OLD COWMAN DISCUSSES STAMPEDE

Every time I fords 'em they kinda bingers in uh sandbar in th' centre, but I don't pay no account tub that. Then I notices that them cows is givin' less'n less milk, an I spects them there yearlin' calves. Red nodded understandingly. "So I takes th' calves away, but they don't do no good a-tall, an I'm gettin' desprit. Th' cows givin' givin' less'n less, an yet they're lookin' fine. I can't understand it, an I worrie concern'ble 'til I finds th' answer." He paused, and we watched him with deep interest. Red showing a canine leere not to be too anxious.

"Yep," proceeded the ancient historian, "I finds th' answer, an proceeds tub solve the whole problem. So I fixes them there cows up on turns 'em across th' river again, an that night when they comes home they fetches in—lets see, eight milk cows, eight times four—a hundred an ninety pounds of thrashin', fightin', wiggin' chut-throat prout!"

"What?" I demanded, dumfounded. Red said nothing.

"Thirty-two six-pound trout," explained the Old Cattleman, calmly eyeing me with the grey orb "Red McLeod, now somewhat silvered as to locks, arrived from his nest in the hills the other day and was vociferously greeted by the Old Cattleman, who was sure glad to see his old pal again. They talked of men long since dead, they spoke of dead men that had long ago departed in years gone by, they deplored the weaknesses of the present generation. Finally they flagged a bit in the conversation, facts were coming slowly, and by the signs of the Old Cattleman's grey eye, he was preparing to drop back on imagination.

RECRUITS FOR R. N. W. M. P.

Montreal, August 19.—Inspector C. W. West, of the Northwest Mounted Police, arrived in Montreal yesterday on his return from England. Although he was on holiday leave, Inspector West did some recruiting while he was in England, and brought to Canada with him 30 men to join the police. Others were anxious to come to Canada for the service, but were not in a position to pay transportation from England to Regina. Most of the men who came to Canada with Inspector West have been regular army privates, and some of them bought their discharges in order to come to Canada.

INVESTIGATING CANADA FOR WOMEN INVESTORS

Miss Binnie-Clark of London is Looking Up Conditions in the Dominion

Comes Here as the Commissioner of the Canadian Gazette of London

Vancouver, Aug. 19.—"Women investors in England are watching the development of Canada with very keen interest, and with eager anticipation of opportunities by which they may receive greater dividends for their capital than they can obtain in the Old Country. You would be surprised to know the amount of money invested by women in Canadian interests and financial concerns today. I was surprised myself until I had occasion to look into the subject on my present trip, and the result of my investigations has quite opened my eyes."

So said Miss G. Binnie-Clark, of London, Eng., and the Qu'Appelle valley, Saskatchewan, who is in Victoria on a mission confided to her by Sir Thomas Skinner, the editor-proprietor of The Canadian Gazette of London.

"to investigate and report upon the conditions of Canadian development and to learn the basis of present prosperity."

is a Woman Farmer

Miss Binnie-Clark is well qualified for the mission, having farmed in the Qu'Appelle valley for eight years past with wonderful success. She was the pioneer woman farmer in Saskatchewan, but during her experience has learned much, and, although herself pre-eminently a grain grower, she is also an advocate of mixed farming, not only for women, but for men as well.

"Farming is a profitable field for the business woman, though to be successful she should know every implement and how to use it. And she must be content to have at least two years' hard work before she obtains results. She must be prepared for disappointments, but if she can overcome them she will win out in the end. I had two crops frozen out, but I kept on, and now I am rewarded with a comfortable and prosperous farm and a goodly number of horses. Had I known as much as I do now when I began, I would have gone in for mixed farming, but I did not, and I am now giving the benefit of my advice to my sisters who are contemplating coming to Canada to farm. I am free to confess that I shall tell them that they will have very much better chances of success in British Columbia and the maritime provinces than on the prairies, but I am not going to disparage the chances of success on the prairies to women of grit and courage and the ability to stick at it. Personally I could not go in for intensive farming, but all women are not like me, and I intend to present both sides of the shield."

Much Money Available

The opportunities for women investors in Canada appeal greatly to Miss Binnie-Clark. She is a member of the Lyceum Club, of London, which offers first class, gilt-edged investments to British capitalists, whether women or men. If this rule is adhered to, millions of dollars can be obtained for Canadian industries and real estate propositions, and it can be obtained with ease.

The Journalist-farmer is greatly impressed with the present development and future prospects of British Columbia, and intends to come back again after having attended the great Stampede to be held at Calgary on the occasion of the visit to that city of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught.

AN UNFOUNDED FEAR

Several Western Conservative journals are seriously perturbed by the announcement that Sir Wilfrid Laurier will visit Western Canada in the fall of this year. Some have entered a strenuous protest, presumably intended to cause the Liberal cabinet much concern. The Calgary Herald, with characteristic consideration, is kind enough to intimate that it entertains no very violent objection to the proposed visit, providing it is the intention of Sir Wilfrid merely to discuss forestry in Vancouver, and to "give an air of distinction" to the forestry convention that will gather there early in September. It confesses, however, to a certain concern regarding the Liberal leader's motives that disturb the equanimity with which it would otherwise regard a Western tour undertaken for the purposes which it has stamped with the hallmark of its august approval. Gently and regretfully, it drops the hint that the hero of so many conflicts is, for the first time in his distinguished career, displaying the white feather. It suggests that the tour, which may be expected to have, for the great majority of the people of the West, all the appearances of a triumphal procession, will in reality be nothing more nor less than "an ignominious retreat." The attention of The Herald's readers is directed to the very significant fact that at the time when Sir Wilfrid is packing his grip for his tour through the West, the Conservative premier will be approaching the Eastern shore of Canada with a brand new naval policy in his inside pocket. It is true that in the past the Liberal leader has shown no disposition to retreat before Mr. Borden's approach, but The Herald inclines to the view that the former premier is in mortal fear of the new naval policy which we have all heard so much but know so little, and is rushing West in order that he may "pursue the ostrich-like policy of burying his head in the sand" and thus escape the obligation to discuss the merits or defects of that policy. Apart from a very natural resentment of the reflection on the fertility of the West implied in the suggestion that only here can Sir Wilfrid find sufficient sand in which to hide his head, we would suggest that we are unable to see why, if he desired to avoid a discussion of the naval policy, it would be more difficult for him to accomplish his purpose in the West than in the East. The only discoverable ground for fear on the part of Sir Wilfrid of a discussion of this subject is to be found in the fact that the policy of Mr. Borden, so acceptable to the people of Canada, must be so that of his predecessor as to give the impression that it is a ghostly apparition. Those to whom Sir Wilfrid is known will be able to give The Herald the assurance that when the proper time comes he will be found ready and able to discuss a matter of such vital importance to Canada. Whether his part in the discussion will be pleasing to The Herald will be determined by the character of the policy submitted by Mr. Borden. Most people will agree that he does well in refusing to be stampeded by the specious appeals of a non-partisan treatment of the subject giving his approval of a policy concerning the merits or defects of which he has had no opportunity of forming an opinion. He might, it is true, approve Mr. Borden's policy and afterwards condemn it, silencing the mouths of objectors by reference to the regrettable precedent created by Mr. Borden himself in dealing with the naval policy submitted by the late Liberal government. This, however, he is not likely to do. The people of the West will expect Sir Wilfrid to discuss subjects other than that of forestry and it is hardly likely that he will disappoint them, even though he is compelled to run the risk of placing The Herald in the painful necessity of "qualifying" its welcome.

