"My Hands Trembled and I Could Not Sleep"

Mr. Thomas Honey, Brantford, Ont., writes—

"When I began taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I was so nervous that when I picked up a cup of tea my hand would tremble like a leaf. I could not sleep well, could not remember things, and there were neuralgic pains through my body. After taking seven boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, however, I am in perfect health."

Germans Ask Britain To Mediate In Dispute.

Confidential Mission on Way to London -- Italy Sees Danger Signs on Horizon -- Stowaway Girl Found on S. S. Belvernon -- Steward Arrested.

GERMANS ASK BRITAIN TO MEDIATE.
LONDON, Jan. 18. The German Government is sending a confidential mission to London to request the British Government to mediate between France and Germany, says a despatch to the Times from Essen.

WOMING AROUND TO BRITISH VIEW.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. They have taken definite steps to press upon the British (Belgian?) French Governments that she regard the present Ruhr situation as one with great danger, and almost not taking the position of an mediator has urgently suggested that further steps toward the solution of German reparations be taken only after the most mature consideration.

FRENCH POLICY BECOMING MILD-ER.
ESSEN, Jan. 17. The French Economic Commission is to content itself for the time being with requisitioning the already mined and brought to the surface, diverting to French cars fully loaded and destined for the Ruhr, and postponing for the time the idea of requisitioning the Ruhr itself. This decision was reached at a meeting of the Economic Commission called for after advice had been received from Paris that the French Government was creating a bad impression abroad, especially in Great Britain and the United States. Realization that the French technical services in the Ruhr are entirely inadequate to direct a task of such magnitude is also responsible in measure for the alteration of the French plans for the French policy in the Ruhr toward milder methods is shown by an announcement by the French General Headquarters at midnight that the defaulting magnates would not be arrested but would simply be summoned and tried before court martial, leaving these courts to deal with them as they deemed fit. "We will not give them the opportunity to pose as martyrs," was the comment at headquarters.

WILL RECOMMEND LOWER RATE OF INTEREST.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. The negotiations between the United States and British Governments looking to the funding of Great Britain's war debt to the United States will be carried forward through the British Embassy here after the return of the British Debt Commission to London, at the end of the week. This announcement was made at the conclusion to-day of the joint sessions of the British and U. S. Commissions which have been in progress here for ten days. It is learned that the rate of interest which the U. S. representatives said they would feel justified in recommending, was considerably below the 4-1/2 per cent. minimum fixed by the existing law.

HENDERSON ELECTED.
LONDON, Jan. 18. Arthur Henderson, former Minister without portfolio in the British War Council, has regained his seat in Parliament in the bye-election held at East Newcastle on account of the death of the sitting Labor member Bell.

DOESN'T BELIEVE THEM.
LONDON, Jan. 18. The British Government places no credence whatever in the series of rumors that Russia, Poland and Germany are organizing in preparation for eventualities that may arise from the present Franco-German difference on the reparations question. This statement was made at the Foreign Office to-day.

AN EFFECTIVE CURE.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 18. The general conclusions of the physicians attached to the medical department at Washington University, who have been experimenting with insulin as a cure for Diabetes, are that no one need die from the disease.

A FOOLISH GIRL.

HALIFAX, Jan. 18. Mary White, aged 16, of St. John's Newfoundland, was found yesterday by the ship's officers, in the stokehold of the steamer Belvernon, which arrived here this morning. She said she had been smuggled aboard by a fireman who promised to give her a good time. The fireman is being detained pending the formulation of a charge against him. The girl is in the hands of the Immigration Officers.

STEWARD ARRESTED.

HALIFAX, Jan. 18. John Spruce, a steward of the S.S. Belvernon, was arrested to-day charged with a breach of the Canadian Immigration laws in connection with the discovery on board the steamer on her arrival here to-day, of sixteen year old Mary Josephine White who had been concealed in the stokehold.

TRAWLER BURNS TO WATER'S EDGE.

HIGHLANDS, N.J., Jan. 18. A steam trawler, believed to be a unit of the rum fleet hovering off the Jersey Coast, caught on fire this afternoon and burnt to the water's edge. Another small steamer was seen to rescue the crew.

A TRAGEDY OF THE SEA.

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 18. The entire crew of eleven men of the schooner Helvetia are believed by coastguard officials here to have lost their lives when the vessel capsized off the Virginia Coast during the heavy storms of last month. A derelict sighted off Winter Quarter Lightship on Monday was found to-day to be the Helvetia, which left New York on December 13th, for Charleston, South Carolina. She is being towed here.

MORTELO SINKS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18. The Italian steamer Giuseppe Verdi wrecked her owners to-day, that she had rescued the entire crew of the Italian freighter Montello at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. The Montello, reported sinking, was reported in distress five hundred miles east of Sable Island yesterday. She was bound from Philadelphia for Marselles.

MOTION PICTURE ACTOR DEAD.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 18. Wallace Reid, motion picture actor, died to-day at Hollywood. The end came in a sanitarium where the actor was taken about a month ago after a nervous breakdown, said by his family to have been due to his fight against the narcotic habit.

