Decision Reached at Meeting of Directors Last Night—Officers Are Elected

MANCHESTER, Eng., Jan. 7.—Three thousand unemployed men, many of whom gathered at daybreak, and others later after walking miles in response to an advertisement for six handy men, stormed a factory when they found the jobs had been filled the night before. It took police some time to quell the disturbance.

Possibility of Secret Alliance of Turks and Russians Discounted.

SEE BLUFF CALLED IN EASTERN CASE

Pleasure Expressed Over Alliance of R. C. R.'s and Gloucestershires.

LONDON.—I was discussing recently with a staff officer at the War Office the possibility of a possible determination, on the part of the Turks, to make war over Mosul, with a Russian secret alliance behind the scenes to reinforce their position. I learnt that such an eventuality was seriously discounted by our responsible authorities. In the first place the Soviets and the British in the East are far from good, and, in the second, Russia's present Government knew only too well that such action would set every civilized nation against them. The various trade organizations laboriously set up, and only just beginning to make any real headway, would be kicked at neck and crop to use an old Western farm shibboleth—"toute suite." Russia might depend on adding to the world's load of trouble in China by taking the part of the Communist elements there, but even that action would mean setting against her the highly specialized and efficient army of Japan. "No," said my informant, "the Turkish bluff is called, if only Chamberlain and Amery sit tight."

MICROPHONES AT WESTMINSTER.

The microphone has taken some time to get to its own. A terrible fiasco occurred during Joseph Chamberlain's whirlwind tariff campaign in the north to a big provincial newspaper that tried to report the great misleader of Empire by its means. But the recent installation in the House of Lords is almost too successful. Noble speakers who formerly used to waste their rhetorical sweetness in mumbles on the desert air of the lofty roof now appear to shout at the Press Gallery through its ear-phones in real malapropos style. The journalists can even overhear distinctly the frankest whispers between front bench peers, which may occasionally be heard. The Commons refused to affix microphones, but, thanks to a glass floor, its acoustic properties are less baffling than those of the House of Lords. That august chamber is sometimes bewitched.

NEW TYPE OF SLEEPERS

Experiments are to be made at a near date with concrete sleepers on one of our chief railways. Up to now the South-Western alone has developed the trial of thin steel sleepers, which are still in use on their Portsmouth line in the sections in which they were tried. My informant tells me that the same railway company has had a type of heavy concrete sleeper developed, and experiments will be made with these through their obvious weight would seem to militate against easy handling. The new sleepers are in the shape of two blocks of concrete joined together by a tie-rod of mild steel, each block measuring 24 by 7, with the necessary curvature to facilitate packing and holding together of the road ballast. At present I understand that a large business is being transacted in wooden sleepers from the North of Europe. The concrete experiment was successful. It would mean a considerable drop in the value of timber for these purposes, as our railways utilize one way and another more than 100,000,000 wooden sleepers.

Deadlock In Hard Coal Strike Holds

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Uncompromisingly opposed to any proposition offered by either side, the anthracite miners and operators, deadlocked in their efforts to end the hard coal strike, still continued negotiations today. After each side had placed itself on record for or against various schemes to send the 138,000 men and boys back to work, yesterday the six miners and six operators came to the end of the road, but professed willingness to go on if there was anything to consider.

SHIPMENTS CUT PUT AT PRICE

Drop in Chicago Where Canadian Product Rivaled Domestic.

Shipments Increased Fifty Per Cent. in Last Week—Peak Price Dec. 31

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Up to date, 1,870 carloads of Canadian potatoes, duty paid, have rivaled domestic ones. It is officially stated here, and after outdoing all recent high price records, the humble spuds are taking a graceful curve downward again, a little nearer to the ordinary pocketbook level. Fifty per cent. increase of potato shipments the last week, appears to be responsible.
A report today from the government bureau of agricultural economics says that the heavier shipments this week, as compared with the week before, were induced by the strong market and by more moderate weather.
According to the official report, highest prices of the season for potatoes came on the last day of 1925, when some Maine growers received $4.35 a hundred pound wholesale, at home stations against 65 cents a year ago.

They Do Not Sell Furniture

J. Marcus, Ltd., don't sell Furniture. You may buy Furniture there, but what the firm SELLS is something by another name.
Supposing you and your husband lived your entire lives in trips across the Atlantic, down over the border and into upper Canada, studying the latest ideas in home interiors, visiting furniture factory after furniture factory. Suppose you called on the great furniture stores everywhere, absorbed a shelf of books on interior decorating, kept in touch with the experts. Suppose each of you took in turn two or three trips a year to pick up the latest tips on Furniture. And that you spent the rest of your time buying just oodles of Furniture here, there and everywhere, planning out homes with numbers of people.
After all that, wouldn't you be able to fit out a home with great results? You'd have KNOWLEDGE on your side, you'd do far better than some folks who spend double.
Yes, Furniture itself is the last thing J. Marcus have to offer.

MOND REVEALS BIG SPLIT IN LIBERAL PARTY

Former Staunch Follower of Lloyd George Opposed to Land Proposal

SPEAKS FOR MANY Denies Suggestion That He Aspires to Leadership in Commons

(Canadian Press)

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The width of the split in the Liberal party over David Lloyd George's land proposals, is revealed in a speech by Sir Alfred Mond to his constituents at Carmarthen yesterday. Sir Alfred, who has long been one of Lloyd George's closest political associates, expressed uncompromising hostility to the proposed creation of more officials to control agriculture and protested against any attempt to constitute adhesion to the original or revised land proposals as a test of loyalty to Liberalism.

NOT AFTER LEADERSHIP.

Sir Alfred repudiated the suggestion that he was attempting to supersede Lloyd George in the Liberal leadership of the House of Commons. Commentators remark that it is probably no more than a coincidence that Mond should be talking in this strain at the present time, when political circles are discussing the possibility of a Liberal-Labor alliance.

SAINT JOHN, N. B., JANUARY 7, 1926.

