LENINE ALONE

Petrograd, Friday, March 8.—Leon Trotzky, in an address at a meeting of the Maximalist party to-day, announced that he had resigned as commissary for foreign affairs.

As the Bolsheviki foreign minister, Leon Trotzky, whose real name is Leber Braunstein, was the most important member of the revolutionary government formed after the overthrow of Kerensky last November. Although Nikolai Lenine, as premier, was the nominal head of the government, Trotzky virtually controlled Russia's destiny up to the second peace conference at Brest-Litovsk. It was Trotzky who made public the text of secret documents exchanged between former Russian Governments and it was he who proposed the armistice to the Central Powers early in December which eventually led to the abortive conference at Brest-Litovsk. The negotiations were disrupted in mid-February and hostilities were renewed. The Germans then submitted peace terms, but Trotzky took no part in the conferences.

Trotzky's resignation is the second among the Russian leaders forecast by Berlin. On February 25 Berlin reported that Ensign Krylenko, commander of the Russian armies had been superseded. A despatch received in London Thursday said Krylenko had resigned owing to differences with the Council of People's Commissaries. Trotzky's resignation was forecast by Berlin last Tuesday. The withdrawals of Trotzky and Krylenko leave Lenine as the

ATTACKING TEUTONS REPULSED WITH LOSSES

Germans Stormed British Lines on Front of Over a Mile, But Were Driven Back Beyond Their Own Lines; U. S. Forces Active.

By Courier Leased Wire

Western Flanders, for the first time this year, has been the scene of serious fighting between the British and the enemy, who were forced to retire behind the positions from which they attacked. After a heavy artillery bombardment, the Germans stormed the British lines on a front of more than a mile south of the Houtholst forest, north-northeast of Ypres. At one point the enemy broke through, but on most of the front he was thrown back with loss. The British counter attacked and drove the Germans back to their own line and then occupied three hundred yards of it. The Cambrai and Ypres areas continue the scenes of spirited artillery actions. Weather has brought increased aerial activity on the British front, and 20 enemy airplanes are reported to have been put out of action, including ten destroyed.

fronts, the German raiding parties and batteries are busy, but there has been no determined attacks. The artillery firing is especially heavy along the front from Rheims to the German border. With the American army in France, Thursday, March 7.—(By the Associated Press).—There was comparatively lively artillery firing last night and to-day on the section of the Lorraine front where American troops are now in training. Late this evening the enemy bombarded American positions heavily, but without result. On the Lorraine sector as on the front northwest of Toul, the American artillery is showing effectiveness and accuracy. Its shells are registering well on points back of the enemy lines, especially on cross roads, batteries and working parties. Because of a new but probably temporary rule, it is not permitted to discuss American

TAX RATE TO BE 30 1/2

EVEN HIGHER ASSESSMENT WAS CONSIDERED BY THE ESTIMATES COMMITTEE

The city's 1918 tax rate was virtually fixed at 30 1/2 mills on the dollar, when the estimates committee yesterday afternoon decided to recommend that rate to the city council on Monday night. While the obligation of retrenchment in every department was felt, additional requirements had come to the knowledge of the committee since the financial conferences in Victoria Hall, and as a result a 31 1/2 rate seemed probable for a time. It is expected, however, that 30 1/2 will prove sufficient to see the city through.

casualties, no matter where they occur. With the American army in France, Thursday, March 7.—A lone American sentry this morning attacked an enemy sally of about 40 men, some of whom had stealthily entered an advanced American trench. He drove them off, killing the leader and wounding others. Assessment troops in the sector northwest of Toul have been subjected for the first time to an attack with liquid fire. Enemy troops carrying flames prepared by the Germans, opened the attack when a patrol which happened to be nearby fired on them. The Germans fell precipitately pursued by the Americans. They dropped four projectors, two of which were flaming. No damage was done by the flames. The projectiles were in the air for three days. Early this morning they were brought in by an American patrol.

ALL PARTIES UNITE TO HONOR JOHN REDMOND

Body of Dead Irish Leader Taken To Ireland for Interment; Leading Men of Britain Attended Funeral Service in Westminster Cathedral

By Courier Leased Wire

London, March 8.—The body of John Redmond was taken to Ireland last night. Interment probably will be made Sunday in the family vault at Wexford. Messages of sympathy from Queen Mary and Queen Alexandra were among those received by Mrs. Redmond yesterday. Queen Alexandra, in referring to the death of Mr. Redmond, said it was an "irreparable loss which we all share." Some two thousand persons, representing all political parties, societies and organizations, attended a solemn requiem mass in Westminster Cathedral Friday morning for Mr. Redmond. Premier Lloyd George, Andrew Bonar Law, Sir Edward Carson, Viscount Bryce, Attorney-General Smith, Sir George Cave, home secretary, and many political colleagues of the Nationalist leader attended in person, while the King and Queen sent their representatives, and the general public filled the great cathedral. Mrs. Redmond, her son and daughter were the chief mourners. Cardinal Bourne, assisted by High church dignitaries, celebrated mass, after which the cardinal delivered a short address. The casket, covered with an Irish flag was placed on a bier surrounded by floral tributes. At the entrance to the cathedral, the Union Jack and papal flag flew at half mast. TROUBLE IN DUBLIN. Dublin, Friday, March 8.—Military authorities have posted throughout the city a proclamation prohibiting the holding of meetings and processions between March 16 and March 27. By Courier Leased Wire. London, March 9.—The Social Revolutionaries have decided to organize a national guard to overthrow the Bolsheviki regime in Russia, according to Dr. Bleff of Moscow University, who is quoted in a Copenhagen despatch to the Exchange Telegraph as saying that the decision was reached at a recent conference in Moscow. A great army is now being organized in the Don district supported by Cossacks, the despatch adds, and it is also planned to introduce a republic in Russia with a coalition government which would not accept the German-Bolsheviki peace. Prof. Bleff asserted that the news of the new movement had been suppressed by the Petrograd Bolsheviki News Agency. WARNING. London, Friday, March 8.—Premier Lenine and Foreign Minister Trotzky are the signers of a message sent out by the Russian Government yesterday ordering the Bolsheviki representative in Sweden to have no dealings with the "German Socialist imperialists." The message adds: "We cannot negotiate with strike-breakers such as the partisans of Scheidemann (the German Majority Socialist leader), who are traitors to the working classes." SEA FIGHT. London, March 9.—Two Russian transports were attacked and sunk by German destroyers after a fight south of the Aland Islands on Thursday, according to a Copenhagen despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company. Hydro Extension and Nationalized Railways Demanded by Sir Adam Beck

Champion of the Hydro Electric System Spoke in Victoria Hall Last Evening; Use of Hydro Would Entail Saving of $60,000,000 in Coal Annually—Prolong Lives of American Mines

"Nationalize the Railways" and "Hands off the Hydro," were the clarion slogans sounded by Sir Adam Beck in Victoria Hall last evening, with a ringing appeal for support from the citizens of Brantford in common with those of all parts of the Dominion. "The day of subsidies, of land grants, of pledging this great dominion in the interests of speculators and land grabbers, is gone. Next to the war, Canada's greatest problem is that of her railways. There is only one solution to this iniquitous muddle. There is no magic in the words 'public ownership,' but at least we can do no worse than have the private owners. National electric power system in Canada and the United States will mean the prolonging of the lives of American coal mines for generations beyond present prospects." Such were a few of the dominant notes sounded by Sir Adam, in the course of his remarks. His was not the fan-fare of rhetoric nor the outpouring of oratorical eloquence, but rather the frank outspokenness of one far sighted for the interests of his country and confident in her prospects for future greatness. For almost two hours, the speaker held his hearers, carrying them by the compelling force of his logic, and drawing salvo after salvo of applause in the course of his promulgation of the doctrines of nationally owned railroads and the extension of the hydro electric system. It was not an overcrowded gathering which assembled in Victoria Hall, but whatever lacked in numbers was more than atoned for in enthusiasm. General disappointment was evident at the non-arrival of Mayor Tom Church, of Toronto, heralded as one of the main speakers of the evening.

MAYOR MACBRIDE. "We are assembled to consider three very important public questions," declared Mayor MacBride, chairman, in his opening remarks; first was the nationalization of Canadian railways, which must take second place only to the winning of the war; second was the policy, "Hands off the Hydro," which the speaker considered would be reached by ninety-nine per cent. of the public; thirdly, was the question of giving municipalities greater control over their streets, in order to counteract the acquisition of too great powers by large corporations, such as the telephone and telegraph companies. AID, KELLY. Brantford in the past had been behind the times in Hydro matters, according to Aid. J. J. Kelley. He had attended the recent Hydro convention in Toronto, and was gratified to know what could be accomplished by a union of municipalities such as the Hydro-Electric Association. In such a union there must of necessity be strength. The nationalization of Canadian railways and the electrification of all branch lines, would mean the saving of 3,500,000 tons of coal annually. Control of a city's streets by that city would overcome damage too frequently by privately owned utilities. Favorable representation in the Senate at Ottawa was essential, and in this regard Lyon Guelph, an active Hydro worker, had been recommended for a seat in the Upper House. "We have been living in a fool's paradise so far as railways are concerned in this country," declared the speaker, "and it is time we united and said, 'Hands off the Hydro.' Total subsidies to privately owned railways reach the figure of $60,000,000. We must be in this Hydro movement, and in it to the finish."

