St. John Gives Batteries a Rousing Welcome Back

Stirring Scenes in Flag-Bedecked Streets With Thousands Cheering, Bands Playing, Horns Tooting; City All Jubilant; Welcoming Speeches at King Square

Home at last! And every one of them wore a bomb proof smile as they alighted from the train. Some of the veterans left St. John almost five years ago; many of them went over with the siege batteries in 1916, and every last mother's son of them had been away from home long enough to make the old town look awfully good to them.

The day which they had looked forward to when the war was at its worst, the day of which they talked in the intervals between fighting, the day that has loomed the biggest in their thoughts and their dreams since they went away, had come at last and here they were at home with families and friends waiting to greet them.

The willingness with which they had gone to the front to fight for those they loved was marred by their longing to return and see the familiar faces again and it would be hard to imagine a happier looking crowd of men than those whom the troop train brought to St. John this morning.

Long before eight o'clock, the hour announced for their arrival, the crowds began to stream towards the station to welcome the men of the Fourth and Sixth Siege Batteries and the members of other heavy artillery units who came home with them, the party including the veterans of the first contingent who went over with the First Canadian Heavy Battery. The station was packed with mothers, wives, children and sweethearts to whom the years of waiting have been long indeed. The men folk were there, too, almost as excited as the women and girls, and the air was vibrant with expectancy.

They're Here. "Here they come!" sounded the general chorus as the long blast of the locomotive whistle heralded the arrival of the train. To those who awaited the men, the train seemed to be travelling at a snail's pace, but finally, with a triumphant snort from the steam exhaust, the train pulled in. From every open window the soldiers leaned, eager for the first glimpse of the home folks, and out-thrust hands were clasped in the first greetings before the train had come to a stop.

Then the band struck up "O Canada," and the cheers broke loose—deep-throated cheers from the men with the shriller cheers of the women, adding a staccato note to the greeting as the soldiers advanced. It was a scene of equal parts of enthusiasm and confusion as the families and friends of the men advanced in force. The veterans whose discipline had become proverbial and who had been ready for any attack the enemy could offer, succumbed to this onslaught, and were completely overwhelmed. Joyous reunions were taking place on every side and the officers, many of whom were similarly engaged, gave the men lots of time for the happy greetings.

Finally the fall-in sounded and men formed up for the march which they were to make as members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force of the great war. They lined up outside the lower end of the station and the Citizens Reception Committee extended their welcome.

The committee was reinforced by members of the other organizations who have had the returning soldiers at their landings at the docks or came by train, the Y. M. C. A. Red Triangle, the Red Cross, the K. of C. the Salvation Army and the V. A. D. all being represented. Packages containing fruit, chocolate, cigarettes and matches were distributed, and small flags were pinned on the men's trousers.

Through the Streets. It was nine o'clock when the procession started for the march through the city streets. Mounted policemen led the way, with the depot band in front and the city band following. The mayor and city commissioners, the county warden and county councillors and members of the citizens committee, headed by Mayor L. W. Barker, who has been in command of this unit continuously from the time of its organization.

Following the battery was the detachment of men who had served with it at the front and who had returned to St. John at various times, with Captain Jack H. A. L. Fairweather in command. The City Cornet Band was next in line.

The Sixth Battery came next in line, under the command of Major Cyrus McMillan who has commanded them since Major Laurence T. Allen was invalided home.

Major Allen followed with his detachment of original members of the battery who have returned in advance of the unit. A motor car with Lieut. Laurence D. MacLaren, who lost a leg while serving with the Sixth, and several other of the original members followed.

The Temple band led the members of the G. W. V. A., most of the latter in uniform.

The veterans numbered 250 and were led by Lieut. R. J. Harrington, with Lieutenants Carson, Berreidge and Hever also in line.

The boys scout, 400 strong, armed with horns and other noise-making devices, in charge of Commissioner B. C. Warfield, completed the marchers and as the parade moved off a great number of decorated motor cars fell in behind.

It was a march of triumph which ensued. This was the city's first opportunity to greet victorious troops returning from the front and the citizens were delighted to do honor to the heroes. With heads erect and eyes shining with the joy of the home coming, the men who lined the cheering crowds which lined every street. They were men to cheer for and the citizens did cheer, although with that reserve which always seems to limit the local display of enthusiasm.

The marching soldiers presented a striking contrast to the returning men whom the city has been welcoming since the first year of the war as they came back wounded and broken in health to recuperate.

As Hiram Sees It

"It's too blind bad," said Mr. Hiram Hornbeam this morning, as he waited for the battery boys to come swinging along, "that the boys has to see so many miles in the dark."

"Do you mean," Hiram's attention to the line of display of flags.

"That's all right," quoth Hiram, "if a feller's got his trench boots on, an' his kin keep lookin' up, an' the feller in front keeps from fallin' down when he stumbles. An' of course his experience on roads last time up by shell."

"You're right in St. John—but here they come. And they just fine? I'd give a lot to be able to feel what they feel this minute. I bet they was lots of times the blind respect ever to see these dirty old town any more—but here they are—Hoory-ay-ay!"

"Hiram had no more time for conversation. The Council of Foreign Ministers had just left King Square. His voice by that time was husky, but there was a light in his eyes that was good to see.

"Mister," he hoarsely whispered, "he's somethin' about a time like this an' a crowd like this that grips a feller hard. Do you know—I guess you deal more than what was in the streets this mornin'."

I seemed to see what these boys were doing. The next war's gone to be right here in their eyes for anybody to see that has any imagination. God bless 'em all—I hope we'll see 'em right. They helped to save the world. I guess we've got to be an afterthought, "they saved for me the right to kick like a true Britisher when the next war's on."

"The crowd when a procession's comin', an' poke themselves right in front of common folks like me, we can't see a thing. The next war's gone to be right here to home—to settle whether a few rappalcians that's able to buy ottompeis is gon' to hog the roads, the streets an' the scenery. I guess you want to get into that little scrap myself—no, sir. But say—did you see that lady lakin' her boy's arm and walkin' off with him right from the station? I hope he is as proud of his mother as she is of her boy. She let him go to the war. She wait an' pray—now he's in to her."

"Mister—that touched me more'n anything else I seen today—yes sir—it did so. The next war's gone to be right here—the home fires burnin' all right. Great day—honest I!"

again on behalf of District No. 7 and I wish you God-Speed and good luck."

The general's speech was received with cheers and clapping of hands.

Mayor Hayes then addressed the men as follows:—

Premier Foster, General Macdonnell, officers and men of the Fourth and Sixth Batteries, here recruited 800 men, 2,600 of whom went overseas and the rest on garrison duty. There were six-eight officers and out of that number, nine received the Distinguished Service Order, twenty-three the Military Cross and two the French Military Cross. (Cheers.)

"I wish to thank you for the part you have not yet received a record of all the honors awarded to the men, but we will soon have them. You have done splendidly in the past and will undoubtedly do splendidly in the future. (Cheers.) I wish to thank you on behalf of the city of St. John and to welcome you back among us."

Major Barker

Major Barker, O. C., 4th Siege Battery then called upon and responded on behalf of his battery. As he appeared on the platform the shouts and cheers were deafening. The only thing which checked the people's enthusiasm was their anxiety to hear him. "Your Worship Mayor Hayes, Premier Foster and General Macdonnell," he said, "we do not know how to thank you for the wonderful welcome you have given us. We are certainly glad to get home again. We got a wonderful send-off on March 8, 1916, but it could not compare with this. We feel a lot better coming back than we did going over and I wish to say that we were not forgotten by the people of St. John from the time we left for the front. The ladies sent us boxes and looked after us royally all the time we were 'over there.'"

Major MacMillan

Major MacMillan then came forward to respond on behalf of his battery. He was also received with great enthusiasm. "I wish to express on behalf of the officers non-commissioned officers and men of the 6th Battery," he said, "our deep appreciation of the welcome we have received. I am glad there is not much time for lengthy speeches as I am not good at making them but I want to thank you all

LORD BEAVERBROOK'S SON SEVERELY HURT

London, May 10—(Reuters).—The Daily Chronicle states that Lord Beaverbrook's son, Peter, aged seven, lost control of his bicycle and dashed in front of his father's motor car, which was just leaving Cherkley Court. The boy was thrown underneath and badly cut about the face and thigh. He is now making good progress.

Replying to a question of sympathy, Lady Beaverbrook states that, although the injury to her head is severe, her son is doing wonderfully well.

HONORABLE GATES PREPARE TO LEAVE VERSAILLES

Paris, May 10—(Reuters).—The foreign office announced this afternoon that preparations had been made by the German peace delegates for a withdrawal from Versailles.

Paris, May 10—(Havas Agency).—The German cabinet council has decided upon the working of a note that Germany will present without delay to the Allies, according to a Zurich despatch. The note, it is added, may be made public today.

Paris, May 10—It is understood that among the subjects discussed by the Council of Four today was the eventuality of Germany refusing to sign the peace treaty and what steps should be taken in that event.

It is said that no likelihood that Germany intended taking such a course had reached the Allies, but they were taking nothing for granted, and the discussion of the subject by the representatives of the powers was by way of preparation for such an eventuality, however remote.

Paris, May 10—The naval terms of the treaty to be presented Austria entirely wipe out the Austrian navy. All the ships are to be surrendered. Their disposal among the Allies is to be adjusted later.

Vienna, May 10—(By the Associated Press).—The Council of Foreign Ministers yesterday afternoon fixed the boundaries between Czechoslovakia and Jugoslavia, and made progress toward the adjustment of the new Roumanian boundaries. The question of lifting the blockade against Hungary was referred to the supreme economic council for consideration.

O. C.'s Look Back Over

The Years and Speak Of Work of Their Units

Major Barker and Major McMillan Give Intimate News of Stirring Days of War; Officers, Battles, Casualties and Other Outstanding Matters

NO. 4

NO. 6

A short and good sketch of the two batteries, Nos. 4 and 6, which reached St. John today after many months' absence by their respective commanding officers should prove of gripping interest to the people of St. John. The Times herewith prints the story first of No. 4, and then of No. 6.

In a quiet part of the officers' coach from Halifax to St. John, Major L. W. Barker, commanding officer of No. 4 Siege Battery related a few of the outstanding doings of the nifty 4th. from the time it left St. John to its return to Halifax on Friday and also a line here and there about its gallant officers.

The 4th was drilled and trained on Partridge Island previous to the time it left for overseas. It was then in command of Major Barker, who is today the only original officer to come back with the battery. Lieutenant D. W. Kerr, who left here with it, was killed in October, 1916; Captain R. H. Ring, was given command of the 8th Siege Battery, 1917 but who returned with the old battery as Captain West, to come to St. John today. Major L. T. Allen was the first O. C. No. 6, and then came Major McMillan.

With him was Captain Linton, who later became captain in the Canadian Corps of heavy artillery; Captain West and Lieutenants Sincich of Belleville, Ontario; Lieutenants Nichols, Stanger, Whitcomb, all of Montreal, and Lieut. J. M. Lyons of Moncton, who returned with the battery today, but was not original officers.

It is worthy of note that Lieutenants Nichols, Stanger and Whitcomb could have chosen upper Canadian batteries, according to redistribution orders given in France and gone directly home, but their affection for the old 6th prompted them to come right through to St. John with the battery.

