

for both his eyes as a result of an accident that occurred this morning. The man was engaged in some work when an electric light bulb which he was using exploded, and particles of glass pierced his eyes, temporarily blinding him. He was placed under the care of a specialist but there is still hope of his recovering his sight.

LONDON, TUESDAY, JUNE 11.

RECIPROCITY PIECEMEAL.

The reciprocity agreement provided for a small reduction in the tariff on cement—a cent and a half a hundred pounds—and for the abolition of the duty on typesetting machines. The greater part of the importations of cement and all the importations of typesetting machines are from the United States.

Today the Government reduces the duty on cement by 25 cents per barrel of 250 pounds. Conservative newspaper publishers wait on the Government and ask for the removal of the duty on typesetting machines.

These two circumstances were not needed to prove the insincerity of the cry that the reciprocity agreement threatened the manufacturing interests of the country. Politicians who went over a prospective reduction of a cent and a half a hundred pounds on cement, applauded a reduction of nearly seven cents and a half. Conservative newspaper owners want just so much of the reciprocity agreement as will lighten their own burdens. They act on the theory that the reciprocity pact was good in detail, but bad in the mass.

What a humbug their whole campaign was!

THE NEW LORD CHANCELLOR.

The appointment of Lord Haldane to the office of Lord Chancellor confers on him the highest honor that can come to the British lawyer. The Lord Chancellor is technically the highest civil officer of the crown, taking precedence after the Archbishop of Canterbury. He is a member of the cabinet, presides in the House of Lords, and keeps the great seal.

Great men have filled this office from the days of the Norman kings to the present time. Names like Bacon and Brougham adorn the roll. Lord Haldane will subtract nothing from the dignity bequeathed by his most illustrious predecessors. Originally a country lawyer, he has risen to this dazzling eminence by sheer merit. He has gigantic physical and mental powers. His memory feats will compare with anything recorded of Brougham and Macaulay. His ability as a philosopher is hardly second to his legal and judicial powers. He is an enormous personage, respected by friend and foe alike, and will cut an imposing figure on the woolsack.

A NATIONAL NEGLECT.

The noted economist, Mr. Chiozza Money, M.P., takes up the foolish argument of the stand-pat opponents of legislation to improve wages. The argument is that the status of the poor is to be measured not by the earnings of the head of the household, but by "family income." On an average, between two and three members of the British family are wage-earners.

Mr. Money naturally ridicules this point against an advance of wages in the underpaid occupations. The real meaning of "family income" is that children are robbed of education and of health by being set to work before they are mentally and physically equipped for the battle of life. The following tables of school statistics show how things are with the boys and girls of England and Wales:

Age.	Population	Number at School.	Per Cent.
11	682,700	678,457	99
12	687,300	672,876	99
13	690,300	534,429	77
14	691,000	248,050	36
15	682,000	158,717	23
16	649,200	117,184	18
17	641,900	87,268	13
18	653,500	66,440	10
19	642,200	50,175	7
20	657,300	42,200	6

The slump in attendance after the compulsory age of 13 is very striking and is closely connected with this "family income" which some people over there profess to be satisfied with on the principle that "whatever is is right," and "let well enough alone." But it is a disgrace to the ruling classes in Great Britain that such a state of things should be allowed to go on without the remedies already long used with success in Germany without detriment to German industry. What is needed is a restriction of the working hours of juveniles, a compulsory continuation of their studies in a more occupational direction after the age of 13, and to enable the children and youths to follow such a course, a general improvement in the wages of the fathers of families.

Our own country is not without the same needs. The statistics of the report of the Minister of Education for the year 1911 show the same sudden slump in public school attendance in Ontario, a little later apparently than in England. In 1910 there were enrolled in the second book 86,327 pupils; in the third book 88,387; in the fourth 87,022; beyond the fourth book

In public schools, only 14,946, and in high schools (lower forms), 20,063, or a total of 34,109. And it should be added that even in our years of prosperity, since 1897 the proportion of boys and girls going to any sort of school after the fourth book class has been about stationary. The year 1910, in fact, shows a sharp decline as compared with 1909 in attendance at high schools and night schools. This is no better sign for Ontario than the figures quoted by Mr. Chiozza Money are for England and Wales; so far as night schools are concerned, we are much worse off in Ontario. The British tables indicate a considerable attendance at such schools, in spite of severe labor conditions; our figures show for 1910-11 an enrollment of 1,645, an increase of 201 for the year, but at the same time an average attendance of only 344, or a decline of 105 as compared with 1909-10.

What is needed both here and in the mother country is an approximation to the German system, compelling children to continue their schooling after they have begun to work for wages, up to the age of 17 or 18.

AN OLD STORY.

Mr. Spencer Leigh Hughes, M. P., the "Sub Rosa" of the London Daily News, in turning over the pages of Blackwood's Magazine of 1849, was struck by the following extract:

"They have sown the seeds of revolt in Canada, and rendered assistance, at no distant period, from Great Britain, a matter of certainty."

By "they," the writer of the article in Blackwood's meant the British Government of the day, which had adopted the system of free imports. Mr. Hughes is malicious enough to fling the paragraph at the new generation of Jeremiahs who profess to think that Canada will fall away and the Empire will be sundered unless the mother country returns to the policy of seventy years ago. Mr. Hughes quotes further from Blackwood's:

"They (the free traders), have stopped the growth of our population, and for the first time for four centuries rendered it retrograde. They have lowered railway property more than a half. They have destroyed at least a half of the whole commercial and trading wealth of the manufacturing towns. They have rendered the maintenance of national independence, if the present system is persisted in, impossible. They will soon reduce, if unchecked in their career, the immense Empire of England to two islands, oppressed with taxes, eaten up by paupers, importing a third of their annual subsistence from foreign states, brought in from foreign states."

Mr. Hughes naively remarks that these assertions leave something to be desired from the point of view of strict accuracy of statement. In one respect, however, he does an injustice to the British tariff "reformers" of that day. It is not recorded that the widest of them affected to see any menace to British connection in the reciprocity treaty between Canada and the United States, negotiated by Lord Elgin. The disloyalty of a business deal of that kind is a recent discovery so recent that up to 1896 the Conservative party of this country wanted Lord Elgin's arrangement renewed.

The lamentations of the writer in Blackwood's sound ridiculous today, but they were not more so than are the present croakings of the British tariff "reformers" and their poor relations in Canada.

The only tariff change made by the Borden Government will stimulate imports from the United States. The Government hasn't a plan for increasing our exports to that country.

The Russian Government has released Miss Malecka, in deference to British protests. If she had been a Belgian, or a Dutchwoman or a citizen of some little country, would Russia have yielded to moral suasion?

Mr. Pollock will go to England with Messrs. Borden and Hazen to discuss the navy question. He is capable of almost anything, but he will scarcely abuse British hospitality by repeating his anti-British election utterances.

Mr. Fielding states the truth when he says that if the Farmers' Bank had been refused a charter there would have been an outcry in the country that he was protecting a banking monopoly. And those who are loudest in abusing him now would have been loudest in abusing him then.

The British Government has another strike of national proportions on its hand—the third of the kind in a year. More and more the governments of today are engrossed with industrial problems and less with purely political. It is significant of a profound change coming over the social order.

The independent cement companies say they will have to close their mills on account of the Borden Government's reduction of duty on cement. These companies belonged to the chorus that sang a dirge in September. If they had not drawn a poor mouth then over a tiny reduction of duty they would find more sympathizers today.

The retiring chancellor, Lord Loreburn, has been a valiant champion of the programme of the Asquith Government at every stage. The story that he is resigning because he is out of sympathy with Liberal legislation is probably guesswork. He has been in conflict, however, with a section of the Liberals over the question of patronage. Lord Rosebery's son, Neil Primrose, M. P., has led an attack upon him on the ground that he discriminated against his own party in his appointments of justices of the peace. The feud was awkward for the Government. Perhaps the chancellor stepped out to remove a difficulty from his cabinet colleagues.

And moans or sleeps,

May stir its deeps.

The gates of Paradise are double
And they are blue:
They open to love, but cold, gray trouble
Lies
They clang them to,

And spread no trustful clouds above them
To dim their light.

What makes a pencil hard or soft?
Graphite, which composes the writing crayon in the pencil, is, as everybody knows, so soft that it will not scratch the most highly-polished surface of burnished gold. Yet there are pencils so hard that they actually scratch paper. A pencil is hard or soft in proportion to the amount of clay added to the graphite. A pencil cannot be composed wholly of graphite, for the reason that it would fall into powder. Hence the use of clay as a binding element. Sometimes the clay is not evenly distributed through the mass and then one strikes a place that sets one's nerves on edge. That does not happen so much as it was a few years ago. Graphite is pure carbon, like that contained in the diamond. The clay used is the finest that can be found and without grit.

He came from the dear old country.

To the end he would often tell you
Of this toil in the Devonport Dock.

He had travelled across the prairie
With a friend and children and wife,
On the trail from Emerson Station,

It was not long after that, to quote a stanza from another poem, entitled "The Nation-Builders," that the Archibald pioneer became very busy:
Whack, whack, whack!
Do you hear the lumber clatter

Joyful as the whack, whack, whack may sound in the ears of a settler, I am afraid, Mr. Bowden, that this batter will never make you a famous poet.

A NEW BARD
IN THE WEST[By Special Arrangement With the Winnipeg Telegram.]

A true son of William Wordsworth has lifted up his voice in Vancouver Island. If I mistake not the autobiographical element in "Our Destiny and Other Poems," the author, Ernest J. Bowden, is a missionary to the Indians of the Western Coast. Dwelling there with the noble, Redmen, threading the forests primeval, spearing the salmon in spring time, and travelling now in a Pullman and anon in a birch canoe, how could this poet fail to catch the simplicity of the erstwhile William of Grasmere? And just as Wordsworth loved to speak the language of the lowly, so Poet Bowden delights to use the accents of the sweet simplicity. Wordsworth began his celebrated ballad, "We Are Seven" in this charming fashion (I quote from the first version):

"A simple child, dear brother Jim,
That lightly draws its breath,
And feels its life in every limb,
What should it know of death?"

