New Church of England Cathedral Opened

In Halifax with Impressive Ceremony Participated in by Bishop of London and other Distinguished Clergy.—Bi-Centenary Celebration at Annapolis.

A great gathering of distinguished churchmen, including most of the Anglican Bishops in Canada, many from the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States, the Bishop of London and several others from the Motherland are attending the Church Congress at Halifax this week.

Saturday and Sunday were devoted mainly to the opening services of the new cathedral of All Saints.

During the three following days, the Congress has held its sessions, at which many able papers and speeches were read and delivered and many important subjects discussed.

There are to be a large number of Mass Meetings, to which the public are invited.

Tomorrow there will be an excursion to Windsor, to attend a special Convocation of King's College, the oldest Royal Charter University in Canada, or indeed in the British Dominions overseas.

On Friday the great gathering will make an excursion to Annapolis, the scene of that historic Thanksgiving Service two hundred years ago, and there, on that and the following day, will be suitable ceremonies for the commemoration of that event, including also the unveiling of a monument to the memory of Rev. John Wood, one of the early missionaries of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Doubtless many of our readers will attend the Annapolis portion of the Celebration on Friday of which we give the programme below:

Threw $1,200 Worth of Notes in Coal Scuttle

Lost Adv. in Local Paper Saved Them from Flames.

(Moncton Transcript.)
Everybody reads the Transcript—of course they do! The advertising columns are read just as closely as the news columns. They are always interesting.

In the Transcript the other night, an advertisement inserted by Mr. Alonzo Keith announced the loss of a number of promissory notes in his favor, amounting to over $1,200.

Little Leo LeBlanc, son of Mr. Amos L. LeBlanc, 131 Victoria St. and barely of school age, playing along Lotz street, saw on the side-walk a number of pieces of paper with writing on them, and which had been soiled by the foot-prints of pedestrians.

The little fellow, in childish glee, ran into the house and showed his mother his find. The mother, being very busy, told the child to put them down and the youngster, unnoticed by the mother, threw them into the coal-scuttle. Her husband came home and he filled the coal-scuttle full of coal.

Inquiry led to a search, and then, bit by bit, the story came out as here told; but fortunately the coal scuttle isn't emptied rapidly these days, and when the scuttle was emptied, from the very bottom, covered with coal, came out the identical notes, which were brought to the Transcript office and were identified. These papers were evidently not intended to be burned.

Port Wace

A steam ship is expected about the 15th to load with iron ore for Scotland.

Miss Edith John came home from Lynn, Mass., last week for a short visit with her parents.

Only a few men are now employed on the works here, which will be about completed this week. The large 7000-ton pocket is now full awaiting shipment, and with the improvements made recently the shippings will be very much facilitated.

The new Maister mechanic, Mr. Green, of the H. & S. W. was here Friday looking over and inspecting the works.

Mr. John Apt, Capt. of the Albert Lutz, was here looking up part of a crew for his vessel last week. The captain says he has been quite successful in the halibut trade.

Mr. Gilford Haynes family moved to St. John last week, after spending the summer in their cottage here.

A number of our people will attend the St. John Exhibition this week.

The schooner "Onward" Capt. Johnson, sailed for Boston last Friday, loaded with piling.

The Casey Brothers are doing a good business handling fish at Victoria Beach. Prices are high.

Mr. Marshall, drover of Digby, was over here last week buying beef, cattle and lambs.

It had been expected that the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Fraser would return to Halifax next week, but the condition of the health of the former is such that it is unlikely they will do so.—Chronicle.

The Margareville S. S. Company will have their new steamer ready for launching in about three weeks when she will be towed to Yarmouth where the machinery will be installed. About October 1st she will be placed on the St. John-Kingsport route. This will make two steamers sailing out of Margareville.

JOHN D. GETTS $1,620,000.
John D. Rockefeller will add $1,620,000 to his fortune on September 15, at which time the quarterly dividend of $6 per share, declared yesterday by the directors of the Standard Oil Company, of New Jersey, will be paid.

Industrial Leaders Wanted

Speaking of the opinions he had developed while leading the Commission's work through the Maritime Provinces, Dr. Robertson expressed the idea that the development of the resources of this section of the Dominion would be accomplished much more thoroughly by local capitalists, and leaders of industry than by the aid of outside promoters.

"If a few hard headed and energetic Nova Scotians set out to bring their country to the front, and to realize fully upon her resources they will have no difficulty in securing all the outside capital that they need and will be able to direct it in the direction best calculated to be productive of permanent benefit. The man who comes in as a pure promoter, however, will remain selfish to the end."

"While in the Lower Provinces I visited dozens of towns of three and four thousand people which I think are bound to go ahead and become manufacturing centres, known all over the Dominion. The slight disadvantage that they suffer as to freight rates in the West in comparison with the Upper Provinces is more than overbalanced it seems to me, by their climate, the quality of the workmanship they have ready to hand, and the more healthy conditions under which their workmen labor. More work and better work can be done in a colder climate."

