SOCIETY GIRL AND HEIRESS ELOPES WITH CHAUFFEUR IN AUTO.

New York and Newport society received a surprise a few days ago when it became known that Miss Julia Steele French, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Tuck French, and a niece of Mrs. French Vanderbilt, eloped from Newport, R. I., on the night of August 8, with John Edward Paul Geraghty, of Newport. Mr. Geraghty is the son of John S. Geraghty, who owns a very valuable in Newport. Young Geraghty is a chauffeur. The elopement was by automobile. The young couple got as far as Central Village, Conn., at two o'clock in the morning, where they were married by the Rev. Mr. L. E. Perry, a Congregational minister. The bride is twenty-one years old and very pretty. The latest aspirant to the inner circles of society is twenty-three years old, and has known Miss French for a long time. Mrs. Geraghty is a beautiful girl who is being married in the younger Newport set. She is a perfect beauty. Very fond of dogs, she has been one of the moving spirits in planning the big kennel show to be held in Newport next week. "Jack" Geraghty, as he is known, was raised in Newport and was well known to many of the society people there as a chauffeur.

P.E.I. GRITS ARE IN FOR A SOUND DEFEAT

Charlottetown, Aug. 12—In this province both parties have completed their arrangements for the federal campaign. Both parties have been hard at work in the past few weeks. Mean- while the press on both sides has been demonstrating that the farmers and the people of P. E. Island have much to lose and much to gain by the endorsement of the deal which P. E. French, and his "slim" negotiators beguiled Mr. Fielding and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Liberal candidates for Prince and the Liberal candidate for Kings. Many government Liberals in Prince county balk at the idea of again nominating James W. Richards, whose name is not here and in a position of public interests of the province have become chronic, and who is felt to be a block in the way of transportation improvements, so are not likely to prove successful in this election—because they are about "played out" and are carried on at the cost of those who have to pay the taxes. Interested in St. John. Great interest is felt throughout this province in the result of the contest for St. John and Kings. It is well known that the Minister of Public Works thinks that he has made St. John safe for the government. No matter what proposition is submitted at an election, and we all see that reciprocity by diverting Canadian trade into the States must kill St. John as a winter port for Canada. We all know that the way to great Britain. So St. John electors will have to choose between the chance of the government returning to power with Mr. Purley in it, and with the certainty that the progress of their city will be retarded and the ambition of her merchants checked, and the chance of Mr. Borden coming in, stopping the passage of the reciprocity agreement, and continuing the policy under which trade flows East and West through Canada—so making sure the destiny of St. John as a winter port. We are all the more interested in the St. John contest because St. John is one of our nearest and best markets, and we want to see it grow and prosper.

Those who fail to observe the fundamental rules of health, especially those who neglect constipation—will have short lives. SAINT JOHN, WEDNESDAY MORNING, AUG. 16, 1911.

A NOTE OF WARNING.

"TRY THE PACT. IF, AFTER A REASONABLE TIME, YOU ARE NOT SATISFIED WITH IT, YOU CAN REPEAL IT."

This is the plea now being made to the electorate by the Government and its advocates. It sounds well to the ear, and it catches the thoughtless—but it is foolish and false to the last degree when submitted to the analysis of common sense, and we wish right here to sound long and loud the warning note.

Try this hat, says the merchant; if it doesn't fit you bring it back, and I will give you one that will fit. That rightly commends itself to the purchaser. He wants a hat of that quality and this ensures his getting one that suits him. The price of this horse is $200. On such a basis of a business partnership, you associate may not wish to dissolve, or to sell or buy at a reasonable price. You may get out through a troublesome process of law and at a serious loss, but then you have to begin all over again and under different conditions.

Now as to the Reciprocity Arrangement. It was made by the Government and, if ratified by the electors, it goes into effect as the policy of the Liberal party, etc. In the case of a business partnership, the approval of both parties, and of the nation at large. On such a basis of assent it becomes a deliberate, reasoned, international compact, and the business of both countries accepts and adapts itself to that compact. The commercial interests of two nations become involved, and the good faith of both is pledged. Is it a light matter for either at any moment to slip in and abrogate the whole? The man who says so is either foolish or knavish.