SACRED GROUND.

LAUSANNE, Jan. 18. An earnest appeal that Great Britain will be permitted to own in her own right the soil where her soldier dead lie buried in Gallipoli, was addressed to the Turks to-day by the British delegation. The Ottoman delegates

RICH IN VITAMINES

probably will accede to this request. About one hundred thousand British fell around Gallipoli in the great war. There is a general belief in England that a number of British soldiers, chiefly Indians but some English, are still prisoners in the hands of the Turks, and the Turks have agreed to release them and extend the right of search to representatives of the British army.

GRAND BANKER INJURED.

YARMOUTH, Jan. 18. Edward Leo, of Grand Bank, of the Lunenburg schooner, Alfarata, sustained burns painful enough to cause his removal to Hospital when a small oil explosion occurred on board a tug which went to the Alfarata's assistance as she was entering port.

BAVARIAN FASCISTI ORGANIZED.

MUNICH, Jan. 18. Adolf Hitler, leader of the Nationalist Socialists, the nucleus of a Bavarian Fascisti Organization, announced to-day that on Sunday he would review two hundred thousand Bavarian Fascisti armed to resist French occupation.

WILD TIME IN FRENCH PARLIAMENT.

PARIS, Jan. 18. After what is said to have been the wildest rioting in the history of the French Parliament, during which 59 members engaged in a free fire fight on the floor, the Chamber of Deputies this evening, by a vote of 371 to 143 to suspend parliamentary immunity to Marcel Cachin, a Communist member.

Hints on Stews.

There is nothing better and more appetizing than a good stew especially on a cold day. Some people think of a stew as merely to use up left-over meat.

While such a stew may be excellent, a dish of freely cooked meat is as important and dignified as a roast. The process of stewing is cooking meat in water at a temperature slightly below boiling. By this method, tough meat may be made tender and the juice become rich and thick. To this vegetables and seasoning may be added.

National Stews.
Every country has some kind of a stew, the meat and vegetables differing. Chicken is used a great deal, although not entirely, in France and Spain. The Mexicans stew beef, chile peppers, and beans together.

A curry is really a stew, very highly seasoned, and may be made of fish, veal, chicken, lamb or beef. French pork makes an appetizing stew, and in some countries beef, veal and pork are combined. Where fish is plentiful a fish stew is used as much as meat in other places.

Brown Stew Best.
One important point is to have a beef or lamb stew brown in color. A white stew is less attractive and not as appetizing. Chicken may be left light in color, but almost all persons enjoy a fricassee more than just plain stewed chicken; a fricassee means that the chicken is fried before or after being stewed.

Sometimes it is advisable to cook the stew in a casserole, and serve it in the same dish. The dish is attractive and the heat is retained until the moment of eating. If vegetables are plentiful in the stew, and dumplings are served with it, it becomes a one-dish meal, saving time as well as money. It is well to serve a salad with it—a light dessert, and, of course, no soup.

Dumplings.
Many cooks do not have success with dumplings, yet they are easy to make as anything can be—and should always be light if one or two rules are followed.

Do not put in shortening; do not handle them, but have the dough soft enough to drop from a spoon. Have the stew boiling when the dumplings go in; be sure the cover of the kettle fits closely and do not lift the cover for at least 10 minutes.

A stew made in a kettle is more attractively served on a platter surrounded by the dumplings. Small potatoes and onions may be left whole, the carrots cut in strips, and other vegetables in uniform pieces. Tomato adds color and flavor, and one or two tablespoons of chopped parsley sprinkled over the top adds to the stew's beauty.

Enid Bennett Scores in Film at the Nickel.

A Little American Town Changed by a Girl's Whims.

In Irving Bacheller's great story, featuring Enid Bennett, which was the principal attraction at the Nickel last night, the dainty little Australian sister registers the finest performance of her entire career. When the story opens, she is the simple pretty country girl. But when she comes back to Pointview from finishing school and abroad—how different. Not only is she different in manner and in outlook on life, but she is an ever-surprising fashion plate. The rest of the women tried to keep up with her, but found they were tackling an herculean task.

The opening chapter of "The Hope Diamond Mystery" was keenly taken in by patrons, who no doubt will eagerly watch for each succeeding chapter. Clinton and McNamara, the popular vaudeville players, appeared in a bill, that for real entertainment of fun and song, cannot be duplicated. Mr. Clinton was right there with the jokes and had the large audience in roars, whilst Miss Nellie McNamara's beautiful singing was all that could be desired.

Cut outside leaves into fine shreds, place in saucepan with 2 slices of onion, three pints white stock, and allow to simmer thirty minutes. Rub through sieve into double boiler, add rest of lettuce, shredded, and cook 25 minutes. Season while very hot.

the French General Headquarters at midnight that the defaulting magnates would not be arrested but would simply be summoned and tried before court martial, leaving these courts to deal with them as they deemed fit. "We will not give them the opportunity to pose as martyrs," was the comment at headquarters.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. The negotiations between the United States and British Governments looking to the funding of Great Britain's war debt to the United States will be carried forward through the British Embassy here after the return of the British Debt Commission to London, at the end of the week. This announcement was made at the conclusion to-day of the joint sessions of the British and U. S. Commissions which have been in progress here for ten days. It is learned that the rate of interest which the U. S. representatives said they would feel justified in recommending, was considerably below the 4-1/2 per cent. minimum fixed by the existing law.