A WELCOME ENQUIRY

As an outcome of the recent meeting of the North West Development League, called for the purpose of devising means to stem the flow of emigration from the United States into Canada, an emissary of that organization is in the province of Alberta for the purpose of making an investigation of the conditions which attract and hold the Americans who settle in the Western provinces.

If this official will conduct his investigations in all fairness and give full publicity to the results upon his return to the United States, he will be one of the most welcome visitors that Canada has had from that country. In any enquiry of this sort, whether made by officials from the United States or from any other country upon which Canada levies a contribution of settlement, the people of the Dominion will be quite content that the evidence shall be taken without let or hindrance from the emigrants of the nationality particularly concerned. It is the proud boast of Canada, and no empty boast at that, that she receives her most effective and welcome publicity from the large numbers of settlers from other countries. Let this gentleman carry out his avowed intention to visit the American settlers in their homes. He will find them, as a class, among the most prosperous and contented inhabitants of the West. They have come from a country similar to this in its climate and in the methods requisite to its development, and therefore more readily adapt themselves to conditions here than the great majority of emigrants from other countries. He is unlikely to hear from them that the laws of this country are any less favorable to the farmer than those of the United States. As a general rule, the American settler knows when he is well off, and is therefore among the last to complain of the laws and public institutions of Canada. Canada extends to settlers from the United States a welcome hardly less warm than that extended to immigrants from the British Isles. They belong for the most part to the same race, speak the same language and are accustomed to life under a similar form of government, and therefore make better settlers than those people who must first be taught the elementary principles of life under a form of responsible government.

THE C.P.R. CASH SURPLUS

Commenting upon the enormous annual profits of the C.P.R. as shown in the statement recently issued and the possibility of another "melon cutting" The Winnipeg Free Press says:

"Financial journals on both sides of the Atlantic have for months past been full of rumors that there was to be another 'melon-cutting' for the benefit of C.P.R. shareholders, and the stock has been scaling higher and higher altitudes. In all the speculative comment about the prospect of a 'melon-cutting' the Western rates investigation has figured largely; especially in the London financial papers has the view been taken that the directors would be likely, considering the effects which another 'melon-cutting' would have on the people at large in this country, to decide that it would be wisest to abstain from any such slicing up of extra profits for distribution among the shareholders." Of course, it is not certain that there will not be a joyous occasion of that character for the holders of C.P.R. stock; all that is known is that the announcement given to the public in regard to the directors' meeting on Monday said nothing about anything of the sort. It may be announced later on that the directors have decided on a "melon-cutting," or the wiser counsel not to fatten the shareholders' bank accounts may prevail.

The steamship business, as well as the railway business, of this great corporation, is highly profitable. But vastly the greater amount of the earnings are derived from the railway business. Only the summary figures of the annual report considered by the directors last Monday are as yet available; until they are before the public it will be impossible to say what proportion of the $17,560,519 cash surplus for the twelve months covered by the report is derived from the railway earnings. It is entirely safe to say that that portion is greater than the entire cash surplus of the preceding twelve months.

"These mountains of cash realized from railway rates are proof that the rates are exorbitant. They are Pelion upon Ossa in the way of proof of the injustice of the burden of railway rates, of which by far the heavier end is laid upon the backs of the people of Western Canada. Is it not true that the board of directors of the C.P.R. recognized that the people of this country are entitled to something in the way of a 'melon-cutting'? Would it not be both more gracious and more wise for the board of directors voluntarily to order rate reductions than to wait and have to submit to the order of the Railway Commission which will compel rate reductions? The placing of the whole scale of rates in this country on a just basis will not mean less, but more business for the railways. The railways will have to deal justly with the people sooner or later. Might it not be wiser to be beforehand with the inevitable?"

DAYLIGHT ROBBER FILCHES FROM TOLEDO CONCERN; TAKES ONE THOUSAND

Crawls Into Ticket Agent's Cage, Helps Himself to the Money and Disappears

Later Returns $100 to the Company Through a Third Person

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 19.—Nearly $1,000, mostly currency, and the rest in checks, was filched from the office of the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation company today in a bold daylight robbery. An hour later the robber returned $100 to the company through a third person.

According to a statement made at the office of the company, T. A. Heaton, ticket agent, was making up his daily deposit when a poorly-dressed stranger presented a ticket for some baggage, an errand on which he had been sent by another man, John McArthur, general agent of the company. Heaton was in the act of handing the money in sight on top of the desk in the ticket agent's cage. Heaton went to the baggage, locking the door of the cage with a spring lock. During his absence the stranger went through a rear door and crawled into the cage through a small window in the rear.

Heaton returned to the waiting room in time to see the stranger walk toward the rear door. He followed, pursued by Heaton, who soon lost sight of the fugitive. An hour later the man who had employed Heaton to get his baggage brought $100 to the company's office. He said that the man had run up to him at the corner where he had approached him to get his baggage. The man had his hands stuffed with money. The robber thrust the smaller bundle of money into the other man's hand, and fled. Heaton, who belonged to the navigation company, and asking him to return it. Nonplussed, the man, whose name was not obtained by the navigation company, did not attempt to delay the other.

HAPPENINGS OF THE WEEK IN BUSY CARSTAIRS

Carstairs, August 16.—The death occurred last Wednesday afternoon of Mrs. Dr. J. E. MacKlin, who had been ill for a considerable length of time with consumption. Dr. MacKlin left with the body Thursday morning for Hepler, Ontario, the former home of the deceased where interment will be made.

Hector Griffith who has been farming in this district for a number of years very successfully, had a sale of his horses and machinery recently, and left for an extensive tour of the world. His chief objective point is Australia, where he expects to spend several months seeing that country in detail.

The weather for the past four or five days has been very interesting, and quite a little with haying. All pastures are making a good growth and range cattle are in very fine condition and giving a natural touch. Jacob Martens, a farmer from the Hawkeby district east of town left Friday afternoon for a visit with friends in Saskatchewan and to look over the country.

Miss Pearl Eby was a visitor with Didsbury friends last Wednesday.

DR. COOK AGAIN PUT IN THE ANNANIAS CLUB

Northern Explorers Say Famous Faker Failed to Reach McKinley's Summit

Vancouver, Aug. 19.—With unquestionable proof that Doctor Cook of North Pole fame did not reach the summit of Mount McKinley, Merl Levoys, guide and photographer of the Parker-Brown party on having seen a picture taken from Mount McKinley Peak, chosen by Cook for his fake photograph, has a certain topographical resemblance to the summit of Mt. McKinley, and even people familiar with the country were deceived. Levoys secured an exact duplicate of the photograph Cook claimed to have taken on the summit of Mount McKinley on having seen a picture taken from Mount McKinley Peak, chosen by Cook for his fake photograph, has a certain topographical resemblance to the summit of Mt. McKinley, and even people familiar with the country were deceived.

