Boxing Final Bout Toronto 5 R.C.Y.C. Yachting Officers

Note and Comment

The Canadian championship boxing tournament, that concluded Saturday night in the Mutual-Street rink, was possibly the most successful ever put off in any country, not even standing second to the championships held annually at London or Boston.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday, 18 bouts were contested in the rink, which was boxed in each of the seven classes every night, and when it is considered that all preliminary bouts were the limit, lasting 15 minutes, and the finals 30 minutes, the amount of actual scrapping, except that five were decided by the knock-out route or even stopped by the referee.

The quality of the contestants is easily figured out when you remember that Adams, who boxed in the 145-lb. final at London, was also beaten in the final of the same class here, his conqueror being Bert Ayerst, a new-comer, who had a short, sensational career.

The outsiders fared badly, except W. Thrasher of the Soo, who was the best of the middleweights. Not one of the Montreal, Ottawa and Halifax contingent reached the jury class.

British United carried off the lion's share of medals, landing eleven of the 21 titles, five gold, five silver and one bronze. West End won a first and two thirds, Malians Lacrosse, Prof. Williams' School and the Soo one first each, and the Soo and Langford a third each.

Following is the list of Canadian boxing champions, the runners-up and the third prize winners in each class.

DAY'S WORK COLLECTOR
EAST YORK FARMERS HEAR HON. A. G. MACKEY

Big Meeting Seems to Favor Reciprocity Deal—What's Doing Out in the County.

MARKHAM VILLAGE, April 16.—(Special.)—The first visit of Hon. A. G. Mackay, leader of the Liberal party, to the village, made on Saturday afternoon, was judged to be a success for the Liberal party in this historic old riding. The town hall, where Hon. Mr. Mackay spoke, and that on the reciprocity question, was filled to the doors by a respectful, if not widely enthusiastic gathering of farmers, drawn from all parts of the riding. They came in to hear the pros and cons of the matter, and while the leader of the opposition with characteristic ability and eloquence dilated on the benefits rather than the disadvantages of the proposed reciprocity agreement, his presentation of the case was a singularly lucid and not altogether biased one. It was the first time since the Liberal party in 1911 that the privilege of hearing Mr. Mackay, and irrespective of party affiliation, was given to the Liberal party. In the gathering was a big sprinkling of East York Conservatives, and as to the effect of Hon. Mr. Mackay's address, little conjectures can be made, as the chairman, after three hours of time or some other reason, neglected to take a vote of the meeting. No opposition developed, and the fullest and freest discussion was invited.

Among some of those noticed in the gathering were: Reeve Nigh-Silas Lunan, Abner Sumnerfield, W. D. Annis, Oliver Harding, W. H. Wilson, H. A. Fleming, Geo. Robb, W. D. Noble, Jesse Noble, George Robbins, James Malcom, John Wilson, A. A. Wilson, Henry Telford, Amos Crosby, Henry Smith, James Cowperthwaite, William Lamaraux, James Ley, W. C. Ormerod, Arthur Quantz, Alex. Pinget, Mr. Baldwin and scores and scores of others equally prominent in the agricultural and commercial life of East York.

Ex-Reeve Walter Pinget, of Victoria Square was in the chair, and unfortunately in his capacity as president of the East York Liberal Association, conceived the idea of a lengthy introduction was essential to the success of the gathering. The crowd were manfully annoyed and evidenced their disapproval. They were out to hear the leader of the opposition. Apart from this, the chairman handed the crowd a special address. Hon. Mr. Mackay made a strong plea for the endorsement by the farmers of the reciprocity agreement. He pointed out that the farmer and the consumer the middleman was getting a huge share of the profits. He pointed out that the latter prices paid for cattle and hogs on the Buffalo and Toronto markets, and expressed the opinion that reciprocity was the best way for the farmer to be better.

Hon. Mr. Mackay was in line form and after expressing his pleasure at meeting with the farmers of East York, plunged at once into a lengthy discussion on the relative merits of fair trade and protection. Dealing with the charge of the many farmers that they were being discriminated against, he declared that they had no cause of complaint, that the time had come when some measure was to be taken to give the Canadian farmer to enter the American markets, and that the whole policy of the late Sir John Macdonald for many years before was to secure a fair measure of reciprocal trade between Canada and the United States.

"Now that we have an opportunity to secure that for which the late Sir John Macdonald so earnestly sought and could not obtain shall we refuse to avail ourselves of the opportunity?" asked the speaker, and the crowd cheered him to the echo.

