Frenchman Sinks Austrian Submarine

Cettinje, Montenegro, Oct. 19.—An Austrian submarine was sunk in the Adriatic today by a French cruiser. Two submarines went out from the Bay of Cattaro to attack a French fleet which was making its way along the Dalmatian coast. They were quickly sighted, however, by the French lookouts, and a well directed shot sent one of them, the leader, to the bottom. The other submarine escaped.

Paris, Oct. 19.—The French War Office gave out an official announcement this afternoon as follows:— "In Belgium the heavy artillery of the enemy has ceased, but without results, the front from Nieuport to Vladslo, to the east of Dixmude. The forces of the allies, and notably the Belgian army, have not only repulsed further attacks on the part of the Germans, but have advanced as far as Roulers.

THIRTY-TWO TRANSPORTS, WITH GUARDING V.A. HD, MADE NOTABLE SEA SPECTACLE

Steamship Men at New York, After Voyage Across, Tell of Seeing Canada's Contingent on Way to Front

New York, Oct. 19.—A line of grey transports, led by a pilot boat and two British cruisers, and flanked by an armada of battleships, cruisers and destroyers; a line so long that it laid the smudge of its smoke against the sky so far as sailors could see to the east and west; such was the spectacle that carried the British troops to England and its convoys as glimpsed from the decks of the Minnesota, 870 miles from the mouth of the Thames, on October 10. Officers of the steamer, on her arrival here today, told of the splendid spectacle.

RUSSIANS GO INTO BATTLE WITH GOOD CHEER

Correspondent Pays Tribute To Czar's Troops—"Magnificent Soldiers Who Deserve to Win"

Petrograd, Oct. 19.—It is difficult to summarize the crowded events of the last few days, during which I have traveled about in the rear of the main Russo-German fighting line. The first stage of the gigantic battle that began last week is being fought in Poland, and the Russian soldier, during the last few days, has been met by a determined impact of a strong Russian force. All that can be said for the present is while this is regarded as the most serious moment of the campaign the general outlook is most hopeful for the Russians.

BELIEVE THE SETBACK FOR GERMANS NEAR

Apparent Arrest of Forward March of the Enemy on Sea Coast of Northern France

On the southeast of northern France, Sunday, Oct. 18, the German forces threatening the north French sea coast have been arrested in their forward march for the moment. The enemy, it is said, has suffered heavily in recent fighting and is now short of numbers and stores. With the report comes the news, which was to be expected, that the siege guns from Antwerp are being moved toward the present German fighting line. Large bodies of troops have been sent forward, but the enemy is attempting to penetrate the defenses of Dunkirk, with the object of overturning the French coast as far as Calais and Boulogne. A large force of the enemy is centered at Thourout, which is due east of Dixmude, which commands the route to the Belgian coast and the French frontier southwest of Courtrai. Just east of the Belgian frontier a strong body of Germans have been located.

GERMANS ON PRIZE IN TOW TO HALIFAX MADE ATTEMPT TO SINK HER

Was Flying American Flag and Question of Register Arises

Halifax, Oct. 19.—The first prize of war brought to this harbor in just a century arrived here yesterday and, which was on the way to Halifax for bunks and supplies, to escort the ship in. Finding the Brindilla's crew obstructing the Coronado had to tow the all tanker to port. An attempt was also made by Germans aboard to sink the American steamer Brindilla. She was boarded by a British cruiser south of New York on Tuesday and found to have cleared from New York for Alexandria, Egypt. The course she was steering, however, was due south, heading for the West Indies, and this in itself was enough to warrant seizing her, but the British ships had been ordered to watch for her as she was understood to have been improperly transferred to the American flag.

SOME CANADIANS LANDED TODAY AT AVONMOUTH

Avonmouth, Eng., Oct. 19.—A well known Atlantic liner arrived here today bringing a large number of Canadian troops to augment those already encamped in England. The first news that the townspeople had of their arrival was the sound of the fife and the drum in the streets. The men entrained immediately for a destination not announced.

Other despatches show that serious damage resulted from the disturbance at Calceda, Odoos, Erem, Eriose, Athina and through Beila.

BAD ROADS ARE CHECKING GERMANS

Petrograd, Oct. 19.—According to information from Warsaw, the Russian army is not anticipating the return of the Germans to that region, from which they were lately repulsed with large losses. The Germans' failure there is attributed partly to the inability of the artillery and infantry to follow up and support the advance guard, which approached within five miles of the city. The backwardness of the artillery is due to the practically impassable condition of the country as result of four days of continuous rain.

