"Ah! I owe a debt of gratitude to that old gentleman," said Sir Ralph; "the first put us on your grandfather's track, Miss Molly, and even without poor Mrs. Bedeworth's confession we might, thanks to Daddy Hume, have got upon the right track. And now I want you to promise me that you will come and stay with us at Maillard at once in your new role as one of the Comtesse's attendants."

Molly laughed brightly.

"I wish I could accept your invitation," she said; "but Mrs. Grey insists upon taking me abroad for a time. She thinks—"

"I think," the little widow interrupted, "Molly has been through so much during the few months we have been in England that I want to get her away for a time, until some of the things that have happened have faded from her mind."

"I have developed a ridiculous habit of dreaming," Molly said, trying to speak lightly; "and sometimes I actually have nightmares, so that I am being ignominiously sent away, to recover what the doctor calls—"

Though she spoke with apparent lightness, Sir Ralph observed, now that the flush had left her face, how white and tired it looked, and what dark pencillings lay beneath her eyes, and before he left them Mrs. Grey explained to him that since Mrs. Bedeworth's death Molly had suffered both from sleepless nights and from harrowing dreams, which sometimes took the form of yawning oblivions, sometimes of lost souls waiting for ever and crying in vain for forgiveness.

"She has had a terrible strain," Mrs. Grey said; "and I mean to take her to a peaceful little place on the Italian Riviera, where she will regain her usual balance, and her normal healthiness of mind."

"And Lady Bangle?" asked Sir Ralph; "does she go with you?"

"No—I am not going to allow her to come too," Mrs. Grey answered with a sharpness very foreign to her; "she reminds Molly of everything I want her to forget, and she is a silly, shallow girl, whose own feelings were non-existent. She

GOWN OF LEAF-GREEN SILK CREPE.

Leaf-green crepe was used for the model of the gown pictured, the bodice and skirt being trimmed by insertions of silk lace dyed the same color. The bottom of the skirt was finished by two bands of tucks, the material being shirred from under each insertion of lace. The high girle and the folds outlining the deep-pointed yoke were of satin matching the material in shade. The yoke and undersleeves were of cream-colored tulle, the cuffs of the sleeves being trimmed by folds of satin and small bows of the same.

England his yearning for sunlight and blue skies became so acute that they could no longer be resisted. His work in the Antipodes had prospered fairly well, and though he was in no sense of the words a rich man, he was so far removed from poverty as to be able to plan a journey to the south; and on a certain misty, chilly day in February, he set sail from Southampton to Genoa, as being the cheapest and pleasantest method of getting over the journey. A natural dislike for big hotels and crowds of smart folk led him to seek out secluded places and quiet villages in the mountains; and roving from one to the other of these, he finally found himself, towards the beginning of March, installed in the tiny hotel at Ruta. The small white village, perched upon the summit of a steep hill whose sunny slopes back in the full rays of the southern sun. The hillside is clothed with olive trees from its crown to its far-away base; here that is washed by the blue waters of the Mediterranean, and the view over the wide expanse of glittering waters, and round the soft line of grey coast and mountains, is one of the most superb in the whole of the Riviera. Railways are far away from Ruta; you must reach it in a carriage and pair, if you wish to get there at all; and when you have arrived there you feel that you are indeed remote from all the turmoil and rush of the busy outside world.

In front of you, to the south and west, lies the Mediterranean, and if you walk only a few yards up from the village, you can feast your eyes upon mountain behind mountain, olive clad, pine clad, grey and bare, melting into the blue sky that is the sky of Italy.

On the evening of his arrival Alan sat at the window of his primitive little room, looking out across the hotel garden and over the tops of the soft grey olive trees to the radiant blue of the sea. In the west, behind the capes and mountains of the shore that stretched away to Genoa, a golden sun was sinking into a bed of golden clouds, the hush of evening lay over land and sea, a hush broken only by the clear insistent note of a bird's call that floated up from the garden. From the garden too there drifted into his window the fragrance of roses and wallflowers, and Alan leant far out to drink in the delicious odors of spring. A bed of wallflowers, russet and orange, bordered the path that ran down the steep slope towards the olive garden into which the hotel grounds were merged; farther on was a bed of purple pansies lifting their fairy faces to the sky; and in one corner stood a little pagoda, over which grew a tangled profusion of banksia roses and vicia, whose delicate perfume seemed to mingle with and permeate all the essences of the garden.

