The Broken Circle!

CHAPTER XVIII.

He walked by the side of the carriage which held the duchess and Leah. The duchess was pleased to see that he pointed out all the beauties of the place to Leah, and listened with interest to her remarks. She had been ambitious for Leah once upon a time; she had hoped to see her a duchess; she had hoped that she would make some wonderful marriage. But now she felt that the best thing would be for her beautiful protegee to marry for love. Sir Basil would be an excellent match for her. He was wealthy; even if he were not, Leah would have so much money herself that there was no need for her to make it a consideration in marrying. The young baronet was gifted with every good quality. She might certainly, with her brilliant beauty and grand prospects, have done much better; but she might also have done worse. With a girl of that kind, full of romance and fancies and strange ideas, the first consideration was her happiness.

She was startled from her thoughts by a sudden exclamation from Leah; her face had grown pale as it did always in times of great emotion. "Look, duchess," she cried, "what a beautiful picture!"

The approach to Glen was through a magnificent avenue of beech-trees; they were not to be surpassed for size and beauty in the county. The avenue was wide and well kept, the grass green and smooth, and, when it

The Kidneys

The office man and the outdoor worker suffer alike from derangements of the kidneys.

Backaches and headaches are among the symptoms. In some cases Bright's disease soon develops, others suffer from high blood pressure until hardening of the arteries sets in.

In order to forestall painful and fatal diseases prompt action should be taken at the first sign of trouble.

Mr. A. D. MacKinnon, Kirkwood, Inverness county, N.S., writes:

"I can highly recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to all suffering from weak kidneys. I suffered from kidney disease for a long time. I may also say that for three years I was nearly always troubled with headaches, and no treatment seemed to do more than afford temporary relief. I was finally told of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and after using a few boxes was completely relieved. I have also used Dr. Chase's Ointment with the best results, and never fail to recommend these wonderful remedies."

pleased to see that his face brightened, and that several times it lost the melancholy expression that had seemed like a cloud over it. He was very attentive to her; he lingered by her side, and showed her the chief objects of attraction.

The duchess summed up the whole situation briefly. Leah had loved him at first sight; but, if ever he learned to love her, it would be after months of friendship.

That day spent at Glen was one of the happiest in Leah's life, and the memory of it was to her like a strain of sweet music in which there was no discord.

CHAPTER XX.

As the days passed on, the intimacy between Leah and the baronet increased. The general grew warmly attached to Sir Basil. He said—what was a great thing for him to say—that, if Heaven had blessed him with a son, he should have liked him to resemble Sir Basil. All the visitors—and they were many—admired and liked him; he was a general favorite, and he spent far more of his time at Brentwood than at Glen.

With every day that dawned, with every sun that rose and set, with every bright moon that waxed and waned, Leah's love deepened. The world was as nothing to her; she became absorbed in this one passion—it was her life, her all. There are some to whom this fatal gift of a great love is given. They are the happiest, even as they are the most miserable; they reach the highest bliss that life offers, and they know the most bitter of its pains. No one warned Leah. The duchess looked on interested, as she would have been in any trial of skill or any struggle for mastery. She did not interfere either by word or look. She knew it was useless. She never ceased wondering how it was that Leah, who had refused some of the best offers in England, had given her heart and soul at first sight to this man.

Leah was hardly the same girl in Sir Basil's presence; her face, her voice, her manner changed completely; her love transfigured her. If he touched her dress in passing, she trembled; if he touched her hand in greeting, she grew pale as the petals of a white lily; when she sang to him all the pent-up passion of her soul seemed to go out to him. Such a world of love lay in the dark eyes! It would have been a thousand times better for Leah had she never had such a pretty theory as that of souls meeting, or filled her mind with ideal notions. No misgivings came to her, no doubt, or fear. She never asked herself whether her great love would be returned, she never asked herself how it would end; she lived entirely in the present, each day full of happiness, of interest, of the beauty and glory of the passion that possessed her. She had forgotten that they would soon leave Brentwood, she had forgotten that they were going to Dene Abbey; she had forgotten everything, except that Sir Basil was near her and that she loved him. Every dream, every wish of her life was realized; there was no more to desire. She would have been quite content to lie down in the light of her great love and die. It seemed to her that all her life had been ordered for this. Now she had reached the haven of rest, never thinking that the storms in the haven might be greater than those on the open sea.

"This reminds me of Italy," said Leah—"fountains, flowers and marble statues."

He turned to her eagerly. "You like it, then?" he asked, anxiously. "I think it is beautiful, and I am pleased that you agree with me."

They passed into the entrance-hall, with its deep groined roof, its old-fashioned stained-glass windows and armor, its stained oak flooring and crochets.

With graceful courtesy Sir Basil bade them welcome; and Leah, looking at his face, saw that it was deadly pale.

"Was this the place," she asked, "where the accident—"

"Yes," he replied; "it was here that my poor sister rushed, enveloped in flames; and just here where these white lilies stand, she fell down to die. By my mother's orders they are kept there. Whenever I pass, I seem to see the flying figure again, and hear my sister's cry."

Leah stepped forward and stood by the white lilies.

"Look at me," she said, flushing slightly, "as I stand here; it will fill your mind with fresh thoughts."

"It may well do so," thought the duchess, as she noticed the unconscious grace and beauty of the girl's attitude. Would he ever, as he passed through the hall where his fair young sister had met so sad a fate, forget the girl now standing there with her pleading passionate face, trying to make sweet what had been so bitter to him?

"Thank you," he replied, simply. "You have been kind to me, Miss Hatton, from the first happy moment I saw you; you add to your goodness by giving me a pleasant memory."

Leah's face showed her delight; it was indeed pleasant to her to hear such words of commendation from him. But the duchess said to herself, "Pretty little scene—sentimental enough; but there is no love, Sir Basil, on your side."

Then the other visitors reached the hall. There was a discussion as to the roof and the armor, and as to the date of a fine old window, and then they passed on to the library. Sir Basil made a charming and hospitable host. As the day wore on, Leah was

Household Notes.

Have a stool or chair of just the right height in the kitchen. It will mean great comfort to you.

Stubborn varnish can be removed with a liquid varnish remover and a sharp scraper.

Tartar sauce to accompany individual servings of fish is attractive served in small patty cups.

Paint your garbage pail inside and out with white enamel. It will look much more respectable.

It is a good plan for the young housekeeper to memorize standard receipts for everyday dishes.

Young green onions are delicious boiled in salt water and served on toast with a cream sauce.

Small balls and diced cut from new potatoes are nice cooked until tender and served in potato soup.

When fish is done cover the top with crumbs that have been stirred into melted butter. Brown crumbs.

Lamb chops en casserole, orange salad with French dressing, baked custards and coffee make an excellent lunch.

A cupful of cream whipped and sweetened with ¼ cupful of grated maple sugar makes a delicious cake filling.

Southern Irish Leaders Will Hold Conference.

Lloyd George Talks Plainly at Genoa—Two Stormy Days of Discussion—Prince of Wales Nearing Japan—U.S. May Tax Fish Imports Heavily.

TRYING TO REACH UNITY.

BELFAST, April 11.—Lord Mayor O'Neill of Dublin has issued invitations to prominent leaders of the opposing parties in Southern Ireland to meet for a discussion of the entire political situation with a view to reaching unity. The proposed conference is to be held in the Mansion House, Dublin, on April 13th.

ARE EQUAL TO THE OCCASION.

GENOA, April 10.—After two stormy days it begins to look as if Lloyd George and Premier Mussolini are equal to the squalls stirred by the Russo-French exchanges of blows.

PLAIN TALK BY L. G.

