GERMAN POWER ON DECLINE IS BELIEF OF VENIZELOS

New Battle Ground in Balkans Offers
New Favorable Conditions to Allies
—Moral Effect of the Allied Victory
Would be Tremendous

By Special Wire to the Courier.

New York, Nov. 22.—A cable to the New York Times from London this morning says:

The Daily News prints a mailed despatch from Athens dated November 19, which gives the following interview with former Premier Venizelos.

"I am not a strategist, but two things seem quite clear to me; first, that the Germans are bound to be conquered in the end, from the fact that the reserves from which they are drawing their resources are much smaller than those at the disposal of the allies. The Germans in fact have already passed the zenith of their strength, though still powerful enough to prolong the struggle for a long time.

"Secondly, it seems to me that this new battle ground in the Balkans offers favorable conditions to the allies, their position in the west must be strong enough for them to hold on there and at the same time detach large bodies of troops for use here in the Balkans. It is important that you should cut off Germany from the supplies of men and minerals waiting for her in Turkey.

"The moral effect upon Greece and Rumania of allied success in the Balkans would be considerable. A German reverse in the Balkans, too, would have most serious effects for them at home. The German people have been promised so much and been so often disappointed, first in Paris and then in Calais, then in the expected surrender of Russia after the taking of Warsaw, and if this new enterprise, with its much trumpet-sing of opening a road to Egypt, turns out another failure, the results in interior Germany may well be disastrous."

M. Venizelos spoke too of the great effect the German propaganda in the Balkans had had upon Greek public opinion.

"Thanks to this propaganda," he said, "A great part of the Greek people, while still ardently desiring the victory of the allies, believe not that Germany will win, but that she has won already."

"I have the greatest admiration for Sir Edward Grey, but I feel it was a mistake to chill Greek sympathies by offering Kavalla to the Bulgarians without, at any rate, first ascertaining whether they would accept the bribe."

"As for the offer of Cyprus to Greece, the feeling of the mass of the Greek people is that it would be too great a risk to accept Cyprus under conditions of a co-operation which in their opinion might lead to the forfeiture of most of the rest of their territory."

FIRST RECRUITING MEETING HELD FOR NEW BATTALION

Lieut. Fenton of the 84th and Rev. E. Baker of Colborne Street gave stirring addresses to large audience at Brant Theatre last night.

A fine audience listened to the appeals made last evening for recruits in the Brant Theatre by Lieut. Fenton of the 84th and Rev. Baker of Colborne St. Methodist Church. Just how successful the meeting was, however, cannot be ascertained until the results are registered in the recruiting stations.

CHAIRMAN'S ADDRESS

Mr. W. Norman Andrews was chairman, and spoke a few fitting words as an introduction to the program. The country is facing a great crisis at the present time, one that must be overcome at all costs. Brantford and Brant County have indeed done their share in the past months, and all honor is due her loyal sons who are doing their part at the front. They have given up their lives for liberty. Brant County has had a great past, and also will have a great future. It cannot be excelled in loyalty and patriotism, and the men need will be raised in a short time.

MAYOR SPENCE.

The Mayor addressed the audience briefly, and stated a few facts of which Brantford could indeed be proud. This fair city stands second in the whole Dominion in the furnishing of recruits. A district in the west comes first with a slightly larger percentage than Brantford and Brant County has raised. The city should also be proud of the fact that the militia headquarters feel confident that a whole battalion could be raised here. The 1st Brant Battalion is called the 1st Brant Battalion, and is entirely composed of Brantford and Brant County men. Colonel M. E. B. Cutcliffe is in command and will lead his battalion to distinction when they get into the fighting line.

A great record has been made in the past, and it will be proudly followed. No less than seven commanding officers have left Brantford.

The women have also done the noble part in this dark period in sending their husbands, sons and sweethearts away. They are the ones that suffer most if anything happens to their men. All honor must be attributed to them.

Before resuming his seat, the Mayor hoped that this meeting and all following ones would be very successful.

LIEUT. FENTON.

Lieut. Fenton was then called on by the chairman. He explained that the meeting was not held to create a spirit of chauvinism or to make any one enlist or yet to cause a feeling of hatred against our enemies. It is not necessary to make Anglo-Saxons enlist. No matter in what form the call may come, they have always loyally responded since the time of their earliest wars. That feeling is just as strong and powerful now as it ever was in the past.

No chant or hymn of hate is ever heard over the whole expanse of the

BLOCKADE EXPECTED TO ELICIT STRAIGHT AVOWAL FROM GREECE

An Athens Report Says That as a Result of Earl Kitchener's Interview With Constantine, Greek King Has Already Stated His Views But the British Have Not Intimated That is So.

GREECE VERY UNDECIDED

Military Operations in Southern Serbia are Almost Suspended Which May be Good Sign For Allies.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, Nov. 22.—The rumors of last week that the Entente allies had determined to compel Greece to remain in the war, and that she might be compelled to do so, were confirmed yesterday. The British Empire is full of the talk of a pacific blockade. This measure is expected to elicit an immediate declaration from the Greek government, defining its intentions clearly without further hesitation and ambiguity.

Some despatches from Athens go so far as to say this already has been attained as a result of Earl Kitchener's conference with King Constantine, and that the Earl received assurances from the king that he would support the Entente.

The British Government, however, has not yet intimated that Greece has complied to the demands of the allies. Greece is described as a prey of conflicting emotions—fear of Germany, whose military successes have brought the Balkan war theatre nearer and her natural sympathy for the cause of the allies—dictating opposite paths out of her present difficult neutrality.

Some Greek newspapers regard the blockade of Greece, as a violation of international law. It has created a powerful British squadron convoyed the submarines to the entrance of the Catagat, where both German and British destroyer flotillas have been sighted.

According to current reports, a powerful British squadron convoyed the submarines to the entrance of the Catagat at the Skaw, the northernmost point of Jutland coast. The large ships stopped there, while the destroyers proceeded the submarines as far as Elsinore, at the narrowest part of the sound, when the submarines alone proceeded into the Baltic.