Cook overlooked one important peak fully 25 miles away from McKinley and located in an easterly direction from that mountain, while he claimed to have taken his photograph from Mount McKinley looking in westerly direction.

This peak, which just showed in the corner of the Cook photograph gave them clue to the exact locality of the mountain on which the photograph was actually taken. It is only about 10,000 feet high—a comparatively easy climb.

During last month the Parker-Brown party climbed this peak and secured exact duplicates of the picture taken by Dr. Cook, claiming to have been taken on the summit of Mount McKinley. Further proof, they declare, is found in the fact that they found no trace of the cairn of stones and flag staff which Dr. Cook says his party erected on the plateau between the twin peaks of Mount McKinley.

How with success almost in sight, but forced to go slowly on account of the extremely rarified air at a great altitude, the party were driven back three different times by blinding snowstorms. Mr. Levoys has a most interesting story to relate. Equally thrilling is the narrative of the miraculous escape of the entire party from earthquake which rocked the mountains of a considerable portion of Alaska on July 6.

CITIES BEAUTIFUL ON THE B'G WEST COAST OF AMERICA

Secretary Lemon Has Words of Praise for Seattle and Victoria

Park System of Washington Metropolis the Best in the West

G. W. Lemon, secretary of the city planning commission, has returned from a vacation spent in the coast cities. While away he visited Vancouver, Victoria, Seattle and Tacoma. "I was enthusiastic, and rightly so, I think, about the parks system," he said to the Albertan yesterday. "I found in going over the system in Seattle, Wash., that there were ideas to be gathered in the young metropolis of the north-west Pacific. Through the efforts of Mr. Hadley, assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, we were enabled to tour the parks under the direction of the veteran superintendent of the system, W. W. Thompson."

"Ten years ago Seattle had three parks and no playgrounds; today she has 25 parks and 12 equipped playgrounds under simple supervision—there you have the story of the city's parks in a sentence! In 1900 the citizens awoke to the opportunity they had to create a famous park and boulevard system. And the first thing these hard-headed, practical Americans did was to employ a high-priced landscape firm from Massachusetts to prepare a comprehensive plan for the development and extension of a park system. I found them working on that plan yet, after ten years—more or less obsolete and all working in toward the ultimate goal."

"But why do you pick out Seattle for particular mention?" was asked. "Why, because Seattle's problem is, I think, more nearly related to our problem than Vancouver's," Mr. Lemon explained. "The city of the 'Sound' has no great natural park like Stanley Park, a stretch of land unsurpassed, I believe, on this continent. Seattle had to make the majority of her parks, and practically all of her boulevards. Miles of the latter had to be 'piled' to prevent the sliding of the banks from the most modern. Take, for another example, the famed Lake Washington boulevard, which many Californians have seen. It is a fill-in road which cost an almost incredible sum."

"How much did it cost?" I asked the park superintendent. "I don't know," he replied with a laugh, "I'm ashamed to tell you." "What impressed you most about the parks?" Mr. Lemon was asked. "That's a hard one," was the answer. "Suppose I put it this way. The beautification of playgrounds, the 'fill-in' of parks, the most intelligent supervision which controls, but does not hamper, the boys and girls who use the playgrounds, the care with which the bits of ground at street intersections are acquired and sodded or planted with shrubbery and flowers, so that they are not only beautiful, but give stretches of beauty; the substitution of indigenous shrubs for sod on many banks all through the parks, and which give a natural touch to the scenery, and the absence of 'keep-off-the-grass' signs—the superintendent says 'grass was made to walk or lounge on.'"

Calgary's Opportunity. "Of course, Seattle has a fine climate for vegetation, and ours is a bit trickier, but all that aside, when I saw what Seattle had had to overcome and the thought of Calgary with her two fine rivers and what might almost be called natural boulevards along them—long stretches of level real estate in the heart of the city, I will tell myself, 'What a chance we've got to outdistance any prairie city in Canada when it comes to a park system!'" "I am sure, however, of some smaller city, like Edmonton, for example, will secure the advantage which rightfully belongs to the city of Calgary," Secretary Lemon said, but few good words to say about the Vancouver Fair. He says it was a poor show, and not the emphasis on the Calgary Exposition. Vancouver people do not appear to take their fair seriously, and it seemed to create no stir whatever in the city. Vancouver's exciting his admiration, as did the new court house, which was recently completed. The Canadian code is being enthusiastic over the coast city's schools for with but two or three exceptions they do not compare with those in Calgary.

The Royal City. "I liked the spirit of New Westminster," said Mr. Lemon, "which while it was there was agitating for another big business street, though a much smaller city than Calgary, she has an 80-foot street splendidly lighted with ornamental lighting standards. Those who have visited New Westminster will remember the iron pillars running down the middle of the street with arms supporting the trolley wires—an effect which I have always admired, and which, I believe, should be adopted on some of our streets here. It will make a fine, broad street look much finer and broader."

Democracy of Beauty. "In Tacoma I noticed that everybody was trying to beautify their homes. Not alone in the exclusive residential districts, but along the ordinary residential streets finely kept lawns and gardens were to be seen. I had often seen the phrase, 'the democracy of beauty.' In Tacoma, and to a certain extent in Seattle, I realized what it meant. To my mind it is a fine thing when the great mass of citizens take pride in their city, and I believe we in Calgary have not done all we might in interesting owners and tenants in lot beautification."

"When I passed along miles of open lawns in Seattle and her sister city Tacoma—the absence of fences making it one continuous parkway of private lawns—I could not but think of our president Mr. Davidson, who, in season and out of season, has urged the 'taking down of the fence' in Calgary. Many of our citizens have been quick to realize the advantage of open lawns, and there are now certain ereas and avenues in Calgary which fall to show the accustomed variegated assortment of wire-

The Spirit Of Enterprise

Great Future of Hudson's Bay Company Revealed By Their Present Activities

PROGRESS OF THE NEW BUILDING

NO CITY in the world shows more clearly the spirit of enterprise and progression as the wonderful city of Calgary. It is a magnificent monument to the indomitable spirit of the west and its every hour is ripe with evidence of a still more wonderful future. Yet within the lives of our old-timers Calgary with a trading post. Our population then consisted of Indians, Mounted Police and Trappers. Our present beautiful suburbs were the pastures of the buffalo. Eighth Avenue was a muddy Indian and military trail. Close your eyes and try to imagine it! Then open them and see the change that has been wrought. Millions upon millions expended in betterment; tall, massive structures, streets of steel, concrete and glass in place of the tepee and the log cabin; a restless, bustling, eager population ever on the increase, the noise and hum of commerce in place of the tranquil atmosphere of the camp.

The Hudson's Bay Company saw all of Calgary's advancement. They took part in it. And now they are thrusting still further aside the memories of the past and are becoming a greater part of a greater Calgary.

