CHAPTER VII. An Exchange of Questions. Youth is elastic, and Van was young. An hour of ceaseless riding restored him as soundly as he bore no signs of fatigue that Beth could detect upon his face. Once more he had in the morning, he was riding ahead in the trail, apparently all but oblivious of the two anxious women in his charge.

of the broncho's flank, chest, and mouth, and his nostrils flared as if in flames. When at last the animal, weary and undone, would have sobered down to a trot or walk, Van forced him anew to crazy speed. At least five miles he drove him thus, till the broncho's side, like the rider's face, was red with blood mingled with sweat.

Then Van got down, and her heart, that had pitied the horse, welled with sympathy for the rider. She had never in her life seen a face so drawn, so utterly lagged beneath a mask of red as that presented by the horseman.

"No," she answered, "my brother."

"Why, how can you tell?" he asked, looking at her with a quizzical way of observing.

"I don't believe I know him."

ARE ON TRAIL OF THE BOY FIEND
A call at the home of Mrs. Jennie Heffernan, 6 City Road, elicited the information that her little son Eric, aged six, was taken out and beaten in the same manner as the Dyden boy described, and was stripped and beaten the same way. The Heffernan boy was made to wade in water in a brook up to his hips and was also made to get on his knees and promise not to divulge who had been done to him. His life also was threatened if it became known. As a result it was the same person who committed these two atrocities, and also was responsible for the beating of the Donovan boy a week or more ago.

SEYLER'S FATE IN THE HANDS OF JURY TONIGHT

Mays Landing, N. J., May 25—Before the coroner's inquest on the body of a girl probably will know whether or not he is to die in the electric chair for murdering Jane Wretton (a servant) and her girl whom the commonwealth charges he threw from the pier of Atlantic City.

After endeavoring to prove to the jury that the girl was killed by Seyler while defending her honor, the state rested its case and the defense opened. Seyler was expected to take the stand today.

The theory of the defense is that Jane Adams was drowned accidentally, while waiting for the return of her sister, who had gone to another part of the pier; she sought shelter from the wind by stepping behind a building; that she was unconquainted with the pier and fell into the sea.

THE CHURCH IN IRELAND

(Montreal Star's Dublin Letter)
At a meeting of the Dublin synod of the Presbyterian church tonight, the Rev. S. J. Harrison said he saw the prospect of better days coming for Ireland, when there would be a fusion of the Protestant churches to begin with, and later the establishment of an Irish church, where all sects could meet. The Catholic religion, he pointed out, contained all the doctrines that were necessary for true Christianity. It matter be that Catholics believed too much, but it might also be that Protestants believed too little. In the report of the work they are being carried on, reference was made to the charity of Roman Catholics, who were always friendly and respectful to members of the Presbyterian church. There seemed to be a growing desire to foster a feeling of brotherhood between the great churches.

A Pupil's Bird Essay

A little scholar in one of the lower grades of a grammar school wrote this as a composition about "birds."

"Birds is a bird. Birds is a nice thing to see and a nice thing to hear den singing especially in the spring time when they commence to sing. It is a lively thing to hear. What is the first thing that the birds commence to do in the spring? They lay eggs in the nest and after a few weeks they have young ones, coming out and after a month the young one will start out for there way—Philadelphia Times.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH GAMERON

I'VE been meditating today on the blessedness of being middle class. Sometimes when I am thrown into contact with a life that is different from mine, as mine is from that of the wretched creature who is rotting away in a sunless tenement cellar—a life of limousines and wonderful frocks and furs, and long-stemmed roses and sun-catching jewels—a life of homes with wide fireplaces, stately stairways and silence as deep and rich as the rugs on the drawing room floor—a life of horses with flanks of silk, and long outdoor summers by the sea, and the freedom to travel anywhere in this wonderful world, I am amazed with a sudden rage to think I will never know even for a little while what such a life is like.

But for all the rest of the year I am really quite contentedly happy that I am middle class.

In many ways I think the middle class gets the cream of life.

How?

Well, for one thing, if you are middle class and marry a wife or husband, or get you a friend, you can know absolutely and surely that it is yourself that won the friendship or love, not your money.

And if you have another thing you can have neighbors, and I don't think the rich ever do.

They have sycophants and enemies and acquaintances and some friends, I suppose, but I don't believe they very often have any of those kindly, curious, will-ing-to-do-anything-for-you-arr-indebtable, next-door friends that belong to the genus neighbor.

But for all the rest of the year I am really quite contentedly happy that I am middle class.

In many ways I think the middle class gets the cream of life.

hundred thousand, and your third cousin.

The lady across the way from us has been ill. A half dozen times in the past two weeks has my little mother slipped across the street with some dainty from our table set forth in all the daintiness of her best silver and nuptial china. Three times when the laundry was sickiest did she only sneak down it up my flight with her. The man on the other side of us has taken complete care of her furance all through the siege, and his daughter has been over almost every day to help take care of the children.

Rich people never have things like that done for them. If they are ill, they receive perfect service, of course, but it is service with all the warmth taken out of it by its being given for money.

And then again, if you are middle class, and your daughter elopes, or your wife or husband runs you for divorce, you will probably get off, as far as notoriety goes, with a paragraph or two tucked away on the inside pages of the town or city paper.

But if you happen to possess a few or your sister-in-law's husband gets tangled up in a scandal, you will doubtless find your picture and your whole history emblazoned across the front page of the newspapers in the country.

You have the greatest panacea there is—the impelling need to work.

Charles Kingsley says: "Thank God every morning when you get up that you have something to do this day which must be done whether you like it or not."

