So far as the Government and Parliament are concerned, the two most notable sessional events of the week ending March 13th were the division in the House of Commons on Tuesday night the 9th, on the amendment of the leader of the Opposition to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, and the ministerial caucus on Thursday the 11th. During the week in which the debate was carried on speculation was more or less rife as to what the Government majority would be when the division came. After a close scrutiny and canvass of the situation the whips were convinced that the Government would have a majority of 35. The debate was continued with considerable vigor right up to the time of the division. The conclusion came about half past two on Wednesday morning the 10th, and the division was over, and the House adjourned at a few minutes to three o'clock. There were some ten or twelve Government supporters absent from the city; the greater number of these had not yet arrived for the session, but when the division was taken the Government had a majority of 34, the figures being Government, against the amendment 112, Opposition, for the amendment 78. It appears that the 35th Government supporter was in the city, but through some inadvertence was not aware of the division, consequently was not present in the chamber at the time. From this it will be seen that the forecast arrived at by the whips was marvellously correct. It was a strictly party vote, that is to say, not one on the Government side stood up for the amendment while all on the Opposition side, as well as every member of the third party, voted for the amendment and the Opposition. It will thus be seen that no matter what professions of political independence the members of the new party may make, they can pretty safely be counted upon to oppose the Government. The showing in this first division of the session was quite satisfactory to the Government, and doubtless had a very depressing effect upon the leader of the Opposition and his followers. It was pretty generally considered that Mr. McKenzie King, leader of the Opposition, in pressing this amendment made another blunder and led his party into an undesirable quagmire. The result of the vote seems to have had a very sedative effect upon the Opposition members.

Much speculation had been entertained regarding the first sessional caucus of the Government supporters. Many things had been said in the press, and some very far fetched conclusions had been arrived at as to what might take place when the supporters of the Government would meet in caucus for the first time at the present parliamentary session. So far as the great majority of the Government supporters in the House is concerned, there was no anxiety, or no excitement, or no wild speculation as to what the caucus would bring forth. All were satisfied that wisdom and moderation and good common sense would be the dominant note; and when the caucus was over, every supporter of the Government emerged from that meeting in the happiest frame of mind, and it is a matter of sincere congratulation that all the senators and members of the caucus, supporting the Government, contributed to bringing about such satisfactory results. What else could be expected, or what else was there to do but to agree to "carry on"? The intelligence presented to the caucus, and already pretty generally known, that the Prime Minister, Sir Robert Borden, in the ordinary course of things, would be back in the House and assume his position as leader of the Government in the month of May, was the cause of the greatest possible enthusiasm and satisfaction. If the caucus had done nothing more than afforded an opportunity to the members of both Houses of Parliament to manifest their devotion to their leader, it would have been ample reason for summing it. The occasion was in the highest degree noteworthy for the genuine love, loyalty and enthusiastic devotion of members of Parliament and of a specific parliamentary party to their great chief, who had suffered in his country's cause. After the proceedings of that memorable caucus, it is absolutely useless for any sensational and unfounded newspaper reports, or reports of any other kind, to attempt to make any progress among sane and sensible people to the disadvantage of Sir Robert Borden. Harmony, enthusiasm and a united determination to continue the work of the Government, as now conducted until the chieftain is back in his place, sum up the conclusions arrived at, at the first ministerial caucus of the present session of Parliament. If the members of the Opposition, or anyone else, had anticipated with any degree of satisfaction that there might be a want of unanimity and a note of cleavage in this ministerial caucus, they were certainly sorely disappointed, and it may be said that this splendid manifestation of unity and loyalty and enthusiasm has had a depressing effect upon our friends the enemy. Coming so closely after their complete discomfiture in the first sessional division in the House of Commons, it appears to have destroyed whatever remaining conceit there was among the opposition members.