DEATH OF MAYOR POTTS

After a gallant fight against a fatal malady, during which he displayed the sterling courage which marked his whole career, Mayor Frank Leslie Potts passed away at an early hour this morning. For many years Mr. Potts had been active in civic and provincial affairs, and he had an immense circle of friends. His passing casts a shadow of sorrow over the community and causes deep and general regret.

Mayor Potts had realized many of his ambitions at fifty-eight. He bore his years lightly, and few would have thought it probable that death would claim him for a long time yet. He seemed younger than fifty-eight, and when one looks back and remembers how long he had been an active and familiar figure in Saint John, one realizes how early in life he had begun to achieve substantial success. He had lived, there were still greater things before him. He ever commanded a large following in this city, and his energy and capacity would undoubtedly have won for him still greater success.

His great victory in the last civic campaign, which placed him in the Mayor's chair, was followed quite recently by his election to the Legislature as the colleague of Premier Baxter in the county, but it was destined that he should not live to take his seat in the House, where he served a term on a previous occasion.

He had many contacts with life, and a singularly wide acquaintance among the people. He understood the many causes that appealed to them, and he approached them politically with confidence and understanding. His political opponents always recognized that he was formidable, and he entered upon any campaign with undoubted energy and determination.

From his earliest days his industry, his energy and his confidence in himself were assets of high value, and along with these he had a ready business capacity and a shrewd judgment of men and affairs. He believed in the plain people, and they, in turn, displayed faith in him, and responded wonderfully to his appeals.

He is the second Mayor of Saint John to die in office, the other having been that wonderfully popular citizen, the late Mayor Barker, who passed away soon after he was chosen by the people to be their Chief Magistrate.

than upon such wasteful inquiries as the Preston fiasco last year. "Let us have action upon this ocean freight business by Parliament itself!" "The country is sick and tired of government by commissions! We are paying expensive salaries to our Ministers and representatives, to do the governing, and expect them to show results therefor!"

This is just one more characteristic Canadian demand that the traffic situation be grappled with. The theory that we must not make rates which will recover our diverted traffic, because the Americans will not like it, or because such a course would cause them to lower their rates in turn, is destructive in its implication and impossible of acceptance.

We wonder what Sir John Macdonald and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, if they were alive, would say if they were told that the National Transcontinental is so effective a railway that we dare not set it to work for fear of American reprisals. If they were equally timorous with regard to our tariff, Americans today would be doing most of our manufacturing. As they have captured from one-half to three-fifths of our grain traffic already, and are likely to capture the rest of it, the Canadian public sees that the time has come when it is necessary to fight, and to use every effective weapon at our command, in order to protect our national interests.

"There are brighter days ahead for Halifax and Nova Scotia, if we determinedly press for our rights and demand justice in the confederated family of Canada," says the Halifax Herald. "The policy of 'Canadian Trade for Canadian Ports' was the policy of Laurier, the policy of Borden and the policy of all other great Canadian leaders. It is the only policy for Canada and it is the only policy that will bring her prosperity to this section of the Dominion."

Another two years to leap year, and maybe by that time, as the Boston Herald suggests, all years will look alike to the modern girl.

A Teachers' College woman who went to a dance with a young blood who wore balloon pants was "positively mortified" the other night. Then she gave her skirt a stich and hoisted at her hose, but they were in place. Her burning face had nearly ignited her face trousers covered so much territory they fanned her ankles.

Dinner Stories

A COUPLE of old grouches at a club were one night speaking of an old friend who, upon his marriage, took up his residence in another city. One of the group of a little incident in their household that came within my observation. The very first morning I spent with them, our old friend answered the letter carrier's whistle. A WELCOME FOR THE SETTLER.
(Toronto Mail and Empire.)
The British immigrant should be assured of the unfailing sympathy and wise help of the Government, but ought not to be made feel that he is therefore a dependent of that Government. Nor is it so much by help to individuals that the Government can make efficient and happy the Canadians of British immigrants as by establishing and maintaining a truly national policy that will make this country flourish and all the people in it happy. Canada can be made a home for its people as the United States has been made for the people there, that is by a policy of conserving the raw materials and the home market for those who live within the country.

MISSISSIPPI AND ST. LAWRENCE.
(Manitoba Free Press.)
So far, the immediate concern of this country and of the States whose water transport is wholly dependent upon the Great Lakes, has been chiefly directed at an adjustment of the unwarranted action by Chicago. The better grows, however, that other states tributary to the Mississippi are exercising their influence to have the Chicago unlawful withdrawal of water continued, and not only to have it continued, but to have it supplemented, and drained into the basin of the Mississippi. In other words, a volume of effort in the United States is being exerted to bring about a drainage from the Great Lakes to increase the depth and flow of the Mississippi at the expense of the St. Lawrence.

The Best of Advice

WAITING FOR SECOND WIND.
THE ambitious man may wisely take as his slogan the advice a famous college athletic coach always bowls to his men when they enter a contest: "Don't stop running until your second wind comes."

No man becomes an athlete who quits when his muscles first commence to groan under exertion. The man who always stops at the first sign of fatigue never accomplishes notable things. No man becomes powerful or effective in the emergencies of life unless he has trained himself to continue until the second wind comes. No man becomes a scholar who stops studying when the subject loses interest and when he becomes weary of it. No man becomes a writer who abandons his ambition when his first stories are returned. The sick and debilitated may succumb to the first fatigue, but a healthy man will gain in power and courage by straining himself to his limit and resting later.

Poems That Live

HERACLITUS.
They told me, Heraclitus, they told me you were dead, They brought me bitter news to hear and bitter tears to shed. I wept as I remembered how often you and I Had tired the sun and shining and sent him down the sky. And now that you are lying, my dear old Carian guest, A handful of gray ashes, long, long ago at rest, Still are thy pleasant voices, thy nightingales, awake; For Death, he taketh all away, but them he cannot take.
—William Cory.

THE ANXIOUS WAITER.
The scene was a hospital in Scotland. "Who are they operating on now?" Inquired a nurse of an orderly. "A poor fellow who had a golf ball knocked down his throat," was the reply of the nurse. "And who's the man waiting so nervously at the hall, a relative?" "No," said the orderly, "that's the golfer; he's waiting for his ball."

