Ald. Judd Moves To Oust Hucksters From City Market

NORTHERN LIFE MANAGER IS DISMISSED AND SALE OF COMPANY IS PENDING

President T. H. Purdom, K. C., States Intention of Northern Life Company To Sell To Sun Life—Deal Is Delayed Awaiting Government Sanction—R. C. McKnight Admits Dismissal, But Indicates Fight For Control.

OFFICIALS SAY COMPANY IN GOOD SHAPE

R. C. McKnight, general manager of the Northern Life Assurance Company, with head office here, has been discharged from his position "for good and sufficient reasons," according to Alex. Purdom, a member of the board of directors.

A report from Toronto this morning states that a large insurance company there is arranging to take over the Northern Life, and credence is given to this report by the statement of T. H. Purdom, K. C., president of the Northern, who stated this afternoon that the intention was to sell the company to the Sun Life, but that the deal was held up awaiting government sanction.

Mr. Alex. Purdom, in an interview this afternoon, stated that the Northern Life was never in better shape than at the present time, and that so far as he knew there was no intention on the part of the board of directors to offer the company for sale.

Discharged Today

Mr. Alex. Purdom added that Mr. McKnight was formally discharged from his position today, following a meeting of the board of directors who after hearing all the facts in the case unanimously decided to discharge Mr. McKnight who will spend the rest of the day clearing up his desk.

W. S. Calvert and myself will be in charge until such time as a new manager is appointed," stated Mr. Purdom. Mr. Calvert, ex-M.P. for Middlesex, is a director of the Northern Life.

Mr. McKnight's Statement

Mr. McKnight in conversation with the Advertiser admitted that he had been discharged from his position. He stated that there had been no transaction between the Northern Life and any other insurance company as far as he knew. He declared that the Northern was in excellent shape.

Mr. McKnight added further that T. H. Purdom and confers had been trying to sell the Northern ever since the Canada Trust had taken over the Dominion Savings and Investment Society.

"The minister of finance and the insurance superintendent have prevented the sale," declared Mr. McKnight. "I am opposing the Purdom's control and am backed up by financial interests concluded Mr. McKnight."

EXPERT EXPECTS TO LOCATE NEW WATER SUPPLY

W. C. Curd Will Conduct Extensive Drilling Operations in District.

HAS NOVEL SYSTEM

W. C. Curd, probably the foremost authority on ground water supplies on the American continent, will be brought to London immediately for a period of 30 days, following the decision of the public utilities commissioners yesterday afternoon to have a survey made of the district with regard to well water for the city.

Mr. Curd, who was in London last year, acting in an advisory capacity to the Ohio Well Drilling Company, who unsuccessfully drilled several test holes here at that time, proposes to take a certain district in London and the vicinity and make a complete survey of it, regarding the possibilities of an adequate supply of water for years to come. He does not promise to find water everywhere, but he is sure that where there is water in such quantities as to be of any value, it will be found.

"The city will supply him with all information necessary as well as with the needed material and help. Mr. Curd will train an employee of the commission to carry on this work.

The search for water will not be by drilling in the ordinary way. Mr. Curd has invented an apparatus of his own design for this purpose, which is much more economical. His method consists of forcing a thin stream of water directed at a point in the earth and clay of this district, will produce results much quicker than the drill.

The cost of the survey, including material, men, and Mr. Curd's services will be approximately $3,000.

PROVINCIAL POLICE SEIZE LIQUOR KEPT IN BOATHOUSE

Canadian Press Despatch. Cornwall, Sept. 21.—Provincial police, assisted by local officers, yesterday raided seven boathouses on the banks of the St. Lawrence River and arrested six persons. It is reported the officers confiscated 78 bags, each containing 24 bottles of whiskey and beer. Several hundred people watched the seizure, the proceeds of which took five automobiles to transport to the town hall, where it is now locked in the cells. The prisoners taken will appear in police court this morning for preliminary hearing.

BECK SUBMITS OBJECTION TO RICHMOND STREET JOB; NEAR SAYS "NOT SERIOUS"

Mayor Wenige Expresses Satisfaction With the City Engineer's Opinion, Although Minor Changes in Fairlie's Report Are Adopted.

Sir Adam Beck today submitted his objections to the manner in which the Richmond street job is being constructed in the form of a memorandum from T. U. Fairlie, railway engineer of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

Sir Adam explained to the Advertiser this morning that the memorandum which appears below is virtually a comparison of the construction methods now employed on Richmond street with those which the hydro-engineers have found most efficient.

The two methods are illustrated in the diagram above. Mayor Wenige, when questioned by the Advertiser this morning, stated that Sir Adam's objections are not serious.

"Nothing that I would consider very serious," stated Mayor Wenige. "What is the answer then," pronounced Mayor Wenige. "Put at the end of the report 'not serious'."

"I do not claim to know anything about the manner of construction of the Richmond street job," the mayor stated. "I take the opinion of City Engineer W. P. Near. When he says that the construction is satisfactory, I take his word for it."

"Who asked for Sir Adam's report on the construction?" was another query from Mayor Wenige. "We authorized him to get a purchase price for the road, and if something definite in that connection is not soon forthcoming, we shall have to take other action."

City Engineer W. P. Near considered in detail this morning the several recommendations from T. U. Fairlie, who reported upon the Richmond street undertaking at the instigation of Sir Adam Beck; and his general comment is that none of the complaints are to be accepted as really serious.

As a matter of fact, the city engineer states that Engineer Fairlie admitted during the recent conference with Sir Adam and members of the board of works, that a similar construction laid in Windsor, under his direction, will have to be eventually smashed.

The city engineer reports, however, that one or two minor changes suggested by Sir Adam have been followed. As an instance, he explains that the blocks have been moved out to the ends of the ties, and kept away from the rail joints as much as possible.

He refuses flatly the claim from Engineer Fairlie and Sir Adam that the concrete is not being sufficiently tamped. "The concrete is being tamped," Mr. Near stated, "it has been adequately tamped since the job started, and will be tamped until the job is through."

"The concrete base," he continued, "for the roadway and the track is being poured in the same manner as the foundation for the Windsor road, being constructed under the direction of the same engineer who is reporting for Sir Adam here."

"The only difference between the Windsor job and this is that in that city they are using steel ties with three-foot centers and with eight inches of concrete under the base, whereas here we are using hardwood ties, 28 inches to three feet center, and with 12 inches of concrete under the base."

"All white oak ties are being used. Experts are being employed to cull out all other ties, and if any other experts choose, they may pick out what they consider are not white oak ties, and if such is the case, they will be replaced."

"New filling cabinets are today being installed in the office of H. E. Blackburn, local master, in the county buildings. The cabinets of four compartments are being installed by jail labor and are 20 in number."

RAZING LONDON'S FIRST GENERAL STORE.

It doesn't look much now, but 75 years ago this building was the general store of John Erskine and was the first of its kind in the city. It stands on the southeast corner of York and Ridout streets. The Hobbs Plate Glass Company are now rebuilding it, and will use it to house their new offices.

John Campbell, the founder of the firm of John Campbell & Sons, carriage builders, on King street, bought it from the estate of Simeon Morrill in 1855, and it was their family residence for many years. The Hobbs company have been in possession for about seven years. From John Erskine, grocer and drygoods merchant, to the offices of the Hobbs Glass Company is a span of 75 years, and is another step in the progress of this city.

DEPLORES ATTACK ON MAYOR WENIGE BEFORE MINISTER

County Resident States Ald. Wilson Showed Lack of Tact.

WHAT IS IMPRESSION?

What must be Hon. George S. Henry's impression of civic affairs in London after hearing Ald. William Wilson's "eulogy" of Mayor Wenige given at the country home of ex-Mayor E. S. Little, Delaware, yesterday afternoon? This is the question that county and city officials are asking today after Ald. "Bill's" speech.

After the minister of highways had officially opened the Springfield drive yesterday, the party motored to Mr. Little's residence where a number of speeches were delivered. Mr. Little, who is chairman of the suburban roads area for London and Middlesex, stated he was sorry that Mayor Wenige could not be present and called on Ald. Watt to take his place.

Ald. Watt was greatly taken by surprise and side-stepped gracefully, by calling on Ald. Wilson to speak for the mayor.

Ald. Wilson rose in his place and got rid of a number of remarks about highways, according to one man present, by the old saying that if you don't like it, you can't say anything good about a man, don't say anything at all."

"Ald. Wilson showed very poor form in attacking the mayor the way he did," stated one county man today who was present at the affair. "It was not the time nor the place to indulge in personalities. I always go by the old saying that if you can't say anything good about a man, don't say anything at all."

STRONG SAFE Baffles SPRINGFIELD BURGLAR

Fingerprint Experts State the Work Is That of an Amateur.

Special to The Advertiser. Springfield, Sept. 21.—Last night the office of Harris Bros., flour, feed and coal merchants, was entered, and an attempt made to rifle the safe. John Harris, on entering his office this morning, found the safe lying on its face, and showing marks of having been tampered with. He summoned help from the St. Thomas police force, and two fingerprint experts and a provincial constable arrived and took finger prints from the surface of the safe. They believe it was the work of amateurs, as one of the lower plates had been picked off and the attempt abandoned.

Had the burglar or burglars been successful, they would have had small reward for their pains, as the safe contained only a few dollars in cash.

CANADA LIFE HEAD SELLS INTERESTS IN IMPERIAL CO.

Stock Representing Seventy Per Cent of Imperial Goes to Four Men.

POLICY UNCHANGED

Toronto, Sept. 21.—H. C. Cox, president of the Canada Life Assurance Company, has disposed of his financial interest in the Imperial Life Assurance Company, it became known today. His stock, which was 70 per cent of the Imperial Life, was taken over by Messrs. G. A. Morrow, Toronto; W. S. Morrow, Peterboro; F. J. Weston, Toronto, and Frank P. Wood, Toronto. George A. Morrow is the new president of the Imperial Life, having succeeded Mr. Cox to that position when the latter became president of the Canada Life.

The Imperial Life was organized in 1897, and is reputed to be one of the strongest of the younger insurance companies. It is capitalized at $1,000,000, and the paid-up capital is $450,000.

"No changes of policy will result from the transfer of Mr. Cox's interest," said Mr. Weston, when the Advertiser interviewed him today about the transaction. "Through there is no financial connection between the Canada Life and the Imperial Life, the companies are on the most friendly terms possible. The Advertiser was told that Mr. Cox disposed of his interest in the Imperial Life because he considered it rather anomalous that while president of the Canada Life he should continue to hold a controlling interest in the Imperial."

Israel Taylor, manager of the Imperial Life in London, has no information as to whether the change in the Imperial Life transaction would effect the Canada Life Assurance Company. At this session the committee expects to deal with the reverse is correct.

It is Ald. Judd's further proposal that the "hucksters" shall be limited to certain spaces on the market and that their activities be further supervised with other regulations. The chief complaint he says, is that they leave their vehicles on the market overnight and in fact for days at a stretch in order to keep a "choice" location.

"This sort of thing must cease," Ald. Judd warned, "I inspect a market on more than one occasion and I know for a fact that one old rig Turn to Page 2, Column 5.

PRODUCERS INCREASE PRICE OF HARD COAL

Revised Wage Scale Direct Cause of Higher Anthracite Quotations.

Special to The Advertiser. Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 21.—An anticipated increase in the price of domestic anthracite coal at the mines, because of the 10 per cent increase in wages under the new contract, went into effect today.

The new price lists of several large producing companies increased, ranging from 60 to 90 cents per ton at the mines. The Susquehanna Coaleries Company increased the price of egg stove and chestnut 60 cents per ton, while the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company increased the price 30 cents per ton on the same sizes. The Delaware and Hudson Company's list showed an average increase of 70 cents per ton.

Some company officials expressed the opinion that retailers would not place the entire increase on the consumers.

HARRY ATTRIDGE TAKEN TO ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL AFTER ACCIDENT

Mayor Wenige's action in ordering Market Clerk Charles Maker to see that all rigs were removed from the market square last night is indirectly responsible for Harry Attridge, a florist residing on Oxford street, west, being in St. Joseph's Hospital with a long cut on his skull and a cut and bruised arm.

Attridge, who sells flowers on the market, was notified that he would have to remove his outfit from the square, and did not make the trip to the market early in the evening owing to the severe storm. About 11 p.m. he started for the market, leading his horse along the road and swinging a lighted lantern.

When Attridge arrived at the corner of Talbot and Mill streets, a motor car driven by a man named Cawston swooped down, sending Attridge crashing to the pavement with the injuries noted above. Cawston stopped his car as quickly as possible and hurried the injured man to the hospital. Later he returned to the scene of the accident with a friend and led the horse home.

The Attridge family was quite worried over the non-appearance of the father and they made a trip to the hospital after midnight to see him.

Dr. W. J. Tillman, who attended Mr. Attridge, stated this afternoon that his patient was progressing favorably and would be able to leave the hospital tomorrow.

SIR ADAM RIDICULES A F CHICAGO EXPERTS

Beck States Chicago Representatives Trying To Gain By Sentimental Appeal Concessions to Which They Have No Right

Sir Adam Maintains Argument Advanced by Americans Is "Propaganda."

CITES THE TREATY London Member Shows How Canada Hydro Interests Would Be Hampered.

Statements of President W. J. Healy of the Chicago sanitary district attacking the Ontario Hydro Commission's claim that the power rights of this province were being infringed, were labelled "propaganda" and "deliberate attempt to arouse sympathy" by Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, here today.

Sir Adam claims Chicago has no legal right to a diversion of Ontario waters for any purpose whatever, and adds that an advertising organization has been established in Toronto with the object of spreading propaganda which might further the ambitions of the Chicago representatives.

"I happen to know there is a concern in Toronto which has been recently formed for the explicit purpose of disseminating any opposition there might be to the wishes of Chicago," Sir Adam said. "The idea is to arouse sympathy at Ottawa on the grounds that in the interests of the health of the American city this province should give up many of her power advantages. Mr. Healy's aim is to swerve the Canadian public to his way of thinking, so he will be able to place his proposals before Ottawa and get a sympathetic hearing."

The hydro chairman declared further that if, as Mr. Healy alleges, Chicago has a legal right to a diversion of Ontario waters, he should use it. The reason he doesn't use it is that he knows he hasn't got it.