How striking this parallel from the Vancouver Wordsworth!

My friend Pittell and his neighbor Jim
Were eager to learn a Siwash hymn;
So they came to my house one afternoon
With hearts on fire to master the tune.

Another verse in this poem reminds me of Wordsworth's leech-gatherer, that resigned old gentleman who used to lean upon his staff and revel in optimism.

Old Jim, nearly blind, with blue goggles
Adorned,
And a face that tells he's laughed
more than mourned,
Leans hard on his staff, and rolls
with the song,
For action, he thinks, will help it along.

I am thankful that the blue goggles were not left out of this poem, for they supply what all literary critics love, local color. This picture of a Red Indian in blue goggles singing a hymn to the good old tune "Lennox" would have filled the heart of old William of Grasmere with noble joy. His joy would have gathered strength as he read further and found that beside Jim, hunchbacked Pittell, the local solicitor, was also singing for all he was worth:

Pittell, the dwarf lawyer and seer of our tribe,
Ever ready, with wisdom, with wit,
and with kibe,
His hunched back almost lost in a glory of hair,
Knits his brow to his task and attacks it with care.

In spite of this primitive enthusiasm I am not greatly surprised to come upon this statement:

And after the hymn thirty times has been sung,
Pittell wants a rest, and a change for his tongue.

Just as the Lake Poet had his off days when he produced inferior verse, so our Vancouver bard often falls into prose and weariness. When he describes the decline and fall of tabernacle Se-eth, a Cowichan Indian, it seems to me that he gives much of the story in a style that is as far from the poetic as Vancouver is from Winnipeg. He says, for instance, that:

"The mission teachers had striven to give
A practical training by which he might live,
In the white man's struggle competitive;
A training to conquer by;
But they trained him, instead, to die."

This stanza lacks elevation. To those interested in Se-eth I regret to say that:

A savage bravado arose in his breast;
He tolled all day in his dripping vest.
The consequence was that he caught cold and died near the end of the poem.

While the Indian poems are the most interesting songs that have come from Mr. Bowden's tun-tum (this, he tells us, is the Cowichan word for heart), he has not forgotten to raise at least one lyric in honor of Manitoba. It is a ballad concerning a Manitoba pioneer, and is so sad and so utterly Wordsworthian that we might be disposed to wish that the Vancouver poet had forgotten all about the prairie province. But listen to this simple annal of an unfortunate man:

He came to the Pembina Mountain
When the country was waste and wild,
With all his earthly belongings,
On a lumbering ox-wagon piled.

He came from the dear old country.
Of the sturdy Devonshire stock;
To the end he would often tell you
Of this toil in the Devonport Dock.

He had travelled across the prairie
With a friend and children and wife,
On the trail from Emerson Station,
To try the homesteading life.

It was not long after that, to quote a stanza from another poem, entitled "The Nation-Builders," that the Archibald pioneer became very busy:
Whack, whack, whack!
Do you hear the lumber clatter
For another settler is building the house
To the tune of the same old batter.

Joyful as the whack, whack, whack may sound in the ears of a settler, I am afraid, Mr. Bowden, that this batter will never make you a famous poet.

Madame Morin Asks Ten Thousand Dollars' Damage for Alleged Libel.

[Canadian Press.]
Montreal, June 11.—The Chiniquy case called forth a number of strong statements from Judge Greenfields this morning, on the right of publishers of papers to drag through the mire the name of deceased persons who had violated the dogmas of religious organizations. This is an action brought by Madame Rebecca Morin against the publishers of La Croix, a French paper, which announced that as her father, the famous ex-priest, Father Chiniquy, had taken vows of perpetual chastity, he never could be legally married, and therefore the woman he went through the ceremony of matrimony with after he renounced the Catholic Church, was in reality his concubine. Madame Morin claimed such a statement was distinctly libellous, as it branded her as illegitimate. She asked the court for $10,000 damages.

The plaintiff is the wife of Prof. Morin, of McGill University. A Non-Jury Case.

The case was opened up before Judge Greenfields without a jury yesterday afternoon.

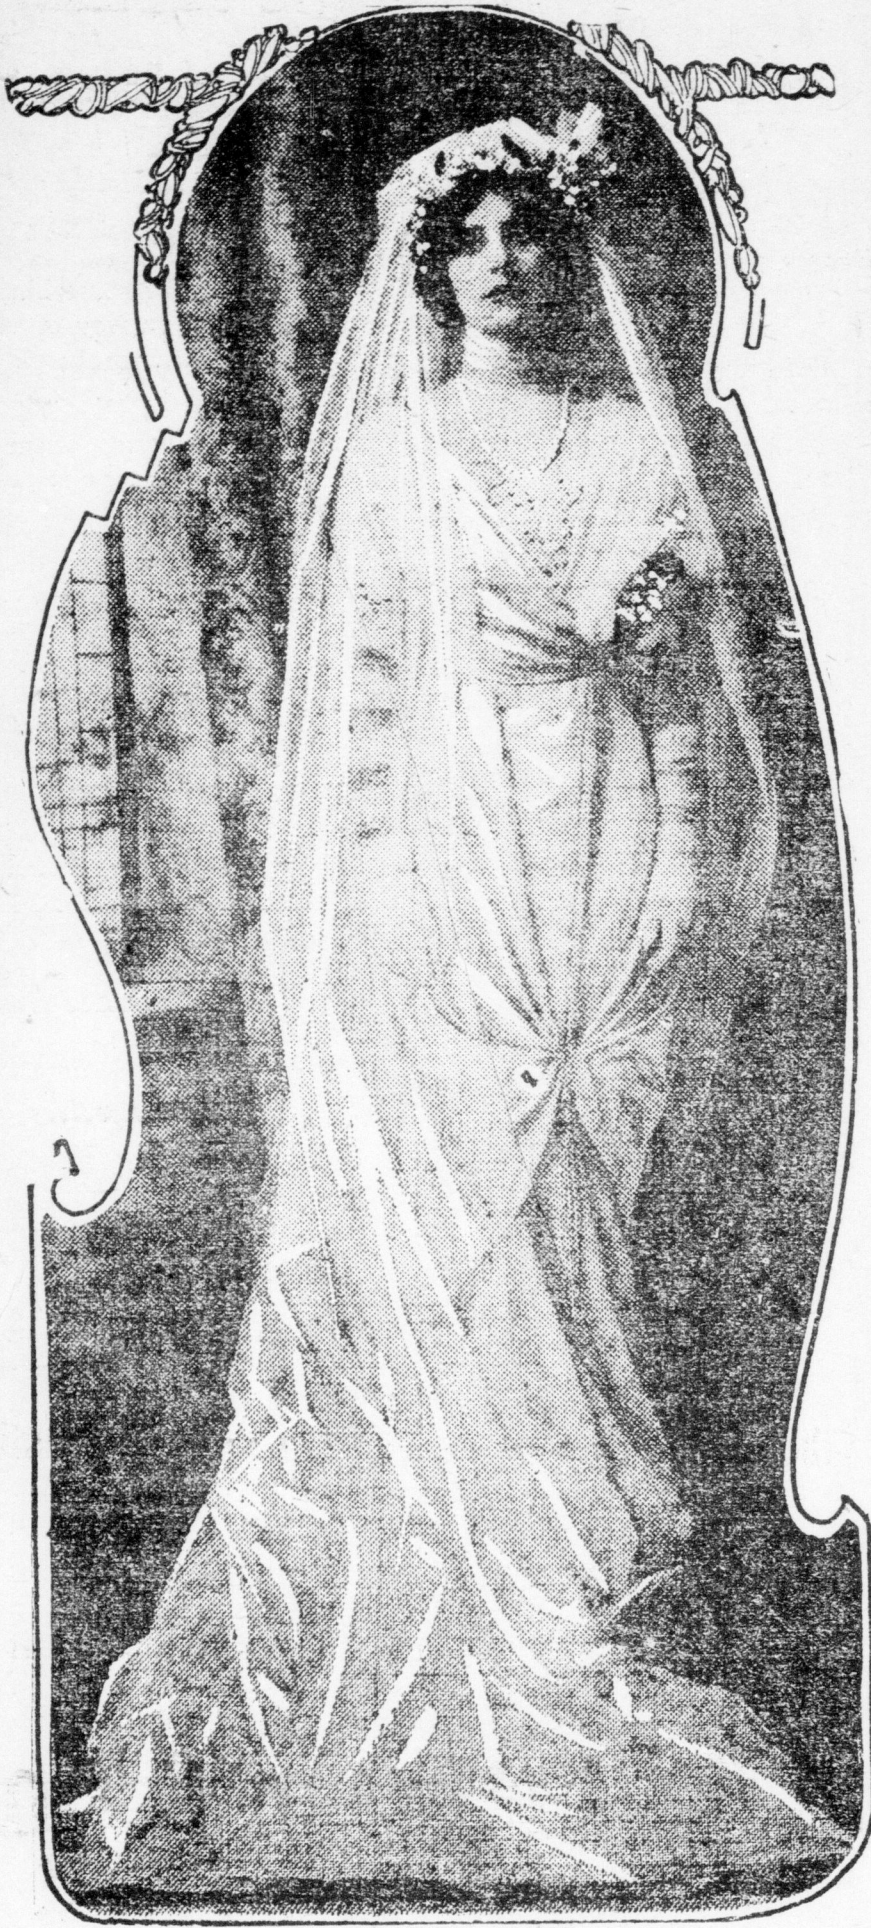

The lawyer for La Croix argued that as Chiniquy had made himself a public character by his crusade against the Catholic Church, and he had left it, his actions could therefore be criticized.