CANADA'S LONELY FURROW.
(Hamilton Spectator.)
Little by little Great Britain is building up a tariff wall against the food of alien manufacturers which threaten to inundate her industrial life. The wall is not very effective at present, but the bricks are being assembled and put into place. By overwhelming majorities the measures are passed into law and the voice of opposition grows more feeble. Starting in a secret session, due to a manoeuvre of the opposition which was miscalculated, the debate now proceeds in the open. Turn where one may, the necessity for tariff protection is being more effectively recognized by the nations, except in our own country. Our responsible statesmen prefer to plow a lonely furrow, though the furrow gets lonelier and lonelier and threatens to end in complete isolation.

Strangest Duel of All Time Fought From Balloons

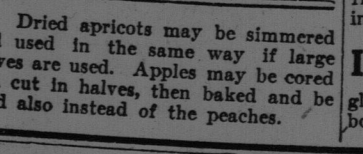

PROBABLY the strangest duel that ever took place was one fought in Paris in 1808. It is peculiarly French and could hardly have occurred under any but French society. Two gentlemen of France quarrelled over the lady of their mutual love. Tempers rose, and in the heat of the moment they agreed to fight a duel to settle their respective claims.
In order that the heat of angry passion should not interfere with the polished elegance of the proceedings they agreed to postpone the duel for a month. The survivor to claim the hand of the lady in marriage. A day and place of meeting were arranged, and on the appointed day the duelists met. The gentlemen were Mm. Grandpre and Le Pique.
The ascent took place in the garden of the Tuilleries amidst a vast concourse of spectators. The duelists were to be seen in balloons, the survivor to claim the hand of the lady in marriage. A day and place of meeting were arranged, and on the appointed day the duelists met. The gentlemen were Mm. Grandpre and Le Pique.
The balloons having been cast off and having ascended, at a given signal the duelists opened fire. Le Pique missed, but his opponent was successful in sending a bullet through Le Pique's balloon. The latter crashed to the earth and was smashed to pieces. His conqueror still made his ascent and hovered triumphantly seven miles out of Paris.
So ended what must be considered the strangest of all duels.

SERVICE HELD AT 1140 BEECHER SQUARE CHURCH AT 2.30

Died This Morning

FRANK L. POTTS

Mayor of Saint John and Member of the New Brunswick Legislature passed away early this morning after a long illness.

Works, Mr. Potts sensed the need of better street paving, and much of his money was spent upon permanently improving numerous streets in the centre of the city.

OF A LARGE FAMILY. Frank L. Potts was the family of the late Joseph W. Potts, a respected resident of the earlier activities of the city and one of a household that included William J. Potts, John Potts, Mrs. Annie P. Welch, this city; Miss Jessie Potts, who also lives here, as well as Walter S. Potts, fruit inspector; Mrs. Emille Potts, Saint John; Miss Kate Potts, New Bedford, Mass.; T. Amos Potts, of Philadelphia; Mrs. William Nerve, Truro, N. S.; Harry Potts, of Everett, Mass.; and Mrs. William J. Wetmore, West Saint John.

STeady CLIMB TO TOP. From a youthful clerk in the employ of the late Fulton Berney, hardware merchant, at one time located in business in German street next M. R. A. Ltd., of today—later conducting a Moncton branch for Mr. Berney—Mr. Potts' business aggressiveness led him by quickly succeeding stages to the chief magistracy of his native city, to the legislative chambers of the province and the status of a well-informed citizen whose virility and patriotic enthusiasm made him a potent personality. He possessed a gift of executive capability that immediately attracted attention and put into action many well-planned schemes for the betterment of the city and the numerous circles of endeavor in which he was engaged.

ONCE MARKET CLERK. Early in his career, Mr. Potts was Clerk of the City Market, at a time when the collection of the tolls was a purchased privilege. From that work he took up auctioneering, which included the disposal of real estate and properties not only in Saint John but throughout the city. He also dealt in jewelry and antiques and was considered an expert as a diamond dealer. In 1910 it was considered the decision of Mr. Potts to the council chambers of city and province was a democratic choice for his whole life and daily routine had been of the people and for the people even at times to the small details of household affairs such as his recreation would demand of him.

HIS LAST GRIM FIGHT. Shortly after the late provincial election the disability that caused the Mayor's death became alarming. There had been warnings of the trouble, but in spite of a general weakening he struggled through the arduous campaign with vigor and grim determination. He spoke almost nightly and canvassed astoundingly in the daytime. Friends and home folks strove to dissuade him from the fight to give all that was in him for the party he represented.

With the relaxation of balloting day His Worship suffered a physical reaction and expert aid was sought. He became a patient in an hospital in New York, where his case was carefully diagnosed. Rigid diet and regimen followed, but the malady grew more acute, necessitating confinement to the house and during the last few weeks, to bed. While it was generally known the Mayor was incurably ill, news of his critical state came with the force of shock to many.

"POOR MAN'S FRIEND" If the late Frank L. Potts were to be given credit for any one outstanding policy or aim as a public man, it was said of him that he was the "poor man's friend." Indeed, it was his characteristic declaration that he stood for equitable distribution of taxation, a readjustment of the laws to lighten the load of the workingman, and to make what he termed the wealthy interests pay in due proportion to the average citizen. These arguments, at times crystallized in the form of letters and schemes, won him more than one election, and his platform appearances were usually popularly greeted. In council the late Mayor was a man of crossed swords flashily with contraried conferees and balloting defeats of his plans never daunted him.

IN FRATERNAL CIRCLES In fraternal life Mayor Potts was a popular personality and a hearty worker. He belonged to York Lodge, No. 3, of Orangemen, though he did not take office at any time, and was a member of King Edward Lodge, No. 30, "Pretence Boys," having joined 12 years ago. Only a few months ago when the Orangemen turned out to a mass gathering in North End, His Worship attended in an automobile. Also a few months ago he was present at the institution of a new lodge of the Loyal Orange Benevolent Association at Lorneville, in the county, which lodge was named Potts Lodge in his honor. In Pythian circles he belonged to Union Lodge, No. 30, and was captain of Cygnets Company of the Union Bank. In this latter branch of the K. P. order he was an enthusiastic organizer and conducted his men with smart military bearing.

