CHAPTER XIX. WHO IS SHE.

With a thoughtful brow, Harold sped along the long, bony legs of the Irish hunter getting over the ground as if the miles were inches; but Harold did not recover his cheerfulness for all the hard exercise; the indignation was mental, not physical, and the atmosphere of mystery and uncertainty seemed to cling about him. Still moody, he rode into Higham. Higham was a little village a few miles from the fishing hamlet of Scardford—a picturesque little place, with a delicious little church, which, as an almost perfect specimen of Norman architecture, often attracted the attention of tourists and antiquarians. Harold dismounted, and was about to enter the inn, when a burst of loud-voiced laughter issued forth, and turned him back. He was in no humor for the boisterous tourists. "Wash his legs," he said to the groom, "and give him some water presently; and don't let any of those noisy young gentlemen fool round him; he's rather quick with his heels." "All right, sir," grinned the hostler, who knew both horse and rider, and watched Harold sauntering up the little street with undisguised approval. Harold stretched himself in the easy chair and looked round him lazily; as he did so, he noticed that the little table was laid for two. "Expect a visitor, it seems, nurse?" he said, as she appeared with the old-fashioned teapot and a plate of toast. "Lor', now, think of you noticing the extra cup," she exclaimed, laughing. "It isn't a visitor, Master Harold; it's a lodger—a regular lodger." "And I've got his easy chair, no doubt," said Harold, smiling. "Oh, no; and it isn't a he, but a she," said the dame. "Don't you move, Master Harold; she'll have her tea in her own room—don't see move, now." "Who is it?" asked Harold. "An old gossip like yourself, I suppose, nurse. Some one to catch to of an evening. I'm glad to hear it; she'll be company for you." "So she is, bless her heart! But she isn't much of a gossip," said the dame. "I was just going to tell you about her when I heard that kettle. She's—oh, here she comes," she broke off. Harold heard a light step coming up the narrow path, and a musical voice singing, in a low, cheerful kind of way, and presently a young girl stood in the doorway, and the voice, seeming to sing still, cried: "Well, dame, tea ready? I know it is, for I smelled the toast at the church gate—and isn't it hot? I—she caught sight of Harold, and, stopping short, blushed, and looked from one to the other. Harold had risen, and stood gazing at her as one might gaze, with a bewildered admiration, at a beautiful picture suddenly and unexpectedly disclosed to view. And she did make a beautiful picture, framed in the doorway, with a background of scarlet geraniums and cottage roses. Harold had only time, in that momentary, surprised stare, to notice that the face was beautiful generally, and the soft, brown eyes in particular, when the dame's cheery voice broke the spell. "Miss Ethel, this is Mr. Woodleigh, my Master Harold; you've heard me speak of so often. This is my 'old gossip'—my lodger, Master Harold." The girl bowed, with a little heightened color and a smile of inquiry at the 'old gossip.' "I didn't know you had a visitor, dame," she said, taking up the hat which, at her entrance, she had flung onto a chair, revealing a beautifully shaped head and a clustering coil of dark brown hair. "I'm in no hurry for my tea," and, with another little inclination of the head, she was gliding out of the room, when Harold said, with his frank quickness: "I hope you will not go because I am here—I don't know that I can stay—" "There, now!" exclaimed the dame, putting her arm on the girl's. "I shall love you both, I see. Come back, Miss Ethel, or he'll go—I know him of old. Come, do, dear!" "Indeed, I shall go," said Harold, smiling. "I could not think of turning you out of the room." She hesitated a moment; then, with a smile as faint as his own, nodded an acquiescence. "Please do not go; I will be back in a minute, if you wish it, and disappeared. Harold looked after her, with a lively anxiety. "Why, nurse," he said, in a low voice, "what a beautiful, young creature! What a beautiful, young creature! What a beautiful, young creature! Who is she?" (To be continued.)

DR. BOVEL'S HERB TABLETS AS A CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA. A Toronto clergyman writes as follows: "I Rose Av, Toronto. Gentlemen:—I have been taking Dr. Bovel's Herb Tablets for about two months for dyspepsia, an oppressive feeling round the region of the heart, also dizzy spells which entirely disappeared. I now feel better than I have for years and can honestly recommend them to anyone needing a medicine to tone up the system and purify the blood. Pleasant to take and mildly purgative. Wishing you every success, I remain Yours truly, REY. D. CONVERY. Eczema's Tortures

All treatments failed for three long years—Cure complete with DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT. Mrs. Lihk, 12 Walker St., Halifax, N. S., writes: "After three years of miserable torture and sleepless nights with terrible eczema, and after trying over a dozen remedies without obtaining anything but slight temporary relief, I have been perfectly and entirely cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment. After the third or fourth application of this grand ointment I obtained relief, and a few boxes were sufficient to make a thorough cure. It is six months since I was freed of this wretched skin disease, and as there has been no return of the trouble I consider the cure a permanent one." Such cures are not brought about by imitations and substitutes for Dr. Chase's Ointment. It is therefore necessary for you to be certain that the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., the famous Receipt Book author, are on the box you buy. 60 cts. a box at all dealers or Edmansons, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for a free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes. Beaver Flour makes more bread to the barrel than any other flour on the market—bread that takes up water readily, "stands up" well in the oven, looks well, tastes well and is light and nutritious.

Being a carefully prepared blend of Manitoba Spring wheat and Ontario Fall wheat, Beaver Flour is also an ideal pastry flour, making the most delicious cakes, pies and biscuits.

Keeping two flours—one for bread and one for pastry—involves unnecessary expense and bother. Beaver Flour is best for both.

Ask your grocer for it.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

John we shall live where his work is—a hundred miles from here. So what difference could his family possibly make?"