Brantford Soldiers Among Convalescents Home From Front

Among the convalescent soldiers who arrived yesterday in Toronto and who received such a fine welcome from the Queen City citizens were four Brantford men, and one from Paris, France.

Pte. H. C. Bloxham, 27 Sheridan Avenue, 1st Battalion.

Bugler A. L. Lewis, 139 Chestnut Avenue, 1st Battalion.

Pte. H. Ireland, Kennedy Street, Grandview, 36th Battalion.

Pte. A. J. Rose, 25 Foster street.

Pte. A. D. Fraser, Paris, 4th Battalion.

Pte. Bloxham, who has been given the D.C.M. for conspicuous bravery, is expected home at any time, so his people told the Courier to-day. He is suffering from rheumatism and is incapacitated from further service.

Bugler A. C. Lewis, who is a son of Mr. Charles F. Lewis, fireman at the Ontario School for the Blind, went over with the First Contingent, being a member of the First Battalion. His father did not know he was back and cannot say whether it is because of wounds or illness that he is home.

Pte. H. J. Ireland was well known in Brantford from his wrestling powers. He joined Col. Ashton's 36th Battalion, but was stricken with muscular rheumatism very shortly after his arrival in England. He is no better now.

Mr. Charles F. Lewis, fireman at the Ontario School for the Blind, went over with the First Contingent, being a member of the First Battalion.

ELOQUENT MEMORIAL SERVICE TO THE THREE DEAD HEROES

Pastor of First Baptist Church Last Night Preached Sermon in Memory of Three Former Members Killed by the One Shell, Privates James Lowes, Percy O'Neill and Verner O'Neill.

The choral memorial service in honor of James Lowes, Percy O'Neill and Verner O'Neill at the First Baptist church was well attended. Accommodation could not be afforded for all who wished to attend. Many stood throughout the service while others went away disappointed in not being able to secure a sitting.

SPLendid MUSIC.

The musical part of the service was very fine. Mr. Powlson's "Arm Arm Ye, Brave," from Judas Maccabaeus and "Thou Art Passing Hence" by Sullivan, were very finely rendered, as were also, "The Good Shepherd" by Vandewater, as sung by Mrs. A. O. Secord. The anthems "Far From My Heavenly Home" and "Baldwin" and "Kindred Light" (Page-Evans) were beautifully and feelingly sung. The pastor took for his text, Rev. 2:10: "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life." He said in part as follows:

THE SERMON.

"The war is beginning to come home to us. When the lists or the wounded and dead begin to roll upon us it is then that we realize that our country is in trouble. When we witness the flicker of legs as the boys march to music on their way to the station and are waved a hearty farewell. When we pick up the paper and read there in cold type the names of those we knew, we have fallen in battle, it is then that we never before that we begin to feel the ser-ioussness of the situation and the terrible struggle—life and death struggle—in which our nation is at this time involved. This same shock has come to other cities, to other communities, to other homes, to other churches, and they have felt just as we feel to-night—broken-hearted and sad.

"Never morning wore to evening, But some heart did break."

But I would remind you of the fact that they did not die in vain. Surely they died a noble and a heroic death. They did not see the victory for which we all pray for, but we are all making some contribution, for which we are all looking, but they died to make it possible. They did their bit toward this desired end and died doing their duty, to God and to humanity and to their nation. You will recall the familiar lines of the poem:

"It was a summer's evening,
Old Casper's work was done,
And he before his cottage door,
Was sitting in the sun."

His grandchild has asked him a question re the meaning of the ploughman that day turning out in the furrow a skull—saying "Tell me all about the war, And what they killed each other for?" To which inquiry old Casper made this answer,

"Such things as these must be After a famous victory."

Russia Is Now Unbelievably Prosperous

Beggars Have Disappeared, and Masses Are Better Fed and Clad Than Ever.

Efforts Being Made to Have Pleasant Substitutes for Vodka.

Stockholm, Nov. 22.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Vodkeless Russia is unbelievably prosperous even in the midst of war, writes the editor of Dagens Nyheter, after a long trip through the Russian provinces, but there is still a great danger for the peasant has as yet found nothing to take the place of the saloon as a center of recreation and amusement. Stories are told of cases of suicide owing to the dullness of life now that the "dear little water" has been put out of reach.

"In the towns there has never been so much prosperity as at present," remarks the editor. "Beggars have disappeared from the streets and the masses are better fed and better clad than ever before."

"It is, however, in the villages that the blessings of teetotalism are most apparent. The hundreds of millions formerly spent in the pockets of the peasants, now remain in the pockets of the peasants. Millions of working days, formerly wasted in drinking bouts and their after-effects, help to line the pockets."

"The new life is seen in the peasant villages, so to say, roll in money. Meat, formerly eaten once or twice a year, is becoming part of the daily fare, and dwellings and farming utensils and decent clothes are being purchased out of savings by the agricultural population."

"The one danger with the increase of economic strength is the possibility of a decrease of moral strength. Vodka filled a void in the empty and lustreless life of the peasant. He wonders how he will spend his free time and his superfluous money."

"The teetotalers are alive to this danger, and already, in certain districts of Russia, 'people's houses' are being provided, equipped with libraries, tea, lecture and reading rooms and cinematographs."

"All this is to the good, but big effort is essential in order to raise the intellectual and moral level of the nation if Russia's teetotal year is to be more than a little episode in her history."

Adriatic Safe.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Philadelphia, Nov. 22.—The British freight steamer Adriatic, from Ky-massi, Greece, October 13, for Philadelphia, passed in the Delaware Caps during the night and will arrive here to-day. The Adriatic's arrival eliminates here from the report circulated a week ago to-day that a steamer by that name had been sunk in the European war zone by a submarine.

SUCCESSFUL ANNIVERSARY

Is Held at the Brant Avenue Church—Eloquent Sermons by Dr. Hincks.

The anniversary services yesterday at the Brant Avenue Methodist church were attended by large congregations and proved in every way a marked success.

