EASTER TIDE IN THE CHURCHES

Large Congregations Attend the Special Services Celebrating the Easter-Tide.—Easter Sunshine, Bright Music, and Floral Decorations Form Suitable Setting.

Providence Methodist Church held special services on Easter Day, both morning and evening, attended by very large congregations. The pulpit was attractively decorated with plants and flowers. The pastor, Rev. B. J. Porter, preached upon the Easter theme from Luke 24:34. The choir rendered two anthems most effectively, "The Open Tomb" in which Mrs. Frank Fowler and Miss Freda Giles took due parts and "The Joyful Easter Tide" with tenor solo by F. R. Beckwith, bass solo by R. Bishop and a duet by Mrs. Eagleson and Miss Vola Fulmer. These anthems were repeated in the evening service which took the form of an Easter Sunday School concert, when an especially fine program was rendered under the direction of the pastor whose interest seems indefatigable where the young people of his congregation are concerned. Mrs. A. R. Bishop presided at the organ rendering her valuable assistance in the musical part of the program, which was as follows:—

Organ Prelude
Duett—"Where are the Roses," Edna Burns, Edna Fulmer, with violin accompaniment.
Evening Hymn, "Abide with me"
Regular opening exercises
Exercise, Easter Joy, Primary class under direction Mrs. H. B. Hicks.
Easter Welcome, Warren Miller
Exercise, "The Cross of Christ" girls of the Senior Class.
Anthem, "The Joyful Easter Tide" choir.
Exercise, Easter Token, Sunday School class under direction of Miss Wilkinson.
Anthem, "The Lord is Risen Indeed"
Easter Response, "The Open Tomb" by the choir.
Easter Address, Raymond Bent.
Exercise, "The Glad Easter Day" Sunday School class under direction of Mrs. Jost.
Exercise, "Easter Bells and Lilies," class of young ladies.
Hymn, "Take the Name of Jesus"
Benediction.

In Gordon Memorial Presbyterian Church Easter was appropriately observed with Easter Hymns and a sermon by the pastor, Rev. Allen Simpson on the subject of the Resurrection. In the evening the pastor gave a fine address upon the subject of International Peace, which is now engaging the chief attention of Christian nations.

Bright Easter blossoms adorned the pulpit of the Bridgetown Baptist Church and the service was in keeping with the joyous season. The Easter anthem was written 125 years ago by "Billings"

"The Lord is Risen Indeed." The pastor Rev. N. A. McNeill preached a sermon from the text "The Lord is risen indeed and hath appeared to Simon." Luke 24:34. In the evening an Easter concert was given by the Mission Band under the direction of Mrs. J. W. Peters. Large congregations attended both services.

ST. JAMES' CHURCH

The order of services on Easter day in this church was somewhat different from that usually observed on account of the progress of the Parochial Mission. There was a celebration of Holy Communion at 8 a. m. and the usual Easter morning service with a second celebration of Holy Communion at 11 o'clock. At this service Clare's anthem "Christ is Risen" was sung—Mrs. Harry Ruggles singing the soprano solo with much feeling.

The sermon was preached by the Missioner, the Rev. A. S. Bott. Taking both services the number of communicants was the largest for some years.

In the evening a Mission service took the place of the usual service.

Great interest is being evinced in the Mission and much good is undoubtedly being done. Mr. Bott is a forceful speaker and appeals to his hearers from all points.

Services will continue to be held each evening this week commencing at 7.30. Children's service this Wednesday afternoon and on Friday at 4 o'clock.

The Mission will conclude on Sunday. There will be a special celebration of Holy Communion at 8 a. m. the usual service at 11 o'clock, a special service for men only at 3 p. m. and the concluding Mission service at 7.30.

Mention should be made of the beautiful flowers kindly contributed for the altar. Arum lilies (in memoriam) by Mrs. C. DeWitt, daffodils by Mrs. Daniels and Easter lilies by Miss Chute.

Government Ownership of Telephones

Mr. Kendall gave notice in the last session of legislature that he would on a future day move the following resolution:

"Whereas, the Nova Scotia Telephone Company have failed to give the people of this province fair telephone service at fair rates, and whereas the province of Manitoba has operated a telephone system satisfactorily:

"Therefore resolved that the time and conditions have arrived to make it desirable that the government of this province expropriate the franchises and property of all telephone companies doing business in Nova Scotia and operate the same under commission."

One Dollar Higher Rate to Boston

Rail and Steamship Lines Between Boston and Maritime Provinces Advance Price of Ticket.

Boston, April 12.—Announcement was made today of an increase—generally of one dollar—in the passenger rates of all transportation lines operating between the maritime provinces and New England, to go into effect May 1 next. This will affect three railway companies and three lines of steamers.

The rail service from Boston to St. John is over the tracks of the Boston and Maine from Boston to Portland, the Maine Central from Portland to Vancobero, and the Canadian Pacific from Vancobero to St. John, and the I. C. R. to Halifax.

The steamship lines are the Eastern Steamship company, operating steamers between St. John, Eastport, Lunenburg, Portland and Boston.

The Dominion Atlantic Railway system, which has steamers running between Boston and Yarmouth, with a railway line from Yarmouth to Truro and Halifax and a steamer line from Digby to St. John.

The Plant Steamship company, whose steamers ply between Halifax and Boston.

The advances were agreed upon at a meeting of the representatives of the various lines affected, held in Boston.

Mexican Alliance with Japs Would Be Serious

Stating unequivocally that the army maneuvers along the Mexico border are in reality designed as a demonstration against Japan, the London Standard recently printed an article from its American correspondent that has caused a sensation in the British foreign office and its diplomatic circles. The Standard editorially stands sponsor for it and despite the fact that the name of the Standard's authority is withheld the story is given general credence here. The article is as follows:—

"Mexico's intimacy with Japan, which has been increasing to such an extent as to threaten America with the possibility of a disastrous flank attack in the event of a war for the mastery of the Pacific, is the real reason for the massing of the United States army in Texas and the concentration of American warships along the Mexican coast. America's military demonstration is a warning to Mexico and also a notification to Japan that the United States will not tolerate the establishment of a Mexican government pro-Japanese in settlement. The American government is fully resolved to go to any extreme to bring an end to the danger of the Japanese using Mexico as a base for operations at any future time against the United States.

"The situation, therefore, could not well be more serious. Japanese are now resident in Mexico. Some estimates place the number at 100,000. My informant indicates that President Diaz himself is friendly towards America. He does not look with favor on the development of pro-Japanese sentiment, but he is unable to control the situation.

"This is the condition of affairs that President Taft has been called upon to meet. His problem has been to checkmate the Mexican desire for a Japanese alliance before it got beyond control. American military preparations are much more extensive than are generally known. Preliminary preparations have been made for concentrating the country's whole fighting strength against Mexico should future developments make this course necessary."

JAPAN FOR PEACE PACT.

(Montreal Witness.)
England is holding up both hands for President Taft's proposed permanent peace pact, and there is a tremendous amount of support being given to it in New York and other parts of the United States. Mr. Henry Clowes, the New York financier, invites Japan to be a party to it. The three would certainly form a great peace team.

Rehearsals of Coronation Ceremony

LONDON, April 10.—With the final approval of the coronation service, which follows closely on traditional lines, the rehearsals of the ceremony have begun in Westminster Abbey.

To insure smooth working of so elaborate and complicated a function necessitates the most careful and systematic training of all the scores of individuals who have duties to perform. Each person has to study his part as closely as an actor and every section of the service has to be rehearsed again and again until the whole splendid scene is perfected.

Meanwhile all those who have to take part in the ceremony are having their various duties allotted to them, and in a short time regular rehearsals will be begun and will continue in the Abbey almost daily, different sections of the service being taken in succession.

At these rehearsals the principal functionaries go through their duties in everyday attire with walking sticks for swords of state and wands of office, silk hats and footstool for regalia, and two ordinary rush bottom chairs for the "thrones."

In a few weeks all the most important parts of the service will thus have been cast in their first rough mould, and the polishing process will then be begun.

During this period the king will be a regular attendant at the abbey learning his part. Then will come the final rehearsal of the whole scene, culminating in two, or it may be three, full dress rehearsals of the whole service with the king present in person, every participant in robes and the full regalia in use.

The elaborate Festival of Empire and Pageant of London to be held at the Crystal Palace is nearly ready, and there is no doubt now but that under the guidance of Herbert W. Matthews it will open in the early part of May. Six thousand workmen are busy completing the various buildings, of which there are more than 300. All the overseas dominions are represented by a facsimile structure of their capital buildings.

The cost of the coronation to the state, according to a "white paper" just issued, is estimated at $925,000, which is just $301,150 more than the cost of King Edward's coronation nine years ago.

