Police To Start at Once For New York With Notorious

Associated Press Despatch. Jacksonville, Fla., April 21.—Pre-paring to return to New York this afternoon in custody of two New York detectives, Edward Cooney, 25, and his wife, Cecilia Cooney, 20, the beautiful bobbed-haired hold-up woman, today confessed to the whole affair, according to Detective F. H. Gray of New York.

The man is said to have confessed to the majority of the charges filed against the pair, and his wife freely talked of the most recent affair, the robbery of the National Biscuit Com pany's plant in Brooklyn, in which one man was seriously injured. The couples waived extradition and told the detectives they would be glad to return to New York and were ready to stand trial.

Confronted With Pistol.

The two New York detectives broke down the door of their room in a lodging house only to be confronted with a pistol in the woman's hand and two held by the man, but the girl shouted that they would not fire unless the officers shot, and the couple were taken without further Thebes Sanctorum To Confer Distinguished Order on 150 Candidates.

FOUNDED BY LONDONER

Thebes Sanctorum, No. 26, but a few weeks distant, it might be interesting to tell something of the origin of the Oriental Order of Humility and Perfection, which will conferred upon 150 candidates in this city on May 24.

To a London man, the late Brother James Smith, P.G.M., P.G.R., goes the distinction of being the founder of this order. Away back in 1871, the ate Brother Smith introduced into Ontario a rite known as the "Orient-Years of success have rolled by, and today it is one of the most pressive ceremonies in the order of the Orientals. Flourishing from its very inception the new rite spread with such rapidity that it was not many years before Sanctorums or many years before Sanctorums.

were established in every principal city of the Dominion. The primary organization and in-stitution of the Oriental order was the result of the combined efforts of a few Canadian tribesmen, who had profited by the lesson of humility and desired to hand down to posterity an established order based on the principles, to impress upon aspiring fellowmen the folly of human pride nd self conceit, worldly positions rank or color of cloth made no dif-ference in the dissemination of Oriental wisdom. Senators figured in the same bunch as jay-hawkeers the degree exercises.

For years the order stood as "The Oriental," but still its members felt that the pinnacle of their aspirations had not yet been reached. With this in mind, another higher degree was added. This was finally decided upon at a meeting of the representatives of the Sanctorums at Toronto in 1901, when the order was consolidated under the title of "The Supreme Orient of the Criental Order of Humility and Perfection."

And so it is after many years that London, the birthplace of this order, should be the first city in the Dominion to hold degree exercises that will be attended by the Grand Soverda and the principal cities in the States. Eight large American cities have already notified R. R. Whitethey will be here in full regalia, accompanied by their patrols and bands. Over 1,000 are making the trip from given early in May.

Fraternal Delegate of British Wesleyan Methodism Coming Friday.

ON WAY TO U. S.

The outstanding attraction this week for Methodists of the city and Rev. Dr. Samuel Chadwick, principal of Cliff College, Manchester England. Dr. Chadwick is the fraternal delegate and the official renresentative of British Wesleyan Methodism to the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the United States, which is meeting in May, and before going there has been making a brief lecture tour in Eastern Canada and the States. A vigorous attempt to have Dr. Chadwick include London in his tour resulted in an engagement for Friday in Dundas Center Church t speak at mass meetings in the af ternoon and evening. Dr. Chadwick will also address the ministers of the city and district when he will be their guest at a luncheon at noon

Dr. Chadwick, now one of the outstanding figures in Wesleyan Meth-odism, has had a very distinguished career. For many years, he was the head of a great mission in Leeds, known as "Oxford Place," and Rev. don Street Railway Company is go- Dr. Warren Stafford, pastor of the ing to allow the city to use such Metropolitan Church, Toronto, is aumoney as already paid over, a matter Dr. Chadwick's earnestness and powthority for the statement that through the greatest and most influential mission stations in the country. "O, Mary, you make such beautiful children's clothes I wonder if you wouldn't make little Janie's dress for her birthday party." "O Mary, you do such exquisite embroidery, won't you do a little hand work on my new blue crepe, just on the sleeves and the neck, and the ends of the sash, and a nice large motif on the front panel, and perhaps a little on the hem." "O, Mary, they wanted to charge me $25 for a hat downtown, so I just bought the materials, and thought I would get you to trim one for me," etc., etc.