No Provision in Treaty. The treaty of 1909-1910 makes no provision for diversion of waters of the Great Lakes from Canada to the United States," Sir Adam said. "Chicago is trying to prejudice public opinion in its favor by saying that public health and sanitation necessitate the use of Ontario waters by Chicago for sewage disposal. As a matter of fact, Chicago does not want our water exclusively for sanitary purposes, as I shall proceed to show."

The Chicago engineer admitted that the sewage problems of his city could be overcome without having to use the waters of the Great Lakes. But the process would be much more expensive. This proves that Healy is looking on the matter entirely from the standpoint of dollars and cents. The Chicago men hope to get our money by making one of those sentimental appeals, while the actual merits of the controversy remain obscured.

The hydro knight said the object of the Chicago representatives were threefold. First, they wanted additional hydro power for their city for other purposes than sewage disposal. The Public Ownership bill, which the United States asked some years ago if it would not be possible for Ontario to relinquish a part of her power resources for this purpose.

Secondly, they desired a substantial slice of Canadian waters to benefit navigation and generate electricity for industrial uses. And thirdly, they wish to save themselves the expense of installing sanitary sewage disposal by scientific methods.

Sir Adam Beck, who claims that Chicago's application to divert lake waters for sanitation purposes cannot be granted. He states, to deviate the flow would be highly detrimental to hydro interests in the province.

Ontario Hydro Commission. He believed Mr. Healy and his staff of experts were not sincere.

Has No Legal Rights. "Chicagoans know they have no legal right to our waters, so they are attempting to get what they want by making a big noise over the so-called moral right. But they are not going to get it."

Questioned as to the possibility of Canadian power sources being deviated to the United States in the future, Sir Adam said such a thing would have to be arranged by treaty. He was inclined to think they would never get more than they now have, however.

The proposed diversion desired by Mr. Healy is equal to the flow of the Nipissing River, he added. It would hinder power development now being carried on below Niagara Falls by four Canadian companies. The Chicago experts talk about Canada's compensation in the form of the 11,000 extra feet owned by this country at Niagara over and above the United States' share. But this is Canada's fortune and the United States' misfortune.

A branch of Chicago power interests has been established at Toronto, and through the medium of the press they hope to curry favor with the public by resorting to this ridiculous health cry. But it will do them no good," Sir Adam Beck concluded.

What we have we hold.

CAPTURE ALLEGED THIEVES AFTER RUNNING BATTLE Canadian Press Despatch. Montreal, Sept. 21.—Following a chase in the heart of the city's shopping section yesterday, during which four revolver shots were fired by detectives, two alleged auto tire thieves were captured and held for the police by the caretaker of a local jewelry firm. The men, who gave their names as Walter Edwards, 29, no address, and Laurence Cunningham, 19, no address, will be arraigned in court today.

President Healy of Chicago Sanitary District, Scores Beck's Methods.

SEES HYDRO'S WRECK Claims Health of Great City Paramount to Interests of Corporation.

Special to The Advertiser. Toronto, Sept. 21.—"Sir Adam Beck deserves credit for the way in which he has built up the hydro-electric system of Ontario, but if he pursues the same tactics he is just the man who will wreck it."

This was the parting word of W. J. Healy, president of the Chicago sanitary district, who waited on Sir Adam Beck yesterday afternoon, and was told that Ontario was opposed to the diversion of 10,000 second feet for the Chicago drainage canal.

"All we have to do now," said Mr. Healy, "is to report back, and I do not know what is the next move, but we are not going to relinquish our position. The health of millions of people is paramount to the interests of the gigantic power corporations. We have through our diversion of water cut down the typhoid rate from 171 per 100,000 to 1 per 100,000, and surely cold-blooded commercial interests are not going to be considered more important than that of human beings."

Hopes for Settlement. Mr. Healy is, however, hopeful of an amicable settlement being reached at a conference between the engineers of hydro and the sanitary district.

"Upon the morning of our arrival here we found that Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, representing the power interests of the province of Ontario, and a subordinate use of water, had attacked and prejudiced the right of the sanitary district of Chicago to use a small percentage of the water of the Great Lakes for the primary and superior purpose, sanitation and public health."

"Let it be understood that my colleagues and I, as public officials, are charged with safeguarding the public health and sanitation of the people of Chicago, and its environs comprising a population of upwards of three million people. The treaty of 1909-10 between the United States and Great Britain, involving the use of boundary waters between Canada and the United States, fixes the use of waters for public health and sanitation of the Great Lakes, first, navigation; second, waterpower.

"In our meeting with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, Sir Adam Beck being chairman, for the first time we found the desire of public health to place the use of water for the generation of electricity ahead of the paramount use for sanitation and public health laid down by the treaty.

Expressed Willingness. "However, the result of our conference with Sir Adam Beck and his commission was an expression of willingness on his part that the great questions involved in the composing and harmonizing of the various interests should not be decided by the commission, but by conference, study and investigation of eminent engineers representing the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario and those of the sanitary district of Chicago. He, no doubt, was forced to this recession from his former attitude when he found that the twenty states along the Mississippi, Missouri, and Ohio rivers will not permit it.

Magistrate Orders John Allison To Remove Dog From City. SAYS MILD ANIMAL

Just an ordinary, every-day common variety of dog, who showed a partiality for biting the limbs of Miss Helen Mills on Saturday and Sunday last, took up the attention of Magistrate Graydon for some 45 minutes in police court today.

After hearing the evidence, the court decided that the dog must be done away with, but after an excellent plea made by the owner, John Allison, who works at the car shops, the court gave Allison permission to give the dog to some farmer who lives many miles away from the Allison residence.

"The dog bit me last Friday night when I was coming home from my aunt's," stated Miss Mills. "I was passing the Allison house on Hume street about 10 o'clock when I heard a growl and the dog ran out from the yard and bit me on the leg. It is a black and white dog, and not very big, and he grabbed me by the leg. "Had you annoyed the dog?" queried the magistrate.

"No," said Miss Mills. "I went straight to the street car and went home. I showed the bite to the lady I board with and put some peroxide on it. "The dog never bit me before, but it has run out at me," she declared. "Why didn't you complain to Mr. Allison?" asked the court.

"I went to complain to him Sunday afternoon with my mother, and the dog bit me again," replied Miss Mills with spirit. "He tore a big hole in my stocking and knee."

Denies Allegation. "Mrs. Allison said she was sorry and told me to go to a doctor's and she would pay the bill." "Is that true, Mr. Allison?" questioned the magistrate. "No, it's not," bluntly replied the defendant. "I don't think it's my dog. Now listen, your honor, there are a dozen dogs like that on our street. It is so dark at night that I don't think she can pick or state. I've had that dog five years, and it has never molested anybody."

Mrs. George Mills, mother of the complainant, was the next witness. "You'll never see the wound on her leg," she asked the court in tones that would do credit to a side show speaker. "Yes," replied Mrs. Mills, pointing out the spot on her own limb, half way between ankle and knee.

It is a black and white dog, and not very big, and he grabbed me by the leg. "Had you annoyed the dog?" queried the magistrate.

"No," said Miss Mills. "I went straight to the street car and went home. I showed the bite to the lady I board with and put some peroxide on it. "The dog never bit me before, but it has run out at me," she declared. "Why didn't you complain to Mr. Allison?" asked the court.

"I went to complain to him Sunday afternoon with my mother, and the dog bit me again," replied Miss Mills with spirit. "He tore a big hole in my stocking and knee."

Denies Allegation. "Mrs. Allison said she was sorry and told me to go to a doctor's and she would pay the bill." "Is that true, Mr. Allison?" questioned the magistrate. "No, it's not," bluntly replied the defendant. "I don't think it's my dog. Now listen, your honor, there are a dozen dogs like that on our street. It is so dark at night that I don't think she can pick or state. I've had that dog five years, and it has never molested anybody."

Mrs. George Mills, mother of the complainant, was the next witness. "You'll never see the wound on her leg," she asked the court in tones that would do credit to a side show speaker. "Yes," replied Mrs. Mills, pointing out the spot on her own limb, half way between ankle and knee.

Magistrate Orders John Allison To Remove Dog From City. SAYS MILD ANIMAL

Just an ordinary, every-day common variety of dog, who showed a partiality for biting the limbs of Miss Helen Mills on Saturday and Sunday last, took up the attention of Magistrate Graydon for some 45 minutes in police court today.

After hearing the evidence, the court decided that the dog must be done away with, but after an excellent plea made by the owner, John Allison, who works at the car shops, the court gave Allison permission to give the dog to some farmer who lives many miles away from the Allison residence.

"The dog bit me last Friday night when I was coming home from my aunt's," stated Miss Mills. "I was passing the Allison house on Hume street about 10 o'clock when I heard a growl and the dog ran out from the yard and bit me on the leg. It is a black and white dog, and not very big, and he grabbed me by the leg. "Had you annoyed the dog?" queried the magistrate.

HENRY OFFICIALLY OPENS HIGHWAY

Springbank Road First of Its Kind Built in the Dominion.

PRaises ENTERPRISE

The Springbank highway, the only one of its kind in Canada built with the use of the Robert Greene saw-edge double track, was officially declared open yesterday afternoon by the Hon. G. S. Henry, minister of public works, in the presence of a few highway enthusiasts, who have followed the construction of this road from its inception by the suburban area roads commission under the leadership of E. S. Little, and backed by the united and cordial goodwill of both the city and the county councils.

The minister, who was accompanied by the executive of the Ontario Good Roads Association, had arranged to conduct the ceremony at 3:30 in the afternoon; by an accident to the train on which he traveled he did not arrive in the city until nearly the time when he was due to perform the opening. The party on their arrival drove immediately to Belvoir, the home of the chairman, Mr. Henry, who they were the luncheon guests of Mrs. Little. It was 5:15 before they were in the east entrance of Springbank Park, and in the rapidly growing darkness of a day that was certainly not ideal for such an operation. The minister, surrounded by the circle of staunch road-builders, declared the road open.

"As an enthusiast in all kinds of roads," he said, "and with gratification and happiness in being here to open the first road of its kind in the country, I do cordially declare the Springbank highway open."

Visits St. Thomas.

The party took the 6:20 train on the L. & P. S. to St. Thomas and dined together in the Grand Central Hotel, afterwards spending the evening in the lovely old-fashioned home of K. W. McKay of the Railway City. When the cavalcade of cars and busses, the "highwaymen" came down the long slope to the park gates it spread itself out so that the road was lined by two rows of cars. In the front between stood the members of the commission and the association, and in the center was E. S. Little, who in an introductory speech declared the idea of this Springbank highway first mooted to the county and the city councils, it did not meet with absolute approval; there was some difference of the cost of the road, and it was some time before the happy arrangement was made whereby it was possible to go ahead with the construction of the road as you now see it.

"Associated with myself on the suburban commission, the city engineer, Archie Blake and Mr. Winfield, besides other members, who did a great deal to make the work a pleasure and a success.

Completed Roads.

"The commission has now completed in five years a total of thirty-seven miles of roads, and spent over $400,000 last year in grading and draining. When we came to the question of building this highway we thought that a permanent paved road was better than a gravel highway, a belief which I think will be generally accepted in passing years. When this road is completed it will have cost us $25,000. It consists of two ten-foot strips on each side of the road, with a space for teams in bad weather. The work has been done by the local firm of Boss & Brazier, and I think it is a great credit to them that they called on the minister to open the road in this manner."

The Hon. G. S. Henry, in a brief address, said: "It gives me the very greatest pleasure to open to you this highway, and to be here with you today to declare this road officially open. I was a member of the York and Toronto Suburban Area Commission, the first in the Dominion, and I have followed the work and expansion of its various branches with interest for years. Today there are fifteen such commissions in existence, and I am glad to say they are beginning to realize the importance of the highway building is a complicated science of which we know too little even yet. It is not so long since a road was first introduced. This particular highway is the first of its kind that I have had the pleasure of inspecting. I saw the original idea in the States some years ago, when they had the paving in the center and the gravel at the sides, so I shall look with the greatest interest at the service which this road, the invention of a Londoner I am told, gives."

Difficult Problems.

"The problem of building a highway that will be ideal for the motorist, safe for the teamster, and stand up economically in all weathers is both a difficult one for us, and an important one for the transportation life of the country. It is by just such useful experiments as these," said the minister, "that we learn the value of the various road surfaces and their economic usefulness." He then declared the road open.

Those attending the ceremony and luncheon at "Belvoir" were: Mayor Haven of St. Thomas; W. B. Doherty, city clerk of St. Thomas; City Engineer W. P. Near; James Gray, president of the chamber of commerce; T. J. Mahoney, M.P.P., of Hamilton; W. J. Nugent, M.P.P., of John Currie of Stratford; William Ross, warden of Middlesex; H. A. Brazier; Charles Talbot, county engineer; John Stueben, city clerk; John Greer, J. L. Robson, A. Rose of Brantford; Peter Ray of Waterdown; J. E. Jamieson, M.P.P., of Collingwood; W. F. DESCRIBES HORRORS OF JAPANESE QUAKE

First Refugee Reaches Montreal Following Disaster In Orient.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, Sept. 20.—A first refugee from the recent earthquake in Japan to pass through Canada arrived here today in the person of Major M. H. C. Brackley, adviser to the imperial Japanese naval air service. He stated that in his war service he had seen nothing like the Japanese horror.

Major Brackley was standing in the office of the Japanese navy department at Tokio exactly at noon when suddenly there came the tremendous shock. The whole face of the earth seemed to move, first vertically and then horizontally, and the earth waves. He, with hundreds of others, who were in the building, tried to keep their feet, crawled on all fours.

"Then we saw fires breaking out in all directions. The second shock came soon after I got out of the building, and it was even worse than the first. There were terrific rumbles and thunders coming from below the earth, while the ground surface was quaking, and we could see great buildings toppling in every direction."

THINKS POTATO CROP WILL BE AVERAGE ONE

Prof. Zavitz, O. A. C., Says Wet Weather Has Not Affected Yield.

Special to The Advertiser.