The most important legislative measure introduced in the House of Commons, since the disposal of the speech from the throne, is the franchise bill. This is the act upon which the next Dominion Election will be run, whenever that comes. It was presented to the Commons by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, and from its outline of the brief contents in his speech on the first reading, the bill certainly appears to be one of justice and one against which, on the face of it, would appear that little exception can be taken. Ordinarily a franchise bill involves a very great amount of discussion. This has been the history of bills of this nature introduced in the House of Commons from time to time right along since Confederation. The bill has not yet been distributed, but from what the Hon. Minister said in presenting it, it would be difficult to anticipate wherein serious objection could be taken to it. Where provincial lists exist, that is, provided they are not more than one year old, they will be made available for making up the new lists in the respective districts. In provinces where no provincial lists exist registrars will be employed to make lists in urban sections, but in the rural divisions of such provinces, enumerators will be employed to create lists of voters. Ample time and sufficient publicity will be given for the correction of lists, so that names may be put on, and also removed where sufficient evidence exists that this should be done. Nothing more may be said about this bill for the present, but when it is distributed and thoroughly discussed on the second reading, and in committee, fuller knowledge of its contents will be available, and may then be discussed.

Mr. McIsaac's Speech

Continued from page 1. But of course that is in line with most of his expressions of thought throughout his speech, which is largely based on rumour, imagination and speculation. But we have had the very comforting intelligence communicated to us within the last few days that the Right Hon. Sir Robert Borden, barren unforeseen contingencies, will be back in this House before the session closes, in good health and ready to resume his leadership of the Government.

The following is a fairly accurate resume of what Hon. Mr. Guthrie said in closing his speech on the first reading of the franchise bill: In urban municipalities all persons, male and female, would be required to register during the time prescribed in the act. When the registration period had expired, appeals would be permitted either by those whose names were not upon the lists or against those whose names had been included in the lists. In all provinces where there were county judges, the county judges would appoint the revising officers. In other provinces appeals would be to the district judges. In rural municipalities where there were no provincial lists which could be utilized by the terms of the bill, a registrar would be appointed to prepare lists. He would make a reenumeration of the voters in a polling subdivision. When his lists were completed they would be returned to the proper offices. In this case, however, there was no revision or appeal, because a further provision in the act provided that any person who claimed to be entitled to vote and whose name had been omitted in a rural division would be entitled on polling day, on taking the prescribed election oath, to receive a ballot paper and cast his vote.

The machinery for holding an election as provided in the bill was not very different from that at present in use. There were one or two innovations, however. The act proposed to abolish the office of the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery and to create instead a Chief Electoral Officer. This officer would have charge of elections and his duties would be very similar to those of the general returning officer in the election of 1917. He would be a permanent official. The bill also provides for the holding of advanced polls in order to enable railway men, sailors, and others who were unable to vote on election day, to cast their ballots. The period fixed between nomination day and polling day, by the bill, was 14 days.

Some Taxes

New York, March 15.—All day great lines of men and women from millionaires to day laborers, fought for a chance to pay their income and excess profits taxes at the Customs House, this being the last day for making returns. At midnight it was estimated that 400,000 returns had been made the final days. Unofficial returns placed the takings at $250,000,000.99. Two hundred clerks are still at work opening sacks of mail. One concern turned in eight millions, representing only a quarter payment. Another delivered a certified cheque for five millions.

Washington, March 15.—Treasury officials estimated that the first instalment of income and profits taxes, due to day, one-fourth of the total, would amount to about $900,000,000. Coincidentally with the tax payment, treasury certificates, aggregating about $775,000,000 matured which must be retired with the money collected. When the tax books close tonight, those who failed to make payment become subject to penalty. Payments by mail, postmarked today or earlier, will be credited even if received after midnight.

Chicago, March 15.—More than 100,000 income tax returns were filed here today. In all 825,000 individuals and firms in the Chicago district have filed returns, and receipts will approximate $400,000,000. One concern today paid a tax of six millions.

Beauce, in the Province of Quebec, has a case of so-called sleeping sickness. Mrs. George Morin, 19, has been in a comatose condition for thirty days and nothing the doctors do to bring her back to consciousness has thus far brought results.