"The difference in freight rates to the West from the Upper and from the Lower Provinces is only eight cents per hundred weight. This is a small matter and does not much bother the shoe and stove manufacturers of New Brunswick. I have seen boxes in a Fredericton shoe factory directed to almost every place of importance in Western Canada."

Dr. Robertson estimates that the Commission will have reached the Pacific Coast, and will have completed all the work on route by December 15, afterward Toronto and Montreal will be revisited.

Institution for the Deaf and Dumb

The school will re-open after the summer holidays on Monday, September 12th, when it is hoped all pupils will arrive promptly. At this school all pupils are taught to speak and to understand speech by reading the movements of the lips.

There are throughout the Maritime Provinces many children, not actually deaf and dumb, but deaf enough to prevent their taking advantage of the ordinary public school instruction. Such children are eligible for admission to this school and should be sent, as their speech would be greatly improved as well as their powers of lip-reading. Parents are only called upon to pay travelling expenses and furnish clothing, the Institution providing board, education, etc. Pupils may be admitted between the ages of six and eighteen years.

Doctors, teachers and clergymen are earnestly requested to communicate with Principal Fearon if they know of any deaf or partially deaf children in their neighborhood.

Re-visit Old Home

Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Miller, of Roxbury, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Jos. H. Miller, of Winchendon, Mass., recently spent a few days with their sister, Mrs. W. A. Stark, of Port Lorne. Of a family of twelve children, Mrs. Stark is the only one left in the home place, the others having one by one drifted away, and are now residing in different parts of Massachusetts, with one exception, that of a sister, Mrs. John Robinson, who resides at Bloomington, N. S.

Although the father, mother and four children have been taken from the number by death, the recollection of the pleasant memories of the past, led these two sons to visit the old place once more, and as a lasting tribute of love for those gone they had a beautiful granite monument erected on the family lot in Port Lorne cemetery. W. B. Miller, of Brockton, and Lloyd P. Miller, of Boston also contributed towards the memorial.

The work was done by W. J. Hoyt of Bridgetown.

Lawrencetown School Gives Exhibition

A movement which proved to be a great success was originated last spring at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft, on the occasion of a small gathering of friends interested in schools in general, and especially in the school at Lawrencetown. The proposition grew and grew until on the 2nd of September an exhibition was held at the school-house, when a large and enthusiastic gathering assembled to participate in the entertainments of the afternoon. Long tables were arranged on which vegetables and fruits of various kinds grown by the boys were displayed, also bread and biscuits, etc., made by the girls of the school. Prizes were awarded a large number of pupils for the best specimens exhibited for the best specimens exhibited.

The school room was finely decorated. After an hour spent in the entertainment room and the serving of ice cream, the meeting which was held in the intermediate Department, was called to order by Dr. J. B. Hall, chairman, for the afternoon. The Lawrencetown Band was in attendance and played several selections, and for the occasion with flowers and grain of every variety. An appropriate address was given by Dr. Hall to the teachers on Domestic Science and Manual Training. Prof. Geo. McGill, of Middleton, gave an address, which was much appreciated.

Prizes were given to three pupils for the best essays. Subject, "A Country Residence". Reading of Prize Essays by Rev. J. A. Hart.

Dominion Exhibition at St. John, N. B.

Fourteen Thousand People Passed the Turn-stiles on Monday.—Finest Exhibition ever Held in the Maritime Provinces.—City Brilliantly Illuminated from King Square to Exhibition Ground.

The Dominion Exhibition opened auspiciously at St. John on Saturday last. The weather was fine and many visitors were on hand for the opening although the arrangement of exhibits was not complete. Addresses were made by Premier Hazen, Hon. Dr. Pugsley, Sir Robert Parks and Lieut. Gov. Tweedie.

On Monday the exhibits were almost complete and the attendance was a record one for a first day, over fourteen thousand people being present. All departments were well filled. The St. John Board of Trade has an exhibit of "made in St. John" goods which places that city in the lime-light as an industrial city with wide possibilities. The city is in holiday array and its illuminations have a splendid effect. Incan descent electric lights are strung from King Square to the Exhibition grounds, so that the visitor stranger in the city could have no difficulty in finding the grounds which in themselves make a fine appearance in the sparkle of the electric lights. King Square and Queen Square are brilliantly illuminated.

The hotels are taxed to their utmost capacity and a large proportion of private homes are open to accommodate the visitors to the city.

Boston Passengers Detained at Yarmouth.

Two Hundred Passengers Held up by Immigration Officials at Yarmouth.

Yarmouth, September 3.—Great excitement was caused last evening at the D. A. B. dock, when Collector of Customs Harding, forbade the D. A. B. officials from taking more than six hundred passengers on their steamer, Prince Arthur, that being her certified limit. When that number was reached, the gang planks were ordered in and the steamer immediately departed for Boston, leaving behind about two hundred passengers which arrived here by the Bluebon.

This act on the part of the customs, caused the passengers great inconvenience as a great many were returning from vacations and so great was their indignation that all kinds of threats were made towards the customs officials. In some cases when the ship was pulling out from the dock her officers almost resorted to violence to keep the passengers from climbing on to her railings. After about an hour's time, the crowd quietly betook themselves to the various hotels, where they will have to remain till Monday.