LONDON, Jan. 18. Arthur Henderson, former Minister without portfolio in the British War Council, has regained his seat in Parliament in the bye-election held at East Newcastle on account of the death of the sitting Labor member Bell.

LONDON, Jan. 18. The British Government places no credence whatever in the series of rumors that Russia, Poland and Germany are organizing in preparation for eventualities that may arise from the present Franco-German difference probably will accede to this request. About one hundred thousand British fell around Gallipoli in the great war. There is a general belief in England that a number of British soldiers, chiefly Indians but some English, are still prisoners in the hands of the Turks, and the Turks have agreed to release them and extend the right of search to representatives of the British army.

YARMOUTH, Jan. 18. Edward Leo, of Grand Bank, of the Lunenburg schooner, Alfarata, sustained burns painful enough to cause his removal to Hospital when a small oil explosion occurred on board a tug which went to the Alfarata's assistance as she was entering port.

MUNICH, Jan. 18. Adolf Hitler, leader of the Nationalist Socialists, the nucleus of a Bavarian Fascisti Organization, announced to-day that on Sunday he would review two hundred thousand Bavarian Fascisti armed to resist French occupation.

PARIS, Jan. 18. After what is said to have been the wildest rioting in the history of the French Parliament, during which 59 members engaged in a free fire fight on the floor, the Chamber of Deputies this evening, by a vote of 371 to 143 to suspend parliamentary immunity to Marcel Cachin, a Communist member.

There is nothing better and more appetizing than a good stew especially on a cold day. Some people think of a stew as merely to use up left-over meat.

While such a stew may be excellent, a dish of freely cooked meat is as important and dignified as a roast. The process of stewing is cooking meat in water at a temperature slightly below boiling. By this method, tough meat may be made tender and the juice become rich and thick. To this vegetables and seasoning may be added.

Every country has some kind of a stew, the meat and vegetables differing. Chicken is used a great deal, although not entirely, in France and Spain. The Mexicans stew beef, chile peppers, and beans together.

A curry is really a stew, very highly seasoned, and may be made of fish, veal, chicken, lamb or beef. French pork makes an appetizing stew, and in some countries beef, veal and pork are combined. Where fish is plentiful a fish stew is used as much as meat in other places.

One important point is to have a beef or lamb stew brown in color. A white stew is less attractive and not as appetizing. Chicken may be left light in color, but almost all persons enjoy a fricassee more than just plain stewed chicken; a fricassee means that the chicken is fried before or after being stewed.

Sometimes it is advisable to cook the stew in a casserole, and serve it in the same dish. The dish is attractive and the heat is retained until the moment of eating. If vegetables are plentiful in the stew, and dumplings are served with it, it becomes a one-dish meal, saving time as well as money. It is well to serve a salad with it—a light dessert, and, of course, no soup.

Many cooks do not have success with dumplings, yet they are easy to make as anything can be—and should always be light if one or two rules are followed.

Do not put in shortening; do not handle them, but have the dough soft enough to drop from a spoon. Have the stew boiling when the dumplings go in; be sure the cover of the kettle fits closely and do not lift the cover for at least 10 minutes.

A stew made in a kettle is more attractively served on a platter surrounded by the dumplings. Small potatoes and onions may be left whole, the carrots cut in strips, and other vegetables in uniform pieces. Tomato adds color and flavor, and one or two tablespoons of chopped parsley sprinkled over the top adds to the stew's beauty.

Bonavista.

CONCERNING THE NEW CHURCH OPENING.

January 28th is to be a red-letter day in the old historic Bonavista.

It is fifty-two years since the last Methodist Church was dedicated and more than sixty years have passed away since the consecration of the Church of England.

The Methodist War Memorial has been an ambitious undertaking at a time when the nation was under the shadow of death. There have been many setbacks, yes, almost insuperable ones, but the end is near.

The great war while in operation had three characteristics which have been duplicated in our enterprise: the onset, the grip and the drag. The war opened with military enthusiasm and so did our scheme.

Then came the grip—Committees were doubled and tripled. Tobacco and Sambalad appeared and said "I would never be done." We lost our roof after waiting eight months for its arrival from Canada to Newfoundland. Then came the aftermath of the war and our drag commenced.

Our Church which we meant would be finished for $25,000 (twenty-five thousand) has so far received $10,000, although a large amount of labor was contributed.