Guelph, Sept. 20.—In answer to a query as to whether or not the wet weather experienced lately would have a harmful effect on the root crops, Prof. Zavitz, head of the field husbandry department of the O. A. C., stated this afternoon that the potatoes, which were planted in the college grounds, and had been growing for two weeks for the last two months, and had been watered with the varieties dug were Green Mountain and Irish Cobbler, the varieties of the Ontario, and that "I think the yield this year will be fully up to the average," said Prof. Zavitz. "It is hard to say what influence the rainy weather is having on the crop, but I think it will be up to the average, but so far, I don't think it has done them any harm."

On returning he ran in front of a taxi driven by Ernest Basles, and on the wheel of the car went over his neck and head, inflicting terrible injuries which resulted in his death in the hospital, but nothing could save his life.

Six Nations Speaker Says His People Have Made Great Progress.

Special to The Advertiser.

Brantford, Sept. 20.—The hearing into the affairs of the Six Nations Indians being conducted by Col. A. T. Thompson at the reserve in Ontario, continued, and it is probable that another week at least will be necessary to gather information. All the sworn evidence is being heard behind closed doors. Public meetings are also held when the Indians are privileged to express their views. Colonel Thompson pointed out that unless both sides were prepared to express their views it would be difficult for him to render a true judgment. Up to the present the Pagan group of chiefs have refused to give evidence, but it is probable this section will come forward at a later date.

"GIVING SHIFT" TALK IS AGAIN DELAYED

Poor Attendance Causes Last Night's Meeting To Be Cancelled.

Unavoidable absence of a large percentage of the membership of the League of Nations Opium Commission, which is being held at the Labor Temple last night, prevented what, it is believed, would have developed into a crucial meeting.

The men were scheduled to meet to discuss the "savings shift" system, which was the subject of the first conference, and to determine a plan to limit the production of opium and coca leaf and restrict the manufacture of their derivatives for scientific and medicinal uses.

A delicate question arose today over the fixing of a conference for limiting opium-smoking. In India there is considerable eating of opium, and in order to embrace all forms of it used in the Far East the French representatives proposed that the first conference should consider a means for limiting the use of prepared opium, which might include both uses of the drug. This suggestion was not accepted, but preparation will be discussed at the second general conference.

Conference number two will be after the earliest possible date. Under the "savings shift" system, the members of the league or parties to the Hague convention, who are bringing in the United States, today's resolution also puts on the agenda of the first conference the study of means which should be taken by China to restrict opium production and use of opium which is said to be attaining great proportions.

Ethiopia will be admitted to membership in the league provided she will promise full adherence to the various stipulations in accordance with the convention as revised at St. Germain in 1919 and adhere also to the St. Germain convention for the limitation of private traffic in opium.

Eminent jurists still to be chosen will pass upon the vital question of interpreting the convention so as to recognize the competency of the covenant in her conflict with Greece.

VETERAN LOST LIFE IN LUMBER MILL FIRE

The body was recovered from the ruins this afternoon. Another worker, an Indian, was missing after the fire, but he turned up this afternoon. Rogers was an American who came to Canada and engaged in an expedition, and after the war married a Canadian woman, and he had been in the lumber business for many years. He was a well-known figure in the community.

WENIGGE ORDERS SUMMONS ISSUED FOR HUCKSTERS

Mayor Declares Producers of District Not Getting a Square Deal.

LET COURT DECIDE

Mayor Wenigge was on a market rampage yesterday, and as a result of the mayor's orders Market Clerk Charles Maker will summon a dozen alleged "hucksters" to police court next week, where Magistrate Graydon will be asked to interpret the city bylaws governing hucksters. City Solicitor W. Meredith will be on hand to look after the city's interests, the mayor stated, and if he loses the cases new bylaws will be framed in such a manner that hucksters will be absolutely prohibited from selling produce on the market square.

"One thing is sure," the mayor stated emphatically. "These people who are on the square every day in the week do not even recognize the portion of the produce they sell. This market is for bona fide market gardeners, fruit growers and farmers. They have the right here and they are not getting a square deal. I am going to see that they do."

One salesman on the market this afternoon did not even recognize the mayor when the latter asked him where the various articles on his stand were produced.

"Where these melons produced?" asked the mayor, pointing at several baskets of fruit.

"Mr. Welch, R. R. No. 4," was the reply.

"Where were these?" continued the mayor, pointing to a different variety.

"G. H. Coyes, R. R. No. 4," answered the man who went on to state that the melons were grown in Leamington.

A friend nearby signaled the information to the salesman that he was talking to the mayor, and the next melon looked at were grown by the salesman himself, he stated.

Will Receive Summons.

A dilapidated buggy with two tires almost gone and holding a lonesome pumpkin and an empty egg crate were next on the mayor's eye. He was later informed by the market clerk that the buggy had been there all night and the owner had not even put in an appearance this morning. The equipment was in one of the choice selling spots, and will likely remain there until the owner claims it on Saturday. When he does show up he will be summoned to court, the market clerk stated.

"It is just such things that we are going to get away from," declared the mayor. "It is getting worse all the time. It is a thing we know a regular producer will have a chance to get near the market square."

Mr. Maker has timed his action for Saturday, Sept. 23, when he will be packed in the best spots in front of the market house, they will be haled to court under the huckster bylaw.

After some conversation on the market as to what could be done, the mayor and market clerk retired to the privacy of the weigh scales office, and went over the market bylaw, clause by clause.

"No huckster shall purchase on the market or street of the city for family use," read the mayor.

"That's all right, but they order it over the phone the night before and have it delivered to them on the square," informed the market clerk.

"Makes no difference," declared the mayor. "If they order it over the phone, they must come to the market and pay for it."

"Hucksters' stands shall not be permitted," the mayor read on. "I claim that here is enough authority for you to have your opinion changed. The 'open market' means not only the market square and street, but the weigh scales office. These people have no business here, and it is your duty to see that they are removed."

"Possibly a huckster's stand means a stand made of wood in front of their wagon or autos," suggested Mr. Maker.

"Not at all," answered London's chief magistrate. "If a person is in the same spot regularly it would constitute a business, and you must claim that preference over the market house."

"You are wrong there," responded Mayor Wenigge. "You have the power, according to the bylaw, to have any wagon removed from the square. I will have my opinion changed. It is your duty to see that they are removed here today."

Will Carry Out Orders.

"This is what I here for tonight," reminded Mr. Maker, who acting on the mayor's instructions, informed the alleged hucksters they would have to take their rigs off the market tonight.

Another clause in the bylaw, according to the mayor's interpretation, forbids the selling of fruit and eggs on the open market. They should be sold in the market house basement, he declared.

"You would have some job stopping the selling of eggs on the open market," opined Mr. Maker.

"Well, there's the bylaw. It should be changed, then," came back his response. "It simmers down to this: That you have the power to put these rigs off the market. The early birds among the legitimate growers can't get a good stand because these hucksters are here first. According to the bylaw, no huckster can buy on the market before 11 a. m."

"All you have to do is to put these people off of hucksters?" asked the mayor.

"If they don't get their rigs off the market, I'll summon them as hucksters," declared the market clerk. "Are those your orders?"

"Those are your orders," declared the mayor emphatically. "Mine and those of the committee."

"I'll attend to the matter," promised the market clerk. "I'll summon a dozen of them for next week, and the court can decide their status."

"That's it," concluded Mayor Wenigge. "Get them into court. I'll be there, and I'll have my city solicitor there or know the reason why. He ought to be able to interpret the bylaws that he has drawn up. In any case, the hucksters have got to go. It is not fair to the storekeepers and the public at large to have these people buy up stuff and then resell it at a good profit to citizens."

TO MEET LLOYD GEORGE.

Galt, Sept. 20.—Mayor J. A. McIntyre and City Clerk Joseph M. Cartney have received invitations to attend a luncheon at Government House, Toronto, on October 9, in honor of Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1923.

Just an Old-Fashioned Letter.

On the eve of the departure of Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King for London to attend the conference of premiers, Mr. W. G. Raymond, M.P., of Brantford, took occasion to write a letter to the prime minister, wishing him a safe and pleasant voyage, and expressing the conviction that Canada's case would be safe in the hands of the premier while at this important gathering.

Mr. Raymond stated in his letter that he was writing in an old-fashioned way, to bid the traveler God-speed and a safe return. There is something wholesome about that way of doing business. Perhaps it is a little old-fashioned, but then Mr. Raymond would probably lean a little more toward an old-fashioned idea than toward an ultra-modern conception of things.

There have been many criticisms written as to what the premier should do or say, or what he should not do or say. There have been plenty to tell him when and how to speak, and also when to keep his tongue between his teeth. A man in the highest spot in our public life gets much advice, much criticism, some of it good, much of it undesired and not helpful.

As Mr. King goes away he leaves Mr. Meighen tramping the country east to west trying to paint a picture of ruin and decay; he has the Conservative press, well fed by an Ottawa bureau, hammering away at every loose end with the one idea of shaking the confidence of the people in the government they elected at Ottawa.

Under such circumstances, it is to be wondered at that the prime minister should be moved to say, in acknowledging Mr. Raymond's kindly, old-fashioned letter, that "your message brings with it so much of needed encouragement and strength that I am taking it with me to England, where it will not fail to be a constant support."

There's something intensely human in that phrase, and it shows between lines the keen appreciation men in high public places have for a kind word and an appreciative thought.

The New Bond Issue.

Bond dealers in Canada have not the trouble in disposing of government securities that they had ten or fifteen years ago. The public has been educated, and they know that a Victory bond is as good as gold. They have seen other stocks flutter and jump, while all the time the Victories stood pat or advanced their position.

That is why there will be a ready audience when the new issue to repay the five-year bonds issued in 1918 is offered.

A short time ago the finance minister issued $22,000,000 bonds for National Railways equipment. It may have been with some trepidation that the issue was put out, as it was the first test of the money market in some months. It went quickly and well, and the government got the money at 6.30 per cent.

The loan now offered is for $50,000,000 primarily, but ultimately for $172,000,000, the amount of war loan falling due this year. This should be good business for the government because the loan now being offered is taxable, paying off a non-taxable issue. Then, too, the 1923 loan was on a 5 1/2 per cent basis; the new loan is for a lesser yield, and the government will profit by the lesser interest charge.

Financiers say they can place the whole thing in Canada. Those holding 1923 bonds are ready to tie their money up for a longer period in a safe holding. It is a significant tribute, too, to the strength of the country that such an issue should be so successfully received just at a time when there have been upheavals in some corners of the financial world.

They Can't Print the Paper.

Pressmen in New York are on strike, and for that reason there have been no papers published there for several days. That is one of the prices an industry pays when it becomes highly organized and minutely specialized.

Were the pressman of a weekly newspaper in Ontario, or in New York State for that matter, to go out on strike, the proprietor or his foreman would probably announce at the supper table, "I'll have to go back tonight and run the press." And he would and could. An all-round man in a smaller office can do a multitude of things. He can hunt the news, set it up in type and print the sale bills, dash off a bit of editorial or write a good obituary, operate the linotype machine or lock up a job for the small press, collect enough money for the week's wages, or stand up on the platform and feed a cylinder press. He is an all-round man, and it's pretty hard to tie up any corner of the works as long as he's around.

But the big offices are full of specialists—experts in various lines. If a man were to go to a New York or any other large office, and get a story on the street, then proceed to put it in type and print it himself—well, he might get out of the place alive, but that would be about all. He would find the large newspaper office a huge machine, into one section of which his training might fit. He would find one staff of men writing the news, another the editorials; others providing suitable headings, etc. Then in the composing room he would discover operators, bank-men, compositors, make-ups,

Your Health: What To Do To Be Sure Your Baby's Food Is Clean.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.

Many young mothers have spent days and nights pacing the floor because the baby had the colic.

Such a seemingly simple thing as a soiled nipple, or an empty feeding bottle left in the crib, will cause these nights of suffering for the baby and anxiety on the part of the mother.

Perhaps some suggestions about the care of the baby's food and the utensils used in preparing it will be helpful. It does not matter about the age of the child or the kind of food, cleanliness is of the greatest importance.

the filled bottles in the ice-box where they will be safe from contamination until feeding-time.

Never make use of a nipple that has been dropped on the floor. Put it in a jar filled with clean water until you have a chance to boil all the used nipples.

After the feeding has been taken, the bottle should be removed from the crib. Otherwise baby must suck into his stomach from the empty bottle. Also there will be taken into the mouth the germs that may have collected on the nipple.

In preparing food for older children just as much care should be observed. Never leave the food uncovered or where it will take the taste of other foods. Milk and butter are easily contaminated by other foods. If possible, use a separate compartment of the ice-box where no other foods are kept.

Always give children fresh food, freshly prepared. Some little article of diet not strictly fresh will upset the digestion for days and perhaps for weeks.

then the stereotypers, and finally the pressmen, each of these specialists in their own class, and with perhaps no working knowledge of any other section.

So it is when the web pressmen strike in New York the boss can't go down in the evening, and run off the papers. As he wandered around through the maze of decks and plates and cylinders and rollers he would be helpless. His general knowledge could not take it in. The day of the specialist is in force in newspaper offices, and the larger the office the more acute and definite the forms these classifications take.

Lowering the Lake Levels.

A deputation from Chicago, representing the drainage canal scheme that has been taking water from the great lakes at the rate of 10,000 cubic feet per second, visited Toronto to discuss the matter with the harbor commissioners there.

The suggestion is that in compensation for the water taken there would be an all-water route between Toronto and the coal fields of Illinois, Virginia and Pennsylvania. Such a scheme would take even more water from the great lakes, and Canada is not interested in a waterway to that district.

The Chicago deputation should address themselves to Ottawa, and Ottawa should refer them back to Washington.

Let's All Get Up on the Scales.

A speaker at a meeting in a schoolroom not far from here referred to the "lack of respect on the part of children today for their elders." On the same day Dr. Henry Neumann was speaking at the annual conference of state normal schools at Bridgewater, Mass., and he referred to "the manners of the school children," placing a fairly low estimate on them.

So at two quite well-removed points the rising generation was put on the scales while mature and quite critical hands adjusted the weights and found the young people wanting.