And if you have a talent, and are of the middle class, you have the powerful help and incentive of the need to use it. The rich man may drive himself by his own will power, and therefore few members rich have ever accomplished much in the artistic world.

Yes, of course, if great riches were offered me I should probably accept them. And yet, dear readers, who would I be if I were a "great middle class" that "God must have loved because he made so many of," I think there really are a great many advantages of middleclassness.

KING'S MESSAGE TO OVERSEAS DOMINIONS

Canadian Associated Press.

London, May 24—King George has issued the following message:

To My People Beyond the Seas:

"The innumerable messages of kindness from my loyal subjects beyond the seas have deeply touched my heart and have assured me I have in full measure their sympathy in the great trial which has befallen me and them; that my sorrow in their sorrow, and that we share the common loss. The happiness of all his people throughout his dominions was dear to the heart of his beloved father; for them he lived and worked and in their service he died. I cannot doubt they will hold his name in grateful remembrance.

"An hour called to follow in his footsteps to carry on the work which prospered in his hands. As a sailor I have been brought into constant contact with the overseas dominions of the crown. I have personally realized the affectionate loyalty which holds together many lands of diverse people in one glorious fellowship. Nine years ago I traveled through the empire, accompanied by my dear wife. And the king lived we should, together his expressed wish, has visited South Africa the coming autumn to open the first parliament of the South African union, the latest and greatest evidence of that peace and harmony which my father loved to promote.

"It will be my earnest endeavor to uphold the constitutional government, to safeguard in all their fullness the liberties which are enjoyed throughout my dominions and under the good guidance of the Ruler of all men, I will maintain upon a foundation of freedom, justice and peace the great heritage of the United Kingdom of Great Britain.

TRAIN GIRLS AS WIVES

Home-Making Highest Occupation, 5 a Manufacturers—Trades Must Give Place

John Kirby, Jr., of Dayton, Ohio, was re-elected president of the National Association of Manufacturers of New York last week. A bit of sentiment was infused in the closing hours of the convention with the address of the report of the committee on industrial education. The report says of girls:

"Since most women who engage in wage-earning industries (as well as others) are at least potentially wives and mothers, training for housekeeping and home management, is believed to be an essential part of all their education, whether it be in industrial or general, and this is a part that has been woefully neglected in our school system.

"It is, therefore, our duty to make special effort to bring domestic education to the front, and do everything possible to place it on a higher plane."

"A higher standard of skill and knowledge of housekeeping is not only affecting upon the industrial future of any community, but every effort should be made to shape public opinion toward a true appreciation of its importance and dignity."

"Women and girls employed in mechanical occupations connected with nearly every industry in the land, and these occupations of women are not only affecting industry, but the standard of womanhood and the home. It is, therefore, of the utmost importance that young girls who must work in shops and factories for a while shall be trained for occupations which do not prevent development or incapacitate them for future mothers and homemakers."

On trade schools the committee had this to say:

"Educators and all who advocate a new education for the girl of the skilled workman should look organized labor of wholehearted assistance in the face and say: (1) We take no second place in our desire to help the skilled workman. (2) As to methods, we cannot admit that you know it all and we know nothing. (3) We propose this method, which is as good for you as any, and probably better, viz: we intend to take boys at 14 years of age and give them four years of training corresponding to the high school period; half skilled work time and half suitable schooling."

GRAFTERS EAT PRISON FARE

The first Sunday in jail for rich Pittsburgh grafters and bribers was a hard one. Monday morning the grafters, including Hugh Ferguson, and D. W. H. Weber and others who were sent to jail Saturday evening had their first trouble with William Lewis the warden.

All of them had arranged to have meals sent in from outside the prison, but they were told Sunday morning that this would not be allowed. They must eat the prison fare or do without. Word from inside the prison is that Vilsack, the German National Bank bribe giver, went before hunger compelled him to eat the prison fare. It was Vilsack's family which is alleged to have said it had $10,000.00 to see that he was kept out of prison, or to take care of him if he was sent to prison.

None of the new graft prisoners wanted to get out for chapel exercises Sunday afternoon, but they were compelled to go to church. Vilsack had to be brought from his cell by the turnkeys.

FISH AS FOOD FOR LONDONERS

The port of London's proposed duty on fish and fruit reminds us that fish at least has always been an important constituent of the food supply of the metropolis, and in early times the Thames itself yielded an enormous supply. Westminster Abbey formerly claimed a title of the Thames as a law suit was successfully maintained against the rectors of Eglise de Saxon on condition that a title of fish was annually paid to the Abbey. And once a year for centuries one of the fishermen, as representative of Eglise, took his place beside the Prior, and brought in a salmon for the Prior, which was carried in state through the refectory—London Chronicle.

ORDER OUT OF CHAOS

New Monarch's Hand Guided Officials Through Mazes Caused by Edward's Sudden Passing Away—The Queen Mother's Future

London, May 24—Since George V. came to the throne Englandmen have been following his actions with the keenest interest in the hope of obtaining some indications as to what is to be expected from his reign.

The New York correspondent was, at the time of the king's accession, able to quote a high and competent authority for the statement that George V. was a man of qualities that would surprise the world, which had, to some extent, come to look upon him as a rather colorless person whose domestic virtues were his best recommendation.

