The cabinet re-adjustment at Ottawa was completed on the 6th, when Hon. E. L. Patenaude was sworn in as Minister of Inland Revenue, and Hon. P. E. Blondin, who had held that portfolio, became Secretary of State, in succession to Hon. Louis Coderre, who goes to the Superior Court of Montreal, in the presence of the other members of the cabinet, the path of privy councillor was administered by H. R. H. the Governor-General and that of cabinet minister by Rodolphe Boudreau, clerk of the privy council. Mr. Patenaude's accession to the cabinet necessitates a by-election. It will be in Hochelaga, Hon. Mr. Coderre's old seat. Nomination will probably take place on October 15. It is also officially announced that L. T. Marchal, K. C. has been appointed to a Superior Court judgeship in Montreal.

Discussing Canadian imports in London on the 6th, William Sears, a big egg shipper, said that the past year had been a record one for Canadian eggs. He had found them more reliable than the American eggs. He expressed the opinion that Canadian exporters should always clearly mark the origin of their goods. One feature of the Canadian eggs was that they were better packed. The big demand made by the hospitals for eggs and poultry is making a keen market for both.

Canada's Finances

Discussing Canada's finances before the Toronto Board of Trade, Hon. W. T. White, Finance Minister, among other things, said that upon the declaration of war Canada was confronted with many serious problems. We had been a borrowing community, our loans principally raised in London, aggregating $200,000,000 for the six months immediately preceding the war, or at the rate of over a million dollars a day. On account largely of this borrowing for construction purposes within the Dominion the balance of trade was heavily against us. Upon the outbreak of war our borrowing had been automatically cut off for many months, and Canada found herself with millions of short date securities maturing due abroad and heavy liabilities at home, which it had been the intention to liquidate by the sale of further securities. Trade was paralyzed. Several things had to be immediately dealt with. Panic had to be guarded against. Our gold reserves had to be maintained. Everything possible had to be done to promote trade and minimize unemployment due to dislocation of business. And above all, Canada had to come forward and do her share in providing men and raising money for the defence of the Empire. To the Government the last was of paramount importance. No matter what interest suffered it was felt that war was our first business until triumphant success crowned our cause. Panic had been allayed by measures taken the day war was declared. There had been no sign of it since in Canada. "Nationally we are growing richer, notwithstanding the war," said the minister, "and in time will be able to finance most of our war expenditures, and later our domestic Enterprise, for which in the past we borrowed so heavily abroad.

CANADA'S STRENGTH lies in her NATURAL RESOURCES. The slogan which would give our country was, still is and indeed should be for all time, "PRODUCTION, PRODUCTION AND AGAIN PRODUCTION." What was a few millions of annual interest on war expenditure, as against the hundreds of millions of possible annual increase in production, he asked. There had been a period of severe dislocation after the outbreak of war, he said. During this period the Government had felt that it would be disastrous to abruptly close down public works construction and add to the unemployment. Now that confidence and prosperity are returning, and the war expenditure and war orders in Canada are so large, a general reduction is being effected. There were limits to Dominion borrowings, and it was also vitally necessary that the public credit should be preserved. It was vital to the well-being of the nation now and for the future. This statement referred only to civil expenditures. So far as concerned the war there could be no talk of financial prudence. The life and liberties of the nation were at stake, and no considerations of self must stand in the way of the most vigorous prosecution of which we are capable. To that end the people would patiently bear whatever financial burdens it was necessary to impose upon them. Their spirit, patriotism and enthusiasm since the outbreak of the war had been an inspiration to the Government. Hon. Mr. White said that as a result of all that had been done by the Government and the public—borrowing abroad, economizing, producing great crops—the situation was now excellent. The balance of trade was in our favour. The excess of our exports over imports would be applied in liquidation of our interest indebtedness to foreign creditors. We are to go ahead and prosper and raise at least a considerable amount of our war expenditure here. The money would all be spent in Canada and would not therefore have any bearing on the question of gold exports. "You will all have a chance," said the minister, "when the time arrives, to contribute to a Canadian war loan. We have shown we have resources of men unsurpassed in the world for courage and valor. We shall show that we have also money to uphold the cause which we know to be just, and the ideals for which we stand."