We wonder if some of these people who act as prosecuting counsel, judge and jury ever stop to look back at their own youth. It might do them a world of good to climb up on the scales and hark back to the days when first impulses had precedence over the mature judgment they now profess to possess.

Let the critical father and mother stop a bit some time. Were they always kind, courteous, considerate, obedient, tidy, punctual, always keen to make the very most of every opportunity, always on the lookout to consider the feelings of others, and so forth? Those are the counts on which speakers are always ready to indict the teen age generation of today.

No generation of youngsters has ever been right up to the 100 per cent mark, and the chances are that those coming along today have about the same batting average as those who criticize them were showing at a similar age.

Joint Action Is Possible.

If two farmers found a third unknown and unlawful party using their premises for an object to which they mutually objected, common sense would cause these two farmers to come together to see what could be done about it.

Canadian-made liquor is finding its way into United States, although the government of that country has stamped such a traffic as illegal.

The highest court to which an appeal can be made is not one of law, for law bends and shapes itself according to the fears and wishes of those who are always ready to hide behind such queer words as ultra vires.

National and international honor and common sense can do what law has not done. Canada has a high sense of honor and so has United States. Two honorable neighbors should not have much trouble in leaning over the line fence and determining how best to put the hobbles on international bootleggers.

Note and Comment.

Old Man Winter presented his card, but at present our friend Warm Weather has him shoved off the end of the waiting list.

We may be a little dense, but we fall to see the idea of having a car that can make 60 to 70 miles an hour in a land where 25 is the legal rate.

Although there's a revolution in Spain, it's still possible to get Spanish onions at three pounds for a quarter. There's something wrong with the manipulators of the revolution or the onions. A revolution that would not make those onions worth 50 cents a pound is not a revolution at all.

The Renfrew Mercury turned out a 36-page Old Boys' paper that is good from 1 right on to 36. Mr. Rupert Davies, who formerly published the Thamesville Herald, has given Renfrew a real paper, and the amount of business carried leads to the belief that Renfrew has fully appreciated the fact.

The Moderation League of Ontario is out after some more money. Inside a large envelope it sends a smaller one, along with a card. They are out for a system of government control, and they plead for a donation from a dollar up in order that they may carry on their plans for having more-liquor sold in Ontario than is consumed at present.

Sir Henry Thornton says he has found a town in Canada which doesn't want a new station. Dollars to doughnuts it is not either Hamilton or London.—St. Catharines Standard.

The town referred to is Toronto, sure enough. It wants some noisy, smoky trains to run into and through its new station. The place is like a man who's had a new car for six months, but no gas to put in the tank.

WHICH WAY ARE WE MOVING? Strangers and pilgrims on the earth.—Hebrews xii, 13. Wherever you are, and whoever you may be, there is one thing in which you and I are just alike, at this moment, and in all the moments of our existence. We are not at rest; we are on a journey. Our life is not a mere fact; it is a movement, a tendency, a steady, ceaseless progress towards an unseen goal. We are gaining something, or losing something, every day. Even when our position and our character seem to remain precisely the same, they are changing. For the mere advance of time is a change. It is not the same thing to have a bare field in January and in July. The season makes the difference. The limitations that are childlike in the child are childish in the man. Everything that we do is a step in one direction or another. Even the failure to do something is in itself a deed. It sets us forward or backward. The action of the negative pole of a magnet is just as real as the action of the positive. To decline is to accept—the other alternative. Are you richer today than you were yesterday? Then you are a little poorer. Are you better today than you were yesterday? Then you are a little worse. Are you nearer to your port today than you were yesterday? Yes—you must be a little nearer to some port or other; for since your ship was first launched upon the sea of life, you have never been still for a single moment; the sea is too deep, you could not find an anchorage if you would; there can be no pause until you come into port. Why Japan Looks to The Red Cross.

Here are some brief facts which might help to bring home to you the awful calamity which has overtaken Japan.

- Q A million Japanese people killed or injured—more than that number homeless.
Q In Tokio, Japan's capital city, 250,000 homes and business places have been razed and burnt.
Q Yokohama (a city the size of Toronto) almost wholly destroyed—110,000 people killed or injured—more than half the city razed and burnt.
Q Many towns and villages throughout the country practically wiped out.
Q With appalling suddenness Japan has suffered more deaths and injuries than was sustained by the Canadian army during 4 1/2 years of war.

The Red Cross Will Help, Because:

- Q The Red Cross is the international handmaiden for the relief of suffering.
Q The Red Cross is the medium through which one nation comes to the help of another in distress.
Q The Red Cross embodies the spirit of universal brotherhood.

LONDONER THINKS HE CAN CAPTURE "NO SLEEP" TITLE

Cash For Night Owls To Stay Up Nights.

97-HOUR RECORD

Here's a chance for local night-owls to capitalize their remarkable staying up o' nights. A prize of $100 has been offered by a prize-spirited citizen in New York for a man or woman who will break the French insomnia record of 97 hours.

The idea behind the offer is that since America has all the pugilistic records, but one, it should not regard her reputation by letting a Frenchman hold the insomnia record. The long-distance dancing, swimming, and hot-dog eating records are also held by the United States. With the insomnia championship in her hands, America's athletic triumphs will be complete.

Local citizen declares, however, if the competition is staged he will enter and represent London. He thinks he can get the honor for Canada. Even as a boy he never cared much for bed, and this antipathy has been strengthened at manhood.

The Shik of insomnia. "I believe I could go to a dozen jazz parties in a row and not feel it," he said proudly. "I'm the Shik of insomnia. Like Edison, I never sleep more than three hours a day. I'm the guy that put the fire in Fire."

The only time, the gentleman added, that he could sleep was when there was any work to be done. The thought of work acted on him like a bromide. It hypnotized him to slumber. But when the sound of sweet music was wafted to his ears he became as nervous as a pound of jelly. He thinks he can beat the French record for sleeplessness by about 200 hours.

In the meantime arrangements are being made and rules drawn up to stage the world championship insomnia contest. If the contest materializes the youth referred to above will enter in the name and glory of London.

Sleep Not Needed.

Certain citizens whose neighbors are accustomed to singing "Good-bye Forever" at midnight, claim practice has made them nearly perfect sleepers. They do not require sleep any more, their wives have taught them to look after "junior" when junior is in the throes of one of his long-distance howling spells, claim they too have lost the desire for sleep. All these things augur well for London's chances of securing the heavy-weight insomnia laurels.

A definite announcement as to when the battle against lethargy shall be held will be forthcoming shortly, according to unreliable dispatches.

English Actors Surprised They Have Seen No Indians

Won't Somebody Please Dig Up Some Redskins For Bransby Williams' Players?

"Where are the Indians?" This is the query which has been put to Bransby Williams, eminent English actor, now playing in London, by members of his "David Copperfield" cast.

Mr. Williams told The Advertiser that he had been telling the questioners all along there were no Indians to speak of in Canada, but they continue to assail him. They came to Canada to see Indians, and their appetite simply must be satisfied. Mr. Williams admits he is in a quandary. Even his wife and daughter expected to see Redskins and cowboys. In fact, that was one of the attractions that brought them to the land of the Maple Leaf.

"Surely," one of them said, "there must be Indians as far west as Ontario. We did not expect to see any in Quebec, but our geographies say there are plenty in Western Ontario."

LEADING DAIRYMEN TO ATTEND CONGRESS

Western Ontario Men To Go To Washington, Philadelphia and Syracuse.

Several of Western Ontario's leading dairymen have intimated their intention of attending the World's Dairy Congress from October 2 to 10, and it is understood that some dairymen of the London district will sit in the councils of the mighty, among the milk and dairy producers, in this world-congress.

The congress will hold its first two days' session in Washington, D. C., the third day will be spent in Philadelphia, and the remainder of the time will be spent in Syracuse, N. Y. The congress will discuss every phase of the dairy industry, starting with the production of milk, right through the ramifications of the industry, and concluding with an international exchange of opinion on the uses and food value of milk, and the various dairy products.

During the congress the delegates will attend the dedicatory exercises in connection with the official opening of the new dairy industries building at Cornell University. Those who are in charge of the arrangements for this first meeting of the world's dairy experts, say that it will mark the beginning of an era of better and brighter days for the dairy industry the world over.

MAYOR CONFIDENT OF WELLINGTON ST. WORK

Feels Certain Arrangements Can Be Made to Undertake Track Allowance Paving.

While R. G. Ivey, vice-president of the street railway company, has already given the city council assurance that it would be impossible to undertake the paving of Wellington street track allowance this year, Mayor Wenige feels this difficulty will be overcome.

The street railway authorities pleaded lack of funds, claiming that the purchase of new cars, rails and other equipment, and the laying of the Richmond street track would exhaust available cash and credit.

Mayor Wenige was confident today, however, that this would not stand in the way. "The street railway will do its part," he said confidently. "We'll have Wellington street paved this year if the weather permits."

EXPERTS GO OVER EIGHT PLANS FOR PRIZE CITY HALL

Toronto and Hamilton Judges Busy Today Determining Winners.

SEE POSSIBLE SITE

Two high-class architects, Col. Chadwick of Toronto and S. J. Fryer of Hamilton, now considering the eight plans submitted for London's proposed new city hall expect to have their report completed today. They were not quite sure on this point, however, when questioned by The Advertiser.

The outside experts reached the city late yesterday afternoon. Col. Chadwick's arrival being delayed by a wreck on the C. N. R. until a fairly late hour last night they were busily engaged viewing the eight plans submitted by as many local architects.

Not quite sure of the scope of their duties, the visitors this morning consulted with Aid. George Burdick, chairman of the city hall committee, to ascertain if it would be advisable to submit constructive criticism of what they will consider to be the best three plans. It is understood that this will be acceptable.

Both judges, while aware of the city hall controversy are not in the least interested in the outcome they say, pointing out that their job is to choose what they consider the best of eight plans. Yesterday afternoon they looked for the first time upon London's famous federal square—the McCormick site.

As a matter of fact, Col. Chadwick related that this was the first time he had been so fortunate as to see London in daylight. "I last saw her here was in the evening when he came to attend a ball."

The judges were selected by the local authorities from a list of several names received from the architects' association of the province.

Mr. Pocock also spoke in the same strain, stating that he thought it too early to make any decision.

TORONTO OFFICER SHOT BY NOCTURNAL BURGLARS

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Sept. 21.—Police Constable Richard Williamson was shot in the groin and seriously wounded by unknown burglars early this morning, when he interfered with the operations of three or four men who were attempting to force an entrance into the home of Ralph Connable, in the Wells Hill district here. Three shots were fired at the officer in answer to his challenge, "What are you doing here?" when attracted by the unusual nocturnal sounds he came upon the men. Williamson dropped when wounded and the marauders escaped.

WINDSOR AND GUELPH TO PLAY TENNIS HERE

Teams Meet Saturday in the Finals of Western Ontario Tennis League.

Windsor and Guelph tennis teams play off in London tomorrow in the final round of the Western Ontario Tennis League tourney. Both teams will bring four players to compete for this year's league championship. All matches will be played on the courts of the London Tennis Club at the corner of Talbot and Sydenham streets. London was chosen for the playoff because the rules call for the finals to be played on neutral courts, and this city was the most centrally located one in Western Ontario.

Jim Cummings, the crack Windsor player, will be first man for the Border City team. Cummings is an experienced tournament player, and many championships to his credit. A year ago paired with the young Australian, George Whatmore, he went into the final round of the Ontario championships at Ottawa, and a week later gave Frank Anderson, ranking American player, a close three set match in the semi-finals of the Canadian championships. Cummings last year won the Western Ontario singles championship, but this year was defeated in the finals by Walter Westbrook of Detroit. Cummings is easily the best player in the district.

Jack Purcell of Guelph is expected to play first man for his team. He was last year a promising junior and reached the finals of the Canadian championships in this event. He will probably be stacked against Cummings.

Six matches will be played for the championships tomorrow, four singles and two doubles. The public are invited to the London Tennis Club to witness the play.

WILL ENDEAVOR TO HOLD POSITIONS FOR HARVESTERS

Saskatoon Conference Decides To Aid Absorption Into Canadian Life.

OTTAWA ASSISTING

Canadian Press Despatch. Saskatoon, Sept. 21.—Providing that the British harvesters who came to Canada for the harvest season really desire to stay in the Dominion and become Canadian citizens, the conference of boards of trade, governments and farmers' organizations for the three prairie provinces, held here yesterday, decided to do all in its power to enable them to do so.

During the discussion it became apparent that the problem presented was largely as to whether employment could be found for them during the winter months. The fact was brought out that a very large percentage of the Britishers were married men with wives and families in England. A committee was appointed to co-operate with the railways, farmers and other employers to deal with the problem of the winter months and bring about their absorption into the life of the country.

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, Sept. 21.—Hon. J. A. Robb has announced that the department of immigration and colonization and the soldiers' settlement board, both of which are under his charge, have completed plans for the future co-operation with the transportation companies, the Canadian Colonization Association, the various federal and provincial employment services, the boards of trade and other representative bodies, for the purpose of assisting the harvesters of the thousands of harvesters who came from the British Isles a few months ago. It is understood that the local authorities of these harvesters desire to remain in Canada if opportunities offer for winter employment.

MISSIONARY TALKS TO MISSION WORKERS

Presbyterian Women's Missionary Societies of City Hold Mass Meeting.

Miss Grace Patterson of Thamesford, who is home on furlough after spending the past seven years in India, was an interesting speaker at the mass meeting of the auxiliaries of the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Societies of the city held yesterday afternoon at King Street Presbyterian Church.

Miss Patterson, who is a principal of a boarding school in India, has already spoken at twenty-one meetings, all within the London presbytery. In her address she pointed out the great help cars would be to the missionaries in reaching the distant parts of their district.

She stressed the necessity of the native Christian workers, and pointed out that there were three phases of work in India, medical, evangelical and educational. English boarding schools have been built where the native children are educated, the object being to remove the child from undesirable surroundings at home.

A delightful description of the type of homes occupied by the missionaries was given by Miss Patterson, who dispelled the idea that they lived in mud huts.

Following Miss Patterson's address, Mrs. W. R. McIntosh read the Bible lesson. Refreshments were served and the members were given an opportunity of meeting Miss Patterson.

