WHISKARD'S

The Scrap Bag

Woman is beginning to be exploited as an oppressor, her special form of tyranny being, supporting herself. It is claimed, and with truth, that in industrial, commercial and professional life she is persistently crowding man to the wall. Just what her critics would have done is not made clear. She could, of course, amply consent to starve, that being the only alternative for her if she gives up work; but even the most selfish of men would not dare lay claim to so extreme a sacrifice in her behalf.

Try remembering the sick and the aged with fresh bouquets of bright flowers during these sultry August days; don't allow yourself to be selfish concerning the treasured beauties.

As voice I walked by a dismal swamp. There sat an Old Cove in the dark and damp; And at everybody as passed that road, A stick or a stone this Old Cove throwed; And whenever he flung his stick or his stone, He'd set up a song of "Let me alone!"

"Let me alone, for I love to shy These bits of stone at the passers-by; Let me alone, for I've got your tin, And lots of other traps snugly in; Let me alone—I am rigging a boat To grab whatever you've got afloat; In a week or so I expect to come And turn you out of your 'ouse and 'ome."

I'm a quiet Old Cove," says he with a grin; "All I axes is, let me alone." Just then came along, on the self-same way, Another Old Cove, and began for to say:

"Let you alone! That's a-comin' it strong; You've ben let alone—a darned sight too long!"

Of all the sarce that ever I heerd! Put down that stick! (You may well look skeered.) Let go that stone! If you once show fight, I'll knock you higher than any kite; You must have a lesson to stop your tricks,

And cure you of throwing them stones and sticks; And I'll have my hardware back, and my cash, And knock your scow into tarnal smash;

And if ever I catches you round my ranch, I'll string you up to the nearest branch.

The best you can do is to go to bed, And keep a decent tongue in your head; For I reckon before you and I are done, You'll wish you had let honest folks alone."

The Old Cove stopped, and t'other Old Cove, He sot right still in his cypress grove; And he looked at his stick, revolving slow,

Vether 'twere safe to shy it, or no; And he grumbled on, in an injured tone, "All that I axes you, let me alone."

(Selected.) H. P. L. Browne.

There is a kind of consolation—"cold comfort," it is sometimes called—that is much like a bitter medicine.

A young lady went to one of her friends—another young lady—in a condition of mingled sorrow and anger.

"That horrid Miss Jones has been saying that I paint."

"Never mind what Miss Jones says, my dear, if she had your complexion, she'd paint," too.

The aggregate amount of happiness we get out of life is composed in large measure of the small pleasures we secure upon the way. Looking forward in our youthful days, we plan great enjoyments, and we confidently expect to gain all of the grand prizes of which the foolish people we know get only one or two.

Looking back in the later days, when the campaign is over, we find we have done no better than the foolish people we despise in our foolish days, and we count ourselves exceptionally lucky if we have done as well.

We have missed, somehow, the greatest prizes. We have failed somehow of obtaining the wonderful enjoyments we anticipated. And we have made a still more deplorable blunder. In our eager pursuit of these grand prizes, in our keen desire to secure these great pleasures, we have utterly despised and neglected the trifling pleasures—pleasures and joys of every-day life which we might easily have gathered on the way.

Looking back in our retrospective wisdom, which, alas, comes too late to teach us anything but regret, we see how much we have lost by our foolish pressing forward for these bigger things, and our utter passing over of the smaller.

We were going to be rich. We hoarded our dollars and denied ourselves this trifling outing, that pretty flower or stimulating book or leisure, or even the pleasures of small unpretentious hospitalities. We were to make these self-denials all up some day, and with interest. When "our ship came in" we were to travel to enter train lastingly, to take easily all intellectual pleasures which our prophetic soul made us refuse while they were only obtainable in such scant measure.

But somehow the hoarded pennies never accrued to the fortune. We never got the riches we expected, and we confess that we would have lost nothing and gained much if we had taken the little treats we could easily have gained "by the way."

"Show me some white duck suits, please."

It was in the suit department of a large store. I was very tired, too tired to leave the chair into which I had settled some fifteen minutes before, when from my lips, too, had come,

"Please show me some white duck suits."

Since that time the same request had been made by women of all classes, until in a weariness of which I was hardly conscious my mind repeated and kept repeating:

"Please show me some white duck suits."

Upon my entrance, white duck suits had not apparently interested me. But when I discovered that "duck" covered a multitude of materials, my eyes sought what they might see.