These two past weeks have revealed him in an unexpectedly favorable light. In fact, he is declared on responsible authority to have evolved order out of the chaos which followed his father's sudden death. At the time of King Edward's accession, the death of King Victoria had been foreseen for some months, and when it occurred, the departments concerned were ready to cope with the mass of work such an event entails; but, for the present occasion the whole official world was utterly unprepared. For a time something like confusion prevailed. The public had an inkling of the fact from the many changes that were made in the arrangements that were to be made for the coronation of the proclamation at the last minute, the extraordinary typographical errors that crept into the text, the uncertainty as to the date and route of the funeral, the delay in the issue of the writ for public mourning, the fact that a fixed period in the first order, necessitating the issue of a second—all pointed to the strain imposed on the official world.

King Took Charge

It was the personal activity of the king which saved the organization from absolute chaos. He took charge and set in an amazingly short time evolved order and method. It was King George alone who decided that there should be a public lying in state for King Edward's body. In that he certainly gauged the public feelings better than the officials who had categorically stated at the outset that this ceremony was not to be thought of.

He directly supervised all the arrangements of the funeral and had submitted to him the many delicate questions of procedure which had puzzled the Earl Marischal, the Duke of Norfolk. He selected the music to be played at the public lying in state, and he made modifications in the route first proposed, which are generally admitted to be most advantageous. He has shown ability to deal with broad outlines and also with minute details.

He directly supervised these activities the business of state claimed a not inconsiderable portion of the king's time. The swearing in of ministers, for instance, involved the review of no perfunctory character. Then there was the king's speech, which he delivered in his own voice and in his own spirit and with his own mind and his own words. He was ready with both sympathy and practical help for the sufferers.

The reception of foreign monarchs entailed no little expenditure of time and energy on the part of the king who also received the heads of the special foreign missions at Marlborough House.

The Queen Mother

Not the least among King George's activities must have been the anxiety that he felt for his mother, Queen Alexandra. While she has stood the strain remarkably well, it has been suggested that she sympathized with her as a sort of stimulant—there was, at one time in royal circles, a deep-rooted fear that her strength would give way. King George has been in constant communication with his mother regarding the details, which he felt she had the best right, as the queen consort of Edward VII, to settle, and in every possible particular her wishes have prevailed.

Queen Alexandra's future role is a matter of deep interest. It has been suggested that after the funeral she would probably go to Denmark and reside with her sister, the Dowager Empress of Russia, in the seaside villa they purchased near Copenhagen.

able nothing could be further from the queen mother's thoughts than any such retirement to a foreign country. She is expected to go to Sandringham, which now her personal property; but it is not expected that she will, in any sense, busy herself there. In fact, it is supposed that she will essay to play in London a role somewhat similar to that which the Dowager Queen Margrith played in Rome some years after the death of King Humbert, and that, in the course of time, she will set up a court of her own.

Queen Alexandra is much better off than is generally supposed. Under the terms of her marriage settlement she received from the nation a jointure of £70,000 ($350,000) and it is believed that she will also have the enjoyment of a very considerable additional income from the property left her by the late king, besides the proceeds of a big insurance policy taken out not very long before his death. Consequently, she will have ample funds to keep up both Sandringham and Marlborough House, if, as is believed, she decides to use the latter as her London residence.

CURED OF LAME BACK WHEN 84 YEARS OLD

Gin Pills Did It

Any one, seeing Mr. Samuel Martin, of Strathroy, Ont., for the first time, would guess his age at about 60 years, instead of eighty-four. He is as spry on his feet as a cat and is the picture of health.

It is hard to believe that Mr. Martin passed twenty years of his life in misery, suffering tortures from Lame Back, and that nearly all the advertised remedies and household receipts, but he has been benefited from one of them.

Some months ago, seeing Gin Pills advertised, Mr. Martin purchased a box from W. H. Stepler, a popular druggist of Strathroy. The relief, which he has since experienced after he had bought a box was so great that he knew he had found the right remedy at last. He bought a second box and after a few days had completed the cure.

Age is no barrier to Gin Pills. They never fail to cure Lame Back and Stiff Limbs, because they cure the kidneys and bladder, which are the cause of the troubles. Gin Pills also act on the liver and assist in curing Biliousness.

Heavy Charge for Postage

A letter I now covered 116,000 miles for a penny. Foreign correspondence was a costly luxury less than a century ago. In 1810 William Wilberforce records in his diary the receipt of a note "from Hatched and telling me that a letter from him weighing eighty-five ounces had come for me and was charged at £37 10s, and that he had refused to take it in."

"The General Post Office very handsomely under the peculiar circumstances of the case let me off for a peppercorn of 7s, which I shall gladly pay." The peculiar circumstances were that the letter related to the movement for the abolition of slavery.

RHEUMATISM AND COMMON SENSE

Father Morris's No. 7 Eliminates the Uric Acid.

Many treatments will relieve the aches and pains of rheumatism, but there is only one way to cure that dread disease. The common sense method is to remove the cause, and the effects will soon disappear. Rheumatism is caused, as is well known, by the failure of the kidneys to perform their intended work of filtering the uric acid out of the blood and eliminating it from the body through the bladder. When the kidneys go on strike, the uric acid is carried to the joints and tissues, where it causes stiffening of the muscles, and the excruciating pains of rheumatism.

Father Morris's, the learned priest-physician, after much research devised a prescription which would act directly on the kidneys, and by toning them up to vigorous action, cause them to clear the system of the uric acid. This remedy, known as No. 7, has been used successfully in thousands of cases.

Father Morris's No. 7 will bring relief from the effects of rheumatism, while his No. 7 tablets will get to work on the cause and in due time cure the disease.

Why suffer from this painful and troublesome affliction, when by using the common sense remedy originated by Father Morris and successfully followed for years, it is possible to procure a cure to restore you to health?

