A DISCOVERY

According to Canada—a new weekly published in London—St. John, Halifax and other ambitious winter ports in these provinces are all to be eclipsed by Gaspe. Cattle, grain, passengers and mails, Gaspe is to claim them all—according to Canada. We may have our doubts about Gaspe's ability to stifle all St. John's ambitions, but there may be exception in Halifax and Charlottetown in Sydney; but Canada has no doubt. It is Gaspe first, and there is no second. Says Canada:—

"The Atlantic, Quebec and Western Railway Company intend to make the harbor and port of Gaspe the key to St. Lawrence trade, its geographical position, aided by the short cut which will be taken by rail to the mainland giving an advantage of some hundred miles over Halifax, N. S., Sydney, C. B., or St. John, N. B., in the race to and from the great centres of Canadian life. With the railway built, it is anticipated not only that a large share of the traffic which at present goes via Sydney to Port Aux Basques for Newfoundland will be diverted to this route, and thereby save some 200 miles of train haul, but that there will be provided the shortest all-Canadian route between the Great Lakes and the Canadian seaboard, and that, owing to its eastern terminus being a big sea port, and having connection with the Intercolonial Railway at Edmundston, the new line will open up an exceedingly rich district, and at the same time provide an efficient trade outlet to the markets of Quebec, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and the West. Some fourteen and a half hours will be saved on through traffic from Liverpool to Quebec, Montreal, and the West, via Gaspe Harbor. As a grain and cattle route from the West, it is needless to say that this and other advantages will no doubt bring it into great favor. Grain shipped by this route will have less train haul by some hundreds of miles in its favor, to compete with the more eastern ports of Halifax, St. John, or Sydney. As a shipping point for the exportation of live stock to Europe, it must become the port of the future. The cattle can be saved the long voyage down the river, with a corresponding improvement in their condition. If it be thought desirable to give cattle from the West a rest after a long and tedious journey on a board the train, ample accommodation will be had at the harbor, where the cattle may rest and recuperate before undertaking their sea voyage. So far as passenger and mail services are concerned, the new route via Gaspe will provide not only the shortest ocean voyage, but will meet the shortest of a day in the journey to the West, the importance of which cannot be over-stated."

All of which, however, positive, is not likely to cause any great and immediate boom in harbor front lots in Gaspe. Advantages so numerous would surely have been discovered before this.

RUSSIA'S PROBLEM

A New York journal gives a very interesting review of the Russian land situation, showing how serious is the task before the Duma. The figures are taken from official records. We quote:— "The broad facts of the present situation, summarized in the 'Official Messenger,' were set forth in greater detail in an official bulletin of two years ago. According to that publication the four hundred millions of desiatines, or say, 1,000,000 acres of Russia in Europe (excluding Poland, Cis-Caucasia and the Don province), were divided as follows: (State domains, 157 millions; property of the imperial family, 8 millions; church estates, 10 millions; private owners, 85 millions; rural communes, 130 millions. Divided according to the availability of the land for culture, the following results were given: Arable land, 110 millions; pasture and pasture, 50 millions; forests, 150 millions; land unsuitable for culture, 90 millions. In other words, the entire area of the farm land of European Russia, including 422,000,000 acres, or less than 18 millions more than the entire area of the 'improved' farm land of the United States as given in the returns of last census. It should be remembered that in addition to the 414 million acres of improved farm land with us, there are 24 millions returned as 'unimproved.' On the whole of this land there are, at most, 25 millions of people in these United States directly dependent. But in European Russia, with its 422,000,000 acres, and beyond that nothing save forest, desert or marsh, there are at least 80,000,000 of people quartered on the land, and, except for some cottage industries, absolutely dependent on its yield for their subsistence. There is this further aggravation of the situation, that as Dr. Del-