Judge Greenfields then said: "That may be so, but what possible interest could a paper have in dragging the name of his wife, who has been dead thirteen years, into the argument? If it had desired to counteract the effect of Chiniquy's anti-Catholic book, it could have done so without doing that. Calling the woman he lived with a concubine did not do the Catholic Church any good. Why, you might as well blame the wife of a novelist who had written objectionable books for these works. I concede the right of a church paper to advocate its doctrines, but always with due respect for the rights of private persons. I deny the right of a paper to single out one person who, in its opinion has violated a dogma, and stigmatize her as a prostitute, and her children as illegitimate. I deny that right. This woman married and lived with her husband in good faith. Whose business is it to now drag her name through the mud? She was

"AND THEN APPEARED THE BRIDE, IN ALL HER SHY AND WINSOME LOVELINESS"

If you are going to be married this June you want as pretty a gown as possible. Of course, everything concerned with the wedding should be something to remember with happiness in after years.

Certainly you will make fair promise if you wear the magnificent gown of the illustration. It is simply made, because simplicity is the keynote of a tasteful wedding robe. And will give many happy hints, even if you do not follow it closely.

It is made of white satin meteor, as satin is still the fabric of first choice for bridal robes. There is a reason for this. Satin is the cloth for the gowns for the matron, and by adopting it the bride marks her admission into the ranks.

For most girls the wedding gown is the first trained dress. The one illustrated is made with a very long train, which is of one width of 45-inch satin meteor, lined with white India silk and finished all around to the waist line at the back.

Over the narrow petticoat of satin it will be seen that the tunic effect is very simple. The bodice, which has the kimono sleeve, is cut to form a surplus in front. The long sleeves and yoke are of Princess lace, the lace most affected by Parisian designers for bridal gowns or trimmings.

The tunic is rather narrow and tight over the hips, and is cut away in front from where it is caught up with a pearl ornament to form panels, which disappear under the folds of the square train at the back.

The veil is of tulle put on over the hair in cap fashion and allowed to fall in soft folds to the end of the train.

A corsage bouquet of orange blossoms at the left side of the high waist line and a wreath of orange blossoms across the front of the veil complete one of the most beautiful bridal gowns seen this season.

The robe comes from the famous Paris house of Chéruit and was especially designed for a New York girl of wealth, to be married this month.

New Bridge Bags

The wrist bag which the bridge expert carries is becoming a very splendid affair of silk or satin, heavily embroidered with floss, or closely embroidered with tiny beads of crystal, pearl or metal.

Not infrequently it is of heavy lace, lined with a silken material or with a meagre gauze. One model is a very long and slender affair of blue velvet appliqued with genuine Irish lace motifs. About its mouth is a narrow edging of the lace, and below that is a pocket through which runs a cord of mauve silk and silver threads which when drawn taut firmly closes the bag. At its base, where the receptacle is gathered over a small ring, is a long tassel of the same material as the hanger.

A Useful Life

Girls from all over the continent have lost a valuable friend this week in the passing away of Mrs. Margaret Elizabeth Sangster. For almost half a century Mrs. Sangster has figured prominently as writer and editor, and her "Magazine" talks to girls' which have given guidance and inspiration to girls from far and near. Mrs. Sangster was born in New Rochelle, N.Y., February 22, 1838, her maiden name being Mansel. She received her education in private schools in New York, and in 1858 married George Sangster, who predeceased her. Mrs. Sangster's earliest poems and sketches brought her fame and in 1871 she took an editorial work, being at different periods editor of the "Health and Home," "Christian of the Health," and "Harper's Bazaar." She also contributed to such magazines as the "Ladies' Home Journal," "Woman's Home Companion" and others. Mrs. Sangster was beloved by all who had the honor of a personal acquaintance, and also to hundreds who knew her only through her writings.

THE HONEYMOON.

The word "honeymoon" came from the ancient custom among the Scandinavian and other races to bring "meth-e-glin" or diluted honey for 30 days after the wedding. On the island of Rhodes honey is still a factor in the marriage rite. After the wedding the husband dips his finger in honey and places it in the bride's mouth. The custom of the bride carrying a bunch of flowers is also a relic of the olden times. The bride's bouquet is a symbol of fertility and is a reminder of the olden times when the bride was expected to be a good housewife. The bride's bouquet is a symbol of fertility and is a reminder of the olden times when the bride was expected to be a good housewife.

THE STOPPING-OFF PLACES

[By Beatrice Fairfax.]

"Tis a good and safe rule," said Ruskin, "to sojourn in every place as if you meant to spend your life there, never omitting an opportunity of being a kindness, or speaking a true word, or making a friend."

There are many stopping-off places in the course of this journey we are all engaged in. Some are evidently to be of months' and years' duration. And at some places the stop is so short we consider it useless to exert ourselves to make friends, or to make a home.

A greater mistake was never made. It is a lack of permanency that often results in a lack of character. It is the feeling of "here today and gone tomorrow" that gives birth to all that comes under the head of selfishness, narrowness and indifference.

"What is the use," the one will ask who arrives at a stopping-off place, "of making friends? I may not be here tomorrow." It is as important to make friends for tomorrow as to make friends for ten years hence.

"I have lived many years," I recently heard a white-haired, gentle-voiced woman say, "and I have made many investments—some in ambition, some in hatred, some in love and some in material gain. But I have found that 'the investment that has paid the best of all was that I made in friends.'"

IT COSTS NOTHING; PAYS WELL.

It is an investment that requires no expenditure of time or money. Just a little expenditure of thoughtfulness, a kindness, or a true word, and every stopping-off place, be it ever so brief, is marked by a friend.

It becomes no longer a memory of enforced exile among strangers; it becomes a pleasing recollection of a friend.

And I would not have you end your sojourn with making friends—which, though the greatest of all, is not all.

I would have you make of your abiding place, no matter how temporary, a home.

Women who travel much, and who are compelled by circumstances to know the loneliness of barren rooms in lodging houses and hotels, have applied this advice of Ruskin to their material possessions.

They are prepared to sojourn there as if it is to be for life, and carry with them a pretty picture or two, little odds and ends of draperies, photographs and all the little knick-knacks which will go in one corner of a trunk, and which make a strange room look like a home.

As quickly as if the traveler waved an enchantress' wand, the look of an empty abiding place is gone, and a homelike room takes its place.

Little pains, but big gains, for no one can do her best when oppressed by the feeling that everything around is only temporary.

Such an atmosphere is conducive to disregard of others, and a too concentrated regard of self.

If one thinks, "What's the use of hanging up a picture? There is no one but me to see it!" the next thought is "What's the use of being kind and polite and agreeable? I won't be here long."

OUTWARD THINGS HELP THE HEART.

The outward evidence of home and permanency result in an inward ambition to match it.

If the eyes get a homelike feeling, the heart seeks it, also, and finds it in making friends of those who were strangers yesterday, and who may never be seen after tomorrow.

There is little counts more in character-building than this feeling of permanency. The girl who learns her first lesson in the book with the belief that she will go through it to the end has a lesson learned well.

The girl who has a position downtown and does her work thinking that she may not be there more than a few weeks is controlled by the spirit of indifference, and never does it well.

If a girl regards today as the beginning of many days, she is more careful, more thoughtful and more kindly. She knows that today is the beginning of all time if she gets the idea of permanency in control.

I do not believe that anything is a greater test of character than behavior at a stopping-off place. It is easy to be rude and flippant and thoughtless if one thinks that one moves on tomorrow.

For that reason, one should KNOW the truth of what Ruskin says, and keep it in heart and mind, whether the stay is for an hour, a week, a month or for life.

"Tis a good and safe rule," he wrote, "to sojourn in every place as if you meant to spend your life there, never omitting an opportunity of doing a kindness, or speaking a true word, or making a friend."

SWEET PEA LINEN.

Line of a soft sweet pea shade of pink, rather than the vivid shade which used to be called "rose pink," allied to dove gray, is responsible for some of the most charming of the new costumes. The tones of the revers and cuffs of gray linen is repeated in the coat lining of gray wasing silk. The same idea of a revers is often reproduced with excellent effect on the double skirt, giving the upper part the appearance of having been folded back to reveal a gray lining.

Little Navy Blue Skirt

[By Minna Irving.]

Little navy blue skirt, I must lay you away. In the drawer with the treasures of study and play. Your buttons are gone, there are rips in your braid. You are faded, and wrinkled, and mended, and frayed. But the fancies of childhood embroider each fold. With wonderful patterns of azure and gold. And fables of fairies and princesses pert. Little navy blue skirt.

The Maytime of playtime is over for me; I must do up my hair a young lady to be. New joys may be mine in the place of the toys. The games with the girls and the romps with the boys. You are faded, and wrinkled, and mended, and frayed. But the fancies of childhood embroider each fold. With wonderful patterns of azure and gold. And fables of fairies and princesses pert. Little navy blue skirt.

Barefooted no more can I wade in the pool. Or go skipping the rope every morning to school. So, I'm dropping a tear on your pleatings of blue. For I put off my freedom forever with you. Good-bye, pretty doll, in the dainty pink dress. I am almost too big now to rock you, I guess. An' good-bye—oh, but these are the partings that hurt! Little navy blue skirt.

Dear Miss Grey: I have never troubled you before for advice, but think it wise to do so now. There is a certain girl who I want to meet very much. I know her on account of seeing her often, yet we have never been introduced. I know of one girl who could introduce me, but I hate to ask her because I have a notion that she would be jealous. I know her quite well, her parents know me, and calls have been made both ways. This girl has given me lots of hints and chances for taking her out. I, however, never cared enough for her to take her out and when I think she feels like that, I hate to have to ask her to make me acquainted with another who I might take out if given the chance; yet, this is the only person that I know of who could introduce us. Please advise me whether I could get an introduction in any other way, and if not, just how I had better ask my friend to give me the introduction. Thanking you, in anticipation, I remain, sincerely yours, "TOM THUMB."