The most popular materials seemed to be duck and pique. The duck suits were very inexpensive, and were not particularly attractive. No woman, however, would have failed to be charmed with the plique gown. The very prettiest had large sailor collars, many of them in red and white, or blue and white dots. On such, there were cuffs to match, and a belt which tightened only the back of the blazer. A few had jackets which extended to the waist, where they were cut off sharp. These, however, did not seem to be in great demand.

The most inexpensive suits were entirely of white. On these, the decorative features consisted of embroidery. A flounce of it edged the entire jacket in some cases, while in others a row of in- sertion was introduced just behind the neck and a half line.

The costume shown in the picture was seen at Narragansett. It is of white pique, handsomely embroidered on the material itself, and carries one back to the days of our grandmothers, when the children were resplendent in embroidered pique gowns, the result of months of toil.

Etiquette of Introduction.

In point of precedence in presenting, there is none; only the younger woman to the older, and a man to a woman—a professional man always by his title.

The woman when in her own house should always shake hands when a guest is presented; men should shake each other's hands. The Southern fashion of a woman's extending her right hand is charming, and is now carried out to some extent in New York.

At a ball, the introductions should be distinctly formal. Handshaking is not correct, and here again common sense comes in, for it is most awkward for a woman to place flowers and fan while shaking hands.

No man, when presented to a woman at a dance, should fail in asking for her card. His introduction means a dance.

At any function less important than a large ball, it is always pleasant to add a little note of interest to the presentation, which breaks the ice and leads the way for conversation.

Letters of introduction should never be sealed. The person thus recommended ought to know what has been said of him, the sealing being left to the pleasure of the one in whose favor it is written.

A letter of introduction should entail for him who presents it an invitation to dinner at the first, and afterward any possible courtesies and hospitalities which mutual liking may warrant. In England, attention to letters of introduction is so cordial that an American going over with one is said by his own countrymen to hold a "susp ticket." The nicely bred American woman will accept a letter of introduction as a sacred social responsibility, neglecting nothing she can do for its bearer unless he should prove himself unworthy.

Church Weddings.

Wedding invitations are no longer engraved on paper longer than it is wide, so that it calls for a square envelope. Now the paper is wide, and the envelope is long and narrow.

There is a good deal of dispute in regard to the etiquette of acknowledgment of a card for a church wedding. Some high authorities assert that the invitation is so general and means so little particular attention, that no notice need be taken of it, except in the regular line of future visits to the bride and to the bride's mother. But Mrs. John Sherwood, who is, probably, the American social oracle, declares that a card is obligatory at the hour of the wedding. If one cannot attend, and if the house address is unknown, this card should be sent to the church. If this is necessary, most people err woefully, for few non-attendants send the card.

A Man's Idea of the Cut of a Skirt.

In an evening dance at a summer resort a girl's gown was stepped on and torn from the waist. The offender anxiously inquired if he had hopelessly ruined the garment. "O, no," was the kind response, "I have only to put another breadth in it." The youth's expression changed from one of worry to bewilderment. "Another breadth?" he murmured in utter perplexity. The amused girl laboriously entered upon a minute explanation of the construction of a gown, the cutting and goring, and stitching of the component parts. He listened with much interest. "Well," he cried, drawing a long breath, when she had finished her story, "I have learned something. I always supposed women just gathered up the stuff around their waists, whole. I never dreamed that it was all cut up and tampus together again."

Culled Cables

Effects of Gladstone's Appeal in Armenia's Behalf—
Spread of Anti-Foreign Agitation in China—
The New Conservative Government Popular at Court—The Trend of Trade—Popular Pastimes—
Eleventh Victim of the Foo Chow Massacre—
Rapid Spread of the Cholera—England's Relations With Germany—Great Homeward Rush of Tourists—Anarchy in China—Blood-thirsty Vegetarians.

The following are special cablegrams to the leading dailies on this side of the Atlantic, and indicate the subjects most prominently before the public in the old country:

"MUST" IS THE WORD.

Mr. Isaac N. Ford cables from London to the New York Tribune: Mr. Gladstone and the Chinese assassins have diverted public attention from domestic politics to the horrors of barbarous fanaticism. Mr. Gladstone's speech on the Armenian massacres, while not one of his greatest addresses, rose high above the level of ordinary political oratory. His voice was clear and resonant, and he spoke with splendid energy. While he disavowed any intention of treating the Armenian question in a party spirit, he virtually imposed upon the Salisbury Government the obligation of bringing the Porte to its senses. Undoubtedly Lord Salisbury's hands have been strengthened by this speech, which has been received with signs of approval by the press of all parties. Reports from Constantinople betoken an increased discussion on the part of the Sultan to make concessions on minor points, but a ceremonial was a natural corollary to Mr. Gladstone's speech, and Lord Salisbury has not yet shown any indication that he is prepared to use force. The Porte, as Mr. Gladstone said, will listen to the word "Must," but the word "Ought" will have no weight with it. Lord Salisbury did not hesitate last June to embarrass Lord Kitchener by making a speech in which coercive measures were deprecated. His opponents have not repeated his tactics, but have arrayed behind him in the foreign office the moral forces of public opinion. A threat to seize some of the Turkish islands and hand them over to Greece will open his eyes.