on puts it: 'The Russian peasant is helpless, listless and trustful in Providence. He barely tills the soil, and expects it to bring forth abundance of cereals.' * * * Taking peasant and squire together, we find that the Russian harvest yields, on an average, 22 1/2 pecks of rye or wheat per head of the population, whereas the North American gives 66.9, the Danish 50 and the Austro-Hungarian 47 1/2. "The official figures recently issued place the available area of arable land in European Russia somewhat lower than the returns above quoted. That is to say, after deducting the lands which are unsuitable for agricultural and those which are covered with forests, there remain only 153,000,000 desiatines of which 111,000,000 already belong to the peasants. There are thus 42,000,000 desiatines, or about 113,400,000 acres, belonging to the crown, to the church and to private proprietors available for distribution among the peasantry either in communal groups or in severalty. The proportion of this area in the hands of private owners amounts to 102,000,000 acres. In other words, the latest returns show that of the 153,000,000 desiatines, held by nobles, merchants, depositors in the Peasants' Bank and others, only two-fifths, or 38,000,000 desiatines, were in arable land, and 35,000,000 desiatines were mortgaged to banks and other financial institutions for an amount equal to $853,000,000. On this borrowed capital there is an annual interest charge of $46,000,000, and the government levies on it a tax of over one million dollars, in addition to the heavier taxes imposed by the provinces and districts of the empire. The problem needs only to be stated to show how complex it is, and how little hope there can be of its satisfactory solution while the Russian peasant remains what he is. If, instead of demanding more land, he could be induced to take the pains necessary to double the returns on the land he has already got, there would be some substantial ground for having a sanguine view of the future."

Evidently the chief reason preventing King Edward from visiting Canada is that he cannot very well come here without going to Australia also, and to visit both the Dominion and the Commonwealth is too large an order.

All the South American republics are fierce fighters, but Salvador has far and away the best press agent. The general slays his thousands, but the press agent his tens of thousands. Salvador wins, in a center.

GIBSON TELLS HOW HE FLEECED OLD MRS. STENTON

On Stand in Kanan Murder Inquiry and Later Held in Heavy Jail on Suspicion.

New York, July 17.—Burton W. Gibson, formerly counsel for Mrs. Alice Kanan who was mysteriously murdered on the night of June 8 in the old homestead in the Bronx, occupied by her mother, Mrs. L. A. Stenton, and herself, tonight was committed to the Tombs by order of Coroner McLaughlin, in default of $25,000 bail. This action followed the close of the coroner's inquest tonight, when the jury brought in a verdict that Mrs. Kanan was murdered by a person or persons unknown and recommended that Gibson be held for examination by the grand jury. Gibson himself occupied the stand during the greater part of today's session. Questioned about his business relations with Mrs. Stenton and her daughter, Gibson said that he came into the case several years ago when Mrs. Stenton engaged him to defend "equator" proceedings which had been instituted against her property and to establish her right to title. For this, he said, he was to receive 40 per cent of the value of the property. Mrs. Stenton to pay all taxes and assessments. Gibson said that he learned that no assessments or taxes had been paid since 1888. After prolonged litigation the property was sold in September, 1905, for $80,000, ostensibly to Archibald McFarland, but in reality to Gibson, and nine months later was resold for $200,000. Of the profit Gibson admitted that $20,000 was to go to himself and the remainder to his father, McFarland and John Kelley who were associated in the deal. It appeared that the only money received by Mrs. Stenton was $6,000 given to her by the lawyer Ashton and that Gibson himself had held a lien on the property for more than $20,000.

Gibson admitted that after the murder he had visited the Stenton house and had removed certain documents and articles of value. This, he claimed, he had a right to do and declared that he had notified the police at the time. Describing in detail his movements on the night of the murder, Gibson said that he had been in a cafe in Nassau street up to 9 o'clock and had then gone to Brooklyn, where he visited the Kings County Democratic Club, remaining until half-past 11 o'clock. Two witnesses testified to having seen Gibson in the Nassau street cafe, and Howard Chapman, a reporter, testified having seen him at the Democratic club about 10 o'clock. This ended the hearing and the case was then given to the jury who, after an hour's deliberation, returned the verdict. The specific charge on which Gibson is held is being a "suspect" person.

THE MUNICIPAL COUNCIL The municipal council decided yesterday that the clothing for the jail prisoners should be made by inmates of the institution. Authority to have the indices in the registry office partly codified and revision was granted on the recommendation of the finance committee. The jail prisoners were reported by Councillor Lewis to have done considerable work in Fernald, and a vote of thanks to the councillor was carried unanimously. It was decided that the government should be memorialized to enable the municipality to charge a higher license fee for rec-

Ainsley—"I hear Jones is getting on very well." Bawson—"Yes, and he's getting well off, too." She—"Could you see deception written on her face?" He—"No; but I could see it painted there." Perkins—"I married her on her father's account." Smythe—"On her father's account?" Perkins—"On her father's banking account." A prison visitor recently asked one of the prisoners how he came to be there. "Ward," was the answer. "How was that, pray?" "Well, I wanted another man's watch. He wasn't willing I should have it, and the judge wants me stay here five years." He—"That was when I proposed to you, of course." "Madam," said the obliging shopkeeper, "we have some nice horsetails just in. Would you like some?" "No," answered Mrs. Noctwood; "it would be no use to us; we don't keep a house."