But the moment the pact goes into operation, forces begin to work and changes begin to take place, forces and changes which are widespread and far reaching. If the promises of the advocates of Reciprocity are even partially realized, the trade between the United States and Canada will largely increase. Our exports to the South, now $100,000,000, may be doubled or quadrupled. Our imports from the United States, now $225,000,000, may follow the same course. Our whole trade with the United States, now one-half of our total trade, would be three quarters or seven-eighths of our total trade. We would then be perennially near having all our eggs in one basket, with Uncle Sam holding the handle of the basket. Will anyone say that Canada could with a smile and a jest suddenly rescind the compact, dislocate and throw into utter confusion six or seven hundred millions of trade, being three-quarters or more of our total foreign commerce? It would be to face commercial and financial revolution and ruin.

A portion of this will be new trade consequent upon increased Canadian production. The greater part, however, will be old trade, diverted from Great Britain, chiefly. Mr. Fisher is going about the country declaring that the United States is a better market for us than Great Britain, that the United States can readily absorb all the surplus products of Eastern Canada and will do so. The Canadian wheat surplus which now goes to Great Britain will, under Reciprocity, go to the United States. So say the grain growers, and so argue the Reciprocity advocates, and so says President Taft. If it does not, then Reciprocity is not what the advocates declare. Our exports are to be exported to the United States to be finished there. Our timber likewise and our fish for United States curing, finishing, and consumption, and some of it to be re-exported at increased cost for Canadian consumption. For this diverted trade new transport mechanism and new business affiliations must be provided. The C. P. R., the Grand Trunk Pacific, the Canadian canals and rivers, the projected Hudson Bay Railway, the Canadian elevators and harbor conveniences and port equipment, will not help to convey any of this diverted trade, or of the new trade that follows in its wake. New North and South channels must be provided in Canada. In the United States they are now ready and waiting. In three or four years the carrying system of both countries will, at great cost, have adapted itself to North and South Trade. To repeal the pact would involve this whole transport system in confusion, loss and possible ruin.

Then, again, great changes will necessarily take place in the mechanism of purchase and sale. We must study the United States market, its capabilities, its wants, its likes and dislikes, its purchases, its commission houses, and its financial concerns; and connections and affiliations must be formed there with. Rates and freight conditions are vital, and all these must be studied and arranged. In a few years Canada and Canadians will, in all these matters, face commercially southward, and by that time will have largely taken up or abandoned the net work of commercial mechanism, which now connects her with the British market, and replaced it by a costly and elaborate net work connecting with the United States. Further still. If Canada changes her trade to the South, her producers and business men must adapt themselves and their products to the fashions and demands of that market, and shape them to best suit it. Our processes must change, and the thought and energy of our producers will be bent towards the end sought, viz., adaptation to the United States markets. This means that in a few years Canada at great cost and effort will have in the mechanism of transport, of national purchase and sale, of financial affiliations, of market knowledge, of adaptation of production and the like accomplished an almost complete change of base and face. There will still be something doing on the old lines of East and West, and in the direction of Britain, but the whole complicated system of trade mechanism will have been largely switched to the American centre.

Will Mr. Fielding and Mr. Paterson and all the rest of these confident wisecracks tell us how, when all this has been accomplished—a change so enormous and far-reaching that we can scarcely comprehend it—they can in a trice, by drawing a pen through the compact bring Canada back to the old and free position she occupies today? Their silly waddle of "try it and, if you don't like it in two or three years, you can repeal it," is really an insult to the business sense and intelligence of the whole country. The only time to repeal it is NOW, before the Government can put it into operation. The proper time for the fly to save itself is before it is entangled in the spider's web. We shall treat this question further in a succeeding article.