MOTIVES FOR THE MISSIONARY MASSACRE

The massacre of missionaries at Foo Chow is generally attributed to the fanaticism and revenge excited by the overthrow of China in the war with Japan. The first outrage was rapidly followed by additional atrocities in the Province of Canton, and indications are not wanting that the anti-foreign agitation is spreading southward, and that the central Government is utterly demoralized and unable either to punish the assassins or to discipline the mandarins who have been conniving at these barbarous crimes. Lord Salisbury has undoubtedly acted with promptness and energy in demanding reparation for these atrocities, and insisting that the Chinese Government must be held responsible for the lives of foreigners dwelling in the empire, but is doubtful whether the Government can muster forces adequate for restoring the imperial authority. The missionaries have been singled out for attack, not because they were teaching a new religion, but simply because they were foreigners, and the Chinese people in their hour of humiliation and desperation want the country for themselves.

The State Department at Washington is dealing with the Chinese Government through its own representatives, and is not communicating with the British Foreign Office through Mr. Hayard. The American embassy here is too short-handed to undertake any serious diplomatic work. The English view is that foreign missionaries in China are protected by decrees of the central Government and by treaty rights, and that they cannot be recalled to the treaty ports from the interior. Consequently, if the Chinese Government finds itself unable to carry out its treaty obligations, and suppress the outbreak of the fanatical Vegetarians or Buddhist rebels, the Europeans must land marines and an army, if necessary, in Southern China. These conclusions are logical, but precious time is always wasted in diplomacy. While the negotiations are proceeding and the Chinese Government is making vague promises and concealing its weakness, the massacre of missionaries and foreigners may be resumed.

POPULAR AT COURT

The new Government is evidently regarded with high favor at court. Lord Salisbury, Mr. Goschen, Mr. Balfour, the Duke of Devonshire and Mr. Chamberlain have been entertained at Osborne by the Queen, who apparently makes no concealment of her satisfaction over the results of the election. A Cabinet meeting was held Saturday in anticipation of the meeting of Parliament next week, and the preparation of the Queen's speech. The debate on the speech will be dull and listless and the legislative session will be short and uneventful.

The Irish members will have an important meeting in the committee room on Tuesday, but Mr. Justin McCarthy's re-election to the leadership is certain. His arrangement of Mr. Healey has been a strong act, which has increased public respect for him as a leader determined to suppress revolt in the ranks of his followers. Mr. Healey has not been effective in his reply, and apparently will have to submit to be driven out of the camp.

THE IRISH MORE UNITED.

Irish divisions are less serious now than when the Liberals were in power. The followers of Mr. Healey, Mr. McCarthy and Mr. Redmond are bound to find themselves in the same opposition lobbies while the present Parliament endures. Instead of dividing as they did last Parliament, they will be forced to act together, or, in any event, vote together. Mr. Healey is not personally antagonistic to Mr. McCarthy, but he hates Mr. Dillon, Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Blake. It is now more probable that he will make terms with Mr. McCarthy than that he will rebel against the authority of his leader and join the Redmondites who have disliked him as one of the bitterest of Parnell's opponents.

THE TREND OF TRADE

Trade statistics for the quarter show that while there has been a shrinkage in British exports, except Germany, the actual value has been largely increased through the expansion of commerce with the United States. The increases are most noticeable in the woolen, cotton and linen manufactures. The English and Scotch centers of those trades are now feeling the beneficial effects of the revival of trade with America.

and the new tariff is regarded as highly favorable for the woolen, worsted, cotton, linen and jute industries in Great Britain. The improvement does not extend equally to iron and steel manufacturers and to the tin, bar and other centers of the steel trade are greatly depressed. The manufacturers reluctantly admit that the Americans are no longer large customers for heavy classes of steel, and are gradually taking possession of the tin bar trade as they have previously secured the wire rod trade.

SENSATION SPOILED.