I've heard that argument, "I'm not marrying his family, I'm marrying him," a good many times before and it seems to me there is just one answer to it.

You ARE marrying his family—in him. There are some people who believe heredity has the most powerful influence on what we become, and as many others consider that environment does.

Remember that the influence of the family is made up both of heredity and environment.

Now please don't think that I mean a girl should refuse to marry a man because some member of his family had gone wrong or because there was some family skeleton, or anything like that.

That isn't what I am trying to say at all.

What I mean is that I believe a girl ought to think a good while before she decided to marry a man whose family atmosphere was not congenial to her, because, although she might take him very far away from it, she would still be marrying in him the product of that atmosphere.

In every family that is a family unit at all, there is apt to be a certain fixed standard, a certain unchanging set of ideals and desires and admirations.

For instance, in one family the point of view is a habit of considering money and show the measure of life. At their dinner table the talk runs something like this:

"What do you think—the Browns have bought a new car that must have cost at least $4,000."

"The Jones' are blossoming out lately. Mrs. Jones went by here today in the handsomest white suit with a whole lot of Irish lace on it."

"Just think, Harry Smith says they stopped at _____ and that's the most expensive hotel in Atlantic City."

"Mother, the new girl in school has a real gold watch. Can't I have one for Christmas?"

Isn't it very nearly inevitable that the son of this family will have the family point of view that the be-all and end-all of existence is to have money, or at least to appear to have it?

And suppose he marries a girl who has been brought up in a family where the point of view is a love of books and education and simple things—Isn't it likely that their ideals and desires and admirations, products as they are of such widely different points of view, are going to clash?

Perhaps they will amalgamate and produce a generation with a more cosmopolitan point of view than either, you suggest.

Perhaps.

But I did not say you should not marry a man whatever his family was.

I simply wanted to show you that no matter how far from them your lines might lie, you were nevertheless marrying his family—in him.

If you are willing to do that, that's your affair.

Only just don't make the mistake of thinking you aren't doing it.

Notes From Harbor Grace.

Through the kindness of Mr. Thos. Freeman, photographer, we were shown a picture on Friday of the ending of the cable here on Tuesday last. The photo, measuring 16 x 20 inches, is beautifully finished and shows Mr. Freeman to be a master in the art. Mr. R. T. Parsons also had some very pretty views of the landing of the company's cable.

The ladies of the town met in the new Public Building on Saturday night to consider the advisability of holding a garden party on the opening night of the celebration, proceeds in aid of the Guy Hospital. It was decided to hold a garden party and collectors were appointed to call on the ladies of the town and solicit contributions. The fair sex never do anything by halves, so we may look forward to a most pleasant and successful Guy Garden Party.

We regret to hear that Rev. Mr. Joffin of the Kirk here has been advised by his physician to prolong his stay in P. E. Island owing to ill-health. He hopes to return about the 1st of September. Rev. Mr. Job, of Canada, will supply the Kirk for the next three weeks.

Mr. George Whiteway, one of our former residents, but who has resided in Boston for the past year or so, died at that city on the 1st inst. after a long illness. He leaves, besides a widow, two sons and three daughters in the United States, to all of whom and numerous friends and relatives we extend our sympathy. He was a member of the C. B. E. Society of this town.

The new site for the Regatta this year, to the eastward of the former site, is a delightful spot, and a new road has been made by the Road Board to the scene. A large number of people visited the place yesterday and could scarcely believe that such a delightful spot could be found so near the town. Don't miss the "races" this year, as all former attempts in that line will be knocked in the shade.

Several gentlemen are engaged this morning measuring the grounds around Conchian Hall. It is the intention, we hear, to beautify these grounds and make them into a miniature park.

Stomach Blood and Liver Troubles

Much sickness starts with weak stomach, and consequent poor, impoverished blood. Nervous and pale-people lack good, rich, red blood. Their stomachs need invigorating for, after all, a man can be no stronger than his stomach.

A remedy that makes the stomach strong and the liver active, makes rich red blood and overcomes and drives out disease-producing bacteria and cures a whole multitude of diseases.

Get rid of your Stomach Weakness and Liver Laziness by taking a course of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—the great Stomach Restorative, Liver Invigorator and Blood Cleanser.

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine of known composition, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, same being attested as correct under oath.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

Fads and Fashions.

Silks were never so popular. Black satin jackets are finding favor.

Beaded belts and bags are to be worn.

The collarless blouse is enormously popular.

Most of the large imported hats are low trimmed.

Satins are predicted as the favorite fall fabric.

The small hat is really the smart thing of the hour.

Some of the new bathing caps very much resemble motor bonnets.

Pleated skirts of all sorts are decidedly fashionable.

Chains are superseding leather straps for handbag handles.

Chiffons, both changeable and printed, are exceedingly popular.

Young girls are wearing great numbers of trills and jabots.

Many foulard and pongee suits are made in Russian blouse style.

Paris declares that transparent sleeves are to be a ruling feature.

Lingerie and tailored waists of white seem about equally in favor.

Tailor made suits of silk and satin are the fad of the hour in Paris.

Long gloves will be worn for afternoon evening functions this fall.

Cottons now come printed in all sorts of Persian and old world designs.

Chamols' gloves for children are quite as much seen as those for grown-ups.

Patent leather belts have considerable favor, and they are growing wider.

Embroidered nets are fashionable, and colored net waists have been seen for some time.

Unlined short wraps made of chiffon, voile and marquisettes, are being shown in the shops.

New gimpes are of the simplest order, very sheer, untrimmed, unobtrusive and very shallow.

Hatpins and buttons of wood are coming in again. Many Chanteceler figures are carved upon them.

