with those well meaning writers. He knows it is all bosh about marriage changing the average man, even one jot or one tittle. He may love his wife devotedly, but he has to keep himself in constant leash to keep down his exuberance of spirits. He knows, too, habits grow stronger with increasing years, and if he is fickle at 20 there will be a streak of it in him at five and forty, even though the marriage chain binds him to another heart.

A chip off the old block! As the people know the father they will expect to find the son. The mother has something to do with the formation of her boy's principles, but somehow the world does not take cognizance of that fact. It is the father who is expected to set the example and discipline the youth, who is inclined to be wild, into following in his footsteps.

Cynthia Grey's Correspondence

Dear Miss Grey: I am going with a man who is much older than I, and he has been very attentive, although rumor says that he is engaged to another. How can I win his away from her? BROWN EYES.

A.—If he is engaged to another you have no right to try to win him away from her. Besides, if he could be won, would you be willing to trust your future to a man who could be so fickle and unstable?

Another Like Above.

Dear Miss Grey: Am a girl of 20 and in love with a man somewhat older. He has several girls running after him, and I have many other men friends, but I want only this one, and if I do not get him I will never marry. How can I win him? At times he seems to like me, and at other times he is very distant. PERPLEXED BLONDE.

A.—If he is at all interested in you, perhaps you might still further attract him if you do not "run after" him, as the other girls do. Try it.

A Silly Question.

Dear Miss Grey: We are two young girls. How can we make fellows show they love us? ANXIOUS.

A.—When you are old enough to know what love really means you will be ashamed of asking so silly a question as this. If you are worthy of being loved (and are old enough to love), you will not need help to know whether the right man loves you.

CHAPTER XII.

The Family on the Raft.

That would unquestionably have been the end of Bob Yancy when he was shot out into the muddy waters of the Elk River, had not Mr. Richard Keppel Cavendish, variously known as Long-Legged Dick, and Chills-and-Fever Cavendish, of Lincoln County, in the State of Tennessee, some months previously, and after unprecedented mental effort on his part, decided that Lincoln County was no place for him. When he had established this idea firmly in his own mind and in the mind of Polly, his wife, he set about solving the problem of transportation.

Mr. Cavendish's paternal grandparent had drifted down the Holston and Tennessee; and Mr. Cavendish's father, in his early youth, had poled up the Elk. Mr. Cavendish now determined to float down the Elk to its junction with the Tennessee, down the Tennessee to the Ohio, and if need be, down the Ohio to the Mississippi, and keep drifting until he found some spot exactly suited to his taste. Temperamentally, he was well adapted to drifting. No conception of vicarious activity could have been more congenial.

With this end in view, he had toiled through late winter and early spring in building himself a raft on which to transport his few belongings and his numerous family; there were six little Cavendishes, and they ranged in years from four to eleven; there was in addition the baby, who was always enumerated separately. This particular infant Mr. Cavendish said he wouldn't take a million dollars for. He usually added feelingly that he wouldn't give a piece of chalk for another one.

June found him aboard his raft with all his earthly possessions bestowed about him, awaiting the rains and freshets that were to waft him effortless into a newer country where he should have a white man's chance. At last the rains came, and far from the bank at that unsalubrious spot where his father had elected to build his cabin on a strip of level bottom subject to periodic inundation. Wishing fully to profit by the floods and reach the big water without delay, Cavendish ran the raft twenty-four hours at a strech, sleeping by day while Polly managed the great sweep, only calling him when some dangerous bit of the river was to be navigated. Thus it happened that as Murrell and Slosson were dragging Yancy down the lane, Cavendish was just rounding a bend in the Elk, a quarter of a mile distant. Leaning loosely against the long handle of his sweep, he was watching the lane of bright water than ran between the black shadows cast by the trees on either bank. He was in shirt and trousers, barefoot and bareheaded, and his face, mild and contemplative, wore an expression of dreamy contentment.

Suddenly its expression changed. He became alert and watchful. He had heard a dull splash. Thinking that some tree had been swept into the flood, he sought to pierce the darkness that lay along the shore. Five or six minutes passed as the raft glided along without sound. He was about to relapse into his former attitude of listless ease when he caught sight of some object in the eddy that swept alongside. Mr. Cavendish promply detached himself from the handle of the sweep and ran to the edge of the raft.

"Good Lord—what's that!" he gasped, but he already knew it was a face, livid and blood-streaked. Dropping on his knees he reached out a pair of long arms and made a dexterous grab, and his fingers closed on the collar of Yancy's shirt. "Neighbor, I certainly have got you!" said Cavendish, between his teeth. He drew Yancy close alongside the raft, and, slipping a hand under each arm, pulled him clear of the water. The swift current swept the raft on down the stream. It rode fairly in the centre of the lane of light, but no eye had observed its passing. Mr. Cavendish stood erect and stared down at the blood-stained face, then he dropped on his knees again and began a hurried examination of the still figure. "There's a little life here—not much, but some—you was well worth fishing up!" he said approvingly, after a brief interval. "Polly!" he called, raising his voice.

This brought Mrs. Cavendish from one of the two cabins that occupied the centre of the raft. She was a young woman, still very comely, though of a matronly plumpness. She was in her nightgown, and when she caught sight of Yancy she uttered a shriek and fled back into the shanty.

"I declare, Dick, you might ha' told a body you wa'n't alone!" she said, reproachfully.

Her cry had aroused the other denizens of the raft. The tow heads of the six little Cavendishes rose promptly from a long bolster in the smaller of the two shanties, and as promptly six little Cavendishes, each draped in a single non-committal garment, apparently cut by one pattern, and not at all according to the wearer's years or length of limb, tumbled forth from their shelter.

"Sho', Polly, he's senseless! But you dress and come here quick. Now, you young folks, don't you tetch him!" for the six small Cavendishes, excited beyond measure, were crowding and shoving for a nearer sight of Yancy. They began to pelt their father with questions. Who was it? Sho', in the river? Sho', all cut up like that—who's cut him? When did pop fish him out? Was he dead? Why did he lay like that and not move or speak—sho'! And much more was flung at Mr. Cavendish all in one breath, and each eager questioner seized him by the hand, the dangling sleeve of his shirt, or his trousers—they clutched him from all sides. "I never seen such a family!" said Mr. Cavendish, helplessly. "Now you-all shut up, or I 'low I'll lay into you!"

Mrs. Cavendish's appearance created a diversion in his favor. The six rushed on her tumultuously. They seized her hands or struggled for a fragment of her skirt to hold while they poured out their tale. Pop had fished up a man—he'd been throwed in the river! Pop didn't know if he was dead or not—he was all cut and bloody!

"I declare, I've a mind to skin you if you don't keep still! Miss Constance," Polly addressed her eldest child, "I'm surprised at you! You might be a heathen savage for all you got on your back—get into some duds this instant!" Cavendish was on his knees again beside Yancy, and Polly, by a determined effort, rid herself of the children. "Why, he's a grand-looking man, ain't he?" she cried. "La, what a pity!"

"You can feel his heart beat, and he's bleeding some," said Cavendish.

"Let me see—just barely flutters, don't it? Henry, go mind the sweep and see we don't get aground! Keppel, you start a fire and warm some water! Connie, you tear up my other petticoat for bandages—now, stir around, all of you!" And then began a period of breathless activity. They first lifted Yancy into the circle of illumination cast by the fire Keppel had started on the hearth of flat stones before the shanties. Then, with Constance to hold a pan of warm water, Mrs. Cavendish deftly bathed the gaping wound in Yancy's shoulder where Murrell had driven his knife. This she bandaged with strips torn from her petticoat. Next she began on the ragged cut left by Slosson's club.

"He's got a right to be dead!" said Cavendish.

"Get the shears, Dick; I must snip away some of his hair."

All this while the four half-naked Cavendishes, very still now, stood about the stone hearth in the chill dawn and watched their mother's surgery with a breathless interest. Only the outcast Henry at the sweep ever and anon lifted up his voice between sobs of mingled rage and disappointment, and demanded what was doing.

"Think he is going to die, Polly?" whispered Cavendish at length. Their heads, here very black and glossy, his very blonde, were close together as they bent above the injured man.

"I never say a body's going to die until he's dead," said Polly.

"He's still breathing, and a Christian has got to do what they can. Don't you think you ought to tie up?"

"The freshet's leaving us. I'll run until me hit the big water down by Pleasantville, and then tie up," said Cavendish.

"I reckon we'd better lift him on to one of the beds—get his wet clothes off and wrap him up warm," said Polly.

"Oh, put him in our bed!" cried all the little Cavendishes.

And Yancy was borne into the smaller of the two shanties, where presently his bandaged head rested on the long communal pillow. Then his wet clothes were hung up to dry, along with a portion of the family wash, which fluttered on a rope stretched between the two shanties.

The Return of Crinoline.

The threat of the crinoline is being hurled at us, one hopes not to assume more substantial and practical form, as, after remembering the number of women who have worn the tight skirt, one doubts if the sex in general will have courage to resist any absurdity the dressmakers decree. With the crinoline, we may also expect a return of the small waist for the sake of contrast. It seems incredible how our ideas of beauty waver and change. For a certainty, if the great mass of womankind went about in hooped skirts, those who refrained from following the prevalent mode would look dowdy and insignificant. Everything is all right if everyone wears it; any style, however intrinsically ugly, will appear becoming if enough persons adopt it for a long enough time, since it seems impossible to regard one's own surrounding with an impartial and a judicial eye.

Ribbon Flowers

Decorate everything.

Satin is the preferred material.

They ornament the edges of tunics.

Even on hats they are often seen.

Wreaths of them festoon quaint little evening frocks.

A large one worn in the corsage is a dainty finish for the fichu.

Garlands of them are used to trim tissue handbags.

Some of the new sleeves are caught above the elbow with one or several ribbon roses.

They are a pretty form of trimming for the numerous handkerchief, glove or sewing boxes favored as gifts at Christmas time.

Those of gold tissue are extremely effective for the purpose.

Good Form in Dress

Don't wear colored or fancy open-work stockings with your street shoes. Choose plain stockings that match the shoes in color.

Don't pin ruchings and dress shields in place. Baste them instead and see how much more comfort they give you. It really doesn't take much longer to baste than to pin.

Don't think that because collarless frocks are the fashion you may wear a low-cut dress on the street. There is a vast difference between "collarless" and "low-necked."

Don't buy cheap jewelry and think that it looks like anything but what it is—a cheap imitation of a good article. Much jewelry is in bad taste at any time except with evening dress.

Don't wear mussed or soiled frills and ruching. You had much better wear perfectly plain clothes without trimmings if you cannot keep these dainty accessories fresh and without soil.

Don't forget to see that your waist is properly fastened before leaving your mirror. The waist gaping open at the back not only looks careless, but it is apt to cause some embarrassment, too.

Chestnut Salad.—There is a delicious salad posible at this chestnut season. Boil the nuts and allow half as much nice, tender celery cut into short pieces as of the nuts cut small. Mix with them half as many cherries drained from a can—they should be unsweetened—as there is celery and dress with mayonnaise mixed with an equal amount of whipped cream. Serve on lettuce leaves and garnish with a few of the whole nuts.

Lemon Meringue Pie.—Beat three eggs slightly and add two-thirds of a supful of sugar, the grated rind of half a lemon, one-fourth cupful of lemon juice, and two tablespoonfuls of water. Bake in one crust in a moderate oven, cool slightly, cover with meringue forced through a pastry bag and tube) and return to oven to bake the meringue—the time required being about eight minutes in a moderate oven. If meringues are removed from the oven before they are done, the eggs will liquefy and meringue settle; if cooked too long, meringue is tough. For the meringue, beat the whites of three eggs until stiff and add gradually, while beating constantly, four tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Cut, and fold in three and one-half tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, and add one-half teaspoonful of lemon extract.

PAPER BAG COOKERY

Puff Paste.

Take one pound of flour, three-quarters pound of butter. Mix the flour with water and salt lightly until the consistency of butter. Leave this dough for half an hour, then flatten with your hand and lay your butter on the top of the paste. Then fold four-corner way, and give it two rolls, as usual. Leave your paste in a cool place for 45 minutes and then roll twice again. Place it in a large paper bag which will not touch the paste. Put on a grid and allow 20 minutes in a hot oven.

ALVINSTON WEDDING

Miss Evelyn Wall Was Married to Mr. K. Smalldon, of Sandusky.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Alvinston, Nov. 21.—The marriage of Evelyn, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wall, Aughrim, and Mr. Kennard Smaildon, of Sandusky, Mich., was solemnized quietly at the bride's home here. Rev. C. M. Farney, pastor of St. John's Church, Aughrim, performed the ceremony. The bride and groom were unattended. The bride wore a dress of copenhagen satin, with velvet trimmings, and her travelling dress was brown velvet, long brown coat, with hat to match.

Mrs. Smalldon will be much missed, as she was organist of St. John's Church, and a member of the Aughrim W. I. The bride and groom left on a trip to Chicago, after which they will reside at Sandusky.

The first assembly of the season was held in Code's Hall, and was a great success. Guests were present from Inwood, Watford and London. A number from Glencoe were unable to be present on account of the inclement weather. The Cortese Harpers, of London, furnished a delightful musical programme.

The marriage of Miss Ethel MacAlpine, daughter of Mr. Archibald MacAlpine, Euphemia, and Mr. John McKeown, also of Euphemia, took place recently.

Roy Clarke, of Borden, Sask., formerly of Alvinston, bought a carload of fine horses in this vicinity and shipped them to the North west recently.

The M. C. R. express, which formerly was due here at 4:43 p.m., starting yesterday, will arrive at 5:13 in future. There is also a change in the local, which now meets the express from the west at 9 a.m.

Wilbert E. Burke has gone to London, where he will reside.

CHANCE GIVEN TO FORGET WOES

Madame Cavalieri and Chanler Are Invited to Meet and Become Reconciled.

Paris, Nov. 21.—Lina Cavalieri-Chanler and "Sheriff Bob" Chanler were today invited to meet one another face to face in the court of President Monier, of the palace of justice, Nov. 23. The date seems rather significant.

President Monier has not the slightest idea that either will appear but it is according to law to give parties to divorce action a chance to make up. It is called the act of reconciliation

It is said the singer and the sheriff have both declared their intention of giving one another as wide a berth as possible. On the other hand Monier hopes they will agreeably disappoint him.

Cavalieri went Saturday to President Monier's court to press the divorce petition. She was accompanied by her counsel, Albert Clemerceau. She declared she had lost by her marriage. She had been compelled to give up engagements and so lost money; she had suffered artistically because of the scandal, and more than all she had received a social let-down simply because the man she married was not of her station in life.

Cavalieri thinks marriage and art are like water and oil—they won't mix.

$20,000 SURPLUS FOR CITY COUNCIL

Auditor's Report Shows Civic Finances To Be in Excellent Shape.

$7,000 FROM WATER DEPT.

Board of Education Will Show an Overdraft This Year — Hospital Trust Will Have Surplus.

The auditors' report for the third quarter has been issued by Messrs. Jewell and Dale, and shows the finances of the city to be in excellent shape. There is no question but that there will be a surplus of at least $20,000, probably more.

All the committees are ahead of their appropriations. One of the main items of saving is that of $5,000 for temporary quarters for the city hall staff. When the hall was sold, or at least it was agreed to sell it to the Royal Bank, the sum of $5,000 was set aside for temporary quarters. There will be no need to expend that this year, and it will be saved.

The finance committee have been living well within their estimates, and it is thought that another $5,000 surplus will come from that committee.

The board of works has not expended as much money as usual, and they will be ahead from $7,000 to $9,000, depending largely on the weather from this time to the end of the year.

There will be no overdraft in No. 3 committee. There will not be much of a surplus, perhaps, but it will be something.

All in Good Shape.

All the other spending bodies are in good shape with the exception of the board of education, which will show an overdraft of from $3,000 to $4,000, owing to the expenditures on the Rectory street school. The hospital trust will have a small surplus, and the library board and the board of health will be-tween them turn back $1,000 to the city council.

In addition, it must not be forgotten that the water commissioners will show a surplus of $7,000 at least from the water department. The receipts have been larger than expected, and the expenditure has been much less than any previous year in the last ten. The electrical department will possibly break even.

MANY HAVE HAD LETTERS FROM SPAIN

Madrid Grafters Have a Very Large Mailing List in This Part of the Country.

Since the publication of the story concerning the Spanish swindle attempted on London businessmen, the second stage of which was revealed in The Advertiser of Monday, it has been made known that several hundred letters of the kind that reached Mr. Robert Hueston were received in this city.

Many businessmen have come to The Advertiser or called the office by telephone and all have told of being offered the chance to make a hundred thousand or so by ..lexander Sadrowsky. Each of them have heard of other persins who have been interviewed by mail in the matter, and would appear that the city was literally flooded with the phony documents.

"Some unsuspecting persons with money might have thought they were doing a good act in helping the swindler," said one merchant. "For this reason it was a splendid thing for Mr Hueston and The Advertiser to show up the thing. The weak point in the whole story was where Sadrowsky stated that he had written to only one person. It would be well if other newspapers in the district showed up the scheme, for there is no doubt that it has been attempted broadcast."

ROW OVER A LADY.

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 21.—Arthur Johnson, a Swede, employed on construction work for the Canadian Northern Railway near Perth road, was attacked last night by another man employed on the job, named James Campbell, and stabbed in the back, but luckily the wound is not of a serious nature, and he will recover. The trouble, it appears, was over a young lady whom Johnson was keeping company with.

Psoriasis Was Cured

AFTER FIVE YEARS OF SUFFERING—THREE DOCTORS FAILED AND SAID CASE WAS INCURABLE.

ITCHING AND BURNING WAS TERRIBLE UNTIL RELIEF AND CURE WAS EFFECTED BY

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Psoriasis is another name for chronic eczema. It is the worst form of this dreadful itching skin disease. Once eczema has reached this stage it is usually considered incurable.

But here is a case which proves again the wonderful healing power of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Not only does relief come quickly, but the resulting benefits are thorough and lasting.

Mrs. Nellie Massey, Consecon, Ont., writes: "I thought it my duty to write you telling you the great benefit I received from using Dr. Chase's Ointment. For five years I suffered with what three doctors called Psoriasis. I doctored with three different doctors, with no good results, and one of our noted doctors told me if any one offered to guarantee me a cure for $50.00 to keep my money in my pocket, as I could not be cured.

"The disease spread all over me, even on my face and head. The itching and burning was hard to bear. At last my brother read in the paper about Dr. Chase's Ointment as a healer. I used 8 boxes, and I am glad to say I am entirely cured, not a sign of a sore to be seen. I can hardly praise the ointment enough, and you are at liberty to use my testimony, as I hope thereby to induce other sufferers to try the same."

HOW MUCH TRACKAGE SHOULD CITY HAVE?

According to Engineer on Basis of Present Population 21 Miles Is Due.