The preacher was Rev. Dr. W. H. Hincks of Trinity church, Toronto, one of the most popular pastors in Toronto. He is the possessor of a most effective pulpit delivery, addressed to soldly attention and great lucidity of thought. His addresses left an impression which will long remain with those fortunate enough to hear him. He took for his morning text, "To-morrow shall be as the day and much more abundant." The thought brought out was that the successful past history of Brant Avenue church should serve to make future results still more abundant.

At night the text was from the story of the Woman of Samaria. "Sir, give me this water that I thirst not neither come hither to draw."

A strong gospel sermon was preached.

An appeal was made for a special contribution to take care of some current demands and there was the splendid response of some $45.

On Thursday night the church will give a supper to the machine gun section, the signallers and the Scouts of the 84th. It is proposed to pay special attention to those units during the stay of the Battalion in the city and on Sunday some thirty of the members were entertained to private dinners.

It would be an excellent plan for other local churches to follow a similar plan with regard to various sections of the 84th.

Social and Personal

The Courier is always pleased to use items of personal interest. Phone 276.

Rev D. T. McClintock, who was absent from the city over Sunday, attended the anniversary services at Verchere.

Mrs. Frederic Bishop of Toronto, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Robert Sibbitt, 27 William street, intends leaving shortly to spend the winter in Los Angeles, California.

Mr and Mrs George S. Mattice announce the engagement of their daughter, Mae to Mr. John E. Hallam. The wedding to take place November 20th.

The military hospital in Salisbury road, Plymouth, which before the war was used as a school, has been totally destroyed by fire. The hospital was full of sick and wounded soldiers but all were safely removed.

Eight bombers attached to a well-known regiment went out about nine o'clock one night, and when dawn came they had not presented themselves. It had been a terrible night, black and dark, with the cold of the north and the rain of the tropics. In the morning worse out, the regiment pictured their comrades lying wounded and dying in the mud and the slush and the decaying corn. If they could only know for certain what had happened it would be relief of part. But how to know? It was broad daylight, the German lines watched him anxiously as he proceeded slowly towards the German lines. Not a shot was fired by the enemy. After some hesitation his request was granted. Donning his surplice and with a crucifix in his hand, the padre stepped forward. One of the saps and climbed out into the mud. With his eyes glued to periscopes the British line watched him anxiously as he proceeded slowly towards the German lines. Not a shot was fired by the enemy. ## The Situation.

King Constantine and his outfit have continued to protest that they did not intend anything but a "benevolent neutrality," but the Allies have taken the wise precaution to make that country sit up and take notice by declaring a commercial blockade against her. That is something Constantine and the rest will understand, and it will do far more to bring them to their senses than any kid-gloved diplomacy. They will either show the benevolence in actual deeds, or else be made to stay that way. Thus once again it is the great British fleet which is in the forefront as a coercive agent. Meanwhile there is the report of an important Serbian victory, which serves to hearten up matters as far as they are concerned, although without any question they are still in a desperate position.

The Italian and Russian forces still continue to do well.

Canada's War Loan.

The first domestic war loan ever issued in the Dominion of Canada is now offered to the public, and without any doubt there will be a large and generous response.

Canada has already given freely of her sons, and will continue to do so, but material help is none the less important, and here there is an opportunity afforded, not only to help financially, but also to do so at a splendid rate of interest.

As a safe investment, apart from any other consideration, the offer is of a most attractive nature. Add to this the further fact that in making said remunerative investment important help is also afforded in the one great cause in which we are now all joined, and it can readily be seen that the opportunity serves the double cause of patriotism and self-interest.

The chance—yes, the duty—is for small investors as well as large, and there should be an all-round response of no uncertain sound.

The people of Brantford and Brant county will see to it that they do their share with the rest.

To Work a Year in a Factory.

Rev. Samuel S. Marquis, Dean of St. Paul's Episcopal Cathedral, Detroit, recently obtained a year's leave of absence, and then said he would spend the time working in the Ford factory in that city. In making this announcement he said in part as follows:

"Things have now reached such a point of prosperity in St. Paul's parish that the vestry felt they could afford to give me a year's leave of absence, and then said he would spend the time working in the Ford factory in that city. In making this announcement he said in part as follows:

"I believe that it would be a good thing if the church would offer that about every seventh year a layman should go for a time into the ranks of labor and learn at first hand more about the life, the thought, the material environment and the problems of the men he is seeking to reach and help."

The true charity is that which gives a man a job, enabling him to live in a self-respecting manner. The time is coming when the commercial world will take upon itself the care of the unfortunate whom it now turns over to the Associated Charities and other such bodies. More and more employers are interesting themselves in their men's welfare, and as most cases which become the concern of the church are the products of our industrial system, it is logical.

"Most ministers when they are given a leave of absence decide to spend the time in study in the comparative seclusion of college. I prefer to spend mine in the 'School of Humanity.'

The work in the sociological department of the Ford factory appeals to me strongly. It is the kind of work on a large scale, in which I have always been interested. I anticipate with something of the pleasure I expect in entering college. It is the kind of school I care most to attend. It seems to me to present an unlimited opportunity for training and service.

"As to the charity of the future, it will, I think, be taken care of by the job methods, the beginnings of which have been instituted at the Ford plant.

"The church has been criticized for not doing the practical thing. But inspirational efforts are necessary; there must be places for the inculcation of ideals, for the cultivation of man's moral and spiritual nature. This is done through religion as in no other way."

"The church's highest function is to serve as the centre of worship, to arouse men to the right kind of ideals and give them the right impetus. As a rule when a clergyman is given a pulpit off his speaking circuits travel recreation or study, I do not care for travel. I am not particularly interested in what the higher critics have to offer that is new, and I am not anxious to have the last word in theology.

"As for recreation, I have always found that in a change of occupation. For the coming year I am going to do a work that offers a change and yet one which is not outside the field of my calling."

To The Editor.

LETTER FROM COMMITTEE.

To the Editor of the Courier:

Sir.—There appeared in Saturday's issue a copy of a petition which is to be presented to the City Council to-night.