Black chiffon jumpers, piped with Persian silk or with black satin, are attractive novelties.

Weak? Tired? Run-down?

and note what a difference they make in your condition. The stomach is the first to feel the good effects. Free Advertising.

We append an article from the Daily News on Free Advertising. The article sets forth clearly and forcibly a custom which is becoming a serious inconvenience in newspaper offices. As our morning contemporary declares, it is by no means uncommon to receive a request to insert gratuitously a half-column write-up at the time a fifty-cent black local is inserted. Often also a newspaper is expected to follow this up by inserting gratuitously a series of reminders to keep the matter before the public after one or two insertions of the 50 cent local. These write-ups are advertisements, pure and simple. No editor would ever publish them for their value as news, for in that respect they are not worth the space they occupy.

Our attitude is like that of the Daily News. In future THE EVENING TELEGRAM will not give this free advertising. What is news will be published as news. What is advertisement will be treated as advertisement, though it takes the form of a write-up. After this date all matter which the Editor decides is advertisement will be treated as business matter and published only on that understanding at regular or contract rates.

A newspaper's revenue is mainly derived from its advertising columns. These form its negotiable stock-in-trade.

A merchant's revenue is derived from the sale of the goods on his shelves and in his stores.

No one who buys a pound of tea, expects to have a barrel of flour thrown in.

Neither does the purchaser of a straw hat, look for the present of a suit of clothes.

The physician, who gives his prescription, would be surprised if he were asked to pay for the drugs that are necessary to fill it.

Why, then, should a newspaper be expected, for every half dollar's worth of paid advertising, to throw in three dollars worth, gratuitously?

And yet this sort of demand has become so frequent, as to become a positive nuisance, and a continuous and unreasonable expense.

In self-defence, the NEWS is compelled to take a firm stand in this matter, and takes this opportunity of making it known to all and sundry that, after this date, no free advertising will be given.

What are matters of news or general interest will be for the Editor to decide. Any other matter must be paid for at the regular or contract rates. What these are may be learned on application to the business department.

To such a pitch has this sort of thing reached that it is no uncommon occurrence to receive a fifty-cent black local, accompanied by a half-column write-up. In other words 50c. in cash for $5.00 worth of space.

We are compelled to call a halt. Willingness to oblige has become a weakness; and what has been given as a privilege, is now demanded as a right. In justice to those advertisers who pay for what they purchase, and to ourselves, this class of gratuitous advertising must now cease, so far as the DAILY NEWS is concerned.

The Fire Sufferers.

An opportunity is afforded at the Bank of Nova Scotia for those inclined to subscribe to the fund for the sufferers from the devastating fire at Campbellton. The Late King Edward's Kindness.

How His Majesty Comforted a Sick Officer Who Had Asked to Hear His Voice.

London, August 2.—Lord Burnham related a touching anecdote in regard to the late King at a meeting in Windsor yesterday. The gathering was convened by the mayor to discuss steps for a memorial in Windsor to Edward VII., and was presided over by Prince Christian, High Steward of the Royal Borough.

Prince Alexander of Teck proposed a resolution calling for the raising of funds to pay off the debt on the Windsor hospital as the most fitting memorial to the King, and Lord Burnham, in seconding the resolution, spoke of the King's intense interest in hospital work. He went on:—
 "There was one small hospital in London in the welfare of which he was ever deeply interested—King Edward's Hospital for Officers, in Grosvenor Gardens, managed with matchless devotion and skill by that most admirable woman, Miss Agnes Keyser, popularly and lovingly known as Sister Agnes. Not very long before the King's death there lay in the good sister's charge an officer who was very, very ill, after a serious operation, and who, as it was thought, could not survive.

"The King was coming to the hospital to pay one of his quiet visits, and the patient, who heard he was expected, and who was almost too weak to speak, said it would be a great happiness to him if he could hear his voice, and he asked the sister if it would be possible for her to talk to King Edward outside the open door. Sister Agnes said she would try to do what he wished, and, having in due course led the King there, she told him what her purpose had been. In a moment he went through the door to the bedside of the sick man, taking his hand, held it for a long time, while he spoke to him words of tenderness and counsel, and, when he had finally said good-bye, he slowly walked to the window and looked out upon—well, he looked out upon nothing, as the tears rolled down his cheeks, and then silently left the bedside of the sufferer whose strong desire it had been to listen to his voice.

"The picture which I have ventured to present to you is not a picture of the great King surrounded by all the pomp and circumstance of his state and splendor, it is a simple picture of the man with a tender heart, impelled by his gentle and sympathetic nature to try to bring some solace, some comfort, be it ever so little, to one who had fallen on evil days, but who in the past, so far as in him lay, had doubtless done his best in the service of his country and his sovereign."

Big Windfall to British Treasury.

London, Aug. 2.—The late Baron Schroeder, the sale of whose art collection at Christie's established record prices, left an estate valued at $10,400,000. Under the new Budget the Baron's executors will pay into the treasury $2,400,000 as death and legacy duties.

As showing how the Chancellor of the Exchequer has increased the inheritance tax in his new budget, it may be stated that if Baron Schroeder had died three years ago his estate would have paid only $1,575,000 as death and legacy duties instead of $2,400,000, which it has to pay under Lloyd-George's budget. The Baron left $150,000 to various charities. He was the head of the banking firm of J. H. Schroeder & Co.

His title was German, but King Edward permitted him to use it in England. He bequeathed to King George a chalice and paten or water dish, found near Dolgelly, in Wales, one of the rarest of Welsh archaeological treasures. It is expected that King George will present the Baron's legacy to the British Museum.

Edgeworthstown.