BERLIN LOOKS FOR BATTLE NEAR WARSAW

Berlin, Oct. 19.—Headquarters reports show an ominous pause regarding operations in the west. Usually these reports cover important movements and the concentration of troops, but Berlin is in utter darkness regarding recent activities.

Northwest France, Oct. 19.—A report is current in this district this morning that the Germans are retreating from Ostend and its neighborhood. It is added that the town was not occupied in great force. It is impossible here, at the time at which this message must be despatched, to obtain any verification of the report, which, however, comes from what I think is a fairly reliable source.

HEART ATTACK SAVED LIFE OF KAISER'S SON; NEXT BULLET HIS

London, Oct. 19.—A despatch to the Times from Copenhagen says it is generally stated in Germany that Prince Oscar, the fifth son of the Emperor, owes his life to his attack of heart trouble. It appears from the stories current that a party of Turcos were firing from trees and shot down all the officers surrounding the prince. The sudden excitement led to a heart attack and the prince fell unconscious.

RECRUITING WAS BEGUN HERE TODAY; ORDERS OUT FOR THE WHOLE DOMINION

Report Today Says Colonel McAvity's Regiment Likely to Go—A. M. C. Men From Here to Halifax—Ottawa Details of Cost—May Be Early Session

The call to arms has been sounded again in Canada. Already in St. John usary are anxiously awaiting the opportunity to enlist those who, through business, personal, or varied reasons, were unable to enroll with the first expeditionary force.

With the announcement that there would be a second contingent, the nucleus of an infantry regiment, was immediately formed in this city when Col. J. L. McAvity, O. C. the 62d regt. St. John Fusiliers, enlisted for foreign service the home company of fifty-nine men who have been doing local defence duties since the departure of the first body to go from here.

Five young men from No. 8 Field Ambulance Corps, under command of Captain T. E. Bishop, will leave for Halifax tomorrow to take steamer for England, very likely to join the force of Canadians now at Salisbury Plains. Captain Bishop received a wire from Halifax, the headquarters of the 6th division, instructing him to forward a few men for service overseas, and there have been several applicants for the limited posts.

In the future, for a time at least, militia orders will be received locally from the divisional headquarters at Halifax, instead of from Ottawa. This resulted from the changes in the war department at Ottawa, and the absence of Col. Hughes in England. Another change, which has already been mentioned in the Times, is that the New Brunswick units will muster at St. John, or at least that is the expectation of local militia officers in touch with departmental affairs.

It is estimated that by the beginning of the new year Canada will be supporting at home and abroad an army of 80,000 men if the programme mapped out by the government is carried out. This will include the 38,000 men already in England, the 10,000 men which it contemplated will be sent across in December, the 5,000 men for garrison and home defence purposes, and the 20,000 additional which it is intended will be recruited as a permanent source of reinforcement supply.

Wayside Apples
(By Peter McArthur)

Why should the apples be wasted? Even though the market price of other country products—such as grains, butter, meat, etc.—may be low, they will be cared for and little allowed to go to waste. The necessary machinery for marketing them has been perfected, though the price may fluctuate, but with apples and other fruits the case is entirely different. This department of trade has been almost entirely speculative and unless the dealers have seen a chance to make a large profit much good fruit has been allowed to go to waste. Because of the attitude of the public, a market was established and properly organized there would still be a waste, because of the attitude of the public. Everybody wants No. 1 apples of the choicest varieties, and there is no market for culls. It is quite true that many of the culls are used in evaporating factories to make dried apples and also to make cider and vinegar. But the country is full of uncared for orchards that yield a large supply of excellent apples that cannot be graded. It is a shame that these should be allowed to waste. The cost of production being practically nothing beyond the rent of the land on which the orchard stands, a very small price would move the farmers together and save these apples, if there was a market for them. They are good enough not only for the poor but for anyone with a sense of economy.

In the illustrious Zetung, a German weekly paper, of July 16, a German officer who had spent some time observing the Russian army criticized it, and the point he emphasized was that the present fighting machine of the Japs is no more like the machine that went down in the Russo-Japanese war than the German army of 1871 is like the army of today. The improvements that have been made in the Russian army are remarkable, and while it probably does not equal the German army in its superiority in numbers, it should make it equally formidable. It is thought of that is why one may search the records of the Russo-Japanese war in vain for examples of Russian advances in force upon the enemy. Russian advancing was almost invariably to the rear. The infantry lacked power to win battles because of their premature formation, and the over-spreading of their front ranks, the cavalry preceding the infantry in single formation, and the artillery scattering to small groups, and firing from positions of concealment. In the years 1911-12 these principles were abandoned, and regulations founded upon those of Germany and France took their place.