Whilst Alan leant out, dreamily looking first at the flowers in the garden, then at the yellowing sky in the west, he suddenly started violently, and uttered a sharp exclamation, as a girl stepped out from the pergola of wisteria and roses, and moved slowly towards the house. She was dressed in white, and like the generality of his sex, Alan could not have given any information about that gown, excepting that it fell about the tall girlish figure in wonderfully graceful folds, and that white seemed the only possible color to be worn with hair that shone in the rays of the setting sun like living gold. Her face was a little unlit, looking towards the sunset, and Alan could clearly see the delicate moulding of her features, the bright soft brown of her eyes, the clear whiteness of her skin.

"By Jove," he murmured under his breath; "by Jove, I never thought there would be anybody like that here," and with a precipitation exceedingly unlike his dreaminess of a moment before, he hurriedly left his room and found his way down to the garden, where the lovely stranger in white still stood watching the gorgeous sunset in the west.

THE LATE J. J. STEWART

The Halifax Herald, of February 28, publishes a number of appreciative references from friends of the late J. J. Stewart, editor of the Halifax Mail and president of the Herald Publishing Co. Among others are the following from three well known New Brunswickers:

S. D. SCOTT.

Since I became associated with Mr. Stewart on The Herald staff in 1882, our comradeship has been so close and intimate that it is difficult for me at this hour to speak of him in other relations. He was splendidly generous and true-hearted in his friendships, and supremely loyal to his associates. No more upright or high-minded man was ever known to me. With strong and well reasoned convictions he never lacked the courage to stand by them, whether they were opposed by his adversaries or his allies. As a political journalist and advisor in party councils, Mr. Stewart was devoted to his cause and comrades, but never sacrificed his principles or his independence in serious matters. Having original ideas and enjoying the confidence of his leaders, he was able to exercise a strong and wholesome influence in his party.

Mr. Stewart seemed to me to be completely unselfish and singularly modest in respect to his own claims, always willing that others should get the rewards and glory, ever ready to contribute more than his share of the sacrifice. Without university training, Mr. Stewart had long ago gained, by wide and varied reading of the best literature, that broad and liberal culture which most deserves the name of scholarship—best of all he had in a superlative degree "the brave old wisdom of sincerity."

When Mr. Stewart threw himself heartily into a newspaper discussion, he was one of the most powerful editorial writers that Canada has known in my time. He was always a hard fighter when the battle was on, but never then or at any time intentionally unfair or unjust, and he was always free from personal bitterness. Hence among his strongest political opponents one has always heard in private conversation the most kindly references to the editor of The Herald, and today the public man of both parties at the capital who have known Mr. Stewart, give general and evidently heartfelt expression to their sorrow.

DR. JAMES HANNAY

The news of the death of J. J. Stewart came to me as a great shock for I have had the privilege of his friendship for many years and there never was a truer friend. There never was a man more sincere in his character, more simple in his life or less spoiled by prosperity. His strong convictions on political subjects never interfered with his friendships, although his business required him daily to act the part of critic of the government and public men. In all the relations of life he was the most exemplary, kind and affectionate in his disposition. Only those who have enjoyed the hospitality of his home could know the depth of tenderness that was in him. Full of public spirit as a citizen, and always ready to promote every worthy enterprise, he enjoyed the confidence of his fellow men to a remarkable extent, and might, if so disposed, have received the highest honors they could bestow on him. His services to the cause of historical research as one of the members of the Nova Scotia Historical Society can never be over-estimated, and it was mainly due to his efforts that the splendid collection of portraits of eminent Nova Scotians now in the government house was got together. Halifax may well lament the loss of so good a citizen and all his friends will feel that his death has left a void that cannot be filled.

