SIXTEENTH YEAR

PRELIMINARY ADVISE FREE

FRIDAY MORNING JUNE 28 1895.

THE TREATY LEGISLATION

Showing Necessity of the Day in Parliament

Supply of Money for the Day in Parliament

Commissioners-Criminal Amendments Discussed in Committee-The Senate and Child Insurance.

Ottawa, June 27.—This has been a quiet day in the House. The Supply stage was reached at an early hour, and considerable progress made on the estimates for Public Works.

Some interesting correspondence with regard to the French Treaty was presented to Parliament to-day. In the autumn of last year a despatch was sent to the Home Office containing attention to the fact that the treaty contains a provision making it subject to termination after 12 months' notice.

The despatch says: "Great importance has been attached to this provision, in Canada especially, because a very considerable proportion of the voters are in favor of the abolition of the manufacture and sale of liquors in the Dominion, and if such a measure should be adopted the treaty would be necessary. Assurances have been given by Your Excellency's advisors that apprehensions need not be entertained that the operation of prohibitory legislation, if adopted by the Canadian Parliament, would be frustrated by the continuation of the treaty, and that the clause providing for renunciation would be available to abrogate the treaty within 12 months. These assurances have been generally accepted, because the understanding has always been that while Great Britain has given assent to a treaty on behalf of a colony she will not hesitate to give the necessary notice to terminate it at the instance of the Government of the colony concerned.

The despatch goes on to point out, however, that in the year 1888 Canada asked the Imperial Government to give notice of her withdrawal from the Berne Copyright Convention, but up to this date the Dominion has received no answer. It is stated that her wishes have been accepted. This strong despatch was effective, as on the 29th of September last the Marquis of Ripon telegraphed to the Secretary of State, and they were re-married by the Justice of the Peace Baldwin.

Eighteen years ago, and from Philadelphia for East Indian ports, and after an unprofitable voyage of three years went to South America. A sailing ship was wrecked on the coast of the island of St. Vincent, and his wife had been lost. Within a year Capt. Wall returned to Philadelphia, and was shocked when he found out that his wife had been lost. He refused to call on her, but sent word of his arrival and she sailed away.

A few years later he returned to Philadelphia and settled in Philadelphia. In the meantime Taylor had died.

TO PUNISH SIR RICHARD.

Mr. C. H. Tupper, answering Mr. McMillen, said that no special instructions had been given to counsel acting for the Crown in the civil suit against St. Louis. He said that yesterday the day that the Judge of the Exchequer Court had had to adjourn the case until October, for the purpose of enabling him to keep certain appointments in circuit. That was probably the reason why counsel for the Crown had not obtained any special instructions.

Manitoba's Answer.

Mr. McCarthy: I would like to ask the leader of the House whether the answer from Manitoba to the Remedial Order has yet been received?

Mr. Foster: I have the same answer as yesterday. The answer has not yet been received.

Mr. McCarthy: Has the hon. gentleman any information whether it has been despatched from Manitoba or not?

Mr. Foster: I have no more to say on that point.

Mr. Oulmet and His Cousin St. Louis.

Several hours were spent in Committee of Supply on the estimates for the Public Works Department.

Sir Richard Cartwright objects to day labor, saying tenders should be called for the work, and pointed out the case of one St. Louis as a warning.

Mr. Oulmet said that St. Louis, "nor his cousin," said Mr. Oulmet, "nor anything that he has done. He has been brought before the courts, and if he has not been punished it is not my fault, nor that of hon. gentlemen around me. He is able to defend himself whenever he is attacked. Derivative cheaters from the Opposition. If you know the name St. Louis in Montreal, where he has been honestly prosecuting his trade year after year, you will not say what you have done. (Hear, hear.) You may "Hear, hear," but a good many people don't think as much of hon. gentlemen opposite as they do themselves.

Mr. McMillen: I am glad the hon. gentleman has made this statement. The country will be benefited by the view that Mr. St. Louis has a friend in court.

Mr. Oulmet: I will not permit any insult to be made under cover, or to insult my cousin either. I am not ashamed of him.