Lieutenant Lyons, D. C. M., of Moncton, went over as a sergeant in the 6th S. B. and won his promotion on the field, 1914, in the 1st Divisional Ammunition Column and was later on attached to the heavy Siege Battery in the spring of 1918 and was then made a captain and posted to the 4th.

Lieutenant Alward, who was attached to the English Siege Battery for some time, joined the 4th in November, 1918. Lieutenant C. R. Hawkins, of Fredericton, went with the Field Artillery unit and served in the 4th and 1st Canadian Heavy Batteries.

Major N. P. McLeod, M. C., officer commanding the 6th Siege Battery, returned with the 4th today according to the redistribution of officers in France to allow the men to choose the units going to their own dispersal area. Major McLeod won his M. C. at Passchendaele and has a very brilliant record in France and did splendid work as O. C. of No. 5.

Lieutenant Snowball, Chatham, was with the 4th in France; Captain D. V. White, M. C., who is acting O. C. of the 12th Battery and Lieutenant S. C. Bennett, who went over in a draft from No. 9 Siege Battery were among the officers to return with No. 4 today for dispersal.

There were about 85 originals, N. C. O's and men included in the 210 making up the total strength of the battery at present.

According to the officers of various batteries the 4th is considered a very efficient and accurate shooting battery with a record of second to none in the Canadian corps of artillery at the front. The battles participated in were the Somme, Vimy Ridge, Hill 70, Lens and Cambrai.

Review of the Years

Major Barker speaking more fully of the battery's activities said: "We sailed on the Olympic from Halifax on April 1, 1916, after strenuous training on Partridge Island. We proceeded to Portsmouth from Liverpool where we spent several months. We were then sent to Horsham where we began actual training. After rapid progress in practice on the Lodd ranges where the battery did excellent work. We then went to Bristol and after securing our battery stores we left in July for France. At once we were sent up the line and then joined the 8th Corps, known as the Reserve Army. We first went into fire in the Mully-Mallet district. We were the only Canadians in the 8th British Corps at that time and our work with the British heavy artillery which they had in the field at the time came in for very high praise from the higher command. It certainly did excellent work with the Imperials.

"We co-operated in all attacks made by the Canadian corps during September and October and engaged in heavy fighting which forced the enemy to give us Theivral and other positions which were sent to that area and when the battery moved north and put in a quiet winter.

"Owing to a possibility of the enemy making a strong attack on the Belgian front which forced the enemy to give us Theivral and other positions which were sent to that area and when the battery moved north and put in a quiet winter.

W. W. Boyce of Fredericton, one of the produce shippers of this section, has returned from the United States where he found the potato market very dull as the result of a heavy movement of Canadian stock to United States points. At Boston 180 carloads of potatoes were standing on the tracks. The price quoted locally by the shippers is $8.50, but they are not buying in any quantities. The casing off in the United States market has affected the retail price here which has dropped to $4 a barrel.

Allison Edgcombe died here this morning after a lingering illness with tuberculosis contracted on service in France. He was aged twenty-six years and is survived by his mother, Mrs. R. H. B. Phillips, and one brother, Arthur, Clarence Edgcombe, valet d'hotel at U. N. B., who was invalided home as the result of wounds. SPEAKS FOR PROTECTION

"Has Thrown Away His Crown" is Conservative Comment—Debate Showed How Parties Are Mixed on Tariff Issue

Ottawa, May 9.—D. D. McKenzie threw his crown away this afternoon. This was the observation of a Conservative whip after the temporary leader of the opposition had made a moderate protectionist speech, although it was common knowledge that the floor leader of the opposition is not a free trader.

The house was startled when he declared today that "I am not a very high protectionist, but I cannot help knowing that protection has done much for certain industries in this country."

Government supporters acted as if they could not believe their ears. They realized what had happened, the Tories thumped their desks, Sir Thomas White leading in the demonstration.

The incident caused a great stir among the western free traders, Hon. Mr. Crerar, minister of agriculture, R. C. Henderson, president of the Manitoba Grain Growers' association, and Mr. Knox of Prince Albert nodding very significantly and then engaging in animated conversation.

There was a buzz of excitement in the corridors and in the western incipient rooms, and Mr. Crerar jocularly asked fellow members: "Where do we go from here?"

Mr. McKenzie was speaking particularly of the steel and coal industries of Nova Scotia, which are protected by the tariff, and said he was "speaking with facts and circumstances and not theory."

A prominent cabinet minister had remarked to the Times-Star last night that the Free Trade Lighter and not theory, gave a good account of himself for the permanent leadership of the Liberal party at the coming national convention.

chances for attack were made improbable we moved south again on Vimy Ridge. This concentration was the largest ever made by the batteries and we fired continuously for twenty-two days which proved so successful prior to April 9, 1917.

The summer which followed was a severe strain on the Canadian corps. The work consisted of taking of Hills 68 and 70 and was marked by continual fighting until October. The strength of the artillery increased in guns and the new section of the 4th after being at Passchendaele joined a unit at Moroc in November.

After spending two months in this position we supported the infantry who were anticipating an effort by the Hun to retake Hill 70. We rejoined the 4th corps which took over the front in advance of Vimy Ridge near Thelus and Lievin. In January the battery was taken out of the line and spent three weeks in close support, doing light training. After going back to our old position we moved south to Rocquencourt and took part in the battle of Arras.

From these positions we followed up the advance of the infantry from La Carrière river. The advance continued and the battery took part in the battle of Canal Du Nord and in the fierce fighting which took place in order to take these objectives and the subsequent advance which led to this No. 4 did excellent work. Owing to the backing of the enemy and the difficulty to get ammunition the 8th and heavy howitzer were unable to be kept in action but the field artillery and the 60-pounder guns with 8 inch howitzer kept in close contact with him by moving forward every night.

During the whole period the 4th were in France from July 31, 1916 to 1918. Before and after the armistice they were only out of the line for three weeks, so the lot of the siege gunner is not such an easy one as nothing to be envied. Nearly 100,000 shells.

Fully 98,000 two hundred pound shells were fired from the heavy howitzers during these twenty-eight months, which represents about 9,600 tons of high explosive. The battery was very successful in counter battery work and has many O. C.'s on enemy gun pits to its credit.

were only two killed. Those of the battery who have made the supreme sacrifice are—Lieutenant McDonald, St. John, killed on April 27, 1917; Gunner A. J. White, same name; Bombardier McCleave, Gunner Bryce, Gunner Wheaton, Gunner Moller, Gunner Stanley, Gunner Franching, and Gunner O'Neil, all of whom were lost at Passchendaele in November; Gunner Windsor, who died from wounds received at Arras; and Gunner Davidson who also succumbed to wounds.

The battery has 4 applied in France thirty-three different battle positions, has fired 60,000 rounds of eight inch ammunition and 65,000 rounds of six inch ammunition, which represents altogether over 125,000 rounds of ammunition.

The battery has three military crosses, one D. C. M., two military medals with bar, six military medals, one military service medal, one Croix Du Guerre and mentioned in dispatches.

Major McMillan paid a fine tribute to the men of the battery, saying they were a fine lot of picked men. He mentioned particularly among the names the name of Sergeant-Major Griffin, who is returning later with his wife and children; Sergeant-Major Kincaid, who was once a well known barber in St. John, and Quartermaster Sergeant Smith.

Both the 4th and 6th were in Colonel Frank Magee, 2nd Brigade of which he was O. C.

Among the officers who came in today attached to the 6th for dispersal was Major Dobbie, D. S. O., who went from St. John early in the war and was in command of the 1st Siege Battery; Major R. Ring, who was a captain in the 4th, but later was promoted in rank and given command of the 8th S. B. and Captain Wetmore, who is going to his home in Prince Edward Island and was a subaltern with the 4th.

SEIZURE OF THE MANSION HOUSE IN DUBLIN

Dublin, May 10.—The Mansion House, where Laurence O'Neill, the lord mayor, had planned to hold a reception last night, was seized by police yesterday afternoon. The building was at that time empty. The Sinn Feiners' parliament, which met there earlier in the day, fled to the streets of the city.

The military occupation of the Mansion House was not aimed at the suppression of the Irish parliament, but was intended to effect the arrest of Robert Barton and J. J. Walsh, Sinn Fein S. P.'s, and others who had recently escaped from Mountjoy prison and were believed to be in the building. Sinn Fein troops were withdrawn, without having captured the men who were believed to be in the building. The American delegates then proceeded.

At a special session of the Sinn Fein parliament yesterday a reception was accorded the delegates from the United States.

Prof. Edward De Valera, Sinn Fein leader, declared that "Ireland will never be created by England," and expressed cordial thanks to the delegates for "coming to defend the right." He assured an international one. Former Governor Dunne said that the general election recently held had proved that three-fourths of the Irishland demanded the creation of a republic.

Frank P. Walsh, one of the delegates, declared that America denied the contention that the Irish question was not an international one. Former Governor Dunne said that the general election recently held had proved that three-fourths of the Irishland demanded the creation of a republic.

Magistrate Says he Does Not Think at Present There is Enough Evidence to Send Catty and O'Reilly up for Trial

In the police court this morning the Catty and O'Reilly case was resumed. Edmund S. Ritchie, appearing for the defendants, said he did not think there was sufficient evidence to warrant sending them up to a higher court, under the charge of false pretences but if His Honor thought there was sufficient evidence he asked that he take into consideration their statement and grant bail.

Wm. M. Ryan, appearing for Dr. E. J. Broderick, asked that the charge be amended to a charge of extortion. He thought there was sufficient evidence to send them up for trial.

Mr. Ritchie contended that the defendants could not be taken by surprise and that the charge should not be changed as it was ridiculous to arrest men on one charge, knowing the evidence against them, and then change the charge.

His Honor said that he was at a loss to understand where Dr. Broderick has given evidence which would warrant the charge of "false pretences." He did not think that at present there was sufficient evidence to send them up for trial.

Five men charged with drunkenness were each fined $8.

WELCOME HOME.

St. John rejoices today that the men of the siege batteries are home again and that the 26th Battalion is following close behind. This morning's welcome will be repeated when the infantry unit arrives.

GIRL GUIDES.

Lady Baden-Powell should not be discouraged by any apparent lack of interest in the girl guides movement in St. John. There is the same reason to interest girls in this as to interest boys in scouting.

THE SCOUT MOVEMENT.

We will undoubtedly hear more about boy scouts and sea scouts as a result of the visit of Sir Robert Baden-Powell to St. John. He told the Canadian Club yesterday that when he spoke in this city some years ago it was on a theory, but since then the theory has been subjected to the most severe of all tests and has justified itself.

St. John will be especially interested in sea scouts. This is a newer development which proved of such immense benefit to the British navy that Admiral Beatty is now chief sea scout, and Admiral Jellicoe is giving special attention to the movement in his tour of the Empire.

Sir Robert declares that St. John is exceptionally well suited for scout training, which is done chiefly out of doors and under such conditions as are readily available here. The difficulty, as he points out, is in the scarcity of scout leaders. No doubt the large and very representative audience which heard him yesterday will take steps to remedy this deficiency.

That was a very significant remark, the chief scout made when he said that the boy with a hobby is not likely to get into serious mischief. If by making him a boy scout a boy may be so aroused and interested that he will have a hobby he is already provided with a suit of armor against many temptations.

