Case Proves Very Puzzling

Argument in Deadman's Island Case Emphasizes Its Intricacies.

The Chief Justice Notes One Substantial Point in the Case.

(From Friday's daily.)

As day after day in the full court is occupied with legal argument on the famous case dealing with the title to Deadman's Island, it becomes more and more evident that the case is one of the most intricate ever tried in British Columbia.

The main features of the case are simple and have been so frequently outlined in this paper that the public is familiar with them, but it is the legal aspect of the case that seemingly leads to almost endless appeal.

In the first place, the "facts" are not at all clear. The claim of counsel representing the Dominion government that the island was reserved for military purposes is not supported by conclusive evidence, and, according to the Chief Justice, only by supposition and deduction.

At times the argument becomes, in a sense, a discussion between the learned counsel and their lordships and often on these occasions the words are employed for the lay mind. The interpretation of terms, such as "general public purposes," is discussed in connection with the specific character of land reserves, and even the dictionary definition of words is occasionally imported into the matter.

Sometimes, however, there is a lighter side to the proceedings, and the Chief Justice has been heard to be appreciated by members of the general public. For instance, yesterday Mr. Cassidy was "giving it to his learned lordship" on the other side, Mr. Peters.

"Of course," he said, "I am not interrupting the flow of his argument, my learned friend will not say exactly on what legal point he is making his case, assuming the land to be a military reserve. If he did, his claim would be disposed of in five minutes."

Mr. Peters' case is substantial enough. The Chief Justice—the only substantial thing I can see about this case at present—is the fact.

Mr. McPhail, who presented the case of the Province on the facts by contending that Deadman's Island was not reserved for military purposes, but was reserved for the Dominion, followed yesterday morning, presenting the contention of the Dominion, that on the law, military reserves did not go to the Dominion under the B. N. A. Act.

The Dominion, however, contended that the Imperial authorities retained any disposing power over any public lands in the colony was untenable. The Imperial authority had any interest in the land, it was merely a right to retain it for military purposes.

Derby to the Dominion, if one was to be included in the Dominion's disposing power. But no attempt to carry the land to the Dominion was made, and Derby stated that the Dominion authority which only he had official communication that the Imperial authority had no right to communicate the surrender of lands by law for military purposes.

It then became the duty of the Dominion to communicate the surrender of lands by law for military purposes. The Dominion had absolutely no title under the Imperial authority.

The Dominion acquired no title under the B. N. A. Act. The Dominion had no one of the classes of property specified as going to the Dominion. The Dominion had no interest in the land, it was merely a right to retain it for military purposes.

Shawmut Troubles Are Numerous

Rebellious Firemen Attempt to Desert Their Duties Yesterday Morning.

One Man Drowned While Swimming to Reach the Shore.

Early yesterday morning the steamer Shawmut had a little trouble with her inexperienced stokers, who were so much responsible for delaying the vessel on her way from Yokohama to Victoria.

It was learned by the officers that an attempt was made to get some of the firemen ashore here, and so enable them to desert duty. Watch was kept in sight of the gangway and the firemen were prevented from leaving the ship.

Pains in Back Now All Gone After Twenty Years of Suffering from Kidney Disease and Dyspepsia, a Perfect Cure is Made by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

A medicine which will cure such severe form of kidney disease as that described below can certainly be relied upon for any ordinary case of this ailment.

It seems folly to experiment with new and untried remedies when there are thousands ready to certify that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have positively cured them of this painful and fatal malady.

Mr. John Harris, an old resident of Thorold, Ont., states:—"For twenty years I was badly afflicted with kidney troubles, indigestion and bladder derangements. During that time I was a great sufferer and to get up six or twelve hours was a mighty task. I tried different doctors and used all the medicines to no avail."

"Finally I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and found relief. I was encouraged and continued to use these Pills and after having taken three boxes was able to get up perfectly healthy and vigorous. I can now sleep undisturbed, the pains in the kidneys and back are gone and I am free from all the troubles which were once my lot."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one price, 25 cents a box, and 50 cents a dozen. To protect you from imitations, the name of the doctor is printed on the wrapper of each box. W. Chase's famous receipt book, a treatise on every body.