1. The sincerity of the temperance movement seems to be doubted by the friends of the open bar. They know too well the tremendous sincerity of the men behind the Local Option movement. What evident sincerity is at this moment threatened? We are proceeding in the regular way.

2. Improvements are said to have been made in the hotel properties, which no one would wish to deny, and concerning which we are all glad. But the hotel business is not being discussed. We are after the liquor business.

3. The economic argument is dragged from its obscurity, where it has been hiding for some time. We always welcome an economic argument in favor of the liquor business.

It shows how foolish the business and its friends have become. Do the liquor people not know that buildings in this country were formerly used as hotels have almost doubled in assessable value since they have been devoted to other business? We invite figures along this line regarding, say, the "Commercial Building."

4. We are bringing on this Local Option contest at this time exactly because we can keep it out of politics. It is a purely non-political matter.

5. We were all glad to hear Mr. Flavelle's statement regarding the conduct of our hotels, but the amount of care and inspection can make the liquor business decent or permissible in a decent community.

LOCAL OPTION COMMITTEE.

FRENCH OFFICIAL

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Paris, Nov. 22.—The report from the war office this afternoon follows: "Nothing of importance occurred with the exception of fighting with grenades in the Artois district, and engagements between patrols in Lorraine."

REVENTLOW ON THE SITUATION

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Berlin, Nov. 22 (In Montreal Gazette)—Count Reventlow, the military expert, sees a menace in peace talk to both England and Germany, and warns the Germans that the war must be fought to the end.

"Victory not pushed to a logical conclusion," says Count Reventlow, "and a war interrupted by the conclusion of peace before it is completed, would soon after the conclusion of peace prove a lost war. The main thing is not to end the war quickly, but to create a situation which will enable us by conclusion of peace really to secure Germany's future, not merely on paper. All other considerations, including the quite comprehensible desire to end the war of the world, international finance, must step far into the background before the colossal task of every German. It is important just at this moment for the German people to keep clearly before their eyes that this war has a goal which must be achieved. It seems this has been forgotten here."

Count Okuma Sick.

Special Wire to the Courier.

Tokio, Nov. 22.—Premier Count Okuma, who has been in poor health of late, underwent a slight operation on his eye yesterday. He is improving.

Played Detective.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 22.—Joseph Grant, a prominent wholesale grocer, was fined $200 by the police magistrate to-day for sending a letter through the mails fictitiously signed with the name of a detective agency that did not exist, in an effort to frighten one of his debtors into paying an account of $75. The offense was a contravention of the private detective act.

Persuading China.

Tokio, Nov. 22.—Representatives of the quadruple entente are in close consultation with Japan concerning the measures adopted to induce China to join the alliance. The press of Tokio lays stress on the prominence of these negotiations, which it is felt, will influence the future of Japan in the Orient.

News has been received by Mr. Donald Macmaster, member for the Chertsey Division of Surrey, at his Virginia Water address, of the death of his only son, Lieut. Cameron Macmaster of the 6th Battalion, Cameron Highlanders.

ONLY MEDICINE THAT CAN CURE

Blockade of Greece is the Way to Bring Constantine to His Senses.

Bulgaria Has Arranged for Big Loan From Germany.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, Nov. 22.—The informal commercial blockade of Greece is described as the first instalment of the only medicine which can cure King Constantine's affliction by the Pall Mall Gazette which adds:

"The only way in which Constantine is amenable is demonstrated that the allies are armed with more than amiability and are ready and able to punish those who play tricks with them."

"We have seen enough to convince us we can rely upon good faith in that quarter only by exhibiting the punishment which awaits guile. The blockade is a tardy beginning of that process to which supplements should be forthcoming with delay."

A GERMAN LOAN.

Berlin, Nov. 22.—(By Sayville wireless).—The Bulgarian finance minister, M. Toncheff, who has been in Berlin for several weeks, has made arrangements for an advance to Bulgaria by a syndicate of German banks. This advance will be converted later into a government loan.

On leaving Germany, M. Toncheff, is quoted by the Lokal Anzeiger as saying Bulgaria intended to retain the territory captured from Serbia and also that Greece was now fully convinced Bulgaria would not attempt to encroach upon her territory.

on land. There is a graver menace to the Empire than has ever before been experienced. The spirit of loyalty is born in every Britain, and there is no need to stir up any feeling of patriotism. So it is up to every man to show that spirit.

WAR OF IDEALS.

This is a war of ideals, and Britain and her allies are fighting for a great ideal. If one set of ideals should be victorious, we must hang our heads in shame and the country would have to learn these new ideals. It will never be so, however, if every man would do his duty. The ideal that is righteous must be vindicated. There is an urgent need for 1000 more men. The speaker concluded by saying that this 1,000 would shortly be raised, and steps taken towards raising another 1,000, if only the men of Brantford and Brant county would think of their duty, set their teeth and do it.

Mr. J. Adams of Hastings found on the beach a bottle in which was a paper containing the words: "The finder will greatly oblige me by sending this to my wife—Jim Tinney, Lusitania."

ELOQUENT SERMON

And so to-night in Belgium the moon that shines upon us looks down upon three crosses upon that mark the graves of our three dead heroes and all to make the famous victory possible. They did not die in vain.

Many such lads have fallen, Some are falling even now, Many more will fall, before the last shot that will end the war is fired, but these lads did not die in vain, for by their death that have made possible the very liberties we enjoy have made possible the perpetuation of these and they will make it possible for others who hitherto have not enjoyed them to enter into them and to share them too. They have died but they have not died in vain. He who gives his life for his country and the cause of freedom, his name will never die, his memory will never be forgotten.

It is by hundreds and by thousands of brave fellows as Lowes and the Old Nelson brothers, that the last blow and being faithful even unto death that the final victory will come. It can come in no other way.

"This kind groth not out except by prayer and fasting," said the Saviour; and this evil delusion which has laid hold of the mind of the Kaiser and his people that they are to rule the world, and that Germany is to be "over all," goeth not forth except by blood and tears; the blood of the soldier and the tears of the mother sister, the lover and friend.

