West Huron Witnesses Saw Few Signs of Corruption

Pritchett's Testimony Not Borne Out By Crown Witnesses From Goderich—Gundry's Evidence to Go Before Attorney-General.

[From Our Own Reporter.]
Toronto, Nov. 14.—The investigation into the London election conspiracy case was at the close of this afternoon's session adjourned until Wednesday next. Mr. Eric Armour, assistant crown counsel, stated that owing to the fact that two London witnesses were ill, it was impossible to bring the hearing of evidence to a close today. He asked that an adjournment be made until Wednesday next, when he promised to conclude. He mentioned one of the witnesses wanted as Harry Hanahan.

Mr. Curry objected. He wanted the case concluded at once. It was not fair, he argued, to have the defendants brought back day after day and week after week, while their expenses and counsel fees were running up.

"Day after day the prosecution has adduced a lot of irrelevant evidence, which has nothing to do with the defendants," Mr. Curry said. "Why should they be compelled to come here and listen to it?"

Mr. Armour remarked that the prosecution had got through the hearing of evidence very expeditiously, but Mr. Curry said he didn't think so.

"If it hadn't been for the interruptions of my learned friend we would have got along better," Mr. Armour declared.

"If the prosecution had asked its questions in a legal manner there would have been no interruptions," Mr. Curry replied.

The magistrate then adjourned the case until Wednesday next.

When court resumed this afternoon Mr. DuVernet announced he had placed the evidence of Wm. H. Gundry before the Attorney-General, and that he will take whatever action is decided upon by the head of the department of justice.

Charles A. Humble, of Goderich, was the first witness called this afternoon. He was a deputy returning officer in the West Huron election. He said that he was at Yule and Reid, the Conservatives' scrutineers, alleged that he had placed the counterfoils of ballots in his pocket when he acted as deputy. A man in a hotel at Goderich before the election had attempted to drill him in the art of ballot-stitching, but the witness told the man he was

TIGER ATTACKED GOES TO BOTTOM TRAINER IN CAGE OFF SARNIA PORT

Goldie Inflicts Injury on Joyat, of the Bostock Animal Show.

Monsieur Joyat, one of the trainers with Bostock's animal show, now exhibiting at the Grand Opera House, was attacked by the royal Bengal tiger, Goldie yesterday afternoon, and received a cut on the forehead about five inches long. Joyat's escape from more serious injury is due alone to his great nerve and ability to handle wild animals.

Ever since the show arrived in London Goldie has been acting badly. When Joyat attempted to put her through her work, she would bite the top off a stool, and on several occasions she has made attempts to strike the trainer with her giant forepaws. She weighs probably 400 pounds.

Yesterday afternoon Joyat determined to teach the tiger that tearing the stool to pieces with her teeth is not a part of the exhibition.

After the regular performance he had Goldie placed in the arena, and the training began.

The tiger was in a particularly ugly mood, and appeared to be resenting the extra work imposed upon it. Joyat kept steadily at his task, however, and every time the tiger attempted to break the stool he would use the spear on the animal and knock its game.

Suddenly the big brute sprang forward at its trainer. Joyat side-stepped, but he was not quick enough to entirely avoid the tiger. One paw struck him on the head, and the claws tore the flesh for about five inches. Joyat was stunned, and the tiger lashed its sides with its tail and prepared for another spring. Joyat had his revolver, however, and he fired a blank cartridge in the animal's face as it came toward him, and it backed away.

Narrow Escape.
By this time several of the assistants were on hand with spears, and the tiger was kept at bay until Joyat left the cage. A doctor dressed the wound, and the trainer declared he was able to put on his act as usual. He appeared last night in the arena. He is a Frenchman and cannot speak a word of English.

This morning one of Madame Morelli's pet terriers walked into the arena, where four of the lions were being allowed to exercise themselves. The dog was fifteen feet from the nearest lion, and the big brute was crouching for a spring at the terrier, when Morelli's husband rushed in with a spear and saved the little animal's life. Madame was greatly excited. Her screams brought her husband to the scene, and after she recovered her pet she whipped and kissed it by turns.

The New Leopard.
Madame Morelli has changed the name of her new leopard from Buffalo to Pasha. The animal is rapidly learning its tricks, and last night it worked through like a veteran. Nellie, Madame's pet leopard, abhors the new-comer, however, and never loses an opportunity to attempt to tear it to pieces. There have been several fights between the animals in full view of the public since the show opened in London.

Announcer Driscoll, who is with the Bostock show, is a well-known actor of the legitimate stage, and was for twelve years with Tom Keene. Attired in evening dress, he announces and explains each act to the audience. Mr. Driscoll is a man of commanding presence, and with a voice which carries clearly to every part of the house. It is said he is one of the most successful announcers in America today.

Canadian Steel Steamer and a Tow Barge Crash in the Dark.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Sarnia, Nov. 15.—The Canadian steel steamer Seguin and Steel and Trust tow barge Sir Isaac Lothian Bell came together bow-on in St. Clair on the Canadian side of the river about 10:30 last night. The Bell sank in two minutes in 20 feet of water, with a 20-foot hole in her. The night was perfectly clear, and the crew were in no danger as the Bell was light.

The Seguin is at Sarnia dock resting on the bottom with her bow stove in above the water line, and a big hole in her bow under water line. Her hold is full, and she lies in about eighteen feet of water. The Bell was in tow of the John D. Rockefeller, and proper signals were given. The Seguin with a load of lumber from Parry Sound was on the American side. She passed the Rockefeller and then seemed to swerve, hitting the tow barge Bell bow-on.

An officer on the Seguin was asked the cause of the accident, and simply said: "It was just an accident."

The Bell was built in Bay City, Mich., about seven years ago. The Seguin had a very large cargo of lumber, which will have to be shifted, and the hole in the bow under the water-line repaired before she can continue her down trip. The Seguin is owned by W. H. Smith, Toronto. She was built in Owen Sound in 1890, gross tonnage, 515.

A RECIPROCITY CAMPAIGN

American League Intend to Carry the Matter to Washington.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 15.—Eugene N. Foss, of Boston, chairman of the executive committee of the National Reciprocal Tariff League, is here on his way to Chicago to attend a meeting of the executive committee to plan a campaign at Washington this winter.

Mr. Foss, in an interview, said: "The time is not far distant when we shall have reciprocal tariff relations with the leading governments both on this side of the Atlantic and the other. The progressive business men of the country are rapidly coming to appreciate the importance of this to our future industrial and commercial success. The situation is right now critical with regard to at least two governments, Germany and Canada. Germany has told us flatly that we must meet its revised tariff rates by July next or its discrimination tariff will be put into force against our products. Canada is also on the eve of instituting discriminating rates unless we do the right thing."

DEATH OF MR. JOHN CORRIE

Prominent Citizen of Stratford Passes Away After Short Illness.

Stratford, Nov. 15.—John Corrie, a prominent resident of Stratford, died this morning after a few days' illness of congestion of the lungs. He was born in England in 1829, and came to Canada in 1874, settling first near Toronto. He was for ten years track inspector for the G. T. R. and located permanently in Stratford in 1886. For many years he was inspector of roads for Perth County. He had been active in promoting the various industries of the city and was a director of the Stratford Gas Company and Perth and Mutual Fire Insurance Company. Mrs. Corrie and two sons and a daughter survive him.

CANADIAN CLUB MEETING

Municipal Ownership to Be Discussed Tomorrow Evening.

Citizens should not forget the second of the series of public meetings under the auspices of the Canadian Club of London, to be held in the city hall tomorrow (Friday) night, at 8 o'clock, when Mr. J. P. Jaffray, of Galt, will give an address on the subject of municipal ownership. This question is one of live interest to municipalities in all parts of the Dominion. Mr. Jaffray has for some years made a special study of this important question, and his practical grasp of the great issues involved should attract to the city hall every citizen of London who is in sympathy with this movement. After Mr. Jaffray's address the meeting will be thrown open to the public for discussion and criticism of the subject. Hon. Adam Beck, chairman of the municipal power commission, will occupy the chair.

E. HAMILTON BY-ELECTION

Contest for a Successor to Mr. Carscallen Will Take Place Dec. 4.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—The writ for East Hamilton by-election for the Ontario Legislature will be issued tomorrow, fixing Tuesday, Nov. 25, as the official nomination day, and Tuesday, Dec. 4, as polling day.

The vacancy was caused by the death of Mr. Henry Carscallen, K.C., who had represented the constituency for a number of years. His majority at the last general election was 538.

So far there are two candidates in the field, Mr. J. J. Scott, K.C., having been formally selected by the Conservatives, and Mr. Allan Studholme by the Labor party, which is very strong in Hamilton.

RED NOSE SETTLED IT

Satisfied Magistrate That the Owner Had Been Drunk.

Four cases were disposed of by Police Magistrate Love this morning.

William Johnston, charged with assault was dismissed.

John Johnston, charged with a breach of the bylaws, was dismissed.

Alfred Stephens wasn't quite certain that he was drunk when arrested, but the blossom on his nasal extremity caused the magistrate to decide otherwise, and Stephens was given $5 or 20 days in jail.

A young man who refused to "move on" was taxed $2.

G. T. R. CHIEFS HERE

Messrs Hays and McGuigan Looking Over the Grading Operations.

General Manager Hays and Manager McGuigan of the Grand Trunk Railway were in the city for a short time this morning. Subsequently they left for Hyde Park, intending to inspect the works in progress there on the new grade.

At noon Mayor Judd stated that neither official had been seen by him. Consequently, there was nothing doing, so far as the opening of negotiations is concerned.

It is stated, however, that a move in this direction will be made by the company very shortly.

BURNING BOAT BEACHES

The James Swift Likely a Total Loss in the St. Clair River.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 15.—Fire broke out in the after-end of the Canadian steamer James Swift in the St. Clair River last night, and it is believed that the boat is a total loss. The crew made heroic efforts to check the flames, but were finally forced to beach the blazing ship on the American shore and escape in the yawlboat. The Swift is on the beach near Rongo light, No. 5. She was bound for a Georgian Bay port light, where she was to load timber. The boat was owned by D. Noonan, Kingston, Ont. She was built in 1893, and was 107 feet long and 23 feet beam.

FINAL CHAPTERS OF INVESTIGATION

The London Election Inquiry to Close Next Wednesday.

WHERE WILL CASE GO TO TRIAL?

Prosecution Likely to Fight for Trial At Toronto—Defense to Attack Irrelevant Evidence.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Nov. 15.—Wednesday next the hearing of evidence in the election conspiracy charge will come to an end, and then a battle-royal between the prosecution and the defense will be fought in regard to where the case shall be sent for trial—London or Toronto.

It was stated today that information has reached the Liberal counsel that a supreme effort is to be made by the prosecution to have the case tried in Toronto.

Mr. DuVernet is credited with the statement that ample evidence has been adduced to prove that at least a number of the defendants were implicated in a conspiracy to work elections in several constituencies, and that the headquarters of the conspiracy was in Toronto.

The counsel for the defense claim, however, that the prosecution has only the evidence of J. G. Pritchett, of London, to prove its contention, and that beyond this man's statement there has been nothing adduced to show that there was any conspiracy or a Toronto end to the alleged workings of the conspiracy.

It is the opinion of a well-known lawyer that Magistrate Denison will commit the case for trial in Toronto, after the argument of counsel next week.

The defense intends to make a dead-end at least 75 per cent of the evidence heard and committed to paper, as it is claimed it is irrelevant and has no bearing on the charges of conspiracy made against Messrs. Reid, O'Gorman, Wiley, Mulvey and others.

Mr. Curry for the defense has given notice that he will move to have all evidence which does not directly connect the defendants with the charges made, struck out before it is submitted for the grand jury at the assizes.

Mr. DuVernet and Mr. Curry frequently quarreled yesterday, until finally Mr. DuVernet left the examination of the witnesses to his assistant, Mr. Armour. Mr. DuVernet cannot stand the constant tripping-up tactics of the Liberal counsel, and he plainly shows his irritation by frequent appeals to the magistrate to suppress his opponent.

PEACE IN SIGHT

Dominion Coal and Steel Companies Likely to Settle Differences.

Montreal, Nov. 14.—Directors of the Dominion Steel Company held two meetings today, with Senator Forget presiding. They made efforts to effect a settlement of the difficulty by offering the coal company a greater price for coal than they had been paying.

President James Ross, of the coal company backed by Mr. James Reid Wilson, remained firm in his attitude, but made a counter proposition to the steel company on the price of coal. The two propositions will be considered by the steel company's board tomorrow. At a late hour tonight no details of the propositions could be learned, but the general feeling was that a settlement would be reached tomorrow.

"CERTAINLY BOND WAS CHANGED" SAY THE WARREN COMPANY MEN

And Declare That the City Authorities Were Well Aware of It.

The Warren Paving Company is hot on the trail of the bond-lampering story, and two officials of the company are in the city armed to the teeth with documentary evidence to show that the city was well aware that the second sheet of the bond was changed by the paving people.

This morning Mr. W. J. Evans, treasurer, and Mr. John Fialabee, agent, of the company, and both of Toronto, were callers at the city hall, and they were seen by The Advertiser.

"Certainly the bond was changed," said Mr. Evans to the reporter. "We refused to accept the terms laid down by the city solicitor of London in his draft of the agreement, and we so informed the city."

"After the matter had dragged along from the 1st until the 17th of August, 1905, we had our solicitor, Mr. Lobb, draw up the sheet referred to by Mr. Meredith, and executed it properly and forwarded it to the city."

"If Mr. Meredith was not aware that the bond had been changed and accepted by the city, then he should have known it. We have correspondence to show that the city was aware we would not accept the bond presented by Mr. Meredith, for the very good reason that we thought it was unfair to us, and no guarantee company would execute such a bond. We would not have accepted the city's terms under any condition, because by them we were bound to stand good for accidents on Richmond street which might result through the ripping up of the pavement by the water commissioners or anyone else.

"We inserted the words, 'after reasonable notice,' on the advice of our solicitor, because if we hadn't in order to keep up with the terms of the agreement it would have been necessary for us to pay a man to patrol the pavement and watch for holes."

"All we asked was that we be given reasonable notice by the city engineer of any repairs which he deemed necessary."

The Warren representatives are very angry with Mr. Meredith, and allege that if he didn't know the bond was changed he should, as city solicitor, have been well aware of it, and should have passed upon the document before it was accepted by the city.

Mr. Evans produced a mass of correspondence to show that the city was a party to the change.

HORSE PLUNGED OVER RIVER BANK

Unusual Stunt of a Runaway—Swam Stream, Taking the Wagon With It.

A horse belonging to a dairyman named Player performed a very unusual stunt this morning on Clarence street south.

While the driver was delivering milk to a customer near the corner of Clarence and Grey streets, the horse became frightened and ran away. It headed south to the bank of the river, where spectators expected to see it come to a sudden stop. They were very much surprised to see the animal take a plunge over the bank and into the river, a distance of fifteen feet below. The milk wagon, which contained a number of cans, went with the horse. The great weight of these, however, did not appear to interfere with the animal, which managed to swim across the stream to the south bank. There it encountered a large log, which prevented it ascending the bank, and there is a possibility that it would have been drowned had not a number of men hurried to its rescue and dragged it out of the stream.

Neither the horse nor the wagon was injured in the slightest.

Of course, the contents of the cans was lost, but the dairyman did not object to that, seeing that the horse and wagon were as good as ever.

CASTRO REPORTED DEAD

Government Conceals Demise to Prevent Losing Power.

Fort-de-France, Martinique, Nov. 14.—The Dutch cruiser Kortenaar arrived here yesterday from Willemstad, Curaçao, and reported today that at the time of her departure from Curaçao, it was rumored there persistently, and generally believed, that President Castro of Venezuela was dead, but that his death was being concealed by the Venezuelan Government to maintain itself in power.

The cruiser has received orders to hasten her preparations to put to sea again, and to leave Fort-de-France for La Guayra, if the report is confirmed. The French cruisers Julian de la Graviere and Duguay Trouin are off this port.

NEW LORD'S DAY ACT THE BEST IN EXISTENCE, SAYS W. C. T. U.

Convention Pleased With Measure—Union Re-Elects Officers for the Year.

At this morning's session of the Provincial Woman's Christian Temperance Union, the election of officers for the year took place. All last year's staff were re-elected, as follows: President—Mrs. S. G. E. McKee, of Barrie. Vice-President—Mrs. May R. Thornley, London. Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. Flora York Miller, London. Recording Secretary—Mrs. H. E. Irwin, Weston. Treasurer—Mrs. B. O. Britton, Gananoque.