Old Tactics Discarded

The war with Russia showed the Russian military authorities that the army was not to be depended upon. The tactics of the Dreyfusoff were useless for attack, since they seemed to be based upon the assumption that the enemy's fire would invariably be accurate, and so deadly that an advance against almost equal numbers was not to be thought of. That is why one may search the records of the Russo-Japanese war in vain for examples of Russian advances in force upon the enemy. Russian advancing was almost invariably to the rear. The infantry lacked power to win battles because of their premature formation, and the over-spreading of their front ranks, the cavalry preceding the infantry in single formation, and the artillery scattering to small groups, and firing from positions of concealment. It was five years after the war with Japan before Witte and Stolypin were able to quell the threatened revolutions of the country, and gather up sufficient funds to begin the reorganization of the military machine, but even before the money was ready the work of reorganization had begun. In 1906 no fewer than 28 out of 31 army corps and 38 out of 61 cavalry divisions received new commanders, and in the next few years 64 generals were placed in enforced retirement. In the years 1911-12 the head of the army were lopped off, and their places taken by younger men. In the year 1911 for instance, the general staff officers promoted to be colonels were 84 years old, ten were 83 years old and twenty-one were 86 years old. Other steps were taken to make the

A report has been received at Ottawa from the Arctic regions, sent out by Dr. Anderson in charge of a wing of the Stefansson expedition, on August 21. It was brought from the ice fields in a trading schooner and reported that the members of the party were in good health and making progress in the frozen north.

Reginald Hatfield, aged 18 years, was drowned near Port Greville, N. S., on Friday last while canoeing with Harold Canning. The canoe became unmanageable in a stiff gale and upset. Canning managed to swim to shore with his life preserver. He was taken to the hospital and is recovering.

BUSINESS IMPROVEMENT.
No Reason for Industrial Depression.
Prosperity is good. It is good for everyone and a general confidence in the future.
Of late there seems to have been an unusual amount of business depression, due mostly to the lack of faith of one class toward another, and to a little dishonesty of over-generous competitors.
In a country of our enormous natural wealth, we should have little to worry about. The United States, with its insular possessions and excellent harbors and intersected by internal waterways, and we have, by far, the best and cheapest coast railroad transportation in the whole world, making communication cheap and easy. We have tremendous water power and every variety of climate and soil. We have forests cover a great area of our territory. Our land is literally stocked with almost every variety of mineral wealth, and we have our vast agricultural wealth, which the world is so great many things.

When corporations are known and their life aired by publicity, in politics and government, they feel a renewed confidence, who when political "cave" also, they have recently made a "transformation" for the better of business troubles: when we have full publicity in politics and government, when business managers and employees treat each other as equals, the causes for apparent depression will disappear and the best prospects will return and stay with us.

Certain-teed Roofing is guaranteed 5 years for 1-ply, 10 years for 2-ply and 15 years for 3-ply and the warranty is backed by the assets of our big mills.

In addition to above we also make a complete line of other roofing, building paper, etc. Ask your dealer. He will be glad to give further information about our goods and will quote you reasonable prices.

The Canadian Patriotic Fund

THE Rexall Stores of Canada, 400 of the leading Drug Stores in Canada have unanimously agreed to contribute to the Canadian Patriotic Fund, FIVE PER CENT. of their total purchases of all Rexall Toilet Goods, Rexall Remedies and other merchandise manufactured or sold by the United Drug Company, Limited, Toronto, from October 15th to December 31st, 1914.

This action of the Rexall Drug Stores of Canada has been undertaken co-operatively, because as a co-operative organization they realize how much more can be done unitedly than individually, and it has been taken for two reasons—to fulfill a humane duty in raising a fund for the relief work of the Canadian Patriotic Organization, and a patriotic duty in an endeavor to keep a large staff of Canadian employees busy.

The 400 Rexall Stores of Canada make an appeal to your sympathy and support in their doubly worthy cause for increasing the funds of the Canadian Patriotic Organization and for the support of Canadian workmen because:

The fund that would be raised on the basis of last year's business can be tremendously increased if every man and woman in Canada will help a little by the simple process of purchasing Rexall Goods at the Rexall Stores.

No need to give space in this announcement to emphasize the high quality of Rexall Toilet and Medicinal goods. Sufficient to say that 7,000 of the leading Drug Stores in Canada, Great Britain, and the United States place their personal and collective reputations behind them; that the public in these countries endorse them to the extent of several million dollars worth of purchases a year.