DID NOT SOW THE SEED.

And as a Consequence Till Did Not Reap the Wholesome Fruit of the Case of Alleged Vengeance.

A rather complicated case came up before Magistrate Campbell at Uxbridge yesterday. A man named Till, from near Greenbank, was charged with sowing wild mustard seed on a farm belonging to a Mr. Phoenix of Toronto. The evidence went to show that some two years ago Till had the farm rented and Phoenix had sown it from him. Till threatened to cut the wires on a fence on the premises, and a short time afterwards the wires were cut by some one.

Last fall Till it was alleged, bought a bag of mustard seed from a farmer in the neighborhood of Uxbridge, and sowed it on a large field, which was covered with it, and it had almost destroyed the crop of the present tenant, Mr. Oliver.

The magistrate said that there was insufficient evidence to convict and discharged the accused.

THE LAST OF THE MONARCH.

The Sunken Boiler of the Vessel Blown Up With Dynamite.

Yesterday the last vestiges of the unlucky steamer Monarch, which was wrecked on the coast of the island of St. Vincent, disappeared from the bed of the lake where they have so long remained. The scene of the wreck was just at the back of what was known as the Peninsula Hotel, kept by W. J. Privat, the former owner of the famous "Horse Boat."

Both the hotel and the land on which it stood have long since vanished, the waters of the lake now covering the site, which was about 400 yards to the west and 150 yards to the south of the present eastern gap. The boiler of the Monarch remained imbedded in the sand, an obstacle to navigation, and was finally cleared away.

REMARKED TO HIS WIFE.

Thought He Had Been Lost at Sea and Took Another Mate.

Camden, N.J., June 26.—Fourteen years ago Mrs. Marie Wall, widow of the late Mr. Joseph Taylor, a carpet weaver of Charles-street, Kensington, Philadelphia, was then 50 years old. Eight years later Taylor died. Her first husband, Richard Wall, took her to Canada yesterday, and they were re-married by the Justice of the Peace Baldwin.

SALISBURY'S POLICY SECRET

IS IT BIG JOHN EVANS' BODY?

His Present Aim is for Early Dissolution.

Parliament Expected to Close on July 8—An Insult to Campbell-Bannerman for Which the New Premier Apologizes—Why Sir Charles Dilke Voted Against the Government.

London, June 27.—In the House of Lords to-day the Marquis of Salisbury announced that he hoped to obtain the Queen's consent to the dissolution of Parliament on July 8.

Lord Salisbury said the time had not yet arrived for a declaration of policy to be made in behalf of the Conservative party. The latter, he added, only had one policy at present, and that was to dissolve Parliament as soon as possible.

Lord Rosebery expressed surprise at the Government's declaration to dissolve its Parliament on July 8.

Continuing, the ex-premier asked for an explanation of the Marquis of Salisbury's strange proceedings in sending to H. Campbell-Bannerman, the Secretary of State for War, on Tuesday morning, for the seals of the latter's office.

The Marquis of Salisbury said that Lord Rosebery's statement was incorrect, and occurred, he explained, that after Friday's vote in the House of Commons, he (the Marquis of Salisbury) thought it desirable to appoint a new Minister of War forthwith, and therefore he sent to Mr. Bannerman to ask him if it was convenient for him to deliver his official seals to the Sovereign earlier than the other Ministers, and if he did not desire the trouble of going to Windsor himself he could deliver them to the private secretary of the Marquis of Salisbury.

The Earl of Kimberley, late Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, asserted that the Marquis of Salisbury had sent his secretary to Mr. Bannerman for the seals just as he would send a note to the Marquis of Salisbury, and the action of the Marquis was extremely discourteous. In reply, the Marquis of Salisbury said that Mr. Bannerman thought he (the Marquis) had acted discourteously, he begged to express his extreme regret for the occurrence, and felt very sorry for it.

Lord Rosebery accepted the apology of the Marquis of Salisbury on behalf of the late Secretary of State for War.