The Magistrate (severely) — "Now, sir, this is the twenty-fifth time you have been before the court. You will be fined fifteen shillings or."

Hardened Offender—"Look here, sir, could you make a slight reduction, as I'm such a regular customer?"

Neil—"So you've broken with him?" Bell—"Yes; he was entirely too hard to please."

Neil—"Gracious! How he must have changed since he proposed to you!"

TOLD BY THE EXPLORER. The explorer was entertaining his friends with tales of his arctic region. "And once," he related, "I was cornered by a polar bear, and didn't have a bullet to protect myself. Tears came into my eyes as I thought of home."

"What then?" asked the breathless friends. "Why, the bears fear us hard as rocks, and, naming them in my gun, I fired and killed the bear."

A LEG LEGEND. "The worst winter I remember was when we were besieged," said the old soldier. "We only had one bite a day for two weeks, and that was horseflesh." "I remember," said the tramp companion, "having for a month on one bite, and that was out of my own leg."

"You old cannibal. Do you expect me to believe that?" roared the old soldier. "It's true. Believe it or not," said the tramp calmly. "A dog took a bite out of my leg, and the companion kept me like a lord for four weeks."

SAY LETTERS WERE FORGED

Important Evidence Brought Out at Yesterday's Session of Hartje Divorce Case.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 17.—Perhaps the most important development in the Hartje divorce case today was the outline of the defense that was disclosed by the testimony of Miss Ida Scott, the 16 year old sister of Mrs. Mary Scott Hartje. That she had written two or three envelopes addressed to "Tom" Manning, the coachman, co-respondent in the divorce proceedings, and that she had also given Annie sheets of her paper, were among the significant statements made.

Thus the presence of the single envelope among all the love letters presented by the mother's testimony concerning the Wagner letter was questioned. Mrs. Scott maintained that she had seen the "Susie" Wagner letter before it was mailed, and that there were statements in the original letter that were not in the alleged Wagner that was exhibited in court, and that the letter produced by court contained all the statements that were not in the original Wagner letter.

John F. Scott, Mrs. Hartje's father, said that it was impossible for his daughter to have met Manning or to have telephoned to him, as she was never out of the house alone and all the Scott home usually had a man on the telephone who used and who used it.

SUCCESSFUL INFANTRY COURSE HAS JUST ENDED

Young Militia Officers Have Completed a Course of Training in Halifax --- Good Words for the Officers in Charge of the Garrison.

One of the most successful infantry courses yet conducted at Halifax, recently ended, and as a result, a number of qualified officers will be added to the strength of the Canadian militia this year. The course was of three months' duration, and was of a most complete nature, a number of new subjects being taken up. The attached officers resided in the officers' quarters at Wellington Barracks, and every morning was tendered them by the permanent officers, who did all in their power to make the course a most enjoyable one. The officer in charge of the attached party was Lieut. E. K. Eaton, and under his supervision the work of the course was carried on. He expressed himself as much pleased with the result of the examinations, which ended on June 22nd. Those who passed were as follows:— Lieut. Filmore, Amherst; Lieut. C. W. Holt, Amherst; Lieut. Charles O'Rourke, River Hebert; Lieut. H. T. Sauer; Lieut. W. H. Campbell, St. John; Lieut. Brown, Parrboro; Lieut. Cholmer, Parrboro; Lieut. Pines, Kentville; Lieut. Beirne, Kentville; Lieut. A. McArthur, New Glasgow; Lieut. A. Stirling, M. D., Fredericton; Lieut. Brennan, Summerside; P. E. Island; Lt. Fletcher, Mahone Bay; and Lt. McDonald, Springhill. All of these officers will receive a first class certificate in infantry drill. Lieut. E. K. Eaton is a native of Truro, N. S., and for some time has been in charge of the course conducted at Wellington Barracks. He is a Kingston graduate, and is one of the most popular officers still retained at Halifax. The other officers, accompanied by Lt. Eaton, were photographed