Ther will be an interesting discussion as to the amount of additional trackage due the city by the street railway on the basis of 46,177 population in London.

City Engineer Wright has been engaged in preparing the figures for the special committee, and has submitted his report.

According to this statement, the London street railway has trackage amounting to 20.88 miles, or practically 21 miles.

This includes switches "Y's," turnouts, double track, etc. With the population at 46,177, the city is now entitled to 23.088 miles.

However, in the 21 miles of track laid by the company, 1,182½ feet were laid without bylaws, and 2,744½ feet are made up of switches, etc., which does not count as mileage. This is a total of 3,927 feet, or practically three-quarters of a mile.

Consequently the London street railway has a mileage of just 20 miles, leaving the fractions as negligible quantities. That would entitle the city to three miles of extra lines, if Mr. Wright's figures are accepted by the council.

The Figures.

When the Ottaway avenue line was completed the population was fixed at 39,000 for street railway purposes. After that the Ridout street line, about 6,670 feet in length, was constructed. This would leave the city with approximately 2¼ miles extra track due them.

Between the figures quoted above and those furnished by Mr. Wright, there is a discrepancy of three-quarters of a mile of track, and it is expected that about this difference all the debating will be centred.

The aldermen are anxious to obtain all the mileage the city is entitled to, and will make a strong fight for three miles. However, it is quite possible that a compromise at 2½ miles will be made.

"We want all that is our due—no more," said Ald. Morgan, convener of the committee.

WENT TO THE BOTTOM WITH ALL ABOARD

Total Loss of Newfoundland Schooner During Heavy Storm in the Gulf.

[Canadian Press.]

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 21. — News of the total loss of the schooner Heroine, of Burgeo, Nfld., at Fox Roost, Nfld., reached here today, when Robt. Moulton, of Burgeo, Nfld., at present in this city, received a telegram advising him of the loss of the Heroine, with all on board.

The wreck took place yesterday during a heavy storm. The Heroine was bound from Sydney to Burgeo, with coal for Mr. Moulton. She met her fate at Fox Roost, a point of land one mile east of Port-Aux-Basques.

Those on board were: Capt. John Rose, who was also owner of the schooner, and three others, all belonging to Burgeo. The captain and one or two members of the crew leave large families.

EMPEROR'S MOTHER ELOPES WITH AN ACTOR

Princess Lai Flees to Mukden Taking a Fortune in Jewels With Her.

San Francisco, Nov. 21.—Princess Lai, mother of the baby emperor of China, and wife of the prince regent, has eloped with an actor, Yung Shu Lu, according to Chinese newspapers received today. A number of newspapers published in China refer to the "disgrace that has come to the royal family," but only one, the Min Lu Po, the largest newspaper published in China, gives the princess' name and an account of the elopement.

The mother of the emperor, the paper says, fell in love with the actor and corresponded with him for some time before the rebellion began. The paper draws the conclusion that the princess believed the Manchu cause was lost and decided to flee. The princess is said to have taken a fortune in jewels with her and to be living with Yung in Mukden.

An actor and a barber are classed with the lowest of castes in China and Chinese here said today that the elopement of the princess was the greatest disgrace that could come to the Manchu dynasty.

SHARP OUTPOST FIGHT

Turks Repulsed Twice Monday in Attack on the Italian Lines.

[Canadian Press.]

Tripoli, Nov. 21.—A stiff outpost fight took place yesterday as a result of which, according to Italian reports, the Turks were forced to retreat leaving nine dead on the field. They carried off their wounded.

Later in the day the Turks twice returned to the offensive. The Italian Grenadiers and Artillery replied to their attacks, and again repulsed the enemy of whom twenty were killed. The Italians did not suffer any loss.

Five aeroplanes, which had been sent out to reconnoiter, returned to camp and reported that there had been no change in the Turkish position. They had succeeded in dropping some bombs inside the Turkish camp, which the observers in the military balloon were able to see was destroyed.

ALAS THE POOR AVIATOR HE IS JOBLESS NOW

Star Airmen as Thick on Broadway as Sparrows in a Barnyard.

New York, Nov. 21.—Naturally one would expect that normal aviators would migrate south about this time, but they're right here in town and all are out of jobs, and they're kicking. Harry Atwood is about the only one not on hand, but he'll reach town Tuesday.

Where one short month ago or so an actor held down a given spot in Broadway talking about himself, the spot now holds an aviator, and the worst of it is that whereas the actor is forced into idleness just at the beginning of the pleasant days, when a park bench is not such a bad sleeping bunk, the aviator has to come here to roost in the park trees in blizzard weather.

What Wilbur Said.

Two years ago, Wilbur Wright was quoted as saying that folks who hoped to make money by giving exhibition flights might better get busy, because they would have only about two seasons in which to do so and get away with it financially. In 1909 Washington, D. C., sent to New York a delegation made up of clamoring citizens, a press agent, everything the delegation thought was needed, to try to get the international meet later held at Belmont Park, for Washington, Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis, Denver, Los Angeles, all the country fought to get the meet. Cortlandt Field Bishop argued with the Aero Club at that time to let the meet go to some inland city so that interest in aviation be spread throughout the country. Now another international meet looms ahead for next summer, and no city wants it, with the possible exception of Chicago.

"Yes, sir, Wilbur was correct," one heard in aviator's corner at the Hotel Astor today. "He often is."

They're All Over.

Of all the string of fliers not long ago to be found in the Wright brothers' aviary only one remains in their employ —Prexy Al. Welsh, head of the Wright instruction school. Walter Brookins is at the Hotel Manhattan "at liberty." Frank Coffyn is "resting" at the home of a friend he is visiting. Charley Hamilton is at the Astor. Capt. Baldwin divides his time between Mineola and Broadway. P. Pylon Parmalee is at the Manhattan. So is Cliff Turpin. Lee Hammond is about town or down at Pete McLaughlin's in Mineola. So is Paul Peck, so often confused with Capt. Paul Beck, the army flier.

Miss Blanche Scott is willing to fly, but hasn't any machine. Atwood and Howard Gill will join the army of unemployed here Tuesday. Walter Fairchild is doing nothing around his home in West Eighty-first street. Fred Stone is at 31 West Sixty-fourth street, and he is about the only American flier who is not "going to South America soon." He is going to Australia with an ace up his sleeve in the form of a vaudeville engagement which will take up his time in case the Australians don't want to pay to see him fly.

SUGAR CONVENTION MAY GO TO PIECES

Britain to Withdraw Unless Powers Let Her Have More of the Sweet Stuff.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 21.—Great Britain is preparing to withdraw from the Brussels sugar convention unless the powers concerned in it agree to let her have more sugar.

The present increase in the price of sugar in England has aroused considerable protest among British consumers, and Sir Edward Grey, the foreign secretary, announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that unless the powers permit Russia to export at least 500,000 tons of sugar westward the British Government has decided to notify its intention not to adhere to the convention beyond September, 1913, which is the earliest date at which Great Britain could withdraw.

The Brussels sugar convention is an agreement entered into at the international sugar conference in 1907 by which Russia was admitted to the convention on condition that her export of beet sugar westward should be limited to a maximum of 200,000 tons annually until 1913. Russia agreed during the conference at that time not to export sugar to Germany or Austria-Hungary, as the supplies in those countries were in excess of the demand, but she was authorized as an offset to export an unlimited amount to Finland and Persia.

Throat Becomes Diseased From Neglecting Colds

Then Catarrh Sets In, Mucous Drops Into the Stomach, Coughing, Headaches and Debility Follow.

That the best method of curing catarrhal disease consists in using Catarrhozone is now freely admitted. Catarrhozone is infinitely superior to cough medicines, tablets, sprays and emulsions, which for the most part are of no practical value except to ease the cough for the time being. Often liquid cough remedies contain opium, morphine and cocaine. With Catarrhozone you take no drugs—you employ Nature's way—just inhale Catarrhozone's soothing healing vapor and relief and cure follow promptly.

Weak Throat, Racking Cough. Cured.

"For five years I suffered from a severe bronchitis. A harsh, dry, racking cough kept my throat in a raw condition from one year's end to another. Before going to sleep at night I always had a bad attack, and in the morning before each breakfast I suffered greatly. My voice was harsh and raspy, and sometimes I found it difficult to make myself understood. Catarrhozone seemed to soothe and heal from the first day. It cured me, and now I wouldn't think of being without a Catarrhozone inhaler — it means life to me."

The above experience is related by Mr. Alexander P. Savary, of Hamilton, Pa., and proves the effectiveness of Catarrhozone, which will cure every cough, cold, bronchial or catarrhal attack. The dollar size of Catarrhozone contains two months' treatment and is guaranteed. Smaller size 50c, sample size 25c. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Whether you golf or motor or drive, skate or snowshoe or walk, the most useful item of your wardrobe will be one of the

Pen-Angle Sweater Coats

EXAMINE one at your local merchant's and you will agree that nothing you own is more beautifully made nor more exquisitely finished. Try one on, and you see that it has the snug, stylish fit your taste exacts. Subject it to hard wear and learn that it retains its new, smart shapeliness. It must do that, for our Pen-Angle knitting process shapes these improved sweater coats into permanent fit. Thus they cannot become saggy or ill-fitting, as many garments do that resemble them in appearance only when brand-new. You will be lastingly satisfied with the sweater coat that bears this trademark.

MAPS FOR MURDER TRIAL

Courtroom During McNamara Case Will Look Like an Engineer's Office.

[Canadian Press.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 21. — Judge Bordwell's courtroom will look like the drafting-room of a civil engineer's office within a few weeks if present plans in the McNamara murder trial are carried out.

Instead of beginning the trial by taking up the state's contention that a crime was committed in the explosion which wrecked the Los Angeles Times over a year ago, with the loss of 21 lives, opposing counsel are planning first to establish the fact that the Los Angeles Times building existed at the intersection of First street and Broadway, and that it was a building of a certain sort. To this end, elevation sketches and floor maps have been prepared by experts, and it is possible that days will be spent after the jury is secured in introducing identifying and labelling these exhibits. The models are cut away so as to show the interior of the building, with tiny shops, printing presses, office furniture, elevators and electrotyping machinery, all made to scale and all in place.

"Incidentally," a driveway which entered the building proper, will be shown, as will another alley north of the building, in order that no jury may be confused in any testimony given regarding either of these points. When this part of the work is done, the prosecution expects to start the presentation of its case against James B. McNamara.

TOUR IS ARRANGED FOR SCOT CURLERS

Travellers Will Be at Local Clubs on First Two Days of February.

THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT

Has Accepted Patronage of Ontario Association, and Will Present Cup.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—The Duke of Connaught has accepted the patronage of the Ontario Curling Association, and in his letter says that he will be pleased to present the Governor-General's cup, as his predecessors have done, and also hopes to have the pleasure of meeting the members on the ice.

The Ontario executive at its meeting appointed Geo. R. Hargraft to the vacancy on its board, caused by the death of Mr. W. C. Matthews.

The dates assigned the Scottish curlers have been approved by all the centres, except Montreal, Manitoba and Nova Scotia. Doubtless they will do so, but until they do the list of games stands uncertain.

The Ontario Association cities to entertain the tourists are: Kingston, Peterboro, Hamilton, Galt, London and Detroit.

Tour of the Scots.

The visitors are due on the Ionian at Halifax Jan. 1, and to date close at Winnipeg, beginning Feb. 9, but several western towns are anxious to entertain them, and the tour may be extended.

So far the thirty players are billed to travel 2,936 miles one way.

The programme of the tour as announced is as follows:

Jan. 2—At Halifax.
Jan. 5 to 6—At St. John.
Jan. 7 to 9—At Quebec.
Jan. 10 to 16—At Montreal.
Jan. 17 to 19—At Ottawa.
Jan. 20 and 21—At Kingston.
Jan. 22—At Peterboro.
Jan. 23 to 29—At Toronto.
Jan. 29 to 31—At Hamilton
Feb. 1 and 2—At London.
Feb. 5 and 6—At Chicago.

Arrive in Winnipeg for bonspiel on Feb. 8; final arrangements to be made later.

RED SOX WOULDN'T ADMIT OTTAWA

Brantford Magnates Express Opposition to Lengthening the Circuit.

CONPACTNESS THE THING

Say Travelling Expenses in Canadian Would Be Too Much Without Intermediate Stops.

Brantford, Nov. 21.—Brantford will oppose the admission of Ottawa into the Canadian League, on the grounds of big increase in the transportation expenses. The local officers maintain that the compactness of the league at present is a strong feature, and unless Toronto and possibly Peterboro are admitted into the circuit to break the long jump they see no chance for the success of Ottawa's application.

WOLGAST DOWN TO 130 POUNDS FOR WELSH GO

Champion Is at Work at Los Angeles for Thanksgiving Day Session—Welsh Training, Too.

Los Angeles, Nov. 22. — Ad Wolgast has changed his mind and altered his training programme for his championship fight Thanksgiving Day at Vernon, with Freddie Welsh. Instead of going to the mountains for a few days' rest Wolgast will remain here and will train every day except Fridays for the bout. Wolgast entertained a large crowd at his workout at Doyle's camp today. He put in about an hour boxing with Gus Anderson and Hobo Dougnerty as the wind-up of his afternoon's work. Jimmy Giblin is coming from Grand Rapids, and will work with Wolgast after Thursday. McCarey has promised Giblin a semi-wind-up match for Thanksgiving Day.

Wolgast weighs 130 pounds and is in the very best shape. Manager Tom Jones is well pleased with Wolgast's condition and grows eloquent when the matter is mentioned to him.

Welsh at Work.

Freddie Welsh is training every day at Venice Beach, where he is doing most of his work at the Auditorium. Welsh said today:

"I intend to fight a good, clean fight on Thanksgiving Day, and if I am beaten it will be because Wolgast is the better man. I will be prepared for any kind of a fight the champion will give me. If he covers up I'll stand off and await his opening, for I won't break my hands on his head and elbows. I will fight Wolgast at his own game if I see my plans of battle going away."

NO STANLEY CUP GAMES BEFORE SEASON OPENS

Should British Columbians Challenge at Finish Teams May Battle on Artificial Ice.

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—There will be no Stanley cup games before the opening of the season, but it is probable that the champions of the new British Columbia League will challenge in the spring, and it is suggested that if too late to play on natural ice, Ottawa could apply to the trustees for a change of venue and decide the matches at the new Toronto Arena, providing, of course, they win the championship a second time.

On paper the Ottawas appear to have it on all the other clubs, which prompts many to think that it should be a wise move to let the Wanderers retain the services of Taylor. Several local players are now negotiating with Percy Quinn, of the Torontos.

HORSE GOSSIP

Gilbert Brown, of Middletown, Ind., has a two-year-old filly by Charley Hayt, 2:06¼, dam by Roy Wilkes, 2:06½; second dam by Allie Wilkes, 2:13¼, that is looked upon as the making of a very fast trotter.

Walter Cox thinks he has a futurity candidate in the two-year-old Glenard, by Moko, dam Alpha Red, by The King Red, 2:20¾, that he has been working since he returned to his home training ground in Dover.

Burk Todd (2), 2:27½, the two-year-old trotting colt by Kentucky Todd (3), 2:08¾, owned by George A. Burke, of Cleveland, showed his ability to beat 2:20 handily this fall at Lexington. He will be raced in the futurities next season.

A recent addition to the R. J. McKenzie stable is a fast green pacing gelding by Directly that showed a mile in 2:09¼, in September, at Indianapolis, Havis James, acting for his employer, having just bought him from Billy Smith, of Tiffin, Ohio.

Trainer P. J. Bradley is wintering a few horses at the track in Waynesburg, Pa., his stable including Alvin S., 2:11¼, The Bellman, 2:14¼, by Maple Rells, Gov. Beckham, 2:19¾, Hecla Electrite, 2:19¼, and a two-year-old by John R. Gentry, 2:00¾.

President Eddie Seagram Says Players Have All Been Released—He Blames Berlin.

Waterloo, Nov. 21.—A definite statement by the president of the Waterloo professional hockey club, Eddie F. Seagram, is made that there will be no professional hockey in Waterloo this winter.

Mr. Seagram stated that last year's players had all been released, and nothing would be done toward the formation of a club. He further stated that a team had been collected, and, had the Berlin club taken any action before the 1st of November, the town would have been represented by a stronger team than ever.

LALONDE ON "BIG FOUR"

Question of Whether a Fan May Call Player "Bonehead" To Be Decided in Court.

According to statistics, 5,808,178 fans attended the games in the National League last season, and 3,705,574 in the American League.

Canadians at Oxford University will have a strong team this season. They have already won some games, and will compete at the international tournament in Switzerland, at which they won the championship last season.

At St. Louis scribe walleth thus: The Cardinals have two reasons for being famous (in St. Louis). They are the only club owned by a woman, and they are the only team that lost a series to the Browns.

Al Kaufman is hankering for a battle with Carl Morris, the Oklahoma giant. He will be accommodated, Billy Newman says, if Morris defeats the winner of the Palzer-Kennedy scrap. Kaufman has been idle since Jim Flynn knocked him out last spring in Kansas City, but now he desires a chance to prove that he isn't all in.

On Saturday night George Goulding will compete in New York at the annual indoor games of the Twenty-Third Regiment. He will meet the best walkers of New York in a handicap. Much is expected of Vollmeke, a Gotham "ped.," who has been winning handicap events down there since the indoor season opened.

The Orillia juniors expect to have a 50 per cent stronger team than last season's runners-up. They think that they can win the O. H. A. championship this season, but expect strong opposition from Midland and Victoria Harbor. The Midland team will have some of the players who figured on the Penetanguishene septette last season.

The chief American game for Saturday will be that between Harvard and Yale, usually regarded as the principal struggle of the year. Both teams have been disappointments this season, but the nation-wide interest is as great as ever. This game usually attracts spectators from all parts of the United States.

Whether a spectator at a baseball game has the right to call a player a "bonehead" will be determined in a $5,000 damage suit brought by Erving B. Erving, of Minneapolis, against the St. Paul Baseball Club. Erving alleges in his complaint that he was ejected from the grounds for applying this name to a St. Paul player named Ralston.

Superintendent of Police Taylor, of Philadelphia, has issued instructions to members of the force that they should arrest on sight any person offering for sale tickets for the Army-Navy football game scheduled to be played at Philadelphia next Saturday. The ticket-selling was placed in the hands of Army and Navy officers, and a fine scandal is imminent.

"Speaking from the standpoint of the player," said "Newsy" Lalonde last night, "I believe that the new league will be the best thing that ever happened. We will get better treatment and doubtless larger salaries. I know of players in the old N. L. U. who have wages owing them for last season. There will be more of that sort of thing, and Charley Querrie will now have a fair chance to have some of his much-needed amendments adopted."

