PRICE TWO CENTS

MINISTERS ENGAGE IN A WORDY BATTLE HOT TIME ON STREET OVER SUNDAY CARS

Rival Forces Failed to Discuss Views Calmly.

Crowd of Three Hundred People Hugely Enjoyed Rather Distinguished Riot.

It has been a long time since London has had the privilege of witnessing even a small-sized street riot, and never in the history of the city has there ever been a semblance of anything approaching a real street battle between ministers of the gospel until today.

It all happened when Messrs. Walker, Morrison, Woodcock, and the Rev. Victor Gilpin, representing the Business and Laboring Men's League and the Rational Sunday League, met at noon near the corner of Dundas and Wellington street a number of the Ministerial Alliance members, including the Rev. D. S. Hamilton, Rev. Mr. Stuart, Rev. E. B. Lancelley, of London, and Rev. T. A. Moore, of Toronto.

Argument began. Almost at once an argument began in reference to the placing of the Sunday street car question before the public.

"You people seem to be very much afraid to give the people an opportunity of deciding what they would have," remarked Mr. Morrison, after the argument had gone on for some minutes.

"Don't you believe it," the Rev. Mr. Hamilton is alleged to have replied warmly. "We are in this fight to a finish, and don't you people forget it."

Saying which, the reverend gentleman shook his fist, it is alleged, beneath the nose of one of the opposing party.

The Biggest Sinner. "You people are but four of a gang trying to fool the people," the Rev. Mr. Stuart is reported to have said.

"Yes, and Gilpin is the biggest sinner of the lot," cried another of the Ministerial Alliance, who, along with many other ministers, had joined in the argument.

Mr. Gilpin Retorts. "We want to give the people a chance to say whether or not they want the street cars," retorted Mr. Gilpin. "It is not for one minister, or a hundred ministers to tell the public that they shall or shall not have this or that!"

And so the argument went on, each side making more pointed remarks as the battle of words progressed.

Crowd Gathered. In the meantime a crowd of perhaps three hundred people had gathered, and were taking everything in with broad eyes.

Hard words are alleged to have passed between the contending parties, and both sides afterwards admitted that some things which might have been left unsaid had been thrown out in the heat of the debate.

Matters Calmed. Eventually matters calmed down and a number of the ministers against Sunday cars went to the city hall to see the mayor.

Later the delegation from the Rational League followed suit, and it was decided that a meeting between the two parties will be held some time this afternoon in the city hall.

Tonight's Arguments. Tonight arguments from both sides will be presented to the council.

When interviewed after the row the four gentlemen representing the Rational Sunday League stated that the Rev. E. B. Lancelley had given them assurance last evening that their committee would be given a hearing at the meeting of the alliance held today at the Y. M. C. A. building.

How They Came to Meet. It was stated that the alliance meeting would be over by 12:30, and that the committee would then be given a chance to present their argument. The Rational League people, consequently, did not start for the Y. M. C. A. building until noon. While on Dundas near Wellington, the opposing parties had met with the result mentioned.

Very Heated Argument. Rev. Mr. Hamilton, on behalf of the Ministerial Alliance, stated to The Advertiser that there had been a very heated argument on Dundas street around noon, but refused to further discuss the question.

Just before going to press, Mr. Gilpin informed The Advertiser that he was in receipt of a dispatch from the city clerk at Port Arthur to the effect that a vote on Sunday cars had been taken and that the majority of the people had voted for them.

Cars in Port Arthur. The dispatch further stated that the cars ran yesterday, and that the Lord's Day Alliance had not taken action against them, and had not signified its intention of so doing.

This is looked upon as a most convincing argument against the statements of the local ministers to the effect that the petitions for and against Sunday cars were sufficient proof that the people did not desire Sunday cars.

Talbot St. School Again Inspected Sanitation Must Be Improved at Once

This Is the Opinion of Dr. Niven, Chairman of the Board of Health.

The condition of Talbot street school was again to the fore this morning when a deputation, consisting of Chairman Fitzgerald, of the board of education; Dr. Teasdale, chairman of the No. 2 committee; Dr. Niven, chairman of the board of health; Inspector Edwards, Mr. D. J. Cowan, Mr. J. H. Carling, Mr. John Bowman, Mr. Robt. Greene and Mr. O. B. Graves visited the school, and thoroughly inspected it. Conditions were more favorable this morning, as the weather was practically perfect, and the Smead-Dowd system was working more satisfactorily, than is its custom. No odors were detected, and everything seemed to be in fairly good shape.

Chairman's Opinion. Chairman Fitzgerald was seen by The Advertiser after the inspection, and he is convinced that something should be done, and from the drift of his remarks, it was taken that the board would shortly take up the matter, and improve the ventilation and heating of the school.

"We found the school in very good condition," he said. "Of course, the morning was very favorable. I am convinced, however, that something should be done if there is the least doubt about the sanitary condition of the school. That is my position. Of course, I cannot foreshadow what the board will do, but I expect something will be done. I am not very partial to the Smead-Dowd system, and I think it should be improved."

Dr. Niven. Dr. Niven was also seen, and he has not changed his opinion regarding the school, in spite of the fact that conditions were more favorable this morning than heretofore. Some time ago he wrote a letter to the chairman of the board of education, Mr. Fitzgerald, calling attention to the school, and condemning its sanitary arrangements.

The letter was not brought before the board at its last meeting, which was a special meeting called for the purpose of considering the salary question. This letter will be considered by the board at its next regular meeting. It could not be seen this morning, as Mr. Fitzgerald had mislaid it.

Must Be Changed. "The closets downstairs must certainly be changed," he said, "and the flush system installed. I have advocated this some time, and I think it should be done. The present arrangements are not sanitary, and any alterations other than a complete change of the system will be of no use whatever. Of course, the Smead-Dowd system of heating and ventilation is not good. While it was working quite satisfactorily this morning, I was under the impression that there was not enough fresh air sent through the rooms. It will have to be changed."

The committee was convinced as far as could be learned that there should be radical changes made in the school before it could be considered healthy and sanitary.

Should P.O. Dept. Collect Mails. [Special to The Advertiser.] Toronto, Oct. 21.—The conviction of Horace Mountain, of Toronto, recent arrival from England, and sentence of four years in penitentiary for robbing mail boxes, has opened up another subject for the postal authorities. The collection of mails by contract is regarded by many older officials as something that must soon pass away and collection be done by civil service, the same as delivery of mails. The contention is advanced by officials that there is just as much to be said in favor of mail collection by contract as there is mail delivery by contract, which is nothing.

The fact that the men connected with the postal department, who have been convicted of robbing mail boxes, have nearly all been newcomers from London, England, has engendered some feeling against the admission of immigrants into the civil service.

Bigamist Captured by a Clever Ruse. An Owen Sound dispatch says: It was by a clever ruse that Thomas A. Richardson, the alleged thief and bigamist who is wanted here, was arrested this afternoon in London, Ont. Richardson has been a sawyer and sawyer in lumber mills for a number of years, and when he disappeared from St. Thomas, after the victim of his second matrimonial venture, Miss Weir, was brought home, it was thought that he would make his way out of the Province to some other point where the sawmills are numerous.

He had frequently spoken of a desire to go to South America to work in the mills there. An advertisement was placed in a daily paper, calling for a competent sawyer and saw-setter to go to South America; fare advanced to acceptable man. Among the replies received was that of "Thomas A. Richardson," which are Richardson's Christian names. Mr. J. S. Findlay, for whom Richardson had been sawyer and from whom the latter had stolen a fur-lined coat, at once recognized the applicant as the man that is wanted. Instructions were wired to the London police, and the arrest, followed at the factory in the east end, where Richardson was working.

A Chinese Doctor Now in London. In the evidence at the police court this morning it was learned that London's latest acquisition is a Chinese doctor.

The gentleman was not among the prisoners who appeared this morning at the police court, and inquiry elicited the information that he was called to Paris, Oct. yesterday afternoon to attend a sick Chinaman.

His name is Sing Fong, and he is a young man about twenty-five years of age.

He is a graduate of Hong Kong University and came to this city from China a few weeks ago.

The Chinaman questioned stated that he is kept quite busy, as he is the only Chinese doctor in Ontario, and they apparently regard it as wrong to patronize an English physician when one of their own nationality is within even several hundred miles of them.

Jumped Tracks. A car of coal on the M. C. R. jumped the tracks near Waterloo street just at noon today. It was pulled on after an hour or two of work.

GENERAL BOOTH ILL AT CHICAGO

Aged Salvation Army Leader Suffering From a Severe Cold.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—The condition of Gen. William Booth, of the Salvation Army, remained unchanged yesterday. A consultation of several physicians was held, and Dr. Oscar Clef announced that unless unexpected complications arose Gen. Booth would be able to continue his trip in about a week. On account of his advanced age precautions are being taken to prevent the cold from which he is suffering from turning into pneumonia. The general remained in bed all day at the home of Commissioner C. A. Kibbey, who is in command of the western territory of the army.

London Brakeman Killed in West Wm. Bowers Loses Life on C. P. R.

Body Is Being Brought to the Home of an Aunt Here for Burial.

Mr. Edward Bowers, of the Savoy Hotel, yesterday received a message informing him that his brother, Mr. William Bowers, had been killed by a C. P. R. train at Medicine Hat some time Saturday. The telegram contained no particulars.

The late William Bowers left London a year and a half ago for Calgary, where he took up railroading on the C. P. R.

Last April he returned to this city and was married to Miss Annie Richardson here.

Death Deeply Regretted. Mr. Bowers' untimely death is regretted by a host of friends in this city with whom he was most popular.

Allege 6,000 Children Signed Against Sunday Cars for London

Those in Favor of the Move Question the Potency of the Anti Petition.

The action of No. 1 committee in recommending that there be no vote of the people taken on the matter of Sunday cars for London does not settle the matter if the Sunday Rational League can prevent it.

This league will be represented at the council this evening, and will ask that the question be submitted to a plebiscite be taken, involving no expense for the city, and it will mean merely an expression of opinion of the people on the matter.

It is alleged that the letter of the city solicitor confuses the question somewhat, and that there is no law to prevent the council allowing the question to be submitted to a vote.

Four People Almost Asphyxiated In Home on Lyle Street During Night

Timely Awakening of a Boy Saved Lives of All in the House.

A mistake in the turning of a damper of a stove last night almost cost the lives of four people by asphyxiation.

Before retiring Mr. John E. Rogers, of 339 Lyle street, opened the damper of the sitting-room stove and fixed the fire for the night.

A short time later Mrs. Rogers, not knowing that her husband had turned the damper, tampered with it, and as a result the house became filled with deadly coal gas.

Boy Became Ill. About 5:30 this morning Archie, their 17-year-old son, became sick and arose. The boy felt dizzy and made his way to the kitchen door and went out into the yard in his bare feet. Just as he reached the bottom of the outside stairs he collapsed.

Father Unconscious. The noise he made in arising awakened his father, who got up to find out what the trouble was. Mr. Rogers was so dizzy that he made his way toward the front door, instead of the rear exit, and he was later found unconscious in the hallway, clad only in his nightgown.

Watchman to Rescue. Mr. Charles Scott, the nightwatchman at the barns, happened to look out on the street a short time later, and at once came to the rescue.

Miss Nellie, the 21-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, was found lying on the rear steps of the house, while the rest of the family were all lying unconscious where they had first fallen.

Administered Antidotes. Word was at once sent to Dr. Seaborn's office by the doctor was not in. A young medical student, however, was procured, and he administered antidotes to the stricken family. Later Dr. Pingel arrived on the scene.

Serious Condition. Mr. Rogers was found to be in the most serious condition, and for some time it was feared that he would not regain consciousness.

At noon today the entire family still felt the effects of their experience and were quite ill. No serious results are anticipated.

created a sensation in the pulpit of Brock Street Methodist Church Sunday by declaring that he had seen more drunkenness in Kingston on Sunday than he ever saw in any other place he had visited.

NOW IT'S KINGSTON. Minister Says Limestone City Holds the Record for Drunkenness.