DR. DAVID ALLISON

My personal acquaintance with Mr. Stewart dates back to the time when, in the sixties, he was a boy attending the county academy at Amherst. By the will of Dr. Akins, he and I were associated in the trusteeship of Dr. Akins' historical collections, and my last conversation with him a few months ago had reference to some duties devolving on us in that regard. This gives me an opportunity of referring to Mr. Stewart's great interest in all matters connected with early provincial history. His knowledge on those points was wide and accurate. He was one of the founders of the Nova Scotia Historical Society, and a very influential pro-

Doping a Cold Doesn't Cure It

The average cough mixture doesn't cure a cold—it "dopes" it, or, in other words, temporarily holds it down, and bottle after bottle must be taken before a cure is effected.

Meantime you must suffer, and your poor stomach be burdened by the indigestion that invariably follows continual dousing with cough syrups.

If your bowels were kept open and the eliminating organs stimulated your cold would soon disappear.

Dr. Hamilton found that his Mandrake and Bitternut Pills were more valuable in colds than any cough cure.

While you sleep at night they enliven the kidneys, liver and bowels, and thereby carry off the cold and all its evil effects. Instead of deadening the stomach like cough cures, Dr. Hamilton's Pills afford the greatest assistance by giving it tone, strength and healthy action. One or two pills is sufficient.

Take them just before retiring.

Next morning you feel like new.

The use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills for colds, coughs and rheumatic ills is popular because efficient. Get some today, 25c per box or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers, and refuse a substitute.

GOVERNOR TWEEDIE WILL BE SWORN IN TOMORROW

Attorney General Pugsley Will Then be Called Upon to Form New Government -- Hon. C. W. Robinson to be New Member of Cabinet.

Ottawa, March 3.—The Hon. Lemuel J. Tweedie, premier of New Brunswick, was appointed lieutenant-governor of the province as yesterday's cabinet meeting. Mr. Tweedie will be sworn into office at Fredericton on Tuesday next.

The new governor in religion is a Presbyterian, and is prominently connected with St. Andrew's church, Chatham. Hon. William Pugsley, D. C. L., the new premier, is of Loyalist descent. His father, Daniel Pugsley, settled at Cardwell, Kings county. Dr. Pugsley was educated in the public schools in Sussex and at the U. N. B. His student course at the latter institution was brilliant. He graduated in 1868 with the degree of B. A., and, applying himself to the study of the law, was admitted to the bar June 27, 1872.

In 1880 he ran his first successful election for the local house, a vacancy having been caused by the death of Dr. Vail, and on March 3, 1887, he was unanimously chosen speaker of the house. In this position he was re-elected in 1890, 1893, 1896, and 1899. He was sworn in a member of the executive council and appointed solicitor general, which office he held till 1890, when he resigned.

In 1890 he offered as a candidate in the dominion general election on the independent ticket, but was defeated. In 1899 he was elected to the local house. The following year he accepted office as attorney general in the Tweedie administration. On Sept. 27, 1900, he was re-elected for Kings county with a majority of 829 and again was re-elected in 1903. Dr. Pugsley commands a national reputation as a lawyer.

He was married Jan. 6, 1876, to Miss Fannie Parks, daughter of the late Thomas Parks, at one time a prominent merchant of this city. There are two sons.

Hon. Clifford W. Robinson, the new member of the government, was born near Moncton, Sept. 1, 1859, and is 47 years old. He was educated in the county of Westmorland and graduated with his degree of B. A. from the University of Saskatchewan in the class of 1886. For three years after that he was engaged as bookkeeper with a Moncton firm, but gave that up to study with C. L. Steeves and his brother, the late A. L. Robinson. He afterwards studied with Hamilton & Wilson in this city, and was admitted an attorney in 1892 and barrister the following year. In 1892 he opened law offices in Moncton and in 1895 his fellow students showed their appreciation of his abilities by electing him to the town council. He filled the office of councillor for two years and in 1897 he was still further honored by being elected to the majority by acclamation.

In the dominion elections of 1896 he was elected to the county of Westmorland with H. A. Powell, M. P., but was defeated by 15 votes. In the bye-election for the local house in 1897 he was a candidate for the same constituency when he was elected by acclamation. Hon. Mr. Robinson appears to be a growing disposition on the part of the directors of the companies doing business both in Canada and the United States, to take the public into their confidence.