The dockyard authorities have discredited the sensational account of the alleged narrow escape of the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York during the trial trip of the torpedo boat Destroyer. It now appears that there was some injury to the engine room, but it is improbable that there was any real danger of an explosion at any time.

The naval maneuvers of the combined fleet now in progress have given a fresh demonstration of the superior organization and training of the British navy.

THE HEAD OF THE ARMY.

The Duke of Connaught is now believed to have relieved the Salisbury Government from an embarrassing position by intimating that he is not a candidate at present for the office of post-commander-in-chief of the army. This will enable the War Office to place a military man of experience and reputation at the head of the land forces and to reorganize the service in accordance with the proposals of the Hartington Commission. The Duke of Connaught would simply be a successor to the Duke of Cambridge, and no radical reform would be possible.

The Sun, T. P. O'Connor's paper, says that the scheme to secure the Duke of Connaught in succession to the Duke of Cambridge as commander-in-chief of the forces has collapsed.

LARGELY THE QUEEN'S WORK.

The transfer of the Bishop of Rochester to the great see of Winchester is understood to be largely the Queen's work. His health is so seriously impaired that it is feared he will not be equal to the arduous labors of his new diocese. His first work will probably be the raising of a fund for repairing Winchester Cathedral, which is threatened by architects to be in a dangerous condition. His predecessor expended large sums in improving Tarnham Castle, the costly episcopal residence.

LADIES WHO ARE TALKED ABOUT.

Justice Hawkins has intervened as peacemaker and brought about a settlement of a celebrated case out of court. Mrs. Jacobs, who had sued the Dowager Countess of Cowley for slander and disclaimed the authorship of certain slanderous letters, and Lady Cowley was allowed to deny that she had written the letters in question or knew anything about them. The belligerent ladies left court with their counsel and Justice Hawkins had the virtuous feeling of having prevented the washing of dirty linen in public. The two ladies had quarreled, and one lady was supposed to have intruded against the other and induced her to write the letters in question.

In the forger case of Lady Frances Rose Gunning, the defendant has been forced to admit in halting accents that she signed her father's high bonds and a deed without his authority.

POPULAR PASTIMES.

Northern England and Scotland are now looking fresh and beautiful after the recent rains, which have restored the verdure of the meadows. The prospects for grouse next week are pronounced by experts to be unusually favorable. Grouse is more popular this season than ever before in Scotland and the northern counties. Some important matches have been played at St. Andrew's, which is the headquarters of the game cycling season, which are now crowded with visitors. Medical men are urging manufacturers to improve upon the present machines and furnish a vehicle with handles sufficiently long and high and brought back far enough to enable the rider to maintain an upright position in the seat. The makers of wheels cannot understand that cycling is popular in England as a recreation and that racing machines designed for high speed are not wanted by the great majority of riders. Manufacturers have too many racing men among their designers.

THE ELEVENTH VICTIM.

The New York World's special from Foo Chow, China, says Baby Stewart is dead, the eleventh victim of the massacre of missionaries by the Chinese at Hwasang. One of the murderers of the Stewart's has been caught, and confesses that they cut off his hands, feet and head of the wife. Mrs. Stewart was frenzied, and fought till hacked to pieces. Foo Chow is cut off from Peking. The Chinese say the telegraph lines are blocked north of the Yangtze River.

SPREAD OF CHOLERA.

From very small beginnings in the Russian Province of Volynia, cholera has suddenly made an expanding break in several directions, notably to the south and west. Various dispatches from Cracow, Lemberg, and other points show that it is spreading rapidly in Austrian Poland. Still more circumstantial stories come from Southern Russia, where the epidemic has reached the vicinity of Kiev, and even, it is rumored, the city itself is suffering from extraordinary heat. During the prolonged drought, springs were dried up, crops were burned, the cattle are dying of thirst and the conditions are most favorable for the ravages of the contagion. The death rate in Odessa for the past six weeks was more than the double usual summer rate, even as it is, and the citizens are in mortal terror lest the cholera add to their woes.

ENGLAND'S RELATIONS WITH GERMANY.

Another special cable says: England's relations with Germany have undergone a notable change within the week. Judging from an article printed in the Daily News on Saturday, it is expected that the Liberals would improve of Lord Salisbury's cultivating the most friendly and cordial relations with Germany, but the Standard semi-officially after the arrival at Coblenz Emperor William printed a remarkable leading article saying that although England desired to retain Germany's friendship, Germany had better renounce some of her ambitious Bismarckian methods in the conduct of her negotiations with foreign powers, especially in connection with Africa. This article was widely quoted and was unanimously condemned by the German press. Despite that fact, however, the Standard now prints another leader, couched in even stronger language, in which it says that the bargain with Germany to which the world has sometimes harshly construed to her disadvantage, and that the German diplomatic corps has strained itself to put impediments in the way of entering into a treaty with the Congo free state authorities, the facilities for which—relying on Germany's goodwill—England had sacrificed in the Congo convention.

