MAN OF MANY ALIASES WAS ARRESTED

Joe Berman Is Said to Be Wanted in Several American Cities.

A supposed real crook from across the line drifted to the Woodbine races yesterday, but unfortunately for him Detectives Tipton and Montgomery soon spotted him and at present he is held on the charge of vagrancy till they can get some information from the States as to his record. At the detective office he gave his name as Joseph Berman of Detroit, Mich., but since then the detectives find that he is in all likelihood a noted crook, who formerly operated under the name of Brown at Atlantic City, and Adolphus Berger and Isador Friedman in Memphis, Tenn. If the local police are correct in their assumption Berman will have to face a number of charges in the States after the Toronto authorities are thru with him.

CHILD—MATCHES—FIRE. BELLEVILLE, May 25.—(Special.)—Fire on Saturday did several hundred dollars' damage to the residence of William Donahue of this city. A child playing with matches in a room upstairs is attributed as the cause of the fire.

Anaemic Condition Of Bloodlessness

A peculiar pallor or even ghostliness of the skin is the marked symptom of anaemia. The eyelids, gums and lips appear to be almost bloodless. The cause of this condition is the absence of red corpuscles from the blood. The anaemic patient is usually thin and weak, but may be fleshy and inclined to dropsy. Stomach troubles and weakness of the bodily organs are accompaniments. Red corpuscles must be added to the blood, and this can best be accomplished by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

GREAT INTEREST IN THIS WEDDING

Prince Alexis Says He Is "Making a Rich Marriage."

IS VERY POOR HIMSELF

Mrs. Platt Is Quite Vivacious and a Champion Golf Player.

Special Cable to The World. FLORENCE, May 25.—(Copyright.)—Cosmopolitan society here has been deeply interested in the delayed Karagevitch-Platt wedding and uncharitably amused at the discomfiture of the ardent bridegroom, who worked so hard to get over the exacting civil formalities required by the Italian law when a foreigner gets married here. He brought every sort of influence to bear at Rome, whither he flew with Mrs. Platt, but he was informed that no civil ceremony was possible unless the law was precisely complied with. Prince Alexis Karagevitch is the brother, but the cousin of King Peter of Serbia. He is a sallow, worn out, cadaverous looking man with beady black eyes, a hawk nose and is very poor.

A Rich Marriage. The marriage was arranged before he came here, for he told a Greek friend, when asked what brought him, "I have come for a rich marriage." He was gallant in his attentions to his mature fiancée. The courting has been carried on in the lovely gardens of the beautiful villa rented by the Platts from the Arthur Actons of Chicago. This villa is in the Via Bologna and is most artistically furnished with crimson brocade on the walls and lovely old furniture. There is a spacious arcade loggia where the lovers had their meals and sat exchanging soft nothings. The chaperon has been Mrs. Platt's daughter, Mrs. Wright, who was married to a Greek, whom she divorced, resuming her maiden name.

The late King George of Greece was an immense admirer of hers when she lived in Athens, and it was thought by some Greek friends there that Prince Alexis was brought forward for her mother's hand. The hitch over the civil marriage was as to the settlement, which had been arranged quite amicably, Prince Alexis being guaranteed $15,000 a year for life and a lump sum to start him free from debt. The financial arrangements were all agreed on before he appeared on the scene. So the love making was not spoiled by any mercenary discussions. Prince Alexis is well known in Paris, where he affected literary society. They intend to take a walk here for the winter and spring.

A Good Golfer. Mrs. Platt is remarkably juvenile, full of activity and a vigorous golfer. She won the prize recently in a ladies' tournament.

There had been some difficulty also from the hostility to the match on the part of the Russian court party, who look on the czar as having the right to meddle in the private affairs of any one connected by blood with the reigning house of Serbia. King Peter's attitude was also unfavorable, but the relationship does not allow him to put a veto on it.

A Russian princess who is the intimate friend of Prince Alexis said to The World:

"He's a peppery little man, and I have reason to know it. He was dancing with me at a masked ball at Monte Carlo last year, when a friend of mine, not sure of my identity, pinched my arm as we passed thru the crowd. It hurt me. I cried out to the prince, who was immediately for challenging the aggressor, but the masked man protested, saying his dress protected him and he meant no harm. There the incident ended."

Swede Found Dead In Boarding House

Police Fear Foul Play and Search For His Two Companions, Who Are Missing.

MONTREAL, Que., May 24.—(Special.)—A Swede laborer was found dead in bed at his boarding house near the G. T. R. station this morning under circumstances which make the detectives fear foul play.

He spent last night with two other foreigners and these men have dropped out of sight. The police are watching all ways of exit from the city in hopes of capturing the men.

The body is at the morgue, where an inquest will be held on Monday. It has numerous bruises upon it and strengthens the officers' view that death was not due to natural causes alone.

THREE OLD MAIDS MAKE DULL COURT

Roumanian Courtiers Shun Carmen Sylva's Bucharest Palace.

IS A DELICATE PRINCESS

Queen Elizabeth's Niece Has to Be Wrapped in Cotton Wool.

Special Cable to The World. BUCHAREST, Roumania, May 25.—(Copyright.)—Roumanians shun their court more and more, because it has grown so dull.

Old friends of Queen Elizabeth ("Carmen Sylva") rarely ask for an audience now. They complain that the three old ladies who surround the queen have alienated her from her intellectual friends. These old ladies like to sit and do needlework all day. They do not understand how people can talk about books or art. When the court is a dinner and the aforesaid ladies have gone to Wiesbaden for their annual cure the old friends come back. But in Bucharest the queen sees none of them. She generally does not know they have asked for an audience, which her maids of honor refuse on the ground that her majesty is tired.

The queen is a good needlewoman herself and makes many beautiful things for her invalid niece, Princess Elizabeth of Wied, who is so delicate that she lies literally wrapped up in cotton wool. Queen Elizabeth generally spends a few weeks every year at Wied, where her nephew now reigns. She did not drive out once last winter, but spent most of her time in her favorite house, near a huge winter garden, lighted solely from above. Her eyes are better and she has quite recovered from her sharp attack of influenza.

Lungs Are Weak. Another royal invalid is little Prince Nicholas, Crown Prince Ferdinand's nine-year-old son, who has been sent west-haste to the south of France with his new English tutor, as his lungs gave great anxiety. His tutor astonished the whole household with his Spartan methods of training, but the parents, altho somewhat shocked, said nothing. They are said to feel that Prince Charles, their first born, has had manners and is not as smart as he ought to be. Crown Princess Marie wanted him to get his schooling in England when he was quite a little fellow, but the Roumanians objected, saying they want a Roumanian and not an Englishman to reign over them. The mother gave in but now regrets it. When announcing to some friends that she was having an English tutor for her youngest son she remarked:

"At last he will not be barred from becoming an Englishman if he wishes."

Prince Nicholas did not like his tutor at first; he found obedience very dull and was not used to being sent to bed for naughtiness. He seems to have got over this and now went with him to Mentone quite cheerfully.

WHEAT CROP WILL BE HALF-BILLION

James Carruthers Says This Mark Will Be Reached in Seven Years.

NEW CANALS WILL HELP

Kingston to Be Eastern Terminus of Great Lake Freighters.

That the annual wheat output of the Dominion of Canada will be 500,000,000 bushels by the year 1920 was the prediction made to The World by James Carruthers, president of the R. & O. Lines, the director of the St. Lawrence & Chicago Steam Navigation Co., after making a tour of the wheat belt in Canada, which was launched at Collingwood last week, was named.

Mr. Carruthers, who has taken one of the leading parts in the transportation of grain by water route among the marine men of Canada, bases his belief on the increased facilities for moving the grain which will be afforded by the opening of the Panama Canal and the completion of the new Welland Canal.

He declared that with only 10 per cent. of the grain now being shipped by rail, this would mean that seven years from now Canada would have a wheat output two and one-half times greater than at present.

While believing that the Panama Canal route would play a large share in the movement of Canada's crop, Mr. Carruthers declared that the effect of this on the great lakes freight steamers would not be felt. In fact, their number would have to be increased continually to keep up with the demands placed upon them. He considered the building of the largest type of vessel would be the prevailing policy of the near future, especially in view of the completion of the new Welland Canal.

Kingston Eastern Terminus. The new canal and the deepening of the Toronto harbor would export in the movement of the same time, and it would mean that vessels of the new 550-foot length would be able to reach this port from Port Arthur, and would be able to proceed as far east as Kingston, at which point the giant freighters would transfer their wheat cargo to the railroads. The steamship freight expert does not consider that the project of deepening the St. Lawrence to an extent sufficient to allow vessels of this type to connect between Montreal and the great lakes was feasible. The sum of money required for this purpose would be too large to make the project worthy of consideration, he said. In his opinion, Kingston will be the eastern terminus of the new big type of upper lake freighters.

While not wishing to depreciate the project before it had been given a practical test, Mr. Carruthers did not believe the Hudson Bay route would prove to be the great factor in the wheat movement that some claimed it would become.

Danger From Icebergs. Altho the route might be kept open for three months of the year, the presence of numerous icebergs would have to be contended with. A great expense would be entailed by the building of a specially adapted vessel for this route, the type of vessels now in use in the movement of grain not being at all suitable for such a purpose.

He declared that with a population of but 7,000,000, Canada was obtaining immigration at a rate only attained by the United States when her population had reached the 45,000,000 mark—the present population of the British Isles. He considered that the present rate of 10,000,000 in twenty years now being received by Canada would increase instead of decrease, and be did not believe that the Dominion would possess more people than the British Isles before the close of this century.

COLLECT MONEY FOR CONDEMNED MURDERER

St. Mark's Church Help to Raise Funds For Charles Gibson's Defence.