Not only the Empire but the world owes much to this modest soldier, artist and author, who has devoted himself so earnestly and with such an understanding sympathy to the cause of a right development of boy life. His simple and direct method of appeal is very effective, and when next he comes this way there should be a splendidly organized boy scout and sea scout training system in full operation in St. John.

The American flyers are off on the first stage of their trans-Atlantic journey in hydro-aeroplanes. It will be a great feat if successfully accomplished.

The Irish-Americans in Dublin who are demanding an Irish republic would be better advised if they left that kind of talk to the Sinn Fein.

All interested in the boys and girls of the east end of the city should unite to make the Improvement League about to be organized a thoroughly live organization.

Now for the welcome to the 26th Battalion.

Drawing a Steel Ring Around Bolshevik Russia

Revolutionary France, assailed on every side in 1792, sprang to arms and threw the invaders across the border in a few weeks and then gathered her strength for the great campaigns that planted the tricolor on half the palaces of Europe. Bolshevik Russia is now in a similar situation, but any dreams of a Soviet invasion of Germany, Poland, Hungary, and Roumania with 3,000,000 soldiers, seem nonsensical to American editors.

Read THE LITERARY DIGEST this week—May 10th—if you would obtain a real knowledge of the present military situation in Russia. The article is illustrated by a half-tone picture of Kolchak, who heads the strongest anti-Bolshevik Government, and also by a map showing how Soviet Russia is hemmed in.

Other articles of more than usual interest in this number of "The Digest" are:

The Surest Remedy for Bolshevism
The study of the new social disease, Bolshevism, whose menace is today overshadowing the greater part of Europe, reveals the outstanding fact that it is most prevalent where ignorance is most strongly entrenched. This ignorance and its attendants, poverty and want, create ideal conditions for the fostering of this dread disease. The surest way to combat these is by education, by enlarging the viewpoint, by substituting facts for fancies, reality for revolution. No perversion of the truth can long endure under the pitiless light of publicity and common sense. It is up to every red-blooded American to do his share in spreading this education as to the real issues, the vital facts, the actual conditions that lie behind the world's unrest and are making history at a pace that is simply amazing. To get these facts, stripped of unessential details, clean-cut, condensed, and up to the minute, you have only to turn each week to THE LITERARY DIGEST. Buy a copy today, read it yourself and pass it along to your family and friends.

RECENT DEATHS

James Jack.
Many people in St. John and elsewhere will hear with deep regret of the death of James Jack, manager for R. G. Dun & Company, which occurred early last evening at his home in Padlock street. Mr. Jack had been in failing health for several weeks past and during the last few days he sank rapidly until he passed peacefully away. He was born in Scotland in 1862. He came to Canada in 1878 in the service of the Bank of British North America, subsequently becoming manager for Bradstreet in Halifax. He moved to St. John in 1888 to take the management here of R. G. Dun & Company, a position he held until his death. Mr. Jack was a past president of St. Andrew's Society and for many years a member of St. Paul's vestry. He is survived by his widow who was a daughter of William J. Vieth, of Halifax, by one brother here, Andrew Jack, two sisters and a brother in Scotland, and his niece, Miss Isabel Jack. The remains will be taken to Halifax this evening for interment in St. John's (Village) church cemetery where his daughter is buried.

Peter A. Gallagher.
The many friends of Peter A. Gallagher will regret to learn of his death which occurred at his residence, Quispamsis on Friday, May 9. Mr. Gallagher is one of the best known and oldest employees of the Canadian National Railways and was superannated about four years ago. He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Nan, of Magee & Co. of this city, by three brothers, George, of Torryburn, and John and Daniel, of Boston, and by two sisters, Mrs. Gowran and Miss Alice Gallagher, both of Boston.

Miss Edith R. Campbell.
The death occurred yesterday afternoon of Miss Edith R. Campbell of Fairville after an illness of upwards of a year. Miss Campbell was the daughter of Thomas and Frances Campbell of Westfield, who survive together with four brothers and five sisters. A short service will be held at 8 o'clock this afternoon, old time, at the residence of William Goris, 69 Main street, Fairville, following which the body will be taken to Nerepis for interment in Mount Hope cemetery. The funeral will be held at Nerepis at 8 o'clock, old time, Monday afternoon.

WITNESSES INCLINED TO BLAME THE GOVERNMENT.

Moose Jaw, Sask., May 10—The industrial unrest in the west was placed at the door of the federal government by several witnesses at the afternoon session of the Mathers Commission here yesterday. Inactivity was charged also with failure to fulfill promises made to the people at the last election and since. There was also complaint that the cost of living had always led wages, with the result that there was no chance for workers to get even or to put anything away for the lean years. The commission left for the east on the afternoon train.

THE German people, the delivering of German labor to foreign capitalism for the indignity of wage slavery and the permanent fettering of the young German republic by the Entente's imperialism is the aim of this peace of violence.

The German people's government will answer the peace proposal of violence with a proposal of a peace of right on the basis of a lasting peace of the nations.

"The fact that all circles of the German people have been moved so deeply by the expression to the united will of the German nation. The German government will put forth every effort to secure for the German people the same national unity and independence and the same freedom of labor in economical and cultural respects which the Allies want to give all the peoples of Europe, save only our people.

Germany, May 10 (via Copenhagen) - President Ebert of Germany has issued the following proclamation: "The first reply of the Allies to the sincere desire for peace on the part of our starving people was the laying down of the unreasonably hard armistice conditions. The German people, having laid down their arms, honestly observed all the obligations of the armistice, and as they were. Notwithstanding this, our opponents for six months have continued the war by maintaining the blockade. The German people bore all the burdens, trusting in the promise given by the Allies in their note of November 5, that the peace would be a peace of righteousness the basis of President Wilson's fourteen points.

"Instead of that, the Allies have now given us peace terms which are in contradiction to the promise given. It is unbearable for the German people and is impracticable, even if we put forth all our powers. Violence without measure would be done to the German people. From such an imposed peace fresh hatred would be bound to arise between the nations, and in the course of history there would be new wars. The world would be obliged to bury every hope of a League of Nations liberating and healing the nations and insuring peace.

ST. JOHN MEN MADE GOOD IN THE ARTILLERY

One of the most striking features of the war record of men from this city is found in the list of officers commanding heavy siege batteries at the front. The old St. J. C. R. has reason to be proud of the men trained in that militia unit in the days of peace and the whole city shares in the pride of the achievements in France and seven of these were commanded by St. John men.

At the time the armistice was signed there were fourteen siege and heavy batteries in France and seven of these were commanded by St. John men.

The list includes, besides Lieut. Col. Magee, who was in command of the Second Brigade, Major C. F. Inches, 1st Heavies; Major Hugh Dobbie, D.S.O., 1st Siege; Major L. W. Barker, 4th Siege; Major Norman E. McCleod, 5th Siege; Major T. Everett Ryder, 7th Siege; Major R. A. Ring, 8th Siege, and Major Colin Mackay, 11th Siege.

In addition to these, the two heavy batteries, the 8rd and 4th, which had been organized in England and which were sent ready for service at the front were both commanded by St. John men, Major L. T. Allen and Major William Vassie, respectively.

Urging development in the home market, the Canadian Labor Press in a special article in its May issue says: "There is an obligation upon all Canadians to buy domestic products, just as there is an obligation upon manufacturers to supply commodities equal in merit to those of foreign competitors. Every dollar spent for goods produced by Canadian labor means better conditions for Canadian workers and no goods purchased abroad are cheap that take the place of our own labor and our own raw material. The Canadian Trade Commission has estimated that for every $1,000,000 retained in Canada by a refusal to buy other than Canadian goods, the year's continuous employment can be given to at least 1,000 people."

SOME OF THE BOYS WHO CAME TODAY
Times Men Have A Word With Them
Three Morrissey Brothers Among the Home-Comers—Incidents of the Return and Experiences of Some of the Men

Among the boys of the 'nifty' siege batteries which returned this morning interest centres around the three Morrissey brothers, Gunners, John, Thomas and William, all of whom have come through the fighting safe and sound and all of whom are mighty glad to get home.
Gunner John consisted in the original No. 4 Siege Battery and has practically been through all its scraps with the exception of three weeks during which the battery was out of the line. He was never "officially" hit by Fritz, but narrowly escaped a severe shaking-up when he was killed in a trench in a shell burst in it and the house collapsed. The men inside miraculously all escaped death and only one was wounded.
Gunner Morrissey had two ribs broken. Outside of this he never was a casualty and although thinner than when he left he says he feels "fit".
His brother, Thomas, was with the infantry, including the 28th Battalion, but later was transferred into the battery with John, as was also William, the third of the brothers to return this morning.
Bombardier Harry Gorman, former day porter in the Royal Hotel, also came home. He was with the 6th Battery in France. He crossed over in 1916, being one of the original battery members that came across on the Atlantic.
Harry has many friends in the city and throughout the province who knew him in the hotel business. Naturally all will be glad to hear of his safe return.
Gunner Edward Q. Jennings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Jennings, and one of three brothers who were in the 28th Battalion, looked fine today at the station. "Ned" has grown to be a big chap and likes the army life despite the fact that he was twice "got to" by the Hun in the form of shrapnel and once was gassed. However, he did not look any the worse of his experience and although glad to get home, which seems needless to say in all cases, he adds he would not have missed it for the world.
Bombardier Leo G. McInerney, brother of Judge H. O. McInerney and Lieutenant Ralph McInerney, came back to St. John with the 4th, after absence from his own home for nearly two years. He is in the pink of condition. He went overseas originally with the 12th McGill Siege Battery and was later transferred to the 4th. He had his commission at one time, but passed it up to get across to France. With the exception of being gassed once he escaped a casualty. Gunner Raymond McInerney, a cousin, came back in the same unit today. He belongs to Rexton and has been through considerable fighting in France and Flanders.
Gunner Philip McBride, another well known St. John boy, a former employee of the L. I. B., was the same as a boy yet, the same as when he left, he has had at least one experience in France which he will always remember with a great expression of thankfulness that he came through alive. He was blown ten feet in the air by a high explosive and was thrown down the steps of a dug-out. Besides some minor injuries and a severe shaking-up he escaped miraculously. Later in the fighting, just previous to the armistice, he sustained a narrow escape but came through O. K.
Gunner Louis McLean was among the St. John boys to get a warm welcome today. He was formerly with the 28th Battalion as sergeant, but was transferred to the siege battery, as his original unit did not go to the front. He was with the 7th Siege Battery in France and went into Germany with them in the army of occupation and with the redistribution of the men of the battery to their home-towns to facilitate sailing matters he became identified with the 4th.
Gunner Marvin White, who went over in a draft from No. 9 Siege Battery and was in France with the 12th Battery, returned today. He looks well after his journey and his fight against Fritz, and, like the others, was glad to know that he was on his last great lap homeward in the greatest experience of his life.
Gunner Roy Driscoll, of the Park Hotel was the same fat chubby smiling faced lad as of yore. He went over in a draft from Partridge Island with No. 9, and in England was transferred to the 12th Battery and sent to France. He was through all the scraps just previous to the end of the Hun, and was fortunate in not letting Fritz get him, although in sending over some of the heavy six and eight inch shells he let the old boy know he was on the job.
Gunner George Stephenson, formerly of the Canadian Consolidated Rubber Co., got back today and says he is feeling fine. George is also one of the original battery boys and looks none the worse of his "terms" in France and Flanders.
A homecoming, notable for its sadness, was that of the Macaulay boys, Bombardier Donald and Gunner Norman. Lieut. Robert is still in England, a disciplinary officer in Seaford. It was while he returned the boys were leaving the continent and proceeding through Belgium to French part of embarkation that a cable from their brother in England told them of the death of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Beverley R. Macaulay. Naturally the blow was a crushing one, but the boys are standing up under it manfully and their homecoming is being brightened as much as possible by their brave little sister and other relatives.
Another home where more than one hero's hat hangs in the front hall is that of the Weatherhead boys at 178 Wentworth street. Sgt.-Major Arthur Weatherhead arrived home some weeks

LOCAL NEWS

PANTRY SALE.
A pantry sale was held today in the Imperial Theatre in aid of the organ fund of St. David's church. Mrs. Alex. Watson was the convener, and was assisted by Mrs. B. Melrose, Mrs. J. A. MacKeigan, Mrs. G. O. Hannah, Mrs. R. E. Armstrong, Mrs. G. T. Harding, Mrs. Annie Dunlop and Miss Gerrie Campbell. At noon Mrs. Watson said that the sale had been very successful and they expected to sell out this afternoon.