A list of injuries to Michigan's football players this season shows that the university has been hit harder than ever before, and that she may get the record as the champion hard-luck college of the country this fall. Eleven men have been put out of the game. Robbee, Maurer and Kelsar are still out with broken legs, and Fentius is also out because of his torn hip muscles. McMillan and Craig are in weakened condition and the time of their continuance in a game is merely a question of luck. Quinn also is bothered by his shoulder and Bogle has such a bad back from lumbago that he cannot bend over.

Packey McFarland has arrived in California for his twenty-round bout with Tommy Murphy on Thanksgiving Day. He says he intends to stop Murphy this time and will then offer to meet Ad Wolgast at 133, weighing at 3 o'clock, on New Year's Day. Frisco fight fans are clamoring for a meeting between McFarland and Wolgast, and unless the latter names impossible terms it is believed the match will be made. McFarland says Wolgast will beat Freddie Welsh in handy fashion. Promoter Coffroth, casting an answer to windward, has offered One-Round Hogan a match with either Wolgast or McFarland on Jan. 1.

Unless he alters his plans at the last moment, Eddie Dugan, one of the best jockeys in the country, will be a passenger on the steamship Amerika when she sails for Hamburg today. Dugan, who has signed a contract to ride for Baron Rothschild in Europe next year, has received cable instructions to leave here today without fail so that he can spend the winter in Vienna and be in shape to exercise the Rothschild horses early in the spring. Dugan has agreed to a clause in the contract which stipulates that he must always weigh 108 pounds or less, a weight he says he can easily make without overexertion or an excessive reduction in avoirdupois. The youngster will receive a salary of more than $10,000 a year, also extra fees for winning and losing mounts and all his expenses while in the employ of the Rothschild stable. Dugan also may receive some presents if he wins important stakes on the German and Austrian race courses, so that it is doubtful if he will ever find it so profitable to ride here again.

The winners ridden by Dugan earned in stakes and purses $262,800. Dugan has ridden nearly 500 winners since he first made his bow in the saddle, and goes abroad with a remarkable record.

"MONTANA DAN" LOSES TO WALTER COFFEY

JOHNSON ON THE WITNESS STAND

Ban Testifies in Suit Brought Against Frank Farrell by Joseph Gordon.

LATTER CLAIMS SHARE

When Facts Are Shown the Case Is Not Concluded—Suit Is Peculiar One.

New York, Nov. 21.—Ban B. Johnson, president of the American League, was a witness today for Frank J. Farrell, owner of the New York club, on trial before Supreme Court Justice Bischoff, of the suit brought against Farrell by Joseph Gordon, the coal merchant, and former President of the New York club, for half of the profits of the team since its organization eight years ago.

President Johnson said that Gordon and John B. Day, the veteran manager, had been talking with him for a long time about finding a man to put up enough money to bring an American League franchise to New York. He told them finally, "I want to see the man who is going to put up the money before we talk about this any more."

The Man With the Money.

Johnson said that Gordon then brought Farrell to him and said: "This is the man who is going to put up the money to bring the American League into New York. Later Day and Gordon came to him and said they wanted to figure out where they stood. Farrell was with them, and they told him they ought to have one-third of the stock each for their services. Johnson said that Farrell replied that since he was putting up all the money he would not consent to such terms.

Farrell then asked Johnson in front of Gordon and Day how much they had done, and Johnson replied that Day still owed $18,000 on his contracts with players, and then Farrell said to him: "Why, you have no franchise at all." Then Johnson said that Gordon admitted in reply to questions that he did not have a lease for the grounds.

Farrell Asserts Rights.

The witness said that Farrell then said: "Mr. Johnson, I want it understood that if I put up the money I'm to be the owner." Johnson said he replied that such was the situation.

Farrell followed President Johnson on the witness stand and said he told Ban: "I'm not going to let anybody carve me." He said he found that Gordon and Day did not have lease, players or franchise, and for that reason he put his ownership of the club up to Johnson, and the president upheld him.

Farrell said that Gordon pleaded to have his name left upon the club stationery and invitations, because he had lost his job as deputy superintendent of buildings through going into baseball, and couldn't live on the profits of his coal business alone. He said that his coal business would be increased if the public was led to believe he was still president of the club. For this reason he permitted Gordon's name to be used as president for four years after he was out of the club, he said.

The case was not concluded.

CHASE RESIGNS MANAGER'S JOB

Tells Frank Farrell That He Is Willing to Return to the Ranks.

WILL GET SAME MONEY

Harry Wolverton Probably Will Be Chosen to Succeed "Handsome Hal."

New York, Nov. 21.—Hal Chase and Frank Farrell, respectively manager and owner of the New York American League baseball club, had a heart-to-heart but impromptu talk today over the management of the club, and for the first time the situation reached concrete developments whereby there will be a new manager for the Highlanders next year. The indications are that Harry Wolverton will be Chase's successor.

It has been known for some time that a new manager for the club was likely, and that Chase wasn't averse to giving up the berth. With all due regard to Chase's ability as a player, he was not a success as a manager, but the situation has been in statu quo since the season ended, Farrell and Chase not having talked the matter over. Today they met in the county court building.

The Situation.

"I've been trying for some time to summon up enough nerve to have a talk with you," Chase told Farrell. "I am entirely willing to give up the management if I can go ahead getting the same money, and I want you to understand that I don't want to play anywhere else than New York, that I am anxious to continue with your team, and that I will go ahead and play my level best for you as a private."

"Well, I'm glad to hear you speak that way, Hal," responded Farrell. "I've been waiting to hear from you and hadn't intended doing anything unless you were satisfied. It will be all right about the money, and I'll be glad to have you remain with the team."

BRUCE-BROWN IS PRACTICE HERO

Makes Remarkable Time In Trial Spin Over Savannah Race Course.

DRIVERS ARE GATHERING

Dead Pilot's Mechanician Has Not Yet Been Told of Fatal Result of Accident.

Savannah, Nov. 21.—David Bruce-Brown was the hero of the big-car brigade in the practice over the Chatham County road race circuit this afternoon. As was so often the case in the practice preceding last year's race, he was the busiest one of the drivers, making more rounds of the circuit than any other candidate for either the Vanderbilt cup or grand prize. He completed one of these rounds of the circuit in 12 minutes 57 3-5 seconds, which is in the immediate vicinity of 80 miles an hour average, as a round of the 17-mile circuit in 13 minutes flat represents a rate of 79.1 an hour. His time by rounds was as follows: 13:40; 12:57 3-5; 14:18; 14:16 and 14:36 4-5.

Foreigners on Job.

Louis Wagner and E. H. Parker, of the Fiat team, watched the practice from the grandstand. Victor Hemery, of the Benz, stood with Wagner, and the pair held an animated talk in French which seemed to relate to the time made by some of their opponents in next week's great international contest on Thanksgiving Day. Bill Knipper was another driver who foregathered at the grandstand.

C. A. Emise, of Detroit, Lozier team manager, was another late arrival who watched the cars go by.

Bruce Keene was the only Marmon driver to show up in the light car practice time.

The light car pilots were Hugh E. Hughes, Mercer; Mortimer Roberts, Abbott-Detroit, and Frank Witt, E.-M.-F.

Yesterday's Trials.

Time made today was as follows:

Bruce-Brown, Fiat—13:40, 12:57 3-5, 14:18, 14:15, 14:30 2-5.

Wishart, Mercedes — 14:38 3-5 13:27 3-5, 13:29 4-5, 13:32 3-5.

Mulford, Lozier—13:45 1-5, 22:38 3-5, 17:38 4-5.

Hughes, Mercer — 15:47, 13:36 1-5, 15:20.

Disbrow, Pope Hummer—15:30, 13:43

Matson, Fiat—13:30; 13:26 2-5.

Grant, Lozier—14:23, 14:17.

De Palma, Mercedes—15:04 4-5, 32:35 1-5, 35:02.

Bergdoll, Benz—13:45.

Mitchell, Abbott-Detroit—16:26 2-5.

Bragg, Fiat—15:18 4-5.

Harry Cobe, Jackson, Eddie Hearne, Benz and Hartman (Abbott-Detroit), were out, but were not timed for complete rounds from the grandstand.

At the Savannah hospital, H. F. Maxwell, mechanic for J. D. McNay, the Case driver who was killed on the automobile course yesterday morning, has not been told that his racing companion is dead. He will not be told until he gets a good deal stronger than he is at present.

EMSLIE HONORED BY ST. THOMAS CURLERS

Re-Elected for Second Term as President of Railroad City Sportsmen.

St. Thomas, Nov. 21.—Robert D. Emslie, National League umpire, has been re-elected for a second term as president of the Granite Curling Club of St. Thomas. This is the first time in the history of the club that such an honor has been conferred, and it is in recognition of Mr. Emslie's splendid work of last winter.

The club will try to arrange a series of matches with the Thistles of London, and will hold club bonspiels. The other officers elected were: Vice-president, B. Mariatt; secretary, W. K. Cameron; umpire, B. Marlatt; captain, H. McPherson; executive, R. M. Anderson, A. A. Drake, C. A. McCorkell, Walter Ross, Joseph Rivard and F. Doggett.

BARNEY OLDFIELD IN VANDERBILT CUP RACE

Outlawed "Speed King" May Be Reinstated by the American Automobile Association.

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 22—Barney Oldfield, the outlawed "speed king," may participate in the Vanderbilt cup race. He was offered a car for the event and declared he will accept if reinstated by the American Automobile Association.

Officials of the A. A. A. are said to be inclined to consider favorably an application from Oldfield.

Physicians attending Joe Dawson, famous driver of the Marmon car, who was injured in a smashup yesterday, declared today he would hardly be able to drive next week. Knipper and Barnes, drivers of the Mercer cars who were in the collision with Dawson, are not seriously injured.

AVENUE RUNS THIRD.

Paris, Nov. 21—J. W. Widener's Avenue ran third in the race for the Prix Saida at the Auteuil course, with O'Leary in the saddle. There were three horses in the race.

SAILOR BURKE TRIMMED.

[By Canadian Press.]

New York, Nov. 22.—Fighting Bill Hurley, of Glen's Falls, N. Y., defeated Sailor Burke, the Brooklyn middleweight, in a ten-round bout at the Royal A. C. in Brooklyn last night. Hurley had the better of seven rounds, while the remaining three were even.

AID FOR NORTH MIDLAND.

Stratford, Nov. 22.—Promoter A. E. Welch, of the North Midland Railway, has written to the chairman of the railway committee of the board of trade. The letter was addressed to the council, and read as follows:

"Dear Sir—I have received word from my principals in England to go ahead in obtaining franchises. Will you do me the favor of outlining what Stratford is willing to do for the railway, or will you name a date on which we can meet a committee or council? I should esteem it a compliment if you would so arrange it that the meeting could be held in the daytime."

The letter was referred to the finance committee.

VARSITY OR ARGOS FOR CHAMPIONSHIP?

Rugby Fans Weary Themselves Doping Out Canadian Final.

SOME HAMILTON OPINIONS

Field Will Be Hard if Frost Continues, But the Sun Will Make It Sticky.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—Will the speed of 'Varsity triumph over the heavy Argonaut team on Saturday, is the question asked by nearly every rugby fan in Toronto. Of course, there are some who can see nothing to it but money at any time. Others are waiting to see what kind of a day it is, and what the condition of the ground will be. Well, so far as the latter is concerned, the field will either be as hard as a rock, or else muddy and sticky. Yesterday the earth was as solid as a stone wall, with coats of ice here and there. This ice was being cleaned off, however, and there will be none if the weather keeps clear. Should a thaw set in, the ground is bound to be soft, for when the earth was put on this summer there was no drainage made, as the authorities thought it best to let the earth settle for a year, before draining it.

* * *

THERE IS NO DOUBT that Lawson being in the game for the Scullers will strengthen their chances of winning greatly. He is a more dangerous man with the ball than Hazlett, the big Queen's player, yet in the Varsity game here the Blue and White wings experienced great difficulty in bringing down the Presbyterian, and as he usually left a trail of injured behind him, one may expect Lawson to be a big factor in the finals.

* * *

ARGONAUT BACKS will outkick the 'Varsity halves, but the chances are that the Blue and White will make up for this deficiency in running the ball back. The Scullers are given by many the call on a heavy going, but members of the team say that their best game this season was at Ottawa, on a perfectly dry field, and they say that this is the kind of going that they want.

* * *

BOTH TEAMS ARE working harder than ever to get into the best possible shape, with 'Varsity confining their work to short, snappy signal practice, with the backs practicing after the signal practice. Argonauts are being drilled hard by Coach Foulds, they working out last night on St. Andrew's campus, and then were told to run around the Rosedale field seven times. Coach Foulds stood in the centre of the field, and about the fifth round announced that anyone going in would not play Saturday. This was a cruel blow to hand out to them, but they all stuck, although the others had weighed in when Banty Russel came trooping in.

* * *

REPRESENTATIVES of the two clubs met last night, and divided the seats, and these will be arranged today. There is a big demand, and the fact that the entire 'Varsity faculty will sit in the reserved bleacher seats, shows how they are going.

* * *

IT WOULD NOT BE surprising if Bill Jarvis was in the game Saturday for the Scullers at quarter, and O'Connor moved out to outside wing. Jarvis' shoulder is all right again, and as he is a clever quarter, Coach Foulds may decide to play him.

* * *

ACCORDING TO THE Ottawa Citizen, the West will secure a number of rugby stars for next season. Jack Williams has already announced his intention of going to Regina. Mr. Morgan T. O'Brien, of Regina, is at present in the east, and is negotiating with Charles Disney and Stuart Robertson, of the Rough Riders, to accompany Williams to Regina. The same paper has it that Hugh Gall is going to Winnipeg, and that a Manitoba club is after Billy Mallett, of the Argos.

* * *

THE STUDENTS are a much faster scoring team than the Oarsmen, but it remains to be seen if they can make the showing against that great defence that they have in the Intercollegiate race this year. While 'Varsity has scored many points more than the Oarsmen, the latter have not had nearly as many scored against them as the Students have. The speed of the Students may be offset by the great work of Mallett, Rinkley and Lawson, who will have the protection of one of the best lines ever mustered. Hamilton will send down at least 200 to see the game, and twice that many would make the trip if there was not a seat famine.—Hamilton Herald.

* * *

THE HAMILTON HERALD says: It would not be surprising to see Smirlie Lawson in Hamilton before next year. The big doctor is thinking seriously of locating here, and if he does, there is no doubt that he will be seen in a Tiger uniform. Lawson did a wise thing in deciding to play with Argos in next Saturday's game against Varsity. It would have shown very poor sporting spirit on the part of both Lawson and Varsity if the Students had induced him not to play.

* * *

HERE IN HAMILTON, the Spectator opines, it is the general opinion that Varsity will defeat the Argos, although the Hamilton fans will be pulling for the Scullers to win. It is held that the Argos are a slow scoring brigade simply because there is not variety to their play. Eight or nine points seem to be their limit, while Varsity has proven to be a fast scoring machine. The Collegians, especially if the field is dry, will make the game open and fast. Argos always attempt to make it a case of straight football. The lessons of the past few years leaves no room for argument as to the respective merits of the two styles of play. The open fast game has been demonstrated so often as being superior to the old two bucks and a kick that there is no room for any other opinion than that Varsity should win. There is no doubt but that the Argos are just

Only 8 Days Left

On Dec. 1 nine clever boys will divide $25.00 in cash, starting with $10.00 as first prize.

We cannot say who the lucky boys will be, but everyone will know Dec. 1.

A representative each from The Advertiser, the Free Press, and the McConnell-Fergusson Advertising Agency, have kindly consented to decide the contest.

The decisions will be fair and square, and no favors shown.

There is still plenty of time to put in your ads. Many boys are sending in several, which gives them a better chance, but these boys can receive one prize only.

The only conditions are that you are a pupil of any public or separate school in Canada, and that you fill out the coupon below and attach it to your ad.

Boys from 8 years up are trying, so study the papers, size up all the advertisements, then write a good ad for The Live Oak Hall, London, and make some Christmas money. All winning ads will be published.

WHETHER VARSITY is up to last year's standard or not remains to be seen. The writer's opinion is that they are not, the absence of Gaul alone being enough to warrant this statement, for it is a certainty that another Gaul has not risen in such short time. We are given to understand that the Varsity wing line is just as good, that Campbell is even better than Foulds, but that the back division is hardly equal to the 1910 rear-guard. However, the players are in perfect condition, as is usual with a Varsity squad, and are trained to the minute, with team-play perfectly developed. The Argos should be in splendid shape but they have not got the team work of their opponents, and their one hope is their ability to solve the trick plays of the Collegians. The game has every appearance of being a battle royal, with the odds slightly in favor of the school boys.

BIG FOUR DELEGATES ARE IN DEADLOCK

Prospects Not Very Bright for Establishing a New Lacrosse League.

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 21. — The Big Four lacrosse union met in Toronto this morning in the offices of the Toronto street railway, with J. Carron, D. Rosseau and Cattanach, as representatives of the Nationals, of Montreal; George Kennedy and "Newsy" Lalonde, representing the Irish-Canadians of Montreal, as the fourth team; Charlie Querrie and Fred Hambly, for the Tecumsehs, and Percy Quinn, R. J. Fleming and A. V. Macarea, representing the Torontos. The meeting was held behind closed doors, but Charlie Querrie informed the press that the delegates were in a deadlock because Kennedy wanted the pick of all the teams in the league in order to make a strong team. This may result in his decision not to enter a team.

It was stated that Lalonde had been given his release from the Nationals, and if Kennedy enters a team he would be found wearing a new uniform.

Each club is to put up a bond of $10,000 for five years. The Nationals, it is said, will not enter unless they get the pick of all French players, and St. Pere is elected president.

Don't Wait So Long

One of the most surprising things in the world to druggists is that so many people endure unnecessary suffering and trouble.

Every day they hear people say, "I have been feeling so weak and miserable for the last few months that I finally decided to come and ask you what to do for it."

For instance, Miss Zulah Teagarden, of Connellsville, Pa., says in a letter: "For years I had been in bad health owing to rundown system and general weakness. I had no appetite, was tired out, and had no strength.

"Hearing so much about Vinol I decided to try it, and I find it the greatest of all remedies. It has built up my strength, restored my appetite, and made me as well as ever. I might just as well have had this benefit years ago if I had taken Vinol then."

Now if you are weak and in poor health, don't wait another day, but let Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy without oil, make you strong. We guarantee it — you get your money back if not satisfied.

BOSTON MAGNATE IS DEAD.

New York, Nov. 21.—William Hepburn Russell, principal owner of the Boston National League baseball club, and a well-known lawyer in this city, died at his home here early today after a brief illness. He was 64 years of age and was born in Hannibal, Missouri.

QUEAL BEAT FRED CAMERON.

Amherst, N. S., Nov. 20.—Wm. N. Queal, the New York runner, who has signally defeated all the leading American and Canadian runners at middle distances, added to his string of scalps that of Fred S. Cameron, of Amherst. The race was for twelve miles, and was held in the winter fair building. It was a gruelling contest from start to finish Queal won by ten yards.

