Cross-Examination of Hendrickson Postponed

TITANIC INQUIRY

Dillon's Evidence as to Water-Tight Compartment Corroborated by Man in the Turbine Engine Room—Lights Were Those From Other Lifeboats

London, May 10.—The board of inquiry into the Titanic disaster was resumed today under the presidency of Lord Mersey. So important did the White Star Company consider the evidence of Chas. Hendrickson, one of the firemen of the Titanic, who testified yesterday that he was the last of those who were in the lifeboat which was one of the crew, had not returned to the scene of the disaster because Sir Commo and Lady Duff-Gordon objected that it would be dangerous to do so, that the company's attorney, by William Arthur Bone, professor of Applied Chemistry at Leeds University, this morning requested that the cross-examination of the witness be postponed.

The attorney desired time to consult with the surviving officers of the Titanic. These will arrive in England on board the S. S. Adriatic, on which vessel J. Bruce Ismay is also a passenger.

The request was granted by the court, and Lord Mersey also asked that the tribunal be supplied with a list of the lifeboats and with the number of passengers carried on board each of them, showing, as far as possible, the proportions of the sexes, and the number of children.

Other members of the crew were called today and closely examined as to how they left the Titanic, the number of passengers in their boats, and whether or not they returned to the scene of the disaster to try to rescue some of those in the water.

A Steward testified that he had actually pushed women into the boats. No court, he said, was taken of the class to which they belonged. His evidence is considered important, as it shows that in lifeboat No. 14 from which all the passengers were transferred to other boats, while Mrs. G. M. Peckham, a widow, was the only survivor.

The observance in the Public Schools of St. John

Special and appropriate exercises were conducted today in the public schools when the scholars either participated in programs in observance of Arbor Day or listened to descriptive talks from their teachers on the meaning of the day, the planting of flowers, vegetables or trees, or other matters pertaining to the plant life.

In most of the schools the pupils had a short program in which readings or choruses were given, together with an explanatory talk by the teacher on topics relating to the vegetable kingdom.

In the High School this afternoon the pupils of all grades were assembled in the exhibition hall with W. J. S. Miles, principal of the school, presiding, and at two o'clock an instructive, interesting, and entertaining programme was given.

Miles spoke briefly on the observance of the day, after which the patriotic song, "O Canada" was sung by the pupils of grade 9. An essay on "The Coming of Spring" was given by Robert Nugent of grade 9, and Walter Pigeon of the same grade gave a recitation, "The Maple." An essay on "The Lumber Industry of New Brunswick" was presented by Walter Beattie, and three girls from grade 9 were heard in a vocal trio. Miss Jessie Jamieson gave an essay on "Spring Flowers," and Miss Grace Henderson a recitation. Fifteen girls from Miss Lawson's room gave a floral chorus and after an essay on "Trees in Spring" by Fred Manning of grade 12, the singing of the National Anthem brought the programme to a close.

Calgary, May 10.—Why were American flags prominently displayed on the automobiles in the opening baseball parade, through the streets of Calgary?

This is a question which the citizens have been asking since they saw the cars moving along the principal streets with the stars and stripes floating from points of vantage.

Family Corporation to Keep All of the Name From Want—Lines of German Custom Followed

(Copyright, 1912, by the Brentwood Company.)

A new and most beneficent sort of corporation has just been embodied under the laws of the State of New York, that is well worthy, judging by the scope and action of somewhat similar associations abroad, of being initiated in all parts of this country.

The "Delafield Family Association" is the name of this new company, and its object is to provide a permanent body whose business it will be to see that no one in America named Delafield shall ever suffer from the pangs of hunger or poverty.

I have not read the articles of incorporation, but, judging from my knowledge of business in Europe, I presume that the rich members of the Delafield family have contributed a lump sum to begin with, as a seed endowment fund, and that every body of the name will subscribe according to his means. The capital of the association will also be augmented by testamentary bequests, according to the confident expectations of the founders.

In the words of John Ross Delafield, of New York, the attorney of the association, "If one of our family should meet misfortune and be unable to start himself properly in life, or properly to start his children, the association will, from the funds that are given or bequeathed to it, appropriate a proper amount for him, and will not simply give, but will help him to get on his feet, and will not permit our relatives or descendants. The idea is rather that of a benevolent association, which will help to start ones over any financial chasm to which they may have been brought."

The Delafields claim that their intention of forming any sort of aristocracy or elite society, and say that they are merely following an old custom, quite common in Europe, and brought to America by the early Dutch settlers.

It is indeed, quite true that such associations exist in Europe. There are more than 100 family associations in Germany, many of them belonging to the aristocracy, in which all the adult members have a seat and a vote. Their object is to put on their feet again any members who may have come to financial grief. Furthermore, they endeavor to protect the honor of the family name by punishing and expelling from the clan any member guilty of a reprehensible act.