Prices for seats along the coronation route are now announced and range from one to five guineas.

LONDON, April 15.—The multitudinous details connected with the Coronation of King George and Queen Mary at Westminster Abbey and June 22nd, have been practically settled.

The actual crowning of both the King and Queen will be performed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, thus following the ancient custom, only departed from in 1902, when the Archbishop of York crowned Queen Alexandra because of the great age of the then Archbishop of Canterbury.

The Archbishop of York will this time preach the Coronation sermon. The great officers of state and ladies who are to assist are already studying their parts and workmen are busy arranging the interior of the Abbey. The ceremony will at least equal in brilliancy any previously held there.

Accommodations will have to be found for a greater number than what were present at the Coronation of King Edward, as King George has expressed a desire that the Dominions and Colonies shall be adequately represented, and from every section of the Empire representatives will be present.

BISHOP OF LONDON IN UNIQUE MARCH.

LONDON, April 14.—A procession of the members of the Church of England consisting of 300 clergymen, 2,500 laymen and 700 choirmen today paraded from Trafalgar Square to St. Paul's cathedral in the presence of immense crowds. It was the first ceremony of the sort ever held in London. The Bishop of London and several other bishops headed the procession. "There is a green hill far away" and "Jesus, lover of my soul" were sung at a service held in St. Paul's cathedral following in which exercises appropriate to the coronation year were conducted.

A Wonderful Blind Mute Child

MARY JANE VEINOT, OF ANNAPOLIS VALLEY.

(By Murdoch Mackinnon, in Toronto Globe.)

In the heart of the Annapolis Valley, where they raise Gravensteins and Bishop pippins of high quality, where the bobolink sings its sweetest, and every change of season but adds to the variety of the scene and charm of living, where lads and lasses peep their pretty faces through the apple blossoms, there Mary Jane Veinot, the deaf-dumb-blind girl was born.

She is popularly known as Jean, and for the last three years she has been the centre of attraction in the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb at Halifax. She is a favorite not because of her many deprivations, but because of her buoyant, playful temperament, the unexpected ways in which her very mischievousness itself, and her apparent determination to be disengaged from the limitations within which her spirit has been hemmed. Her prison-house, higher than stone walls, stronger than iron bars, she must dissolve; the experiences and achievements of past and present she must know. In her endeavor to use the sense of touch and smell to greatest advantage she is eagerly bent forward with a tiny left hand ever raised for those who would hold converse with her. Her outline but slightly accentuated would form what her teachers say she already is, an interrogation mark.

"May I talk with you?" is the first salute, gentle and inoffensive, that leads many an unsuspecting victim into her clutches. The objects of her inquiry range anywhere from the heavens above to the earth beneath and the waters under the earth. Aristotle's dictum that all men by nature have a desire to know finds a living illustration in Jean, whose thirst for the horizon is acute, intense and chronic.

She learnt with regret of the death of King Edward; the comet's tail brought her much enjoyment and no terror, and her interest in current events is greater than that of most politicians. In proof of her oneness with child-life everywhere, she is very fond of play and can make her way about the grounds without difficulty. Not a year passes but at least one or two exceptionally bright pupils graduate from this school. It remains to be seen whether Jean will be ranked with these when her turn comes. In the meantime she is looked upon as an apt, clear-headed and alert pupil, who looks out upon the future with unquenching hope and confidence.

Born in Berwick, King's county, Nova Scotia, ten years ago, much deprivation and loss have been packed into the few years she has known. Very early she lost her mother, and, as in many another instance, this may have been responsible for her other troubles. When she was about two years and a half she had an illness from which she emerged deaf, dumb and blind. Nature could hardly have gone further in clipping her wings and depriving her of the equipment which most people find none too adequate in the face of life's storms and stress. What little vocabulary she had acquired gradually faded out of her memory, and the only intelligible sound she knew when she came under the supervision of the school was "Gammy," for her grandmother, who took the mother's place for her.

In this helpless state and with health that promised little, she came to the Halifax institution. Her progress in three short years of training has not only been rapid, but, from the point of view of the uninitiated, miraculous. By means of the manual alphabet she can converse with the rapidity of a magician. She reads the lips by putting her fingers over the mouth of the speaker. She reads and writes braille as a part of her daily recreation. She writes love-letters to her grandmother on the Remington typewriter, and she intones the Lord's Prayer on a public platform with the solemnity of a High Churchman.

For the best results, a child should be taken in hand by competent teachers from the earliest years, and this progress of Jean Veinot has been made in the face of the fact that she was seven years old when she came under discipline and instruction. Credit is due Principal Fearon, who neglects nothing that contributes to the welfare of the institution over which he presides; to Miss Conrod (now Mrs. Bone of Dartmouth), who was her teacher for the first year; and to every member of the teaching staff, who, through the generosity and large-hearted policy of Premier Murray, give her additional instruction for two extra hours daily. During the holiday season a teacher goes up from Halifax every alternate week, for there may not be a break in her studies.

How can a person who has neither sight, hearing or speech learn anything? That question is asked by a great many. The gateway to one's intelligence is closed. People are not as grateful as they ought to be for the faculties with which they are endowed. It should not be necessary to be deprived of God's gifts to fully appreciate them, although that is often the way of it.

BRIDGETOWN WANTS PUBLIC BUILDING

Delegation of Town Council and Board of Trade Meet S. W. W. Pickup, M.P. Asking for Grant for Public Building to Contain Post Office and Customs Office.

A delegation of the Town Council and the Board of Trade met S. W. W. Pickup, Esq., M. P. for Annapolis County by appointment on Monday afternoon for the purpose of directing his attention to the desirability of having a public building subsidized by the federal government for the use of post office and customs house.

They cited in support of their appeal that Bridgetown, which was formerly the chief customs port of Annapolis County, and which had been reduced to a sub-port of Annapolis, was showing more entries than any other port in the county, also that the post office showed the largest revenue and was the centre of distribution for a more populous district than any other post office in the county. Mr. Pickup promised to give the request favourable consideration, and it is hoped that he will be able to secure a suitable appropriation.

Bridgetown has not been favoured with any special grants of this nature, while other towns of no more substantial claims to recognition have had their urgent requests for similar benefits granted.

Wolfville it is reported has secured a $50,000 building, while an appropriation of $25,000 has been granted Middleton. It is easily possible that Bridgetown may acquire a suitable public building by duly emphasizing her claims and following up the tentative step thus taken by her Town Council and Board of Trade.

College Matches at Basket-Ball at Yarmouth

A very interesting Basket Ball tournament was held in Yarmouth April 13th and 14th in which Acadia, Mt. Allison and two Yarmouth teams competed.

On Tuesday night Mt. Allison won from Acadia in the most exciting match that has ever been played in Yarmouth. At half time the score was 10-10. During the second half both teams were evenly matched, and two minutes before time the score stood 16-16.

At this point the superior combination of the Mt. Allison forwards won the game for them, and the winning goal was second making the total score 18-16.

On Friday night owing to their team work Mt. Allison won from the evening Yarmouth team by a score of 27-11. Acadia also defeated the second Yarmouth team.

The Mt. Allison team was composed of

The games were refereed very satisfactorily by L. W. Archibald, who is well known in Bridgetown as a Y. M. C. A. Secretary.

After the tournament a banquet was given by the Yarmouth Y. M. C. A. in honour of the visiting teams.

That Flour Mill

To the Editor Monitor-Sentinel:—

Since writing you a few weeks ago on "wheat-growing" I had a call from Mr. D. C. McNeil, of Antigonish Co., oftentimes in government employ. He tells me there are quite a few roller mills in his county in fact all grist mills are now built in that way,—besides quite a few in Pictou, Cumberland and Colchester counties. I had no idea Kings and Annapolis counties were so far behind the age.

He also said after a mill and power is ready, the machinery could be put in, capable of grinding forty bushels an hour for about $1200.

Our stone mills do very well to grind forty to fifty bushels a day. Success to an enterprise of this kind in Bridgetown!

The Twentieth Century Armageddon

To the editor Montreal Witness:—The debate now in progress on reciprocity is as it stands the most amusing thing I have yet seen. Mr. Flavelle goes to Ottawa and tells Sir Wilfrid that unless he is allowed to buy pigs in Ontario at his own price, without Yankee opposition, and enabled to sell in the north-west at a couple of cents more than the goods could be got for in Chicago, he will either have to close his factory or take less than fifty-one per cent annual profit. Sir William Van Horne is accented by the idea that he and the big milling companies, among them, will have to pay as much for wheat in the west as the dealers on the Dakota side of the line do. They now average about ten per cent per bushel less. When we consider that C.P.R. shares, which originally cost forty dollars, are now selling at much over one hundred dollars, we may or may not wonder at Sir William's sadness and madness.