CAMPAIGN WILL BE VIGOROUS LABOR MEN ARRANGE MEETINGS

Members of Parliament From Montreal and Hamilton as Well as the Candidate and Local Men, Will Deliver Addresses—Meeting on Wednesday.

The Labor Party will institute a vigorous platform campaign after the nomination (tomorrow) and several public meetings will be held.

On Tuesday at the nominations, the Labor Party will advocate a public meeting, and will insist on a joint debate being held.

Major Beattie, the Conservative candidate, prefers merely a formal nomination with very little talking. It is not at all probable that the Labor Party will agree to this. They will insist that public questions be discussed.

Meeting Wednesday Night. On Wednesday evening a public meeting will be held in South London in Trebilcock Hall.

This meeting will be addressed by the candidate, Mr. John D. Jacobs, Mr. F. Verville, M. P. for St. Ann's, Montreal; Mr. Allan Studholme, M. P. for East Hamilton; Mr. Donohue, solicitor of the Dominion Trades Congress, Toronto; Mr. David Carey, Toronto, and Mr. J. Platt, Hamilton, in addition to several local speakers.

West London Thursday. A meeting will be held in West London on Thursday evening if satisfactory arrangements can be made.

At present there is some doubt about it. The same speakers will address this meeting.

Mr. W. F. McLean, M. P. for East York, has been invited to speak on behalf of the Labor candidate. No reply has been received from him as yet, but it is expected that a favorable answer will be received today.

He will fix his own date for a meeting.

Is a Union Man. A report has been circulated in other places to the effect that Mr. Jacobs was a non-union molder for the purpose of affecting the subscriptions in other cities.

The report has acted as a boomerang, the Labor men say, as subscriptions have been coming in splendidly since this report was started.

The Labor Party here is receiving support from many Labor organizations in Ontario.

Papers Filed. The nomination papers of Mr. Jacobs were filed with the returning officer, Mr. Ivory, this morning.

They were signed by 29 men, all prominent in the labor organizations of the city.

The Ministerial Alliance held an unusually interesting session this morning in the Y. M. C. A. parlors. President D. E. Martin was in the chair, and the following other gentlemen were present: Harris, Hume, Black, Shearer, Hamilton, Belcher, Stuart, Lancelley, Birks, Claris, Bowen, Henderson, Davis, Stewart, Steven, Rollins, Moore, Mitchell, Rutledge, Bull, McKenzie.

The topic for the day was the Sunday car question, and the Lord's Day observance, and the speakers, Rev. E. B. Lancelley, Rev. Dr. Shearer and Rev. T. A. Moore, Dr. Hume, the retiring secretary of the Dominion Lord's Day Alliance, and Rev. T. A. Moore his successor. The addresses were inspiring and informing. Experiences were cited from cities where the Sunday car was running, demonstrating that the Sunday car was a hindrance to church attendance.

In Quebec City, the Catholic priesthood will not allow the Sunday cars to run before 12 noon, because they would keep the people from the morning services of the church.

Sunday work in many shops, factories and livery stables has been discontinued since the new act came in force 40 livery stables throughout the country now refuse to hire their horses or conveyances on Sunday.

The law was cited showing that every laborer in these places where Sunday work must be done, as in gas, electric light plants and telephone offices, may claim one day's rest each week. Policemen are also entitled, under the new law, to their rest day.

The Sunday school superintendents of the city will be invited to the November meeting of the alliance, which the subject will be, "The Adult Bible-Class Movement," and representatives of the labor unions will be invited when the subject of "Labor Unions" is taken up.

Clampitt Was Committed for Trial On Charge of Assaulting a Farmer

Big Batch of Drunks Faced Police Magistrate Love This Morning.

The case of Bartholomew G. Clampitt, charged by Thomas Colledge, a Delaware farmer, with assault took up much time at the police court this morning. Clampitt was committed for trial.

Dr. Wilson was called first and stated that Colledge had been severely injured sustaining several fractures of the nasal bones. He had also received blows which had resulted in a hemorrhage at the base of the brain. Colledge had suffered much pain and had been unable to sleep ever since the assault.

Colledge Testifies. Thomas Colledge said he went to Clampitt's house to sell some apples. Clampitt said to get out and took the apples and threw them in the road. Clampitt tried to frighten the horse, and then got after Colledge, striking him several blows. Clampitt knocked him down and said he would kill him.

Batch of Drunks. A number of drunks would have added considerably to the city funds had they not been so financially embarrassed that they were compelled to take the days.

James Harris, a young man, who has been appearing rather frequently of late, was sent down for 21 days in default of paying a fine of $10.

A local man was shown a big stone and admitted breaking a window with it. He promised to pay the costs of replacing it, amounting to $15.

The court imposed a fine of $1 and $2 costs and bound the man over to keep the peace for one year.

POPE AGAINST MIXED MARRIAGES

Finds That Princes Have Failed to Keep Promises to the Church.

London, Oct. 20.—The noble Roman lady whose intention to marry an ex-carabinieri caused a sensation in Roman society is the Marchesa Maria Soruppi-Sacchetti, and the name of the happy man is Scalfaro. The wedding has already taken place.

Not having succeeded in dissuading the Marchesa Sacchetti from her proposal to wed the ex-police officer, the Pope authorized religious celebration of the marriage. This took place at Anzio, a seaport near Rome, on Saturday, the civil ceremony subsequently being gone through on the Capitol Hill in Rome.

Scalfaro is a Calabrian, born at Reggio, thirty-five years ago. He is said to be able to show that his ancestors in remote ages held baronial property, the title of which he intends resuming for the sake of his wife.

Another complicated matrimonial affair is occupying the attention of the papal court. It concerns Prince George of Greece's marriage with the Princess Maria Bonaparte, the former belongs to the Greek Church, and the latter to the Roman communion.

Pius X. has taken a strong line against the policy of compromise in the matter of divorce, which, under the less ill-sounding name of annulment, were fairly easily obtainable from the Roman Curia during previous pontificates in cases where money was no object, and he has shown redoubled severity towards the question of mixed marriages. So seriously is this case that by a recent papal decree various unions hitherto tolerated under certain conditions will, when contracted after next Easter, be regarded by the Roman Church as null and void.

The two biggest mixed marriage scandals of recent years were those of Prince Waldemar of Denmark and Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria, both of whom have notoriously violated the pledges given to the Holy See, particularly as regards the forbidding of their offspring from the Catholic faith. These and similar reasons are urging his holiness to attempt to exact a formal written and sworn pledge enforced by legal guarantees from the Greek prince as a condition of the papal consent to his marriage with the Princess Maria Bonaparte.

The Postmaster-General, Mr. Sydney Buxton, speaking at Glasgow on Wednesday, said he found a cat attached to the central telegraph office, which had been drawing eightpence a week from the public purse for feeding. The Government was pledged to economy, so, though they had not cut off the eightpence at once, they had reduced it very substantially.

Mrs. Rollason, of Leamington, was at Warwick awarded £1,825 damages against the Great Eastern Railway Company for the loss of her husband and her eldest son, J. F. Robinson, a jockey, both of whom perished in the wreck of the Berlin at the Hook of Holland. The jockey's engagement with a Dutch sportsman, it was also stated, was worth £1,000 a year.

Believed to be the oldest inhabitant of Cheltenham, Mrs. Bricknell has just died at the age of 101.

The King was amongst those who sent telegrams of congratulation to Sir Theodore Martin, who has celebrated the 51st anniversary of his birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gwynn have just celebrated their diamond wedding at Catshill, Worcestershire. Mr. Gwynn has been a chorister for 70 years.

Damage estimated at £20,000 was done by a collision between the Cardiff steamer Duffryn Manor and the London steamer Archon in the Bristol Channel.

Over 12,000 weddings have been attended, and 1,200 brides given away by Mr. E. J. Lupton, parish clerk of Yarmouth, who has completed 44 years' service.

Described as the oldest living couple in Derbyshire, Mr. and Mrs. Preston, of North Wingfield, near Chesterfield, have just completed 60 years of married life.

There was a net rise in workmen's wages during August of £48,200 weekly, mainly accounted for by advances to coal miners, says a board of trade return.

Both candidates for the parliamentary representation of the Kirkdale division of Liverpool have declared themselves in favor of women's suffrage.

A compound fracture of the leg was inflicted on a plate-layer named Hall, while working on the railway at Eastville, Lincs., by a piece of coal which fell from a passing engine.

The body of a man found floating in the sea off Brighton on Saturday was identified as that of Mr. George Bridgland, recently a glass and china merchant at East Grinstead.

The King has conferred the Albert medal of the second class upon Mr. Frank Hughes for gallantry in saving life at a flooded mine at Bonnievale, Western Australia, in March last.

London's death rate in the four weeks ended last Saturday averaged 11.8 per 1,000, being 4.5 per 1,000 below the mean rate in the corresponding periods of the five years 1902-6.

As the result of a conference at Skibo Castle of Lord Weardale and Sir Randall Cremer, M. P., with Mr. Andrew Carnegie, the formation of a powerful Anglo-American committee of the Inter-Parliamentary Union is expected.

BEER BUILDS BODIES

PURITY Ontario beers are pure, above all else—far more pure than most of the milk sold in cities, because made under conditions of absolute hygiene.

FOOD-VALUE Boiled potatoes contain not nearly the nutriment that is in pure beer; milk will not feed most folks so well, nor digest so thoroughly.

LAZY stomachs mean poor digestions—they don't work hard enough to extract the good of one's food.

Beer is a food-drink that makes the stomach do its work better, because it increases the flow of the digestive juices and gives the stomach muscles more strength to do their work.

Beer is better for run-down people than medicine; and for thin-blooded people, it will enrich the blood so surely and quickly.

Ask your own doctor if you hadn't better drink beer with your meals.

LEAKAGE IN WIRELESS French Authorities Uneasy Over Fact That Messages Are Intercepted.

Paris, Oct. 21.—The French Ministry of War has received striking proof of the possibility of intercepting "wireless" messages.

Communication has been maintained by "wireless" between a Government station on the Eiffel Tower and Casablanca. The War Office has carefully kept the text of these messages secret.

Yesterday topics of all messages thus exchanged by the War Office and General Druce at Casablanca were received from Verdun, a military station near the German frontier.

It appears that, although the messages passed between the Eiffel Tower and Casablanca without difficulty, they were recorded at the Government wireless station at Verdun. The fact that official messages can thus be intercepted during a campaign has given the military authorities much uneasiness.

Advertiser Correspondence The Farmer on the Market.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: Frequently there is published, under glaring headlines, strong condemnation of farmers attending the market for sharp tricks.

Who sets the example? Take the way farmers are beat all around by city folks, and is it any wonder that the farmer, in the market, is measured back? Bakers' loaves have been getting smaller and smaller until they are not much more than a large bun, and almost always from 10 to 15 per cent short weight.

Farmers buy large quantities of bread. Then we buy tea or other groceries. A big heavy wrapping paper or bag is put on the scale and weighed in as goods, and we pay for it over at the rate of anywhere from 10 cents to 50 cents for a pound. Pretty good profit. Again, the farmer is charged the same price as city customers, and takes the goods away from the store, helping to pay for the up-keep of delivery rigs, etc., without deriving any benefit.

Many farmers have to buy fruit in the city, and they notice that fruit boxes and baskets are passing through the "shrinking" process. Is it any wonder potato bags follow the same rule?

When the farmer has anything to sell the city customer does his best to sell him down in price or beat him in weight. Wool the same. If the farmer has a little larger than usual the city buyer keeps of from five to ten pounds prices.

When selling hides, for instance, the buyer keeps of from five to ten pounds weight. Wool the same. If the farmer has a little larger than usual the city buyer keeps of from five to ten pounds prices.

To deal regularly on the market would mean that farmers or anyone else feel if justified in adopting some method of getting even with those they rub up against.

Let the city people use farmers "on the square," and they will find themselves just as honest as the farmers are, and, perhaps, a little more so.

But just as long as the fight continues along present lines, city people may expect to get some doses of their own medicine.