The brotherhood of St. Andrew, the men of the various Bible societies and numerous other Christian organizations are taking a deep interest in the fate of Charles Gibson, the young man who has been convicted upon circumstantial evidence of the murder of Joseph Rosenthal, a year ago last April. Many new facts of evidence have come out since the trial, and an appeal for a new trial is being vigorously advocated. The accused's parents are without the funds to pay the expense of a further trial, so the above organizations did an unusual thing yesterday morning by starting a contribution at St. Mark's Church in Parkdale, to defend the young man and help him to substantiate his claim of innocence. ## BIG STICK FOR THE "INTERESTS" FIRST TO WIN CHEAP POPULARITY

Financier Henry Davison Arraigns U. S. Government's Action in Withdrawing Banking Support From Chinese Loan and Declares Wilson's Foreign Policy Is Hurting American Securities Abroad.

Special Cable to The World.
PARIS, May 25. (Copyright)—Henry F. Davison, second in command at P. Morgan and Co.'s, in New York, passing from Aix-les-Bains, where he attended the opening of the hospital donated by the late P. Morton, president of the American World Corporation, and the American Government's action in withdrawing the support of the banking group in the Chinese loan.

"Since coming abroad, I have been frequently asked by foreign bankers to account for President Wilson's action. All along I have been able only to say to the astonished foreigners, 'I can't explain it any more than you can. I don't understand it at all.'"

"I did not until today, when I found in a Paris paper the following official statement of the American foreign policy, uttered by William Jennings Bryan, at the Army and Navy Club breakfast to the British-Canadian delegates who were arranging the death anniversary of the Treaty of Ghent."

Mr. Davison here read aloud the following passage from Mr. Bryan's speech:

"The battleship of the future, its compass is the heart, its shells carry good will, its muzzles are projected by smiles and the friendly eye, its captain is the prince of peace."

"I want you to drink with me to the battleship of friendship. No target will withstand the projectiles which friendship sends abroad." Continuing, Mr. Davison said: "There, I've an answer for the inquirers. Yes, I really believe Mr. Bryan said it. It sounds just like him and is perfectly characteristic of him."

New Foreign Policy.
"Russian bankers came and tell me our government must be crazy, but I can now reply, 'not so, we merely have a new foreign policy.'"

"As a matter of fact, President Wilson's action was a mere piece of politics to make the administration solid with the people by a blow against the 'interests,' regardless of the consequences."

"It is significant," Mr. Davison said, "that President Wilson never yet let us have a reply to our full and frank putting of the whole case before the state department, nor even informed the foreign governments, nor the banking group of his action, 'announcing the whole thing straight away' to the newspapers, direct to the people. We had to withdraw on the basis of what we saw in the newspapers."

"When I told the state department the whole long Chinese story, Mr. Bryan asked me for advice. I told him we weren't there to advise, but to inform, and that I couldn't advise him about policy.

"The American Government's policy is perfectly clear. It is to act against the 'interests.'"

Get What They Wanted.
"Personally I think the American people have at last got what they've long been clamoring for. They really wanted it, now they've really got it. What has happened is that the long-awaited establishment of a sharp class division of the country into the people with money and the people without money has come about, leaving all money and all power out with the government."

"We gave four years of patient work to putting America, for the first time, at the head of an extremely important international financial institution, thus opening up a vast field for future activity, but it was all sacrificed in a moment to make a little temporary hit with the populace, regardless of the grave consequences, and our humiliating position."

"Now that the government has destroyed our slow work of years, it is inevitable that the foreign bankers or their governments will again undertake anything with us. They are sincere. They rightly say that our foreign policy cannot grow more than four years. Thus we are out of international financing permanently."

"People over here ask, 'How about Mexico and South America, are they coming up next? Where is your sacred Monroe doctrine bound for?'"

"America just now is in a most interesting phase. For years it has been testing in practice what the people think they want."

Bryan's Mistake.
"Personally I think Mr. Bryan made a political mistake in accepting the secretaryship of state, because he has now been brought into the light where everybody can see what he is. As the power behind the throne he would have been equally effective and less subject to a clear valuation."

"It is extremely significant," Mr. Davison said, "that Mr. Morgan's death was everywhere appreciated as the closing of the greatest modern material career except in America, where its real tremendous significance was unseen. At present the new administration seems to be gaining popularity, more so perhaps than could have been expected, but we will soon see how far short it falls of the popularity which it has gained, and whether it will not have been better politics to neglect the favor of the moment for more solid approval based on some real action."

"I think that any amount of American securities can be distributed in Europe this season."

WAR HAS AGED CZAR FERDINAND

Deeply Peeved, Too, by Princess Olga's Refusal to Wed Son.

PRINCE BORIS POPULAR

Contracted Measles as Result of Care For Sick Soldiers.

Special Cable to The World.
SOPIA, Bulgaria, May 25. (Copyright)—All who have seen Czar Ferdinand since he came back from the war realize how he is aged in the last six months. Altogether he is only 52, he looks ten years older. He spends all his time closeted with his ministers, and at the council board on a biscuit and a glass of mineral water, rarely dining before 11 o'clock.

It was a keen disappointment for him when the Russian Czar's eldest daughter, Grand Duchess Olga, became betrothed to her cousin, Grand Duke Dimitri Pavlovitch, and Grand Duke had set his heart on her marrying his elder son and heir, Crown Prince Boris. But he has had hints from St. Petersburg that Nicholas II. has three other daughters who will soon be of marriageable age and that Boris, who is only 19, has plenty of time.

Boris came back from Adrianople with the measles and was very ill. His father was almost distracted with anxiety, and in spite of his morbid fear of infection, spent the little spare time he had at his favorite son's bedside. The two are generally inseparable, and Prince Boris tells his father all that goes on about the palace when he is well.

Sick With Measles.

While sick he was constantly repeating: "How disgraceful it is for a soldier to have measles! There's nothing mainly in it. I do wish it was a Turkish bug instead."

Czarina Eleonora nurses her stepson herself. Prince Cyril, who was also at Adrianople, was the only one of the king's beautiful palace a few miles from here, and the two princesses went straight there on their return from the south of France, where they were sent in charge of their governess, owing to Princess Nadejda's health breaking down under the strain of the war, when the sisters worked hard in hospitals and various charities.

When well, Prince Boris is full of spirits, but he has earned the reputation of being the best-mannered budding royalist in the country. He is not so intelligent as his sister, Eudoxie, and is rarely known in royal circles as "the discreet princess." But his kindness and comradery to the soldiers of the front soon won their hearts, which his father has never succeeded in doing.

Soldiers Like Him.

The prince not only always returns salutes, but adds a cheery word of encouragement, greeting or enquiry, and made a point of carrying off sick and wounded in his own motor car. He is thought to be the most popular in that way. He laughed at infection and mingled with the sick everywhere, whereas his father would not allow even an army surgeon near him and he has never been infected.

Boris' illness brought him nearer to his stepmother, to whom he had always been rather cold, taking his father's part in her divorce. He is now more intimate with her, and she has now had leisure to notice her splendid qualities, which are not of the brilliant order to appeal to the eye, but of the kind which touch by her devotion to his son.

entre at every European court. The archduchess also felicitates herself because she and her children will certainly have the satisfaction of enjoying the Duke of Croÿ's revenues from his rich and fertile estates in Westphalia and in Hungary, which he can never bequeath to Miss Leishman, should he marry her, nor to their children.

Archduke Frederick is about the wealthiest of the imperial family outside the emperor and heir presumptive, but his wife is thrifty and economical and quite willing to accept the generous offer of the Duke of Croÿ's revenues, which would come to her.

She has the reputation of being a very remarkable woman and today is as blooming and apparently as young as any of her daughters, in spite of the severe blows which Fate has dealt to her family ambitions. Being short and plump, and thoroughly German withal, she has not acquired the dash of the typical Viennese, and is considered rather dowdy by critical shop-ladies. But she has the vitality of perpetual youth, and the active intelligence which keeps a woman young and attractive far beyond her years.

Friend of Emperor.

The courage of self-control with which she met the supreme defeat of her life for her devoted friendship of the Austrian Emperor. This was the breaking off of the engagement between her eldest daughter, Marie, and Francis Ferdinand, the emperor's nephew, when it was suddenly discovered that he was secretly in love with his fiancee's lady-in-waiting, Countess Chotek, now hismorganatic wife.

Archduchess Isabella, who has been beseeching the emperor to allow her to marry a young officer, is reported to be about to enter a convent near here, built in memory of the ill-starred Crown Prince Rudolph. This probably will only be temporary—until Francis Joseph relents, as he is sure to do. The archduchess will buy herself as a nurse in which capacity she is well trained. Her late husband, too, recently returned home for the first time since his three-day marriage experience. He hunted big game for several months in the east.

GERMANY'S ROYAL WEDDING

BERLIN WAS IN GAY ATTIRE ON SATURDAY FOR THE WEDDING OF PRINCESS VICTORIA LOUISE, ONLY DAUGHTER OF THE KAISER TO PRINCE ERNEST AUGUST OF CUMBERLAND.

PRESENTS WORTH A MILLION WERE GIVEN TO ROYAL COUPLE

Diamonds and Jewels the Like of Which Seldom Are Seen, But the Best of All Was Bread and Salt From School Girls.

Special Cable to The World.
BERLIN, May 25. (Copyright)—It is estimated that the presents to Princess Louise represent a money value of $1,000,000, consisting mainly of jewels. King George and Queen Mary presented the Princess with a magnificent diamond necklace and two jeweled bracelets. The Czarina gave, among other presents, a diamond and emerald necklace, worth $150,000, and also a Russian tiara, containing diamonds of the finest water. The Emperor of Austria also gave 'jewels of great value to the bride, among them a gold, jeweled traveling bag. The princesses acknowledged it, described it as "the dearest of all I have received."

Hitherto no Prussian Princess has ever received more than $125,000. The settlements made by the Duke of Cumberland on Prince Ernest are considerably larger. Cumberland's wealth is estimated at $35,000,000, including the $15,000,000 "Guelf Funds" restored to the Emperor by the Kaiser, twenty years ago. The Kaiser and Kingin dating from 1813, is one of the most beautiful of the presents. The gift of Grand Duke Paul of Russia, was a belt studded with 700 roughly cut precious stones from the Urals. All the principal German cities also sent gifts, which show the keen practical sense of the donors. Thus Berlin gave a gorgeous Tabriz carpet, and the congress of Frustan cities a wonderful old carved Dutch wardrobe.