The present building we occupy would have been a palace in the early days when the Hudson's Bay Company was the source of supply for hundreds of miles around and headquarters for the contingents that then existed. It isn't good enough to us today. Hence the rapid progress of our big new building on Seventh Avenue. It is to be one of the most commanding structures devoted to retail merchandising in America. With over 5 acres of floor space every one of the forty departments will contribute its share forming a mass of merchandise which will embrace almost everything within the range of human desire—both for person and home. Meantime, keep an eye to the new building. Some idea of the wonders of modern construction will be revealed to you.

HATED TO KILL HERSELF

Woman Leaves Note Casting Reflections on Hospital Attendants

St. Louis, Aug. 18.—A note found in the purse of Mrs. Hattie P. Forrest, widow of a son of General Nathan Bedford Forrest Confederate cavalry leader declared as having been dishonorably treated while helpless in a straight jacket in the city sanitarium. Mrs. Forrest killed herself yesterday afternoon in a public park. The consequence of the treatment, she said, had made it seem necessary to end her life, although "no woman ever killed herself that hated to do so as much as I." The superintendent of the hospital denied that Mrs. Forrest had been handled while in a straight jacket by other than women attendants.

FOUGHT PIRATES, TYPHOON AND ICEBERGS

British Tramp Ship Had Voyage Filled With Adventures on the Pacific

When Great Typhoon Raged, Saw Junks Blown Out of Water

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The British freight steamer Lothian arrived today from Manila after being away since February 17, 1911, during which period she had wandered to all parts of the world, travelling 90,000 miles, and carrying all kinds of cargoes from Arab pilgrims to salted Chinese quines and locusts.

The Lothian was commanded by Captain William J. Lockhart. In all she had a crew of thirty-five Chinamen and eight European officers and engineers.

The start of the voyage was related to a correspondent today by First Officer Henry and corroborated by the captain and engineer's interviews.

When the Lothian sailed from Saw Jau on February 17, last year, she went via the Suez to Kobe, calling at India, Colombo and Singapore on the way, and arriving at Kobe in May. Just in time to witness the manoeuvres of the combined Japanese fleets under Admiral Togo in the presence of the late Emperor.

From Kobe the steamer went to Yokohama, and then to Australia, returning in time to fall in with a typhoon between Formosa and Hong Kong. It blew so hard that the Chinese crew crawled along the decks like snakes so as not to be carried away. It lifted boats clean out of the water and whirled the Chinese vessels high and dry on the reefs of Formosa.

Snatched by Pirates. The first serious adventure happened on November 12, when the Lothian was anchored off Woosung Bay, and a cargo of beetle nuts and Dutch gin from Djakarta was being landed by the Chinese crew.

The night was cold and foggy. Wang, the bosun's mate, was keeping watch at the gangway, but did not notice a pirate junk until it was too late. He was seized and the officers' cabin fast, the pirates, who were led by Chun Ho Wan, the mate of the junk, and later they then down below after clipping off their queues with their keen double-edged swords.

After going through the ship and commandeering everything that was portable, including the chest and the captain's dog, Towser, who came on deck to see what was up, the pirates junk sailed in their junk, which was loaded with loot, and disappeared in the fog.

On the night the door of the Chinese junk was reported to be open, and the Chinese gunboat, under the command of the Chinese captain Ho Wan and his band without any tedious preliminaries, the mate was seized.

Three weeks later, in December, the Lothian was frozen hard and fast in the harbor of Vladivostok, Siberia, for two weeks, and the entire crew was frost-bitten with the exposure and had to be thawed out in turns in front of the galley fire by Hon Wang, the cook. The Lothian managed to get clear of the harbor with the aid of two ice-breakers, belonging to the Russian government, used for naval purposes.

HIS SENTENCE A MISTAKE

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Sentence imposed on Samuel T. Warfield, a book agent found guilty of conspiracy to defraud Mrs. James A. Patten wife of the "Whet Kiser" through the sale of valuable books was reversed yesterday by the appellate court. The case was sent back for re-sentence.

Warfield some time ago was found guilty by a jury of attempting to defraud Mrs. Patten out of $20,000. His punishment was fixed at three years in the penitentiary and a $2,000 fine. A writ of error was then taken out.

MARINES ARE SENT TO AID OF WEITZEL

Reach Corinto and Are Probably Now at the Disposal of American Minister

U. S. State Department Has No Sympathy With Rebellion in Nicaragua

Washington, August 18.—The collier Justin, the state department learned today, arrived at Corinto yesterday with 350 marines, under command of Major Smedley Butler, who reported at once to the senior officer, Captain Terhune, commanding the gumbast, Amnapolis, who has been given full authority to deal with the military situation in Nicaragua as it affects American interests.

It is believed this marine force was at once dispatched to Managua, a six hours' run over the railroad from Corinto. Because of delayed cable advice officials here can only conjecture what happened after the arrival of the marines in Nicaragua.

How this force has been used depends entirely upon the will of American Minister Weitzel, but as he has no authority to order the marines to the bombardment of Managua, filled as it is with women and children and non-combatants, it is believed he has driven the insurgents away from Managua and stopped the bombardment. If his force is not sufficient for this purpose officials here feel he will hold the city until reinforcements from Managua or the bluejackets of the Denver, now en route to Corinto, can be placed at his disposal.

The state department has let it be understood that it does not propose to tolerate this lawless shelling and killing of helpless women and children, and the endangering of American lives and the seizure of American property. The officials are emphatic in pointing out that General Zelaya, the head of the rebellion, has completely alienated the sympathies of this government by his conduct of the rebellion.

Behind cables received at the state department from American Minister Weitzel give a vivid picture of the conflict at Managua, which began Saturday morning, when General Zelaya, in command of the rebel forces around Managua, opened fire on the city from the vicinity of Momotombo.

Rebels Repulsed. At 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon Colonel Rostran and General Murillo attacked the penitentiary with infantry and rapid-fire guns in an attempt to liberate the prisoners, and at 8 o'clock 100 men, under cover of artillery, attempted to enter the city from the lake, but were repulsed and 25 of them were captured. Throughout the night fighting continued at intervals. Of the rebels captured the most important being General Murillo 500, while the government forces, under General Emilio Chamorra was about 2,500. The government firing line in the east, near the town of general Belandier, faced Zelaya's division and received the brunt of the fire.

At 6 o'clock Monday morning Zelaya renewed the attack, being shot and solid shot for a three-inch rifle into the city at the rate of 20 an hour, directed principally toward the presidential residence. The American consul reached the executive mansion and the president and his cabinet continued with their official duties. The Chilean consul, the house of Mr. Hamann, the American collector of general customs, were hit, and the residence of the German consul suffered severely. The American guard estimated that a total of 200 shells fell in the city, resulting in the death and wounding of 12 women and children.

During the bombardment General Thomas attempted to take the government position at La Loma by assault, but the government forces, under the command of General Rostran, vigorously repulsed with the cannon and the fire from the men in the trenches.

The government's heavy guns were directed away from the city. After an engagement lasting two hours the fire of the government forces compelled the rebels to withdraw. Later they resumed firing upon the city and the government forces planted field pieces on the eastern shore of the lake, while two of the government boats protected the lake front. Under the government's command, the rebels were mortally wounded. The American foreman of the electric light plant upon which the rebel fire was concentrated, was wounded.

Sunday, while Managua was under bombardment, the rebels were defeated at the town of Nandaimo, General Menz's home.