A. Perhaps you overestimate the eagerness of the second young lady to have your company. If you have never given her any reason to think that you regarded her as more than a friend, why should she be jealous? You should have no hesitancy in asking for an introduction to the girl you are desirous of meeting. I hope she will feel properly honored by the favor you are showing her.

THE PROGRESSIVE DRUGGISTS.

Do Not Hurry

Calmness prolongs life, while hurry makes one clumsy and ineffective. Hurry almost always implies fluster and distraction. It spoils the good effect of an action and weakens the point of a speech.

Want of method is probably the chief cause of hurry. If people, instead of rushing at their work aimlessly, would take ten minutes to plan an orderly system they would rarely be obliged to hasten. Hurry is a serious detriment to health, for it causes one to breathe in a short, shallow, jerky way, which prevents the proper use of the diaphragm. Speed may be prevented and peace restored by stopping to take a dozen long, deep inhalations. I have seen beautiful women become victims of chronic dyspepsia from just that eternal hurry.

Just as a good business man plans his work, so should a woman plan her day's duties, allowing for unexpected interruptions. When you plan for some important appointment that will take ten minutes, set aside 20 minutes for it. Then you will free yourself from that bad habit of looking at the clock, and both you and your visitor will be more at ease. Should the meeting be of a business nature you will find that much more may be accomplished by that rule.

No lovely woman need fear that she will be considered cold and indifferent if she takes time to think before she speaks. Nothing is more beautiful and attractive than a woman with poise. The French call it "savoir faire," meaning knowledge of the game, or knowing the right thing to say or do at the right time. The woman who thinks out and plans just what she means to do will accomplish all she has planned, and be inspired to accomplish even more.

We must have a true perspective, a proper proportion of things. As the Hindoo lives a great portion of his time in view of eternity, so we in the opposite manner cramp our vision and fix our eyes upon things that are but of momentary importance. They seem enormously large to us and of great importance, whereas really they are comparatively trifling, and if we are frightened at the trifles, if we could get the right perspective.

A Handsome White Serge

A new and becoming variation of the sailor collar is the most noticeable feature of this dress. The collar is made of cream white satin, edged with braid, the sleeves being trimmed to match it. In the back, it is cut like a plain square sailor collar and the closing is on the left shoulder.

The dress itself closes at the side front and a white leather belt is worn.

we would find ourselves thinking, then organizing.

Muscular relaxation is of enormous value for the purpose of preventing hurry. Smile with the eyes and relax the hands. Try this when you feel that hurried spirit coming on, and you will be surprised at the effect of repose it will give you.

When reading we are apt to hurry. The habit of reading a few sentences twice over will retard speed and cool attention to that habit to such a surprising extent that before a week has passed you will read slowly and thoroughly and with a better understanding of what you are reading.

A cup of water sprinkled over a bucket of coal prevents the too rapid consumption of the fuel and does not lessen the amount of heat given out. Either soft or hard coal may be thus doused just before it is to replenish the fire.

DENEAU AND TEMPLIN
SIGNING NEW PLAYERS

Berlin Gets a New Pitcher and Pates Sign Three New Players.

[Canadian Press.]
Berlin, June 11.—Pitcher Jack Woley, last year with the Jacksons, Mich., team, reported to Manager Deneau last night. The Berlin manager is making an effort to bolster up his hurling corps which is now in a badly crippled condition. Gibson, who contracted measles during the last invasion of the capital, reported yesterday, but his condition is such that it will keep him out of harness for at least a week. Bramble is the only reliable pitcher on the team, and he has been called to the bedside of his father in Kansas, while Bartlett is laid up with a sore arm.

Manager Templin, of Peterboro, is determined to rebuild his team and get into the race. Jack White, an outfielder, formerly of the Williamsport team of the Tri-State League, and infielder Byron, of the same club, reported last night, and Catcher Mower, of Philadelphia, is due today.

The Canadian women announced that they were willing to meet the American women in any size of craft, and also stated a preference that the entire crews be women.

WOLGAST AND RIVERS TRAIN.

Los Angeles, June 10.—Active training for the lightweight championship at Vernon, July 4, between Ad Wolgast, of Cadillac, Mich., and Joe Rivers, began yesterday in the camps of both principals.

Rivers' condition was said to be good. Because of Wolgast's operation for appendicitis, there was much speculation as to him. Aside from being slightly short-winded, his boxing was as fast as ever in nine rounds of boxing, however, and his punching power, if anything, seemed improved by his long period of inactivity.

Wolgast is a slight favorite in the betting so far reported, ten to nine being the prevailing figures.

JOHNSON DOING TOO MUCH BOXING

[Canadian Press.]
Las Vegas, June 11.—Jack Johnson, fearing that he will grow stale before the time for his match with Jim Flynn, announced last night that he will not do any boxing for several days. According to Tommy Burns, the champion's trainer, Johnson has been overdoing the boxing end of his training, and for the next week will do nothing but road work. Johnson boxed several rounds with Martin Cutler yesterday, four with "Kid" Calvin, and two with George De Bray.

LONDON SOUTH WINS.

A very exciting game of baseball was played at Queen's Park last evening between the London South and London North Juniors, the former winning out by the score of 7 to 3. Westland's heavy hitting and Baker's great pitching were responsible for the victory. Baker struck out ten men during the five innings of play. Batteries: London South—Baker and Westland. London North—Dalton and Carter.

DEALERS DENY BLAME FOR THE HIGH PRICES

Say That a Scarcity of Cattle Causes Beef to Soar in London.

Although the price of meat in the city has reached an almost prohibitive figure, the butchers of the city do not want the blame for such a state to be placed against them, as has been done in some cases. The butchers claim that cattle cannot be procured in the London district, and most of the meat sold in London is being brought from Toronto and other outside points, where there are stockyards.

The Advertiser interviewed Mr. J. A. Wilson, of Dundas street, yesterday on the matter, and he said that while the price of pork was cheaper than it was a year ago, the price of beef was increasing, and would continue to do so for some time yet.

"It is all nonsense," said Mr. Wilson, "this talk that the butchers are holding up the price of meat. Lots of these butchers in town that go through the country buying their own supplies for 24 hours within being able to purchase any cattle. Last Tuesday morning we received a shipment of beef from Toronto, and most of the butchers in town were at the car by half-past seven in the morning to procure a supply for the day, otherwise a meat famine would have prevailed."

"The trouble is that there is not a supply of suitable cattle for slaughtering purposes. There is no truth whatever in the statement that the price of meat has advanced because of the advance over the border."

"During the last year the price per pound of sirloin steaks has increased from 22 to 25 cents, round steak from 18 to 20 cents, and porterhouse steak from 22 to 25 cents. The price of veal has not changed because the demand in Toronto is not great enough for the calves to be shipped there. The scarcity of beef is partly due to the demand in Toronto, and the farmers can get more there than in London."

CHICAGO GETS BALOON RACE

Gordon-Bennett Cup Expected Next Week.

[Canadian Press.]
Chicago, June 11.—Word received last night by the officials of the Aero Club of Illinois that the trophy for the Gordon-Bennett race would be shipped to Chicago next week, settled finally that the race would be held here.

It had been rumored that the race might go to California.

Six of the thirteen entrants in the international championship have been certified. It was said here. Three entries have been received from England, while Holland and Belgium have named one each.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT
WILL NOT RETIRE

Colonel Lowther Says the Report Is Without Foundation.

Montreal, June 10.—"Absolutely without foundation," said Col. Lowther, aide-de-camp to the Duke of Connaught, this afternoon, when a statement published in the Manchester Guardian in reference to his royal highness resigning the position of Governor-General of Canada at the end of the year was read to him.

Col. Lowther said that the duke took the office for two years, and would occupy it for that length of time, with the possibility of extending his stay here for five years, the regular Governor-General's term.

The announcement of Col. Lowther may be regarded as an official statement from the duke on the subject, and was probably made after consultation with the Governor-General.

GIRL STRUCK BY AN AUTO
AS SHE STEPPED OFF CURB

Maud Dingle, Aged 14, Hurt On Dundas Street, Near Richmond.

Mauda Dingle, a fourteen-year-old girl, who resides at 123 Langarth street, stepped from the curb on the north side of Dundas street, between Richmond and Clarence streets, last evening and was struck by a motor car driven by Cyril Thomas, son of Mr. Wm. D. Thomas, of 569 King street.

The girl was knocked between the front wheels and received slight bruises about the head and shoulders and a deep cut on the side of her throat, that barely missed severing the jugular vein. Miss Dingle was returning from a night class at a business college, accompanied by a friend, Lizzie Hall, of 123 Langarth street, when the accident occurred. P. C. Edgar Foster and P. C. Marshall Box were both on the scene.

MISS MALECKA RELEASED

Czar Revokes Sentence Passed on a Young Englishwoman.

Warsaw, June 10.—Arrangements today were completed for the departure for London tonight of Miss Kate Malecka, whose four-year sentence for aiding Polish revolutionists was set aside by the Czar. Police were detailed by the prefect to escort Miss Malecka as far as the German frontier.

Miss Malecka, the daughter of an English woman and a British naturalized Pole, was accused of abetting the revolutionists, and the high court sentenced her to four years' penal servitude. The girl appealed to England, and the English press made a fight for her that resulted in her pardon by Czar Nicholas. Twenty thousand rubles had been raised in England, and the high court decided to return this.

Secret Service

By Cyrus Townsend Brady

CHAPTER III.

On the sleeves of Captain Thorne's coat the insignia of a captain of Confederate Artillery were displayed. His uniform was worn, soiled and ill-fitting, giving honorable evidence of hard service; his face was pale and thin, and showed signs of recent illness, from which he had scarcely recovered. In every particular he was a marked contrast to Lieutenant Maxwell.

"Miss Varney," he said, bowing low. "We were expecting you," answered Edith, giving her hand to Thorne. "Here's Captain Thorne, mamma."