GENOA, April 10.—The keynote of the Conference was sounded by Mr. Lloyd George when he stated the "only conditions on which he can consent to deal with others," he said, supposedly referring specifically to the Russians. "The first is," he said, "When a country enters into contractual obligations with another country or its nationals for value received, that contract cannot be repudiated whenever a country changes its government. The second is that no country can wage war on the situations of another. The third is that one nation shall not engage in aggressive operations against the territory of another. The fourth is that the nationals of one country shall be entitled to impartial justice in the courts of another." Any nation which rejected these intercourses," he declared, could not be expected to be received into the comity of nations.

THE GENOA CONFERENCE.

GENOA, April 11.—Consideration of the Russian question by the International Economic and Financial Conference began this morning with a meeting at 10.30 of the Russian Commission, appointed yesterday by the Conference, chairman, Premier Facta of Italy. The clash between the Russians and French at the opening session yesterday is still the subject of excited comment. Allied Diplomats believe that only the prompt intervention of Premier Lloyd George and the firm attitude of the Chairman averted a break which would have seriously affected the coming deliberations. An announcement by George Chicherin that Russia was prepared to support any proposals that would avert war or lighten the burden of armament, was accepted as a sign of the French military policy by Louis Barthou who, heatedly, declared that France would refuse to discuss disarmament at Genoa.

PRINCE NEARING JAPAN.

TOKYO, April 10.—To-day the Prince of Wales in the Renown, was nearing Yokohama, where he will disembark for an official visit to Japan.

NEW U.S. TARIFF PROPOSALS.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Carrying what are regarded as the highest duties of any tariff bill in recent years and giving the President power to enforce the rates even fifty per cent higher in case these duties are not sufficient, the Tariff Revision

Bill, as overhauled by the Senate Finance Committee, will be reported to the Senate late to-day. A leading feature is high agricultural rates. High fish duties are also carried. The Senate Bill is based, not on American valuation as the House Bill but on the foreign wholesale selling price. How long it will take to pass is uncertain and opinion is divided whether it can be enacted before the congressional elections. The declaration by Chairman Fordney of the Ways and Means Committee that he will fight for American valuation until the snow flies looks like prolonged delay, but it is a close question whether in the showdown Hughes would uphold Fordney. While wood pulp was free in the Fordney Tariff, the new bill levies five per cent. Newspaper is free as is also mechanical wood pulp or "ground wood." Fish levies under the new bill would be fresh, frozen or packed in ice, halibut, salmon, and sword two cents per pound. Other fish one cent per pound. Salmon, pickled, salted, smoked or otherwise prepared, twenty-five cents. All other fish skinned or boned two and a half cents per pound. Herring and mackerel, pickled or salted, one cent per pound. Fish packed in oil and other substances thirty per cent. Other levies include pig iron $1.25 ton, ferro manganese $2.50 ton, copper two and a half cents per pound, marble, breccia and onyx, sixty-five cents cubic foot to one dollar. Granite, sandstone, limestone and other building stone, hewn dressed or polished, fifty per cent. ad valorem. Logs of fir, spruce, cedar or western hemlock one dollar per thousand feet, board measure. Sawed boards, planks and cabinet woods fifteen per cent. Printing paper not specifically provided for, quarter cent a pound and ten per cent. ad valorem. Paper board, wall board and pulpboard ten per cent. ad valorem.

CANADA'S DEFICIT.

OTTAWA, April 10.—The total deficit, including fixed charges on railways last year was $56,673,934, as against $67,505,059 for the previous year. This included the Grand Trunk deficit of $15,672,200, compared with $6,527,243.

A LABOR PROTEST.

BELFAST, April 10.—The National Executive of the Committee of the Irish Labor Party today issued a strong protest against the re-introduction of military methods in Ireland and demanded that armed forces be under control of civilian authority.

PEACE IN ONE DISTRICT AT LEAST.

LONDON, April 10.—Leaders of both sections of the Irish Republican army at Athlone have reached an agreement which assures peace in that District, according to a Central News despatch.

INDIFFERENCE.

The groundhog doesn't seem to care how often his predictions fail; he rests in comfort in his hole, and lets the high go with the tail. On Groundhog Day the people cry, "The critter's shadow doesn't show! We may expect an azure sky, an end to winter and its snow." And so they welcome Gentle Spring before that season is on deck, and while they gambol, dance and sing, a blizzard swats them in the neck. The groundhog, from its lonely cave, beholds the tempest rear and scoot, and listens to the wild winds rave, and doesn't seem to care a hoot. And much I envy him his sense; I cannot shoo bad dreams away; I suffer agonies intense, whenever I've pulled a bonehead play. I'm tortured through the weary night by recollections of a time when I departed from the right and sprung a carnival of crime. I trade horses now and then when in the glowing flush of youth, and roundly soaked a lot of men who trusted that I told the truth. I've done a lot of graceless things, and not one sin can I forget; and in my consciousness there rings a voice that says, "You'll pay up yet!" For me there is no soothing balm, no comfort for my jaded soul; so I admire the groundhog's calm, as he sits gazing from his hole.

But can Mr. Chamberlain guarantee this support? Can he "deliver the goods"? In other words, can the leader lead? That, we take it, is exactly what the Prime Minister wants to have settled. He knows well enough that the professions of the Conservative leaders are sincere, and that they have never been wanting in loyalty to the Coalition idea and to himself. But he cannot be blamed for desiring assurance as to the exact extent to which their authority over their following operates.

Schooner Mahaska Cup Contender.

LUNenburg, N. S.—Although the builders do not predict a "burst of speed" for her, the schooner Mahaska, which will be launched from the yards of Smith and Rhuland here, is expected to be a contender with the International champion Bluenose in the next fall Nova Scotia races. Smaller than the Bluenose and consequently with less sail area, the new craft is acknowledged to have graceful lines. Some describe her as having a bow like the present champion and a stern not unlike that of the Boston Mayflower. The Mahaska measures 133 feet overall with a waterline of 108 feet and a 25.8 foot beam. Her sail spread is estimated at 2,235 yards with a mainmast of 90 feet, foremast 78 ft., mainmast 48 feet, and foremast 43 feet.

The Mahaska occupies the same stocks as the Bluenose did when being built. She will be sailed to the Banks by Captain "Paddy" Mack, who enjoyed a reputation as a fisherman in the Lunenburg fleet before he took to freighting a few years ago.

Mahaska is an Indian name and there is an old legend which declares that the letter 'A' occurring three times is a lucky omen. Belief in the omen is evidenced by the names of several vessels, Delawana, for instance.

The Root Facts.

Of all the quaint comments on the political situation we have seen none quainter than that of a writer in the newspaper specially known as the organ of the Conservative "Die-hards," who protests against "the attempted interference of Mr. Lloyd George in the affairs of the Conservative Party."

What are the facts? A certain section of the Conservative Party declares continuously against Mr. Lloyd George's leadership and against its own leaders for acquiescing in "hat leadership." It opposes, it criticises, it agitates, it cabals; finally it uses as its mouthpiece the official head of the party organization. The Prime Minister for a time ignores these facts in public, whatever action he may take in private. He conceives, quite justly, that, whatever changes there may be, of ultimate adjustment of these troubles, it may be lessened by public discussion. But this delicacy merely encourages the mal-content, and at last they reach a point, both in their hostility to the Prime Minister and in their criticism of their own leaders, when the Prime Minister feels bound to intervene decisively.

Mr. Lloyd George let it be known, with emphasis but without animus, that if he is to go on he must be assured of the loyalty of his following and of the cessation of intrigues against his authority as Leader of the Coalition. He can convey this intimation only to the leaders of the Conservative Party, leaving them to take what steps they may think proper. This course he has taken, and that is the extent of "his attempted interference" in the affairs of the party. It is a perfectly proper course, and, indeed, the only one consistent with due regard for the efficiency of government and the personal dignity of the Prime Minister.