FROM THE COUNTRY. Negotiations for the purchase for the public of Tom Hood's house and grounds at Wanstead have failed.

KIPLING'S IMPERIAL DREAM.

Kipling's address in Toronto opened with a eulogy of Chamberlain, and was an argument for closer commercial relations within the Empire. He pleaded for a stronger fraternal feeling between the self-governing colonies, and advised Canada to cultivate the growing markets of sister British nations. "It may be," he said, "that for the time being Canada will judge it expedient to make her count with older civilizations, to deal with nations of a more amazing present than that which belongs to Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. But I am sure that if you as businessmen send out or investigate for yourselves you will find in those countries that I have named the promise of markets worthy of your serious attention. Were I a businessman I could show you that as regards our mutual trade we are no more than children playing store on the threshold of our real markets."

The poet of imperialism must reckon with facts and events. In his audience at Toronto were probably many who would cheer his imperial sentiments to the echo, but would be coldly critical when he turned from the sentimental to the business side of imperialism.
The great impediments to closer business relations are the protected interests in the self-governing colonies. In Canada these grew up under the aegis of a party claiming to be more British, more loyal and more imperial than its opponents. These interests have been complaining for years of favors granted the mother country. If they could dictate the fiscal policy of this country, as they once did, the British preference would be wiped out or would be rendered nugatory by tariff changes which would exclude British competitive products from the Canadian market.

In Australia there is a similar phenomenon. Premier Deakin went to the Colonial Conference with "imperialism" and "preference" on his lips. In Great Britain he made considerable noise;
he was acclaimed by the Chamberlain-ites as the imperial prophet of Greater Britain, and his robust speeches and sentiments were contrasted by the Tory press of this country with Sir Wilfred Laurier's deliberation, to the disadvantage of the latter, of course.
Scarcely had Mr. Deakin reached home, when his Government introduced tariff legislation which fell like a sledgehammer upon a wide range of British industries. In New Zealand and Cape Colony the trend of tariffs is also upward. Twenty or twenty-five years ago free trade within the Empire would have been a question of practical politics if a Chamberlain had arisen in Great Britain, but it is now a dream, and under the pressure of protected interests in all the colonies the basis of any scheme of imperial preference is steadily contracting. So much for Mr. Kipling's vision.

MARCONI'S TRIUMPH.

The establishment of wireless telegraphic communication between two continents is undoubtedly the greatest scientific achievement thus far of the twentieth century. The fact that it was found possible on what might be called the day of the real inauguration of the service to send between four and five thousand words across the Atlantic affords reason for the hope confidently expressed by the inventor that wireless will almost immediately become a dangerous rival of the ocean cable, and be the cause of cutting rates in two.

The world has waited several years for the realization of what many have regarded as Marconi's dream, and even recently there have been those who have expressed doubt that wireless telegraphy will in the least interfere with the commercial cable service or depreciate cable stock. Among the latter is Sir Hiram Maxim, who in a recent interview, argued that the man who wants to send a telegram wants it known only to himself and the man at the other end of the cable. "If," said Sir Hiram, "the same message could be sent by wireless there would be nothing to prevent you or me from putting up a little apparatus and tapping it. That would be the simplest thing in the world." The same objection might with no less force be urged against wire telegraphy. A person sending a message by the land telegraph wires is well aware that in the ordinary course of transmission it will be read by at least two and perhaps more persons other than the sender and receiver, and may be heard by every operator whom it passes who chooses to listen; yet thousands of messages are sent daily without the secrecy of a cipher, because both sender and receiver know the contents are of interest only to themselves. It is a well-known fact that land telegraph wires may be and occasionally have been tapped; yet that does not often cause people to resort to the cipher.

Another objection offered by Sir
Hiram Maxim is the ability of an enemy in war to set up radio-telegraphic currents that would interfere with messages and render them meaningless. Marconi, however, intimates that he has perceived and provided against such a difficulty by what he terms
"tuning." Finally, the inventor's confidence in his ability to greatly reduce cable rates gives reason to believe that the cost of generating electric energy of such intensity as to carry the Herz wave across the ocean will be far less than that of maintaining and operating a submarine cable, instead of greater, as some have contended.

"Marconi's" success is of especial importance and gratification to Canadians, seeing that it was the financial assistance rendered the inventor by the Dominion Government that enabled and induced him to establish the first wireless station on the Western Hemisphere on Canadian soil. As far back as January, 1901, Marconi established wireless communication between St. Catharines, on the Isle of Wight, and the Lizard, in Cornwall, a distance of 183 miles, thus proving the principle of the non-interference of the curvature of the earth, which had been anticipated by many scientists who had investigated the newly-discovered principle of wireless telegraphy. These results justified Marconi in recommending the erection of a high-power station, with the object of telegraphing wirelessly across the Atlantic. Such a station was erected at Poldhu, in Cornwall, and on Dec. 12, 1901, the first clear and intelligible signals sent across the ocean were received from Poldhu at a temporary station located at St. Johns, Nfld. In the following summer, at the invitation of the Italian Government, Marconi made a cruise in the warship Carlo Alberto, and during the voyage carried out important tests with his new scheme of transmission. As a result of these tests the warship was placed at Marconi's disposal for the purpose of assisting him in the establishment of communication between Canada and England. Toward the cost of a station at Glace Bay, N. S., the Dominion Government, in March, 1902, agreed to advance the sum of $30,000,
and the result is that Canada has now the distinction of having the first wireless sending and receiving points within its borders.

A HEALTHY LIVER.

[New York Globe.]
Thomas Edison once told this story: "In the year 1873 a man from Massachusetts came to California with a chronic liver complaint. He searched all over the coast for a mineral spring to cure the disease, and finally he found, down in the San Joaquin Valley, a spring, the waters of which almost instantly cured him. He therefore started a sanatorium, and people all over the world came, and were quickly cured. Last year this man died, and so powerful had been the action of the waters that they had to take his liver out and kill it with a club."

FISHERMAN'S LUCK.

[Meggendorfer Blatter.]
The Judge: For two years you men had fished together peaceably, and yet you fought over this fish.
The Sportsman: You see, your honor,
this is the first one we ever caught.

HIS EXCUSE.

[Figliogio Blatter.]
"Last winter you promised that in the spring you would pay me the hundred marks I lent you."
"Pardon, madame, but this year we have had no spring."

TODAY AND YESTERDAY.

[Figliogio Blatter.]
There rode in the golden olden days
A horseman through the town;
And many a gentle maid would gaze
From a rose-hung casement down.
He greeted her; then, quick and glad,
She seized her handkerchief,
And waved until the gallant had
Was gone; then wept for grief.

The autoists, in these iron days,
And in a noisy street
And many a gentle maid will gaze
From a window, half in fear.

The scent borne to them on the breeze
Is not, as then, of roses;
They sniff, their handkerchiefs they seize
And hold them to their noses!

SPOILT ENGLISH GIRLS.

[London Lady's Pictorial.]
One cannot deny the soft impeachment of a certain German Graf, who has been recording her impressions of the English girl as she is seen in the English country house. This lady charges us with spoiling our girls. We teach them nothing useful, and when they have to take charge of establishments of their own she declares that they are wholly unfitted for the task.
Hence the outcry about bad servants. The inefficient housewife makes the inefficient maid.

SOUTH AFRICAN FEDERATION.

[South African Bulletin.]
Tenyson somewhere has a passage in which he speaks of "raw haste, half-sister to delay." The quotation seems singularly appropriate to the appearance before the world of the scheme of South African confederation. Considering all the excitement and agitation that has vexed South Africa for the last ten years, it is by no means asking too much to demand for the country a period of rest before new excitements and agitations, however well intended, are sprung upon it.

ON THE OTHER HAND.

[Chicago Tribune.]
The preacher was offering his felicitations to the newly-married couple.
"Young man," he said, "you have gained one of the fairest maids in the community; and you, young lady, have won a stalwart partner, whose good right arm will level every obstacle that stands in the way of your success in life."

"Left, Mr. Goodman, left," corrected the bride, with a look that showed she was athletic by her side. "George is a southpaw, you know."

WHY HE DARED.

[London Tribune.]
From the East End comes a sad story of a pawnbroker. He was enjoying a beauty sleep when a furious knocking at the street door brought him to the window with a jerk.

"What's the matter?" he shouted.
"Come down," demanded the knocker.
"But—"

"Come down!"
The man of many nephews hastened downstairs and peeped around the door.

"Now, sir?" he demanded.
"I want to know the time," said the reverend.

"Do you mean to say you knocked me up for that? How dare you?"
The midnight visitor looked injured.
"Well, you've got my watch," he said.

A BACHELOR'S PLAIN.

[Exchange.]
When I was callow and twenty,
Doris was sweet and sixteen,
She was mistress of maidens,
I was infatuated with her.

Braids in a coronal crowned her,
Dignity marked every pause—
Four little years lay between us
[Maybe, my memory goes.]

Time, you're a Merlin for magic;
Playing most marvelous tricks,
Here I am, bald, fat and forty—
Doris is just twenty-six.

Braids in a coronal crown her,
Dignity still in her pose—
Possibly when I am fifty
She may be thirty, who knows!

DIFFERENT EFFECTS.

[Meggendorfer Blatter.]
She—the mere thought of the furs which you have promised me makes me feel warm.

He—And the mere thought of their cost makes cold shivers run down my back.

A WAY ARCHITECTS HAVE.

[The Hub.]
Towne—I don't see why a fellow should kick if he doesn't succeed. Every man is the architect of his own fortune.

Browne—Yes, but did you ever know of an architect who didn't blame some sub-contractor for his own failure?

QUITE DECOLLETEE.

[Philadelphia Press.]
"What's the price of this silk?" asked the shopper.
"The price, madam," replied the clerk.
"Is it 98, which you must admit is quite decolletee?"
"Yes, madam; cut low."

FOUL SLANDER.

[Figliogio Blatter.]
"It is said, doctor, that you treated your landlord for liver trouble and he died of stomach trouble."
"Infamous slander! When I treat a patient for liver trouble, he dies from that. Understand?"

[New York American.]
The last time I saw him, he was like the schoolboy who frequently exceeded his average, but never fell below it.

ANOTHER VIEW.

[Le Rire.]
Mrs. Tourist—I'm afraid that the monkey won't please my husband.
Vendor—But madame will find it easier to find another husband than to get a monkey like that for three pence.

THE COLONIAL IN ENGLAND.
[Arthur Stringer, in Munsey's.]
A land that is garden all rose-grown.
Of muted suns and muted rains,
A land of languid rivers and repose,
And vivid green and quiet rain!

An ordered land that broods on yesterday,
Of hearts content with other years,
Of haunted dusks and hills that harbor dreams—
A country old in time and tears!

But, oh! my heart goes, homesick, back to-day—
Back to the wide prairie's sweep,
Back to the pines that brought the sunset near,
Back where the great white Rockies sleep!

For I am tired of dusk and dream and rose,
Of gleams and glorious dead and gone;
I want the outland trail, the upward sweep,
The New World and the widening dawn!

THE BISHOP'S WAY.

[M. A. P.]
Although Dr. Ingram is a bachelor, he is very fond of children, and the following story is characteristic of the man. Before he became Bishop of London, a lady once asked him how he managed to deal with eleven words of praise for all the babies he had to christen without making the mothers jealous. "Oh," was the reply, "I just take the baby in my arms, rock it to and fro, and say, 'This is indeed a baby!'"

ANOTHER QUESTION.

[Houston Post.]
"I have money enough to get married on, and have come to ask you for the hand of your daughter," without money.
"Enough money to get married on, eh?"
"Yes, sir."

"Have you enough to stay married on?"
DOMESTIC SERVICE PROBLEM.
[Farmer's Advocate.]

Does not the real solution of the servant question lie in doing away largely with the need for servants by building smaller houses, furnishing them more simply, and bringing about a state of affairs in which a more rational, wholesome home life will prevail among the rich and middle class?
If half the senseless cringing to Mother Grundy were done away with we would hear a great deal less about the servant problem.

