Mr. Langtry says she has only been really angry once, and that was when a hideously over-dressed woman in a private box suddenly arose at the most tragic part of the play, and cried in agonizing tones, "S-s-s-h! Everybody be quiet, please!"

Some people prefer death to marriage. This is probably because after death there is no pain, but after marriage there is nothing else but pain.

FRANCE'S COLONIAL POLICY.

M. Ferry Declares It is Entirely Conservative.

PARIS, Dec. 10.—In the chamber of deputies today, debates upon the Tonquin credits bill was resumed. M. Pellouin reproached the government for its colonial policy, and compared the events in Tonquin with what had been done in Tunisia. M. Ferry declared that far from leading the country into the four quarters of the world in quest of colonial adventures, the colonial policy of the government was entirely conservative.

ELECTRIC LIGHT WIRES.

THEIR DANGER DISCUSSED BY THE CITY COUNCIL LAST NIGHT.

Annexation of Streets Deferred—Freight Loads Wait Across John Street—Extension of Suburbs—Other Municipal Matters.

The aldermen turned out in full force at the city council meeting last night. R. H. Munro asked the mayor to urge the street railway company to fulfill its agreement to construct a track on Bathurst street from College to Bloor.

Ald. Davies wanted to know whether the legislative committee had taken any steps to prepare legislation for the straightening of the Don. No, was the reply made by the mayor.

The fire and gas committee's report contained the following clause: Your committee has considered the petition of the Toronto Electric Light company for permission to erect poles within the area zoned, to have the electric wires strung along the streets, to replace those already erected with wires of greater height, and after considering the same they have recommended that the company be permitted to place poles on Front street, only as far west as Bathurst street, at which place the company's consent to place poles on the same terms and conditions as the privileges already accorded the said company.

TREVELYAN RIDOUT'S BODY FOUND AT HIGH PARK.

Horrible Discovery in a Lonely Ravine—Unrecognizable Remains—An Inmate Man's Suicide.

In going his daily rounds through High park yesterday Caretaker Wise made a discovery which discloses the fate of a Toronto man who has been missing from home for the past two months. About 1 o'clock Mr. Wise was walking along a dreary path near the Bloor street entrance to the park.

PARADES POINTERS.

Increase in the Assessment Widening of Streets—Addition to Church Membership.

The widening of Callender street and Close avenue was done at the same time. The former is charged in this year's taxes at a high rate. How is it?

The assessment of Parkdale this year is $1,375,700, an increase of $168,408 over last year. This increase is chiefly due to assessing property higher and while the council of this year have kept the general rate the same as last year the increase in the assessment will give it $1862 more.

THE PEOPLE'S PASTIMES.

NOTES ON THE RECREATIONS OF THE WEEK.

Beer Buttery in England—The Acme Lacrosse Club's Record—Queen's Beasts Race and Wins the Central Association Championship.

The hounds will meet to-day at Sunny-side at 3 sharp.

Australia's boating season begins about Oct. 1, when the football season ends.

Australia has 28 senior football clubs, of which the Geelong club is the champion.

Harry Force, the pugilist, has been left $80,000 it is claimed by the death of his father.

Pierre Lorillard has offered the jockey Hughes $6000 as a retainer to ride next season.

John Donaldson of St. Paul, Minn., offers to fight Steve Taylor or Blaise for $1000 a side.

There are twenty-seven places in New York where boxing entertainments are given nightly.

The late Count de Lagrange's breeding farm at Dangu, France, comprised a park of 350 acres, 900 acres of grass, and 1000 acres of arable land.

Harry Wright has already signed nine of the men for the Philadelphia baseball club. He intends to keep a reserve nine in practice for recruiting purposes.

Herr Zukertort will not play Herr Steinitz outside of London, but will play him under the auspices of any respectable chess club of that city.

A team from the wholesale houses of Paterson, McKim & Co. and G. Goulding & Son played a football match with McKim, Proctor & Co. on Saturday.

An arrangement has been made between Wm. L. Layton of Philadelphia and Daniel Gallagher of Buffalo to box eight two-minute rounds in Canada with soft gloves, half minute rest, for $100.