Mrs. McKee's Last Year.
The president, Mrs. McKee, in a few words, thanked the delegates for returning her to office, and said that this would be her last year, as she considered that it would be her duty after spending another year in the position to step aside and give place to some of the younger members who were eager to engage actively in the work.

Her chief reason for being thankful at re-election was that she could continue to assist in making a success of the union's paper, which she thought would be fairly well set upon a secure basis by the end of another year.

Mrs. Thornley thanked the delegates

LT. PEARY LOST IN GULF STORM

Returning Polar Explorer Believed to Have Gone Down With His Ship.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 15.—Fears are expressed that Lieut. Peary has been lost at sea. The Theodore Roosevelt, the vessel bringing Peary home, was due at Sydney last week. She was last reported at Battle Harbor, on the Labrador coast, by the steamer Virginia Lake. The Roosevelt was badly battered by storms, and the officers of the Virginia Lake said all her beams had been cut for firewood. With two blades of her propeller gone, the Roosevelt was able to make only four miles an hour. For more than a week severe storms have swept the Newfoundland coast, and in her damaged condition the Roosevelt may have been unable to weather the gales.

A DELUGE HITS THE FAR WEST

Torrential Rains and Floods in Oregon and Washington.

LIVES LOST; GREAT DAMAGE DONE

Portland in the Grip of the Worst Storm in its History—Railroads Completely Tied Up.

Tacoma, Nov. 15.—A flood area of 300 square miles is the result today of heavy rains and melting snow, which for 48 hours have rushed from the slopes of the Cascade Mountains, causing nearly all the streams in the northwest to stream over low lands. Several persons are reported drowned.

Seattle and scores of towns have been for the last 36 hours cut off from outside communication. Bridges have been swept away, railroad tracks washed out, telegraph and telephone wires torn down. As far as can be learned half a dozen lives have been lost.

Marooned on House Tops.

When darkness fell last night, watchers from the highlands saw nothing except an expanse of water, with here and there the tops of submerged houses, on some of which were bound persons could be seen, signaling for help. Some attempted rescues were made, but the mad rush of swollen waters, carrying trees, snags, lumber, and even houses, forced the rescuers back. The Northern Pacific bridge across Stuck River went out yesterday, and soon after came a suspension railroad traffic between Tacoma and Seattle, the tracks being under water in many places. The Northern Pacific is able to maintain its service to Portland.

Advices received at the office of the Northern Pacific say that the water in Green River Canyon is 30 feet higher than during the floods of 1903, when the railroad was tied up for two weeks. What has occurred east of Auburn, and west of the slope of the Cascades, can only be conjectured. That great damage has been done to property and lives is evident, but signaling wires between Hot Springs and Auburn are down.

Every railroad in the northwest is tied up, and though a few trains are being run, no attempt is made at a schedule. The tracks have been washed away in many places on the different roads.

At midnight rain was still falling heavily in this city.

Washington Hard Hit.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 15.—Never since the white man came has the State of Washington suffered from such a storm as raged here last night and today. The storm, wind and rain which for the past week have wrought havoc with coastwise shipping, swept inland, and is venting an unheard-of fury upon the whole state, especially the Puget Sound country, and extends even to the northern part of Oregon and the Panhandle of Idaho.

Railroads out of Tacoma and Seattle are demoralized, train service to Portland only from the latter city being maintained.

The creeks and rivers and brooks in the Cascades are roaring torrents.

On Puget Sound, the towns of Snohomish, Sumner and Auburn are under water. In Central Washington the raging in the Natchez and Yakima valleys.

The Clearwater is out of its banks, and has done immense damage.

Although nothing has been heard from Walla Walla, it is only fair to presume that with floods east of west of there, the rivers in that part of the state are still on a rampage. At Portland, a heavy wind is blowing, accompanied by a torrential rain. No damage has been done, further than to put out electric lights and street cars out of commission.

The railways across the state are prostrated, and no news has been received here from Eastern Oregon. At a late hour last night reports were very discouraging.

WINDSOR WILL CASE

Sensational Evidence Given in Trial Over Kilroy Bequests.

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 15.—Evidence bordering on the sensational was given in the hearing of the Kilroy will case, before Judge Horne in chambers yesterday. Miss Margaret Kilroy, who died July 16 last, in a will drawn up some time before her death, made a bequest of $2,000 to her sister, Mrs. Marian St. Louis, with similar bequests to other relatives, and large donations to charitable institutions of the Catholic Church. Three days before her death a codicil was added, cutting down the bequest to Mrs. St. Louis from $2,000 to $1,000, and reducing other bequests. Joseph Kilroy, brother of the deceased, and her sister, Mrs. St. Louis swore yesterday that Miss Kilroy, when the codicil was added, was mentally incompetent. A niece, Miss Petterpitt, corroborated this evidence. Miss Kilroy was supposed to have a considerable fortune of her own, and to be in possession of a large estate left by her brother, the late Rev. Kilroy, of Stratford, but she gave no account of the latter and her own estate was much smaller than was expected.

'WARE EXPLOSION SAYS VON BUELOW

Tells Europe Germany Must Not Be Isolated.

THE FRENCH TO BE WATCHED

Relations With Neighbor Requires Germans To Be on the Alert and Armed.

Berlin, Nov. 14.—Chancellor von Buelow, from the place in the Reichstag where he fell unconscious seven months ago, spoke for 45 minutes today on Germany's foreign relations to a highly interested audience, including Baron von Aehrenthal, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister; Ambassador and Mrs.
Charlemagne Tower, several other ambassadors and quite 50 members of the diplomatic corps, who occupied seats in the diplomatic enclosure. Princes von Buelow sat in the front row of the chairs in the court box.

Immediately after Prince von Buelow had entered the House and bowed his acknowledgments of the applause, the president of the House rang his bell, calling the Reichstag to order.
Herr Bassermann, National-Liberal, following up his question of yesterday, asking for information regarding the country's foreign relations, said that since Prince Bismarck left Germany respected and loved by her neighbors the country's foreign policy had entered on a period of quietness, speeches, telegrams and courtesies—a period of unsteadiness which caused disquiet not only at home, but abroad.

Germany Isolated

Herr Bassermann then described Germany's position among her neighbors as isolated, saying she had no firm friends, not even Italy or Austria.

Chancellor von Bue-low's reply was marked by his old-time clearness of eloquence and harmonious succession of sentences, but there was less vivacity and lightness of style than formerly.

After thanking the members of the House for their expressions of sympathy during his illness, the chancellor went at once into the subject. Referring first to the relations between Germany and France the chancellor related a conversation which he had had with the late Leon Gambetta, in which the French statesman said:

"France has sunk to her knees."
Von Bue-low's reply was:

"Up and forward."
The emotions of France, the chancellor added, were like a thermometer, with a pressure of the hand the quick-silver rose or fell.

Be Alert and Armed

"I may remark here," he continued,
"that this vivacity of French patriotism is very strong, as is the ambition of the French people, and also the traditional enmity between France and Germany, which requires us to be alert and armed, so that we may protect the estate we lost on the Vosges and won back again with streams of German blood."

The chancellor, continuing, remarked:

"I hope and believe I can say that we all, without distinction of party, right and left, know that the number of thoughtful Frenchmen who reject the idea of a war of aggression against Germany is increasing."

"Turning to the subject of French friendships the chancellor said that we do not think of pressing in between France and Russia, nor between France and Great Britain. It is unthinkable that a disturbance of the friendship between the western powers should be the object of our open or secret exertions. The good relations between Germany and Russia have not affected the Franco-Russian alliance, and in the same manner the good relations existing between Germany and Great Britain cannot be opposed to the cordial understanding between France and Great Britain when the purposes of that understanding are peaceful."

Danger to Peace

"An understanding between the western powers without the maintenance of good relations with Germany would constitute a danger to peace.
The policy whose object would be to encircle Germany by arrangements designed to isolate and disable us would be critical for the peace of Europe."

"The formation of such a thing is impossible without using a certain degree of pressure and causing in turn a counter pressure which would be followed shortly by an explosion."

Insanity From Exhausted Nerves

The leading artist of a great New York newspaper committed suicide recently because on his return home he found his apartments in disorder, the painters and decorators being in possession.

This is an illustration of overwrought nerves leading to insanity, and whatever may be the last straw to unbalance the mind, there can be no doubt that exhaustion of the nerves is always a cause of mental collapse.

Disease of the nerves are common to all walks of life, and the earlier symptoms are sleeplessness, nervous headaches, loss of memory, inability to concentrate the mind, indigestion, tired, faint feelings, discouragement and depression.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures diseases of the nerves in the only natural way, by actually increasing the amount of nerve force in the body.

By its regular and persistent use the most severe forms of nervous exhaustion, such as partial paralysis, prostration, and locomotor ataxia are thoroughly and completely cured.

How much wiser to be warned by the earlier symptoms and to keep the nervous system in full health and vigor by the use of this great food cure; 50 cents a box, at all druggists, or Edmanson,

Therefore, it is especially pleasing to see in the newspapers, especially of France, that a good understanding between Germany and Great Britain is necessary for peace and therefore in a line with French interests."

It was nonsense, continued the chancellor, to suppose that Germany was building a fleet to make war against Great Britain. Germany had the right to have her duty to have a navy proportionate to her maritime position. The meeting of King Edward and Emperor William in August had a favorable influence on the relations of Germany with Great Britain.

During the course of his speech in the Reichstag today Chancellor von Bue-low said:

"Our relations with the United States continue on a most friendly basis, resting as they do upon historical and natural reasons. The frontiers of the two countries do not touch, nor do our political interests collide anywhere.

In order to maintain the economic relations it will be necessary to arrange a mutually beneficial agreement in an obliging spirit. As both sides have this spirit it seems impossible that we should not come to an understanding.
"I wish to take advantage of this opportunity to say," the chancellor continued, "that we are grateful for the attitude of the United States at the Algeiras conference. The United States had only a slight measure of interest in Algeiras and took a reserved attitude, but throughout it was impossible for the United States' excellent representatives, Mr. White, esteemed by all of us, took advantage of every opportunity to harmonize antagonisms and to contribute to an agreement honorable for all the states concerned.
That is to be highly appreciated, because the failure of the conference would not only have brought into the relations of Germany and France a disquieting, irritating element, but would also have introduced it into the general situation of the world. That was the second great service the United States has contributed to the peace of the world: the first was assisting in the restoration of peace between Russia and Japan."

CUBA AFTER NEW BLOOD

Gov. Magoon Urged to Encourage Immigration to Island.

Havana, Nov. 14.—In view of the appropriation of $1,000,000 made by the Cuban Congress to encourage immigration, Gov. Magoon asked the economic bodies to express their views on this kindred questions. A report was handed to Mr. Magoon today favoring the encouragement of immigration and the spending of $800,000 on laborers and $200,000 on their families.

The report also favors a reduction of the customs tariff in order to lower the excessive cost of living. It urges the governor to employ all the resources at his command to make local authorities and the police endeavor to re-establish among the people those industrious habits which have been so deeply affected by the revolution.

A committee representing the economic bodies pointed out to Mr. Magon that Spain, the source of Cuba's immigrants, is being tapped by the United States and the South American republics. Cuba, which needs immigrants from Spain and the Canary Islands, it was urged, should stimulate immigration in self-defense, especially as laborers are needed to harvest the sugar crop.

There is much cattle stealing in Cameaguey. One owner, a foreigner, says his cattle are stolen when on his own land, but when he sends them to pasture on land owned by Cubans they are not touched. It is estimated 4,000 head of cattle were stolen last year.
The stealing was checked by rural guards, but it has broken out again since the revolution.

GERMANS PAY HALF

Will Settle San Francisco Insurance Losses on 50 Per Cent Basis.

Berlin, Nov. 14.—As City Attorney Newburg, of San Francisco, tells a reporter, three German insurance companies doing business in Hamburg have agreed to compromise with their San Francisco policyholders. It is expected that the result will be a payment of about 50 per cent of their liabilities. Mr. Newburg is convinced that it is useless to hope for better terms, that being the limit of the companies' capacity. In order to pay even this they will be obliged to make a heavy reduction of real estate. Moreover, the German companies are severely handicapped by the enormous taxes on their reserved capital, amounting to 10 per cent, against from 1 to 1½ in England.

A definite announcement of the amount that can be paid will be impossible in less than a month, owing to the necessity of worldwide inquiries.
The Hamburg-Bremen Insurance Company, which is connected with the Hamburg-American Steamship Company, is receiving every day hundreds of complaints and threats of suits, all calling for the full pound of flesh.

THE TIARA TILT

Favorite Form of Headdress Now With London Society Women.

London, Nov. 14.—Fashion has ruled that the tiara will be the favorite form of headdress for evening costumes during the winter season, thousands of women are practicing the tiara tilt; that is, the correct angle at which the tiara is most effective relatively to the carriage of the head.

Ten years ago only titled ladies or women worth millions wore tiaras.
Now there are few society women who do not possess one. Of course, tiara is an elastic word. It need not necessarily represent a crown or diadem.
It may mean anything from that to a wreath of metal leaves.

Among the most popular forms are chaplets of flowers constructed of metal and colored enamels, with such gems as the wearer can afford. Amethysts, turquoises and other of the less expensive kinds of stones are abundantly used by the less ambitious, while minute examinations sometimes reveals blobs of colored sealing wax.

AFTER ASSETS OF ONTARIO BANK

Strong Interests Said To Be Willing to Purchase at Forty Cents.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—It is stated that within the last few days an effort has been made by some interests to secure the assets of the Ontario Bank, and that an offer has been made which, worked out, would mean that the purchasers would pay 35 to 40 cents on the dollar to shareholders, the purchasers then to take over and liquidate the assets or to purchase the stock.

The information came in the first place from one of the officials of the Ontario Bank, who said he understood the offer had been turned down.

A director of the bank was asked over the telephone if the story was correct, and he replied that he had heard of it, but as it was told him, the interest wanting to purchase had offered 40 cents on the dollar. The curator today was asked if he knew anything of this reported offer having been made, and he replied that he knew nothing of it. If such an offer has been made it means that speculators have sized up the situation, and are willing to put up with the assumption that the assets will yield a good deal over 40 cents on the dollar. It is known also that at the present time a great many shareholders would gladly accept 40 for every $100 they put into the bank shares.

The following statement has been handed out by Frank Arnold, K.C., with respect to the evidence given last before yesterday about the alleged purchase by President George R. R.
Cockburn of Ontario Bank shares at 120 and selling them back to the bank two years later at a profit of over $4,000.
"The 28 shares which had been purchased by Mr. Cockburn at 120 of 139 shares each which had to be taken up or thrown on the market.
Mr. Cockburn took them up. At the solicitation of Mr. McGill he took a loan from the Ontario Bank on his own notes (not on the stock), instead of borrowing elsewhere, as he could easily have done. With this money he paid the issue price for the shares, 120 which it was the privilege of all stockholders to do in respect of these allotments, the stock at the time rating much higher in the market, viz., 130-134. Mr. Cockburn held these shares more than two years, when, feeling he had spread out his funds too much he told Mr. McGill he wished to sell these shares. Mr. McGill informed him there was plenty of demand for the stock, and he would dispose of it for Mr.
Cockburn. Mr. McGill then procured
Mr. Cockburn to sign a blank transfer in a book which Mr. Cockburn believed at the time to be the regular transfer book, and subsequently Mr.
Cockburn received the proceeds of sale, never knowing till Langton's examination on Nov. 12, that his bank transfer had been filled up as a blank transfer guarantee fund. Not till then did he learn that the book was not the ordinary transfer book, but a special one reserved for secret transfers of the existence of which Mr. Cockburn was ignorant."

WOMEN RIDING ASTRIDE

Predicted That the Custom Will Soon
Be the Rule in England.

London, Nov. 14.—The custom of fashionable women riding horseback astride is so growing in England that it can be predicted that it will be the rule instead of the exception in a very few years, and that it will attract no more remark than the custom of women bicycling. The practice is already being followed by society women in Rotten Row, the fashionable riding place in Hyde Park.

Among the prominent women who ride in this fashion are Viscountess Castlereagh, the Duchess of Westminster, and the Duchess of Sutherland. Their riding habits are so contrived as to present the neatest appearance. Seen from some points of view it can hardly be realized that they are not using a side-saddle.

The chief opposition to the custom comes from the teachers of horsemanship, who find the new style much easier taught. The course of lessons is much curtailed; indeed, girls learn to ride astride as quickly as their brothers.

NOT WHOLLY DISHONEST

Steals Overcoat, Gets a Meal On It and Puts Owner in Way of Recovering.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—There is one thief in the world who is not wholly dishonest. Thursday night he attended a lecture delivered by Richard Henry Little at the Public Library and stole the speaker's overcoat.