He was prominent in the Masonic fraternity, holding membership in Albion Lodge, No. 1, Carleton Royal Arch Chapter, Saint John Precinctory, Knights Templars and Luxor Temple, Mystic Shrine. He was also a member of the local Elks lodge and Lodge Portland, Sons of England.

SOME PUBLIC WORKS During his occupancy of the local portfolio of Commissioner of Public loved and of which he was proud to be the Chief Magistrate. "Elected to the House of Assembly in 1917, Mr. Potts sat there as a representative of this city until 1920. During those four sessions he was one of the most forceful and outstanding figures of the Opposition. At times he was accused of intolerance but the charge was unjust."

A GOOD FRIEND "Frank Potts was a man of too warm heart and too wide vision to be intolerant towards anyone. He was born to be a friend and in countless instances proved his claim to that title which I am sure is the one, above all, by which he would choose to be best and longest remembered."

"Frank Potts possessed a strong political fighting spirit but the blows which he dealt were devoid of personal animus. He desired greatly the success of his party because he believed that by success of the party more could be accomplished than in any other way. His election as Mayor is the best evidence of the hold which he had upon the affections of the people."

THE RECENT ELECTION "Only a few months ago he accepted a nomination for the Provincial Legislature for the County of Saint John. The nomination sought him as the man who was most likely to ensure success. He could have had a nomination in the city of Saint John, but he had had, from the physical standpoint, an easier campaign. But he put party considerations above his own ease and entered upon a three months campaign which was marked by an incessant display of energy. Those who were associated with him knew that he was not well but none of us realized that he was carrying on the contest in the Valley of the Shadow itself. When the disease entered a more pronounced stage those of us who saw him at his home found him brave and uncomplaining. Even when confined to his bed his thoughts were for his associates and for his work. He retained keen interest in the things of life and those who visited him saw how a brave man was bravely meeting the inevitable."

FORMER MAYOR MCLLANN. Former Mayor and Commissioner H. R. McLellan—debated many of the late Mayor Potts' proposals, offers the following final word about his old friend: "I am extremely sorry to learn of the Mayor's death. While expected, the news will come as a great shock to a very large circle of friends, by whom he will be held in affectionate remembrance."

"Although divorced from political life by the court of public opinion, it may not be amiss to offer the following sentiments, as a past co-commissioner: "As a Public Official Mr. Potts had the confidence and encouragement of the people and proved worthy of the trust reposed upon him. He was sincere in his understanding of what he was doing and believed he had the courage and power to make good his word."

"While displaying a marked tenacity of purpose, the sincerity of which was reciprocated by the confidence of the people on several occasions, my late friend was the greatest calamity which could befall a man of his ambition, and this belief inspired him with strength to brush aside prejudice and preconceived notions."

"He was always ready to champion any measure which would increase the happiness of the people. Like others, he was human and susceptible to committed errors, but if so, that is the background which brings out in relief the simplicity of his character. I join with other citizens in the belief that his family and large circle of friends, my sincere sympathy."

FELLOW COMMISSIONERS Commissioner Rupert W. Wigmore of the Water and Sewerage Department, said that in his long association with the late Mayor—as an alderman-at-large in 1910—in fact, from 1909 to 1912 and then later as fellow commissioners, a bond of deep brotherly feeling grew between them. Mr. Wigmore enjoyed that friendship and in the late political campaign, when he, Mr. Wigmore, helped Mr. Potts in his county fight, he begged the Mayor to go easy and slacken his pace, knowing that his health was falling him. But Mr. Potts insisted upon plugging away. "Frank Potts," Commissioner Wigmore said, "was a loyal, self-sacrificing citizen, a man of strong convictions and a firm believer in the great future of his native city and the Maritime Provinces. I regret his untimely death, deeming and extend sympathy to the bereaved relatives."

Commissioner T. H. Bullock said: "I sincerely regret the death of the late Mayor Potts. Although his illness was painfully protracted, the end was hardly expected. It is difficult to realize His Worship is gone, but in council he was the most active of officials. The last time I conversed with the Mayor he grasped my hand firmly and expressed a desire for the future. He expressed a feeling of contentment and said he was facing the future with a clear conscience."

"Mayor Potts always demonstrated a deep sense of public duty and a vice—a trait in his character which brought him to a high place in the community over which his passing will cast a gloom."

Fire Company Called To Put Out Sunset TULSA, Jan. 7.—Attention was called to the brilliance of Oklahoma sunsets when the fire department was called here to put one out. An apartment house resident rushed out screaming "Fire." The fire department was summoned. Women in various stages of treatment hurried panic-stricken from a beauty-parlor on the ground floor of the building. Firemen thronged into the building. On the top floor a bright glare was visible through a crack. Hooks and axes ripped the ceiling away to find the light was the setting sun peeking through lattice work of a gable.

Lloyd George Not Forming New Party Canadian Press. LONDON, Jan. 7.—The Land and Nations League, of which David Lloyd George is president, issued a statement yesterday deriding the idea that he intends to form some sort of a centre party in the House of Commons. The statement says his whole heart is concentrated in getting a new land policy accepted by the Liberal party throughout the country. A great Liberal convention is to be held in the middle of next month, for this purpose, according to the statement.

Deaths

James M. Wynn

The death of James M. Wynn occurred at his residence, Musquash, at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. Mr. Wynn, who was in his 81st year, had been in failing health for some time, but his death was sudden and a great shock to his friends and relatives. He was a member of the Baptist church at Musquash, at which place he had always resided.