If there were vital disagreement between Mr. Lloyd George and the Conservative leaders, his course would be clear. As the leader of a minority it would be his duty to resign office in favor of Mr. Chamberlain, whose followers form a majority of the House of Commons. But Mr. Chamberlain, like the other Conservative leaders, says to-day he has no disagreement whatever with Mr. Lloyd George in regard to policy. Mr. Chamberlain is all for carrying on and all for according to the Prime Minister full support.

Footprints of the assassin were traced on the flower beds and the garden to a road where apparently a motor car was waiting for him. Brunen had frequently expressed the conviction that he was destined to be murdered. Some months ago three men called at his home, and learning that he was absent, gagged Mrs. Brunen and carried away jewels worth

£1,000. They told Mrs. Brunen, that the next time they would get her husband. Since then the murdered man had received repeatedly through the post mysterious messages, which came from many cities, but which were always couched in the same words. "We haven't got what we want yet."—Daily Mail.

Film Crime Riddle.

DEAD MAN'S FRIEND SHOT.

"Honest John" Brunen, a circus owner and a friend of Mr. Desmond Taylor, the film director who was murdered in mysterious circumstances at Los Angeles some weeks ago, was also murdered mysteriously in his own home at Riverside, New Jersey, recently.

Like Taylor, Brunen was found in his dining-room, dead. An unknown man, using a shot-gun, fired through the window at the circus owner as he was reading a newspaper, shattering the back of his head, and killing him instantly.

Mrs. Brunen, who was upstairs when she heard the sound of the gun, came downstairs, to discover her husband, whom she had left a few minutes earlier, murdered.

Easter will soon be with us. The last couple of days being such exceptionally fine ones, we are prepared to believe that Spring is opening, and that the garb of winter will soon be entirely removed.

We are looking forward with an expectancy of seeing something good when the three act comedy "Oh Susannah," which is now being rehearsed, is put before the public. The cast of this play comprises the very best talent that can be produced here; the stage and fittings are in the hands of our capable local artist, Mr. James Power, familiarly known as "Jimmy," and the affair is under the guidance of Mrs. W. T. Bellamy—one who has the success of the play at heart for the proceeds are in aid of the National War Memorial. Every effort is being made to put on an excellent performance, so as to please the people of St. John's, but more especially to raise no meagre sum to hand over to the worthy cause.

Here is a medium through which we may all contribute to Nid's Memorial to her gallant sons. Through this Memorial will be placed in St. John's, we are ever mindful that it also represents and honors the boys from our own town (as well as those from all other places in our Island home) who played their part in the struggle for Right and Justice. Therefore, let us push the thing along, in order that the contribution may be a large one, and therefore show, even in this manner, that St. John's is doing her bit to keep ever great the Memory of those who won for themselves the name of being "Better than the Best"—COR.

Scotland fade away from sight.

When two days at sea they saw two warships with all sails spread in the pursuit of them, and rapidly overhauling their smaller craft. But good fortune smiled upon them for once. A dense fog fell on the sea, and when it lifted the warships were not to be seen. Thus at last Prince and Chieftain had the soil of France under their feet, and their days of peril were over.

When Knights Were Bold.

Mr. James Welsh—popularly known as "Jimmy," who was born in 1865 and died on Wednesday, April 12, 1917, first appeared on the stage with William Barrett and remained with him for two years. He was one of the first English actors to appear in a Bernard Shaw play, for he took the part of Lickchese in "Widower's Houses" at the Royal Lyceum, London, in December, 1892. Mr. Welsh played a large number of other parts in all kinds of plays until he made himself a permanent favorite by producing at Nottingham in May 1906, that screaming farce "When Knights were Bold." He played Sir Guy de Vere and brought the piece to the Criterion, London, where it ran from January 1907 to July 1908. Then he took it on tour and played it for nearly three years with hardly a break. He was selected in 1904 to fill Dan Leno's place in Drury Lane pantomime and appeared as Prince Patter in the next piece. Like many other men, Mr. Welsh was not successful in everything he undertook. It is related that when playing golf in Scotland he had a tactful old Scotchman as caddy, who followed him round for some time in silence, watching his play; then he broke in with "are you doing pretty well with the acting, Mr. Welsh?" "Yes," said Mr. Welsh. "I think so." "Well," was the further remark, "I think 'e'd better stick to it instead o' taking up golf."

Rumor Picks Princess Mary's Bridesmaid

AS FAVORITE WITH PRINCE OF WALES.

Will Rachel Cavendish be next Queen of England? Persons close to the royal house say that when the Prince of Wales returns from his trip to India their engagement will be announced.

Lady Rachel Cavendish, one of the prettiest girls of English nobility, was one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of Princess Mary. The two are intimate friends.

Lady Rachel is 19 and she and the heir to the throne have been in each other's company a great deal. Her father used to be Governor-General of the Dominion of Canada, and when the Prince reached Canada on his way to the United States he enjoyed an informal holiday with Lady Rachel and her four sisters. Later he returned to Ottawa for another visit.

It was then that the royal romance started, a romance that may be a far-reaching effect upon the world. The choosing of a wife is not a personal task or pleasure for a prince. The House of Lords is interested and discusses the match solemnly. The premier may be satisfied. The people wish their King to have a fine wife.

The Prince of Wales will be less susceptible to steering than most princes; he has a will and a way of his own. Those who know him say he brings back memories of his grandfather, King Edward VII. The prince owns a ranch in Canada, and it is possible he may spend his honeymoon there, far from formality and court etiquette. Thus it stands, awaiting the return of the prince, who, by the way, is known officially as:

Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David, Prince of Wales, Heir Apparent, Earl of Chester, Duke of Cornwall, Duke of Rothesay, Earl of Carrick, Baron of Renfrew, Lord of the Isles, Grand Steward of Scotland, Duke of Saxony and Prince of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, etc.—Herald.

"After my experience with Tanlac I want to join with those who are praising it to the skies," said Mrs. E. Clayton, Walsh's Square, St. John's, Nfld. "Nobody knows how I suffered for the last four years with indigestion and dyspepsia. The agony at times was almost more than I could bear and I got to where I even dreaded for meal time to come round. "I lost weight and strength right along and became so nervous that there were times when I was afraid to be left alone even for a few minutes. "My health is perfect now, however, and I haven't a vestige of my old trouble. Tanlac to my mind, is the best and grandest medicine in the world."

A Stuart Champion.

The house of Stuart never had champions more ready to sacrifice fortune, and even life itself, in its cause, than the Camerons of Lochiel. One of its Chieftains carried his loyalty to the extent of turning his back on Scotland to share his master's exile. But he left behind him a champion in his son Donald. Even the disaster of Dunkirk, and the low ebb of the Stuart cause, never quenched his zeal. When Charles landed in Scotland on April 12, 1745, with but a handful of followers, to fight a hopeless cause, Donald was ready with his aid, and a few days later the Lochiel was riding proudly at the head of seven hundred of his clansmen, to join his Prince in the Valley of Glenhannan, with one of his kinswomen, Jenny Cameron, by his side, arrayed in all the immortal splendours of a "sea green riding habit laced with gold." Soon the Jacobite army was following, and thus began the ill-fated march which was to end in the crushing defeat at Culloden, which shattered for ever, the Stuart hopes, and sent Charles Edward in his five month's hiding, with £20,000 on his head. Thenceforward there was no rest for Charles and Donald. The latter was severely wounded several times, but persistently accompanied his Royal Master in his hideous in caves and woods. From one point to another they went, ever with the bloodhounds on their track, and it was not until September that they heard that two French vessels had put in at Loch Narburgh. Here was a chance to escape, and tramping through the night, they at last reached the coast. Other Jacobites joined them on the way, and, safe on board they watched

An Approach to Real Happiness. And as I journeyed home that day I fell to wondering if there is anywhere a nearer approach to real happiness than on a street like that where hard work gives people the discipline they need to keep them from getting soft, where babies give them a reason for living, where there is money enough to pay the bills, to save and to have some of the simpler pleasures such as the flivver is the symbol of. I wonder if the people who live on such streets know how happy they are. Most of us don't, alas. To quote from a contemporary of mine whose work I greatly admire: "When I get rich the children dream. With eyes on some far day And when they're old, with eyes turned back: "When I was rich they say."