And poor, silly, Angel Mary up until 12 o'clock at night making her neighbors' dresses and trimming their hats and wears herself to skin and bones toiling for people who have a secret contempt for her because she hasn't enough sense to look out for

Mary has a houseful of little children of her own. You would think that anybody would appreciate that she had her hands full keeping her own healthy, restless youngsters amused and out of mischief, and full of bread and jam, and from fighting among themselves.

As a matter of fact, Mary's nerves get just as much frazzled with child-ish shrieks and yells as any other woman's, and she gets just as tired of cutting bread and butter, and cleaning up after children as any one else does; but, nevertheless, she runs a free day nursery for the community in Every mother who wants to go on a shopping orgy or to go to a bridge game, or the matinee, or to a party at night, comes and dumps her children down on Mary. Whenever Sister Sue, or Cousin Janie, or Sister-in-law Maud want to go off on a nice trip with their husbands, they just bring their offspring and leave them with dear Mary for two or three weeks, or a month or so, while they are off enjoying themselves.

And they feel they have made ample return when they bring Mary a pocket handkerchief or a celluloid Souvenir de Paris, and Mary, poor simp, permits herself to be martyrized, instead of telling them to stay at home and take care of their own brats, and that she has enough troubles of her own.

Mary and her husband are working and saving, trying to get ahead a little, but they don't make as much headway as they should because their hungry relatives descend upon them like a flock of locusts and literally eat them out of house and home. All of their friends and family who wish to take a cheap vacation, or want to have an operation performed, or go to the dentist's, or to come to town and study something, just invite themselves to dentist's, or to come to town and study something, just invite themselves to pay dear Mary a nice long visit. Mary is so hospitable, and it costs so what I remember most distinctly much less to sponge than it does to pay a board bill.

So yery runs a free hotel, and does without a new dress because the groceryll all is so high when you have company, and works herself to death cooking and waiting on people who are ten times more able to support themselves than she is to support them.

Neighbors borrow her china and send it back with three cups broken and a plate lost, and all of her acquaintances are forever borrowing small change that they never pay back.

Mary thinks she is being good, and doing her duty to her fellow creatures, but she isn't. She is failing in her first duty, which is to her own, when she spends her money feeding people who do not need charity, and when she brings nervous prostration on herself doing the sewing and baby-tending of the women who are perfectly able to do it for themselves. She is a bad influence, a demoralizing influence because she encourages dishonesty and grafting in others instead of making them self-respecting, independent individuals who stood on their own feet.

Mary should reform. She should cease being an easy mark. She should serve notice on all, and sundry, that henceforth she is going to be a hardboiled egg instead of a nanny, and she will be surprised to find how much more people will respect her and how much more they appreciate what she DOROTHY DIX.

The soccer season got off to a good start on Saturday when Caledonians of St. Thomas defeated St. Andrews 3-0. Peterson, the Caley's center, scored all three goals for the first

Mayor Wenige kicked off and th two teams then settled down to good clean game of football, both teams showing mid-season form. The Caleys were the first to attack but met with a good defence, Wilson, the Saints right back, being in good form. Arnold, the Caleys' right winger, made a good run, finishing up with a good center, but his effort went un-rewarded, as no one was up to get

The Saints now woke up and trans-ferred play to the other end. Dicks, the local center, trying to get through on his own, spoilt a fine chance when near the Caleys' goal by putting the ball too far forward. End to end play was now the order, the Caleys being the most dangerous near goal. There was no score, however, as the defence on both sides was good, half time arriving with no score

Upon resuming both teams rear-ranged their forward line and after fifteen minutes of the second half Caleys scored. Arnold, their right wing man, getting away and center ring for Peterson to score the first goal. Ten minutes later Caleys repeated, Peterson again doing the trick. This was quickly followed up with another, Peterson scoring the third and lost could be seen as the control of the contro third and last goal, thus completing the hat trick, all the goals coming from the right wing. The Saints now met with a stubborn defence. They however, nearly when Pullen fumbled the ball, just managing to clear in time. Irish Girls Drew Away in Last Period After Surging Struggle.

SEVERAL INJURIES

"Sparkie" Dakin, Invading Star, Has To Retire in Last Half.