A HANDSOME NEW CHURCH

FREDERICTON July 18—St. Anthony's church at St. Mary's Ferry, York County, which is being dedicated today by Bishop Casey is one of the finest church edifices in the province. It is a rendering of the Gothic style and is built on the nave and aisle principle. The superstructure is built of seasoned spruce and handsomely finished, while the inside walls are finished in the rough style of plastering and waisted coated with a rich red wood. The building was designed by J. C. Dumasque & Son, of Halifax, and is indeed a credit to their art. The exterior is painted a creamy color, trimmed with green, and the interior is painted in cream and gold. The work on the building was carried

CHILDREN ARE MADE HAPPY IN BOSTON "SAND GARDENS"

Laura Simmons writes as follows in the Portland Express about the Boston sand gardens for children:—"For Children Only" I decided that I was not going to allow any such sign as that to keep me out. Nothing was said about children of a larger growth; and why, indeed, have sand gardens never been inaugurated for grown-ups, for old children, with gray hair and tired hearts? Heaven knows that they, too, need to be diverted from this world's cares and dissensions to build sand-castles and dream little dreams playing idly in the cool, clear sand! I might have been there yet, peeping wistfully through the iron grating which separates the gardens from the busy streets, the noisy trolleys, and the impetuosity of ubiquitous automobiles, had it not been for a small boy who arrived just then. Anyone could see that he was a sand-garden boy, and he smiled at me so sweetly that I, smiling back, ventured to inquire his name. "Bobby Jermah Jenkins, Lock Box 314," was the somewhat astonishing reply. "Ain't you comin' in?" Besides, Bobby had a "way" with him, and a smile that could easily have wiled a bird off a tree. Moreover, he was playing on a jewelpiece. All my life I have yearned to play a jewelpiece—and when I saw him disappear through the entrance my mind was made up; nothing could have held me back then. So I unhesitatingly sneaked in after him, undismayed by a big, imposing-looking "pop," who approached at a short distance. But I need not have feared, for that lamb of the law, smiling and leaning in a new uniform, not only bowed upon the sand-garden hobos a sympathetic pat on the head or a toss up in the air, but even favored myself with a gracious nod and smile. He was truly charming, and I shall never judge hastily again. "Besides, I felt so diminished and 'tiddly' in my new surroundings; it a if he had patted me, too, and tossed me in the air I dare say it would not have occurred at all surprising. Bobby, Lock Box 314, I soon beheld grinning radiantly at me from the heights of a swing (for sand-gardens are not the site shaded by the "little mother" that they shall not come again, that it is a chance of a lifetime, and that settles it. They outside.

Four little "mothers" herself but a child of perhaps 12 or 14! Looky up she she gets a few swings during the afternoon, for she must "mind" the baby asleep in the cot and carriage, and oftentimes note stern justice to her small brothers by vigorous cuffing when they become too strenuous. She is a real genius of amazing ability—careful who has learned early in life the bitter lesson of renunciation. The sand gardens are a blessed relief for the overworked mother at home or tiring in the great city for daily bread.

Looking about again for the chronic Bobby, I found him in his dispirits with another lad. It seemed that the boys were fond of leaping over dunes and gardens into the ones beyond (such is the inventive genius of the small boy), hence the exciting disputes over their records of the running jumps. Someone had "cheated" and only the sight of the big cop in the distance averted a fight. As it was, they darkly muttered their "opinions" of one another; and no honest language could express what "my father," would do "to you tomorrow," etc.

Bobby had temperament—anyone could see that. No faint, feeble shades would describe him—he needs, like primary colors laid on thick and pasted, and being by nature irrational and pugnacious, I sided with him at once. I finally achieved peace by investing a marking-off process, whereby a rough stone kept crude record of the various jumps. The boys all seem to secretly anxious glance sideways at you while making their superhuman efforts—you realize that your position is really a very delicate and difficult one calling for a nice impartiality! You find yourself taking an intense interest in the whole show (the Maudsloki always a real spectator participant in the performance!)

Outside the grating the people hurry past—glancing at you as absentmindedly, perhaps wistfully sometimes. A small yellow dog looks in and barks yearningly, but the policeman keeps disconcerting about in the sunshine, stalling flies and exchanging hard luck stories with a sympathetic black and tan who has approached.

Six o'clock by the ever truthful Arlington street clock! I cannot understand how time flows so fast, as I came at four and have only been here about fifteen minutes! Bobby is moving a farewell to me from a distance; Greenwood is being hustled away by a vigorous older sister, her scant little blue cotton gown rendered scant little blue cotton gown rendered for the journey home by one big, consequential safety pin gleaming dazily in the dark; and the sand gardens are to be deserted until tomorrow.