The little town which bears the name of the famed Edgeworth family, with its wealth of literary association, is now being sold. Edgeworthstown was originally a small village when the Edgeworths established themselves there as long ago as 1583, and the first of the family who went to Ireland was made Bishop of Down and Connor. It will perhaps be news to many Londoners that it was this family which gave its name also to Edgeworth, now Edgeware. In one of the houses of Edgeworthstown, the same in which Oliver Goldsmith went to school, was born Abbe Edgeworth, who at the peril of his life attended Louis XVI. on the scaffold. Sir Walter Scott, like many of the distinguished visitors, was much interested in that house when, in 1825, he was the guest of Maria Edgeworth, whose 'Castle Rackrent' first suggested to him the idea of the 'Waverley' novels.—Fall Mall Gazette.

Hi-Po Waterproof Dry Batteries

PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE during recent years, has demonstrated that dry batteries, if properly constructed and protected, are ideal for ignition purposes.

These two essential qualities are combined in the HI-PO waterproof dry cells. It is a well known fact that the old-type zinc-cells are short lived when exposed to moisture. Water and dampness have not the least effect on the HI-PO waterproof dry batteries, which can even be left standing in salt water without risk of short current.

Owing to the new patent process under which they are manufactured, the HI-PO waterproof dry cells are protected against all outside influences, each individual cell being built up and sealed in an insulated case.

The HI-PO waterproof dry batteries are used with absolute safety on land, on water and in aerial navigation; they are suitable for any work in any climate.

The HI-PO waterproof dry cells have a much longer life and give more service, size for size, than any other battery made.

This cut illustrates the most practical method of using HI-PO Waterproof Dry Batteries, namely, in double series, thus, by means of a switch, one set is allowed to recuperate, while the other set is use.

Sailor King Commands Invincible Armada.

London, Aug. 5.—Standing on the bridge of the Dreadnought, the King brought into Tor Bay, after battle practice, the greatest fleet that a British Sovereign, as Admiral of the Fleet, has ever had under his direct command.

When morning broke it was seen that the fog had had a very disturbing effect on the Fleet, for only about thirty ships of the vast Armada lay in the bay, the others being scattered outside, some of them being fifty miles at sea, where they had been steaming all night. It later became known that two cruisers nearly collided in the dense weather, collision mats being got out, in perfect discipline, when they were only ten feet apart.

Shortly before ten in the morning the King, accompanied by the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught, boarded the Dreadnought, which soon afterwards stood out to sea. The great battleship was followed by the Royal yacht, from which the Queen, with Princess Mary and Prince George, watched the operations. It was noticed that the Victoria and Albert was now flying Queen Mary's flag for the first time.

Cleared for Action. The Dreadnought had been cleared for action, and battle practice was carried out with her 12 inch guns. At a range of 3,000 yards she opened fire at a target towed by the cruiser Isis, steaming round in ever-widening circles. The King, who wore the uniform of an Admiral, took the keenest interest in the firing, which was carried out with the greatest possible care, for it is not every day that Jack handles his big guns under the eyes of his Sailor King.

His Majesty is closely interested in the new system of fire control, and had an excellent opportunity of estimating to what extent this has been responsible for the great improvement shown of late in shooting.

Praised the Gunners. The gunners, who fired thirty-nine rounds in all, had the satisfaction of having twenty-one hits recorded. His Majesty expressed his appreciation of the shooting and went into the turret to shake hands with the gunners. In the meantime the remainder of the fleet had participated in tactical evolutions of an intricate character in fighting formation. The conditions of warfare would demand changing of directions as rapidly as possible, and in the evolutions the vessels steamed in divisions line ahead, then in line abreast, at other times changing formation to bow and quarter line, the whole manoeuvres testifying to the complete mobility of the fleets in action.

It was nearly four o'clock when the Dreadnought, with the King on the bridge beside Sir William May, was seen returning to the bay, leading in the huge combined fleet. The King's Appreciation. His Majesty is understood to have

SCOTT AND HIS SHIP

Antarctic Explorer Has the Best Expedition Ever Sent Out.

The Terra Nova is bound for the Antarctic. She carries the majority of those who are to accompany Capt. Scott in his endeavor to reach the South Pole. Capt. Scott rightly counts himself leader of the most thoroughly organized expedition in the history of Polar exploration. Given the man, the expedition will not only be the most thoroughly organized but almost the most determined that has ever set out.

Capt. Robert Falcon Scott is a man of keen sentiment and enormous enthusiasm, but they are hidden below the surface of a very placid and un-concerned demeanor. The traditions of the naval service on the one hand and of the great explorers on the other, inspire him. Clean shaven, with a strong and determined face, tight, firm lips, and keen but kindly light blue eyes, he is just forty-two years of age, his birthday being on June 6th. He was thirty-three when he first set out towards the South Pole in the wonderful but too expensive and not over-satisfactory Discovery, in which he made the great expedition which penetrated farthest south for the time being.

As a good captain he liked the Discovery, despite her faults, and if sentiment had been given full opportunity he might have taken her with him this time. By a curious coincidence she lies in the docks, and was almost within hailing distance of the Terra Nova before she sailed. The Discovery is in the service of the Hudson Bay Co., to whom she was sold when she had done her work in the Antarctic. But now the commander is quite in love with his Terra Nova, which he thinks the best ship in the world for her purpose.