Knox and Queens' colleges played their tie for the championship of the Central association yesterday morning at King's College, winning by taking a goal in the first five minutes. They played about one hour. Queens' has thus gained the hard-fought-for championship.

Chas. Johnston, a Brooklyn sporting man, has posted $250 with R. K. Fox to back John Prendergast to fight Sullivan, Ryan, Slade or any other man for $1000 a side.

An association football match between the employees of McClung, Briggs & Co. and D. McCall & Co. was played on Saturday in the Queen's park, resulting in a victory for McClung, Briggs & Co. by 3 goals to 1. This match leaves McClung, Briggs & Co. club in undoubted possession of the wholesale millinery championship.

Myers and Murray, respectively the amateur champions at running and walking, have been invited to compete for a prize at the 13th regiment armory, New York, on Jan. 22. Myers to run three-quarters while Murray will do better at the respective distances than 3.15 the contest should be close.

The boxing match to take place in Albert hall on Thursday evening next between Harry Gilmore of this city and William Dacey of Brooklyn, N.Y., is creating a great deal of interest. Gilmore is getting into splendid fettle. He weighs about 130 pounds and his opponent, who at present has a class at St. Thomas, ranks the same as about the same weight. Gilmore has a slightly the advantage in the few private wagers being laid, but it is certain there are small odds on the men, both being well versed in science.

New York Truth thinks the prominent occasion of the day might be handicapped as follows in a three-mile race. Hanlan is also stated that with hardly an exception none of Tom Jennings' horses were called to ride. Every jockey that ever rode for Count de Lagrange—from Harry Grinnell to James Goeter who was given the race, and of many more—proclaimed that no horses had invariably come from Dangu, where the count's stud was located, to Newmarket.

Record of the Acme Lacrosse Club. The following is a list of the matches played by the Acme during the past season, which shows they came out victorious in all except a game practice match with the second twelve of the Toronto, who put too heavy a team on for the boys.

Beer Buttery in England. It is announced that Mr. Winans and his two sons have killed 106 deer this season, being an average of seven for each day they were out. The whole of the deer were got by driving, for in real truth they were literally driven up to the guns in such a fashion that by possibility can they escape destruction. Even Mr. Winkie could not have missed with such arrangements in the counties of Inverness and Ross, for which he pays about $210,000 a year, so that each deer cost him nearly $2100 in real money, and the expenses of keeping up so vast a forest must be immense. The bag is not a good one, as the deer are almost invariably killed by their stalking. The rental of Reay and the adjoining ground does not exceed $2500 a year, so that each stag of the bag chronicles that week cost only $21 on the rental.—Weekly Mail, Glasgow (Scott).

To say that a procession was three hours in passing a given point down, according to the Chicago Times, necessarily shows that it was a long procession, since the that it was a long procession, since the given point might have been a beer saloon.

SITTING BULL.

His Experiences (7) While Attending School in England.

From the London Telegraph.

Old Etonians may possibly be surprised to hear that about the year 1845 the headmaster of the historic college "where grateful science still adores her Henry's holy shade" was the victim of a savage assault on the part of a young Indian chief.

A discovery has indeed recently been made by the late Count de Lagrange, a discoverer of our vicious contemporary's showing, at the period just mentioned the son of "a retdkin of quality" was converted to christianity, and that the missionaries to whom his education was entrusted thought that the best thing to do with the juvenile chief was to bring him to England and send him to Eton.

The discipline of that renowned seat of learning is, as is well known, of a high order of character, and so long ago as the reign of Henry VIII. we find Tusser, the author of The Five Hundred Points of Husbandry, "metrially complaining that so soon as he arrived at Eton school, the headmaster, Nicholas Udall, gave him fifty-three stripes at once, "for a fault but small, or none at all." Things did not go quite so hard with the juvenile sachem in 1845; but he fared neither better nor worse than his schoolfellows, and when his name got into "the bill" he was duly brought to "the block."