In the pockets were theater tickets worth $5, a Chinese money order, some loose change and several letters. A perusal of the letters showed that one of them demanded instant attention, and so, using 5 cents of the change, the culprit went to a telephone and attended to the matter satisfactorily.

Today Mr. Little received a letter that read:

"I took your coat. I had nothing to eat for two days. I got $1.50 for your coat. I return you by post the things that were in your pockets and the pawn ticket. Also posted your letters and attended to the telephone call. I took the 5 cents for telephone from change in the coat. I hated to do what I did, but I was starving. There is nothing more to be said, only that I am sorry and hope you will get your coat safely back. When I get on my feet again I will return the $1.50."

GOSSIP COSTS LIVES OF FOUR

Man's Attack on Woman's Good Name Causes Murder and Three Suicides.

Owosso, Mich., Nov. 13.—The slight-ing words of one man concerning the honor of a neighbor's wife have cost the lives of four persons in West Haven Township within the last five days.
Mrs. Burt A. Seelye, the woman of whom the words were spoken, and her husband, who was suspected of the murder of Edwin Edgar, the woman's accuser, committed suicide last night.
Edgar was murdered last Wednesday.
Mrs. Melvin Haughton was the fourth victim. Her mind became unsettled by the strain of Edgar's murder, and on Thursday she drank acid.

The bodies of Seelye and his wife were found in bed this morning. The husband's arm was about his wife. A bottle of strychnine, from which they had taken large quantities, was on a stand by the bed. Pinned to the cover of the stand were these notes:

"Tonight — tonight is our last. Don't blame Dewey. Good-bye, good-bye, mother.—B. A. Seelye."
"Good-bye, father, mother and everybody. Burt and I have taken poison.
We are willing to die as you have a mind to them, and above all things don't put any blame on Dewey's shoulders or anyone else. We alone are responsible. Your daughter, Lottie."

Dewey is Burt Seelye's brother.
Seelye and Edgar lived within a quarter of a mile of each other from childhood, attending the same country school and settling down on farms on the same road. As they grew up their pathways drew apart. Edgar had the reputation of being a model young man, while Seelye was wild.

The following quarrel between the two occurred some time ago. In September, when they met in the woods, Seelye declared his mother had said Edgar was making threats to "do him up."

"Then your mother is a liar," Edgar replied.
The altercation grew. Then Edgar one day made the remark which is believed to have caused his death. To another man he asserted that Mrs.
Seelye was unfaithful to her husband.
The story reached the ears of Seelye and his wife. Both were infuriated, and it is believed by many that Mrs.
Seelye urged her husband, whom she seems to have dominated in all his acts, that he avenge the attack upon her name. Edgar was ambushed at night on a lonely road and shot to death.

At first the police were at a loss to solve the murder mystery. They learned of the old enmity between Seelye and Edgar. Seelye and his wife were summoned to appear at the inquest. The inquiry was set for today. Circumstantial evidence so strong that Seelye apparently believed had been filled up as a blank transfer guarantee fund. Not till then did he
learn that the book was not the ordinary transfer book, but a special one reserved for secret transfers of the existence of which Mr. Cockburn was ignorant."

It is in the determination of the man and wife to end their lives the woman's control over her husband is apparent.
The note written by her is in firm, clear writing. Seelye's handwriting is wavy and laboring. From the condition of the stomachs of the man and wife, too, it was apparent that Seelye had eaten no supper, while the woman, calm and determined to the last, had had a substantial meal.
Seelye was 30 years old. His wife was 25.

A NOBLE WOMAN DEAD

The Head of the King's Daughters and Sons Passes Away.

New York, Nov. 14.—Mrs. Margaret Bottom, president of the International Order of the King's Daughters and Sons, and of the woman's branch of the International Medical Missions, died at her home, No. 23 East Seventeenth street, today, aged 79 years.

She had been ill for a week, and her death was not entirely unexpected.
Mrs. Bottom was one of the best-known women in the United States, and had a large acquaintance abroad.

She had been a leader in women's societies for many years, and had given Bible talks in New York homes for the past 25 years.

She was the widow of Rev. F. Bot-tome, D. D., was a voluminous writer on religious topics, and was at one time an associate editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, contributing regularly to that periodical as well as to religious papers and magazines.

A DASH AFTER REBELS

American-Commanded Gunboats Leave For Santo Domingo.

New York, Nov. 14.—Four gunboats sailed yesterday from this city for Santo Domingo city, where under the flag of the island republic they will dash up the rivers and attack the camps of the insurgents. The building, launching, equipping and partial manning of this little fleet of fighters has been carried on with the greatest secrecy and was accomplished only through the friendly offices of the United States Government.

The gunboats were built at the Nixon shipyards at Perth Amboy from plans approved by the navy department at Washington. They have unusually light draught.

The payment of the wages of these men, who will remain with the boats after they have changed flags, is guaranteed by the United States, under a year's contract.

The fleet will take the inside route to Florida and then cross over to Santo Domingo city.

Col. Colton will then turn the vessels over to President Cacres.
A fighting crew of fifty Dominican sailors will be put aboard each vessel, but the captain, mate and working crew will be Americans and practically the full control of the vessels will remain in their hands.

Part of the art of doing things is to attempt but little at a time.

Unique Japanese Kimonos, $1.50 and $1.75

About this time last year we received a shipment of Jap Crepe Kimonos, and they were picked up in a hurry by those in search of something unique as well as sensible to present to their lady friends on Christmas.

Another lot just to hand a few days ago.
New patterns—and so unique. None but Japanese artists would dream of the odd patterns and colorings depicted on these Kimonos. Queer birds—storks were the only kind we recognized, marvelous butterflies, fierce-looking dragons, funny fish, wonderful flowers and foliage, you'll really have to see the designs to get a true idea of their uniqueness.

The pretty, crinkly crepe cloth seems to be just the right material to show off the patterns to best advantage.

dainty Jap silk. Front is faced with silk,

RUN OVER BY TRUCK

Fire Apparatus in Collision, Causing Serious Injury to Two Men.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—Lieutenant Alfred Everett and Fireman Elliott, of the Richmond street fire hall, are both lying in St. Michael's Hospital suffering from severe injuries to their heads received in an accident early this afternoon.

While on the way to a small blaze on Yonge street the hose wagon of the Richmond street section collided with the aerial truck, and Everett and Elliott were thrown off and both run over by the truck.

The men were so badly injured that they were removed at once to the hospital, where an examination revealed severe injuries to the heads of both men.

No trace of internal injuries was discovered in the first examination.
One of the horses attached to the hose wagon had its leg broken and was shot.

promptly arrested. Gabrielle Lauzett,

ASK MR. BECK FOR DEFINITE FIGURES

Municipalities Want More Than Estimates—May Be Less Than $20 for London.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—The executive committee of the Western Ontario Municipalities Niagara Power Union, consisting of Ald. J. H. Fryer, of Galt; Ald. J. W. Lion, of Guelph; D. B. Wood, Brantford; Mayor F. Clare, Preston; D. B. Detwiler, president of the Berlin board of trade; Mayor John Butler, Woodstock, and Mayor Coatsworth, of Toronto, waited on the Hon. Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, this morning, and discussed the prospects of an early supply of Government-controlled electric power for western municipalities. The delegation asked for some definite figures regarding the price per horsepower which they expected to be charged when the power was ready to be put in use. It was pointed out by members of the delegation that it is impossible for the various municipalities to submit bylaws to the ratepayers for the purpose of raising the funds necessary for the establishment of the municipal switch boards and the distributing station, based only on the estimated figures given in the commission's report. The delegation desired to get the definite, or at any rate, some maximum figures as early as possible, so that action may be taken by the municipalities interested.

The hydro-electric report estimated that power could be supplied to London consumers at from $19 to $23 per horsepower. Mr. Beck this morning announced that owing to the increased demand from that city it is expected that the price per horsepower for a 24-hour service will be less than $20. The price for Toronto is expected to be between $14 and $16 per horsepower. The figures in both cases include interest and sinking fund charges.

An Aged Bruce County Farmer Killed By His Horse.

Ripley, Nov. 14.—George Sutherland, 87 years of age, a wealthy farmer, was crushed against a wall by a horse and almost instantly killed.

NOBLE ART OF SHOOTING

Minister Says Government May Act With Schools to Train Boys.

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—Sir Frederick Borden presented prizes and diplomas to the public school cadets tonight for the past season's shooting.

There was a big crowd of youngsters and the minister expressed some interesting views on education matters. He said that he is now negotiating with the various provincial authorities to establish a uniform system of physical training, believing the militia department could co-operate to good advantage.

He hoped that soon every boy 12 or 13 years of age would learn the noble art of rifle shooting. It is the cheapest way of fitting ourselves for nationhood. There are alarmists who think no training should be spent on military training, but it is a duty to have a strong force to maintain the dearly-bought privileges of liberty.

Sir Frederick did not promise federal financial aid for the proposed uniform national system, the details of which are yet in embryo. Major-General Lake also spoke.

LABOR AFTER SARGENT

Latter Said to Have Engineered Illegal Immigration to South Carolina.

Washington, Nov. 14.—What is regarded by Government authorities as the most important case ever brought forward involving an alleged violation of the contract labor laws, is embodied in a charge made by the American Federation of Labor that the United States Immigration Commission-General of Immigration as to the manner in which he should proceed in securing desirable persons to settle in South Carolina. The project, therefore, was inaugurated by the State Government and had the endorsement of the Federal Government.

Union labor leaders asserted, understood, that Commissioner-General Sargent put his foot in it when he lent his official name to South Carolina's scheme of colonization, and that he is directly responsible for what appears, or is alleged to be, a violation of the contract labor laws.

The matter was regarded as of sufficient importance by the acting secretary of the department for adjudication. It should be held that the agent of South Carolina violated the law which (with opinion might put a stop on the movement that has been started to divert immigration to the Southern States. Every agent who went abroad to induce immigration would be subject to fine and possibly be liable to criminal proceedings.

A BIG COBALT DEAL.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 14.—By a deal just made public William Everett, of the Michigan Soo, has sold to the Timmons Mining Syndicate of Cobalt a track of 20 acres of practically undeveloped land, near that place, for $70,000. This is the largest price paid for undeveloped property held by local capitalists this year. Everett reports a big boom on in the Cobalt region.

PARTYISM AND MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

A number of citizens have put their heads together to devise some means of divorcing politics and municipal affairs. The proposition has been laid before the Conservative Association, with what result has not been disclosed. The Liberal organization will be asked to support the movement, and will no doubt respond favorably. Nothing will be easier if the heads of both parties are in agreement. They have merely to refuse to name a municipal ticket, or furnish rigs and scrutineers on election day. This practice was initiated four or five years ago by our Conservative friends, but party manipulation of civic patronage is a more objectionable phase of the system. The Conservative executive filled all vacant positions in the service of the city, including even the deputy returning officers. The Liberals declined to man the polls for municipal purposes until two years ago, when they were obliged in self-defense to endeavor to put an end to the machine rule which had grown up under Mr. Beck's fostering care. During the past two years there has been little to complain of in this respect, probably owing to the even balance of party strength in the council.

Party politics has no legitimate relation to municipal government, and its introduction can only result in harm. There is nothing to separate Conservatives and Liberals in the conduct of the business of the city. They have a common interest, as citizens, in choosing servants who will spend their money wisely. If both party organizations decline to name tickets in the forthcoming election, the successful candidates will be released from party obligations, and the abuses of the system will be wiped out.

THE VALUE OF MUNICIPAL SERVICE.

In view of the near approach of the municipal elections in this Province, Lord Rosebery's recent address on the great value which men of ability and comparative leisure can render to their fellows in the municipal arena is of much interest. Lord Rosebery was the chief speaker at the unveiling of a portrait to Sir James H. Gibson-Craig, Bart., of Riccarton, in Edinburgh, the other day. Sir James, for the last third of the nineteenth century, took a leading place in the management of county affairs. He was a laird of the very best type, and a great improvement on the Scottish laird of fiction, so well depicted in Galt's novel, "The Last of the Lairds," in which there is the immortal dialogue which summarizes the views of a Scottish laird of the eighteenth century. "Where is the laird?" asks one. The reply is, "Where he should be, sittin' on his ain louping-stane, glowerin' at 'aboot him." For a picture of absolute vacancy, Lord Rosebery regards that as hard to beat. But Sir James Gibson-Craig was not that kind of a laird, and indeed the type of laird who is satisfied to "glower awa'" has practically disappeared in Scotland. There is no room for him in the twentieth century, and there is in the old world, largely owing to the beneficent institution of county councils, a class of well-to-do men in the counties who are glad to join with the common people in performing arduous municipal duties.

Lord Rosebery has often declared that he was sorry he had not been born a simple citizen of the empire, instead of heir to an hereditary title, as he would much rather he had been eligible for election as a member of the House of Commons than to get, by hereditary right, a seat in the House of Lords. He does not appear to think the ordinary member of the House of Commons has an influence on the management of public affairs at all commensurate with the energy many candidates for election throw into a contest. Lord Rosebery reasons that Sir James Gibson-Craig chose the wiser part in devoting all his energies to the problems of municipal government, rather than in seeking election to Parliament. Had he been returned to Parliament he would have gone to London, and with 600 other units he would have shared, no doubt, in the legislation of the country, but, as Lord Rosebery points out, the individual share of the 670 members of the Imperial House of Commons is necessarily a very small one. Indeed, it is given to few to achieve parliamentary distinction. That often rests less on solid gifts than on gifts of rhetoric. But as this distinguished Scotchman emphasizes, it is given to almost every one of those who chooses to take a hand in it—to do the work in his own locality, whether it be city or whether it be county—to perform work of the greatest and most lasting benefit to the public at large.

This fact has been very well exemplified in the career of Lord Rosebery himself. The accomplished laird of Dalmeny has not been a very great success as an Imperial legislator—possibly because he did not stick long enough at the furrows he began to plow with his friends. But he has shown how much a man can do to serve the people in a municipal capacity. He was for years a valued member and chairman of the county council of Greater London, and he set an example which has been worthily followed by many men of leisure and talent throughout the United Kingdom. His words of wisdom, though spoken to a Scottish audience, may be reflected on with profit by Canadians at a time when in a widely-extended portion of the country the people are getting ready to select their municipal managers for the ensuing year. Only a very few men can be sent to Parliament, and as Lord Rosebery has said, they may not be able, individually, to accomplish very much there; but in every municipality there is opportunity to serve the country just as faithfully and as well as anyone can serve in Parliament, or the Legislature. If a man is called upon to serve his fellows on a municipal board, he should give the service cheerfully, willingly, and to the best of his ability. There are no times for a man of talent to hide it in a napkin and selfishly let matters drift. The municipal hermit ought not to exist. And if one can do no better than go to the polls, and vote for the best man nominated, he should do so, and as far as he is able, influence his friends and neighbors to do likewise. Only through such municipal patriotism can we hope to have the collective public interests preserved as they ought to be.

GROWTH OF BRITISH INDEBTEDNESS.

In its annual report, recently published, the British Local Government Board compares the national debt of the United Kingdom with the outstanding loans of the various municipalities in England and Wales. The national debt increased from £767,068,559 in 1874-5 to £794,498,099 in 1903-4. The united debts of the local authorities in England and Wales, including loans in respect of reproductive undertakings, have increased from £92,820,100 in 1874-5 to £333,882,146 in 1903-4. Thus, while the national debt has been increased by £27,229,540, or 12.10 per cent, the municipal indebtedness has been increased by £201,062,046, or 49.53 per cent. The various purposes to which the local authorities applied the loans are thus reported:

Waterworks £69,496,000
Gas works 23,284,000
Tramways and light railways 21,626,000
Electric lighting 22,000,000
Markets 7,638,000
Baths 2,743,000
Cemeteries 3,119,000
Harbors, docks, piers, canals and quays 41,193,000

It is asserted that a good many of these utilities are not earning enough to pay the interest, and certainly the result of the recent borough elections in England signifies a reaction from the policy of unlimited municipal ownership. It is useless to theorize on this question, however. In many instances, municipal operation of public utilities has been of great benefit to the community, and in other instances it has been disastrous. Whether the general effect of the whole movement has been advantageous or not is a question upon which professional authorities differ. Each municipality must decide for itself, and each proposition must be treated strictly upon its business merits, without regard to doctrinaire considerations.

A street car strike has all the charm of novelty for Hamilton. The city is behaving like a child with a new toy. London has been through the mill.

The school board should extend the utmost hospitality to the visiting English teachers. There is a noble mission.

Toronto talks of buying a house for the Governor-General in the hope that he will spend much of his time in the Queen City. The roar from Ottawa will be fearful. Isn't vice-royalty one of the capital's perquisites?