If you are not your own rheumatism, you doubtless know of some one who has benefited and ultimately cured rheumatism. Get a box, at your dealer's, or from Father Morris's Medicine Co., Ltd., Chatham, N.B.

After a rather rash of annual magnitudes, the Nickel will change its programme today in presenting as the leading feature "The Three Fishers," a magnificent biographical poem, by Charles Kingsley's poem, "The Unchanging Sea," a picture suggested by Charles Kingsley's poem, and the "Three Fishers." There is perhaps no work from the pen of this eminent English poet better known than the tragic biographical poem, "The Three Fishers." It is a young married couple living happily in their fishing village and the wife's long letter to her shipwrecked husband who in after years returns on the wedding day of his daughter. LITTLE FABLES OF THE RISING YOUNG MAN

THE CHAP WHO BELIEVED IN HIMSELF AND THE ONE WHO DIDN'T. There were two boys rising young men who had all the world before them and they were both of them. One of them was a conservative, bookish fellow, who believed in his own strength. Both had a sufficient amount of matter to make good when put against it. Both were industrious and sincere in their desire to succeed. Neither of them did his daily task capably—and knew that he had earned his salt when evening came. If a change occurred in the day's routine he was annoyed and apprehensive. Perhaps he wouldn't be equal to the demands of the new work. As a matter of fact, he generally was—but he lost sight of that fact and worried and fretted, crossing the bridge of incompetency and failure before he reached it. Hence, obviously, he was always working along in a rut. He did his labor well and steadily, but he had a different conception of labor than the other. TAIL OF HALLEY'S COMET CAUGHT BY CAMERA RECENTLY IN NEW YORK

LARGE STRONGER MACHINE FROM NEW HEBERSON ADDRESS TO BE DELIVERED TO THE BOSTON LOOKS LARGE ON ACCOUNT OF REALIZATION OF PLATE CAPTURED BY CONTINUED EXPOSURE.

London, May 22—Who shall hope to describe the comet? writes Sir Arthur Conan Doyle in his impression of today's events, contributed in the Daily Mail. "What mere roll call of regiments of monarchs, or of nations can conjure it up? The senses were stunned by its majesty, its color, its variety, and still details linger in the mind. One carries away a memory of three veterans riding abreast. Earl Roberts, like a white falcon; Grand Kitchener, and the rugged Sir Evelyn Wood. Also, that Wolsey could not have been the fourth to render the group complete. The dog, too, a little white dog, who could forget him as he trots beside his master's coffin? and the troop of kings who escorted their dead peer, with the noble Kaiser riding at their head. England has lost something of her old kindness if she does not take him back into her bosom. There is Spain, ancient and eager; Portugal, a sun-burned boy; Belgium, a kindly-faced man. There is hope for the Congo at last if that man has his way. Then, too, one remembers the strong profile of the great American, set like granite, as he leans back in the carriage.

"To me the strongest impression of all was that of the exquisite Queen Mother, the sweet womanliness, the gentle grace, a picture framed for an instant in the eye of the window, and never to be forgotten.

"There are the high lights which stand clear in my mind after a great day, the scarlet and gold has flowed, full-lid, between the banks of pale faces, and the king has passed to his rest. Now it is over. Sixteen and warriers, leaders and princes, with a hint of gold and a flash of steel, the greatest master upon earth, all are gone, and remain but a memory.

"The people surge forth from their close ranks and the hushed hum of London rises once more. For a few hours the great complex machine has stood at rest. For as many weeks it has been running heavily, and with a ceaseless ceaseless gears. Each turns great by his own proper business. The great dead has been honored and the world is now for the living. All its manifold activities will roar into action and strive of parties will break forth. It is good and should be so."

CONAN DOYLE WRITES OF THE FUNERAL OF KING EDWARD

London, May 22—Ever since King Edward's death his favorite terror, Caesar, has been ill and seems broken-hearted at the loss of his master. All that is possible is being done for him, and he refuses to be consoled. He hardly eats or drinks.

Although the king's bedroom was Caesar's home while his master was alive, he has not gone there since the death of His Majesty. His knowledge of what has happened is seemingly almost human.

The greatest sympathy is felt by King George and Queen Mary for the mourning animal, which listlessly droops about the palace, and the best veterinary skill has been called in his service.

Memorial by Jews
The Jewish World says—"King Edward was to the Jews of Europe more than the ruler of the British Empire. He was the embodiment to them of all that was noblest in kingship. He represented the consummation of the loftiest hopes in freedom's cause to the Jews of the continent. He towered above his cotemporaries, a class by himself, a pattern for monarchs of all times.

"The death of King Edward means to the Jews of the East, the loss of a Jewish memorial should be established to the late King Edward. We earnestly hope that it will be possible to carry out, more especially as it is a most moderate suggestion. The poorest would be most anxious to contribute, for it is the poorest of Jews that feel deeply the great loss which the world has sustained.

"No one can have passed through the East End during these days of mourning without being impressed by the genuine sorrow of the Jews there.

"What form the memorial should take need not now be discussed, but it should be associated with the East End or set up there and should take some visual shape."

FINLAND'S HUMILIATION
Russia's Plan for the Absorption of the Grand Duchy—Relations More Tense

Russo-Finnish relations are becoming more tense, and the friends of both nations deplore in advance the mischievous consequences of the growing hostility. At this moment there is a scheme under consideration for putting the institution of Finnish pilots under the Marine Ministry. This is regarded by the Finns as a wanton humiliation. They have vainly besought the authorities to spare them this indignity. If the measure be adopted there is good reason to anticipate a general strike of all the Finnish pilots, which must have a marked effect on the navigation of Finnish waters. There seems no doubt that the Finns will adopt this course if the Institution of Pilots becomes a department of the Marine Ministry.