Granted that domestic help may be needed in homes where families are large and the mother overworked. But when the servant girl question is adjusted on something like a healthy basis, there will be no social reflection cast on the girl who assists a friend in such circumstances, and the young man who calls on her will be no more compromising his social standing than if he called on the daughter of the house. At present it is not so, as every young man or woman in the city very well knows.

WONDERFUL.

[Argonaut.]
Soon after his first baby was born his wife went upstairs to change and found him standing by the side of the crib and gazing earnestly at the child. She was touched by the sight, and tears filled her eyes. Her arm stole softly round his neck, and she rubbed her cheek caressingly against his shoulder. He started slightly at the touch. "Darling," he murmured, dreamily, "it is incomprehensible to me how they can get up such a crib as that for 99 cents."

CHAPTER XIV. Groping in the Dark.

The sunlight was starting in through the long, unshaded windows, making square patches of brightness on the walls, once painted drab perhaps, but now a neutral dust color, and bare save for several arid-looking maps. It touched here and there, too, the rows of little figures seated at the worn, ink-stained desks. The girls wore scanty dark stuff frocks and quaint, bibbed holland pinafores, while the boys, stolidly enduring the discomfort of their broad, stuffy-starched Sunday collars, although—and this was the head and front of their grievance—this was not Sunday, but the opening day of the great endowed school at Dun-cald—the Murray Mortification, as it was called, from that quaint term in Scots law for money set aside for charitable purposes, and which must surely have had its rise in the feelings of incensed and disappointed relatives.

Endurance indeed was the note of the youthful gathering for the room, spacious though it was, was hot and stuffy, and the speeches were long. Except for a few, the excitement had already palled of gazing at the "gen-try" in the platform, especially "the brow liddies," sharp though the con-tract was between the low-toned sur-roundings and that bright group, con-spicuous amid which was Isabel Storm-mont, in her plainly-falling white cloth gown. The similarity of expres-sion and dress gave a curious look of

DESIGNED BY MARTHA DEAN.

THE NEWEST SHIRTWAIST CO-S-TUME—6981-6006.

A piquant costume that may be de-veloped with equal success in either silk or wool is shown in this illustra-tion, and will undoubtedly find favor with the woman who likes stylish ef-fects. The shirtwaist, of fine French flannel, is built on the latest of the tuck-pleated models, its most novel feature being the smartly shaped yoke front, forming a wide box pleat back down the center-front, where the closing is effected. In the back the waist is plain, except for a slight full-ness at the waist line. The long sleeves are finished, like the waist, in plain tailored fashion. The skirt is a 7-gored, side-pleated model, which shows a distinctly novel feature in the tablier front. The skirt, which may be made in round or straight skirt, as desired, needs no other decoration than the plain machine stitching shown. It is here developed in navy blue Pan-na-ma, but taffeta or one of the new woollens could be substituted. To de-velop this charming costume in the medium size will require 3½ yards of 27-inch material for the waist, and 8¾ yards of the same width for the skirt.

Two patterns—6981—6 sizes, 32 to 42 inches bust measure.
6006—7 sizes, 20 to 32 inches waist measure.

The price of these patterns is 20c, but either will be sent upon the receipt of 10c.

dull uniformity to the little faces, though in detail they might be round and chubby, thin and pale, fair or dark.

Perhaps it was this which added to the strange sense of oppression of which Isabel was conscious, for en-durance was by no means confined to the desks and the low benches. His Grace, who was at present dealing out excellent advice and well-worn platitudes, was at no time an enliven-ing speaker, but to how many "grown-ups" in a generation is the gift of speaking to children given? As he droned on, and the children stared blank and ruminant, and the gentry on the platform, in spite of the divi-nity that both hedge a duke, hedge a duke, yawned, and glanced furtively at watch-bracelets, Isabel's eyes wan-dered over the great, bare, colorless room, over the rows of sleek, cropped heads and listless vacant young faces in a growing distress, which with every moment she found it harder to conquer or even to conceal. What was the matter? Was she asleep or dreaming?

"Have I ever been here before? Did anything happen here?" she asked her mother in a strained whisper, which with the carrying power of a whisper reached other ears beside those for which it was intended, nota-bly Evelyn Ashe's, seated close be-hind.

"Yes, dear, you have been often here with me," said Lady Stormont, looking uneasily at her. Her face was no longer merely pale, but white as her gown, while bluish shadows showed under the dilated eyes. "It is very hot certainly," her glance following Isabel's, which was measuring the distance be-tween her and the door—a distance which seemed mysteriously to have increased; "but if you can bear it for a few minutes longer I think we shall all be released soon."

A long breath, a scraping of chairs and a tapping of gloved fingers on the platform and a shrill hurraha of cheers from the benches, in which relief very fairly supplied the place of enthusiasm, under cover of which Ashe leaned forward, saying eagerly: "I am afraid Miss Stormont finds the heat trying. May I not take her out to the garden for a little? I understand you have still to go through the do-mitories or some fatiguing duty of that sort."

Lady Stormont hesitated, but before she could reply Isabel took the matter into her own hands.

"Yes," she said feverishly, "I will go anywhere—anywhere away from here."

"I shall join you in a few minutes then," said Lady Stormont reluctantly. As Ashe piloted his charge through the shifting group to the door he felt that his reward had come—his reward for his lost sport, and for those long, dusty ten miles on the back seat of the Stormont barouche—long, it had to be admitted, even with Isabel's face before him.

The site of the Murray Mortification had once been that of an old monastery, the Gray Friars, which had seen stirring deeds in its day, but which in its decay had become a quarry for the townsmen still, save for an arch or two of the cloisters, which formed part of the garden wall, the last remnants had long been swept away to make room for the square solid Georgian buildings of the school. But these pointed arches, with their slender clustering columns relieved the garden from dan-gerous, and gave an air of conventional repose to the sweep of grass set about with a few formal bushes.

Isabel sat down on the stone bench which ran round the recess of the center arch, and Ashe, leaning against one of the pillars, gazed at the picture presented to him. The old gray mold-ering stone, arabesqued with velvet green moss and the creeping orange lichen, formed a background which would have ravished a painter's eye, and which enhanced the girl's delicate beauty and young freshness.

"It is here out here, isn't it?" said Ashe, smiling. "I was afraid for some time that the heat in there was get-ting quite too much for you. I don't know why it should be, but, so far as my very limited experience goes, there seems to be some mysterious con-junction between good works and bad air; at least I suppose that teaching the orphan more or less unnecessary things and clothing him, though not over-comfortably, would be considered a good work."

"I don't know if it was altogether the heat," said Isabel slowly, and without heeding the last words or, indeed, Ashe himself much. She seemed rather to be trying to account to herself for her strange sensations. "I had the oddest feeling in there. I can't describe it."

"For years," says Mrs. Stanley, "I have suffered greatly from a peculiar dragging weakness that resulted from pleurisy and asthma. Doctors prescribed but failed to advise anything of real benefit. A friend urged me to try Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut and I bought five boxes. They gave me renewed strength and energy, toned my stomach, enriched my blood, and supplied just what my system needed. No medicine could have benefited more than Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and I be-lieve every woman would be helped enormously by using these pills regu-larly. They did me more lasting good than all the prescriptions I took in five years."

No man or woman in poor health ever used Dr. Hamilton's Pills without benefit; the depressed, ailing and weak they uplift and strengthen as a trial always proves.

there are so many things I haven't even words for," with a perplexed frown. "I felt as if something was happening to me, some change going on, as if in a little I shouldn't know any longer whether I was myself or one of these poor little mites on the benches. As it was, I seemed to feel just how tired their poor backs were and how they were wishing to lean their elbows on the desks, and weary-ing for that dreadful dull old man—duke, or no duke, much they'd care—to stop. Or, I know so well"—she paused abruptly, a baffled bewildered look upon her face.

"I suppose it's the concentrated dull-ness of all the hot, weary hours you have spent in there," glancing toward the big square building, "descending upon you all at once, though mercifully you can't recall them. What a bless-ing to forget how often and how de-sperately one has been bored. Just think how you score there," said Ashe smiling. "You've not been bored out here, so you're no uncomfortable sen-sations now—voilà tout!"

"If I have not been bored out here, I am afraid you will be, if I inflict many more of my fancies and delu-sions upon you," said Isabel with the little society smile she was already learn-ing to assume. "Yes, I suppose that must be the explanation, for although I seemed to realize their feelings so well, I did not fancy that was ever charity-school child," with a laugh partly to relieve her slight sense of an-noyance at having spoken out her thoughts so freely to Ashe. She never champion him to Basil, but she never felt at ease with him, and though she had a shy, new-born wonder and pleas-ure in the knowledge of her young fairness and was no more averse from admiration than any other healthy-minded girl, the consciousness that Ashe's eyes were following her, and every movement made her carry herself with a superb air of indifference as she rose and moved slowly down the flagged path to meet Lady Stormont, who, with two odd, but not unattractive, had now appeared in the garden.

Ashe smiled at the preposterous sug-gestion, but a quick glance crossed his eyes, like the quiver of summer light-nings vanishing before one can point its place.

"No," he said, as he sauntered at her side toward the waiting group. "I should think that very unlikely, even if you were a Buddhist and believed in a series of former existences, though at times she has such an odd feeling, like yours just now—of having seen, or done, or said something exactly the same before, that it gives some color to such a notion."

"What a creepy idea," said Isabel. "I shouldn't like to believe it. I know I find one 'former self' with a laugh, 'quite enough'."

When they reached the others good-byes were being exchanged—the group was dispersing.

"Too bad of Sir David to desert us today. I hardly remember an opening day without him," his grace was say-ing to Lady Stormont.

"Perhaps he would think that a reason why he might be absolved for to-day," she said, smiling. "He had to go to Eddleston on some special business. I expected he would have returned this morning, but he must have been de-layed, and at last we had to come away without him. However, I may safely tell him that his presence wasn't really required. It will be some con-solation to him for not having been able to keep his word, I tell him he makes a sort of fetch of it."

CHAPTER XV.
An Unconscious Rival.

The level sunset light was pouring through the tall anets of the tapes-try room as Basil entered it, mak-ing three long lanes of bright-ness and throwing the rest of the room into shadow. For a moment, with the sun dazzling in his eyes, he thought the room was empty; then he saw a white figure in a deep, high-backed chair, and he came forward with a quickened step. During the past days, if he had not actually avoided Isabel, he had at least not sought her society. Short of leaving Stanley, it was the only course left to him if he were to keep his word to Sir David, which with every day was proving a more galling yoke. But to find Isabel alone for once! It was too much to ask that he should deny himself these few minutes, this brief chance which he had not sought. Yet he seemed to have nothing better to say than: "So you've got back again." After all, his tongue was a confusing sub-ject on which he would fain have spoken.

"As you see," said Isabel. She had pleaded headache as an excuse for si-lence on the homeward drive, while she had tried to disentangle her thoughts as like a recurring wave with its rows of sleek heads and stolid faces had returned to her, bringing with it that strange confusing sen-sation which seemed to blur her very identity.

"Do you want any tea?" she now asked in a duty voice. "If so, I'm coming up to the carriage. Ashe is com-ing, so we're tired and thirsty when we get home, we drank it all up."

"I don't mind. It doesn't matter," said Jerome hastily. He didn't want the servants fussing about. "Of course, you were in Dun-cald, and I was in the by, who were the 'we'?"

"Only mother and I and Mr. Ashe. Apparently he likes an occasional change from killing grouse. It wasn't my fault, however, that he was 'around' today, plausibly. 'I be-lieve he arranged it with mother.'"

When one is feeling tired and vagu-ly miserable for no apparent reason, the temptation is strong to administer such a pin-prick. If Conyers winced, he valiantly hid it.

"I might have given the birds a hol-iday, too—they've got uncommon will-some Tuesday's storm—but I didn't know if you'd want my long legs crowd-ing up the carriage. Ashe is coming out in a new light, though," he said, with would-be carelessness. "I don't seem to see him somehow as an am-ateur school inspector. How did the poor little beggars comport themselves? Speeches are laid enough on break-ing-up day, but to jaw at them at the beginning of term!"