Royal assent was given to the Behring Sea Bill and to a law.

Final Cabinet Meeting.

Lord Rosebery's Cabinet held its final meeting in Downing-street this afternoon, with the object of arranging for the approaching campaign.

Salisbury insults Campbell-Bannerman.

The Daily News says that when Mr. Campbell-Bannerman, Secretary of State for War in the retiring Government, returned to his home Tuesday, after presiding at a meeting of the committee of the unemployed, he found standing on the pavement a man, who asked him for his official seals. Mr. Campbell-Bannerman did not know his accoster, but on enquiring who he was learned that he was Mr. McDonnell, Lord Salisbury's secretary.

The retiring War Minister suggested that conversation be continued within doors, whereupon Mr. McDonnell repeated his message. Mr. Campbell-Bannerman refused to deliver the seals, saying that he had received them from the Queen and would surrender them to Her Majesty when he was commanded to do so.

The Daily News, commenting on the circumstance, says: "Lord Salisbury's action violated precedent and decency, and it is only when a Minister is dismissed for misconduct or bad behavior has disqualified him from admission to the presence of the sovereign that such a course as that followed by Lord Salisbury is adopted."

The paper, which is the organ of the Liberals, says it understands that the Queen took official leave of Lord Rosebery last Sunday at Windsor Castle very graciously. She intimated that the previous Government had the arrangements in which she was personally concerned better made.

Cabinet Statement.

The Post makes the statement, for which it claims to have authority, that Lord Salisbury will be Lord High Chancellor in the new Government, vice Lord Herschell.

The Pall Mall Gazette says the Hon. Henry Chaplin has been offered and has accepted the Presidency of the Local Government Board.

Redmond on a Distinct Irish Policy.

John Redmond (Parliamentary member for Waterford city, has issued a manifesto, in which he argues that the Parrellite proposals in regard to the time of the split in the Irish Parliamentary party have been fulfilled to the letter. He attacks the anti-Parrellites for resting on their laurels, and for not having rejected the Home Rule bill for and allowing the Liberals to launch the Newcastle programme. The Parrellites, like Mr. Gladstone, wished to appeal to the country, but the anti-Parrellites went with the liberal intriguers. Mr. Redmond resigned and since then there has been no Irish question before Parliament.

Mr. Redmond declares that the Irish must return to Mr. Parrell's policy and have a National party, absolutely independent of any of the English parties. The manifesto concludes with an appeal for funds.

Sermon at the Cork Election.

Cork, June 27.—The election to fill the vacancy in the House of Commons caused by William O'Brien being declared bankrupt, was held to-day, but the result will not be known until to-morrow. The counting of the votes was postponed until then, owing to a sermoneering that took place in the counting room in which James Flynn, anti-Parrellite, M.P. for North Cork, P. O'Brien, an Ex-M.P., and others took part. The trouble was not serious.

DIVORCING CANADA.

Something Resembling a Deadlock—Other Bright Features.

The Week, in its brilliant issue to-day, says that Canada is in presence of two opposite dangers—the danger of having no divorce allowed at all and the danger of having divorce made too easy. It suggests a new way of dealing with the subject. Now that Dominion Day is at hand, and a striking paper by Mr. Barlow Chamberlain, Mr. C. W. Chadwick and other Canadians join in a symposium on our national flag. Dr. Fleming's design is reproduced in colors by special request. This number of The Week, which can be had at McKeown's, 10c, postpaid 12 cents, contains an important article on the coming Pan-American Congress, by Prof. Clark, and a striking paper by Mr. Trant of Regina, on the Northwest Territories. KIDNAPPED AND TORTURED

WEALTHY BUFFALO LAWYER CAPTURED BY OUTLAW.

A Fugitive from Justice in Canada, Who Had Paid $25,000 for Cattle Large Bulls, Men for a Fardon, Was Kidnapped and Gagged Him from His Office, Binds and Gags Him and Seeks Ransom.

