To which Capt. Matheson made the following REPLY—

To the Committee of Management of the Sons of Temperance.
It is extremely gratifying to me to receive from you, the Address which you have kindly presented to me; and to find that the attention which it was in my power to afford to the large and highly valuable cause which you represent, during my visit to Pictou, has received their approbation; and while I feel much flattered at receiving this expression of your approval of us, the pleasure of the trip might altogether attributed to the marked decorum and deportment of every individual composing the company to render their assistance, to make it both safe and agreeable.

The Engineer and Crew of the Rose will feel much pleased, that their conduct has received the approbation of the Sons of Temperance.

I am, Gentlemen,
Your most obedient Servant,
DANIEL MATHESON.

PRESSENTATION OF A MEDAL TO A PRIVATE SOLDIER AT GOVERNMENT HOUSE.

On Monday the 4th inst., the detachment of the 42d, (Royal Highlanders) now quartered in the Barracks here, and under the command of the Honourable Captain Rolfe, were marched to Government House, and formed in front of the Colonnade, in presence of His Excellency and Lady Bannerman, the Honourable Mr. Morris, and Mr. T. H. Yates, Esq., and Mr. J. N. Morris, Esq., and General Gagey to the 42d. His Excellency having desired that Major Ross, a Private belonging to the 7th Highlanders, who had lately arrived from his Regiment, now stationed at Quebec, and soon to proceed to Great Britain, should step forward, Sir Alexander requested Captain Rolfe to ride to his detachment a letter, from the Adjutant-General's Office, after which His Excellency addressed the old Soldier, who appeared in the uniform of his Regiment, as follows:—

"Captain Rolfe has been kind enough to send to his men, the official document, which authorizes you to receive a MEDAL, for long service and good conduct, and I feel great pleasure in presenting it, by desire of your late Commanding Officer, Lieutenant Colonel Mauls. It was he who recommended you to this honorable mark of distinction, to which he considered you well entitled for exemplary conduct in the Regiment which he commands, and in which you have served for so long a period. You are now about to be discharged, and I hope the Major's letter will be forwarded with you, which this Medal will testify—an excellent character, which will entitle you to be rewarded, wherever your lot may be, in a position, which Soldiers and Civilians must always be proud of. You have heard the instructions of the Commander-in-Chief, that when Medals, such as yours, are bestowed on Soldiers for long service and good conduct, they shall be presented on parades; and I am sure the comrades with whom you have so long been associated would have been happy to have seen you receive your Medal, at the head of the 42d; but as you will be sent to Colonies, it is not so great misfortune to be sent to Colonial Ministries, as I have been enabled to tell, so far, the instruction of His Grace, the Commander-in-Chief, by presenting your Medal in presence of your countrymen, a detachment of the Gallant 42d, wearing like your own Regiment the "Garter of Old Gaels," and I am confident, that the 42d men will be well pleased to see distinction conferred on your Brother Soldier who deserves it, and does credit to the country to which he belongs. I sincerely hope, that many of the fine men now before you, will merit and receive similar Medals. I have a letter from your late Commanding Officer, who has always shown an interest in the welfare and comfort of the soldier, and who is as much deservedly respected and beloved in the Regiment which he commands. He informs me, that you have a wife and family—that your children have received the elements of education which he hopes you will continue to bestow upon them, to enable them to become good members of society and useful to their parents. And I have now to present you with your Medal. I sincerely wish you may long continue to wear it, and that you and your family may prosper."—R. G.

THE MAIDEN'S FIRST LOVE.

BY WM. H. CAREW.
[See our last Number for the Author's Life.]

He takes my hand within his own, it will never let me go,
And holds it to his heart, And whispers I am due to him,
That we shall never part—
And even thus his gentle tones
Are stealing on mine ear,
As closer nodding to his side
I lean my head to hear,

And oh! if all the eloquence,
The bright conceptions that dilate
Like sunshines o'er the sky—
The thoughts that there transpire themselves
Within the mind's sphere—
Comparing with the early loves,
That were but dim, faint,

And oh! if all the eloquence,
The bright conceptions that dilate
Like sunshines o'er the sky—
The thoughts that there transpire themselves
Within the mind's sphere—
Comparing with the early loves,
That were but dim, faint,

What must it be to have such a love?
Ah! never felt I still more strong
My spirit's tide so high;
What canst thou give me now?
'Neath heaven's approving eye.

It is so very dear to me,
I'm and when he's away,
They say I think too much of him,
That he is vain and gay;
That "handsome" don't last long,"
Or "child" I'm not good enough,
And makes the woman's smile
An honest boy's a fool,

I know that he hath many faults
Of impulse more than will;
And while he's in his kind and true,
'Twill not be long for him to pledge
His heart to me alone;
'Twill not be wrong to pray for him,
And bless him when he's gone.

And when his arm encircles me,
It feels like a priest;—
I feel it would be very strong
To hold him close;—
And while his lips to mine are pressed
At parting in the hall,
I'm sure it would be very rude
Reproving him at all.

Gizels.—Have you a father, have you a mother? Do you love them? Girls, do you know the value of your mother, if you have not lost her? Nobody loves you, nobody will love you as she does. Do not be ungrateful for that love; do not repay it with coldness, or a curse of coldness will rest upon you, which you never can shake off. Unloved and unloving, you will live and die, if you do not love and honor your father, and mother.