Better goods are not made, and you take no risk in buying, for every Rexall Store will return you your money if any Rexall Product is not entirely satisfactory and do it too, without the slightest objection.

There's a full list of Rexall products waiting for you at the Rexall Store in your town.

Ask for it—kindly pass the word along to your friends. It is the collective purchases of all that will make this Rexall Store Fund for the Canadian Patriotic Organization work a big one.

The Fund will be collected from each Rexall Store in Canada by the United Drug Company, Limited, Toronto, and will be paid by them direct to the officers of the Canadian Patriotic Organization, and the amount so collected will be published in this paper when paid over.

Csar Honors the Army

Previous to the war there had been two distinct systems for training officers. There was one school for the nobles, and another school for the rest of the cadets, and the result was that two distinct classes were turned out. The difference was abolished, and all the officers of the country were educated in the same school. Moreover, as soon as the salaries and pensions of officers were increased, the Csar copied the example set by Emperor William, and lost no opportunity of publicly referring to the army in terms of devotion and respect. On the St. Joe national forest 3,000,000 white pine seedlings have been planted this year, and some planting also has been done on the Clearwater, Selway, Pend Oreille and Kaniksu forests. The government, it is announced, will plant between 1,000,000 and 2,000,000 white pine seedlings at the experiment station at Haugan, Mont. It is said that reforestation experiments have been successful, in many cases 80 per cent of the seedlings planted having matured.

In addition to reforestation, a systematic plan of fire prevention has been developed. At intervals of five miles hard woods, such as maple and ash, are planted. These woods, it has been found, act as a well-nigh perfect fire barrier; and, when grown in strips, prevent any dangerous spread of fire.

During the last summer it is estimated that 1,000 men were on duty in northern Idaho patrolling the forests to prevent the spread of fire. Large timber holders in various parts of the district have organized timber protective associations and have been successful in keeping down fire losses. These organizations co-operate with the government to the end that duplication of patrol work may be avoided.

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 17—Novel methods of perpetuating the enormous stand of white pine in northern Idaho and western Montana have been adopted by the government forestry service. VALCARTIER CAMP

Discipline Was One of the Hardest Lessons Because of Make-up of Contingent

How the mobilization and training camp looked to the recruits when they are pouring in from all over Canada is told in October Canada Monthly by one of the Queen's Own men.

When the troops first arrived they were more or less, in the words of an energetic young officer, "a rabble," he says. Some had uniforms and sound boots. Some came in plain clothes. Some were well provided for. Many lacked necessary equipment. Some showed the effects of conscientious drill, others were raw recruits. It was necessary to turn this heterogeneous mass into a disciplined, trained, thoroughly equipped army.

Discipline was the most important point in military duty to be learned, and a many respects the hardest lesson of all. Life under conditions where every man is regarded as the equal of every other man, and where a peremptory command from a boss often ends in a "Go to hell" and a search for a new job, is not conducive to that instant and unquestioning obedience which is exacted in army life. In a good many cases men in the ranks were superior, mentally and physically, to the corporals and sergeants and commissioned officers whom they were expected to obey. For the first two or three days, "talking back" to officers was not uncommon. Then a change came. An order was issued to the effect that any man guilty

MILITARY MODES IN FAVOR

Miss America may be neutral in her attitude toward European affairs, but her attitude toward fashions is decidedly military.

One of the very popular models of the late fall season is a little-velvet cap of "Tommy Atkins" style with a tall white feather surmounting it like a cockade. Worn with a military cape, the small cap and tall feather give the maid a distinctly military appearance.

VELVET AND CLOTH

for general wear. Broad and velvet buttons for the decorative scheme.

Cloth known by the rather military title of olive drab combined with dark green velvet, makes this stylish costume. The waist is made in one with the tunic. The front is cut out to provide for an adjustable vest of linen or any other material. Bias folds of cloth or velvet may be used to trim the dress, if preferred to the braid here illustrated. Four yards of 38-inch velvet and 3 1/2 yards of 54-inch cloth are required for the making.