But the gift that most touched the Princess' heart was one from the girl's school at Breslau. In the form of a homeschooled loaf of bread in a case, and a gold casket containing salt. It is the symbol of domestic happiness. The princesses acknowledged it, described it as "the dearest of all I have received."

TROT AND TANGO SHOCK THEM ALL

But English Men and Women Will Practice Them Until Something New Comes Along.

Special Cable to The World.
LONDON, May 25. (Copyright)—The protest of an unnamed peer in The Times against the Tango and Turkey Trot has revived the agitation against contortion dancing. Mr. Kroll, manager of the Ritz, says these dances are absolutely barred at all the balls given at the Ritz. However strictly the line is drawn at the Ritz, the new dances are to be seen at dances in private houses, as well as at the dancing halls, in all their most exaggerated and morbid forms.

A member of parliament, who saw at a private dance, given at one of the best hotels this week, some of the weirdest shuffles ever invented for the degradation of the ball-room. They were exactly what one sees in the night clubs—the same vile, rag-time wiggles. They practise them at teas in their own houses and restaurants.

It is amusing to hear these "almond-bitter" American innovations bitterly denounced by the English papers, while your English miss has gone perfectly crazy over them, and young Englishmen, who formerly seemed dancing now flock to the ball-rooms to indulge in these negro gyrations. If all the peerage protested, it will not prevent Englishmen and women from practising them until they are supplanted by some other novelty.

AMBASSADOR PAGE IS GIVEN CORDIAL WELCOME IN LONDON

Many American Flags Displayed at Liverpool and Assembled Crowds Cheer Lively—Diplomat Shows Tact in His Dealings With Newspapermen—Declines to Discuss Matters of Policy.

Special Cable to The World.
LONDON, May 25. (Copyright)—Walter H. Page, the new American ambassador to the Court of St. James, wore a smile on his arrival at Euston railway station in London Saturday afternoon, although he evidently was weary after his journey from New York, and the ordeal of interviewing he passed here on landing from the Baltic this morning in Liverpool. He had been met in Liverpool by Irwin B. Laughlin, the secretary of the American embassy and charge d'affaires, and Horace Lee Washburn, the American consul at Liverpool. Many American flags were flying, and people on shore cheered lustily.

At the station in London were gathered all the rest of the embassy staff, of which Mr. Page is the head, and members of the American colony and representatives of the railway company and the White Star Line.

As Mr. Page stepped from the train a London reporter asked him bluntly: "Is it true that you will not wear knee breeches?"

Ambassador Page's smile broadened as, Yankee fashion, he answered one question with another.

"My dear sir, have you not learned yet that one fool journalist at one end of a wire begets another fool journalist at the other end? Please say no more of that kind. I have been a pleasant voyager. Until I have been presented at court I shall live at a hotel as a private citizen."

The ambassador plainly was pleased with his cordial reception in England, but he desires to avoid making any public statement or appearance until he has presented his credentials as ambassador to King George. He was asked of political questions by saying that in political matters he will be guided by the instructions of his government.

Not Dignified.
At Liverpool Mr. Page had an amusing illustration of the self-righteousness of Englishmen immediately on his arrival there today. He received a large company of reporters with smiling affability, and said: "I like being badgered by Liverpool journalists. You are so like New Yorkers."

The ambassador looked surprised when the pressmen looked deprecatingly. One translated the laugh for him by asking: "Aren't we more veracious?"

Mr. Page with true diplomatic tact ignored this exhibition of bad taste. He answered: "I meant to pay you a compliment."

Peace for All Time.
The ambassador was genial but quite non-committal in his replies to general questions about Anglo-American relations. He said: "There is nothing new to say. The two countries are at peace and will always remain so. Why worry about an arbitration treaty when peace already is permanently achieved by international consent?"

A journalist seeking to make some political capital out of the ambassador's good nature, asked: "Would the Irish-Americans resist arbitration until home rule is granted?"

This was deviously parried by Mr. Page, who replied: "The United States absorbs immigrants into American nationality. They then know no national subdivisions."

"As to world-peace, I deal only with Great Britain, and am not general ambassador for the whole of the earth."

When asked as to the probable effects of tariff revision, Mr. Page said: "I can say nothing—first, because my official position prevents me, and second, because the law is not yet enacted, and third, because I don't know."

When questioned about the Panama Canal, Mr. Page crossly replied: "My course on that will be the course of my government."

Then the trade union denunciation of the stage and producing an unnamed friend, Mr. Page said: "I know nothing of it until I reach Queenstown. They appear to have made a mistake and have retreated."

When he posed for a photographer between Sir William Dunn and Sir William Treloar, two city knights, he refused to be taken for a picture.

Grand Duchess Marie Has No Use For "That Miserable Country."
Special Cable to The World.
ST. PETERSBURG, May 25. (Copyright)—The Grand Duchess Marie Pavlovna was by no means pleased at the possibility of being Albania's queen. The Czar of Russia is anxious that she shall be, as he hopes it will strengthen the country's finances in the one Balkan country where it is weak.

She would have to live with her husband, Prince William of Sweden, in Scania, but the Grand Duchess, who enjoys life here, declares she will not bury herself in such a hole for any consideration.

"I do not mean to run the risk of having an Albanian dagger put into me," she declared. "If my husband wants to accept the crown he can, but I shall make Russia my home. Any rich Russian is far better off than a king of such a miserable little country."

Prince William, who is the King of Sweden's second son, likes the idea better. His position here is overshadowed by his wife, who takes the lead in the best smart set and shocks the court with her friendships. Elinor Glyn is a great friend. So was the dancer, Maude Allen.

The grand duchess' favorite sport last year was flying and she says she will enter in the best smart set and shocks the court with her friendships. Elinor Glyn is a great friend. So was the dancer, Maude Allen.

LOOKING AROUND THE GARDEN

By this time the gardener will be able to tell what kind of a lawn he has. If there are any bald or discolored spots, get to work at them at once. This is the second time of warning, you will remember, that in early April, attention was drawn to the lawns. It is never too late to mend a lawn.

Wherever necessary, scratch the bad places with the rake and sow some grass seed. A good mixture is composed of red top, timothy and white clover, which will give a fine, firm, and delightfully green spread of grass. After the seed has been scattered where needed, take the rake and scrape the spots again, thus working the seed well into the earth.

When the lawn has completely deteriorated—as often happens where the house has been unoccupied for some time—the best plan is to make an entirely new lawn. Plough up the old sod, drain the soil level again, and resow. By August you can still have a green, smooth, velvety stretch of sward—and moreover, one that will last for years with a little care.

Make up your mind to have plenty of vines, this year. It is not too late to plant yet. Clematis, honeysuckles, wistarias, Boston vines, the ubiquitous Virginia creeper, aristolochia macroplylla (Dutchman's pipe), and the kudzu vine, are the best and freest shade producers. After this month, however, it is rather risky to plant either vines or shrubs, because the intense heat of July is really not very far distant. Vines and shrubs should be planted well rooted before the arrival of this trying season, otherwise poor success must be expected.

Practically every annual flower can be planted some time this month, and even the first week in June. All bulbous plants, such as peonies, deliytra, iris, can still be put in with good hopes of bloom this summer, provided the new roots are of sufficient age. All the tender annuals should be in their beds by the end of this week. That is, transplanted, as seedlings. After the end of May, the seedlings are usually too far advanced to meddle with, and still expect bloom.

There is a long list of perennials one may still plant, especially since you can have them bloom this season. These are: centaurea montana; the various campanulas, pansies.

But for this late planting—one word of important advice—water continuously, and cultivate, even more than usual, when her creation of this part proved the season's greatest success. It is said that as Ethel Toscani, in her latest triumph, she easily proves her right to stellar honors. "The Price" is a modern drama in three acts. It tells the story of the fight a girl makes for love and happiness. Emmeshed by circumstances and scourged by a woman who is her rival, there is much in Ethel Toscani to win the sympathy and interest of the audience. It is a part that is worthy of the undoubted talents of Miss Marshall, one of the leading emotional actresses of the American stage. Clarence Bennett and company have selected the supporting company for Miss Marshall with the same careful consideration for the part as they have interpreted, as marks all their companies. In the organization there will be found players well known to Broadway audiences. Each of the scenes is set in such fashion as to make it reflect the spirit of the play.

"Captain Jinks" Director of the Bonstelle Players at Shea's Theatre, has arranged to present one of the most delightful comedies ever produced in Toronto this week in "Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines," written by the late Clyde Fitch. It was in this quaint comedy of the period of 1872 that Ethel Barrymore scored the greatest success of her career. Miss Macdonell will appear in the part of Mme. Trenton, originally created by Miss Barrymore, and Mr. Edwin H. Robinson will be seen in the title role. The plot deals with the love story of a charming young prima donna, who returns to America after a world-travelling debut in England. She is met at the New York landing stage by Captain Jinks and two companions. The captain, before seeing Mme. Trenton, makes a bet with her companions that he will strike up a flirtation with her. He, however, falls in love with her at first sight, pays the wager, and renounces the debt. A ballet rehearsal in the second act of the play is one of the funniest scenes ever invented by a playwright. The period of the play lends itself to quaint setting and old-fashioned costumes, which will prove to be a source of amusement and comment on the part of the fairer of the sex.

At the Gaiety. Such a hilarious crowd of people never left a place of amusement as the crowd which will come out of the theatre after the performance of "The Merry-Go-Rounders," the big burlesque which plays the Gaiety Theatre this afternoon with George P. Murphy in the leading role. This new music show causes audiences to rock with laughter time and again, and is undoubtedly the funniest of all musical comedies. It is a play which has been made a big hit with every show. His two phrases, "Oh, for goodness sake" and "I am a son-of-a-gun," caught every audience.