Charles E. Greefield Claims That He Had Suicide Pact With Eight Year Old Child

San Bernardino, Cal., Aug. 18.—Charles E. Greefield, aged 25, who killed his 8-year-old stepdaughter, Vivian Greefield, in a rooming house at Venice Tuesday afternoon, was captured in Cuyamanga Los Angeles tomorrow.

Seated in his cell, Greefield freely admitted that he had killed the girl. His confession was made in a voice that clearly indicated, officials say, that the man was not insane. It was said, however, he was laboring under a terrific strain.

"We had a suicide agreement," said Greefield, in describing the murder of Vivian. "I suggested it long ago on account of the treatment both of us received from my wife."

Agreed to Jump Off Pier. "When we left home to go to Venice we had agreed to jump off the end of the pier into the ocean. After we reached the pier we saw too many people there, and decided to go to a rooming house, where we agreed I should cut her throat and then end my own life.

JEALOUS WOMAN MURDERS HER RIVAL

Mrs. Leola Jones Shoots Mrs. Alva F. Cave, in Whom Her Husband Was Interested

Nashville, Tenn., August 18.—Mrs. Leola Jones is a prisoner in the county jail here, charged with the murder of Mrs. Alva Frances Cave, widow of "Steve" Cave, and daughter-in-law of the Rev. R. Lin Cave, pastor of the Woodland Street Christian Church and chaplain-general of the United Confederate Veterans. The motive behind the killing of Mrs. Cave appears to be jealousy as Mrs. Jones' husband's name has been connected with Mrs. Cave by the neighborhood gossip of North Nashville on several occasions.

Last night Mrs. Cave was sitting in her front hall when the front gate opened and Mrs. Jones walked toward the house. No words were spoken and as Mrs. Jones approached, she fired twice, both shots taking effect in the region of Mrs. Cave's heart. Notwithstanding her bedroom and there fell dead on the bed. Mrs. Cave was 30 years of age and pretty. She leaves a little girl, five years of age, and a son, two years old.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS FELT IN ARIZONA

Albuquerque, N. M., August 18.—According to a dispatch received this evening, Williams, Arizona, 400 miles west of here, was severely shaken by an earthquake this afternoon. The shock lasted from 2:05 to 2:10 p. m. The shocks were felt as far east as Winslow 100 miles. Holbrook, a town nearby also was severely shaken. Buildings rocked and windows broke but it is not thought that any lives were lost.

JAPANESE BLOOD A BAR TO AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP

Father German, Mother an Oriental, Youth is Held to be Not "Free White"

Seattle, August 18.—Although Albert H. Young, a law student at the University of Washington, is a subject of the German emperor, he can not become a citizen of the United States because his mother was a Japanese. Such was the decision today of United States District Judge Edward E. Chisholm, who took the same view of the case as Judge Cornelius H. Hanford, who recently resigned and who had denied Young's application for citizenship.

Young's father was a German who married a Japanese woman at Yokohama. Their child was born in that city, but on land under the protection of German flag, making him a German. Young contended that as a German he was entitled to naturalization in the United States, but Naturalization Examiner John Speed Smith resisted his application, under section 2165 of the revised statutes, which provides that only aliens who are free white persons or who are of African nativity or descent may become naturalized. Young maintained that he was entitled to be classed as "free white," but the court ruled that his mother having been a Japanese barred him from citizenship.

Young has been a resident of this state since 1905.

POLICE SEEK MISS LOVE

Boston, Aug. 19.—The Boston police, acting on the request of Commissioner of Public Safety, Barnett, of Haverhill, this afternoon began a hunt for Miss Margaret Love of this city, known on the stage as Margaret Trevor, to see if she can throw any light on the attempted shooting of Thomas Nickerson, manager of the Haverhill Gas Light Company. Nickerson was fired at twice by a mysterious woman in Haverhill yesterday.

It was Miss Love who recently sued Nickerson for $20,000, alleging breach of promise to marry. The police claimed that when Miss Love learned of the engagement of Nickerson to Phyllis Sherwood, of the "Allis Jimmy Valentine" company she went to Haverhill to attempt to effect a reconciliation. Miss Love spent last night with friends living in Hollis street, it is said.

Charles E. Greefield Claims That He Had Suicide Pact With Eight Year Old Child

San Bernardino, Cal., Aug. 18.—Charles E. Greefield, aged 25, who killed his 8-year-old stepdaughter, Vivian Greefield, in a rooming house at Venice Tuesday afternoon, was captured in Cuyamanga Los Angeles tomorrow.

Seated in his cell, Greefield freely admitted that he had killed the girl. His confession was made in a voice that clearly indicated, officials say, that the man was not insane. It was said, however, he was laboring under a terrific strain.

"We had a suicide agreement," said Greefield, in describing the murder of Vivian. "I suggested it long ago on account of the treatment both of us received from my wife."

SASKATCHEWAN HARVEST STARTS; TWINE SHORT

Seven Per Cent of the Wheat Crop Has Been Harvested Around Maple Creek

Black Rust Reported in a Few Spots; Damage by Hail Slight; Crop Good

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 19.—Harvesting has now commenced in Saskatchewan, and cutting will be general over the province next week, according to the report of the provincial department of agriculture.

The question now uppermost in the minds of the farmers is that of securing a supply of labor and binder twine.

The department of agriculture secured a thousand men from the first excursion which arrived in Winnipeg on the 16th, in addition to 400 local laborers. Other excursions are due to arrive at Winnipeg August 19, 26, 21, and September 1. A good deal of barley and oats and of the earlier varieties of wheat is already in the sheaf.

Seven per cent of the wheat crop has been harvested at Maple Creek, and cutting is also under way at Alameda, Milestone, Tugaska, Jansen, Dana, North Battistof, Lloydminster, Birch Hill, Craik, Teesler and Zelanda.

The past fortnight has been generally cool and cloudy, with intermittent showers. Sunny weather to hasten the ripening of a well filled head is now required. Black rust has been reported in a few spots, but the crop is too well advanced for this disease to materially affect either the yield or quality.

Saw-fly has done some damage, but as the wheat heads are well filled, the machine should catch most of them. Hail fell south of Moose mountains on July 30th across Last Mountain Lake and the neighborhood on the Zelandia, on the Good Hope on Aug. 11th. The first-mentioned was the most severe.

U. S. CONGRESS DECIDES ON NAVAL PROGRAM

One Battleship and Fleet of Submarines and Torpedo Boats Will Be Built

Senate Yields to House in Point of Number of Dreadnoughts Contemplated

Washington, Aug. 19.—One battleship to cost $12,000,000 with armor or armament and not to exceed $15,000,000, and a fleet of torpedo boats, collars and machine guns, constitute the building program for the navy approved by the senate and which probably will be adopted without change by the house.

The house and senate concurred in the naval bill met early today and adjusted it in a few minutes. The fight between the two houses over battleships and submarines, the senate yielded to the demand of the house for one battleship instead of two, but secured in exchange the full fleet of eight submarines, instead of the four proposed by the house.

The conference report was brought into the senate and adopted without opposition. Senator Thornton, democrat, declared the senate conference should have adhered to their demand for two battleships. The house deferred action on the report, ordering it printed.