WEST END PLAYGROUND PLANS
The West End Improvement League is revived to get behind playgrounds and amateur athletic sports, including baseball. A meeting was held last evening in the city hall and adjourned till next week to complete plans. President Donohoe presided last evening and those present were much interested in the movement. It is felt that the west side will not fall behind other sections of the city in this work for the benefit of the young people.

WELCOMED BY FRIENDS.
Pte. F. Gallagher of Enniskillen has been in town visiting his friends, who are very glad to see him. Private Gallagher reported officially killed, later reported severely wounded and is recovering as well as can be expected. While in St. John he called on Major McLean, the captain of the 28th Battalion, and is leaving on the Fredericton train accompanied by Sgt. E. D. McLean, also of the 28th, to report the balance of his leave furlough at his home prior to going to Fredericton military hospital for further treatment.

AUCTION SALES.
Walter Holly's summer residence at Westfield, originally owned by L. C. Prime, was sold at auction at Chubb's Corner at noon today by F. L. Potts, George H. Waterbury became the owner for $2,200.
Mr. Potts also sold a farm of 17 1/2 acres on the Golden Grove road to Mr. Waterbury for $750.
Earlier in the morning Mr. Potts sold two lots of land used in the city fire department. The same purchaser took both at $215 each.

TOWER PRISONER IS BELIEVED COMMANDER WHO SANK THE SUSSEX
London, May 10.—The submarine commander who is confined in the Tower of London, after being brought to this country from Spain, is said to be Captain Kalservetter. It is believed he was in command of the U-boat which torpedoed the British channel steamer Sussex on March 24, 1916.

ago, after a busy wartime in Major Inche's battery—a matter of four years and seven months, and today Gunner Charles Weatherhead reached home after two years' overseas duty. He started out with Major Allen, and like his brother, saw most of the big show. The brothers met frequently on the field of battle and were able to chum it quite a lot.
Capt. Edward M. Slader, soon after his leaving the army, hastened to the bedside his rapidly declining grandmother, Mrs. Thomas Currie, who is in the Old Ladies' Home, Broad street. The captain enjoyed the tender ministrations and household companionship of his grandmother from his childhood and in the absence of his mother from the city, she might be said to be his only relative here. It was, therefore, a meeting deeply affecting and overwhelming with joy when the soldierly hero met over the little old lady's cot and took her in his arms. Mrs. Currie has been quite ill of late and her single wish has been that she might be spared to see "her boy" again.
Hampton Soldiers.
Among those arriving with No. 6 Siege Battery was Gnr. H. M. N. Warneford, son of Dr. P. H. Warneford, Hampton. He enlisted with No. 4 Siege Battery and went overseas and to France with that unit, but was transferred to No. 6 and served till the armistice with that unit. Gnr. Warneford was badly shaken up on two or three occasions, but managed to escape all right. A large number of friends in this city and in Hampton extend him a hearty welcome.
Gnr. M. B. Scribner, son of Herman Scribner, also of Hampton, arrived with No. 4 Battery. He enlisted with it when it was being recruited. Gnr. Scribner went to France and served continually until the armistice. He will also receive a hearty welcome.
Gnr. John I. Smith, son of Thomas E. Smith, also of Hampton, arrived with No. 6. He enlisted with No. 9 and went overseas in a draft, but was transferred to No. 6, and he served with that unit until the armistice. He is heartily welcomed by a large number of friends.
Gnr. H. E. Burgess, son of Charles Burgess, of Hampton, arrived with No. 6. He enlisted in No. 9 when he was seventeen and in England was transferred to No. 6, and served some months with that unit. He was warmly greeted.
Gnr. R. M. Hallett, son of George B. Hallett, also of Hampton, arrived this morning. He was formerly of Sussex, but as his father was recently appointed registrar of deeds for Kings county at Hampton, he is claimed as a Hampton lad. He enlisted with the 104th Battalion when sixteen and was transferred to the battery with which he served for many months. He will receive a hearty welcome in both Sussex and Hampton.

After All It's Service You Should Buy When You Purchase Furniture
You are interested in the service you get when you trade with a store; it would help if you knew just what sort of service the owners of each store want to give; it would have a good deal to do with where you did your buying.
Because some new customers seemed surprised at the extra service they get here, we want to devote this advertisement to an explanation of Everett service.
Our business has been built on the one idea of selling only good furniture; guaranteeing that it is good and that it will stay good; agreeing that you must be satisfied with what you buy here, not only when you see it attractively displayed in our store, but when you get it into your home, and always thereafter. Such satisfaction is a source of pleasure to you, and that means good will for us. This good will of our customers is the most valuable thing we have. Whenever a piece of Everett furniture fails to give complete satisfaction it fails to create good will; we therefore are anxious to replace it with something which will continue the feeling of good will.
These principles apply to every transaction in this store from a dollar and a half candlestick to a luxurious bedroom suite, and these principles have built our business.

Our Batteries Which Won Fame In War

Number Seven Siege Battery, which returned today as Number Six. This picture was taken at their first training grounds on Partridge Island about a week before they left for overseas service. Major Lawrence T. Allen, first O. C. of the battery, will be recognized in the middle of the group with several of his officers around him. Many familiar faces will be found in the picture and of this group of officers and men about sixty have continued in service until today and arrived in St. John this morning with the battery.

Number Four Siege Battery, from a photograph taken before they started on the journey which led to the battlefields of France. Major Barker, O. C., of the battery then and still in command, is seen on the extreme left of the picture. Next to him is Captain, now Major Roy A. Ring, second in command. The next officer is Lieutenant J. W. Price, who was attached to the battery during preliminary training. In the middle of the picture is Lieutenant W. Gordon Kerr, who was killed in action, and at the right is Lieutenant J. A. Bruce. In the middle of the lower picture is Lieutenant G. B. Wetmore and at the extreme right is Lieutenant Jack H. A. L. Fairweather.

ONLY ONE TO RETURN UNDER ORIGINAL O.C.

Major Barker Still Heads the Fourth Siege Battery

One of the finest groups of men which left St. John for the war zone returns with honors won in fields of France and Flanders.

Of the many units which left St. John filled with grim determination to do their part in the work of defeating the Hun and thwarting the menace which threatened civilization there was none in which the citizens took more pride than the 4th Siege Battery. It was a picked force composed of the finest type of young manhood chosen for a special task because of special qualifications. This was the first battery which the province had been called upon to furnish and the standard set for those who sought admission to its ranks was high, but the response was one which did credit to the city and the province. The first flush of enthusiasm had passed; by that time it was realized that the war was an extremely serious business, that those who offered their services had a long period of hard fighting ahead of them and they joined with their eyes open to all these factors. And how the volunteers did flock in! Authority for the battery was given on Oct. 12, 1915, and in a fortnight it was filled up, with the applicants still coming. Physically, the average was high, as only good sized men were eligible and the class of men who joined was high in other ways. There were several who resigned commissions in order to join; there were many students from the provincial universities and the rest of them were of a fine type of young manhood.

The Original Officers.

The battery was fortunate in its officers also. The command was given to Major L. W. Barker, formerly a battery commander in the old 3rd C. G. R. before his removal to Montreal, whence he returned to take over the new unit. Second in command was Captain R. A. Ring, another experienced officer of the militia regiment, who had been in uniform since the beginning of the war. The lieutenants were W. Gordon Kerr, Jack H. A. L. Fairweather, J. A. Bruce and George B. Wetmore, all of whom had been on service with the garrison forces since the early days of the war awaiting their opportunity to get overseas.

Partridge Island was the scene of their initial training and during the months of January and February the officers and large numbers of the non-coms and men took special siege courses at Halifax. Finally the training which could be received on this side of the water was completed and the time for departure arrived.

It was a memorable scene when the battery marched through the city to King street east for their final review and farewell. The reviewing officer was Colonel (later Brigadier-General) H. H. McLean, O.C. New Brunswick units, and he was accompanied by a staff including Colonel H. A. Powell and Major Stetchem.

The inspecting officer's impression of the unit was quoted at the time as follows: "They are a fine body of men and what is more, ninety-five per cent. of them are from the city of St. John. I know most of their fathers and they all spring from good fighting stock and should acquit themselves splendidly when they reach the field."

After the inspection the battery was addressed by Mayor Frink, who said, in part: "The time has arrived for the citizens of St. John, through me, to show in some measure their appreciation of your courage and valor in this hour and at this time when you are about to go forward to the front.

"The people of St. John, the people of the province of New Brunswick and the people of the Dominion of Canada are proud of you and they recognize in you a number of men who had the courage to sacrifice all those things which are dearest in life in order that others may live. I think there is nothing nobler in life than the aspirations which prompted you to take this stand. Nothing greater nor grander than to live in these troublesome times and during this terrible war and feel that you are an actor and doer in bringing to pass that victory which must be ours.

"Whilst you are away you shall live in our hearts, and I feel sure that you will add lustre, if that be possible, to you the best wishes of the people and citizens of this city and ask that the blessing of God may rest upon you."

How well the battery fulfilled the expectations which were voiced in these speeches, their later history records. The Departure. Friday, March 31, 1916, was the day fixed for their departure from St. John and when they left the ferry boats to parade to the station they marched past cheering throngs to the accompaniment of heartfelt wishes for good luck and a safe return. The bands of the 118th and 140th battalions played them to the station where a guard of honor composed of detachments from there and the 69th battalion, with the latter's band awaited them. The last farewells were said, the troops boarded the train, and then began the long and anxious period of waiting for their return which ends with their arrival today.

Some of them sleep their last sleep in the bloodstained fields of France and Flanders, and to their families the return of the battery will be but the revival of sad but glorious memories of the sacrifices made in a noble cause. Others, wounded and broken in health, have returned from time to time and have been warmly welcomed; some will carry the marks of their overseas experiences through life; others who have recovered will be among the most enthusiastic in their greeting of their former comrades. Less than one-third of the original battery returns with the unit.

Off for England.

The six officers and 212 men who comprised the original battery sailed from Halifax on April 6 on the steamer Olympic and arrived in Liverpool six days later. For the first three weeks in England the battery was quartered in the Clarence barracks in Portsmouth. Then they moved to Horsham, Sussex, for two months' training in the siege school there. A fortnight more was spent on the artillery ranges at Lydd and then they were sent to Bristol to mobilize under the required strength and these extra men had to be left in England, much to their disappointment.