The Kaiser has encouraged the growth of these family associations by authorizing several of them to elect one of their members to represent it in the Prussian House of Lords.

One of the oldest of these associations is that of the Seckendorfs, a family that formed an alliance with the Hohenzollerns long before the latter had attained royal position. For hundreds of years the Seckendorfs and Hohenzollerns have been connected by bonds of friendship, and all the wars of Germany the Seckendorfs have played an honorable part and in nearly every instance they have had a member in the diplomatic service. It will be remembered that when Prince Henry of Prussia visited the United States in 1907, the chief functionary on his staff was Vice Admiral Freiherr von Seckendorff.

This clan has held regular meetings for hundreds of years, helping the unfortunate members of the clan who have fallen and incurred its displeasure. Among the latter was the well known Washington correspondent of a prominent New York daily, M. G. Seckendorff. Although after having hopefully quarrelled with the clan he was supplied of any possible pecuniary benefit therefrom, the outlawry did not extend to his children, for when he died, a kindly helping hand was extended to them, and they are being looked after as full members. Moreover, he was buried there with full family honors.

Another such family is that of the Buelows, which is very numerous, numbering upwards of 300 adults. At their annual reunion a few years ago, Prince Buelow, who was then the imperial chancellor, and head of the family, told the hundreds of his uncles, aunts, sisters and cousins there of what their family had done for Germany during the last 700 years, and of the old proverb "every sovereign of the House of Hohenzollern has had his Buelow."

These numerous German family associations, which do the good will of the government, as best on preventing their members from becoming dependent upon public charity, and encouraging a high standard of citizenship and service to the state.

In France

In France, too, they have what they call the "Conseil de famille," which is composed of the chief adult members, and its meetings are invariably attended by the family lawyer, who records the deliberations and their conclusions, in due legal phraseology. The French family councils are sometimes, however, rather tyrannical, especially as their decisions are usually confirmed by the tribunals of the country. After the family lawyer has embodied the decision in a legal document, he, accompanied by two members of the council, submits it to the judges of the law courts, who usually ratify the decision without any further inquiry, for they take it for granted that the members of the family, who have the interests of that family at heart, are far better judges of what is best to be done than any outsider, however learned in the law, could possibly be. Although, as a rule, they may be right—in the vast majority of cases, indeed—yet sometimes the readiness of the judges to accept the findings of the council have the effect of giving legality to injustice and cruelty.

For instance, the mother of the late Duc de Chaulnes, by birth a Russian Princess Galtzin, was deprived of the custody of her two young children, who were handed over to her mother-in-law, who had always hated her, and turned every innocent action of the beautiful girl into a crime. The mother-in-law, the Duchesse de Chaulnes, happened to be a power in Parisian society and eventually she made against her unfortunate daughter-in-law was promptly endorsed and confirmed by the judges. Being a foreigner, and not understanding French law, Princess Galtzin de Chaulnes, in despair at having her children taken away from her, tried to seize them by force, with the result that she was arrested by the police and again deprived of them, while her sympathizers and helpers were prosecuted for kidnapping, and sentenced to terms of hard labor.

The princess afterwards died of privation in one of the most poverty-stricken quarters of Paris, the victim of a cruel mother-in-law, seconded by a tyrannical family council, and a too compliant judiciary, for the poor princess had no opportunity of clearing herself by a public trial.

But the "Conseil de famille" is hardly in the same category as the German family unions, being punitive rather than philanthropic and helpful. And it is this pointlessness of the Delafields have in mind in their new associations.

Whether or not there are any poor Delafields I do not know, and I am equally ignorant regarding their numbers in the various states of the union. But I do know that there are a good many prominent and wealthy families of the name in St. Louis, and in New York. In the latter city is, for instance, a very prominent physician, Francis Delafield, known the world over for his skill, and for his books on anatomy and other professional subjects. There are also Delafield bankers and lawyers, all of whom seem to be prosperous.

I think I may venture to say, therefore, that anyone who happens to have been born a Delafield, or to have married a Delafield, is to be congratulated, for, even if he or she may not attain to great wealth, the dread of dire poverty is removed.

Daily Hints For the Cook

CARROTINA RICE.

Put one and one-half quarter cupsful of the best rice (picked but not washed) in covered steppan with two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-half of a tablespoonful of paprika (Hungarian pepper), and one teaspoonful of salt. Mix well. Place cover, in hot oven for ten minutes, take out, add a good sized carrot cut into cubes and six cupsful of chicken or mutton broth; cook slowly, one to two hours, in a double boiler. Any herbs put in must be removed before serving.

CARAMEL SYRUP.