A LIVING MEMORY.

My absent daughter—gentle, gentle maid,
Your life doth never fade!
Oh, everywhere I see your blue eyes shine,
And on my heart, in healing or command,

I feel the pressure of your small, warm hand
That slipped at dawn, almost without a sigh,
So softly out of mine!

—Wm. A. Croft.

The Street at Night Bad Place for Boys.

The worst habit that boys can fall into is that of loafing around on the streets at night. It is then they cast their lot in slippery places when at any moment they are likely to fall from grace. All good and noble lessons taught them by their mothers are there counteracted and nullified. They learn nothing that is good—but everything bad. The boys who spend their evenings in the sacred precincts of home, with good books for their companions are the future hope of this republic; they will find our legislative and congressional halls, and sit in judgement upon men and measures, while the boys who run the streets will find our penitentiaries, almshouses and lunatic asylums. Parents who are responsible for these broken laws of decency will have broken hearts and bowed down heads in the awakening years that will inevitably follow.

Lord Esher for Compulsory Service

He Declares That the Days of the Volunteer are Numbered.

London, Aug. 31.—Lord Esher, one of the leading authorities in the British Army, and heretofore a consistent supporter of the volunteer system, in an article printed today, says he feels that the days of the volunteer are numbered, and that the time has come for compulsory service in the Army. The lack of necessary recruits for the force which Minister of War Haldane established on the advice of Lord Esher, is responsible for His Lordship's change of mind.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES PAIN

Fathers and Daughters

The dean of Simmons college has written a thoughtful--indeed anxious paper on the college girl's training, and what she makes out of it, under the title, "What fathers desire for their daughters."

It is a fact that everyone remarks that with the exception of paying the bills the college girl's father rarely appears during the four years. Sometimes, but on the whole rarely, he attends the final exercises. The mother is a general thing quite in evidence, Miss Arnold said: "When he does accompany his daughter, however, a different conception (different from the mother's) of the girl's needs is usually apparent," and she quotes one, a "well-known physician" who said:

"If she could have some definite training for some calling, I should feel easier. I expect to provide for her future, and to make her independent upon her earning capacity. But Judge So-and-so died the other day, and to the surprise of everybody left so little that his daughters are thrown out of a life of luxury into comparative poverty and the necessity of self-support. Now what can they do? They have been used to spending in a large way, and they know no other way. They have had no responsibility in the home; they have no knowledge of the requirements of any business engagement. They are used to consulting their own interests, and their pleasure first. How can they all at once adapt themselves to the situation, limit the home expenditures, assume the home responsibilities, and at the same time fulfill the demands of some calling at which they can earn their own living? The whole question is new to them, and all the ideas connected with it are foreign to their experience. I don't think we can consider such training adequate for our girls. I believe we are bound to keep two things in view: the homes which they are to direct and influence, and the possible necessity of self-maintenance. If I could be assured that my daughter was prepared to meet these responsibilities, I should think her well educated."

Another father said frankly: "I'd like my daughter to earn her own living long enough to know how to measure what is done for her, which she has always taken for granted. She is extravagant, because she has no idea of the cost of things which she has always found within reach. I do not like to withhold anything she wants, and she is accustomed to every comfort at home, as well as to some luxuries. But if she marries a man who has less than I have, she may find it difficult to provide the same degree of comfort and luxury. Just now she would be unable to meet that situation with judgement. Her mother thinks that she would rise to the emergency, but that seems to me like expecting to win a race without any previous instruction or practice. The dollar she earns will teach her some things of the value of the dollar she spends. And to do without some of the things she has thought essential, will not be altogether a disadvantage to her. We have to do without some things in order to get others which are better. She must learn that some how."

It might be said of both these fathers that it rests with the fathers and mothers whether the daughter (and sons as well) are prepared to meet the possible necessity of self-maintenance.

College girls and boys often have no further personal reason for going to college than the desire of the parents that they should, and the fact that all of their set have gone, or are going. These young things of sixteen or seventeen are too immature and engaged, or should be at their age, in the happiness of life. They have not arrived, as a rule, at the thoughtful age; their parents and teachers should think for them, and if they have any definite idea of the capacities of their children, should incline them in the right direction.

I will tell you what I have in mind Dorothy and her mother think she is educated now. Perhaps she is, but I want something more. She has been at college four years. She is engaged to be married, but must wait two or three years for that, while the young man gets his second degree and becomes established in his profession. Now I think she would better be getting ready for two things: To earn her own living and to manage her home. A young friend of ours has been left a widow with two little children and with nothing but her hands and head to take care of them. How do I know that Dorothy may not have a similar experience? Suppose her husband's health fails, or misfortune overtakes them? Then they must depend upon her pluck and judgement and foresight. Now the Greek and Latin and astronomy and literature all fit in and are worth

Union of Provincial Municipalities

The Union of the Provincial Municipalities met at Halifax last week. Many matters of public interest were discussed, some of which will have our attention later. Municipal ownership was an interesting paper given by Mayor Dawson of Bridgewater. Another on the same subject by Mayor Mulhall, of Liverpool, both favoring municipal ownership. Alderman Whitman spoke strongly from an opposition standpoint.