The Standard concludes by expressing regret at the eccentric course occasionally pursued by the Berlin foreign office, and adding that it would be impossible for England to face the inevitable risk of a formal alliance with the Dreikaiserbund.

"WEIGH THESE WORDS."

The Sun's London cable says: Once more have the wonderful power and the true greatness of England's Grand Old Man been demonstrated in the remarkable revival of popular interest in the fate of Armenia. The whole nation is marveling over his great speech, and there are no words—even among those who have always been his political opponents—save those of sympathy and admiration. Nobody is any longer foolish enough to deny the greatness of the Grand Old Man of England, and there is no possible doubt of the accuracy of the latest reports that thousands near the scene of the massacre are perishing of starvation.

The only other notable speech at the only public meeting held in London since Mr. Gladstone's speech has been a long letter from Khalef Khalid, a conspicuous Turk, who asks the Grand Old Man why he hates and denounces the Turks so fiercely and violently, when as many and as great outrages against the Mohammedans have been perpetrated by the Christians as were committed by the subjects of Islam. Mr. Gladstone's reply was made today. It is one of the most pointed epistles the old man ever wrote. He says: "I entirely disclaim the hatred and hostility to the Turks or to any other race of men which you ascribe to me. I do not doubt that you write in entire good faith, but your statements of facts are unauthenticated and proceed only upon unauthenticated statements. I make no charge against the Turks at large, but against a Turkish Government. I make the charges which they have been proved guilty of by public authority. In my opinion I have never been a friend to the Ottoman Empire, than have the Sultan and his advisers. I have always recommended the granting of reasonable powers of local self-government which would have saved Turkey from the losses. This good advice has been spurned and in consequence Turkey has lost 18,000,000 of people and may lose more. Pray, weigh these words."

HOMEWARD RUSH OF TOURISTS.

All facilities for going to America during the next eight weeks, except in the steamships, are exhausted. The steamship people of all lines are at their wits' end trying to accommodate the hordes of home-going tourists. The difficulties of the carrying trade during June and July are much exaggerated by the general desire of thousands of Americans to secure passage home during the latter half of August and the month of September. Hundreds of applicants are being turned away from the American line office.

The distress of the stranded travelers who neglected to secure quarters long in advance is very great in many instances. Not only is every berth in the first and second cabins engaged, but the companies have made long waiting lists of applicants for passage on most of their boats. It has become a serious matter for many, who have been compelled to change their plans on account of various emergencies, and in many cases they are beseeching the embassy and consuls and American newspaper correspondents to use their influence to secure passage for them. The result in some cases will be that persons who would be glad to pay first-class fare will land in New York next month among the immigrants in the steerage.

ANARCHY IN CHINA.

There are manifold indications that both the British and the United States Governments fail to realize the condition of Anarchy to which the Chinese Empire has been reduced—a condition which threatens the lives of all the foreigners within its borders. Protests against the carrying trade measures taken thus far by both the Governments concerned have been pouring in for the last three days from the foreign residents of Peking, Canton, Hong Kong, and other places. All urged in the strongest possible language that the Chinese Government is powerless to redeem any of its easily given promises, and that only foreign guns and men will be of any use in the grave crisis that is at hand.

BLOODTHIRSTY VEGETARIANS.

Simultaneously with the cabled accounts of outrage and massacre in China, have come foreshadowings of these and even worse events which were sent by mail more than a month ago. These letters tell of the rapid growth of the secret society of Vegetarians, which now openly defies all authority, even that of Peking. The society was organized several years ago. One tenet was that the members should eat neither meat nor opium. They, therefore, have been described as Vegetarians, although there are numerous vegetarians in China who do not belong to any secret society. Proceeding slowly, they discovered that their actions were not opposed nor repressed. They moved from a bold action to another. The leaders, who were well known, defied arrest. Still nothing was done. By degrees they realized that the officials were afraid of them, and not the other way round. The true reason for the Vegetarians' action was that they seized the opportunity to plan an attack upon the officials at Ku Cheng city. It was found out in time, and the city gates were closed. The Vegetarians had received their first check, but they found that nothing further was to be done beyond replacing the mandarins. No soldiers were sent against them and they knew many of the troops were members of their society. Knowing perfectly well the power that lies behind the Englishman and Americans they thought that to get rid of them both would be a bold stroke, and at the present moment they openly defy the authorities. The Englishmen at Foo Chow who are familiar with this view and all agree that the only effective policy which England and America can adopt is such a display of force as will subvert a serious punitive expedition, and to avoid more extensive operations which would not be short of war. The blow must be struck without a moment's unnecessary delay to prove

CABLE NOTES.