The first time he ever saw her he resented her appearance. He was out in the lonely Antarctic then, cut off from the world. It was on a sunny morning in January six years ago, the Discovery was fast in the ice, and her situation, and indeed that of the whole expedition, was a little serious. The Government had guessed this, and had sent this old but carefully chosen whaling vessel racing through the Mediterranean and Suez Canal, tugged along at top speed by cruisers and more cruisers until, with the other relief ship, the Morning, she came up to the edge of the Antarctic ice pack. Capt. Scott and some of his companions were discussing after breakfast their plans for the day, when suddenly they saw a ship. Then Wilson exclaimed, "Why there's another!" and there was the Terra Nova. The sight meant safety, and home again, but there were considerations which made the reflection not completely delightful. The Antarctic has its claims and its hold, and the explorer has a very sensitive pride; and so, before he turned in that night, Capt. Scott wrote in his diary: "In spite of the good home news and the pleasure of seeing old friends again, I was happier last night than I am to-night."

However, he marked the Terra Nova for her sterling worth, and he paid $60,000 for her when he determined on this new expedition. In the meantime she had gone back to her whaling and he had returned to the navy to command battleships and cruisers. A fair amount of money has been spent on her—most carefully spent—and she has become a ship of good looks and some excellent conveniences. She has to accommodate nearly sixty officers, scientists and crew, and with the three years' provisions that she takes with her—all selected this time with the most exceptional thoroughness and packed in special cases so that no case is too heavy for one man to carry—there is no room to spare for anyone or anything. And yet the scientists' laboratories and special departments which have been constructed in her are big enough and well fitted and complete. There is nothing wanting.

Killed as He Telephones

Portland, Me., Aug. 2.—During an electrical storm that was accompanied by rain so severe as to be almost a cloudburst, a street car conductor telephoning the barn was electrocuted by lightning coming down the wire. Two others were severely, if not fatally, burned in the same manner.

In the thirteen minutes that the storm lasted, .44 of an inch of rain fell, and most of that in five minutes, and in almost a moment the wind rose from a gentle breeze to a veritable gale, while hail stones a half inch in diameter strewed the streets.

Railroad square was a lake, with the water almost to the platform of the street cars. At places on Commercial street the water was four feet deep.

Conductor Harry Strout, in charge of the Westbrook car, bound for Portland, went to the company's street telephone box at the junction of Woodford street and Brighton avenue, and lifting the receiver from the hook was instantly killed by a stroke of lightning. Forley Crockett, a motorman on an express car, and George Adams, a conductor, while telephoning to the car barns, received shocks that burned them severely and makes their recovery doubtful.

Fishery Good at Black Tickle.

A wireless message received in town from Labrador by a merchant of the city yesterday brought the good news that there was quite an improvement in the fishery the past week at Black Tickle and vicinity. Traps were getting on Friday last from 70 to 80 quintals a haul. This is cheering news and would lead us to hope that the improvement reported from Black Tickle may cover a large section of the Southern part of the coast.

communicated to Admiral May his appreciation of the admirable manner in which the various units of the combined fleets assembled together in the Channel after the fog, and returned to Tor Bay.

It is stated that the King took so keen an interest in the big gun practice that he personally fired several rounds at the target.

Fourteen flag officers, together with the captains of battleships and cruisers, had the honor of being entertained to dinner by the King on board the Royal yacht. The captain and officers of the Dreadnought also gave a farewell reception to the officers of the fleet, the ships of which dispersed to their respective ports.

Lords Approve Accession Bill.

A Credit to Christian Common Sense, Says the Archbishop of Canterbury.

LONDON, August 4.—When the bill amending the King's accession declaration was reached in the House of Lords last evening, Lord Kinnaird moved that the discussion be postponed until the Autumn. After this proposal had been negative without a division, warm approval was given to the new form of accession declaration in all parts of the Chamber.

The Archbishop of Canterbury said: "We have reached the end of a feud which has been mischievous and vexatious in the highest degree. The proposed change, to relieve the Sovereign of an unpleasant obligation, will be a credit to Christian common sense."

Lord Lansdowne, approving the new form, remarked: "Standing at the beginning of a new reign, under the happiest auspices, I do not wish its opening days to be distinguished by religious animosities."

The Duke of Norfolk expressed gratitude on behalf of himself and his fellow Catholics, for the change. Lord Halifax, the most intense High Church peer, was equally warm in his approval of the new form of declaration.

After the debate lasting two and a half hours, the bill passed its second reading without a division. Later it was read a third time.

Badly Hurt In Thresher

Blood poison set in—Great suffering—Cure effected by DR. A. W. CHASE'S OINTMENT. Mrs. C. Hopkins, St. George, Ont., writes: "I feel like shouting the praises of Dr. Chase's Ointment. While threshing grain, my son got badly hurt. One of the men who was pitching sheaves, missed the sheaf and ran the prong of the fork into my son's leg. He did not take much notice of it at first, but in a day or two it got sore and very itchy and blood poison set in. We did everything for it but it would heal no place and break out at another place on this way for three months. "Finally I thought of Dr. Chase's Ointment and in a week's time we noticed a wonderful change. By the use of three boxes he was completely cured and the wounds healed up. There has not been a sign of a spot on him since. "Wherever there is itching or irritation of the skin or a sore that refuses to heal you can apply Dr. Chase's Ointment with every assurance that the results will be prompt and satisfactory. 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or F. Mansson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for free copy Dr. Chase's Recipes."

Railway News.

W. D. Reid, Esq., President of the Reid, Nfld. Co., returned from the Bonavista branch last evening by the express, to which his private car Terminus Nova was attached. He reports that the work is progressing favorably and that up to Monday morning 39 1/2 miles of road had been laid. The ballasting is completed up to the 34th mile. The graders are quite near Trinity Arm and are now on the 47th mile. The masonry work at Goose Bay is all completed as well as at George's Brook and at Seal Cove. This week the headquarters will be shifted to Trinity. Nearly 2,000 men are employed and there is no serious illness reported.