Municipal regulation of the auto was discussed by L. H. Forestry, secretary of the Halifax Automobile League. A paper on this subject by R. M. MacGregor, M. P. P. was also read, and an animated discussion followed.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: The nominating committee then brought in their report and the following officers elected for the ensuing year: President--J. A. Chisholm, Halifax. Vice-president--D. A. Cameron, Sydney.

Secretary--A. Roberts, Bridgewater. Treasurer--F. W. W. Doane, Halifax. Executive--Finlay McDonald, Sydney; W. K. Dimock, Windsor; Mayor Hoyt, Bridgetown, Mayor Kelley, Yarmouth; A. S. McMillan, Antigonish; Mac'or Stuart, Sydney Mines; A. J. McDonald, Dallick; D. J. McLeod, Amherst; A. E. McMahon, Aylesford.

Auditor--W. N. Foster, Halifax. Mayor Chisholm, of Halifax, extended a hearty invitation for the Union to meet in that city next year. The invitation was accepted, though Bridgetown and Bridgewater both urged their claims.

SERIOUS DEPLETION IN FUNDS

HARD TIMES HARD ON THE POOR CONSUMPTIVE

Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives Makes an Urgent Appeal for Money.

$55,000 Required to Cover Bank Overdraft and Provide for Maintenance of Poor Patients.

These head-lines tell the story of our needs. They are heavy and urgent.

Many times during the past twelve months the question has pressed itself upon the Trustees, "Can we continue the work further?"

Every month brought its quota of accounts for salaries, and wages of staff, bills of butcher, milkman, eggs, groceries, heavy coal bills--a serious item--and other uncontrollable expenses so long as the doors were kept open.

These had to be paid somehow. Contributions--especially after the turn of the year when the financial depression was felt at its keenest--fell off to such an extent, that each month the burden became heavier.

During all this period there was only one thing to do, and that was to lean on our banker--swelling the bank overdraft.

The trial was the severest in the history of these Muskoka Homes, in which nearly 3,000 persons, stricken by the dread white plague, have been cared for.

But never for a single hour did the doors of the Free Hospital fail to swing open, and give a welcome to suffering ones without money and without price.

The good news has gone forth of a rich harvest the wide Dominion over.

Friends, we come to you at this time, when the clouds of depression are being lifted, asking that you now--in the direness of our extremity--help to lift the burden being carried--not for any personal gain, but solely, alone, only on behalf of suffering sisters and brothers.

Our plea is on behalf of the sick ones. What will you give? Do not say nay. Help generously. Help all you can. Help now.

Contributions may be sent to W. J. GAGG, Esq., Chairman Executive Committee, 84 Spadina Avenue, Toronto; or J. S. ROBERTSON, Sec.-Treasurer National Sanitarium Association, 847 King Street West, Toronto, Canada.

MINARD'S LINIMENT Cures Colds.

Dropsy— Given up by Doctor

"I had dropsy, and was told by my family physician that there was no chance for me. My limbs and body were swollen one-third larger than natural, water collected around my heart, and I had to be propped up in bed to keep from smothering. I took Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy until I was entirely cured. This was in 1902, and I am now able to do any kind of work on my farm. My cure was certainly marvelous."

L. TURLEY CURD, Wilmore, Ky.

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy has been wonderfully successful in relieving heart trouble. Its tonic effect upon the heart nerves and muscles is a great factor in assisting nature to overcome heart weakness.

Price $1.00 at your druggist. He should supply you. If he does not, send price to us, we forward prepaid. DR. MILES MEDICAL CO., Toronto.

THE LOBSTER CATCH

"The lobster catch this year is the poorest I ever remember," said a man from the eastern shore to a reporter. The man in question said that up to date he had cleared about fifty dollars against four hundred dollars last year. The poor season is on account of the weather conditions. For weeks fishermen have been unable to go out and haul their traps owing to the sea being so rough. The lobster traps and other gear were broken and carried away at different times. Few lobsters were obtainable in the green market Saturday and what were there sold for a very high price.—Herald.

BRITISH APPLE CROP FAILS

Toronto, August 12.—A letter received at the office of the minister of agriculture from Wardell and company, Liverpool, giving the comparative figures of the apple crop in the United Kingdom this year and the past three or four years, indicates that the crop is the worst known for many years, and almost a failure. The reports from the continent also show that the crops are very poor. The prospects for the coming season for the Canadian export trade, therefore, are very promising.

NEXT DOOR TO NEPTUNE.

Where There Are Workshops Under the Sea.

The Whitehaven coal-mine, in which the awful disaster recently occurred, and which runs out for three miles below the Irish Sea, is not by any means the only mine in which men work with thousands of tons of ocean directly over their heads, and within a few yards of them. Working in a near neighbor of Whitehaven, used to have one of these submarine mines. But one day the water burst through the roof, and filled the workings, drowning all the men who were unfortunate enough to be there at the time.