CROP REPORT OF ONTARIO

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—The following statement regarding crop conditions, based on the reports of 2,000 correspondents, sent in during the first week of November, has been issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Fall Wheat—The quality of this grain ranges from fair to good, with occasional reports of the sample being light in weight. The average yield per acre is considerably below that of recent years.

Spring Wheat—Comparatively little spring wheat is now grown in the province. This year's product may be characterized as a fairly good crop in every way.

The New Fall Wheat—In the western half of the province, where most of the fall wheat is raised, a slightly increased area has been put in, except in the Georgian Bay District, where a smaller acreage than usual is reported. The bulk of the new seeding found a good bed, and the young wheat was looking well when correspondents reported. Sowing ranged all the way from the 24th of August to the first week of October, the bulk of the crop being got in during the first half of September; although some was sowed later purposely in order to avoid the Hessian fly, which is reported to be operating in some of the new fields.

Barley — Correspondents report barley as being practically free from discoloration, but the bulk of the grain is not as plump as usual. The yield will be close to the average. The straw, while clean, was short in stand.

Oats—Oats were relatively the poorest of the cereals, as to both yield and quality. The drouth and extreme heat at the period of filling is said to have affected a considerable portion of the crop, and consequently there are many complaints of the grain being light in weight. The straw was short, but of fair quality.

Rye—Only a small acreage is given to this grain, but there was an average yield of good quality.

Peas—This crop has experienced two very bad seasons in succession. While there were some complaints of the weevil, the chief source of injury this season is well described by a correspondent as "the dry, hot weather which caught most of the peas in bloom."

Buckwheat—Early sown buckwheat was a good crop in every way, but late fields were caught by frost to some extent, and gave comparatively poor returns. In some sections, also, there was difficulty in harvesting the crop on account of rain.

Beans—Beans were a very uneven crop, having been affected by the extremes of drouth during the growth and wet weather at harvesting, while a few fields received a touch of frost. However, several correspondents report favorably as to quality.

Corn—The returns concerning corn are more variable in tone than usual, but the crop will be about an average one. Much of the corn was planted late on account of the drouth, and some of it was nipped by frost, but not to a serious extent. The most favorable reports regarding corn come from Western Ontario, both as to better earing and more freedom from frost.

Mixed Grains—The growing of mixed grains does not appear to be gaining in favor, although some correspondents heartily advocate the practice. Barley and oats, of varieties selected to ripen about the same time, are by far the favorite mixture. Oats and peas come next, while barley, oats and peas are third, and fully a dozen other mixtures have scattering choice.

Tobacco — Correspondents do not write very fully regarding this crop. That which was planted early is said to have done well, despite the drouth, but some of the later crop was injured by fall rains, and a portion of it was caught by early frosts.

Potatoes—The yield of potatoes will be light, as they were affected by drouth both at the time of planting and during growth. Some of the late fields were overtaken by frost before the crop had matured. The tubers are, as a rule, smaller in size than usual, but they are said to be of excellent quality, being practically free from rot, which has seriously affected the crop for the last three years.

Roots Suffered.

Roots—All classes of roots suffered from drouth. Turnips range from poor to fair in yield, and are rather small in size, but otherwise are of good quality. Mangels are of good yield and quality, and although not up to the usual size are regarded as the best root crop of the season. Carrots are not now largely grown as a field crop, but have done well considering the dry summer. Sugar beets also did fairly well, but they do not appear to be increasing in favor. Most of these crops, excepting some turnips, were housed, as the open fall had been favorable for root pulling.

Cloverseed — Owing to the poor wintering of the crop and the unusual heat and drouth of the summer, there was a rather thin stand of the second growth of clover this year, and a small yield of seed. The heads, however, were well filled, and most of the seed that has been hulled is said to be of excellent quality.

Fruit—The benefits of spraying and the general care of orchards are pointed out by a large number of correspondents, and repeated warnings are made as to the folly of neglecting warfare against the San Jose scale, the oyster shell bark-louse, the codling moth and other insects injurious to fruit. There is a small surplus of apples, but mainly of the fall varieties, and there was a fair yield of plums, peaches and pears, while grapes, as usual, did generously. Several correspondents report that most apples and other orchard fruits had a cleaner and more presentable appearance this season than usual. A considerable quantity of fruit was blown off the trees in September.

Live Stock—Fall pastures were short after the long drouth earlier in the season, but most of the live stock were still on the grass as correspondents reported, and by their general condition looked as if they were able to get the usual picking off the fields. Horses are in demand at good prices. Cattle are rather thin, but healthy; in fact, no returns make mention of any serious disease existing among any class of farm animals. Being cattle are very much scarcer than usual, and some correspondents assert that the tendency just now is more toward milk producing. Sheep are reported to be in excellent condition, but are not plentiful. Shipments of swine have been more or less steady all the season through, and there was a large supply on hand at the beginning of November, but some correspondents insist that the high price of feed and the comparatively low price of pork will cause a number of brood sows to be marketed. Silos are increasing in number all over the Province.

Dairying—With cheese commanding factory rates which at one time in the season went well over 14 cents per pound, good prices for all dairy products were assured. But as a marked shrinkage in the milk supply was the main cause of these high prices, some correspondents claim that dairy profits will be but little, if any, ahead of other years. Cheese factories and creameries have to contend more than formerly with the increasing demand for milk and cream for the growing towns and cities of the Province. The Holstein cow is now fairly in the lead as the favorite for the dairy, although the Shorthorn, the Ayrshire, and the Jersey have their champions.

Poultry—More attention than ever before is being given to poultry-raising on the farm, and an improvement in their general quality is reported. Prices for both fowl and eggs have been good, but while some correspondents claim a snug gain on poultry transactions, others figure out a clear loss when the high price of feed is taken into consideration. There was an unusual scarcity of green feed this summer on account of the drouth. While more hens, geese and ducks are reported, and all these classes of fowl are as a rule in excellent condition, several correspondents refer to turkeys as being very hard to raise, and predict a scarcity.

The Threshing.

Threshing and Marketing—Owing to the early harvest and the comparatively light grain crops, threshing was practically completed in most sections of the province when correspondents reported. A fair quantity of wheat has been marketed, and high prices brought out some barley; but the bulk of the grains will be fed to live stock on the farm.

Fall Plowing—As usual, some farmers were through with their plowing by the 1st of November, while others were only starting; but taking the province as a whole the work was well advanced, and it is likely that a larger area than usual will be turned under. In most parts of Western Ontario timely rains put the land in excellent condition for plowing, while in many of the eastern and northern counties complaints were made of clay soils being too dry and hard for best results.

Fodder Supplies—A majority of correspondents report a scarcity of fodder supplies, and several point out that but for corn and the silo, conditions would have been serious for winter feeding. The greatest stringency will be felt in the western half of the province, and in some of the Lake Ontario counties; but in the St. Lawrence and Ottawa, the East Midland, and the northern districts, a majority of the returns report a sufficiency or a surplus of hay and other fodder. Hay ranges in price from $10 to $19, according to the manner and place of purchase. Some correspondents complain of the high price of mill feeds, bran costing them from $22 to $24, and shorts from $24 to $26 a ton, with relative prices for other concentrates. In order to ease the situation a number of farmers are letting some of their young beefing animals go, and less hogs are likely to be carried. Economy will also have to be used in bedding, as straw is scarce and valuable. To sum up: While the fodder situation is not one calling for alarm, it will demand the exercise of much caution and thrift.

Farm Improvements—An increased amount of underdraining was done during the season, more especially in the Lake Erie and West Middlesex districts, and in the more western counties of the Lake Ontario group. Expert ditch diggers were scarce, but ditching machines were used in some places, and are favorably referred to. Except in a few localities there was a sufficiency of tile. The usual number of new houses were erected, and also barns and stables of modern design, while old barns have been remodelled by having concrete basements placed under them. A good deal of metal roofing and wire fencing also was done.

Farm Labor—Experienced farmhands are hard to get, many having been attracted to the Canadian West. A few correspondents report an improvement in the quality of some of the more recent old country arrivals, who have come from rural surroundings, but the prejudice against trying out British city-bred youths on Ontario farms appears to be as strong as ever. Correspondents also consider the present rate of farm wages to be too high, but do not expect a fall, owing to the close competition for labor of the towns and cities, and of lumbering, mining, etc. To meet the situation many farmers are putting more of their land into pasture, using more improved machinery, exchanging labor with neighbors, and, as one correspondent puts it, "cutting out" as much work as possible. The employment of more married men is suggested by several correspondents. Domestic servants for the farm are almost impossible to get; town life seems to have a more irresistible appeal than ever.

Statistics of Live Stock.

The numbers of live stock on hand on July 1, 1911, were as follows:

Horses—737,916, against 724,384 in 1910, and 728,308 in 1909.

Milch Cows—1,045,610, against 1,052,796, and 1,075,496.

Wash That Itch Away

If your druggist told you that you could simply wash away that awful itchy Eczema—yes—that the very first drops of a soothing, cleansing wash would give you instant relief, it would seem too good to be true, wouldn't it?

But it is true, every word. We keep on hand a supply of such a liquid known as the D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema, because we know that this wonderful compound of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients actually does wash away Eczema and all other skin impurities—that it clears the complexion over night and leaves the skin as healthy and smooth as that of a child.

We could not recommend D. D. D. so positively unless we knew of the wonderful cures wrought by this remedy. We vouch for the merits of D. D. D. and know postively that it takes away the itch instantly. When your own druggist can give you certain relief from that awful itch, you don't need to suffer another day.

Wash away all your skin troubles with D. D. D. and then keep your skin in perfect condition with D. D. D. Soap. Let us tell you more about this wonderful remedy, or write the D. D. D. Laboratories, Dept. L. A., 49 Colborne street, Toronto, and get their free trial bottle.

VARICOSE VEINS CURED
NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.
Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $18 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $31 and never loose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

Can You Afford Handicaps?

During digestion the stomach requires nine times as much blood as when it is not active.

Heavy, indigestible food takes energy from your working capacity.

Mental "dullness" and that "logy feeling" usually comes from poor digestion.

Don't be "dozey" during business hours—the wide-awake man, with good digestion and a clear brain will pass you—sure!

Grape-Nuts

Is a partially pre-digested food, and contains the natural food elements from wheat and barley—albumen, phosphate of potash, etc., that keep body and brain in perfect repair.

Grape-Nuts is a concentrated food, and its rich nourishment is easily and quickly absorbed by the blood with but slight tax upon the digestive organs.

One can be strong, well and brainy.

Reasoned It Out

And Found a Change in Food Put Him Right.

A man does not count as wasted the time he spends in thinking over his business, but he seems loth to give the same sort of careful attention to himself and to his health.

And yet his business would be worth little without good health to care for it. A businessman tells how he did himself good by carefully thinking over his physical condition, investigating to find out what was needed, and then changing to the right food.

"For some years I have been bothered a great deal after meals. My food seemed to lay like lead in my stomach, producing heaviness and dullness and sometimes positive pain. Of course this rendered me more or less unfit for business, and I made up my mind that something would have to be done.

"Reflection led me to the conclusion that over-eating, filling the stomach with indigestible food, was responsible for many of the ills that human flesh endures, and that I was punishing myself in that way—that was what was making me so dull, heavy and uncomfortable, and unfit for business after meals. I concluded to try Grape-Nuts food to see what it could do for me.

"I have been using it for some months now, and am glad to say that it has given me entire relief. I do not suffer any longer after meals; my food seems to assimilate easily and perfectly, and to do the work for which it was intended. I have regained my normal weight, and find that business is a pleasure once more—can take more interest in it, and my mind is clearer and more alert."

A STRONG PLEA FOR THE WESTERN

Captain Murphy Says Ontario Government Should Give the University Proper Aid.

LONDON'S DEMANDS FAIR

Higher Education Is a Crying Need of This Populous District, Said the Speaker.

Capt. T. J. Murphy at the Canadian Club luncheon Tuesday night at the Tecumseh House, made a strong plea for the Western University. Prof. Creelman, who was to be the guest of honor, was two hours late in arriving, and in the interim Capt. Murphy took up the discussion of the Western University.

"I am deeply interested in the Western," said Capt. Murphy. "It seems to me unthinkable that London, in the midst of a rich section of the province, should be without a university. Such conditions are intolerable, and it is high time that the agitation for a university made itself felt. In the eastern portion of the province there are two universities—Queen's and Ottawa College. That section is not nearly so rich as this western part, but two universities attract their boys and girls

Go Across the Border.

"In Western Ontario it is different. Hundreds of our best students go across the border, where they obtain their education, to be lost to Canadian life perhaps forever. An attempt is being made to centralize everything in Toronto, which to my mind is bad policy indeed. If we had a good university in London the boys would not go across the line, but would remain here. There is no question but that a small university does much better work than a large university. Some of the students of the Western have taken the highest places in the big universities of the United States. The same is true of the small universities across the line, and in England.

"In the true sense of the word we have no university. We have one on paper. We have the finest charter ever given to any institution. We can teach anything, and all the rest of it, but we want Government support.

University of Toronto.

"The University of Toronto is maintained by succession dues. In 1910 Western Ontario sent $78,000 to support the University of Toronto. If we had our own money what an institution we could have! All we need is the money, and then we would have one of the finest institutions on the continent."

Capt. Murphy made reference to the reception of the deputation which went to Toronto to interview Sir James Whitney. It was not an altogether pleasant experience, the delegates being given rather scant courtesy by the Premier.

Not a Political Question.

"This question is not one of politics," said Capt. Murphy. "The Grit Government took away the law school from London because they, too, believed in centralization. Now a person has to go to Toronto if he wishes to study law. The principle is the same. Let all the citizens unite to bring a fine university to London."

Major Hume-Cronyn also supported the contention that a smaller university did much more efficient work than a large unwieldy institution such as Toronto University had come to be.

Mr. R. Reid, of Berlin, also spoke briefly.

CORRESPONDENCE

Encourage the Progressive Man.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I was somewhat amused to read in the Free Press the other day the manifesto of that doughty Tory, Sir James Whitney against the single tax system, and in the same issue a letter from another Tory, Mr. E. H. Johnston, of this city, advocating the single tax. Mr. Johnston proposes that the city annex the district between the city and the asylum side road as a new ward and obtain legislation allowing the new ward to be subject to the single tax, for the purpose of attracting new industries to the city.

This seems to be a good idea. The single tax, or tax on land alone, with cheap light and water, would be more attractive to a new industry than any money bonus. I suppose that the average value of the land in that district is not more than two dollars per foot. Now, let us suppose that Mr. Push, from Chicago, wants to start a factory for making kid gloves out of cat skins. He buys, say, three hundred feet of land. His assessment would be $600 and his taxes about $18 per year. Mr. Push could build as large a factory as he liked without any fear of having his taxes jumped up on him.

Sir James Whitney's instance of two farms worth $4,000 each, the poor farmer putting up a house worth $1,000 and the rich farmer putting up a house worth $16,000, is really an argument for the single tax. Brother Whitney thinks that it would be unjust to tax them both the same. But here is where the advantage of the single tax comes in. The rich farmer is not afraid to put a $16,000 house on his farm, because he knows he will not be taxed for it. As the value of the land is the same in both cases, and produces the same quantity of produce, they should both be taxed the same, but the progressive man who desires to improve his place should not be penalized for doing it by having his taxes raised. This is the whole case for the single tax in a nutshell. Encourage the progressive man to improve, to spend money on his land, but do not penalize him for doing so. If Sir James Whitney would like to experiment with the single tax, here is his chance to join with London and try the experiment, and here is London's chance to get some new industries without running after them or giving them bonuses.

Yours truly,
PROGRESS.

London, Nov. 21.

NOT ONE WOMAN IN TWENTY HAS A STRONG BACK.

THE KIDNEYS ARE TO BLAME NINE TIMES OUT OF TEN.

Women are coming to understand that weak, lame and aching backs from which they suffer are due to wrong action of the kidneys.

The poisons that ought to be carried off are sent back into the blood, taking with them a multitude of aches and pains. There is no use of expecting relief until the kidneys are restored to health.

Doan's Kidney Pills are the quickest and most reliable remedy. Mrs. Ed. Baxter, Upham, N.B., writes:—"I take a good deal of pleasure in telling you what Doan's Kidney Pills have done for me. I was troubled with my kidneys for a number of years, and my back was so lame I could not sweep the floor. A friend of mine advised me to try a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, which I did, and after using three boxes I am as well as ever. I highly recommend them to anyone suffering from lame back or kidney trouble."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box, or three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When ordering direct specify "Doan's."

PLAIN TALK TO PREMIER BY MEN OF THE NORTH

Delegation of All Parties Asks Whitney for Square Deal With Voters' List.

[Canadian Press.]

Toronto, Nov. 21.—Armed with a petition forty feet long, a deputation from the north country waited on Premier Whitney this morning.

They asked that in the towns of Cobalt, Haileybury, and Latchford, and in the township of Coleman, the municipal voters' lists of 1911 be used in the provincial elections, although their compilation was delayed.

Those in the deputation were A. W. Robuck, Liberal candidate in Temiskaming, Mayor Greene, Haileybury; James Maguire, Socialist candidate in Temiskaming; C. A. Foster, secretary of the Liberal Association, Temiskaming; Reeve Furland, of Coleman Township; ex-Mayor Laing, Cobalt.

"We're here," said Mr. Roebuck, "to ask for the rights of 5,000 voters, and whether or not we have consulted legal advice does not matter. I have had legal opinions, and, in fact, I have had opinions that this whole election is illegal."

"Then, what more do you want from me?" asked Sir James.

Mr. McGuire then took the floor, requesting first that he be given an uninterrupted hearing. "I am here," said he, "as the representative of the disatisfied miners of the north country, to protest against this premeditated piece of disfranchisement on the part of yourself and your colleagues."

"Now, just stop that," said Sir James. "I can plainly see now why you had to ask that you be not interrupted. You'll have to use other language here. I'll not allow you to be so insulting."

"If you, as Premier in this Christian country, are here for the protection of the people, and not for their oppression, you will put these people on the lists," said Mr. McGuire.

Sir James—There is no remedy. We postponed twice the issuing of the writs for this very purpose of giving more time for compiling the lists. A few places have failed. It was ever thus."

Mr. Roebuck—No help, then?

Sir James—The way you people have dealt with this is hardly up to the average of consideration of public questions. You can go back to the north and blow your trumpet about disfranchisement.

Mr. Foster—This is not a political deputation. We are here in the interests of men and not of politicians.

Music and Drama

"The Gamblers," Guaranteed Attraction.