Wolfe had this in mind when rowing down the river, before storming the heights, he repeated the lines of Grey's Elegy—

"The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power, And all that beauty, all that wealth ever gave, Alike alike the inevitable hour, The paths of glory lead but to the grave."

Gossip of Notables

Booker T. Washington was the most widely known man his race has ever produced in this country and its foremost educator, says the New York World. Born of a slave mother into slavery, the fortunes of his life led him to be White House guest of a President at luncheon; to be entertained and received by Queens and Princes abroad; to have Harvard and Dartmouth Universities confer degrees upon him, and to die, leaving behind him a record of achievement and ability which is generally considered never to have been equaled by one of his race.

It is with the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute that Dr. Washington is most generally associated. It was founded in 1881, and since his death he had been its principal; under his management and leading, this school for negroes has grown from a shack in which thirty pupils gathered for lessons, to one of the largest and most munificently equipped normal educational institutions in this country, where more than 1,500 negro boys and girls, young men and women, annually receive instruction.

But Dr. Washington's work was not confined to the administration of one school. Its importance, it is generally acknowledged, lay in his national leadership of his race. Into practically every State of the Union the negro educator went, giving advice to his people, spreading his influence, dealing with their problems whatever they were.

BEGAN LIFE AS A SLAVE.

Dr. Washington was born in 1857 or 1858 in Franklin, Virginia. A few years later the family which owned him moved to West Virginia, where the boy was put to work in salt works near Madison. About the time the war ended he began to show a desire for an education.

He went to school about two months a year and read and studied at night.

In 1871 he heard of the Hampton Institute at Hampton, Va. He walked part of the way to Hampton and studied at the institute from which he returned to West Virginia where he taught school for a time, and then went to the Wayland Institute at Washington. From there he was called to Hampton as teacher. After two years of this Gen. S. C. Armstrong was asked by the citizens of Tuskegee, Ala., to find one to start an institution at that place similar to the one at Hampton. He recommended young Washington, and the latter took the job going to Alabama in 1881.

In 1894 Dr. Washington first became a national character when he spoke for the negro on the opening day of the Atlanta Exposition. Since then he has been constantly before the public and in demand as a speaker upon questions affecting his race.

Dr. Washington had been married three times, his third wife surviving him. His first wife was Fannie M. Smith, whom he married in 1873 and who died in 1884. She was a teacher of Hampton. In 1885 he married Olive Davidson, one of the teachers of the school. She died in 1889 and Dr. Washington married Margaret J. Murray, graduate of Fiske Institute in 1893.

REVERENT TRIBUTE IN MEMORIAL SERVICE TO P.M. W.R. MC.CORMACK

Yesterday Afternoon Masons of the City Gathered at Doric Lodge Room to Pay Respect to Departed and Much Beloved Brother--Sympathetic and Consoling Discourse by Rev. Mr. Woodside.

Yesterday afternoon in the Lodge Room a memorial service to the late William Robb McCormack whose sudden and tragic death occurred last July, was held under the auspices of Doric Lodge A. F. & A. M., No. 121. A touching service was conducted and also an eloquent address by Rev. Mr. Woodside, the subject being "Holding the Veil." Mr. Thomas Darnen presided at the organ playing Chopin's Funeral March as a prelude and Handel's Largo as an offertory. Appropriate and old favorite hymns were sung, while the male quartette consisting of Brothers Russell, Strickland, Moul and Byers rendered effectively "The Christian's Good Night".

Mr. Woodside took as his scripture reading a selection from Isaiah, Chapter 6, and in addition to his sermon read an appreciation of the late Bro. McCormack prepared by a fellow-member of the lodge, as a last token of friendship.

Mr. Woodside's sermon which throughout was a constant reminder that death has no terrors for the true Christian was in part as follows:

Take in more . . . . . THE SERMON.

Passing from the immediate loss and circumstances of his death, we ask what about this mystery of which we know so little and in which we profess to be so greatly interested.

We all look for a life to come.

With many it is indefinite and inarticulate. Where can we go that we find no evidences and gather up no tracings of a future life. Browning describes the soul as sensitive and leaping into its eternal consciousness at the touch of the divine presence. Crossing life's moor he pictures the traveller with so much of blank and sorrow about him he sees lying on his path an eagle's feather—a mounted eagle's feather, which he puts inside his breast. Such a moment fixed his destiny.

But what is this mystery we call death? Is it more mysterious than the great experiences of life? In which path are we? I think not. Take the primitive dust according to tradition or the primary germ according to the scientific schools, and give to it intelligence, then show that wonderful speck, a completed man—Shakespeare, or an Edison, a Napoleon or a Handel, and tell it that some day it will be like him, but in order to achieve such power it must pass through the mystery of birth. You will find the mystery as baffling as the mystery of life before which we stand, which is attained through death. Some day we will find the one natural as the other and the gate way to a larger life.

The great apostle says there is a natural and a spiritual body. This helps some. The purpose of the body after all is only a secondary thing. We have laid aside a few bodies with no inconvenience or sorrow. We had one for our childhood and one for our teens and one for our younger manhood, and when they served their purpose it was not to our interest to possess them longer. So will we with the same ease lay down the natural, and take up the spiritual adapted to our new purpose and environment.

WHAT IS THE PURPOSE?

Perhaps all this would be easier if we knew the purpose of man before the veil. A ray of light falling over our country in the private coach said: "If I had been myself in this when a boy you could not have kept me there but because I remained there I arrived here," so said he, "if we could only see our eternal activities, like Peter we would not want the world."