One cup of sugar, one cup of boiling water. Melt the sugar in a frying pan, carefully, with constant stirring. When the sugar has become a light golden-brown syrup, add the water gradually and very carefully, as it will cause much bubbling. The syrup is far hotter than boiling water and must be most carefully handled. Boil the caramel in the water 10 minutes, let cool and serve. Be careful that the syrup does not boil too fast and so become too thick.

TOMATO BOULLION.

Cook together 4 cans of tomatoes, three pints of bouilli, a tablespoonful of chopped onion, a half of a bay leaf, six cloves, half a teaspoon of celery seed, half a teaspoon of pepper corns and cook 20 minutes. Strain, cool and clear. Add par-boiled oysters, a pint, and serve in bouillon cups.

No Thought of Annexation of Canada or Its Subordination in Any Way to United States

(Halifax Chronicle.)

In view of the attempt which has been made by certain partisan organs to read into the words "political reasons" used by Theodore Roosevelt in his private letter to President Taft, expressing approval of the reciprocity agreement, annexation designs upon Canada, The Morning Chronicle sent the following telegram to Mr. Roosevelt:

Hon. Theodore Roosevelt,
The Outlook,
New York.

The Conservative press in Canada is interpreting the words "political reasons" used by you in your private letter to Mr. Taft, recently published, to mean that you believed that the annexation of Canada to the United States would speedily follow the consummation of the reciprocity negotiations. Will you be good enough, for the benefit of the Canadian people, to wire us for publication an explanation of the sense in which you used the words "political reasons." We strongly favored the proposed reciprocity agreement, and desire that public opinion in the country should not be misled.

THE MORNING CHRONICLE.
Last night the following very explicit telegram in reply was received:
New York, May 7th, 1912
The Morning Chronicle,
Halifax, N. S.

Your telegram to Mr. Roosevelt stating that the Conservative press in Canada is interpreting the words "political reasons" used by him in a confidential letter to Mr. Taft as meaning that Mr. Roosevelt believed that the annexation of Canada to the United States would speedily follow the consummation of the reciprocity negotiations has been received. Such an interpretation is not warranted by the facts. When Mr. Roosevelt used the words "political reasons," he had not the slightest thought of the annexation of Canada or her subordination in any way to the United States. If you will turn to Mr. Roosevelt's speech of February 10 last year at Detroit, Michigan, you will see that he stated, in effect, that his chief reason for favoring the course of Mr. Taft, as he then understood it, was to promote the kindest and most friendly good feeling between the two countries. In that speech Mr. Roosevelt said:

"I feel that we are to be congratulated as a nation upon the likelihood of obtaining a closer reciprocity of tariff and trade relations with Canada. Among all the powers of the earth there is none with which we should desire to be upon a more intimate footing of equal rights, to which we should be more closely bound in relations of mutual helpfulness, esteem and goodwill than in the case of our great neighbor to the north, whose prosperity and growth should be a matter of pride to all who dwell on the American continent. I welcome the proposed reciprocity treaty as marking a signal advance in bringing about the closest and most friendly relations between the two countries. Similar sentiments were also expressed

Some Housecleaning Resolutions: Will You Make Them?

By RUTH CAMERON

I will remember that my husband and children would rather have a pleasant happy wife and mother, than the most immaculate house in the world; therefore, I will try not to do any more house cleaning than I can do and keep well and pleasant.

I will not be influenced in the smallest degree by the amount of cleaning which my neighbor does. I know what my house needs and what I am capable of doing, and no feats of hers shall spur me to do one whit more. I will not criticize my neighbor's house cleaning. She knows what is best for her.

This season I will try to do away with every piece of furniture and every ornament which is not yielding due return in utility or beauty for the care which I have to give it.

When I am looking over our clothes and putting things away for the summer, I will remember that I have no right to keep anything on the vague chance that I might possibly need it in the distant future, when there are so many who undoubtedly need it right now. I will try to make my charity bundle larger than ever before, and I will see that it contains less junk and more charity.

I will not go beyond the limit of my strength in trying to finish this or that task at any special time. No matter how temptingly near the completion of any task I may be, I will stop when I know I ought to. It is better to give up finishing that last shelf in the dining-room closet than to finish it and myself, too.

I will make some radical changes in the arrangement of my furniture. There is nothing in the world so healthful as change. Even little changes like this help get us out of the rut and refresh us. I'll like to go to Europe this spring. I can't. I can rearrange the living-room furniture, so I will.

If possible, I will deprive myself of some other luxury and put a few more dollars this year into buying strength for my spring cleaning.

I will not eat hurried and insufficient meals in house-cleaning time because I want to get back to my cleaning, when you want an engine to go very fast you do not cut down its supply of coal.

First, last and always, I will try to remember that my family and I do not exist for our house, but that our house is for us; and holding firmly to that perspective, I will try to go about my house cleaning this year more sanely, sensibly and tranquilly than I ever have before.