"It looks as if, with the adoption of the Russo-Finnish Legislative Bill, the Russian state will have a terribly hard nut to crack. The Finns are an obstinate, dispassionate people, and will endeavor to confine themselves to a policy of passive resistance. So long as they persevere in that they need fear nothing more than the practical consequences of the bill. If they allow themselves to be stung by enemies or urged by friends to active resistance, they are ruined. Even isolated acts of violence will be visited by measures which would change very materially the political and perhaps the geographical boundaries of Finland. I am in a position to state that troops would at once march into the country, occupy certain strategic positions, take possession of the railway lines, and generally behave as troops are accustomed to behave under such conditions. The contingents which would take action are already designated, so, to spare the positions they would occupy. In a word, the mobilization plan is completed everything in readiness, not a single name remains to be added to the list, and if the order were issued tomorrow it would be executed with astonishing promptitude.—St. Petersburg Correspondence in the London Telegraph.

BRAKEMAN KILLED WHEN I. C. R. EXPRESS RUNS INTO SUBURBAN

John Casey of Moncton Victim in Fatal Accident on I. C. R. at Nauwigewauk—Much Rolling Stock Damaged

Traveling at high speed yesterday's incoming Maritime express plunged into the outgoing suburban as it stood on the rails in front of Nauwigewauk station yesterday at 1.40 p. m., demolishing the locomotive of the standing train, wrecking several cars badly, and killing John Casey, Moncton, a brakeman of the Maritime crew, almost instantly.

He was wedged in the wreckage of the baggage car and second class car of the Maritime, his pallid face pressed in a futile appeal to the throng of trainmen who came to extricate him. He was unconscious from the first, and he died before the men, working with frantic haste, with axes and saws, could free his body from the splintered car walls that held it.

Both trains had orders to cross at Nauwigewauk. The outgoing suburban reached that station first, and held the main line having the right to it according to the regulations as they understood them. It was expected the Maritime to stop east of the switch, open it, take the switch, and so pass through. But the Maritime, the driver evidently thinking he had the right of way, rounded the curve above Nauwigewauk at high speed, having the main line, and as its brakes were applied too late to control it, it crashed into the standing train, most of whose crew had jumped, and many of whose passengers were on the platform.

Casey, the unfortunate brakeman of the Maritime, was stepping from the second class car to the baggage car, and was between the two when apparently he heard the warning cries of the suburban's brakeman. He leaped outward to see what the trouble was, and at that instant the crash came and the telescoping cars crushed him between them, holding his body as if in a vise in the wreckage where he was clearly visible, suspended above the group of trainmen and passengers who rushed to that part of the wreck.

Both engines and the second class cars of each train were badly damaged, the engine of the suburban being almost smashed to atoms. The Maritime had about fifty passengers on board at the time, and the suburban about ten or fifteen. John Tull, express messenger, of the Maritime, and had his head slightly injured. Four tramps who were looking on at the time, and were in the rear of the Maritime engine, escaped unhurt.

Wrecking crews were sent out from this city last night to haul the wreckage. The left hand freight train had proceeded to the scene. The passengers were brought to the city on a special train arriving about 4.30 o'clock. The track was cleared last night.

John Casey, who was killed, had resided in Moncton for thirty-five or forty years, and was one of the best known men on the I. C. R. He had served about thirty-five years as brakeman, conductor and baggage master. He was a son of that city, Robert Casey and was about fifty-five years of age. He leaves his wife and five sons. The ones are William C., of the I. C. P. R. passenger department, Montreal; Harry, I. C. R. driver, Moncton; Fred, Halifax; John and Robert at home.

Engineer Storey, of the Maritime, said after the accident: "I think I'm in the right. I thought the suburban would surely take the siding so I kept right on. I have been in the business for about 38 years and this is the first time that anything of this sort has happened to me. I do not attribute my escape from death to any good luck but to the fact that it was the wish of the Almighty God."

Driver Magarity, of the suburban, also contended that he was right. "Why," said he, "the orders distinctly state that all trains going east have the right of way, and that is why I remained on the main line. I saw the Maritime coming around the curve but it was too late then to do anything but to jump and save my own life."

As soon as it became known at Nauwigewauk that a collision had occurred, the residents began to flock to the scene. Some of the women passengers were taken to a nearby hotel, where they remained until another train was made up.

Moncton, N. B., May 22—(Special)—John Casey, who was killed in the Nauwigewauk wreck today, resided at the corner of St. George and High streets, having been a resident of Moncton for thirty-five or forty years. He was one of the best known railway men on the I. C. R., having been in the service about thirty-five years in the capacity of brakeman, conductor and baggage master. He ran as conductor on the eastern division for some years. He was of genial disposition and was much liked by trainmen all over the road. He was between 55 and 60 years of age. He was the son of the late Robert Casey, who died a few months ago. He is survived by his wife and five sons. The second son is William C. Casey, a C. P. R. traveling passenger agent for a number of years. The other sons are Harry, I. C. R. driver, Moncton; Fred, formerly with the C. P. R. at Halifax; John and Robert, at home. The news of Mr. Casey's death was received here with deep regret and there is much sympathy for the family.

Canadian Government Sends Reply to Washington—Canada Rises to Fifth Place as Wheat Producer

Ottawa, May 22—A courteous reply has been sent to Washington by the Canadian government in response to President Taft's invitation for the opening up of tariff negotiations between Canada and the United States, looking to a mutual lowering of the trade barriers between the two countries.