REQUIREMENTS OF THE HOME MARKET.

The exports of Canadian farm produce to the United States for the years 1909 and 1911 were:

	1909.	1911.	Inc.
Animals, living	$1,340,785	$1,389,145	$48,360
Breadstuffs	2,590,107	2,414,798	@175,309
Fruits	300,669	117,392	@183,277
Hay	32,009	1,449,990	1,417,981
Hides and skins	3,876,756	4,504,740	628,004
Provisions	323,141	213,772	@109,369
Vegetables	500,753	457,681	43,072
	$9,963,620	$10,547,538	$1,583,918

Decrease.
It will be noticed from this list that Canada's exports of breadstuffs, fruit and provisions decreased. The big increase was in hay, the one thing that makes the farmer who sells it poor. The increase of this product is practically equal to that of the whole of Canada's increase on the year 1909. Turn to the other side the imports of agricultural produce from the United States into Canada:

	1909.	1911.	Inc.
Animals, living	$52,392	$1,500,818	$1,448,426
Breadstuffs	5,462,283	8,780,056	3,317,773
Fruits	6,045,234	8,573,080	2,527,846
Hides and skins	1,469,080	2,244,280	775,200
Provisions	3,622,157	3,840,322	218,165
Vegetables	779,964	1,354,323	574,359
	$18,331,700	$26,283,089	$7,951,389

It will be noticed that the increase is five times that of the increase in our export to the United States, or, in other words, out of every six dollars of new business in agricultural products between the two countries, five dollars fell to the share of the United States farmer. The argument may, perhaps, be set up that the high duties which the United States tariff imposed, and which are to be removed under the reciprocal agreement, were responsible for the balance of new trade being so heavily in favor of the United States farmer. This looks well on the face, but it is obvious that if Canada had the tariff to export to the United States and did not send it to Britain declined in this same period by nearly $3,000,000. The only conclusion possible is that the Canadian farmer, instead of requiring new markets for his produce, should attempt to meet the requirements of his own. This being so, it follows that all Reciprocity is going to do for the Canadian farmer is to give him a market he does not require. And for this he is asked to turn over his home market, not only to the farmers of the United States, but to those of a dozen favored nation clause, be allowed in on the same terms.

PLAIN TRUTHS FOR CANADIANS.

(Mt. Clemens Monitor, Michigan.)

THE OUTCOME OF THE WHOLE BUSINESS, IF RECIPROCIITY IS RATIFIED BY THE CANADIANS, AND IT MAY BE AT THE GENERAL ELECTION WHICH WILL DECIDE THE QUESTION—WILL BE ANNEXATION. THE FRIENDS AND FOES OF RECIPROCIITY IN THIS COUNTRY WOULD SEND UP A UNANIMOUS SHOUT OF WELCOME IF THE WHOLE OF CANADA WOULD COME RIGHT INTO THE UNION. THAT'S WHERE IT BELONGS, AND IS LIKELY TO BE.

In a special despatch to the Toronto World, we read: "Let no one mistake the strength of the Nationalist movement. It is growing every day. Quebec is getting ready to shatter an idol. There appears to be every evidence of it at the mass meeting addressed by Lemieux and Bourassa at Three Rivers. The hostility shown to Mr. Lemieux and the other Government speakers and the enthusiasm with which Mr. Bourassa's remarks were received clearly indicated the marked change that has come over the Province of Quebec. Laurier is no longer the idol of the province. The showing up of the Premier's record is now loudly cheered by vast audiences. In fact, if the meetings in progress are any criterion, there promises to be a landslide in Quebec against Laurier on September 21."

The gallant colonel in Queens-Sunbury seems to be having his troubles which even the soothing influences of peanuts and pink lemonade have failed to overcome. The nomination of Mr. Luther Smith yesterday will still further add to his discomfort. Mr. Smith is a strong candidate and very popular in the constituency. The probabilities all point to the gallant colonel meeting his Waterloo on September 21. Even the mysterious uses to which carbon paper may be put at election times are not save him. The loyal people of New Brunswick are out to kill Reciprocity in dead earnest.