At the Grand Opera House tomorrow night, "The Gamblers," which attained great success in New York City last season, will be seen for one night only. "The Gamblers" is said not only to be the best play that Charles Klein has written since "The Music Master," but it is distinctly superior both as a representation of plausible human conduct and as an example of expert constructive ability to his immensely popular "The Lion and the Mouse." It is possibly the finest drama that has come from an American playwright. In the past Mr. Klein has not only been able to point a moral, but to adorn a tale; sometimes he failed, but in this instance he has accomplished both aims. "The Gamblers" is not only the best indictment of get-rich-quick methods in Wall street that the stage has ever had, but it is a persuasive, human document. It ranks far ahead of other plays, because it not only deals with figures, and the ticker tape, but the human motives. The Authors' Producing Company has selected a uniformly excellent cast of players to interpret "The Gamblers," and the play has the benefit of the author's personal attention in producing it. The Toronto World of yesterday speaks highly of the attraction. It said: "The very large audience at the Royal Alexandra were lavish in their applause, and only repeated recalls satisfied their appreciation of the close of the strong second act, and the settings and scenery were all that could be desired."

Low Dockstader and His Great Minstrels.

"Lew Dockstader's Great Minstrels," conceded to be the first minstrels in the land, will make their annual bow to the local theatregoers at the Grand next Saturday, matinee and night. Mr. Dockstader has made many friends in this city by the high standard of entertainment and merriment furnished by himself and his excellent company of funmakers, singers and dancers. In this season's offering Dockstader has, it is said, surpassed all his former efforts in color and grandeur. Lew Dockstader, the man who has made millions of people laugh, has a better collection of songs this season than he ever had. "Lord Have Mercy on the Married Man," "'Rah for the Red, White and Blue," "Father Sees Us Twice a Year," and "I'm Surprised, That's All" are four of the convulsion variety. One of the funniest of Dockstader's pieces of business this season is entitled "Void de Veel" and "Notion Pictures," which is a travesty on vaudeville and moving picture theatres. There will be a street parade at high noon, and Roy LaPearl, the man with the big voice, will have a musical duel with Dockstader's band. LaPearl will sing from the roof at the corner of Dundas and Richmond street accompanied by the band from the street at 12:30.

There Shall Be But One Department of the Federation—500 Attended Meeting Tuesday Night.

The question of reorganising the Citizens' League was considered at the union rally of the young people's societies of the city in Wellington Street Methodist Church on Tuesday evening.

An address on "Citizenship" was given by Mr. J. F. Maine, and growing out of the discussion which followed, Rev. B. H. Hayden moved that a standing committee on citizenship be appointed 'to carry religion into politics" in the words of Garfield.

Rev. W. L. Steeves seconded the motion, but Rev. H. H. Bingham moved an amendment that the chair name a committee to consider the feasibility of a London City Union of all the young people's societies in the city.

The Committee.

Rev. W. R. McIntosh, who presided, appointed Mr. J. W. H. McRoberts, Rev. Mr. Bingham, Rev. Mr. Inkster, Rev. Mr. Hayden and Mr. Wegg.

The committee reported that Rev. Mr. Bingham and Rev. Mr. Inkster should be joint conveners of a meeting in the near future of all the societies for the purpose of effecting some manner of federation, not only on the question of citizenship, but also in other matters.

This resolution was carried by the meeting.

Instead of merely organizing a Citizens' League, it is likely that citizenship will be made one department of the new federation.

In his address Mr. Maine contended that the church in order to reform legislation should encourage her young people to take an active part in politics. Time was when the church decried all participation in public life on the part of her members, but that time was happily past.

Mr. Lehmann's Address.

The address of the evening was given by Mr. Karl Lehmann, interstate field secretary for the United Society of Christian Endeavor. The Christian Endeavor movement at the present time is devoting a great deal of attention to the question of citizenship, and Mr. Lehmann, in an intensely interesting and thrilling address, told of the good legislation effected in many states through the influence of the movement, and of the world-wide work being done in favor of peace and international arbitration.

Christian Endeavor Society.

The letters, C. E. S., stand for three big words in the Christian Endeavor Society. The first is Consecration. Devotion to Christ and the church is the keynote of Christian Endeavor. The real lack of the church today is that too few Christians have come to the place of full surrender. There is too much quibbling about pledges in young people's societies, said Mr. Lehmann. The church needs to call young people to consecration. He told of the wonderful growth of prayer circles in the high schols of California within the last several years. Another big word is "Enthusiasm." Enthusiasm is the supreme virtue. It is the most contagious thing in the world.

Lastly but not least in importance is "Service." Consecreation and enthusiasm must be expressed in service.

Programme Carried Out.

During the evening musical numbers were interspersed with the addresses. A pleasing solo was sung by Miss Mina Taylor, and a duet, "Nearer My God," was well rendered by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. C. Riach. An anthem was sung by the choir of Wellington Street Church.

The rally was well attended by four or five hundred young people.

A Reasonable Plea For The Stomach

If Your Stomach Is Lacking In Digestive Power, Why Not Help the Stomach Do Its Work—Especially When It Costs Nothing to Try?

Not with drugs, but with a reinforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach? Scientific analysis shows that digestion requires pepsin, nitrogenous ferments, and the secretion of hydrochloric acid. When your food fails to digest, it is proof positive that some of these agents are lacking in your digestive apparatus.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain nothing but these natural elements necessary to digestion, and when placed at work in the weak stomach and small intestines, supply what these organs need. They stimulate the gastric glands and gradually bring the digestive organs back to their normal condition.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been subjected to critical chemical tests at home and abroad and are found to contain nothing but natural digestives.

London, 9th Aug., 1905.

I have analyzed most carefully a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets (which I bought myself at a city chemist's shop for the purpose), manufactured by the F. A. Stuart Company, 86 Clerkenwell road, London E. C., and have to report that I cannot find any trace of vegetable or mineral poisons. Knowing the ingredients of the tablets, I am of opinion that they are admirably adaptable for the purpose for which they are intended. (Signed)

John R. Brooke, F.I.C., F.C.S.

There is no secret in the preparation of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Their composition is commonly known among physicians, as is shown by the recommendations of 40,000 licensed physicians in the United States and Canada. They are the most popular of all remedies for indigestion, dyspepsia, waterbrash, insomnia, loss of appetite, melancholia, constipation, dysentery and kindred diseases originating from improper dissolution and assimilation of foods, because they are thoroughly reliable and harmless to man or child.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are at once a safe and a powerful remedy, one grain of these tablets being strong enough (by test) to digest 2,000 grains of steak, eggs and other foods. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest your food for you when your stomach can't.

Ask your druggist for a fifty-cent box or send to us direct for a free trial sample package and you will be surprised at the result. F. A. Stuart Company, 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

MAPLETON SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

Mrs. D. O. White Was Chosen President for the Coming Year.

[Special to The Advertiser.

Mapleton, Nov. 22.—At the regular monthly meeting of the C. W. B. M. of the Church of Christ, the officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. D. O. White; vice-president, Mrs. John D. Thompson; recording secretary, Mrs. D. D. Finch; corresponding secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Ansel Charlton; programme committee, Mrs. Herbert Brown, Misses Myrtle B. Charlton and Mamie Brown. Mrs. D. D. Finch gave an excellent account of the C. W. B. M. convention, which was held at West Lorne last week. Miss Myrtle Charlton gave a Scripture reading. The next meeting will be held on the second Thursday in December, at the residence of Mrs. D. O. White, after which tea will be served.

Mrs. Andrew Munro, of Brownsville, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. H. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. David Warwick, of Avon, have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Warwick.

Misses Mabel Dance and Bertie King, Mesdames D. O. White and John Brodie, who attended the Provincial Women's Institute convention, which was held at Toronto last week, have returned home.

The anniversary services of the Church of Christ will be held on Sunday, Dec. 3, when Rev. D. R. McColl, the pastor, will preach at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., and special music will be rendered by the choir at both services. On Monday evening a fowl supper and concert will be held, and the choir of the Church of Christ, St. Thomas, will furnish the entire programme.

DRIVEN DESPERATE BY FRIENDS MARRYING

Chicago School Teacher Found Life Too Lonely and Attempted Suicide.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, N. Y., Nov. 22. — Miss Laidee Quirk, a school teacher, 32 years old, tried to commit suicide today because, so she told the police, all her friends were getting married and she was lonely. The night watchman at the hotel where she spent the night broke into her room and pulled from her mouth a tube connected with the gas jet, just in time to save her life. Miss Quirk said that a brother in Chicago was her only relative.

MADERO'S TROUBLES

The New Mexican Government Confronted With Two Rival Factions.

[Canadian Press.]

Mexico City, Nov. 22.—Madero's Government is confronted with two alleged organized rival factions. Details of the plan of Tacubaya, which bears the names of six men, including that of Emilio Vasques Gomez, former minister of the interior, were made public today. In this plan it is specifiedly stated that while the movement will receive the support of a number of regular army officers, General Bernardo Reyes will have absolutely no part in it.

The Government secret service agents believe there is no doubt of the authenticity of both this document and that found in San Antonio today, ascribed to General Reyes. The common belief here is that the two movements will be amalgamated eventually unless the Government is able to check them.

BRAIN OPERATION MAKES BOY GOOD

Had Become Incorrigible After Fall Down Fire Escape Two Years Ago.

Yonkers, N. Y., Nov. 21.—Fourteen-year-old Frederick Morris, of 107 New Main street, who has been an incorrigible for two years, is in St. John's Hospital, recovering from an operation that promises to make a normal boy of him.

Before he fell down a fire escape and injured his head he was a studious, obedient and lovable child. After he apparently had recovered he became refractory at home and school, and developed thievish tendencies that brought him into court and resulted in his being placed on probation.

"Frederick came to have a sneakish look," said his mother, Mrs. Thomas Morris, tonight. He would not eat at the table, but would grab things furtively and eat by himself. He used to save up his pennies to surprise me with little gifts, but he changed entirely and became morose and unloving. He would say he was sorry for a misdeed and do it right over again. If other children at play touched his head or he rode on a car he became ill and unmanageable. Two weeks ago Dr. R. H. Shanahan, our physician, took him to the hospital and the X-ray revealed a lesion on the brain. An operation was performed by the doctor to remove the pressure, and his condition has improved so much that he will be home tomorrow. The boy has changed wonderfully. He is bright and cheerful. He inquired today how his father and I were, and his brothers and sisters. He asks for books and reads eagerly. His writing, which had become almost unintelligible, is clear again. He could not say any of the catechism which he learned, but now he repeats it readily."

Dr. Shanahan said tonight there was every indication that the operation had restored the boy to his normal condition.

A Special Meeting.

A special meeting was held at which a communication from the inspectors of prisons and public charities, re indigent patients, was received. J. S. Pardy moved, seconded by D. Urquhart, that schedule C, be filled in with the name of the patient, and returned to the inspectors of prisons. Carried.

A letter from Elias Fuller, re a tender for the construction of the Dyer, the Bott, and Roulston drains, was read. It was moved by John G. Gourley, seconded by Wm. Wiseman, that the contract for the construction of the Bott, the Dyer and the Roulston drains be given to Elias Fuller for $2,283. Carried.

The chairman of the local board of health presented his report, which was adopted on motion of Councillors Goarley and Wiseman.

The following orders were issued: Members of the L. B. of H., $60—$12 each; R. McRoberts, $20, sanitary inspection; R. McRoberts, $1 30, account.

SISTERS IN LONDON

W. H. Gilpin, Found Dead at Scotland, Had Relatives Here.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

St. Marys, Nov. 22.—William Henry Gilpin, who was found dead at the rear of his store in the village of Scotland, was for many years a resident of St. Marys, and was widely known here. The remains will be brought here for interment. Mr. Gilpin conducted a drug business, but sold out and went to Toronto. Later he removed to Scotland village. He was a native of Ireland, and came to this country with his parents, who settled on concession 10 of Blanshard. His wife was a sister of ex-Councillor Meighen, of St. Marys, and predeceased him several years ago. Thos. Gilpin, of Wiarton, and Joshua, of Wingham, are brothers, and Mrs. Doupe and Miss Annie M. Gilpin, of London, are sisters.

Frank Smith and wife, of London, attended the funeral of the late George Hendrie, which took place here today. Rev. W. Nichol, of Dundas, formerly of Knox Church here, conducted the funeral service.

BERNHARDT INDIGNANT

Paris, Nov. 21.—Sarah Bernhardt indignantly denies the report that she is about to marry Lou Lellegen, a 26-year-old Flemish actor, who has been playing subordinate parts in her company. When a correspondent called at Madame Bernhardt's house tonight to inquire about the report, he encountered a French journalist who had been on the same errand making a hasty exit after having barely escaped having his ears boxed.

Mme. Bernhardt received your correspondent in the most polite manner. She had difficulty in finding words to express her opinion of the stupidity of the report.

ONTARIO FOLK ON A STRANDED LINER

Hamburg-American Boat Goes on the Rocks Near Coast of Hayti.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Nov. 22.—The Hamburg-American Line steamer Prinz Joachim, which sailed from New York last Saturday for Kingston, Jamaica, reported by wireless early today that she had struck on the rocks off Samana Island, 200 miles north of Haiti. According to the wireless operator, the boat is resting easily and in no immediate danger, but requires assistance as soon as possible.

Samana Island, also known as Atwood's Key, is an uninhabitable rock about a mile wide and eight miles long. The Prinz Joachim appears to be about 25 miles off her course, in a region known to mariners as very dangerous.

The Prinz Joachim is a modern boat of 4,750 tons, used by the Atlas Line of the Hamburg-American in its South American and West India service. It develops a speed of about 14 knots, and generally carries a number of tourist passengers. It left New York last Saturday with 75 cabin passengers, most of them from New York city. Passengers from other cities include Mr. and Mrs. William Jennings Bryan and their grandchild, and Dr. and Mrs. D. G. Inksteller, Hamilton, Ont.

TOBACCO CROP DAMAGED

Heavy Rains in Some Districts of Cuba Have Proved Very Costly.

[Canadian Press.]

Havana, Nov. 22.—Heavy rains during the last two days, extending from the middle of the island to Cape San Antonio, have caused heavy damage to the tobacco crop in Havana and Pinar Del Rio Provinces, and especially in the Vuello Abujo district. The seed beds have been destroyed. All the region in the vicinity of Guano, in Pinar Del Rio, is inundated and the inhabitants are imploring aid from the Government.

The rain is reported to have been greatly beneficial to growing cane, strongly confirming the estimate that the sugar crop will reach 1,700,000 tons

TWO CHALLENGES BY MR. ROWELL

Asks Whitney What About Bilingual Schools and Treatment of New Ontario.

LINDSAY'S BIG WELCOME

The Liberal Leader Arouses Big Audience by Scathing Indictment of Conservative Administration.

Lindsay, Nov. 21.—Two definite challenges were flung down to Sir James Whitney and his followers by the Liberal leader, Mr. N. W. Rowell, K. C., here tonight: one with reference to the treatment of New Ontario, the other regarding the bilingual schools. These formed Mr. Rowell's leading arguments in tonight's speech here, though he dealt also with several other questions. Speaking of the "inertia" charged against the Department of Agriculture by Mr. J. W. Flavelle, Mr. Rowell asked: "Is it any wonder that Ontario does not go ahead, when scarcely a minister will venture to do anything off his own bat, and Sir James Whitney undertakes to run the whole Government himself? Is it not time to put out this Government and put in its place another, a more progressive Government, and, I hope, a more progressive leader." Sir James Whitney can be bold and courageous and almost insulting," declared Mr. Rowell, "when the temperance people go to him, but when the spoils faction of the Conservative party wants to use the license system to further its interests, according to the Toronto News, it controls Mr. Whitney and his associates."

A Warm Greeting.

Mr. Rowell's frank, outspoken declarations of policy on the leading planks discussed by him won the warm approval of the audience.

The large audience in the Opera House accorded Mr. Rowell a warm greeting. Little Marion White, daughter of the chairman, Dr. J. A. White, president of the West Victoria Liberal Association, presented Mr. Rowell with a beautiful bouquet of carnations, for which he thanked her in the orthodox way.

The auditorium was gaily decorated, streamers bearing the legends: "A Good Platform and a Good Leader," "Majority Rule, It's British," and "No Tax on Improvements." A fine orchestra enlivened the proceedings.

Following the meeting a reception was held for Mr. Rowell on the platform and another at the hotel.

The Liberal candidate for West Victoria, Mr. C. E. Weeks, a barrister of Woodville, made a splendid speech, dealing with a number of the issues in the present campaign.

Bilingual Schools.

"The failure of the Government to frankly state its position on the question of bilingual schools," said Mr. Rowell in the course of his address, "and its evident desire to run with the fox and to hunt with the hounds is largely responsible for the widespread agitation which is disturbing the public mind today in this province. Sir James evidently hoped to avoid a declaration of policy by bringing on the elections before the receipt of Dr. Merchant's report, but, like Banquo's ghost, it will not down Sir James seeks to evade the issue by declaring that there are no bilingual schools in Ontario, and yet Conservative candidates in certain sections of the province are pledging themselves to abolish bilingual schools. Sir James evidently realizes that the public is not satisfied with his method of dealing with the question, and now Hon. Mr. Foy, the attorney-general, is coming to the rescue in a carefully prepared opinion. Mr. Foy states that the law does not authorize bilingual schools, and that if there are any such they must cease to exist. The attorney-general misses the point. It is not the law, but the administration of the law which has created the troubles and given rise to the present agitation.

"Sir James claims to have opinions of his own. If so, will he tell us what he thinks of the manner in which the law has been administered in connection with these bilingual schools during the past seven years? Is he satisfied with the present conditions? If so, let him have the courage to defend them, and tell his supporters that all further agitation is useless. Is he dissatisfied with the present conditions? If so, let him have the courage to say so, and let him tell us why he has not taken steps to remedy them, and what steps he now proposes to take to remedy these conditions. If he is ignorant of the present conditions, then there must be incompetency in the management of our educational affairs, such as we had not even suspected. Sir James is not a man of wax and putty; he is bold enough, he says, to be honest, and honest enough to be bold. The electors are entitled to an answer to these questions."

Mr. Rowell then outlined his position, as stated in Massey Hall, emphasizing that the question was one of administration and the prohibiting of improperly trained teachers.

Mr. Rowell dealt with the grant of 2,000,000 acres of land in the clay belt of New Ontario to the Canadian Northern Railway made by the Government in 1909. Despite this, Sir James Whitney claimed to have abolished railway subsidies.

"Surely," said Mr. Rowell, "Sir James was presuming upon the credulity of his readers when he made such a claim, or does he think so lightly of the value of land in the clay belt that he does not consider the granting of an area of more than one-eighth as large as the cultivated area of Old Ontario is a subsidy worth mentioning? It is the largest grant of land ever made to a railway by a Government of this province.