Mr. C. A. Dana, editor of the New York Sun, is making a holiday tour of Scotland.

At present Prince Bismarck's health is good and he goes walking whenever he is able.

Experiments are now being made with a view of lighting Westminster Abbey by electricity.

Mr. James Keir-Hardie, the labor leader, who sat in the last Parliament for the south division of Westham, has accepted an invitation to attend the labor congress to be held shortly in Chicago. He will sail for New York in the Cunarder Campania on Aug. 17.

It is understood that the Radicals will raise the question of Henry M. Stanley's nationality, they having the idea that he is a naturalized American citizen. Another like case will probably arise in Ireland, but these rarely amount to anything, because a born British subject can always resume that status by formally declaring his intention to do so.

TWO DEATHS DUE TO A PIPE.

Cohoes, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Mrs. Mary Murphy, aged 60, and little Frank Kelly, aged 4, were fatally burned in the house of Mrs. Murphy's daughter, Mrs. David O'Hearn, on Park avenue, Saturday morning. The woman fell asleep while smoking and her dress caught fire from the burning ashes. It is thought the boy must have attempted to extinguish the flames and so met the same fate.

Here is a Letter, one of hundreds that are coming in daily. We publish it for the benefit of the women who read about Pearl-line, but who still wash without it, in the old hard and wearing way.

"Now I will tell you how I came to use your PEARLINE. I have taken the 'Ladies' Home Journal' for several years. Three and a half years ago, every time I picked up my 'Journal' to read, the first thing I would see was your advertisement and picture of PEARLINE. I got so tired of looking at it, that I said I would get a package and try it. The result was, when the package was gone, I bought another package, and so I have done ever since. I never think of going to wash clothes since, without my PEARLINE. I have recommended it to quite a number of people, who are now using it, just from my recommendation. I have just written this to you to let you know how highly I prize it. I don't want my name and address to go before the public."

After the Grip

I was in a dreadful state, weak and miserable. Doctor said I had Bright's disease. My kidneys were in dreadful condition. I read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to give it a trial, thinking at the time it was not much use as nothing helped me before. But, thank God, I got relief after the first bottle. I kept on taking it and used five bottles. I am now a cured man; never felt better. I owe my life to Hood's Sarsaparilla. JOHN A. SMITH, 201 Market Street, Brampton, Ontario.

THE GENEROUS ALERTS.
The Crescents, of Toronto, are the tail-enders in the Canadian League. Until Saturday the poor fellows had won only one game all season. Their case called for sympathy, and so worked on the warm-hearted Alerts that they generously declined to wound the feelings of the Queen City boys on Saturday by looking them over. They were mean enough for seven innings to walk all over the visitors, just to show that they could do it if they wanted to, but when the Alerts' hearts became as soft, and their fingers as slippery, as butter. The audience was large and disgusted. It was ungenerous enough to wish to see London win, and could not appreciate the charitable feelings which prompted the Alerts to encourage the Torontoes.

For seven innings Mr. Wm. Hiscott was cruel enough to retire the Crescents with very little ceremony. Only once, in the fourth, did he relent, permitting two singles and a two-bagger, after two men were out. At this point of the seventh the Alerts had runs and the Crescents 5. The Alerts, in their half of the eighth, added 3 by means of two hits, an error, a base on balls and a wild pitch. The Crescents went to bat looking so forlorn that Mr. Hiscott was really touched. He was touched for four singles and a base on balls after two men were out. Result, 5 runs. The Crescents would have had more, only Mr. Hynd, in center, was unkind enough to catch, after a long run, what looked like a safe hit. Twelve to 10 at the end of the eighth. Alerts made it 14 on Synges error. Dunn's double, a balk, and a base on balls. The Crescents went in with 4 to tie. Mr. Wood started them on to victory by greasing his fingers with an easy fly came his way. A Thompson lambasted the ball, Trowbridge got four bad balls, and Lyons, with the bases full, singled, bringing in 2 runs. F. Thompson hit to Hiscott, who actually threw him out at first. Then Roach hit an easy grounder to Mr. Tierney, who mistook a man in London South for Burton, and tried to throw across the river. Trowbridge and Lyons came in and the score was tied. Then Hawley lined out a single and Synges scored the winning run, with one man out. The people home ward wended their weary way. Score:

The Alerts need a remedial order. Steve Dunn, who has been maliciously called "Old Sport," is playing great ball. The score shows that. Tierney, considered the best man on the team, was away off. He was the only man who failed to hit, and he made two awful errors.
Hynd's running catch was brilliant. The work of the outfield was all right. Mr. W. J. Reid earned the gratitude of grand stand patrons by putting back the seats. He has purchased some pews from Knox Church, and they serve the purpose admirably.