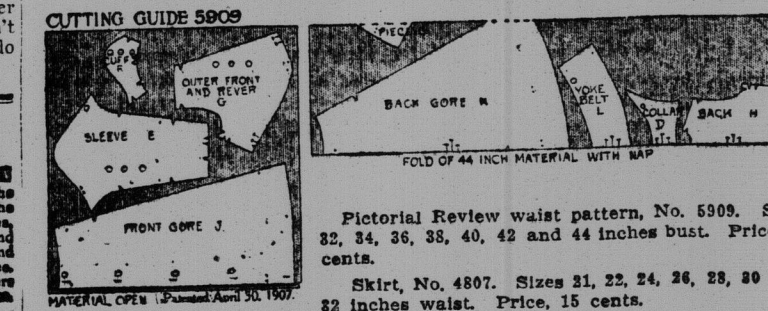

The cutting plays an important part in the development of the model. The front gore is laid on an open width of the cloth, the line of large "O" perforations running parallel with a lengthwise thread of the material. The outline of the front may be changed to a round or square shape by following single small "o" perforations. Outer front and revers, sleeves and cuffs are also cut from an open width of cloth. Lay carefully on a lengthwise fold of the goods the back gore, yoke, collar and back, before cutting. The plecing can be cut from the surplus cloth at the top of the back gore.

A few suggestions might be given regarding the construction of the tunic and yoke belt, as these may cause perplexity. For the tunic, turn under the front edge of front gore on slip perforation. Join gored and sew to lower edge of waist over stay, centers even. Adjust the belt to position, determining the center by small "o" perforations. The upper edge is marked by large "O" perforation. The belt is adjusted to upper edge of tunic without any fullness.

Finish with braid and buttons of velvet.

Buttons play an important part in the decoration of tailored and semi-tailored costumes this season. In addition to velvet and satin, celluloid is used, the buttons matching the color of the costume. Metal buttons also are extremely fashionable.

A clever combination of olive drab and green velvet made into a suit

RECENT DEATHS

The death of Mary, widow of John Doolin, occurred yesterday at the residence of M. E. Moorey, 108 Watson street, West End. The late Mrs. Doolin had made her home in the West End for upwards of twenty-five years, since the death of her husband, and enjoyed the friendship and high regard of a large circle of acquaintances to whom she had endeared herself by her intellectual qualities, sound judgment and warm, ready sympathy. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from her late residence to the Church of the Assumption.

Politeness in the Family

"How is it that a man can carry an umbrella over another man's wife more satisfactorily than he can over his own wife?"

He cannot. He just thinks he can because the other man's wife is too polite to tell him what she thinks of his clumsiness.

MILITARY CAPE-COAT HAS MANY USES

The military coat of navy blue with short scarlet lined cape is no longer a novelty, but even so it is losing none of its popularity.

As a coat for general use the broad-cloth "soldier cloak" is unequalled—it is heavy enough to make a comfortable storm coat, and it is handsome enough to be worn on formal occasions over an afternoon dress.

Albert, N. B., Oct. 18.—The hearing in the alleged poisoning case reached a conclusion at the police court yesterday morning. Downing, the accused, being sent up for trial at the coming session of the county court, which opens in the shiretown on Tuesday, October 27.

The hearing reopened on Thursday and continued Thursday evening and Friday and all Friday night till breakfast time Saturday morning, when court closed. The night was spent in cross-examining of the chief witness, Mrs. Johnston by Mr. Stuart, who appeared for the accused. BY ANNABELL TURNER
Instructor Home Economics, University of Wisconsin, Extension Division

A neglected speck of mildew has often spoiled a good tablecloth, and the little blue spots often ruin dresses, or undergarments of white cotton. It doesn't pay to neglect mildew, or in fact any of the stains or marks that are so often found in white clothes.

Some practical and easy applied ways to remove mildew and other stains are explained today by Miss Annabell Turner, University of Wisconsin.

It is not easy to remove mildew from clothing, but soaking the spots in some acid, such as lemon juice, vinegar or buttermilk or salt and then exposing to the

British Sink Four German Destroyers; Allies Win Important Land Battles

London, Oct. 17, 7.10 p. m.—The secretary of the British admiralty announces that the British light cruiser Undaunted, accompanied by the torpedo boat destroyers Lance, Lennox, Legion and Loyal, engaged four German torpedo boat destroyers off the Dutch coast this afternoon. All of the German destroyers were sunk.

The British cruiser Undaunted, a vessel of 3,800 tons, was commanded by Captain Cecil H. Roy, a survivor of the Amphion. She carries two 6-inch and six 4-inch guns. The destroyers that accompanied the cruiser have each an armament of three 4-inch guns and an equipment of four 21-inch torpedo tubes in pairs.

The German destroyers were each 250 feet in length, had a speed of 29 knots, and carried a crew of 100 men. It is understood that the destroyers attacked the cruiser Undaunted while the latter was on patrol and all were sunk following a very brief engagement.

London, Oct. 18, 12.21 a. m.—The admiralty announces that the British loss in the engagement on Saturday off the Dutch coast, in which four German torpedo boat destroyers were sunk, was one officer and four men wounded. The damage to the British destroyers was slight.