The nearness of the sea, indeed, is the chief danger in these mines. The most famous of all these submarine workshops is situated near Penzance, and is called the Britannia. The coast is rocky there, and shelves steeply down below the water. In this submerged gallery levels, each stopping only within a few yards of the surface, are the great shafts of the mine. The sea began oozing in in all directions. One two might have been fatal, but as there were hundreds, the mine simply had to be abandoned.

But there was another reason for its abandonment. So thin was the crust that the stress of winter the stout-hearted miners had often to see in terror from the thunder above the great boulders rolled along the sea-bed, grinding and crushing, and masses of gravel plunged into the mine. One two might have been fatal, but as there were hundreds, the mine simply had to be abandoned.

It was to the Britannia Mine that a distinguished geologist paid a visit a few years ago. Leaving his friends, to whom an evening was expected, he strolled away a few yards. Noticing something that looked like a plug, he began to dig. Suddenly the official rushed across to him, and caught his arm. "You see that, you know," he remarked. "Oh, why not?" "Well, you were just going to the face of the mine as he withdrew the plug, and he was a study. At Bole's, a port on the south side of the Fifth of Forth, coal mines run in the right water till they almost meet those on the opposite coast.

Off the County of Durham, too, there are two great submarine coal-mines. These, for instance, the famous mines at Worsley. Galleries whose workings are so vast and so intricate as almost to form a city under the sea. This has been the usual difficulty in keeping the water out. In fact, some years ago, the sea burst a way into the mine and started pouring in at the rate of 3,000 gallons a minute. The sea had to be fixed up to keep the mine dry. Indeed, most submarine mines are kept in a costly business to keep the ocean from coming through the roof.

India's New Viceroy.

There were heartburnings in diplomatic circles when, in 1904, Lord Curzon, who has been appointed Viceroy of India, in succession to the Earl of Minto—was appointed British Ambassador to St. Petersburg. He was but forty-six years of age at the time. Older men had been passed over. It was said that he was too young for the post. Just the same thing is being said today. Since he has been sent to St. Petersburg, he has served as Crown Equerry for the past sixteen years, and who has been made a baronet by the King, is known to his intimates. He has had a notable career as a soldier and, as becomes a Crown Equerry, is a capital horseman and whip. He has the entire control of the King's stables at Buckingham Palace. When His Majesty goes forth in state it is Sir Henry who steps-manages the equine part of the function. In his care too are the famous Hanoverian cream ponies that draw the state coach when the King opens Parliament.

To Fight Yellow Fever.

The Colonial officials have taken prompt action to combat the outbreak of yellow fever at Sekondi, West Africa. Sir Rupert Boyce, of the Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine, sailed recently with a staff of six medical officers, to advise and direct the organization of measures to stamp out the disease. Of some twenty cases at Freetown and Sekondi all but one had been fatal, and the victims being Europeans. The strictest precautions are being taken at these places to prevent access to the ships of the mosquito, by which the disease is transmitted, and these precautions reduce to a minimum the risks of the infection spreading by sea.

Wealthy Young Sportsman.

Lord Howard De Walden, who recently celebrated his thirtieth birthday, is a keen sportsman and one of the richest men in the country, his property in London bringing him $1,000,000 a year. He has shot big game in the heart of Africa, is one of the best swordsmen in Britain, and is almost as much at home with the ancient swords of the age of romance as with modern weapons. He possesses a fine collection of antique swords, including a magnificent sword and scabbard once the property of King Louis XVI. of France.

LIVING LICE.

Women Who Play to the Life at Betting Men.

There are numerous instances of women living for long years as men. Most famous of such cases in England is that which was brought to light ten years ago, when an old woman, Catherine Coombes, was found to have lived as "Charlie Wilson." Few women have had so astonishing a career as "Charlie." Smoking briar pipe, and dressed as usual in male attire, she first made the acquaintance of the Westminister police when she walked into Rochester Row Station. To an amazed inspector she there told the story of her life. She was married at the age of 15 to one Percival Coombes, she said. Many years afterwards she wedded, as a man, a woman, with whom she lived for fourteen years at Huddersfield. For 45 years, she went on, she had passed as a man. As "Charlie Wilson" she had worked at the docks in a printing office, on board ship, and as a painter and decorator. She is also said to have been employed as a bricklayer's laborer, and at several other kinds of toil requiring no special training even for men. It was in Westminister, too, that a woman went so far as to seek enlistment in the Royal Artillery, and was detected by the doctor before whom she had to appear.

Another notorious case was that of a "Mr. Gillson," whose career came to an abrupt conclusion in the winter of 1903. He used to dress in the height of fashion, wearing a light overcoat of faultless fit and a silk hat, being generally accompanied by a toy terrier. She was a heavy smoker and the only feminine trait was a passion for music. For ten or twelve years she had been a well-to-do housewife, and her husband's suspicions were aroused as to her sex. She was eventually arrested, however, for a night reception, and it was then that she was discovered to be a woman. Investigations showed that there were two totally distinct sides to this woman's extraordinary character. It was a wonderful instance in real life of a talented woman leading, almost against her will, a jekyll and Hyde-like existence. When she was a man, successful and cunning, she victimized business men and perpetrated fraud upon fraud. As a woman, she was a tender-hearted, refined girl, an accomplished musician, a writer of sentimental verse and stories. "Gillson" was eventually arrested, however, for a night reception, and it was then that she was discovered to be a woman. Investigations showed that there were two totally distinct sides to this woman's extraordinary character.