Mrs. Varney shook hands with him graciously, while her daughter turned once more to the other man, with the acknowledgment of the order, which she handed to him.

"I wasn't so very long writing it, was I, Lieutenant Maxwell?" she asked.

"I've never seen a quicker piece of work," Miss Varney returned, that young man, putting the note in his belt and smiling as he did so. "When you want a clerkship over at the Government offices, you must surely let me know."

"You had better not commit yourself," said Edith jestingly. "I might take you at your word."

Nothing would please me more," was the prompt answer. "All you have got to do is just apply, and refer to me, of course."

"Lots of the other girls are doing it," continued Edith, half seriously. "They have to live. Aren't there a good many where you are?"

"Well, we don't have so many as they do over at the Treasury. I believe there are more ladies over there than men. And now I must go."

"A moment," said Mrs. Varney, coming forward with Thorne. "Do you gentlemen know each other?"

Captain Thorne shook his head and stepped forward, looking intently at the other.

"Let me have the pleasure of making you acquainted, then," Captain Thorne—Lieutenant Maxwell—

Thorne slowly inclined his head. Maxwell also bowed.

"I have not had the pleasure of meeting Captain Thorne before, although I have heard of him a great many times," he said courteously.

"Yes," answered the other, who seemed to be a man of few words.

"In fact, Captain, there is a man in one of our offices who seems mighty anxious to pick a fight with you."

"Really?" exclaimed Captain Thorne, smiling somewhat sarcastically. "Pick a fight with me? To what office do you refer, sir?"

"The War Office, sir," said Lieutenant Maxwell, rather annoyed, he could not exactly say why.

Aged, Wrinkled Faces Easily Rejuvenated

[From The Beauty Seeker.]

An aged face is often only a mask to a comparatively youthful person. Beneath is a countenance young and fair to look upon. It's a simple matter to remove the mask. Ordinary mottled wax, to be had at any drug store, gradually absorbs the worn-out surface skin; in a week or two the user has the loveliest pinky white complexion imaginable. An ounce of the wax usually is sufficient to complete the transformation. It is put on at night like cold cream and taken off in the morning with warm water.

This remarkable treatment is invariably effective, no matter how muddy, sallow or discolored the complexion. Freckles, moth-patches, liver spots, pimples, blackheads and other cutaneous blemishes, naturally vanish with the discarded skin.

To remove wrinkles and flabbiness, here is a recipe that cannot be too highly recommended: Powdered six-o'clock, 1 ounce, dissolved in 1/2 pint witch hazel. Use as a wash lotion.

A 10c. Bottle makes 12 Glasses.

Of course, you know about DALTON'S CONCENTRATED ORANGEADE. Fresh as hot right, sent in 10c. and 25c. bottles. Be sure to ask your grocer or dealer for DALTON'S CONCENTRATED ORANGEADE and get the best.

SUFFERED AGONY UNTIL "FRUIT-A-TIVES" CURED HIM

Hundreds of people gladly testify to the wonderful curative power of the famous fruit medicine, "Fruit-a-tives." To those now suffering with indigestion, Dyspepsia or other Stomach Troubles, this letter of Mr. Stirling, the well-known real estate operator of Western Ontario, shows the way to a speedy and certain cure.

Glencoe, Ont., Aug. 15, 1911.

"Fruit-a-tives were so beneficial to me when I suffered with distressing Dyspepsia, that I wish to inform you of their satisfactory results.

Although I have, in past, suffered agony with Dyspepsia, I am now in perfect health. "Fruit-a-tives" accomplished the desired result.

Thorne drew the flower from her and took her hand in his. They stood there quiet a moment, and she did not draw her hand away. "Well, it makes no difference how soon you are going away; you can sit down in the meantime if you want to."

"It is hardly worth while," he said; "my time is so short."

"You would better," interrupted the girl; "I have a great many things to say to you."

"Have you?" he asked, sitting down on the little sofa by her side in compliance with her invitation.

"But I have only one thing to say to you, Miss Varney, and—that is—Thorne took her hand in both of his—

Very different words had trembled on his lips, as he knew, and as the girl knew. "But I really don't think you will have to say that, Captain Thorne," said Edith slowly.

"I know I will."

Then, said Edith more softly, "it will be because you want to say it."

"No," said Thorne resolutely, and of his own motion releasing her hands, which she had allowed to hold without remonstrance; "it will be because I must."

He rose to his feet and took up his hat from the table as if the thing being settled, he had only to go. But the girl, with her secret joy, that he made no other effort at departure.

"Oh, you think you must, do you, Captain Thorne?" said Edith, looking up at him mischievously. "You are a very nice person, but you don't know all that I know."

A HANDSOME CUP FOR MAJOR W. G. COLES

Company "E" 7th Regiment Do Honor to a Retiring Officer.

Capt. W. G. Coles, who has commanded E Company of the Seventh Regiment for some time, was presented with a very handsome loving cup by Lieut. Shuttlesworth, Lieut. Parish, the non-commissioned officers and the men of his company last evening.

Capt. Coles has recently been asked to organize the Army Service Corps in this city, and has been given the rank of major. This necessitated his resignation from the Seventh Regiment.

Lieut. Parish, who is a very capable officer, during their association they had been closely allied, and the most cordial relations existed. The men wished him success in his new undertaking.

Capt. Coles made a suitable response, thanking the men for their kindness to him, and his connection with the regiment, and he hoped that the pleasant relations would continue to exist.

PLACE A COMPETENT MAN ON ELEVATORS

Recommendation of Jury That Inquired Into Death of Wm. Scott.

A strong recommendation that a competent man be placed in charge of every elevator in all such factories was contained in a rider attached to the verdict of accidental death returned by the jury which, under Coroner Dr. MacLaren, last evening, investigated the death of Wm. Scott, the 15-year-old boy who was crushed to death on Friday afternoon at McCormick's, where he had been employed but three days.

Dr. P. P. Drake, who conducted the post-mortem examination, submitted his report in which he showed that although the body had been jammed into a space of less than two inches, not one bone was broken, the pressure having been exerted across the abdomen and just above the hips. Death, he said, was due to the crushing just below the waist, and to the violent forcing of the blood into the upper portion of the body.

The Evidence.

Charles Hawke, of 81 Front street, Walter Dickinson, of 37 Weston street, Albert J. Gould, of 787 Colborne street, Cathryn Janice, of 411 Dundas street, and James Craig, of 3 Maryboro place, were also summoned. All are employees of the McCormick factory, and while none had witnessed the accident, they told of Scott going down on the hoist, accompanied by Dickinson, from the fourth to the third floor, and of later discovering his body jammed between the car and the casing of the elevator shaft.

Mr. Craig swore that there are four elevators in the McCormick factory, and that but one of them has a man in special charge. While others believed that the boy should not have taken it upon himself to work the elevator unassisted in the same manner as did men who had been there for eight or ten weeks, he had been operating the car prior to the accident.

Charles F. Drake was foreman of the jury.

OFFICERS GUESTS OF CITY COUNCIL

Army Medical Corps Men Entertained By the Mayor and Aldermen at Tecumseh.

THEY ALL LIKE LONDON

Guests Who Made Addresses Had Many Kind Things to Say of the Forest City.

The officers attending the camp of the Army Medical Corps on Carling's Heights were entertained to dinner by the city council at the Tecumseh House last night, Mayor Graham presiding, and with him was a majority of the members of the city council.

Among those present were Mayor Graham, Col. Jones, Lieut.-Col. Potheringham, S. M. O., Toronto; Lieut.-Col. Bridges, Montreal; Lieut.-Col. Rennie, Hamilton; Lieut.-Col. Shilling, Ottawa; Lieut.-Col. Beaton, London; Majors Drum, Richardson, Clark, Shilton, Ottawa; Bentley, Sarnia; Davey, Hamilton; Parry, Hamilton; Farmer, Sarnia; Hogg, Sarnia; Kingsmill, Cobourg; Capitaine Guest, St. Thomas; Cowan, Davis, Bucke, Irvine, Gallow, London; Ross, Hamilton; Harvey, Guelph; Kapelle, Hamilton; Laidlaw, Laidlaw; Fraser, Walkerton, and Hawlet, Ottawa, and Aldermen Spittal, Coles, Murphy, Handford, Bennett, Moore and Robinson.

Mayor Welcomes Visitors.

After the excellent dinner had been disposed of, Mayor Graham welcomed the visitors to London, and expressed the hope that this would not be the last visit to the city. London was a very beautiful city, he declared, and its advantages were sufficient to make the camp an annual affair. It was a pleasure to meet so many of the officers and men in military and medical circles, and he hoped that the acquaintance would grow.

Col. Jones, Ottawa, director-general of medical supplies, delivered a toast to the visitors. He was delighted to meet with Londoners, and appreciated the goodwill shown himself and men since coming to the city. Military camps were changing in their methods. In years gone by, they were excellent holidays, with a great deal of fun and frolic. Nowadays, particularly since the South African war, they were serious affairs, and the officers and men had little time to themselves. Hard work from morning until night was their portion. However, the kindness of Mayor Graham and the city council would not be forgotten, and he thanked them for the entertainment. In a humorous way, he dealt with the work of the camp, many interesting incidents being mentioned.

They All Like London.

Short speeches were delivered by many of the visitors, among them, Col. Bridges, of Brunswick; Lieut.-Col. Guest, St. Thomas; Major Davey, Hamilton; Col. Shilling, Ottawa; Major Bentley, Sarnia; Major Shilling, Ottawa.

"It is always a pleasure to come to London," said Lieut.-Col. Potheringham, of Toronto. "No city in Canada is so well favored as London. You have no slums, and 90 per cent. of the workingmen own their own homes. In addition each house is situated on an open lot with plenty of space about it. You have a number of breathing places. Your hospital facilities are perfect. You are to be congratulated on your favored situation, and visitors coming to your city cannot fail to appreciate these things."