EFFICIENT HOUSEKEEPING BY HENRIETTA D. GRAUEL DOMESTIC SCIENCE LECTURER

House-cleaning

SPRING sunlight, and longer daylight make us glad to welcome spring, but the sunshine discloses dull paint, windows dim with dust and shabby spots in the rugs.

It is unfortunate that violets and spring house cleaning time come together, but if we work with despatch and system, perhaps we will get thru our work before the spring beauties are gone.

Most women take as much delight, anyhow, in rummaging thru their trunks after moths as they do in hunting wild flowers.

So organize yourself into an investigating committee to peer into closets and attics and let who will court rheumatism, neuralgia and sudden death thru wet feet and spring winds.

All agree that the attic is the place to commence operations. With that epic and span, you have a place to pack away the winter clothing and wrap up the discarded clothes you are sending to the Salvation Army.

It is much better to give away your discarded furniture, pictures, old shoes and worn feathers, than to keep them about for the approved seven years, hoping you will find a use for them. They will never be new and nice to you again. Why not let someone else enjoy them before they are too utterly shabby?

Even papers and magazines are welcomed by the Army wagon or the hospitals. Think of the convalescents in the contagious wards longing for even a scrap of reading matter.

Clean one room at a time, and, since iron beds and lighter furniture are a feature of the new housekeeping, you should do one room a day without trouble.

After the carpets are well cleaned, the floors scrubbed, the woodwork painted and walls renovated, tack them down and remove any spots with carpet soap. Directions come with these excellent cleaners.

When the beds are washed and polished, or repainted, and the mattresses and pillows cleaned and aired, and the furniture whipped, dusted and polished, wash the windows on the inside until all the house is in order, and then buy a sulphur candle for each room. Close the house so that it is air-tight as you can make it, and after lighting the candles, leave it for several hours.

Be sure the canary, the parrot, the cat and dog are outside, too, for nothing can live in the sulphur fumes that will penetrate every crack and crevice.

On your return, open every door and window, and when your house is well aired, you will have the self-righteous feeling that is yours by right of soap, water and muscle, that only comes with the feeling that your house is cleaner than your neighbor's.

Now you have only to put the cellar in order. If it is not painted, have it whitewashed. Put lumps of charcoal or unslacked lime in the corners to absorb any moisture or odor, and to keep the air sweet.

Arrange the ventilator so there will be a constant sweep of fresh air. An unventilated cellar is more unwholesome than a dark one.

NEW BRANCH LINE READY NEXT MONTH

T. & N. O. Rails Laid and Two-Million-Dollar Pulp Mill Will Start.

Before the end of June the Timiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway Commission's new branch line, connecting the Abitibi River with the main line at Iroquois Falls, will be completed and ready for operation.

This means that by the end of next month everything will be in readiness for the hauling of materials for the huge paper mills to be constructed by the Abitibi Pulp and Paper Company, where the new line will connect with the Abitibi River. The building of these mills alone will entail an outlay of nearly $2,000,000, and it was for this reason the T. & N. O. undertook to construct the line.

The mills will be located in the centre of pulp limits, embracing an area of 1560 square miles, or about a million acres. The distance by water from Lake Abitibi to Iroquois Falls is approximately 40 miles, and in this distance on the course of the Abitibi River there are three excellent water powers, Couchiching, Twin and Iroquois Falls, capable of developing a total of over 50,000 horsepower. Five hundred acres of the land have been reserved for mill site and water power development.

Rochester and Return $2.00 For opening of season the Richelieu and Ontario. Navigation will put in effect a low round trip rate of $2.00, Toronto to Charlotte, going Saturday, May 31st, at 2.30 p.m. Returning leaving Charlotte Sunday night June 1st, 11 p.m. Tickets can be obtained at Ticket Office, 46 Yonge street.

NO OTHER WAY

By GORDON HOLMES

Stelngall hired an open rig, and merely told the driver to jog along about a hundred yards behind the omnibus. In this fashion Narragansett was entered. Halfway down the main street, Waverton alighted from the omnibus and entered a restaurant of the quick-lunch variety. Curly Waverton in a five-cent establishment during the luncheon hour! Certainly wonders would never cease—or were, in fact, just beginning!

The detective paid off his cab a little further on, bought some bananas and fruit, and lunched frugally, but well. He was still munching contentedly when Waverton reappeared and unconsciously led the way in his procession of two to the sea front. Here he took up a position with his back to the sea, and quite obviously eyed the porch of the hotel he had left so unceremoniously eight days earlier.

Even if he had not glanced frequently at his watch, there was no room left for doubt now as to the purpose of his visit to the Rhode Island resort. The weather was fine. It was practically certain that Mrs. Waverton and Mrs. Daunt, with the nurse and baby, would either drive or walk on this tempting afternoon, and Claude Waverton had come to watch them; perhaps, in some way, to annoy them.

Stelngall racked his brains for the subtle and certain theory that Clancy's nimble wits would unquestionably have supplied long since. Much as he liked Clancy, he was nettled sometimes by the little man's omniscience. Very well—suppose Clancy were standing in his (Stelngall's) shoes, how would he explain this minor but baffling mystery?

Of course, if Waverton only meant to waylay his wife, and by some public scandal prevent Mrs. Delamar from pestering him in regard to marriage, he was acting as the unseemable blackguard Mrs. Waverton's lawyer had painted him.

But Stelngall had more faith in Clancy's cool-headed opinion than in forensic eloquence, and the diminutive detective had spoken well of Waverton, had described him as a "gentleman," had even expressed his surprise that he could ever have been guilty of the conduct ascribed to him.

Could there be something in the changed manner and habits that Waverton seemed to have acquired since his accident? Was he anxious now to rehabilitate himself with his charming wife? No, that hardly accounted for his actions, because Fate could have devised no more favorable circumstance in this direction than the very mishap to the child in which he had distinguished himself; yet he had fled from Narragansett forthwith as if the place were plague-stricken!

Ah, the child! Stelngall had given thought to her. Was Waverton fool enough to dream of kidnapping her? Such incidents were not uncommon; they often arose more from hatred of the parent favored by the law than from love of the offspring in dispute. Besides, no question had been raised concerning the custody of little Kathleen. Usually, in such cases, there are provisions as to "access" and such legal formalities; but the man now lounging in an absurdly effective disguise on the promenade had not thought to lift a finger in the matter when the opportunity served.

True, this cautious attitude was adopted in pre-accident days; but Stelngall put small faith in conversions effected by illness, for he agreed with the satirist in the couplet: The devil was sick—the devil a monk would be. The devil was wet—the devil a monk was he. And now there was a move. People were emerging from the hotel, two and three, and at last two women, accompanied by a Normandy nurse leading a pretty little girl, came out into the sunshine, and descended a flight of steps leading to the roadway.

Arrived there, they hesitated a moment. Apparently Mrs. Waverton disliked the notion of going to the casino to listen to the band. However, Mrs. Daunt's smiling remonstrances prevailed, and the four strolled up to the gates.

They passed directly in front of the nondescript foreigner, and Stelngall discovered at once that Waverton was much more interested in his wife than in any other member of the quartet.

Of course, the detective was only guessing the identity of the two women. He had never before seen Mrs. Waverton nor her sister; but their resemblance to each other, and the presence of Celestine with Kathleen, dispelled any doubt on that score. Indeed, when they were so near that he could hear each word they uttered, Mrs. Waverton said to the child, whose eyes had turned toward the rocks: "Remember, Kathleen, if ever you get your frock wetted again by salt water, you will be taken straight home and put to bed."

Mrs. Daunt smiled into the little girl's uplifted eyes. "I am sure Kathleen does not like taking a bath with her clothes on," she said. Stelngall, unobtrusively gazing his fill at them, marvelled at the folly of the man who had thrust out of his life this beautiful and gracious woman; while, to one fond of children, it was difficult to understand how the father of such a dainty little maid as Kathleen could endure to be parted from her forever of his own free will.

But here was a long-haired and alpacaca-coated foreigner buying a ticket of admission to the casino, although he did not enter at once; so the detective turned away. The change of position brought his eyes to the hotel, but he noted Waverton's appearance, and he became aware of another person who was interested in the progress of the women. This was a tall, well-groomed man, of imposing appearance, dignified carriage, who was standing in the veranda. "Tearle, for a dollar!" chuckled Stelngall. "Now something ought to happen. Clancy will write with an anguish when I tell him of today's doings."

Clancy certainly did write; but not with anguish. Stelngall's recital annoyed him intensely; but, for once in a way, owing to developments that transpired presently, the Little Fellow was as mystified as the Big Fellow. The women bowed to the doorman of the casino and passed in with the maid and child. Mrs. Waverton, whose a sheltered sea on the lawn, away from the band, where the child could run about in safety, but remain constantly under observation. Stelngall stood fast in his original position, and Waverton, apparently not trusting too implicitly in his make-up, hesitated before he passed into the building.

He, too, allowed his glance to travel toward the hotel, where Tearle was now descending the steps. Instantly he walked back quick across the roadway and bought a cheap-looking stick from a vendor, and surveyed Stelngall by conversing earnestly with the man at the door. Just as Tearle entered—he apparently had a season ticket, and was known—Waverton followed, and was waiting for charge du him.

Then, by some mischance, Tearle tripped badly, and sprawled at full length before the big company in the veranda. The foreigner rushed to his assistance, and was profuse in exclamations and seeming apologies; but Tearle cursed him heartily and began to climb the steps again, for not only were his clothes soiled, but he had split his gloves, burst a few buttons and torn the knees of his trousers. Plenty of people saw the accident; but Stelngall was the only onlooker who realized that Waverton had de-

HE SAID—"Few of us realize how much salt we eat. The fact that we put salt on all meats and vegetables in breakfast, and in pastry—soups and sauces—butter and cheese shows the importance of using an absolutely pure salt."