It is the feeling or sense of separation which makes death unusually sad and trying. This is one of the penalties of sin, and whilst we are in the sphere of sin we must be continually reminded of that which tends to separate us from another, as well as from God. In Christ the first-fruits of them that sleep we see what little effect death had or what little power it exercised. He could not be separated from Mary and John and Peter, but declared, "I am with you always." As it was with Christ so shall it be with all who follow Him. Eternity or the spiritual, will witness God's greatest effort. All that we see in the scale of creation and grace is the herald of greater things to come, the work of God. Greater works than these shall ye do because I send you to the Father because I open the doorway of your larger possibilities. Creation is not stagnant. Grace moves forward to larger triumphs in which man will be the associate of God. This is the purpose of Christ's coming and teaching. It is the message of the church to-day and when understood we will shout with Paul—"Be ye unto God which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

William Robb McCormack was from 1888 always actively engaged in Masonic affairs. He then joined the order at Sutton West and six years later became affiliated with Doric Lodge. He was instrumental in forming Reba Lodge here and besides this rose high in the mysteries of Masonry. He was a man of very genial nature and made many friends. His death came very suddenly from a malignant disease which necessitated burial the same day. Those strictly speaking against medical ordinances, so highly did he esteem by his fellow members that they attended his funeral and paid the last sad office to his mortal remains.

The offering taken is to be devoted to the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto.

KITCHENER AND THE BLOCKADE CAME TOGETHER

Constantine Must Now Decide, and Decide Quickly, Which Side to Take.

CABINET HELD LONG SESSION

Lord Kitchener Cheered Heartily by Crowd on Arrival in Athens.

There is Still Hope Greek King Will Side With the Entente Powers.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

New York, Nov. 22.—The London correspondent of The New York Herald cables this morning:

Despatches from Athens report that Lord Kitchener had more than an hour's conference with King Constantine on Saturday, followed by a brief interview with Mr. Skourous, the prime minister, and subsequently with the fatal council of Britain's war secretary on the king, the newspapers of Athens published extras containing communiqués issued by the British legation, declaring in the name of the quadruple entente an economic and commercial blockade of Greece. The announcement caused a panic in all circles as it is recognized the hour for Greece to strike. Her king must declare for the allies. Centaurine enterprises according to the allies a satisfactory guarantee of the continuance of a benevolent neutrality, or, by immediate action prove that he is willing to submit to the wishes of the great majority of the Hellenic people by honoring the treaty with Serbia and ranging his army and navy on the side of the Entente thus making for a greater Greece.

CABINET IN SESSION

The Greek cabinet, forewarned of the vigorous policy to be initiated by the quadruple Entente, was in continuous session from nine o'clock on Friday morning until early this morning, and information that it was unable to agree upon any definite course was followed by the manifesto of the Entente powers.

Only one member of the cabinet, said to be Mr. Gounaris, the man whose threats to disarm the Serbians and Franco-British forces, led to the allied warning that Greece must intervene in behalf of Serbia or demobilize, favored calling in the aid of the Central powers. The king and the other ministers insisted on maintaining the policy of benevolent neutrality, but they would not agree to give the definite guarantees demanded by the representatives of the four great powers.

CHEERED LORD KITCHENER

An immense crowd that witnessed the arrival of Lord Kitchener at the palace cheered Britain's war secretary as heartily as it did Mr. Denys Cochin, minister of France, thus evincing the heart of the Greek people is with the allies.

Despite the pessimistic tone of the British newspapers, there still is hope the king will go with instead of against his people. If he does, Mr. Venizelos will be immediately recalled. Whatever the outcome is to be we shall not have a long wait, the great Franco-British fleet is where it can strike hard and protect the allied troops in Serbia from Greek treachery.

Of the French and British troops, no news has been received. Apparently they are only holding their positions, and can no longer hope to render assistance to the Serbians except by keeping a large number of Bulgarians engaged. According to German reports an effort will be made by the French and British to save the Serbian armies by sending troops through Montenegro and Albania, but with poor roads, it will take a long time for them to reach the battlefield.

SERBS MAKING LAST STAND

Already the Serbians are making what may be their last stand near Monastir and also on the plains of Kossovo. The Bulgarians, it is true, are being held up by unfavorable weather conditions, but they must be almost at the gates of the Macedonian capital by this time, while the Austro-Germans and Bulgarians are slowly but surely pressing back the northern army.

The Germans announced yesterday the capture of Novibazar, and are therefore on the direct road to Mitrovica, which has been the Serbian capital since Nish fell into the hands of the Bulgarians. Other armies are pressing in from the north, the north west, the northeast and the east, and even the Montenegrins who have been joined by a Serb detachment, and who held their positions for so long, are being driven into their own mountains.

ERUPTION IS SERIOUS

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Panermo, Nov. 21.—Via Paris, Nov. 22.—The eruption of Stromboli volcano is assuming serious proportions and the population of the island is fleeing to places of safety. The sides of the volcano are cracking and streams of lava are flowing into the sea, raising immense columns of smoke which are visible at a distance of forty miles.

Stromboli is the northeasternmost of the Lipari Islands in the Mediterranean Sea off the north coast of Sicily. The volcano of which is mainly composed, is remarkable in that it is virtually perpetually active, having been in this condition for the better part of 2,000 years.

Rear Admiral Boggs was born in the district of Columbia, and entered the navy as an assistant paymaster September 14, 1869, became a past assistant paymaster in 1874 and was promoted to the rank of paymaster in 1886. He served for several years at the New York navy yards.

This Petition

Will be Presented to the Council on Monday Evening Next

Brantford, November 16th, 1915

To His Worship the Mayor and Members of the City Council:

We, the undersigned petitioners, having heard the rumor that your Honorable Body were considering a By-law in connection with Local Option, respectfully beg your Honorable Body to consider the following reasons why a By-law should not be submitted to the citizens in the forthcoming election:

(1) If the friends of Local Option were sincere, why did they not present a petition as called for in the regular way.

(2) Since the last Local Option campaign many changes have taken place. The number of licenses have been reduced from sixteen to nine and the shop licenses from four to three. The hours of selling have been substantially reduced, together with military regulations pertaining to soldiers. The hotels have been remodeled, beautified and made sanitary.

(3) The loss of revenue to the city if Local Option should come into being would be very considerable, business and general tax representing better than one mill on the dollar. The Council have already contributed $5,000 out of the city funds for Red Cross Work, and we believe it meets with general approval; further generous contributions have been made by the citizens for Patriotic Funds, Red Cross Work, Machine Guns, etc., and a further large sum must be raised to sustain the families of the men that are now at the front and those who will be going. This speaks well of the good-will of the Brantford citizens.