Port Arthur, Ont., Aug. 19.—Joseph Hecherich, a Russian bond for Winnipeg to live with his daughter, 34, Ontario-street, died of heart failure on the harvesters' train east of here. The body was taken off the train and will be interred here. His age was sixty-six years, and he was accompanied by a son. Neither of them could speak English.

THE HEADSMAN'S TROPHIES. London, Aug. 19.—Among the gruesome trophies which have been discovered since the fall has been the overhauling of the rope that was used in the last public hanging in the disused county. It was used on December 15th, 1868, when Thomas Jones suffered the death penalty for the murder of his young niece. Besides the rope, the black cap and straps were found where they have lingered in the dust for so many years.

AGITATORS HAVE BROUGHT HAVOC IN THE WEST

Work of Completing 480 Mile Gap of Grand Trunk Has Been Seriously Retarded

Leaders of Industrial Workers of the World Charged With Disturbing Conditions

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 19.—Industrial conditions exist on the Prince Rupert end of the Grand Trunk Pacific, which bid fair to seriously retard the completion of the 480 miles gap between the eastern and western mountain sections of the line, is the opinion of Collingwood Schreiber, general consulting engineer for the Dominion government, who has just returned from a five weeks' inspection from Edmonton to Prince Rupert.

The contractors, Foley, Welch and Stewart, have been seriously affected since the beginning of the strike, and the continued agitation among their men of the Industrial Workers of the World.

The Story of the King and the Queen

Mrs. Fisher's Ash Heap

UNDER Mrs. Fisher's hand it will not be the first time my home has been raised by your miserable pack," she pointed to the waiting Torie.

From time to time, at the cost of much danger, Fisher had made short visits to his young wife, but these surreptitious visits were becoming more dangerous every day.

So the looked-for return of her husband brought no joy to Mrs. Fisher. She had wandered aimlessly about the house all day, expecting his step at any moment to sound upon the path, and more and more often she dropped everything to scan the road for his approach.

When sunset had come, Mrs. Fisher brooded a sign of relief—soon the kinder light of dusk would cover all. She stood now at her hut door with a feeling of relief paramount to all other feelings as she tried to persuade herself that she had given up coming. Suddenly she saw the form of a running man emerge from the woods; but a keen glance showed her his shoulders, evidently expecting to be followed. He neared the cottage and Mrs. Fisher, in a neighborly way, called out to him.

When she saw that it was Joe Butler, a neighbor of hers and a staunch patriot, she reached the cottage, and Mrs. Fisher instinctively held out a hand to save him from falling in a heap at her feet.

"Save me!" he gasped. "What from?" asked Mrs. Fisher, without waste of words.

"The Torie," cried the exhausted man. "They are close behind. Can't you help me, Mrs. Fisher?"

Emerging from the woods was a company of men making directly for the hut.

"What could the defenseless woman do? Suddenly her eyes fell upon an ash heap, and an inspiration came to her. She caught up a bunch of goose quills lying on the table, swiftly she cut out several, blew out the pits and stuck four of them together so that they formed a tube some eight inches long. "There's not a second to be lost," she panted.

Setting a shovel, she ran rapidly out of the house and into the yard, where she set to work to dig a deep hole in the ashes as quickly as might be. She breathed through the willow, "May God have mercy on you!"

Breathless she crept the covered prostrate man with ashes, carefully wiping the end of the tube free from obstruction. Then, throwing the shovel behind her, she was about to come in from the front. "As calmly as might be, she advanced to meet them, and asked in her even, ringing tones:

"What do you wish in your wish here?"

"The servants of his majesty the king," said the leader. "But that is none of your business. We are here to see that the Torie were about to come in from the front. As calmly as might be, she advanced to meet them, and asked in her even, ringing tones:

"An he were here," said Mrs. Fisher boldly. "I would not give him up." "We know he is here. Tell us how you find him, even if you don't—liberally the soldier pointed a pistol at her." "She looked into the cold steel muzzle with a very little smile.

"Think not you will win me by such means. Keep such infants play for children and think me to be a patriotic woman with your bravado! An old maid look for Joe Butler here. I give

The Fortunes of War

HERE was a great battle and a rousing of soldiers. One heard the unwelcome rumor on every hand that the enemy was coming and that a battle in the neighborhood was almost assured.

Each army worked feverishly at the work of strongly intrenching itself, and before very long there was a long bank stretched across the edge of the field directly behind Evelyn's home; this, she was informed, was for the picket line.

Next day there came a genuine thrill of excitement, for the picket line of cavalry came riding by and drew rein at Evelyn's home to call her mother that the battle should begin, that they might be protected from flying shot.

Soon the popping of guns sounded from the trenches behind the house, and the men in the woods retreated and did not come out again. When next morning dawned the watchers saw that they, too, had thrown up a trench.

Evelyn heard that this also was for the picket line. Late in the morning they all came forth and spread themselves out behind a little hill in front of the house. Evelyn and her mamma were at once told to go to the basement and stay there. Old black mamma threw herself on the floor, groaning and praying at a great rate.

The noise made Evelyn nervous and she drew her head under the eaves of the little line. She knew that they at least had not been taken, but she was evidently a goodly force, for the sunlight glimmered on the bayonets fixed brightly on the assembled firearms.

Soon the popping of guns sounded from the trenches behind the house, and the men in the woods retreated and did not come out again. When next morning dawned the watchers saw that they, too, had thrown up a trench.

Evelyn heard that this also was for the picket line. Late in the morning they all came forth and spread themselves out behind a little hill in front of the house. Evelyn and her mamma were at once told to go to the basement and stay there.

At once she remembered her Kitty. Where on earth was Kitty? Evelyn was quite bewildered when she saw that neither the man in blue nor the man in gray made any attempt to shoot each other.

"Come along, Yank," he said; "her kitten is up a tree."

But Kitty was not to be lured indoors on such a fascinating day, when the breeze rippled the grass and suggested all sorts of delightful games of hide and seek, and the bushes waved green-leaf handkerchiefs just above her head.

By this time many men on both sides, with their guns over the shoulders, had come up and were talking eagerly. "What is up?"

At this a dozen men laid down their arms and tried to climb the tree. But it was a very large tree, and not so easy to climb as it looked, for they could not get a good hold on it.

"Why not cut it down?" asked some one; but Evelyn said that that would hurt Kitty, and so it was proposed that the man should stand against the tree and that another should climb up on his shoulders, and that in this way they might be able to work their way up.

"Then a man in gray stood against the trunk and a man in blue stood on his shoulders, and they could not get a good hold on it.

A Queer Custom

THE Japanese have a curious custom of keeping many singing insects in little cages just as we confine our canary birds to enjoy their sweet song.

There is a certain species of cricket which is perhaps the favorite, and these are to be found all over Japan, chirping merrily from the lightest and most fair-like little cages imaginable.

in Brazil

WHAT do you boys and girls think of the team in the picture? The streets in the interior towns of Brazil are more than usually good for southern roads.