"Oh, they stared and stared till I think they must have—I can't get the word"—with her little perplexed frown. To Be Continued.

GOOD RECIPE TO CLEAN THE BLOOD

Relieves Blood Disorders by Restoring the Kidneys and Cures Rheumatism.

All medical authorities are agreed that the blood is the great source of disease or of health in the human sys-tem. If the blood is pure, the indi-vidual is strong and healthy, if the blood is impure or diseased, then there is sickness or decay in the whole sys-tem.

Rheumatism is strictly a blood dis-ease. It is caused by excessive uric acid. Sores, pimples, eczema, mean bad blood. Catarrhal affections must be treated through the blood to get per-mament results. To get well, to feel strong, hearty and vigorous, one must have good clean blood and lots of it. You can't clean the blood thoroughly unless the kidneys are made active. Bad blood means clogged, inactive kid-neys and liver which causes, too, such symptoms as headache, nervousness, bladder and urinary difficulties and other sympathetic troubles.

Here is a simple home remedy and the recipe for making it up is as fol-lows:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix well in a bottle and take in teaspoonfuls after each meal and again at bedtime. The in-gredients can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy at small cost.

Here the readers of this paper have a simple yet powerful and effective remedy for all forms of blood, kidney and bladder diseases which should re-lieve rheumatism and catarrhal affec-tions and replace that weak, worn-out indifferently feeling with strength, vigor and health.

This prescription is considered a fine system-renovator and being made of vegetable extracts only, is harmless and anyone can mix it at home. Try this, anyway, before investing in the secret unknown concoctions of the patent medicine manufacturers.

FATAL GAS EXPLOSION

Two Men Working on an Illuminating Gas Machine Instantly Killed.

New Hartford, Conn., Oct. 19.—A ma-chine used in the manufacture of il-luminating gas from petroleum, in a small structure on the Farmington River, in the upper village, exploded with terrific force this morning, and Thomas O'Connell, the maker of the gas, and his assistant, Michael Dono-van, who were standing near the en-gine, were instantly killed, and George Conigron, a helper, was seriously in-jured. The building, a two-story struc-ture, was built of brick and was only three men were in the building. The reason for the explosion is not apparent. The machine supplied gas from a reservoir from which the up-per village of New Hartford obtained its illuminating gas. It had been re-cently put in, and some of the people in town say that they heard O'Con-nor remark that the machine was not running perfectly. From this it is thought the men who were killed were at work on the machine.

WALKER LANGFORD FAILS

Another Man Attempts Port Hope-Toronto Record Without Success.

Port Hope, Oct. 19.—David Lang-ford, who made an attempt to walk from Port Hope to Toronto and return to Port Hope, a distance of 138 miles, in 38 hours, failed to accomplish the feat in the time.

He arrived at the Queen's Hotel at 9:30 tonight, an hour and three min-utes behind his schedule.

Langford was in a state of collapse and had to be carried to his room.

Langford's defeat has by no means discouraged Reynolds, the veteran bar-ber of Port Hope, and tonight he of-fered to wager $300 against $500 that he would make the same trip on Mon-day next in 35 hours.

For the third time this year pedes-trians with the ambition to walk from Port Hope to Toronto and return in 38 hours have failed.

"CARNEGIE HAS SPOILED BOOK TRADE"—JEROME

English Author, Here, Says He's Been Driven to Writing Plays.

New York, Oct. 20.—"The Carnegie libraries have driven me out of the business of writing books into that of writing plays. There is no more money in books; one has to write plays to make money now."

This statement was made last night by Jerome K. Jerome, as he stepped from the North German Lloyd steam-ship Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse. He has come here to look after the re-hearsals of his new play, "Sylvia of the Letters," in which Grace George is to appear.

"There is not the demand for books that there was," he continued, "because people do not buy as they used to, but get them from a convenient lib-rary. This has made a playwright of me."

"Sylvia of the Letters" deals with a love duel between an American girl and an Englishman. The prejudices of the two are brought into conflict, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gump, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's."

It is always easy by agreeing with her to make a woman change her mind.

Very likely you have found yourself in the predicament of not knowing just what course to follow after you've got the pattern? Instructions rather hazy? And at last you've given up in disgust, with several yards of material marked or cut up in some sort of way? That's been the experience of many who have experimented with the old Old Style patterns made on the "hit or miss" principle.

Nothing uncertain about the Ladies' Home Journal Patterns.

The Guide Chart With Every Pattern

shows clearly just how to lay a pattern on the material to best advantage. You can't go wrong—you must go right. And the patterns themselves are drafted, not graded. They are absolutely correct in every detail, and the styles they depict are the very newest in Fashion's World. You save trouble, time and material when you invest in these really modern patterns. The amazing growth of our pattern business is evidence that the Ladies' Home Journal Patterns are opening the eyes of the home dressmakers of London to the difference between these new patterns and the kind they used to think best.

Gluten and Cellulose

both enter largely into the composition of a grain of wheat. The object of the scientific miller is to retain as much of the gluten as possible, whilst extracting all the cellulose from the flour.

Gluten is the real strength giver and is contained in the inner "skin" of each grain of wheat. Cellulose is a hard and almost pure white fibre surrounding the gluten and starch cells. It is absolutely indigestible, but its presence in flour cannot be detected except by special chemical tests.

In the milling of "FIVE ROSES" FLOUR, the flour passes through special purifying processes which, although they remove all the cellulose and waste matter, retain all the gluten and nutriment unharmed. Consequently, this brand is more nutri-tive and more economical than ordinary flours.

CRIME IN LONDON ON THE DECREASE

Some Interesting Police Statistics of the British Metropolis.

London, Oct. 19.—The Metropolitan Police arrested 119,897 people last year, a decrease of 7,420 as compared with the previous year.

This is one of the most striking facts in an interesting report issued in the week. Of the people arrested 3,418 were convicted at sessions, 96,335 were acquitted, bills ignored, &c., at sessions, and 19,459 were discharged by magistrates.

There was a decrease of 1,141 in the number of criminal offences re-ported during the year, and a decrease of 1,318 in the number of felonies re-lating to property. The proportion of felonies to each 1,000 of the estimated population was 2,391, and was the lowest recorded.

Burglaries decreased from 512 in 1905 to 445 in 1906. House-breakings decreased from 1,522 to 1,459, but the number of apprehensions increased by sixty, and the convictions by forty-nine. Violence to the person was used in only three cases of burglary and one case of house-breaking. Of these offenses 713 were committed in houses left with no person in charge.

There were seventeen cases of murder of persons over one year of age during 1906. In only two cases were no arrests made. In the case of the "Studio Mystery," where Mr. Archibald Wakley, a young artist, was brutally murdered, the report says that after prolonged inquiry evidence to justify an arrest was not forthcom-ing. The other unsolved mystery was the death of a woman in the Edmon-ton Infirmary after an illegal opera-tion.

The "finger prints" system continued to give unqualified satisfaction not only in the United Kingdom, but also, it is said, in all other countries where it is introduced. The report calls attention to the fact that mechanical traction is rapid-ly replacing horse traction for public carriages, for whereas the total num-ber of mechanically propelled vehicles in 1902 was but 345, it had, during 1905, risen to 1,384, and during 1906 to 2,275.

The number of motor-buses licensed in 1906 was 783, while 3,752 were re-ported unfit, 2,036 being "fundu-ly noisy," and 1,716 suffering from other defects.

It is stated that makers were in-duced to make greater efforts to pro-duce a more satisfactory vehicle in respect of noise, and the motor-omni-buses since licensed show marked im-provement.

The number of accidents in the streets during 1906 by which persons were killed was 212, as compared with 172 in 1905, and 155 in 1904. The number of street accidents by which per-sons were injured was 14,060, as com-pared with 11,688 in 1905, and 10,384 in 1904, and exceeds the number in any previous year.

The articles left in public carriages during the year numbered 56,754, which included 25,073 umbrellas.

BRITAIN'S FOREIGN TRADE

While Exports Improve, Imports Practically Stand Still.

London, Oct. 19.—In the Board of Trade returns for the past month the most conspicuous feature is again the marked growth of exports, the in-crease being as much as £4,631,167, or 15.17 per cent. The imports, on the other hand, have gained only £231,441, or 0.62 per cent. Among the exports the improvement was mainly in manu-factured articles, which increased £3,227,541, including cotton goods £776,908, woollen goods £238,688, new ships £708,570, machinery £464,650, iron and steel £280,756, and electrical goods and apparatus, &c., £154,468. The increase in raw materials amount-ed to £1,213,206, made up principally of the exports of coal and coke, which were larger by £1,055,231.

We exported 5,674,718 tons of coal, valued at £3,770,592, against 4,843,491 tons, valued at £2,685,361, in the cor-responding month of last year. In food, drink, and tobacco the increase is only £188,214.

As was the case a month ago, and this is owing principally to the reduction in various manufactured articles, notably woollen goods.

Our receipts of wheat from Canada, Australia, Argentina, and Turkey were larger, while those from Russia, Rou-mania, the United States, and the British East Indies declined. Less wheatmeal and flower came from the United States, Canada, and Australia. With respect to maize, we imported more of that cereal from Russia, the United States, and Canada, but a smaller quantity from Argentina.

For the nine months ending Sep-tember the imports have increased 7.25 per cent, and the exports 14.82 per cent.

KIDNEY TROUBLES

Increasing Among Women, But Sufferers Need Not Despair

THE BEST ADVICE IS FREE

Of all the diseases known, with which the female organism is afflicted, kidney disease is the most fatal, and statistics show that this disease is on the increase among women.

Mrs. Emma Sawyer

Unless early and correct treatment is applied the patient seldom survives when the disease is fastened upon her. We believe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most efficient treatment for chronic kidney troubles of women, and is the only medicine especially prepared for this purpose.

When a woman is troubled with pain or weight in kidneys, backache, frequent, painful or scalding urination, swelling of limbs or feet, swelling under the eyes, an uneasy, tired feeling in the region of the kidneys or notices a sediment in the urine, she should lose no time in commencing treatment with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it may be the means of saving her life.

For proof, read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Sawyer.

"I cannot express the terrible suffering I had to endure. A derangement of the female organs developed nervous prostration and a serious kidney trouble. The doctor attended me for a year, but I kept getting worse, until I was unable to do anything, and I made up my mind I could not live. I finally decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a last resort, and I am to-day a well woman. I cannot praise it too highly, and I tell every suffering woman about my case."

EXPERT CONDEMNNS THE DREADNOUGHT

Says It Is Not Bigger Guns But Higher Explosives That Is Required.

Paris, Oct. 19.—Admiral Germinet, the newly appointed commander of the French Mediterranean fleet, has made a sensational attack on the efficiency of the Dreadnought type of battleship. He declares that Great Britain has been misled regarding the real cause of the Japanese naval victories in the Far East.

The admiral said yesterday that Admiral Togo's success was due to high explosive shells rather than to the large calibre of his guns. "Had this been known a few months ago," he added, "the British Admiralty would have undoubtedly modified the armament of the Dreadnought."

"I consider the Dreadnought a great mistake in naval construction. France, profiting by this fact, should arm her battleships with guns of a smaller calibre than the 12-in. gun used on the Dreadnought, and they should use high explosive shells. This main armament of Britain and charged with a small quantity of explosives. These shells were intended mainly to pierce the armor of the enemy's ships."

High Explosive Shells. The Japanese soon realized, however, that the results did not justify the enormous expense involved, and they began manufacturing high explosive shells. All the ships in Admiral Togo's fleet used these shells at the battle of Tsushima.

The shells exploded at the least contact, and sent out tremendous heat, similar to that which followed the explosions on the French battleship Jena at Toulon some months ago. The hardest metals were melted, and produced an enormous volume of destructive gases—carbonic acid and dioxide of nitrogen—which suffocated every one who breathed them.

These gases, penetrating the Russian ships through the ventilators and other inlets, asphyxiated the men on the lower decks. "In the official reports which furnished me with this information," continued Admiral Germinet, "I found two significant facts. On a certain Russian ship two of the heavy guns had ceased fire. The mechanism was inspected and found intact, but all the members of the gun crews were lying dead in the turrets, having been asphyxiated."