White Bread

"A Predisposing Cause of Consumption." The value of good bread in the prevention of tuberculosis was the theme of Miss May Yates at a ladies' conference during the Public Health Congress at Birkenhead, Cheshire, recently. It was now recognized, said Miss Yates, that tuberculosis was not hereditary, and that if properly treated in the early stages it might be completely cured. The prevailing custom of using white bread deprived the system of phosphoric acid and iron which were so essential, and their loss predisposed the human body towards consumption. Defective teeth followed from the same cause, with consequent maldigestion and malnutrition.

The history of the Irish peasantry afforded proof of the degeneration resulting from insufficient feeding. Thirty or forty years ago the Irish peasantry were a robust race, little troubled with consumption. They lived on oatmeal porridge, bread made from home-grown stone-ground flour and meal, milk, and potatoes. Now the people lived principally on bread made from imported foreign white flour and tea, and they were being ravaged by consumption.

Miss Yates proposed a resolution urging the Government and public analysts to consider means for securing the abolition of injurious chemical processes in the preparation of flour and bread, and the importance of fixing a standard of nutriment for bread and flour. The resolution was carried unanimously.

TROUBLE THREAT- ENED in PORTUGAL

Special to Evening Telegram. LISBON, Aug. 8. Portugal, like Spain, is almost on the verge of an open rupture with the Vatican due to the friction over the Government's censure of the R. C. Archbishop of Braga for suppressing a Portuguese Franciscan paper, without submitting the order to the Portuguese Government for approval and other incidents. Since the issue of the royal decree, July 12th, nullifying the action of the Archbishop, the clerical forces inspired; it is charged, by Cardinal Merry Del Val, the Papal Secretary of State, have been conducting a bitter campaign against the Government about nullifying the diplomatic vacancy caused by the death of Senator Martins D. Azevedo, the Portuguese Ambassador to the Vatican. The Portuguese Government retaliated by declining to allow the post to remain vacant for the present, and the Minister of Justice has drafted a Bill providing for a civil register of births, deaths and marriages to be kept by civil authorities. As this threatens a big source of income of the clergy, a big meeting of ecclesiastics was held here today to protest. Danger also threatens the Government from the side of the Republicans on account of the refusal of the King to redeem the promise made by the Government of an amnesty for political offenders including the members of secret societies involved in the assassination of his father and brother. The Government is trying to appease the Republicans by appointing prominent members of the party to important positions in the Province. The Monarchical press means that this policy will enable the Republicans to turn the election machinery on the Government against itself in future elections of the Cortes, the result of Portuguese elections being largely swayed by the influences in control of the election machinery.

The Export of Pulpwood

Special to Evening Telegram. WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 8. Despite the policy of the Government of the Province of Quebec prohibiting the exportation of pulpwood cut on Crown Lands subsequent to 1910, there need be no apprehension of a shortage in that Province for the American market, according to a report from the United States Consul General at Quebec. Competent authorities say that only about 15 per cent of all the pulpwood cut in this Province was cut on Crown Lands. This percentage while not very considerable was sufficient to prevent the sale at fair prices of large quantities of such wood cut on private lands, which has accumulated in large quantities. The report further states that the second largest article of export from Quebec in 1909 was wood pulp, representing a value of nearly a million dollars.

Drifted from Prince Edward Island.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—I am including a note that drifted all the way from P. I. Island in a lobster can. I picked it up on the beach below my dwelling house July 16th. How would you say it came all the way to Shoal Bay, St. Mary's Bay, without landing elsewhere. I would like to see the note printed in the Evening Telegram.

Mr. John Power, of St. Mary's, lobster inspector, while going his rounds to the factories the other day, lost his way between Mail Bay and Shoal Bay in the fog and bushes. He was out all night on the barren and arrived to my house after being twenty-four hours astray. He was drenched with rain, fatigued with hunger and his clothing was all torn.

I came here from Halifax 20 years ago and settled down in Shoal Bay. I cleared five acres of land and reared a large family of eight children, and I never got so much as a dollar from the Government to make a dollar path for myself. I remain, Yours very truly, F. McAVOY.

June 1st, 1910. "Whoever finds this can please write and let me know when and where it was picked up." J. J. McINNIS, Hermantville, P. E. Island, Canada.

I answered the above. I am going to send him the Evening Telegram that the above will be printed in. Shoal Bay, via St. Mary's, St. Mary's Bay, July 31st, '10.

Marriage Contract in the Time of Pharaoh.

Most of us make the acquaintance of Egypt in the splendid dramatic story of Joseph and his brethren, and so come to look on Pharaoh and his people as gloomy and malign persecutors, fit only to be swallowed up in the Red Sea waves. Or we read of the graves and sober monuments of the Nile valley with their perpetual reminders of death and the kingdom of night with the result that we are hardly prepared to realize the gay lightsome side of ancient Egyptian life, or to credit the thought that these tomb-builders could ever break into a smile. But there was a side of gaiety and of charm, and, just as we are finding that so many of our deeper and more philosophical thoughts go back to the people of the Delta, so we are beginning to discover the originals of all our jokes in the buried cities of the Nile.

That ladies were not unduly oppressed in the land of the Pharaohs, we may gather from this marriage contract, from a fourth century Democratic manuscript, but dating in form to far older times:

"I," says the lady Isis, "take thee as my husband. Thou makest me thy wife, and givest me, in token of dower, five-tenths of silver. If I discharge thee as my husband, having thee and loving another more than thee, I shall give and return to thee two and a half tenths of silver, of what thou gavest me as my dower; and I cede unto thee, of all and everything that I shall acquire with thee, one-third part, as long as thou art married unto me."

Not even Chicago or Reno can boast of a franker marriage contract than that; and there is something wonderfully naive in the idea of the good lady Isis "discharging" her lord, on the ground that she hates him and loves another better. The sum she returns him as part of her now cancelled dower, is about equal to a silver dollar, so we have still something to learn in marital levity and feminine imperiousness. — Harper's Weekly.