Mr. McIsaac's Speech

There are several other matters to which I might refer, Mr. Speaker; but the matter is somewhat advanced and I do not desire to trespass any further upon the patience of the House. I may say, in conclusion—although it is, perhaps, not necessary for me to say it—that it will afford me great pleasure to vote against the amendment submitted by the leader of the Opposition.

Dominion of Canada PROVINCE OF Prince Edward Island In the Probate Court, 10th George V., A. D. 1920. In Re Estate of Allan L. McDonald, late of Souris, in King's County, in the said Province, Merchant, deceased, testate.

By His Honour Aeneas A. Macdonald, Surrogate Judge of Probate, &c., &c. To the Sheriff of the County of King's County, or any Constable or licitmate person within said County.

GREETING: WHEREAS upon reading the petition on file of Arthur F. McQuaid, of Souris aforesaid, Executor of the last will and testament of the said Allan L. McDonald, deceased, praying that a citation may be issued for the purpose hereinafter set forth: You are therefore hereby required to cite all persons interested in the said Estate to be and appear before me at a Probate Court to be held in the Court House in Charlottetown, in Queen's County, in the said Province, on Monday, the Twenty-ninth day of March next, coming, at the hour of eleven o'clock, forenoon of the same day, to show cause, if any they can, why the Accounts of the said Estate should not be passed and the Estate closed, as prayed for in said petition. And I do hereby order that a true copy hereof be forthwith published in some newspaper published in Prince Edward Island once in each week for at least four consecutive weeks from the date hereof, and that a true copy hereof be forthwith posted in the following public places respectively, namely, in the hall of the Court House in Georgetown, in King's County, in front of the County Court House in Souris, and in the hall of the Post Office in Souris aforesaid, and that a true copy of this Citation be sent by registered mail, postage prepaid, and with additional postage prepaid for acknowledgment of receipt, addressed to the sons of the said deceased, so that all persons interested in the said Estate as aforesaid may have due notice thereof.

Given under my Hand and the Seal of the said Court [L. S.] this Eighteenth day of February, A. D. 1920, and in the Tenth year of His Majesty's reign. (Sgd.) AENEAS A. MACDONALD, Judge of Probate, Feb. 25, 1920—41

His many friends will regret to learn that Rev. Father McQuaid had his shoulder dislocated by a fall on the ice while making a sick call in the country last week.

Vienna is again facing a food shortage. Supplies had been routed through Germany, but the revolt in that country brought about a complete disorganization of railway traffic and stopped the shipments. Food riots are feared until relief is obtained.

Rev. Father J. C. McGuigan preached the fifth of the Lenten Sermons Sunday night in St. Dunstan's Cathedral, on "Holy Orders," and it was indeed an eloquent and masterly discourse. The brilliant young preacher handled the subject with great ability.

The British Government have sold to a syndicate airplanes and material to the value of £100,000,000. The purchase includes the entire surplus aircraft material in Great Britain, consisting of 10,000 airplanes, 30,000 new airplane engines and an immense quantity of engine and airplane spares and hangars.

Field Marshall Allenby, British High Commissioner in Egypt and the Sudan, has issued a proclamation which sternly forbids any meetings, proceedings or resolutions by the legitimate assembly or by other elective bodies, or members of them, outside their legal competence. Violations of the proclamation are to be dealt with by martial law.

The Treaty of Versailles failed of ratification for the fourth time in the Senate in Washington on the 18th, and then the Senate voted to send it back to President Wilson with a notification that it had finally "Refused to advise and consent to its ratification." On the decisive roll call the vote was 49 for ratification to 35 against, the opposition numbering in its ranks 20 Democrats, who were unwilling to see the Treaty go through with the Republican reservations objected to by the President and three Democratic and 12 Republican Irreconcilables. Twenty-one Democrats quit the President's lead and voted for ratification, but the defection failed by seven votes of providing the two-thirds requisite to ratify.