Souris Exhibition

The second annual Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition of Eastern King's County, held at Souris on Tuesday last week, was eminently successful and in the highest degree creditable to the people of that section of the Province. The weather was beautiful and the attendance was large. Shortly after twelve o'clock Hon. John McLean briefly addressed the assembly in the drill hall and introduced his Honor Lieut. Governor McDonald. His Honor expressed his pleasure for the opportunity given him of formally opening the Exhibition. He thought the people of Souris and the adjacent portions of the County might well be proud of the splendid showing made on this occasion. The number and excellence of the exhibits in the various departments were such as would do credit to any community. Comparing this exhibition with the first held at New Perth, sixty-three years ago, he pointed out what marvelous progress had been made in those years. Great as had been this progress, he felt sure the next twenty-five years would witness much greater proportionately. The number of the inside exhibits overtaxed the capacity of the building, and their general excellence was indeed wonderful. The roots, vegetables and fruit were all of the finest quality, and the products of handwork also deserved admiration. The exhibits of household science and the culinary art were displayed in tempting fashion. The outside exhibition was of the highest order of merit. Horses, cattle and sheep were exhibited in very large numbers, and a large proportion of them were splendid specimens of their kind. So large was the number of horses entered in the different classes, and so keen was the competition that the judges task was by no means an easy one. Since last year great improvements had been made in the grounds. A large number of stalls had been erected along two sides of the enclosure, but these were not near sufficient for the animals presented, and many had no stalls. It was six o'clock before the judging of the horses was finished. The great success attending this second exhibition of Eastern King's County speaks volumes for the energy and progressive ideas of the people of that section of the Province, and is a good augury of a bright future for the agricultural and industrial points of view.

Bulgaria's Mistake

The Bulgarian Government, in a statement to the Associated Press, explains its action in siding with the Central Powers by expressing the belief that Germany will win this war, and that it would have been suicidal for Bulgaria to have allied herself with the losing side. If the statement represents the result of observation and investigation made in the interests of Bulgaria, it would appear that her statesmen have used their faculties to very little effect, for there is nothing in the war situation to indicate the slightest possibility that the Quadruple Entente will be defeated, or that there will be any other end to this war except the complete downfall of Prussianism. One year ago the German armies were overrunning France and rapidly advancing on Paris. They had practically all their forces in arms and the situation favored them. As time progressed their chances of victory diminished until now the Tueton hosts are not as far advanced as they were one year ago and on practically every front, with the exception of a section in Russia and the latest invasion of Serbia, they are on the defensive. During the year the Teutonic

Progress of the War

London, Oct. 5.—On the western front the big guns have again undertaken the task of attempting to level the German entrenchments, presumably in preparation for a continuation of the attacks which proved successful in Artois and Champagne. In some sectors there has been infantry fighting in which a trench, or a few yards of a trench, changed hands, this being particularly the case in the areas where the Allies have made their gains and where the Germans are trying to win back their lost ground. The British fleet too, is almost continuously bombarding the German positions on the coast of Belgium. Paris, Oct. 5.—The following official communication was issued by the war office tonight: A bombardment of a somewhat violent nature occurred on all sides to the north of La Scarpe and to the east of Arras. There was trench fighting with grenades and bombs in the sectors of Libous and Andechy. In Champagne the enemy continued with the aid of asphyxiating shells, the bombardment of regions in the rear of our new front, to the south of the Navarin farm and in the environs of Soudain. Our artillery responded very energetically against the German trenches and works. The artillery action was almost continuous in the Argonne, in the sector from Houyette to Les Eparges, in the forest of Apremont and in Lorraine near Moncel, Arpancourt and Amovillier. On the evening of October 4 the enemy attempted a sudden attack against our position to the east of Orbe, in the Vosges, but was completely repulsed. The Belgian official communication reads as follows: "There has been slight activity by the artillery of the enemy along our front."