A CALL EXTENDED.

First Congregationalists Want a Vancouver Clergyman

To Become Their Pastor—Will Offer Him
$1,200 a Year—Rev. James Pedley the Man.

The members and adherents of the First Congregational Church of Vancouver, B. C., to become their pastor.
"They made their wants known last night at the conclusion of the regular service, when a congregational meeting
was held to consider the pastorate question. Mr. Pedley will be offered $1,200 a year as a starter.
Since Rev. Dr. Wild and Rev. J. R.
Adams pulled up stakes and quit the church, Rev. Mr. Silcox, a clergyman who has just accepted a call to Chicago, occupied the pulpit. Last night he attended the meeting, and when the call was decided, spoke a few words of farewell.

THE GIRL MAY DIE

From Eating Ground Glass—The Police
Can't Find the Father.

Stratford, Ont., Aug. 12.—Dr. B. E.
Hawke, who is attending the Erb family
and who found ground glass in their soup, says that the girl Mary Erb is still in a precarious condition and unless there is a change soon she cannot possibly hang out much longer. The report that the father,
"Doc" Erb, has been arrested at Baden turns out to be premature. Chief McCarthy says that so far he has received no word of Erb's arrest, notwithstanding that he has telegraphed and written all over the country, giving a description of the old man, who is sixty-one years of age, and who is dressed in a brown coat and vest with grizzly gray
whiskers and moustache clipped short.

SUDDEN DEATH.

The sudden death occurred yesterday morning on Chesapeake street of Mr. Hance Walker, a brother of Messrs. John and William Walker, brick-makers. Deceased had not been working since Tuesday last, and was not feeling well. He was around on Saturday, and yesterday morning partook of breakfast apparently much improved in condition. About nine o'clock he died very suddenly, death being due, it is said, to the rupture of a blood vessel in the brain. He leaves a wife and family. Deceased was a member of Abingdon Orange Lodge, and was much respected by all who knew him.

MRS. ANN BRENNER, DECEASED.
Mrs. Ann Brenner, for 34 years a resident of London, died on Friday.
Deceased was a native of Trinity Bay,
Newfoundland, daughter of John Til-lev, who was in his time a conspicuous man of affairs in the region. He was the first to establish the industry of salmon canning, and claimed to be the originator of the process which has since developed so enormously.
Deceased married in 1844 William, eldest son of Alexander Brenner, of Canadian, who was from 1819 the agent of Slade Bros., of Poole, until their failure in 1864, and also stipendiary magistrate of Bonaville district. He afterwards became a school master and instructor in navigation. The late Mrs.
Brenner came to Canada in 1855, and settled with her family in London as stated, being among the earliest settlers in London South, and a member of the first Methodist congregation in the village. She was of late years
a member of Dundas Street Church.
She was the mother of ten children, of whom three daughters and five sons survive her, namely, Isabel, Margaret and Jessie; Alexander John, Malcolm Graeme, Archibald, Ronald and Robert. The interment took place this morning at Mount Pleasant, at 10 o'clock.

on Friday evening in Labor Hall to

ley, who has been absent in England

ciety in this city. London Branch, No.

PANY.

Mrs. Foster, of Kent street, has just recovered from a serious attack of La Grippe.
This is the second siege she has had of the influenza, the first of which attacked Mrs.
Foster about three years ago, and left her with a very troublesome cough, accompanied with chronic bronchitis, and a complication of other diseases, which made it almost impossible for her to attend church without disturbing the congregation by coughing, and, indeed, Mrs. Foster assures us that so bad were the spasms that she often feared she would burst a blood vessel during one of these severe attacks. It was very natural that under such circumstances numerous friends would recommend as many different "cure alls." She tried Cherry Pectoral, Tar, Linseed and other preparations, but was growing generally worse when a friend who had been benefited
by Berkell's Bronchial Balsam, advised her to try that, and in a few days she was out of bed, and the best feature is that she is now entirely freed from all symptoms of the Bronchitis, of which she never hoped to be cured. Mr. Millar, a neighbor, also had a bad cough and was completely cured
by the same preparation.