Well, they went and did it. London Shamrocks attained their revenge for the beating they received in Warren last February by wallop-ing their former victors, the Warren Lamps, 21 to 15 in the last international match of the season, in the armories Saturday night.

It was one of those struggles where you see one team leading, and then the other, all the way through mix that keeps the crowd on its feet all the time and holding its breath on each play. To say the least it was the best struggle put up by any two teams this season, and was featured by close checking along with some-very intricate plays and pretty combinations.

The Warren team was all that was supposed to be-a fast and ricky quintet that had the locals or the bit all the way. The visitors started things and led alternately through the first half, but the Shamrocks came through in the final Shamrocks came through in the final period strong and left the Warren girls in the lurch. The McCormick Company really had nothing to do with it at that time, but were affected favorably by the low fixed assessment provided for in allow this invasion to continue, or are we going the agreement, which was to run for 15 years at a rate of 15 mills.

Ignoring that agreement the suit brought by the city sought to collect on present-day valuation at the 15-mill rate.

When the suit was heard here some months ago it was evident that the deciding factor would be this-that the council sought to impose conditions on the McCormick Company and other manufacturers there that it did not propose to apply to all the other property in the same area.

The suit was not well advised in the first place. The agreement, carrying with it the special 15-mill rate for the annexed area, expires in 1926. In that year the eastern section will start to be assessed and taxed on the same basis as

The city made the agreement in the first place, signed it and lived up to it ever since. It accepted payment of taxes all those years on that basis, and then, about the time the agreement was due to expire, sought to shift to another working basis. The precedent the city had established of taking taxes for years on the basis of the 1911 understanding was sufficient in itself to defeat the effort to move to another plan of collecting.

Without arguing the features of the annexa tion agreement, it can be accepted as a basic principle that when the city makes an agreement it should be prepared to abide by it.

There will have to be some adjustment made now to take care of the $15,000 already spent and not collected in 1923, the city placing this amount in the estimates in anticipation of a verdict in its favor. The same thing has been point in infant mortality was in the first month of life, 53.75 per cent of the deaths being recorded in that period. Diseases of the stomach and diarrhoea claimed most of the infants who passed away in their first year.

London, in the year 1922, had a record of 67.7 against a total of 83 per cent for the province, a result that is due to a great extent to the care given to children in this city.

From the same records, which deal with marriages as well, it is seen that the Anglicans did the most marrying, with a score of 209. Methodists were a very close second with 202. Others were: Presbyterians, 142; Baptists, 69; Roman Catholics, 45; Salvation Army, 6; Jews, Church, 4; Mormons, 6; Christian Science, 3.

Figures for marriages in London show a tendency to start in early. The high cost of can be rented for one week's pay, the claim that girls want to start out in a mansion-none of these things can twist the course of true love. The figures prove it and there's no room for an

Competition

COMPETITION is natural and wholesome among the ideas of the mind, but distinctive and unnatural in the works of our

For instance, competition is the life of sports, of all games and play, from chess to polo. It is intended to intensify diversion and make our activities of relaxation recuperative.

It is also necessary and helpful in science, in study, in art, in every field of pure intelligence. Here it does no harm. The competitive efforts of two professors of botany or of two experts seeking astronomical or geologic discoveries of two surgeons working to devise the best method of setting a broken bone or restoring a disordered stomach, only advance the general good. And it is significant that in these realms humanity's right of eminent domain is universally recognized. If a physician keeps a medical discovery to himself, patents it and makes it enrich him, he has violated the ethics of his profession, loses standing at once and is called a quack.

There are no secrets, privileges nor private property in science. It is as socialistic as the maddest Marxian could wish. So is painting, sculpture, music, literature and all sport.

AND there is scope enough here for all the competitive instincts of the race. We say it is human nature to fight, to compete. Very well. Let them fight over the atomic theory and compete in

But in the production of wealth, including food, clothing, shelter, tools and machinery, the world is slowly finding out that competition not only is wasteful and does not pay in the long run, but that it surely eventuates in such lapses into barbarism as war between nations, partisanship in government, strikes and lockouts

Out of the welter of these times are emerging two luminous

One, that nations somehow must work toward co-operation and cease competition, not only for the sake of peace, but for fear of smashing the whole world.