"Sir James," he went on, "may seek to excuse himself for making this land grant by asserting that the Liberal Government, while in power, made similar grants. But Sir James does not tell us, as the fact is, that in the land grants made by the Liberal Government, both to the Grand Trunk Pacific and to the Algoma Central and Hudson Bay Railway, the Liberal Government made stringent conditions requiring these railways to bring in settlers, to secure the building of suitable homes, and the clearing of the land in the manner provided in the acts. They also required that all spruce timber upon the lands so granted should be manufactured into pulp or paper in Ontario. Whatever may be said of these land grants, the Liberal Government sought to make them the means of building up New Ontario, of settling its agricultural lands, and establishing pulp and paper mills in Ontario.

"Why did not Sir James Whitney impose similar conditions upon the Canadian Northern Railway? The lands granted are good agricultural lands, and the railway should have been compelled to settle them. The lands are covered with spruce timber for pulpwood. Why should not this railway have been compelled to manufacture this spruce timber into pulp or paper and thus establish industries in that new country? The electors of Ontario are entitled to an answer from Sir James on these questions.

"Will Sir James if returned to power make further land grants? What is his policy on this question? We stand opposed to any further land grants. Our policy is the land for the settler and the settler for the land."

MANY INJURED IN HARRISTON ACCIDENT

Scaffolding on the New Water Tower Collapsed With Workmen.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Harriston, Nov. 21.—A dozen of the men employed on the new water tower, which is being constructed here, were painfully injured when a scaffolding on which they were working collapsed and they were thrown to the bottom of the reservoir and a big pile of building material crashed down on top of them. One man, Mr. McDonald, of Kincardine, was badly hurt, and lay in the bottom of the tower half an hour in an unconscious condition before his companions, who were all more or less injured, could arrange ropes and pulleys with which to release him.

TRIAL OF CHORUS GIRLS

Pair Charged With Shooting New York Millionaire Hotelman.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Nov. 22.—The chorus girls, Ethel Conrad and Lilian Graham, who shot William F. D. Stokes, the millionaire horseman and hotelman, in the legs, last June, when Stokes called at the Graham girl's apartment to obtain letters he had written to the Graham woman, which he was anxious to get back, were brought to trial today in the supreme court. The girls, who are charged with attempted murder, claim they shot the millionaire in self-defence.

HENRI BOURASSA

position of the Nationalist-Conservative cabinet. "Henri Bourassa is the master of the present administration," he declared. "It is absolutely and abjectly under the control of the Nationalist party. The Premier has confessed that he does not know what he is going to do. Let me tell him. He is going to do just what his Nationalist masters tell him; he is going to do nothing. The plebiscite is the refuge of a Government which cannot make up its mind. It puts Canada in a position of humiliation before the eyes of the world."

Mr. E. M. Macdonald.

Mr. E. M. Macdonald followed with a memorable arraignment. He traversed the annals of constitutional government for a parallel to the existing coalition. It smacked only of the "broad-bottomed cabinet" of Lord Pelham in 1742. He ridiculed Premier Borden's allegation that he and Mr. Monk had differed only upon a mere question of fact two years ago, by quoting from Hansard of last year showing that both Messrs. Monk and Borden had declared in the House their unalterable hostility to one another on the naval policy. He showed that Mr. White, the minister of finance, on the other hand, had stood for the Liberal naval policy, while Mr. Hazen was, according to his own declaration, an imperialist "of the Colonel Denison variety." Meantime, Mr. Monk had declared that Canada had to wrest all concessions from England, who was ready to hand her to the United States, if necessary. "We owe nothing to England," had been Mr. Monk's words, and he had characterized the British Empire League as an "anti-Canadian society," and condemned the Col. Denison type of imperialism. "These two men," declared Mr. Macdonald, impressively pointing to Messrs. Borden and Monk, "sitting there side by side, cheek by jowl, in the Government of a British Dominion, present a spectacle to the whole country and to the world fortunately never duplicated in British history. I mistake the genius of the Canadian people if they submit to the peculiar and unworthy performance that is being carried on. This House and this country await an immediate explanation."

But the ministers all sat silent. Once in the course of his address the Nova Scotia man drew from Mr. Monk the petulant exclamation, "You don't know what you are talking about," to which Mr. Macdonald came back with a spirited retort: "The Minister of Public Works," he stated, "need not think that because he has gone over and secured a seat in the ministry he can transgress the rules of this House. He may as well make up his mind that he has got to be polite, at least." He challenged Mr. Monk to make a statement as to his position. "I'll tell you all about it at the proper time," quoth the minister; whereupon Mr. Macdonald assured him he proposed to hold him to that promise. "Let there be no sidestepping," he commented. "The whole country is entitled to know why he meekly eats out of the hand of the man he joined in a resolution of denunciation of a year ago. Col. Sam. Hughes, the Minister of Militia, had declared in the House: "The policy of the Conservative party is an imperial navy." He demanded an honest, straightforward and unequivocal statement of where the Government stood on the matter of Canada's imperial relations. But there was no response from the Government benches. The silence was greeted with laughter and applause from the Liberals. In turn Mr. Macdonald appealed to Mr. Borden, to Mr. Monk, to Mr. Pelletier, and to Mr. Nantel, but all sat silent.

Conservative Speakers.

From the Government side, Mr. Aikins, the new member from Brandon, was the first speaker. He combined an essay on the future of the Canadian West with an anti-reciprocity campaign speech. He quoted poetry and championed the flag, but never mentioned the word navy, or referred in any way to the amendment of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, which was under debate. One suggestion was emphasized: the advisability of the Government taking some action to develop a freer exchange of news between Eastern and Western Canada. He advocated Government aid or the construction of a special wire for the purpose of transmitting Canadian news at more reasonable telegraphic rates.

At night Mr. W. H. Bennett followed. The enforced absence of the redoubtable East Simcoe man from the last Parliament did not seem to have mellowed his temper.

Hon. Dr. Pugsley.

Hon. Dr. Pugsley, speaking well on into the night, declared, amid enthusiasm, that the securing of the United States markets for the natural products of New Brunswick was still a live and powerful issue there. He pointed out that outside of Ontario there was a popular majority of 22,000 for reciprocity. He hoped, when Ontario learned that Sir Wilfrid Laurier was not responsible for the ne temere decree, and when her pople realized that the Nationalists were to control the policy of the Government, there would be reconsideration in that province. He noted that Mr. Bourassa had already published in Le Devoir the questions which were to be submitted to the electorate in the plebiscite to be taken. One of them he considered an insult to loyal Canadian people, that which asked whether the Canadian navy should be available to the empire in time of war.

Hon. Mr. Hazen opened by extending felicitations to Sir Wilfrid on his 70th anniversary. The new minister, amid cheering from both sides, gracefully expressed the hope that he "would live long to adorn the public life of this country." Continuing, the ex-Premier of New Brunswick launched into a review of the political career of Dr. Pugsley, and made a personal attack on his reason for changing his political faith. Mr. Hazen declared that the object of the amendment under discussion was to stir up racial and religious strife, and to endeavor to cause dissensions in the cabinet. Mr. Hazen asked time for the Government to determine its naval policy. He stated that nine tenders had been received by the former Government on May 1 last for four cruisers and six destroyers. The lowest tender was that of Campbell & Laird, Great Britain, for $11,280,000. He believed the real reason for the failure to award the contract was the knowledge that six years hence, when these ships would have been completed, they would be obsolete and unfit for actual warfare. The minister closed by promising a naval policy in the interests of Canada and in the interests of the Empire.

Mr. Mackenzie (Cape Breton) moved the adjournment of the debate.

CORONER INVESTIGATING A MONTREAL DEATH

Suspicious Circumstances in Connection With Death of a Young Girl.

Montreal, Nov. 22.—Coroner McMahon renewed the inquest Tuesday morning in an effort to discover whether murder or suicide accounted for the recent discovery of Marie Louise Marion's body in a north end quarry. The girl disappeared from home some five weeks ago. Facts brought out yesterday indicate that the victim had been ill-treated by her stepmother some time ago, and that she had a sweetheart. Screams from the direction of the quarry were plainly heard on the night of Oct. 16, when the girl disappeared, according to the testimony of Mrs. Joseph Prenovost, who lived near the quarry.

George Marion, father of the victim, admitted that the little girl had complained to him before Mrs. Gauvreau of having been ill-treated by his wife. He also admitted that on the night of Oct. 15 last he had been put out of the house by his wife and his mother-in-law because he was in liquor.

"Your wife's character was not gentle, then?" "No, not very."

"We shall be obliged to adjourn this inquest again," said Coroner McMahon at the conclusion of the evidence. "We can safely say now that there is suspicion over this whole affair, and we shall give the police another delay of eight days to clear this matter to a finish."

WOULDN'T COAL STEAMER.

Hamilton, Nov. 21.—Seven deck hands, George Smith, Alex. Smith, Peter Bartmann, Pat Green, John Collins, Roy Howe and Henry Karney, all of Toronto, were charged at the police court this morning with refusing to obey orders from Capt. Henderson, of the Macassa. The prisoners refused to help to "coal" the steamer this morning. Magistrate Jelfs told them they were liable to from four to twelve weeks' imprisonment, but he allowed them to go, as the steamboat company did not want them sent to jail.

"The Town Marshal."

"The Town Marshal," a popular-priced drama, with a cast of more than ordinary capabilities, pleased a good-sized audience at the Grand Opera House last night. It is one of those old-fashioned kind, where the villain is a regular rascal, but he is deftly foiled at the end. It provides good clean entertainment, and at a popular price.

SOME CANADIAN MISSIONARIES REACH SHANGHAI IN SAFETY

Twelve With Families Reached the Coast From Sz Chawn and Will Leave at Once for Home—Confirmation of Report of a Massacre at Sian Fu.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—News of the missionaries in Sz Chawn has at last reached this city. During these weeks of silence a number of the Sz Chawn Canadian missionaries had been making their way slowly towards the coast, and a cable sent from Shanghai yesterday announced their arrival in that city. The rest of the missionaries are expected at any time.

The cable recommends also that most of the missionaries be sent home on furlough. Thus relatives may look forward to having the missionaries home with them in a short time. The cablegram read as follows: "The following missionaries have arrived at Shanghai—Rev. A. C. Hoffman and family, Rev. C. J. P. Jolliffe and family, Rev. Arthur Hockin and family, Rev. W. B. Albertson and family, Rev. J. W. A. Henderson and family, Rev. A. J. Elson and family, Rev. T. W. Bateman and family, Rev. R. B. McAmmond and family, Dr. Crawford and family, Rev. G. G. Harris and family, Misses Switzer and Norman. Others may be expected to arrive any day. Will telegraph later. Members of the Chungking Council strongly recommend you to furlough McAmmonds, Jolliffes, Allans and Switzer, Please reply immediately."

Massacre at Sian Fu.

Pekin, Nov. 21.—Swedish missionaries who arrived at Tientsin last night confirm the reports of the massacre at Sian Fu. The victims they said were Mrs. Beckman, a school mistress, five foreign children, a German in the Chinese mail service, and many Chinese girls who attended Mrs. Beckman's school. The Chinese girls were killed because their feet were normal and they were mistaken for Manchu girls.

It appears that the missionaries had persuaded the girls to remove from their feet the bandages usually worn for the purpose of forming the much-admired small feet for which the Chinese women are noted.

The Swedish missionaries, whose names are Sandberg and Erickson, say that the magistrates of their town offered them $400 each to depart. The party was attacked and robbed after they had left and one was severely wounded by highwaymen in Honan.

Shen Si, they say, is the most determined anti-foreign province in China, and without a strong invading force nothing can be accomplished, as it is beyond the reach of the gunboats and the Yangtse River.

The French consul at Yunnan Fu telegraphs that a courier from Klanchang, Yunnan Province, confirms the report of an attack upon the French mission. One man, Legendre Dessrirer, was killed.

Fighting at Hankow.

The Hankow revolutionists crossed the Han River on Nov. 17, and attacked the Imperialists, who were entrenched in four lines. The revolutionists carried three of the lines, but at the fourth they were repulsed and retired at nightfall to Han Yang. They resumed the attack on the 18th, with some success, but failed in the end to carry the trenches and oust the Imperialists. There were heavy casualties on both sides.

LONDON BUSINESSMAN IMPRESSED WITH WEST

Mr. C. R. Somerville Has Returned From a Trip Through to the Coast.

Mr. C. R. Somerville, of this city, has returned from a three-weeks' trip to the west, where he touched every important point from Winnipeg to the coast. It was his first visit to that country in many years, and he noted a wonderful improvement.

"The country is growing very fast," he stated to The Advertiser. "The cities have increased in size, and in other ways have made wonderful strides. There is an air of optimism everywhere, and all have great faith in the future of the west. I could see a great change in every city I visited.

"The winter had set in before we left, and as a result, it caught the farmers with a great deal of grain still in the fields. But if the weather continues dry they will save nearly all of it. Some may not be as good quality as it otherwise would have been, but the farmers will have some return at least for their labor. I expect to see them all do well.

"The prices of land in the cities, I fancy, is too high. There is a boom on in the majority of them, and I am of the opinion that the prices are in excess of the real value of the land."

Mr. Somerville is greatly improved in health, and enjoyed the trip to the west greatly. He will go to Europe before spring to bring his family home. They are at present in Switzerland.

MR. ROBT. SUTHERLAND STILL UNDER WEATHER

Liberal Candidate in East Middlesex, Will Be Confined to House for Some Days.

Mr. Robert Sutherland, of Dorchester, the Liberal candidate for the Legislature for East Middlesex, is still confined to his home. He will be compelled to remain indoors for several days yet. Dr. Banghart states that he is doing well, but it will be unwise for him to take any chances at the present time.

WINGHAM DEATH

J. Jefferson, General Storekeeper, Was Only Ill for Three Weeks.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Wingham, Nov. 22.—Mr. J. Jefferson, one of the pioneer residents of this district, died at his home at Donnebrook, yesterday after an illness of only three weeks with an affection of the stomach. Prior to that time he was in excellent health, and strong and vigorous, notwithstanding that he was 84 years of age. Mr. Jefferson lived for a time in Goderich, but settled in Donnebrook a great many years ago, and kept a general store there. He is survived by two sons and two daughters, John and Robert, of Donnebrook; Mrs. Wallace Hough, of Wingham, and a daughter in Hensall. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Miss Annie Clow was called to Whitechurch today owing to the serious illness of her brother.

MONSTER SOCIETY DAY

A Movement on Foot For a Gigantic Celebration at Hamilton.

[Canadian Press.]

Hamilton, Nov. 22.—A movement is on foot to arrange a monster society day here next year in which the forty odd fraternal and patriotic societies of Hamilton will take part, as well as societies from practically every municipality in this part of the province. The promoters figure on getting 20,000 or more visitors here, having a monster procession with 30 or 40 bands and a big picnic in the afternoon.

BURNED $1,000 BILL.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 22.—Siguard Hartig, a real estate dealer, formerly of Cincinnati, accidentally lit a cigarette with a $1,000 bill here yesterday. He intended to burn only the end of a bit of yellow paper protruding from the edge of the bill for the edificationa of his friends. Samuel Haller, another friend, joined the group just as Hartig lit the cigarette.

"Give me a light, Sig.," said Haller, seising the bill. Before Hartig could recover the bill it was in flames. The two men quarreled and were separated by a city detective, who reported the incident to the police. A small corner of the bill and a few ashes were recovered and will be sent to the treasury department at Washington by Hartig in an attempt to have the loss made good.

INGERSOLL LIBERALS WILL MEET FRIDAY

Mr. T. R. Mayberry and J. Walter Curry Will Give Addresses.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ingersoll, Nov. 23. — A meeting in the interests of Mr. T. R. Mayberry, the Liberal candidate, will be held in the town hall on Friday evening, and will be addressed by Mr. J. Walter Curry, of Toronto. Mr. Curry is widely known as a platform speaker, and his visit to Ingersoll will no doubt bring out a representative attendance of the electors who are interested in the provincial questions now being discussed.

A large and very appreciative audience gathered in St. Paul's Church last evening, the occasion being a grand concert under the auspices of the C. E. Society. The programme was furnished by Cyril Dwight-Edwards, baritone, Miss Louise MacDonald, contralto, and Miss Florence Eggleston, violinist. The artists were no strangers to an Ingersoll audience, especially Mr. Dwight-Edwards, and the attendance was a tribute to their popularity. A splendid programme was rendered, to the delight of all present, and in the opinion of competent judges it was a rare musical treat.

UNIONISTS CAPTURE RADICAL STRONGHOLD

The South Somerset By-Election Was Carried by the British Opposition.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 22.—The hitherto consistently Radical stronghold of South Somerset has gone over to the Unionists. The Hon. A. Herbert has been elected to the vacancy caused by the raising to the peerage of Sir Edward Strachy. Mr. Herbert majority was 148.

This is the second Unionist gain since Mr. Bonar Law became leader of the Unionist party in the House of Commons.

MAKING OF DIAMONDS

Chemical Expert Discovers a New Method for Producing the Favorite Gem.

[Canadian Press.]

Berlin, Nov. 21.—A new method of making diamonds has just been discovered by Dr. Werner Von Bolten, a chemical expert connected with the Siemens-Halske laboratory here.

The process is based on the decomposition of lighting gas by a mercury amalgam, whereby the carbon contained in the gas is crystallized into diamonds. As these diamonds are extremely minute, small bits of diamond dust are introduced into the apparatus, where they serve as mother crystals upon which larger diamonds are gradually built up.

The process is still in the experimental stage, and the diamonds are small, but it is hoped that Dr. Von Bolten's discovery may result in the solution of the problem of manufacturing diamonds by artificial means.

A NEW HOTEL.

Hamilton, Nov. 22.—C. J. Myles this morning purchased the Ellis Knitting Company property on North James street, with 58-foot frontage, for $50,000. The property, it is said, will be used as the site for a large new hotel.

Pudding Sauce with the real Vanilla flavor

Unknown to themselves, most people for years have been using imitation Vanilla, because ordinary extracts are made from cheap substitutes. But to taste the real Vanilla flavor, put a few drops of Shirriff's True Vanilla in your pudding sauce. The flavor is exquisite. So delicious you'll always use Shirriff's True Vanilla—the real thing, made from the finest Vanilla beans grown in Mexico. Surpasses all others in strength, flavor and bouquet.

OATS IN DEMAND ON LOCAL MARKET

Dressed Pork Is 25 Cents Per Cwt. Lower—Other Quotations Today.

Quite a number of loads of good-quality hay were sold on the market this morning at prices ranging from $16 to $17 50 per ton.

Oats are very much in demand, but only small lots are offered for sale. Generally these are of none too good a quality, and the price varies from $1 35 to $1 45 per cwt.

Dressed pork is 25 cents lower than it was the first of the week. It now brings $9 00 and $9 25 per cwt.

Mr. Daniel McIntyre, the well-known drover, announces that he is paying $6.50 for live hogs.

Eggs and butter are still very high in price. Dressed poultry continues in good demand, and on the whole the market is active and satisfactory.

SUGAR.