Current Comment

(St. Thomas Times.)

Premier McBride, of British Columbia, pertinently asks, "What would we think if Britain said that she would be neutral while Canada was at war?" Well we wouldn't have any right to think anything, after the position Laurier has put Canada into. What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.

(Banger News.)

Earl C. Bousquet of Worcester, Mass., claims to be the champion fly catcher of the world. In one month he caught ninety-five quarts of flies. The fly-catching appears to be exceptionally good in and around Worcester.

(Philadelphia Enquirer.)

Then, again, perhaps the reason why women's feet are becoming larger is because they put them down oftener and harder than formerly.

LESS PROFIT, HARDER WORK

This is What Laurier Reciprocity Proposal is Certain to Mean to Farmers of New Brunswick.

To the Editor of The Standard: Sir,—When the subject of reciprocity was first presented to the view of the American public by Mr. Taft, his excuse for its existence was a desire to lessen the cost of living in thickly populated centres, which could be done by opening the American market to Canadian farm produce. So far so good, he could have done that without any treaty at all! Allowing him credit thus far, that was not the primary reason, nor the most important. His main object, as his own speeches show, was a deliberate attempt to break down the "Chinese wall around the British Empire," by detaching Canada through a divergence of interests. For this reason he forced the reciprocity bill at breakneck speed through the American parliament, after crushing down all opposition.

Those associated with Taft are well aware of the effects of the policy which they have so successfully advocated from the American point of view.

There is another reason yet, and that is a desire to assist the manufacturers to find employment for their industrial population, which has of late run up against a period of depression. In order to bring their policy to a successful conclusion, they enlisted the aid of the American farmer, the parliament, of whom Sir Wilfrid Laurier is the undoubted head. His opinions in regard to free trade have been openly expressed for years, in fact he is or was a member of the Cobden Club, whose only reason for existence is the promulgation of the doctrine of free trade.

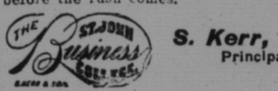

Let me point out the fact that this amphibious creature called reciprocity is not free trade. It is neither fish, flesh, nor fowl, so that whatever we might say in regard to free trade does not apply to this question. IT IS NOT FREE TRADE, NOR A FAIR TRADE, and for that reason we should not support a policy which does not give equal benefit. It will be sure to create dissatisfaction and friction. If the American market of 90,000,000 is such a good thing for Canadian farmers, so much so that we are willing to drop our national independence on the result of the present negotiations, how does it come that American farmers, who do not know the value of their own market, with no duty to pay? It is a fact that in Toronto, the Americans have sold 20,000 sheep within a few months, and sold them for less than Canadian sheep in spite of duty. The price of Canadian sheep is 25 to 50 cents per hundred-weight. Now, if the duty was taken off the price would be apt to drop still lower. Is that a strong inducement to raise for reciprocity? If so, I beg to be excused.

MAY EXPECT IF WE THROW OPEN OUR MARKETS. LOWER PRICES FOR ALL YOU GROW, THEREFORE LESS PROFIT AND HARDER WORK.

No matter from what point you approach the subject, it does not show sufficient recompense for the risks we run. It is a regular gambling game, and I suppose that is the reason why so many are interested in the outcome. When the gambler sits down to play, it is not because he will win, but that he may win. By skill and luck he may win occasionally, but if he plays long enough he is sure to go broke in the end. Every gambler knows before he begins that the odds are against him; still he does not learn by experience to avoid the danger of loss, he plays on—and in the end, loses his all!

THIS IS A POLITICAL GAMBLE AND THE ODDS ARE AGAINST THE CANADIAN FARMER, AND IN FAVOR OF THE AMERICAN. Whether you consider it nationally from the manufacturers, or from the farmers standpoint.

The country which has the largest population will have the greatest surplus, and in the case of perishable products will endeavor to unload on the nearest available market, and accept the price offered no matter how low.