"Speaking of the militia, I want to say that it is the duty of every nation to be prepared. War is not impossible. There is a German peril, and in my mind war is inevitable. It will come, perhaps sooner than we know. We should be prepared for it, and it is the duty of every man to be ready when the hour comes."

Excellent Water Supply.

Lieut.-Col. Potheringham, of London, on his excellent water supply. "Pure water is essential for every city, and it seems incomprehensible to me that there are so many towns and cities, surrounded by immense quantities of pure water, that have still an impure water supply. London is extremely fortunate in having the best water on the continent, and we as visitors have appreciated that fact since coming here."

Short speeches were also delivered by Lieut. Spittal, Ald. Coles, Ald. Moore, Ald. T. J. Murphy, Col. S. W. Belton, and Major Kingsmill. Major Richardson told some extremely funny stories.

SHORTER VOYAGE.

Tokio, June 10.—The duration of the voyage between Tokio and London is to be reduced by 10 hours from June 15. The schedule of the international lines which goes into operation on that date shows that the voyage from Tokio to London by way of Peking will henceforth be 25 days, while the Peking journey will last only three days.

The mail times are similarly to be reduced from July 1, and freight regulations are now being arranged.

WOMEN INDORSE BRITISH CHANCELLOR

The Liberal Federation of England Approves His Insurance Scheme.

London, June 10.—At the annual meeting of the Council of the Women's Liberal Federation here on Wednesday the report showed that there were 842 branches with 136,000 members. The meeting was divided over the question of woman suffrage, but at the same time it showed a leading toward making women a political force even without it. However, a motion to make suffrage a condition of federation was adopted, despite opposition.

A resolution was also adopted welcoming a promise of Lloyd George, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, to give time in the House of Commons to pass at this session an anti-white slave law. Mr. George, however, has not made any such promise. On the contrary, he said that while sympathizing with such a law, he could not promise anything in behalf of the ministry. The resolution also endorsed Lloyd George's national insurance plan, which was astonishing, as the women of England were supposed to be in revolt against it. As one woman put it, they were against the obligation to contribute their quota to the insurance of servant girls and collect the "christ" quota to or risk a fine of $50. The meeting was attended by many perceresses and society women and showed that much of the wealth of the country is on the side of Radicalism, despite the walls and protests of the Tory newspapers.

ORGANIC CHURCH UNION HAS BEEN ADOPTED BY GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Resolution of Committee,
While Not Binding, Is Solemn Pledge.

TELEGRAMS SENT
OTHER BODIES

Rev. Dr. Clarke, of Westmount,
Mover of the History-Making Resolution.

Edmonton, Alta., June 10.—Organic union of the three negotiating churches became absolutely assured by the unanimous passage of a motion in the Presbyterian General Assembly today. In a short and striking prayer to the Most High by Rev. Dr. Alexander Gilray, of College Street Presbyterian Church, Toronto, the great Presbyterian Church in Canada committed itself to the cause of organic union with the Methodist and Congregational Churches, with which negotiations have been carried on for eight years. Dr. Gilray's prayer was as follows:

"We give praise to thee for the great and blessed event of this afternoon. We give thanks to thee for all that our ears have heard. We thank thee and praise thee as we think of the years that are to come. We praise and thank thee as we think of all that this will mean to this vast new country. We praise thee as we think of all that it will mean to the endeavors of thy people in other lands, foreign lands. We praise and thank thee that in thine infinite and divine mercy and compassion thou hast brought these negotiations to so blessed and happy a conclusion."

The statement adopted by the assembly does not formally and legally bind the body to this course; but the denomination will never forget the solemn ceremony of this afternoon, and cannot ever, even if it is desired to do so, escape its consequences. In it the chief leaders of the union cause and the chief opponents of the proposal with the assembled delegates entered into covenant to test the plan by actual experiment, and to follow faithfully wherever they might be led by the great head of the church. Everything that was said and done both before and after the service in praise and prayer which concluded the discussion of church union was based on the idea that the denomination had terminated the controversy, and had entered on a new life under new conditions, and with new relations.

A Happy Result.
The act of the Rev. Dr. Scott, of Montreal, editor of the Official Journal of the church, who, through the entire controversy, has been the strongest opponent of union, in moving the decision of the assembly be forwarded at once to other churches interested, gave the final touch to the proceedings. Nothing remained to be said or done. For the happy result that has been attained, the church owes thanks to many leaders of the assembly, and among these Rev. Dr. W. J. Clarke, of Montreal, and Rev. Dr. E. D. McLaren, of Toronto, may be mentioned. Much is due to Dr. Clarke, the present head of the union committee. His very brief speech in the assembly made an irresistible appeal. It was addressed chiefly to the heart of the church, the argument having been presented in the committee rooms. Dr. E. D. McLaren made no statement in public, but was incessantly at work in the committee and elsewhere and the satisfactory conclusion of the matter is in some measure due to his sound judgment.

Discussed in High Spirit.
The spirit in which the discussion was carried on at the assembly was in the highest degree creditable to the church, and the story of the manner in which the subject was treated at this assembly is worthy of a place among its best traditions. The ruling conception was that consideration must in all cases be given to the views of the opposite party, and to the prevalence of this idea both the result and the spirit in which it was attained are due.

It was the expectation of the delegates that the service of the afternoon would be harmonious, and that the resolution would go through without much question. No one, however, anticipated that the interest of the occasion would be so great, and that so reverential a spirit would prevail. It was a partial realization of the dream of the best men of the Christian Church, and was a step in advance that has never been taken in any country of the world. The conviction that they were in the clear path of duty in pressing for the change had become imperative in the minds of most of the delegates and their joy at the final adjustment of the matter was correspondingly great.

The subject was brought to the assembly in the form of the report of the large committee, which was appointed on Thursday morning of last week. Dr. W. J. Clarke, minister of St. Andrew's Church, Westmount, Montreal, presented the report of the committee. There were, he said, three things which the members of the Presbyterian Church were anxious about. In the first place they were anxious that there should be no rupture in the church. There had been a serious difference of opinion on the question of union. The issue was one of great moment, and men differed honestly. It appeared that there might be an open rupture and this they were most anxious to avoid. In the second place they were anxious that the negotiating churches should not for a moment rest under the misapprehension that they were not dealing fairly with them. The effort was being honestly made to get the three churches together for a great redemptive work, and it was essential that there should be at all times the most perfect understanding between the bodies. Everything had been open and manifest and there was no doubt of the position of the church with reference to the subject.

To Bridge the Chasm.
In the third place they were anxious to formulate a plan which would serve to bridge the chasm between the old state and the new, between the past and the future. It was essential that some arrangement should be effected which would meet this difficulty. Today he was joyously happy, exultingly happy, to be able to say that they had a plan and a statement which met all these requirements, and which was supported by the entire committee which had had the matter under advisement. Everyone knew, he said, that the moment was a critical one and that the action taken would be decisive. He was glad to be able to say that the church was taking a great step forward.

Principal Mackay, who has been the chief opponent of union in previous assemblies, seconded the adoption of the report. The principal said that he found himself in a most pleasant position. He had heard with deep interest all that had been said by Dr. Clarke, the chairman of the union committee, and was able to agree with every word of it. He gave thanks to God that the delegates to the assembly were able to at least see eye to eye, and that they would in the future be able to move forward shoulder to shoulder wherever the Master might lead them. With reference to the need for union, and the desirability of union, there had been no difference of opinion. He had never objected to union; it was only to the special kind of union proposed in this case to which he had objected.

One thing was certain, namely, that no one desired to go back to the condition of mutual suspicion between the churches which existed before the present negotiations were begun. That condition could never be resumed. The statement which had been submitted to the assembly was one that he was perfectly ready to sign. The proposal was that the experiment should be tried in the manner indicated in the statement, and they should proceed as they were led by the Spirit of God. If those who had been opposed to union were convinced by the Spirit of God, there would be none in the church more loyal. One man fully convinced was worth

METHODISTS HIT TOBACCO GROWING

Strong Denunciation of the Industry By London Methodist Conference.

MR. M'KIBBIN TO STAY
Evangelist Will Continue to Work With Special Aid From the Conference.

[By Our Own Man.]
St. Thomas, June 10.—The temperance and moral reform committee of the London Conference yesterday recommended that the conference go on record as "uncompromisingly opposed" to cultivation of tobacco by Methodists. It recommended that all Methodists maintain an attitude of persistent non-participation in the industry in the hope that it will finally die out.
After some discussion, in which Dr. Manning, of London, fought a losing battle against the adoption of the report, the conference expressed itself as wholly in sympathy with the resolution submitted by the committee. The gist of this resolution follows: "That this conference place itself on record as 'uncompromisingly opposed' to cultivation of tobacco by Methodists. It recommended that all Methodists maintain an attitude of persistent non-participation in the industry in the hope that it will finally die out."

Tobacco Growing Spreads.
The tobacco is one which affects an increasingly large portion of the conference territory. Originally brought into prominence by the sermons of Rev. Walter Williams at Cedar Springs in the Chatham district, the tendency of the opponents of tobacco growing in Canada had been centred on that territory to the exclusion of other parts of the province. At this conference, however, it was shown, however, that Windsor district grew even more tobacco than is produced around Chatham. Moreover, the culture of the weed is rapidly spreading in counties where it has never been before, and several ministers claimed that horses and cattle were being allowed to starve because the land formerly used for hay and oats is now occupied by tobacco fields. There are not wanting ministers and laymen who deplore the action of the conference in this matter, one man expressing the opinion that the farmers would "snap their fingers at it." Most of the clergymen, however, hope for beneficial results from this positive statement of the church's position.

DIED AT BLYTH

Mrs. F. Richardson Had Been Seriously Ill For Some Time.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Blyth, June 10.—The funeral of Mrs. F. Richardson was held yesterday at the Bluevale Cemetery. Besides her husband, Mrs. Richardson leaves one brother and two sisters. Deceased was 66 years old and died on Thursday last after an illness extending over some time.