To obtain any great and permanent benefit from reciprocity it would have to be complete, absolute and permanent, so as to give our manufacturers as well as our farmers full access to the continental markets. The change in duties on manufactured goods should be made gradually, in order to give our people a chance to specialize, as the Americans do now, and in some cases to drop certain lines, which we could not make to the best advantage, and substitute others for which our country presents special facilities.

The really important question, however, to all who like myself are British by birth or descent has yet to be considered, and so far as I know has not yet been touched on by any one.

I believe and I get my ideas on the subject almost entirely from the Tories in Great Britain and Canada, that the Armageddon of the twentieth century will be a sea fight, and will take place in the North Sea or the British Channel. I agree with the Tories that the German Emperor can have no other object in building an enormous navy, except to crush Great Britain and I cordially approve of the proposal to make a free gift of the price of two ironclads to the British Admiralty. The addition of five Dreadnaughts to the British navy, by the contributions of Australia, Canada and New Zealand, would probably have put an end to the project of overthrowing the British naval practice. As things are now—still following my Tory friends—I believe that whenever the combined fleets of Germany, France and Russia have a sufficient preponderance over that of Great Britain Germany will approach France with an offer of the restoration of Alsace and a free hand in North Africa, and Russia with a promise of India, and attack the North Sea and Channel fleets with the combined navies of Germany, France, Russia, and probably Austria. If the attack is successful, and with several against one it would possibly be so, the rest would be easy. After a three months' blockade of her ports, Britain might be demanded, and might step down from a world empire to a third class power like Belgium or Denmark.

It—or rather when—such a combination is formed the United States is a party to it, the destruction of the British Empire is certain; if the United States is neutral, Britain would have whatever chance there might be in a two-to-one fight; if on the other hand the United States was in alliance with Britain, such a combination would never be formed, and the ruinous competition in building warships would cease.

The boundary line between Canada and the United States, aided by the fool talk of patriots of the Hughes and Denison type, are the only impediments to the practical unification of the English-speaking peoples, and to the arrival of the day when the nations shall learn war no more.

As someone has said, we are now at "the parting of the way. One way leads to the moral union of all the people who speak the English language and are governed by the 'common law' of England, and to general peace and prosperity. The other way leads to the ruin of the Empire, to the continual improvement and oppression both of the consumers and the actual producers of Canada and the United States, and will probably, after Germany has exploited the British Empire and relieved her accomplices of their share of the spoils, result in the wiping out of all the foreign possessions of the United States.

Scientists have found fifty-six acres in the oceans where the water is more than three miles deep, ten where it exceeds four miles and four where the bottom is further than five miles down.

Jury Awarded Damages for $4,000

Morrison Wins Suit Against the Steel Company.

Sydney, April 12.—The Supreme Court today, Judge Meagher presiding, the case of Morrison vs. the Dominion Iron and Steel Company was finished. This was a case which Morrison claimed $5,000 damages, owing to an accident at McQuarrie's Crossing, when a team driven by Mrs. Morrison, wife of the plaintiff, was struck by an engine of the defendant company, and Mrs. Morrison was thrown out and killed. The Jury after going out at midnight returned at 2 a. m., with a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, Morrison, awarding him $4,400.

SPRING SKIN TROUBLES

Pimples, Eruptions and "Spotty Complexions"

At this season, scores of people—girls and young women especially—find their faces disfigured by pimples, dark spots, eruptions, etc. The skin needs attention—needs renovating after the trying time it has passed through during the winter.

Just think what it has gone through! You have been out in the rain and sleet and snow. You have been at one moment perspiring from skating, or some other exertion. Then you have stood to "cool off." You have spent hours of the day in doors at a temperature equal to summer heat. Then you have covered up your skin—except your face—and gone out into a temperature away below zero! No wonder that, with all these changes, the skin of the face and neck shows signs of needing attention.

Zam-Buk and Zam-Buk Soap are the remedies. Smear Zam-Buk lightly over the spots, eruptions, the shallow patches, at night, and wash with Zam-Buk Soap (only 25c per tablet) each day. Then notice how quickly your appearance improves. As the rich, refined, herbal essences sink deep into the tissue, the hard, scurfy-like patches are removed. Better color results. The cells of the skin become transparent. The blood beneath is able to impart its proper coloring to the tissue, and the delicate bloom of health replaces the sallowness and pallor of disease.

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for skin injuries and diseases. Eczema, ulcers, ringworm, yield to its use. For cuts, burns, bruises, children's rashes, etc., it is unequalled, and for piles. Mothers will find Zam-Buk Soap best for baby's bath! All druggists and chemists have it. Ask for Zam-Buk and 25c tablet (or 3 for 70c) for the Soap. If you have any difficulty in obtaining order from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, and send price.

One of the miracles of Spring in this northern latitude is the accuracy with which the robin comes back to his summer haunts, never failing to appear on the 26th of March. What calendar or cycle brings him up to date? What power keeps time and sets him whistling his first notes sitting on a branch of the evergreens, on the day appointed? He never fails, be the weather ever so discouraging, and this very promptness is one of the mysteries that even the bird student cannot fathom.

EXPECT DROP IN LOBSTER PRICES.

Boston dealers smile at the report that the price of lobsters will soon reach $1 per pound. Dealers say they do not believe lobsters are going higher than forty cents, and expect a drop when better weather permits fishermen to get busy. Receipts of lobsters from the provinces at present are about one-fifth normal owing to stormy conditions.

Joker's Corner

WHEN PADDY'S WIT HAS MADE THE RAFTERS RING.

In the Law Courts the Irishman is seen at his best. Pat, for instance, has usually a clear idea of the meaning of an alibi, but he is rarely able to express himself in very lucid terms.

On another occasion, when a prisoner was trying to convince a judge and jury of his innocence of a certain crime, he said: "It's not meself as is after trying to desave yer honors; I didn't hit the dead gentleman at all. It was him that struck the blow; an' the exar-tion killed him; an' what's more, I wasn't there at the time!"

"What passed between you and the complainant?" another Irishman was asked. "I think sor," answered Murphy, "about six bricks an' a piece of paving-stone!"

"Now, Pat, what brought you here again?" asked a justice of an old offender. "Two policemen, sor," was the reply.

"Drunk, I suppose?" queried the magistrate. "Yes, sor; both av thim."

"Were you ever up before me?" asked a magistrate. "Sure, I don't know," was the reply. "What time does your honor git up?"

"But the evidence," said a judge, in another case, "shows that you throw a stone in this case."

"An' the look av the man shows I hit 'im!" was Mr. O'Toole's trenchant reply.

"The prisoner hit you with a brick did he?" asked another judge. "Yes, yer honor," was the reply. "But it seems he didn't quite kill you, anyway," continued the judge. "No, bad 'cess to him," said the complainant; but it's wishin' he had Oi do be."

"Why?" asked the judge. "Begorra, then I'd have seen the scoundrel hanged for murder!"

THE NOISE THEY MADE.

A countryman went into Delmonico's catering department and noticed that frogs were sold as a food. He asked the purchasing agent if he would buy a supply from him as there were thousands of them in the ponds up his way. The P.A. said: "Sure, you bring them along."

LATE IN SEEING THE POINT.

"What galls me," says the man with the disurbed eyebrows, "is one of these fellows who tell you a joke and then repeat the point. Honest, though it's funny, when you think of it. He'll tell the joke, then, after you've laughed, he'll repeat the nub of it and laugh again."

The Man Who Reaches the Top

There is no lack of good jobs in this world—the lack, instead, is in men to fill them. Of course an exceptional job requires the services of an exceptional man, the sort of man who, as Elbert Hubbard says, "is the average man concentrated and consecrated."

Read the definition again; the "average man concentrated and consecrated" makes the exceptional man. It sounds simple, but it is not quite as easy as it may appear. It costs considerable mental self-denial to concentrate upon your work; it costs some little self-suppression to concentrate yourself to any job. In the end—when you have at last got things to running smoothly—it pays; but there are lots of clever, intelligent men who haven't the strength and patience requisite to do the preliminary stunts.

I know of lots of men who amble in for work about fifteen minutes late each morning. They spend the next fifteen minutes in exchanging the compliments of the season with their fellow workmen, but nobody ever heard one of them offer to make up this lost time when the whistle blew. In some respects they are good workmen. The chances are that they will continue to hold their jobs. It is entirely probable that they may have their salaries raised from time to time, but there you have the limit of their attainments! No man of this stamp could get into the big-job class, unless he bought his way in, and then he wouldn't last.