There appears to be a growing disposition on the part of the directors of the companies doing business both in Canada and the United States, to take the public into their confidence. This tendency will certainly be welcomed by the public generally, and more particularly by the brokers whose business it is to buy and sell the securities of these companies, and whose opinion is constantly being sought regarding their value.

On general principles, it would seem that joint-stock companies which have to rely upon the public for their capital, should be willing to keep the public posted as to the condition of the company. Yet the utmost that many of the institutions can be prevailed upon to do is to issue an annual statement.

These replies, as the growing tendency towards publicity shows, are insufficient. Neither the stockholders nor the public would ask any company to give out such information as would give competitive companies an advantage over them. The free advertising a company would get from allowing the public to know, periodically, what the business was doing, would in all probability more than offset any disadvantages. Details which might help competitors can be withheld.

As to whether or not the public has any right to know what is going on in a company, it is not listed, even fuller information is generally asked by intending purchasers. A speculator will buy and sell anything on an exchange for a turn on his money, but when he buys off the exchange he knows that the stock must show intrinsic value or he will not be able to dispose of it. To say that the public has no right to know, is to drive away many friends, and many enemies may enter.

There are at present several stocks on the Canadian exchanges about which very little, in addition to the information that the last annual statement showed a certain result, is known. While a member of the Monetary Times staff was discussing this topic with a broker, a customer made inquiries regarding one of these stocks. The broker replied that he could not recommend it. He knew nothing against it, and nothing in its favor. The directors gave out no information which would permit him to judge of its present value, and he could not recommend a stock such as that for an investment. This is the reply which

THE INTERNATIONAL TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION. Something of the History of the Oldest Trade Organization in the World.

The great strike in the book and job printing industry, in which the International Typographical Union of North America and the United Typothetae of America have been pitted against each other for eighteen months, has attracted considerable attention to trade-union methods and the history of trade organizations. The International Typographical Union was founded in 1851 and has had a successful and progressive existence since that time. Previous to 1892 there were many local associations or unions of printers, and a convention of these local associations was held as early as 1894.

The International Typographical Union is recognized as a conservative organization, and this is borne out by the effort that was made by the officers of the union to peacefully adjust the eight-hour contention with the employers before the strike was entered into. This strike has been a marvel of financing. The International Typographical Union has a membership of about forty-seven thousand, and with the exception of about fifty thousand dollars, these forty-seven thousand members have raised by assessment more than $3,000,000 for the conduct of their strike for the eight-hour day. The assessment was at first 50 cents per week, then 10 per cent. of all wages earned. The 10 per cent. assessment was effective for nine months. It was then reduced to 7 per cent., later to 5 per cent., then 3 per cent., and beginning with March 1 has been reduced to 2 per cent. The method of levying the assessment is also worthy of explanation. It was not placed by a convention, nor was it levied by a referendum vote. The proposition was submitted to a referendum vote. The proposal to levy 50 cents per week received a majority of nearly twenty thousand votes, and the proposal to levy a 10 per cent. assessment received a majority of more than eighteen thousand votes.

The International Typographical Union also conducts a home at Colorado Springs, known as the 'Union Printers' Home. This institution was erected early in the history of the International Typographical Union for its aged and distressed members. Thus far the union has been successful in carrying on this part of its philanthropic work, has expended more than five hundred thousand dollars in about twelve years' time. There are at the home about one hundred and fifty inmates.

Local typographical unions also have their benefit features, such as caring for sick members, assisting those who may be temporarily out of work, and burial funds which are contributed by all members. Along these lines thousands of dollars are expended every year. The headquarters of the International Typographical Union are located in Indianapolis, Indiana, and the officers of the organization are continually sending out pamphlets descriptive of the Union Printers' Home and explaining the methods of the union. James M. Lynch is the president and J. W. Branwood secretary.

'Preventives' will promptly check a cold or the Grippe when taken early or at the 'mezza stage.' Preventives cure seated colds as well. Check early Colds with Preventives and stop Pneumonia. Sold in 5c and 25c boxes by Drug-gists.

OBITUARY Miss Elizabeth Carleton. Miss Elizabeth Carleton, daughter of James and Matilda Carleton, of 135 Market street, West End, died on Saturday, after an illness of eight months, aged twenty-six years.