(4) Another matter that we would like to draw to the attention of your Honorable Body: That all political grievances are to be buried while the war is on, and as Local Option has become more or less of a political issue, it should also be laid aside, while we all do what we can to win this big fight. Is it not a fact that a great many of our best citizens are now at the front fighting your fight and our fight? Is it fair to them, while they are away on such an important mission, to submit Local Option without giving them a chance? Would it not be more fair to have this matter laid over until the war is over and our boys return? Then, if the best interests of this community can be served better with Local Option, and the people are in favor of it, we will vote for it and help you to enforce it.

(5) Commissioner Flavelle, when here a few days ago, complimented the city on its fine showing. He found every hotel and shop in perfect accordance with the rules and regulations of the Commission. He also stated that he was pleased that no complaints had been made by anyone, and also that it was the shortest and most successful session that he had convened anywhere since he became Commissioner.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—The Minister of Militia, Major-General Sir Sam Hughes, last night received a communiqué from Sir Max Aitken, the Canadian Record Officer now serving with the Canadian Army Corps in France. In it he recorded the success of some Canadians in rushing a trench and taking some prisoners. His exploit was mentioned by Gen. French, who, however, did not mention the regiments taking part, as the Canadian Eyewitness does. The report says:

GETTING INFORMATION

"In order to gain information a minor operation was undertaken by our 2nd Brigade on the night of November 16-17 against two points on the enemy's front line. Small parties of our 5th Western Canada and 7th British Columbia Regiments, after effecting the enterprise, and for several days previously underwent special training and preparation. On the afternoon of November 16 our artillery cut the German wire opposite the points of attack. The wire was cut in other places also in order to mislead the enemy. Trees interferred somewhat with the wire-cutting operations in front of our 7th Battalion, and the party had to wait until dark to complete the work. These scouts, under command of Lieut. W. Holmes, 7th Battalion, remained out for several hours, and succeeded in cutting three lanes through the German wire without attracting attention.

BOMBARD ENEMY'S TRENCHES

Punctually at 2.30 on the morning of November 17 the two parties moved forward. The 5th Battalion party, under command of Lieuts. J. T. Purslow and K. T. Campbell, was checked in front of the enemy's parapet, with a gun at twenty feet wide. Both officers entered the ditch, which was shoulder high with water, and found the bottom entangled with barbed wire. Efforts were made to overcome this obstacle, but without success.

The German trenches were then bombed from positions close to the ditch, causing casualties among the enemy. The party returned safely to our trenches.

ENTERED FOE'S TRENCHES

The 7th Battalion party, consisting of brigade bombers under Capt. C. T. Costigan, and followed by Lieuts. G. H. and McRae, reached the enemy's parapet unobserved under cover of a heavy rainstorm and entered his trenches. A telephone was carried with the party, and touch was maintained throughout with Lieut.-Col. Odium in our front trenches. The party bombed its way down German trenches and communicating trenches. Many Germans were bayoneted or killed by bombs in their dugouts. Twelve prisoners were taken.

This objective having been achieved, our party was then recalled by pre-arranged signals and returned to its trenches with its prisoners. Our casualties were only one accidentally.

Allies Blockade Greece; Constantine Suspected

Entente Powers Do Not Wish Greece to Abandon Her Neutrality, But Want All Doubts Removed as to Just What She Will Do.

Paris, Nov. 22.—The Athens correspondent of the Havas News Agency in a despatch filed yesterday confirms the report that the Entente powers have declared a commercial blockade of Greece. The announcement to this effect, made in the form of a note issued by the British Legation at Athens, is given as follows:

"Because of the attitude taken by the Hellenic Government in regard to certain questions touching closely the security and liberty of action, which the allied troops have the right under the conditions of their disembarkment on Greek territory.

Greece must prevent the war from spreading to her soil, the minister is quoted as declaring."

ANOTHER GRAND TRUNK HOTEL.

The last addition to the great chain of Canada's hotels, built by The Grand Trunk System, is The Macdonald, Edmonton, Alta. This beautiful house on the banks of the Saskatchewan, is described as a hotel "built by certain persons to accommodate by certain allusions to eventual measures, which, if taken by the Hellenic government, would appear to them to be contradictory to assurances they have received."

"It is not the intention of the allied powers to constrain Greece to abandon her neutrality, to maintain which, in their eyes, is the best guarantee of her interests. The allied governments have been compelled, by certain allusions to eventual measures, which, if taken by the Hellenic government, would appear to them to be contradictory to assurances they have received."

"As soon as their doubts on that subject—due, no doubt to a misunderstanding—have been dispelled, the powers will be happy to remove the obstacles now opposed to the arrival of merchandise in Greece and to accord any facilities which result from normal relations."

The allied fleets, it is alleged, have already begun searching all steamers

PURE BLOOD MAKES HEALTHY PEOPLE

Hood's Sarsaparilla surely and effectively removes scrofula, boils and other blood diseases because it drives out of the blood all the humors that cause these diseases. They cannot be successfully treated in any other way. External applications for their removal have proven almost useless, because they cannot drive out the impurities that are in the blood.

Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure rich blood, perfects the digestion, and builds up the whole system. The skin becomes smooth, clean and healthy. This great blood remedy has stood the test of forty years. Insist on having Hood's, for nothing else acts like it. There is no real substitute. Get it today. Sold by all druggists.

ARTILLERY'S SUPPORT.

"During the above operation our artillery prevented the enemy in adjoining trenches from sending assistance at the point of attack. On the return of our party our artillery shelled heavily the German front line trenches and all roads, tracks and communicating trenches along which reinforcements might be sent.

"Retaliation by the enemy's artillery was prompt, and prisoners taken afford useful information as to the composition of the forces opposing us. In anticipation of an attack the enemy had manned his trenches, thereby affording our party an exceptional opportunity for taking prisoners and inflicting loss.

RETALIATION BY THE ENEMY'S ARTILLERY.