SHE SAID—"Well, we are using WINDSOR SALT, and no one could make me believe there was any better salt in the whole world than my old standby."

IRISH TAKE OVER EASILY

Gave Blue Shirts a Bad Beating at the Beach—Many Holes in Torontos' Ranks.

The Big Four got away to a good start on Saturday afternoon at Scarborough Beach, when the Irish-Canadians camped on the trail of the champion Torontos and wall-popped them to the tune of 7 to 4. Team play pure and simple was the asset that the Kennedy boys used to turn the trick and they had the blue shirts always in hand until the last quarter when they displayed some real life, but it was too late to be of any use. The blue shirts lined up minus Gibbons, Kalla, Somerville and W. Fitzgerald, while the peacocks lacked only Fred Scott. The teams:

Torontos (4): Goal, Holmes; point, Harshaw; cover, Power; first defence, Braden; second defence, Stagg; third defence, T. Fitzgerald; centre, Longfellow; third home, Dandeno; second home, Spillan; first home, Barnett; outside, Warwick; inside, Wilson.

Irish-Canadians (7): Goal, Brennan; point, Neville; cover, Don Cameron; first defence, White; second defence, Baker; third defence, Spillan; centre, Spillan; first home, Barnett; second home, C. George; first home, H. Scott; outside, Hogan; inside, J. Roberts; wing, Spillan; referee, St. Peter. Judge of play, Tom Humphreys.

First Quarter—The Irish secured on the face-off and Monday went down and, after some clever manoeuvring, scored in five minutes, which Scott duplicated in one minute. Fittle rushes by individual players on the Toronto home were the rule, but the superior holding and shooting of the Irish, however, spoiled many likely chances and gradually the visitors displayed their worth. Spillan was cut down when he attempted to take a pass from Fitzgerald in front of the net. Score: Irish-Canadians 7, Torontos 0.

Second Quarter—It began to rain just as the period opened. Wilson took a pass and went in, but shot wide and McIntyre in receiving the ball on the return, beat Holmes in 30 seconds. The blue shirts began a bombardment of the enemy's nets, but Neville relieved and Hogan tore in and tallied the fourth in 3:42. Warwick beat a sizer at Brennan, but it went behind his net and Wilson, securing a pass, sent a new saw sticking into Hogan's net. Hogan soon afterwards slipped a grounder past Holmes in 4:50. Stagg saw by Spillan and Cameron was the feature of the closing minutes of the first half. Half time score, Irish-Canadians 7, Torontos 0.

Third Quarter—Alternate attacks on each other's goals lived things up for a few minutes. Wilson, who was last in net circling, beat Brennan in 6:50. George was hurt and Ed Cummins replaced him. Wilson, who was last in net circling, beat Brennan in 6:50. George was hurt and Ed Cummins replaced him. Wilson, who was last in net circling, beat Brennan in 6:50. George was hurt and Ed Cummins replaced him.

Fourth Quarter—The blue shirts began to try and pull down their opponents' lead, whilst the peacocks, confident in the large margin, engaged the ball. Warwick bored in by himself and beat Brennan in 8 minutes. A minute later Warwick worked the ball thru and passed to Harrison, who poked it in. The Irish woke up and delayed the play, though by sagging tactics they kept the locals from scoring again. Game ended Irish-Canadians 7, Torontos 4.

INDIANS LOSE TO NATIONALS

Tecumsehs Lacked Condition and Were Beaten by the Frenchmen on a Heavy Field.

MONTREAL, May 25.—Maintaining the reputation as speedsters and exhibiting a good deal of the go-in-on-the-net spirit, Nationals won the opening game of the Big Four lacrosse season Saturday and sent the Tecumsehs back to Toronto with the short end of a 2 to 2 score.

The grounds were heavy, militating against a good exhibition of the game. The local players, whose big asset is speed, were much handicapped by conditions, but the visitors, who are accustomed to net in the best of shape, outperformed every man on the field.

Neither team was very much altered from last year's line-up.

The teams:
Nationals: L'Houssay, Cattaneh, Degan, Duckett, Lachapelle, C. Degen, Degray, Dulude, Dussault, Pitre, Lamontagne, Bouliane.
Tecumsehs: Kinsman, Yeaman, Graydon, Whitehead, Greene, McKenzie, Pelker, Smith, Carmichael, McGregor, Querie, McDougall.
Referee: Johnny Brennan. Judge of play: M. Tucker.
Penalties: Lachapelle, Collins, Carmichael 5 each.

McCarty Killed in First Round at Calgary by Pelky's Blow on Heart

PELKY'S BLOW TO THE HEART KILLED LUTHER MCCARTY

Physicians Declare That Collapse in First Round Was Due to Organic Trouble and Paralysis—Police Detain Many of the Ten Thousand Spectators.

(Special to The Toronto World.) CALGARY, Alb., May 25.—Luther McCarty, champion white heavyweight fighter of the world, is dead from a blow he died within two minutes in the first round of his battle with Arthur Pelky here Saturday. The arena in which thousands witnessed the tragedy was placed under temporary siege by the police, and a monster round-up of all who saw or participated in the fight was carried out by the municipality of Calgary. McCarty died without regaining consciousness.

Thousands of men were kept in the arena for hours and will not be allowed to return to their homes until they give their names to the authorities. The ring tragedy has thrown the city into a state of wild excitement. The authorities, awaiting orders from higher officials, are holding Pelky and the promoters.

The fight was bitterly contested. McCarty was confident of victory, and with the prestige and confidence of a champion, entered the battle with a grin of determination to end it as quickly as possible. The crowd had just settled down to witness what was looked upon as a hard and grueling battle. The men fell each other out, neither doing much damage. McCarty suddenly landed a blow on Pelky's face and then missed. Pelky clinched with the champion and when they broke away the crowd cheered. McCarty again landed a right on Pelky's head and Pelky feinted.

The Fatal Blow. McCarty was drawn into the trap and opened his guard. Quick as a tiger Pelky rushed the champion, landing a terrific blow just below the heart. McCarty did not drop. He stood, reeling about, dazed. Pelky was about to strike him again when he noticed that McCarty's eyes were closed. He stepped back, McCarty still swaying.

The thousands who began cheering Pelky's rush, became silent as they watched McCarty. Suddenly the champion raised his hands in the attitude of self-defence, but they dropped again in a limp. He made a feeble effort to strike a blow, and before Pelky could rush him the champion's body stiffened, his heels clinching together and his spine rigid. He fell with his head bent forward, his forehead striking the canvas in a glancing blow. As he fell, Referee Ed Smith of Chicago began counting. At the count of ten he waved Pelky away and pronounced him the winner.

Seconds rushed into the ring and McCarty was lifted to his corner. The arena was a bedlam. Believing it a plain knockout, the spectators threw their hats into the ring. In the air and cheered as only a crowd can cheer when a new champion arrives. Hundreds of men had left the arena, and the activity at the ring side appeared to those who remained. It appeared too serious for a plain knockout, and the ring was rushed in the crowd's effort to learn what was the trouble. Doctors, hurriedly summoned, were attending McCarty. He had not opened his eyes and had failed to respond to restoratives.

After fifteen minutes a doctor stepped to the ring side and raised his hand. "He is dead," he said. "The blow over the heart caused a paralysis."

There was no sound greeted the doctor's statement and he soon was lost in the crowd about the dead champion, who was lifted over the ropes, his gloves still on, and carried to a dressing room in a corner of the arena.

Police Hold Spectators. The news of the champion's death spread rapidly and soon the police were on the scene in great numbers. They came in automobiles and ordered the gates closed. They did not place the promoters under arrest, but told them they would be arrested if they attempted to leave.

There were probably 10,000 men in the arena when it became known that McCarty was dead. A few minutes later Pelky appeared. Both men were cheered. Pelky, the local strong favorite, getting a greater volume of the applause.

When McCarty entered the ring he was laughing and joking with his friends and assistants, and apparently was in a confident mood. A few minutes later Pelky appeared. Both men were cheered. Pelky, the local strong favorite, getting a greater volume of the applause.

at Calgary several weeks ago. Willard outpointed him. He has had twenty bouts and won twelve. Jim Coffey, the Dublin Giant who fought Jim Fynn at the Garden A.C. on Friday night is the only man who ever knocked out Pelky. Coffey, in Philadelphia last winter, dropped Pelky to the count in the second round of a scheduled six-round bout. Coffey rushed at Pelky just as the bell rang and knocked him flat with a right hand smash to the jaw. The Canadian was believed to be only a third rater. Billy McCarty, McCarty's manager, obtained a similar opinion regarding Pelky as a fighter. In a letter to Dan McKittrick, McCarty wrote: "After the bout with Pelky, Luther fights another 'big stew' at Regina. McCarty will receive $4000 for his end. Freddy sort, eh?"

McCarty's Tragic Death Canadian Press Story

CALGARY, May 24.—(Can. Press.)—Luther McCarty, heavyweight champion of the world, died in the ring from a chance blow delivered somewhere in the region of the solar plexus, and the end of the battle came after one minute and forty-five seconds of fighting. There had been one or two mix-ups of inconsequential character; then came a clinch. Referee Eddie Smith separated the men. Both squared off in pugilistic attitude. Suddenly McCarty was seen to double up in a crouching attitude. The spectators it looked as though his crouch was simply a fighting pose. But he continued to go over his eyes rolling in his head, then he collapsed and fell full length on the floor of the ring.

The referee, assuming that he had been knocked out, stood over him to count off the fatal seconds. It was the final count for the young champion, Arthur Pelky, winner of the heavyweight championship at such a cost, stood at one side of his fallen adversary. He could scarcely realize what had happened. By this time the referee had become alarmed. He called for a doctor, several responding.

The N.W.M.P. were called in to clear the ring of the crowd, which had swarmed over the ropes. Physicians worked over the stricken man for 19 minutes when they pronounced him dead.