ALD. SYMONS. "The greatest exponent of collective ownership in North America to-day," was tributed to Aid. H. A. Symons by Sir Adam Beck. "History is being made fast to-day," declared Aid. Symons. "Things yesterday termed Utopian are to-day facts, and to-morrow will give place to something still more advanced, for the benefit of the man who is down." He told of the Hydro convention at Toronto, declaring that the public opinion was moving onward and upward. Sir Adam Beck was a man who had early seen the possibilities of Hydro power, and his belief had by to-day become that of the great mass of the people. The speaker deplored the hesitation evinced by too many with regard to Hydro development and railway nationalization, and hoped to see soon the dawning of a better understanding. Canada was a country peculiarly different from almost any other; its most widely populated portion was a lone, narrow strip from the Atlantic Ocean past the Great Lakes. In order to unite east and west together, government owned railways would be powerful in the cost of living; the price of every commodity household use had soared beyond the normal, except that of Hydro power. "Why not Hydroize the Province, the Dominion?" he demanded. "It is yours, it will never be more than you create it." Sir Adam Beck, Mr. Stevenson declared, one of the few public men of the Dominion with whom labor men were willing to associate upon a public platform. Scored Private Ownership. The speaker criticized methods by which private railroad companies had gained privileges and subsidies from the government. "Your children and your grandchildren will have a railway tax on their backs that will bend them double," he declared. "Who helped to create this burden? Who, but the grafters—to call them by their right-

HON. ADAM BECK. With inimitable wit, the speaker touched upon the increase in the cost of living; the price of every commodity household use had soared beyond the normal, except that of Hydro power. What Society is Doing

What Are Eggs and Tea Compared

On behalf of the British people, Mr. Louis N. Parker, the eminent dramatist, has addressed the following message to the troops at the front:

We know how much must still be done
Ere you'll have finished with the Hun;
We watch you, wonder at you, where,
Heroes on land, on sea, in air,
Laughing at death and scorning pain,
You fight, and fight, and fight again.
And we fight with you. Yes! although Ours is a paltry little show.
We're elderly civilians, and Women and children, but we stand
As firm as rocks to help you win.
We welcome Goshes with a grin.
No tea? All right. No sugar?
Good.
No meat? A kipper's healthier food.
No coal? No bacon? butter? beer?
No Christmas cheer?
All right, all right! The less we eat
The sooner you'll march down our street!

In God's name, what are eggs and tea
Compared with final victory?

THIEVES AT WORK

Reports received by the police indicate that a pair of sneak thieves are at work in Brantford. The operating methods of the pair are: The one, a woman, goes to the door of a house, and makes inquiries generally as to the location of a street or the address of some person. While she detains the housewife there her partner enters the house from the rear. He has been seen several times making an escape. The woman is described as being about 35 years of age, five feet seven inches in height, of medium build, with a pale face. She wears a dark coat and skirt, and a black hat with a wide rim. The man is about thirty years of age, five feet six in height, clean shaven, with a grey overcoat and dark peaked cap. Anyone knowing anything concerning the pair will confer favor by reporting it to Chief Slein.

It will not be surprising if these ships eventually join the Goeben. The allied naval strength in the Eastern Mediterranean is sufficient to meet the emergency in any German naval diversion is attempted from the Dardanelles at a time when land attacks are being made against Salonica. Bonar Law's statement in the House last night, that the situation in Salonica might become dangerous, and that if the enemy had possessed Greece and used it as a submarine base, naval men believe that Germany is already preparing for the rapid development of the Black Sea base, it might be impossible to keep our attention there is being given this possible development. What is now considered certain is that Germany is planning to use considerable of her strength in the Near East.

TROTZKY

(Continued from Page 1.) survivor of the Bolshevik ruling triumvirate. Trotzky also is president of the Petrograd Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' delegates and was appointed food dictator with unlimited authority on February 20. Having escaped from Siberia, where he was sent for political offences, Trotzky was an exile at the outbreak of the war. He was expelled from Europe for preaching peace and arrived in New York on January 14, 1917, but returned to Russia last April after the overthrow of the imperial government. Fleet Lost? London, March 9.—Although the fate of the Russian Black Sea fleet is still a mystery, it is believed that as a result of Germany's peace with the Ukraine it has practically passed into Teuton hands, and with it the complete domination of the Black Sea. At least two super-dreadnaughts and a number of minor craft were comprised in the Russian fleet.

SOCIAL REVOLUTIONARIES

Continued from page one January 12 and was followed by two more cruisers on January 14. Four thousand soldiers were landed, and numbers of officers continued to arrive in Vladivostok daily, according to the newspaper. The Japanese admiral assured the local Workmen's and Soldiers' Council that the arrival of ships and troops should not be considered as the beginning of military operations; but they were there to protect Japanese subjects. The message to The Novaya Zhiiz says the Vladivostok public was alarmed greatly and that revolutionary committees were concentrating Bolshevik troops. Information concerning the reported entrance of British and Japanese cruisers into Vladivostok harbor was asked of the British and Japanese embassies in Petrograd on January 20 by the Bolshevik Government. The Japanese embassies in Petrograd immediately issued an official statement denying that Japanese forces had been landed at Vladivostok. It was added that the presence of a Japanese cruiser at Vladivostok had no connection with the situation in Russia. The British embassy said that British warships had gone to Vladivostok to protect allied subjects against possible disorders.

Colonel Roosevelt is a leading contributor to the Metropolitan.

Little Miss Irene Newman was wearer of the smallest apron and no little interest was manifested when she secured her partner. The following took part in the program: Piano solo, Mr. Grant Jarvis; solo, Mr. Pickles; piano solo, Master Orval Anderson; recitation, Miss A. Riley. All were so well received that encores were demanded. Much credit is due the social committee and the success of the entertainment for which not only provided a social hour, but also an opportunity of placing before the public the advantage of a temperance organization.

Business having been discussed, the hostess served very dainty refreshments which were delightful. A hearty response was made to a request for subscriptions to provide cigarettes for the boys overseas. The meeting closed by the singing of "God Save our Splendid Men." The next meeting will be held at the residence of Mrs. Angus, after which they will be held in the schoolroom at St. Jude's.

DAMAGES CLAIMED.

The lawyers of Mrs. H. Whittaker whose home on West Mill street was flooded recently, has sent in an estimate of the damage done, which amounts to $218.81. The floods were caused partly from the sidewalk in front of the house being raised by the city for no cause apparently. They have asked that the city adjust the property defects. Mr. S. H. Harrington has sent in a claim for damages done to his farm in West Brantford. Mr. J. P. Van Lanen's lawyers have asked for an investigation by the city, and that compensation be made for damages.

LECTURE ON GARDENING

Prof. McLennan of O. A. C., Spoke in Dufferin School Last Night

At Dufferin School last night the garden enthusiasts of the city met to learn more about the hobby from a lecture given by Prof. McLennan of Guelph College. The auditorium was well filled with old and young, and notably some of the most noted back yard gardeners of last year, who came from all parts of the city to hear the lecture. D. T. Williamson, as chairman called upon Chris. Cook for an opening speech. "If the lecturer tells us to grow more spuds his address will be very acceptable." Regarding vegetables, Mr. Cook, who has had some practical experience in gardening, said that we ought to grow more winter vegetables of the more useful variety. The lecturer was then introduced and gave a short talk prior to showing the slides. We must be more conservative with such food articles as sugar and bacon, as these must be released for use of our soldiers overseas. Showing the illustrations which were very instructive and clear, the lecturer dealt with both the small garden and the larger. In any garden it is not profitable to plant any small rows of small seeds. Use squares for potatoes and corn. The soldiers of the soil were spoken of. The movement has met with good results in Guelph. Prof. McLennan then illustrated the proper ways of growing the different sorts of vegetables. Cucumbers should be grown from a fence, so as to be exposed all round to the air. On board fences chicken wire may be put up. For small squares corn may be planted, but it is never profitable to plant any corn in single rows. Speaking of the hotbed, several illustrations and practical plans were shown. The manure is prepared early in the spring. When ready it is tramped down in layers of six inches and then soil several inches deep is put in on top. A fence should be built around the bed if necessary, as the wind from the north and west should never be allowed to slip the plants. Sliding frames under which water can be put on the plants. The ventilation is very important. The frame should not be closed down immediately after watering. Cold frames and hot beds were also given full explanations. Tomato plants are easy to handle, and there is no difficulty in transplanting young ones. A study of the fertility of the soil should also be made. The foundation of garden work is in manure. One substance not used in sufficient quantities, is phosphorus. Many diseases are due to lack of this substance in the ground. Bone meal put in a limy soil will produce this necessary element. Acid phosphates may also be used with the same good results. About 600 or 1000 lbs. are necessary to fertilize an acre of land. A good commercial gardener pays less attention to getting his vegetables early than to getting a good crop. He works according to the condition of the soil, and from two days to a week are always spent in perfecting this. Straight furrows always pay. Small seeds may be sown from the package and planted not more than a half inch from the surface. People lose their interest in garden work because they use tools which are too heavy. Illustrations were given of a number of hoes which the speaker claimed it was a pleasure to use. The Dutch, five-tined, and onion hoes are easy to handle, particularly the last named. Sprayer irrigation on large gardens is a very good way to water the plants, although not by any means a cheap one. Tomatoes should be grown on one large pole. For early market cut out the lower and side shoots. With this style and growing blossom end rot is eliminated and the fruit comes out earlier and cleaner. Swiss chard will be this year's substitute for spinach. In planting celery small gardens use newspaper, others bank the plants. In sand, 6000 onions need plenty of space. If still upright at the end of August onion plants should be broken down as if not the yield will not be eatable. Rhubarb is sometimes neglected, but is profitable if properly cared for. If put in the cellar in the winter, piled in rows and covered up, it will be tender and fresh and easily marketable. As the season of the year is running short, people will be asked to grow a few seeds themselves for next year. The diseases of garden vegetables are many, but if properly cared with, most will not be a serious hindrance. Bordeaux mixture and lime and sulphur will settle all celery blight. If sprayed on the plants, which will be the best felt paper placed around the stems on cabbage plants, will kill all maggots. At the end of the lecture a vote of thanks was extended to the lecturer for his very fine address and the fine illustrations. This was approved in a hearty manner and the meeting broke up after singing of the National Anthem. Brantford's evening Mr. Williamson and the school ably assisted with a musical program.