"The other fact was even more disgusting. During the engagement the electric wires on the same ship, failed. The wires and dynamos were found to be in perfect order, but the electricians were lying dead beside the dynamos, they, too, were asphyxiated by the gases arising from these high explosive shells."

Tremendous Effect. The explosion of the shells had caused fissures in the hull of the ship, and through these fissures the gas penetrated everywhere, putting two 12-inch guns out of action and plunging the entire ship in darkness.

"One should not say that the Japanese marksmanship was marvelous. It was good, but their success was really due to the high explosive nature of the shells, although some of them did not reach their destination. That is the whole secret of the Japanese victories. From seven to eight miles.

"There is some error as to the distances at which the Japanese and Russian warships were engaged. In most instances the Japanese opened fire at from two miles to three-quarters of a mile.

"During the engagement at Tsushima the distance between the opposing ships were at times only half a mile. It was declared originally that the engagement was fought at a distance of from seven to eight miles.

"We should profit by these lessons. The French navy should be equipped with guns firing high explosive shells of the kind described. Obviously, it would be impossible to do this with guns of the Dreadnought type, because of the dangerous pressure which would be exerted by a shell of this calibre."

MRS. SHARPE ACQUITTED

Creates Scene in Court During Address to the Jury.

Montreal, Oct. 19.—At Sherbrooke the trial of Nita Dorais, wife of Howard L. Sharpe, of Kenora, Ont., charged with killing Harold Coates by shooting on the night of Nov. 4, 1906, was closed by the jury returning a verdict of not guilty. Witnesses for the defense were Alden Learned, Cookshire; Fred Coates and Mrs. Sharpe, the accused.

While Mr. J. S. Brodick, crown prosecutor, was nearing the climax of his argument the accused, evidently terrified, rose from her chair, and, pleading for mercy, hysterically rushed from the court room. Justice Demers addressed the jury briefly. They then retired, and after a deliberation of less than ten minutes returned a verdict of not guilty.

Will Play Till She Dies

Paris, Oct. 19.—Sarah Bernhardt, in denying the rumor that she is soon to retire from the stage, reiterated her oft-expressed declaration that she will play till she dies. She said: "This may of course be my last season, as rumor says, for I am an old woman, and my life is in God's hands, but I shall play till my death, and the fate I hope for is the death Sir Henry Irving died."

SHAKESPEARE ROGUE AND JEW

New Cipher Fiend Says the Plays Were Written by a Nobleman.

London, Oct. 20.—Another patient genius with a cipher has arisen in the person of a Willesden schoolmaster named Nicoll. He asserts not only that Shakespeare was not Shakespeare, but also that he was not even Bacon and the real author of the plays and poems attributed to the immortal William was Henry Whithesley, the third Earl of Southampton.

Shakespeare, says Mr. Nicoll, was a plebeian with a plebeian mind, while the author of "Hamlet" and the rest of the plays was an aristocrat to his finger tips. Nicoll, in the course of two years' deciphering of the first folio edition of Shakespeare's works, found the initials "H. W." written on every page. He found, too, he says, that when the plays are placed in their proper order they give the name of the real author and a key to the dates at which the plays were written.

In the cipher William Shakespeare, an actor who was befriended by the earl, is described as a rogue and a Jew, and, according to Nicoll, he bought his house at Stratford-on-Avon with money given to him by the earl for another purpose. Nicoll's task, according to his own admission, is not yet quite complete, but he already, he says, is in a position to indicate to the proper authorities the hiding place of manuscripts which were supposed to have been destroyed in the Globe theater fire. He places this spot, upon which he declares he has stood, on the seashore within sight of one of the Earl of Southampton's domains.

The twelfth proposition of Euclid is mentioned as the key to the situation and the exact place is located from a church steeple referred to in the cipher.

In another part of the cipher Mr. Nicoll finds the disclosure that a manuscript of "Romeo and Juliet" was buried in a tomb in Dulwich and that the earl feared discovery of his secret when King James had the gates of the tomb removed. Mr. Nicoll's discovery is that the earl used the name of Marlowe from the age of 14 up to Marlowe's death.

WOMAN MURDERED BY FRANTIC MONK

Disappearance of Wife of Young Soldier Led to a Search Being Made.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 19.—A telegram to the Petersburg Zeitung relates a terrible story of crimes which have just been discovered at Verchoturji, in the Government of Perm.

For some years past a monk named Fedot has exercised a powerful attraction over the inhabitants of the neighborhood, especially women, by reason of his eloquent sermons. Women of all ages flocked to the hermitage which a rich merchant had built for Fedot in the midst of the forest near the town.

Fedot, who was noted as an "original," insisted that his devotees, before confessing, should bathe in the bathroom attached to the hermitage, and should also lie down in a coffin, so that they might become accustomed to the idea of death.

Recently several young women of the district disappeared, but, despite the alarm caused, no suspicion attached to Fedot. A few days ago the wife of a young soldier who had gone to see the monk failed to return home, and the soldier proceeded to the hermitage, intending to force Fedot to disclose the woman's whereabouts.

The monk was missing, and the soldier, who passed into the bedroom, saw a coffin lying on the floor. Lifting the lid he was horror-stricken to find within it the dead body of his wife. He immediately informed the police, who searched the place.

In the cellar they found a number of other coffins lying side by side, and in each of them was the dead body of a woman. Up to the present all search for the missing monk has proven futile.

OPPOSITION FOR DEVLIN.

Montreal, Oct. 19.—That Hon. Chas. R. Devlin will be opposed in Nicolet is the statement given out at Conservative headquarters. It is understood that Hon. Mr. Devlin will proceed to his constituency within a few days, and that he will deliver a series of speeches between now and nomination day. Mr. Henri Bourassa refuses to make any definite statement with reference to the suggestion that he should resign his federal seat and oppose Hon. Mr. Turgeon in the approaching by-election.

GIRL CONFESSES TO BRUTAL MURDER

Daughter of a German Mayor Admits to Killing Fiance.

London, Oct. 19.—Confession of a crime of the most brutal character has been cautiously made by Grete Beder, a good-looking girl of twenty-two, the daughter of the late Mayor of Brand, in Saxony. For icy deliberation on the part of the penetrator, who snared her victims with a joke, the story is one almost without parallel in criminal annals.

On May 14, a chief engineer named Pressler was found lying dead in the furnished room which he rented in the great industrial center of Chemnitz. A bullet had passed through his head by way of the mouth, the revolver from which it had been fired was at his side, and appearances pointed to suicide. His landlady, however, insisted that the dead man had never possessed a firearm, but the police pooh-poohed her assertion, and came to the conclusion that he had taken his own life.

There the matter was allowed to rest. It was remarked at the time, as a specially sad feature of the case, that Herr Pressler was shortly to have been married, and among his papers was found a will leaving his entire possessions to his fiancee, Grete Beder. She, however, soon consorted herself with another swain, a merchant named Merkel, belonging to Dresden. Subsequently her father died, and a few days after her mother and her new lover were all taken into custody on a charge of forging the will of a citizen of Freiburg. In connection with the accusation the house was searched, and a number of papers were discovered which suggested that the girl must have had a hand in the death of her former lover.

On being confronted with these evidences of her crime Grete confessed to it in the most heartless manner, telling the story as though it was a good joke. She said that she called upon Herr Pressler, and, with a great show of animation and high spirits, told him that she had just been to the fair and bought him a beautiful present. It was, however, to be a "surprise, so he must allow himself to be blindfolded." To this he good-naturally submitted. Then she told him to open his mouth, and she thrust in the barrel of a revolver, which she had hidden under her dress, and he died.

Erie, Pa., Oct. 20.—Dr. C. W. Hotchkiss, one of the most widely-known physicians in the country, was arrested in his home in East Springfield, late tonight, on a charge of arson. He is accused of having burned his home and office in the absence of his family to obtain the insurance of $2,500 on the contents, on the night of Oct. 9. He did not own the building. An investigation showed that every piece of furniture, including the doctor's own, was insured. The physician was lodged in the county jail, and will have a preliminary hearing on Oct. 22.

The Hon. Mr. Lemieux to Go to Tokio by Way of London

Ottawa, Oct. 18.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Canada's envoy to Japan, has decided to go to Tokyo via London, instead of via Vancouver, as originally intended. Mr. Lemieux will have a short conference with the imperial authorities at London before going from there to Tokyo, and will, it is understood, stay before them the Canadian point of view with the object of obtaining the favorable influence of the British Government in backing up Canada's request from Britain's ally in the Orient. Mr. Lemieux will sail from Montreal next Friday in company with Mr. Joseph Pope, under secretary of state; Mr. Hector Verret, private secretary to the minister; Madame Lemieux and Mrs. Pope. The Postmaster-General will probably be back in Ottawa before the coming session has been long in progress.

C. P. R. STEAMERS CRASH

Liner Tartar and Ferry Boat Charnier Collide in Fog.

Vancouver, Oct. 19.—The C. P. R. Gulf ferry steamer Charnier, plying between Vancouver and Victoria, crashed into the sandbanks of the Fraser at 8 o'clock on Thursday evening in a dense fog. The Charnier crawled into port this morning with her bow stove in for several yards, and the ocean liner was beached at the southern point of English Bay where she held fast wide on the port bow and her hold full of water. The Charnier was bound from Victoria to this port on the regular daily run.

Five passengers boarded the Charnier, some came ashore in the boats, and others were brought in by the Nanaimo ferry steamer Joan. Aboard the Tartar were 139 Hindus being deported. When the collision occurred they rushed up from below, and tried to reach the boats, but were met by the officers, the Chinese crew and the passengers, and beaten back. When they had been quieted the crew lowered the boats. There was no panic among the white passengers.

MARGARET ANGLIN?

Boston Woman Thinks the Actress Is G. Stevenson of Disappearance Fame.

Boston, Oct. 20.—Once more the mystery of Grace Stevenson has been revived by a report that she is living. The mother is positive that her daughter is Miss Margaret Anglin, the actress, now playing with Henry Miller in New York, and is supposed to have gone to New York to try and meet Miss Anglin.

There has never been anything veiled about Miss Anglin's history. She was born in Ottawa, the daughter of the late Hon. Timothy Anglin, a member of the Canadian Parliament. It is ten years since Grace Stevenson disappeared. Her father was James Stevenson, a wealthy real estate dealer, which he owned, and was

RACINGLondon Loses to Hamilton Cubs
Visitors Winning Fifteen to TwoLocal Pigskin Experts Make Fine Showing Against Fast
Hamilton Team.

Lids off to the Tiger Cubs.
London is some pumpkins in the baseball line, and it has fast horses, but when it comes to competing with Hamilton in the line of football the Forest City must needs take a seat in the rear.

Fifteen to two was what the kid with the chalk paint placed on the big score-board at the end of Saturday's contest at Tecumseh Park, and the score tells much.

There was no disgrace in the defeat administered by the visitors, however. The local boys were just as game as they make them, but they were out-generaled.

On the wings, the locals had the Cubs whipped fifty ways. On the back lines, however, there was another tale to tell.

Vic Jackson, London's clever half-back, who put up a wonderful game Saturday against Hamilton.

We've got to hand it to Nibbs Harrison and Pottier. They both had something on Jackson in kicking, although the latter outshone anything on the field in the way of line-plugging. "Big Bear" Sage, too, was in the game every moment, as in fact were all the rest of the boys.

Experience Won.
London appeared to have a trifle on the Cubs in weight, but the experience of the visitors was too much of a handicap to overcome, and the inevitable took place.

The local forward line was very good, and several times Hamilton lost the pigskin on downs.

It is a fact that the utility man on a baseball team is not able to think as rapidly in a game as the player who is working regularly, and the same applies to football.

Locals Started Strong.
The locals threw through the Cub line almost at will, and the visitors' wings appeared to be useless. The kicking of the Cubs, however, offset the advantage of their opponents' superior punting, and it was not long before London's goal was in danger.