Referee Smith preferred to say nothing except that it was not a hard blow that knocked McCarty down. Luther McCarty is the first "champion" to be killed in the ring. There have been many other fatalities, but the victims were usually preliminary fighters—lads and men who did not train properly.

Arthur Pelky, by the knockout punch, automatically gained McCarty's ring title—the champion white heavyweight of the world.

McCarty's Record. Luther McCarty was born in Lincoln, Neb., on March 17, 1892. His father was an Indian half breed and his mother of Irish extraction. Standing a trifle over 6 feet 3 inches, he was physically powerful, yet comparatively weak hitter.

He first sprang into ring prominence when he defeated Carl Morris at Springfield, Mo., on March 1, 1912. McCarty was immediately hailed as a real "white hope," but he failed to live up to the reputation. His best battle was Al. Paiser at Los Angeles last New Year's day, when he defeated the conqueror of Bon-Bardier, Wells in eight rounds.

Previous to that bout he stopped Jim Fynn in sixteen rounds on Dec. 16, 1912, at Los Angeles. His last fight was at New York, on footwork and speed. This tournament was to select an opponent to fight Jack Johnson for the championship. He met and defeated Joe Roger, the wrestler, but did not take part in the final bout, which was won by Al Paiser.

While never a clever boxer Pelky has always been noted as a terrific slugger with a knockout blow with either the right or left hand. He has fought a number of bouts through the east, usually meeting third-rate fighters with indifferent results. His two bouts of importance were against Jess Willard at the Garden A.C. last July and Tommy Burns

EDMONTON, Alb., May 24.—Freddy Welsh, English lightweight champion, won a popular decision tonight over Kid Scaler in a 15-round bout. Until the fourteenth round both boys were strong, but in this period Welsh scored his first knockout and the fitful Scaler, going when the gong saved him. A few seconds more and the English champion would have given a knockout.

Scaler saved himself much punishment by repeatedly clinching and holding. Welsh excelled in footwork and seemed able to land almost at will on his opponent's head. By rounds all but the fourth were against Scaler. In this he had a slight margin.

OLD COUNTRY CRICKET. LONDON, May 25.—(C.A.P.)—Saturday's cricket: Yorkshire beat Worcester by 6 wickets, declaring second innings at 87 for 4. Northampton beat Lancashire by 4 wickets. Denton, Northampton, 87, not out. Nottingham beat Sussex by 35 runs. Surrey, first innings v. Essex, 333. Harrison 75. Essex 58 for 2.

At Preston on Saturday, both the local lacrosse teams were victorious in their opening exhibition fixtures there. The juveniles succeeded in downing Hospeler by the score of 14 to 3, while the juniors took the Canadian General Electric team of Toronto into camp to the tune of 17 to 5.

BIG CROWD SEE MOTORCYCLE RACES

H. Cole Has Walkover in Ten-Mile Championship—Summary of Events.

A large crowd witnessed the motorcycle races Saturday at Exhibition Park. H. Cole won the ten-mile race, which was practically a walk-over. Newport collided with an automobile in the side-car race. Summary:

First event, novice race, stock machines, 3 miles.—1. W. Morrison; 2. A. Shuttlesworth; 3. G. Levinski. Time 4.19. Second event, C. 130 class, stocks, 3 miles.—1. W. Morrison; 2. R. Thompson; 3. M. H. Donohue. Time 7.25 4-5.

Third event, 10 miles, professional, 1. Harold Cole, Thor; 2. E. McIntosh, Indian. Time 12.42.

Fourth event, single cyclist with side-car, male passenger, weight 125 pounds or less, 3 miles.—1. Shuttlesworth, P. E. M.; 2. N. Newport, Triumph; 3. P. Barnes, Triumph. Time 5.25 1-5. The result was never in doubt. Shuttlesworth always leading. Newport gained a lot of lost ground and would have won had the race been longer.

Fifth event, C.C. 125, twin stock class, 5 miles.—1. R. Thompson, Excelsior; 2. H. Miles, Indian; 3. W. Welkins, Jefferson. Time 6.55 3-5. This proved the most exciting race on the card as the riders constantly passed and repassed one another. Thompson won handily in the last mile. R. Barton finished second on a matchless twin, but was disqualified for looking around and fouling Thompson.

Sixth event, 2-mile bicycle handicap.—1. J. Heffernan, Q.C.B.C.; 2. N. Munro, H.M. Club; 3. H. Harris, Salem B.C.; 4. H. Martin, Salem B.C. Time 4.55 2-5.

Seventh event, twin engines and side-car, with male passenger weighing less than 135 pounds, five miles.—1. C. McDonald, Excelsior, twin; 2. Boston, Merit twin; 3. H. Greenwood, Triumph single. Time 3.01. Bolton took the lead, but was soon beaten by McDonald, who lapped his field. H. Greenwood made a good third with his single Triumph.

Eighth event, 5 miles, professional, 30-50 C.C.—1. H. Cole, Thor; 2. E. McIntosh, Indian. Time 6.37 4-5. Barbeau could not start as his machine was still out of commission and Cole and McIntosh finished an exciting finish.

Ninth event, 122 Class, three miles, stock.—1. W. Miles, Indian; 2. W. Morrison, Excelsior; 3. N. Newport, Triumph. Time 4.20 2-5. W. Morrison led the field of ten starters until the last lap, when he got caught in a pocket and Miles forged ahead.

Tenth event, 115 Class, stock, five miles.—1. Wm. Miles, Indian; 2. N. Newport, Triumph; 3. W. Morrison, Excelsior. Time 7.08 2-5.

Eleventh event—Side-car race for single-cylinder machines, 5 miles.—1. P. Barnes, Triumph; 2. P. Greenwood, Triumph; 3. N. Newport, Triumph. Time 5.58.

LEAFS AND GRAYS DIVIDE SERIES

Maxwell Allows Ten Hits in Morning, But Gets a Shut-Out.

LUSH EASY IN P.M. GAME

While Torontos Could Not Fathom Reisigl in the Afternoon.

The champion Leafs split up the two holiday games on Saturday, and thus merely divided the series with the Providence Grays. In the morning seven thousand fans saw a splendid contest, close and exciting all the way. With the home team finally emerging victorious by the score of 2 to 0. The visitors outbatted the Leafs three to one, but the hits were not there when they were needed. Maxwell, who pitched for Toronto, was touched up pretty freely and got into several bad positions, but always succeeded in extricating himself without a score. Moran on the other hand was a complete puzzle, but an error at a critical moment let in one run. He was hurt in the first part of the seventh and had to quit, Mitchell taking his place. The latter pitched good ball also, but the one charity he gave, combined with a single, scored run number two.

The Grays turned the tables in the afternoon game before 10,000 people, winning rather easily from the emerging shuttling out, 4 to 0. Reigel, one of the best pitchers in the league, was altogether too much for the Leafs, and although they got six safeties, they were kept so scattered that nary a score was made. Johnnie Leahy, who pitched for the Grays, was hit hard, and after six innings, during which the Grays got 11 hits for three runs, he took his place with Mitchell. However, they added one to the total in the ninth and departed for the east with a tie on the score, winning two and losing two. The scores:

BUFFALO AND NEWARK DIVIDE DOUBLE-HEADER

Saturday Games at Buffalo Played in Almost Record Time—A Shut-Out.

BUFFALO, May 24.—Buffalo and Newark played two games in almost record time this afternoon, the Bison winning the first half by 2 to 0, while the Bengals captured the second by 6 to 3. Follenweider was found for but 4 hits in his game, and the visitors had few chances to score and could not hit when the opportunity did present itself. In the second game the Newark bunch fell on Cadore right from the jump and after the first four men had faced him and three had hit and an error made on the fourth he was yanked and Holmes finished in good style after getting warmed up to his work. One inning was also enough for Bell and Binger went the route in good shape. Scores:

King's Plate: Heats of Oak 1, Maid of Frome 2, Gold Bud 3 --- Time 2.09 1/2

HEARTS OF OAK LAYS THE PLATE WITH BRILLIANT PERFORMANCE

Mr. Giddings' Grand-Looking Colt Won the Classic Event by Ten Lengths—Southern Maid Lowers Track Record Enormous Attendance.

By Ed. Baker.

The directors of the Ontario Jockey Club have every reason to congratulate themselves upon such an auspicious opening for their spring meeting, and the fact that over twenty thousand people turned out to witness the racing program is positive evidence that the people of the country in general like the sport, and the brilliant performance of Hearts of Oak on Saturday was a fitting rebuke to the few narrow-gauge individuals and professional reformers who are doing their best to close out places of amusement and compel us all to see, think and do as they dictate.

A class of people superior to the vast throng that occupied every available space within the Woodbine Park enclosure on Saturday afternoon would be hard to find anywhere. The accommodation was insufficient for the crowd, but still there was no sign of overcrowding, and the afternoon's sport was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

The weather was perfect for racing, and the track at its best. Threatening clouds appeared before the racing had far advanced, but they soon disappeared, and the few showers that fell had a beneficial effect, rather than otherwise, as they seemed to dry the dirt on the track and have fallen to the sprinkling carts had they not come.

The Racing.

Regardless of the fact that the seven events decided, only two of the finishes were of the close-fitting variety, the racing was all that could be desired, and while the feature race of the day, the historic King's Plate, was won in hollow fashion, the people were pleased, as the popular choice, Mr. Giddings' Hearts of Oak, won the big race, 1:12 1/2, the winner of the first two races, Plate Glass and Southern Maid, were strongly fancied.

It was a great day for the winners, and his trainer, John Nixon, for not only did they land the first two races, but horses from the Davies stable, the winners of the third event, second and third in the fourth, and third in the King's Plate.

The story of the King's Plate for 1913

THE REALTY SITUATION

Real estate is emerging from a period of three months' stress. Market values have been tested with a rigidity that they have not been subjected to in years.

With a money market that has affected normal conditions the world over, real estate in a city like Toronto, where great demands are made for the financing of improvements and other allied realty interests, would quite naturally feel the pressure.