LECTURE ON SONG BIRDS

An instructive and enjoyable illustrated lecture, "The Song Birds of Ontario," was given in Marlboro Street Methodist Church by W. D. Hobson, a former Mayor of Woodstock, and one of the Province's best known naturalists. The lecture was under the auspices of the Marlboro Boys' Canoe Club, and was well attended. The Rev. J. E. Peters occupied the chair. The following program was given: Orchestra selections by Marlboro Sunday School Orchestra; piano duet, by Miss Helen and Mr. Horace Buller; series of bird songs, by Mr. Frank Leeming, accompanied by Mr. Theo. Darwin, Jr. These beautiful descriptive songs were splendidly rendered and Mrs. Leeming kindly responded to an encore. The accompaniments of Mr. Darwin were brilliantly executed and called forth many words of praise. Mr. Hobson's lecture was interesting and instructive, and as each bird was thrown on the screen Mr. Hobson whistled the song of the bird shown. He also drew some strong lessons from the habits of the birds and the audience was deeply impressed with his earnest words. Mrs. Hobson was with Mr. Hobson and she also takes a great interest in nature, especially birds. Great credit is due to the boys of the club, for their efforts and for the success of the evening. The president of the club, Gordon Felton, sold the most tickets and through the untiring efforts of himself and the other boys a substantial amount was realized.

Deliveries by Ford One-Ton Truck

THE commercial car is looked upon today as a necessity by progressive business firms who have hauling and delivering problems to consider.

Wholesale or retail merchants who must deliver quantities of merchandise have found the horse-drawn delivery to be too slow, expensive, and entirely inadequate.

The Ford truck, with a single driver, will do more work and cover more ground than two teams and two drivers, for it travels in half the time. This truck will reduce your hauling costs. It eliminates one driver's salary and the care which horses always require. It will make your delivery service more efficient. It will widen your area of distribution. It will be constantly ready for work—day or night. It will show a profit on your investment.

There has been a popular demand for a Ford truck as is shown by the many uses for commercial purposes, to which our standard chassis has been put. Now, after most careful designing and exacting tests, we are able to offer the Ford One-Ton truck to meet this demand.

The Ford truck is supplied as a chassis only. This permits the purchaser to mount any one of the many body styles specially designed for the Ford truck, and already on the market, and he can select it to meet the individual needs of his business.

 system to be allowed to continue their work of electrifying branch railroads throughout Ontario.
 "You have done all that was asked of you by the Empire," declared Mr. Stevenson, in conclusion, "now it is up to you to ask something for yourself, and to ask it in a manner which will leave no alternative but its granting."
SIR ADAM BECK
 "Of all the public men of Canada," stated Mayor MacBride, "there are none whom it could please me more to introduce to you than Sir Adam Beck."
 Hearty applause greeted the latter as he rose to his feet in acknowledgement of the Mayor's introduction. The Mayor's Canada's greatest problem is that of her railways, declared Sir Adam. "Just who is responsible for the state of affairs is hard to fathom, every class is accused in turn. The war to-day is our great and most serious problem, but the weak and miserable transportation system of the country has deterred us from doing much of the war of the allies, of the British Empire. We have had gain in our western elevators, awaiting transportation overseas, for more than two years. It is not because we have not given sufficient to obtain efficient railroads, it is not because we have not encouraged railway enterprise in this country. Before the war was thought of, the government realized the seriousness of the railway situation."
 Private Railways Bankrupt.
 The Canadian Pacific was to-day financially one of the strongest railroad institutions in the world; it had opened up the West, and facilitated migration, colonization and commerce. To-day, there were no railroad corporations in Canada which admitted their financial unsoundness, which had come bankrupt to the government, after receiving grant after grant for the completion of their lines. The C. N. R. had pledged itself, failing completion, to hand over its entire assets to the government, and to-day was rightfully the property of the public as a result of this failure; yet it remained, officially in the hands of McKenzie, Mann, and the officials of the road. A royal commission had been appointed to investigate the situation, to inquire into the financial status of the railways of the Dominion, and to give their findings. If this was false or unfair, the fault rested with the government, which had appointed the commission; if it were correct, and advisable, it should have been acted upon with all expedition.

Must Be Taken Over
 "There is only one solution to this middle," declared the speaker, which has already cost the people of Canada nearly a billion of dollars. We will bear the burden of the millions heaped upon us for the cause of liberty to-day, to hand over saved civilization by it, and it will never be regretted by our children or our children's children; but we cannot excuse the failure of these men who have made such an awful debacle of the railway affairs of this country. We have a right to expect a solution of this middle."
 At the time that two railways of Canada had admitted themselves bankrupt, continued Sir Adam, the government should at once have taken over the systems they were entitled to do, a majority of the common stock should have been taken over by the government instead of the 40 per cent. of the Canadian Northern, which was taken.
 "The Canadian Northern Railway," continued the speaker, "should have been taken over in 1914, yet we continue to leave it in the hands of its present operators. Why do we allow this, why do we allow these men to remain in power when by all rights they are bankrupt and insolvent?"
 We will assume, however, that the C.N.R. is a Government owned railway, or will be so in the near future. Government officials, to-day admit that Canadian railways are not safe to travel on, that they must be made safe for transportation."
 Turning to the Grand Trunk Pacific, Sir Adam declared this system a lemon, for its total revenue was only some $800,000, while its liability for interest reached nearly $5,000,000. To-day the officials of the Grand Trunk would sell the G.T.P., while retaining the G.T.R. proper.
 "Extraordinary had made Canada's railways a failure, and the Dominion was called upon to bear the burden; to-day, the G.T.R. and the C.N.R. should be united, consolidated, or cut one line from east to west, such a course would cost $1,000,000,000, which could be spread over seven years and easily met from the revenue of the joint system."

CAN DO NO WORSE.
 "Don't let us imagine that there is magic in the word public ownership," appealed

Lesson 10—First Quarter, March 10, 1918.
THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.
 Lesson Text, Mark 5:21-43—Memory Verse, John 10:10—Golden Text, Matt. 8:17—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The two healings of this lesson were, like all others, samples of the Kingdom when God shall have set His King upon his holy hill of Zion; when the King of Israel, Jehovah, shall be in the midst of her, and she shall not see evil any more; when a King shall reign in righteousness, and the work of righteousness be peace, quietness, and assurance forever (Ps. 2:8; Zeph. 3:15; Isa. 32:1, 17). When He brought Israel out of Egypt He said, "I am the Lord (Jehovah) that healeth thee;" "I will take sickness away from the midst of thee" (Ex. 15:26; 23:25). All those forty years from Egypt to Canaan their raiment waxed not old upon them, neither did their feet swell, nor their shoes hurt, and the heat of the desert (Deut. 8:2-4). Notwithstanding all their cruel bondage in Egypt He brought them forth with silver and gold, and among their tribes (Ps. 105:37). This is the same Lord Jesus of Whom our lesson tells us. Who in the days of his humiliation, as God manifest in the flesh, was ever failing of His Kingdom, and showing samples of His health and peace and prosperity. The healed ones of our lesson were a little girl, twelve years old, and a woman, who had been for twelve years a sufferer. These two twelves interest me very much, as do the twelve twelves of Scripture, and the announced that, before windows would be allowed to be lighted on Saturday night. No serious hardships had resulted from the recent power restrictions, which had only been imposed of necessity. The speaker recounted his own arraignment, in the House, of Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann, for using power in excess of supply. He criticized business methods of private electric concerns, who refused power to munition plants, but strove to "win" private patrons away from the Hydro.

Use Hydro to Save Coal.
 Installation of a third pipe line at Niagara was now contemplated, preferably a wooden conduit, which would provide ample power for all requirements, which would safeguard Canada's industrial prestige after the war. An investment of $100,000,000 would supply sufficient electric power for all the electric railways of northwest Ontario in the year 1924.
 A saving of 10,000,000 tons of coal, or $50,000,000, at the low estimate in cash, would result annually, would result in increased offers in payment for the "white coal." Instead of going to the United States for black coal.