Reverting again to the efforts of Sir John Macdonald in connection with the reciprocity question, he pointed out that he was in his magazine articles "viscously wooing the nation to the south." Mr. Mackay said that Hon. George E. Foster was advocating freer trade relations last fall with his pen, Hon. Mr. Fleming and Hon. Mr. Patterson were in Washington carrying out the very thing he was arguing for.

I charge that there will be a breach of faith on the part of the leaders of each of the two great Canadian parties in Canada if a reciprocity measure is not carried through one of the states which called forth generous applause.

He scolded the pork-packing combines, and declared that the reciprocity statements in a certain case tried in the courts of Toronto showed that the profits made by a big packing firm were enormous, yielding from 25 to 125 per cent profit, and then he drew a simile between those profits and that accruing to the farmers.

He dealt with the charge that the reciprocity would divert traffic to the American lines, and quoted the phenomenal rise in C. P. R. stock since the announcement of the reciprocity proposal as proof conclusive that the statement was not based on fact. Referring to the cry of annexation, he claimed that the men who first brought it forward had wholly abandoned it, that they were ashamed of it, and that the last had been heard of this phrase of the question. He closed with a brilliant peroration, which, whether it convinced his hearers or not, certainly aroused them to great enthusiasm. Cheers for the King and speakers closed the meeting.

An Early Exploit of Hamar Greenwood
 M. P. for Sunderland Tells of His Experience in Canadian Militia.

A London correspondent writes: Mr. Hamar Greenwood, whose engagement to Miss Margery Spencer is announced, was born at Whitley, in Canada, something like forty years ago. By profession Mr. Greenwood is a barrister, although his early ambition was to be a soldier. He has told now, at sixteen years of age, he ran away from home to become a private in No. 1 Company of the 3rd Battalion of Canadian Infantry. He was followed by a stern and anxious father, who found his young hopeful doing sentry-go with all the pride and jauntingness of a born soldier. "The old gentleman was for going for me on the spare the next principle," says Mr. Greenwood, in telling the story. "But I turned out the sentry-go had him angrier for attempting to rush the sentry. The end of it was that the colonel and the elder man put their heads together and decided that the boy should be allowed to continue in his job in the militia." After graduating at Toronto University, a love for travel brought Mr. Greenwood to England. One day he happened to be in London in the early part of 1915. The boy was in the throes of a general election. The sitting member, Sir Frank Edwards, asked the young man if he could make a speech on home rule as they have it in Canada. Mr. Greenwood took the platform, reciting there and then his first oration in English politics. But what makes that gathering more memorable to him is that he was the only one of distinguished people present. Among others there was "Sam" Evans, then a rising barrister and politician, now a judge; Malton, the famous West-End leader and singer; and the Right Hon. D. Lloyd George.

A proposal of Mr. Greenwood's to proaching marriage, it is interesting to recall that he met his future wife under somewhat singular circumstances. It happened some few years ago in Jamaica, on the occasion when it was visited by the terrible earthquake. Mr. Greenwood has left a description of the occurrence in a book worth repeating. "A number of us were sitting on the balcony of a house, and were all laughing over some joke or other, when with awful suddenness a crashing sound, like that of a great many people falling to the ground, was heard. At that moment the roof of the house fell down, and we were all brought to our feet by the shock of the earthquake, which was an awful sight, suddenly split by unearthly shrieks and wallings."

Ignorance Sacrifices Sight of Thousands
 Blindness in Many Cases Might Have Been Prevented by Ordinary Care.

Arlie McDonald, the blind street singer, carries in his World and other day and read from his Zeigler Magazine for the Blind, the following extract, which he said would be helpful:

On the Prevention of Blindness.
 In February a public meeting of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Blindness was held in Boston to discuss the causes of blindness and the methods by which it can be prevented. Many persons of different professions came together to consider the subject in all its phases, account, physicians and laymen, and the meeting was one of the most successful of the Massachusetts Society for the Blind contributed valuable information and suggestions for directing our energies in the fight against blindness.