The New Methodist Church will be a thing of beauty. The Memorial, fifty thousand dollars memorial! Is it a worthy object? Timothy Easton, the late lieutenant prince of Canada has the Methodist Church to commemorate the memory of the "Eagle Memorial" and is it not bringing at this time to remember our fifty-one Methodist soldiers whose "marched" right returning with their bluish honors, and the twelve departed whose names are inscribed on the front panel of the pulpit which in days to come the members of righteousness will enunciate those principles for which our citizens suffered and died and the morning there will be an early church service. In the afternoon there will be a Memorial Service when the Memorial Pulpit bearing the names of the valiant who fell, will be unveiled. The members of the War Veterans Association will be present to honor their comrades. The various fraternal organizations will be invited to attend. It will be the most attractive service of the day. At night the church will be dedicated to the memory of the Almighty God. We are the prayers of our Methodist throughout the Colony on that day.

We know there are many who would like to be with us on that occasion and to take part in its interesting activities. If you cannot come to us your prayers and practical sympathy. Will any who would like to in this War Memorial send a contribution to the pastor? The reading of the events of the day when depicted in the public press will send a thrill of sunshine through your heart, when you remember that you have a share in the glory; and the pastor will say:—"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto me."

CHARLES LENCH, Methodist Minister, Bonavista, January 13, 1923.

The Case for France.

The balancing of accounts between France and Germany is reported by the Literary Digest from Paris. Le Matin to France: seven devastated Departments; twenty-four per cent of her wool production; thirty per cent of her steel production; seventy per cent of her sugar production; thirty-five per cent of her coal production; four hundred kilometers of railway.

And France in three years: has had to pay $7,500,000,000 to rebuild her ruins. The war did not cost Germany: One inch of soil ruined; one factory damaged; one coal mine destroyed; one sugar beet pulled up; one electric cable broken; one rail stolen.

And Germany has paid in three years: one and a quarter billion dollars. Each a summary makes it easy to sympathize with the French viewpoint in the question of reparations. It tends to temper criticism of the invasion of the Ruhr Valley.

St. Andrew's Club.

SUCCESSFUL CARD TOURNAMENT.

The members of St. Andrew's Club had a most successful and enjoyable tournament in their club rooms last night. The 1st prize, a box of cigars, was won by W. A. Thomson, the 2nd prize, by Capt. E. Nelson and the "booby" went to Mr. Samson. The Card Tournament for the week has been postponed owing to the celebration of Burns' Night.

"Resolved, that Education is the only satisfactory remedy for poverty," was the question debated at the Methodist College Literary Institute last night. Mr. Cramm presided during the debate, and the leading speakers were, for the resolution, Messrs. J. B. Cowan, E. Burrow, and H. Leslie; against it, Messrs. A. Keon, J. Moore and Edgewood. The discussion hinged largely upon the meaning of education. The affirmative speakers gave it its broadest interpretation, while their opponents contended that so far as the debate was concerned, the word meant knowledge gained at school—book knowledge. The supporters of the resolution held that education was the basis of all activity, that it increased a desire for improvement, that it opened new opportunities, that it was an enemy to poverty and therefore the only satisfactory remedy for it. The negative speakers contended that education, mental development, the storing of book knowledge, did not prevent poverty; that many so-called educated men were in poverty while on the other hand many illiterate men had won wealth and position. Work and production provided remedies for poverty. The general discussion was lively, and the debate throughout proved of great interest. When the vote was taken it was found that the members present were about evenly divided on the question; the affirmative side winning by a majority of one only. The attendance last night was again particularly good, and all indications point to a most successful session. Next week the debate deals with Municipal Government. "Resolved, that Civic Government by Election is preferable to that by an elected Council."

Mystery is Still Enshrouded.

If the body found at Cartwright is Miss Lindsay's it is practically certain that the body was not there in August last, when she disappeared. The whole area for miles was literally combed by several parties, one of which included her own brother, who came from Montreal for the purpose. Again, how is it that the body is found five months afterwards in a fair state of preservation, though the head is reported missing? It looks like murder on the part of someone at or near Cartwright, who hid the body and has lately, probably through remorse or a desire that it be given burial, brought it to the spot where it is found. There is a Grenfell doctor at Battle Harbor—Dr. Stanley Knapp—and the Department of Justice should instruct him to proceed to Cartwright immediately for a post mortem. There is also Dr. Paddon at North West River, who is nearer Cartwright, but it may be easier to communicate with Dr. Knapp. Rev. Mr. Gordon, in his diary, mentions travelling by dog team in the winter from Cartwright to Battle Harbor. Another theory of the discovery of the body may be that the dogs, which are muzzled on an island during the summer months and only brought back to the mainland on the approach of winter, may have found the body in the woods and brought it to where it was discovered. This may also account for the loss of the head.

Improving Blueberry Crop.

The fact that the blueberries grow wild in great abundance over a considerable part of Eastern Canada, suggests that efforts be made to improve the quality by cultivation or even by renewing the natural beds. In New Jersey a variety has been selected and propagated which is more than twice the size of the wild fruit. Along the coast of Maine where blue berries have grown on the rough lands for many years an attempt is now being made to freshen up the growth by burning the old plants. Every three years the fields are lightly tilled over by the use of straw or oil scattered over the ground among the brush. This is done in the spring preferably before the frost leaves the ground. Great care must be taken not to injure the roots of the plants from which new bushes spring. The first year after burning, the bushes do not produce, but they produce heavily the second and third years, when they are again burned off to make room for a new stand of brush. Gradually after the burnings, the entire ground becomes covered with brush. Burning is preferred to harrowing to clear the fields of brush.

