A LOST CHORD Scated one day, at the organ, I was weary and ill at case My fingers wandering idly Over the solemn keys.

Knowing not what I was playing, Nor the things I was dreaming the sounded a chord of music.
That thrilled like a great Amen. Filling the crimson twilight

It lay on my fevered spirit The touch of a holy calm Quieting pain and sorrow, Like a love o'ercoming strife Inke a love o'ercoming strife,
It seemed a harmonious echo
From our discordant life.
Sinking, perplexing meanings
In a perfect hush of peace,
And trembling away into silence,
As if it were loath to cease.

Seeking but seeking vainly, For that one chord divine Which came from the soul of the organ nd entered into mine,-

Trusting that death's dim ange May awake that chord again, know that the hosts of Heaven hall return me the grand Amen

Good morning Mr. Wilbur. What's the news your way?'

'Oh, nothing particular, that I know of, said Ed., only Barnum's show that everybody is talking about and his girl is going to. I was over to old Sackrider's last night, and I see his son Gus has got a new buggy, and was scrubbing up his harness, and he's got that white faced cold of his as slick as a seal. I understand he thinks of taking the Widow Watson to the show. He's been a hanging around there a good deal of late, but I'd just like to cut him out, I would. Susan is a nice little woman and deserves a better man than that young pup of a fellow, though I wouldn't blame her much either if she takes him, for she must be dreadful lonesome, and then she has to let her farm out on shares, and it isn't half farm out on shares, and it isn't half worked, and no one seems to have spunk enough to speak up to her. If I were a single man I'd show him a trick or

> If in addition the enquiry is made with a view of leading to a systematized plan for the deportation of children, it is very desirable. Pauper children in Britain rarely rise above the blasting in fluences of their origin and training. They often continue a burden for life upon the rates. To remove them while children to Canada is not only to give them a fair chance; it is to strike at the very root of pauperism and apart from all other considerations, is the cheapest way for permanently getting vid of a class which in Britain are a perpetual burden, and here become a source of national wealth and strength. A child can be brought to Canada for less than would be required to support it in England for a year. Surely in that case no words are needed to show that it would be a wise economy of the Guardians in England to use the rates in order to help the removal of children from debasing corrupting influences, and bring them into a condition in which they may be sure to be not a pation's weakness, but its defence .- Globe.

VINDICATION OF IRELAND BY FATRER

In England there are 1,500,000 catholies of those 35,300 in gaol. In Ireland 4,500,000 Catholies, and only 25,600 persons in gaol, including even non-Catholies. So much for priest-ridden Iteland on that score. As to the money stant in death, the worsthy Mathodise stend on that score. As to the money stent in drink, the worthy Methodist above quoted makes the following comparison:— In England, per head per annum, £4 5s 11½d.; in Ireland, £2 1s 1d per head per annum for intoxicating drink. The location of the property is most desirable, and from its close proximity to the principal business portion of the Town, it is safe to assume that this property must in a very short time become extremely valuable. There is already in contemplation

A Bridge across the Miss

Manufactories on the opposite side.

In a very short time this bridge must be built, the rapid increase of the town having made it a necessity. Other improvements have been organized in that part of the town that must materially and at once enhance the value of every lot here offered for sale.

The survey has been carefully made, and every block has a direct road leading to the river, and in order to promote and encourage immediate improvement the following easy terms of payment and low rate of interest is offered.

At a field trial near Bell's Corners last July, the score of the Judges was for our Machine 120 points, and the winning one 122—simply two points difference. Our machine went from the shop into the trial without any previous working, which was not the case with the other which had been worked in the field before.