It was to the Britannia Mine that a distinguished geologist paid a visit a few years ago. Leaving his friends, to whom an evening was expected, he strolled away a few yards. Noticing something that looked like a plug, he began to dig. Suddenly the official rushed across to him, and caught his arm. "You see that, you know," he remarked. "Oh, why not?" "Well, you were just going to the face of the mine as he withdrew the plug, and he was a study. At Bole's, a port on the south side of the Fifth of Forth, coal mines run in the right water till they almost meet those on the opposite coast.

A Family Custodian.

Besides possessing literary attainments, Lady Tallbridge, the English authoress, is a musician of more than average ability, and her singing is to be found appended to several very beautiful songs. Like the marquess, she is an intensely Scotch enthusiast, and when she was married, eleven years ago, a custom was observed which has been handed down in the family for many generations. When a Duchess of Atholl or a Tarentine enters Blair Castle for the first time she may not walk into the house, but must be escorted to the threshold. The marchioness was duly carried by her husband, the marquess, and deposited in the hall amid the cheers of the retainers.

African Servants.

The "boy" servant at Nairobi, in Central Africa, seem to have reached the limit of competence. "I used to impress thoroughly on my own personal servant," writes an English resident, "that the master never hand me anything except on a tray. I hardly expected him, however, to bring my boots in on one tray and carefully covered with an afternoon tea cloth! But, after all, these boys were raised for an entirely different purpose, and with a spear attending to their cattle." A good many of them have the faintest notion of what soap was, or how to use it. One very busy European mother told a boy to wash the child's face. He simply covered the child's face with soap and left it!

Crown King on May 24.

Sir George Reid, the Australian High Commissioner, speaking in London recently said: "If the coronation of His Majesty's is to take place on the last day of Empire Day I certainly think it would be a most happy event if the great ceremonial was fixed for a day which is being more and more associated with the broader aspects of Empire and loyalty. As the years pass the significance of Empire Day increases rapidly. The Coronation, to which every subject of the King will look forward with intense interest, will assume additional significance if it takes place on Empire Day. And no one better understands the Empire than his present Majesty."

"Crotchy."

So Major-General Sir Henry Ewart, who has served as Crown Equerry for the past sixteen years, and who has been made a baronet by the King, is known to his intimates. He has had a notable career as a soldier and, as becomes a Crown Equerry, is a capital horseman and whip. He has the entire control of the King's stables at Buckingham Palace. When His Majesty goes forth in state it is Sir Henry who steps-manages the equine part of the function. In his care too are the famous Hanoverian cream ponies that draw the state coach when the King opens Parliament.

Cousins on Thrones.

The number of cousins occupying thrones today is remarkable. King George is first-cousin of the German Emperor. Both these monarchs are first-cousins of the Duke of Sax-Coburg, the Duke of Hesse, the Czarina of Russia, the Queen of Spain, and the Crown Princesses of Sweden and Roumania. King George V. through his mother, is first-cousin of the Czar, the King of Norway, the Crown Princess of Denmark and the Hellesund. The Queen of Norway, the King's sister and a cousin of most of the other royal people named.

CURED OF CONSTIPATION

Mr. Andrews praises Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Mr. George Andrews of Halifax, N.S., writes: "For many years I have been troubled with chronic Constipation. This ailment never comes single-handed, and I have been a victim to the many illnesses that constipation brings in its train. Medicine after medicine I have taken in order to find relief, but one and all left me in the same hopeless condition. It seemed that nothing would expel from me the one ailment that caused so much trouble, yet at last I read about these Indian Root Pills. That was indeed a lucky day for me, for I was so impressed with the statements made that I determined to give them a fair trial. They have regulated my stomach and bowels. I am cured of constipation, and I claim they have no equal as a medicine."

For over half a century Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have been curing constipation and clogged, inactive kidneys, with all the ailments which result from them. They cleanse the whole system and purify the blood. Sold everywhere at 25c. a box.

HOW TO WARD OFF ATTACK OF CATERPILLARS

Principal Cumming, of Truro, in response to the Halifax Civic Improvement League's question regarding the manner in dealing with the Tussock caterpillar moth, replies as follows:—

Kangaroos.

Kangaroos use their hands very readily to hold food in and to put it to their mouths. As their fore legs are so short that they have to browse in a stooping position, they seem pleased when able to secure a large bunch of cabbage or other vegetable provender and to hold it in their hands to eat.

FLOWERS IN HISTORY.

Some Costly Bouquets and Floral Wreaths—Queen Victoria's Rose.

