CARDINAL GIBBONS' FETE

BE TAKES POSSESSION OF HIS TITU LAR CHURCH.

The American Dignitary Figures in an Interesting Geremony, Waich is Witnesses to the People.

Rome, March 25.—It was just 10.30 this morning, the day being the sacred feast day of the Annunciation, when Cardinal James Gibbons, Archbishop of Baltimore, arrived at the iron gates of the portico of the Basilica of Santa Maria in Trastevere, for the purpose of formally taking possession of it as his titular church. He was arrayed in the robes of a cardinal, wearing a white fur cape, crimson silk mantle and a long train. When he sitch the door of the church he knelt upon a cushion placed there on strip of carpet. The canons belonging to the Archbishop. Bishops (Cardinal Gibbons, Wene hat approached the American College in Rome, wearing surplices were waiting for the Archbishop. Bishops (Cardinal Gibbons, when he approached the church, was accompanied by Bishop Ireland of St. Paul, Minn., and by Master of Cermonies Marucoi and others. The Cardinal after kneeling, kissed the crucifix. The Cardinal after kneeling, kissed the crucifix, and asigned his head, took the aspersorium from the canon who had presented the crucifix, and signed his head, took the aspersorium from the canon who had presented the crucifix, and signed himself with the sign of the cross. Then replacing the beretta he asperged the people present with holy water, after head of the again removed his beretta, and was thrice incensed by the Canon, "Ecce Sacerdos Magnus."

The procession then moved to the altar, followed by the Cardinal, who blessed the people as he went. At the altar the blessed ascars the contract of the sace of the altar, followed by the Cardinal, who blessed the people as he went. At the altar the blessed ascars the contract of the contra

The procession then moved to the altar, followed by the Cardinal, who blessed the people as he went. At the altar the blessed sacrament was administered, and all knelt for a short time in prayer. At the high altar the Cardinal knelt and the Canon recited the Pater Noster and other prayers. In the apsea throne with a white back and crimson canopy had been placed. The Cardinal seated himself on the throne, the bishops and priests in attendance being seated about him. The prothonotory then read in Latin the papal bill assigning the Church Santa Maria in Trastevere to Cardinal Gibbons as his titular church. After the reading of the bill the canons went forward to the throne and all but the chief canon knelt and kissed the Cardinal's hand, the Cardinal rising to receive the chief canon for the kiss of peace. An address from the canons to the Cardinal was then read in Latin. It was of great length. To this Cardinal Gibbon, remaining seated and wearing his beretta, replied in English as follows: "The assignment to me by the Holy Father of this beautiful basilica as my titular church fills me with with feelings of joy and gratitude which any words of mine are wholly inadequate to express. For, as here in Rome I stand within the first temple raised in honor of the ever blessed Virgin Mary, so in my far off home, my own cathedral church, the oldest in the United States, is also dedicated to the Mother me with with feelings of joy and gratitude which any words of mine are wholly inade quate to express. For, as here in Rome I stand within the first temple raised in honor of the ever blessed Virgin Mary, so in my far off home, my own cathedralchurch, theoldest in the Hunited States, is also dedicated to the Mother of God. This venerable edifice in which we are gathered leads us back in contemplation to the days of the catacombs. Its foundation was laid by Pope Calixtus in the year of Our Lord 224. It was restored by Pope Julius in the fourth century and renovated by another supreme pontiff in the twelfth. That never ceasing solicitude which the sovereign pontiffs have exhibited in erecting these national temples, which are the glory of this city, they have also manifested in a larger scale in rearing spiritual walls to Zion throughout Christendom in every age." The Cardinal concluded by eulogizing the United States and sincerely thanking the Pope for the dignity conferred upon him. night was false, as everything had been done with his sanction as assignee

Edward Rawson gave evidence as to the books, which were under his charge. The coal tickets and custom books could not be found.

Thos. Johnston told as little as he could get off with. In reference to the missing books, he stated that they would naturally be deatroyed in the course of time.