TORONTO, Nov. 21. — Sugar — There is little change in the state of trade here and prices steady. Sugars are quoted in Toronto, in bags, as follows: Granulated, Redpath's, $5 95; do., St. Lawrence, $5 95; Imperial, granulated, $5 80; Beaver, granulated, $5 80; No. 1 yellow, Acadia, $5 55.

HAY.

TORONTO, Nov. 21.—Baled Hay and Straw—Higher prices rule this week for baled hay and straw. The advance is due largely to the keen competition among buyers at country points, stimulated by the good demand from abroad. American buyers are purchasing freely, while the inquiry from Great Britain shows no sign of waning. Cables continue firm. Straw is scarce. Local quotations: No. 1 baled hay on track, Toronto, $15 50 to $16; No. 2, $12 50 to $13 50; cattle hay, $11 to $13; straw, $7 to $8.

BEANS.

TORONTO, Nov. 21.—Beans—Prices steady at $2 15 to $2 20 for primes and $2 25 to $2 30 for handpicked.

POTATOES.

TORONTO, Nov. 21.—Ontario potatoes are quoted in car lots on track, Toronto, at $1 30 per bag, and out of store at $1 50. Delawares are quoted at $1 35 in car lots and $1 50 out of store.

LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—Western Cattle Market—The run this morning is fairly heavy, and a large number of common cattle offered. Good cattle are scarce and firm. The large number of common and medium stock are selling well, with no change in prices. Receipts, 85 cars, comprising 1,000 cattle, 1,800 sheep and lambs, 800 hogs, and 100 calves.

FINANCIAL

WALL STREET, NOON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—Wall street, noon.—Stock continued during the morning the advance which was begun yesterday, under the stimulus of further active speculation in the Copper shares and a greater demand for industrials and for the leading railroad issues. Except for brief periods of recession, caused largely by realizing, the market held strong through the morning, and some substantial gains were made. Speculation was considerably broader and increased interest was shown in minor industrials and specialties. Operations were resumed on the long side of the market on an increased volume of business in the second hour. The rise took in such stocks as St. Paul, New York Central and the Hill group. Active stocks generally returned to their earlier high prices, but the rally in the coalers indicated fresh selling of these stocks. Lehigh Valley relapsed to fractionally below yesterday's closing, and Reading surrendered most of its gains. This selling checked the advance, but there were no recessions of consequnce elsewhere. Bonds were steady.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Stocks closed today as follows: Consols, for money, 78 7-16; do, for account, 78½; Amalgamaed Copper, 66; Anaconda, 8¼; Atchison, 110⅞; do, preferred, 107; Baltimore and Ohio, 106; Canadian Pacific, 246; Chesapeake and Ohio, 77¾; Chicago Great Western, 21; Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, 114½; De Beers, 19¾; Denver and Rio Grande, 24¼; do, preferred, 49¾; Erie, 33¼; do, first preferred, 54¼; do, second preferred, 45¼; Grand Trunk, 26⅝; Illinois Central, 145; Louisville and Nashville, 159⅜; Missouri, Kansas and Texas, 32; New York Central, 111; Norfolk and Western, 113½; do, preferred, 91; Ontario and Western, 41½; Pennsylvania, 62⅜; Rand Mines, 6⅝; Reading, 78; Southern Railway, 31; do, preferred, 74; Southern Pacific, 116½; Union Pacific, 179⅛; do, preferred, 95½; United States Steel, 66; do, preferred, 112½; Wabash, 10¾; do, preferred, 22½. THE CITY TODAY

Not a Candidate.

Miss McColl, whose name has been mentioned as a candidate for the public school board, has declined to allow her name to go before the electors.

Alpha Young Men's Club.

The Alpha Young Men's Club of the First Methodist Church met Tuesday evening in Wesley Hall, Rev. Mr. Whiting presided, and an interesting address was given by Rev. N. D. Drew. Mr. Gordon Munnoch gave an entertaining reading. Two weeks from last night the club will hold a debate on a live subject.

Death of Mr. Ed. Lily.

Mr. Ed. Lily, of 510 Elizabeth street, died Tuesday at Victoria Hospital after a very prolonged illness. Although he had been in poor health for many months his case grew critical early this week, when he was removed to the hospital, where his death occurred. Mr. Lily, who came from England a couple of years ago, is survived by his wife and family.

Artistic Recital.

A recital was given in Heintzman Hall on Monday evening by the pupils of Miss Vera Chalmers. The pupils taking part were: Miss Connie Readman, Master John Cox, Miss E. Husband, Master Harold Windrum, Miss Beatrice Drake, Miss Mildred Roberts, Miss Mason, Miss M. Cox, Mrs. Trenemann, Miss V. Taylor, Miss P. Walton, Mrs. Davis, Miss Edith Richardson, Miss Muriel Richardson, Miss Lily Pratten, Miss Annie Hale and Miss Kennedy. Miss Chalmers' pupils were assisted by Miss L. Babbage, Master Elliott Webb and Mr. A. Guymer. The recital was well attended.

JEWELS AUCTIONED TO FINANCE NAVY

Gorgeous Gems Worn in the Turkish Harem Go On Block.

Paris, Nov. 22.—Jewels belonging to Abdul Hamid II., the former sultan of Turkey, are to be sold in Paris by public auction on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 27, 28 and 29. The auctioneer is Maitre Lair-Dubreuil, 6 Rue Favart.

The total value of the jewels is about $1,000,000. The receipts of the sale will be allocated to the Turkish fleet. From this point of view it is unfortunate that the auction will not take place earlier, since the money would have been useful in present circumstances.

Since the seizure of the ex-sultan's effects by the Turkish Government the jewels have been lying at the bank here, where they have been seen by many people. The objects, however, having the most artistic interest have been placed in the museum at Constantinople.

There are two or three exquisite necklaces, each containing three rows of fine pearls. Chaplets for the recital of the prayers of the Koran are also extremely beautiful. Then there are necklaces and pendants in emeralds and diamonds. The Turkish crescent, glittering with precious stones, appears on one diadem, and a star, composed of brilliants, upon another. There is a riviere in brilliants and emeralds and beautiful enamelled work. Chased gold boxes set with stones, contained the cigarettes or bonbons of the sultan's favorites. Most of the objects to be dispersed were evidently worn by the women of the harem. In all, the jewels number 420.

The most interesting and charming of any are the "zarfs," in the form of egg-cups, but shimmering with rubies and emeralds. They are intended for the delicate porcelain cups out of which the Turkish court drank its coffee. These rich examples of workmanship enshrine more of the Oriental atmosphere than other of the objects figuring in the catalogue which is prefaced by an article of Jean Richepin, the academician.

While in Constantinople he was asked to write a preface to the catalogue of the ex-sultan's jewels, which are to be put up to auction. The poet was shown the jewels in the underground strong room of the Imperial Ottoman Bank, and his recital of the experience reads like a chapter from the "Arab'an Nights."

JEWS IN RUSSIA SEE BETTER DAYS

New Premier Bespeaks Courtesy and Kindness for the Oppressed Race.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 22.—Are better times in store for the Jews in Russia? That is the question that is on everybody's lips—both in Russia itself and in provinces where the Jews enjoy full citizenship and equality with their Gentile neighbors. If rumors are correct it would appear that the new Russian premier, M. Kokovtzeff, is bent upon reconciling all classes and sections of the populace for the common good of the people and of the country.

The premier telegraphed to the central commercial committee, in reply to a wire of congratulation, stating that he would always pay more attention to the economic and financial position of the country than to anything else, as he sees in its strength a guarantee of cultural development.

"With the friendly co-operation of the Government, legislative chambers and public bodies," he added, "I hope that much will be achieved in that direction." The Odessa merchant's committee has also been the recipient of a similar message.

The effect that these messages had on the industrial and commercial circles in Russia is magical, following as it does on the assassination of M. Stolypin. In Kieff life has taken on an altogether new turn. The Jews who had fled from there in anticipation of massacres are returning, trade is reviving, and the town is once again assuming a normal aspect. Fears of anti-semite outbreaks have been further allayed by the messages that have been sent by the Czar himself to the Jewish communities of Kaneff, Oman, Pjatiforsk and Pereyoslavl in reply to their messages of loyalty.

Jewish gifts in support of a memorial to the late M. Stolypin have been refused, and in order to counteract this decision, the municipality of Kieff has announced that all Jewish gifts will be welcomed for the purpose of the erection of a hospital in Kieff in memory of the late premier. So reassuring has Jewish life become in Russia, and so desirous are they to give the new regime a fair trial, that the well-known Jewish millionaires, Brodsky and M. Saitzeff, have once again returned to Kieff with their families. It will be remembered that it was stated a short while ago that M. Brodsky had decided to leave Russia on account of his disappointment in the liberal promises made by the Imperial Government to lessen the persecution of his co-religionists.

Personal Mention

Mrs. and Miss Fowler, the Victoria, London, are the guests of Mrs. Charles Austin, Chatham.

Mr. Robert Heard, of 542 Adelaide street, leaves for the Canadian Northwest and Vancouver today.

Misses Ida and Edna Bird have just returned from Berlin after attending the wedding of Miss Jennie Olson and Donald Guay, formerly of London.

Mr. Charles Spearin went to Galt today with a large entry of his Black Orpingtons and Columbia Wyandottes for the poultry show there.

Mr. Donald McGugan, of Watford, announces the engagement of his daughter Margaret May to Clarence H. Perkins, of London. The marriage will take place in December.

Mrs. D. G. Clark, formerly of St. John, N. B., with her little daughter, Betty, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Munro, Ridout street south. Mr. Clark expects to join Mrs. Clark at the end of the week, when they will leave for Calgary, Alta., where they will reside in future.

RECIPROCITY.

[Pathfinder.]

"Every husband ought to make his bride a regular allowance from the start," said Senator Depew at a wedding reception in New York.

"This is but just," he continued, "because from the very start every bride finds that she must constantly make allowances for her husband."

YOUNG CORBETT PAYS A VISIT TO LONDON

Man Claiming To Be Former Champion Appeared Generous.

London was visited on Tuesday by one of the former bright lights in the pugilistic world for a few hours between trains, William H. Rothwell, better known to members of the sporting fraternity as "Young Corbett," the former lightweight champion of the world.

Mr. Rothwell had quite a pleasant little stay in the city, and will carry away with him a memory of a little incident that will not only impress him with his visit to London, but will also impress Londoners.

It seems that a rather elderly lady was passing the Richmond House, when she fell in a fainting fit. Among the first to reach her was Corbett and P. C. McCullough. They assisted her to her feet and made efforts to revive her. She was taken into the hotel, where she finally came to.

A Generous Pugilist.

While she was recovering Young Corbett offered to send for a taxicab and pay for her removal to her home. However, when the lady finally recovered she insisted upon walking to her home herself, and later departed. When she had gone the policeman asked the man who had so kindly offered to pay for the taxicab for his name.

"You can call me Young Corbett," was the answer. "I once had a mother, and would have felt grateful if someone had offered to have her taken home had she been in the same position."

Stopped at Hotel.

Inquiry at the hotel revealed that Rothwell had stopped ther during his stay here. He was on his way from Toronto, where he had just established a training school for young boxers. He was going through to Detroit and had stopped in London to get his supper, he said. While here he asked about the local boxing situation, and the advisability of opening a training school here.

KILLED IN TORONTO.

Mrs. Donald Macgregor Johnson, wife of a subdivision manager of the hydro-electric commission and eldest daughter of Mr. G. A. Brayley, 80 Binscarth road, Toronto, was struck by an eastbound C. P. R. train near Port Credit at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning and instantly killed.

Johnston is said to have been in London with the hydro-electric a few years ago.

The Insanity of Napoleon's Genius

[Ivanhoe, in Winnipeg Telegram.]

[Ivanhoe, in Winnipeg Telegram.]

One of the busiest men in England is T. P. O'Connor, M. P. I saw him lately at a press banquet, sitting next to Lord Northcliffe. The evening was warm and he wore an expansive handkerchief to protect his chin from a stately collar. During the speechmaking he tried to look pleasant, but it was evident that he was bored. No doubt he was begrudging those hours which he could ill spare from his various toils. For consider the extent of Tay Pay's activity. When the House of Commons is in session he has to be in his place as the representative of a teeming district in Liverpool. He is not only an individual member of the House, but one of the leading spirits of the Irish party, Redmond's right-hand man. He is obliged, therefore, to lie awake at nights planning the campaign for home rule, and when the funds in the party's war chest run low he is usually packed off to America on a lecture tour in order to raise more money to enable the Irish to keep on fighting. In these days, when the political pot is boiling so fiercely, the aforementioned duties would keep even a hard worker pretty well occupied. But T. P. O'Connor is gifted with the versatility of the Celt, and also with a quality which the Celt too often lacks, a passion for work. So, in addition to harassing political duties, he plies the profession of journalist. Some years ago he founded "T. P.'s" Weekly, which has now become one of the best sellers on the news stalls in England and throughout the colonies. The leading article is usually by the editor, and is always written in a charming style. In book reviews and literary and political reminiscences Mr. O'Connor is specially clever. Not content with the great success of his weekly, he has now added to his toil by founding a magazine, which he has dubbed "T. P.'s Magazine." During its short life it has already made good, and will no doubt add greatly to the swollen coffers of its owners.

The September number of his magazine gives an example of how this busy journalist can build up a fascinating article with comparatively little labor. I can imagine that he prattled it off in the last half-hour while the press was kept waiting. Racing through the new biography of Napoleon written in German by August Fournier and just translated into English, he selected a number of passages which go to prove that Bonaparte was insane. Thus we have an extremely readable article, entitled, "The Insanity of Napoleon's Genius." Fournier has supplied the raw material, but T. P. O'Connor has done the German delver a great service by spreading the first of his researches broadcast throughout the world. Happy is the author who has a brilliant journalist for interpreter!

I have space to give only one paragraph from this Napoleonic article. T. P. says that when the Emperor was a child "he suffered intensely from nervousness; he suffered later on a good deal from facial neuralgia; he had a nervous twitching in the mouth and the right shoulder; after Toulon he suffered for a long time from a painful and wasting cutaneous disease. I have little doubt too, that at certain times Napoleon had fits that were epileptic in character. There were several moments when there descended suddenly upon him a sharp, tempestuous, affrighting sickness the nature of which was not well understood; fits of sickness that now and then threatened not merely his life, but the gigantic life of France's despotic control of a whole world. Thus, as he was about to leave Strasburg during the campaign of 1805, and on his way to the mighty victory over General Mack at Ulm, Napoleon had one of these sudden attacks. Talleyrand gives a description of this remarkable scene in his Memoirs:

After dinner on the day he was leaving, the Emperor had called him into his room. There Talleyrand found him suddenly gasping for breath. "I tore off his cravat, for he seemed like to choke. He did not vomit, but sighed and foamed. M. de Remusat, first gentleman-in-waiting, who had also come into the room, handed him water, and I sprinkled him with eau-de-Cologne. He was suffering from some sort of cramp, which passed off in a quarter of an hour. We laid him in an armchair; he began to speak, put his dress right, commanded us to observe the strictest secrecy, and half an hour later he was on his way to Karlsruhe.

MISSING THE CENTRE RING.

(Boston Transcript.)

Men who are supposed to have front seats for the passing show, sometimes miss the main features. Captain Smith, of the steamship Olympic, during forty years of command had never seen a shipwreck until his own was rammed, and that was only partial. The famous General von Moltke never commanded in a battle and the Duke of Wellington never saw Napoleon.

THE HOME OF MME. DE STAEL; A LANDMARK OF GENEVA

T. P.'s Weekly.

WE PRINTED an article a year or two ago on Geneva and its historical associations, but the traveller who finds himself at Geneva ought not to fail to spend an afternoon at Coppet, where the associations are not so much historical as literary. There are at least three ways of getting there; by train, by steamer, or by one of the brakes of Messrs. Cook & Son; and information as to the days on which visitors will be made welcome—shown round the house by a liveried retainer, and allowed to wander round the garden by themselves—had better be sought on the spot, since such arrangements may vary from time to time. And Coppet, of course, as no reader of this article will need to be reminded, stands for Madame de Stael, the daughter of Necker, the rich banker, who, emigrating from Geneva to France, became Louis XVI.'s prime minister, and believed, to the end of his days, that there would have been no French revolution if only the king had taken his advice.

Necker.

Necker bought the place for £20,000 from his partner, Thelusson. Architecturally, it must be admitted, it is not much to look at; but it has a delightful view of the lake and the mountains beyond it, and the garden is almost large enough to be called a park. Necker retired definitely to live there, after the revolutionists had weeded him out of their counsels, though he had to retire for a time for fear of being kidnapped by the terrorists, and his daughter, who had many friends in the camp of the "emigres," kept open house for them. When her father died she inherited the property; and as Napoleon, regarding her as a mischief-maker, refused to let her live in Paris, she spent most of her time at Coppet, writing her books, organizing amateur theatricals, and entertaining her friends in her famous salon.

Benjamin Constant.

It is to the salon that the visitor devotes most of his attention. The furniture and general arrangement are almost the same as they were in Madame de Stael's own day. There are plenty of relics—portraits, and miniatures, and the like. One miniature in particular evokes an interesting memory when the cicerone picks it up and murmurs his explanation. "M. Benjamin Constant," he says, "homme de lettres qui visitait le chateau de temps en temps." This is as much as it is considered decorous to say on that branch of the subject in the house of Madame de Stael's great grandson; but, of course, the cicerone knows as well as you — and you know as well as the cicerone — that there is a good deal more to be said. In fact, there is everything else to be said, for Madame de Stael and Benjamen Constant loved each other; and if one does not dwell upon the story here, that is partly because it is a long story —and may be read in Mr. Francis Gribble's "Madame de Stael and Her Lovers"—and partly because one needs all the space one has to speak about the salon.

Byron and Napoleon.

Everyone went there—everyone, at any rate, who had either social or literary pretensions, and was not afraid of offending Napoleon. It was there that Prince Augustus of Prussia made his famous proposal of marriage to Madame Recamier, who first accepted him, but then changed her mind and refused to divorce her husband for his sake; and it was there that an English lady went into a fainting fit on hearing the footman announce Lord Byron. Napoleon himself appeared at Coppet on one occasion before his quarrel with Madame de Statel had become too acute, and heard Necker prosily propound his plans for the regeneration of France, and afterwards recorded his opinion that "the worthy old man had become a doddering old idiot." Others who came were Bonstetten, the Voltairian friend of Grey and Werner, the German poet, and Karl Ritter, the German geographer, and Pictet, the editor of the Bibliotheque Universelle, and Madame Vigee Le Brun, the painter, and Sismondi, the historian, and the great Cuvier and George Ticknor, from Boston; but it would be idle to try to make an exhaustive list. Lamartine, it may be added, who was too young to be there, and had no introduction, hid in a ditch, on the Geneva road, with "Corinne" in his pocket, in order that he might see the real Corinne drive by.