Buffalo, N.Y., June 27.—Octavius O. Cottle, the well-known lawyer of this city, was kidnapped on Monday morning. He was lured to a vacant house at 355 Baynes-street, where he was overpowered by two men, who bound and gagged him, and at the point of revolvers and daggers, compelled him to write a letter to his wife directing her to deliver $25,000 to a messenger to secure his liberation. Mrs. Cottle was arranged to carry out instructions, she was advised not to do so. Meanwhile the captive was kept chained in the cellar, with one of the daring crooks on guard over him. The fellow went away on Tuesday afternoon, after several hours' persistent, desperate labor, the lawyer managed to break his chain.

The Victim's Story.

Mr. Cottle told the story of his capture on Monday morning a young and not very well-dressed man, who came to Mr. Cottle's office in the building at Main and Court-streets and handed him a note purporting to be from a resident of Chenango-street, who wanted to negotiate with Mr. Cottle for some real estate. Mr. Cottle, who was alone, and who would be kind enough to accompany his bearer, he would be conducted to the home of the subscriber, whose name the attorney did not recognize.

Mr. Cottle was quite willing to do business, and told the man that he would go with him at once. They entered the buggy, and started, apparently in the direction of Chenango-street. The driver had the bearing of a family coachman in Baynes-street, about halfway between West Ferry and Breckinridge-st., he stopped and told Mr. Cottle that they had arrived at the place where the gentleman who wrote the note lived.

Handcuffed and Gagged.

The cottage assumed the form of a barn, but Mr. Cottle did not comment on it. The driver stepped briskly ahead of him and rang the bell. Mr. Cottle was unprepared for a tall, stout man, weighing about 150 pounds. No sooner was he inside than he was handcuffed to the door. Two men pounced on Cottle, and one roughly tied a handkerchief over his mouth so that he was unable to utter a word. The most approved pattern, were slipped on his wrists. With a kick one of his captors sent the cellar-door flying. Cottle was hurried down the steps in the dark.

In one corner of the cellar was driven a high stout post, with a ring in the top in front of it was a chair. The men, who had not spoken a word during the entire performance, thrust their captives into the chair. One of them took from his pocket a pair of shackles and slipped them on Cottle's ankles. He then produced a chain, which he fastened to the cuffs to shackles.

Thoroughly Tried Up.

But that was not all. The man ran upstairs and returned with a great leather collar, such as is worn by dogs. To this was attached a chain. The collar fastened around Cottle's neck and fastened to the handcuffs. The chain was brought down before him and he was unable to utter a word. The gag was in his mouth, and he was unable to speak or to utter a word. The man who had been in charge of the party, and who was apparently of speech or action, the pair of fiends surveyed their work for a moment and then went above, leaving the abducted lawyer to his own unpleasant thoughts.

Soon they returned, one bringing pen, ink and paper. The other brought a barrel from the far end of the cellar and stood it before Cottle. The gag was presently removed from his mouth. He might now have cried out, but in the hand behind of the man was a revolver. Mr. Cottle kept still. The cuffs were slipped from his wrists, and he was told to sit up to the barrel and do as he was bid.

A Demand for $25,000.

The paper was set before him and the pen placed in his hand. The word "ransom" was written, placed it before the lawyer and ordered him to copy it in his natural handwriting and sign his name or lose his life. It was a note to his wife, telling her that he was a prisoner in Niagara Falls and that he was a fugitive from justice. He was to pay $25,000 in ransom, and he was to be released on a money amounting to the amount by the bearer.

The lawyer, with foul play staring him in the face, wrote the letter with trembling hand and signed it.

"If you try to yell I will shoot you," "If you starve to death I will shoot you," the conspirators held a whispered conference in a corner of the cellar. Then the big man took the note and started off with it, while the man who had driven Mr. Cottle to the house remained guard. He did not replace the gag, but snapped the handcuffs back on again, as to silence, he said simply: "If you try to yell I will shoot you." Cottle's own suspicions.