Robert Armstrong, a tall, fine-looking policeman testified that in 1883 or '84 he had got nine tons of coal through George Morris of the Waterworks Department. When asked how he came to order it through Morris he said that a friend told him he could get it much cheaper in that way. He paid Morris for the coal, and on being presented with a bill from Burns he explained the matter and it was satisfactorily arranged between Burns and Morris.

At this point Mr. Rawson enquired who was

Progress of the Strikes-A Letter from There is no chauge in the strike of the shoemakers. Both sides are as firm as ever. Three of the men left last night for New York where they have obtained work at good wages. The World yesterday received this letter bearing on the subject of the strike:

on the subject of the strike:

Since I started business on Yonge-street, about six years ago, I have always paid Kingstreet west wages to my men, and after we have all pulled through the dull season I did not like the stand-and-deliver attitude of the men for an advance, which they know as well as I do cannot be paid. They say, put it on the public, but I find that about as tough a job as the strike is. A word about those gentlemen who signed the new bill: there is hardly one of them who makes their living, out of this branch of the business; they hope by signing the bill to kill custom work and drive it into ready made work, as one of the men who signed it told me that nien were destroying their own trade and he was going to help them.

A Composite City Indeed, From the Chicago Times.

New York claims 350,000 German resident and ranks the second German city of the world, Berlin being the first, What nationworld, Berlin being the first. What nationality is New York? One is tempted to digress and ask the question. Everybody knows it is the principal Irish city of the world. There is are a good many people living in young Italy, and on Sunday night about 9 o'clock, if you stand on Twenty-fourth-street, near Delmonton, too's, you will believe you are in Paris, because every passer-by is talking in French. If a picture of a representative Gothamite were called for it would have to be a "composite" picture, and one would have to awake to the fact that although shere is a true Bostonian there is no true New Yorker, or, rather, that there are eleven of them! Irishman, German, Frenchman, Pole, and other foreigners, as well as half-a dozen of American types, would have to sit for the picture of the true New Yorker, each individual influencing the others and being influenced by them, with a result as interesting as uncanny. It is possible to take a composite picture, and such a picture as the one imagined above ought to be taken to give a clear idea of the future cosmopolite.

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing consumption, severe coughs, croup, asthma, pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Threedoses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive, at least to fry one bottle, as 80,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it. Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all druggists and dealers, in the United States and Canada.

A Good Word for Monte Carlo. From Cor. Boston Herald.

To be plain about it, there is no use of the Casino resorting to any sort of trickery to gain your money—the percentages are suffi-cient'y large to make all shareholders happy. gain your money—the percentages are unficiently large to make all shareholders happy. Last year the net profits of Monte Carlo gambling tables, after paying for all improvements to grounds, and giving the Prince his large subvention, was quite $5,400,000. Nothing but cash playing is ever permitted; thus the danger of losing more than you can pay is minimized. A man may go out of the comes without a dollar left in his pocket, but he cannot leave owing the Casino anything, as is the case too often with those who gamble an Paris, London and New York private establishments. The very fact that a man is obliged to go away in search of more money with which to contanue playing gives him time for reflection, and saves many a one from total ruin. It is the man who can borrow all he wants from the club funds, or from a gambler, that is apt to run himself in debt beyond all possibility of payment, and then he is ruined. Here, when Il o'clock strikes, all gambling ceases; whether you are a winner or a loser you must stop and go away? walk, and the charm usually vanishes like a dream, or the dew from the grass before the morning sun. Her gait is shuffling, her dance has little of "the light fantastic toe." She visits a few balls, chaperoned a cap-a-pie. Men who dance with her are watched by eagle eyes. A bow, a whirl, a few gyrations sorapid that no whispered word is possible, an inclination of thanks—and she returns home guarded on all sides by servant girls. Her whole moral code seems expressed in fear of men, and yet she is dying, positively dying, to possess one. It is a strange incongruity. Spinsters are less respected here than elsewhere. I often have heard women, when approaching the dangerous year which assigned ahem irrevocably to the objectionable sphere, "sigh like a furnace" and fairly bewall their future destiny. Applied Astronomy.
From the Century Bric-a-Brac. He took me out to see the stars
That astronomic bore;
He said there were two moons near Mars,
While Jupiter had four.