I know other men who waste an hour or so every day figuring out whether their contract calls for the performance of the specific duties that they have been asked to undertake. You have seen such men, too, and have heard their boast that they "wouldn't do a minute's work for which they were not paid." Undoubtedly they stand within their rights, and if they were as careful in seeing that their employer got all that was coming to him there might be more hope for them. As it is, however, it's the second class for them—today, tomorrow, and for all time.

There are lots of things that are necessary to the attainment of success besides intelligent workmanship. The workmanship counts, but it is only one of many things that have to be figured in the average. In fact it is a question of the spirit in which the work is done does not count for as much as the way in which it is done. Of course, in the first place, the work must be done and done right, but it is comparatively easy to find men who will attend to this detail. In some instances it can be done by machinery, with one man, or even a girl, to look after several machines. At the most a human machine is all that is needed, so long as the machine knows what he is expected to do.

It is at this stage that brains begin to count, and a man's position on the wage scale depends largely upon the degree to which he is willing to admit that an employer buys a man's mental as well as his physical muscles, but not all men are as liberal as this. A great many feel that the boss ought to be well satisfied if they give a certain number of hours of their time in exchange for a certain number of dollars of his money, and they deem him most unreasonable if he requires them to do anything that demands a little thought. So far as "concentration" is concerned, they don't know what the term means. Tell such a man that he is treating his employer unjustly in permitting his mind to spend the day far away from his work and he would laugh at you. That is why you never find him getting one of these big jobs that we read about.

Oh, it's not hard to figure it out, once you know the workman. Study his ways for a day or two and you can safely make a wager as to his chance of success. His brain may be as that of the man at the top; he may be just as well educated; he may be just as capable in the matter of workmanship; he may be just as clever in originating new ideas; he may be all this and more, too, but if he fails to concentrate on his work and does not consecrate himself to his chance of getting one of the big jobs is mighty slim.—Graham Hood.

ELECTRIC BEANS

Electric Beans Are a Natural Remedy for Nerve, Stomach and Liver Disorders.

Once upon a time disease was thought to be due to direct influence of evil spirit and magic was invoked to cast it out.

Science has taught us wisdom. The evil spirits still exist we call them "Disease Germs," and they must also be cast out. Once lodged in the stomach or intestines biliousness with its aches and pains, or in fact seventy-five per cent of the ills that affect the human race, is the result.

Electric Beans are the approved remedy for driving out disease germs. Their action is quick and thorough; they clear the intestines, rouse the torpid liver to new life, stimulate mucous membranes to healthy action and cleanse and invigorate the whole digestive tract. Be prepared for emergencies by always keeping a box in the home.

See our booklet of remarkable, true, testimonials. Test this remedy at our risk, if it is not satisfactory we will cheerfully refund the money paid for it.

Electric Beans can be had from the stores of S. N. Warren, W. A. Warren, Mrs. S. C. Turner, J. E. Lloyd & Son and C. L. Piggott or direct from us 50c. a box. THE ELECTRIC BEAN CHEMICAL COMPANY, LTD. Ottawa, Ont.

The dampness which destroys lumber only intensifies the strength and hardness of Concrete. You can impair a wooden trough with comparatively little use; but it takes a powerful explosive to put a Concrete water tank out of business.

Which is Your Choice? Sloppy, leaky wooden troughs, or clean, durable Concrete? Wooden drinking troughs are about as reliable as the weather. They are short-lived and require replacing every few years—not to mention continual patching to keep them in repair. The best of wood cannot withstand, for long, constant dampness and soaking. Its tendency to rapid decay soon shows itself in leaks and stagnant pools of water around trough. Contrast with this the durability, cleanliness and well-ordered appearance of Concrete.

PROPRIETOR AND PUBLISHER

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 19, 1911.

With this issue the Monitor-Sentinel enters its 39th year, and the proprietor would take this opportunity of expressing her appreciation of the generous support extended by the public of Bridgetown and vicinity to their local journal. It has been the proprietor's earnest endeavor to make the Monitor-Sentinel a credit to the community which it serves and to the status of provincial country journalism, and she has the gratification of seeing the influence and circulation of the paper extending and the business steadily expanding.

The business element of the community proves its progressiveness and its loyalty to home institutions by liberal use of our advertising columns, with the result that the buying public have come to consult our paper most carefully when in need of almost any article of merchandise.

The recognized value of the Monitor-Sentinel as an advertising medium is also attested by the large number of foreign or outside advertisers either under yearly contract or filling space transiently.

The standard of excellence of our job-printing department is inferior to none, and our patronage in this line is also gratifying.

The proprietor thanks very warmly the public which has so substantially supported her efforts, and who have thus shown their appreciation and recognition of the value to their own community of a clean, impartial, independent home journal.

The tendency to take farming out of the rut of drudgery and make of it the scientific profession which it rightfully is, is emphasized by the growing interest shown by the increased attendance at the Agricultural Colleges by young farmers and farmer's sons. It is noticeable that in the report of the session of the Truro Agricultural College, just closed, forty-one of the sixty-two students were Nova Scotians. New Brunswick and P. E. I. contributing nine, and a dozen more of the students coming from foreign countries. Following is the report of the principal of the College:—

The 1910-11 session of the Nova Scotia Agricultural College closed on Thursday, April 13th. The session was the most largely attended and the most successful in the history of the College. The total enrollment was 62, of whom 41 were from Nova Scotia, 4 from New Brunswick, 5 from Prince Edward Island and 12 from foreign countries. While this is not, by any means, as large an enrollment as there should be, yet it compares very favourably with the enrollment of the older established institutions in Canada. For example, there enrolled at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, from the province of Ontario last year, 295 students, in comparison with 41 enrolled at Truro from the province of Nova Scotia. But Ontario has over nine times the area under cultivation that Nova Scotia has, from which it appears that, in proportion to the size of the constituency, the Nova

ATTRACTIVE CONTRACT TO PRODUCERS

Scotia Agricultural College has already enrolled a number of students that compare favourably with the number enrolled at the older established institutions of Canada. It is exceedingly satisfactory to record the representative character of the enrollment, including, as it does, students from Cape Breton, all the way the Yarmouth and from nearly all the intermediate counties. However, the College is only in its infancy and, if as much progress is made in the next few years as in the past five years, the attendance will be a record for the Dominion.

The most interesting feature in connection with the closing exercises was the presentation of the Murray and P. E. I. Students' Cup. The former Cup was presented by the Hon. Mr. Murray Premier of Nova Scotia, to be awarded to the student making the highest standing in the judging of live stock. It was won by W. L. McFarlane, Fox Harbour, Cumberland County, a second year student, who was the runner up for the Cup in his first year. The Hon. Mr. Murray presented a similar Cup last year, which was won by E. S. Leonard, of Paradise, Annapolis County.

The P. E. I. Cup was presented to the College by the Short Course Students who attended the institution from Prince Edward Island in January last. It is to be the permanent possession of the College, but each year the student who stands highest in the judging and selection of seeds is to have his name engraved upon it. The winner for the year 1911 is W. G. Oulton, Lorneville, Cumberland County.

The next session of the College commences on November 1st next and as a sort of precursor of a still larger attendance, the Principal received on the very day of the closing of the 1910-11 session, three applications for entrance to the session of 1911-12.

When a Man's a Man

Neither broad shoulders nor a bank account go far toward making a man. He may have great muscles, yet be a coward, and no man. He may have the instinct which seeks a bank account, but this is the mere lust for accumulation, possessed also by squirrels, rats, woodchucks and pirates. He may be handsome, yet there are few men so handsome as a well-bred horse. He may be stately, but so is the giraffe. He may fascinate his feminine kind. Some males of the lowest animal order possess the same qualification in marked degree. He may be strongly endowed with the domestic instinct. So is the house cat. He may not drink whisky—but neither does the dog. Of course, our proudest example of culture and refinement possesses the power of speech—a wonderful gift indeed! Who shall positively say that the Chimpanzee cannot talk? Ants communicate their thoughts with one another. The sentry crow warns his comrades of the farmer's approach with a shotgun on his shoulder. Man yells and pigs squeal. Man runs on two legs and a duck waddles on his two feet. Men swim in the water, but not half so well as fish.

A MAN! He must be capable of sorrow and grief. He must have a soul that soars and cries when his ears hear good music. He must thrill at the telling of deeds of daring. He must love a woman, and not merely admire women. And he must be willing, aye glad! to labor and sacrifice for others.

A man—A REAL MAN—is not merely a two-legged animal. Equal parts of turpentine and kerosene, applied with a piece of flannel, makes a cheap and effective furniture polish.

A stove for camp cooking that a Colorado man has invented folds into a compact bundle of rods when not in use.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES PAIN

The gateways are not all closed, however. The sense of touch remains, and by means of it communication may be had with the outer world and an improved intelligence set free. The chief interest in this process centres in the initial stages. The principle by which one idea is conveyed can be made to render service in connection with all possible ideas. How is it done?