Miss Carleton will be sorely missed for by a large circle of intimate friends, among whom she was familiarly known as Bessie. Up to last August she had been employed in the office of Hamilton, Teed & Hamilton, but was obliged to give up that position on account of poor health. On Saturday she was operated on in the private hospital by Dr. Murray MacLaren for some internal trouble, but she never rallied from the shock, and gradually sank till the end of the evening. Miss Carleton was a member of St. George's church, and was formerly connected with the Sunday school of that congregation for some time as a teacher. She was formerly also a member of the choir. She is survived by five sisters and one brother. They are the Misses Alice, Sarah, Dorothy and Louise, and Mrs. Percy W. Westmore, and James W. Carleton, with A. G. Smith & Co., of the west side. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2.30.

Frank Patterson. Frank Patterson, an aged resident of the city, died at his residence, 58 Short street, last night, aged 70 years. Deceased had been ill for only a short time, the cause of death being simply old age. Mr. Patterson was one of the shipyard here as a shipcarpenter, but since the decay of shipbuilding he had been a laborer. He leaves an aged wife, three daughters and six sons. Among the children are Charles, in Sydney; Winslow, James, Joshua and Lena at home. Mrs. Wamacott, of this city, is a daughter.

M. B. Almon. Halifax, N. S., March 3.—(Special)—The death occurred yesterday of M. B. Almon, after a week's illness of pneumonia. He was a member of one of the oldest families of Nova Scotia. Years ago he was a member of the banking and brokerage firm of Almon & Mackintosh, but of recent years he has been in the insurance business.

Mrs. Chas. McManus. Mrs. Sophia, wife of Charles McManus, of Hanover street, died at the residence of her husband, yesterday morning, aged sixty-five years and three weeks. She had been in feeble health for a long time and is survived by three daughters—the Misses Sarah, Emma and Treva, all at home; and one brother—Robert Hunter, who resides in Hanover street. The deceased lady was aged wife, three daughters and many will regret to hear of her death. The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon.

W. J. Elliott. A telegram received yesterday by S. S. Elliott, of High street, contained intelligence of the death of his brother, W. J. Elliott, after a short illness, in Tacoma (Wash.). Mr. Elliott left this city twenty years ago. He had been a resident of Tacoma for some years and leaves a wife and family there. He also leaves two married sisters, Eva, in Dawson City, and Edith, in New York, besides his mother and brother here. Mr. Elliott was engaged in the lumber business in Tacoma.

WEDDINGS Begin--Warren. Miss Ethel G. Warren, formerly of this city, but now a resident of Boston, was married on Feb. 21 to James E. Begin, of Lynn (Mass.) Rev. A. F. Black, pastor of the Tremont street M. E. church, performed the ceremony at the bride's home. A reception was held after the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Begin will reside in Lynn.

SUPREME CHIEF OF I. O. F. IS DEAD AT SAVANNAH, GA.

Dr. Oronhyatekha Passed Away Yesterday--Heart Failure and Diabetes the Cause--He Was a Full Blooded Indian and Had a Remarkable Career.

Toronto, March 3--A despatch from Savannah, Georgia, tonight, announces the death of Dr. Oronhyatekha, of Toronto, head of the Independent Order of Foresters.

Dr. Oronhyatekha was born on the reservation of the Six Nations Indians, near Brantford (Ont.), on Aug. 10, 1841. He was educated at the Industrial School there and later at the Wesleyan Academy, Wilbraham (Mass.).

representative of the Six Nations, presented an address to his royal highness. The impression he made on the royal party was such that he was invited to continue his studies at Oxford under Sir Henry Acland, the prince's physician.

Not only was he a Forester but he was a Mason, a Good Templar and an Orangeman. He was, in 1873, a member of a deputation sent to Belfast from the Grand Orange Lodge of British America.

SUDDEN DEATH OF FR. DOHERTY

Montreal Priest Born in St. John Passed Away Yesterday Morning.

Montreal, March 3--William J. Doherty, S. J., died suddenly today at the Gesù at 9.20 a. m. Father Doherty had been suffering from an attack of grippe, but had apparently recovered. He arose this morning, as is prescribed by the rules of the order, at 4.30 o'clock and seemed to be in his usual health.