Mr. Wynn leaves to mourn two sons, a sister and four brothers. The sons are William J., of Vancouver, and Burton, of Musquash, and the sister Mrs. John Reid, of Lorneville. The brothers are Ezekiel, of Musquash and George, Aaron and William John, in the United States. The funeral services will be conducted by Rev. E. V. Buchanan on Friday at 1:30 o'clock at his late residence. Interment will take place in the cemetery at South Musquash.

John Robertson

John Robertson died suddenly at his residence, 28 Exmouth street, last night. He had been in apparently good health during the day and was suddenly taken ill while eating his supper. The doctor was called and did not consider the ailment serious, but shortly afterwards Mr. Robertson passed away. His sudden death came as a great shock to his many friends and heartfelt sympathy went out to the widow.

Children's Colds

Are quickly, pleasantly relieved by Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine

If children's colds are got rid of promptly there will be less tendency to pneumonia and consumption in later life. It is the neglected, hanging-on cold that weakens the lungs and develops into serious trouble. No treatment for coughs and colds was ever so popular with the children as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It is so pleasant to the taste, so delightfully soothing and healing and affords relief so quickly that children soon turn to it instinctively when choked up with a cold or annoyed by coughing.

It is mother's favorite treatment for croup and bronchitis, for she knows it will bring relief when the midnight coughing spasms set in. It is wise to always have a bottle at hand for prompt use in emergency.

VARIED MODERN NOISES CAUSING LARGER EARS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—The human ear is getting bigger and bigger—eventually it may match that of the elephant, according to Dr. P. O. Pfaffler, Viennese aurist. He claims the aurical evolution is being brought about by the "tremendous din and conflict of complex noises in which we exist." "The very strain of trying daily to hear intelligently in a big city is gradually enlarging the ear through constant irritation, stimulation and exercise," he explains.

The Callous Husband Who Refuses to Provide for Wife After His Death—Should a High School Girl Who Fails in Her Studies Be Allowed to Go to Dances—Would-be Girl Scout Who Can't Be.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—What is your opinion of a husband who tells his wife that he does not intend to work hard, or to save anything, either, because he is not going to die and leave her with money so that she can marry another man and live off what he earned? This wife is a mighty good little woman, who is thrifty and saving, and does all of her own work, even her washing and ironing.

ANSWER: If I should give my opinion of that kind of a man, it would have to be printed on asphalt, it would burn up any ordinary newspaper. Any man who does not try to provide for his wife after his death not only does not love her, but he is beastly unfair and unjust to boot.

The slightest sense of chivalry or affection would make him want to stretch out a protecting hand even from the grave, and shield her from hardship and want. Hard and callous, indeed, must be the man who, when he has no further use for the faithful and loyal wife who has spent her best years in ministering to him, leaves her without home, or shelter, or food, and with no way of making her own living. Such a woman is in even worse plight than the worn-out old work horse who is turned out to die, because no Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals can humanely take her up and chloroform her, and end her troubles.

A man who deliberately refrains from laying up something for his wife to have in case of his death is treating her most dishonestly, because he is defrauding her of what is hers by right. When a wife does her part by making a man a comfortable home, and by scrimping and pinching to help him get along, whatever they have is just as much hers as it is his. Her work is just as valuable as his. She has contributed just as much to the family prosperity as he has.

But the trouble with the wife is that she has no possible means of collecting what is due her. She cannot save her part of what she has earned against a rainy day because the money she has what she makes in her hand. She can't even make her husband take out an insurance policy unless he wants to, and so she has no way to safeguard her future. She has to leave it to her husband's sense of justice.

And, unfortunately, men's sense of justice often falls where their wives are concerned, as witness the wills that men frequently make in which their widows forfeit their money if they marry again. Apparently it does not occur to the husbands that their wives have any intrinsic right to the money they have helped to make and save, or that any compensation is due them for giving the time and labor in which they might have been making a fortune for themselves if they had not married.

It is a bitter and torturing thought to these men that their wives might marry again, and their second husbands live in the houses they have bought and paid for, but they would think it perfectly all right if their wives died for them to marry again, and for their second wives to enjoy the prosperity that their first wives had helped build up.

What is sauce for the gander is sauce for the goose, but a lot of men don't relish the idea.

DEAR MISS DIX—You are always the champion of the young. Now let a parent ask a question. Do you think that a high school girl who fails in her studies should be permitted to go to dances at 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning? A PARENT.

ANSWER: I am not the champion of either age or youth. What I am trying to do is the liaison officer between the two, and to induce a better understanding between parents and children.

I am trying to make parents see that the old method of dealing with children will not work in this day of the flapper and the jellybean, and if they want to control their children and have influence over them, they must adopt some other method than the rod and the locked door, and the other high-handed, tyrannical methods practiced by the stern parents of former generations.

For the members of the present generation simply snarling their fingers in their parents' faces when they threaten to turn them out of doors into the cold world, and tell father and mother to go to it. At 16 they are as old as their parents were at 25, and know their way about. They are utterly hard-balled and sophisticated, and if mother and father make things too unpleasant at home, they simply go somewhere else.

But, curiously enough, and perhaps that is because they are so wise for their years, they are open to reason, and will listen to argument, and inasmuch as being a good sport is their religion, they respond quickly to fair play. So while it is fatal for parents to be too strict with their children, the children will meet them halfway, and will not go to excesses if they can see that their parents are willing for them to have a reasonable amount of pleasure.