It is stated that over $250,000 was paid to Covent Garden alone for flowers to be made into wreaths for Queen Victoria's funeral. It is safe to say that this large sum has been more than doubled in the purchase of floral memorials for that of our late King, for many of the wreaths—like that of the Sultan of Zanzibar, which was 14 feet by 7 feet, and contained over 500 chosen orchids, and that of the Emperor of Japan, which measured 5 1/2 feet in diameter—cost considerably over $500 apiece.

The First Aviator.

Was Harold the last of the Saxon Kings, our first aviator? This is a point seriously maintained by ancient biographers of the Saxon King, who perished in the Battle of Hastings. In the course of an article in The Windsor Magazine a writer recalls a tradition which cannot of course be either disputed or disproved today, but was of sufficient interest to be recorded by the poet Milton, in his "History of the Anglo-Saxons," where the poet-historian says: "Harold was, in his youth, strangely yoking him made and fitted wings to his hands and feet; with these on the top of a tower, spread out to gather air, he flew more than a furlong; but the wind being too high, came fluttering down, to the mourning of all his limbs; yet so conceited of his art, that he attributed the cause of his fall to the want of a pair of birds' wings, which he forgot to make to his hinder parts. This story, though seeming otherwise too light in the midst of a sad narration, yet for the strangeness thereof, I thought worthy enough the placing."

An Extraordinary Shower.

Daniel O'Connell, the Irish agitator, once complained in the House of Commons of a report of a speech in a London newspaper which, he said, put into his mouth opinions he had never expressed. He vowed that if the editor did not apologize he would move that he be brought to the bar for a breach of privilege. Next day the reporter of the speech walked upon O'Connell and gave a most remarkable explanation. He stated that during his walk from the House to his office in Fleet street the rain streamed into his pockets and obliterated the notes of his speech.

Es Clean About the Dairy.

According to a successful dairyman, the presence of dirt in milk indicates careless and uncleanly methods in production and handling. Another common defect is off flavored milk, which may be due to a variety of causes, as feeding strong flavored foods, such as turnips, radish, etc.; second, to feeding certain feeds to excess, as, for example, silage; third, to odors of silage or manure in the stable; fourth, to particles of manure and dirt getting into the milk; and fifth, to not properly rinsing the bottles after using washing powders. Dairywomen, as a rule, have been quick to see these defects when pointed out and to appreciate the importance from a business standpoint of producing milk as nearly perfect as possible.

Keeping the Best Horses.

Good, big drafts seem to attract the most attention, and yet the perfect draft horse is hard to find in the average rural community. Extra fine young horses are picked up at good prices by buyers who want such stuff, and the farmer gets along with less valuable animals. That is all right for geldings, but the best young mares ought to remain on the farm.

Selecting the Cow.

Points in selecting a cow: If you are buying a cow, look for a long udder, suggestive of her body, see clearly, as this invariably means milk; a soft skin, large, rosy digestive organs, with broad ribs wide apart.

EXERCISE CARE IN SELECTING BOAR.

The selection of the boar is very important, and it is the opinion of the writer that some farmers do not have as much success as they should and could have in raising hogs simply because they do not exercise the care necessary in selecting the male to be used in their herds.

The boar should be selected with greater care than the sow, for his influence equals the combined influence of all the sows of the herd. A superior boar may be used on a superior herd of sows with good results, but the use of an inferior boar on sows of high quality will have a disastrous outcome. The one method raises the standard of the herd; the other invariably lowers it.

A boar with male characteristics strongly developed should be selected, preferably as a yearling or else as a pig that has been purchased at the same time as the sows and allowed to come to maturity before being used. He should have a well erected neck and a strong masculine head. His shoulders should be developed according to his size. However, strong should not be development in pigs under a year or eighteen months old objectionable.

The boar should be selected to correct any defects that may be common to the sows. For example, if the sows are rather coarse in bone and loosely built the boar should have high quality and fine bones, skin and hair. If

BERKSHIRE BOAR.

(By courtesy of Iowa State College.)

The same indications of a good pork producing carcass that the sows require should be seen in the boar—a broad, straight, deeply ribbed back, much depth and length of sides and well developed hind quarters. The visible organs of the reproductive system should be well developed and clearly defined.

The boar should stand upon his toes, and there should not be the slightest indication of weakness in the pasterns of the young ones. In a matured boar (two or three years of age) that has seen hard service it may be expected that he will be a little down on his pasterns, but a six or eight months old pig that does not carry himself on upright pasterns is not safe animal to select for a herd boar.

Horse Notes.

The best cutters want horses that have style, good appearance, that stand up, that are bright, sleek and attractive.

The door of the hayloft should be closed and dust tight. Horses are often injured by seeds and dirt falling into their ears and eyes.

There is no kind of animal breeding that will pay better than the breeding of good horses, but horses that will sell, not daughters or mares.

Boiling of food causes indigestion and consequently loss of health. Guard against irregular feeding, as it tends to make horses bolt their food.

The hay usually given to horses to supplement the pasture is of very poor quality, either woody or moldy, and this results in a considerable loss.

THE HORSEMAN

Don't Whip or Jerk the Horse.