Booming Nova Scotia's Fisheries.

LARGER FLEET THAN EVER. Halifax, N. S. April.—(By Canadian Press.)—Nova Scotia will have a larger number of deep sea fishing vessels engaged in the spring fishing this year than in any spring since the war, and leaders in the fishing industry anticipate a season a great activity. The fishing business was one of the first to go to pieces, when the cycle of business depression set in, but it is now well on the road to recovery, and the activity everywhere manifest in this industry is giving an impetus to all kinds of business throughout the province. Scores of schooners have already sailed for the fishing banks and others are being fitted out at as fast as possible. The well known racer Blue-nose was one of the first to sail. To the spring fishing Lunenburg, which for some years past has had numbers of grand bankers lying idle, will send out practically every vessel of its big fleet, which is not away on a trading voyage. And whether or not the spring trip is a success, the indications are that every vessel suitable for the fishing will be pressed into service for the summer trip to the Grand Banks. Much ice has been reported on some of the fishing banks this spring, but in spite of that the fishing skippers have been eager to make an early start.

FLIVVERS AND BABIES.

Your article about flivvers amused us because of the last two months, we have been the happy possessors of one, are loving it, almost, and have in this short time more fun than ever had with anything, except baby.

The last time I went up that street on my last visit home I saw four flivvers standing out in front of various houses. My host who came to meet me commented on the fact. "And there's two more that don't happen to be out in front to-day," he said, "and some of the rest of us have hopes of a flivver in a year or two. Not much class to this street, you see." And then his wife who had followed him out to greet me added, "Flivvers and babies. They seem to go together somehow."

Whereupon her husband flung an arm over her shoulder and finished "Flivvers and babies and hard work and a lot of happiness in spite of it all."

Do You Know the Neighborhood? The neighborhood I mean is a typical street in the New England town I was brought up. It wouldn't be Main Street, but Oak or Elm or one of the shorter streets that run off Main Street and take their name from the fact that they once had a preponderance of the tree name. Most of the houses are single ones, a few small new ones and a larger, shabbier older ones. Two of the three two-family houses on the street are old-fashioned houses ever. And as it happens, most the occupants of these houses are

FISH PRICES INCREASING

According to prominent fish merchants here the fish markets are in a position to absorb a big catch this year. Very few dealers have stocks of any importance on their hands, and for the past few months prices have been increasing, though usually at this season of the year the tendency of prices is to decline. There does not appear to be any noticeable increase in the consumption of fish, as might be expected during the period of general business depression, though fish, was the first food stuff to drop to the low price level. The present favorable market conditions are attributed to the fact that last year the production was comparatively small, and available stocks are now smaller than at any time for years. A big catch this year will be necessary to meet the current market demands and provide the normal carry over the stocks. With the revival of the fish industry, the shipyards where wooden vessels are constructed are also showing signs of activity.

Millions Squandered

The wonder is at the moment amongst the public, as to whether the Government has or has not any sense of decency in expenditure of public monies, or whether they are eternally lost as to the fitness of things financial. The records show, and these records are made from figures supplied by the recent and past budget speeches of 1920 and 1921, therefore they must necessarily be convincing and beyond refutation. The Government of which Sir R. A. Squires is Prime Minister, took office in November 1919. They have, therefore, been in power but little over thirty months. During that brief period they have collected from the public pocket by means of general revenue the enormous sum of TWENTY-THREE MILLION, SIX HUNDRED AND THIRTY-EIGHT THOUSAND, TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTY-ONE DOLLARS. In addition to this total of revenue, they had a Surplus Trust Fund, left by the Government of Sir Michael Cashin, in actual figures and real cash of THREE MILLION, FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS. This was further supplemented by a loan of SIX MILLION DOLLARS last year, and by the recent raising of another SIX MILLION DOLLARS in the New York market. Thus the sum of money raised out of revenue, by loan, and taken from the original Surplus Trust Fund, in the two and a half years of the administration of Premier Squires reaches the colossal figure of THIRTY-NINE MILLION, ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-EIGHT THOUSAND, TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTY-ONE DOLLARS, from November, 1919 to June, 1922. And where has this stupendous sum, raised by one quarter of a million of people gone?

For approximately thirty-one months the Squires-Coaker Government have been spending lavishly at the rate of ONE MILLION, TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTY-ONE THOUSAND, TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTY-SIX DOLLARS per month, or an average yearly expenditure of FIFTEEN MILLION, ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-FIVE THOUSAND, ONE HUNDRED AND NINETY-TWO DOLLARS, and this out of a revenue which in no year since their taking office has topped nine million dollars. And they are still continuing to spend at the rate of fifteen million dollars per annum, while the total of Newfoundland exports with a returnable value to the country are not estimated to exceed sixteen millions. What kind of financial juggling have we in the figures as submitted in the Budget speech by details, and what kind of financial conjurers and sleight of hand performers are the men who control the destinies of this almost hopelessly defunct colony, a condition wrought more by the reckless squandering of the present Government and their trade restrictions, coupled with an altogether outrageous tariff, than by any aftermath of war or depression of commercial activities. Without consideration for the present or future the Government have been plunging recklessly. To an already overburdened population they have added more weight to the load, so much so that a cry of protest has arisen, an order to halt has been heard. The people can no longer stand the strain. Their whole earnings are eaten up with taxes and the insatiable monster of revenue demands more. This cannot go on. If the rulers in their financial madness persist in pursuing the course mapped out by the budget, there will no longer be any hope for the people of the colony. Only as taxpayers will they be permitted to continue their avocations, and in the end when worn out with toil, for which no returns are received—such of them as remain to become mere hewers of wood and drawers of water will be given the doubtful honor and callous sympathy of a paupers funeral. But signs are not wanting to show that the people are at length awakening. Slow to arouse, but swift in decision when once they have made up their minds, they will descend like an avalanche upon their tyrannical leaders and in their wrath sweep them out of political existence, and forever put a period to their misgovernment and misuse.

Trinity Endorses Board of Trade Action.

Special to Evening Telegram. TRINITY, To-day. At a meeting of citizens held in the Court House last evening to consider resolutions passed at the Board of Trade meeting, St. John's on April 4th, it was unanimously decided to strongly endorse same and urge that a copy of the said Board of Trade resolutions be sent to the Governor personally. The St. John's mail of the 4th inst., was only received yesterday, hence the delay in taking action sooner. E. G. Grant, S. Hussey, W. S. Lockyer, E. J. Ryan, Arch Christian, John Green, F. J. Fined Himself.

SAILOR AMUSES COURT. Twelve drunks appeared before the magistrate this morning and were quickly disposed of. As each came up the Judge said, "You are charged with being drunk; what have you to say?" "Nothing, your Honor," was the general reply, and with "One Dollar" was passed on. The last to appear before the bar was a petty officer from H.M.S. Cambrian who was evidently suffering from a severe attack of nerves. In reply to the Judge's question, "What have you to say?" he retorted, "One dollar, your Honor." It was several minutes before the Court recovered from its amusement. Then the Judge said, "as you have fined yourself you can go."

Desperate Conditions.

Writing from Burgeo and Lapolle district a correspondent says that in many sections conditions are desperate and a feeling of apathy has developed among the people, who can see no way out of their present state of depression. Credit has been absolutely cut off by merchants, and living is more difficult than at any period in local history. The writer concludes by denouncing the squanderings of the Government, excessive taxation and winds up by declaring that fishermen certainly cannot exist under the circumstances in which they find themselves.