Literary Bohemia.

There was hardly a visitor among them all who did not write something about his visit, so that if one were searching for descriptive passages one would have an embarrassing wealth of choice. Talking, acting and reading aloud seem to have been the principal amusements of the house, which has been described as "something like Holland House, but more Bohemian; something like Harley street, but more select; something like Gad's Hill —which it resembled in the fact that the members of the house parties were expected to spend their mornings at their desks—but on a higher social plane; a centre at once of high thinking and frivolous behavior, of hard work and desperate love-making, which sometimes paved the way for trouble." As for the love-making—but that would take one much too far afield, and a love story is the last thing in the world which one should try to summarize after the manner of the precis writer. So perhaps it is best to conclude with a quotation which will give the picture. The writer is Baron de Voght, and he is writing to Madame Recamier:

"Your sublime friend," he writes, "looks on and gives life to everything. She imparts intelligence to those around her. In every corner of the house someone is engaged in composing a great work.

"The 'Shunamitish Widow,' an Oriental drama, which she has just finished, will be played in October; it is charming. Coppet will be flooded with tears. Constant and Auguste (de Stael) are both composing tragedies; Sabran is writing a comic opera and Sismondi a history; Schlegel is translating something; Bonstetten is busy with philosophy.

"Bonstetten gave us two readings of a memoir on the Northern Alps. It began very well, but afterwards it bored us. . . . Madame de Stael resumed her reading, and there was no longer any question of being bored. It is marvellous how much she must have read and thought over to be able to find the opportunity of saying so many good things."

Et cetera, for there is plenty more; but that may suffice to give the picture which the visitor to Coppet will like to take with him in his mind.

THE WORLD'S LARGEST CANDLE.

A candle ten feet high, which will burn for two years or more, was once manufactured for an Italian cathedral. It measured eight inches in diameter, and weighed 518 pounds. Its sides were decorated with pictures of flowers and reproductions of paintings of a religious nature, all carried out elaborately with many bright colors. It was made entirely of beeswax and cost $300. The candle was designed as a thank-offering by Raffealo Cascone, who was tried for murder and acquitted. There was much delay in the case and the prisoner was confined for many weary months. During his long imprisonment Cascone vowed solemnly that if he should ever be freed he would show his gratitude in some extraorginary fashion.

Brantford, Nov. 22.—The coroner's jury empanelled to inquire into the death of George Knight, killed here recently on Brant street level crossing by a T. H. and B. engine, brought in a verdict of accidental death last night, and exonerated the crew of the engine from all blame.

NO FLOWERS FOR HER.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Mrs. Louise Vermilya, who is still a patient in the county jail hospital, being held in connection with the death of Policeman Arthur Bissonette, is to be allowed no privileges not accorded other prisoners. A request of her sister, Mrs. Laura Bucholtz, that she be allowed to place a potted flower in her sister's room, was refused by the jailer.

"Poor Louise," she begged, "is just wearing away her soul up there in that bare room. Can't I please take her up a little flower?"

The jailer learned that Mrs. Vermilya had asked for the plant and he would not allow it to be taken to the hospital. "In the first place," he explained later, "there would be too much chance to hide powdered poison in the leaves, and in the next place no flowers are allowed in the prisoners' cells anyway."

Hazen, the present pastor, was extended an invitation to Wellington Street Methodist Church. Rev. Mr. Hazen will accept the call of the Wellington Street Church, and the pastors will make an exchange of pulpits.

WOMAN INDICTED FOR MAIL FRAUD

She Came From Canada, Got Wise in Boston, and Sold Stock in New York.

New York, Nov. 21.—A woman who came down to the States from a small town in Ontario ten years ago, acquired knowledge of business affairs in Boston, and then came on to New York in search of a wider field, was indicted today by a federal grand jury for fraudulent use of the mails. She is said to be the first woman indicted as a principal in such a case. The woman is Mary Dugan, or Mae R. Dugan, as her name is quoted in the indictment. The case in which Miss Dugan is involved is connected with the raid on J. O. Gavigan's nicely fitted-up offices in the Marbridge building, Aug. 19, and has to do with the sale of the stock of the Manhattan Real Estate Company Along with Miss Dugan, the federal grand jury returned indictments against James O. Gavigan, Irving J. Isbell and George Plano, of J. O. Gavigan & Co.; Herron Bayley, formerly president of the Manhattan Real Estate Company, Arthur G. Frederick and George R. Euell. Miss Dugan was secretary and treasurer of the Manhattan Real Estate Company during the presidency of Bayley. She left the company when Bayley left it, and Frederick succeeded her as treasurer and Euell as secretary. Two other names are included in the indictment. These, however, are withheld by the Government, so that warning may not be given to the persons indicted.

Gavigan, Isbell and Plano were arrested in the raid on the Marbridge building last August, and now are out on bail, Gavigan and Isbell in $10,000 each, and Plano in $5,000. Bayley and Miss Dugan are on an automobile trip, and the Government fears that Canada may be their objective point. The postal inspectors say they can get the others indicted whenever they are wanted.

GREATEST RAILROAD SYSTEM.

In point of magnitude the railroad system of the United States is the greatest, consisting of 2,424,478 miles, with Russia, Germany, France, and Great Britain following in the order named, but in the number of passengers carried per year, Great Britain heads the list, followed by Germany, United States, France and Russia. Great Britain has the greatest number of passenger cars, with Germany following, United States third, France fourth and Russia last. It must be remembered that the carrying capacity of the coaches of the United States is greater. The lines of the United States haul twice as much freight as England, with Germany, Russia, and France following. The United States also excels in the number of freight cars.

CANADA UNDER MILITARY HEEL

This Is What Imperial Federation Would Mean, Said Mr. John Stevenson.

THE AWFUL COST OF WAR

An Interesting Paper Read at a Meeting of the London Historical Society.

One of the most interesting papers ever read at a meeting of the London and Middlesex Historical Society was that of Mr. John Stevenson, which was delivered Tuesday evening before a fairly large attendance of the members of the society.

Mr. Stevenson's paper was on "Imperial Federation." In introducing his subject, he explained that every reasonable person will concede that the present relations between Canada and Great Britain cannot exist forever. Canada has a population of 7,000,000 and can sustain 80,000,000. At some point between the seven million and the eighty million she must in the nature of things cease to be a dependency. There seems to be only three alternatives—annexation to the United States, independence and imperial federation.

Imperial Federation.

It was imperial federation that Mr. Stevenson was going to deal with as being the most important of the three. Mr. Stevenson dealt with the vastness of the question. Imperial federation would mean one great empire that was self-sustaining, furnishing from within its borders every product necessary for man's comfort or luxury. It would mean an empire that could scorn the rest of the world.

"It is a proposition," stated Mr. Stevenson, "that lends itself readily to pretty phrasing, such as 'Unity is Strength,' 'United We Stand, Divided We Fall,' 'A United Empire Against the World.' But, gentlemen, in a question so pregnant with good or evil to our country, we want firmer ground to stand on than dreams or pretty phrasings."

For Good or Evil.

The paper then went on to ascertain whether it is for good or evil to make such a federation. The probable conditions under imperial federation were compared to the present conditions. By federation we would become part of the family of the European great powers, and would find ourselves ground under the heel of militarism. This means that the country loses the wealth-producing power of hundreds of thousands of men at a period of their lives when they should be most productive. The cost of war equipment was enormous.

Drain On the Country.

Mr. Stevenson then dealt with the terrible drain on the country caused by maintaining a large fleet such as England's; the colossal cost of war, no matter how petty, all of which must be paid for by the people. Federation would thus mean taking to ourselves two great burdens, the army and navy, which we now escape and from which we derive no benefit.

Another important consideration was national sentiment. The British national sentiment has cooled from the feudal ages. At that time a common man's property, honor and life were at the caprice of his feudal lord. A peasant's life was valued less than a stag or favorite hound.

Hereditary Aristocracy.

It is absurd to say that that spirit has entirely disappeared from a country where they have an hereditary aristocracy, a state church and a House of Lords.

"I would rather trace my descent back to a Canadian pioneer than Nell Gwynne or the Duchess of Portsmouth," stated Mr. Stevenson. "The Pantheons of Europe," he continued, "contain no nobler dust than the quiet country graveyards of Ontario, the brave men and patient women who helped to transform a wilderness into prosperous farms and pleasant homes of our fair province. If we must have an aristocracy, let it be one of merit."

Problem of the Poor.

The problem of the poor was also dealt with, and in conclusion, he stated that the task of framing an agreement that would satisfy all the high contracting parties, presents such difficulties as to be well nigh impossible. An imperial federation would likely be the beginning of the end of our union with Great Britain.

A few routine matters of business in connection of the society were discussed after Mr. Stevenson's paper, and the next meeting will be called some time in December, the secretary to decide.

PROF. CREELMAN ON AGRICULTURE

Time Will Come When All Men Will Be Ambitious to Own Farms.

THE FARMER IN THE CITY

Head of O. A. C. Says He Would Be Better Off Living on a Corner of the Farm.

At the Canadian Club luncheon held on Tuesday evening at the Tecumseh House, Principal George Creelman, of the Ontario Agricultural College, gave an excellent address on the "New Agriculture." There was a large attendance of the membership, who thoroughly enjoyed the discourse. Capt. T. J. Murphy presided.

Prof. Creelman, in his opening remarks, dealt with the retired farmer, and stated that the best place for him was on the farm. Prof. Creelman had a great respect for the man who, through hard work, had gained a competence for his old age. It was natural that the man who had worked hard in the country all his life should look for a change of environment, and enjoy a perpetual holiday the rest of his life.

But the retired farmer in any city or town is not looked upon as a help. He is thought to be non-progressive, close in money matters; in fact, a detriment to the place. He is said to be afraid of increased taxation, and because of that will not aid in any progressive measures.

Live on the Farm.

It would be far better for the farmer, when he has reached the time to retire, that he take a part of the farm, one corner of it, build a little house, and there spend his days. He could interest himself in school, in church, in municipal matters, and with just enough manual labor to keep himself interested, he could spent his days in peace and contentment, doing good to his fellows. The large majority of the retired farmers, Prof. Creelman had met in cities and towns were not happy, and he considered the plan to remain on a portion of the farm the best solution of what has become a problem.

Obsolete Terms.

"But we no longer hear the farmer called a mossback," said Prof. Creelman, "His dress is not considered a badge of dishonor any more, because it is recognized as necessary to his calling. It is also noticeable that the word 'dude' is also obsolete. The farmer no more applies the name to the city man, who is dressed in his own way to meet the needs of his calling. In spite of the fact that the farmer has been accused of tight-fistedness, he is a generous man. He is not accustomed to handle much money, and does not handle much money. I have known farmers to argue and talk, when I was a boy, for days, about patching the roof of the church, that would cost no more than $25. Any one of these men could give away $5 to $25 each, but they were not accustomed to giving money, and they generally decided to hold a tea-meeting, for which the women had to do all the work. But they would give produce and the stuff they grew on the farm. They would send around wagonloads of food to those in need, but they seldom if ever gave money. The city man gives money more readily, but he could not be induced to give produce or share his new-laid eggs in January with his neighbor. There is merely a superficial difference between the farmer and the city man, owing to changed environment. That is the reason that the retired farmer, unaccustomed to handling money, with none too much to live on, is considered a drawback in the city, and leads me to the belief that he would be better living quietly, contentedly on the corner of his farm, loved by his neighbors, and understood by them."

Changes in Agriculture.

Agriculture had undergone many changes during the past few years, continued Professor Creelman. In the early days, farming was a simple equation, so much brawn, so much land cleared, and so much of a crop. In these later days, farming had become scientific, and the methods had to be changed.

Professor Creelman dealt at length with the experiments being conducted at the Agricultural College, and their results.

Particularly striking was the increased productiveness of land in Ontario due to better drainage. Students from the college went out among the farmers, and showed them how to drain their land to the best advantage. The first year this experiment was tried, 100 acres were drained, while last year, five years later, 16,380 acres had been drained. In addition, reports had come to the college that farmers following independently the ideas of the college had drained 131,000 acres in five years. The increased yield due to modern methods amounted to $20 an acre, or over two and a half million dollars' increase. The total drained by college men was over 45,000 acres, and the increased productiveness was $22 per acre.

The best methods of producing potatoes, bacon hogs, grains, etc., were dealt with also, and Professor Creelman gave a most interesting account of the results of experiments conducted by Professor C. A. Zavitz and others.

Bad Breeding.

The waste of money due to bad breeding of cattle, and the improper care of herds, was considerable. Canada produced 70 per cent. of all the cheese used in the British Isles, and it was the aim and object of the college to increase the supply and keep the quality right. The average production of a cow in the province was 3,000 pounds of milk per annum. At the Agricultural College one cow alone produced 20,750 pounds. It was evident that the average production could be raised a great deal with proper care and breeding.

Professor Creelman advocated instructing the pupils in rural schools in agriculture. Present methods were not the best, but they were rapidly coming to the deal, and were vastly better than the majority of systems in other countries. Many teachers were taking this course at the college, and the results proved to be excellent.

Some Conclusions.

Professor Creelman's conclusions were:

1. Farming and farm operations have changed in the last few years.
2. That farm life should not be more monotonous than the life in the town or city.
3. That there are problems being solved on the farm requiring the application of the highest intelligence, and the most persistent and painstaking effort.
4. That science in agriculture has materially assisted in placing and maintaining Ontario in the position she now occupies.
5. That the possibilities for further improvement in Ontario agriculture are enormous.
6. That the facts that I have told you, and thousands of other facts, together with the true principles of scientific agriculture, will yet come to be taught in the rural schools to the boy while his time is not yet of much commercial value.
7. And then when transportation facilities have been further improved, when farmhouses have been made more attractive, when the farmers themselves have, through co-operation, come to appreciate a little more the advantages of a broader education, with more social intercourse, may we not hope to see many, yes, very many make it their ambition to possess, not a mere mortgage, but a good Ontario farm.

50 Per Cent. Saving In Power Expense

Evidence that Electric Power not only is most satisfactory, but is economical, is easy to obtain.

Here is a letter from a local company:

"Last month we installed a seven and one-half horsepower motor in competition with a twelve horsepower gasoline engine.

We find, so far, that we are doing our work with fifty per cent. less expense than formerly. We have no trouble in starting, and no repairs, both of which we had with our gas engine.

We are satisfied that there is nothing like electric motors."

MARVEL OF THE WATCH.

Few pieces of machinery show more wonderful features than that of the watch. As a general proposition it may be stated that a watch is the smallest, most delicate instrument of the same number of parts that has ever been devised.

About 175 different pieces of material enter into its construction and upward of 2,000 separate operations are comprised in its manufacture. Certain of the facts conected with its performances are almost incredible, when considered as a whole.

A blacksmith strikes several hundred blows on his anvil in a day and as a matter of course is glad when Sunday comes, but the roller jewel of a watch makes every day—and day after day—432,000 impacts against the fork, or 157,680,000 blows during the course of a year without stop or rest—or some 3,153,600,000 blows during the space of twenty years, the period for which a watch is usually guaranteed.

SIGNIFICANCE OF CHINESE REVOLT

It's a Case of Young China Beating Vehemently Against the Bars.

BIG LESSONS TAUGHT

The Contest Is of Greater Ultimate Importance to Europe Than the Turkish-Italian War.

Pekin, Nov. 21.—The Chinese rebellion, whether it brings the Manchu dynasty to the ground or is suppressed, is of greater ultimate moment to Europe than the "sort of war" which has broken out between Italy and Turkey. This is not a case of Old China groaning in her sleep, it is a case of Young China, alert and resolute, beating vehemently against the bars.

And this Young China, with which Europe will one day have to reckon in earnest, is the product of three episodes, the significance of which has still to be grasped by the occident. The first was the Boxer outbreak and the harsh and humiliating penalties exacted from the Chinese Government and people by way of reparation and revenge. That sudden and amazing convulsion had two results.

Big Lessons Taught.

In the first place it taught China that western aggression could only be resisted by western methods, and that western methods could only be acquired by the adoption of western learning. In the second place, it did more even than the war of 1895 to cure the Chinese of their contempt for Japan, to make them realize Japan's efficiency and the force of her example, and to lead them to an understanding of the many and essential bonds that link the two leading nations of the east.

The next event that reinforced the moral of the Boxer emeute was the Russo-Japanese war. Not only did it force an acknowledgment of the reliability of Japanese prowess and prestige, but it furnished China with an object lesson of what might be accomplished by a power that had mastered the processes and could apply the results of western science. Third, the Anglo-Japanese alliance, by putting a final end to the era of Kiao-chau stratagems and by reducing all schemes for the dismemberment or partition of the middle kingdom to so much waste paper, allowed China an unlooked-for breathing space in which to reform, to reorganize and to consolidate.

Great Natural Growth.

For practically the whole of the past decade, China's international position has been secure. From her old enemies she has but little or nothing to fear. And this period of external calm has coincided with a period of internal ferment and the stirring of many new and strange forces. The propulsion to domestic reform, set going by the aftermath of the Boxer crisis and by the triumphs and neighborhood of Japan, has been free to work itself out untroubled by the old kind of foreign complications, and it has borne its inevitable fruit in the multiplying tokens of a national self-assertive and independent spirit.

May Hit Foreigners Next.

The spirit, in short, that has been born in the celestial empire in the last decade is the spirit of China for the Chinese. At the moment it is taking an anti-dynastic form, and the persons and property of foreigners are being scrupulously respected by the rebel leaders. But foreigners in the end are destined to suffer from it and to find it turned against them; and nobody can feel any assurance that we are not nearing another and greater Boxer rising, another and more devastating clash between the Orient and Occident. There never was a time when China welcomed the intrusion of the west and did not seek to oust the foreign invaders from her soil, to restrict their activities, and to assert her jurisdiction over them.

What is novel and perilous in the situation is that not only has her old ambition taken on a firmer edge, but that the means of attaining it have been enormously multiplied and strengthened. Today Young China is striking at the Manchus, and so far as possible at them alone; it may be Europe's turn tomorrow.

OHIO REPUBLICANS CALL COL. ROOSEVELT

Want Theodore to Bear the Standard in Struggle for Presidency.

[Canadian Press.]

Youngstown, Ohio, Nov. 21. — A call for Theodore Roosevelt to bear the standard of the Republican party in the struggle for the presidency next year was made at the banquet last night of the Garfield Club of the nineteenth Congressional district of Ohio. John J. Sullivan, former United States district attorney, was the speaker, who named Col. Roosevelt for the nomination of his party.

Mention of the name of Theodore Roosevelt as the Republican nominee for the presidency in 1912 brought forth prolonged cheering.

Concluding an arraignment of Mr. Taft as president, Mr. Sullivan said: "The the President the Republican and the American people are now sounding in his unwilling ears the tocsin of his recall from power, and are awaiting his return to private life with the open arms of a hearty welcome."