Harrison kicked off, and London failed to return. Jackson went through the line from London's 25-yard line for twenty yards, but the play was declared off-side. Hamilton lost the ball on a fumble after making a slight gain. London carried the pigskin back fifteen yards, and lost the ball on a blocked kick. Pottier attempted to go around the end and kicked over just as he was tackled. Avery followed and brought Wood down for a rouge. Hamilton 1, London 0.

Harrison kicked from London's 40-yard line to Bole, who was brought down for another rouge. Hamilton 2, London 0.

Jackson kicked to Pottier, who returned the kick from London's 30-yard mark. Jackson attempted to return, but punted up in the air. Pottier dribbled over the line, and Wood was tackled for a rouge. Score at quarter time, Hamilton 3, London 0.

With the wind at their backs, the Londoners showed up better in the early part of the second quarter, and soon had Hamilton's goal in danger. London kicked off, and held Hamilton for five yards. London's ball on downs. London attempted to kick, but was blocked. Harrison got the ball and was forced back and brought down for a safety touch, from the 10-yard line. Hamilton 3, London 2.

Hamilton returned London's kick-out, and Whetter carried the ball to the local 25-yard line.

Hamilton blocks a kick and gets the ball. Avery went around the end for fifteen yards. Hamilton gained five yards more, and Vickley was then converted for a touchdown. Avery converted. Half-time score, Hamilton 3, London 1.

The Second Half.
In the second half both teams picked up in their play. The local team worked hard to stave off defeat, but was unable to score. On several occasions they had the ball on the Cubs' 5-yard line but were always out-generaled.

Hamilton's superior kicking, and the work of its back division told its tale, and although the locals were hard and fast on line bucking and punning, the visitors managed to boot themselves into the way of annexing six additional points.

Harrison's kicking brought the pigskin up to the 10-yard line, where London attempted to kick on the second down, but fumbled, the ball going almost straight up in the air. Avery went through for a touchdown on the second down. Harrison failed to convert.

Hamilton scored a rouge, and the final score read, Hamilton 15, London 2.
The teams line up as follows:
London — Wood, fullback; Bole, Jackson, Whetter, halves; Spry, quarterback; Duffield, Craig, Brown, scrimmage; Glessing, McGavin, Jamieson, Moore, Baker, wings.
Hamilton — Smith, fullback; Dey, Harrison, Wark, halves; Avery, quarterback; Pfeiffer, Smith, Park, scrimmage; Glessing, McGavin, Jamieson, Townsend, Pottier, Vickley, wings.

NOTES OF THE GAME.
And now the cry is, "Wait until we meet the Argos at Toronto next Saturday."

With a little more experience and a few changes in the back line, the locals will do.

The Cubs were unanimous in saying that the Argos are not nearly as fast as the Londoners.

For pure sportsmanship, the Cubs at present seem to have a commanding lead. They paid $200 for an extra to bring them up here, after they found that they could not all get away on the only available regular train between Hamilton and London, which leaves Hamilton early in the morning.

Some of the Cubs stayed over Saturday night and paid a visit to the cauldron. The typewriters made a distinct hit with the long-haired bunch.

Only one incident occurred to mar the sport of the game. One of the visitors handed Watson, one of London's new wings, a punch on the nose, and the latter replied in kind, with a few extra punches thrown in, for good measure. The referee hadn't seen the first offense, but he promptly penalized the local man five minutes for his temerity.

The local team should be in novice discouraged. With practice and more experience there may be another story to tell the next time the two teams meet. Had the boys had an equal break in luck, and had they displayed a little more headwork when they had the ball close to the opposing goal, the score would have been very much more equal, possibly the result reversed.

The receipts pay all expenses and left a fair margin over for the trip to Toronto.

If London wins at Toronto Saturday, there should be a bumper crowd here at the Thanksgiving Day game with the Argos.

Shake-Ups Coming
In New York Teams,
Says "Bobby" Keefe

Bobby Keefe, Clark Griffith's property, who has been pitching for the New York Americans and Montreal, Eastern League, team since going east two springs ago, is home in Tacoma, Wash., for the winter.

Though Keefe is owned by the New York Americans, he does not know whether he will be summoned to play with the Yankees next spring, or whether he will again be "farmed" to the Montreal team. He finished the season this year with Montreal.

"New York is a funny baseball town," said Keefe to a Tacoma interviewer. "The public there won't stand for any second-class teams. In fact, the town won't support any enterprise of mediocre caliber. Accordingly, there was much dissatisfaction with the showing made by the two Gotham teams this summer. There will surely be a great shakeup in the National League Club, and the same changes in the American team before another season rolls around."

"It's no snap breaking into the game back there, especially for the youngsters. The old players hang together and protect their own interest against invasion by the recruits. The veterans have their many friends, are boosted by the newspapers and the whole thing works out against the youngsters. He must make good on the jumpoff."

"Both the New York managers believe in yanking a pitcher whenever he shows signs of going to the bad. As soon as he gives a base on balls or is hit twice in succession the other pitchers are sent out to warm up. If the least disaster follows the first symptoms of weakening the pitcher is pulled out and another substituted."

"One of the pitchers who was 'farmed' out to Montreal, upon being asked how he liked the games he saw in the big league, said:

"I never saw any of the games. I was always out behind the grandstand, warming up. That's about the way of it."

The winners of the school boys' race last year were the team entered by the Lorne avenue school, over which Principal Snelgrove presides. Eight teams entered. St. Peter's school came second, and Victoria school third. The rivalry for this championship amongst the schools will be keenly contested, and the friends of the little fellows in this city will turn out in large numbers to give them the encouragement they deserve.

In the five-mile road race last year only two teams entered. The Y. M. C. A. team were the victors in this race, the tally by points being 23 to 17. In this race Billy Amos, of the Seventh regiment, took the lead of all the runners, kept a good lead of all the others, completing the course with a lead of half a mile. A meeting of the executive, and the sports committee of the Canadian Club has been called by Secretary S. F. Chinese Gambling Joint Raided Keeper Was Fined $100 in Court

Many of the Chinese Did Not Know for What They Were Arraigned.

Thirty-nine Chinamen, some sad, some glad, but all in a more or less disheveled condition, crowded into one corner of the police court this morning and waited for something they knew not what.

They had been taken to the police station last night about 11 o'clock, just as the Chinese gambling joint was raided. Many of the Chinamen did not know what the charge was against them, and until Wesley Wong, who acted as interpreter for them, came around and told them they would have to give him $2 each to give the magistrate for having gambled, they did not know that they had done wrong.

Keeper Fined $100.

Sue Sing was the man whom his worship blamed in the matter, as he is responsible for keeping the place. He was fined $100 and $12 costs. Sing says he is bookkeeper for Quong Wing, who is at present out of town.

The magistrate did his best to explain to the Chinamen that they could play fantan, poker or anything else they liked as long as they did not give Sue Sing or anyone else a rake-off.

The Law.

There is no law against anyone playing any kind of game they like as long as they do not give anyone else anything for letting them do it. The Chinamen were apparently unaware of this fact.

Arrest an Outrage.

Mr. Cowan, who appeared for the Celestials, said it was an outrage to arrest these men and allow all the clubs in town to permit gambling and monthly gambling, the drinking of absinthe.

Mr. Cowan maintained that hundreds of people were doing far worse things all the time, than the Chinamen, who harmed no one in their innocent games.

Being Fleeed.

Chief Williams said that the arrest had been made solely in the interests of the Chinamen who, certain persons who knew, told him were being fleeed nightly at Quong Wing's place.

Harry Lee was discharged, as he was at his home writing a letter, and did not know what was going on. Two other men who had just entered a moment before the police did, were also let go.

The Dominion Parliament To Open November 28

Ottawa, Oct. 20.—At a meeting of the cabinet yesterday afternoon the date of the opening of Parliament was set for Nov. 28. It had been hoped that the departmental reports and preparation of the legislative programme would have been sufficiently advanced by this time to enable Parliament to open on Nov. 14 or 21, but unavoidable delays and the absence of several of the ministers in Europe on business of state during a large part of the summer have resulted in holding back the opening by two weeks.

At Saturday's council the principal question discussed was the mission of Hon. Mr. Lemieux to Japan. It was confidently expected that when Canada's case is presented to the Japanese Government by Mr. Lemieux Japan will consent to abide by the understanding as to a limitation of immigration in Canada in force when the treaty was signed, but it will be made perfectly plain by Mr. Lemieux at Tokyo that if the immigration is not limited as desired by Canada, the Government at Ottawa will promptly give the six months' notice necessary to abrogate the treaty. Mr. Lemieux, in order to reach Tokyo as quickly as possible, has again changed his plans, and instead of going via London has canceled his passage on the Virginian for Friday next, and will now go via Vancouver, sailing from that port on the 25th inst., as originally intended.

Here's a "Really, Truly" Cat Story

There was a remarkable story published about a dog in the press dispatches the other day. Fido left Columbus, Ohio, walked to Chicago, and in a few days found his mistress in that city of over two million people. The story reads like fiction, but it was true beyond a doubt. London has a cat story that is almost as remarkable, and has a touch of pathos, too.

For some time a well-known Dundas street druggist has been troubled with rats in his store, and finding conditions not improving, asked his sister, who resides on Waterloo street, near St. James, if she would loan him the house cat. This cat is a beautiful Maltese, with a family of two little kittens. One evening the three cats were taken to the store to war on the rats. One of the cellar windows was opened a little to give the cat an opportunity to go in and out as she pleased. Tabby was placed in the store and the family was made as comfortable as possible. The cat was at night. The next morning the cat was missed, and no trace of her could be found. The family had disappeared.

Early the following morning, however, when the owner of the felines went to the front door, there was puss and her two kittens, none the worse for her journey. It is rather a remarkable case when it is looked into. The distance from the store to the cat's home is considerable over a mile. In order to get there the cat must have traveled street car tracks and crossed a large park. She must have run the gauntlet of innumerable dogs, and she must have taken many runs up trees to home in one trip, and the cat must have gone down town twice to get her family.

CHIEF RETURNS FROM CONVENTION

Fire Chief Clark, accompanied by Mrs. Clark, returned on Saturday night from a two-week holiday spent in Washington, Jamestown, New York, Syracuse and other cities. While in Washington the chief attended the convention of Canadian and American fire chiefs, and he secured many valuable pointers, which will be made use of on the local brigade.

The chief says the attendance at the Jamestown Exposition is a frost, and the show will likely prove a financial failure.

While away the chief was in many theaters, and he says it would do some people of London good if they could see other theaters and compare them with their own.

Early in the morning the chief was in the city, and he secured many valuable pointers, which will be made use of on the local brigade.

First Meeting of the Strangers' Club

The Y. M. C. A. Strangers' Club had its first monthly meeting of strangers last evening in the association rooms.

Several days ago the club's secretary sent out invitations to young men who had just recently come to London, and whose names had been handed in to the association through the various club members.

Some half a hundred sat down to a supper provided by the Epworth League of the First Methodist Church.

Thirty-three of the young men present had been in the city only a few weeks, some but a few days.

All felt grateful to the association for extending to them this cordial hospitality. Seven different nationalities were represented in the gathering, and six different church denominations. After the supper and the introductions all present separated and attended the various church services of the city.

The members of the club considered their opening very auspicious, and augurs well for a successful work in making the stranger within our gates welcome to the city.

Residents Opposed to Annexation

Assessment Commissioner Grant is of the opinion that the suburbs of London will not be annexed very soon. He declares that in nearly all cases the residents are opposed to annexation.

"The city is in need of more land for manufacturing, that is sure," said Mr. Grant this morning. "But if the suburbs are annexed there will be annexed."

THE SIXTEEN NEW ARC LIGHTS NOT LIKELY TO BE PLACED

There is a strong probability that the London Electric Company will not place the sixteen new lights ordered by No. 3 committee. The agreement with the company runs out in another year, and there is no disposition on the part of the company to go to the expense of putting up the lights when the contract is so soon to expire. The expense involved would amount to more than the income that the company could be compelled to put them up, but this does not seem to be the case. The contract the company made calls for the installation of 350 lights. At present there are 355 lights in. That makes eight more than the very great deal more of roads and streets to look after, and that will be a considerable item for some time to come, especially as the city has so much to look after now. It seems that the manufacturers outside the city limits get more favors than White's, a firm inside the city. It will be some time before the suburbs are annexed.