While expressing a willingness to enter into negotiations for better trade conditions, which should prove mutually advantageous to both countries, the Canadian government points out that owing to the engagements of the prime minister, Hon. Mr. Fielding and other members of the cabinet who will be absent from Ottawa during the greater part of the summer, there will be little opportunity for the government here to take up the question in any active and detailed way until September next. It is, therefore, suggested that the matter be left in abeyance until then.

Meanwhile it is believed that the present movement in the United States looking to a lowering of the protective duties on many items entering into the cost of living to the general public will operate to the advantage of Canada in any future tariff bargaining.

Negotiations looking to the placing of Belgium and Italy on the Canadian favorability list in return for the granting by them of the lowest tariff rates against Canadian products, are now in progress through the medium of Belgian and Italian consuls-general at Montreal.

A survey it is to be immediately commenced to ascertain the possibility of making a navigable route between Edmonton and Winnipeg by way of the North Saskatchewan River and Lake Winnipeg.

A statement prepared by the census and statistics branch of the department of agriculture shows that among wheat-producing countries of the world Canada now ranks fifth. In 1908 Canada ranked tenth.

CANADA STARTS NEW YEAR WITH A RUSH

Ottawa, May 21—Canada started off the first month of the present fiscal year with a gain of nearly $1,000,000, or thirty-one per cent, in the total trade as compared with the total trade for April of last year.

The imports for the month totalled $33,682,438, an increase of $8,150,765, or about thirty-one per cent, as compared with the corresponding month of last year. Exports of domestic products totalled $14,767,281, an increase of $2,644,884, or about twenty-one per cent. The exports of agricultural products for the month totalled $6,060,572, an increase of a little over one and a quarter millions. The exports of manufactured totalled $2,380,111, an increase of $22,011.

If the present rate of increase is maintained for the rest of the year, the total trade of the Dominion will considerably pass the $800,000,000 mark for the twelve months.

The customs revenue for the month was $4,883,015, an increase of $1,094,555.

The surplus of receipts over all operating expenses on the Intercolonial railway for the last fiscal year is announced today as $823,000, as compared with a deficit of some $700,000 for the preceding year, a net betterment of over a million and a quarter.

WHEN THE KIDNEYS GIVE OUT

Backache, Rheumatism and Bladder Trouble Makes Life Miserable

Do you ever feel that you simply can't go any farther—that you must have rest for that lame and aching back—relief from that constant dead-tired feeling—freedom from those stinging darting pains?

This is the condition that so often comes at middle age, bringing with it an extreme nervousness and irritability that makes others think you "cranky" and "hard to get along with."

Likely your kidneys are worn and tired and need help. In any machine there is one part that works the hardest and gives out first. The kidneys work night and other waste created by overuse of strength and activity. Naturally a life of unusual activity doubles the duties of the kidneys, and in time the strain tells.

With healthy kidneys, one has a good chance to live long, but weak kidneys afflict old age with great discomfort. The back becomes bent and lame, rheumatism is chronic, eyesight fails, and too frequent or involuntary passage of the urine causes embarrassment by day and loss of sleep at night.

Booth's Kidney Pills bring new strength to old backs, as quick relief to weakened kidneys. They banish backache and rheumatic pain, and regulate the bladder and urine. When once a proper filtering action is restored through curing the kidneys, the dangerous uric acid is once more expelled from the blood, and danger of gravel, stone dropsy, heart trouble, diabetes and Bright's disease removed.

Both's Kidney Pills are for sick patients in old or young. There is not a particle of narcotic or poisonous drugs in this remedy. It is recommended publicly by thousands.

Mrs. Jas. McDonald of 63 Elliot Row, John, N. B., says:—
"I am glad to recommend Booth's Kidney Pills as I believe them a remedy of exceptional merit and Mr. McDonald says he has found more actual relief in them than in anything else he has ever tried. Booth's Kidney Pills have strengthened him in a very short time. He does not suffer with nervousness and cold sweats since he began their use and he is better generally."

Mr. J. G. Mackinnon, the druggist at 100 King Street, and 21 Dock Street recommends this remedy and since he began treatment with them he is never without a box at home in the house."

There was a good attendance at the annual U. N. B. sports in Fredericton yesterday, and two college records were broken. Fred Binney, of Moncton, a Freshman, ran the 220 yards dash in 24 1/2, a tenth better than the record, and in the 440 Johnson, of Grand Manan, the distance in 37 1/4, clipping three quarters of a second off the record.

Jack—Congratulate me, old man. Miss Pussleugh has made me happy for life. Tom—Indeed! When is the wedding to take place? Jack—Never. She refused me.

MEN! I'LL CURE YOU BEFORE YOU PAY ME

Let any man who is weak, broken down, old and decrepit in physical weakness, full of pains and aches, gloomy, despondent and cheerless—any man who wants to be stronger and younger than he feels—let him come and tell me how he feels, and if I say that I can cure him, and he will show that he is honest and sincere, he need not pay me a cent until I cure him.

I don't want money that I don't earn. I don't need it, and I am not after it. But I am after the dollars that are now going wrong in the quest of health. Look at these poor wrecks of humanity that are spending all they can earn on drugs—drugs that are paralyzing their vital organs that have spent all they have earned for years without gaining a pound of strength for the hundreds of dollars wasted.

That is the money that I am after, because I can give a thousand per cent. interest. And I don't want it at all until I have cured you. If you ever cured so many cases right here that I can prove my claims to you, but if that proof is not enough, I'll cure you first and then you can pay me.