Jean Veinot began with the manual alphabet, and h-o-o-k was the first word spelled out for her. Then the word pen, and at the same time these objects were given her to handle until through the association of ideas she came to connect certain words with certain objects. Having learnt two words she went to two hundred and two thousand, from nouns to verbs like walk, run, while at the same time she was made to walk or run, and so on with every part of speech, and, like herself, Jean's vocabulary is growing every day.

Those of a speculative turn inquire as to who hath made man's mouth to speak or who maketh a man dumb or deaf or seeing or blind! From the heart of Christianity the answer comes—neither this man nor his parents. The sceptic and the man of despondent mood have no place in our modern economy. The Hospital is on one corner and the City Mission on another, the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb here and the School for the Blind there—together they form a quartette whose resultant harmony tells of a religion that is translating itself into life, and in our quieter moments their message to us is on this wise: Go your way and tell John what things ye have seen and heard, how that the blind see the lame walk, the deaf hear, the prison doors are opened and the poor have the Gospel preached unto them.

A New Fashion in Wall Papers

The color of one of the new wall-papers for 1911 is known as "putty." In the roll or the sample it is rather unimpressive, but on the wall it makes friends at once. The softness of tone, warmth of coloring and simplicity of design—there being almost no design at all—enable to harmonize with almost any furnishings. In addition, it is easy to keep clean and is economical.

The note in new wall papers is evidently "lightness." Even white papers are much shown. A point to remember in regard to light papers is that they tend to increase the size of the room—a quality that should recommend them to those who have small rooms or apartments. In the latter case, it is desirable to have a suite of rooms on one floor papered with one paper, thus producing the effect of commodious quarters, when in reality the rooms are often cramped and small.

The severity of this mode of treatment may be relieved by carrying out different color schemes of furnishings in the different rooms, and regarding the walls simply as backgrounds. If followed in painstaking fashion, this method, which is growing in general favor, will prove more interesting and satisfactory than the old custom of having a different paper for each room, besides the different forms of furnishings and coloring, often bewildering, and never restful.

Lower Granville

A party of friends, numbering forty, of Miss Winnie Saffer met at her home on Thursday evening to give her a surprise prior to her departure for Boston on Saturday. In behalf of the company, Miss Sarah Manning presented Miss Saffer with a handsome suit case. Miss Winnie, though completely surprised, responded in a very happy manner. Cake, etc. was served and a most enjoyable evening spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Blair and child returned to Boston on Saturday from that port Mr. Blair rejoins the S. S. Limon, sailing for Costa Rica this week.

The community was shocked on Friday when the report was circulated that George Morrison, who had been quite ill had developed symptoms of appendicitis. It was decided to remove him to St. John hospital and on Saturday he was taken there by his brother, James, accompanied by Dr. Smith. A telegram received on Sunday afternoon stated that he had been successfully operated upon that morning and was doing well.

Miss Ella Messenger left last week for Lynn, where she intends remaining for a few months.

Mrs. Charles Smith, of Barton, Digby Co., is visiting at the home of Mrs. A. Messenger.

The Easter concert which was held in the church on Monday evening, was a success, the Mission band being under the direction of Mrs. R. J. Messenger and the music of Mrs. A. Hutchinson.

Inglesville

Mrs. Saville Moore and Miss Etta Whitman were called home from Massachusetts last week on account of the serious illness of their father, Mr. E.R. Whitman.

Ida Banks and May Naucler, of Normal College, spent Easter at their homes.

Mr. B. Jarvis, of Cherryfield, is visiting at Mr. D. Jarvis'.

Several of our people are suffering from the grip which still lingers about.

Vernon Beals is home again, after spending the winter in Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Rooie McGill and family have moved into Mr. R. Best's house.

Irving Leonard, of Kingston, called on friends in this place recently.

Miss Minnie Banks is spending the week at Lower Granville at the home of Rev. and Mrs. M.W. Brown.

Mr. James Durling, who has been quite ill of la grippe is slowly improving.

Port Lorne

Mrs. E. W. Smith, of Petersboro, N.H. has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Henry Brown.

Harold and Murray Beardsley, of Wolfville spent Easter with friends here.

Mr. A. G. Nichols, of Kentville was at the Bay View one day last week.

Miss Edna Marshall, of Paradise, spent a few days last week at Hill side cottage.

"Will alcohol dissolve sugar?" "It will," said the drunkard. "it will dissolve gold, brick houses and horses and happiness and love and everything else worth having."

THE BRIDGETOWN MILLINERY COMPANY

Wish to announce their Spring Millinery Opening

To take place on FRIDAY and SATURDAY, APRIL the 7th and 8th.

Easter goods will be a feature of the opening, and orders will be taken for Spring and Summer Millinery. The ladies of Bridgetown and vicinity are cordially invited to attend.

ROYAL BANK BUILDING, Granville Street.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL.

Annapolis and Granville Ferry have formed "Boy Scout" companies.

It is expected that the Easter music will be repeated in St. James' church next Sunday.

The Liberals of Kings county have nominated Mr. H.H. Wickwire, M.P.P. and Dr. A. M. Covert.

The farm of J. C. Young at Paradise has been sold to Appleton Jackson of the same place.

The fifth annual Horse Show under the auspices of the Kentville Board of Trade will be held on April 27th.

Dr. M. E. Armstrong, who is a successful amateur florist, is having a green house built in order to increase his facilities for flower raising.

The adjourned annual Easter meeting of the Rector, Wardens, Vestry and Parishioners of St. James' parish will be held on Monday evening next in the Sunday School room, commencing at 7.30.

The Municipal Council opened its semi-annual session in Bridgetown yesterday. It is probable this will be the last semi-annual session of the Council, and hereafter the entire business for the year will be conducted in one session.

Two more blocks of Hillcrest Orchard Stock were purchased recently at 120 by two of the largest orchardists in Annapolis Co., Mr. Arthur Harris, of Annapolis Royal and Mr. Fred Johnson, of Bridgetown, says the Kentville Chronicle.

An Easter dance came off on Monday night in Primrose Hall with a large number in attendance. The Mitchell's furnished the music. Messrs L. Everett and R. Connell were the committee, with Mrs. H. Everett and Mrs. W. Connell as chaperons.

Attention is called to the special service for men only to be held in St. James' church next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, at which an address will be given by the Missioner, the Rev. A. J. Bott. All men are heartily invited to this service. Hymn books provided. Subject: "The manliness of religion."

The brightness of the Easter Season has been enhanced this year by sunny spring-like days. Good Friday was very warm and bright and the succeeding days, with the exception of Monday which was somewhat chilly, have been tempered by warm sunshine. It is seldom that Easter falls so late as it does this year.

The Halifax and South-Western train, bound for Halifax, left the track at East River, near Chester, about nine o'clock yesterday morning. Spreading rails is said to have been the cause, and the engine and five cars left the track. No one was hurt but some of the passengers got a fright and a shaking up when the train left the track.

Messrs Hoyt & Reed have been making some changes in their building at the Middleton Marble & Granite Works. A light and roomy office has been fitted up on the second story and the space on the first floor formerly occupied by the office is now stored with handsome monuments awaiting transportation to their various destinations as soon as the roads improve.—Outlook.

The property of Mr. Mark Curry at Hampton has been leased for the summer by Mr. H.I. Munro, who will conduct a summer hotel for transient and permanent boarders. Mr. and Mrs. Munro have had considerable experience in catering to summer boarders and are well qualified to conduct such an enterprise, while the location of the hotel is one of the finest on the shore and is nicely adapted for the purpose. Hampton is a favorite resort for an outing for the people of Bridgetown and vicinity, who no doubt, will extend the new hotel a large patronage in addition to the tourist element which is sure to be attracted there.

A Local Catalogue House

Messrs. A.M. King & Son, Annapolis Royal, without doubt the most progressive Boys' and Men's Clothing and Furnishing firm in this part of the province, have just issued a Spring and Summer catalogue in competition with the Mail Order Department Stores of the Upper Provinces.

This is certainly an advance in the right direction, and we wish them all success in the enterprise. A local firm claiming to give the same advantage as offered by the big stores are at least worthy of a try before your cash is sent abroad.

Messrs. King & Sons' Want Book is made up of forty pages, brimful of boys' and mens' wear and will be gladly forwarded to any of our readers on a request from them.

PERSONAL

Rev. Dr. Jost left for Sackville yesterday.

Miss Snape and Miss Marjorie Snape left for England yesterday. They will spend a few days with friends in Halifax en route.