An Open Letter on Railway Matters.

To R. C. Morgan, Esq., C.E., of Winnipeg, in the Dominion of Canada, and of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, City.

Dear Sir.—The report on railway conditions in this country which has appeared over your signature in the public press, in my humble opinion, demands more attention from the public than has been evinced to date, for the future of this country, in no small degree, depends upon how those in authority regard its contents. It is this conviction that prompts me to deal with your report in this open letter. I trust I shall prove myself nothing more or less than a close observer and respectful critic. A great scholar has said, that one of the commonest sources of bad criticism is the emphasis on weak points. I shall avoid that. Now you will doubtless wonder who I am. You certainly have the right to make enquiry on that point, and you shall be fully enlightened forthwith. I am, as my signature indicates, of the law; brought up from my youth to regard the close relationship between law and justice, truth, righteousness, and the public weal. I was taught by Blackstone that "the law is a science which distinguishes the criterions of right and wrong, which teaches to establish the one and prevent and punish, or redress, the other; which employs in its theory the noblest faculties of the soul, and exerts in its practices the cardinal virtues of the heart, a science which is universal in its use and extent, accommodated to each individual, yet comprehending the whole community." I learn from the great Edmund Burke that "the law is a science which is the pride of the human intellect, a science which, with all its defects, redundancies, and errors, is the collected reason of ages, combining the principles of eternal justice with the infinite variety of human concerns." And, in my wanderings through the labyrinths of legal lore I caught the echo of Lord Chancellor Lyndhurst's great declaration, that "time cannot prevent the interference of the Court, or form a bar to the suit in which a charge of fraud is set out. No time will secure the guilty in the enjoyment of their plunder, but that their children's children will be compelled by this Court to restore it to those from whom it had been fraudulently abstracted." The object of this recital will become apparent to you as I proceed. It is possible that the foregoing will not commend me to your kind attention, as I will add thereto that I am, and have been for years, a student of Politics; but let it be understood, politics in the target meaning of the word. I have been guided in this connection by the wise counsel of the immortal Shakespeare, who said, "watch thou, and wake when others be asleep, to search into the secrets of the State," and also, by the warning of the great Daniel O'Connell that "nothing is politically right which is morally wrong." I have watched, observed, and noted events, and deem myself not altogether incompetent to review the political history of this country. The Railway policy with which you have dealt, in part, in your report recently published, is part, and a very important part too, of the political history of our land during the past quarter of a century. With the whole of that period I am familiar. But again, this addendum may not win me your attention. You may consider it not the business of a private citizen to meddle with Government affairs, and be disposed to throw this communication into your waste-paper-basket. Let me bring then to your remembrance what Cato Censorius, the great Roman statesman and patriot said, and court such a calamity, Cato declared, "Some have said that it is not the business of private men to meddle with government affairs—a bold and dishonest saying, which is fit to come from no mouth but that of a tyrant or a slave. To say that private men have nothing to do with Government is to say that private men have nothing to do with their own happiness or misery; that people ought not to concern themselves whether they be naked or clothed, fed or starved, deceived or instructed, protected or destroyed."

You have doubtless observed during your sojourn in this city that there is a tendency on the part of most of our people to float with the stream, unconscious or indifferent as to where the stream may issue. It has long been so, and the deplorable fact is that to-day they are rapidly nearing the edge of the head of Niagara. I am not disposed to float with them, and shall strike out for safety. You are now aware who I am, and my exact position. May I venture to inquire as to your exact position? For it is a matter of much moment when dealing with your report. If you are the employee, the advisor, of the Reid Nfld. Co., Ltd., your report is intelligible to me, but, if on the other hand you are the employee of the Government of Newfoundland it is, in all candour, entirely incomprehensible to me. The confusion existing as to your locus standi must not be attributed to you; it has arisen from a public notice that you were invited by the Government of this colony to assume the position of "Advisor to the Government on Railway matters, at a salary of fifteen thousand dollars per annum," and a subsequent public notice, that you are temporarily loaned, as it were, to this Government, by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, for a short while, to assist them in their endeavour to emerge from the desperate predicament in which they now find themselves as a consequence of their plunge into the Railway vortex. When I read those announcements they appeared to me incredible, because we have, and have had for years, a Railway Advisor in the person of Mr. T. A. Hall, B.A., B.E., M. Inst. C.E., C.B.E., to whom we pay the not insignificant salary of four thousand six hundred dollars, and perquisites, per annum. That gentleman is either a capable or incapable official. If capable to advise the Government on all railway matters then the engagement of your services as advisor would be an unwarranted and unjustifiable expenditure of the public funds, and a gratuitous insult to Mr. T. A. Hall, who time and opportunity has brought into close touch with our railway system and its difficulties, and who, therefore, of all men should be most capable to advise the Government at this crisis in railway affairs. I repeat, it seems to me incredible that you were invited to this country to act in the capacity of advisor to the Government on railway matters for the foregoing all sufficient reason. But, further, I observe that your report is addressed to Mr. H. D. Reid, President of the Reid Nfld. Co., Ltd. If you were acting in the capacity of advisor to the Government of this colony on railway matters, your report, one must assume, would have been made to His Excellency the Governor, and not to Mr. H. D. Reid whose firm's liabilities, as contractors to the Government, should form the basis of your recommendations. No; it would be absurd for me to imagine that you are acting as advisor to the Government, and that your report to Mr. H. D. Reid will be a charge against the public funds, and be paid for out of the public Exchequer. Again, it is clearly a report in the interest of the Reid Nfld. Co., Ltd.; it is a plea for pity, for the exercise of forgiveness, for abolition from crimes of omission and commission, and the bestowal of a blessing upon the contractors in the form of increased subsidies, and a guaranteed monopoly of the coastal carrying trade of the whole island. The report is a "chef d'oeuvre" of a kind. It might have been written by a lawyer of the Brahman type, who considers that to save his client at all hazards and costs to others, is the highest and most unquestioned of his duties. It is advocacy "in excelsis," not the studied utterance of an advisor to the Government.

HIS DIARY. April 11th.—Up betimes and to the office. Anon to the railway offices, being the first time of my doing so for many se-enights. The House still on the business of the Budget Speech and takes recess for Easter. I play at billiards with Secretary Carey but did show exceeding poor form. At night to walk with my wife, and it being cold, she did complain to me of her need of furs, and the summer coming on she says she will not be able to go out of doors without them. And a strange thing, the diverse nature of a woman, being that in the winter she will wear but little, but in the hot weather, requires furs.

A Plucky Driver

ACCIDENT BY COOLNESS.
Yesterday afternoon a horse owned by E. J. Spurrell took fright owing to a broken bit and dashed from near the Hotel up Duckworth Street. The driver of the animal, Mr. J. Gillis, pluckily tried to stop his steed by jumping out from the wagon onto its side. Although he could not bring the horse to a standstill, yet by using force he managed to steer it clear of the pedestrians who saw the young man on the horse's back thought he had been killed, but he pluckily held on and undoubtedly prevented a lot of damage.

Poultry Raffle.

RAFFLE OF CHARITABLE ORGANIZATION.
Thursday afternoon and on Saturday evening and night a poultry raffle will be held in the G.W.V.A. Store, 100 Water Street. A fine chance is offered to win a turkey, goose or chicken for the week. The proceeds will go to the fund of the St. Vincent de Paul Society. To those who are desirous of participating in this raffle, a table, an opportunity is here of doing a dual amount of good.

Comedy Phases "The Blue Bonnet."