The action of the House of Lords may be due to a patriotic notion that legislation from the "lower" chamber must necessarily be manured to make it fit for gentlemen.

Says Public Opinion of London, England: "Endless are the possibilities of Canada." The truth is a nutshell. All the more reason why every wildcat speculative scheme should be frowned down.

The East Hamilton Conservatives have nominated J. J. Scott, K.C., the local party boss, for the Legislature, after futile efforts to induce Mr. John Milne, the stove manufacturer, to enter the field. Mr. Scott's opponent will be the nominee of the Labor party, Allan Studholme. A victory for the latter would probably result in making the Labor party a factor in the next federal and provincial general elections.

Mr. Stephen Lucius Gwynn, recently elected, in the home rule interest, to succeed our fellow-countryman, Mr. Charles R. Devlin, as member in the Imperial House of Commons for Galway, is a well-known journalist, and has made his mark, both in Dublin and London. He is an Anglican, the son of Rev. John Gwynn, D.D., regius professor of divinity in Trinity University, Dublin.

LONDON'S VASTNESS.

[The Spectator.]
It is increasingly difficult to be a Londoner. In the old days, when the area was small, it was easy to know and love the city as a whole, but now that it has become a country in itself the sentimentality before the geographical vastness.

POSITION.

[New York Sun.]
Stella—Was she impressed by his getting on his knees?
Bella—No; she wanted to know his standing in Bradstreet.

ONE ONLY.

[Chicago News.]
Barlow—I hear Hapgood has married his late wife's sister.
Barlow—Yes. He says one mother-in-law is all he is willing to stand for.

NOT TOO PLEASED.

[Judge.]
Mrs. Hoyle—Aren't you happy over the improvement in your husband's business?
Mrs. Doyle—Well, hardly. It has made it necessary for him to advertise for a stenographer.

NO FAULTS.

[Chicago Daily News.]
The One—And you say this horse hasn't any faults?
The Other—Not a single fault.
The One—But he appears to be blind in his right eye?
The Other—Well, that's not his fault; it's his misfortune.

A THING OF BEAUTY.

[Kestrel.]
A thing of beauty is a joy forever;
Its loveliness increases; it will never Pass into nothingness; but still will keep
A bower quiet for us, and a sleep Full of sweet dreams, and health, and quiet breathing.
Therefore, on every morrow, are we wreathing
A flowery band to bind us to the earth, Spite of despondence, of the inhuman deaths
Of noble natures, of the gloomy days,
Of all the unhealthy and o'er-darkened ways
Made for our searching; yes, in spite of all,
Some shape of beauty moves away the pall
From our dark spirits.

A CONSOLING THOUGHT.

[Washington Star.]
"What do you think of our candidate's defeat?" asked the neighbor.
"Mebbe it's just as well," answered Farmer Cornsloss. "It's often a heap easier for a man to make himself popular by tellin' what he's goin' to do than it is to deliver the goods after he gets office."

NOT THE TIME FOR MAGNIFYING GLASS.

[Liverpool Post.]
There was a little Scottish boy who had the quality of astuteness highly developed. The boy's grandmother was packing his lunch for him to take to school one morning. Suddenly looking up into the old lady's face, he said:
"Grandmother, does yer spees magnify?"
"A little, my child," she answered.
"Aweel, then," said the boy, "I 'ad just like it if ye 'ad tak' them aff when ye're packin' my lunch."

THE ONES POE FORGOT.

[Ithaca Journal.]
Hear the chatter of the belles!
Rival belles!
What a round of jealous gab their jabbering foretells!
As they knock, knock, knock,
Are not they a precious flock?
I'm alluding to the belles, belles, belles.
Hear the scandal of the belles!
Shrewish belles!
Human tongues as well as brassy may ring knells.
Reputations sent to pot!
Aren't they just a lovely lot?
I'm referring to the belles, belles, belles.

THE REASON FOR IT.

[Philadelphia Press.]
"Here's a story," said Mrs. Nagget, looking up from her paper, "of a man who begged the judge to send him to jail in place of his wife."
"Ha!" exclaimed Mrs. Nagget, "and yet you say we men never sacrifice ourselves for—"

"Wait a minute. This woman stole some clothes she was given to wash. You see, she couldn't take in washing while she was in jail, and so he would have had to work."

FELLOW PASSENGERS.

[London Mirror.]
"Pardon me, your necktie has been sticking out for some time. I refrained from telling you sooner, because those young ladies seemed so much amused."
Farmer—"Thankie; an' the oil from that lamp has been dropping on that tight overcoat o' yours for the last ten minutes, but everyone seemed to tickled that I hated to spoil the fun."

WICKED JOHANNESBURG.

[Baltimore Sun.]
Miss Agnes E. Black, of London, secretary of the World's Christian Temperance Union, said that Johannesburg is about the wickedest spot on earth. The very air there seemed to be charged with the fever of accumulating wealth from the gold mines, and society from top to bottom is dishearteningly sordid. In the Dutch districts, where the people make their living growing grapes for the wine markets of Europe, she said the negroes are generally paid part of their wages in intoxicants, with the result that they all become beastly drunk several times a week. Lady Smith, she said, with all its monuments and graves on the mountain around, is a gloomy settlement.

The western provinces of Cape Colony, she said, are exquisitely beautiful, and several of the towns literally blazed with gloriously colored flowers. Purple, red, pinks and yellows there mingled in brilliant profusion. Ferns that are rare in western hothouses grow there in abundance.

THE CITY STREET.

[Youth's Companion.]
The stony street is pitiless;
The night is like the day;
We cannot run for weariness,
There is no place to play!

The houses are a ferid wall,
The streets a fiery way;
We cry for water, and we fall—
There is no place to play!

Dear angels, touch our burning brows
With your cool hands, we pray,
And take us where the Christ allows His little ones to play!

services held at intervals, now they give a musical one night, a vaudeville show the next and so on. Some people call it a crank, but I tell you: It takes a crank to do things. The churches have never reached the masses. When the Salvation Army was organized it was a noble institution, and filled a long-desired want: Unadulterated religion. Today? The whole pack of them are worthless. They're lost track of Christ! Charity is fine, but the Gospel and the bringing of souls to Christ is far better than anything else. Say, I've seen more drunkards in Canada despite all of your good work, in three days, than I saw in three years in Grand Rapids. Remember, that back of even the roughest exterior, there is a blessed soul worth saving for Christ.

A Personal Experience

Take my own case, for example. I used to go to church when I could get enough half-way decent clothes to wear to do so, and sneak out before the services were half over, and then say: "Nobody spoke to me, the church people don't want such a man as I am. But don't you believe that, brothers and sisters. They do want such as I was, only they don't go about it in the right manner to get them. When I was a sot, an outcast, abusive to my family, the lowest of low, the church people said to me: "You are sinking lower every day." I knew it. They said: "You are going to lose you family if you don't watch out." I did. They told me that I was a miserable sinner. I was. But—they did not tell me that Christ could save me!

HEART TROUBLE CURED

In the rush, hurry and worry of modern times, we overlook the heart. Is it any wonder then that there comes a breakdown of this wonderful little engine, when such a continued strain is placed upon it day after day. There are many forms of heart trouble and the slightest derangement of this important organ is extremely dangerous. To strengthen the weak heart it is necessary to use a remedy that will act upon the heart tissue, restore and revitalize it and at the same time tone up and invigorate the nervous system, we have such a combination in

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

Mrs. Ella Dingman, Morganston, Ont., writes of her experience with them: "It is with the greatest pleasure that I recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I was troubled for a long time with my heart. I had weak and dizzy spells, could not rest at night, and I would have to sit up in bed the greater part of some nights, and it was absolutely impossible for me to lie on my left side. At last I got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and they did me so much good I got another box and they effected a complete cure. I have not been troubled with my heart since."

The Woman in the Alcove

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN

Author of "The Millionaire Baby," "The Filligree Ball," "The Leavenworth Case," Etc., Etc.

[Copyright, 1906, The Bobbs-Merrill Co.]

"Not a word," said I. Then he left me. To see the sun go down and the moon come up from a ledge hung, as it were, in mid air! The experience was novel—but I refrain from more important matters to relate.

I was given a bunk at the extreme end of the long sleeping tent, and turned in with the rest. I expected to sleep but on finding that I could catch a sight of the sick tent from under the canvas, I experienced such fascination in watching this forbidden spot that midnight came before I had closed my eyes. Then all desire to sleep left me, for the patient began to moan and presently to talk, and the stillness of the solitary height being something abnormal, I could sometimes catch the very words. Devoted as they were of all rational meaning, they excited my curiosity to the burning point; for who could tell if he might not say something bearing on the mystery?

But that fevered mind had recurred to early scenes and the babble which came to my ears was all of mining camps in the Rockies and the dicker of horses. Perhaps the uneasy movement of my horse pulling at the end of his tether had disturbed him. Perhaps— But at the inner utterance of the second "perhaps" I found myself on my elbow listening with all my ears, and staring with wide-stretched eyes at the thicket of stunted trees where the road debouched on the platform. Something was afoot there besides my horse. I could catch sounds of an unmistakable nature. A rider was coming up the trail.

Slipping back into my place, I turned toward the doctor who lay some two or three bunks nearer the opening. He had started up, too, and in a moment was out of the tent. I do not think he had observed my action, for it was very dark where I lay and his back had been turned toward me. As for the others, they slept like the dead, only they made more noise.

Interested—everything is interesting at such a height—I brought my eye to bear on the ledge, and soon saw by the dim light of a full moon the stiff, short branches of the trees, on which my gaze was fixed, give way to an advancing horse and rider.

"Halloo!" saluted the doctor in a whisper, which was in itself a warning. "Easy there! We have sickness in this camp and it's a late hour for visitors."

"I know."

The answer was subdued, but earnest. "I'm the magistrate of this district. I've a question to ask this sick man, on behalf of the New York chief of police, who is a personal friend of mine. It is connected with—"

"Hush!"

The doctor had seized him by the arm and turned his face away from the sick tent. Then the two heads came together and an argument began.

I could not hear a word of it, but their motions were eloquent. My sympathy was with the magistrate, of course, and I watched eagerly, while he vainly strove to read it by the light of the moon. Finding this impossible, he was about to return it, when the other struck a match and lit a lantern hanging from the horn of his saddle.

The two heads came together again, but as quickly separated with every appearance of irreconcilable and I was settling back with sensations of great disappointment, when a sound fell on the night so unexpected to all concerned that with a common impulse each eye sought the sick tent.

"Water!" will someone give me water?" a voice had cried, quietly and with none of the delirium which had hitherto rendered it unnatural.

The doctor started for the tent. There was the quickness of surprise in his movement and the gesture he made to the magistrate, as he passed in, revealed an expectation in my breast which made me doubly watchful.

Providence was intervening in our favor, and I was not surprised to see him presently reissue with the nurse, whom he drew into the shadow of the trees, where they had a short conference. If she returned alone into the tent after this conference I should know that the matter was at an end and that the doctor had decided to maintain his authority against that of the magistrate. But she remained outside and the magistrate was invited to join their council; when they again left the shadow of the trees it was to approach the tent.

The magistrate, who was in the rear, could not have more than passed the opening, but I thought him far enough inside not to detect any movement on my part, so I took advantage of the situation to worm myself out of my corner and across the ledge to where the tent made a shadow in the moonlight.

Crouching close, and laying my ear against the canvas, I listened. The nurse was speaking in a gently persuasive tone. I imagined her kneeling by the head of the patient and breathing words into his ear. These were what I heard.

"You love diamonds. I have often noticed that; you look so long at the ring on your hand. That is why I have let it stay there, though at times I have feared it would drop off and roll away over the abode down the mountainside. Was I right?"

"Yes, yes." The words came with difficulty, but they were clear enough. "It's of small value. I like it because—"

He appeared to be too weak to finish. A pause, during which she seemed to edge nearer to him.

"We all have some pet keepsake," said she. "But I should never have supposed this stone of yours an inexpensive one. But I forget that you are the owner of a very large and remarkable diamond in the papers. Of course, if you have a gem like that, this one must appear very small and valueless to you."

"Yes, this is nothing, nothing." And he appeared to turn away his head.

"Mr. Fairbrother! Pardon me, but I want to tell you something about that big diamond of yours. You have been ill and have not been able to read your letters, so do not know that your wife has had some trouble with that diamond. People have said that it is not a real stone, but a well-executed imitation. May I write to her that this is a mistake, that it is all you have ever claimed for it—that is, an unusually

I listened in amazement. Surely, this was an insidious way to get at the truth—a woman's way, but who would say it was not a wise one, the wisest, perhaps, which could be taken under the circumstances? What would his reply be? Would it show that he was as ignorant of his wife's death as was generally believed, both by those about him here and those who knew him well in New York? Or would the question convey nothing further to him than the doubt—in itself an insult—of the genuineness of that great stone which had been his pride?

A murmur—that was all it could be called—broke from his fever-dried lips and died away in an inarticulate gasp. Then, suddenly, sharply, a cry broke from him, an intelligible cry, and we heard him say:

"No imitation! No imitation! It was a real stone! No other like it! It lit the air! It blazed, it burned! I see it now! I see—"

There the passion succumbed, the strength failed; another murmur, another, and the great void of night which stretched over—I might almost say under us—was no more quiet or seemingly impenetrable than the silence of that moon-enveloped tent.

Would he speak again? I did not think so. Would she even try to make him? I did not think this, either. But I did not know the woman.

Softly her voice rose again. There was a dominating presence in her tones, gentle as they were, the insistence of a healthy mind which seeks to control a weakened one.

"You do not know of any imitation, then? It was the real stone you gave her. You are sure of it; you would be sure of it if it—say just yes or no," she finished in gentle urgency.

Evidently he was sinking again into unconsciousness, and she was just holding him back long enough for the necessary word.

It came slowly and with a dragging intonation, but there was no mistaking the ring of truth with which he spoke.

"Yes," said he.

When I heard the doctor's voice and felt a movement in the canvas against which I leaned, I took the warning and stole back hurriedly to my quarters.

I was scarcely settled, when the same group of three I had before watched silhouetted itself again against the moonlight. There was some talk, a whispering and separating of shadows; then the nurse glided back to her duties and the two men went toward the clump of trees where the horse had been tethered.

Ten minutes and the doctor was back in his bunk. Was it imagination, or did I feel his hand on my shoulder before he finally laid down and composed himself to sleep? I cannot say; I only know that I gave no sign, and that soon all stir ceased in my direction and I was left to enjoy my triumph and to listen with anxious interest to the strange and unintelligible sounds which accompanied the descent of the horseman down the face of the cliff, and finally to watch with a fascination, which drew me to my knees, the passage of that sparkling sword, light hanging from his saddle. It crept to and fro across the side of the opposite mountain as he threaded its endless zigzags and finally disappeared over the brow into the invisible canyons beyond.

With the disappearance of this beacon came lassitude and sleep, though whose hazy atmosphere floated wild sentences from the sick tent, which showed that the patient was back again in Nevada, quarrelling over the price of a horse which was to carry him beyond the reach of some threatening avalanche.

When next morning I came to depart the doctor took me by both hands and looked me straight in the eyes.

"You heard," he said.

"How do you know?" I asked.

"I can tell a satisfied, thorough man when I see him," he growled, throwing down my hands with that same honest twinkle in his eyes which had encouraged me from the first.

I made no answer, but I shall remember the lesson.

One detail more. When I started on my own descent I found why the legging, with which I had been provided, were so indispensable. I was not allowed to ride; indeed, riding down those steep declivities was impossible. No horse could preserve his balance with a rider on his back. I slid, so did my horse, and only in the valley beneath did we come together again.

WILLIE WEARIES SLUETHS

If You Want to Save Billy's Life Cut Off Money," They Tell Mother.

Pittsburg, Nov. 14.—It was the following telegram sent by two detectives, Frank Lee and Edward Swartwood, that caused Mrs. William Thaw to take steps to have her son, William Thaw, declared an habitual drunkard and millions placed in charge of a trustee:

"If you want to save Billy's life, cut off his money. No other way will do. We give him up."

The telegram was sent by the detectives to Mrs. Thaw. When she received it she realized that the candle which her son had burned at both ends was about to be extinguished and that it was her duty as a mother to take the one step that would prevent its flickering flame from going out.

The two detectives had trailed Thaw almost around the entire globe. They had followed him wherever he went in order to prevent him from harming himself, but under the influence of liquor, and also to prevent others from harming him. Thaw did not appreciate the surveillance to which he was being subjected, and he avoided the detectives whenever he could. For months he was sober hardly a single day, but the liquor seemed to give his mind a strange acuteness, that enabled him to dodge his shadows when the ordinary person would have been unable to do so. Whenever Thaw got away from the detectives the sleuths worried themselves sick, and finally they became tired of their job.