Dr. F. Park Lewis, the well-known oculist and friend of the sightless, was the speaker. He delivered a most convincing and inspiring argument that every case of blindness is an economic waste—that every citizen has an interest in stopping it, and he pointed out that the cause of blindness is preventable. It is an infection which enters the baby's eyes at or shortly after its birth. It is present in the mother. It is an infection which should never have received. It is, happily, not always an evidence of moral defect on the part of the father. It is one of a series of dreadful disasters which are consequent upon such causes, and which emphasize the imperative necessity of teaching every mother how to prevent it. Its results it is both preventable and curable if the right thing be done at the right time in the right way. Two cents for a simple and effective germicide and two minutes' time is sufficient to save 70 years of dependency. It is a simple thing. But knowledge spread broadcast, one-quarter of all the children in the school for the blind have had their eyes needlessly sacrificed because of ignorance. Of those who presided at their birth.

FINANCIAL

CHIEF HOPE OF WALL-ST. LIES IN CHEAP MONEY
NEW YORK, April 15.—Owing to approach of the Easter holidays this has been the quietest week of the year. With three-day suspension of business in prospect it was inevitable that transactions should be reduced to the minimum—so far as the financial undercurrent is concerned—no change is apparent, although stagnation upon the stock exchange, which is a deheartening effect upon many minds. The chief hope of Wall Street at the moment is based upon the prospect for a plentiful supply of cheap money for at least the next four months. The crop outlook also affords considerable encouragement, and these facts, added to the belief that as yet no unfavorable conditions have been pretty generally discounted, afford a basis for confidence in the future, which is really the reason why Wall Street today is, relatively speaking, about the most cheerful spot in the entire country.

In spite of these conditions, the stock market fails to show any real improvement, the explanation for which must be found in the general slackness of business. The majority of observers are apt to attribute the latter condition to surface causes. Among these are the delay in the Supreme Court decision on tariff agitation and the frequent hostility of the attitude of legislation towards corporate corporations. These may be important contributing causes, and have no doubt exerted a considerable restraining influence upon business activity. They have unquestionably caused the postponement of new enterprise, which cannot be initiated until such questions are definitely settled. But there are causes underlying which have vastly more influence upon the tendencies of trade than all of these combined. Nobody supposes that the Supreme Court decision will be considered as the direction of what will be considered public welfare.

In the west a very conservative business spirit prevails; the wave of depression which began on the revival in New York is now working its way slowly but surely towards the Pacific coast, where in due time it will completely disappear. So far as the business outlook as a whole is concerned, there is nothing to cause anxiety, but it is doubtful if readjustment is yet completed, and we may look forward to a period of more or less quiet. Business is really taking the real quiet, a treatment which is quite acceptable to the active American spirit.

There is no reason for withdrawing the hopeful view recently expressed in these advices. Wall Street has discounted all current reverses. It may not be immediately prepared for a fresh forward movement, also the situation is certainly favorable for a new start when conditions are ripe. Easy money and good crop prospects, and the return of our foreign trade, are long to promote renewed activity within the precincts of the stock exchange. Another very favorable element is the return of our foreign trade to normal conditions and the creation of a large surplus of exports, thus promoting the return of our trade to abroad and strengthening our command upon foreign gold. The situation abroad is favorable, and foreign investors who are less affected by current events than ourselves and inclined to long-distance views are taking a more favorable attitude toward our investments. At the moment we may expect that the market might yield somewhat to unfavorable developments, although in the long run we are still confident that a rising market will not be indefinitely postponed.

We have one of the most interesting, safe and profitable propositions that have ever been offered to the public.

Saskatoon (Western Canada) is the City of Opportunities, and Fairhaven is one of the choicest locations in this progressive city. Saskatoon in the seven years, 1903-1910, had a percentage of increase of population of 14,140, while for the ten years, 1900-1910, Calgary, which stands next highest on the list, had an increase of only 1024 per cent. In customs returns Saskatoon's increase during the years 1906-1910 was 703 per cent, Lethbridge being the next highest with 389 per cent. In postoffice business, which is perhaps the best guide of all, Saskatoon again heads the list with 273 per cent. increase, Lethbridge again being second with 212 per cent.

In view of these facts do you think it wise to let this opportunity for safe, sane and profitable investment pass without having a share in it? We again invite you to call on us, when we will be only too glad to go into all particulars. Will it be to-day?

The Result of a Great Millinery Upset $20,000 Involved

The part of our building known as the Rea Store is going to be altered and improved. Twenty thousand dollars' worth of Millinery, the contents of our stockrooms, will have to be moved.

We propose to relieve the situation by marking the entire stock down to average 15 per cent. less than our usually "close to cost" prices.

This will afford a very opportune opportunity for you to buy a hat of this season's design, and of undoubted smartness for considerably less than is usually possible. Sale begins at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning.