Progress of the War

Petrograd, Oct. 5, via London, Oct. 6.—The following official communication from general headquarters was issued tonight: "There have been several engagements on the Riga front. North of Birschallen our troops occupied a portion of the German trenches. The fighting continues along the lines of Lake Demmen, Driswitz, Medzol and Vichney. "In the region of Suorogon and further south, as well as on the Upper Niemen, in the neighborhood of the village of Deliatitchi, there have been continued skirmishes with the enemy, who is endeavoring, but unsuccessfully, to advance in an eastern direction. "South of the Privet, after an engagement of the Middle Styra, in the district of the Kovel-Sarny railway, our troops occupied the villages of Vouk, Optovo, Votchitzk and Medvieshka. In some places the enemy retired in disorder."

Progress of the War

Paris, Oct. 6.—French infantry, after a heavy bombardment by the artillery, today captured, by assault, the village of Tahure and reached the summit of the hill of the same name, which constituted a supporting point in the second German line, according to the official statement issued by the War Office tonight on the campaign in the west. The text follows: "Our action in Champagne obtained today new results. Our infantry troops after strong artillery preparation, captured by assault, the village of Tahure and reached the summit of the same hill, constituting a point of support in the second line of the enemy resistance. We likewise made progress in the environs of the Navarin Farm. The number of prisoners taken exceeded 1,000. "On the rest of the front only artillery engagements are reported. These were especially intense in Artois, in the region of the Givenchy wood and Hill No. 119, in the Argonne, to the north from La Bassee to Le Pretre; in Lorraine, near Leintry, Reillon and Badonviller, as well as in the Vosges, on the Metzlar ridge."

Progress of the War

London, Oct. 7.—A despatch to Reuters Telegram Company from Sofia, sent by way of Petrograd, says: "Bulgaria's reply to the Russian ultimatum is unsatisfactory. The Russian minister has notified Premier Radoloff of a rupture of diplomatic relations between the two countries. "Russian interests in Bulgaria have been confined to the Dutch charge d'affaires. "Bulgaria's (Continued from page two.)

London, Oct. 6.—Even the greatest battle of the war may prove to have had less weight in deciding the future of Europe than the events of the past few days in the southeastern kingdom. King Constantine of Greece, brother-in-law of the German Emperor, seems to hold the balance of power of the Near East in his hands for the present. In the second crisis, where Greece seemed on the brink of entering the war by the side of the Entente Powers, he has virtually dismissed the foremost Greek statesman, Eleutherios Venizelos, from the premiership, and has asserted personal control of the government. King Ferdinand of Bulgaria has rejected Russia's ultimatum demanding that she break with the Central Powers and expel German officers who have taken charge of Bulgaria's army, and at the same time, according to several correspondents, has sent an ultimatum to Serbia, allowing a time limit of twenty-four hours, for the cession of Macedonia to Bulgaria. The program of the Germanic empires apparently includes the consolidation of their field operations with their Turkish allies by sweeping clear a channel from Berlin and Vienna to Constantinople. For the accomplishment of this program they have already secured the co-operation of Bulgaria. They need the neutrality of Greece and Roumania, and then must crush Serbia.

Petrograd, via London, Oct. 6.—Great surprise was occasioned here by the turn of events in Greece. The Russian foreign office learned this afternoon of the resignation of Premier Venizelos after an audience with the King, in which the King declared that he could not pursue the policy of the Venizelos cabinet to an end.

Athens, Oct. 6, via Paris, Oct. 7.—King Constantine has asked Alexander Zaimis, a former premier, to form a cabinet.