Most of the letters that I am sending now are to men who have been sent here by their friends whom I have cured. I think that is the best evidence that my business is a success from a standpoint of cure, as well as on the dollar side.

Just lately I have received letters of praise from these men:—

J. DAHAL, SS. "Mima", Halifax, N. S., completely cured of Rheumatism.

W. Y. PYKE, Red Bay, Nfld., cured of general debility.

W. I. BYERS, Nipissing, Ont., restored his strength, after being unable to work for years.

JOHN NOBLE, Hanover, Ont., cured of Rheumatism.

If you will come and see me, I'll explain it to you. If you can't call, let me send you my book, full of the things a man finds inspiring to strength and courage. Free if you send this ad.

Hair Health

If You Have Scalp or Hair Trouble, Take Advantage of This Offer

I could not afford to so strongly endorse Rexall "38" Hair Tonic and continue to sell it as I do, if I was not certain that it would do all I claim it will. Should my enthusiasm carry me away, and Rexall "38" Hair Tonic not give entire satisfaction to the users, they would lose faith in me and my statements, and in consequence my business prestige would suffer. Therefore, when I assure you that if your hair is beginning to unaturally fall out or if you have any scalp trouble, Rexall "38" Hair Tonic will promptly eradicate dandruff, stimulate hair growth and prevent premature baldness, you may rest assured that I know what I am talking about.

One of the hundred test cases Rexall "38" Hair Tonic gave entire satisfaction in ninety-nine cases. It has been proved that it will grow the hair on bald heads when, of course, a baldness had not existed for so long a time that the follicles, which are the roots of the hair, had not become absolutely useless.

Rexall "38" Hair Tonic is a vastly different from other similar preparations. I believe that it will do more than any other human agent toward restoring hair growth and the health. It is not greasy and will not get the scalp of hair or cause permanent stains. It is so pleasant to use as pure cod liver oil.

My faith in Rexall "38" Hair Tonic is so strong that I ask you to try it on my positive guarantee that your money will be cheerfully refunded without question or quibble if it does not do as we claim. Certainly I can afford no stronger argument. It comes in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it only at my store—The Rexall Store, Charles E. Watson, 100 King street and 24 Dack street.

Table Manners of Children

If children are trained early regarding their table manners they can be no fear of the future. The essentials are: To sit at the table in an upright position, not to place the arms or elbows on the table; to properly hold and use a knife, fork, spoon, napkin, glass, etc.; not to place too much food in the mouth at once; to masticate slowly and without noise.

Children should be taught to always wipe the lips before drinking from a glass. This keeps the rim of the glass in a clean condition. The little ones should be impressed with the importance of taking the teaspoon from the cup and placing it to the right of the cup, and not to place the saucer as soon as they have stirred the contents of the cup. Teach them not to muss the food on their plates, and to eat what is given them without comment. It is better to serve them small portions and allow them to be served a second time.

The knife and fork should never be crossed, but should be placed parallel on the plate when the child has finished a course. This should be taught to decide and answer promptly when asked as to their choice of food. Make it a rule that the child cannot come to the table with soiled face or hands, unbrushed hair or clothing in disorder. Make the table a social gathering place for the family, and encourage the children to join in the conversation—to talk of their life outside the home, the occurrences in school or in play. Never allow gossip of any sort.

If they need conveying in table manners make a note of the fault and speak of it after the meal. Example is much stronger than precept. With the early training of the child the old adage of the banding of the twig can be shown, and the little ones who are taught it at an early age very rarely forget their lessons.

MORGAN'S BIG SCHEME FOR CENTRAL BANK

Chicago, May 25.—George F. Robertson, president of the Continental Bank in Chicago, at a luncheon of the Hawk-eye Fellowship Club here said that J. P. Morgan had obtained control of many banks preparatory to the formation of a great central institution. "Among the cities that probably will be reorganized," said Mr. Robertson, were Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, New Orleans, Buffalo, Atlanta and Detroit.

"As a result of the danger of a repetition of what occurred in the panic of 1907 will be alleviated."

NIP IT IN THE BUD

First Appearance of Dandruff a Fore-runner of Future Baldness

That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Prof. Lunn, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the harbinger of baldness, and that if the scalp, caused by parasites, is not treated, the hair will fall out, and the baldness will be permanent.

Newcomb's Herpicide kills this dangerous germ, and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundance.

Herpicide is now used by thousands of people—all satisfied—and it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market today.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

LOCAL NEWS

Furness line steamship Bappahannock sailed at noon today for Halifax and London.

The members of the 62nd band will meet this evening for practise instead of a march out.

A wagon owned by Mr. Mason of Fairville broke down yesterday morning in Mill street and a little damage was done to the vehicle.

The catch basin at the fountain in King Square became blocked up today and the water overflowed on the lower side of the font.

Policeman McCollom reports that there is a dead dog lying in Mill street. A suit case found some time ago in Main street was an overcoat in central police station.

The suit case and trunk found yesterday in the harbor by Otty Wilson were identified by John R. Day and John Charles of Brown's Place, and Mr. Wilson has returned the goods to them. There was about $100 worth in the articles. They had come from the dredge which sank yesterday.

In view of the fact that disagreeable odors are apt to arise from the ruins of last night's fire in John Hannak's barn, Magazine road, efforts will be made immediately to have the carcasses of the cattle removed. It is not known definitely yet what course will be pursued but it is probable that they will be covered with quicklime, and perhaps a few taken away. An inspector of the board of health will visit the place today.