Rev. Mr. Hare, of Arkona, occupied the pulpit of St. Andrew's Church yesterday, and preached two very good sermons. At the evening service there was a very large congregation, on account of Rev. Mr. Fear, of the Methodist Church, being at the conference. At the evening service, Rev. Mr. Pearcey, of Londonboro, interim moderator, read a letter from the clerk of the presbytery, declaring the pulpit vacant.

Next Sunday Rev. Mr. McKay, of Thamesford, will preach in the Presbyterian Church.

CASE OF SMALLPOX DISCOVERED AT DURHAM

The Patient Who Is Quarantined Only Arrived From England Two Weeks Ago.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Durham, June 10.—A young lady named Flynn, who only two weeks ago arrived here from England, to keep house for her brother, an employee of the Cement Works, was taken ill two or three days ago. A diagnosis quickly convinced the medical health officer that she was suffering from smallpox, and the place was immediately quarantined. There is no fear of the disease spreading.

Though a Stratford company has received the contract for replacing the Lampton street bridge, work has not yet commenced. Little has been done so far by the townships in this part, who also suffered similar mishaps by the spring freshets.

Rev. Mr. Mitchell, a returned missionary from Bolivia, South America, addressed the congregation of the Baptist Church here yesterday morning and evening. Mr. Mitchell's talk on Bolivian affairs was very interesting. Besides dwelling on the missionary part of the situation, he gave good geographical and historical talk on the country, also referring to the customs of the people, products of the country, and other topics.

On Friday last, Mr. Neil McGillivray, of Glenora, died at his home at Rocky Saugeen, three miles north of here. Interment was made Saturday.

Rev. R. W. Wright has been transferred by the stationary committee of the Methodist Church of Hamilton conference to Paisley. Mr. Wright's departure from here is much regretted. As a pulpit speaker he has had few equals in Durham.

ELGIN BAPTISTS

Rev. G. R. Welch Was Chosen Moderator at Association Meeting.

At the annual meetings of the Elgin Association of Baptist Churches held in New Sarum, the officers elected for the ensuing year were: Moderator, Rev. G. R. Welch, B.A.; clerk, H. R. Wright, of Aylmer; president of Association of Mission Circles and Mission Bands, Mrs. D. A. Brown, of Iona Station.

Among the many resolutions which were passed was the following: "While we are strongly convinced that distinctly evangelical and spiritual work should always be central and supreme in every church, we realize that it is very important that every believer should endeavor to fully meet all the claims of Christian citizenship. By steadfastly standing for one day in seven for rest and worship, for all that is implied in temperance and moral reform, for the sanctity of marriage and the stability of the home, for commercial honesty, and for every phase of social purity, with all our fellow believers we are plainly required to show forth the meaning of Him who said to His followers: 'Ye are the salt of the earth.' 'Ye are the light of the world.'"

LUCKNOW ACCIDENT

Mr. Albert Milson Was Badly Bitten By a Horse.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Lucknow, June 10.—Albert Milson met with a serious accident on Saturday evening. He was driving down Main street and leading his black stallion, when for some reason it jumped into the buggy and grabbed Mr. Milson by the leg, inflicting a deep wound. The driving horse scared by the actions of the stallion, jumped sideways upsetting the buggy, and then made off down the street, turning down the gravel road toward Belfast. Here the buggy got caught between two trees and the body of it was left there, while the horse continued its mad career with the shafts and front wheels hanging at its heels.

METHODISTS HIT TOBACCO GROWING

Strong Denunciation of the Industry By London Methodist Conference.

MR. M'KIBBIN TO STAY
Evangelist Will Continue to Work With Special Aid From the Conference.

[By Our Own Man.]
St. Thomas, June 10.—The temperance and moral reform committee of the London Conference yesterday recommended that the conference go on record as "uncompromisingly opposed" to cultivation of tobacco by Methodists. It recommended that all Methodists maintain an attitude of persistent non-participation in the industry in the hope that it will finally die out.
After some discussion, in which Dr. Manning, of London, fought a losing battle against the adoption of the report, the conference expressed itself as wholly in sympathy with the resolution submitted by the committee. The gist of this resolution follows: "That this conference place itself on record as 'uncompromisingly opposed' to cultivation of tobacco by Methodists. It recommended that all Methodists maintain an attitude of persistent non-participation in the industry in the hope that it will finally die out."

Tobacco Growing Spreads.
The tobacco is one which affects an increasingly large portion of the conference territory. Originally brought into prominence by the sermons of Rev. Walter Williams at Cedar Springs in the Chatham district, the tendency of the opponents of tobacco growing in Canada had been centred on that territory to the exclusion of other parts of the province. At this conference, however, it was shown, however, that Windsor district grew even more tobacco than is produced around Chatham. Moreover, the culture of the weed is rapidly spreading in counties where it has never been before, and several ministers claimed that horses and cattle were being allowed to starve because the land formerly used for hay and oats is now occupied by tobacco fields. There are not wanting ministers and laymen who deplore the action of the conference in this matter, one man expressing the opinion that the farmers would "snap their fingers at it." Most of the clergymen, however, hope for beneficial results from this positive statement of the church's position.

PLAYGROUNDS AS AID TO WAYWARD ONES

Dr. Curtis' Meetings Expected to Result in Establishment of Recreation Spot.

The June meeting of the Children's Aid Society was held in the city hall Monday afternoon, when considerable business was transacted, and an adjournment made over the summer months.

The Shelter Home committee was given power to deal with all matters connected with the Shelter until the next meeting of the board, and Mr. W. J. Hill, was appointed a committee to advise with the inspector upon any matters of importance which might arise.

The inspector submitted an exhaustive report on the work of the society, and the various cases dealt with by him were carefully considered by the board. A number of these were with regard to boys and girls of wayward tendencies, and this led to a discussion of the necessity of playgrounds and properly supervised juvenile recreation as a preventive of juvenile waywardness and delinquency.

It was felt that the recent series of meetings, addressed by Dr. Curtis, would yield results in the early establishment of such places for the rational occupation of the leisure hours of such young people.

The board was informed by the president that a hundred dollars had been donated by a gentleman to provide a swimming pool for the children of the East End, many of whom have in past summers walked all the way from the extreme east end of the city to the foot of Dundas street in order to enjoy the privileges of the bath there.

Thirteen children are at present in the Shelter home, and several have been placed on trial in carefully selected foster-homes during the month. The board will not meet again until the second Monday in September.

RAILWAYS MARKING TIME AT PRESENT

Nothing New in Regard to the L. and P. S. R. Lease and Other Matters.

The report of Engineer Gaby and other experts in the employ of the hydro-electric commission, relative to the utilization of the London and Port Stanley railway, has not yet been received. The report is expected that it will be forthcoming in a short time. Hon. Adam Beck is of the opinion, owing to the announcement in Mrs. Beck's family, and will not be back for some days. In the meantime the report is being held back, and the company are making time, and have made no overtures to the city for leasing the road since their arrival in the city some months ago. In the meantime they are considering other propositions of advantage to themselves.

The Canadian Northern Railway have not been in communication with any of the city officials of late, and have made no announcement of their intentions. It is known that they would like to get an early date for the lease, and they will make a substantial offer in a short time.

It was also announced today by a gentleman in close touch with the railway, that the C. N. R. would devote their energies to obtaining the London and Port Stanley, and would not do anything to obstruct the railway. The season is getting on, and they will continue their enquiries for other centres for the time being.

GRANT OF $1,000 FOR PLAYGROUNDS

Special Meeting of Board of Education to Hear Dr. Curtis.

There will be a special meeting of the board of education this afternoon at 5 o'clock to hear Dr. Curtis. An effort will be made to have the board contribute $1,000 toward the movement. Many of the trustees are in favor of such a grant, while others are not clear as to the propriety of the grant. It is expected that an interesting debate will follow.

WHOLESALE MURDER

No Clues Yet as to the Guilty in the Iowa Mystery.

[Canadian Press.]
Villisca, Iowa, June 11.—Almost no positive clues have been brought to light as a result of the work of the detectives in Sunday night's murder case, wherein Joseph Moore and seven others met death.

The bloodhounds, which followed a trail from the Moore home to the river yesterday, losing it soon afterwards, were again used today. A detective working on this case, also helped in the investigation of the mysterious wholesale murder at Ellsboro, Kansas. He notes several points of similarity in the two cases. One of these is the use of a kerosene lamp. In each case one was found burning in the room where the crime was committed. Bloody fingerprints of the Ellsboro murderer have been preserved, and will be compared by experts with those in the Villisca case. It was planned to hold the funeral of the eight victims this afternoon.

Quebec, June 11.—Back from Ottawa, where he spent a week, Armand Lavergne was interviewed as to a rumor current some days ago that he had made a volte-face with Sir Wilfrid Laurier and gone back to the Liberal fold. He said there was no truth whatever in the rumor, and was a bit lost to understand the origin of the rumor. He had been discussing politics with a federal minister. He believes that Hon. L. P. Pelletier, postmaster-general, has no occasion to resign his portfolio.

HALIFAX ENTERTAINS BRITISH CAPITALISTS

The Visitors Are Amazed at the Wonderful Advancement of the Dominion.

[Canadian Press.]
Halifax, N. S., June 11.—This morning Halifax extended the hand of welcome to visiting British capitalists, and the plans of sight-seeing and entertainment have so far been carried out most successfully down to the minutest detail.

The party left Montreal at midnight and arrived in Halifax at 3:20 o'clock this morning. At the station on the arrival of the train, a large number of members of the party expressed themselves as more than delighted with the treatment accorded them since setting foot on Canadian soil, and as agreeing to the arrangements made by the Halifax Dominion, of which they had heard all too little.

After luncheon the visitors were taken for a sail about the harbor. They divide here today, half leaving for Sydney, the other half going to Western Nova Scotia to join another group at Truro on Wednesday night.