London, Oct. 6.—The dramatic downfall of the Greek cabinet astounded diplomatic circles here. What the outcome will be no one appears to be able to predict, but the emphasis is placed on the fact that the Venizelos party has a considerable majority in the country.

Paris, Oct. 7.—The official communication issued by the war office tonight records the continuation of the artillery actions in Artois and on the Lorraine front. At various points the Germans delivered strong counter attacks, but were driven back. The text of the statement follows: "A violent bombardment by both sides has occurred in the environs of Nienport and in the sector of Het-Sas-Stoenstraele. Artillery activity continues on all sides in Artois. We make slight progress to the south of Thelus, near the road from Arras to Lille. A sudden attack, attempted by the enemy on one of our advance positions near Popincourt, to the south of Roye, was completely stopped. On the Aisne our batteries caused by their fire two very violent explosions in the region of Juvincourt, and set fire to the station at Juvincourt. In Champagne the Germans, during the course of the day, delivered two counter-attacks against our positions to the west of the Navarian farm. They were both repulsed. The enemy suffered heavy losses. Engagements with bombs and grenades took place in the Argonne at La Fille Morté and Haute Chevauchée. The enemy directed, to different points of the Lorraine front, especially near Arracourt, to the north of Reillon and to the northeast of Badonviller, a strong cannonade, to which we replied effectively. In the Vosges we dispersed a strong German reconnaissance which had started to attack one of our posts to the east of Sondernach. One of our aeroplanes shot down this afternoon, in Champagne, a German captive balloon which fell in flames within the enemy's lines."

London, Oct. 7.—On the eastern front the German offensive against Drinsk is at last making some headway. The German official communication says that Field Marshal Von Hindenburg has penetrated the Russian lines over a front of about three miles. Throughout the centre the Russians are still on the offensive. Champagne, the country over which the French made their big gains late in September, is still the main district of contention in the west. The reports are so contradictory, however, that it is difficult to ascertain what is actually happening. The Germans admit that the French have made slight progress, but on the whole, claim to have repulsed the Allied general offensive. On the other hand, the French declare that it is a German offensive which has been repulsed. As the result of a month's minor actions in Gallipoli, Gen. Sir Hamilton reports the British have gained three hundred yards on a front of four miles at Suvla Bay. The long-threatened Austro-German offensive in the Balkans, with the added menace of Bulgaria, has begun in earnest. Almost simultaneously with the rupture of diplomatic relations between Sofia and the Entente Powers an Austro-German army, estimated at 400,000 men, with an enormous weight of heavy artillery, started to attack Serbia from the north and west, and according to the Berlin official reports, crossed the Drina, Danube and Save rivers at many points and firmly established itself on the Serbian side. The Anglo-French troops, which were landed at Saloniki with the tacit consent of the Greek government, are being hurried northward to assist Serbia and it is possible, keep the Bulgarians from capturing the Saloniki-Nish railway, the only source by which the Serbians can be fed with munitions of war. The hope for support from Greece has not been forth coming. King Constantine, by the dismissal of Premier Venizelos, having shown that while his country sympathizes with the cause of the Allies, he is not prepared to go against the Central Powers, or to fulfill the obligations of the Greco-Serbian treaty of alliance, which provides that one ally must go to the assistance of the other in the case of attack. A new Greek cabinet, composed of men of pro-German and pro-Ally sympathies, has been appointed, and the expectation now is that this public opinion forces the hand of the government and insists on action on the side of the Allies. Greece will remain neutral. It is hardly conceivable to the Entente diplomats that Greece will go over to the Central Powers, for they point out Bulgaria is known to covet some of her territory, and the treatment of Greek nationals in Turkey makes it virtually impossible for her to become the ally of that country.

Paris, Oct. 8.—From Champagne comes the news: We have gained a foothold in the fortified "Le Trapezia," and carried several trenches and two blockhouses included in the salient still held by the enemy in front of his second line of defence. More than 200 prisoners, a bomb-thrower and some machine guns were captured.