Through tense, dramatic scenes in "The Blue Bonnet," Billie's new production, the star has had an opportunity to sustain her reputation as America's unrivaled ingenue comedienne, her role as a girl who becomes a Salvation Army worker giving her remarkable even wider scope than did any of her previous feature successes, "The Love Call" and "The Lamb of God." "The Blue Bonnet," a W. W. Hodson production, which is at the Grand Theatre, beginning to-day is a full drama with comedy phases. The scenes are laid in the United States. The Salvation Army's part does not make it a war picture in any respect, for the drama is the native of home phases of remarkable organization, which won its place in the permanent memory of the American people.

Mosquito Sealing Fleet.

MANAGED BY LANDSMEN.
A number of motor boats which left from the battery yesterday morning returned last evening with catches. Men from Petty Harbour also out and did well. Some hundreds of seals have been taken by landmen from Cape St. Francis Petty Harbour during the past few weeks.

Obituary.

MRS. WALTER DAVIS.
The death took place in Glace Bay on Monday evening March 31, of Mrs. Walter Davis, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wood, New Aberdeen. She had been ill a few days. On Tuesday she had a severe pain in her head and that time on did not recognize her. She gradually failed, becoming unconscious, until the end came. A daughter, Mrs. Warren Johnstone of North Sydney, died suddenly not long ago. Mrs. Davis is a native of St. George's and has only been married about two years.

Prospero Arrives.

TRIP OF OVER THREE MONTHS.
S. Prospero, Capt. Field, arrived from Green Island, Exploits, last night being three months and eight days on the northern Coastal Sea. The Prospero has been frozen for some time and since getting clear weeks ago endeavouring to make the ship was thoroughly renovated by the crew while detained, and is now ready to take up the regular route.

Trophy Night at Curling Rink.

The Curlers' Annual distribution of trophies won during the past season was held at the Curling Rink last night before a large gathering of members. President W. H. Duder occupied the chair, and submitted his report of the season's work, the results being the greatest in the history of the Association. The Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Salter, also read his report, which was most satisfactory. Mr. W. J. Higgins, K. C. M. H. A., was then called upon to present the trophies, medals and cups, and other prizes to the successful Curlers, the presentation of a check for $3754.20 to Rev. Padre Nangle, being the net proceeds of the Curlers' Memorial Day. The presentation was made by President Duder, who spoke as follows:—

PADRE NANGLE.
On this our general meeting and trophy night it is with the greatest pleasure that it falls to my lot to have the privilege of presenting you with the Curlers' Memorial Day Check for $3754.20, and also an additional check from Mr. Salter of Boston, the Secretary's brother, whose verses appeared on our admission tickets for that day. He wishes to have this check included with the Curlers' amount, Total $3754.20.

You started Sir, to raise $15000.00 the balance required to erect a Memorial to our gallant heroes who sleep in Flanders' Fields, Gallipoli and elsewhere. We, the St. John's Curlers here tonight assembled, are proud of the fact that you see that amount in sight and perhaps more. We are glad to have you with us to-night. We are also glad to have you representing the boys who have fallen. We are also proud to have you with some of the living who are here to-night, those I may say who have gone through war and the horrors of war. I doubt very much if one or the other does not bear a scar of some kind. They, perhaps, would be just as happy if they were sleeping with their old pals whom they have lost. What better memento can they have than this memorial to those who have gone before them. We realize that you had knockers at the start. Whatever you take in hand you always find that the knockers are busy. I think I speak for the majority here to-night when I say that the Curlers anyway—thank God—were glad when you made up your mind that you would knock at our door to start your drive. Our Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. Salter, took up the work with you with his usual energy and all I have to say is that this check is the result.

We have not been short, everyone did their best and speaking on behalf of the Committee of Management and the whole Association, I wish it were twice as much, however, it is with the greatest of pleasure that I hand you the check from the Curlers' Memorial Day for $3754.20 and we trust that the Memorial will be erected in a prominent position in St. John's so that it can be seen by everyone visiting the Dominion.

Mr. Col. Nangle thanked the Association for their splendid work on behalf of the War Memorial Fund, and assured them that their efforts had been greatly appreciated. The Padre then presented Secretary Salter with a handsome and serviceable walking stick as an appreciation of his services in connection with the Memorial Day. The Padre also presented the Beaumont Hamel First Line Trench Notice Board to the Association, making a very fitting address in doing so. During the evening a programme of vocal and instrumental numbers was gone through, the quartette of the St. John's Octette taking part as well as Messrs. A. Williams, A. Lawrence, and Karl Trappnell. The C. L. B. Band was also present and the Trophy night was one of the biggest in the history of the Curlers' Association. Among the guests was Mr. Ken Goodyear of Grand Falls, who made the speech of the evening, making a very big impression on all present.

The Printer's Own Imp.

Anyone who has seen a printer's apprentice, a grimy, dishevelled, and splattered with ink, might well think that the term "printer's devil" arose from the fact that these youngsters appear as if they had just emerged from the bottomless pit. But there was once a real printer's "devil".

Aldus Manutius, the celebrated Venetian printer, who lived during the latter part of the fifteenth and the early part of the sixteenth century, had a small black slave whom the superstitious believed to be an evil genius. To stop the rumor and satisfy the curious, the printer publicly announced in church: "I, Aldus Manutius, Printer of the Holy Church, have this day made public exposure of the printer's devil. All who think he is not flesh and blood are invited to step up and pinch him."

The term "printer's devil" caught the popular fancy of the Venetians, and from Venice spread over a great part of the world.

AT THE BALM.

The following are guests at the Balsam Place—Mrs. E. C. Nickerson, Miss G. I. Lloyd, Mr. Buffett, Mr. K. Goodyear, Grand Falls; Mrs. J. Powell, Carbonear.

Minard's Lintment for Burns, Etc.

A Joke Misunderstood.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—In the Assembly yesterday, (according to a report in the News today.) Mr. J. R. Bennett and Sir R. A. Squires, in the course of a debate on the estimates, made a censorious reference to a remark made by me at the Orange Banquet, on the 29th of last month. On that occasion, Mr. Bennett had advocated harmonious action between the Opposition and the Government, on public matters, and referring to this, later on, I remarked, in a jocose manner, that "unfortunately, Mr. Bennett is not the leader of the Opposition, however "much he may desire to be." I had been joking at my own expense and said this in the same vein, and it was received in that sense by the audience, apparently, for it created a round of laughter. But, Sir, if it had been said in deadly earnest, in what would it have been insulting. Would not a desire to be leader of his party be creditable to any man? Would Mr. Bennett be unworthy for entertaining such an ambition? I fear that too much modesty has caused him to take to himself an unintended affront. I was merely "pulling his leg," a reasonable sport on such an occasion. I am sorry I hurt his feelings, Sir R. A. Squires, interrupting Mr. Bennett, said, in the Assembly, that "he and those who were hosts resent the remark of Mr. Morine as much and perhaps more than Mr. Bennett. It was not in "keeping with what was expected of a guest". It was not Sir Richard, but the Orange Association whose guest I was, and I am absolutely confident that it gave him no authority to censure me. Sir Richard himself made many remarks I should like to criticize, but I regarded the festivity as a private matter, and myself as not at liberty to make public comment.

If I had spoken in bad taste at the Banquet, what can be said of the conduct of Mr. Bennett and Sir Richard Squires in assailing me in the Assembly, in my absence, for words I had uttered many days before, in another place. Neither has ever shown any readiness to cross words with me in fair field and open debate. Neither will venture to repeat in my presence what they said behind my back. I would remind them that Orange is not that shade of "Yellow," and that the brethren admire courageous fighters only. They seem to have staged their attack upon me with deliberation, but not with much art. If this is their initial evidence of harmonious action, I doubt if they profit much by the new tactics. They chose a "safe" place if not a "seemly" one for their attack. Surely the floor of the Assembly is not a proper place for personal assaults upon absent citizens. Their efforts would be more decently exerted if devoted to public matters.

Yours truly, ALFRED B. MORINE, April 12th 1922.