It is a shame to whip or jerk a skittish horse that has shied or been frightened by an unusual obstacle. Soothe him rather than try to unnerve him.

Wash For Horse Lice.

For lice on horses take half a pint of kerosene in two gallons of water and wash the horse with this twice, with an interval of two or three days between the applications.

Ruining a Spirited Animal.

A spirited horse will in the end be made slow and spiritless by constant nagging, twitching of lips, peevish urging and other wearing processes that fretful drivers practice.

Excelsior of Hay.

A colt or horse will live and develop on good hay alone, but he will thrive better upon a two-thirds ration of hay and the rest straw. A ration of oats given with these will be all the better.

Rolling Scorching Horses.

After a hard day's work in the field the horses will enjoy a few moments to roll in the yard about the straw pile. Your horses will scratch themselves more in this manner by rolling than you can do with a curycomb in thirty minutes.

Ask for MINARD'S and take no other

RATIONS FOR THE CALF.

Feeding the Youngsters Too Early May Prove Injurious.

It is well to leave the calf by itself for at least twelve hours and, in case the calf has run with its mother for several days, possibly twenty-four hours. Attempts to feed the calf earlier than this usually do the calf no good and may injure the feeder's temper. Such is the opinion of an authority on dairy matters. If the calf's muzzle is held in the milk and its mouth pried open once so that it tastes the milk it will drink without the feeder being obliged to place his hand in the milk and allow the calf to suck his finger.

The calf is unable to handle hay or grain until it is a week or ten days old. During this period it is not wise to try to feed skim milk. At first the whole milk should be fed three times a day—four pounds in the morning, two pounds at noon and four pounds at night—at equal intervals. In about a week or ten days the calf can be fed twice daily. During this time the allowance of whole milk can be gradually increased to about twelve pounds. This amount depends somewhat on its ability to handle increased quantities.

The stomach of the young calf is very delicate, and all changes should be made gradually. When about two weeks the calf may be changed to skim milk. During the first day decrease the amount of whole milk one pound and add one pound of skim milk, and so on each day until the change is complete. Previous to this the calf should have a little grain (corn or Kaffir corn meal or a little mixture of both) placed in its mouth immediately after drinking its milk. In this way it gets a taste of the grain and will soon go to the feed boxes and eat with a relish.

After the change to skim milk is completed the amount may be gradually increased as fast as the calf is able to consume it without scouring. Care must be taken not to increase too rapidly. The calf is a greedy animal and will appear more hungry after drinking its milk than before, and if given too much it will soon be on the sick bed. The milk fed should be weighed or measured at each feeding. Our experience has been that a calf three to five weeks of age can be fed from ten to twelve pounds daily, from seven to eight weeks old fourteen to sixteen pounds, and when three to five months of age can be fed from ten to twenty pounds of milk. The milk should always be fed warm and sweet.

FOR CHURNING RESULTS.

Close Attention Always Necessary to Realize the Best.

There can be no definite rule laid down as to the temperature at which the cream should be churned, as different creams require different temperatures. The fat is in the form of microscopic globules, and they must have a certain degree of softness at they are to unite.

When the cream enters the churn that is properly ripened and contains 23 to 30 per cent fat the temperature should be such that the cream will churn in thirty to forty-five minutes. This will give an exhaustive churning and leave the butter in a condition in which it can be easily handled without injuring the texture.

Before putting the cream in the churn the churn should be thoroughly scalded and as thoroughly chilled with cold water. The advantage of this is that it will freshen the churn and fill the pores in the wood, so that the cream and butter will not stick to it.

The outside temperature of the churning room should be as nearly as possible the same as the churning temperature. If it is warm the cream will warm up rapidly and the butter will likely be soft and will require more washing to remove the buttermilk. It is useless to lower the cream rapidly to the churning point just before churning. It should be there at least two hours before churning. The reason for this is that fat is a slow conductor of the heat, and, although the cream has cooled and the thermometer reads the right temperature, the fat has not actually reached it, and the results would be the same as if churned at an actually higher degree.

The Gourlay Piano appeals particularly to an Appreciative Class of Buyers. The more discriminating the Buyer, the more easily is the Superiority of the Gourlay apparent.

Gourlay Pianos

are all of One Quality—the Very Best. If we took a commission to make a single Piano for $1,000 it could be of No Better Material or Workmanship than we regularly use in any one of our simpler, more moderately-priced styles. We could spend more money on ornamentation, but nothing to improve quality.

Will you examine a Gourlay?

Advertisement for Estabrooks' Red Rose Coffee. Text: 'Did you ever hear any one say they could not get good coffee except in the States? I have heard it, scores of times, and it's one of the reasons that made me decide to go into the Coffee business. Of the Americans who visit us in summer, hundreds take home a supply of Red Rose Tea because they have never tasted such good tea before. I determined to put up a coffee that would make for itself just as good a reputation. It has not been easy, but I am sure I have succeeded. Estabrooks' Red Rose Coffee, put up in sealed tins is—well, it's good coffee. You and your American friends will say so.' Includes image of coffee tin.