Mr. Louis A. Buckler of Halifax, a student at Mt. Allison and a prominent figure in college athletics, accompanied his friend, Mr. Fred Kinney, also prominent in Mt. Allison athletics, home for the Easter holidays.

Mr. Eugene T. Parker, of Dalhousie Law School spent the Easter vacation in Belleisle with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Parker, and leaves today for Amhesst, where on the evening of the 21st he will take part in a public debate on Reciprocity. Shortly after his return here he will depart for the Canadian West to engage in teaching during the summer vacation.

TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS FOR QUART OF HUMAN BLOOD

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

New York, April 12.—Two hundred men called at Mount Moriah Hospital yesterday in answer to an advertisement offering $25 for a quart of human blood. Most of them were penniless and all declared that the monetary reward was their sole consideration in applying.

G. J. Allen, a strapping sailor, was selected, and for half an hour blood flowed from his arteries into the veins of Mrs. Rosie Reiser. Allen wanted to depart when the operation was concluded, but surgeons detained him until he recovers his strength. Mrs. Reiser, who had lost blood through an internal hemorrhage, has a good chance of recovery.

5 cent and 10 cent bundles of newspapers at MONITOR OFFICE.

NOTICE

A large number of subscription accounts have gone forward from this office in the past three months and the response, we regret to say, has been less prompt than we could wish. Will our friends kindly remember that while these amounts are trifling in themselves, in the aggregate they run into a very large sum. We are now sending out drafts through the nearest bank for the larger amounts and must request that those not accepting drafts will immediately arrange their accounts by cash remittance.

Rothsay Lodge

D.D.G.M. W.C. Harris, M.D. of Barton, Digby Co., officially visited Rothsay Lodge, No. 41, A.F. & A.M. on Thursday evening, 13th inst and assisted in conferring the first and third degrees and also installed the officers for the ensuing year as follows:—

COMPARING NOTES

Mrs. Gushby Seeks Information From A Lady Caller.

"Oh, do tell me about your visit to London!" said Mrs. Gushby as she balanced herself on the edge of the sofa and clasped her hands. "You know I have been just dying to know what you thought of it, because you always have such clever ideas about things and always see them the way they aren't—although of course there isn't anything new to say about London, unless you went there no one else ever went—and you could not do that when everyone has been everywhere, could you? No, indeed! I suppose it is because the 'busses are so convenient, although I must say I never saw a sign in an American street car like: Passengers must remove their macintoshes before entering," and the way women jump on and off while in motion bumps everything! Frights! Perfect frights!

"That's just what I said, 'Frights' and it is all because of the way they dress, for their faces are pretty, but you do expect to see a placard in the shop windows: 'This gown guaranteed the dowdiest in London. Only $2-10-6'; though what the price might be I never did know so I just said to myself: 'I'll say 'Ten pence make one shilling; ten shillings make one pound,' and no doubt it will come near enough. I think their currency ought to be reformed or something. The idea of having penny pieces that are really two cents, and as big as a quarter of a dollar. But of course they are copper. It is copper, copper, copper, all over Europe, and I simply couldn't eat the Paris oysters, they were so coppery. Not that I ate any in London, but the only time I needed for an English mutton chop in England the water just stood and stared. But of course all mutton chops are English mutton chops in England, although they do come from Canada—or Australia.

"Yes, indeed. Just stood and stared, but they are usually so polite! It's 'Kew! Kew!' all the time and the shop girls, too. It is short for 'Thank you,' and you can't step on them that they don't 'Kew' about it. I didn't get out there, though.... Where? Oh, the Kew Gardens. Excuse me, but I thought you were paying attention! They said they were lovely and all that, but the Beautifiers were such a disappointment to me. Not at all gaudy, as I had been led to believe, but you do get so cheated over there. I got some perfectly beautiful real lace at Malines that wasn't real at all, but of course that wasn't in London. But the asparagus was simply superb in Malines, of course, I was speaking of Malines, wasn't I? Right across from the station; and all over Europe. I kept saying to myself: 'Malines for lace and asparagus!' It was such a blessing to find one thing in Europe that had not been overestimated. The Frenchmen are not at all polite at heart. No, indeed! Mostly whippersnappers.

"And I think St. Paul's was the herest looking thing I ever saw inside. I suppose it grows on one, but I was so sick of toms. You know how toms are for a steady diet, and there was a much better collection at that other tomb place. Westminster Abbey? Yes, that's it. We drove there from the tower, and although I did think the Paris cabmen were the raggedest in the world we were actually stung by them in London. Indeed, yes! He took us to the wrong door, and when we asked him, in the politest way, to drive us to the right door, he charged another whole fare and, after all, we could have gone in at the other door, and it was all toms, don't you think? But of course it must be broadening, although it wasn't the season for going into Paris sewers.

But we went down into and up into everything else mentioned in the books. "I do think, though, there ought to be more things to go up into in London. You can be going up all the time in Paris—towers and cathedrals and things, but I suppose the English don't approve of it. It is low. Not the society, of course, for aristocracy is aristocracy, and has an uplifting effect, but all we saw of it was signs on the shops, and the poor are certainly sodden. I never saw anything so hopeless in my life, except trying to find the 'bus that is going where you want to go. I just gave it up and went where I didn't want to go.

"Of course I saw all the galleries. Dozens of them! The pictures made quite an impression on me. Some of them I shall never forget, until my dying day. There was that one—I simply can't remember what it was now, but you will recall it. It was in one of the galleries, and was painted by—I forget his name. But it was a very impressive picture. No, now I come to think of it, that wasn't in London; it was in Amster-dam. Or London. I remember it distinently, because the guide could not speak a word of English, and if he had been an English guide he could have, wouldn't he?

"Oh, I'm so glad you agree with me on that point, at least. "The man that rowed us up the Thames spoke English. He was a very thorough English gentleman, and came from Canada, and told us a great deal about himself while we were looking at Windsor Castle. He described his home town most thoroughly, but we forgot to have him tell us about the castle, and I dre-say it was just as well, for we had become so accustomed to not understanding guides that it didn't matter. He would probably have talked toms. They all do. His grandmother died when he was a mere child and he might have mentioned her tomb, but he didn't. It was a perfect day for me—not a tomb in it.

"Oh, did you ever know that monkeys don't have fleas? I never, never knew that in all my life, and I might never have known it if I hadn't gone abroad. Travel is certainly broadening. The keeper at the Zoo assured us so time and again, about no fleas. That was one thing we learned that was not in the guide-book, but I suppose it will be in the next edition. Well, I got over trying to see everything the guide-books mention. I just decided to go along calmly, and if I came to the Embankment, look at it, and what I didn't come across I saw quite as well in the picture postcards, and much better colored. As far as I'm concerned, I think a person might as well stay at home and see Europe on postcards, for after all, there is no telling whether the crown jewels in the Tower are real or only imitation. But I don't suppose it would be as broadening. A person might look at a thousand postcards and not broaden a bit. You certainly can't tell whether monkeys have fleas or not by looking at a postcard, can you?"

"Well, I'm awfully glad to hear what you thought of London. I think that is what broadens one most—coming home and comparing experiences. I don't suppose we notice in ourselves that we have broadened any, but other people do. It makes us so much pleasanter companions, don't you think? So many people have been surprised when I mentioned that monkeys don't have fleas. I suppose that is why Mr. Roosevelt went to Africa—he has so much more to talk about since he came back.

"Oh, must you go? Well, I have enjoyed listening to your experiences so much!"

AN OPEN LETTER.

Nelson H. Reed, Shelburne, N.S.
Dear Sir:—I had rheumatism in my feet for a year and a half. I could not get any relief. Two doctors attended me. Neither did me any good. Was about to give up trying when your agent told me of Reed's Earthing Cure. I used six boxes and in less than two months was completely cured. You can use this when and wherever you like.

Yours truly,
GEORGE H. STAY,

CURED UP CONSTITUTION

Mr. Andrews praises Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Mr. George Andrews of Halifax, N.S., writes: "For many years I have been troubled with chronic Constipation. This ailment never comes single-handed, and I have been a victim to the many ills that constipation brings in its train. Medicine after medicine I have taken in order to find relief, but one and all left me in the same hopeless condition. It seemed that nothing would expel from me the one ailment that caused so much trouble, yet at last I read about these Indian Root Pills.

That was indeed a lucky day for me, for I was so impressed with the statements made that I determined to give them a fair trial. They have regulated my stomach and bowels. I am cured of constipation, and I claim they have no equal as a medicine. For over half a century Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have been curing constipation and clogged kidneys, with all the ailments which result from them. They cleanse the whole system and purify the blood. Sold everywhere at 25c. a box.

THE RUBBER COMPANY CASE.