The Government of Germany was put out of Commission for a few days about ten days ago, when armed soldiers at the instance of Dr. Wolfgang Kapp, took charge of business in Berlin. The actual Government escaped to Stuttgart. There is not wanting strong suspicions that the move had behind it forces favorable to the old monarchical regime. The revolution failed, however, and the old government came back in a few days. Matters are not by any means normal, as the following Berlin intelligence of the 19th shows:—Berlin has not yet succeeded in emerging from the chaos into which it was thrown when Dr. Wolfgang Kapp and his associates by a coup d'etat took over the government a week ago. Although most all, if not all, of the troops which formed the backbone of the revolt have left the city proper, disorders continued spasmodically during Thursday night and Friday. Many additional casualties both in killed and wounded occurred during this period. In addition to further shooting in which a number of persons were killed or maimed in front of the hotel Adlon, three officers were shot dead and one officer was mortally wounded at one o'clock today by members of the security police stationed at the guard house at Brandenburg Gate. The police ordered an automobile bearing the officers, who were reported to have been members of the Baltic force which invaded Berlin, to halt, thereupon a crowd surrounded the car and the officers opened fire with revolvers on civilians.

A tom cat stepped on a high voltage wire at Hamilton, Ont., the other night and caused a short circuit, which left part of the city in darkness. Later a high wind added to the trouble started by the cat, and the greater part of Hamilton was without electric light. The tom cat in question will cause no more trouble. When he short-circuited the wire he short-circuited his life.

There was a big attendance at the Charlottetown market yesterday, farmers taking advantage of the last snow to get in with sleighs. Dressed hogs, the best weights, were up to 24¢ cents, which is said to be a record price for Charlottetown. Buyers paid for potatoes $1.88 and $1.90 per bushel; oats brought $1.15; eggs were down to 65 cents. Butter sold at 65 and 67 cents.

Quebec advices of the 18th say—Navigation is open between the harbor of Quebec and the Gulf. The steamer Labrador with passengers, mails and cargo, left at dawn for North Shore and Gulf ports. She carried a heavy list of passengers among whom was a party of explorers and surveyors who will travel by boat as far as Bessim, then inland to the barren and wild region of Ungava. The Hudson Bay region is their ultimate goal.

Grand Duchess Olga, sister of the late Czar Nicholas of Russia, has been found by American Red Cross workers living in a box car near Norvorsk, South Russia. It was announced at the headquarters of the American Red Cross, Washington, the other day. The Grand Duchess, according to the announcement, is one of three surviving members of the House of Romanoff. She was found "toiling among fellow refugees from the territory recently conquered by the Bolsheviks, giving such assistance as she could, although herself clad in rags and grateful for any food and clothing she could find."

Three persons were killed and property damaged amounting to many thousands of dollars was wrought by a wind storm of a sustained velocity of forty-seven miles an hour in north-western Colorado on the 18th. Thirteen year old Katherine Christenson, was killed in Denver when the front wall of an apartment house was blown into the street. L. P. Bass, Chief of Police at Boulder, and Joe Salter, son of W. C. Salter, city manager of the Place, were killed when their automobile collided with a fire truck in a cloud of dust. The wind swept across the State, wrecking buildings breaking telegraph and telephone communication, uprooting trees and breaking signs and windows.

Former President Poincare, of France, writing by special arrangement for the United News, expresses the opinion that the constitutional monarchs of Europe are not yet succeeded in emerging from the chaos into which it was thrown when Dr. Wolfgang Kapp and his associates by a coup d'etat took over the government a week ago. Although most all, if not all, of the troops which formed the backbone of the revolt have left the city proper, disorders continued spasmodically during Thursday night and Friday. Announcement

For the information of our many patrons, in both town and country, we deem it necessary to announce that the Coal Business, successfully carried on in the past by the late Mr. Charles Lyons, will be continued by the Estate, under the old firm name of C. Lyons & Co.

By maintaining a high standard of service and by courteous and honest treatment of the public, this firm has, for a period of more than a quarter of a century, enjoyed a large and ever-increasing patronage; and in announcing our intention of "carrying on," we desire, most earnestly, to give expression to our appreciation thereof. We are deeply grateful to the firm's many patrons for their constant manifestation of confidence in it in the past, and we assure them that if they favor us with a similar evidence of their good-will in the future there shall be no economy of effort on our part to make our intercourse both pleasant and profitable to them.