Sir Adam proceeded to submit statistics supporting his plea for the use of hydro to save coal. Great Britain, by a national electric power system, figured to save 55,000,000 tons per annum, even while consuming coal to generate the power. In the United States, a similar system would save 100,000,000 tons, and in Canada 10,000,000 tons, which would prolong the lives of American coal mines for many generations beyond present prospects.
 The treaty now in force, guaranteeing an equal division of power at the boundary falls, obviated the need of an international commission, as advocated, to administer power affairs.
 "It is the mind of the people that will prevail in the end," Sir Adam impressed upon his hearers. "The great difficulty to-day is to rouse the people to the big problems of the country. It is my desire to see the people lend by the natural resources of the Dominion, to see a stop put to this plagiating of the country's assets."
 The day of subsidies, of land grants, of plagiating the great Dominion in the interests of the speculators and land grabbers, is gone and to have achieved this will be worth being in public life.
 "We are fighting for democracy, and let us apply it here," observed Mayor MacBride, in bringing the meeting to a close. He added the slogan "Hands off Adam Beck" to those already promulgated.
 The meeting closed as it had opened, with the singing of the National Anthem.

Besides the speakers of the evening, those occupying seats upon the platform were Andrew McFarland, chairman of the Brantford Hydro Commission; ex-mayor Bowley, J. W. Stinchcombe, president of the Trades and Labor Council; A. K. Durnell, city treasurer; W. J. Turbull, chairman of the Brantford railway commission; Ald. Baird, J. McGrattan, secretary of the Trades and Labor Council; Geo. Jones of the same body, and H. Harrupp of the Independent Labor Party.

"PATSY."
 June Caprice will be seen at the Rex the first of next week in "Patsy." Patsy Prim is as wild as the western mountains. When she reaches young womanhood her father sends her to an old friend in New York to be made familiar with the refinements of a big city.
 The friend had died some time before, and Patsy is received by his son, Dick Hewitt (Harry Hillard), a young bachelor.
 Dick is soon in love with Patsy and would marry her were it not that he had wedded Helene Arnold, an adventuress, in a not sober moment.
 Patsy doesn't know of this affair. With girlish innocence she sets out to win Dick. On learning that Patsy is with Dick his sister invites them to a house party. They arrive very late because of a breakdown in their machine. Dick is upbraided for compromising the girl and told he must marry her. To make things more uncomfortable Helene is at the party as an entertainer. She threatens to expose Dick if he doesn't pay her $10,000.
 Patsy hears several girls at the house gossiping about her and Dick and Helene. Just as Helene is about to reveal her marriage to Dick the butler appears. The adventuress grows pale and leaves the room. The butler is her former husband.
 When Dick learns this he sets out to find Patsy and shortly returns with her. As Helene's marriage with the butler annuls Dick's wedding he sees his way clear to make Patsy his bride. They enter the drawing room together and make the announcement to the guests. Since there is no time like the present they telephone for a minister and change the house party into a wedding.

ITCHY SALT RHEUM
 Sometimes Called Eczema—Removed by Hood's Sarsaparilla.
 Salt rheum is one of the worst and unfortunately one of the most common of all diseases. How it reddens the skin, itches, oozes, dries and scales, and then does this all over again! Sometimes it covers the whole body with inflamed, burning patches and causes intense suffering.
 Salt rheum comes from humors in the blood. This is why local applications do so little good. It will continue to exist, annoy, pain and perhaps agonize, until these humors have been removed.
 Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla. It goes to the source of the trouble. It cleanses the blood of the humors that cause salt rheum. It has given perfect satisfaction in thousands of cases. Get it today.

The Wolves Were Hungry

Angus McGregor and his collie dog turned and fled, and when the man left the Canadian Pacific Railway looped the line he saw his dog nearby main line at Kamloops and went a half mile away still fiercely parrying the wolf which had just entered the mouth of a steeply sloped draw. Half way up the draw the wolf stopped, and down from either flank and shut them in. When winter shut down there was much cold weather and not an excessive amount of snow. The rabbits drifted north to the thicker brush, and McGregor and his dog extended their lines twenty miles further. Big snow came and the wolves found hard work to get a living, though the rabbits and partridges were fat and contented. McGregor took a lot of fur, mink, lynx, marten and fox.

One day while on the trail of a moose he saw a big black wolf looking down. The collie saw it too, and dashed to the conflict. The wolf

Guaranteed Colors

In these days of spurious dyes and cotton mixtures in men's suitings, it will be great news to Brantford men to know that FIRTH BROS., the live wire tailors, have this week placed in stock $10,000.00 worth of All Wool goods in absolutely fast dyes. These are to be sold at two years ago prices. They were bought for delivery eighteen months ago and have just come to hand. And a finer lot of worthy, warranted, well bred wools were never shown in Brantford. FIRTH BROS. have gained the reputation "PROVEN VALUE GIVERS" and now that an opportunity presents itself to further sustain that reputation they are offering these suitings at prices less than wholesale. Remember the world faces a wool famine. This is a fair warning to stock up with two or three suits and save $10 to $15 on every order.

IN THE MOTOR WORLD

WINNIPEG AND THE JITNEYS.

A remarkable state of affairs has developed in Winnipeg, Manitoba, as a result of a civic investigation into local transportation problems. A more or less general agitation, headed by business men and some of the city rulers, has been started against the continuance of public passenger automobiles because it is believed by these men that good transportation service is impossible in any part of the city when there is competition between the electric trolley system and the local automatic service.

Mr. A. Scoble, representing the street railway employees, declared recently that it was on account of the jitney competition that the trolley operatives had not been able to get a reasonable increase in their wages this year. Mr. Arthur Congdon, a prominent local citizen, claimed there could be only one real transportation system in Winnipeg. Mr. S. R. Tarr, of the Citizens' Research League, declared that the public automobile conveyances had seriously hurt the street railway and consequently the service afforded by the railway had been affected considerably. Mr. A. L. Crossin, also of the Citizens' Research League, declared that the motor busses and jitneys were taking the profitable end of the local transportation business. The street railway would always be a necessity, he declared, but the people could get along without the public motor cars.

SOURCE OF MOTOR COMPLAINTS

Cutting out the lubricant in the cylinders and the working of the gasoline into the crank case brings about a great many conditions causing complaints, for which there is no apparent cause and which the owner is unable to comprehend, writes Dr. Leonard Keene Hirsberg in the current issue of American Motorist. Repair men and motor mechanics advance many theories and reasons as to the cause. Some of the conditions which can be directly attributed as a result of action of this sort taking place, due to the cutting out of the lubrication in the cylinder, are the following:

1. Hard starting.
2. Premature piston wear.
3. Premature cylinder wear.
4. Premature piston-ring wear.
5. Connecting-rod bearings burning out.
6. Crank-shaft bearings burning out.
7. Excessive gasoline consumption.
8. Smoking due to the abnormal increase in the level of the crank case on account of the gasoline working into the base of the motor.
9. Excessive carbon in cylinders.
10. Tendency to overheat, due to lack of lubrication.
11. Very poor or no compression.

All of the above resulting in the lack of power and poor performance.

In view of these conditions, it is not difficult to understand why the theory is advanced that the worst thing is to really fault, that there is poor material in the pistons, rings and cylinders, which wear prematurely, poor bearing metal and poor workmanship, and poor piston and ring fits.

Experience has shown that it is very difficult to convince an owner of a car of these conditions, and the best way is to take a motor which has been misbehaving, drain all the contents of the crank case, and let it settle in a long tube or bottle, and the results which will follow will be plainly evident.

ONTARIO OWNS 95 TRACTORS

Farm labor difficulties are being solved in Ontario by the utilization of motorized farm equipment. C. F. Bailey, assistant deputy minister of agriculture for Ontario states that the province now owns ninety-five tractors. These tractors are used for plowing in many districts, and are rented to the farmers at 45 cents an hour. The farmer also pays for the gasoline and oil, and the board of the tractor operator. The wages of the operators are paid by the government. The tractor and tractor operator are kept by the farmer until the required work is done.

HOW TO SAVE "GAS."

The following important suggestions for avoiding waste will not only save gasoline, but users of motor vehicles will be benefited personally through more efficient and more economical operation of cars. Don't spill or expose gasoline to air. It evaporates rapidly and is very dangerous. Don't use gasoline for washing, use kerosene or other material for that purpose. Stop all gasoline leakage. Form the habit of shutting off the gas at the tank or feed pipe. Adjust your brakes so they do not drag and see that all bearings run freely. Don't let your engine run while your car is standing still.

WHY BULBS DISCOLOR

After considerable service the electric light bulbs utilized in car lighting become discolored, black. This is due to the heat making the filament evaporate, sub-line to pass from a solid to a gaseous state and again condense to a solid form, and the particles settle on the inside of the bulb. Less current is consumed when in this condition, as the filament is thinner. The light, however, is less efficient, for most of it is absorbed before it gets out.

LIGHTS ON ALL VEHICLES IN HAMILTON

Hamilton has the distinction of being the first municipality in Canada to recognize the need of lights on all vehicles at night, and to pass a by-law requiring horse-drawn vehicles, hand-carts and bicycles to carry lighted lamps at night. This by-law, known as by-law No. 30, Respecting Street Traffic, takes effect January 1st, 1918, and reads as follows:

"Every vehicle drawn by a horse or horses, and every hand-cart for the sale or carriage of goods, whenever on any highway of the city, after dusk or before dawn, shall carry a lighted lamp, visible not less than two hundred feet to the rear of such vehicle. Every bicycle, whenever used on any highway of the city, after dusk or before dawn, shall carry a lighted front lamp."