Alford to Women

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points which nature has endowed her with. Sallow skin, dull eyes, a blotchy complexion—these no woman need have who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derangement, blood impurities, and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes, and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal derangements reveal themselves sooner or later on the surface. Headache, dark rings around the eyes, sallow skin, labored heavy movements, a constant tired feeling—all these mean that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and correction. Bileans give this necessary help. They are purely vegetable and they work in Nature's own way. They do not merely flush the bowels and clear out the liver cells. They tone up liver and stomach to fulfill their proper functions. Not only so, but while more effective than the medicines hitherto obtainable, they are, at the same time, more mild in their operation, and are suitable for the most delicate constitution.

A WOMAN WHO WAS AS YELLOW AS A GUINEA.

Mrs. A. TRAVIS, of Gringley, says:—"I got completely 'run down' in health, my strength went. I was constipated, had frequent headaches, and my skin became as yellow as a guinea. Food gave me pain, and hours upon hours I laid awake at night quite unable to get any sleep, because of indigestion. I lost flesh and became quite wasted. Medicine did not seem to do me any good at all. One day bileans were recommended to me, and I decided to give them a trial. They did what other medicine had failed to do, and soon after I began to take them I felt an improvement. I persevered with them until they cured me, they cleared my skin, rid me of constipation, banished my headache, ended the indigestion, and made me well and hearty again."

BILEANS ARE A CURE FOR: headache, constipation, piles, liver trouble, indigestion, and all digestive disorders, female ailments, skin eruptions, biliousness, sick headache, bad taste in the mouth, foul breath, dizziness, wind pains, anemia, &c. Bileans are obtainable from all druggists at 50 cents per box, or from Bilean Co., Colborne St., Toronto, upon receipt of price. 6 boxes for $2.50.

To obtain a free sample box, cut out this coupon and mail it, with full name and address and one cent stamp (to pay return postage) to the Bilean Co., Colborne St., Toronto. Advertiser, November 15.

Advertiser Patterns

Designed by Martha Dean.

AN ADORNING APRON—6408.

Everyone takes pleasure in that which is dainty and attractive, and when usefulness is added, the article is of double value. One and three-quarter yards of lawn and five yards of insertion form the apron shown, and little labor was expended on the making. For use in fancy work or mending, the pocket is very convenient, being roomy enough to hold a variety of articles. This is attractively outlined with the insertion, while the tiny boys of ribbon only add to its beauty. The bib is of fanciful shaping and seems to be a continuation of the pocket portion. For fancy aprons, there are lawns, Swiss, mull, batiste and muslin in materials, with lace, ribbon and embroidery as aids to attractiveness. Such dainty bits of finery are pleasing gifts and valued possessions. 6408—one size.

GILLETTE CHEERED BY SWEETHEART

Woman Who May Have Been Cause of Rival's Murder Appears in Court.

Herkimer, N. Y., Nov. 14.—C. E. Gillette, on trial here for the murder of his beautiful sweetheart, Grace Brown, whose body was found in Big Moose Lake in the Adirondacks, was greatly cheered today by the presence of Miss Nettie Benedict, daughter of a rich Cortland lawyer, who, it is alleged, suggested Miss Brown in Gillette's affections, and supplied the motive for the crime, according to the prosecution.

Miss Benedict believes in Gillette's innocence absolutely, and is expected to be the chief witness for the defense. Gillette's nervousness disappeared when Miss Benedict entered the court room, and he chewed gum apparently unconcerned.

Although twelve jurors were obtained yesterday and the taking of testimony was expected to begin today, astonishment was caused by counsel challenging nine jurors, leaving only three in the box, consequently the examination of witnesses took up the greater part of the day.

Great interest was manifested in Miss Benedict, but this young girl, who is very pretty, sat calmly in her seat, indifferent to the stares of the women.

The theory of the prosecution is that Gillette killed Miss Brown so that he might lay siege to the heart of Miss Benedict. The district attorney said that he would put witnesses on the stand to show that "Grace Brown under a promise of marriage trusted Gillette too far."

In outlining his case, the prosecutor further said that when the testimony was caused by counsel challenging nine jurors, leaving only three in the box, consequently the examination of witnesses took up the greater part of the day.

It was said by the district attorney that Miss Brown's condition made it necessary that she be "eliminated from the horizon of this new love affair," and that there followed "the unexpected trip to Big Moose Lake in the Adirondacks, the boat ride, the overturned boat, the girl reported missing, and the subsequent finding of her body."

So far the district attorney has thrown no light on the facts in connection with Gillette's wanderings in the woods after the death of the girl. It is believed that the strongest part of the prosecution's case will be drawn from this. Two men are here, it is said, to testify that they met Gillette in the depths of the woods, and that although he appeared to be lost he did not ask for assistance. He told no one of having been with the young woman until after his arrest.

It is the intention of District Attorney Ward to have the whole state of Gillette's romance with Grace Brown brought out in testimony. To this end 100 witnesses have been summoned. The first meeting of the couple will be described, and it will be traced how their interest ripened into affection, and how for many months they were almost inseparable. The romance was traced from Cortland, where the love-making began and from many scattered places in Central New York, where the two traveled, and also from the Adirondacks, where the last tragic scene took place.

The father of Grace Brown was in court when the session began. He took a seat in the rear and was joined by his wife and young daughter. The three engaged in whispered conversation about each development, and Mrs. Brown frequently gave way to tears. The utmost bitterness is manifested toward Gillette by the town folks.

ROOSEVELT AT COLON

Panama Gives Hearty Reception to the United States Chief Executive.

Colon, Nov. 14.—The first trip of an American president outside of the boundaries of the United States was concluded successfully this afternoon at 1:30, when the battleship Louisiana, having on board President Roosevelt and his party, dropped anchor in the harbor of Colon, which arrived ahead of schedule time, was conveyed by the Tennessee and the Washington. The three vessels anchored about a mile from the dock during a heavy rainfall. Owing to the fact that the Louisiana arrived ahead of time, neither President Amador, or Purchased separately and mixed in the home of the patient. The Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) should be purchased in the original half-ounce vials, put up for druggists to dispense. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case, with the name "—Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure)"—plainly printed thereon.

They left Panama at half-past four in a special train from Colon, and at half-past eight tonight boarded the Louisiana and expected a cordial greeting to America's chief executive.

In President Amador's party, beside Mr. Shonts, were Chief Executive Stevens and Executive Secretary Reed, of the commission, and Mr. Squires, the American minister to Panama.

LAND TENURE BILL

An Opposition Amendment Accepted to Chagrin of Government Supporters.

London, Nov. 1.—During the discussion of the land tenure bill in the House of Commons today, the Government accepted an Opposition amendment which created much discontent among a large section of the Government's supporters, who openly expressed their disapproval.

HE GIVES UP ALL FOR LOVE

Prince Eberwyn Sacrifices Birthright and $1,250,000 a Year for a Girl.

Berlin, Nov. 14.—Another flutter has been caused in high society, which has scarcely recovered from the effects of the revelations of the love affair of Prince Joachim and Maria Suler, by another royal romance.

This time it is Prince Eberwyn, of Bentheim, and Steinfurt, who has caused the excitement. He became infatuated with Fanny Koch, daughter of a tradesman, who is mayor of a small provincial town, and declared his intention of marrying her. His father, Prince Alexis, and the other members of his family did their utmost to dissuade him, pointing out that the laws of their princely house would compel him to renounce all the honors to which he was born.

Thereupon a family council was summoned and Prince Eberwyn in its presence formally renounced his birthright. He took a solemn oath never to dispute the right of his younger brother, Prince Victor, to succeed him as hereditary prince and head of the family at his father's death. Simultaneously he was compelled to resign as lieutenant of the Prussian bodyguards. His sacrifice involves the right of succession to many thousands of acres of land, and an income that is estimated to amount to $1,250,000 annually. The wedding will take place next week.

BRINGS INFECTION INTO THE HOME

Murderous Practice to Spit in Public Places and Spread Disease.

The bacillus of tuberculosis starts tubercles in the lungs. These casely soften and are ejected from the lungs in coughing. A dry cough will spray air full of these germs, a loose cough will deposit the sputum on the sidewalk where it will dry, be trodden to powder, whirled about in the wind for healthy people to breathe, and so start new plantations of these bacilli. Dr. Knopf says that an advanced case of consumption will eject about seven billions of these germs every twenty-four hours.

It is a murderous practice to spit where others may bring the infection into the house on shoes or skirts, where it may dry and become a powder to be sent into the air and breathed into the lungs. If the lungs are sore from cold or any other cause, these germs settle on the sore spot and set up what is called a "wood infection." This is the starting point of consumption, and prompt treatment is required.

An eminent authority on lung trouble advises the use of the following simple formula, which can be secured from any good prescription druggist at small cost. Half ounce Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), two ounces glycerine, and half pint of good whiskey. Mix and use in teaspoonful doses every four hours.

It is said that the mixture will break up a cold in twenty-four hours and cure any cough that is curable. The ingredients should be pure and to avoid substitution, they should be purchased separately and mixed in the home of the patient. The Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) should be purchased in the original half-ounce vials, put up for druggists to dispense. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case, with the name "—Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure)"—plainly printed thereon.

PERISH IN BURNING HOME

Mother and Three Young Children Victims of the Flames.

Coldwater, Mich., Nov. 14. — Mrs. Charles Mowery, aged 31 years, and her three children—Homer, aged 6 years, Louise, aged 3 years, and a baby of 6 months—were burned to death early today in their home on a farm at Batavia Station, the Lake Shore Railroad, near here. Charles Mowery, the husband and father, rose early and built two fires in the house. He then went to the barn to do chores, and while there discovered that his house was afire. He rushed back, but the flames had made so much headway that he could not enter the house, and his call to his family brought no response. It is thought that the mother and children were suffocated.

THE STRANDED KENSINGTON.

Quebec, Que., Nov. 14.—The Government steamer Kenville, with passengers of the stranded steamer Kensington on board, reached Groses Isle at 10:30 a.m., and is due in Quebec this afternoon. News from Matane this morning reports the Kensington in the same position as yesterday. The steamers Lord Strathcona and David, going to the vessel's assistance, passed Groses Point this morning.

THE INCOME TAX OF OLD ENGLAND

Immense Revenue Received Last Year—The Fighting Organization of the Terrorists.

London, Nov. 14.—Those who believe in an income tax will find a great deal of consolation and encouragement in the recent report of the inland revenue commissioners of the British Government who have charge of this branch of the finances. The latest returns show receipts of £30,966,401, or $155,000,000, in round numbers, of our money; 50 per cent of which came from the incomes of commercial and manufacturing concerns, professions, and employments, 25.4 per cent from "the ownership of lands and houses," 8.2 per cent from salaries of government and public company officials, and 6.7 per cent from "profits from British, colonial and foreign securities."

The total wealth of the British nation, as shown by the income tax returns for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906, is $3,120,000,000, an increase from $2,840,000,000, returned for the previous year. It is agreed by all concerned that the income tax, although a shilling to a pound, or 25 cents on every $5 income, is the fairest division of the least felt and the most easily collected of any revenues except that from saloon licenses.

The nerve and stolidity of the Russian revolutionists were never surpassed by any human beings. They do not seem to have the slightest fear of death, and are utterly indifferent to danger. Very few of the bomb throwers have escaped alive. Nearly all of them have died with their victims. In only one or two cases have the men or women who attempted assassinations escaped the supreme penalty, and in no case has the culprit shown anything but a bold and defiant disposition even to the gallows. Several women have been executed within the last few months, and one, Mlle. Leonidoff, niece of General Trepoft, who assassinated a Frenchman in the dining-room of a hotel at Iriy, in the dining-room of a hotel at Iriy, in the dining-room of a hotel at Iriy.

Most of the active terrorists are Jews, a majority of them Polish Jews, and they are usually students from the Russian revolutionaries. When a Jew is assigned to a duty, although the selection is usually made by lot in the group to which the duty has been entrusted. This circumstance is due to the fact that four-fifths of the members of those organizations belong to that race, and the fact that they can be depended upon for nerve, courage and shrewdness more than any other inhabitants of Russia. You noticed from the newspaper dispatches that the recent robbery of the government treasure wagon of $180,000 in the rear of the Kazan Cathedral in the business center of the city of St. Petersburg was committed by a group of Jews. It was the most sensational proceeding that has occurred in Russia except the seizure of a battleship in the Black Sea by mutineers under the leadership of a Jew named Schmidt.

There are several factions of the social revolutionary party, the most important of which is the Jewish Bund, having its headquarters at Bialystok, where the massacre was committed last June. The next most effective faction is called the Maximalists, or the followers of Maxim, a Polish Jew, who led the revolution in the Baltic states last spring and has been making a name for himself in the United States during the recent summer and autumn. From these two organizations the government has suffered more than from any other.

Many of the members of the social revolutionary party are genuine patriots, many others are fanatics, but the rank and file is composed of ignorant people, whose sufferings under oppression have made them the enemies of the government.

PASSING OF A POINEER

Death of One of London Township, Oldest Residents.

On Sunday afternoon, Nov. 11, Mr. John Calvert, one of London Township's oldest and most respected residents, passed away, and although he had been ill for some time, death was unexpected. The deceased, who was the eldest son of the late Wm. Calvert, was a native of Cumberland, born in 1823, and came in 1827 with his parents to Canada, when they settled in London Township, and where Mr. Calvert spent his life. In 1846 he married Isabella Charlton, whom death claimed one year ago.

Mr. John Calvert was a staunch Liberal and a member of the Presbyterian Church, and his sterling qualities and kind disposition had won for him the love and respect of all who knew him. He is survived by four daughters—Mrs. W. S. Robson, Mrs. W. A. Caverhill, and Misses Maggie and Annie Calvert; also four sons—William, Charlton, Robert and Bart, all of London Township. He also leaves one brother and three sisters.

The funeral, which was largely attended, was held from the family residence, lot 30, con. 12, on Tuesday, at 1:30 p.m., to English Settlement Cemetery. Rev. W. A. Anderson conducted the services at the house and the grave. Messrs. J. R. J. B. and P. Calvert, E. Douglas, E. Robson and W. Robson acted as pall-bearers.

SNAP-SHOTS AT VARIOUS SPORTS

It requires no elongated fieldglasses to discover that there will be no O. H. A. hockey in this city the coming winter. Evidently the hockey enthusiasts have been sleeping at the gate, for the residence rule, which permits of outside players playing in another city providing they take up their abode there by the 1st of October, has not been taken advantage of; and while there are some good players in the Forest City, it is the opinion of well-informed devotees of the exciting ice sport that there is not enough local material to form an O. H. A. intermediate team here. The bulk of the local available material is not eligible to play in the junior series, so that is where O. H. A. hockey herabouts goes up in smoke, so far as the coming season is concerned.

Saturday's Rugby game between Petrolia and Hamilton Y. M. C. A., at Tecumseh Park, promises to be a very interesting struggle. It would not be fair to pass judgment on the ability of the Hard Oil crew on the result of their exhibition a short time ago with the Forest City team, as the Petrolia boys played with many of their best ones absent.

Poor old Dundas got "hers" yesterday at Hamilton, when the valley aggregation met the Tiger Cubs. Hard lines, Dundas; you have our sympathy—and we know how to sympathize, too. The score was 9 to 5 in favor of the Tigers. Of course Dundas was hardly in first-class condition for the struggle after playing a hard game with the local tall-enders on the previous Saturday, but excuses ever failed to win victories. Ask us, if you don't believe it.

Toronto Star: "Chaucer" Elliott came down from Hamilton last night to coach the intermediate Argonauts at Varsity field, and went back this morning to resume his task with the senior champions fitting them for their great struggle with Montreal at Hamilton on Saturday.

"Chaucer" says the Tigers are working very smoothly, and find the Canadian Rugby Union rules, under which the game will be played, to be no handicap at all; in fact, they are almost identical with the Ontario rules so far as the operation is concerned.

While the Tigers have a wholesome respect for the Quebec champions they cannot see where they have anything on the Ontario champions in any particular. "Chaucer" says that Hamilton is far trickier, has better dodging backs, and a much superior attack. Their defense will be a surprise to Montreal, who have made their big scores this year on their opponent's mistakes. The Tigers will have as big a line as Montreal, and a better tackling team all round.

Billy Sherring, champion Marathon runner of the world, has declared his intention of retiring from the cinder path and dusty roads. The great runner says that he is well hooked up with this world's goods as a result of winning the race at Athens, and is satisfied to let the other Blufftown runners race it out.