London, Oct. 9.—Following is an extract from Sir John French's official communication: "In spite of the enemy's artillery fire we have pushed our trenches steadily forward northeast of Loos, between Hill No. 70 and Hulluch, and gained ground varying from 500 to 1,000 yards in depth.

Paris, Oct. 11.—"We have made very perceptible progress in the wood in the west of the road from Souchez to Angres, in the Souchez valley, and to the east of the Givenchy wood blockhouse. We also have gained ground on the ridges toward Lefoie. We captured about 100 prisoners from the guard corps. In Champagne we have made further progress to the north of Thure, and carried, by a vigorous attack, the whole of the German fortified works to the south of the village on the side of the Lagoutte gully. We captured there 108 prisoners, among them two officers.

London, Oct. 12.—Belgrade the Serbian capital was carried by assault on Saturday by combined Austro-German forces. The Teutons were repulsed with great loss South of the Dvna River. Monday, Thanksgiving Day, was observed as a public holiday. Business was generally suspended in the city.

The death is reported in Baltimore of the Right Rev. Monsignor Thomas J. Broderick, pastor of St. Martin's Church, after an illness extending over several months. On Thursday last, His Honor, Judge Stewart delivered judgment in the matter of the application for a recent made by Mr. John S. Cousins against A. C. McEvin, refusing the account. Solemn Ceremonies.

On Sunday last, the parishioners of St. Peter's, Head St. Peter's Bay, were favored with a visit from the Bishop of the Diocese, Rt. Rev. Dr. O'Leary. His Lordship, who had come on the invitation of the zealous pastor, Rev. A. McAulay, arrived on Saturday evening from Charlottetown, accompanied by his secretary, Rev. Dr. Hughes. His Lordship officiated at an early Mass on Sunday morning. The high Mass at 10 o'clock was sung by Rev. Dr. Hughes, and his Lordship preached an eloquent and impressive sermon from the Gospel of the day.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon, his Lordship officiated at the solemn blessing and consecration of a new cemetery, or an addition to the old one. He was assisted in the ceremonies by the pastor, Rev. Father McAulay, Rev. Dr. Hughes and Rev. Pius A. McDonald of Morell. The ceremony was a very lengthy and solemn one. The plot of ground to be blessed was roped off and five crosses had been so erected as, of themselves, to constitute a large cross in form. A larger cross was so placed as to be equidistant from either side of the ground and about one third of the length from the top of the plot. Opposite this at either side was a smaller cross. A smaller cross was also placed at the top and bottom of the ground in line with the larger cross in the centre. In this way the five crosses were in the form of a large cross.

When the time arrived for the ceremony, his Lordship in appropriate and bearing his crozier, accompanied by the clergy, proceeded from the sanctuary and advanced to the main entrance of the church and thence to the cemetery, all chanting the "Benedictus." The large congregation followed.

The Bishop and clergy proceeded to the main cross in the centre, where his Lordship knelt, and the clergy and choir chanted the Litany of the Saints. This was followed by the prescribed prayers. His Lordship next sprinkled the grounds, up and down with holy water, the clergy and choir singing. Prayers and singing were then held at each of the crosses and three lighted candles were placed on each cross, one on the top and one on the end of each arm. At the conclusion of the solemn ceremony, the procession returned to the church, followed by the congregation.

His Lordship then ascended the pulpit and preached a splendid sermon concerning the ceremonies just held, the origin and Across the Sands.

BY MARION AMES TAGGART in Benziger's Magazine.

(Concluded.)

The man lifted her and held her so close to his heart that Blessing gasped. He rested his head on hers, pressing her cheek against his lips soundlessly...

All Stuffed Up

That's the condition of many sufferers from catarrh, especially in the morning. Great difficulty is experienced in clearing the head and throat.