"Swearing" he has undergone appears to have rankled in the vindictive retdkin mind; he lay in ambush for the headmaster who had punished him, and after some days patient biding his time found his foe passing by alone, sprang upon him, bore him to the ground, and buried, or where he recovered his scalp and a new and glossy head of hair by the copious use of Kowloon's macehair, is not astonishing statement by the more amazing assertion that the young retdkin, a scalping-knife, returned to his prairies, and is at present the famous Sitting Bull, practically the supreme chief of all the Indian tribes, now carrying on war with the United States and concluding treaties of peace with the American government, in his relations with which he has shown himself at once a valiant soldier and an astute diplomat. The partiality of the Sitting Bull for the comedy-opera of H.M.S. Pinafore, as translated into the Ute language and performed by his leading squaws and braves, has already been mentioned in the American press; but the world has yet to learn that the conger of The Last of the Mohicans was brought up at Eton. It would be interesting to know the names of those who have attempted to "brother his dame," and if he has quite lost the knack of Latin verse-making.

Staving to Reform the Profession. A man elegantly dressed, and wearing a plug hat and kid gloves, stopped a citizen in the street and said: "Will you please give me money?" "Give you money?" indignantly replied the citizen. "Why should I give you money?" "Because I am a beggar. I used to go around with a hand organ and sit on the street corners, but close attention to business has raised me above the common herd. I could sing in rag and tell you a pretty story of long suffering of being hurt at lightning while playing, or of a boiler explosion that deprived me of that vital and necessary energy so useful to the millions of a bed-ridden wife, crippled small children and a scrofulous son, but I am in the bank, and upon the whole am in excellent circumstances, but I am a beggar, an original beggar, striving to reform the profession."

"My friend," said the citizen, "I am delighted to see you, and am pleased to note the progress of your improvement. Here is a dollar. It does me good to assist in the reform."

Flood, Fair and Mackay. Speaking of the bonanza kings, a correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat says: "Flood, Fair and Mackay are heavy, full-blooded men, with good color, brightened by good living and drinking. They dress characteristically—free and easy in the Californian characteristics—free and easy in their address, hail fellows well met with all their friends. Sharon, on the contrary, could sit for a picture of a good Connecticut deacon. He is thin, angular, under-sized, dressed in a plain black broad-brimmed hat, with straight, lank hair, whitened by age, combed down smooth over his small head; a pallid face almost destitute of expression, and a moustache that adds nothing to the countenance. When he looks at you, however, you notice a pair of eyes as sharp as those of a weasel. He never looks at another but with a good deal of nervous energy. He always dresses in plain black broad-brimmed hats, and this, with his white necktie and silk hat, adds to his clerical appearance. He is one of the best poker players on the Pacific coast."

Rays of Learning. Discontent is the want of self-reliance; it is the infirmity of will.—Emerson. Repentance without amendment is like continually pumping without mending the leak.—Dilmyan. Confront improper conduct, not by retaliation, but by example.—Foster. When a man lacks fortified the reputation of his integrity he is set fast, and nothing will then serve his turn, neither truth nor falsehood.—Steele. Those who are most discontented and have the least of self-reliance are the most fit to govern a family; and his family are best fit to bear the government in the commonwealth.—Raleigh. Believe nothing against another but on good authority; nor report what may hurt another, unless it be a greater hurt to another to conceal it.—Wm. Penn. Open your mouth and purse cautiously, and your stock of reputation and wealth shall, at least in repute, be great.—Zimernan. If we did but know how little some enjoy the great things they possess, there would not be much envy in the world.—Young. It is certain that either bearing or ignorant carriage is caught, as men take diseases one of another; therefore, if you have dear of their company—Shakespeare. A brave man thinks no one his superior in his power to make himself superior to the other by forgetting in doing what do. True glory consists in doing what do to be read; and in so living as to make the world happier and better for his living in it.—Pliny.

READABLE PARAGRAPHS.

The Vice of Waterbeach, Eng., being engaged on a recent Saturday morning in arranging for fixing lamps at the Fen church, unfortunately forgot all about a marriage which he was to have solemnized at the town church, to the great displeasure of the bride's party. A messenger was sent off on a bicycle for the reverend gentleman, but did not succeed in getting him to the spot in time, and the wedding had to be put off till the next day, when it was successfully brought off. The vicar conscientiously fined himself a sovereign, which amount he presented to the bridegroom by way of compensation.