They are very smooth and well built. Often are the animals more generally seen, but sheep and goats are not so numerous as in the north. A great many small automobiles are being imported of the excellent "Ford" make. Nevertheless, I have seen many more cars than I have seen in any other country.

According to the revised census, the total population of Brazil on April 2, 1911, was 20,000,000, with an average of 44.7 per square mile. The density of population is 158 per square mile. Each person now represents an acre, and if the inhabitants separated at equal distance while country they would spare.

The census shows a population of 2,542,649, a rise of 10.9 per cent over the lowest recorded. Births over deaths rose 1.5 per cent. London's population is 4,336,257 to 4,521,585. London has grown 350 per cent. There has been a decrease in the urban population. Of 97 towns of 50,000 people, all have grown except 15. The average increase in 1911 was 1.17 per cent.

EDMONTON AND THE FUR TRADE OF THE NORTH

Veteran Trapper and Pathfinder Talks Interestingly of His Experience

Edward Nagle Tells of His Trading with Indians on the Mackenzie

EDMONTON, Aug. 19.—One of Edmonton's veteran fur traders is Mr. Edward Nagle, who is this summer enjoying his first holiday in twenty-two years. For that period he and his partner, Mr. Hyslop, have spent every summer in the North country in quest of skins. Few men in Canada are more familiar with the Peace River country, the Lake Athabasca region and the Mackenzie river than Mr. Nagle. These are the three great fur-producing districts of the Northland, and for some years Mr. Nagle has devoted his entire effort to trading with the Indians down the Mackenzie river to its mouth and with the Eskimos of the Far North.

Opinion of the Mississippi A year ago he took a trip south on purpose to see the Mississippi, about which he had heard so much. Comparing the two rivers, he made the characteristic remark, "You could put the Mississippi into the Mackenzie and it would take you an hour to find it!"

Red Men Good Farmers. The work that has been accomplished by the Indians in the way of farming and growing of small crops has attracted attention in various parts of a high quality.

Harvest in Under Way. The Indian harvest is now on, and in their approximately 5,000 acres of grain farmed and owned by Indians has been harvested.

WOMEN MORAL, BUT MEN THE MOST TEMPERATE. Detailed Census Report for England and Wales Shows Astounding Figures

More Women Than Men in Inebriate Reformatories and Asylums for the Insane

London, Aug. 19.—Astonishing figures showing the relative moral and physical health and sanity of the sexes, as far as such figures can be taken as a basis of comparison, appear in the first volume of the detailed census report for England and Wales, which was published yesterday.

Statistics relating to the sexes are tabulated thus: Prison—138 women to 1,000 men. Certified reformatory industrial schools—578 women to 1,000 men. Workhouse establishments—655 women to 1,000 men.

Certified inebriate reformatories and hospitals—1,287 inmates on census night only 204 were men.

There are 1,179,277 more females than males in England and Wales. The proportion of females to males is only exceeded in one European country, Norway.

Average Family 4.4. According to the revised figures now issued, the total population of England and Wales at midnight on Sunday, April 2, 1911, was 66,970,492, a decrease of 4,777 from the unrevised total previously published.

Deaths 1,287. The number of deaths in 1911 was 1,287, a decrease of 4,777 from the unrevised total previously published.

Why Should I Use Cuticura Soap?

"There is nothing the matter with my skin, and I thought Cuticura Soap was only for skin troubles." True, it is for skin troubles, but its great mission is to prevent skin troubles. For more than a generation its delicate emollient and prophylactic properties have rendered it the standard for this purpose, while its extreme purity and refreshing fragrance give it all the advantages of the best of toilet soaps.

While its first cost is a few cents more than that of ordinary toilet soaps, it is prepared with such care and of such materials, that it wears to a wafer, often outlasting several cakes of other soap, and making its use, in practice, most economical. Cuticura Soap is sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, but the truth of these claims may be demonstrated without cost by sending to "Cuticura," Dept. 7M, Boston, U. S. A., for a liberal sample cake, together with a thirty-two page book on the skin and hair.

steel frame and rock elm planks, and they found it impossible to get it over the five portages which separated them from the waterway which would permit them to sail north to the Arctic. Mr. Nagle bought the boat at a bargain, but his rivals laughed him to scorn, declaring that he would never get it over the rocks into good water.

Nothing daunted, he hired a big gang of men, and by means of windlasses and rollers and tremendous exertion, he got it all the way from Smith's landing to Fort Smith, and had the satisfaction of seeing the boat slip into the smooth waters of the Slave river.

From that date he could offer successful opposition to the other traders, and, instead of suffering the delays and perils of sailing vessels, he could steam down the Mackenzie in comparative ease.

C. P. R. FACES A SHORTAGE OF 2,000 WORKMEN

Supply Cannot be Filled in the Near Future, Company's Employment Agent Says

Montreal, Aug. 19.—There is a shortage of no fewer than 2,000 laborers on various parts of the C. P. R. system, and the company sees no hope that the shortage will be supplied in the near future.

Mr. Bailey, the company's employment agent in Montreal, has been to Ottawa, to see the commissioner of immigration Mr. Scott, on the subject, but after a conference with that official, has returned to Montreal with little hope that the immigration department can help out the company in the matter.

"Wages ranging from $1.00 to $2.25 per day are being offered for ordinary construction labor," said Mr. Bailey, "and yet we cannot get men. In fact, we shall have difficulty in keeping the laborers we have, now that harvesting has started."

The reason probably is that many European countries from which we have been drawing labor are gradually discouraging immigration. Formerly 75 per cent of the unskilled labor that we got was Italian; now 75 per cent are Poles and Hungarians, and it is becoming increasingly difficult to get these.

RAILWAY COMMISSION MAY FIX CARTAGE RATES

Ottawa, Ont., August 18.—There seems little doubt that the rates of the cartage companies of the railways come under the jurisdiction of the railway commission. This is the opinion of one official of the railway commission. Only one member of the commission, A. S. Jordevic, is in the city, and as a member he did not feel like expressing a decided opinion, but said he had no doubt that there is no doubt that the Winnipeg contracts, under an amendment to section 2 of the railway act, made in 1908, the commission had control of such rates.

"Eastern cartage tariffs come under the jurisdiction of the railway commission," said one official and there is no doubt that the Winnipeg contracts, now being debated, would also come under the commission."

DARED WIFE TO SHOOT HIM

Cincinnati, Aug. 19.—Frank Licher, of Aurora, Ind., is today in a serious condition after being shot six times in the abdomen by his wife at the home of Dr. Ralph Tilley of Petersburg, Ky. Licher and his wife have been separated for some time. He went to the home of Dr. Tilley to beg her to return to him. She threatened to shoot him.

"Are you to shoot me," he said. She shot.

Licher was sent to a hospital.

REGULAR HERO IS ALLEN

Chicago, Aug. 19.—"Officer Phelan" was on duty in Jackson park last night when he met Miss Mildred Erndel, 19 years old, owner here. Despondent because of disappointment in love, the girl leaped from the south bridge leading to Wooded Island in the park, and was near death when the pseudo officer rescued her.

Joseph A. Allen, who takes the part of Officer Phelan in the Grand Opera House play, "Officer 666," was walking with Mrs. Allen when they discovered the girl in the water. Allen hastened to the edge, holding off his coat as he ran. Then he removed his shoes. Then he—what is the use? He rescued the girl and she is doing quite well, thank you.