The News--No Pure Drug Cough Cure Laws would be needed, if all Cough Cures were like Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It has been for 20 years the National Law now requires that if any poison enters into a cough mixture, it must be printed on the label or package.

in fact, for the last thirty years as college professor. Father Doherty occupied chairs of rhetoric, higher mathematics and physics in different colleges of his order, his last post being that of professor of philosophy at Georgetown University in 1888.

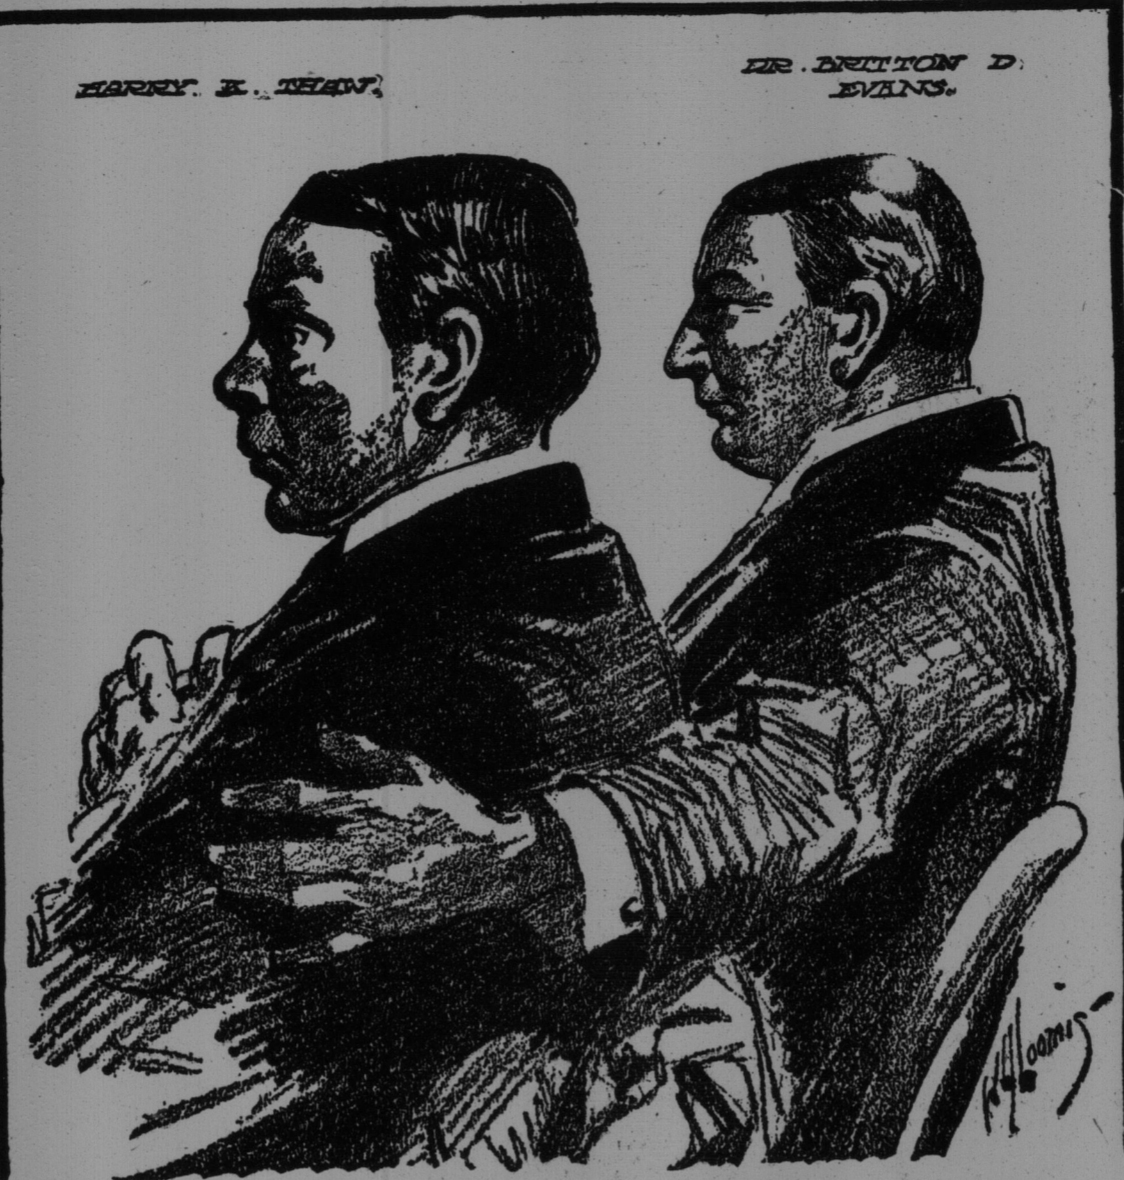

For this reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's label--and none in the medicine, else it must be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy.

LATE LOCALS

Judge Ritchie will leave today for Ottawa where he will attend the convention of the Victorian Order of Nurses. The regular monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in their rooms on Germain street.

A meeting of the Saint John county branch of the N. B. Temperance Federation, will be held in the German hall this evening, the 4th inst., at eight o'clock.

An Englishman named George Pearson claims to have been robbed of $25 while in Wilson's boarding house in Carleton Place. He says that while asleep in the hotel, the money was stolen. The police think that they know the thief.

A four-inch water main in Bridge street, Indiantown, burst yesterday morning and the water flowed all day yesterday until repairs were made. The break was a bad one, and necessitated the services of a large gang of men.

The regular monthly meeting of the Holy Name Society was held last night in the Cathedral and Rev. Father Mahan continued his series of sermons on "The History of the True Church." Father Mahan spoke at some length on the life and times of Constantine.

Morris Wood, the American skating champion, will arrive in the city tomorrow from Long Branch, N. Y., where he has been skating of late. Late papers to hand say the "wily American" is in excellent shape, and refer to his trip to St. John as "bearing the Canadian lions in their den." Wood may get a few new prizes at the championship sports in the Vic Thursday.

Chas. Patterson, who in January last was sentenced to six months in jail, and $30 fine or an additional three months, may not complete his term. Habeas corpus proceedings have been instituted, and on Saturday afternoon the application was made to Mr. Justice McLeod by D. Mulin, K. C., acting for Patterson. Judgment was reserved. The grounds of the application are based on irregularities in the commitment.