For a short period at the front the battery was equipped with four eight-inch "Mark VII" howitzers, a new type of weapon which they had the honor of introducing to the firing line as they were the first battery so equipped. These guns had a range of between six and seven miles and fired 200 pound shells. For a short period they could maintain a rate of fire of upwards of two rounds a minute.

In France Last.

The long looked for day when they should actually set foot on French soil came on July 31, when the battery landed at Boulogne. They were attached to the Fifth Army as the 131st Imperial battery and on August 6, took up their first position at Malley-Mallet in the Somme district. Their stay here was short as heavy hostile shelling soon brought orders to move to a new position near Englebœuf. Later, they took up a new position at Courcelles-a-Bois, where the guns were concealed from enemy observation by being installed in imitation wheat stacks. For nearly two and a half months the battery fired from their position without being located by the enemy. This period was marked by the attack on Beaumont Hamel, in November, and at that time the battery fired 170 tons of shells in thirty-six hours.

First Casualties.

While in this position the battery suffered the first casualties when Lieutenants Kerr and Gunner Ashton were killed, on October 5. Their next move was made in December when the battery was located at Bully Grenay and joined the Canadians. That winter was marked by unprecedented cold weather for that country and with the mercury at zero the canals in the north country froze solidly. This was a new element in the situation, and among the residents of the country there was great alarm that this should give the Germans an opportunity to march across the canals and sweep the country. For this reason the troops in the canal region were reinforced and Major Barker's battery was among those chosen for the purpose. They moved up to the Ypres salient in January, 1917, and remained there during the cold weather.

When this period of service elapsed, the battery was divided in two, Captain Ring taking two sections to a new position in the vicinity of Vimy and Major Barker, with the other two guns, embarked on a "circuit tour" of three weeks' duration, during which he took up a new position every few days. The battery was re-mobilized for the Vimy attack. Soon after the capture of the famous ridge, the battery was attached to the second Canadian Heavy Artillery group under command of Lieut.-Colonel Frank C. Magee, of this city, who had gone over with the first contingent.

Losing Their Officers.

In the summer of 1917, nearly one-half of the 7th Siege battery having been killed, the battery was re-formed and sent to take command. Soon afterwards it was promoted to the rank of major and later was given command of the 8th Siege battery. Lieutenant Bruce had been wounded during the attack at Vimy and was sent to England. He returned in July, but within a few days was wounded again, this time so seriously that he was sent home to Canada. Early in July, 1918, he returned to England, received his captaincy and went, as adjutant, with a Canadian artillery brigade to the Marman coast.

Lieutenant Wetmore was sent to England in July, 1917, to train and bring out an extra section. These men arrived during the Passchendaele operations in 1917, and were attached temporarily to other batteries, suffering heavy casualties before finally joining No. 4. Lieutenant Wetmore soon afterwards was transferred to the 2nd Siege Battery with the rank of captain. Another of the original group of officers was lost to the battery in July, 1917, when Lieutenant Fairweather was sent to the Canadian Corps Heavy Artillery. At the end of the year he returned to England for work in the siege school at Wimley and in June, 1918, he went back to France as captain of the 10th Siege. He was wounded in August last and returned home after the signing of the armistice.

Unique Distinction for O. C.

The only one of the original officers who returns with the battery is the O. C., Major Barker. With the exception of certain periods when he was acting temporarily as lieutenant-colonel of the brigade, he has been continuously in command of the battery, and in this respect he has the unique distinction of being the only officer in the siege and heaves who has kept command of his unit continuously. He has proved a most efficient officer and his good work has been recognized by honorable mention in the despatches.

Other officers who have served with the battery include Captain Douglas White of this city, who was in command of the battery for a time while Major Barker was doing brigade work; Captain Sluder, who had been with Major Inche's battery and was transferred to No. 4 as captain and who was wounded during the advance in September, 1918; Lieutenants Lawson, of Toronto; Perry, of British Columbia; Pierce, of Ontario;

SIXTH SIEGE BATTERY WON GREAT REPUTATION

THEIR BATTLEFIELDS

Among the places where No. 6 Battery fought were: The Somme, Vimy, Fresnoy, Oppy, Hill 70, Ypres, Passchendaele, Arras, Monchy, Cambrai, Valenciennes, Mons.

Canley, of New Glasgow; White, of Halifax; Sprague and Ellis.

Won Fine Reputation.

The non-coms and men show as many changes, in proportion, as members of the battery were invalided, transferred or promoted and others took their place. Throughout their period of service the work of the battery was consistently good and the unit won a high reputation. From the generous praise which the officers bestow on the men of the battery and the good words which the men have for their officers, an excellent idea may be gained of the efficiency of the outfit and the harmony which marked their relations.

Honors Won.

Unfortunately a complete list of the honors won by the members of the battery is not available but among them are the following: Major L. W. Barker, mentioned in despatches; Captain G. B. Wetmore, M.C.; Captain J. H. A. L. Fairweather, M.C.; Captain J. A. Bruce, M.C.; Sergeant-Major A. M. Ellis, M.M. and Italian Cross. The battery remained on the Lens and Arras front until the advance in August, 1918, when they moved forward as far as Mons and were there when the armistice was signed. Naturally, they were looking forward to taking part in the advance into Germany, but this ambition was not fulfilled as they were held up to await the arrival of new guns. The guns did not come and the battery remained at Mons until a short time ago when they were transferred to England, and thence home.

Face Peeling Habit Becoming Fashionable

Women of fashion and refinement seem to have been acquiring the mercurized wax habit, depending less and less upon cosmetics for their complexion difficulties. It does seem a lot safer to just peel off the worst skin when it loses its youthful color and appearance—now that this can be done so easily, safely, painlessly and economically. The wax takes on the old scurf skin, in just as many days as you use cold cream, soaping at night, washing it off next morning. Major Allen's Unit Has a Record to Be Proud Of

Through fiercest fighting of Great War and Always Ready For More of the Same Kind—Less Than One-third of Original Members Return.

Almost immediately upon the departure from St. John of the 4th Siege Battery, authority was given for the recruiting of another siege unit and No. 7, which afterwards won its honors as No. 6 Canadian Siege Battery came into existence. Men already in training on the island formed the nucleus of the unit and recruits who poured in when the rolls were opened soon filled the vacancies. A high standard had been set by the preceding battery and their successors fully maintained it.

It was an exceptionally fine lot of officers and men who lined up when the battery was completed, and the reputation which the battery won during their strenuous period of service in the battle zone is the best testimonial to their quality. Officers and men alike have more than fulfilled the expectation of their friends and those who return today, including the sixty odd original members and the others who took their places in the battery at later dates have reason to be proud of the honors they bring home with them. There always has been considerable friendly rivalry between the two units and when one did an exceptionally fine bit of work the members of the other battery were keyed up to a high pitch in their eagerness to balance the score. The 6th comes home with the reputation of having been one of the most efficient of the heavy batteries in the Canadian forces and with an enviable record for good work well done.

When a commanding officer for the new unit was sought by the authorities, their choice met with general approval when Major Lawrence T. Allen was selected. Major Allen had served with the historic militia unit, the 8th C. G. R., and when war was declared immediately offered his services. He was stationed at Partridge Island for a period and then transferred to Halifax for garrison duty there. He was recalled from Halifax to take up the work of organizing and training the new battery.

The other officers appointed were Captain P. E. M. Roscannon and Lieutenants Herbert A. West, Laurence D. MacLaren, H. D. MacDonald and Guy Fitz Randolph. After their period of training at Partridge Island, varied with special courses for officers and N.C.O.'s at Halifax, the battery with a total strength of 150 men, was passed as ready to proceed overseas by the end of May. Their final inspection took place on King street east on Friday, May 26, when Colonel H. H. McLean, O.C. of the New Brunswick command congratulated them on the results shown during their brief period of training since organization.

On this occasion Mayor Hayes addressed the battery. Parts of his speech, as reported at the time, were as follows: "Only a short time ago you were engaged in the ordinary peaceful occupations of Canadian life, but in response to the call to duty and of empire you forsake these and donned the khaki and are classed as soldiers of the King. "You are all our fellow provincials. Many of you have come from the different sections of our province—most of you, I understand, are citizens of St. John. Some of you I have been intimately acquainted with all our lives. For all of you we have the highest regard, not only because of your personal character and worth, but on account of your sacrifices you make in giving up your positions, your homes and your friends, for a time at least, in order to fight our battles in France and Belgium. "Our men who have preceded you have won undying fame on many a hard-fought battlefield. The name 'Canada' means more in the estimation of the world than it did two years ago, and we have every confidence that the men of No. 7 Siege Battery will fully maintain the reputation of Canada earned by those who have made up the earlier units. "We predict for you great usefulness for Canada and the empire. We wish you a prosperous voyage when you go overseas and that you may participate in glorious victories for our arms, and we look earnestly for your safe and early return to the hearts and homes you leave behind you." Lieutenant-Colonel P. A. Guthrie, who had returned from the front, also addressed the battery, telling them of the serious work ahead and expressing his confidence in their ability to uphold the reputation already established by the Canadian overseas forces. A Remarkable Demonstration. There was a remarkable demonstration in honor of the battery on the following Sunday on the occasion of the garrison church parade. It was a beautiful spring day and thousands of citizens turned out to do honor to the men soon to depart for the front and to get what would for many a last glimpse of their friends in the battery. After the combined forces had marched through the streets in one of the most striking military processions the city ever had witnessed, the 115th and 140th battalions lined up on either side of King street and the 6th took up their position in Charlotte. Through the ranks of the battery paraded and the Sabbath stillness was rent by cheer after cheer in honor of the artillerymen. The battery continued their march to St. David's Presbyterian

ST. JOHN, N. B., SATURDAY, MAY 10, 1919

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES

METHODIST

The Methodist Times says: "The position of Methodism in the Isle of Man is probably unique in the British Isles. In an area of some 230 square miles, almost one-third of which is uncultivated mountain or marsh land, we have some seventy churches. There are at the present time only eight Wesleyan Methodist ministers in the island, but the services of public worship in our churches are maintained largely by a body of over 160 local preachers. Methodism here is still the "majority" church and exercises a tremendous influence on the whole life of the island. Every newspaper, save one, is controlled by Methodists and positions of public influence and responsibility on every hand are held by our people. "Methodism" said a Manxman recently, "was made for Manxland." Now that the great war is over and the period of depression caused by the cessation of the visitation of the visiting industry has passed, our people are looking in a spirit of intense expectation, to a forward movement throughout the island, and are profoundly impressed with the sense of a great and critical opportunity. The policy of our church in the next few years may well determine the whole future history of Manx Methodism. A new social consciousness is awakening among the people, and Methodism, from those cultivated mountain or marsh land, where its leaders have sprung, and from whom they have largely received their training and social impulses, is determined to play its rightful part in the ranks of the great majority of the work-reconstruction in Manx life. In Douglas especially there are indications of a revived interest in public worship, and at Victoria street church under the ministry of Rev. Coburn Gregory, there is the largest congregation in the island, and a vigorous church life.

In St. John's (Nfld.), at Gower street church on Easter Sunday morning, forty-five young people were received into the membership of the church, and in the evening forty-nine adults. At Cochrane street, fifty adults were received. At Wesley, star buttons were presented to ten children of the Sunday school who had each collected five dollars for the Armenian Relief Fund. At this service a Chinaman read the scripture lesson. At a service during the week Mr. Burgen was presented with a walking stick, and study table.