The announcement adds: "There are thirty-one German survivors, prisoners of war."

London, Oct. 18.—The sinking of the four warships Saturday makes six torpedo boat destroyers that have been sent to the bottom of the sea by British gun-fire since the beginning of the war, and seven, when the torpedo boat destroyer which was sunk by the submarine E-9 is counted.

In this number, and without counting the converted merchantmen such as the Kaiser Wilhelm Der Grosse and the Cap Trafalgar, the score now favors the allies, they having sunk six German and one Austrian cruiser and seven German torpedo boat destroyers, while there have been unconfirmed reports of the sinking of several Austrian destroyers in the Adriatic Sea.

The Germans have sunk seven British and one Russian cruiser, while Australia has lost a submarine by accident. The Russians also claim to have sunk two German submarines, but this the Germans deny.

Up to this afternoon Berlin had not heard officially of the sinking of the British cruiser Hawke, which was reported to have been sunk by the British on Oct. 16. The British cruiser Undaunted was commanded by Captain Cecil H. Fox, who commanded the cruiser Amphion which, after sinking the German armed cruiser Koenig Luise, was itself destroyed by a German mine on Aug. 6.

London, Oct. 18, 9.45 p. m.—Two important successes in the battle for Dunkirk and Calais, for the possession of which the Germans are striving, are credited to the Allies in the official communication issued in Paris this afternoon.

The French are said to have re-occupied Arrmentieres, an important railway junction on the Belgian frontier northwest of Lille, and to have repulsed an attempt of the Germans to cross the River Yser, which flows through that little corner of West Flanders, which is all of Belgium that remains in Belgian hands. This would mean a check to the German attempt to reach Dunkirk by the coast road.

The French also are said to have pushed back still farther the German army, which is advancing along the Belgian frontier to the coast. The battle which culminated in Arrmentieres again coming under French influence lasted for a week, during which the fighting was hard and continuous.

The town was seized by the Germans last week owing to its importance as a railway centre, lines diverging from it in all directions. Besides, it is on the road to Lille, which the Germans still hold, despite reports to the contrary. The battle opened with cavalry fighting, which gradually developed into a general battle, which indicates that the French are advancing in force toward Lille.

The Allies also have made an advance north of the La Basse Canal, between that line and Arras, and at certain points between Arras and the Oise. This latter is a rather long front but the claims in the French official communication are taken here to mean that the German movement westward has been checked. The Germans, however, are bringing up reinforcements, seemingly determined to resume the drive, either toward Calais or at some other point of the long front.

In the centre and in the Voges the situation is stationary. This is not taken here to mean that no fighting is taking place, and it is considered likely that the battle on the Alsace frontier, which has been going on for some days, has yet to reach its end.

The Germans have established civil administrations in the greater part of Belgium and are said to have demanded war levies from Ostend and Blankenberge—Ostend being called upon to pay $1,000,000, and Blankenberge to supply certain provisions for the coast and the interior.

As yet the Rumanians and the Austrians flatly contradicted one another as to the progress of events in the east. The Austrians claim that the operations are progressing favorably for them, while an official report from Petrograd received tonight says that attempts by the Austrians to cross the River San failed, and that in the fighting south of Przemysl, which took the form of a bayonet charge, they captured fifteen Austrian officers and 1,000 men.

It was reported from reports of correspondents at Petrograd that the Germans made repeated attempts to cross the Vistula at Josefow, but were driven back with heavy casualties. These correspondents say this fighting was part of the general attack on the Russian positions on the Vistula, and that they proved a failure.

The British and French fleets, and the Montenegrin army are carrying on an attack on Cattaro, the fortified seaport of Austria in Dalmatia, the first sortie from which the Montenegrins claimed to have repulsed.

Through their sphere of operations Serbian reports say the Serbians are sweeping everything before them. It is not believed here, however, that very serious fighting has been taking place recently, as the weather and the conditions of the roads must have been against it.

From the Battlefront, via Paris, Oct. 18, 11.41 p. m.—The allied weather has prevented the Germans from advancing along the coast, and have defeated their object of seizing the French channel ports.

The allies on Saturday advanced rapidly, and the British troops carried the important position of Fromelles to the southwest of Lille, after some very hard fighting.

Berlin, Oct. 17.—(By wireless to Saville, L. J.)—A British aeroplane has been brought to the ground near Peronne, France, by a well directed shot.

Both the airmen were taken prisoners. The aviator acting in the capacity of observer was later found to be Col. Grey, a brother of the British secretary for foreign affairs.