The big man took the note and drove with it to Mr. Cottle's house at No. 187 North-street. Mrs. Cottle answered the bell. He was very respectful, and told her that he had received the note from Mr. Cottle at the prison in Niagara Falls and that he would be very careful of whatever she gave him. He said that he had understood from Mr. Cottle that she did not have $25,000 in the house. It would be well to send all she could command, as it might be possible to effect his release on a money amounting to the amount by the bearer.

Mrs. Cottle considered the letter bona fide, and was very much flustered at the thought of hunting up so much cash in a moment's notice. She was about to go for all the money in the house, however, when her son came in and asked what was the cause of her consternation. She showed him the note, and he smelled a rat at once. He told her that he would return with him to Niagara Falls and attend to his father's wants.

"All right," was the reply. The fact, which was the only one on Monday afternoon brought to him, was that he had a lunch of them. Toward evening the big man went away, and he made a lunch of them. ROYAL CANADIAN YACHT CLUB

Launch of the Club's New Steel Steam Yacht Hiawatha. Wednesday, July 8, will mark, as it were, the epoch in the history of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club.

For the last year or so it has been felt by the club that their launch "Esperanza" had outlived her time and was entitled to an honorable discharge and a new boat of more modern type.

In reply to numerous inquiries for a launch at ports, both in Canada and the United States, several offers were received and the work of selecting a suitable model was somewhat tedious.

It was thought advisable with a view of securing the very strongest and most durable with comfort, that the new boat should be built of steel, and it is owing to this that there has been some delay in obtaining the specially treated material required for her construction.

The launch is now almost completed. The launching of the "Hiawatha" was arranged for Wednesday, July 8, from the wharves of her builders, at the foot of Bathurst-st., at 4 o'clock p.m.

Her length over all is 65 feet. Her moulded depth is 12 feet. Her extreme draught is 4 feet. The hull is built entirely of Siemens-Martin mild steel, tested by Lloyd's.

LEAVE MANITOBA ALONE. The answer of the Legislature of Manitoba to the Remedial Order issued by the Federal Government will probably reach Ottawa to-morrow. Up to the receipt of that document the Federal Government have been acting, as they claimed, in a judicial capacity.

And from that we say next that, under all the circumstances, it is in the best public policy not to pass any remedial legislation. And in saying this we have a clear appreciation of the grievances of the Roman Catholics of Manitoba; also a clear appreciation of the fact that the Liberals of that province in abolishing Separate schools were instigated as much by desire to embarrass the Conservative party as to promote education.

We believe thoroughly in the doctrine of provincial rights in regard to education. Any interference in this subject by the Dominion must end in disaster, perhaps; certainly in never-ending discord.

RAILWAY RATES IN MICHIGAN. The State of Michigan is in many respects similar to our own province. The province and the state adjoin each other, each has an upper portion that is sparsely populated, while the lower part of each appears to be about equally settled and equally traversed by railway lines.

According to the statistics of the state, railways are allowed to charge 3 cents per mile for any distance not exceeding 5 miles. The following restrictions apply when the distance exceeds 5 miles.

In regard to thousand mile tickets, the railway law of the State of Michigan is similar to that of our own province. The tickets lower than those sold in the Province of Ontario. All railway companies are obliged to have for sale at their principal ticket offices thousand mile tickets, not exceeding $20 in the lower portion and $25 in the upper portion.

The Grand Trunk Railway is the owner of several classes in Michigan, which, of course, come under the railway laws of the State.

Editor World: The latest request in respect to the Manitoba schools, touching the Catholics of that province, is in substance what the set of 1891 sought to require. It is that the Government should establish a month school for the Government in asking that the Catholics of Manitoba be given the same rights and privileges as the Protestants.

THE N.P. GIVES ME WORK. If the National Policy has not made us rich, it is certainly not the fault of the National Policy. We are surprised to see the Globe daily asking this question in one column and answering it in another.

doctrines to be carried on in Canada. We think it should be attributed the credit for a good deal of the money that finds its way into the hands of the proprietors and workmen engaged in the various kinds of manufacturing industries of Canada.