RIDS POISONS FROM THE BLOOD

Some people use stimulating medicines in the spring. This is a mistake. The action of the heart is increased. You feel better for a time, but the reaction soon sets in. You are discounting the future by using up more rapidly the little strength you have left.

Get a real tonic—a true tonic, one which will increase the amount of pure, rich blood in the body, revitalize the feeble, wasted nerve cells, and so prove of lasting benefit to you.

A good example of a true tonic is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This food cure does not give you false hope, but gradually and naturally builds up the tired, worn-out system. You may not feel the benefits so quickly, but have the satisfaction of knowing that the gain you make is natural and lasting. There is no spring tonic half so satisfactory as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

PERSONALS

Louis Hopper, formerly of this city, arrived in the city this morning from Medicine Hat. USEFUL AT TIMES. The musical lady sat nonchalantly in the saloon of the great professor. Not only was she full of ambition, but she bubbled over with conceit. "Professor," said also, in such tones of self-commendation as to ruffle the old man's nerves, "do you think I shall ever do anything with my voice?" "Madam," he replied, "if there was a configuration in your road, your voice would be useful to scream 'Fire!' Then the lady departed in a huff. THE YOUTH BALKED. A farmer was anxious that his son should become a minister, and for this laudable end he sent him to college for four years, but to his great disappointment the youth balked at the ministry and set himself up as a horse-dealer. The old farmer told his grief to a neighbor who, however, took a more optimistic view of the matter. "Oh, I wouldn't feel so badly about that," he said. "As a horse-dealer Bill will probably lead more men to repentance than he ever would have done as a preacher."

WAS IT WORTH WHILE? Jan always did attract little Arthur and he persisted in helping himself, in spite of his mother's orders. One day she caught him in the act, the jam-pot in one hand and a large spoon in the other. "Arthur, you naughty boy!" she said sadly. "Why do you always disobey me and steal the jam?" Arthur's sweet blue eyes turned heavenward and a little smile stole around his lips. "It was just wondering, mother," he murmured, gently. "Wondering?" What do you mean, child?" asked his exasperated parent. "Well, mother, I haven't tasted the jam yet," explained the lad, "and I was just wondering if it's nice enough to be whipped for!"

THE FIRST PERSON. (Judge.) "They had been quarrelling, and although hubby was willing to take the blame all upon himself and make peace, she was still snippy and indifferent. "Come over here, Bessie. Aren't you curious to know what is in this package?" she replied belligerently. "Well, it's something for the one I love best in all the world," he said coaxingly. "Oh, is that so? I suppose, then, those suspenders you said you needed."

country dame got in and ceased herself. A very heavy storm of rain came on, and when the train drew up at the next station the good lady looked anxiously out of the window. After a short stay the train again started on its way to the old lady's amusement. "Ter's a purty coo, sir," she said, turning towards the heartless wag. "An' my old man was waitin' on the platform. Why won't they let 'em get out when it's raining?"

TEACHING THE BLIND

A very interesting volume is the 41st annual report of the Halifax School for the Blind. No less than 153 blind persons were under instruction during the past year. Of these 18 graduated or remained at home, and at the end of the year there were 135 in the school, of whom 70 were males and 65 females.

Within five years there will be some millions of people in Canada who were not born in this country, and to many of whom the ideals of the Canadian people do not necessarily appeal. We must make the most of all educative forces to impress upon these people the value of citizenship in Canada and in the Empire of which Canada forms a part.

The signs point to a provincial election at an early date. When Hon. Mr. Cochrane surveyed the array of patronage hunters at St. John he talked about the weather, especially the rain.

It is suggested that a monument to Judge Mabee be erected. The late chairman of the railway commission is certainly worthy of the honor.

It may be hoped that the members of the new city council are unanimous in favor of a local sanitarium for consumptives, to be provided as once.

The announcement that East St. John is soon to have a water supply and a street car service will increase popular interest in the developments there.

If it is true that some of the miners in Pennsylvania are buying firearms they should be rounded up by the militia and stripped of their weapons.

That freeman's story about the heartless selfishness of Sir Cosmo and Lady Duff-Gordon at the sinking of the Titanic will need some confirmation. It seems too shameful to be true.

Mr. Pinder, Kink of the Nackawick, wanted a piece in the Essex-Planning government. In that he failed, but he got the bonds of a railway guaranteed.

The supporters of Mr. Fleming have been trying to make a deal by which they would permit one or two Liberal members to be elected without opposition in St. John county if their own candidates in the city were opposed.

The minister of railways will perhaps be more stable and communitative when he has had a little more experience. Not that he is destined, however, to hold his present office for any lengthened period.

The Standard is still opposed to any increase in the British preference, but keeps both hands on the flag and rails against a larger free market in the United States for Canadian farm products.