HOME RULE BILL IN COMMITTEE STAGE

Discussion of the Measure Is Expected to Last Until August.

[Canadian Press.]
London, June 11.—The home rule bill entered the committee stage in the House of Commons today, and discussion is expected to last at least until August, when parliament adjourns for vacation.

As the ultimate outcome so far as the House of Commons is concerned is a foregone conclusion, most of the members are expected to be absent from the debate, and the general public has become weary of interminable talk in which nothing new is to be found.

The Nationalist members themselves are showing patient expectancy. Their attitude is that the less said the sooner ended, so the full strength of the bill is expected to be without attempting to intervene or to prolong the struggle with unnecessary speeches.

Mrs. George Field and children are visiting with Mrs. Henry Field. Mrs. Bradfield is visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. Hollingsworth. Henry Lightfoot is at present engaged in assisting on the twelfth concession with a lot of bars.

BROOKE LOOKS FOR A RECORD HARVEST

Frost Did Little Harm and All Crops Are in Splendid Shape.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Napier, June 10.—The frosts of the past week did some harm here, but not serious. The fall wheat, which at first seemed light on the ears, is fairly good. The oats look excellent, also the hay. It is expected that the latter will be plentiful in this neighborhood. A very early frost in this neighborhood has been the best for many seasons. Farmers are much encouraged by the prospect of a good crop. All that is needed now is a few showers to give increased growth.

Mrs. H. Denning gave a party last Saturday afternoon to a few of the children of the neighborhood. A very early frost in this neighborhood has been the best for many seasons. Farmers are much encouraged by the prospect of a good crop. All that is needed now is a few showers to give increased growth.

The annual meeting of the Napier Women's Institute will be held on Wednesday, June 12, in the town hall. A splendid literary and musical programme is being prepared, and invitations have been extended to the neighboring organizations. The meeting is to be addressed specially by Miss B. THE TITANIC INQUIRY.

London, June 11.—At the resumption today of the board of trade inquiry into the Titanic disaster, Sir Rufus Isaacs, attorney-general, announced his intention of submitting to the court that the wireless dispatch which notified that ice had been seen in the route of the Titanic was handed to J. J. Hendry in his capacity as managing director of the White Star Company, because of its seriousness.

One of the admiralty hydrographers, Mr. J. J. Hendry, was called in to give evidence.

WAS TROUBLED WITH Weakness and Palpitation OF THE HEART.

Through one cause or another a large majority of people are troubled, more or less, with some form of heart trouble. Little attention is paid to the slight weakness of the heart, but when it starts to beat irregularly or intermittently, palpitate and throb, skip beats, beats fast for a time, then so slow as to seem almost to stop, then it causes great anxiety.

To all such sufferers Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills can and will give prompt and permanent relief. They do this by their restorative influence on every organ and tissue of the body. Mrs. John J. Downey, New Glasgow, N.S., writes: "Just a few lines to let you know what your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. I was troubled with weakness and palpitation of the heart, would have severe choking spells, and could scarcely lie down at all. I tried many remedies, but to all having heart or nerve troubles, Price 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont."

HURON COLLEGE ALUMNI ELECT THEIR OFFICERS

Annual Meeting Held On Monday Night—A Toast to Missionaries.

The annual meeting of the Alumni Association of Huron College was held on Monday night in the dining room of the college. After the banquet had been disposed of, the president, Rev. A. E. Applegate, proposed the health of the King. This being drunk, he then proposed a toast to the "Huron College Missionaries and Their Work."

This was responded to by Rev. H. Palmer Westgate, of St. Thomas, in a pointed and lucid address. He outlined the work being done by Huron graduates in the missionary dioceses in the Canadian West, dealing particularly with the work of Revs. Fuller, Simpson and Hutton, of Algoma, the work of nine or ten men in the Calgary diocese, and others in the Westminster, Mackenzie River, and other dioceses, together with the efforts of Revs. Blackwell and C. C. Flett in the Yukon. In the foreign field, Mr. Westgate spoke of the labors of Rev. T. B. Westgate in German East Africa, and Rev. E. W. Crawford in British East Africa, and Rev. N. L. Ward, M. A., in Honan, China.

Officers Elected.

The officers for the year were then elected:

President—Rev. W. H. Snelgrove, Windsor.

First Vice-President—Rev. T. B. Howard, Woodstock.

Second Vice-President—Rev. T. Dobson, Tilbury.

Secretary—Rev. H. P. Westgate, St. Thomas.

Treasurer—Rev. Arthur Shore, Ridgeway.

Committee—Revs. A. A. Elco, H. A. Wright, T. Hicks, A. L. Beverley, T. G. A. Wright, Jos. Tully, and Messrs. Duplain and Alexander.

The association passed a resolution of sympathy to Mrs. G. H. Elliott, of Tyronnel, and Mrs. J. M. Gagne, of Wyoming, on their recent bereavements.

The secretary, Rev. Mr. Westgate, was instructed to send the greetings of the association to the graduates of Huron College in the foreign fields.

The committee will take into consideration in next year's programme the jubilee fund for the Western University.

There was a large attendance of the members of the association present, and the keenest interest was taken in the proceedings.

TOBACCO PLANTING

SEVENTH WILL MAKE A BIG SHOWING

More Than Two Hundred Men Will Attend the Camp at Goderich.

A THREE DAYS' OUTING

Boys of the Work Corps Will Be Allowed To Leave For The Trip By Their Employers of the City.

From present indications the Seventh Regiment will take more than 200 men to camp at Goderich on June 23. This is practically 50 per cent of the enrollment, which is a much better showing than was made at Toronto, for any of the eastern cities.

Lieut.-Col. Campbell, the commanding officer, has been greatly pleased by the hearty response from some of the employers of labor in the city.

The McClary Manufacturing Company, the Grand Trunk car shops, and the Spring Bag and Mattress Company have all written him, stating that wherever possible, members of the regiment will be given leave of absence to enable them to attend camp. This will greatly facilitate the recruiting and help the Seventh Regiment to make a good showing at Goderich.

There was a large attendance at drill on Monday night. The men paraded practically in full strength. Company drill occupied the most of the evening.

It was decided to hold a church parade on Sunday, June 16. The officers and men will go to the First Presbyterian Church, where Rev. J. Gibson Inkster will preach the sermon.

The Cockburn memorial, erected by the Regimental Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire, will be unveiled on Monday evening, June 17. On that evening the regiment will parade for the last time before going to camp, and it is expected that a large attendance of the men will be on hand, not only for the parade, but for the unveiling.

Capt. Spittal will be range officer for Saturday next.

QUEST TO BE HELD IN SARNIA DEATH

William Palmer Was Found Sitting Dead in Room in St. Clair Hotel.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Sarnia, June 11.—An inquest will be held today into the death of William Palmer, who was found sitting dead in a chair in the sitting room of the St. Clair Hotel late last evening. Palmer was 26 years old, and an Englishman. He had been employed about the hotel for a few days. It is not known where his relatives reside, although he had not complained of being ill; it is understood that his death was due to an attack of heart failure. Dr. Bradely will conduct the inquest.

DINED OFFICERS OF ARMY MEDICAL CORPS

Dr. Reason and London Medical Association Hosts of Pleasant Affair.

Dr. Clifford Reason and the members of the London Medical Association entertained the officers of the Army Medical Training Camp at Port Stanley on Saturday evening. A special car was chartered for the occasion, and conveyed the party, which numbered about 60, to the hotel, where supper was served at 7 o'clock. Dr. Clifford Reason, as president of the association, presided. Following the dinner, a number of toasts were given and some able responses made. The toast to the Dominion of Canada was responded to by Col. Hodgins and Col. Fotheringham. Col. Hodgins spoke along the lines of the vast opportunities that are to be found in Canada, while Col. Fotheringham dealt with the responsibilities that these opportunities create. Both addresses were interesting and instructive, and were enjoyed immensely. Major Drum related his experiences in South Africa during the Boer war, dealing with the terrible ravages of enteric fever and the means taken to combat it. Col. Jones, commander of the army training camp, and director-general of the medical service in the Canadian militia, spoke of the excellent service of the Army Medical Corps, which had its uses and its benefits not only in times of war, but in times of peace.

Several members of the London Medical Association spoke briefly, among them being Drs. H. A. McCallum and McWilliam.

FRITCH STILL IN JAIL

Security Offered For the Physician Was Not Adequate.

Detroit, June 11.—Dr. George A. Fitch, convicted slayer of Maybelle Millman, of Ann Arbor, who was recently granted a new trial by the supreme court, did not get out of jail yesterday afternoon, because neither Judge Phelan nor Assistant Prosecutor Jasnowski was satisfied with the two bondsmen that Attorneys Frank T. Lodge and Wm. Brown offered as security for the $10,000 bond. The inquiry into the qualifications of the two men who were offered—Jacob Summers, of 14 Canfield avenue east, and John W. Lathrup, a Greenview Township farmer—was not concluded, and will be resumed this morning at ten o'clock.

TORONTO MAN SUICIDES IN SOUTHERN CITY

Shoots Himself on a Street at Mobile, Alabama.

Mobile, Alabama, June 10.—An unknown white man shot himself through the brain between 12 and 1 o'clock this afternoon, in the rear of the theatre at Monroe Park, death resulting instantly. The body was found by one of the park employees who went to inquire as to the cause of the shot.

Dr. H. P. Hirschfeld, the coroner, made an investigation and declared it a suicide.

The man was attired in a suit of clothes with greenish stripes, wore a black hat, was evidently between 35 and 40 years of age, weighs about 145 pounds, and is about 5 feet 10 inches in height.

In a pocketbook found in his clothing was the sum of $5. The pistol which he used to kill himself was a 38-calibre revolver, which was found in his right hand.

A paper found in an inside pocket of his coat bore the name of G. W. Read, of Toronto, Canada. Inquiry at all the hotels failed to find anyone registered under that name.

The body is now in the custody of the city sexton.