Blueberries do best in an acid soil of leaf, peat and sand, it is stated. The yield of blueberries on cultivated plains, it was ascertained, runs from twenty-five to one hundred and fifty bushels per acre. Many of the Maine blueberry farms are located on old, abandoned farms, or on cut-over, virgin land, which, if once worthless, was found now not to be for sale because of the profitableness of the blueberry crop which it yields. The berries are gathered by the use of large berry combs twelve to forty inches across, having forty to forty-four spring-steel teeth, eight inches long. The berries are poured off the comb into flat, deep, half-bushel boxes, and then carried to the fan-mills to remove the leaves and dirt. Then the canneries put the fruit up in one-gallon cans, six cans to the case, which sold last year for from $9 to $5.50 per case, wholesale.

It was learned that the cost of the land ran from $1.00 to $2.00 per acre; of cutting and piling brush, $2.50 per acre; of straw and oil for burning, $2.50 per acre; of picking, $1.00 per bushel. The profits which these figures reveal seem to explain why blueberry farms in Maine are not for sale. Frost and drought have to be reckoned with but blueberries do not winter-kill.—Family Herald.

REFERENCES.
Suppose the Lord should say to me, when I get over there: "Your references I want to see. I hope I'll find them fair. Where have you lived and worked and played? Give me the names of those you've known. Who'll tell the record you have made?" I'd mention those I call my own.

I should not give familiar names nor those of persons great. Nor offer lordly sires and dames my character to state. But I should say: "They knew me best—my wife and children three. To what I was they can attest, so question them of me."

"Send to the little home I tried to keep with mirth and glow. Better than all the world outside the man I was they know; Oh, Lord, I did not rise to fame; high worth Thou cannot find, But I preserved my home from shame, and there they'll call me kind."

When at the last the Lord demands my references from me, Where all men stand with empty hands to face eternity, This I would have as final proof of how my life was spent: My own to say, "beneath our roof lived laughter and content."

PATRICK J. MOLLOY.

We regret to chronicle the death at Bay Bulls on the 16th inst. of Patrick J. Molloy. Mr. Molloy was at the period preceding his death, engaged in the Customs Department at St. John's from which owing to failing health he had been given extended leave. He was born at Burin on December 31, 1889, and was in his 34th year. He was educated at St. Bonaventure's College and for a time was teacher at the R. C. school at Odeon. In 1912 he became Principal of the Boys' Superior School at Bay Bulls where he worked most assiduously for those under his charge. He resigned in 1917 to accept a position in the Customs Department, St. John's, where he was highly regarded by his co-workers and the public for his courtesy and affability. In 1916 he married Miss Bride Mulcahy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Mulcahy, of Bay Bulls, who with his mother and two children are left to mourn him. He was a member of Terra Nova Council, K. of C. and of the Holy Name Society, and a general favorite with all his associates who appreciated his many sterling qualities: A year ago, owing to failing health, he was given leave of absence from the Customs and entered the Sanitarium where it was found that he was seriously ill of tuberculosis. There he remained until October, and when all hope of his recovery was abandoned he returned to his home to await the final summons. On Monday, the 8th, surrounded by his family, and after receiving the ministrations of the Church, he breathed his last, and now sleeps beneath the shadow of the trees in the cemetery at Bay Bulls, to await the Resurrection. To his widow, mother and children we extend our heartfelt sympathy in their irreparable loss.—R.I.P.

If you have no room in your kitchen for scrub pails and buckets, and do not wish an old-fashioned sink closet, have a lattice work with door, built beneath the sink and drainboard. Paint to match the kitchen work. A loose-leaf notebook makes a splendid scrap book for a child. It may be enlarged at any time by adding more paper, and may be kept in good condition by giving the child only one page at a time.

When moving into a house, keep a list of each room's requirements—number of rolls of wall paper, yards of curtain material, etc. This will be a help when the time comes to renew these things.

If you are puzzled as to what to serve unexpected dinner guests, try this "emergency menu"—potato chowder, meat patties, jelly, near French-fried potatoes, string beans, cold plaw cheese, crackers, pineapple round, and coffee.

When steaming velvet, the iron is very hard to manage. To overcome this difficulty, slip the handle or iron into the space between top and bottom of a sleeve board when it is resting on its side. The flat surface of iron is now ready for steaming.

Left over powder biscuits may be used in the following manner: Cut them in halves and arrange on a glass plate. Pour apple sauce over them and sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon, and beat well in oven. Serve warm with cream.

Delicate articles may be washed by the "vacuum process" with very little strain on the material. Lay in a bowl of suds and use a large, grass-tube funnel, keep your thumb over the tube end. The suds are forced gently through the fabric.

THE MAINE HERRING FISHERY.

Nothing Wasted--Not Even the Scales--An Object Lesson to Newfoundland.

(Boston Sunday Herald.)