Some days ago The Herald published a dispatch from Boston, announcing that Messrs. Wheeler and Shaw had been arrested at the instance of the United States post office authorities, on a charge of wrongful use of mails in connection with the selling of stock of the North American Rubber company. The information which led to this action was furnished by Herbert Crowe, of Halifax, who had purchased two hundred shares at $3.50 per share. Mr. Crowe considers that he has lost his money, and that he has been defrauded of it. Wheeler and Cox have been arrested and are now out on bail.

For Aged People

Old Folks Should be Careful in Their Selection of Regulative Medicine

The Telephone Committee Recommends a Merger of the Two Companies

It is Likely There Will be an Amalgamation Based on the Report of the Committee Appointed by the Shareholders of the Nova Scotia Telephone Company, Presented Recently.

The committee appointed some weeks ago by the shareholders of the Nova Scotia Telephone company to inquire into the financial position of that company, and also to report upon the resources of the Maritime Telegraph and Telephone company, upon the offer of a lease by the latter company, has completed its work, and presented a report at a meeting of the directors of the latter company.

It is understood that the report recommends that a merger of the two companies be effected, and that terms are suggested which the committee believe will be satisfactory to both concerns.

It will be remembered that the Maritime Telegraph and Telephone company offered to lease the Nova Scotia company, guaranteeing a dividend of seven per cent. on the company's stock, and agreeing to pay 125 per cent. for one share as stockholders of the Nova Scotia Telephone company desired to sell.

The offer was fully discussed at the shareholders' meeting, and the appointment of the committee, which has now reported, was the result.

The offer was to lease at a guaranteed dividend of one per cent. more than that which is now paid, coupled with the offer to buy shares at 125. The report of the committee apparently discards the idea of a lease and substitutes therefore the recommendation of a merger.

The terms, while different in form it is understood are not very materially different in fact, and as stated the committee believe that they will prove satisfactory to the shareholders of both companies.

The next move will be for the directors of the Nova Scotia Telephone company, after they have more fully discussed the report of the committee, to send it to the shareholders. This will be done without any undue loss of time.

It may be taken for granted, from what is heard on the street, that there will be a merger of the Maritime Telegraph and Telephone company and the Nova Scotia Telephone company.

When a medicine must be given to young children it should be pleasant to take. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is made from loaf sugar, and the roots used in its preparation give it a flavor similar to maple syrup, making it pleasant to take. DIED OF BROKEN HEART.

New York dispatch:—Vindicated too late by the courts, Rev. William Nicholas Ackley, rector of St. Andrew's Protestant Episcopal church in South Brooklyn, died at the rectory this morning, only a few hours before Justice Marean in the state supreme court rendered a decision upholding him in his fight against a hostile vestry. Twice within the past nine months the board of vestrymen, demanding that Mr. Ackley resign, locked him out of his church, and he was compelled to preach outdoors to those of his congregation still loyal from the church steps. He protested to Bishop Burgess, who upheld his right to the pulpit, but the contention preyed on his mind. His health failed rapidly, and today he died—his friends say, of a broken heart. He was sixty-one years old.

THE INVALUABLE LEMON

There are few fruits which contain so many domestic virtues as the lemon. The extracted juice has cooling qualities for persons suffering from throat and chest troubles. One of the homeliest, but not on that account to be despised, remedies for a cold is to drink a glass of lemons as hot and strong as it can be swallowed when in bed at night.

Lemon juice and honey are beneficial for coughs. The ordinary method is to mix the juice of the fresh fruit with equal parts of honey, but the better plan is to take a large lemon in the oven until it is thoroughly soft, then add sufficient strained honey to the pulp to produce a thick syrup.

Obstinate corns can be cured by the application of a poultice made of bread crumbs and lemon juice. A thin slice of the fruit takes the place of the poultice during the day, process to be repeated as often as necessary.

A small bottle of fresh lemon juice should be kept on every toilet table in summer. It is useful to allay irritation caused by the stings and bites of flies and insects. A dash of it in water forms an excellent mouth wash, whitening the teeth, preventing the formation of tartar, and sweetening the breath.

Women who suffer from torpid liver should take the juice of half a lemon squeezed into a tumbler of water (without sugar) on rising every morning.

Two or three slices of lemon in a cup of hot tea (without the addition of milk) will often cure a nervous or sick headache, and many people find that a lemon is an excellent preventive of train or sea sickness.

WALKING IN OUR OWN SHADOW.

Much of the darkness of our lives is due to our walking in our own shadow. And our shadow will never trouble us when we walk towards the light.

There is a big pot of yellow daffodils on my working desk. Yesterday morning when they were watered they were accidentally turned away from the sun.

In the middle of the forenoon in a pen-nibbling moment, I gazed at them and was brought out of my abstraction to realize that these yellow blooms were slowly turning their faces back toward the sun.

By noon they had completely accomplished this tremendous—for a flower, of course—charge.

tiful pink and white and gold baby. It was cruel, hard to lose it, torture to have it taken from the warm cuddling place of her arms and put away in the cold indifferent earth.

My neighbor's grief hung like a pall on her home. Her manner is as the sombre fluttering of craps on a door. There are four other beautiful children in that home. They are enough to make sunshine anywhere. And they need their mother's companionship. They suffer from the depression of her determined grief.

I wonder how long she will persist in facing the dark corner of her loss instead of turning towards the sunshine of her great possessions.

You see she is not as wise as the daffodils.

Every life has its dark corner of less or deprivation or unfulfilled desires and ambitions.

Every life has its sunshine of human beings to love and to be loved and needed by, of work to do, of a religion to be felt, of friendship and pleasures to enjoy.

There are times, of course, when circumstances face us towards that dark corner for a time.

That is inevitable. But to grow, facing it, is not. And if we permit ourselves to go so, our lives will lose their spring and radiance just as surely as my daffodils would have lost their color and freshness and faded before their time if they had not turned back towards the sun.

Sometimes it is a great effort to turn away from that dark corner, I know, but think of the persistent effort my daffodils made.

Wise little daffodils. Brave little daffodils. How much wiser they are than many, many people.—Ruth Cameron.

SKIMMING THE CREAM.

"If you are going to give a pan of milk, don't skim it first," the old grandmother used to say, meaning if you are going to do a favor, don't spoil it by an ungracious word or manner.

Haven't we noticed how much of this "skimming" goes on in the ordinary family intercourse?

"Another errand?" I can never go down town without half a dozen commissions," complains Bob, when his sister asks him to bring a book from the library. He never refuses to oblige her; he does not really count it an inconvenience; he only takes the cream off his kindness.

"Those gloves ripped again," exclaims Mary, when John wants her to take a few stitches. "It seems to me they always need mending when I'm in a hurry with something else." She would be shocked at his going shabby, and distressed if anyone thought her avoiding to render such office, but she makes it a little unpleasant to ask the favor.

The children follow the fashion. Tommy shuts the door at Bridget's request, but he grumbles at having to leave his top. Susie goes to the door when she is sent but she departs with a protest that it is Tommy's turn. Thus all day long people who love one another skim the sweetness from every service they render.

PLAY WELL.

How would she like it if her husband, the instant he entered the door began to tell all the small and large trials he has had to pass through and master during the day?

One husband made a clever reply when his wife, with solemn face, led him into the sitting room and bade him "look at the dust on that table. I have told Jane forty times today to rub that table, and just look at it."

He studied the table intently, passed his hand over its dusty surface, and, with great impressiveness said: "My dear I have been lumb-gugged out of a big thing today that would have paid me millions; I have seen two dollars taken to go to the right kind of dusting of a prosperous bank; but never, never have I seen such a dreadful thing as this dusty table."

We must play the game of life somehow. To play it with zest and enthusiasm, with love in our words and deeds, is the purest happiness this side of heaven. And we can do this wherever our lot may be cast. We may win no applause, save that of conscience, which is the echo of Heaven's plaudits. It means striving and conquering. At times the wind of temptation may cut us to the bone, and discouragement lay its cold hand upon the heart, but if we play well we must march on—always towards the goal. We may not find the right kind of dust, but if we go home with the marks of stress and storm upon us, unshamed and with confidence, we may hope to hear, "Well done," from the Divine Impire.

A feature of the wash blouses this season is, what many of us have often wished for, less ornamentation, and the lace that is used of a better quality. The scalloped and button-holed edge at the closing with just an inch or two in width of Irish or Cluny lace at the otherwise collarless neck, is all the ornamentation, on some of the better class blouses. Fine tucks to give the necessary fullness; or to form a yoke shape are used on the batiste and sheer linen blouses, with perhaps a little good lace insertion outlining the tucked portion or in scrolls enclosing small medallions of lace or embroidery. But whole surfaces covered with fancy work are uncalled for.

DEARDED THE GOVERNOR.