The Million Dollar Doll

By C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON.
Authors of "The Lightning Conductor."

Entering the Mountains With Terry, Miles Makes An Important Discovery

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY: Miles Sheridan is facilitating his wife's obtaining a divorce by creating a scandal about himself. He is taking a yacht trip, supposedly with Juliet Divine, a beautiful show-girl known as the Million Dollar Doll. In reality, however, he is not with the Doll, but with Teresa Desmond (Terry), Juliet's unbelievably innocent half-sister, whom the Doll sent to masquerade as herself. Ever since a kindness Miles did her in childhood, Terry has made him her Dream Prince. Betty Sheridan, Miles' wife is in love with Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian. Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, meets Miles and Terry at Monte Carlo, and recognizes in the supposed Million Dollar Doll, Terry Desmond, whom he had met back in New York. In love with the girl himself, he is relieved to learn that Miles' conduct toward Terry has been most chivalrous. Mrs. Harkness, Miles' old servant, takes care of Terry on board the yacht. Miss Caroline Sheridan, meeting the couple at Monte Carlo, endeavors to dissuade Miles from his disgraceful project. She writes to Betty of Terry's beauty and charm. Miles, dining in Algiers with Terry, whom he does not recognize as the little girl he befriended so long ago, sees Paul de Salvano with a group of strangers.

CHAPTER LXI.
What We Might Have Known Days Ago.

Sheridan threw Terry a keen look. "Of course you're too much a Bohemian to—worry about chaperones," he went on with his discussion of the girl. "They're as old-fashioned as dragons, and even if they weren't, it wouldn't be my book on this trip, you know, to have every step dogged by a duenna. On the contrary!"

"But you and I won't be acting for the gallery at Bousanda. The chances are we won't meet a European there, except a few French officers, en garrison. Would you like to take old Harkney along? She'll nearly fall over herself with joy to go."

"Oh, I'd love to have her!" cried Terry, clapping her hands.

It occurred to Miles that Salvano and his friends were probably staring; but suddenly he didn't care. He cared for nothing except the girl, who looked a dawning child. She should be a child for a few days, and he would be a boy.

Old Harkney should nurse to them both. Away off in the desert he and Juliet Divine would forget everything except the sunshine, the golden sands, and the burning violet of the African sky.

"Good!" he said, in a care-free voice. "We'll start soon. It's too late today, because I must hire a car, and there'll be some packing. The journey's seven hours at least, and we ought to arrive before dark. Big! I'll take you to a mosque or two this afternoon. (He was pretty sure that Salvano would do no sight-seeing on these lines.) "And we can get off about 10 tomorrow morning."

When they rose from their table a quick glance showed Sheridan that the Italian and his friends were gone. He took Terry to the Museum at Mustapha Superiore, where only those interested in history and archeology were likely to come, and there he left her while he hurried off to hire an automobile.

There were several garages, and as the season had just begun he found

ON MAKING MATCHES

Men say WOMEN are INCONSISTENT—
If a woman is Consistently inconsistent, Doesn't that make her Consistent?
Men are SIMPLE—
And methodical—
Women are simply intelligent.
A MAN'S mind works Methodically FORWARD—
A WOMAN'S mind works Intelligently ANY WAY.
A MAN takes a MATCH, Gets a FLAME,
Kindles it to a FIRE,
And keeps WARM.
While the fire LASTS.
A WOMAN takes a FLAME,
Fans him into a BLAZE,
And then, finally, makes A MATCH out of him—
And a SAFETY match, at that.
And all the time She is doing it
She KEEPS COOL.
In a man's HEART Lies a LOT of KINDLING.
But almost ANY woman Is a MATCH for him!

Spotty and Mrs. Spotty Become Acquainted With the Children

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Spotty the Turtle and Mrs. Spotty were lying on a partly sunken log in the Smiling Pool, taking a sun bath. They are very fond of taking sun baths on the end of that old log. They spend a great deal of time there. They can watch much of what goes on in and around the Smiling Pool, and the Smiling Pool is their world.

On this warm summer morning nothing of particular interest had happened. Longlegs the Heron had visited the Smiling Pool, but not a pollywog, frog or fish had he caught. Finally he had flown away in disgust. Rattles the Kingfisher had caught two very small minnows. This was the only real excitement.

"It is a rather dull morning; don't you think so, my dear?" said Spotty to Mrs. Spotty.

"Rather," replied Mrs. Spotty, blinking her eyes sleepily. "But I would rather have it so. I am not at all fond of excitement." She blinked her eyes again, and looked as if she might fall asleep any minute.

But Spotty wasn't sleepy. He continued to watch and wish for something to happen. Somehow he was finding life very dull. Presently he noticed that something was moving on the opposite bank of the Smiling Pool. He watched. Whoever it was over there was moving very slowly. But Spotty himself moves slowly on land, and so he didn't grow impatient. He patiently watched and waited.

At last there appeared another Turtle. Yes, sir, it was another Turtle, but a very tiny one. It was so little that Spotty hardly recognized it as a Turtle until just as it reached the edge of the water and started to dive in.

"Look there," exclaimed Spotty to Mrs. Spotty. "Whose do you suppose that little chap came from?"

Mrs. Spotty lazily opened her eyes, and was just in time to see the small Turtle. "Oh," she yawned, "that must be one of our children. I thought it must be about time for them to appear."

"What?" exclaimed Spotty. "I didn't know we had any children!"

"We didn't have, but I guess we have now," replied Mrs. Spotty.

"It is a rather dull morning, don't you think so, my dear?" Spotty asked. And sure enough there was an-

THE DAILY SHORT STORY

PEGGY SELLS HATS.

By JANE OSBORN.

It was the morning after the dance at the Northfield Country Club, and the usual sort of post-mortem discussion was going on around the late breakfast at the Randolph country home.

"Who was the girl with the squint eyes and angel sleeves—talked baby talk and came with Frank Drew?" Bob Randolph was asking.

"She hasn't squint eyes at all," protested Clara, his sister. "That's Rebecca Yates—loads of money and terribly good family. They have just rented a place out the North road. We think she's charming. But, my dear," went on Clara, addressing her house guest, Olive Dray, "did you see how peevish Maud Landis was? And if she does want to cut out Rebecca Yates and all her millions she really ought to wear something besides that horrible green tulle."

"Say, that's rough," protested Bob. "Maud didn't look peevish at all. I thought she looked great."

"You always stick up for the girls with red hair. That green tulle was a little outre," she conceded; "still, tulle is smart."

"And who in blazes," queried the other house guest, George Kelly, "was the little lady with the long, black earrings and the bobbed hair? She certainly is some killer. Tried to get a dance with her just for the fun of it, but couldn't get a look in. They're smart."

"Oh, that's Doris Pater. A widow. But she's frightfully common. She poses terribly. She's in the real estate business. Fancy!"

Bob had acquired enough courage by the time to ask the question that had been uppermost in his mind ever since the evening before.

"By the way," he began, to make it sound casual, "who was the girl, quite young, dark eyes, light hair, who came with Bob Dawson? I just happened to notice her."

"Why that was Peggy Nelson," said Clara. "Peggy's dear, though probably you wouldn't find her attractive. Men don't. Peggy's father died, and she had to do something, so she started a hat shop. I think it was so brave of her. You see she couldn't teach, as she never had a chance to do anything but to do something, and we're all boasting her. She calls it the Peggy Main, and Olive dear, if you want to buy any hats or know anyone who does, please do give her a chance. We're trying our best to help her, and her hats really are attractive."

"Walker street, off Main," Bob Randolph rehearsed to himself, and then got out of the discussion. He had learned all he wished to know.

The fact was that he had first noticed Peggy Nelson when the dance was half over. His own dances were taken with the girls of his own set, and when he had tried on three occasions to get a dance with the blonde he had not been able to find her. It was not apparent to Bob that she suffered from a lack of popularity with the men.

The next day Randolph took a walk along Walker street near Main just to locate the Peggy shop. The next day he walked past it twice. Then he stopped and looked in the windows and before the week was out he ventured within the gray curtained doors. This took much courage. Peggy, dressed in a long, clinging frock of gray, was presiding with a voluminous dowager seated before a gray dressing table trying on garden hats. An assistant asked him if there was something he wanted, and Bob stammered out: "Yes, I want to buy a hat."

"What kind of a hat?" asked the young woman.

"It doesn't make much difference. I want it for—for—my aunt."

"As a matter of fact there was no one for whom Bob could buy hats. His sister was his only woman relative and obviously she would think him queer if he started buying hats for her. Still, he was eager to help Peggy. In fact his own sister had urged him to—at least at breakfast that day she had urged everyone to help her. After a rather confused and confusing dialogue, Bob Randolph bought and paid thirty dollars for a hat. When the young woman asked for the address he gave that of his apartment in town.

Bob Randolph found himself thinking of Peggy Nelson, sometimes he had seen her at the Country Club dance, but oftener as he had seen her in her little hat shop. Keeping a hat shop, it occurred to him, was a fascinating occupation for a woman, especially a hat shop in soft French grays and flowered crepes like Peggy's. But of course she needed a boost if she were

PLANNING FOR INCREASE IN CITY WATER SUPPLY

Members of Public Utilities Commission Favor Bringing In Engineer.

Another effort will be made by professional ground-water engineers to locate a sufficient quantity of water in London to supply the city for years to come, following the action of the Public Utilities Commission yesterday afternoon.

All the members of the commission voted in favor of bringing to London an American engineer for a period of thirty days, who, by means of a new method, that of a water jet being forced down into the earth, will attempt to find the wells needed by the city.

According to the engineer, who has the highest references from railways and engineering concerns in the United States and Canada, a complete survey of the city can be made in 30 days, and the cost, including equipment and men engaged in the city, plus his own fee, will be in the neighborhood of $3,000.

The commissioners also decided to notify the Western Fair that their power rate would be increased on a pro rata basis, figured out from the 1922 charges. In 1922 the board used 120 kilowatts, paying $200. This year, with the new buildin, an increase of 100 kilowatts was recorded, the total being 220. Instead of $200, the board will this year be asked to pay $350, and during the following year, in accordance with their consumption.

The commission was also notified that the rate per horsepower that the city would be required to pay for its power this year would remain at 25¢ per horsepower.

LONDON COLLEGIATES IN THROES OF ELECTION

Students At Collegiates Holding Elections Today

Conducted on Same Plan as Similar Campaigns Among Adults.

CANDIDATES TALK

Polls Open at 8:25 This Morning and Voting Continued Until 4:20 This Afternoon.

Pupils of the collegiate institutes of London are today electing the officers of the various associations for the forthcoming school year.

Conducted in the same manner as municipal elections, with returning officers, scrutineers, constables, sealed ballot boxes and printed ballots, the scholars today signify their preferences as to who shall guide and direct the activities of the student body.

This morning at 8:25 the polls at the Central Collegiate opened, six in all, and from then until 8:55 a steady stream of voters piled their way into the booths and marked their ballots. Again from 1 p.m. until 1:25 p.m. and from 4:05 p.m. until 4:20 p.m., the booths were open, closing at the latter hour, when the vote will be counted, the results being made known about six o'clock tonight.

Candidates On "Stump"

As a preliminary to the elections today, addresses were made in the auditorium of the collegiate yesterday afternoon, after school, by the candidates for the more important positions. These addressed their constituents in short talks and tried to convert those who were supporting other candidates.

This morning found the students all ready to carry out their elections and the polling booths were opened with a teacher in charge of each. At the Central Collegiate, the various classes voted in different classrooms, these being in charge of the following: teachers, Mr. Shales, Miss Morrison, Mr. Cook and Miss Kelson, with F. A. Whitton as chief returning officer. Mr. Urrin is in charge of the election as a whole.

In addition to the teacher in charge of the polling booth, there is a poll clerk, scrutineer, deputy returning officer and outside constable. Printed ballots were this morning applied to the teachers, together with a sealed ballot box, which will be handed to the student after the count has been made and handed to Mr. Whitton, who will retain the ballots in case of a recount.

Important Officers.

From the student's point of view, the most important officers to be elected are those of the student body, which body seven members are elected. This, together with an advisory board made up of seven members of the staff and one of each of the student organizations, constitutes the students' union executive, the object of which is to coordinate with and supervise the activities of the other student organizations.

Twelve students have been nominated for members of this council. Turn to Page 17 Column 5.

BUILDING DECREASES THROUGHOUT CANADA

Dominion Statistics Show Work During August Declines to $12,541,593.

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, Sept. 21.—Reports from fifty-six cities tabulated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, show that the value of the building permits issued decreased during August, when the estimated cost of building work declined to $12,541,593, from $13,544,137 in July. There was, therefore, a reduction of $1,002,544, or 8 per cent. In comparison with the figures for August, 1922, there was a larger falling off in prospective building, as the total for the 56 cities in August, 1922, was $17,946,228.

Montreal and Vancouver reported larger totals of prospective building than in July, but reductions as compared with August of last year. Toronto and Winnipeg showed decreases in both categories. Of the smaller centers, Westmont, Stratford, Sault Ste. Marie, Windsor, and Victoria recorded increases in the value of the building permits as compared with July and also with August of last year.

REQUIRE NEW STAMPS ON CHECKS AND NOTES

Ruling of Dominion Government Will Be Enforced October 1.

On and after Oct. 1 all checks, drafts, notes and bills of exchange will have to bear the new excise stamps recently introduced by the Dominion government. The postage stamps used now on checks, drafts, etc., will not be accepted nine days from now. The new excise stamps cannot be secured at the postoffice, but at banks and the customs offices. George Tombling, inspector of taxation, announced that checks and bills of exchange not bearing the new stamps would be returned. Lenders are advised to secure the new stamps immediately. Such articles as checks and playing cards must also carry the new stamp after the first of October.

PROMISES TO USE ARMY IF BAVARIA RISES IN REVOLT

German Minister of Interior Claims Separatist Propaganda Will Not Be Permitted.