Business men are thoroughly acquainted with the law of supply and demand; they well understand that if the supply is greater than the demand, prices will go low; also that if the demand is greater than the supply, that prices will range high. This is a rule to which there is no exception that I am aware of.

As the matter stands, Americans are suffering from the effects of over-production, and desire to unload upon our market, which will not benefit us unless we are prepared to enter into manufacturing on a large scale, and government aided at that. Until that happens, which will not benefit us, the Canadian farmer in particular, will not benefit Canada in general, nor the Canadian farmer in particular. Now can I say my argument is that if the American has to dispose of his surplus crops on our market, it does not say much for his faith in his own IF THE AMERICAN MARKET IS OF NO USE TO THE AMERICAN FARMER, THEN IT IS OF LESS UTILITY TO THE CANADIAN FARMER.

If you want to keep up the price on everything you grow you will have to vote against reciprocity, and swing into line with the policy which has led you over the rough places, and along the road to prosperity. The policy of protection, which although defunct, is yet of service, and the policy of the majority of civilized nations. It has stood the test, that is a good recommendation.

I have spoken of this for a third reason, that of assisting the American industrial population by providing raw material for the manufacturers to work up into their various products, like lumber and other things of like nature. In regard to this, all I have to say is if it will pay the American to work up and export your raw material, would it not pay you equally as well to drop it into the sea, or to sell it to the reason you have no use for it, possessing the raw material, it grows handy and you have no freight to pay before you begin the manufacturing process.

Another thing I have to say is this, if the American is so badly in need of your goods, he will not be slow to open his market to you, without any concession or legislation on your part. If the people of Canada would only pursue a waiting policy and act in an independent manner for a while, there would be no need for any concession. We could obtain an entrance to the American market without any treaty! Either nation can put on the free list anything she stands in need of, just as she can put the duty on anything you wish to protect. If this be so, why the mad rush to Washington, if you were able to sell your crop last year, why won't you be able to sell this year? If you are able to do so, where is the need of facing over your heads everything that comes to those who wait. You can afford to wait. By so doing you will get a better trade. Rest by the way, you will benefit in more ways than one. Take it easy, don't rush. Devote a little time to deep thinking.

FIERCE ENCOUNTER WITH MAD MAN IN ROCKWOOD PARK

Mounted Policeman McLeod Attacked Last Night By Lunatic Near Lily Lake—Inflicts Leg Wound With Long Bladed Knife and Escapes—Active Search By Police Proves Fruitless.

Mounted Policeman McLeod had an experience with an insane man in Rockwood Park last night that he will not soon forget, and that he escaped from serious injury or perhaps death in a little short of a miracle.

For the past week it has been reported that an insane man has been haunting about the woods in the park, and the policeman has been on the watch for him. On Saturday evening last the man was reported to have been seen on one of the roads naked and acting in a most strange manner.

Last night at 8:45 o'clock, while Policeman McLeod was riding his horse along one of the roads near Lily Lake the insane man jumped out from the bushes and made for the officer. The man was bareheaded and was without coat or vest. He carried in his right hand a long bladed knife, and the attack was so sudden that he was on the policeman in an instant. He tried to climb on the horse's back and at the same time made a stab at the officer. The blade cut through the policeman's trouser leg and went into the right limb between the knee and the thigh bringing the blood, but the wound was not serious.

The mare on which the policeman was mounted became frightened and plunged, giving the officer all he could do to control the animal while he fought off his assailant. Pulling his foot out of the stirrup he kicked the man away from the side of the horse. When he got the animal under control the man had a good start, running down the road towards the lake and disappearing into the woods before the policeman could get a chance to get hold of him.

Policeman McLeod then rode to the nearest telephone and sent word to the central police station about the assault. Policemen Marshall and Sullivan were despatched to the scene and McLeod rode into the city and after securing an electric pocket lamp hastened back to the park and joined the other two officers in their search through the woods.