Capt. Dan Macaulay, a Newfoundland-lander engaged many years in sealing, had an adventure at the Com-manderoki seal rookeries some years ago, which was as dramatic as any story.

It was a dull April morning when his schooner Beatrice—she afterwards became the Duchess of Bedford when used by the Mikkoisen Arctic expedition and was wrecked in the Arctic—started off the seal rookeries and the Russian guard of the governor and ten men did not see the sealer in the fog.

There were twenty-four men on the sealing schooner and fifteen of them landed with rifles and went direct to the little fort near the seal rookery. Capt. Macaulay went in to see the governor of the island, and presented his compliments. He told the Russian that he had come to raid the sealing grounds. He informed the governor that ten men were on good to drive out his twenty-four men, and they might as well look at the matter in a proper light.

He had brought some whisky ashore anyhow, in the present of the governor, the Russian sat down at one side of the table, the sealer at the other, while his crew was engaged on the sealing grounds clubbing and skinning the valuable fur bears. For several days Capt. Macaulay remained on the rookery leading his schooner with pelts. Then he sailed away.

OPENING FOR BOY SCOUTS.

Why not have the Boy Scouts' idea on the farm? Instead of the poles, they could carry hoes or hay forks, according to the season, and among their duties would be: Hunting for concealed eggs in the barn and barnyard; breaking up encampments of Canada thistles and other agricultural enemies; apprehending stray chickens; working along rows of potatoes and around corn hills, and stalking and bringing home cows.—Canadian Courier.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES PAIN

TWO ACTORS OF DISTINCTION.

Torontonians in Red-Tape Play Seemed Rather Nervous.

Two well-known Torontonians whose talent for acting has been allowed to lie dormant all their lives made their debuts a few days ago. Mr. Lawrence Solman, the manager of the Toronto Ferry Co., will always be able to say that they appeared in the original production of "Rupert Hughes' farce, 'Excuse Me.' It was given a reading here in order that the owners might copyright it in England, as the law requires a red-tape performance, and the stage manager had a very varied array of talent at his disposal.

Mr. Garwood appeared very much at home in the role of a clergyman, who was trying to disguise while on a holiday, so that no one would recognize his profession. Mr. Solman had the part of an Easterner who was crossing the continent in order to be married, and it appeared to make him very nervous. The nervousness may have been assumed to fit the part; but may have resulted from an effort to keep track of his lines and also occasionally answer the "phone in the grant office, but a casual observer would have said that Lol Solman had stage fright.

The audience was very small and select, and the way in which they applauded seemed to discern some of the less experienced actors, though the members of the professional company held their own. At the close of the second act, a large section of the audience interrupted. His remarks did not suggest perfect satisfaction, but he may have been over-critical.

"I may not have paid anything to see the play, but I think I have a right to demand a rain check."

HE LOOKS GOOD.

Arthur Gilbert, the Arthabaska farmer, who was the corpse upon which the naval post-mortem was held, and the man solely responsible for all the trouble, was promptly sent to the morgue, but his appearance in the House, but judging by the looks of the agriculturist from Sir Wilfrid's home riding, he is not the kind of chap to let a little thing like that worry him.

He stands six feet high, sports a heavy black moustache and a Prince Albert coat, and has the appearance of being well able to take care of himself. And by a strange turn of the wheel of political fortune, the very first vote he cast in Parliament was against Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and his followers, against the amendment of Mr. Borden, calling for the submission of the Government's naval policy for the endorsement of the people. And to show the fickleness of politicians, when the new man with the soil of his Arthabaska farm hardly off his boots, rose to register his first vote the roar of cheers from the right caused a blush to flood the visage of him who met the angry and determined crowd of his own choosing and laid him low. Those cheers sounded strangely, especially as a few moments later a chorus of jeers was raised when Mr. Gilbert voted for the Monk amendment this time.

But those who would take the same Mr. Gilbert for a political duellist are apt to be fooled ere long. He has the look of a man who knows his own mind. His maiden speech was modest and unassuming, and he made his own point in a little tribute after it was over. Gilbert may be anti-British, but unless the stigma of the "excuse me" farce is given to the press, will be worth watching. He looks all right.—Saturday Night.

NINETY "NOT OUT."

"If I had my life to live again I would, without hesitation, be a Free Church minister. There never was such golden opportunity for the man with a Christian message as to-day." Thus Dr. Guinness Rogers, the veteran preacher, orator, and politician, who recently entered upon his ninety-first year. Dr. Rogers has a ministerial record of sixty-five years and is the oldest surviving ex-chairman of the Congregational Union. And, in spite of his great age, his voice is still as clear as a bell, and his energy amazing. Needless to say, he has some interesting recollections, and can look back to the time when there was hardly a daily paper in the provinces. In the house of his father, a minister, they had to be satisfied with a weekly journal which cost fivepence a copy. To-day, as he once remarked, papers pick out of an empty train more newspapers than were taken in a whole town seventy years ago.

A DARING LADY AERONAUT.

It is a curious fact that the Hon. Mrs. Assheton Harbord, who recently placed another long balloon voyage to her credit by making an aerial voyage to France, became a balloonist by accident. In 1906 she went to see some friends who were making an ascent, and at the last moment they suggested that she should go with them. She went, and returned to earth an enthusiastic aeronaut. Since then she has made more than a hundred voyages, owns her own balloon, and has been entertained by the members of the Aero Club in token of their appreciation of her pluck. She has made four voyages across the Channel, and on one occasion, when making a descent in France in a storm, was pitched out of the car as it bumped on the ground. "I can claim, therefore," humorously remarks Mrs. Harbord, "to be the only woman who has landed in France on her head."

THEY CANNOT AFFORD IT.

It is said only ten per cent. of 150,000 English paupers in the poorhouses will avail themselves of the privilege of going on the pension list at the new year. As it is alleged it costs 24 shillings per week for their keep, and the pension is but five, it looks as if they, and perhaps their keepers, know a good thing when they see it.

NOT IN CHINA SHOP.

Curious Adventure of Bull Which Climbed Castle Stairs.

One day recently people walking in the neighborhood of Ballydams Castle, Athy, glanced up at the historic pile, stopped and rubbed their eyes, then rubbed them again. Standing high up on the battlements of the fortress, calmly looking out over the surrounding country, was a sturdy bullock. There were various wagers as to how the animal reached its precarious position. That it could climb up the ninety feet of stone spiral stairs, broken and worn in parts, seemed absolutely incredible.

It was found, however, that the bullock had actually done so, tempted by an open doorway, and the cool air above. On reaching the top the poor animal seemed to realize its danger, and the big crowd that the strange sight attracted were not a little apprehensive that it would jump over the low balcony to destruction below.

Several times it seemed inclined towards this course; with forefete on to the low wall, it would gaze nervously and wistfully from his terrible height, then retreat, make a circuit of its narrow position and repeat the performance. At length the on-lookers determined to try and secure the animal, although success seemed very remote, and the effort certainly was not unattended by risk to the lives of the rescuers, and the castle itself, whom went aloft to attempt to catch the animal. A wild rush of the frightened brute might mean that the party would be hurled from the parapet, only two or three feet away. However, after a good deal of skilful manoeuvring, the rescuers induced the bullock to get into the gallery, and gradually it was forced down the narrow stairs, eventually getting to terra firma safely. Ballydams Castle, the theatre of this occurrence, is one of the most interesting and historic, and perhaps one of the best preserved of the many of those old strongholds with which ancient Leix is dotted. It stands on the land of Dermot Hurley, Ballydams, though the castle itself is in the control of the Board of Works.

THE LITTLE MAN AT THE PILLAR.

Close to the famous clock in the Cathedral of Strassburg there is a little man in stone gazing up at the angle of the pillar which supports the south wing of the cathedral. Long ago the little man who is now sculptured in stone stood there in flesh and blood. He used to stare up at the pillar with a criticising eye which swept it from top to bottom and again from bottom to top. Then he would shake his head doubtfully each time.

It happened once that a sculptor passed the cathedral and saw the little man looking up as if he did not like the looks of the pillar. "It seems to me that you are finding fault with the pillar, my good fellow," said the stonemason, and the little man nodded as if pleased to be found out.

"Well, what do you think of it? Speak out, my man," said the sculptor.

"The pillar is fine enough," the little man said slowly. "The figures on it are beautiful, but I fear that slender pillar cannot hold up the heavy weight much longer. Soon it will totter and fall, and all will go to pieces."

An odd fancy seized the stonemason. "You shall stay right where you are always, gazing at the pillar until it falls under the heavy weight," he said. And he brought from his workshop his hammer and chisel and made in stone a figure of the little man just as he was, looking upward with a knowing face and an important air. And there this little figure in stone stands to-day, awaiting the fall of the pillar.