Rev. Louis G. Hudson, B. A., who taught last year at the Methodist College, St. John's, is now at Harvard University, studying for the degree of Master of Arts. His first half year was so successful that he won the Austen Scholarship, worth $300, from the graduate school of Arts and Sciences. From Bermuda we learn church finances are advancing both for local and missionary purposes. A musical recital at St. George's yielded upwards of $30 for the Armenian fund. The Harris Bay and Tucker's town circuit is prospering. Grace church here had a variety of services during the past year. The organizations of Warwick, Ireland Island and Port Royal are using every effort to advance the work.

The united committee of the Wesleyan, United, and Primitive Methodist conferences have been meeting in London (Eng.). Should the general plans outlined by this committee be adopted by the various conferences, union will follow. No demand is being made that one church should make concessions to another. The union is to be upon such a comprehensive basis that all types of thought and persons now in the existing churches may be included. World evangelism is kept in view as the chief objective, and all the churches are trying to make such modifications as are needed to that end. Tryon (P. E. I.) is moving forward in all departments of church work. The study class in particular has a record. The young people are much interested.

Rev. J. S. Ross, M.A., D.D., of Norwich, Ontario, is now in his fifty-second year of active circuit ministry, and is a splendid example of faithful and persevering work.

A cable from London, England, reads: Mr. Whiteside, Jerusalem, Queens Co. (N. B.): Deeply regret to inform you that Lieutenant A. B. Whiteside, Royal Air Force, is reported to have been killed on April 22 as the result of an airplane accident here in this country. Air corps command express their sincere sympathy. Mr. Whiteside writes: "This is to me the saddest news possible in the loss of my son, Barlow, upon whom I had built the best hopes of a long and most successful life of great usefulness."

Anaemic Paleness Quickly Changed To Rosy Cheeks

Rev. Arthur Whiteside has the sympathy of a very wide circle of friends. Halifax reports the accession of members and well attended services. Rev. Alfred Rogers, B.A., has been to Toronto in the interests of the relief fund and secured some twenty thousand dollars. He with others are carrying forward a dominion-wide campaign. It is hoped by July next a substantial sum will be realized for the relief of ruined churches.

Rev. E. C. Edward Darrin, D.D., the newly appointed editor of Zion's Herald, Boston, is a native of Canada, forty-six years of age and for seven years associate editor. It is reported that Rev. William Harrison, D.D., of Maryland, will retire at the June conference. He is completing his third year on this circuit with abundant success. On Easter Sunday he received thirty-three into the membership of the church. The Sunday school has been largely augmented.

From Albert, St. James, Harland and Hillsboro interesting reports are received of additions to the church, increased missionary givings, and increasing spiritual life and activity. Whist Wesley Memorial, Moncton, rejoices in new members on profession of faith fifteen, by letter two, with seven baptisms. A Sunday school attendance of 375, with special missionary offerings of $388.40, Rev. H. Johnson and his staff of workers are much encouraged. The Central church under Rev. W. H. Barclough, B.A., who had splendid services, and a reception of new members.

Special Lenten services held in most of the Nova Scotia circuits resulted in additions to the church and the deepening of the spiritual interests of all the churches. It would seem the returning soldiers in this Nova Scotia province are giving careful attention to church services and showing evident love of the work there carried on.

Rev. Edward F. Church is invited to the pastorate of Elm street church, 776-ronto, in succession to Rev. A. Floyd Smith, M.A., B.D., who becomes assistant secretary of the home mission board on May 1. The mission board has decided that Rev. D. James Endicott, general secretary of the foreign department, shall attend the meeting of the board of governors of the West China Missionary University, to be held in London (Eng.), early in the fall. Dr. Endicott will likely sail for England the last week in August.

The summer session of Victoria College, Toronto, opens May 13, and will close about August 5. No fees will be charged to students. Rooms may be secured in Burwash Hall at very moderate terms. Subjects for study are Old Testament, New Testament, hermeneutics and exegesis, philosophy of religion, systematic theology, homiletics, church polity and discipline, English Bible, various courses psychology, English literature. The professors are from all over the dominion and are experts in their respective lines. It is expected the young men and teachers will have a very pleasant and profitable time in the cool rooms of the college buildings in Queen's Park.

PRESBYTERIAN
The churches in the city of St. John have just brought to a successful conclusion a series of meetings on The Forward Movement of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. The programme has been wisely laid before the various congregations, and it is felt that already deepening interest is being shown in the movement. Rev. Professor Shaw of the Presbyterian College, Halifax, was the final speaker and addressed a well-attended united meeting in St. Andrew's church on a recent Wednesday evening. The churches in St. John are looking forward to a good season's work after the usual assembling of forces at the end of September.

Rev. Dr. McGillivray, of Shanghai, China, preached to appreciative audiences in Knox and St. David's last Sunday. While he is touring this section of New Brunswick, Rev. Dr. Pidgeon, of Toronto, formerly professor of theology in Westminster Hall, Vancouver, is touching the important centres on the east of the province and along the C. N. R. in Nova Scotia. Dr. Pidgeon is a product of the Miramichi presbytery, his early home being in the Metapedia. He is well known east and west and is greeted on all sides by large and enthusiastic groups of workers. Dr. McGillivray has also an enviable reputation for scholarship and leadership and is one of the most outstanding preachers within the Chinese empire.

ANGLICAN

It seems a great pity that so many of the delegates to the Synod last week were penalized because a number of the clergy did not purchase standard certificates on the railways. Fifty were needed to obtain the full fare. The forty delegates who followed instructions and purchased standard certificates had thus to pay extra. This should not happen again.

Since the Synod of 1918 several clergymen have removed from the diocese. The departure of more than a passing notice, but in some strange and almost unaccountable manner not one voice was lifted in service in this diocese. For twenty-two years Mr. Scovil performed a noble work. As rector of St. Jude's church for eighteen years he exerted an influence which is far reaching. He labored abundantly in connection with the Bishop Medley Memorial, and his active participation in the Board of Missions was well known. King's College never had a more loyal supporter than Mr. Scovil. He sacrificed much on behalf of his Alma Mater working in season and out of season on her behalf. Honors he never sought, hence he was saved from disappointment. But those who remain in the diocese and appreciate what he did in this diocese in connection with King's College know that the respect and love of all are greater and more lasting honors than ecclesiastical titles and dangling capital letters. This is merely a humble tribute of appreciation for a most worthy man. It is an effort to show that a man whether a prophet or a fool, is honored among his friends, and those who know him best.

The Rev. J. Cooper Robinson has been in our midst during the past week. In most of the city churches he has given his most illuminating lecture on Japan. For thirty-two years Mr. Robinson labored in the flowery kingdom, and the story which he delivered was most wonderful. It was first-hand knowledge he gave, and it was marked with earnestness, simplicity and intense sympathy. It was a message right from the heart, and those, all too few, who heard him will look upon Japan in a new light, and will also pray more earnestly for the faithful missionaries, especially in Mid-Japan, which is the special work of our Canadian church.

The annual report of St. James' church is full of valuable information. It is the regular number of the parish magazine, which is now in its tenth year of publication. There are 110 names on the honor roll. Seventeen names have paid the annual dues. It is proposed to erect a window in the church in their memory. The fund has already made good headway. During the last year the total missionary offering from the church amounted to $870.75. The Easter offering this year was $236.31. The children of the Sunday school during Lent gave $184.60 to missions. Special offerings, apart from plate and envelopes, amounted to $628.59. The reports of the various societies are given in full, and are very encouraging.

Hearty congratulations are here extended to the Rev. Canon Smithers and the Rev. W. R. Hibbard, of Rothesay, upon the honorary degrees of D.C.L., bestowed upon them by King's College. For long years Dr. Hibbard has labored faithfully and efficiently as master of the Rothesay Collegiate School. He has moulded the life of many young men, and mainly through his efforts the school has taken a foremost place among educational institutions in the land. Dr. Smithers is known throughout this diocese from the rising up of the sun to the going down thereof. Nay more, he is a sun in himself, bringing brightness and beneficent influence wherever he goes.

Dr. Smithers needs no academical honors, for his name is great in Zion. One is more than tempted to say that "To gild refined gold... is wasteful and ridiculous excess."

The Year Book of Trinity church is now issued, and well repays careful study. Trinity is to be congratulated upon at last having free press. "It was a great move from all points of view," the rector says in his report. "Our church is now free as a church ought to be and our financial returns are larger than ever before." The book contains eighty-four pages, filled with the work of the various societies. Parish needs are mentioned, such as a parish house, completion of Sanctuary panneling, reduction of funded debt, echo organ, chapel in the quadrangle, etc.

EPISODES IN LOCAL CHURCH HISTORY
(By the Ven. Archdeacon W. O. Raymond, LL.D.)
No. 35.
On the 30th September, 1907, the island of Campobello was granted by Lord William Campbell, the governor of Nova Scotia, to Captain William Owen, of the Royal Navy. Captain Owen was then on a tour of exploration in Nova Scotia. Three years later he got together a little colony of prospective settlers at Warrington on the Mersey, a few miles from Liverpool, in England. In addition to Captain Owen's family the party numbered thirty-eight persons, representing nearly every variety of trade from barber to blacksmith—some thirty trades in all. There were also a number of women, classed as "cooks, housewives, washerwomen and spruce beer brewers." They sailed from Liverpool in the Snow "Owen," April 7, 1770, reached Halifax on the 21st of May, and after spending a few days there went on to Campobello where they arrived on the 6th of June, the birthday of King George III. Here the colony was enlarged by the addition of some New England families and others. They laid out a town, and called it New Warrington. To provide a proper form of government for the island, Captain Owen, Wm. Isherwood, his clerk, and Plato Denny, master of the "Owen," were appointed magistrates by the government of Nova Scotia, Captain Owen being constituted "quorum unus," with the right to solemnize marriages and to act as a police magistrate. The colony was formed on the old patriarchal system. In the navy Captain Owen had been accustomed not only to maintain discipline, but to hold divine service on the Lord's Day. We shall now leave our friend to tell his story in the words of his daily journal. "Sunday, June 10, 1770: Having no better place as yet, I performed Divine service in the shed, both morning and evening, at which time there attended most of the inhabitants of Campobello, Indian and Casco Bay Islands." He continues in the diary to record weekly Sunday services, morning and evening, with usually a sermon. "June 21st: Went over in the yawl to Point Pleasant and married Philip Newton and Mary Cartney, widow James Boyd, Esq., appearing personally and giving a certificate of his having published their bans three Sundays in time of Divine worship." "Sunday, the 1st July. Performed Divine service morning and evening, and baptized a son of William and Susanna Clark; Captain Denny, myself, and Catherine Lawless being sponsors." It may be noted here that the Anglican church approved of lay baptisms in emergencies and it must be remembered that there was not at this time one solitary Anglican clergyman in what is now New Brunswick. "Sunday, July 8. Performed Divine service and in the evening read a sermon to a numerous audience in the new-built store." "Sunday, July 15. Performed Divine service morning and evening and baptized a child of Wm. Dollard (lately drowned), and Hannah his wife, by the name of Thomas. Matthew myself, James and Hannah Choffey, sponsors." "Sunday, the 22nd July. Divine service as usual and preached a sermon.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Morrison, the eloquent preacher of the West Side, has recently seen much before the public in some of the leading papers of Canada and the United States when one of his many good sermons has been published and been widely remarked upon. In a recent notice we are reminded that Dr. Morrison has ever been a leader from his earliest college days.