While the eastern coast of Maine has long been noted for its important fishery and industries, sardine canning ranking first on the list, it is one of the leading centres for smoked and boneless herring, and with the coming of the Fordney tariff on fish a few weeks ago the coast towns took a new lease of life. This month many of the closed smoked herring buildings and boneless herring shops have been started up at a profit and will be operated until early in the spring. When the pioneer Yankee fishermen first hung up rows of newly-caught herring on sticks as far back as 1808, in low wooden buildings and started up slow-burning wood fires to cure their catches of herring for home consumption and to supply the markets, they did not realize the great importance of the industry and how greatly it would develop; but, after all these years, there has been very little change in the methods of smoking fish.

More than 114 years ago in Eastport (then known as Moose Island, and a part of Massachusetts) the industry was opened and soon branched along the Maine coast, until to-day it is one of the chief fishery industries in many towns; but it was only in recent years that the boneless herring product was introduced. The smoked herring curing is carried on during most of the year, but it is not until December that the new-cured fish are handled in boneless shops. To-day it is an important money-making business, employing several thousand men, women and children at fair wages, and just at a time when there is very little other work to be had, with all the Maine coast sardine factories closed for several months past their former employers eager for other work.

The thousands of hogheads of big herring have to be caught early in the season, so that Down East coast smoke-houses can be filled in the fall and the curing process carried on many weeks in advance of preparing them for shipment, either whole or as boneless products packed in neat wooden boxes, bottles, jars and pasteboard cartons, to be shipped to all parts of the world.

When it is stated that fully 60 per cent of the supplies of large herring used in Maine smoke-houses--as also in sardine factories when running--are gathered up in Dominion bays and in countless fish weirs along the frontier river St. Croix, it can be understood that the Maine fishermen must keep in close touch with their Canadian neighbours during the entire year.

GREAT CATCHES DURING 1922.
Only a small part of sardine-herring are large enough to be used in the smoke-houses, although during this year great catches of big herring have frequently been made close to the

be shipped. Fishermen wearing long rubber boots, their oilskin trousers tied at the bottom leg, and with oil-jackets, jumped into the mass of newly-caught herring, helping to break away the great collection of scales, which were for years worthless and were washed away before the herring were ready to be strung and smoked. Within the past three years fish scales have been worth 75 cents per quart, being used in making pearl essence at Grand Manan Island, New Brunswick, in the Bay of Fundy, and previously had been tried with success at Lubec; so that all herring fishermen now try to gather up refuse scales from every cargo of fish hoisted to the wharves.

The big herring are strung on pointed sticks, 25 to 35 fish on each, which are dipped into tubs of salt water to remove scales and dirt. Each stick is then hung evenly on low wooden "homes" on the wharves to be dried. 45 sticks to each horse, or one barrel of fish, five barrels being in each hoghead. One hoghead of herring will weigh about 1,000 pounds, but when dried and smoked there is a loss of 50 per cent. weight by evaporation, and later when the head, belly, tail, skin and bones are removed, there is another loss of fifty per cent. although this latter refuse is turned into profit—they are completely filled.

After the herring on the horses have been somewhat dried in the sun and wind they are carried into buildings and several rows of sticks hung up for a few minutes in the heat and smoke from many wood-burning fires. They are suspended higher in the compartments, known as "bays," until they are completely filled.

IN DENSE SMOKE.

When all doors and windows are tightly closed, the fires are kept burning from four to six weeks, the heavy logs, the wrecked ship timbers, sending up dense smoke to all parts of the interior until the fish are thoroughly cured.

From 20 to 25 tons of herring are used to fill up many smoke houses, yet some Maine fish dealers have buildings to accommodate 100 tons. As each "bay" will hold more than 15 hogheads of herring and many smoke houses contain 25 to 35 bays, there are often several hundred hogheads of fish on hand being smoked for the busy season to follow.

Newly smoked herring were sold off the sticks in 1919 at one cent per pound, the price advancing last winter to four cents, which is the highest in recent years, many dealers neglecting to gather up fresh herring last season when they were plentiful and low priced.

Often during the smoking process all doors and windows are opened for a few days to air out the dampness, following foggy and rainy weather, for it has been found that westerly winds hasten the smoking, and occasionally fresh air is of value in heating and smoking the compartments.

BIG LOT HANDLED.

From 300,000 to 400,000 boxes of smoked herring have been prepared in a season of a few weeks at some of the largest smoke houses of eastern Maine, and from 800 to 1,000 tons have been cured by veteran fish dealers of Washington county, where the principal supplies are yearly handled and shipped.

At a large smoke house at Lubec more than 400,000 boxes of cured herring had been shipped out in recent seasons, and the demand is large this winter.

The boneless industry is of recent years, of much importance to the herring dealers. Some of the "bays" will furnish enough herring to make two tons of boneless herring, although it is figured that not more than 300 pounds of boneless product is produced from 1,000 pounds of smoked herring. Washington county dealers have found it profitable to send out many loads of newly smoked herring in teams, autos and sleighs to neighbouring country farmers and left there many days before being called for. Meantime, the fish are turned into profitable boneless seafood by having the head, skin, bones and refuse removed by farmers during the long winter.