READY FOR ACTION

By HIRAM K. MODERWELL, Special Cable Writer, London Advertiser and Chicago Daily News. Copyright, Berlin, Sept. 21.—Herr Soliman, German minister of interior, whose special job it is to preserve German unity at this particularly perilous time, has just granted the writer an interview in which he promised to meet with an iron hand any attempt at a revolution or separatist movement. Fresh from a visit to the Rhineland, where he gathered data for a report on which Chancellor Stresemann is largely basing his policy, Herr Soliman received the correspondent in the old general staff building in the room where von Moltke planned the campaign of 1871 against France. The gifted leader of the Cologne Socialists and working head of the total abstinence movement, answered the questions concerning the danger of Bavarian secession as follows:

"Such a danger does not exist at present. It could, perhaps, arise, but only if the Berlin government accepted dishonorable conditions of peace with France. Since it is probable that the conditions will be dishonorable in the eyes of Bavaria, it is clear that Soliman reckons with serious eventualities.

"Desperate persons, who expect successfully to resort to violence," the minister continued, "will turn some day to the military power of the republic, which is greater now than at any time since the revolution.

"The Rhineland remains thoroughly German. The separatist movement there possesses not the slightest inkling of the wishes of the people. The French, supporting the movement, are making the same mistake that the Kaiser's government made during the war, when it sought to manufacture separatist movements in Flanders, Belgium, Poland and the Ukraine."

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—Premier King left here early this morning on his way to the imperial conference and the economic conference in London. The premier went to his car during the night and retired shortly after 3 o'clock. He was accompanied by his secretary only by his secretaries only.

WOODSTOCK PRESIDENT AT SIMCOE MOTHERS' CLUB

The opening meeting of the season for the Simcoe Mothers' Club for this season was held last evening, and owing to the stormy weather, there was a small attendance. Mrs. Down of Woodstock, president of the Central Home and School Club in Woodstock, gave an informal talk on club work.

A bazaar to be held in November was planned and the holding of a paper collection to augment the funds was also discussed. The suggestion of changing the night of meeting from the third Thursday to the third Friday was made, but was not decided upon. A social hour and refreshments were enjoyed following the business session.

KNOLLWOOD MOTHERS' CLUB ARRANGES RUMMAGE SALE

The Knollwood Park Mothers' Club held its first meeting of the season last night, and the only business taken up was the planning of a rummage sale to be held in the near future. Mrs. E. Tapell, Mrs. A. Horner and Mrs. F. McDowell were appointed in charge. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. D. Woods, and refreshments were served during the evening.

AMERICAN MACHINE DAMAGED IN CRASH

Local Auto Collides With Second Car in Blinding Rainstorm.

A motor accident, said to have been caused by the heavy rains which were falling in the early evening, took place on Dundas street east last night, when a car traveling east collided with another car carrying a party of American tourists. The accident occurred about a block east of the Pottersburg crossing, and although no one was injured, both machines were rather severely damaged.

The American party, composed of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Barnum of Utica, N. Y., Mrs. S. W. Stone of Flint, and Mrs. Thomas Peterson and daughter Evelyn of Utica, returned to the car for the night, and their car was towed to a garage for repairs to the front axle, steering gear and radiator.

The party driving the local auto did not stay to ascertain the damage, but their license number is known to the visiting tourists, and the police, and although the visitors say the accident was caused by the fact that both drivers were blinded by the rain, they will try and find out why the other car did not wait to ascertain the damage and injury which the crash caused.

HYATT AVENUE CHURCH HOLDS MONTHLY MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Hyatt Avenue Church was held Thursday afternoon. The meeting opened with a scripture lesson read by Mrs. Mason. It was decided to appoint a delegate to the district convention to be held at Belmont in October.

The superintendent of the Mission Circle extended an invitation on behalf of the circle to join them at the October meeting. The devotional leaflet was read by Mrs. Stelek. Mrs. Ferguson gave a reading on India, and Mrs. Marr read another leaflet on exploring pioneers. The meeting closed with the benediction.

JUDGING COMPETITIVE PLANS FOR NEW CITY HALL. Plans submitted by eight local architects for a new city hall on the McCormick site are being viewed by these two experts, Col. Chadwick of Toronto (left) and S. T. J. Fryer of Hamilton (right), who are in the city today. They announced that they would submit a report to the city hall committee tomorrow.

Cornwall's "Beer Garden" Closes After Police Raid

Special to The Advertiser. Cornwall, Sept. 21.—The people of Cornwall were all agog last night over the presence in town of about 30 provincial police officers, and the attempt made late yesterday afternoon to close up what has been known since the boating season opened in the spring as "Cornwall's Beer Garden."

A short distance east of the town limits on the banks of the St. Lawrence river are located a number of boarding houses, and since early summer a land office business has been carried on in disposing of beer and strong spirits by the sales of boats, which is brought in largely by the river from near by Quebec ports. The place is popularly called "the Beer Garden," and it would naturally have secured an international as well as local and provincial reputation, as tourists going through Cornwall from points as far away as the Western States, make inquiry as to its location when they arrived in town. Much criticism has been heard at the operation being carried on so long unimpeded and the designs of the proprietors to close up the place closed up are breathing easier as a result of the raid.

The thirty officers in charge of C. A. Jordan of Ottawa, district inspector of the provincial police, and district number six, accompanied by Chief Patterson and Officer Critch of Cornwall, swooped down on the "Garden" and as a result secured some 80 bags of beer each containing two dozen bottles, as well as a quantity of Scotch and brandy, in seven of the boarding houses and arrested one alleged bootlegger and five of the patrons of the place and lodged them in the cells at the police station. The goods were also locked up in a cage close to the prisoners, five trucks required to transport the haul.

LIGHTNING STRIKES MT. BRYDGES SCHOOL

Good Work of Fire Department Alone Saved Building From Destruction by Fire.

It is due solely to the efforts of the Mount Brydges volunteer fire department that that village still boasts a schoolhouse today. The terrific electrical storm which swept over Western Ontario last night was particularly violent in the neighborhood of Mount Brydges, where a bolt of lightning struck the schoolhouse shortly after midnight, the roof being a mass of flames in short order.

The fire department, with the aid of volunteer villagers, worked with speed and precision, and kept the blaze confined to the upper portion of the building. The blaze was under control shortly after 2 a.m., and the damage to the structure will not be as heavy as first anticipated.

School was held as usual today in the two rooms, much to the disappointment of the scholars, who had anticipated a rest from their studies. Flames threatened adjoining buildings for a short time, but the firemen were able to successfully check their progress in that direction.

WALTON STATES HE WILL BATTLE KLAN TO FINISH

Governor of Oklahoma Appeals For Aid To Abolish "Invisible Empire."

LEGISLATORS WARN

Associated Press Despatch. Oklahoma City, Sept. 21.—Legislators seeking the official head of Governor J. C. Walton marched on Monday in their plans for impeachment, while the executive gathered strength for a final drive on the Ku Klux Klan, which he blames for the storm that has been about them.

"The Invisible Empire shall not pass in this state," was the defiance hurled by the governor.

The lower house of the Oklahoma legislature will convene at noon next Wednesday to consider charges that Walton has set at naught constitutional government; and if the governor-general interferes with the meeting he "acts as his peer." This was the pronouncement of legislators who will seek the executive's impeachment.

Admitting the fight was weighing heavily upon him, the governor sent out an appeal for funds, asking those who believe in a representative form of government to send contributions to Mrs. Aldrich Blake, Oklahoma City, wife of the executive councillor. Blake is now absent from the state on a mission for the governor.

But Governor Walton was defiant. "I have crossed the Rubicon. It is a fight to the finish," he declared. He said that if it proved necessary, he would aim every man in the state who is opposed to the "invisible empire."

N. J. Jewett, grand dragon of the Oklahoma realm of the Klan, and his associates "have turned the fight over to the Klan newspapers and the Klan members of the legislature," Walton asserted.

WHOLESALE PROVE PRINTERS' INK VALUE

Edward Adams & Co. Illustrate How Extensive Advertising Sells Goods.

The power of advertising is seldom so well illustrated as by the experience of Edward Adams and Company, local wholesale grocers.

For years this concern has been carrying Sunlight soap and distributing the product throughout this district.

The Sunlight Company is one of the greatest advertisers in the world and the cost of their publicity is added to the retail price of the soap. This comes to about 30 per cent.

Recently an agent of the Sunlight Company offered Sunlight soap under a different name. The idea was that this soap would not be advertised, and consequently would be 25 per cent cheaper than the soap carrying the Sunlight label.

Edward Adams and Company handled the supposed new soap, and explained to their customers that it was identical with the much advertised Sunlight variety, but much cheaper. It was expected that there would be a large demand for it because of its cheapness.

An article which the Sunlight Company report that soap buyers would not believe the new brand was as good as the well known and more expensive Sunlight. There was no sale for the cheaper soap, and the Sunlight Company were forced to take it off the market.

"An article must be advertised to be a good seller," said William Turnbull of the Edward Adams Company this morning. "The public will not use a brand which they know nothing about regardless of its cheapness."

GREEKS RETURN ISLANDS TO TURKISH GOVERNMENT

Associated Press Despatch. Constantinople, Sept. 21.—The islands of Imbros and Tenedos, at the entrance to the Dardanelles, were handed over yesterday to the Turkish authorities. The islands comprise the last portion of Turkish territory occupied by Greece which had to be returned to Turkey in conformity with the Lausanne peace treaty.

PROMISE SUPPORT FOR CONSTRUCTION OF NEW CITY HALL

Backers of Mayor's Proposal Declare Selves in Fight to Finish.

SCORES OPPONENTS

Supporters of the proposal by Mayor Wenize to build a new city hall on the McCormick site assert that they are in the fight to the finish and by no means alarmed by threats of injunction proceedings from their opponents—Ald. W. A. Wilson, Ald. John T. May, et al.

Further indication that they intend to carry out the struggle to the logical conclusion is noted from the fact that at this very moment eight plans for the new structure are under consideration, and a meeting of the city hall committee will be called directly by Ald. George Burdick, when a recommendation will be made to the council.

Both Mayor Wenize insists and his colleagues agree that a start should be made on this fall, even if nothing more is accomplished than the laying of the foundation. They point out that in any event it would require at least the greater portion of two years to complete the building and have it ready for actual occupation.

"We should certainly not stop now," Ald. Edmund Hayden stated today. "We have made too much progress to let the proposal die now. No doubt the council will take some definite action at its next session. No, I have certainly not swerved in my opinion about a new hall on the McCormick site."

Will Carry It Through. "There is no use any of our opponents talking and fighting any more about this question," warned Ald. Gordon Drake, who has been a sturdy supporter of the McCormick site for years. "We are going through with it and have advocated it so long because the people have told us time and again that they wanted the hall at the corner of Dundas and Wellington streets."

"Why is Ald. John Greer opposing this project?" is the query today from Mayor Wenize. "Have we heard his explanation? Those wishes are to be respected by the council, the wishes of the people or of Messrs. Greer, May, Wilson and Judd?"

In his defense of his city hall proposal, Mayor Wenize submits a brief history of the "McCormick" site, and the votes that have been recorded from time to time in the past eleven years.

This statement follows, as taken from the city hall records: On Jan. 1, 1913, the people approved of the purchase of the McCormick site for city hall purposes. The by-law read as follows:

"To provide for the issue of $250,000 debentures for the purpose of obtaining such real and personal property as may be deemed expedient by the corporation for a city hall site and for creating upon such property a city hall."

The vote was 2,252 for and 1,845 against, an affirmative majority of 437.

Six years later, Dec. 4, 1916, to be precise, the people again told the city councilors that the McCormick site was the proper place for the new city hall, and by a majority of 1,084 they sanctioned immediate construction.

The by-law in this instance read: "Are you in favor of building a new city hall and completing the federal square project?" The answer was: Yes, 5,328; No, 2,734.

Three years later the people of London were again asked to voice an opinion upon the city hall proposal. Upon this occasion they were asked: "Are you in favor of building the municipal offices on the Spencer block?" And they answered "No" by a majority of 1,753. The vote was: For, 2,821; Against, 4,574.

And last year, when the people were again asked if they wanted their new administration building on the Spencer block (present site), and their reply was louder and more insistent, a majority against being registered, 3,154.

The question last December was asked in this manner: "Are you in favor of building a new city on the Spencer site and using for that purpose the moneys already borrowed upon debentures for the erection of a city hall upon the federal square site, and funding for authority to the council to dispose of the federal square site properties?"

The vote was as follows: Yes, 3,736; No, 7,387.

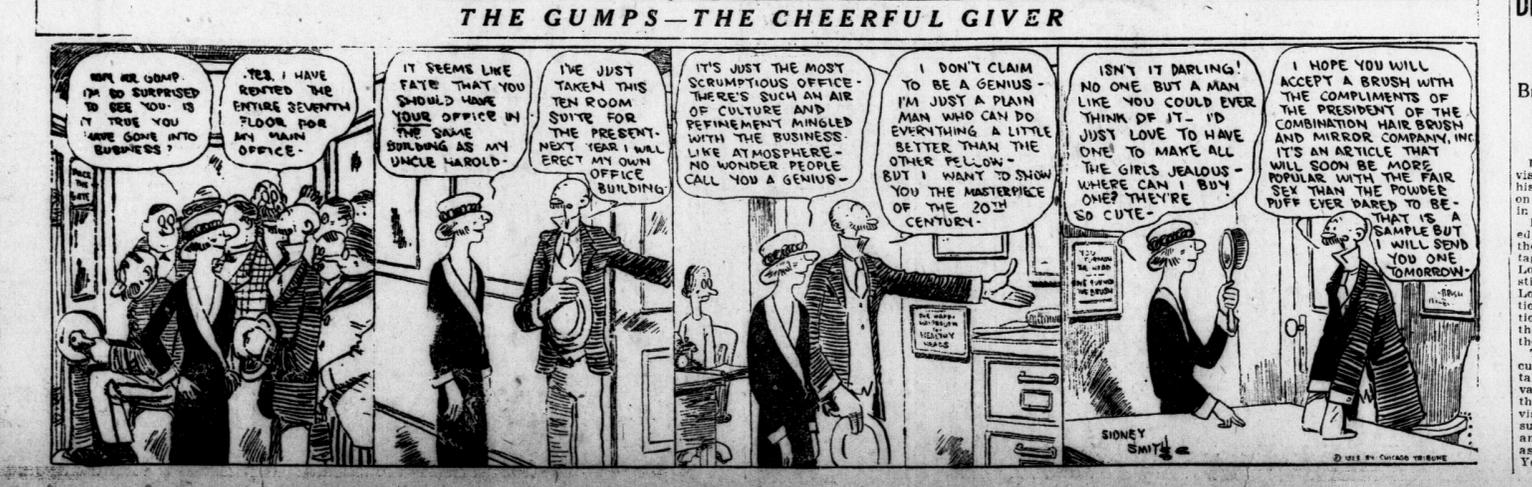

DR. McEVOY PLEASED WITH VISIT TO CITY

Brother of J. M. McEvoy, K.C., Returns to Adopted Home in Oklahoma.