No wonder catarrh causes headache, impairs the taste, small and bearing pollutes the breath, deranges the stomach and affects the appetite.

the cross upon his breast. "And how shall I thank you for added looking down on the slender woman before him.

"I did nothing, only took her in. It was most beautiful to have her, even a little while. They must have known the kind of child she would be when they named her Blessing," said Margaret wistfully.

"They didn't. She is baptised Elizabeth. But she is a blessing, that's all," said the man.

"Yes. Nothing so precious ever came to me across the sands before, and I've watched these sands all my life. She came walking across them as if she had been dropped from paradise. I thought perhaps she had—for me," said Margaret.

The stranger looked at her thoughtfully. Blessing, catching the note in Margaret's voice, leaned toward her out of her David's arms.

"I love you," she cooed in a voice all sweetness.

"You will miss her," said David slowly. "You want her, too."

"I shall miss her, yes. But she is not for me, after all. It will be like a dream. Once, when I was a child, I saw the shadow of an angel far up the sands. I followed it, quivering with excitement. I never reached either the shadow or the substance of that angel; the shadow broke into many shapes, before I came up with it. It was a passing cloud. Blessing's visit will be like that," said Margaret sadly, though she smiled.

"Not like the shadow of a cloud," said David, regarding her with an expression that she could not translate. "Let it be permanent sunshine. Blessing needs your love. Won't you be her friend—and mine? As soon as I saw you, looked into your eyes, I knew you for the friend whom I have long known was somewhere for me. I am David Gilbert." He mentioned the name that ranked high in contemporary literature.

Margaret started, her eyes widening, her color mounting. An author was to her, living aside from the main-travelled roads of life, not much less wonderful a visitor than would have been the angel which she had seen shadowed on the sands in her childhood.

"David Gilbert!" she gasped. "Oh, I love what you write!"

"Love my writings, love me!" David Gilbert laughed, bending on her eyes that danced with mischief, yet were warmed by something quite different. "Surely one's writings ought to be equal to a dog in logical sequence! Even if one reverses the order of the sequence. This is a beginning, solitary little lady-of-the-dune, you whose eyes forbid solitude."

Margaret looked up at him, her hands lying still in her lap, palms upmost. She did not withdraw from the gateway he was opening to her, nor refuse to follow the invitation in his eyes. Only her breath came quicker through her parted lips and her color came and went.

Blessing leaned down, then slipped through David's arms and climbed on Margaret's lap, her arms around her neck.

"You don't love you, I want you for all my own-own," she cried, savoring by the loveliness in Margaret's face.

"What a day! David turned forth. To find my Blessing and in your arms."

They both started at the speech, but it could not be recalled for once it was uttered they both knew that it would prove true.

"It is wonderful!" cried Margaret, and this time she was able to rejoice self-forgetfully. Her eyes were raised to the star-strewn, grief-worn man above and they were luminous.

"You're young!" he cried. "They told me an elderly woman lived here alone. You're young and all mother!"

"I live alone, I am not married," said Margaret, flushing. "Nor am I young. I'm thirty-four."

"I'm thirty-eight; we're both young! Oh dear God, how can I thank Thee that I am not stricken old this morning?" He lifted his head toward heaven, as if the question were a real one with him, and reverently made the sign of

I am glad you came to me, across the sands," said Margaret rising. "They have been my one highway my life long. I felt sure God set me down beside them for a purpose. See how beautiful they are in the sunlight after the storm."

They turned and faced them, Margaret holding little Blessing, whose soft cheek pressed hers. The sands gleamed and flashed in jewel colors and both the man and woman felt the significance, that lay in their facing of the east, the source of beautiful days to come.

The Laugh Cure.

Laughter insures a mental exhilaration, says Success.

The habit of frequent and hearty laughter will not only save you many doctor's bills, but will also save you many years of your life.

There is good philosophy as well as good health in the maxim, "Laugh and grow fat."