All vehicles should carry lights, and many dangers would be eliminated if the above by-law were made general.

CUT PRODUCTION OF PLEASURE CARS

Reduction of 30 Per Cent. Decided on by Automobile Manufacturers of U. S.

New York, March 8.—Production of pleasure automobiles will be cut 30 per cent. during the present fiscal year as a war measure, according to a decision reached here today by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. The reduction applies to the entire uncompleted schedule for the year.

Full details concerning the action of the Chamber of Commerce were not made public, but in a statement issued regarding the decision to curtail production, it was said that representatives of some of the largest manufacturing concerns were summoned to Washington recently by the War Industries Board and the Fuel Administration to discuss the situation.

"The arrangements for a curtailment of production," the statement continues, "are entirely satisfactory to the information reaching Washington. The Fuel Administration and the manufacturers themselves, permitting the latter to adjust their affairs to meet the Government's programme without unnecessary business and financial disturbance."

WEAPONS TO CRUSH U. BOAT MENACE

Knowledge of Plans Explain Feeling of Optimism in Official Circles.

Washington, March 7.—More submarines were destroyed by the allied and American naval forces in December than Germany was able to build during that month, according to the information reaching Washington. This fact developed today in discussions of the statement made to Parliament yesterday by Sir Eric G. Gellard, First Lord of the British Admiralty, that the submarines were being checked.

Whether succeeding months have shown a net loss in German submarines is not known here. It is believed, however, that the anti-submarine campaign has proved so effective that increased efforts this spring will see a steady decrease in the number of U-boats available to prey on allied and American shipping.

What officials know of plans for breaking home the attack with increasing vigor, explains the feeling of optimism that now prevails in official circles. Despite continued heavy drains on ship tonnage through the U-boats, the gradual decline in tonnage losses was graphically pictured to Parliament by Sir Eric with curve charts.

Weapons Becoming Available.

American naval officials appear to be satisfied that the weapons with which they expect to crush finally the submarine menace are forthcoming. Increased numbers of patrol vessels possess appliances and devices to make them more effective against underwater craft and the increased skill of the navy personnel are among the things upon which they count. It has taken time to devise and build the weapons, but they are beginning to become available now.

Now America's real contribution to the naval warfare is about to be felt. With every passing week the strength of the force will grow, for it is embodied in the most extensive construction program ever undertaken for the navy of any power.

The new destroyers and other craft must be added to the patrol fleets gradually as they are completed. Therefore no sudden falling off of tonnage losses is to be expected. It has been stated publicly by high British naval authorities, however, that next August will show beyond question that the U-boats have been overcome. There are officials here who are hopeful that decided results will be apparent before that, perhaps as early as May or June.

McGraw Insists He Will Not Miss Herzog at all--- Says Giants are Stronger "Jaw" Shows His Feeling Toward Former Second-Base-man by Saying He'll Have to be Better This Year or Be "Fired" by Boston Braves.

New York, March 6.—"The Giants have been strengthened!" declared Manager John J. McGraw during a ranting rant yesterday. The leader of the New York National League team has returned from a vacation of five weeks in Havana, Cuba, for the purpose of getting Burns, Lachner, Salter, Schupp, Ferritt, Robertson and Thorpe into line before the time for reporting at Marlborough Texas arrives. McGraw doesn't expect to have trouble in signing these valuable players.

"I figure that the Giants will play better baseball than last year for several reasons," the little manager continued. "Larry Doyle is sure to come back with his old time skill at second base. Jess Barnes bids fair to be one of the leading pitchers in the National League and best of all, there will be renewed harmony among the players."

"On the way up from Cuba I saw Doyle in Florida. He is enthusiastic over his unexpected return to the Giants. He is also in splendid physical trim and is ready to jump into the game at a moment's notice. Doyle was greatly handicapped last year with a lame leg. He broke it soon after he was traded to the Cubs in 1916, but now he has recovered entirely and should play first class ball for us in future."

"I made up my mind to get rid of Herzog last summer. He played great ball for the Giants during the time they were winning twenty-six straight in September, 1916, but last season he took a big drop, particularly at the bat, which was partially due to an injury. Herzog became a disturbing element in the team near the end of the campaign, and I was compelled to look around for another second baseman."

"After vainly trying to trade Herzog to the Reds and Cubs, I had to do business with the Braves. I told Stallings that if he could obtain Doyle for me and also let me select one of his pitchers, Herzog would go. Whereupon I picked Barnes, instead of Rudolph, Neft or Hughes, which was a surprise to the Braves' manager, but as Herzog was badly needed to offset the loss of Maranville, Barnes and Doyle became our property."

"Barnes pitched in fifty games last year for a salary of less than $2000. He will receive more money this season and will be better satisfied with his surroundings. For that reason, I feel sure that he will be a winning factor in the box. In case of a vacancy in the outfield Ross Young may fill the gap. He is a first-class ball player already. The team is well balanced in case we lose one or two men in the coming army draft."

Doyle Not a Back Number Just Yet
Larry Doyle will be 32 years old in July, but he isn't considered a back number by any means. Perhaps he isn't as fast as in former campaigns, but his weak leg doesn't bother him this year. He ought to render valuable service at the middle bat. In spite of lameness last season Doyle played 135 games with the Cubs. He lined out 121 safe drives, including nineteen doubles, fifteen triples and six home runs, which yielded a batting average of .254. In fielding he accepted 648 chances out of 681 and had a percentage of 952.

Doyle played 122 games in 1916, 113 with the Giants and nine with the Cubs. He made 133 hits, of which 29 were batters, eleven were three baggers and three were home runs, his percentage being .278. At second base he took care of 676 chances out of 703 and was credited with an average of .962.

It was in 1915 that Doyle led the National League in batting with 320, knocking out 181 safe hits, including forty doubles, ten triples and four homers. He played 147 games at second base, averaging .947 and making forty errors in a total of 749 chances.

When the Giants won the pennant in 1912, which was Doyle's sixth year under McGraw's management, the records showed a batting average of .330 in 143 contests and a fielding percentage of .948 for Doyle.

Why Herzog Will Not Be Missed
"If Herzog doesn't hit better than he did last year I predict that he will not be a member of the Braves in 1919," said McGraw yesterday. "Herzog batted .235 in 114 games for the Giants last season, while in 1915 and 1916 his average was .264. Doyle ought to improve on these figures, although he may not be Herzog's equal as a second baseman. The Giants will not miss Herzog with Doyle in shape to fill his position."

Sporting Comment

In the American league this season six of last year's managers will be retained, while two new faces will appear on the circuit. In the west, all four of the former leaders will be found at their posts again this spring. Clarence Rowland, who has worked his way to the front trenches by native ability and intelligence and is now the leader of the world's champion team, will of course remain with the White Sox. Rowland is one man who has made good without having any previous experience as a major league manager. He came to Chicago from a small league and encountered many obstacles, but by sheer force of fact, will power and ability, he has risen to the highest rank. He is a first class leader in every way. In the world's series last fall he handled his team much more skillfully than McGraw, of the Giants, and he deserves a large share of the credit for the White Sox victory. Hugh Jennings will remain in charge of the Tigers, where he has held forth for many seasons. Jennings won three straight championships in 1907, 1908 and 1909, but was never able to land a world's series. Of late years he has been badly handicapped by weak pitching staffs, but his hustling methods have made him a big drawing card on the road and at home, and he is one of the most successful managers, for well with the Cleveland club last year and will be out trying again this season. Many fans think he has a good chance for the flag, though his club has been somewhat injured by enlistment and draft. Jones will stick along for another year in St. Louis. The former leader of the White Sox had a bad season in 1917, but will try it again, hoping for better results. In the east, Connie Mack will remain in charge of the Athletics, and Clarke Griffith will continue at Washington. These men are both veterans of much reputation and ability. Griffith looks to have a chance for the first time this season, but Mack's team has been shot to pieces and he will have to employ all his great intelligence of the game to get out of the rut of last place. The two new managers on the circuit are Miller Huggins with the Yankees, and Ed. Barrow with the Boston Red Sox. Huggins did great work on little capital as leader of the St. Louis Cardinals for several years, and is one of the smartest men in baseball today. He is changing the policy of the New York team in many respects and is sure to give the fans of Gotham a new and interesting show, as they have never had before. Barrow has had much experience as a manager and an executive. He has handled teams in the International league with marked success and did fine work recently as president of that ill-fated organization. He is a fighter and a student of the game. The Red Sox had their army of their best players to the army call, and Barrow may have a tough time building up a new team, but he will leave nothing undone to land his team as high as possible. All in all, the array of American league managers is first class and there will be some fast and heady baseball on that circuit this season.