The second reading of the Home Rule bill in the British parliament brought a larger majority in its favor than the first reading. The Tories cannot persuade the House that there is danger for the Empire in the proposed extension of local autonomy in the United Kingdom, any more than there was in South Africa or Canada.

Hon. Richard McBride continues to assure the British public that Mr. Borden has a large and massive naval policy concealed about his person. This is very unkind of the British Columbia premier. Mr. Borden is still looking for a naval policy, and while doing so is compelled to keep one eye constantly fixed on his Nationalist allies.

That was a remarkable naval demonstration at Weymouth Bay on Tuesday, in presence of King George, and it was chiefly remarkable because of the great success in the movements of the aerial fleet. It is now claimed that England has a new machine invented by Englishmen which is superior to all others and places Britain in the foremost place in the conquest of the air for naval purposes.

THOSE CHRONIC ADJECTIVES. "I always make it a practice to let tomorrow take care of itself." "That's easy enough, but it's for getting yesterday that causes trouble for so many of us."—From the Chicago Record-Herald.

TRAGEDY OF HOTEL

Faithless Woman Shot by Jealous Lover Who Then Commits Suicide

Paris, May 9.—There is great excitement in the Passy district of Paris over a drama which has been enacted in a trim hotel in one of the principal streets. The house, which was very prosperous, is kept by M. and Madame Mathieu, who were regarded with the utmost esteem throughout the neighborhood. The landlady, a very handsome woman of forty, was the object of considerable admiration, but she, as well as her husband, was so much respected that not a word reflecting on her character was ever to be heard.

Yet for the last six months there had been a strange romance. A man a few years older than herself had paid successful court to her. He was very well off for a person in his position, and he had been in the habit of taking his meals at the hotel. All the time the landlady had never entertained the faintest suspicion that anything was wrong. This romance might have run its course without let or hindrance if another man, who happened to be very good looking, had not taken up his abode at the house. The landlady was very polite to the new-comer, but something more; yet the other, being of a very gloomy disposition, took umbrage at her civilities to his favored rival, and watched him assiduously.

Madame Mathieu was writing a letter after dinner. The two men and several other tenants were in the room with her, when her lover began to tease her. She thereupon changed her place and seated herself at another table by the side of the new-comer, exclaiming that she would now be left in peace. She had just finished the letter, which her husband had gone out to post, and had walked into the hall, when she was followed by her lover, and a moment later the report of three shots resounded. The man staggered back to the room with a hand on his chest, from which blood was flowing, and behind her came her lover, whose face was in a ghastly state.

The constabulary of the company may well be imagined. An ambulance was sent for, and the hero and heroine of this drama, both of whom were by this time insensible, were conveyed to the Bonaparte Hospital. The man, who had lodged a bullet in his forehead, expired a few minutes after their arrival. As for the landlady, she is in a very precarious condition, with wounds in the neck and in the region of the heart. Her husband and their daughter, who is twenty years of age, are overwhelmed by this terrible misfortune.

FINDS MUSIC IN WAILING OF BABES

English Clergyman Introduces It Into Composition for Psalm

London, May 9.—Music for Psalm exxxvii. "By the waters of Babylon we sat," was inspired entirely, says the composer, "from hearing babies cry at baptismal services."

The composer is Rev. Noel Bonavia-Hunt, who has been for six years the senior curate of St. Matthew's church, Wilton, a London suburb. During his six years at St. Matthew's the senior curate has christened many Willesden babies, and, contrary to the generality of mankind, he found music in their wails.

"I was so impressed," he says, "with the musical qualities of the cries that I considered they ought to be recorded in some way. I also wished to write a chant which was original."

"This composition is original and at the same time musical and not grotesque. It represents more or less the meaning of the words to which it is set. By the waters of Babylon we sat, and wept, and when we remembered thee, O Lord, the lamentation is illustrated musically by the wailing of babies and the general cry of human beings."

It seems that babies when they cry, in church at any rate, do so at certain musical intervals, seventh, sixth, or second. Boys cry louder than girls. All crying can be reduced to numbers, when played on the organ, the long drawn wailing of infants mingled with the cries of men and women.

MORE ELOQUENT THAN ARGUMENTS

A WORLD IMPORTANT EVOLUTION

Without doubt the most engrossing feature of modern history is the awakening of Asia—the continent of the great, almost innumerable yellow races.

On this continent lives about one-half of the world's population—they are now beginning to trade with other parts of the world.

The trade between the United States and Europe made New York the second largest city in the world—but Asia contains many times the population of Europe.

A few years ago Japan was regarded as but a unimportant nation in the world—now it is among the great powers, and progressing probably faster than any country of similar population.

But Japan has only about 50,000,000 people to China's 400,000,000—and now China is waking up, the United States Steel Trust is manufacturing steel there.