BRAVE DEEDS ON THE BATTLEFIELD

Young French Soldier Worthy of Victoria Cross

A THRILLING STORY

Carried Colonel to Safety, And, Going Back in Hail of Lead, Rescued an Englishman—Daring Feat by English Cyclist

The London Daily Chronicle publishes the following from its special correspondent at Angers under date of September 27:

"Jean Berger, 'simple soldier' of the 2nd Regiment of Infantry, should after the war, be Jean Berger, V. C. He is a Frenchman—yes, but listen to his story...

"Jean belongs to an old Alsatian family. After the war against Prussia his grandfather refused to submit to the rule of the conquerors...

"When war broke out two of the sons were already in the army, one as an officer and the father, calling to him the two boys who were not yet 16 years of age to be called upon by the military authorities...

"Jean joined the Second Regiment of Infantry which was soon under orders for Upper Alsace. Before it arrived at the scene of operations, however, fresh instructions were received and the Second went to operate with the English on the left...

"It was during one of the almost innumerable fights which, battles in themselves, are making up that Homeric struggle of the nations on the River Aisne that the colonel leading the gallant Second was shot down...

"Through Hail of Lead "As he was performing his glorious act he passed an officer of the Grenadier Guards wounded severely in the leg who called out for water...

"He put the colonel in the shelter of a trench where the Red Cross men were at work, procured some wine from one of the doctors, and set forth again to face the bullet showers...

"Reaching the English officer, Jean held up the flask to the wounded man's lips, but, before he could drink a bullet struck the young Frenchman in the hand...

"While he was doing so a bullet drilled Jean through the side. Yet, in spite of the intense pain, he managed to take off his knapsack and discovered some food, which he gave the English comrade...

"But what about yourself?" asked the officer. "Oh," replied Jean brightly, "it's not long since I had a good meal."

"The guardsman was eating, he and Jean discovered that near them was a stream intersected in every direction by hundreds of deep ditches, canals, sluggish streams and soggy marshes...

"Even if soldiers attempted to wade any distance they probably would be drowned in the hidden canals. It would be impossible to camp or have fires to prepare food, making the expedition hopeless...

"The Germans would probably invade Holland from Wesel and, making for Nymegen they would attempt a rapid dash on the southern provinces in the hope of forestalling the completion of the inundation...

"It should, of course, be remembered that the flooding of the country is a step which the Dutch can hardly be expected to take except as an absolutely final resort, because it is not by any means the enemy alone who would suffer...

"But independence has ever been the watchword to spur the sons of the fierce Batavians to deeds of self-sacrificing heroism, and the spell of that word is on them now...

actively engaged in elaborating plans for an immediate inundation of the country should the need for it arise. Nor would it be the first time in Holland's history that so drastic a step for safeguarding the nation's independence had been taken...

During the Spanish dominion it was by water chiefly that the Duke of Alva's enormous army was beaten and destroyed. The invasion under Louis XIV of France met with a similar fate...

There is now no intention on the part of the Dutch authorities to flood the country to the depth of seven or eight feet. The new defensive system avoids this waste of energy and of water...

Eighteen inches is the limit decided upon, and eighteen inches of water spread over an area of forty-five miles is calculated as being sufficient to render the forward march of an army absolutely impossible. It is too deep for wading and too shallow for swimming or crossing in boats. It is not anything like a level surface that will be covered, but land wounded German soldier, who, recovering from the delirium of wounds, was crying for food and drink. The Englishman, taking the flask, which had still some wine in it and also the remainder of the food from the Frenchman's knapsack, managed to roll himself along till he reached the spot where the German soldier lay. There, however, he found he was, by himself, too weak to give the poor fellow anything...

"So he stooped to Jean to come to his assistance, and, though movement could only be at the cost of great pain, the young Frenchman managed, too, to reach the place, and, together, Englishman and Frenchman, succored the dying German. One held him up while the other poured wine between his parched lips...

All Fall in a Heap. "Often human nature could stand no more and all three fell utterly exhausted, in a heap together. All through the long night, a night continuously broken by the roar of cannon, death watched over that strange sleeping place of the three comrades of three great warring nations...

"A detachment of soldiers passing near them aroused the English officer and the French soldier, whose German neighbor was dead, and for a long time they could only wonder how the day of battle was going. When the forenoon well advanced they saw Germans advancing...

"Jean, who can speak German, called out, 'We are thirsty, please give us something to drink.' He was heard by some officer of Uhlans, who rode up, and, dismounting and covering them with his revolver, asked what was the matter...

"We are thirsty," replied Jean. "The German looked at the little group. He saw his comrade lying dead with an empty flask beside him, and guessed what was the scene of comradeship and bravery which the spot had witnessed. He gave instructions to an orderly, and wine was brought and given to the two wounded men...