Seems to be about time that somebody in Hamilton took a tumble and gave some other people a show. The village by the bay bids fair to win the Intermediate Rugby championship of Ontario, the junior championship in the O. R. F. U., and possibly may defeat Montreal for the Dominion leadership. We must admit that old Blufftown is the "candy" this season.

The only dope that can be depended upon is the general performance of the contending eleven. A team that has shown strength offensively and defensively together, with accuracy of play, as well as being well equipped with the new kind of football, is the team to win. However, if accuracy of play and cleanness in handling the ball be forgotten, all a team's strength and power goes for naught, and the chances are that an inferior team will win. Consequently, it is doubly hard to be sure of a winner, and it is almost foolish to try to predict what the score of a game will be.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

ANOTHER BLOW AT BOOKMAKERS

Their Work As Carried On in Benning Track Is Declared Illegal.

Washington, Nov. 14.—Bookmaking as it has been carried on at the Benning race track was today declared illegal, and William Davis, who volunteered himself a defendant to test the law, was declared guilty, and sentenced in criminal court to imprisonment for two hours.

The case turns on the construction of the law prohibiting "setting up a gaming table" in the District of Columbia. The defense admitted the paraphernalia of a bookmaker consisted of stools and a cash box, and that a definite location was assigned to each bookmaker in the betting ring.

Judge Stafford, presiding, charged the jury that if it found the conditions described to be actual facts, a verdict of guilty should be brought in. The jury deliberated 1 hour and 20 minutes when the verdict of guilty as charged was rendered. An appeal was taken to the court of appeals. Pending the appeal, sentence will not be executed on Davis.

Just how far reaching the decision is regarded by the club was indicated in the following statement given out for publication tonight by S. T. Walton, secretary of the club:

"The meeting of the Jockey Club scheduled to commence on Friday next will be carried through according to programme."

While bookmaking has by the decision of the court been declared illegal, betting between individuals is not a punishable offense. The Washington Jockey Club will strictly carry out the court's decision in the matter pending the settlement of the question of appeal.

BILLIARDS.

A HANDLESS WONDER.
Washington, Nov. 14.—George H. Sutton, the handless wonder, began a series of eighteen-inch ball line billiards at the Royal last evening, defeating Wallace Carroll 200 to 124. Sutton is the most remarkable expert ever seen in this city. Both arms are off just below the elbow, but notwithstanding that handicap he makes the most difficult masse or draw shots with ease. He will play 200 points each afternoon and evening this week, and will give $10 to any Washington expert that defeats him.

WARD FIGHTS TONIGHT.

Sarnia, Nov. 14.—Mike Ward, the Canadian boxer, is training hard for his bout with Harry Lewis at Grand Rapids tomorrow night, and it is said will be in fit condition to regain his laurels. Though Lewis has been made the betting favorite for the bout, his friends will back Ward to the limit.

MONTREAL FEELS QUITE CONFIDENT

Sure of Winning From Hamilton and Ready to Place Coin on Game.

Montreal, Nov. 14.—Montreal people are thoroughly confident that Montreal will beat the Tigers, although Percy Roberts is sulking through some trouble with Gordon, who was captain last Saturday. There is loads of Montreal money available at Freeman's, downtown, but at not less than even, and Hamilton backers want eight to five. The Montreal fourteen will wind up their preparation for the championship game with Hamilton on Saturday, with practices on the M. A. A. field to night and tomorrow morning. The heavy fall of snow has somewhat interfered with the plans for the week, but not seriously. The players have been in good shape since the middle of the season, and an ease-up now will probably be the best thing to fit them for the big struggle with the western champions.

There have been two practices this week, one Monday night and one last night, the major portion of the time being devoted to drill in signals. Craig, Savage and Kelly are now practically certain for the team, all three having recovered sufficiently to go on the field Saturday. Craig will be somewhat hampered by his lameness, and may be a trifle slower, but he will all the same be good for an afternoon's hard work.

The executive will not make a final decision as to the make-up of the team until Saturday morning, as it is not definitely known who will go up in addition to the regular fourteen, probably the spares will be chosen from Percy Molson, Brownrigg, Rodgers, Sharnan, Ryan and Baxter. The team will leave Friday morning over the Grand Trunk, two coaches on the regular train being reserved for the team and supporters. There had been requests for tickets for the game from a dozen members of M. A. A., and a fair-sized crowd is expected to leave with the team.

THE RING.

WANTS NOLAN'S SCALP.
San Francisco, Nov. 14.—Tex Rickard, the Goldfield fight promoter, is here on route of Chicago to get the scalp of Billy Nolan, manager of Battling Nelson. Rickard declares that as soon as he reaches Chicago he will have Nolan arrested on the charge of failing to turn in the profits from moving picture exhibitions of the Ganss-Nelson fight. He is exceedingly bitter in his arraignment of Nolan, whom he denounces as a liar, and says the Dane's manager must account for some $15,000 that he has received or go to jail. Rickard will leave here Thursday, and will lose no time in meeting Nolan and getting satisfaction.

PUSH FOR O'BRIEN AND MOIR.

London, Nov. 14.—The National Sporting Club will offer a purse for a match between O'Brien and Moir for the world's championship. The match is regarded as assured, and the club wishes the fight to take place fairly early next year.

Tiger Cubs in the Finals; Defeat Dundas By 9 to 5

Hamilton, Nov. 14.—Dundas and Hamilton Tigers, intermediate teams, played a sudden-death game here today to decide the tie in the Intermediate Rugby district. Tigers won by a score of 9 to 5. Half-time score, Dundas 5, Tigers 3.

Tigers will meet Toronto Argonauts at Hamilton in the first of the home and home games next Saturday, the return to be played in Toronto on the following Saturday, points to count.

ST. THOMAS GETS INTO THE O. H. A.

Railroad City Enters Team for First Time—Four Players Declared Pros.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—The first meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association for the season was held tonight at the King Edward Hotel.

The case of Barrie club, arising out of the legal proceedings taken last winter to force the association to accept a player who had been declared ineligible, was disposed of by the suspension of the club.

The suspension of Wilfrid McLean, a player, and Norman Ralph, Wm. Gidley and Harry Southworth, officers of Port Hope juniors, who got into trouble on account of an incorrect age declaration, was removed. The request to allow a joint team from Whitney and Oshawa was refused. Alliston must settle an account with Parry Sound before playing any games.

Four players who took part in the notorious game between Haliburton and New Liskeard last winter were declared professionals. They were H. Bergoine, D. Bruce Ridpath and R. Young, of Marlboros, and Stephen Vair, of Barrie.

Applications for membership from the following clubs were passed on favorably: St. Thomas, Markdale, Bohemians of Preston, Island Amateur Aquatic Association of Toronto, Alvinston, Crescents of Brockville, and Listowel. St. Thomas is to play intermediate. This is the first time the city has ever been represented in the O. H. A.

That of the Crescents of Stratford was laid over for further information on the Stratford situation. The following clubs which desired to come in as a district were informed that they will be admitted as individual clubs, and that the group will probably be as they asked it, if they desire to be admitted on those conditions: Kincardine, Lucknow, Wingham, Palmerston, Harriston, Mount Forest and Chesley.

NORTHERN WILL AFFILIATE.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—Secretary W. A. Hewitt, of the O. H. A., this morning received word that the Northern Hockey League in an executive meeting had decided to affiliate with the O. H. A. The teams in good standing in the Northern are: Kincardine, Lucknow, Wingham, Palmerston, Harriston, Mount Forest and Chesley. Two teams—Listowel and Owen Sound—are on the suspended list for defaulting and back money. The annual meeting of the Northern will be held Saturday at Palmerston.

The O. H. A. never covered this territory before with the exception of Listowel and Owen Sound.

The Island Aquatic Association of Toronto has made application to enter the junior series of the O. H. A.

St. Thomas has taken up the game and has applied for admission into the intermediate O. H. A.

PRESTON IN LINE.

Preston, Nov. 14.—The Star Hockey Club of Preston has organized for the coming season. The club will place a team in the Junior O. H. A., and possibly in the Intermediate series also. W. J. Wilson will represent the club at the O. H. A. annual. The following are the officers: honorary president, George Pattinson; honorary vice-president, Charles Nispe; president, W. J. Wilson; secretary-treasurer, H. Andrich; manager, I. Bernhardt; managing committee, E. E. Freeland, T. Atkinson and A. Kinder.

TWO TEAMS FOR PARIS.

Paris, Nov. 14.—As hockey matters now stand in Paris, there is a Junior O. H. A. team and an intermediate O. H. A. team, each under a separate management, and each determined to enter a team in the field. At a largely attended meeting in the New Royal last night, Cliff Barker was elected president of the intermediates, P. Leyden being disqualified on account of his professional standing.

CHAMPIONS IN AGAIN.

Port Hope, Nov. 14.—Port Hope Hockey Club will organize tomorrow night. It is likely the champions will be again represented in the Junior O. H. A.

SEAFORTH FOR INTERMEDIATES.

Seaforth, Nov. 13.—At the annual meeting of the Seaforth hockey club, held on Tuesday evening, the following officers were elected:

Honorary president, Dr. C. McKay; honorary vice-president, Dr. H. H. Ross; president, John McKenzie; vice-president, Bert Cluff; committee, Wm. Munroe, A. Westcott, H. Harry, F. Willis and G. Reeves; representative to district meeting, Harold Broadfoot.

The club will enter a team in the intermediate O. H. A. series. They made a very creditable showing in this series last season, considering that the game had just been revived here after a lapse of several years, and with the material now at hand they expect to be well up in the front row this season.

HOCKEY.

THE EASTERN MIXUP.

Montreal, Nov. 14.—Wanderers, Ottawa, and Montreal, are being given the credit for mixing up the amateurs and pros in the Eastern League, in the caucus which preceded the annual meeting. Shamrocks, not so well off financially as the other three, were indifferent, while the opposition came from Victoria and Quebec. The thing went through on the ground that there was more danger from hidden professionalism than from the out-and-out plan.

STRATFORD HAS NOT MADE CHOICE

Defers Naming Series in Which It Will Enter a Hockey Team.

Stratford, Nov. 14.—That the Stratford Hockey Club is still a very live organization was evidenced by the manner in which the members met last night, elected their officers, and made preparations for the coming year.

While there were several members of the Crescent Club present, no mention was made in open meeting of the intention of that body to enter a team in the O. H. A., but it was generally understood that they would take such action. At the conclusion of the meeting representatives asked for a conference with the newly-elected executive, but the latter body were not inclined to meet the deputation.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Honorary president, Mr. A. F. MacLaren, M.P.; honorary vice-president, Mr. D. M. Ferguson; president, J. W. Chown; vice-president, D. A. MacLachlan; treasurer, E. W. Horne; secretary, Dr. Herbert Baker; executive, Messrs. J. Fricker, C. B. Heath, W. J. McCully, J. D. McCullum.

Arrangements were made to send a slight token of appreciation of services in the past to Mr. W. Woods, the valuable goal-keeper, who left recently for Muncie, Ind.

Mr. J. C. Makins, the present vice-president of the O. H. A., was the unanimous choice of the meeting to again stand for the office, and he announced his acceptance.

Mr. D. A. MacLachlan was appointed delegate to the O. H. A. convention. It was decided that the question of the series in which the club would enter in the O. H. A. be left in the hands of the executive.

The treasurer's report showed a balance in hand of $194.26, but as there had been a loss of $155.87 on last year's games, there was now in the treasury only $38.39.

VARSITY SOCCER TEAM

BLANKED BY F. C. B. C.

The Western University Soccer team received a nice little goose-egg yesterday, when it stacked up against the Forest City Business College kickers.

Mr. C. H. Wickert, as umpire, was entirely satisfactory.

The line-ups:

F. C. B. C.—Goal, McLaughlin; backs, Farnell, Walker; half-backs, Doyle, McLeod, Dewar; forwards, McIntyre, Smith, Crosby, Crozier, Rendie.

Western University.—Goal, Bannatyne; backs, Hawkins, Copeland; half-backs, Price, Connor, Stiles; forwards, Nixon, Washburn, Marshall, Pulver, McCallum.

Final score, 1 to 0.

VICS ARE AMATEURS.

Montreal, Nov. 14.—The Victoria hockey club held their annual meeting last night at the Windsor Hotel. The club will put a team in the field this year, strictly amateur, the members of which have already been chosen, and it is likely that the Vics will be represented by even a stronger aggregation than has been the case for some seasons past.

"Studio" is one of the many foreign words that have acclimatized themselves in the English language. It is a recent import from Italy, unknown to Johnson's dictionary and apparently not occurring before the nineteenth century but it has supplied a want. "Studio," which is the real English for "studio," suggests a room for reading and writing, and "workroom," lacks distinctiveness. The French got along with "atelier," which literally means a place in which small planks are prepared—in other words, a carpenter's workshop.

It's quite an art to make a Winter Overcoat as it should be made. To have it stylish and at the same time to have it so well proportioned and the weight so evenly distributed that it will fit well and feel warm and comfortable without being burdensome.

For many years the special Overcoat Department of our factory has excelled in this art of overcoat making and each season our garments have shown notable improvements.

This year's overcoats are as near perfection as it is humanly possible for the best skill and care to make them.

Even our lowest-priced coats at $8.50 (which, of course, equals the $12 coats of others), have these distinguishing features of superiority, and at each price, from $8.50 to $25, you can choose from a larger variety of styles and patterns than you'll find in any other store.

It is simply a matter of pleasing your individual taste and meeting your idea of expenditure—for no matter what you select or what you pay you can't go wrong here.

You're bound to get a satisfactory coat and you'll be sure to save from 25 to 30 per cent on what you'd have to pay for an inferior coat anywhere else.

This is the advantage of buying direct from the maker and saving the middleman's profit, as you always do when you buy your clothes here.

COMMISSION CAN ACQUIRE PLANT

Power Body Has Authority to Purchase Lighting Concerns—9,000-H. P. for London.

No. 3 committee of the city council touched briefly last evening on the questions of Niagara power for London, and municipal ownership of the street railway, gas and electric lighting systems.

At the last meeting of the committee it was decided at the request of Ald. Booth to ask the city solicitor for information as to the city's power to expropriate the plants of the companies. Mr. Meredith replied that at the expiration of the street railway franchise in 1925, the city can assume ownership upon the required notice being given, and that should it not then avail itself of the opportunity, it can enter into a contract with the companies for power for the city without expropriating the property of the electric light company. The London Electric's franchise is not exclusive. The act of Legislature provides that any bargain made between the city and the commission must be approved by the council. Whether the act enables the city to supply power to the street railway is questionable. As to the practical necessity of using the present power-house of the London Electric Company or the street railway to supply citizens with light and power from Niagara, Mr. Meredith referred the committee to the engineer.

In the course of the discussion it was stated that while on his rounds, Assessment Commissioner Grant learned that over 9,000-horsepower can be utilized for street and house lighting, and manufacturing purposes. The London street railway was also said to be prepared to buy Niagara power. The Niagara commission was also said to have authority to acquire a lighting company in any place where Niagara power is to be used, and that if the commission considers the price asked to be exorbitant, it can then out the company out of the privilege of purchasing power. The committee agreed that before making any move in the matter, it should wait until it learns at what figure Niagara power will be obtainable in London.

A MYSTERIOUS MAN

Durno Will Astonish the Audience Next Monday at the Grand.

A man that baffles, mystifies, astonishes and deceives everyone, causes people to see what they do not see, and not to see what they do see. A man that is the originator of the work that he is doing. He is certainly working out mysteries that have never been seen nor heard of before. Where he has been seen, he has caused an uproar of laughter, while on the other hand he has caused the greatest of mystery and astonishment. This man's name is Durno, and for the price of admission he and his assisting company can be seen at the Grand Opera House with special scenery, and a ton of baggage, magic, illusions, comedy, imitations, music and ventriloquism. Mystery, and the greatest astonishment, will prevail during the entire evening. Durno, the mysterious, and company at the Grand Monday, Nov. 19. Durno is said to be the greatest magician before the public. Seats are now on sale.

When Chevalier and Guilbert Come.

Quite unique in the annals of dramatic entertainment will be the performances to be given by Albert Chevalier and Yvette Guilbert, on their farewell tour of America. These two artists, Yvette Guilbert, the most finished and polished chanteuse of France, and Albert Chevalier, the greatest of all English character players, were induced to join forces for a six weeks' tour of the American continent. The tour will consist of 42 different performances in as many different cities. Everything will be a one-night stand during this engagement, and it will in effect be the last opportunity America and Canada will have to see these—each a specialist in artistic interpretation—together. The one performance here will be played at the Grand Opera House on Tuesday evening, Nov. 20.

ANOTHER BLOW AT THE CIRCUS

Tax of $50 Proposed for Posting Bills When the Circus Does Not Show in City.