The police report that yesterday, the first Sunday that came under the new Lord's Day Act, was strictly observed. The little stores that formerly dealt out household necessities on Sunday, and the cigar stores were closed, and the drug stores are said to have sold nothing but medicine and surgical appliances. The restaurants did not all close up, as the proprietors consider their work a work of necessity. Sundays to come may bring about a few cases for Judge Ritchie's consideration, for it is said that some citizens are looking out for offenders.

One of the most interesting and instructive lectures ever delivered before the Y. M. C. of St. John was read yesterday afternoon by Judge Ritchie. His Honor's theme was "Our Youth, Our Hope," and the speaker dealt thoroughly with the requisites for the success of the young man. The judge pointed out that the youth should observe and practice honesty, integrity, temperance and industry. He emphasized temperance as very essential for a young man's success. A vote of thanks to the lecturer was moved by Chas. P. O'Neill and seconded by R. E. Fitzgerald, and unanimously carried. The president, J. A. Barry presided.

TEMPERANCE MEETING

Messes, Geo. E. Taylor and E. T. C. Knowles were the speakers at the temperance meeting in the Every Day Club hall, last evening. Mr. Taylor told of the great change in temperance sentiment in his native county of Kings, Nova Scotia, since his boyhood days. Mr. Knowles made a very impressive address on manhood and temperance, and the importance of total abstinence. He pointed out that in the history of nations it was made clear that each was at its weakest when its people were most drunken. He pointed out that laws were unavailing without public sentiment to ensure their enforcement, and said that the duty of the advocates of temperance was to create such a sentiment in respect to the restriction and ultimate prohibition of the liquor traffic as would make laws effective. Mr. Knowles spoke in high terms of such organizations as the Every Day Club, to help men to be men, as manhood was the greatest asset of any state. Rev. Mr. McLean sang two sacred solos during the progress of the meeting. These temperance meetings are held every Sunday evening from 8:30 to 9:30.