As we possess almost unlimited facilities for supplying the coal trade, and as we are desirous of extending our already large business, we respectfully invite the patronage of new customers; and if we succeed in thus increasing our present connection, we guarantee that we shall be indefatigable in our endeavor to justify the confidence of our new friends.

We again thank our patrons for their past generous patronage, and respectfully solicit a renewal of their esteemed custom.

OPERATING ONE HOUR EARLIER

Important Daylight Saving Change of Time at 2 a.m. Sunday, March 30, 1919

All clocks and watches used in operation of Canadian National Railway will at 2 a.m. Sunday, March 30th, be advanced one hour. To prevent serious confusion and inconvenience to the public the attention of all concerned is directed to the following conditions resulting from the important change of time:

If cities, towns, villages and other municipal bodies do not change their local time to correspond with the new Railway time, all concerned should keep in mind that while trains continue to leave Railway Stations on present schedule, such schedule will be operated one hour ahead of present local time. Therefore any municipality where local time is not changed to correspond with the new Railway time, passengers must reach Railway Station ONE HOUR EARLIER than shown in current folders and public time posters.

Where municipal time is changed to correspond with the new Railway time, passengers will not experience difficulty growing out of the change. April 2, 1919

Of soul and body. One of them was named Robert Lecoq, and he was called "The Good."

A Little Brother in Black

Continued. A crowd had collected. Water was brought; they bathed his forehead and the cut in his head still Thomas Jefferson did not open his eyes. A doctor had been called, but before he could get there Arthur and Nellie had the boy in the carriage and were on their way to the hospital. He would have been treated well at the hospital under any circumstances; but extraordinary kindness was shown Thomas Jefferson when Nellie and Arthur had engaged a room for him, and given orders that nothing was to be left undone that might tend to his comfort or hasten his recovery. It was a long while before the surgeons brought something like life into the face of the child. He was a doubly pathetic object, because of his helplessness and, because of his colour—black so often spelling friendless. But,

All Stuffed Up

Condition of many sufferers from colds, especially in the morning, is stiffness in the neck and throat. No wonder catarrh causes headache, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, irritates the breath, deranges the stomach and affects the appetite. To cure catarrh, treatment must be constitutional—alterative and tonic. It was ill for four months with catarrh of the head and throat. Had a bad cough and raised blood. I had become discouraged when my husband bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and persuaded me to try it. I advise all to take it. It has cured and built me up. Mrs. Helen Johnson, West Lincoln, N. S.

pure catarrh—it soothes and strengthens the mucous membrane and builds up the whole system. though his aunt deserted him—she refused to go to the hospital, averring that she had done enough for the child who was none of her own—Nellie and Arthur stood by him, remaining late at the hospital, and leaving with a promise to return on the morrow. By no care on their part could the accident have been averted; yet the feeling that in some way they were to blame cast a gloom over these young people, who but a short week before had pledged their troth to each other. "If I had walked home, it would not have happened," said Nellie. "But it was I who insisted on having out the horses," declared Arthur.

"Well, God can bring good out of it," replied Nellie, not in cans, but simply expressing his inmost feelings. The next morning when they came to the hospital—Nellie bearing an armful of flowers—and were admitted to Thomas Jefferson's room, the nurse met them with a serious countenance. He had passed a bad night, wandering in his mind, she told them. "But he will recover?" asked Nellie. The nurse shook her head. "The doctor says he may linger on for days, or he may die at any moment."

Thomas Jefferson up to this had lain like one asleep on his bed, and they had spoken in whispers, so as not to disturb him. Now his eyes unsealed and he turned an anxious look on Nellie, who stood nearest to him. He recognized her, and a pitiful smile flickered and died out on his face. "Miss Nellie, please!" he said. "What is it, Thomas Jefferson? I am so sorry!" said Nellie, bending over him. "Yas'm," he answered, thankfully; adding with a pained interrogation: "Please'm, the lady says I'm gwine ter die!"