No. 3 committee of the city council last night decided to allow the license fee for pushcart men to remain at $15. Ald. Matthews introduced a motion to put on a new fee of $50 for the posting of circus bills in London when such circus does not show inside the city limits. If the circus shows in the city, the fee is not operative.

There was some doubt as to the legality of such a fee, and before taking final action the committee will get the city solicitor's views.

Other changes made in the draft of the new bylaw as published in The Advertiser some time ago, were as follows: Special auctioneer's license for the sale of cattle, $20.

Covered ice rinks, $10 per annum. Roller rinks, which remain open the year round, $25.

Bill posters, sample distributors, etc., $15.

Sparrows and boxing exhibitions, $5.

A special list for the taxing of small shows which come to the city was also drawn up.

It includes a fee of $1 a day for a show which only contains dancing, etc. Sleight of hand, $5 a day.

Curiosities, $2 a day.

The committee further recommend that roller coasters be charged a fee of $15 and toboggans $10, in cases where an admission fee is charged.

A USEFUL REPORT.

Assessment Commissioner Grant is preparing a report on the manufacturing industries of London, which should prove of great value and interest. With his assistants he is engaged in interviewing the different employers of labor in London, especially the manufacturers, and is ascertaining the number of hands employed, the wages paid per annum, the average day wages of mechanics, etc., the increase in business, the increase in floor space, etc. The book will be of a private nature and will serve to show exactly the manufacturing and business growth of London each year, as it is to be compiled annually.

COMPANY GETS REPORT

Finds Nothing in It Not Already Begun or Provided For.

Manager King, of the London street railway, has been served with a copy of the report of the Ontario railway commission's engineer on the condition of the line. It is in the nature of an order to make the repairs ordered by the engineer.

Mr. King states, however, that the report does not command the company to make any repairs which it has not already begun or provided for the materials for. He says that the guard rails will be put up at the approaches of the Wellington street bridge at once, and at all the other bridges as soon as possible; also that the guard timbers and new ties are being put in the Wellington street bridge.

The Government engineer draws attention to the need for new ties on the Wellington north line, and this work has been begun. This year a great amount of overhead work has been done, and new ties are being put in the Wellington street bridge.

THEY FEAR BLOODSHED

Hamilton Cars Will Run This Afternoon But Trouble Is Expected.

Hamilton, Nov. 15.—All efforts to settle the street railway strike have failed. The company will run its cars again this afternoon at 2:30, and the police expect there will be bloodshed.

THE HAMILTON STRIKE DEADLOCK

Situation Remains Unchanged No Cars Being Operated Yesterday.

Hamilton, Nov. 14.—The strike situation tonight is anything but bright. It was hoped that the conference between the city and the company to see if some agreement could be reached relative to the city's complaint, that the service and system were bad, and that the company's complaint that the conditions of the bylaw were too onerous, would relieve the strike situation, and that the conference of Mr. A. B. Ingram met the men, along with Mayor Biggar, and his worship hoped that the trouble between the men and the company may be settled. But the city will not grant one concession to the company, and will insist that the terms of its bylaw. That means that the board will have to hand out "cold justice," as Chairman Leitch expressed it this morning. The aldermen met this afternoon, and after discussing the situation decided not to make a single concession. They said the refusal to grant one concession to the company, one of which was the extension of the franchise, and the company had given nothing in return for them. A resolution embodying that, and asking that the company put a price on the road and give the city the refusal, will be placed before the board tomorrow. In the hope of some arrangement being made Mayor Biggar asked the company not to operate its cars today, and the request was complied with. It is likely that the company will make an attempt to run them tomorrow afternoon, and trouble may result.

NEW LORD'S ACT THE BEST

was not up to the top-notch in many respects, it was the best Sunday law on the statute books of any province, and on the whole the W. C. T. U. was well satisfied with it. The liquor license act was also approved of in most of the clauses, although such clauses as that requiring a three-fifths majority did not meet with their approval.

One step taken during the week by the W. C. T. U. and mentioned in the report, was the co-operation of the union with the Women's Council in an effort to establish homes for feeble-minded girls and women who were not fit to be inmates of asylums, but were not able to care for themselves.

Cutting Out Fermented Wine

The report of the department of unfermented wine was very encouraging. It showed that there had been a great decrease in the use of fermented wine at the communion services of all churches, even the Episcopalian. The W. C. T. U. had been sending letters and printed matter to all the churches with a view to this way they are a source of great strength to the liquor men, and make it almost impossible to control the traffic.

JUDGE IS DOUBTFUL

Not Prepared to Convict Indian Boy of Stealing.

Peter David, the young Indian arrested about a month ago by Constable Hunt, on a charge of purloining a plectrum from the workshop of the Mount Elgin Institute, was brought for trial this morning before Judge Macbeth.

According to the evidence, David, who by the way is only 20 years old, and looks younger, has been given a three months' sentence. He is alleged to have stolen the plectrum from the workshop of the Mount Elgin Institute, and was brought for trial this morning before Judge Macbeth.

LANDLORD'S QUANDARY

Wants to Get Rid of Chinks But They Have Lease of Store.

The owner of a large business block not far from the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets is at a loss to know what to do with a number of Chinamen, whom he recently leased a store for a year. When the lease was drawn up the Chinamen were given to understand that the place was not to be used for opium purposes or for gambling, but merely as a factory goods store, and he was assured that his wishes would be complied with. However, as a fourth elapsed and there was no sign of the Celestials putting in a stock of goods, and as a number of them were hanging about the place, the owner became suspicious and last evening he went to it and made a tour of inspection. He saw articles which he thought were used for gambling, but to strengthen his position he asked a local detective to also make a visit to the store. The detective did not see things as he owner did, but nevertheless the latter decided to notify the Chinks that they could no longer have the place. The Chinamen objected to being turned out, as they had executed a lease, and had not done anything to justify the proprietor in ordering them out.

CONFESSES TO HEINOUS CRIME

Woodstock, Ont., Nov. 14.—James Currie, arrested early yesterday morning near his home in New Durham, on a charge of criminal assault, has confessed to his share in the dastardly deed, and he has implicated Charles O'Brien, arrested on Monday morning on a similar charge, in the affair. The confession was made by Currie at the jail some time yesterday, after he had been remanded for trial until next Monday. The details of the confession are too revolting for publication. The men broke into the home of Mrs. J. C. C. who lives alone on the city limits, last Wednesday night.

WILL WHITNEY REDISTRIBUTE?

Report May Account for Split in West Kent Conservative Party.

Chatham, Nov. 15.—A story has reached here from Wallaceburg, that possibly explains why there were no delegates from there at the Conservative convention here on Saturday.

According to the story, which is said to have for sponsors some of the prominent Conservatives of the riding, Mayor Stonehouse, of Wallaceburg, a likely candidate for the Conservative party, was informed that the Whitney Government were considering a Provincial redistribution, and that a safe constituency would be formed for him, provided he kept out of Saturday's local nomination and let the choice fall on a Chatham man. This was quietly passed around, and there were no delegates from Wallaceburg, who, it is said, might if present have stamped the meeting for a Wallaceburg man.

According to the story, the Government have tacitly acknowledged that the Liberals are too strong for them to regain any ground in this riding, and will recompense themselves, if possible, by creating a safe constituency for Mayor Stonehouse by cutting Dover and Chatham townships, together with Dresden and Wallaceburg, out of the present Provincial west riding of Kent.

BOSTON TO CORNER THE FISH MARKET

Principal Dealers to Form a Powerful Combination—Hard Blow to Gloucester.

Boston, Nov. 15.—Plans for the alleged combination of the majority of the principal fish dealers of Boston in a company, to be known as the National Fisheries Company, incorporated under the laws of Maine, with a capital of $5,000,000, were reported today. The project would make Boston the greatest fish mart in America, and would be a serious blow to the Gloucester industry.

One of the features of the system will be the fixing of a standard price to be paid for fish, regulated with regard to the supply and demand, thus doing away with the present system of auctioning the cargoes.

MONTREAL FOOTPADS

Ex-Toronto Man Refuses to Deliver His Money and Is Shot.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—Word was received in the city this morning that Horace Grigg, a Toronto young man, had been shot by footpads in Montreal and dangerously wounded. Young Grigg, who was about 21 years of age, was manager of the whitewater department of the Robert Simpson branch in Montreal. Until eighteen months ago he was an employee of the Simpson firm here.

It appears that Grigg was walking to his home at a late hour last night, when he was accosted by footpads who demanded his money. Grigg refused to hand over his money, and the footpads shot him three times. He was left on the sidewalk and was later taken to the hospital. He is now in a most critical condition.

Richard Grigg, the young man's father, is a tailor at 345 Parliament street. The mother left this morning for Montreal. Horace Grigg has been with the Simpson Company for seven years and has been several times promoted.

LANDLORD'S QUANDARY

Wants to Get Rid of Chinks But They Have Lease of Store.

The owner of a large business block not far from the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets is at a loss to know what to do with a number of Chinamen, whom he recently leased a store for a year. When the lease was drawn up the Chinamen were given to understand that the place was not to be used for opium purposes or for gambling, but merely as a factory goods store, and he was assured that his wishes would be complied with. However, as a fourth elapsed and there was no sign of the Celestials putting in a stock of goods, and as a number of them were hanging about the place, the owner became suspicious and last evening he went to it and made a tour of inspection. He saw articles which he thought were used for gambling, but to strengthen his position he asked a local detective to also make a visit to the store. The detective did not see things as he owner did, but nevertheless the latter decided to notify the Chinks that they could no longer have the place. The Chinamen objected to being turned out, as they had executed a lease, and had not done anything to justify the proprietor in ordering them out.

This morning the quandary of the landlord was increased when enough goods to fill the store were laid down by a starling company. The goods, the

Woodstock, Ont., Nov. 14.—James Currie, arrested early yesterday morning near his home in New Durham, on a charge of criminal assault, has confessed to his share in the dastardly deed, and he has implicated Charles O'Brien, arrested on Monday morning on a similar charge, in the affair. The confession was made by Currie at the jail some time yesterday, after he had been remanded for trial until next Monday. The details of the confession are too revolting for publication. The men broke into the home of Mrs. J. C. C. who lives alone on the city limits, last Wednesday night.

END OF PUSH CART NUISANCE AT LAST

City Will Pass Bylaw Barring Vendors from Business Sections and Parks.

The end of the pushcart nuisance, which has been the cause of so much complaint from downtown merchants and the source of so much trouble for the police for the past four years, is at last in sight.

Under an act passed at the last session of the Legislature, the city has the power to prohibit the sale of fruit, peanuts, etc., from carts on the public streets, and at a meeting of the fire and light committee of the council last evening it was decided to take advantage of the act. On motion of Ald. Stevenson, it was agreed to recommend the council to pass a bylaw prohibiting the pushcart men from doing business on Dundas street, between Dundas and Wellington streets, on Richmond street, between the G. T. R. and Oxford street; on Dundas street, between Adelaide and Egerton streets; on Talbot street, between York and Fullerton streets; on King street, between Richmond and Ridout, and also in Victoria and Queen's Parks. Thus the peanut vendors, who have been a nuisance in business sections, and also from the two parks, where they are in the habit of going on band concert nights, the Dundas street east district was extended to Egerton street to prevent the peanut men from standing in the vicinity of the fair grounds at exhibition time. It was stated that no matter where the pushcart men held forth it always meant work in cleaning the pavement after them.

HEARD REPORT ON TRIP.

Ald. Matthews did not go to Dallas, Texas, to attend the fire chief's convention, but he was given a pretty fair idea of what was done at the gathering, when the report of Chief Clark was read.

Ald. Stevenson even wanted to have the report referred to a special committee, and entered into a long discussion of the matter, but the other members desired to hear the document read.

Among other things in the report was a statement that London's combination chemical and hose wagons are of the most approved pattern.

Whit Lancaster, proprietor of the Westminster Hotel, appeared before the committee, and entered into a long discussion of the matter, but the other members desired to hear the document read.

OUT OF SORTS

People Not Really Sick Are Often Most in Need of Care.

The people who are most in need of kind words and medical treatment are not those who are really sick, but those who are out of sorts. The old-time energy, force, strength and happy spirits are lacking; the physical and mental powers are flagging; there is poor appetite, and they cannot get the good out of the food they eat. In nine cases out of ten, this results directly from weakened stomach, and no other treatment equals M-I-O-na to restore strength and health. When the nerves and muscles are weak, if there is sleeplessness, irritability, and specks before the eyes, when the head aches and there is a dull pain in the back, and there is any distress and heaviness in the stomach, dizziness, and sometimes nausea, the use of M-I-O-na stomach tablets for a few days will make a world of improvement, and continued use for a reasonable time will restore perfect health.

We absolutely agree that your money will be refunded should you buy a 50-cent box of M-I-O-na stomach tablets and not be satisfied with the results. M-I-O-na is sold by druggists everywhere, and will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents.

Write today for a free sample package, and also give us your symptoms, and one of the best known stomach specialists will give you the results. M-I-O-na is sold by druggists everywhere, and will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents.

WEST HURON WITNESSES

A dangerous party to deal with, and left him at once. He had seen the man only once, and had not seen him since. It may have been Pritchett, who was in court. The witness was police magistrate at the time. Mr. Grant had not seen the witness about Pritchett.

Didn't See Grant.

John H. Edwards was a deputy returning officer at the election. He did not remember a midnight visit by Grant and another man, but remembered parties coming to his place at night at one election. One of the men was named Martin, but the other was not Grant. Witness did not remember having met Pritchett. He was not asked by anyone to switch ballots at the election. The witness did not know as Mr. DuVernet had stated, that there were only 175 ballots for the subdivision of which he acted as deputy, and that there were 177 ballots in the box when they were counted.

"I do know that every ballot was counted to the man for whom it was marked," said the witness.

Witness had seen no ballots other than the official ballots.

Mr. Curry then pointed out that it is a comparatively easy thing for a deputy to have made a mistake in the number stated as given him by the returning officer, because a mistake might be made in the number furnished him by that official.

"Did you get any bogus ballots from anybody at any time?" asked Mr. DuVernet.

"No, not that I remember."

"Did you receive ballots from anybody the night Martin came to your house?"

"Not that I remember."

"Would you contradict anybody that would swear they gave you ballots?"

"Yes, I would."

Witness Collapses

The witness, who is an old man, fainting at this point, and it was necessary to remove him to the ante-room. He fell forward in the hall, and but for the presence of mind of Mr. Curry he would have tumbled down the steps to the floor.

L. Horton, of Goderich, remembered the Holmes-McLean election of Feb. 21. He had not seen Tom Lewis or O'Gorman in West Huron during the election. Witness had been examined by a committee of the House in 1899, in connection with this election.

The witness said he met Mulloy three weeks ago, but Mr. DuVernet stated that his former testimony showed that he had met Mulloy, O'Gorman and Alex. Smith in West Huron at the election.

The witness said he could not remember what he said then, but it was right if it was there.

Mr. Curry objected to Mr. DuVernet's tactics, and the witness had no recollection of what he had said when examined before the bar of the House, and it was not fair to be referring to the old testimony.

Mr. DuVernet resumed his examination, after the magistrate had ruled in his favor.

The witness would not swear that he had or had not met Mulloy in Goderich. Neither could he say that he had met O'Gorman there.

Mr. DuVernet continued his questioning, and Mr. Curry objected.

"I don't know my learned friends is altogether irrelevant," said the witness.

"I don't go much on what is regular or irregular," said the magistrate. "I don't understand them myself."

"I believe you are right there," Mr. Curry agreed. (Laughter.)

Received No Money.

Mr. Horton then swore positively that he had received no money from anyone, nor had he paid anyone any money in the election.

"Do you know that it is stated that you gave a deputy named Farr $500 to leave the country before this investigation of 1899 was commenced?"

"No, I know nothing of it."

"That has no right to go down on the notes as evidence," said Mr. Curry. "Strike it out then," the magistrate said.

Mr. DuVernet said he was not through with the witness.

Mr. Curry once again objected to Mr. DuVernet's manner of asking questions, and the latter begged the magistrate to stop the interruptions. The P. M. was compelled to laugh a little himself.

The witness knew Dan Ferguson, of London. He met him in Goderich at the British Hotel. He had also met Alex. Smith there.

"Did you get the sum of $3,000 at one time?"

"No."

"Did you get any sum of money at any election?"

"No."

"And you never paid anybody for switching ballots?"

"No."

"No arrangements were made with you for the payment of anyone for any such work, directly or indirectly?"

"No."

"Did you see O'Gorman and Mulloy in Craig's hotel after the election?"

"No."

"Did Farr bring any ballots back to you after the election?"