In recent winters the old-fashioned knitting bees have given place to the more profitable "skinning bees," where tons of smoked herring are soon handled on farms, and the refuse is even profitable for fertilizer.

REFUSE JUMPS IN PRICE.

For years the refuse clippings from each smoked herring were of small value, often selling for $1.50 per ton to farmers for fertilizer, until it was discovered just previous to the world war that a valuable oil could be extracted by pressing. Refuse fish then jumped to $35, and even $45 per ton, but since the present winter opened it has dropped to $5, occasionally being worth $6 a ton, and somewhat plentiful. While there had been no duty on smoked and boneless herring coming across the Canadian border for many years when great shipments were made from New Brunswick fishing villages, especially Grand Manan Island with its several prosperous settlements, there is now a very satisfactory duty with the coming of the Fordney tariff last October. Eastern Maine fish dealers now have far better protection, and the boneless herring industry has taken on a new lease of life.

Following the recent war, prices dropped on smoked and boneless herring, but with the coming in of national prohibition the industry received its greatest setback and is just now recovering from the lack of demand.

When liquors were sold in hotels, barrooms and restaurants throughout the country plenty of herring was served on the free-lunch counters everywhere, but for many months it has been somewhat difficult to build up the lost trade caused by the 18th amendment.

HOW IT WAS INTRODUCED.

The credit for introducing the present important boneless herring industry into Maine is due to J. W. Beardsley Sons of New York City, who sent their representative, J. C. Potter, to Eastport in the fall of 1900. He went across the two miles to the 11-mile-long Canadian island of Campobello, N.B., where many fish dealers prepared smoked herring, and took up the new process in Capt. James A. Calder's buildings for that winter.

In January, 1901, Mr. Potter came to Eastport to locate his industry and has since conducted it at that frontier port, where it is possible to obtain plenty of smoked herring and a crew of employees during the long winter months.

The Beardsley promoters rented the former William Martin sardine factory in Eastport, known as the original "home" of American packed sardines, as they were first canned here in 1875. Ten years ago this New York firm bought the Martin factory and several adjoining buildings and wharves.

When the Beardsley plant was first operated here the average pack of "boneless" was 100,000 pounds, increasing to 800,000 pounds a year, and now 800 tons of newly smoked herring are often handled from the fish curers.

In 1913 the Beardsley plant commenced pressing oil from refuse smoked herring.

The smoked herring ready for the plants is to clip off the head, belly and tail with scissors, men being paid 30 cents per hundred pounds at present. In former years they received 15 to 20 cents, and as high as 40. They earn from $1.50 to $2 per day during the usually quiet winter.

DUMPED ON TABLES.

After the cut herring are weighed and dumped on long tables they are handled by women and girls, who remove the skin and bones, receiving 35 cents for 35 pounds of boneless, many turning out 100 to 150 pounds daily.

The boned herring are packed in small wooden boxes holding 10, 25 or 50 pounds each, lined with oil paper, and when a wooden cover is nailed on they are ready for shipment in bulk.

There are many coast producers of fancy boneless products who pack the appetizing and palatable seafood in bottles, jars, pasteboard cartons and tin cans with attractive labels, which are to be seen in city stores.

While whole herring packed in bloater boxes of 18 pounds each, sold for 20 to 30 cents early in the spring of 1921, they reached 50 to 60 cents in the late fall and early winter, the wooden boxes being worth 15 cents.

Nearly all smoked herring has been bought up by speculators to be used in boneless shops until early spring, and prices have advanced more satisfactorily than for several previous years. Some of the Down East fish curers had been obliged to sell out their stock early, and numbers did not open their buildings two seasons ago, owing to low prices and an overstocked market.

The far East Maine frontier coast has long been known as the "Land of the Smoked Herring," and now is coming rapidly to the front as the more modern boneless products that are in demand by families who enjoy smoked herring when packed in attractive and sanitary packages.

After more than a century of curing large herring by smoking them over slow-burning wood fires, there has been little or no change, however, in the slow process on the Maine coast.

Mysterious Disappearance.

MISS LINDSAY'S BODY NOW AUTHENTICATED.

Collins, Manager of the Canadian Marconi Co., received a message yesterday from Mr. S. W. Brazill, Canadian Marconi Co. at Baine which reads: "Referring message to Miss Lindsay, information correct, found Dec. 13th, half mile from school. Remains, except head, in good state of preservation."

From the above message, which was the finding of the body, the circumstances under which Miss Lindsay met her death become more clear than ever. Certainly, the time which she spent a considerable time looking for the body could not have been a very thorough search. On the other hand, the finding of the body a half mile from the school is a circumstance that needs further investigation.

Miss Marguerite Lindsay, who was a teacher with Rev. Henry Carter at Cartwright, left her lodgings to go bathing on August 13th. When search parties went out, but in the excitement they were not thorough. No trace of Miss Lindsay's clothes were found.

Fishermen's Campaign.

DELEGATES CONTINUE EFFORT TO REDUCE TAXATION.