WILL NOT REPORT NAMES OF DISEASED

By Courier Leased Wire
Toronto, March 7.—That reporting of the names of persons afflicted with venereal diseases would defeat the object of such a provision was the opinion of the special committee of the legislature which took up the bill of Hon. I. B. Lucas, dealing with the general question this morning. Dr. R. W. Powell of Ottawa, thought that reporting names would tend to reduce cases. It was objected that this would reflect unnecessarily on innocent victims. Col. Fraser stated that he had gone into the effect of such legislation in the United States. Bigot states required reporting of names and the law was in all cases a dead letter, as instead of a man going to a doctor, who he knew would report his name, he went to a quack. The present bill, Hon. I. B. Lucas said, did not involve reporting names, but only reporting cases. The committee amended the bill by widening the clause referring to the medical examination of persons in custody, all of whom may now be examined.

GERMAN AND ENGLISH PROPAGANDA COMPARED

British Blundered by Not Adapting Their Methods to the Russian Temperament, Whilst the Unscrupulous German Resorted to Flattery and Chicanery—No Need to Imitate the German Plan, But a Change Needed.

Herbert Bailey, writing in "The Pall Mall Gazette," of London, explains the German system of propaganda in Russia, and contrasting it with the English system, shows why the English failed. He says: "We established in Petrograd an Anglo-Russian commission, composed of some distinguished literary men. Much energy was expended, many ingenious ideas were suggested and carried out, but the commission failed for the always obvious reason that it was built upon the mistaken conception that it was possible to appeal to reason in a country in which imagination is the greater force, that it was possible to conduct by Englishmen, without any secrecy or disguise, and that its main energies were devoted to the conversion of the converted."

"We had, indeed, a propaganda system which might have succeeded only in America, but could not in illiterate and unenlightened Russia. The Germans worked far differently. Their propaganda, not merely from necessity but also from the system laid down at Wilhelmstrasse for application to all countries, was conducted on secret service lines. Russians were employed to traverse the country, to go among the workmen and the soldiers spreading a few thousand soldiers on her front, and that the Englishmen in the factories, the English officers with the army, and even the Anglo-Russian commission itself existed only to facilitate British exploitation of the lives of Russians."

"At 4 o'clock in the morning, I have seen these industrious agents of Germany at work. Little companies of men would argue and dispute on the Neskoy Prospect throughout the whole night, such a fine field for our propaganda going. Some could not overlook. Meanwhile, the Germans financed the Bolsheviks and found in their useful instruments for their design. What, meanwhile, were those responsible for our propaganda doing? Some occasionally went amid the little groups of arguing Russians and presented the British case, but no organization existed for the instant and persistent fighting of German propaganda by Russians and for removing the many misconceptions of the Russian people."

Pamphlets and Lectures Failed to Arouse
"Pamphlets were distributed in thousands, but their origin was known to the Russians, who treated them more or less with contempt. Lectures were given by British officers and others which won the respectful hearing of the audience, but produced no other real effect than that of providing a harmless and pleasant entertainment for the Russian. The Russian was shown with the facts in action, the Russian watched and wondered, only to compare the protection afforded to the British soldier with that of his own. Speeches were made in Russian and rapturously applauded, but as they were to our friends, they achieved little. All was obvious and being obvious, all was distrusted by the Russians."

"Meanwhile no efforts were made to disseminate the truth in the towns and villages outside Petrograd, to appeal to the imagination of the Russian people, and to answer to their peculiar psychology and their state of unenlightenment. There was, indeed, one exception—a friend of mine, a delightful Irishman who spoke Russian fluently, was sent to address a meeting of Cossacks. The audience natural to his countrymen was employed with every effect. He reminded the Cossacks of that famous occasion, immortalized by the genius of Repin, when the Zaporozhian Cossacks sent a satirical reply to the proposal of Sultan Muhammad IV. The Cossacks cheered enthusiastically and chaired him out of the hall. But what had he achieved? He had only sought to convert those whose friendship for Britain is beyond doubt. The lessons to be learned are many and obvious. Let us hope that Sir Edward Carson will see that our future war from a strictly practical point of view. They have never been interested in knowing which side was morally right and which was wrong; who began the war, or who has conducted it in the most humane fashion or with the most scrupulous regard for international treaties. Among the upper classes the conviction is still general that the war is being fought on both sides for purely selfish ends, and that in its lowest terms it is a struggle between England and Germany for the commercial supremacy of the world. This being so, the patriotic Spaniard's first concern is naturally for the material interest of Spain in the war. From which side, he asks, will Spain receive the greater benefits? And, above all, which side is going to win? Uncertainty as to the answers has kept him strictly neutral for over three years; and he intends to continue strictly neutral until all doubt is set at rest. The Germans, with a sure instinct, have seen this, and have endeavored with some success to instill in Spanish minds two chief beliefs. First that the interests of Spain and Germany are one, both now and in the future, and secondly, that Germany is determined to win the war at all costs and by all conceivable means.

"By the use of catalogues, circulars, well-paid advertisements in the press, and the persuasive tongue of thousands of busy tourists, the Germans are stimulating the Spaniard's imagination and accustoming him to believe in the moral and material regeneration of his country after the war under German protection and by the aid of German scientific method."

SIDELIGHTS OF STAGE AND SCREEN

"THE PRICE OF FOLLY"
One of the big problems of the day is dealt with in the initial chapter of "The Price of Folly," released by Pathe, which will be shown at the Brant theatre the first of next week. It is called "Phantom Flame" and its story is an interesting one. Ruth Roland is starred in the series, which will be shown weekly.

"THE LOST EXPRESS"
Helen Holmes' latest and most thrilling photoplay, "The Lost Express," fifteen chapter Mutual-Signal production, has been booked by Manager Moulde of the Rex theatre. The first chapter will be shown March 18, 19, 20, and the succeeding episodes on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of each week. "The Lost Express" is a mystery drama in which Miss Holmes is said to outdo the sensational performances for which she won world wide fame as the most adventurous actress on the screen.

The production was directed by J. P. McGowan, recognized peer among the producers of sensational and thrilling drama. It is from the story by Frederick B. Bennett. "I have booked Helen Holmes' new picture," announced Manager Moulde, "because I realize the popularity of Miss Holmes with the picture going public and because I believe that it is the most absorbing serial that was ever offered in pictures."

"THE WOMAN GOD FORGOT"
Geraldine Farrar, the noted prima donna, will make her debut under the Arteroff trade-mark at the Brant Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in "The Woman God Forgot," a spectacular photoplay drama written especially for her by Jeanie MacPherson, and produced under the personal direction of Cecil B. deMille, the noted director. In the few photoplays in which Geraldine Farrar has appeared, she has established herself as the leading emotional actress of the film. Her first appearance, "Carmen," and her more recent production, "Joan the Woman" have been the sensations of the photodramatic world. Jeanie MacPherson, who wrote the story of "Joan the Woman," is also responsible for the authorship of "The Woman God Forgot," and graphically shown.

also for Mary Pickford's recent productions, "The Little American" and "A Romance of the Redwoods." For her theme in "The Woman God Forgot," Miss MacPherson has taken the story of a Princess who sells her country for the man she loves. The whole story is taken from a chapter in the early history of America, telling how the Spanish invaded Mexico and of their conquest of Montezuma and his Aztecs. Geraldine Farrar is seen as Tezca, daughter of Montezuma. She falls in love with a handsome young Spaniard, which role is played by the ever-popular star, Wallace Reid. The production is one of the most elaborate and beautiful ever made by Cecil deMille. The work of this famous director is too well known to be exploited in this brief space. Noted as the creator of artistic effects—his last work is considered his best.

The reproduction of the famous Aztec pyramid of Teocalli, as seen in "The Woman God Forgot," is the largest setting ever built for a photodramatic production, the pyramid being nearly 200 feet in height and an exact reproduction. In the meantime, Ruth's brother, Walter, in a nearby town, has fallen into bad company and is heavily in debt, having embezzled some of the bank's money. On learning that the bank's books are to be examined, he is nearly frantic. Just as Ezyr is about to leave for college, Walter tells him his troubles, and as he had expected Ezyr in his big-hearted way helps him out, giving him his entire savings, representing the labor and sacrifice of many years' hard work.

Ezyr goes back to the grind of the farm, quite mystifying Ruth and Endicott, who cannot understand his sudden return.

On the night of the harvest dance, the great yearly social event of the country, Ruth pleads a headache, having promised to go with Morley, the banker's son, whom she greatly dislikes, but who is a favorite of her father.

Seeing a light in Ezyr's study in the barn after the rest have gone, Ruth hurries out to see why he had not gone with the others, and, finding that he does not know how to dance, she proceeds to give him a lesson.

Ruth's rejected suitor, Morley, in the meantime has come back to spend part of the evening with Ruth, and finds them together. He makes insinuating remarks about Ruth, and there is a terrific fight, in which Morley gets the worst of it. He rushes off to the dance and tells Ruth's father, who is furious and immediately fires Ezyr.

That night Walter, the brother, returns home rather the worse for drink and sets a fire in his room. Ezyr, wakened and getting ready to go, is the only person who sees this, and is barely in time to save the life, as her room is cut off by flames from the rest of the house. Walter, the son, nearly perishes, and again Ezyr plays the hero, and this time it is Walter whom he saves. Walter, seeing that his father persists in misunderstanding Ezyr's return to the farm and blames him for the fire, confesses all. Ruth's care, Ezyr returns to health—for he had been severely burned, and when he realizes that old Caleb is singing his praises to the "hidden hand" and informing every one that he has chosen Ezyr as a son-in-law, his happiness and that of Ruth is made complete. Also Charlie Chaplin in "The Jitney Elopement."