All the factors that militate against a firm and rising market have been discounted; everything that should happen has happened; money is getting easier, and the situation assuring to new projects; Canadian commercial trade is temporarily active; reports indicate a year of good crops.

In Toronto we are starting many important public works this year that will be great users of labor and distributors of buying ability; our factories are busy. In common with the rest of the country we are receiving a share of new population, that this year will probably be 50,000, meaning another ward or two along the edge of settlement.

And this spring has demonstrated that real estate in Toronto has an earning power compatible with values, and lessees find business warranting bigger stores and higher rents; that the comparatively few people who deal in the future are quite able to look after themselves and incidentally make money, and that the building movement, great though it is, is not great enough. Ahead there is nothing but what should engender confidence.

The real estate public realize this, and that a period of sound, sensible activity, built on a business-like scrutiny and weighing of merits of properties on the market is due. The holiday disposition of the people will merely conserve and condense the investment spirit.

economically inclined municipal councils serving the service in order to reduce ordinary taxation.

This method would also remove the railways from the sphere of local municipal politics with its attendant changing conditions.

Apart from the transportation facilities afforded by the railways, they reduce the cost of domestic power in farming communities where there are no manufacturers using large blocks of power, as without the railway they would have to pay a higher horse-power rate.

Forty Year Debentures.

With regard to the payment of the original cost of hydro railways the act provides for municipalities issuing forty year debentures on the proportions fixed in their agreement with the commission. This means that a payment of less than 1 1/2 per cent. per year on account of principal added to the debenture interest will pay off all debentures in 40 years.

Adding 4 1/2 per cent. for interest, the total payment will be 6 per cent. per annum, which is what private companies have to pay on the bonds alone without reducing the capital cost a cent, apart altogether from payments of 8 or 9 per cent. on other stocks. It is likely, however, that after the cars start running the revenue will not only pay operating expenses, but also principal and interest, so that the ratepayers may never be asked to make any payments on railway debentures.

Meantime the municipalities, whose application is now before the commission, are waiting a report on their venture with keen interest.

BUSINESS MEN EAGER TO KNOW DATE OF TARIFF READJUSTMENT

Some Branches of Trade Paralyzed by Present Condition of Uncertainty, It Is Urged—Wall Street Is, on the Whole, Inclined to Take a Much More Optimistic View of Outlook.

(Specially written by S. S. Fontaine for The New York World and Toronto World.)

NEW YORK, May 24.—The last stages of a prolonged decline in the market are usually devoted to the readjustment of issues that have not sufficiently participated in the general depreciation and the movements of values on the New York Stock Exchange during the week have been restricted largely to this evening up process. With the exception of a few stocks whose quotations had remained out of line with the general list and which therefore were peculiarly vulnerable, there has been a display of firmness which indicates that liquidation has ceased and that nothing short of some unexpected development of an extremely unfavorable character would dislodge stocks in substantial volume from the resting place they have finally reached after several months of reaction.

Bears Losing Courage.

There has been much evidence to warrant the opinion that the speculative agencies which have been working on the short side of the market have lost their aggressiveness, if not their courage. All the disquieting elements of the situation seem to have been so thoroughly discounted that those investors who have retained their holding through the decline can discover nothing in existing conditions or the probability of anything in the immediate future to induce them to part with securities now.

The strong financial interests, to whom Wall street looks for guidance in its operations, may be said to have assumed a passively optimistic position. They are neither selling nor buying stocks, but if they have any leaning at all it is now toward the market's constructive side. They recognize the technical strength of the conditions that underlie it. They feel that the pendulum has swung too far in the direction of pessimism, and that when its impact is exhausted, a counter stroke will come automatically, even if it should for the time being lack the propulsion of a public buying movement.

Ignoring Good News.

Too little attention has undoubtedly been given by the general public as well as by the professional elements of Wall street to the favorable factors in the situation. Pessimism has become a habit that is extremely hard to shake off. It has taken hold of the minds of those mental machinery gets its energy solely from the pulse beats of the ticker, but of most matters and business men who might be expected to accept the testimony of their reason rather than of their prejudices in their analysis of economic causes and effects, and to be prepared therefore to detect any changes, however slight, in the situation that might be ignored or overlooked by those who cling to convictions based largely upon their mental attitude.

Improvement Under Way.

Whatever changes have come in general conditions during the last week have been of a rather hopeful character, yet there is no reason to wholly escape the observation of a New York bank official, who Friday night addressed a gathering of western bankers in an extremely pessimistic vein. Conditions existing here and in Europe a month or more ago were accurately described by him, but it must be plain to any keen observer that the current financial events that have been substantially ameliorated during the last fortnight, and which have been very distinct signs of credit expansion both here and abroad, while the financial situation of the world over, with the possible exception of that in Germany, has assumed a distinctly brighter hue.

Bond Sale a Success.

In the financial district the disposition has been to regard the sale of New York City 4-1/2 per cent. bonds as a failure. But was it? The Comptroller had $15,000,000 of what are officially designated as notes of the city of New York, to sell to the public. These securities are undoubtedly high-class, yet there are many who would not buy them, while conceding that the quality of the metropolis is excellent, believe that there is too much extravagance in the administration of its municipal affairs, that too great a strain has already been imposed upon the taxable real estate of the city, that in many portions of the city, the assessment values exceed of much of the real estate of the city, and that the future values of the city, which now bears the heavy burden of the expenses of the city government, are likely to be increased rather than enhanced by the proposed improvements that have sections of the city that are not yet ready to be burdened with the tax, and that sooner or later there must be severe reductions in some classes of New York real estate.

Large Funds Available.

This may be and probably is a widely misunderstood view of New York City's financial future. It is worth being held by outside investors, in whose hands bonds, who prefer the issues of the city, which they consider to be more conservative than the offering of the city of New York, and who are largely over-subscribed and considered the state of the investment market, which is undoubtedly adjusting itself to a permanently higher interest rate, the average price was a very fair one. The test proved that there is a large amount of money in this country seeking investment in a satisfactory standard of security and income.

Fear Our Politics.

The rotation of the Chinese bonds in Europe was a successful to a surprising degree. It disclosed a remarkable improvement in the investment situation both in Great Britain and on the continent, and furnishes a very striking refutation of the statement made by the New York banker above referred to, that Europe was so concerned with her preparations for the financial war, that she could not be expected to have a surplus remaining for investment in American or other foreign securities. The enormous subscription for the Chinese bonds no-only shows that European investors have a surplus capital to invest in foreign securities, but that they are eagerly embracing the opportunity when these issues meet their requirements of safety and return. It is a very sad commentary upon the foreign view of our own investment situation that European capitalists should prefer to place their money in the issues of a young republic, the stability of which is doubtful, to say the least, at a time when the issue of our seasoned corporations are going a-begging on terms that should be very much more attractive than those offered by the five-power loan.

Effect of Political Agitation.

The fact is that political agitation, that has been constantly directed in this country against the railroads and industrial corporations, while it has accomplished a great deal of good at home in the disciplining of recalcitrant and in the teaching of a wholesome respect for the law and for public opinion to those "manufacturers of great wealth," who had come to consider themselves above both, has nevertheless thoroughly frightened the foreign investor who is prone to take a practical rather than an ethical view of our social problems. He examines into the effects of this national attitude toward industrial institutions and questions very keenly their ability to yield investment returns upon equities, the legal standing of which we ourselves are placing in constant jeopardy. He is equally timid of our railroad securities when he finds that in the face of a constant increase in their operating expenses, due to the growing demands of labor and the rising prices of material, we have established a policy toward our common carriers of persistently refusing to recognize their right to share in the world's movement that is adjusting the return from service rendered to the increasing cost of its performance.

The Outlook.

While our money market is showing signs of improvement, there is still a very striking and somewhat ominous disparity between the rates quoted for short term loans and the price demanded for accommodations extending over the usual period of fall stringency. This difference has been accentuated during the week by a decline in the quotations for two and three months' money, and a rather sharp advance in five and six months' funds. If there is any less apprehension over the fall money market it is due wholly to the faith which business men have in the administration's ability to fulfill its obligations in the currency reform. This has been greatly strengthened by the progress of the tariff bill and the control which the party which has been in power has exercised over the proceedings in both houses of congress.

Definite Currency Program.

The announcement that President Wilson has a definite currency program for the special session, and that he will make a personal selection of the committees charged with the shaping of the legislation, was good news to the banking and business world, where the hope is growing that some effective means will be provided before the crop moving season for meeting the emergency demands of that period of the year. If this is done, it is generally conceded in the financial district, that business will advance rapidly and without serious inconvenience to the new tariff schedules.

Could Help Out.

The president and congress, however, can greatly facilitate the realization of a substantial and lasting agreement, if they will forthwith lessen their restraint and substantially agree upon the date upon which the new measure shall become operative. The uncertainty as to when the new schedule will go into effect is the chief factor of commercial restraint at the present time. The final paragraph of the Underwood bill, as at present framed, reads thus:

"That unless otherwise specially provided, this act shall take effect upon the day following the passage of this act."

This is extremely unfair to all classes of business men affected by the revised schedules. There might be some justification for making the date of a protective tariff bill indefinite, in order to prevent an influx of foreign goods in advance of the collection of duties, but there is no such preliminary caution necessary to guard against speculative adventures in connection with the lowering of the tariff. If the date is set at a time by which the bill may be reasonably expected to reach the president, the stagnation which is appearing in many lines of trade and which is largely due to this uncertainty, will in a great measure disappear. As a prominent manufacturer remarked somewhat bitterly the other day:

"I have a condemned criminal in my hands, and I am not allowed to know the date of his execution."

DEVELOPMENT WORK ON CANADIAN G. AND S. STOPPED TEMPORARILY AT ALEXANDRIA—THIRTY VEINS AT KIRKLAND.