Dr. S. H. McEvoy, who has been visiting his old home in London with his brother J. M. McEvoy, K.C., left on Wednesday night for his home in Oklahoma.

Before leaving Dr. McEvoy expressed his satisfaction and gratitude at the courtesy shown him during his stay in London and the public institute of health. His old friends in London extended him every felicitation, and he expressed his appreciation of the assistance given him in the shape of a letter from the medical world.

Twenty years ago Dr. McEvoy procured an internship in the hospitals in New York, and remained in various hospitals there as interne for three and a half years. During his visit in this part of the country this summer he again visited New York and spent some time with his old associates at the polyclinic and New York hospitals.

A Tip To The Wise Dorothy Dix Divulges Most Important Wife Quality

Turn a Deaf Ear to Nature, Which Ordains Attraction of Opposite Types, and Select a Wife With Similar Tastes—Congeniality Is the Key to Marital Happiness

A young man, who is still on the safe side of the altar, wants to know what I consider the most important quality to look for in a wife.

I think it is congeniality. If a married couple has that, nothing else matters. They will be happy no matter what vicissitudes of fortune they are called upon to go through together. And if they lack congeniality nothing else matters, either. They will be miserable, even though they have every other blessing under the sun.

The reason that marriage is so often a failure, the reason that so many people fly to the divorce courts to get rid of the husbands and wives with whom they were so madly in love a few years ago and whose companionship they now find unendurable; the reason that so many homes are perpetual storm centers is because men and women give so little heed to this question of similarity of taste and interest in selecting their mates.

Nor are they to blame for this. Nature, which cares only for the good of the race and not at all for the happiness of the individual, has ordained that there shall be a fatal attraction of opposites. This is why big men cannot resist baby-dolls; why lechered men become infatuated with beautiful maerons; why grave and sedate men fall in love with girls whose whole conception of life is a jazz party, and why the poor man who has his way to make in the world is irresistibly attracted to the human fashion-plate.

And they get married, and live scrappily ever afterward. For having drawn together the man and the woman who had not a thought, nor an ideal, nor an ambition in common, nature washes her hands of the job, and leaves them to work out their fate with tears and heartaches and misery.

This attraction of the opposites does not last. It is a mere flash in the pan, gone before the ink on the wedding certificate is hardly dry, and then we have the tragedy of two people being tied together for life who have nothing in common, who do not even speak the same language.

Before marriage they differ from each other as much as the fascination of an undiscovered country to the other. After marriage it builds a stone wall between them that neither has the power to scale. Strange, but true, that the very unlikeness that attracted a couple to each other before marriage repulses them afterward.

The ignorance that the intellectual man found so enchanting in his sweetheart bored him to tears in his wife. The perpetual giggling, laughing, and jumping about that enchanted the quiet man in a girl before he married her got on his nerves when he has to endure them day in and day out. The man whose fancy was ravished by the girl who was a living picture, and whose clothes made every other woman green with envy, views her with a different eye when he finds that she spends his life toiling to pay milliners and dressmakers.

Doubtless the poor King Cophetua knocked the beggar maid, with whose simplicity he had fallen in love, for not being sophisticated and knowing the ways of courts and lacking a regal air when he got her home.

Enduring love and perfect companionship is only possible between people who are made of the same clay and cast in the same mold. The friends of whom we never tire are those who like the same books, and who vote the same ticket; who read the same books, and who canter along by our sides on the same hobby-horses.

We soon weary of those who have no taste and interest in common with us; who prefer cornbeef and cabbage to the masterpieces of French chef; who never see anything through our eyes; who yawn in our faces when we try to talk about the book or play that has stirred us to the very depths of our soul, and with whom conversation always degenerates into an argument that leaves us sore and bruised in spirit.

And if this is true of ordinary friends and acquaintances it is a thousandfold more true of husbands and wives. No matter what virtues and good qualities; no matter how true and loyal they may be; no matter how conscientiously they do their duty by each other, their marriage is bound to be a failure unless they are congenial. They are bound to lose their affection for each other unless they are congenial. Nothing else except congeniality keeps love alive between a man and woman.

It is the common gibe that you can tell a married couple anywhere you see them. It is the man and woman who are sitting up in utter silence on a railway train, or who between the acts at the theatre are reading the advertisements in the program, or at a restaurant are poring over the menu as if it were a thriller. Such a couple probably talked out everything they had to say to each other during their honeymoon, and everything they have dragged through the interminable years since, bored to extinction because they had nothing in common.

But now and then we see a happy couple of middle-aged people who never weary of each other's society, who never know a dull moment together, who plan and hope and work together, who double every joy and halve every sorrow because they share it together. Such a couple has the open sesame to domestic bliss. It is congeniality.

Therefore, son, if you want your marriage to be a success try to find out if the girl you fancy reads your favorite authors, if she laughs at the jokes you do, if she critic on the right play, if she enjoys the sports you do, and takes the same number of lumps of sugar in her coffee. Then pbn the question or not, according to how her complex agrees with yours. DOROTHY DIX. Copyright, 1923, by Public Ledger Company.

WEDDINGS.

LEITCH-McALPINE. Special to The Advertiser. Glencoe, Sept. 20.—A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. McAlpine, North Glencoe, Wednesday, Sept. 19, when their only daughter, Jessie Isabel, was united in marriage to Mr. Archibald Leitch, son of Mr. Donald W. Leitch, and the late Mrs. Leitch, Rev. D. G. Paton, minister of the Glencoe Presbyterian Church, performed the ceremony. Promptly at 3 o'clock to the strains of Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus, played by Miss Betty Grant, the bride, who was given in marriage by her father, her place under an arch of gladioli and maple leaves. She was charmingly gowned in white georgette, and wearing a beautiful crown of flowers with orange blossoms from her grandmother's bridal wreath of 60 years ago. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and valley lilies. Immediately after the ceremony the guests, to the number of 40, sat down to the wedding supper. The rooms were tastefully decorated with pink and white asters. The groom's gift to the bride was a rope of Oriental pearls, and to the pianist a harp. The happy young couple left on a honeymoon trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls, the bride traveling in a smart suit of navy blue, with a hat to match and a mink choker. On their return they will take up their residence on the groom's farm in a district township.

MERRYFIELD-ASHTON. At four o'clock Thursday afternoon a pretty autumn wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Ashton, Dundas street, when their daughter, Mary Grace, became the bride of William T. Merryfield of Windsor, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Merryfield of Helen, Ontario, Rev. A. Thomson officiating. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a beautiful gown of hand-woven crepe, embroidered in orange and gold, and wore a bandeau of gold ribbon. The bride bouquet was a cluster of Sunset and Lily of the Valley, showered with satin ribbons. Little Mina Ashton, sister of the bride, made a dainty flower girl, wearing a frock of blue silk crepe, georgette, while Donald McGregor, nephew of the bride, made a handsome little page. Miss Florence Merryfield, sister of the groom, in cocoa canton crepe, played Lohengrin's bridal chorus. A dainty wedding breakfast was served in the dining room, which was beautifully decorated with pink, asters and yellow dahlias. Mrs. Ashton, mother of the bride, was beautifully gowned in black canton crepe, while Mrs. Merryfield was gorgeously gowned in black satin with radium lace. The groom's gift to the bride was a gray leather purse, to the bride a gold hairpin set with diamonds and to the flower girl and page, gold rings. Later, the happy couple, amidst the smiles of their friends, left for Nebraska, the bride traveling in a smart tailored suit of navy French tricotine, with gray beaver velvet hat and shoes to match. Among the guests present were the following: Miss Kathleen Mann of Aylmer; Mr. Marwood Ashton of Aylmer; Miss Susie Ashton of Aylmer; Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McGregor and family of Kingsmill; Mrs. A. J. Gray of Union; Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Merryfield of Helen; Mrs. Clarence Hamilton, and Mrs. Pearl Howes, all of West Monckton; Miss Frances Merryfield of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. VENNING-BARRY. An interesting wedding took place at Hamilton Road Presbyterian manse Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when Alicia Barry was married to George Venning of Dorchester. Rev. M. F. Cree presided at the ceremony. Following a motor trip, Mr. and Mrs. Venning will reside on the groom's farm near Dorchester. CRAWFORD-PATTERSON. St. Andrew's church, decorated with asters, was the scene of an interesting wedding last evening at 7 o'clock, when Florence Annie, daughter of Mr. William John Patterson, of Hellmuth avenue, was united in marriage to Hugh Herman Crawford, son of Mrs. John Crawford, Alta Loma, Cal. Rev. D. C. MacGregor performed the ceremony. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of ivory brocade, georgette, fashioned in straight lines, and her only ornament was a string of pearls. Her embroidered veil was arranged in Grecian style with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower of Ophelia and Sweetheart roses. Little Misses Helen and Mary Mutrie of Leamington, cousins of the bride, made dainty flower girls, wearing pale pink frocks of georgette with ribbon streamers, and carrying little baskets of orchid corsages. Following the ceremony an informal reception was held at the home of the bride in Hellmuth avenue. A buffet supper was served from a table adorned with pink roses, and marginals and asters decorated the rooms throughout. Mrs. Murray, sister of the bride, received, with her, wearing a smart gown of cinnamon brown embroidered crepe, with a hat to match. Miss Helen Patterson, another sister, was becomingly gowned in gray silk lace combined with rose taffets and a smart black hat. The assistants were a number of young girls, smartly gowned in evening gowns, including Misses Isabel Davidson, Jessie McFarlane, Lillian Hill and Dona Waller. Mr. and Mrs. Crawford left on a honeymoon, which will be spent in Colorado Springs, and they will go on from there to California, where they will reside. The bride traveled in a gray suit of twill, with hat and shoes to match. Gray quills trimmed her hat, and an Isabella fox fur completed her costume. Mr. and Mrs. Mutrie and children of Leamington were the only out-of-town guests. McMILLAN-YOUNG. A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday of last week at Tillsonburg by the Rev. W. Attacks London Company For Methods of Sales

Mr. Justice Fisher Urges Action Against London Motors, Limited.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Sept. 20.—The story revealing how Robert Wilkinson, aged 85 years, was induced to invest a $5,000 victory bond in shares in a way that is described as "grossly foolish and imprudent" is told in a judgment written by Mr. Justice Fisher. His lordship directs that the papers in the case be laid before the crown attorney for Lambton for the officer to take what action he deems proper.

Robert Wilkinson lives in the township of Warwick, Lambton county. He was a shareholder in London Motors, Limited. On July 23rd last Mr. Lewis and a man calling himself Conley called upon him and induced him to take further shares. He decided to invest an additional $1,000 in shares, the judgment states, and went to his bedroom to get his check book. Conley, it is stated, followed him, and on the drawer being pulled out, a $5,000 victory bond was exposed. The old man gave checks aggregating $1,000, and his visitors departed. Two days later Lewis appeared again, and with him was W. R. Stansell, president of the company.

"They were after the $5,000 victory bond," says Mr. Justice Fisher. "They asked the old man to let them have the bond and they would not only return it to him in thirty days but would pay over to him $2,500. Lewis took the bond and gave a receipt to the effect that it had been received in payment for shares."

"Shortly afterwards a bank manager at Forest, the judgment continues, telephoned the old man's son that an effort was being made to cash his father's bond. The son at once took action and secured an injunction restraining the old man from negotiating the bond."

Mr. Justice Fisher continues the injunction to the effect: "It is not to be able to exist without the aid of money secured as the bond and checks were pledged to have been secured in this transaction and not denied, it then seems to me the shareholders would be considering their best interests by holding an investigation of the methods adopted in selling the shares."

On his return he gave an account of his impressions and forwarded a copy of the report of his statements to the Italian premier. Mussolini's reply is courteous, gracious and appreciative. ENGLISH ACTOR PROVES DELIGHT

Bransby Williams, in David Copperfield, Wins Praise in Fine Performance.

IS ARTISTIC TREAT

Despite the most severe electrical and rain storm London has experienced for a long time, a fair-sized audience braved the elements and assembled in the Grand Opera House last evening to enjoy the artistry of Mr. Bransby Williams, the eminent English character actor, in his production of "David Copperfield." After the performance the verdict was that the wonderful treat afforded was more than an adequate recompense for the venture. The success of the performance is to be measured by the enthusiasm of the audience, rather than by the size, and judged from this standard, it can be taken as a most favorable augury for the success of Mr. Williams' Canadian tour, which is dated has been decidedly gratifying.

Curtain call after curtain call marked the evening, but at no time did the finale was the picture broken. Then, after the good old fashion of English melodrama producers, the whole company was presented and acknowledged. There was hope that the eminent star would honor his reception with a few remarks. Apparently this was also intended, but, as it was, it was treated by a too sudden curtain, as the orchestra swung into the National Anthem, and the audience fled out into the storm convulsions, that they had witnessed a performance to rank with the most remarkable ever presented in London.

Spliced Play. One might continue an unlimited length to express one's pleasure at the presentation of such a worthy, solid, and honestly written play as this version of Dickens' story. What relief it is to get something of the sort after the succession of piffing American farces and broad comedies with which the Canadian stage has been deluged, but it is to be remembered by all true lovers of the intelligent drama, such ventures as that of Mr. Williams, must be encouraged if they are to continue. Even so eminent an actor cannot live on his art alone, and appreciation must be more tangibly expressed by the tapping of hands and the voicing of compliments. Last night the storm accounted for the half-filled house. For the remainder of the engagement this ally can hardly apply, and London will be lacking in appreciation if the patronage extended to Mr. Williams and his superlative company is not limited only to the capacity of the theatre.