"THE HIDDEN HAND"
Once upon a day every comic opera star of every member of the chorus who attained to any degree of fame laid claim for her press agent did it for her) to the story that she had made her first public appearance in the choir of some noted church. These churches were generally located in Philadelphia or San Francisco, and who proof was sent for to substantiate the claim of the operatic star, everyone connected with the choir at the time she sang there, had moved away.

When Miss Doris Kenyon, the star of Pathe's serial, "The Hidden Hand," the first episode of which opens at the Brant theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday, stated that she formed one of a church choir before she entered the motion picture field, she laughed and said: "I know what you're thinking of, but I really did sing in the choir. When I was fourteen years old I was the principal soloist of the Grace Presbyterian church in Brooklyn, N. Y., of which the Rev. Dr. Robert Carson was pastor. I sang there for one year and then went to the Bushwick Ave. Methodist Episcopal church, which is known as the church having the largest Sunday school in the world. I remained there in the choir until a year and a half ago, when I was attracted by the lure of the screen."

Despite the hard and exacting work necessary for success in the film, Miss Kenyon is still pursuing her musical studies, and eventually expects to make her debut in grand opera. She is a Syracuse girl and was born in that New York town 19 years ago. She is the daughter of Dr. James B. Kenyon, noted author and poet. Her brother is Dr. Ray Kenyon, who represents Essex County in the New York State Legislature. She inherited marked ability as a writer from her father, is a clever linguist, and can drive her own motor, shoot, swim, and is an expert horsewoman.

"THE BELOVED TRAITOR"
"The Beloved Traitor," the new Goldwyn Picture starring Mae Marsh which will be seen at the Brant theatre beginning Thursday, Friday and Saturday, is a delightful screen version of Frank L. Packard's novel of the same name.

Mary Garland, a Maine fisherman, whose talent as a sculptor is unsuspected by the townspeople. He is haunted by a vision wherein he sees a statue of a woman with a face strikingly like Mary's and the people around it acclaiming him as its creator. The figure stands with arms outstretched as if welcoming the returning fisherman. He discovers Mary in that attitude when she goes to the rescue of her uncle, Simon, caught in a storm and out beyond rocks while returning from the lighthouse. Judd saves both. Shortly afterwards the uncle, with whom Mary lives, dies. Before her passing he has exacted Judd's promise to watch over Mary, along with Father Anthony, the village priest.

Mary is delighted with Judd's model of his ideal figure, but Judd seeks bigger things. They come when Henry Bliss, a wealthy patron of art from the big city, and his daughter visit the village on a motor tour. Seeing Judd's model, Bliss recognizes the work of an embryo sculptor and proposes that Judd accompany him to the city for an art education. He agrees after the added arguments of Myrna Bliss, who sees in the good looking fellow another chance to fascinate him.

Judd meets with success as a sculptor, and after three years' absence Mary still grieves for him. Judd loves Myrna, but there is another man, Paul Drayton, a political leader. Judd finishes his statue, which he calls The Beacon, but dissipation meanwhile lays its heavy hand on him. Mr. Bliss reproaches his protegee, showing him a scurrilous clipping from a society paper, which he later sends to Father Anthony. Later Mary sees it and resolves to save the man she loves. She goes to the city.

She gains entrance to the studio, where Judd is celebrating, and at once is recognized as the original of Judd's prize model. Myrna upbraids Judd, and then follows a fight between Drayton and Judd, but Mary saves the precious model after Drayton crashes against it. Judd's eyes are opened. He turns from the coarse Myrna to the girl of his youth, Mary.

"PEG O' MY HEART"
Sometimes a dog is important for reasons other than his fighting ability or his habit of carrying off blue ribbons. Often he is important because he has an extra amount of gray matter in his head—and then he is worth almost his weight in gold.

Take Michael, for instance, one of the dogs in "Peg O' My Heart." He is so important that he must have an understudy, being probably the only canine "actor" in the world reaching this zenith of histrionic endeavor—for when you get to a point where you are so important that you have to have an understudy, you have gone about as far as you can go.

Michael is an "orsery-looking" little thing, but he is well bred and well trained. In the play there is also a little white dog, the pet of society and supposedly the "class" dog, while Michael is the "kum" of the canine world. The two are pitted against each other in a show of class distinction, which is where Michael has to use his brains.

"Peg O' My Heart" is the proud possession of Michael, and in it he will play his part at the Grand matinee and night to-day.

Proof that Some Women do Avoid Operations
Mrs. Etta Dorion, of Ogdensburg, Wis., says:
"I suffered from female troubles which caused placing pains like a knife through my back and side. I finally lost all my strength so I had to go to bed. The doctor advised an operation but I would not listen to it. I thought of what I had read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it. The first bottle brought great relief and six bottles have entirely cured me. All women who have female trouble of any kind should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."
How Mrs. Boyd Avoided an Operation:
Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well.
"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MARIE BOYD, 1421 5th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

FREQUENT MILKING
INCREASES FLOW

OUTLAY IS SMALL, AND THE RETURNS ARE LARGE—NOW IS THE TIME
 Frequent milking increases the production of milk. Cows which make high records are milked three and four times daily. A experimenter expressed the opinion that frequent milking for a short period would tend to increase the production of milk not only for that period but also for the period which followed. In order to satisfy the curiosity of several members of the O.A.C. staff as well as other interested parties, it was decided to carry out an experiment along this line. The method of procedure was as follows: A pure bred cow which had been milking for ten months was chosen to experiment with. She was fed to a point where an increase in milk had no effect on the milk flow. The first three weeks the cow was milked twice a day, the following three weeks twelve times per day, once every two hours and the last three weeks she was again milked twice each day. During the first period her daily average was 14.04 pounds her daily milk fat content was 1.77 per cent. During the second period her daily average was 14.04 pounds her daily milk fat content was 1.77 per cent. During the third period her daily average was 14.04 pounds her daily milk fat content was 1.77 per cent.

Vegetables For The Home Gardens

Among those a sedentary occupation, especially the consumption of meat is likely to be heavier than the system requires or can make use of. The rise in price of meats during the last year has had at least on beneficial result, namely that of lightening our appreciation of crisp, fresh vegetables. Our nation's health has, we believe, been much improved by this light and more varied diet. As a guide to choosing the best varieties of vegetables to grow, the following information, based on reliable experiments, is given.

Beans—Of the wax or yellow-podded varieties the Round Pod, Kidney Wax, Pearl Pod and Battle Beans are the best and are very similar. Hodgson Wax is a large-podded wax variety which is late, thus lengthening the season. Of the green podded sorts, the Stringless Green Pod and Early Red Valentine are two of the best and for a late bean the Refugee or Thousand-bell is a good one. Pole beans require a warmer season than the dwarf. The Scarlet Runner is one of the best and is very similar to the pole varieties, but it is not so good in quality as the Kentucky Wonder. Lima beans do not do well except in the warmest parts of Canada, as they require a long, warm season.

Beets—Crosby Beets is the best early one to plant. It is not, however, quite so shapely as the Detroit Dark Red, which is one of the best dark-fleshed varieties. Early Model is another good one. Cabbage—The Early Jersey Wakefield, a conical-headed variety has long been the standard early sort in Canada, but the Copenhagen Market, a round-headed variety, is becoming very popular. It is almost as early as the former, has a finer head, and is a better keeper. Among late varieties the Danish Summer Ballhead is the most reliable. Drumhead Savoy is one of the best of the Savoy type, and Red Dutch is a good red variety. Succession is a good mid-season variety. Where an extra early variety is desired, regardless of quality, the Paris Market should be planted. It is nearly a week earlier than Early Jersey Wakefield, but the heads are rather loose.