One thing, never call either "old man" or "old woman." It is quite a habit in this country for young people to name their parents thus. This is rude, impudent and undutiful. Any aged person is an old man or an old woman. There should be something sacred, something peculiar in the word that designates parents. The tone of voice in which they are addressed should be affectionate and respectful. A short answer from a child to a parent falls very hardly on the ear of a person who has any idea of filial duty. The more, girls, that you each win for yourselves the name of a dutiful daughter, the easier it will be for you to find a husband. It is so easy to win, that you should be with it. It is much easier to be a dutiful daughter than a good wife and mother. A child's life is much more easily performed than a parent's; so that she who is a good daughter may fall short of a good wife; but she who fails in this first, most difficult duty, need never hope to fill another well. Be sure, then, that you are a good daughter. It is the best preparation for every other station, and will be its own reward. The more you do not tell her, it is a dangerous secret, and one that will be likely to bring you sorrow. The hours you spend with her will not bring you regret; and you should never feel disappointed or out of humor, for not being permitted to go to some place to which you wish to go. You should love her so well, that it would not be felt a punishment to give up the gayest party to remain with her.

Nothing is more beautiful than to see a girl take off her things, and sit smiling down with her mother, because she wishes it. Go and kiss mother, as you used to do when a child, and never grow too large or wise to be a child, at her side.

The Refiner of Silver.—A Scriptural Anecdote.

Sometime ago a few ladies, who met together in the city of Dublin, to read the Scriptures, and make them the subject of conversation, were reading the 3d chapter of Malachi; one of the ladies gave it as her opinion, that the fuller's soap, and the refiner of silver, were the same image, and both intended to convey the same view of the sanctifying influence of the grace of Christ; while another observed, there is something remarkable in the third verse: "He shall alt arise, a refiner and purifier of silver." They agreed that probably it might be so; and one of them promised to call on a silversmith, and report to them what he said on the subject. She went accordingly, and, without telling the object of her errand, begged from him the process of refining silver, which he fully described to her. But, said she, do you sit while the work of refining is going on? "Oh, yes, madam," replied the silversmith, "I must sit with my eye steadily fixed on the furnace, for if the time necessary for refining be exceeded in the slightest degree, the silver is sure to be injured." At once she saw the beauty and the comfort of the expression. "He shall alt arise, a refiner and purifier of silver." Christ sees it, useful to any his children turned into the furnace, but he is not in it; his eye steadily intent on the work in purifying; and his quadrant of love is both engaged in the furnace for them. Their trials do not come at random. The many trials of their lives, are trials of refinement. And when the work of refining the shop, the silversmith did not feel satisfied to mention, that he only knew when the process of refining was complete, by seeing his own image reflected in the silver. Beautiful figure when Christ sees his own image in his people, his work of purifying is accomplished.

The Doom of our World.—What this change is to be we dare not even conjecture, but we see in the heavens some trace of destructive power. The jagged, broken planets—the descent of meteoric stones upon our globe—wheeling comets welding their horrid materials at the solar furnace—the volcanic eruptions of our own satellites—the appearance of new stars, and the disappearance of others—are all forebodings of judgment, and destruction, to which the coming of the Son of Man is a signal. This is placed in a place which is to be buried up, and under ground, which are far away; there finding it to write, on the matter of God's creation, open the gates of former world, let us learn the lesson of humility and wisdom. If we have not already been taught in the school of revelation.—North British Review.

He who wants for need of money to live is destined to die in poverty. No man has the right to expect a good fortune unless he goes to work and deserves it.

Dobbs says this is this disadvantage about plain trowsers—every time you get up, you pull him over and pin checkered bottom.

CURES FOR THE UNCURLED!

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF SCROFULA OR KING'S EVIL.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. J. H. ALDAY, 209, High Street, Cheltenham, dated the 22d of January, 1850.

Sir.—My wife, who was about three years of age, was afflicted with a Gloucester Swelling, in the neck, which after a severe attack broke out into an Ulcer. An eminent medical man pronounced it a very bad case of Scrofula, and prescribed for a considerable time without effect.

The disease then for four years went on gradually increasing in virulence, when, besides the ulcer in the neck, another formed below the left knee, and another in the eye, which was, at first, secreted to break. During all the time of my suffering boy had received the constant advice of the most celebrated medical gentlemen at Cheltenham, besides being for several months at the General Hospital, where one of the surgeons said that he that limb was taken off it would shorten the life, and the boy was so impure that it was taken off it would shorten the life.

In this desperate state I determined to give your Pills and Ointment a trial, and after two months' perseverance in their use, the unusual gradually began to disappear, and at the expiration of eight months they were perfectly removed. I then thoroughly attended to the dressings of the limb, to the astonishment of a medical man, who came to witness the cure to testify to the truth of this miraculous case. Three years have now elapsed without any recurrence of the malady, and the boy is now as healthy as he ever was. Under these circumstances I consider that I should be truly ungrateful were I not to make you acquainted with this successful cure, effected by your medicines after every other means had failed.

CURE OF ACUTE RHEUMATISM OF FOUR YEARS STANDING.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. John Pitt, Dudley, 16th Jan. 1850.

To Professor HOLLOWAY.

Sir.—I send you with the greatest pleasure that I write to thank you for the excellent Ointment and Pills you sent me, which have completely cured me of the King's Evil.

I had tried every kind of medicine that was recommended before receiving any benefit. I at last thought I would give your medicine a trial and purchased from Mr. Stollin, Chemist of this Town, two boxes of Pill and two Ointments, and in three weeks through them and the blessing of God I was restored to health again, though I am now as well able to walk as ever I was in my life. I am well known in this parish, having been sixty-five years in it, with an exception of ten years I served in the 24th Regiment of Foot.