As a story, "David Copperfield" was Dickens' own best loved brain child. Not all attempts to dramatize it have been successful, but that presented by Mr. Williams is as good in all respects and better in some than those employed by other components of the same play. Suffice it to say that it is coherent and understandable and preserves the full Dickensian flavor.

Plays Two Roles. Mr. Williams plays two roles, that of Micawber and Daniel Peggotty, and really he presents them, as his first entrance in the latter character shows Peggotty in his prime, and later as the broken old man. And what a marvellous micawber the man made! He had the air of a pompous but not exaggerated man, twinkling eyes, laughing the happy unconcern which his casual character is to be accepted as a type of self-satisfied optimism wherever the English language is spoken or read. It makes one admire the voice of Williams, his voice, his smooth, supple satisfaction, with an exuberant, and even to one cannot dissociate with Dickens' happiest character. The sudden change into despondency that illustrated so well the consummate artist and the equally sudden and unexpected return to optimistic joviality, truly it was wonderful to witness that the enraptured audience passed from enjoyment to enjoyment and satisfaction that they had seen the acknowledged master of the Dickensian drama give liberally of his very best. In short the micawber of Bransby Williams may be written down as a carefully developed study, built up line upon line into a picture which Dickens in the life could not but declare satisfied him to the full.

Remarkable feat. Following the entrance of Micawber, the star was next seen as Peggotty, the sturdy, old British sea-captain fairly exuding the honesty of the ocean where he gained his meager livelihood. It has been a true pleasure to witness Richard Mansfield's wonderful performance of "Ivan the Terrible," where that star passed from stage to stage of the monarch's life portraying the gradual moods of mental and physical disease to the point of senility. That was a study, but no more a triumph than the Williams transition from one character to the other, totally divergent in every line and angle. The Williams Peggotty is a strong, grizzled mariner, weather-worn, leary, with tousled head, homely wintry face, encreased by ring whiskers, a face to remember as portraying the simple virtues of a simple, God-fearing man. Deep, earnest voice, speaking from the heart of gold—that is the Peggotty as Williams portrays him; a remarkable feat for one actor to achieve in a lifetime of study and effort—a feat probably unduplicated, when one considers the part from which the same actor has just passed and to which he will be speedily return.

Artistic Treat. Space will not permit of a detailed analysis of Mr. Williams' work in either role, but it must be said that he presented all the human emotions with equal delightful facility. How quaint and tender he was in his lighter Peggotty scenes, how terrible, how wretched when the torments of awakened wrath at the departure of his beloved Emily sweeps through his whole being with the force of a mountain torrent in mid April. And his later appearance as the Peggotty bowed in sorrow, pursuing what seems to be his fruitless search for his loved one, tired, footsore, and indomitable in his purpose to find. What an artistic treat that was. Small wonder that the hearty laughter aroused earlier by the egotistical whimsicalities of Micawber gave place to tears of sympathy at the heart-wrenching pathos of Peggotty's extremity. The ultimate reunion with Emily provided but another opportunity for Mr. Williams to display the perfection of his art. Micawber and Peggotty—these two characters by one man, so different, so finished, so commanding, so consummately artistic—that is what Bransby Williams did at the Grand Opera House last night in a performance that will ever be recalled as one of the most delightful treats Manager Minihnick has ever provided for his patrons.

Artistic Presentation. Second only to Mr. Williams himself in the excellence of the study was the Utah Heep of Fred Forest, a Londoner as a valuable member of the Maid of the Mountains Company. In his performance at all times, Mr. Forest gave an artistic presentation, combining the rawness of the paranoiac underling with the sinister menace of the moral perverser. Mr. Leighton as Mr. Wickfield was good. Miss Minnie Waterford, as Betsy Trovood a delightful characterization, Miss Bevan a lovable and gentle Agnes, Miss Madeleine Temple an excellent Mrs. Gummidge, Miss Millais an artistic Mrs. Micawber investing the character with the necessary colorless self-effacement that is characteristic of her, and Miss Constance as Mrs. Crupp and Betty Booth in the servant bit making their small parts stand out with cameo-like clearness.

Of course with the star as producer and such a sterling actor as Fred Forest as stage manager, one would expect to find the scenic investment and costuming flawless. This expectation was realized, everything to the slightest detail being of the highest quality.

In all, Bransby Williams in David Copperfield gives a remarkable performance. The engagement will continue for the entire week, with evening performances this and Saturday evening and the usual Saturday afternoon matinee.

CHARGE OF BREACH OF O.T.A. FAILS AT ST. THOMAS

Special to The Advertiser. St. Thomas, Sept. 20.—The charges preferred against George Minehan of having liquor in a place other than a private dwelling, and of having liquor in transit, consigned to himself, were dismissed by Magistrate Maxwell today. Nearly two months ago License Inspector Ross and Provincial Constable Felix Devlin seized a sedan car, loaded with pure grain whiskey, in an alley-way in the rear of one of the stores in the west end of Taihot street. About two weeks later Mr. Minehan, who is the proprietor of a hotel in Niagara Falls, N. Y., claimed the automobile, explaining that it had been stolen from him. It was at this time that the charge of violation of the Ontario Temperance Act was laid, and an adjournment of one month was granted at the request of Mr. Minehan's counsel, St. Clair Leitch.

The car, which was taken over by the internal revenue department, is in a local garage, and any negotiations opened by the Ontario Temperance Act will receive the consideration of the department, Mr. Daniel Ferguson, customs collector here, stated.

FIREMEN HAVE RUN.

Special to The Advertiser. St. Thomas, Sept. 20.—The local fire department received a hurried call to the east end of the city Thursday morning. The blaze was caused by a passerby throwing away a cigar stub carelessly. A year ago fire gutted the place, which was the property of an Oriental, who has since gone back to China, and the building has been boarded over ever since.

"GRAND TO HAVE YOUR HEALTH"

says Mrs. Jenny Evans of Detroit, Mich. Few of us appreciate our health until we lose it. Mrs. Evans worked in a factory, but owing to weakness and pains in her back she was forced to give up work. She says: "A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it made me well. It is grand to have your health, to feel well all the time, and to go around like other women without that awful torture of female troubles." Women who are suffering from such troubles should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the tried and true medicine now recognized everywhere as the standard remedy for female ills.—Adv't.

At the Movies Last Night

"Loyal Lives."

Long and drawn out with not enough action, but eventually leading up to a hair-raising climax summarizes "Loyal Lives," the picture presented for the last three days of this week.

Four prominent actors are included in the cast of "Loyal Lives," but little opportunity to display some good acting is afforded them. Mary Carr, Faire Binney, William Collier, Jr., and Brandon Tynan do their best to make the picture a success, but the plot is such that it could be shown in a half-hour production. The final scene of a jump from a racing locomotive is well done.

"Legally Dead."

An executed convict is brought back to life by the aid of science after hanging. This all happens in the picture, "Legally Dead," playing at the Patricia Theatre for the remainder of this week.

Following the news that life had actually been restored by the aid of adrenalin, "Legally Dead" was written and pictured, and is branded as fanciful pipe dream by producers, but, nevertheless, if your imagination is allowed to stray, the feature picture showing at the Patricia this week is a sensational production in which a big cast headed by Milton Sills and Claire Adams are engaged.

"Three Wise Fools."

The program for the balance of this week at Loew's Theatre is a very pleasing one, and in both the feature picture and the vaudeville turns, the show is one of the best which Loew's has offered this season.

The vaudeville turns are varied, and good, and if any preference is given, probably the Jolly Jesters, a musical quintet, is the best turn.

The feature picture, "Three Wise Fools," is a very human depiction of three elderly men, who, living together as bachelors, become the guardians of a beautiful girl, the daughter of a woman who was at one time their college days.

The plot is well sustained and the picture carries the thought throughout, that although the affair is improbable, it is anything but impossible, and the splendid acting carries the audience beyond the petty details of too close an analysis.

Although a quaint streak of humor pervades the whole story, there are some strikingly realistic scenes laid in the galleries and yard of one of the large American penitentiaries. Taken as a whole, the picture is one that will please even the blasé movie fan, and to those who frequent the theatre only occasionally, this picture will prove a treat.

"Carmen Junior."

"Carmen Junior," with Betsy Peggy, together with the fourth chapter of the serial, "Speed," is included in the picture program at Patricia.

The Lowell Drew Company stage a short sketch entitled "Hey, There," in which the principal role is that of a "rube."

SUGAR STOCKS DETAIN PREVIOUS PRICE GAINS

Studebakers, Steel Common and Baldwin Reach New Low Levels.

By STUART P. WEST. Special to The Advertiser.

Today's market was another case of concentrated selling in a few selected stocks done with a view to forcing a general decline. Baldwin Locomotive under 11 1/2, Studebaker under par, Steel common under 37, and American Wool below 77 were all at their lowest.

The reassuring statement of the president of the American Woolen company in which he denied reports of new financing and the offering of dividends, checked the selling in that stock. But the operators for the day continued to sell in a determined success against the equipments, motors and steels.

LACK OF ADVERTISING REDUCES STORE SALES

Shopping Districts of Metropolitan Feeling Effects of the Pressmen's Strike.

Special to The Advertiser. New York, Sept. 20.—Advertising is new.

A dearth of women shoppers at the height of the bargain season is laid to the fact that New York is without newspapers. Department store heads and shoppers interviewed confirmed the fact that shopping is decreasing each day the city goes without its morning and evening papers.

"The slump in shopping is caused by our inability to advertise in the newspapers," asserted the executive of one of the largest department stores.

"The first day of the strike was not so bad—the impetus of the previous day's advertising carried us over. Tomorrow, however, it will be even more noticeable."

Proper Mixture of Foods Brings Health To the Body

Our family food has carried various suggestions for planning a balanced diet and the accompanying menus. These considerations are important, but the housewife weary of too much talk of the technical side of menu building, we propose to translate it all, in so far as is practicable, into terms of bread and butter.

What are the first considerations in making out a bill of fare? In the first place no hard and fast rules can be set down, broad principles being the only safe guide unless individual needs and conditions are known.

It is taken for granted that the housewife has supplied herself with the standard weight tables for men, women and children and that she uses these to check up the weights of various members of the family as part of the technique referred to above.

As to fats, allow 1-2 to 2-3 ounces of this with 2 to 3 ounces of cottage cheese or some other meat substitute. Use eggs carefully, giving young children only a half egg at a time.

One protein calorie per pound of body weight is all that is required into the daily ration.

For breakfast try a glass of orange juice or a whole orange, some crisp toast, unbuttered, and coffee without milk or sugar.

For dinner I suggest a plain broiled steak, about four ounces, a baked potato, a cooked vegetable and ice cream or plain rice or tapioca pudding, with a single cup of black coffee.

Remember that this may not be the right diet for your special case. It is all that one can do at a distance, however, to suggest a simple diet that puts as little tax as possible on the digestion.

Will you please tell me the meaning of ptomaine poisoning? My husband was made ill by eating some unripe fruit, and a neighbor told me it was ptomaine poisoning, and very dangerous. I should like to understand this so as to help him and the children to keep well.—Mrs. G. V.

Ptomaine poisoning comes from decayed protein, and strictly speaking from the decomposition of meats, fish or shell fish. Spoiled vegetable protein would undoubtedly make one ill, but the poison would be of different character. Illness following the eating of unripe fruit is also different, serious, certainly, but intestinal irritation sets up, but this is not ptomaine poisoning.

I am told that apples are very wholesome and am wondering whether any one special kind is better for food than another. Shall appreciate any information on this.—H. F. S.

You are quite right in regarding apples as very wholesome food. They contain about one-seventh of their own weight in solids, that is chiefly protein and sugar. The acid is malic and the percentage of this varies decidedly according to the variety. The Maiden Blush when green has the largest percentage of malic acid, that is 1.68. Baldwin has 50 per cent, while other varieties show varying percentages. As to the dietetic value of the different varieties this depends on the manner in which they are served.

Any variety must be absolutely ripe, and in the case of young children or elderly persons with any digestive weakness, sweet apples are often more acceptable than the sour kinds. Then, too, baked apples, either served whole or scraped, are usually tolerated when raw apples would cause distress, if not violent indigestion.

Remember that egg plant contains minute particles of a strong poison, and an irritating principle. Both of these may be removed by the process of parboiling for two or three minutes before cooking.

The sugars found in fruits are the least apt of any to cause digestive troubles. Another advantage possessed by fruits is the quality of being ready for immediate use by the digestive system. This accounts for the quick sensation of refreshment that follows the drinking of a glass of pure fruit juice.

Get in the habit of thinking of fruits as a necessity in the diet, not as a luxury.

Buttermilk has practically the same composition as whole milk with one exception, the fat is reduced to about one-fourth the normal quantity. This makes it more easily digested than whole milk for those who have any digestive weakness.

The contractions of the stomach that produce the sensation of hunger continue as usual during sleep. This accounts for the fact that hunger will often awake a sleeper. Muscular and other organs are decreased during sleep.

Answers to Food Questions

Answers to readers' questions regarding diet will be given by Winifred Stuart Gibbs, food specialist, writer and lecturer on nutrition. Questions should be accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope, as only those of general interest will be answered in this column; others will be answered through the mail. Address: Winifred Stuart Gibbs, 37 West 39th street, New York City.

I have trouble with indigestion, am nervous and also have a poor circulation. My weight was 200 pounds two years ago, and the scale is now 145. Please tell me if food can cure me.—M. F.

Unless you have some trouble that requires a physician's advice, attention to your diet will probably be all that you need to make you feel all right again. Without knowing more about your symptoms I can not tell anything more than advised you to eat a very carefully selected and well prepared diet.

For breakfast try a glass of orange juice or a whole orange, some crisp toast, unbuttered, and coffee without milk or sugar. If eggs do not cause distress, eat one egg, poached or boiled, but never fried.

A good lunch would be some cream of vegetable soup, crisp rolls and a glass of milk.

For dinner I suggest a plain broiled steak, about four ounces, a baked potato, a cooked vegetable and ice cream or plain rice or tapioca pudding, with a single cup of black coffee.

Remember that this may not be the right diet for your special case. It is all that one can do at a distance, however, to suggest a simple diet that puts as little tax as possible on the digestion.