"Oh!" cried Nellie, shocked that he should have overheard the nurse. "We hope to get you well." "Yas'm; an' Miss Nellie, please'm, I mus' get well. I mus' grow up ter get babbize," he said, with an energy that surprised them all. Don't worry about growing up," answered Nellie. "You can be baptized at any time. But see the flowers I have brought you!" And she held the geraniums and lilies of the valley for him to inhale their perfume. His face lit up. "Give 'm to the beautiful Lady," he said. "She an' our mother."

"What does he mean by the beautiful Lady?" asked Nellie. "I think he must have been to the Church of the Assumption," said Arthur. Nellie drew herself up stiffly. "The Catholic church where you are so fond of going?" she said, reproachfully. His reply was interrupted by Thomas. "I's got his name now—Fatha Brooke!" he cried. And then, half sobbing: "Miss Nellie, is you gone?"

"I am here," said Nellie, softly. "Fatha Brooke gave me a seat jus' like white folks, an' I didn't outstay like them. I did after he done gone an' left me. Tell him, please'm." She had not the faintest idea what the boy meant, and what she did she always declares her good angel counselled her to do. "Would you like to see him and tell 'im yourself?" she inquired.

That Racking Persistent Cough

Should Never Be Neglected. The constant hacking, racking, persistent cough that sticks to you in spite of everything you have done to get rid of it, means danger. The longer the cough sticks, the more serious menace it becomes to your health. It is a very easy matter to get rid of the cold at the outset by using Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

In nearly every case it will allay the inflammation, soothe the irritation, heal the diseased mucous lining of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and thus rid the system of all the bad effects of the lingering cough or cold. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has been universally used for the past 20 years, and so great has been its success, it is only natural that a great many imitations have been placed on the market. Don't accept any of these, so-called Pine Syrups. Get the original "Dr. Wood's."

"Yas'm, please'm," said Thomas Jefferson eagerly. On their way to Fatha Brooke's, Nellie told Arthur her fears that the priest would not thank her for troubling him; but Arthur thought otherwise. After events proved he was right, Fatha Brooke was much interested, and said he would go to Thomas at once. To be Continued

Announcement

For the information of our many patrons, in both town and country, we deem it necessary to announce that the Coal Business, successfully carried on in the past by the late Mr. Charles Lyons, will be continued by the Estate, under the old firm name of C. Lyons & Co.

By maintaining a high standard of service and by courteous and honest treatment of the public, this firm has, for period of more than a quarter of a century, enjoyed a large and ever-increasing patronage; and in announcing our intention of "carrying on," we desire, most earnestly, to give expression to our appreciation thereof. We are deeply grateful to the firm's many patrons for their constant manifestation of confidence in it in the past, and we assure them that if they favor us with a similar evidence of their good-will in future there shall be no economy of effort on our part to make our intercourse both pleasant and profitable to them.

As we possess almost unlimited facilities for supplying the coal trade; and as we are desirous of extending our already large business, we respectfully invite the patronage of new customers; and if we succeed in thus increasing our present connection, we guarantee that we shall be indefatigable in our endeavor to justify the confidence of our new friends.

We again thank our patrons for their past generous patronage, and respectfully solicit a renewal of their esteemed custom.

Canadian National Railways

OPERATING ONE HOUR EARLIER

Important Daylight Saving Change of Time at 2 a.m. Sunday, March 30, 1920

All clocks and watches used in operation of Canadian National Railway will at 2 a.m. Sunday, March 30th, be advanced one hour. To prevent serious confusion and inconvenience, to the public the attention of all concerned is directed to the following conditions resulting from the important change of time: If cities, towns, villages and other municipal bodies do not change their local time to correspond with the new Railway time, all concerned should keep in mind that while trains continue to leave Railway Stations on present schedule, such schedule will be operated one hour ahead of present local time. Therefore any municipality where local time is not changed to correspond with the new Railway time, passengers must reach Railway Station ONE HOUR EARLIER than shown in current folders and public time posters.

Where municipal time is changed to correspond with the new Railway time, passengers will not experience difficulty growing out of the change. April 2, 1920