Rev. Frank Baird has a most timely and suggestive letter in the columns of The Telegraph this week. Following so closely upon the recent synodical charge of Bishop Richardson, it is suggestive of the real spirit in which our churches may accomplish much that otherwise would be left undone, while we vainly talk about uniformity. The writer of these notes has had the pleasure of ministering in the State of Maine to just such a congregation as Mr. Baird speaks of, and the satisfaction of knowing that it can be worked out admirably, Presbyterians and Anglicans, Baptists and Methodists worshipping in one church, yet in no wise losing their connection with their own denomination. Co-operation rather than uniformity is what we need today.

One of the most significant signs of the times is the movement among the churches of Canada for advanced programmes of expansion. As a result of a series of conferences, an inter-church movement has been definitely decided upon to be known as the united national campaign, comprising five of the great communions in the dominion. A representative national executive committee has been appointed.

Drawing a Steel Ring Around Bolshevik Russia

Revolutionary France, assailed on every side in 1792, sprang to arms and threw the invaders across the border in a few weeks and then gathered her strength for the great campaigns that planted the tricolor on half the palaces of Europe. Bolshevik Russia is now in a similar situation, but any dreams of a Soviet invasion of Germany, Poland, Hungary, and Roumania with 3,000,000 soldiers, seem nonsensical to American editors. While the Bolshevik forces under Lenin and Trotsky hold the inside position and can strike in any direction, at least five of the peoples of Europe are actively engaged in military preparations for defense. Of 850,000 Allied troops in Northeastern Europe "the English and French alone number nearly 800,000," says the New York Evening Post, and "with the Czechoslovaks and Poles in the North, a cordon of easily more than a million men can be stretched from the Baltic to the Black Sea."

Read THE LITERARY DIGEST this week—May 10th—if you would obtain a real knowledge of the present military situation in Russia. The article is illustrated by a half-tone picture of Kolchak, who heads the strongest anti-Bolshevik Government, and also by a map showing how Soviet Russia is hemmed in.

The Surest Remedy for Bolshevism
The study of the new social disease, Bolshevism, whose menace is today overshadowing the greater part of Europe, reveals the outstanding fact that it is most prevalent where ignorance is most strongly entrenched. This ignorance and its attendant, poverty and want, create ideal conditions for the fostering of this dread disease. The surest way to combat these is by education; by enlarging the viewpoint, by substituting facts for fancies, reality for revolution. No perversion of the truth can long endure under the pitiless light of publicity and common sense. It is up to every red-blooded American to do his share in spreading this education as to the real issues, the vital facts, the actual conditions that lie behind the world's unrest and are making history at a pace that is simply amazing. To get these facts, stripped of unessential details, clean-cut, condensed, and up to the minute, you have only to turn each week to THE LITERARY DIGEST. Buy a copy today, read it yourself and pass it along to your family and friends.

ALL ARE AMERICANS

Two Had Joined Canada's Flyers Before U. S. Went to War—Say They Were Twitted by Others and Fight Ensued—Boston Tragedy Also

New York, May 10—The New York Sun prints the following:—As the result of a street fight on Wednesday night between two discharged Canadian air lieutenants and three Harlem men, also recently discharged from the army, in which one of the latter, William J. Peyton, twenty-eight years old, was killed. Detectives arrested today Dudley J. O'Sullivan, twenty-one years, of 53 St. Nicholas Place, charged with homicide. Robert J. Herbert, twenty-two years old, of Harlem, is being detained as a witness. The arrested men were both former first lieutenants in the Canadian Royal Flying Corps.

The police say that O'Sullivan and Herbert were walking along Broadway on Wednesday night when they were met by Peyton, who was recently discharged from the 32nd Pioneer Infantry, and two companions, James O'Brien and Thomas Dunn, the latter two being former members of the 37th Division. O'Sullivan told the police today that one of the trio shouted "Here comes some of those Jimies."

The two officers were stopped, they said, and an argument followed in which, according to O'Sullivan, Peyton and his companions questioned the part taken in the war by the British. It ended in a free-for-all fight and the police say Peyton was knocked down by Lieut. O'Sullivan. Peyton was taken to St. Lawrence Hospital, where it was found that his skull had been fractured. He died a short time after he was admitted to the institution.

At the police station O'Sullivan talked with the reporters. "It is a very unfortunate occurrence. The young man asked us why we were not in the American army and when we told them that we had enlisted with the Canadians before the United States entered the war they laughed. They held us up and started to call us 'Jimies' and the result, in the end, was the trouble."

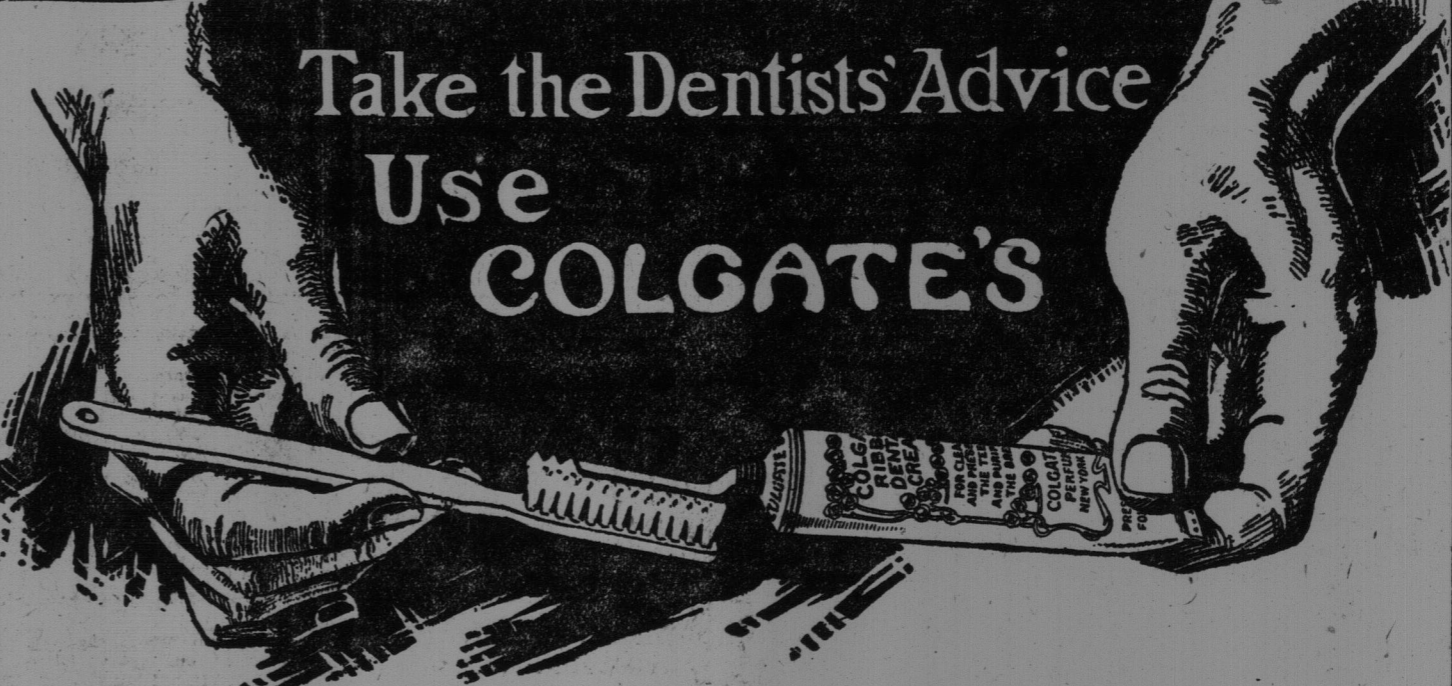

O'Sullivan was attached to the Fifth Aero Squadron, Royal Flying Corps, overseas, while Lieut. Herbert was with the 218th Aero Squadron Royal Flying Corps.

Killed in Boston.
Boston, May 10—Lieutenant James Reese Europe died here last night as a result of a wound in the neck, alleged to have been inflicted by Herbert Wright, a drummer in the 36th Infantry band, of which Europe was leader. The two engaged in an altercation at Mechanics' Hall, where the band had been giving a series of concerts.

VETERANS OF FIRST CONTINGENT HOME WITH FIRST HEAVY BATTERY

Unit Which Lt.-Col. Magee Took Over From Valcartier

Now Under Command of Major Cyrus F. Inches. Battery Has Record of Almost Five Years of Active Service Nobly Performed.

When the records of the batteries are scanned and honors are awarded, first place must be given to the First Canadian Heavy Battery of the First Contingent.

From the chaos which resulted from the rush of thousands of volunteers to the newly created camp at Valcartier, efficient organization quickly produced the elements of an army and there the first heavy battery was brought into being.

HONORS WON BY THE FIRST

It is impossible to furnish a complete list of the decorations conferred on the members of this famous battery, but some of those which can be recalled are as follows:

- Lieutenant-Colonel Magee, D. S. O. Major Vassie, M. C. Major McLeod, M. C. Major Leach, M. C. Major Ryder, M. C. Major Hall, M. C. Captain Garland, M. C. Captain Slader, Croix de Guerre (Fr.) Captain Hopper, M. C. Lieutenant Ryan, M. C. Sergeant Stackhouse, D. C. M. Sergeant Ingraham, M. M.

Challenge Cleanable Collar "For Young Men" Linen finish, stitched edge, just like a linen collar in appearance, but will outwear ten times as long.

tion of officers from this section at least as high.

How They Return. On account of the official designation it has been found necessary to transfer the St. John members to the New Brunswick siege batteries for their home ward trip and they will arrive here not as part of their original unit but with their comrades in arms of the other batteries.

Early at the Front. After the short period of training at Valcartier in the fall of 1914, the battery crossed with the first contingent and spent the winter at Salisbury Plains in England.

For the first two years they were attached to imperial artillery brigades and saw service at many places along the western front from the Somme to the Meuse.

Their record for 1918 includes participation in the events at Neuve Chapelle, Festubert, Loos and Arrancieres. In 1916 they did their share at Ypres, Vimy and Passchendaele. In the first part of 1918, the battery was called upon for extremely heavy work and in the Cambrai region it was said that they were further up and fired more ammunition than any other of the Canadian heavies.

At that critical time in March when it was feared that a German advance might force a way through the Allied lines, the battery was ready to fight to the last, with little hope of getting their guns away if such an event occurred.

When the German advance came and the Hunns were forced to sue for peace, the battery was before Mons and it is in their records that they fired the last shot that was put over by the Canadian heavies.

In the triumphal entry into Germany through Bonn and Cologne, the First and Second Canadian heavies following and then four English batteries of similar equipment, they led a procession of artillery three miles in length.

The Officers. After recovering from the serious wounds he received in 1916, Major Magee was given the rank of lieutenant-colonel and placed in command of the second artillery brigade. Major Inches succeeded him in command of the First Battery.