When China is fully developed what gigantic effects may it not have on the world, commercially and otherwise?

When the significance of this fact alone is considered, it does not seem so very wonderful after all if the C. P. R. established at Coquitlam the finest and largest railway terminal facilities on the American continent, and made it a city to rival Oakland, California, which bears about the same relation to San Francisco as Coquitlam will to Vancouver.

This great awakening of the Orient will of course, mean more to the Pacific Coast of North America than to any other part of the world except Asia itself, and it will mean more to the ports of the North Pacific Coast than those farther south, because the farther north you go the nearer you are to China.

These C. P. R. officials, the heads of other roads, manufacturers and others see all this—they are not going to wait, but they are acting now.

THE CHANGE IN COQUITLAM

There is nothing in the history of real estate in North America to compare with Coquitlam in the quickness of the change wrought there by man at the dictation of Nature in the last few months.

Only a few months ago Coquitlam was but a junction point—a smiling plain, surrounded by rivers and mountains, beautiful to behold, but giving no promise of anything else.

Now everything is changed—the Canadian Pacific has commenced work, other people are building houses, stores and other buildings, Coquitlam is becoming widely known all over Canada, the United States and Great Britain, and dozens of people have made small fortunes there in many cases out of only a few dollars.

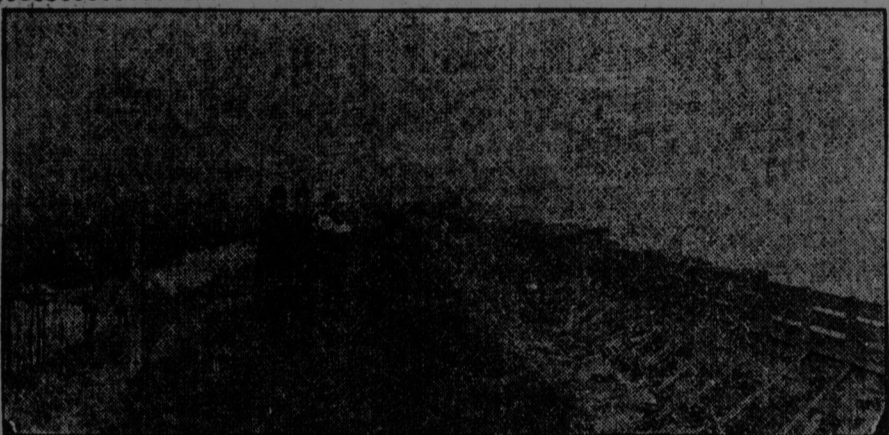

Who can tell what the next few months will bring forth. Other railways besides the C. P. R. will undoubtedly come to Coquitlam—newspapers say at least five others, some of which will have terminals there.

Numerous manufacturers and others are enquiring almost daily about sites at Coquitlam for factories, etc.

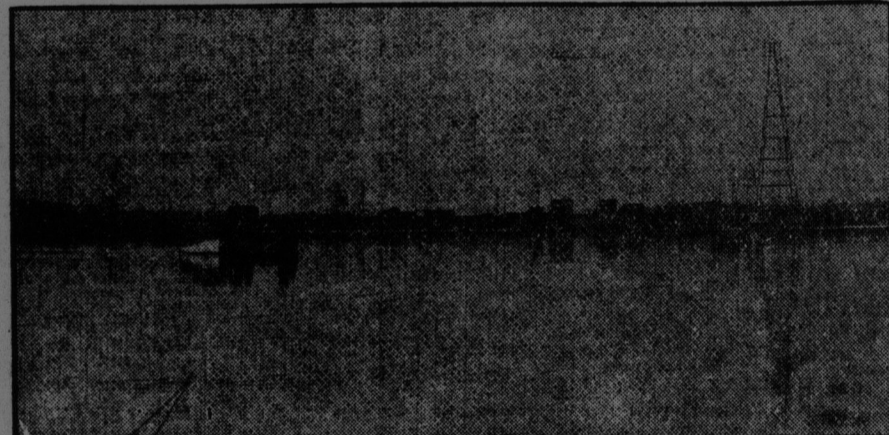

One lumber mill has been built by the Brown-McKay Lumber Company and is now ready for operation—it will employ forty men at the start.

Houses are being erected in all directions.

The reason for the quick changes in Coquitlam is because the C. P. R. and a lot of other people are realizing that at Coquitlam there must be a city—economic conditions, not only in the Vancouver Metropolitan District, but in other parts of Canada and of the world demand it—here is a strategic site, the funnel of a continent, the neck of a great bottle.

If In Doubt, Read This

"Opportunities in Western Canada," a booklet published by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, third edition, page 146, says in part regarding Coquitlam—

"Here the company has acquired a large tract of land, on which it will establish and maintain large yards, shops and terminal facilities."