journe to a down-town hotel. Bro.
Geo. Scollick acted as chairman, and introduced the toast list. First, "The Queen," those present singing the National Anthem; "Sister Unions" brought Bro. K. Hessel, of the Brotherhood of Carpenters, to his feet, who made a good speech on the benefits to be derived from trades unions, and was loudly applauded; "Our Guests" brought a speech and a song from Bro.
C. Benson, of the Iron Molders' Union;
"Army and Navy," song by Mr. Tassie,
"Hearts of Oak"; "The Ladies," Bro.
Scollick; "Canada," Bro. Watson.
Bro. Wrigley then gave an interesting account of his visit to England, telling of the different cities and towns he had passed through. Songs
by Messrs. Johnson, Watson and Tassie brought one of the pleasantest evenings the Amalgamated Society has ever spent to a close. A vote of thanks was tendered, and the affair closed by the present singing "Auld Lang Syne."

COBOURG'S LOSS, LONDON'S GAIN.
Counour Sentinel-Star: "At a meeting of the London, Ont., School Board on Tuesday night the position of English Master in the Collegiate Institute was awarded to Mr.
W. H. Horton, of the Cobourg Institute staff. As the salary attached to the position is $900, and advances to $1,000, Mr. Horton was expected to accept the position, though averse to leaving Cobourg for personal reasons. Mr. Horton's time will not be out until the first of the year, but the Board will not likely stand in his way of improving himself. Mr. Horton has been a model citizen, and his many friends in Cobourg
will regret to learn of his proposed removal.
He has been a teacher of the highest success, the high standard of excellence attained by the Cobourg Collegiate Institute being due, in part, to his efficient teaching. He will be sure to succeed in London."

ANGELICAN PROVINCIAL SYNOD.

Amendments to Canons Which Will Be Discussed.

The sixteenth meeting of the Provincial Synod of the ecclesiastical province of Canada, to open in Montreal on Sept. 11, is expected to be an interesting one.

Among the notices of motion received by the secretary is one from the Archbishop of Kingston, who promises to move, "That,
with a view to promote unity of action and more harmonious management of the Church missionary work at home and abroad, this provincial synod is of opinion that the interests of the Church will henceforth be best served by the existing Domestic and Foreign Missions Society being merged in the Anglican Church of Canada, and the general synod of the permanent committee of the General Synod."

In the preamble of this motion it is stated
among other reasons for the proposed change, that "the experience of the sister church in the United States, indicates the advantage of having one missionary society
co-extensive with the Church in Canada."
This motion may be of interest to the Church of England missionaries who look for changes which promise greater encourage-

There are two amendments proposed to Canon XIII. This canon reads as follows:
"No alteration shall be made in the Book of Common Prayer, the administration of the Sacrament and the rites and ceremonies of the Church, the articles of religion or the form and manner of making,
ordaining and consecrating bishops, priests,
and deacons; or the version of the Scriptures authorized to be read in churches, unless the same shall be enacted at one session of the provincial synod and confirmed at another session of the same; provided by two-thirds of each order of the Lower House."

"Nevertheless, any alteration or addition made to the prayer book or articles by the Church of England in her convocations, or authorized by parliament, may be accepted for use in this ecclesiastical province by the provincial synod at one session only, without the necessity for further confirmation."
The first amendment to be moved by the Rev. Prof. Clark, of Trinity College, Toronto, is to omit the words "or the version of the Scriptures authorized to be read in churches." The second change is proposed by Mr. J. A. Worrell, Q.C. He will move that the following clause be added to the canon: "That all such additions and alterations shall be made or accepted by canon."

There are several other important motions to come before the synod. The Bishop of Niagara will move among other things that "No church or chapel shall be consecrated until the incumbent and church wardens shall have placed in the hands of the bishop, to be kept on record by him, a certificate that the building and ground on which it is erected have been fully paid for, etc." Memorials from the synods of the Diocese of Toronto, the Diocese of Montreal, and the Diocese of Huron have also been received by the secretary.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION is occasioned by the want of action in the biliary ducts, loss of vitality in the stomach to secrete the gastric juices,
without which digestion cannot go on;
also, being the principal cause of Headache. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills taken before going to bed, for a while, never fail to give relief and effect a cure. Mr.
F. W. Ashdown, Ashdown, Ont., writes:
"Parmelee's Pills are taking the lead against ten other makes which I have in stock."