And, second, that the labor question can never be permanently settled on a basis of class struggle, but somehow capitalist, manager and employee must get together and work together in such a way that the prosperity of one shall be the prosperity of all.

The theory of a ruling proletariat is every whit as impossible and absurd as the theory of the rule of a czar and his bureaucrats. To live and to work we must co-operate. To play we must

Anything but the most simple dressing during school hours is not only lacking in good taste, but most unsuitable, n good taste, but most unsuitable, and creates a feeling of resentment among the other girls. It has been suggested that a khaki colored uniform of Canadian loose mesh, home-spun with dark brown leather belts, leather binding as a finish to the neck and arms, brown boots, stockings and gloves would be suitable, but many suggestions might be given. It rests with the girls themselves Some of the aldermen in Lordon entertain the idea that they have the power to entertain the idea that they have the power to say where high schools shall be built in this were under 18 years of age. Arthur Jackson Is Sure There Are Too Many Regulations Around This

Pastime. Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,-I see by your paper the great moguls of the medical profession are on a new track; the ancient order of die early. Where will it all end? I believe from what I see and read positively got the public scared stiff. Doctor So-and-So has only to start something by saying some disease is ately have to work overtime to com-at the imaginary complaint. Now, kissing has been in vogue for enerations. How about in the early Christian era? They kissed feet as well as the mouth. It's truly a wonder anybody is alive today, according to these same gentlemen. Truly marvelous, now you come to think about the amount of licking and kissing that goes on, and still the undertakers are slack. The lower animals such as the cat or dog gives birth to its young and is its own doctor, nurse and washerwoman, and does not sufer. Perhaps it's because it has nine

Of course, we recognize the great mount of good the doctors do, but I think some of the ills of today are due to over anxiety, sanitation over done, as it were. I know of several cases where the people live in in-describable filth and still remain healthy and what is more, these same doctors do not interfere. Now, my idea of kissing is this: Did you ever see on a dark night two lovers clasped in each other's arms, all thoughts of the world blocked out of their lives for the time being? They kiss and kiss and speak words of endearing love. Why, then, is it they do not come to grief? Simply this, their hearts are working fast, they feel all life; the blood is racing around at a marvellous speed; a reg-ular battle is going on between the white and red blood cells; the red is winning the battle against any pos-sible pollution. Why? Because of that one thing, love, which can and does win all battles of life. Picture the greatest love of all, mother love, towards her child. How she looks at the darling little parcel of her own flesh; how she picks it up and rains kisses on its lips, eyes or anywhere, with no thought of harm, because o

300,000 BUSHELS ADDITION MAKES LARGEST TOTAL ST. ALBAN'S TO BE RAISED

Canadian Press Despatch.
Fort William, April 20.—An addition of 300,000 bushels to the stock of store at the head of the lakes during the past week has brought them up to the largest grand total of the season, which will probably be considerably reduced a week hence, as it is expected that havigation will have opened and permitted the shipping out of sufficient grain to reduce the stock materially. The total now on hand is 64,348,891 bushels of all grains. Receipts and shipments were all light, only half a million bushels being taken in and a quarter of a million sent out. There were no shipments of either flax or rye.

BROKERS' LOANS.

It has often been pointed out that Wall Street goes to extremes in its bull and bear movements. The pressure apparent in New York stocks in recent weeks is shown to have been brought about mainly by the operations of bear operators who at the beginning of the year were on the long side.

Opinion was quite general last week that the short interest in the market is one of the largest in history. Easter Sunday was the occasion for Englishmen the world over to honor their patron saint, and that the Lon don society holds dear the memory of St. George was plainly visible when they marched in full force to St.

George's Church yesterday.
In opening his address Archdeacon Sage compared the sayings of the two great men, King David and Moses. He said that they were leadby wire from New York.

6:30 p.m.—Dinner music, Ten Eyck ers upon whom God had placed many responsibilities that come hand in hand with opportunities.

"Englishmen have a great work to do in Canada." declared the speaker. Englishmen stand, the truthfulness and integrity so characteristic of the race should be transplanted in Canada, your new home. It is a big job to be an Englishman. It requires al "Where Englishmen are gathered together we expect and know that they are going to tell the truth. It