I thought of course he'd whisper soon What fourfold biss twould be To stroll beneath that fourfold moon On Jupiter with me.

And when he spoke of Saturn's ring.
I was convinced he'd say
That was the very kind of thing
To offer me some day.

But in a tangent off he went To double stars. Now that Was most suggestive, so content And quite assorbed I sat. But no, he talked a dreary mess, Of which the only fraction That caught my fancy, I confess, Was "mutual attraction."

I said I thought it very queer And stupid altogether, For stars to keep so very near, And yet not come together.

At that he smiled, and turned his head; I thought he'd caught the notion. He merely bowed good-night and said, Their safety lay in motion. -Use the safe, pleasant, and effectual worm killer, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; nothing equals it. Procure a bottle and take it think, good law, and, what is still more important, it is certainly cool annual as a statistic proposition, nothing can be clearer than that any combination to interfere with the perfect freedom of any one to manage a lawful business or by means of threat of dinning a lawful business, or by means of threat of dinning a lawful business, or by means of threat of dinning a lawful business hall be conducted, ought to be punishable by law. It is time for the labor associations to face this fact and to consider it moberly. The strike, the boycott, all the methods by which labor associations and combinations endeavor to carry out their objects, are methods of coercion—do involve interference with the liberty of others toconfluct, their own lawful business in their own way. When they do not proceed to the use of actual force and the actual destruction or injury of material things, they only stops short of this as a matter of degree. Without the power to in some way inflict injury or loss, the regulations of a trades-union would be as lutile as a law without a penalty.

The mere cessation of work on the part of a strict trades union of class blowers may inflict such damage and loss upon employers as will make them afraid to employ men outside of the association.

Now, it is the tendency of constantly increasing labor-asyng invention to dispense with special skill on the part of the mass of unskilled; and the extension of labor organizations, which has been so rapid of late years, has been in the direction of the less skilled cocupations.

Now, if the labor movement is to go on in this direction, every man who looks ahead must see that it will at last come to violence. This, at least, is clearly evident, that the labor combinations are attempting to do is to secure for themselves a monagonly in sunnlying labor, and the real family of the law, or tob ground to powder.

What the labor combinations are attempting to do is to secure for themselves a monagonly in sunnlying labor, and the real family and the large of the law,

If you toss for a day the inequality will not be greater than 101 to 100. And yet, if during that time you toss "tails" ten times in succession (as you may often do) there will be no more likelihood of "heads" than of "tails" on the eleventh throw.

concerning theatrical events. All this was brought about through the agency of a zealous and enthusiastic deacon. This good friend of the pastor saw that the latter's subjects were properly trumpeted, and promised to buy several hundred copies of papers containing half column reports of his sermons. He was a folly, well-meaning deacon. He pressed questionable cigars upon the reporters who were advertising his pastor, and cid everything in his power to make things easy and pleasant for those owerworked young men. The result is that the church is crowded every Sunday, the pastor's reputation is enhanced, and perhaps the kingdom of heaven is furthered.

Mother Goose.

No doubt most of our little readers think Mother Goose was a fictitious character. That is a mistake, and I am going to give you a little sketch of the old woman.

Her maiden name was Elizabeth Foster, and she was born in 1665. She married Isaac Goose in 1693, and not long after her marriage she joined the Old South Church in Boston. She died in 1747, 92 years of age. She was a kind, good old grandmother, who made nurser wongs and sang them to please her grand-children.

Her son-in-law, Thomas Fleet, first published her songs in 1716. Mother Goose lived in a little one-story, red-roofed cottage.

The unnumbered lots are not included in our offering, but belong to private parties, and thereon are erected eight elegant brick residences.

Parkdale, south of Queen Street, is well built up with fine class of private residences and has handsome streets, many of them being block-paved: It is a matter of surprise to those competent to judge that land there is so ridiculously cheap. All things considered, its market value ought to be from $50 to $70 per foot. The opinion prevails that we are on the eve of a decided change and that hereafter