Yesterday afternoon by S.S. Portia, Messrs. Jesse Winsor and delegates Messrs. Robert, Mark Bragg, Stewart, John White, W. Sainsbury, Spangford, Joshua Winsor and other representatives of the Fishermen's Movement arrived in the city preparatory to undertaking an extensive campaign in the country in furtherance of their objects of a set of resolutions, more economy in Government expenditure and reduced taxation which have already been passed at numerous public meetings held during their campaign opened last fall at the C.L.B. Armoury, St. John's.

The last visit of the delegates to the city important meetings have been held at Newtown, Greenspond, Westville where the people are enthusiastically supporting the movement. While the Portia was at Portia, on the trip up, four of the delegates waited upon the Hon. Mr. Bragg and discussed the situation. It is understood that while waiting for them any great encouragement or admitting that their full attention with regard to reduced taxation could be met, he indicated that the Government would probably be able to remove some of the taxes that had been imposed.

It would be impossible, he said, to remove the sales tax, as that is a revenue of over a million a year, and the Government cannot afford to lose such a large sum of revenue. The delegates, however, are hoping to arouse public opinion to such an extent that substantial reductions in taxation will be brought about, and are undertaking their mission with high hopes. It is probable that they will be leaving within a day or two. Under arrangements the delegates are to operate as follows:—

Messrs. Robert and Bragg will cover the route from Conception Bay that have not been touched and Trinity Bay. Messrs. Stewart, Winsor and others will take the South Side of Conception Bay, Grand Falls and Westville, while Messrs. Joshua Winsor, Walter Carter will cover the route from St. John's to Westville, or are leaving Westville for the Strait Shore.

Accident at East Cambridge

DEATH OF A MAN. RUSHED TO DEATH, BETWEEN ENGINE AND LIGHT CAR.

Walter Ebeary, of St. John's, received word yesterday of the death of Mr. James Turpin, his brother-in-law, which sad event occurred at East Cambridge under very peculiar circumstances. It appeared that the deceased, who was a member of a wrecking crew in Boston and Maine Railway, was engaged in bringing a big locomotive off a train, when "something" went wrong. The heavy engine lunged suddenly to one side and pinned the unfortunate victim against a freight car, crushing his chest, which caused death instantly. The late Mr. Turpin belonged to Stellarton, N.S., married Miss Ethel Ebeary, sister of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Ebeary, who resides in this city, and leaves behind him a wife and five children, to whom will go out the profound sympathy of the whole community.

partner, Jimmy Daroy, at Buffalo, N. Y., in July, but there was little real involved. The New York State Athletic Commission ruled that under the boxing statutes a decision must be rendered, and Dempsey willingly complied with the technically, receiving the official verdict. Dempsey also formally accepted the challenge of his dusky rival, Harry Willis, for a little bout, but that was as far as negotiations proceeded, it being agreed that a match could not be promoted before next summer. Willis' prestige gained little from his performances in several bouts in New York with Negro opponents, but he remained generally regarded as Dempsey's strongest rival.

TWO POTENTIAL HEAVYWEIGHTS.
Two other figures, meanwhile, created interest in heavyweight circles—Floyd Johnson, of Iowa, and Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine sensation. Johnson has developed rapidly and included a knockout of Bob Martin among his victories. He will face his hardest test next month when he meets Bill Brennan, rugged Chicagoan. Firpo came to this country early in the year and knocked out in rapid succession several lesser lights. But while he demonstrated heavy punching ability he showed little boxing skill. Returning to South America, he knocked out Jim Tracey, Australian boxer, and now plans to return in January to the United States. He has received offers to box either Johnson or Brennan.

ADVERTISE IN THE EVENING TELEGRAM.

LABRADOR CLAIMS!

Speculative Opportunities.

"Alluvial Gold (as reported on the Labrador find) are those gold particles which are brought from their true source by the action of water and deposited elsewhere."

With particular attention being paid to Alluvial Gold recently discovered on Labrador, speculators generally are more interested in mining locations adjacent to or reasonably near water supply, and claims so located are considered much more valuable than the others.

As an example, notice the shrewdness of the original claim stakers on the Middle Brook, who took 65 claims with the river supposedly running clean through the centre for thirty miles from Adlivik Bay to Partridge Pond.

With the idea of creating a Syndicate, one of our clients carefully chose a number of locations adjoining the harbor at Stag Bay, and has subdivided same into claims of one acre each—43,560 square feet—and now offers same at $20 per Claim.

Those who failed to get locations at the Crown Lands' Office, have now a speculative opportunity—in the opinion of many, just as sporting a chance as other locations at FORTY TIMES the price.

Obviously, there are no guarantees—no certainty. This is NOT an investment, but a speculation pure and simple, at the same time carrying

For the past ten years the people in Newfoundland have been making their own clothes from Pictorial Review Patterns, and are loud in their praise of them. Ask anyone.

The cutting guide which goes with each pattern shows how material is saved, and with its careful easy directions, a child can make its own dress.

You will find the Fashion Book for Spring interesting and more alluring than the latest magazine.

Six hundred entrancing new styles to feast your eyes on. Everything charming, everything practical and economical. Price 25c.