And how I shall want to come back and play with Bobby, Lock Box 314, whenever and where the road, and sit there in that same pleasant seat with its "southern exposure" (even in our heavenly mansions some of us will yearn for a "southern exposure") and its view of the lovely Public Gardens.

For I had become as a child again, and for the last 25 years which had elapsed since I was the true sand-garden age—they were, as the good book says, "but as yesterday, or as a watch in the night!"

Lord Elgin has notified Earl Grey that King Edward will be unable to visit Canada. In Lord Elgin's message it is stated that it would be difficult for him to visit one part of his dominions, and decline to visit another, and to visit all would entail a much longer journey than his majesty is at present prepared to undertake.

Reports from the G. T. P. surveying parties engaged in New Brunswick are being received at Ottawa, and it is expected that late in September or early in October the commissioners will be ready to recommend a contract one of the routes. It is also expected that another section of the Quebec-Winnipeg line will be let about the same time.

POPE PIUS

FORCED OUT

His Palace Discovered to be Practically Falling to Pieces Over His Head.

ROME, July 16 - The Vatican palace, which has been the home of the Pope during more than 1,500 years, is practically falling to pieces, and Pope Pius X has commenced to move from his apartments. It has long been known that some parts of the palace are unsafe, and the discovery made this morning that the corner of the building where the pope's apartments are situated threatened to give way at any time necessitated His Holiness's temporary removal to his summer villa in the centre of the Vatican enclosure.

The walls of the Vatican palace are cracked and bulging. On one side they present from the exterior a decided convex appearance, showing that they are leaning outward, and must be immediately strengthened. To make the whole palace safe, it is estimated that it will cost at least $100,000. It would be necessary to shore up some of the floors while the exterior walls are being practically re- built.

The Pope's rooms in the Vatican palace are on the sixth story, directly under the dome of St. Peter's. They were formerly occupied by Cardinal Ruffini. The Vatican palace is one of a number of buildings constructed over three centuries, which include several parks and driveways. The building was begun in the year 300 A. D., and the outside length of the wall in one direction is 1,151 feet and 761 feet in the other. The walls of the various buildings are joined by a series of arches, which include the gardens and parks. The summer villa used by the Pope, one of three such retreats, is situated near the centre of the main park. The Vatican buildings contain eight great staircases and two hundred smaller staircases. The palace is the highest of all the groups of edifices. There are twenty-one and seven hundred windows, various dignitaries, chief of which is the Swiss Guard, especially noted for the freedom of Michael Angelo and the world-famed painting, "The Last Judgment." Here the Pope performs mass on special occasions.

There are one thousand halls and eleven thousand rooms in the Vatican buildings, including the rooms where the soldiers of the Swiss guard are and the stables and storerooms. It is said that the pope's private apartments are employed and live in the Vatican.

TORONTO CIVIC SCANDAL IN COURT

Toronto, July 17 - "Not guilty. We do not to be indicted summarily and are ready to go," said T. O. Robinson, K. C., in the police court this morning when he pleaded against Edward J. Lemox, arch- deacon, were read by Magistrate Kingford. Crown Attorney Ovelley asked for time to arrive at each station where the laborer must deposit the farm laborer's verification certificate with the C. P. R. agent.

If anyone has made prior arrangements with the C. P. R. agent, or with some farmer with whom they have worked previously, they will be issued free tickets as they proceed from starting point to C. P. R. station nearest the point of work, provided each point is not beyond Moncton, Yonkton, or Estevan, as free tickets will not be issued for points beyond those points. After 2 o'clock July 24, and this was agreed upon by counsel.

BASE BALL

There was no game in the West End League last evening. The Vins being short of players took on Murphy and Adams to play, and Captain Stubbs objected, stating to Captain Lord that he could not take on two other players. Lord agreed to get two other players, but Captain Stubbs also objected to O'Brien, who is one of the Vins' regular men. Captain Lord said that he would not play till O'Brien was hit off. O'Brien was one of their team and that he would not play till O'Brien was hit off. Captain Stubbs would not agree to continue the game, so all hands gathered around third base and the subject of taking on other players was argued.

THE OAR COATES AFTER NICE. W. J. Coates has challenged Harry "Bud" Nice to a single shell race, mile and a half with turn twice to be rowed under the auspices of the Neptune Rowing Club, time and place to be agreed upon. It is quite evident that Coates is not satisfied with his defeat by Nice at Fredericton, and it is to be hoped that "Bud" will see his way clear to accept. By the challenge a trophy will be expected from the club under whose auspices the race will be pulled off.