The man's hat, coat and vest were found by Policeman McLeod in the trees near the side of the road. A search of the pockets did not reveal any clue to his identity. The only thing found in the pockets was a piece of a newspaper on which was written in lead pencil: "I have got something to tell you."

The officers searched the woods all night without finding any trace of their man and at an early hour this morning they had not reported to central station. Policeman McLeod reports the man as being medium built and a stranger to him. An enquiry at the provincial hospital last night showed that there is no patient missing from that institution.

Bears in Abundance. Campers in the vicinity of Spruce Lake had better exercise care in roaming the woods lest they become food for bears. Other reports of similar character have been heard from people traversing the woods in the same section.

H., who is visiting relatives in the city. Mrs. Richardson was for some years state president of the W. C. T. U. in New Hampshire. A large convention of the W. C. T. CHAS. K. CAMERON DIED YESTERDAY.

Well Known St. John Business Man Passed Away in Hospital After Short Illness—Funeral Tomorrow.

Charles K. Cameron, one of the most prominent business men in the city died at the general public hospital yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Mr. Cameron had been ill but one week and on Monday underwent an operation at the hospital, from which he did not recover.

The deceased was in the millinery business and for years his place of business has been on King street. He was a native of Perthshire, Scotland, and came to St. John in the vicinity of 40 years ago. He was one of the firm of Lively, Cameron and Golding having succeeded Everett and Butler, in the dry goods business.

He was very successful in business and there was not a better known citizen in the city. His death is regretted by a very wide circle of friends. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, a past president of St. Andrew's Society and royal deputy of Clan McKenzie of which he was one of the charter members in the city. His residence was at 174 King street east and he leaves a widow to mourn. The deceased was 68 years of age, and the funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon, service at the house at 2:30 o'clock.

S. HART GREEN GETS IN SOME FINE WORK.

Former St. John Man Doing Great Business for "the Liberal Cause" in Winnipeg Registration Booths.

The many friends of S. Hart Green, of this city, will doubtless be pleased to learn that although he has been but a short time in the Canadian West and a shorter time identified with the Liberal party in the city of Winnipeg, he is already doing work there which should cause him to receive recognition from the grateful party bosses for valourous services rendered.

The Winnipeg Telegram of recent date refers to young Mr. Green's political activities and while the reference might not be regarded in St. John as decidedly complimentary in tone it will no doubt strengthen his hold upon the party of purity. Under the caption "S. HART GREEN AIDING MACHINE—Member for North Winnipeg conducts daring operation with clerk accomplices," the Telegram says: "Under the leadership of S. Hart Green, Liberal member for North Winnipeg in the provincial house, a strong band of Liberal 'workers' invaded that district yesterday morning and hooded the registration booths with names of absentees, all of whom went on list. According to reports to the Conservative committee rooms, Green's appearance in the registration booth was the 'open sesame' and nothing more was needed. Foreign born residents who came here a week ago went on without the aid of naturalization papers and went unquestioned just because of the support of Green. Although the Conservatives had special coppers in each booth they could not stop the wholesale registration of non-existent voters and it went on all morning without cessation. There is a great fight in progress in the northern end of the city between the two parties and both are striving to get every available voter on the list, canvassers working from morning till night to get out the vote. An instance of incapable clerks was brought out in the poll at 489 Portage avenue. There the clerk was making the electors sign the registration form at the top of the page instead of at the bottom. Another scheme being adopted in the north end by the Liberals is to tell the foreign born Conservatives who do not speak English that they do not

The defendants went into liquidation some time ago and J. B. Snowball and A. H. Hamilton, K.C., were appointed liquidators. A receiver was also appointed. The plaintiff took a mortgage on the company's property and bonds were issued covering the amount of the mortgage. The defendant's counsel yesterday afternoon consented to the foreclosure and decree was made accordingly. F. R. Taylor appeared for the plaintiff and M. G. Teed, K.C., for the liquidators.