Ontario's doctors bid fair to rival her colleagues in prolonged discussions on what they consider burning questions. For two days in succession the Medical Council has had morning, afternoon and evening sessions, and might find them still in warm debate on Wednesday and Thursday.

Medical students will have to study a little harder, for the examination curriculum has been increased. The annual fee, or assessment, awaits a third day's debate before decision. Nothing has been done to satisfy those members of the council who wish to dispose of the medical building on Bay and Richmond-streets.

Educational Report. The Committee on Education reported that, through Sir James Grant, a communication had been received from Lord Aberdeen expressing his appreciation of the sentiments of devotion and loyalty expressed by the students of the University of Toronto medical faculty and the Ontario Medical College for Women in connection with the object of the meeting.

Dr. Brittain explained the proposed changes in the medical curriculum which he had submitted to the University of Toronto. These were that, instead of the University passing matters of a technical nature to the Council, the Council should be empowered to pass matters of a technical nature to the University.

Dr. Campbell said that there was an outside public opinion that the sole object in raising the standard was to avoid competition. He did not believe this, but he was sorry that indirect expressions by members of council, such as "We are overworked," had justified this opinion.

Dr. Sangster said the public desired to see a more stringent standard of preliminary medical education. The cry that the council is catering in this for the benefit of the medical profession, he thought, was a cry of ignorance.

Dr. Barrick said he was in hearty sympathy with the committee's report. The council decided that all examinations, as heretofore, should be held in the University of Toronto.

Dr. Rogers resumed the argument on the annual dues. The present financial condition of the council demanded the imposition of these fees, the debt being $7000, and likely to be soon $12,000. If the fees were not exacted he could see nothing before the council but bankruptcy.

Dr. Armour repeated his objection to the tax, the chief of which being that it was unnecessary. He took a more roseate view of the financial position than the council had taken. In 1893 the debt was $18,000.

Dr. Thornton delivered a strong speech against the assessment. The council's financial position was not so bad as it was represented to be. He said the council possessed powers which were not given to any other corporation or body of the earth, and which were a disgrace to the council.

Dr. Logan said: If the council think it desirable to pass upon the wheels of medical progress, tell us who the men, and we will set out; but do not go behind our backs and ventilate falsehoods about it as has been done in various parts of the province.

Here is a Letter,

just one out of hundreds that are coming in every day. We publish it for the benefit of the women who read about Pearlina, but who still keep on washing without it, in that needlessly hard and wearing way. We omit name and address, as requested: "Now I will tell you how I came to use your PEARLINE. We have taken the 'Ladies' Home Journal' for several years. Three and a half years ago, every time I picked up my 'Journal' to read, the first thing I would see was your advertisement and picture of PEARLINE. I got so tired of looking at it, that I said I would get a package and try it. The result was, when the package was gone I bought another package, and so I have done ever since. I never think of going to wash clothes since, without my PEARLINE. I have recommended it to quite a number of people, who are now using it, just from my recommendation. I have just written this to you to let you know how highly I prize it. I don't want my name and address to go before the public."

HOW TO BE A GENT.

Through the courtesy of the publishers we are enabled to present to our readers these extracts from advance sheets of "The Perfect Gentleman; or Rungs in the Ladder to Social Success."

Remember always that "perpetuator," or bedroom drinking is supposed to be for mutual enjoyment, and as far as possible, to make each place that you visit brighter and happier than it would be without your presence.

Do not indulge in formal toasts. A mere nod of recognition as you raise your glass is quite sufficient. Excessive banalities as "Looking at you," and the like. They are not any funnier than in the remark that you are "helping to put down" the liquor traffic.

Don't grab a wine glass by the bowl, but hold the stem between the thumb and forefinger. If you are a bit tremulous, don't drink wine; take whiskey and utilize the old handkerchief-around-the-neck device.

A vexed question is the proper attitude at the bar. Observation of the best form drinkers confirms one in the belief that an easy posture is the one to adopt.

Never "give the finger" unless you are sure of your man, and even then as you pass out it is just as well to cheer him up by saying "Well, old man, I'll see you again soon."