THE BIG LEAGUE RACE. With the baseball season just one half gone, the results in the two big leagues are more in doubt than ever. Last week's playing did not clarify the situation by any means.

Chicago is slowly drawing away in the National League race. Chicago's lead is almost comfortable as it is, barring a bad slump. Its lead of five games over New York at this time will be hard to overcome. The Giants' hope is a long winning streak.

THE RING MIKE TWIN MATCHED AGAIN. For the third time within a few months, Mike Sullivan of Cambridge and Babe Smith of Denver will meet. They will meet at the rink on July 20, a short distance from the rink at the corner of St. John and St. George streets. This contest will be for fifteen rounds.

Arrangements were completed yesterday by John Blamont by which a picked team of Inter-Society League players will play a series of five games with the Victoria ground this afternoon, the game starting between 4 and 5 o'clock. A number of prizes have been donated by C. E. Brewster, Waterbury & Sons, Louis Brown, W. H. Thorne & Co., Henderson & Hunt, London House, Booth & Patterson, T. McArthur & Sons, H. Horton & Sons, Canadian Oil Company, and H. S. Wallace, and there will be a large crowd to witness the games.

THE TURF FOWLER GOT TWO SECONDS. LEWISTON, July 16.—Fast matinee races were held Saturday at the State fair grounds under the auspices of the Lewiston and Auburn Driving Club. MONCTON INSTEAD OF AMHERST. J. R. Lamy, the secretary of Amherst Driving Park, Amherst, N. B., is sending out the following notice to motorists in the state races that were to have been held in Amherst on September 3rd and 4th.

STANLEY TO BE HANGED. Ottawa, July 17.—At the earliest moment today an order in council was passed allowing the law to take its course in the case of Geo. Stanley, sentenced to be executed for the murder of Freeman Hill, a Montrealer, on February 2, 1905.

BASEBALL IN QUEBEC. QUEBEC, July 16.—In the Canadian Baseball League game between Montreal and Rock City the former won by a score of 10 to 5. But the game was eleven in-ning.

THE AMHERST DRIVING PARK has been sold for building purposes. In order to continue our steady races we have made arrangements to hold them in Moncton, the date to be the same, viz., September 3rd and 4th, when other suitable races will be offered. If this meets with your approval, kindly sign the enclosed slip and return to me.

THE SPECIAL TRAIN auditors who have recently been at work on passenger trains between St. John and Halifax, occasionally find difficulty in inducing passengers to show them their tickets. Yesterday a commercial traveller on the C. P. R. between St. John and Moncton, refused to produce his ticket when so requested by one of the train auditors. The commercial man contended that he had shown his ticket to the conductor and he was not obliged to produce it again for someone else's benefit. The special auditor threatened the passenger with a fine of fifty dollars, but this had no effect, and the conductor had eventually to pass along without seeing the ticket. The commercial man got off at a way station and nothing further was heard of the incident for the time being.

FIVE MEN DROWNED

Terrible Accident on Spillmachee River in British Columbia. Vancouver, B. C., July 17.—A terrible drowning accident occurred on Spillmachee river, 40 miles from Golden, last night when five men out of a boat load of ten were drowned.

The Rocky Mountain stream is very high at this time of year, but the men, who were all working in a lumber camp thought they could safely navigate it in order to get to their camp for supper.

Their confidence resulted in the death of five. The mountain stream was flowing swiftly and when in the middle the combined strength of the rapids proved inadequate to prevent the boat being dashed against a big rock.

The craft was completely wrecked, five of the men being strong swimmers managed to swim ashore but the other five were drowned. The names are: James O. Sanstrom, A. Kimmore, Stephen Norris and another Jagger supposed to be a foreigner.

THE PLAYGROUND

"Say, Alex, give me another shove." But Alex, having a ribbon pinned to his jacket and therefore empowered to go about with authority, pointed to the boy on the swing that had been there for ten minutes, and must give way to the rest.

"There's the clock," said he, pointing to the clock in the window box of the swings, "and time's up. But then you say you'll be here in a minute."

The boy with the blue blouse and sun-burnt nose had scrambled off his seat, and a somewhat shyly with red and black hair, took his seat.

"Now this here place," said the twelve-year-old to a reporter as he supervised the playground yesterday morning, as he watched the little girl whirling through space, "beats everything. Say, it's great."