We are ourselves building 25 houses in Coquitlam Townsite now; further announcement regarding our own building activity will be made in the course of a few days.

Surveyors are now busy on the route of the Industrial Railway to be built by ourselves at a cost of $30,000, to accommodate the industries which are about to locate in Coquitlam—applications for these industrial sites are coming in daily.

The time for the wise—for the men with big minds, who can look ahead—to buy at Coquitlam is NOW.

Remember practically all of the Terminal Townsite is now on the market—there will be no more, except a few industrial lots and areas.

"Nothing at Coquitlam Yet"

We have more than once heard the remark that Coquitlam hasn't even got the C. P. R. shops yet.

Some people would like to see thousands of men actually at work in the shops there before buying a lot.

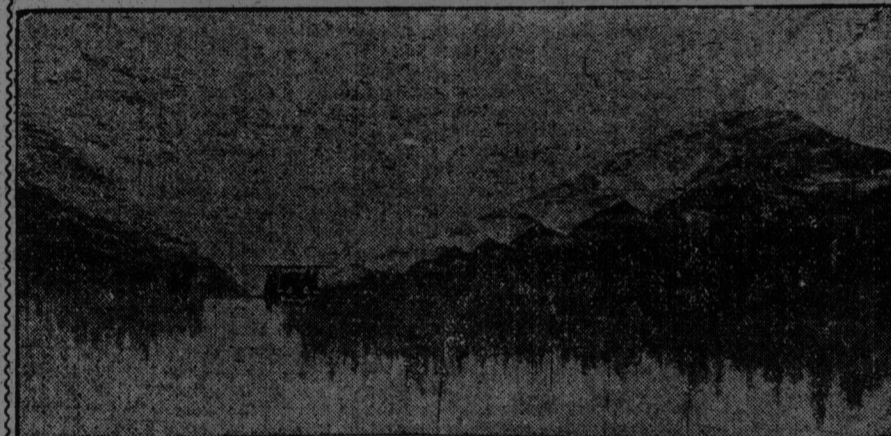

They would like to see great industries operated there; while the prices of real estate remained stationary for them.

But, dear reader, prices cannot remain as they are now—if all these things were at Coquitlam now, we would have long ago sold out all our property, which comprises the Terminal Townsite.

The other day we received a letter from a person who had bought a lot in Edmonton years ago for $60; he didn't think Edmonton would ever amount to much, so he sold his lot—now it is worth $60,000.

Some of the lots in the Terminal Townsite of Coquitlam will be worth about that much when some of these people decide to buy.

ACTUAL PRESENT DEVELOPMENTS

Perhaps you have read in newspapers and elsewhere about the wonderful development and future promised for Coquitlam.

But you may have your doubts as to the reality of these things.

Only the fool will jump at any proposition without first applying his common sense.

Again, only the fool will hesitate when he has made certain as night is different to day that the proposition is good.

Here are a very few of the developments taking place at Coquitlam even as this is written. Remember all these things require the expenditure of real money. Deeds speak louder than words. Also money talks.

The C. P. R. has built bunkhouses to accommodate 1000 men, and are at present employing, about five hundred workmen laying tracks and sidings; they also have at work four large locomotives and four construction trains.

M. P. Cotton & Co., who have the contract for building the streets and clearing property, have now about two hundred men at work.

The United Canadian Lumber Company, which is erecting a mill on the Pitt River waterfront, has now about fifteen men framing the mill.

Several hotels, restaurants, offices, etc., are being erected, and dozens of houses are being rushed to completion.

The municipality of Coquitlam is now employing about one hundred men and twenty teams on the streets; they have also a rock crusher at work.

Approximately about three hundred men are working at Coquitlam building houses and on other projects besides the C. P. R.

Several industries are ready for actual operations, and others are building. One now ready is the Brown-McKay Company's new lumber mill, employing at the start forty men.

The contractors are excavating for the new roundhouse, which will be near the corner of Flint and Dewdney Roads, close to James Park. The first unit of twelve stalls will cost about $100,000 and eventually will have 48 stalls.

The sure and substance of these few actual developments at a place which is practically only six months old means that the men who know—the men who are putting their money into it—believe in Coquitlam; they are not waiting either, but are showing the faith that is in them with cold cash.

All these men and their money and everything else that comes to Coquitlam will work for you if you own some of it. You can own it pretty easily if you want to NOW.

The young man put down an umbrella which was carrying and waded into his adversary. After giving him a trouncing he picked up his umbrella and walked quietly away. The laboring man reported to have pinned himself up and limped away.

BIG DOCK ST. DEAL

Frontage of 223 Feet and Five Buildings Sold

PRICE IS $75,000

Extends From R. Sullivan & Co's to Mrs. Simpson's and Takes in Fourteen Stores on Ground Floor—Bought by Thos. Nagle and Said to be Sold Again

One of the most important sales of city property which have been reported recently was completed yesterday. The property transferred is the block in Dock street owned by the B. Ferguson estate, with a frontage of 223 feet in Dock street, including some vacant land in the rear and with a rear entrance from Chipman Hill.