THE VIPER OF MILAN

A Vivid and Dramatic Novel of High Standard.

"The Viper of Milan" is a "first" novel which in "two weeks made the author famous." It has been enthusiastically received by the English critics. It is a historical novel of Italy in the fourteenth century, but the reader who expects to find the ordinary romantic story with a historical setting ending in wedding bells and triumphant processions of gallant knights and beautiful ladies has a rude shock waiting him. It is a book full of unhappy, joy, vehement Italian treachery, dark Italian treachery, and cruelly, finished Italian cruelty. There is not a glimmer of lightness even on the closing page, excepting that the price of cruelty at last meets the fate of all his victims. But good does not triumph, because there is no good man or woman left to triumph. Of the heart-whole characters in the piece, one is dropped long before the end, and the two others blow themselves to pieces rather than suffer defeat. The man who promised to be the hero sold his honor, allies, and possession for love of his wife. That wife never lives to see him for she is poisoned. A dozen others meet like fate. Another is given a fatal phial, and is forced to drink, believing it to be poison. It is not poison, but the ordeal turned her to an imbecile. These instances by no means exhaust the lurid horrors of the book. And yet the author is a young woman, Marjorie Bowen by name. The story, despite its unpleasantness, is of the kind that rivets you to your chair until you have finished it. Visconti, the Duke of Milan, is the arch-villain. One by one he triumphs over all his adversaries, including the majestic Duke of Verona, the proud d'Este, and the other Italian potentates, until all Italy lies in his power. Then in the moment of his triumph he is assassinated by his secretary. In style the book is a masterpiece of vigor, impress, and dramatic effect. There is no character analysis, except such as is accomplished by deeds. From cover to cover it is a book of action, too. It is one of the best of recent novels. Its unhappiness is justified, not only by its immediate historical setting, but perhaps by life as a whole. For the happy moments are, after all, rare as a pearl life. But only one novelist in a hundred has the courage to admit it.

This Great Story will in a few days be begun as a Serial in the Evening Times.

FIREMEN AND POLICEMEN

Salaries Committee of Civic Council Recommends Wage Increase to Substitute Firemen and Policemen.

Among the matters to come before the common council this afternoon at their regular monthly meeting will be the question of increased pay for the police and firemen. The salaries committee met this morning and considered the request of the substitute firemen for an increase. It was decided to recommend that an increase be granted to the substitute men of the city proper and to the end, from $77.50 per year, which they have been receiving, to $75 per year. The substitutes on the west side are recommended for an increase from $28.50 to $27 per year. The chief is also authorized to appoint two additional substitutes to bring the companies up to full strength.

The committee appointed to consider the application for an increase from the police department have also recommended that the petition be granted. Chief Clark stated to members of the salaries committee this morning that he thought he should have been included in the list of those receiving the increase.

WILL CHANGE CIVIC BILLS

Board of Trade Considers Civic Legislation for Fredericton.

A meeting of the council of the board of trade was held this morning at which the civic bills to go before the legislature were discussed. The act introducing the ward system was considered and it was decided to make some changes in it with the idea of presenting a counter scheme along the lines suggested by the Citizens League some time ago; that is to have a district system, with representatives from each district, and also aldermen-at-large. The permanent street paving bill was discussed and some changes will be made in that also.

The regular monthly meeting of the board will be held tomorrow afternoon, when a definite scheme will be mapped out and discussed.

BLACKSMITHS FORM A UNION

Will Advance the Price of Horseshoeing 25 per cent.

A new union, to be known as the Master Horseshoers' Protective Organization was formed Saturday evening in this city. The object of the union is announced as to enable the horseshoers to advance their rates 25 per cent. At present the price charged for shoeing a horse is $1, but after the first of April it was decided to ask $1.25. Reasons given for the increase are that prices for material have greatly increased, as have also the wages. At the meeting officers were elected as follows: G. F. Lawson, president; Jeremiah Harrington, vice-president; J. A. Fitzgerald, secretary; John Willet, treasurer. A committee consisting of the president, vice-president, Samuel Ross, P. H. Bets, J. T. Ward and J. T. Cougle, was appointed to frame a constitution and draw up by-laws. Another committee was given authority to provide a meeting place for the organization.