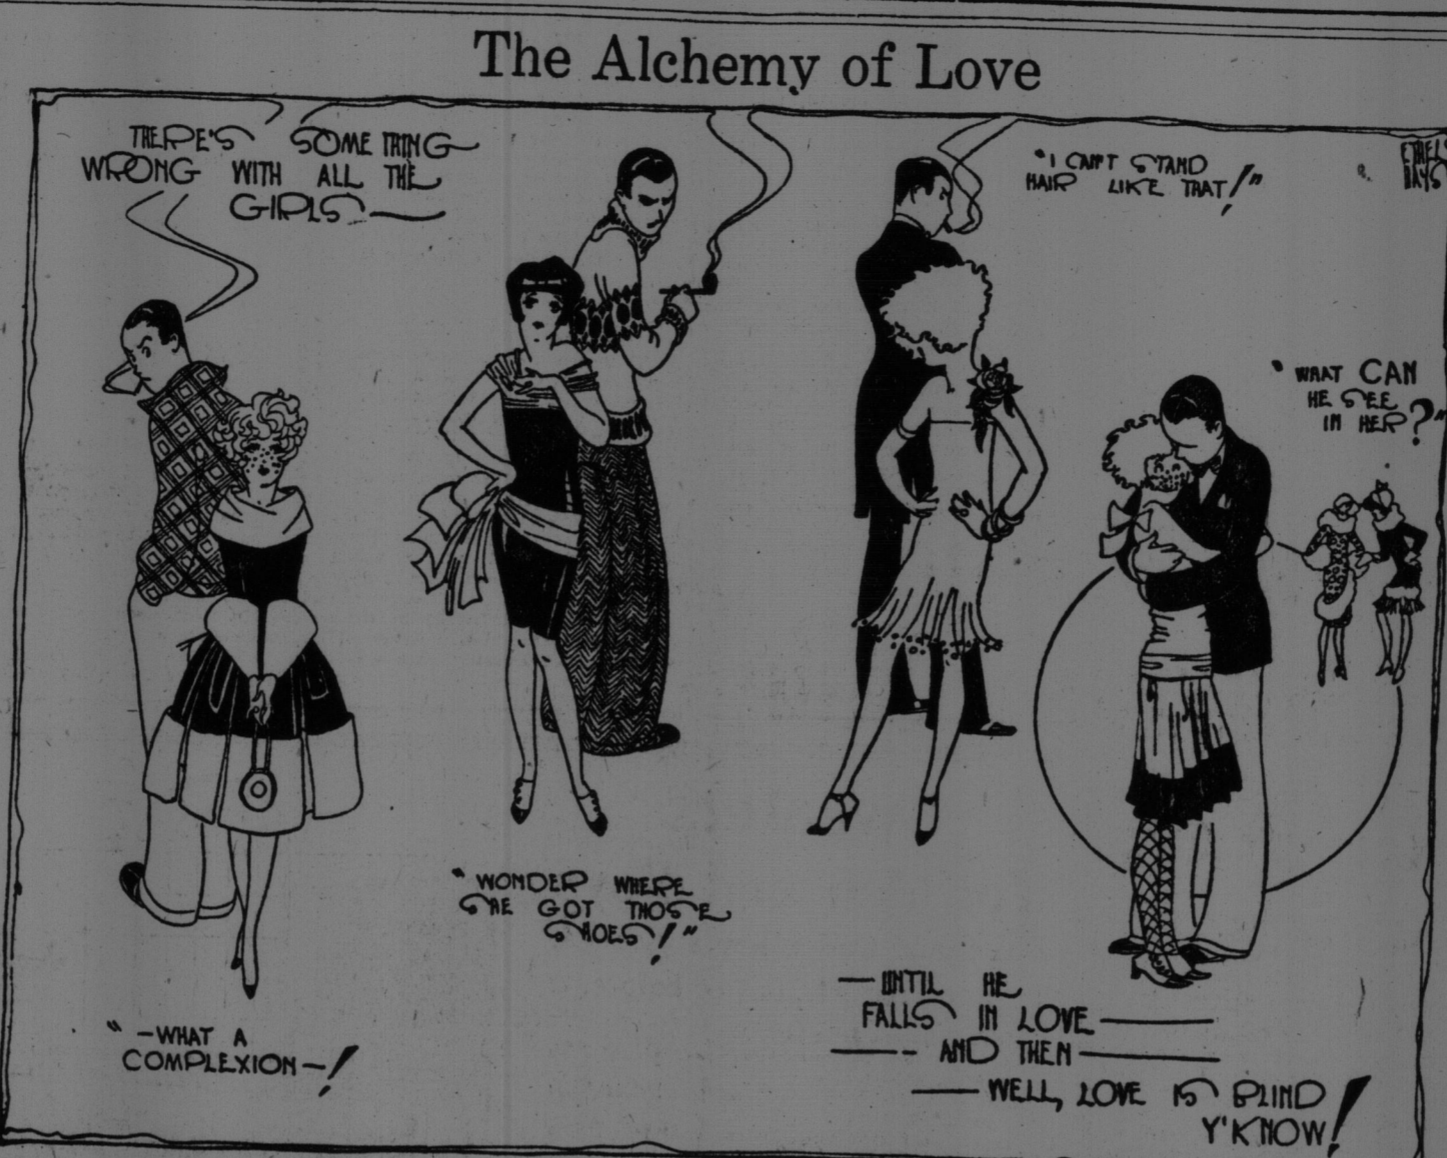

For instance, if father and mother will not let Sally have any dates, nor ask boys to the house, it simply means that Sally meets young men on the street, and lies and deceives mother and father about where she has been and what she has done. But if her parents invite the boys to the house and make it pleasant for them, and let Sally have a reasonable number of dates, she will be guided by them in her selection of boy friends, and will not consider herself a persecuted martyr.

All of which brings me to the direct answer to your question. I think that no schoolgirl should be permitted to go to any party whatsoever during school days. It is not possible for her to put her mind on her studies if her thoughts are occupied with the ball she is going to that night. Nor has she any mind to put on her studies after she has been out all night at a dance. But she should be permitted to go Friday and Saturday nights, and if these are accorded her freely she will be willing to give up the others.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a girl 13 years of age, and I am longing to join the Girl Scouts to which all of my friends belong, but my mother thinks my piano lessons are the only things I should care for. But how can I learn to care for it when it keeps me from other enjoyment? UNHAPPY SALLY.

Tell your mother that, if she lets you join the Girl Scouts, you will practice faithfully, of your own accord, instead of being driven to it like a martyr to the stakes. She makes a mistake in opposing your joining the Girl Scouts. Every girl should belong to it. It teaches a girl to be honest, and honorable, and a good sport; to be self-reliant, and helpful, and considerate of other people. Why if every girl were raised up to be a Girl Scout, and to do a kind and helpful deed for some one every day, it would regenerate the world!