Other officers with the battery were Major William Vassie, Major Norman McLeod, both of whom went overseas with Lieutenant-Colonel W. Henry Harrison, D.S.O., in the 2nd Divisional Ammunition Column; Major R. J. Leach, Captain C. H. B. Garland, and later Major T. E. Ryder, Lieutenant J. B. MacLachlan, Lieutenant E. M. Slader, of St. John, Lieutenant A. E. Hopper and Lieutenant Patterson. Still later Lieutenant W. L. Caldwell and Lieutenant Keltie Jones, of St. John, and Lieutenant F. C. Underhill, Lieutenant Robinson of British Columbia, and Lieutenant E. R. Paterson joined them.

The battery originally consisted of four six-pounders and later was increased to six guns. The battery was singularly fortunate and in spite of the fierce fighting through which they passed the battery lost only one of its guns, which was in the nature of a birthday party for the band. The minister, Rev. H. C. Fraser, presided at the supper and all had a very enjoyable time. The entertainment was organized by Miss Florence Cummings and Mrs. H. T. Campbell.

HOUSTON, TEXAS, SHERIFF COMES OUT FOR TANLAC

"Money Couldn't Buy the Good it Has Done Me," Says Prominent Official in Statement.

"Money could not buy the good Tanlac has done for me, and I gladly recommend it to all," said Hon. Archie R. Anderson, of Houston, Texas.

Mr. Anderson needs no introduction to the people of Texas, as he is unquestionably not only one of the best-known, but one of the most popular men that ever held public office in "The Lone Star State."

"I was in a rundown condition," confessed Mr. Anderson, "and had no appetite at all. I could hardly sleep at night and never felt like getting up in the mornings. I was so tired, I had the worst form of indigestion, suffered all the time from gas on my stomach, and was continually belching up undigested food. I had to take my coffee without sugar as when I drank it with sugar I would just belch for hours. I would blot and swell up like I was poisoned and suffered with neuralgic pains of the worst sort, and nothing seemed to help me only in a temporary way."

"When I read the testimonials of some who had been relieved of troubles like mine I felt like I couldn't make a mistake by taking Tanlac and it has done more for me than I had expected. I began to feel better after taking my first bottle and have now started on my third and I'm a different man already. I sleep like a log now and eat just any and everything I want without the slightest discomfort afterwards. I am glad to endorse Tanlac because it does the work, and I'm telling my friends just what I'm telling you. I never felt better in my life than I do since taking Tanlac. I am willing for you to publish my statement in every suffering person who may wish to benefit by my experience with this great medicine."

Tanlac is sold in St. John by Ross Drug Co. and F. W. Munro, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative. (Adv.)

The Path to Health For many thousands of women the Path to Health has certainly been through Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When this great remedy was first introduced, and for many years after, skeptics frowned upon its curative claims, but as year after year has rolled by and the little group of women who had been cured by it has since grown into a vast army of hundreds of thousands—doubt and skepticism have been swept away as by a mighty tidal wave, until today this purely vegetable medicine is recognized as the greatest remedy for woman's special ills in the world.

PUBLIC HEALTH NOTES

VACCINATION

Smallpox is, probably, the most famous of all diseases. It has been known, as such, for many centuries and in practically every part of the world. Broadly, it may be said that all human beings are naturally liable to contract it, although at exceedingly rare intervals there will appear an instance of one who is seemingly immune to it. For ages it proved the most destructive disease to human life and happiness in the world. Those whom it did not kill it sometimes disfigured for life, thus frequently blighting the prospects of innumerable men and women, especially the latter.

In the latter part of the eighteenth century in England a physician who afterwards became famous discovered that smallpox could be prevented by inoculation with the serum which exuded from the sores of a somewhat similar disease that cows were subject to. This disease was called vaccinia, from the Latin word which means "a cow." Dr. Jenner, the physician referred to, noticed that milkmen and milkmaids who contracted this disease did not contract smallpox, no matter how intimate a connection they might have with the latter disease. He also noticed that, as a rule, this cow-disease was never contracted but once, and that it was an extremely trivial one—simply one or two sores upon the fingers or hands for a week or two, and then disappearing forever.

He at once began to inoculate the arms of persons who never had had smallpox, but who were gravely exposed to the disease and noted, to his great satisfaction, that they did not contract smallpox. Hence arose the practice of vaccination, as it has ever since been called, and by the consent of the whole world Dr. Jenner has been pronounced the greatest benefactor of the human race that has ever lived. In a very little while the practice of vaccination spread to every civilized country, and those countries which have practiced it the most have the least smallpox. Vaccination is, in fact, the only really practical means by which smallpox may be prevented. Quarantine and disinfection and so forth are very useful in their way, but these means were always used, to a greater or less extent, before vaccination was discovered, with but comparatively little effect.

It seems necessary even at this day to tell this old story which has been told so often because surprising as it may seem there are many people who do not seem to know that vaccination prevents smallpox. Very many have the notion that all it is designed to do is to make an attack of smallpox lighter and less severe in character. It will certainly do this, in those rare cases where a vaccinated person contracts smallpox, but the main object of vaccination is not to relieve smallpox but to prevent it altogether. The writer was once told by a most learned and cultured gentleman that he had never known before that smallpox could be prevented by vaccination. He had supposed it could only be modified.

Hardly a year ago the writer saw a six months' baby, which had been successfully vaccinated, seated upon its mother's knee, the latter being covered with smallpox pustules, an dthe baby was perfectly well and remained so.

No acute contagious disease costs the country, where vaccination is not generally put in force, as much as smallpox. Many hundreds of thousands of dollars are annually spent for this disease and in consequence of want of vaccination.

Every one should become successfully vaccinated very early in life, and have it tried again before reaching man or womanhood. If smallpox be present in any community, every one should apply for vaccination or re-vaccination, unless they have been successfully vaccinated within about five years.

Maxwell
—a car made of more brains than metal

SO much material and so much labor go into every car. And so many bookkeepers record the business done.

Have you ever stopped to consider the brain power that goes into a car?

Take the Maxwell, and note such men as these employed in its development:

1. The originator of quantity production in the automobile business and the master mind in the employment of machinery to produce quantity.
2. One of the two leading production men on the continent.
3. One of the two leading metallurgists on the continent.
4. One of the leading foundry engineers on the continent.
5. Probably the leading cost man on the continent.
6. A road testing engineer who has driven a car further than any living man.
7. An accountant who keeps a daily balance in a business that exceeds $50,000,000 a year.

These are but seven of more than thirty men of exceptional capacity who team together in the operation of the Maxwell business. The career of any one of these men furnishes a great human story.

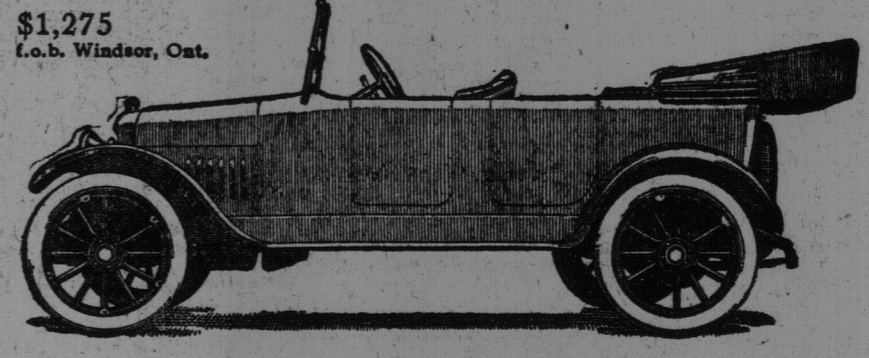

The result is evident in the Maxwell of today—a car with a lineage of 300,000 before it. All-designed and built on the original chassis program.

It is a car that grows better day by day.

Because more brains than metal are put into it.

The success of the movement in Great Britain for collective bargaining has been such that the government, employers and employees have approved of the appointment of a national industrial council subject to necessary government action and to ratification by their respective organizations. Among individual industries nineteen have formed joint in-

Twenty-five other British industries less well organized, have formed interim industrial reconstruction committees. Eight other great industries have established trade boards, upon which masters and men are jointly represented.

HECLA Furnaces are making Warm Air Heating Popular

A Better Heating System for Your Home at Lower Cost

TO the great advantage—lower cost—every warm air furnace has over other heating systems, Hecla Furnaces have added better heating—cheaper heating—greater health.

Moist Warm Air
Warm air given by the Hecla Furnace carries plenty of the moisture so necessary to health. The Circular Waterpan of the Hecla is large, runs completely around the furnace. This ensures even distribution—every room gets the same proportion of moisture with the heat.

No Gas—No Dust
No gas or dust escapes into the house with a Hecla Furnace. The Fused Joints of the Hecla radiator allow no gas or dust to escape even after years of service.

Saves Coal, Too
A Hecla Furnace is a great saver of fuel. By actual test it saves one ton in every seven over other furnaces. Moist air at 65 degrees is as comfortably warm as dry air at 70 degrees. The abundance of moisture supplied by the Hecla saves the coal necessary for the extra 5 degrees heat. The Hecla Steel Ribbed Fire Pot, too, assists in saving. Will burn coal, wood or natural gas. It has three times the fire-pot radiating surface of ordinary furnaces, same amount of heat with less fire—saving one day's coal each week.

And the Cost
There is hardly a home that cannot afford the low cost of this perfect heating. If you intend improving your home with a new furnace see this furnace at the nearest Hecla dealer's store. If you are buying a new home, remember it will probably cost less and be a better home if it has a Hecla Furnace.

KIRKE BROWN SCORES TRIUMPH IN NEW OPERA HOUSE BILL

He and Miss F. Eds in Sparkling Playlet—A Rich Programme of Features

The Opera House programme got over last night without a hitch and at a mile a minute speed. Of course there was a packed house, how could it be helped with two well known St. John favorites Kirke Brown and Marguerite Fields on the bill, and perhaps they did not receive an enthusiastic welcome. Ask anybody who was there. They offered a dramatic playlet, tense in spots, lightened here and there with bright, sparkling comedy lines, absorbing in plot and likeable all the way through. That it was well played goes without saying and that it made a personal hit with everybody in the audience is an absolute fact, and the enthusiastic applause at the finale was as much a tribute to the worth of the playlet as to the excellent way in which both principals put it over.

The opening act, Chas. Ledegar, in sensational feats on the bounding rope, was another good hit.

White and Bradford in blackface sang, danced and put everybody in good humor with a good comedy offering.

The Keystone Trio offered a comedy or a travesty that kept the house in roars of laughter with ridiculous situations and funny bumps and falls, with

In Cases of Sickness

Pure Gold Quick Puddings are excellent foods during illness or when convalescing. Used as standard diet in hospitals for convalescent cases. They are absolutely pure—easily digested. Their dainty appearance tempts the fickle appetite. And they're so easy to prepare. Always uniform in quality.

Order a selection from your grocer. Surprise the family with a delicious, wholesome pudding. Watch the smile of satisfaction on Dad's face. Listen to the exclamations of delight from the kiddies. Give them generous helpings—it's good for them. Tapioca, custard and chocolate, 15c, a package at all grocers.

Solid Comfort

Living-room furniture upholstered in Craftsman Fabrikoid is always comfortable, clean and inviting looking.

Soft leather splits soon lose their shape and also get shabby looking in a short time. Not so Fabrikoid. It always holds its shape and looks fresh.

It is waterproof, stainproof and sanitary too—added features that appeal to every good housewife.

Write for our booklet, "Home Upholstering". It tells you in simple language just how you can do most of your own upholstering work at home.