Up to Mr. Bennett.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir—I was astonished to find in the reports of the proceedings of the House of Assembly in the "Daily News" this morning, a speech by Mr. J. R. Bennett accusing me of having gone to Mr. Mews, the Chairman of the Food Board, and having advised him that there would be a world shortage of sugar, and that unless something was done, Newfoundland would be caught without any; that I advised the Government to go into the sugar business and purchase all they could lay hands on; that Mr. Mews took my advice and that the country lost $175,000 thereby.

I beg now to state that the above is absolutely contrary to the facts. I did not advise Mr. Mews to buy sugar for the government. I strongly objected to any such action on the part of the Food Board. When Mr. Mews and Mr. McKay told me, at an interview, that they had decided to take over any sugar which Harvey and Co. had bought, I formally objected both on private and public grounds. I have not seen either Mr. Mews or Mr. McKay, but feel quite sure they will corroborate the above statement.

I would therefore ask Mr. Bennett to apologize in the House of Assembly at his next meeting for the erroneous statements which he has made, or if he persists in them, that he will waive any question of privilege if I take action in the Courts to defend myself against this libellous accusation.

Yours truly, W. G. GOSLING, April 12th, 1922.

Preliminary Meeting To-Night.

Petition Being Largely Signed. The petition demanding retrenchment in Government expenditure and reduction of taxation, which is being circulated in the city, is being largely signed. During yesterday afternoon and this morning one man who is interesting himself in this matter had secured over 500 signatures. It is probable that a public meeting will be held on Tuesday night, when reduced taxation and other public matters will be discussed. A meeting of delegates from various bodies is being held to-night, when a line of action will be decided upon.

MINARD'S LINTMENT USED BY PHYSICIANS.

"The Veteran."

CAMBRAI NUMBER.

In his editorial in the April number of the "Veteran," Mr. J. G. Higgins, B.A., makes an appeal for co-operation to all ex-service men. He states that if the membership of the G.W.V.A. is not speedily augmented, the Association will cease to exist. He also appeals for more support for the "Veteran" whose existence is also threatened. The current number of that excellent magazine, is, as usual, filled with an accumulation of well selected matter, illustrated where possible. Many of the articles are of great interest and the poem by Capt. Jack Turner is an excellent example of his inspired muse. The present number is in honor of the regiments doing at Cambrai, and contains a splendid article on that memorable action from the fluent pen of Major R.H. Tait.

Sugar.

SWEET AND COSTLY. A barrel of sugar costs ten dollars in New York and the Newfoundland Government charges twenty dollars a barrel duty. This is an outrage, citizens of St. John's and do you know that when you buy 14 lbs. you are being taxed 84 cents by the Government or about $50.00 per year? Are you going to stand for this? Now is the proper time to get this wholesale robbery stopped. Just think of it; every time you buy a pound of sugar you pay six cents to the Government and six cents means a tax of 200%, and if this is allowed to continue most of you will be in the Poor House unless you become members of the Govt. at $4000.00 or more per year. Get the price of Sugar down first; don't allow the Govt. to keep on charging you $50.00 a year to make up the Food Control Board's losses. $20.00 a barrel on Sugar is over seven hundred thousand dollars a year and every man in the House gets over a thousand dollars to serve you. Are they serving you right? Never mind whether you are a Squires Man or a Cashin Man, don't let the Government go on robbing you to the tune of seven hundred thousand dollars a year.

Fatal Accident.

AT NEWBRIDGE, SALMONIER. The Department of Justice received a message from the Magistrate at St. Mary's this morning as follows: "Arthur Power, aged 25 years, son of David Power, of Newbridge, Salmonier, was accidentally killed yesterday during the rigging of a schooner. Whilst hoisting a spar, the stick fell and struck the unfortunate man on the head, who died instantly in his father's arms."

The Escudo's Value.

Faria Pimenta & Coimbra, Ltd., Portugal, in their report to the Board of Trade, dated March 16th, say that owing to the uncertain state of exchange buyers are restricting their purchases as much as possible and whilst the figure of exchange remains around four, the situation will be unfavorable to purchasers. The escudo, nominally worth 40 pence, is now quoted at 4 3-4d.

Wants Bonds Guaranteed.

OLD GAME BEING PLAYED. It is rumored that those interested are endeavouring to get the Government to guarantee the Roumanian Bonds. It is assured that should the Government adopt this course, the large sum of interest due will be expended in giving supplies to the fishery. The bonds amount to over one million dollars, and an effort was made in 1918 to have the Government of the day guarantee them, but this the Finance Minister, Sir M. P. Cashin, refused to do.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

THE PRINCE IN JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA, April 12th. The Prince of Wales arrived here today for an official visit to Japan. Thousands greeted him as he landed from the battle cruiser "Renown" which brought him from India. His reception was carried out according to programme to the minutest detail as is the Japanese custom. Yokohama's welcome was not noisy as the children who lined the streets were disciplined to silence but the picture they made with their thousands of waving flags in the brilliant sunshine could scarcely be paralleled. The Prince went from Yokohama to Tokio.

THE ART OF CHEWING. Your whole system depends for its health and strength on the stomach. The stomach, in turn, depends on the teeth. The very foundation of health is therefore laid at the first step in food conversion—the act of chewing. Food improperly chewed enters the stomach in a wrong condition, and it brings about a wrong fermentation which causes flat, indigestion, and kindred ailments. The proper chewing of the food will prevent these things. Chew your food plentifully. ## TRINITY.

A Story of Dorset and Waterloo; Oxford University and Trinity.

(Fiction.)
When Colonel Stanhope fell at Waterloo, he left a widow and a son to mourn their loss, and to perpetuate a name that had come down unscathed from the distant past, and which was a household word in the country-town of Blandford, in Dorset, England.

Mrs. Stanhope was a daughter of the rector of the parish, a delicate girl and as beautiful and kind as she was delicate. Her marriage to Colonel Stanhope was an event of the deepest interest to everybody in Blandford, for the practical sympathy of Colonel Stanhope as the only son of the Squire, and the kindness of Mildred Foster as the only daughter of the old rector, ran through every individual and corporate event of joy or sorrow in the neighbourhood.

When their first baby-boy was born, and it became known that the mother and child were doing well, the bell-ringers rang all the changes they knew, on the bells in the old church tower; and the Colonel opened the gates and invited everybody to come and enjoy themselves at his expense. In the beautiful grounds that surrounded "Hopedstead"—the residence of the old Squire, where the Colonel lived.

Two Sunday's after this—before Mrs. Stanhope was well enough to go out, the baby was taken to church by her mother, and was baptized by her father, the old rector, and given the name of Robert, after his father the Colonel.

Life at "Hopedstead" went on day after day for years, marked by a happiness that comes only from the abiding presence of married love, and enhanced by the presence of master Robert, whose healthy development made him the idol of the home, and won for him the heart of every one. Robert's school-days were pleasantly and profitably spent at a grammar school some miles from "Hopedstead," but just near enough for him to spend the week end and Sunday at home. In due time he matriculated at Oxford University, and there began to build upon his school foundation, a superstructure of such a nature as would fit him for a career that he had mapped out for himself after his graduation.

Years of unbroken sunshine passed all too quickly. Then came the first shadow over their lives caused by the war with Napoleon and Colonel Stanhope being called to the colours.

Months of loneliness and suspense followed, mingled with hopes and fears; and then, after the nation had well nigh exhausted itself in celebrating the victory at Waterloo, there came the despatch that told of the death of Colonel Stanhope, during the engagement at which the final victory was won. It was a terrible blow to Mrs. Stanhope, and for days the effects of it upon her delicate constitution caused much uneasiness. The love for her son, however, and the realization that he needed her love more now than ever, helped her to rally; and though in several respects she was never the same again, yet she retained much of her old self, and became, if possible, more deeply loved by young and old at Blandford.