"No."

"He didn't tell you he had switched all you gave him, and asked you for more?"

"No."

This concluded the witness' testimony.

TO GET MEN TO SAVE.

A Pittsburg advertiser says that the newspaper advertising by the banks of that city has increased the number of depositors enormously. "In every community," he reasons, "the depositors are but a small proportion of the people who could be induced to become such by persistent, simple explanations in the form of display advertisements in the newspapers."

OUT OF SORTS

People Not Really Sick Are Often Most in Need of Care.

The people who are most in need of kind words and medical treatment are not those who are really sick, but those who are out of sorts. The old-time energy, force, strength and happy spirits are lacking; the physical and mental powers are flagging; there is poor appetite, and they cannot get the good out of the food they eat. In nine cases out of ten, this results directly from weakened stomach, and no other treatment equals M-I-O-na to restore strength and health. When the nerves and muscles are weak, if there is sleeplessness, irritability, and specks before the eyes, when the head aches and there is a dull pain in the back, and there is any distress and heaviness in the stomach, dizziness, and sometimes nausea, the use of M-I-O-na stomach tablets for a few days will make a world of improvement, and continued use for a reasonable time will restore perfect health.

These tablets are not mere digestives; they absolutely strengthen all the organs of digestion, so that there is good appetite, perfect digestion and strong nerves when they are used.

We absolutely agree that your money will be refunded should you buy a 50-cent box of M-I-O-na stomach tablets and not be satisfied with the results. M-I-O-na is sold by druggists everywhere, and will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents.

the poll the books showed that 123 people had voted, but 5 of the ballots had disappeared, there being only 118 in the box.

This story was not what the crown was looking for, and Mr. Armour, who was examining the witness, began to prompt him as to what was wanted.

Mr. Curry objected vigorously.

The magistrate then pointed out that if there were 123 ballots in the box and only 118 voters had voted it would show that there was something seriously wrong.

But the witness stuck to his story that five of the ballots had disappeared. He had asked the deputy to account for the missing ballots, but he could not.

The deputy had placed the counter-rolls of the ballots in his pocket, despite the objections of the witness and the other Conservative scrutineers. The witness also stated that he had picked up a marked ballot on the floor, and that Farr had torn it up, saying, "Oh, h—l, there were lots of those going around yesterday."

Arthur Yule, of Goderich, was then called. He was an outside scrutineer at Farr's subdivision. He saw Farr tear up a ballot, and he and others picked it up. It was placed together, and was found to be marked for McLean. The witness said that several times during the day Farr had left the booth and had met Horton.

The crown then tried to show that the Liberals had tried to switch Farr for fear he would give away crooked work which had been planned, as Farr was drinking heavily.

James Yates had talked with Mr. Horton about the way Farr was drinking, and later had gone up and seen Farr. If he had made a report to anyone it was to Horton. He told the sheriff to ask Farr to hand in his ballot box. Farr was going to act as deputy, but was drinking. The witness swore positively that he had not stated that Farr would spoil things for the Liberals. The witness had not, to the best of his memory, seen Mulloy or O'Gorman at the election. Witness had given the name of an absentee voter to a stranger at Craig's hotel, but he could not say that Dan Ferguson, of London, was the man.

Frank Elliott, of Goderich, knew Grant, the school teacher, for years. During the election he swore he saw Grant with a stranger in Goderich, and they went to a house in a rig. He watched the house for some time, and Grant and the man remained inside.

To Mr. Curry, the witness admitted that he might have been mistaken as to Grant, but he did not think he was. He did not know whether the men were in a cutter or a buggy, or whether there was snow on the ground.

Wm. H. Thompson also swore he saw Grant with a man named J. T. Martin and a stranger in Goderich during election week.

"Was there snow on the ground?" asked Mr. Curry.

"It wouldn't be positive. I wouldn't be positive it was Grant or Martin," replied the witness.

This concluded the evidence for the day.

LONDON ENTERTAINERS

A Hearty Reception Given the Young Sovereigns of Norway.

London, Nov. 14.—The Lord Mayor of London, Sir William Treloar, and the corporation of the city, gave a luncheon at the historic Guild Hall today in honor of King Haakon and Queen Maud of Norway. The function was attended by the ceremony familiar to the public by the many annual royal visits of recent years. The King and Queen of Norway and their suites drove in state landaus, escorted by detachments of Life Guards from Paddington railroad station to the city, through miles of streets lined by troops and decorated with flags, and received hearty ovations from the crowds, with whom Queen Maud was always a favorite. A distinguished assemblage, including a number of the royal families, met the visiting King and Queen at the luncheon.

APPLES ARE SATISFACTORY

One Canadian Shipper, However, is Notorious in Britain.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 14.—Notwithstanding the vigilance of the Government fruit inspectors, it would seem that once in a while some indifferent fruit finds its way to England. W. A. MacKinnon, Canadian agent in Bristol, reports that, taken on the whole, Canadian apples arriving at that port are giving excellent satisfaction. He refers particularly to consignments of Blenheim, Ribston Pippins and Cranberry Pippins. He scores unmercifully, however, one shipper, who, he says, has attained an unenviable notoriety with the Bristol trade. This man's brand, he states, has received a black eye for the rest of the season. The opinion of the Bristol inspectors is that the fruit was the worst looking ever offered for sale there. A previous consignment from the same shipper sold at less than 50 cents a barrel, which would not pay the freight. The name of the shipper is not given. MacKinnon says that much unnecessary trouble would be spared to importers and transportation companies if these boxes distinctly bore shipping marks. In many cases they arrive in Bristol bearing only factory marks.

The chief soap manufacturers in Great Britain have formed a combine, and have aroused the hostility of the grocery trade. Many grocers have pledged themselves not to handle soaps produced by the combine. MacKinnon thinks the opportunity a golden one for Canadian soap manufacturers.

The little ones are now being trained daily at the city hall by Mr. J. H. Ford, of Toronto, assisted by Miss E. Ford, Miss Adams, of Toronto, and Miss McGuire, of Cincinnati. "When the Toys Awake" is a regular Chautauqua attraction, and it is said to be the largest play ever arranged to be given by the children of London. It was produced at St. Thomas on Friday last, and was a gigantic success. Mr. Ford goes to Florida in February to fill a number of engagements prior to resuming Chautauqua work in the spring.

INSPIRING REPORTS OF WORK CARRIED ON BY W. C. T. U. AGENCY

Powerful Influence of Sunday School Work—"Purity and White Cross" Movement.

Yesterday afternoon's session of the W. C. T. U. convention in Dundas Center Methodist Church was in many ways the most important so far. The attendance was larger than at any of the previous meetings and a great deal of the routine work of the convention was gone through. Among the reports presented were some from the various temperance and white cross departments. During the afternoon, Mrs. Munroe, of this city, rendered some exceptionally fine solos, which were highly appreciated.

Temperance in Sunday Schools.

The report of the department of temperance in Sunday schools, of which Mrs. Gray, of Toronto, is the head, was presented. In submitting the report, Mrs. Gray told of the increased interest which is being taken in this important branch of the work, and noted the fact that now nearly all Sunday schools, of every denomination, recognize a temperance Sunday, when a special programme of temperance hymns, temperance speeches, etc., is provided. In many cases special temperance speakers are engaged for the day. The membership of the temperance armies has also increased, there having been 292 new members enrolled during the last year. She also reported that a splendid work was being done by means of having large numbers of temperance books placed in all the Sunday school libraries. Temperance pamphlets are in some cases distributed with good results. A special endeavor is being made to impress upon the children the importance of their signing the pledge and standing firmly by their resolve. In many cases through the influence of the children in the Sunday school, whole families have been induced to sign the pledge.

Temperance Quartermasters.

The next report was that of the department on temperance quartermasters by Miss Alice R. Yeates, of this city. This report was one of encouraging interest and features. The circulation of quartermasters had been larger during the last year than ever before, some 60,559 copies being sent out during the year.

During March a special anti-cigarette number was published, which had a very large circulation, amounting to 23,000 copies.

The department connected with the publication of the Quartermasters, in which the most trouble was experienced was the circulation department. The trouble arose out of the changing of the initials of names. Some of those who subscribed sent in their name at the time as Mrs. John So and So, and another time they will send it in as Mrs. Mary So and So, and this changing of the initials not only causes confusion in the circulation department but also in the postoffice.

Rev. D. D. Luss, an old and highly-esteemed friend of the Union, was present, and spoke a few words to the delegates. He said that he had for a long time past been impressed with the scarcity of good temperance songs, and that he had composed several which he hoped would do good by his son, who had been put to music by his son, who is a musician of note. He told the members of the W. C. T. U. that they could procure copies of any of the songs at the small price of 10 cents. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Munroe sang one of his songs which met with great approval.

Purity and Mothers' Meetings.

One very important department reported upon was that of purity and mothers' meetings, which was represented by Mrs. B. D. Livingstone, of Tillsonburg. In presenting the report of this department, which was very encouraging, Mrs. Livingstone pointed out the importance of social purity work among mothers to enable them to bring up their daughters in a proper way. She said that this work was not any more necessary among the poorer classes than among the rich, for many a mother who lives in a splendid mansion, amid all the luxuries that wealth can supply, does not know the first thing about how to bring up a child. She then described her method of conducting mothers' meetings. She said that there was also room for a great purity work to be done in the schools among the young girls. Mrs. Livingstone's report showed that during the year 50 purity, and 175 mothers' meetings had been held, 1,577 leaflets and 327 good books had been distributed.

Miss Jean Hyde, of Stratford, presented the report on systematic giving. The report showed that good results had been accomplished by systematic giving. She made a strong appeal to the different unions to establish systems of giving, which she pointed out, would be a great help.

The report on hygiene and heredity was presented by Miss Lella Skinnings, and Miss Jennie Drake, of Toronto, and was read by Mrs. Gray. The report brought glad tidings of good work being done in many sections of the Province by physical culture and swimming classes. Much good had also been done at the mothers' meetings by giving instruction about ventilation, cleanliness and other matters of hygiene.

Work Among Lumbermen.

The report of the work being done by the W. C. T. U. missionary among the lumbermen, Rev. Joseph Hunt, was presented by Mrs. Boyd, showing that Good Reasons for Its Success.

The majority of catarrh remedies are useless. But one that does cure is "Catarrhazone." It clears the head of all mucous discharge. Putrid matter in the nostrils, phlegm in the throat, and disease germs are completely swept away. The cause of the disease is destroyed, its results are destroyed, and the system so thoroughly cleansed of catarrhal poison that cure is permanent. All types of catarrh, throat and bronchial trouble, colds and coughs are more certainly cured by Catarrhazone than anything else. Two sizes, 25c and $1.00, at all dealers.

this missionary has been accomplishing great things by untiring hard work, and is deserving of the highest praise. Mrs. Boyd pointed out many of the common mistakes which people make in sending clothing, etc., to the lumbermen. The lumbermen, she said, are men who earn big wages, and they can buy all the ordinary necessities of life at the stores. When they are sent clothing to the camps the object should not be charity, as it is commonly understood, but should be to send some little comforts, such as comfort bags, etc., which the men cannot get, and which will be greatly appreciated and will help to open the men's hearts to the missionary.

White Cross Movement.

One very important branch of the work which was reported upon was that of the white cross movement. This report was presented by Arthur W. Beall, M.A., of Peterborough, Ont. It showed that during the year he had conducted 160 white cross meetings, having spoken in all to 2,244 boys. Mr. Beall made a strong appeal for the support of this great work. He said that in some places the movement met with considerable opposition from parents, but that if they were well informed themselves they would be only too glad to have their boys instructed in the things which so many boys are left to learn from vice and impure companions at the cost of their moral, mental and physical health. It is infinitely better to be intelligently virtuous than to be blindly innocent," said Mr. Beall. He had an anonymous communication which he had received, which he read to the convention. It was a very touching letter from some unknown man who wished to encourage Mr. Beall in the good work. The writer told the sad tale of his own life. He had been led astray by evil companions, and through ignorance, had continued in evil practices until he had become such a physical wreck that he was compelled to spend many months in bed. He said that he had now given up all hope and found himself a physical, moral and mental wreck, unable to engage in the active struggles of this life, and drifting on into an eternity of eternal damnation. The writer closed with a strong appeal to those who were engaged in the purity work to make every effort to prevent any boy from being allowed to ruin his life through ignorance of a few facts which had been known would have saved him from ruin.

Mr. Mel Trotter's Address

The Auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. was packed to the doors last night upon the occasion of a most interesting and inspiring address by Mr. Mel Trotter, the noted lecturer and mission worker, from Grand Rapids, Mich. The discourse was held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., and the W. C. T. U.; Mrs. Harrison, of the latter organization, presiding, and Mr. Wilson representing the first-named body. The speaker said in part:

My talk tonight will be delivered straight from the shoulder, and possibly many of my expressions will savor of the street, from whence I was picked up. The W. C. T. U. is going about things in an entirely erroneous manner. I know that this will shock many of you present, but it is the truth. So many of your members are so wrapped up in the temperance phase of the great work which you are undertaking that they forget the real work which they started out to do. I must admit that your body has done great work. In many of the cities offensive billboards have been done away with, and as a consequence the moral atmosphere of the communities has been purified.

The Greatest Need of All

You have gone into drunkards' homes and proffered charity to the desolate wives and children of the unfortunate. But you have overlooked the greatest need of all. You don't take the other step. Convert the head of the house, and you won't need to feed his children, or clothe his wife. Preach to him the Word of God. My own dear wife—she is present—is at the head of a band of good ladies, who sew and make clothing for the needy poor of Grand Rapids. Very good. Do you know that those women, my wife included, sometimes become so wrapped up in their work that they forget for whom they are working? Fact! Why, I often am obliged to go upstairs—they work over the mission—and give them a calling down.

No Gold Cure

Don't give a drunkard the gold cure. Give him the Word of Christ. There is Old Man MacGregor, who spent $50,000 to open up a mission to save souls in Chicago. God bless him. The old gentleman had a sweet family—his son married a girl worth $50,000—that's how sweet he was. But were there souls saved at the mission? For a time the religious plan of the place was rigidly adhered to. And now? Why, you can drink there any day, and find several hundred hoboed in the place, and the roughest kind of old soaks, at that. And what do they do? They saw wood at the mission for three hours a day, and spend the other twenty-one in sleeping and in hunting for the piece of a few drinks. It were better, far better, that there were no such places as that. That is a pretty hard statement to make, but I made it to MacGregor himself. Ah, how I hate the saloons! But I believe that the man who votes for a license is worse than the saloonkeeper who sells the liquor.

Preach Christ to Drunkards

Christ doesn't keep a man from drinking. He but helps him to refrain from the evil if one asks him to. Now, I am going to shock you a little bit. I would take a drink, or even more, of whiskey if I were it, but as long as Christ is with me I don't want it. The coldness of Christians is astounding. Remember, it was God who picked people, he preserved them. God has given my beloved wife and myself but one child—a beautiful boy. After one of my periodical scares I came home and found the child dead in his mother's arms. Over that still little body's grave I took a solemn oath to my wife that I had done with drink altogether. That night I was as drunk as usual. I raised a large sum of money and kept on drinking. One night I walked the banks of the river, praying for courage enough to end my misery in the dark waters that flowed swiftly by me.

Finally I drifted into Chicago one bitter cold night, penniless, sick at heart, with out undergarments, my shoes nearly off my feet, and utterly desolate.

The Life Line
I wandered about the slums in an aimless fashion, not caring whether I did the next moment or not. Remorse, earth's bitterest punishment, had me in its iron-bound clutches. And then suddenly, on the night air, I heard sweet music. It came from the open door of a mission room. The earnest souls within were singing, "Throw Out the Life Line." I went within. After the singing the leader of the meeting asked how many present wanted to be saved, to be led in the blood of Jesus. Like a madman I rushed forward, a mass of rags, filth and tatters—and received salvation. Mr. Monroe, keeper of the mission, was lately asked to mention the hardest case he had ever run across, and he told my story.

Brothers and sisters, I don't want you to think harshly of me for talking to you in the way I have. I know that my speeches do not always please people, but they please God. Women of the W. C. T. U., and men of the Y. M. C. A., while you are doing splendid work, you must get on the right track again. Lead men and women to Christ, and you will have no need of charity. You need not abandon the temperance work to do this. Christ and temperance go together. Show people the way to Christ, and you will have led them from liquor.

Got Side-Track
The Y. M. C. A. is not doing what it set out to do. When the association was first formed they said: We will bring the young men in touch with one another—and with God. They haven't done it. They started out on the right path, but got side-tracked. The Chicago branches of the Y. M. C. A., for instance, have lost sight of the "C." altogether. At first there were religious