The "Yale" at Labrador.
Small Craft Which Was in Halifax Has Arrived at Indian Harbor.

News was received at Greenwich, Conn., Monday, of the arrival at Indian Harbour, Labrador, of John Rowland, the young Yale man who had the 40 foot hospital tender Yale built along lines suggested by himself, raised the cost of construction by personal subscription, and then, with a crew of students, took the boat from Boothbay, Me., and turned it over to Dr. Grenfell, the Labrador missionary, as a wedding present to be used in the Labrador work.

Young Rowland, who is 21 years old, is a son of George Rowland, a prominent New York business man, whose country home is in Greenwich, and a brother of Henry Rowland, the novelist.

The Yale was finished on June 15 and young Rowland accompanied by a Yale junior by the name of Twombly and another Yale man, together with a young man from Labrador, who had been at Pratt Institution, Brooklyn, joined the vessel. On June 18 they sailed, taking a pilot with them. They reached Halifax July 9. Here the pilot left them and they had to get another. After a rather bad trip, during which all hands were pretty well worn out, they arrived at Battle Harbor, Labrador, July 19. It was found out there that Dr. Grenfell was at St. Anthony, Nfld., and they sailed to that place.

Here they found that Dr. Grenfell was anxious that the boat should be taken at once to Indian Harbor, about 200 miles north of Battle Harbor. They sailed at once, arriving there Monday night. The Yale is 44 feet 8 inches over all, and 34 feet on the water line. She has a width of 12 feet and a draft of 6 feet 8 inches. She is ketch rigged, with an auxiliary engine, using kerosene, as gasoline cannot be obtained on Labrador. Her hull is of the double end type.—Halifax Record, August 4.

Kitchener Once Named to Succeed Sir E. Gorst.

London, August 3.—"What does the Government intend to do with Lord Kitchener," a well-informed official at Whitehall was asked a few days ago.

"I give it up, but," added the official, "did you know that Lord Kitchener nearly went to Egypt to take Sir Eldon Gorst's place as British diplomatic agent and consul-general? It is a fact."

"Mr. Roosevelt upset that arrangement, however. Everything had been fixed; Kitchener had been offered the post and had accepted it, when Mr. Roosevelt, in his Guildhall speech, laid down a course of action in Egypt. So the Government decided, at least for the present to keep Kitchener at home. This decision, of course, was due to the fact that the Government did not wish to jump at Mr. Roosevelt's plan of sending a man of 'blood and iron' to Egypt."

"So you cannot tell what work will be found for the great soldier?" He might be sent to Constantinople as Ambassador, for we need a strong man there. England has been losing ground with the Young Turks for several months.

King Pins Medals on Miners' Breasts.

Three Score Heroes of Colliery Disasters Receive Decorations From the British Ruler's Hands at Palace.

London Aug. 2.—King George, at Marlborough House to-day, in presence of the Home Secretary and other Government officials, decorated sixty-two miners for conspicuous gallantry in saving or attempting to save life in recent colliery disasters, presenting them with King Edward medals—a decoration instituted by the late King for heroism in mines.

After addressing words of praise to the recipients and complimenting them for their bravery, the men were presented singly to the monarch, who personally pinned the medal on the breast. More than fifty of the men won their decoration by bravery in the Whitehaven pit disaster, when more than one hundred miners were entombed. It occurred just after King Edward's death.

Nine seamen also received medals for conspicuous gallantry in saving life at sea.

The Archbishop's Return.

"Caed Mille Failthe."

This greeting, the beautiful and spontaneous outburst of the Irish heart when the Lord of Hosts and King of Heaven and earth descends from His Throne on high during the Holy Mass, met His Grace the Archbishop on Sunday last, as he returned from his travels in other lands to his native shores, and to his people over whom long may he watch and guide. "Caed Mille Failthe"—"A hundred thousand welcomes"—a message sincere and true floating from the stately towers of the massive Cathedral, breaking forth from the hearts of the children on far away shores, the spirit of the parent—the true Gael—from whom the faith has, through the ages, descended as the most priceless treasure on this side of the grave.

Never has the beautiful display of last Sunday been surpassed, and truly the Archbishop's heart must have rejoiced at such a whole-souled display of loyalty and of love.—Com.

Arrest of a Boy.

A boy who had been working at a tea agency in the city was arrested yesterday at the instance of his employer for obtaining money under false pretences. The employer, who discharged him a few days ago, says that the boy after leaving his services went about town collecting money in the name of the tea firm. He was held at the lockup all night.

Sweeping the Streets.

Next Thursday the City Council will adopt a new plan of sweeping Water Street by which they hope to avoid the raising of so much dust, as is the case when the horse broom sweeper is used. They will employ men to do the sweeping in the old fashioned way, laying the dust with water as they go along with the work. Anyone who happens to come down on Water Street about 6 o'clock in the morning will easily realize the necessity for a change. The dust raised is intolerable.

Will Open New Street.

The City Council with Engineer Ryan visited the rear of Notre Dame Street yesterday and decided to open up a new street, which would run from Carter's Hill to Barter's Hill parallel to New Gower Street. This is a very congested district and there are several old tenements there that should be torn down long ago. Besides, it is a dangerous and difficult locality in case of fire breaking out there. The Engineer has been ordered to draw up plans for the next meeting.

A Reply to Athlete.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Mr. Editor,—"Athlete" says: "Some of the men who trained will have to abandon the Marathon if it is increased to fifteen miles." Well, now, Mr. Editor, I for one think it was understood that our annual Marathon was to be increased every year until we had reached the full Marathon distance, viz., 26 miles 385 yards. The full distance is not too much for a Newfoundlander to run any more than any foreign runner, and as the Committee have decided the distance to be covered (15 miles) they should keep to it, as several young men have practised for that distance and already covered the course.

Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor, I remain,
Very truly yours,
"YOU CAN'T CATCH ME."

Nutritive Hypophosphites

When a person feels "blue"—"all tired out"—doesn't feel like doing anything—cannot concentrate his mind on his work—feels weak mentally and physically—doubts his powers—complains of poor appetite and sleeplessness—suffers from headaches—then his nervous system is run-down and demands a good up-building tonic.

Nervous exhaustion is a modern disease, caused by too close attention to business, overwork, worry, devotion to trying family cares overstudy, etc.

Nutritive Hypophosphites forms the best nerve and brain food known, and have restored thousands of sufferers to health. Large bottle, $1.00.

Placentia Notes.

On Tuesday morning Mr. Michael Hendrick was called to the Great Beyond. Mr. Hendrick had attained the ripe old age of four-score and two. Until a few weeks before his death, he was enjoying very good health. About a month ago while attending to his garden, he was suddenly seized with a fit of paralysis, and from then until his heart ceased to beat, he slowly got worse, and we know what happened. Mr. H. leaves a widow, two brothers, besides many friends and relations to whom sympathy is extended by all. On Thursday he was confined to another earth to await the trumpet call.

Glancing at the second page of the Daily News of Aug. 5th, the first thing we see is that two more promising young lives are cut off from the world by drowning in Quid Vidi Lake. We further see that one of the victims is a son of Dr. Lloyd, Editor Evening Telegram, the other, a nephew of Mr. M. Martin, also book-keeper of the Telegram staff. Only a few days ago Mr. P. K. Devine, also of the Telegram, lost a promising young son by drowning. The spear of the Death Angel has with great swiftness stung the Telegram staff during the past few weeks, and to Messrs. Lloyd, Devine and Martin we extend our sincere sympathy in their sad hour of bereavement.

A Win for the C. L. B.

The C. L. B. won the match by 3 goals to 1 against the Nfld. Highlanders at the brigade match on St. George's Field last night. The weather was very suitable for a hard game and there was a fairly large attendance. Just before the half time call the C.L.B. scored the first goal. Shortly after play was resumed the Highlanders equalized by getting No. 1. After a lively exhibition of play the C.L.B. scored up the second, and a few minutes before full time was called they secured No. 3. The match to-night will be M.G.B. vs. C.C.C.

Making a Newspaper.

Fascinating Series of "Daily Mail" Pictures.

Many thousands of people have already seen the vivid series of moving pictures now being presented in London and the provinces, showing in wonderful detail all the steps that go to the making of The Daily Mail. These pictures, taken stage by stage, from the felling of the spruce trees for the making of the paper in Newfoundland, to the publication of this journal in London and Manchester, give the average man, perhaps for the first time, an adequate idea of the mechanical processes through which a great daily newspaper passes ere it reaches the breakfast tables of its readers.

The opening scene is a logging camp of workmen employed by the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company at Grand Falls, Newfoundland. The fallen giant trees are trimmed, cut into lengths, and dragged through the forest to the river for the ninety-mile water journey to the works at Grand Falls. Impressive pictures are shown of the great cataract, and of the works where is installed the most complete paper-making plant in the world.

Record Shipment of Paper.

At the works the logs vanish into a long row of machines, emerging as a watered mass of pulp. Then comes the packing of the finished paper and its despatch by train to the wharf for passage to England. One of the incidents shown is the arrival of the biggest shipment of paper ever landed in England, the 2,343 tons brought into the Thames by the Tritonia.

The fascinating operation of setting type by linotype machines, the casting of the plates, and the threading of the huge, five mile reels of paper on to the great printing machines which will print and automatically count 60,000 copies of The Daily Mail per hour, are next shown.

No more enthralling series of moving pictures have ever been presented. They will be on view at every centre throughout the country.—Daily Mail.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.

Gentlemen,—In June, 98, I had my hand and wrist bitten and badly mangled by a vicious horse. I suffered greatly for several days and the tooth cuts refused to heal until your agent gave me a bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT, which I began using. The effect was magical; in five hours the pain had ceased and in two weeks the wounds had completely healed and my hand and arm were as well as ever.

Yours truly,
A. E. ROY,

Farmer Ruby Pleads for Cheap Lime.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—In the Daily News of August 5th is a letter from Mr. J. F. Downey, he writes of my experimenting with alfalfa. I have grown small lots different times. It always grows well with wood ashes or lime. It requires a porous sub-soil as its roots penetrate very deep. On the 30th of July I sowed a small plot. I will report the results at the Agricultural Show. I have grown it two feet high on well drained bog land. Dr. Grenfell is experimenting with some hardy sorts of Alfalfa in Canada Bay. It would be well to find out how it succeeded with him. Alfalfa is a Legume. It belongs to the clover family, and all Leguminous plants require lime. It would be useless to sow Alfalfa here without lime in some form. Mr.

Downey says if we are to make cattle raising the profitable industry that it should be, comes the question of this securing of the most nutritious feeds at lowest cost must be of first importance to everyone interested therein. Now, you are coming to the point, Mr. Downey. This is why I am always pleading for lime that will cause the clover and Alfalfa to thrive. We will then have the best of cattle feed and still be improving the fertility of the soil. From Blacksburg, Montgomery County, Virginia, Experimental Station, in Bulletin 187, there is valuable information about lime. We should have a lime kiln built and start burning lime this fall. Who will move in the matter in order that we may boom agriculture?
Yours truly,
SAMUEL RUBY.