Laugh is a foe to pain and disease and a sure cure for the "blues," melancholy and worry.

Laughter is contagious. Be cheerful and you make everybody around you happy, harmonious and healthful.

Laughter and good cheer make love of life; and love of life is half of health.

Use laughter as a table sauce; it sets the organs to dancing, and thus stimulates the digestive processes.

Laughter keeps the heart and face young, and enchants physical beauty.

Laughter is nature's device for exercising the internal organs and giving us pleasure at the same time.

It sends the blood bounding through the body, increases the respiration and gives warmth and glow to the whole system.

A noted lecturer on rules for health is quoted as saying that yawning and stretching aid circulation, brings certain muscles into play that bring back the blood into active circulation. This same authority also says that change of interest or work often brings relief from fatigue and cites examples where girls coming home from a tiresome day in the shop or office, complaining of fatigue, often accept an invitation to a dance and do not complain the least bit of feeling tired after dancing several hours, proving that no matter how tired one may be, a change of scene or thought gives relief, by bringing different muscles into play through the new interest.

I Believe in My Job

It may not be a very important job, but it is MINE. Furthermore, it is God's job for me. He has a purpose in my life with reference to His plan for the world's progress. No other fellow can take my place. It isn't a big place, to be sure, but for years I have been molded in a peculiar way to fill a peculiar niche in the world's work. I could take no other man's place. In the end, the man whose name was never heard beyond the home in which he lived, or the shop in which he worked, may have a larger place than the chap whose name has been a household word in two continents. Yes, I believe in my job. May I be kept true by the task which lies before me—true to myself and to God, who intrusted me with it.

The Editor and You.

Did you ever stop to consider the difference between the treatment accorded you by the editor and that you accord him?

If he should knock your business through the columns of his paper, or say uncomplimentary things about you in his paper, you would nurse a grudge against him to your grave, and as time rolled by it would grow in size until you find it as hard to hold as a baby elephant soaked in grease.

Now is such the case with the editor? He hears that you have ridiculed and run down his paper, that you have told people on the streets that it could not come to your home, and then you tell him that your daughter has graduated. He praises her to the sky, says she is the pride of the community,

HAD CHOLERA

INFANTUM.

Doctor Said He was in a Very Dangerous Condition.

Mothers cannot watch their children too closely for signs of cholera infantum as this disease carries off thousands of infants during the hot summer months.

Mrs. Geo. W. Garland, Prosser Brook, N.B., writes: "Last summer my boy Joe, then a year old, was taken sick with cholera infantum. He was so bad the waste matter from the bowels looked as if it had come from a broken bowl. I sent word to the doctor who was at a neighbor's, about a mile distant, and he said my boy was in a very dangerous condition. He sent me some tablets which made the child vomit, and when he learned that they caused vomiting he sent me more tablets to stop it. In the meantime I had been giving Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, which I continued using, and when the bottle was all used my baby was cured. It took me only half a day to get you about it."

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been on the market for the past 70 years, and is known from one end of Canada to the other as a positive cure for all bowel complaints.

When you ask for "Dr. Fowler's" be sure you get what you ask for, as there are many rank imitations on the market. The genuine is manufactured by The T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. Price, 35 cents.

the smartest thing on earth and that her parents have just cause to be proud of her. You can mark your paper refused—stick it back in the office and boast of the fact to your friends, humiliating him if you can, but if your son gets into trouble, rather than hurt your feelings he suppresses things connected with the unfortunate case at the risk of being called a numbskull who can never get hold of the news.

He hears of your denunciations, feels the sting of it all and sometimes suffers financial loss as a consequence but never uses the columns of his paper to get even.

On the other hand if you have anything to boast, he will boost for you; if honor comes to you, he takes local pride in heralding it abroad, and if death steals into your home he will go to the bottom of his heart for tender expressions of love for the departed one and condolence for the ones who are left to mourn.