MEXICAN REBELS MAY INVADE THE STATES

Cavalry is Rushed From Border of New Mexico

Federals Have the Rebels in a Corner and May Force Them Across Line

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 18.—An invasion of American soil by Mexican rebels, troops led by United States army officers, and this, it has been learned on reliable authority, has led to the rushing of Cavalry troops from Fort Sam Houston. The point considered in danger is on the New Mexican boundary just west of Columbus, where four troops of Cavalry more than 1,000 rebels are located.

At a point 100 miles west of El Paso the New Mexico line bounding Old Mexico turned south for a stretch of thirty miles and then resumes a course due west. It is this short cut "across the line" that is feared the rebels at Pabanne will employ in making the retreat into Sonora coincident with Orozco's evacuation of Juarez.

The reason for the intrusion on American soil would be that federals are guarding the passes along the border of the North and South. This slice of New Mexico, a ranch and mining country, sparsely inhabited, the rebels could evade the federal forces and strike at the heart of an engagement. The three troops of the Third cavalry, due here tomorrow morning, are expected to be rushed to Columbus, where four troops of the Third already are stationed.

Juarez Evacuated. The last train will carry General Federal Orozco and staff officers. It was said at Orozco's headquarters late today that an attempt would be made to enter Sonora by taking the railway for the south. The last train is expected to leave at midnight, depopulating the town of Pabanne. The citizens' vigilance committee is ready to take charge until the arrival of federal troops.

A brass band played a farewell concert in the Plaza tonight as the rebel forces ran here and there packing their belongings. The evacuation was orderly. Fearing a repetition of the looting and burning of the town, merchants closed their shops. The citizens' vigilance committee, organized in El Paso a few weeks ago, is ready to take charge of the town as soon as the rebel forces have left and to maintain order until the arrival of the federals.

The rebels are burning what railway equipment they cannot use in their movement to the south. The fire broke at 11:30 p.m.

Whale Fought Sharks. The last port of call for cargo was Manila, which she cleared on June 22 for New York, and on the voyage home, according to the captain, first met with a shark.

"It was just after six bells on Aug. 5, when the ship was off the island of Santa Maria, in the Azores," said First Officer Henry, "that the captain and I were looking through the glasses at the shore. Suddenly away on the starboard bow we saw a shark. The captain and I were in the place where the fight was going on.

"It looked from the bridge as if the whale was trying to protect some other fish from the sharks, and when we saw that we saw that it was a female whale, and she had been protecting a young whale from the sharks. She was cut and gashed by the teeth of the sharks."

DIVORCES ARMY CAPTAIN

Revo, Nev., Aug. 18.—Laura M. Sawyer, wife of Capt. E. S. Sawyer, U. S. A., now stationed at Fort Lawton, was granted a decree of divorce today. She testified that her husband swore at her and compelled her to live at a lonely outpost in the Philippines. She also asserted that her husband mistreated her on a recent tour at Manila, before a number of their friends.

Mrs. Sawyer's father was an army captain, and she has lived at many army posts in this country. Her marriage took place in Ballston, Va.

$3,000 FOR TRAIN ROBBER

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 18.—A train robber boarded the Southern railway train from Spartanburg tonight at Wilmore station and after covering express messenger Carr, with a revolver, secured $3,000 and escaped.

The robber, after securing the money, hurried Carr's hands and locked him in the lifted express chest. It is supposed he left the train as it slowed up for the Asheville yards. At the Asheville station express employe found Carr in the chest.

STETTLETT

Stettler, Aug. 18.—The Rev. and Mrs. Joseph Coultter are spending a short holiday visiting friends in Edmonton.

At the Methodist parlour by the Rev. Joseph Coultter, on Thursday morning, August 15, at eight o'clock, Daniel McKean and Mrs. Clara B. McKean were united in marriage.

At the Methodist parlour by the Rev. and Mrs. A. D. Richard, of Canmore, at eight o'clock, friends and relatives in town. They had been spending a holiday in the east but were called back here on account of the accidental death of Mrs. Geo. A. Lane, Mrs. Richard's mother.

Workmen have started work on the building of Axel Olson's on South Callaghan Street just south of the Methodist parlour. The building will contain five or six rooms and will be finished up-to-date. This one will add to the already large number of attractive residences in this part of the town.

The town council have a force of workmen employed putting in drains in different parts of the town to carry off the water from the low places. This work is making a big improvement to the appearance of the town.

Flattering reports are coming in from all parts of the district as to the condition of the crops. Some cutting is reported and it is expected that if favorable weather continues until the end of another week that harvesting will be fairly general. A big yield of the various crops is expected. The machinery men are very busy at present selling harvesting machinery and baling twine.

Business generally is good in town and every thing would indicate that Stettler will experience still greater business activity.

The school board have added much to the appearance of the new school by grading and terracing the grounds. The grounds have been nicely seeded to grass.

FANATIC IS MURDER SUSPECT

Denver, August 18.—In spite of the opinion of the police here as entertained last night that there is only a remote probability that the religious fanatic who gave his name as "William the Apostle," arrested at Colorado Springs, was connected with the murder of Sign. Carlson, a young music teacher, last Friday evening, developments today caused a change of opinion.

Mrs. H. B. Hall, when shown a picture of the Colorado Springs prisoner, organized it as that of a man who had called at her home and asked for something to eat the day before the murder of Miss Carlson.

HEN SITS IN TREE TOP

Bovill, Idaho, August 18.—Frank Kellon of Bovill claims to have a hen that holds the altitude record for sitting. This hen flew to the top branch of a white fir tree in town and built a nest 72 feet from the ground, laid 16 eggs, hatched six of them, and all six of them were brought safely to the ground. The other one was killed by falling out of the nest.

The Fall Styles in Suits and Coats are Very Attractive

Early seekers for new apparel will not be disappointed in our displays, for they portray accurately the various effects that will be featured in the world's fashion centres this season.

WOMEN MORAL, BUT MEN THE MOST TEMPERATE. Detailed Census Report for England and Wales Shows Astounding Figures

More Women Than Men in Inebriate Reformatories and Asylums for the Insane

London, Aug. 19.—Astonishing figures showing the relative moral and physical health and sanity of the sexes, as far as such figures can be taken as a basis of comparison, appear in the first volume of the detailed census report for England and Wales, which was published yesterday.

Statistics relating to the sexes are tabulated thus: Prison—138 women to 1,000 men. Certified reformatory industrial schools—578 women to 1,000 men. Workhouse establishments—655 women to 1,000 men.

Certified inebriate reformatories and hospitals—1,287 inmates on census night only 204 were men.

There are 1,179,277 more females than males in England and Wales. The proportion of females to males is only exceeded in one European country, Norway.

Average Family 4.4. According to the revised figures now issued, the total population of England and Wales at midnight on Sunday, April 2, 1911, was 66,970,492, a decrease of 4,777 from the unrevised total previously published.

Deaths 1,287. The number of deaths in 1911 was 1,287, a decrease of 4,777 from the unrevised total previously published.