COBALT, May 24.—Development work on the Alexandra (Canadian Gold and Silver) has been temporarily suspended, in order that surface arrangements for the new shaft and other buildings are in active construction, and about June completion of the work will be continued and underground work taken at both the 200-foot and 300-foot levels on the Big Tote vein, which has been regarded as one of the show veins of the camp, as developed on the Bailey and Penn-Canadian. The properties of the Canadian Gold and Silver have been strikingly developed, and showing up well, about 30 veins have been uncovered on these properties, and one vein runs six feet wide on the surface. Supt. Berdler is away in Cleveland, but will be on the ground in a few days, when a hustling development campaign is expected.

PARIS IS QUIET.

PARIS, May 24.—Prices were quiet on the bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 85 francs 45 centimes for the account. Exchange on London 25 1/2 for checks. Private rate of discount 3 1/2 p.c.

AGREEMENT UPON HARRIMAN PLAN?

Wall Street Quite Cheerful in Belief That Difficulties Are Ended.

GOOD ADVANCES MADE

Pacifics Had Sharp Upturn and General Market Was Responsive.

NEW YORK, May 24.—Unofficial declarations that a settlement had at last been reached in the negotiations for segregation of the Harriman system in compliance with the supreme court mandate stimulated the stock market strongly today. Gossip on the exchange was to the effect that the segregation plan proposed for cancellation of the $125,000,000 of Southern Pacific stock held by Union Pacific in return for which Union Pacific would receive control of Central Pacific, with cash and bonds having an additional value of $20,000,000. The stock exchange house which was the largest buyer of Union Pacific, made the statement that the full plan segregation will be issued next Tuesday.

Rally in C. P. R.

There was some further selling of stocks which have been under pressure recently. Pennsylvania touched a new low figure at 109 1/2, and Canadian Pacific sagged 2 points on renewed selling for foreign account. Both the stock, however, rallied when the list went up. The moving market by the market was taken by traders as evidence either that the rumors of agreement on the Harriman plan were founded on fact or that the technical position was so strong as to render stocks unusually sensitive to bullish influences.

Manitoba Wheat Sent to the King

Cases of Championship Wheat Will Be Presented to His Majesty and Duke of Connaught.

WINNIPEG, May 24.—(Special.)—Presenting their championship wheat to King George and the Duke of Connaught, James and Thomas Maynard, father and son, Deloraine, Man., will give two cases into the care of the department of agriculture on Monday. The wheat was won prizes at fairs in Canada and the United States, and will be forwarded in two elaborately mounted cases, one intended for the duke and the other for His Majesty, who will receive it at the hands of the governor general, with a letter of introduction from James Maynard and an official letter from the department which will accompany the wheat.

COULD BE SAID TO BE MEN'S NEW MODES

Tailors of Ol' Lunnon Transfer Delirium of Dance to Garments.

WAISTS ARE IN FASHION

Trousers Are Parody on the Hobble Skirt and Hard to Sit Down in.

Special Cable to The World. LONDON, May 23.—(Copyright.)—The tailors for men are happy in the return to fashions of the young man, which they ascribe to the present craze for dancing, not suited as a special accomplishment of the middle-aged male. For several years the man of the hour has been the one in parliament, where shortly but late in attire has come to prevail. But with the return of the debonair youth to the centre of society's stage, there has been an instant revival of attention to the niceties of masculine dressing.

Dresses in Morning Coats.

The morning coats are truly "dreams." The coats do not quite meet in front and are fastened by a single detachable button, which connects the single pair of buttonholes. Some sporting young men have appeared wearing the new coat, which is a parody on the jeweled or enameled buttons, but the tailors frown upon that extravagance. The new coat is a parody on the inevitable mark of middle-age, even in white and gaudy colors, are now relegated to the past. ## LOW RATES TO WESTERN CANADA.

The Grand Trunk Railway issues round trip Homeseekers' tickets at very low rates from stations in Canada to points in Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan, each Tuesday until October 25th, inclusive, via Chicago or Sarnia and Northern Navigation Company, and are good returning two months from date of issue.

JIM HILL HAS IDEA TO SAVE THE COUNTRY

F. D. Underwood, president of the Erie Railroad, was commenting on James J. Hill's statement that Congress should adjourn for ten years. "Mr. Hill hits the bulls' eye often more than any other man who shoots at it," said the Erie's president. "He is right, but I wish he hit ten and go him two better. It should be twelve years for the reason that that would wipe out four sets of congressmen and two sets of senators. I suspect Hill meant twelve years, but was misquoting."

HAD NINE WIVES AND IS ARRESTED

Prophet Milligan Was Very Strong on Locating Soul Mates.

WROTE LOVE LETTERS

And Used Child Wife to Lure Other Women to Him.

Special to The Toronto World. CHICAGO, Ill., May 23.—The Rev. Robert T. Milligan is in the clutches of the law for ardent promotion of free love. The police charge that he has had nine wives. A girl wife with him told that he had admitted having nine soul mates. A letter to Miss Alice Turentine of 6282 Wentworth avenue, who attended his mission, caused his downfall. She gave it to the police. It reads in part: "I want you heart and your whole self for my own. I am sure that I am capable of filling your whole life with sweet happiness. I will be a complete success in my love for you. We will become excited in our divine love for one another. Come to me, and I will be kind and loving and true to your heart's desire and it shall be so always with us. Amen."

He Used His Child Wife to Lure Other Women to Him.

He used his child wife to lure other women to him. She wrote Miss Turentine: "You will obey the heavenly call. The time has come for all holy women to be left one another love." She invited Miss Turentine to come to her home and live with the "prophet." The wife was Dorothy Melchior of Weighted Grove, Mo., a St. Louis suburb. She is now sixteen and has an infant five months old.

CANADIAN TRADE IS MODERATELY ACTIVE

Despatches from branch offices of R. G. Dun & Co. in leading trade centres of the Dominion of Canada, say that trade is moderately active, although there is some complaint of the effect of unseasonable cold weather. Montreal reports that generally cool weather has retarded sales of seasonal goods, but the wholesale clothing business in the east is fair. Hardware and structural material are in moderate demand and there is a good movement of footwear as not very busy in business in leather is rather quiet. At Toronto wholesale trade is moderately active. Groceries are fairly good, but warm enough to stimulate the movement of seasonal drygoods, both articles, on the whole, are fair. Groceries are in fairly good demand and there is a free distribution of hardware and metals. Leather and hides are quiet and unchanged. There are some enquiries for clothing, especially by most lines at Hamilton, with the outlook generally favorable. In the far west, however, there is a somewhat better outlook to business, favorable weather stimulating the demand for staple merchandise. At Winnipeg staple weather has increased the demand for summer clothing, but trade in this line and in millinery is still quiet. Labor, however, is well employed at good wages and prospects are still rather quiet. A steady demand for summer clothing as noted in some improvement is noted in the local market. There is a good demand for summer clothing for groceries, clothing and shoes, and an active retail trade in hardware. Civic improvements and building operations keep labor busy and the current volume of business compares favorably with that of last year. Better weather at Calgary stimulates retail trade and general business shows a steady increase, the movement of groceries, especially being larger than a year ago. Edmonton reports some improvement in retail trade, but conditions in certain lines are still rather quiet. A steady demand for all kinds of merchandise is reported at Regina, with a notably active movement of groceries, provisions, and hardware.

"M A TRUST," CARUSO CONFIDES IN WORLD

"My Manager, the Scoundrel, Doesn't Let People Hear Me Sing For Nothing."

Special Cable to The World. PARIS, May 23.—(Copyright.)—Caruso is a familiar figure on the boulevards these afternoons, sitting out on the cafe terraces dining with friends, obligingly signing autographs and making caricatures for strangers recognizing him. In the evening he is frequently observed at the comedy theatres, where he graciously acknowledges the flatterings. "I don't believe so. I've an impression who has monopolized and syndicated the love of the world," he said. "I've no liberty at all. He doesn't let people hear me for nothing, the scoundrel, but he lets me hear anybody who really like to hear me."

LOW RATES TO WESTERN CANADA.

The Grand Trunk Railway issues round trip Homeseekers' tickets at very low rates from stations in Canada to points in Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan, each Tuesday until October 25th, inclusive, via Chicago or Sarnia and Northern Navigation Company, and are good returning two months from date of issue.

JIM HILL HAS IDEA TO SAVE THE COUNTRY

F. D. Underwood, president of the Erie Railroad, was commenting on James J. Hill's statement that Congress should adjourn for ten years. "Mr. Hill hits the bulls' eye often more than any other man who shoots at it," said the Erie's president. "He is right, but I wish he hit ten and go him two better. It should be twelve years for the reason that that would wipe out four sets of congressmen and two sets of senators. I suspect Hill meant twelve years, but was misquoting."

GENERAL FORWARD MOVEMENT IN N. Y.

Market Closed Strong After a Day That Reversed Anticipations of Bear Operators.

PACIFICS RISE EARLY

Actual Conditions of Banks All Show Increases—Excess of Reserves Greater.

NEW YORK, May 24.—The market closed stronger. The early rise in Union Pacific and Southern Pacific proved to be the beginning of a general forward movement. Bear operators were taken unawares by manifestation of strength following yesterday's improvement. Recent movements have been alternately up and down, and on the assumption that today would witness a reversal of yesterday's advance, traders sold at the commencement of business. Accumulation of the Harriman shares, especially Union Pacific, on a large scale gave rise to a more general belief that a solution of the problem involved in the disintegration of the system was at hand. As the impetus lent by the upturn in these stocks permeated the list, even the St. Louis and San Francisco issues rallied after temporary weakness. Union Pacific rose 3 points, Southern Pacific 2 and other standard stocks 1 to 2 points.

The statement of the actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week, shows that they held $27,298,400 in excess of legal requirements. This is an increase of $1,719,000 from last week. Actual conditions: Loans, increase $3,647,000; specie, increase $1,971,000; legal tender, increase $218,000; net deposits, increase $4,998,000; circulation, increase $19,000; excess lawful reserve, $27,298,400; increase $1,719,00