It is just eleven years ago today that so many families in Indiantown were burnt out of their homes by the disastrous fire which occurred on May 25, 1899, starting at 1.10 p.m. In some ways the fire has been looked upon as a blessing as it rid the place of a number of disagreeable spots. The sections of the ruins have been built up again, and better, roomier, and finer houses have replaced those destroyed.

Plans for the smoker to be held tomorrow night by the A. O. H. hall under way, and a good time is assured all who attend. It is not known definitely yet whether or not Mattie Cummings, Boston, will be in the city for the affair. The presentation of the president's chair to John Lanney, of the P. M. A., will take place. This is the chair won by Mr. Lanney in the contest for the most popular president at the fair held this spring by the A. O. H.

POLICE COURT TODAY

Several prisoners appeared before Judge Ritchie this morning in the police court, the main offence being drunkenness. Two of the men were arrested yesterday. Daniel Fitch was remanded on a charge of drunkenness. His Honor reminded him that he had been released from jail only last week, and he was now liable to be sentenced under the Dominion Act to six months in jail. David Hennessey was remanded on a drunkenness charge and fined $8 for profanity.

Edward Nicholson and Benjamin Doyle were fined $8 on a charge of being drunk. Carl Johnson pleaded guilty to fighting in Union street, west side, on Monday night, and was fined $20 or two months jail. He struck a sailor friend named John Abbiss, the latter retaliated with another blow, and both were arrested. Abbiss was allowed out on deposit.

Albert Doherty was remanded on a charge of using abusive language to his brother, Frank, in Main street, as his brother did not appear against him. John McDonald, arrested yesterday on a charge of vagrancy, told the court that he had been in Canada about three years, and in St. John two weeks. He came here from Galway. He was ordered to the Municipal Home for three months. Mrs. Mary Nagle, a woman aged seventy years, was cautioned not to repeat the offence of trespassing on I. C. R. property by walking along the railroad track and endangering her life. She was told she was liable to a heavy fine.

PLAYGROUNDS IN CARLETON

The question of having the market square in the west end converted into a public playground will be taken up in earnest this week or early next week when the committee appointed to deal with the matter will meet to discuss the project. It is proposed to ask the common council to place the square at the disposal of the committee and to put it in shape for use as a playground for the children.

HAZEN NOT ON HAND; EXPENSE IS PILED UP

Neither Attorney-General Nor Solicitor-General in County Court This Morning to Attend to Criminal Business

Attorney General Hazen has cost the municipality a needless expenditure of money on account of his absence from his duty as crown prosecutor in the county court this morning. When the court opened at 11 o'clock D. King Hazen, son of the attorney general, on behalf of his father, asked to have the criminal business done. The municipality has to bear the expense of a petit jury and other fees which could be saved had the cases been proceeded with. Attorney General Hazen is in Boston where he addressed a meeting of the Intercolonial Club. Hon. H. P. McLeod, solicitor general and the next crown lawyer, was not in court.

It is seldom that a motion such as was made by Mr. Hazen Jr., this morning is made without disclosing the grounds.

OFF TO SEE WORLD; TRIP ENDS HERE

Three Kings County Lads Run Away From Home; Are Caught on Eastern S. S. Company's Wharf

The lure of the city proved too strong for three young lads of Kings county this week, and, tired of mother's cooking and of the peaceful quietude and surroundings of their native village of Haydock, they wandered last being strong within them, they determined to seek their fortunes in other climes. They are Frank Mullins, Frank Ryder, and Herbert Coates, all about fifteen years old and all respectable families in Kings county. Before leaving home young Coates it is said replenished his finances by helping himself to $15 from his mother. Mrs. J. K. Coates and she, on learning of the boys' disappearance and the money being missing, telephoned to police headquarters here, with the result that Sgt. Hastings at 7.30 this morning located the runaway trio on the Eastern S. S. Company's wharf and took Coates to the police station, the other lads following.

Coates has been detained until the arrival of his mother, while his chums have returned home, as there is no place like home and have resolved to abandon their desire of going to the states.

WILL HEAR ADDRESS FROM DISTINGUISHED AUTHOR

A distinguished Canadian author will address the Women's Canadian C. in Keith's Assembly rooms on Friday evening at 8 o'clock, and the ladies have invited all the members of the men's Canadian club to be present, an invitation they will accept with very great pleasure. The speaker of the evening is Rev. N. E. Knowles, author of 'The Atte Guest', 'Cutthroat's Dawn', 'The Shanty Boy', 'The Web of Time', 'The Underfoot', and other publications widely read not only in Canada but in the old country. Mr. Knowles is a speaker of great ability, as well as a writer of note. He is pastor of the largest Presbyterian congregation in Canada, that of Galt, Ont.

At the close of the address there will be a formal reception and all will have an opportunity to meet the distinguished guest. The Women's Canadian Club will serve refreshments. The committee in charge will be Mrs. George F. Smith, Mrs. George West Jones, Mrs. Humphrey and Mrs. George K. McLeod.

A DOUBLE ESCAPE FROM CHAIN GANG

Two members of the chain gang made their escape from that organization on Monday morning and have not been recaptured. They are Win. Shelley and Nelson Nichols. The former was serving four months for assault and drunkenness, while Nichols was in jail on a sentence of twelve months for drunkenness and causing the police.

They had been taken to work as usual quite early in the morning to a gully off Rockland road and after working a little more than an hour managed to get away before being noticed by Guards Beckett and Collins.

One of the guards pursued them, but they had a good start, and eluded their pursuers. A. F. Johnstone landed a 4 1/2 pound trout yesterday in Upper Loch Lomond. It is a fine fish and is attracting much attention to the window of McLaughlin and Hattie in Mill street, where it is on exhibition.