Robert's mother had practically dedicated him to the Sacred Ministry of the Church; and though she had not mentioned this to him during his school-days, yet she had taken advantage of every opportunity to teach him by precept and example his duties to God and man; to be unselfish in his dealings with other boys, to realize the value of his own soul, and to endeavour to develop a love for the souls of other people. She also arranged for him to be much with his grandfather, the rector, who was in every respect what a priest of God should be, and who was passionately fond of the boy. In preparing Robert for Confirmation, he held up to the class the ministerial priesthood as the highest of all vocations; the great need of men for the ministry; and the rewards that ever come to the faithful dispenser of God's word and Sacraments—rewards such as no other calling in life can give.

Although neither Robert's mother nor the rector had said a word to him directly about their wishes for him, yet he suspected what they were, and though he had not referred to his inclinations, he went to Oxford with his mind made up to study for Holy Orders. When he came home to spend his first summer vacation, his mother told him what her wishes were for him, and she was delighted to find that his thoughts were in the same direction, and that night—in addition to her usual prayers for her boy, she added a fervent thanksgiving for his decision, and a prayer that she might live long enough to be present at his ordination. Robert told her all about college life, and the man whom he met at lectures and on the cricket field. He told her particularly of the noble character of his room-mate and the influence for good that he had upon all the men in his class, and how sorry he (Robert) was that his friend would not be at college when he returned, as he had left to be ordained in Advent.

Unfortunately for Robert and unknown to his mother, Robert's new associate at College, who was to share his room in the future, was a young man who had fallen heir to a fortune, and to whom the acquirement of knowledge at college was but secondary to the "good time" that residence in college supplied. It was comparatively easy for Robert to fall under his influence, for Robert's father had not much money at the time of his death, and Robert knew that his mother was denying herself many a lawful luxury, in order to pay his way through college. The smallness of his means, however, had not affected his work at college, nor had it in any way influenced him to change his plans for the future. Now, however, with a room-mate as different from that of his first term, Robert, unconsciously drifted into new realms of thought and action.

For the first time in his life, as he saw the luxuries that his room-mate indulged in, he realized the power of money; and he found himself longing for the possession of more than he had been accustomed to, and with what he had been satisfied up to that time. His room-mate was by no means selfish over his money; and knowing the smallness of Robert's means, he often invited him to share a pleasure that Robert had never dreamed of enjoying, and to visit places that he had never dared hope to visit. Robert was too much of a gentleman to be willingly patronized in this way, and he saw that he had either, politely to refuse the acceptance of his room-mate's generous invitations, or get money enough to return the compliment.

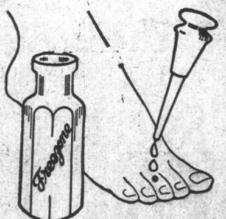

It would have been well for Robert if he had chosen to do the former; but he had fallen under the spell of the new life that his room-mate's money and generosity had opened up to him, and he decided to do the latter.

This story will be continued next week.

prizes visited the school, in Trinity and distributed them to the winners. Master Willie J. Gent received a copy of the Universities Dictionary as the first prize. Miss Mabel Christian, and Miss Isabella Kelly received each an interesting story book as second and third prizes, and Gladys Hiscock received a Prayer Book and a Hymn Book in a leather case, as "the consolation prize."

This first experiment on the part of the children in connection with reporting a public lecture has been most satisfactory from an educational standpoint.

The subject of essay writing takes me back in thought to my boyhood days in Trinity. Some fifteen or twenty boys and girls were attending the school, conducted by Mr. West, from Plymouth, England—one of the best teachers that I can remember. We had to write essays on all kinds of subjects, and it fell to my lot to be awarded several prizes, so that I began to think that I knew it all. One day, the subject given for the essay was "a dog." I know, or rather, I thought I knew every thing about a dog, and I smiled as I saw the girls on the other side of the school trying to win the prize. What do girls know about dogs? I thought; and the handling in of my essay was, to me, and order for the prize. So I thought. To my humiliation, however, the prize was awarded to a girl—Polly Stewart. She knew all that I knew about a dog, and she knew something that I did not know. She knew that a dog perspires through his tongue, and I have known it ever since; thanks to her and that essay—She is now Mrs. Robert Grant, of St. John's; and if the recollections of the past in Trinity are as interesting to her as they are to me, she will recall with pleasure this little incident of years ago.

Some happy events of eighty years ago.

"Trinitarian." The font that you inquire about, that was in old St. Paul's in your boyhood days, is still in the Church at Trinity, though not in use. The fluted marble column on which the bowl rested, is now the column on which the credence table rests; and the bowl, with its wooden cover, is carefully packed, and is on the third floor of the tower of St. Paul's. Probably the syphon by which the water was removed from it, is there too.

"Old Timer." One of the oldest houses in Trinity, if not the oldest, is that next to the Commercial Store, in which Charles Mac Farlane lived years ago. It was built by Doctor Skelton with material that came out of the first St. Paul's Church, (a hundred years ago) and pill-boxes—so it is said.

is very probable that fifty years hence for obvious reasons, we will be producing both. The results of the agricultural policy initiated some 11 years since have been very satisfactory, but the maximum of results has not yet been reached. It is much to be regretted that the stringency of the times makes it imperative to curtail the vote in aid of Agricultural development. If the matter be taken in hand on a comprehensive scale there is nothing to prevent our developing our apple raising industry that in 15 years would suffice to meet home requirements, and thus keep in the country the amount yearly sent to Nova Scotia for this fruit.—Com.

THE BALLAD OF THE INDIFFERENT WHIST PLAYER.

I am not much at the game,
Careless the things that I do,
Those whose approval I claim
When I attempt it, are few;
Bridge players look in dismay
After a hand I have played,
Always they telly say:
"Why did you lead me a spade?"

I, who am gentle and tame,
Am scorned by a merciless crew;
I bear the blunt and the blame
Whenever they mutter, "Down two!"
No matter what card I may play,
No matter that whist's not my trade,
Always they sneeringly say:
"Why did you lead me a spade?"

Matron, young maiden or dame,
Brown eyes or brown eyes or blue,
Angrily treat me the same.
Recalling the cards that I drew,
Be it December or May,
Ever she starts this trade,
With a look that's intended to say:
"Why did you lay me that spade?"

L'ENVOI
Prince, when my soul flies away
And my form in the cold ground is laid
Let me rest where nobody will say:
"Why did you lay me that spade?"

Two Memorable Battles.

April 13th is a day doubly memorable in our Naval Annals, as being the anniversary of two battles that were fought in 1871, one in the East and one in the West Indies. As Captain Mahan, the famous American historian puts it: "The sun had not quite set upon the exhausted squadrons of Appen and Hughes anchoring after their fierce battles of Ceylon, when his earliest rays shone upon the opening strife between Rodney and De Grasse. The two battles are, of course, notable in themselves, the action of Trincomelee being one of the most stubborn fights that we ever had with the French. It began at noon, and had become general in both fleets by 3 o'clock; on both sides masts and yards came crashing down, but more especially on board the "Monmouth" 64, which was so badly mauled, that she was towed a mere log out of the line. The battle lasted till darkness fell, both fleets suffering severely, and neither could claim a victory. The other battle was the ever memorable occasion when Rodney frustrated the manoeuvre of breaking the line, and crowned his most famous victory, by taking prisoner the Comte de Grasse in his flagship the "Ville de Paris," the finest man-of-war at that time afloat—after she had fought magnificently for hours, and until she had lost half her men, exhausted all her ammunition, and had but three unwounded men on her upper deck, one of whom was de Grasse himself. He, with his own hand, hauled down the fleur de lys and surrendered to Hood in the "Barfleur." De Grasse was the first commander-in-chief of the French by land or sea, who had been taken prisoner since Marshal Tallard gave up his sword to Marlborough at Blenheim in 1704.