There are five buildings on the land, extending from that occupied by R. Sullivan & Co's to Mrs. Simpson's grocery store, inclusive, and taking in fourteen stores on the ground floor. The purchaser was Thomas Nagle, and it is understood that he has already turned it over to outside buyers. The purchase price was $75,000.

This property has engaged the attention of several purchasers for some time and there has been stiff competition in the buying. A local real estate firm is said to have had a check for the amount ready to pay over but lost it by the narrow margin of five minutes.

It was rumored around the streets that the property was purchased as a site for the C. P. R. hotel concerning which rumor has been busy for several years, but as far as is known there is no confirmation of this.

Other sales which were reported today, but which have not yet reached the stage, were details of the given, including one of the finest residences in Wellington Row and a valuable piece of vacant land in Prince William street.

EVIDENCE GIVEN IN THE WILCOX CASE

Thomas Reynolds of Royal Hotel on the Stand

The preliminary hearing in the case of James A. Wilcox, charged with obtaining money under false pretences from Thomas Reynolds, manager of the Royal Hotel, and also for attempting to obtain $800 from E. S. Crawford, manager of the Charlottetown branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, by presenting a forged draft bearing the signature of J. H. Bond, was begun in the police court this morning. The prisoner was represented by E. S. Ritchie.

Thomas Reynolds, the first witness, said on the afternoon of April 29, the prisoner went into the Royal Hotel and registered under the name of D. R. Kerr. He remained around the hotel office all afternoon, and at a quarter to seven o'clock he went to the witness and asked for some money, saying that he had deposited a check for $800 with one of the clerks. The witness got the check out of the safe and asked Wilcox to endorse it. He then gave Wilcox $20. The prisoner asked to have $85 in an envelope and leave it at the office for a Mr. Kelly, whom he said, would call. In a few minutes the witness looked at the name on the back of the check, which was McReedy. He then went to the washroom, where Wilcox was, and asked him why he had endorsed the check McReedy when he was registered as D. R. Kerr. The prisoner told him that he had made a mistake, and had signed the name of a friend of his for whom he had some letters. When questioned further Wilcox admitted that the check was a forgery and he handed the witness back $20.

He then wanted to regain possession of the check, but the witness took him into the private office and telephoned for Detective Killen who came and took the prisoner away. The witness identified the check produced in court as the one which the prisoner had presented to him. It was signed Brock & Paterson, per J. M. Paterson.

The witness was asked by Counsel for Wilcox if he did not know that the firm of Brock & Paterson was a limited concern. The witness said that he did.

He was then asked why he had paid out money when he saw the check was signed Brock & Paterson. He said that he had not noticed the absence of the Ltd., at the time.

Counsel then asked the witness if he thought a check signed Raymond & Dolbey without the word limited would be cashed at the bank. The witness replied that it would not.

"As far as you know, then," asked Mr. Ritchie, "the check is not a forgery." The witness replied in the affirmative. In reply to a question from Detective Killen, the witness said that he advanced the money because he really thought at the time that it was a good check.

The case was then adjourned until Monday.

MOTHER HAD NOT HEARD FROM HIM IN SIX MONTHS

Young Man Killed Near Fernald Was Frederick Dill of Carleton

The body of the young man killed by Fernald crossing on Wednesday night, has been identified as that of Frederick Dill, son of Mrs. Dill, of Queen street, West End. Mrs. Dill called at the morgue last night and positively identified the body as that of her son. She said that he had been away from home about six months, and during that time she had never heard from him.

The young man had been working in Amherst for some time, and it is believed, was on his way back there when he was killed. He was seen going out the marsh road on Wednesday afternoon.

His young brother called at the morgue yesterday afternoon, but failed to identify the body, so badly mutilated was it, and Mrs. Dill had some difficulty in making identification. William Allen, who had been acquainted with him, also identified the body. It is still lying in the morgue, but will likely be taken by Mrs. Dill this afternoon. Coroner Berryman said this morning that he had not decided as yet when he would hold an inquest.

TWO NICE FISH FROM LILY LAKE

Two fine trout were taken out of Lily Lake last evening by Joseph Wood, who is keeping up the record he made there last year as a fisherman. The fish caught last night weighed eight and fourteen ounces. They were taken with fly from shore. In May of last year Mr. Wood caught one weighing two and a quarter pounds, and in September one that had that by a half pound. He says the Lily Lake trout are dandy and rise well to the fly, but the ducks swimming around frighten them. He thinks it would be a good thing to put down some old poles, there are many eyes in the lake and they eat the trout spawn.