"Field Marshal Sir John French sent a message congratulating our troops to the success of the enterprise.

"The health and spirits of our troops remain excellent.

CLEANING UP THE TRENCHES.

The report also says—
"During the week November 12 to 19 the general situation on the Canadian front remained unchanged. Weather conditions showed an improvement over the preceding week. The temperature was generally lower, with occasional frosts at night. Heavy rainstorms were less frequent.

"Greece has been considerably repaired by the work done by our working parties in the improvement and drainage of our trenches, and profiting by recent experience, measures are being taken to guard against any further flooding of sections of our lines owing to abnormal rains.

"The enemy does not yet appear to have completed repairs to his trenches, and sounds of pumping and dredging continue to be heard. His working parties have never occasions have been served by the men of our artillery and machine gun batteries.

"A bright moon and the marshy condition of the land between the opposing trenches have added to the difficulties of night patrol work. The enemy has displayed little inclination to leave his trenches, and our patrols have been hampered in their work by prevailing conditions.

SNIPERS ARE BUSY.

"Owing to the poor state of his communicating trenches the enemy has been forced to show himself in the open more frequently than usual.

"Full advantage has been taken of this condition by our snipers, with good results. Details of this by the enemy trenchers. Many Germans were bayoneted or killed by bombs in their dugouts. Twelve prisoners were taken.

THE GERMAN TRENCHES.

"The German trenches were then bombed from positions close to the ditch, causing casualties among the enemy. The party returned safely to our trenches.

ENTERED FOE'S TRENCHES.

ALLIES MEAN TO HAVE THEIR WAY

By Special Wire to the Courier.

New York, Nov. 22.—A cable from London this morning to The Herald says:

The economic and commercial blockade of Greece is heartily endorsed by all the newspapers this morning, this vigorous action being defended on the ground that the suppression of the constitution by the king in defiance of the will of the Hellenic people and the sinister threats of Gouanis and other pro-German ministers that would be disarmed and interned if they were forced to retreat into Greek territory, warrant not only the blockade but even more drastic measures to prove to King Constantine that his treachery will mean the end of his reign.

This is the attitude of the conservative Daily Telegram, which says:

"The allies mean to have their way, and that, to rescue gallant Serbia and safeguard the lives of the French and British soldiers who are held captive in Greece, honoring her treaty should have shown an embattled front, they will use all legitimate means to secure the objects at which they aim.

The hunchback picked up the mail bag and called after the driver. But that worthy failed to hear the cry and Quabba waved the old mail bag after him. Then he felt something the size of an English walnut in his hand and under the dirty canvas of the bag. His sensitive fingers felt along the side seam of the bag and he could feel, even through the thickness of the canvas, that the object in the bag was a chain and locket.

The hunchback wheeled into a near by alley, between two warehouses. No one had seen the mail bag fall from the truck, none noticed him turn up the deserted street. It was only the work of an instant to loosen the drawstring and turn the mail bag inside out. There, on the inside outside, strung the diamond from the sky, its upper clasp engaged in the seam of the bottom of the bag.

The itinerant musician thrust the diamond and its chain into his bosom and popped the mail bag in a garbage can hard by, then, his heart beating high, Quabba winked to the monkey and ceased to whistle to whisper: "We are rich men now, Clarence."

And soon out from the alley came a hunchback organ grinder with his monkey, and the itinerant hunchback was the possessor of the diamond from the sky.

In the empty freight car it bowed along the combat was over. Spent, worn and battered, Arthur lay senseless on the floor of the freight car, his hands pinioned behind him by the dirty leather belt of Mr. Strap McGee, gentleman of leisure.

"He ain't no bull in plain clothes, if dem is plain clothes," panted Mr. McGee as he nursed a swelling eye; "he ain't no railroad dick-eider. He's a welterweight champion," he added ruefully.

This also was the opinion of Scotty, the rat faced little tramp whose suspicions had caused the combat, and likewise was it the opinion of Chicago Pete, the bulbous nosed third member of the trio of travelers, for all these gentlemen bore many signs of the conflict through which they had passed. They had conquered Arthur, but at a frightful cost to the allies.

"He busted me snoot," moaned Chicago Pete, "an' jest for dat I'll hand him a shoe full of feet," and, standing over Arthur, helpless and pinioned, the gentleman from Chicago gave him a brutal kick in the ribs.

"An' jest for dat we'll frisk young John L. an' swipe his glad rags, too," asserted Mr. Strap McGee.

They took some $20 they found upon Arthur, for in addition to having lent Blair money to lose in Mr. Abe Bloom's gambling establishment Arthur had generously given him almost all of the rest of the proceeds from the pawnings of the diamond from the sky.

Then the tramps stripped Arthur and proceeded gravely to shoot craps for his clothes. They were won by the more fortunate Mr. Strap McGee, more fortunate in the fact that the dice were his and he knew how to manipulate them. Bruised and battered as he was, Arthur could not restrain a laugh at the ludicrous aspect the tramp leader presented in the dirty and disheveled evening clothes, with Arthur's broken silk hat perched jauntily on his head.

The freight stopped at a water tank, and the three tramps withdrew, with many caustic remarks at parting. Arthur freed himself from his bonds and with some repugnance donned the frowsy garments of the tramp. Then he, too, sprang from the freight car and made through a cornfield across the country. He reflected, with a smile, that the actions of the tramp would be his salvation. He was right in this, shortly afterward Mr. Strap McGee, despite his indignant protests and explanations, was seized by railroad detectives and held on a telegraphic description of his attire as Arthur Stanley, wanted for murder.

At sunset a good looking young tramp stopped in the door yard of Alex Smith's farm and asked for work. The farmer put him to chopping wood for his supper, and so well did he acquit himself and so soon did he gain the good graces of the farmer's wife and the farmer's little baby girl that despite the rags of his attire John Powell—for such was the name Arthur gave—was greeted on the barn floor in the morning, after a restful night in the haymow, with a proffer of steady employment.

That same night by the wayside, Quabba and his external revenue collector, the monkey Clarence, camped