Recent explorers insist that there are three natural bridges in South-eastern Utah as much larger than the Natural Bridge in Virginia as Pike's Peak is higher than Mt. Washington.

More Cheerful

ON WALL STREET

Leading Stocks Shot Up at the Opening of This Morning's Market.

New York, Oct. 21.—Wall Street (noon).—After a general reaction, the list got back to about the opening prices. At 11 o'clock New York Central fell below par, and prices yielded moderately on small dealings. After a considerable reaction prices rose again to a higher level than before. Reports that conditions were tranquil at the banks reassured sentiment.

Cheerful in London.

London, Oct. 21.—Americans opened with a distinctly more cheerful tone on the stock exchange this morning. The news of the banking readjustments in New York creating a favorable impression. Prices were put above the previous closing prices of Saturday. Southern Pacific reached 72 1/2, Canadian Pacific 162, and Union Pacific 118, being one point above parity.

A good tone continued to prevail in the British section on investment purchases. Consols advanced another 3-16.

On the Rebound.

New York, Oct. 21.—Opening prices of stocks rebounded violently from the depression in which they closed last week. This was due to the relief of the measures taken by the clearing house over Sunday to control the banking situation. American Smelting shot up 3 5/8, Union Pacific 2 1/4, Dominion Steel 1-1/8, Southern Pacific 1/8, Great Northern 1/8, Canadian Pacific 1/8, and Reading 3-8.

Convincing Arguments.

Both sides claim to have convincing arguments to present "pro and con" as to whether a vote of the people should be taken, and just how the conference will resolve the claim.

Cy Warman in Chicago

Y. C. 101 1/4, Northern Pacific 115 1/2, Penna. 116, Reading 84 1/2, St. Paul 111 1/2, Sugar 103 3/4, Southern Railway 12 1/2, Union Pacific 115 1/4, United States Steel 23 1/8, and 23 1/4, United States Steel (preferred) 83, Wabash (preferred) 15 1/2.

H. C. Becker, stockbroker, received the following by private wire from Bartlett, Franke & Carrington today:

New York, Oct. 21.—Non.—The market during the first hour was nervous, but in the main strong. The nervousness was no doubt due to fears that the heavy decline on Friday and Saturday would result in the announcement of failures on the stock exchange. A quick rally took place when it was known that all the clearing houses had gone through, the upward movement being assisted by urgent covering of shorts. In the loan market, both on Saturday and this morning, all active stocks were in good demand. An attack was made to break New York Central, but the specialists took some 10,000 shares, and later the issue rallied. It is rumored that the New York banks enough Government funds to offset the amount which the banks may have to pay out in order to give the necessary assistance to the St. Thomas banks.

An Explanation.
A deputation from the employees of the London Street Railway employees met on The Advertiser today, and stated that the statement made before No. 1 committee by one of the advocates of Sunday street cars, that a majority of the employees of the company are in favor of cars on the Sabbath, is wrong. According to the deputation 76 per cent of the men are against Sunday cars.

Anniversary Services.
Yesterday was anniversary Sunday at St. George's Church, London Junction, the Rev. Thos. Nixon, Ph.D., being preacher for the occasion. Large congregations listened to thoughtful and eloquent discourses on the themes "The Church," "Conformity to Christ," "Rev. Hector McKay, B. A., took Dr. Nixon's work. The Ladies' Aid, under whose auspices the anniversary social is to be held tomorrow evening, have an excellent programme in hand, together with the usual social, and expect to have the church crowded to its utmost capacity.

Church Debt Canceled.
Right Rev. David Williams, D. D., Bishop of Huron, goes to Burford tomorrow to consecrate Holy Trinity Church, in that place, which is now free of debt. The church was built in 1851-2, although a congregation had been formed since 1837, and services had been regularly held. It was free of debt for some years, but when the present property was acquired and the rectory built, a mortgage was put on the church. This has been paid off by the Young Ladies' Guild of the church, organized by Rev. Frank Leigh, the present incumbent.

Former Londoner.
The remains of the late Mrs. Annie Britt, a former Londoner, were interred yesterday afternoon in St. Thomas Cemetery. Rev. Dean Graham conducted the services. The bearers were: James Riley, John Owen, Joseph Taylor, John Cooper, Alderman George Geddes and Robert Cottrell. The floral decorations were many and beautiful, including a wreath from Wabash division, B. of L. E. 529. The relatives present were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dewar, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnston, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. A. Marshall and Mr. Alex. Marshall, London, and Miss Ada Dewar, Pittsburg, Pa.

Sized the Butter.
St. Thomas Times: A citizen who purchased two pounds of butter on the Horton market this morning, complained to P. C. Moylan that she had found the butter short in weight two ounces. Mr. Moylan investigated, and, acting on the instructions of Chief Armstrong, seized the seven pounds of butter remaining in the basket of the owner. This was found to be short six ounces all, and a summons was issued for the appearance in court of the lady who offered the commodity for sale. To Magistrate Glenn she pleaded guilty and was fined $5, while the butter was confiscated and sent to the Thomas Williams Home.

Chief Armstrong says he will prosecute all dealers who offer short weight or short measure articles for sale on the city markets.

SCARCITY OF TAILORS

Since the Revolutionizing Young Men Will Not Learn Tailoring Trade.

Blaime for the dearth of journeyman tailors is laid at the door of Semi-ready tailoring. The revolution in this particular trade caused by their system has discouraged young men from learning the tailoring trade in the old way. Printers and publishers are having the same trouble since the introduction of type-setting machines.

This is why many merchant tailors are writing to the Semi-ready Company in Montreal, to secure the exclusive agency for their special order department. The company make suits to measure within four days for all their agents. They use only the finest British wools, and give the same guarantee which accompanies their regular stock garments.

Preachers Condemned Sunday Cars

Subject in Many Pulpits on Sunday

Trolleys on Sabbath a Convenience, 'Twas Said—Not a Necessity.

There was hardly a preacher in the city yesterday who did not touch upon the subject of Sunday street cars, and although the majority did not devote any large amount of time to the subject their remarks were in the nature of condemnation, on the ground that the cars were not needed.

The Auditorium was crowded to the doors Sunday afternoon to hear Rev. J. G. Shearer, of Toronto, secretary of the Social and Moral Reform Society, and Rev. T. A. Moore, secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance.

Mr. Shearer, who spoke first, maintained that Sunday cars in any city were a mere convenience and not a necessity. In a place the size of London there was absolutely no need for them, as only a very few persons would use them. The street railway people did not want them, although he was afraid it was because they did not think that at present the scheme would pay.

Street railway directors were just the same as any other directors, and the moment they found there was a prospect of increasing their dividends by Sunday cars, just so soon would they change and be in favor of them.

Just a Beginning.
It was to be regretted that a number of workmen were working against their own cause by favoring Sunday cars and other things that would cause some one to have to work on the Sabbath.

The people who now want Sunday cars would soon want the cigar stores to be open on Sunday, and then they would want the theaters open, and one thing would lead to another until the country would become degenerate.

People said the Lord's Day Alliance were narrow, but they were simply trying to live up to the golden rule of the organization, not to want anything done on the Sabbath that would deprive some other person or persons of their day of rest.

Secretary Moore.
Provincial Secretary Moore spoke briefly eulogizing the work of Mr. Shearer at Ottawa, in securing the passing of the Lord's Day Act.

Mr. Moore spoke of the improved conditions in France since the passing of the Lord's Day Act there a short time ago.

Mr. Moore dealt with the struggle of the church in this country, in the Sabbath, and stated that they had at last been successful. No one should oppose any measure that tended to

1,683 Names Added to Voters' List

The final returns from the registration of voters here were 583 voters, registered on Saturday. This makes a total of 1,653, as there were 1,055 registered up till Saturday. This is not a very heavy registration, in fact, it is one of the smallest in many years.

The returns on Saturday were as follows: No. 1, 73; No. 2, 132; No. 3, 52; No. 4, 82; No. 5, 77; No. 6, 93; No. 7, 73; a total of 588.

Session Held This Morning and Is Being Continued This Afternoon.

The convention of the Latter-Day Saints closed last night with a splendid meeting in the city hall. Three services were held yesterday, and all were well attended and highly successful.

The speaker at the morning service was Elder F. W. Pitt, of Buffalo. Mr. Pitt took as his subject, "Fight the Good Fight of Faith." He pointed out that the Christian's life was a warfare. It was not a dress parade, but a real warfare. As arms and uniforms are necessary to a soldier of war, the Christian must be armed with righteousness, truth, peace, joy and long-suffering—the armor of God. The Christian must strive to overcome evil with good. The sermon was a very strong one, and made a vivid impression.

At the afternoon session President Evans, of this city, preached a very eloquent sermon on the life of Christ. He dealt with the human side of it, and held him up as an example for humanity. Elder Evans in an impressive manner pointed out that the life of Christ illustrated the possibilities of human greatness in conformity with God's will.

At free-will offering was taken up at the close of this session and presented to Elder Evans. It was his birthday, and the gift was a tribute to him. He was completely taken by surprise, but he expressed his thanks in a very pleasant way.

Elder Evans was the preacher at the evening session. His subject was "The Restoration of This World to Its Sinless Condition Before the Fall of Man."

In the Morning.
Saturday the Latter Day Saints delegates assembled in the church at 8:30, and indulged in prayer and a good fellowship meeting.

The church was packed to the doors with people, and many were unable to gain an entrance.

The meeting, which was presided over by the pastor, Rev. R. C. Evans, was called to order by Mr. J. H. Taylor, of Grand Valley.

At ten o'clock the conference proper was opened by the Rev. R. C. Longhurst, president of the London district.

The Rev. Mr. Evans was elected to preside over the conference, and a number of small committees were appointed, after which an adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

In the First Methodist.

In the evening Dr. Shearer spoke against Sunday cars to a large audience at the First Methodist Church.

At Askin Street Methodist Church, Mr. Moore, in the evening, spoke strongly against Sunday cars, instancing the condition of many American cities.

The Lord's Day Alliance has its biggest work to do yet, in making the large corporations respect the rights of their employees on the Sabbath.

Leaving for China.

In the evening a special service was held to bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Percy Westaway, who are leaving for China where they are being sent by the Sabbath school and members of the Epworth League to do missionary work.

Miss Brockville, a returned missionary who has spent thirteen years in China, gave a stirring account of her work.

At the conclusion of the service, Mr. and Mrs. Westaway were presented by Rev. E. B. Lancelley, on behalf of the members of the Sunday school and Epworth League with $100.

Mr. and Mrs. Westaway were also made the recipients of handsome Bibles from the Sunday school, the presentations being made by Messrs. D. A. McDermid and S. McCutcheon.

Mrs. C. J. Beal, on behalf of the Woman's Missionary Society, presented Mrs. Westaway with a handsome Bible and a certificate of life membership in the order.

Special Services.
Special Sunday school services were observed at Wellington Street Church.

Rev. F. E. Mallott occupying the pulpit in the morning, while Dr. McCrae, of Westminster, spoke in the evening.

At Talbot Street Baptist Church in the evening Rev. Mr. Vining commenced the first of a series of lectures on well-known scriptural characters, dealing in his subject, "Sampson." In the course of his remarks, the speaker spoke strongly against the liquor traffic.

THE MOLTKE-HARDEN TRIAL

"World Will Enjoy Disgraceful Spectacle" Says Paper.

Berlin, Oct. 20.—The Lokalanzeiger, in an article seemingly inspired, expresses deep regret that the approaching trial of Count Cuno von Moltke's suit against Maximilian Harden is attracting so much attention. The Count is suing Harden for libel in having repeatedly charged in his paper, the Zukunft, that von Moltke was one of the aristocratic set called Knights of the Round Table and was grossly immoral.

The Lokalanzeiger dwells particularly on the effect the trial will produce