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON. THE END OF THE SLED TRACK. Tweekanose, the bad little goblin, went on having a good time, or at least he thought he was having a good time. But if you think it's fun to spoil other people's good times, I don't. Just after Christmas when the boys and girls were home from school and enjoying their Christmas presents and their vacation, it was Tweekanose's chance to be mean. He never seemed to be able to keep his long nose out of mischief. The Fairy Queen became more and more worried, and she telephoned to Inch o' Pie and Inch o' Pie told the Twins, that they would just have to catch the mischief maker. So the three of them tried harder than ever. So the trouble was, you never know what on earth the goblin was going to do next. He ruined a playroom of toys one day, and he ruined a party the next day, and he even ruined things for grown-ups. Well! One night Jack Frost got busy. He's a queer one, too never to be counted on and generally asleep on his job just when he is needed to make sled tracks and freeze ponds. But this time he took a jolly notion to make everything lovely for the children on their Christmas vacation. So he shook down some snow and then blew his breath over everything as hard as he could, and I wish you could have seen the grand sled track there was on one special hill. It was a wonder! No automobiles came that way, or no street cars, and not many people, and the hill was a mile long. All the Christmas sleds were brought at once, and everything was as jolly as sleigh-bells. But there was one little boy, quite little, with a lone nose and a peaked cap, and if anyone had looked closely, they would have noticed that his shoes were pointed too. He had no sled. He just looked on and sort of chuckled to himself. "Come on and have a ride on my sled," called a jolly little boy. "Twenty of room on behind." "No, thanks," said the queer little boy, keeping his hands in his pockets, which seemed to stick out most peculiarly. "I don't like to sled here." "What!" almost shrieked the jolly little boy with the sled. And he went off and told the others about it. "There's the noon whistle!" said the children by and by. "We'll go home for lunch and come back this afternoon." So they took their sleds and went away, leaving the sled track shining like polished glass in the sun. Yes, the sun had come out—which made it all the merrier. But the queer little boy just stood still. He didn't go home to lunch. Then when he was quite alone, he took some white stuff slyly out of his pockets, and going up and down the sled track, he sprinkled it. There

SEE-SAWING ON BROADWAY

THIS Charleston Dance craze is becoming deadly serious. Recently a building collapsed in New York and the Charleston was blamed. Now it happens that there is a stable in the Florida Fliters where prosperous actors, writers and society women get horses for rides about the park. It also happens that there is a fancy stepping tent of sepa shade by name of Charlie Davis who is responsible for most of the colored revues that found their way to Broadway. And it further happens that of late strange sounds have been heard coming from the stable, such as "Slip it off, snappy!" Such sounds would be broken by the stamping and neighing of horses whose sleep, doubtless, was being disturbed. Investigation has revealed a very exclusive Charleston dance class to be under way. A few of the celebrities heard about it before leaving Europe and had the coat sent from Spain. "Paderewski, I am told, cried out in joy upon its arrival. He can now start his usual concert tour with a light heart and a comfortable, though ancient, coat.

Timely Views on World Topics

NEGLECT of the Chemical warfare service borders on national suicide," declared Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, chief of the chemical service, in his annual report to Secretary of War Dwight Davis. "The present commissioned and enlisted personnel is inadequate and the lack of funds has made it impossible to supply urgent needs of the service, including the manufacture of gas masks, reserve plant projects, and the supply of an authorized 'gas reserve,' the report stated. "It is universally appreciated at this time by those responsible for national defense," Gen. Fries reports, "that chemical industries should be developed and supported in their respective countries. To insure this phase of preparedness would place a nation at the mercy of one having such a weapon. "As regards chemical natural resources we are in a unique position. This position as to chemical resources of the United States will give it superiority over any other nation or group of nations which will mean success in any future war, but a state of chemical preparedness will never result if we slacken or neglect our military development and training in chemical warfare."

COMMON RELIEF BUREAU URGED

Charitable Organization Representatives in City Have Talk on Conditions

Delegation Will Interview Members of Common Council—Meet Again on Friday

Representatives of relief organizations in the city met in the Bible Society rooms yesterday afternoon to discuss ways of dealing more effectively with the problem of relieving poverty and distress. It was suggested that the municipality might undertake some work to provide employment. They will meet again on Friday afternoon to discuss the matter further. W. Shivers Fisher, president of the Associated Charities, was in the chair. Others present and the organizations they represented were as follows: A. M. Rowan, almshouse commissioner; Miss Grace Robertson, secretary of the Associated Charities; Mrs. I. F. Longley and Mrs. Margaret Lawrence, Saint John Red Cross; Miss H. MacKay, Victorian Order of Nurses; Miss Stella Payson, Associated Charities; Rev. W. M. Duke, St. Vincent de Paul; Harold Rising, St. George's Society; A. R. Melrose, St. Andrew's Society; and Rev. A. L. Tedford, Evangelical Alliance. Those who had been invited and did not attend included Acting Mayor J. H. Frink and representatives of the Salvation Army and Lieut-Col. N. P. McLeod. Rev. J. Cloran, C. S. R., sent regrets at inability to attend. Mr. Fisher explained why the meeting was called and outlined the work of the Associated Charities, summing it up in the following extract from its constitution: The objects of this society shall be:

To secure the concurrent and unanimous action of the different charities of Saint John in order to raise the needy above the need of relief, prevent begging and imposture, diminish pauperism, to aid in the diffusion of knowledge on subjects connected with the relief of the poor. Mr. Rowan outlined a suggested plan for concentrating all relief work under one head, with a central office where accurate information could be tabulated. The Commissioners of the Poor, he said, expended in 1925 the sum of $5,183.76 in outside relief work, exceeding their allowance of $4,500 for this purpose by nearly $700. He gave an itemized statement showing the money had been spent for groceries, fuel, burials, board and lodging, dry goods, boots and shoes and railway tickets. He advocated having all charitable grants secured by assessment and distributed by the central bureau. Father Duke thought this method could be made to work for the distribution of relief but could not touch the more important work of prevention of poverty. Mrs. Longley spoke of the Red Cross problems in relief work with the cases which return again and again. Mrs. Lawrence believed present methods of handing out emergency relief were tending to pauperize the needy and that while Saint John people were very charitable they were working along destructive and not constructive lines. She urged some form of civic employment. UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEMS. Miss Mackay spoke of the bad effects upon the health of the people of long periods of unemployment and referred to the problem presented by those who are able to work but will not work. She advocated the establishment of a central welfare bureau, and said follow-up work was the most important of relief work. Mr. Tedford said some cases went the round of all organizations during the year and existed entirely on charity. He felt that a central bureau would accomplish much good, but was not sure whether such a scheme could be worked out in practice. The community chest idea for all charitable funds was discussed and Mr. Rising thought that a plebiscite should be taken on this matter. He also advocated having a central warehouse to which clothing for the poor might be sent. Miss Robertson said that the Salvation Army had such a depot and sold clothing at a very small charge, and the people were glad of the opportunity of paying for the clothing and retaining their self respect. Father Duke explained how St. Vincent de Paul Society operates. The men make investigation of the cases which are reported to their weekly meetings and applicants for relief receive their stated allowance on a certain night each week. The women's committee sees for the poor. Cases where there is no possible income are taken out of the books. The society functions in three Catholic parishes. Father Duke regretted that it did not function in all the parishes. Its objects, he said were to help the rich by allowing them to give to the poor and to prevent unwelcome charity. DIFFICULTIES FACED. Mr. Tedford believed some difficulties in administering relief in the city came about because the Associated Charities was not always used. Father Duke suggested that it might be practical for the secretary of the Associated Charities to receive all applications and to assign them to the organization of individual Miss Mackay pointed out that it was essential that no case should be lost sight of and that follow-up work should be carried on consistently. Father Duke said that he had urged men to go to the United States to find work temporarily, and had aided them in securing transportation. He suggested that charitable organizations might pay half of the cost of civic work, if such was provided to give employment. Mr. Rowan thought the grant for such work should be taken from the municipality and not from the city, as the larger field should be covered, and the city now faced the situation of having 25 per cent of taxes unpaid, and the public works grant was over expended.

WORK FOR WOMEN. Miss Robertson said that work for women in the homes could not be obtained very readily, as very few devices and laundries had lessened the demand. Father Duke warmly commended the work of the Empty Bedding Fund. The Times-Star and the Goodfellows fund at Christmas. It was on the motion of Father Duke, seconded by Mr. Tedford, that it was decided to adjourn until Friday afternoon, and the men were asked to bring in suggestions regarding municipal employment which might be made for those who are out of work.

DRINK WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER Take a Teaspoonful of Salts if Back Pains or Bladder is Irritated. Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and often get very angry with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is hot you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get very inflamed, and obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste, take four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may thank you. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. Ask your druggist for Jad Salts today.

The 5,000 attended her as she visited the tomb of Peter Verigin, on the hill overlooking the valley of Concession, amid scenes of great excitement. The greater part of the assemblage marched four abreast behind her cutter, which several times had to be protected by her personal guards, as the people crowded around.

MR. GORMAN RETURNS SCIENTISTS, doctors, and philosophers have spent much time debating the question of "Mind vs. Muscles."

WILL MUSCLE triumph at the world's speed-skating meet here on January 26, 27 and 28? It is hard to say, boys, but if you want to get an idea of how Mrs. Clax Thunberg thinks it will be decided, just imagine it is a few days ago and the scene is Madison Square Garden, the Temple of Sportism.

A small group is standing near the ice surface. Included in it are Thunberg, Hugo Quist, Faavo Nurmi's manager, who is acting in a similar capacity for Thunberg, Charlie Gorman, who had just won the Middle Atlantic crown, and others.

THE NEWBURGH meet this year, says Charlie, who returned yesterday, "was one of the biggest they ever held. There was not much of a crowd out in the morning but in the afternoon, I saw well over 20,000 people in the evening, I never saw so much enthusiasm in all my life."

AT NEWBURGH, Gorman skated in 17 events, winning all but two, placing second in the mile and third in the semi-final of the half mile. He said he felt great and went out determined to win before that big crowd. He was the lone Canadian who had any show now and was continually crowded in his races.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 7.—Guy L. Baker, formerly assistant cashier of the Putnam National Bank, which was wrecked by its cashier, G. Harold Gilpatrick, who also was State Treasurer, has given himself up, saying he had "been in hell" for two years and wanted to pay the penalty for his thefts as quickly as possible.

While Gilpatrick was helping himself to the bank's money by hundreds of thousands of dollars, his assistant was taking thousands. Baker admitted stealing $16,900 of the bank's funds. After Gilpatrick's attempt at suicide, which resulted only in destroying his sight, Baker helped bank examiners go over the books of the bank, disappearing before his own thefts came to light. REDUCTION MADE TO OPERATING BASIS

Effective on Feb. 8—Temporary Measure Says Chairman Reilly

A reduction in the staff of the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission to practically an operating basis for the carrying on of the Musquash development, was decided on at the meeting of the commission here on last Tuesday but was not announced at the time. When it was learned today Hon. E. A. Reilly, chairman of the commission was asked about the matter and confirmed the report.

BLACK POINT BUOY GETS NEW POSITION
It is Shifted Because of Moorings Becoming Entangled in Wreckage

The Black Point buoy off Partridge Island has been shifted 400 feet south and 12 degrees true east from its chart position, it was announced this morning by J. C. Chesley, agent for the Marine and Fisheries Department. This change in position is being broadcast for seven days by the Government wireless station at Red Head.

REASON FOR CHANGE.
The buoy has been shifted from its former position owing to the fact that it was moved very near the spot where the schooner Maid of Scotland sank several years ago following a collision with the steamer Pyrene and the moorings of the buoy were becoming entangled with the wreck and as a result they were torn away on two occasions and lost. In view of this the department decided to shift the buoy a little to clear the wreck.