Cauliflower—The two most popular varieties are the Early Dwarf Erfurt and the another good one. In most places in Canada the late sorts are not satisfactory, better results being obtained by planting the early ones at different dates. Cauliflower will not head well in the middle of summer, particularly if it is hot and dry. One should plan the planting to have them head early in the summer or in the autumn. Carrots—The best and most reliable variety of carrot is the Chaucer, a half-long sort. The Early Scarlet Horn is an extra early short variety, useful for using when young. Celery—The best early variety is the Golden Self Blanching (Paris Golden Yellow). On the prairies the White Plume becomes very crisp and is very early. It is a good one to precede the Golden Self Blanching. In many places in Canada the White Plume is of rather poor quality. Perfection Heartwell Evans Triumph and Winter Queen are all good late sorts. Corn—The Golden Bantam is the most popular variety for home use because of its excellent quality, but it is not as early as Early Malcolim, a variety developed at the Experimental Farm, Ottawa, and which is considered the best extra early Peep O' Day and Early Malcolim are also extra early and of good quality. Other varieties earlier than Golden Bantam are Early Cory and Early Fordhook. For those who do not like the flavour of Golden Bantam the Crosby Early and Metropolitan are two good second-early sorts. Good mid-season varieties are Early Evergreen and Terry Hybrid, and the late varieties are excellent late sorts. Black Mexican is a fine-flavoured, mid-season sort with dark coloured kernels. On the prairies and in other parts of Canada where the nights are cool, the Squaw corn is the most reliable and will reach maturity where none of the sweet corns will. Cucumbers—The Davis Perfect and Peerless White Spine are two of the most satisfactory. Boston Pickling and Chicago Pickling are good pickling sorts. Egg Plant—New York Improved and Long Purple are two of the best. Lettuce—Grand Rapids and Black Seeded Simpson are two of the best loose-headed, curled lettuces. Iceberg and Giant Crystal Head are two of the best curled cabbage varieties, the heads of which stay in good condition for a long time in the hot summer weather. Crisp as Ice, Improved Hamon and Salamander are all varieties of cabbage lettuce which make good heads. Onions—Yellow Globe Danvers and Large Red Weatherfield are two of the best. Extra Early Flat Red is a good one where the seasons are short. Trize Taker is an especially good one for transplanting. Dutch sets are desirable where early maturity is important. Parsnips—A good strain of Hollow Crown is the best. Intermediate is good. Peas—Thos. Laxton, Gradus and Sutton Excelsior are three of the best early garden peas, followed by McLean Advancer and Heroine for medium, and Stratagem for late. Gregory Surprise is a very good extra early sort. Among tall, late sorts the Quire Content, Telephone and Champion of England are good. Potatoes—Irish Cobbler or Eureka Extra Early for early, and Green Mountain, Gold Coin, Carman No. 1, or Vee MacGregor for main crop are among the best. Radishes—Scarlet as mother roots is the best. Icicle is a good white Squash—Long White Bush and Summer Crookneck for early and Delicious and Hubbard for late. Tomatoes—For extra early Alacety and the best strains of Barilana, and for early and main crop Bonny Best or Chalks Early Jewel are the best. Turnips—Early turnips are usually better among swedes, Champion Purple Top and Skirving Improved are good if sown late. Among less important vegetables, Double Curled parsley, Long White or Spanish Islands parsley, Victoria spinach, are the best; Cayenne or Chili peppers among the small varieties, and Early Neapolitan for the large ones. Try Growing Seed for Your Own Year.

The short supply of garden seeds and the indifferent stock offered in many instances have been an unpleasant experience to many gardeners. The gardener who grew his own seeds did not need to worry about poor germination, high prices, shortages or crop failures, and is now planning to grow all the high class seeds that he requires for next year. Why not get busy now and do likewise? Biennials—Select or obtain from your neighbour choice specimens of one variety of garden best carrot, Parsnip and Scarlet as mother roots for seed production. Plant in well prepared soil, one root for each four ounces of seed required. Cover the roots completely with soil and nature will awaken the seed stalks which you must care for as you would any plant that you desire to be either attractive or productive. When the seed stalks have grown high, bank the roots with earth to support the stalks with stakes that the wind may not cast them over. When the seeds ripen gather them put carefully away where ripening may be completed and where damage from mice and fungi is not probable. During what would be five hours on stormy days, these seed heads out and prepare the seeds for the coming of spring of 1919.

Onions—Onions—Select choice onions, firm and ideal in shape, about two inches in diameter, plant by covering two inches deep in well prepared garden soil, one onion for each ounce of seed required. Weed and hoe during the growing season and stake the seed stalks up before the heads become heavy. Gather the seed heads when the seeds are beginning to fall and put away on trays or in tin cotton sacks. Ripening may be completed. Threshing and seed cleaning may be done at any convenient time. Onion seeds are sown by sowing seeds thickly in rows, six inches apart, so thickly that the seed be sown that the little plants will crowd one another so closely that growth to greater dimensions than one-half-inch is not probable. When the leaves of this little onion wither and die it is time to harvest the crop. This is done by pulling and spreading in shallow trays to dry. When dry the leaves are plucked off and the little sets stored in a dry, cool place, free from frost danger. Lettuce—Choice lettuce plants of your most favoured variety should be saved and permitted to seed. When the seed heads are ripened they may be cut, placed in a paper bag and hung up to dry, after which the threshing may be done when convenient. Radish—Secure choice seed, sow early in the season, thin the plants out to a distance of 12 inches. Cultivate and keep free from weeds during the entire season. When the roots are well developed the seed stalks appear, following with big-ness and seed pods. When the seed pods are fully ripe the plant may be used in home seed production by employing methods just as simple as those enumerated. Spinach, cabbage, celery, parsley, peas, beans, are all easily produced. To thresh many of the seed heads rubbing them over a coarse screen is both quick and effective. Seeds grown under home conditions will almost invariably give better results than will commercial seed. Try it this season, but don't try to seed more than one variety of each kind of garden plant.

WAR BADGES FOR DISCHARGED MEN
 By Courier Lensed Wire
 Ottawa, March 7.—Arrangements for the issue of war badges to officers and men discharged under certain conditions from the Canadian naval service have now been completed. Class A badge is issued only to officers and men who have served in seagoing ships in any part of the world or on one in a battle front, or any battle front. It is exactly similar to the badge issued by the British admiralty to officers and men discharged from the Royal Navy. It is of silver, the design showing the royal monogram surmounted by a crown, surrounded by a circle on which are the words "For King and Empire; services rendered." Class B badge is issued to officers and men who have not served in seagoing ships in any part of the world, in England, or on any battle front, corresponds to the Class C badge issued by the Military Department to men who have not served overseas. It is of exactly similar design with the exception that the letter "M" is engraved on the back. Applications for the badges are being received by the secretary of the naval department.

BASEBALL GAINS FAVOR OVERSEAS

National American Pastime Popular in England, France and Italy.

(By Shortstop.)
New York, March 8.—The announcement last week that a professional baseball organization, the Anglo-American League, would be launched in England and France next spring is only a natural sequence of the remarkable strides baseball has made in Europe in the last year.
Soldiers and civilians returning from France and Britain during the last few months all tell the same story of the wonderful future in store for baseball in Europe. "And baseball has just been given its first push," said a Canadian soldier back from the front. "Wait till it rolls around a bit and begins to spread by its own impetus." "Uncle Sam only had thousands of soldiers over there when the cold weather came where he will have hundreds of thousands by the time they start to knock that horsehide around next spring you'll hear the echo all over France."
Returning Americans and Canadian soldiers are so sanguine over the spread of baseball in Europe because the children are taking it up. Despite their hardships and struggles the French kids are learning baseball fast and play it with the same energy that characterizes the military efforts of their fathers and brothers.

The French Like It

"There are no people in the world that will go to baseball like the French once they know a little more about it. And they are learning fast," said this soldier. "The French have taken rather kindly to English soccer, but it has no hold there the way it has in England, and in another season or so baseball should leave soccer far behind."
Roxy reports of the spread of the game in England also have reached us. The American entry into the world war was the big entering wedge for baseball into the British Isles. It is unlikely that baseball will ever become the national game of England as many of our soldiers see signs of it becoming in France, but from now on it is likely to become quite a factor in British sports.
Formerly there was considerable prejudice against baseball in England, but that is changing. The approval is now the biggest boost in its favor. Nothing indicates better how the tide is shifting than the fact that the British navy is experimenting with baseball as a means of recreation. The beauty of baseball is that one can play it most anywhere; all one really needs is room for the plate and three bases. If it is outdoors is partly in the ocean or in a thick brush it makes the game all the more exciting.
Men interested in promoting the game professionally in England are advised of having the professional soccer players take it up. These men correspond in England to our American baseball heroes. The soccer season takes in the fall and early winter. Should the soccer stars play baseball in summer it no doubt would bring many of the soccer fans to the ball game.
"Perhaps the most encouraging sign in the progress baseball is making in England is that Englishmen actually are trying to learn the rules," said an American recently returned from London. "They try to interpret them from a cricket standpoint, and arrive at some strange conclusions. They also are not backward in telling the professional rule-makers also put in some silly rules."

WOMEN CANDIDATES ALWAYS A PUZZLE

Albany, March 8.—The Republican leaders have decided to nominate a woman next fall for one of the seven elective State offices. Having gone that far, they are faced with these problems: or single? Shall she be married or single? If single, shall she be young or old, comely or plain? If married, shall she have children or not? Or would it be better to have a widow?
The weightiest objection urged against the nomination of a married woman is that her husband might boss the job, and that if she has children her domestic duties might conflict with her public duties.
Some of the bosses, particularly those who believe a married woman's place is in the home, are inclined to favor an unmarried woman. As to qualifications, they place oratory first and good looks second.
The widow hasn't figured much in the calculations of the bosses so far, because, as one of them expressed it, "a widow is always dangerous."
Thus far the best judgment of the Republican bosses is that the place on the State ticket that a woman is best qualified to fill is the office of State Treasurer, for these reasons:
(1) She would have a nicely appointed office.
(2) She would not be burdened with work.
(3) Most important—she would have practically no patronage to distribute.
To make up for the lack of jobs in the treasurer's office, provided a woman is nominated for it, the bosses intend to name a number of women as deputies in other important State offices.
The women also will be given larger numerical representation on boards of managers of hospitals and other institutions.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, pneumonia, or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.
To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, disperse before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.
Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.
As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

For while the big leagues occupy the baseball limelight it was the minor league, the small class C and the very back yards of the nation. The real baseball lover cannot help feeling a pang of regret that while plans are being made for the big professional league simultaneously the International League, the former prize minor league of the country, is on the rocks after a continuous career of 34 years.