"Just then the cannonade burst forth again with tremendous fury, and the German force which had come up had to retire. Shells were soon bursting all around, and fragments struck the English officer. He became unconscious with pain, and the young Frenchman, stiff, feverish and weak himself, saw that it was necessary to do something to bring the officer to a place where he would be safe and would receive attention...

"Jean tried to lift the Englishman, but found that he had not sufficient strength left to take his comrade on his shoulder. So half lifting him and dragging and rolling him at times, the gallant little pion-pion brought the wounded English officer nearer and nearer to safety and help. The journey was two miles long! . . . But at last it was over...

May Get Victoria Cross "The two men came upon some trenches occupied by the Allied forces; they were recognized and taken in charge by an officer of the English Red Cross. They had both just enough strength left to shake hands and say good-bye...

"If I live through this," said the officer of the Guards, "I shall do my best to get you the British Victoria Cross. I've your number and that of your regiment. God bless you, comrade." And the Guardsman lost consciousness...

"Jean Berger lies in hospital here in Angers; he is expected to recover. "That is the story; and that is why I believe that England will think that Jean Berger, 'simple soldier' of the Second Regiment of Infantry, should become Jean Berger, V. C. . . .

"For the two nations have become one by blood shed and bravery displayed, and, in addition, a little incident which I can relate will show that there is evidence of a complete union of hearts...

In the British Expeditionary Force there is an English soldier, Force number 1, a cyclist corps, who is proud to wear his breast the 'Medaille Militaire' of the French Army...

"The story of the stirring incident has been told to me by Henri Roger, a young soldier of the Fifth Infantry, who saw it from the trenches and who is now lying wounded in the hospital here. "During one of the engagements last week on the River Aisne the Fifth was holding an entrenched position and was faced in the distance by a strong force of the enemy. To the right and left of the entrenched position were large clumps of trees, in one of which a force of English troops had taken up a position, a fact regarding which the Germans were unaware, the other Germans were uncovered, lay a considerable body of German infantry with several machine gun sections...

Cyclist Wins Decoration "A road ran beside the wood in which the enemy lay hidden, and along it a force of French infantry was seen to be marching. How were they to be saved from the ambush into which they were it was a difficult one...

"Every time the French troops in the trenches endeavored to signal to their comrades hidden German sharpshooters picked off the signaller. Soon the shouting seemed to be almost desperate every moment, the entrenched French soldiers expected to hear the hideous wail of the Maxim's moving down their unsuspecting comrades...

"Suddenly, however, something happened which attracted the attention of the French and German trenches. From the wood where the English lay hidden a cyclist dashed—the English too, had seen the danger, and a cyclist had been ordered to carry a message of warning to the advancing French column, several hundreds strong...

"The cyclist bent low in his saddle and darted forward; he had not gone a hundred yards before he fell, killed by a well aimed German bullet. A minute later another cyclist appeared only, in a second or two to share his comrade's fate...

"Then a third—the thing had to be done! The bullets whizzed around him, but on he went over the fire-swept zone. The Frenchmen could hear his breath as they watched the gallant cyclist speeding toward the French column; puffs of smoke from the wood where the Germans were redoubting their efforts. But the cyclist held on and soon passed beyond some high ground where he was sheltered from the Germans but could still be seen by the entrenched French...

"The Frenchmen could not resist a loud 'Hurrah!' when they saw the daring cyclist dismount on reaching the officer in command of the troops which he had dared death to save. "The officer heard the message and took in the position at a glance. He gave an order; the two instantly, and turned to the Englishman...

"There was a fine but simple battle picture which should live. "The deed which had saved hundreds of lives was one of those which bring glory as of old back to the horror of modern warfare. Courage, and courage alone, had triumphed, unsupported by any of the murderous machinery of the armies of today.

"That was what the French officer recognized. He saluted the gallant fellow standing by the cycle. Then, with a simple movement, took the 'medaille militaire'—the Victoria Cross of France—from his own tunic and pinned it on the coat of the Englishman.

"I am glad young Roger told me when he had finished the story, 'to have lived to see that deed. It was glorious.'"

What Happened to the Cats?

Not long ago the U. S. Gov't. made some experiments to determine the poisoning qualities of caffeine (the drug in tea and coffee).

Twenty-seven healthy cats were given an average dose of 54.5 grains of caffeine—about as much of the drug as is contained in 2 or 3 cups of tea or coffee.

What do you suppose happened?

The Cats all Died!

See Gov't. Bulletin No. 148, Bureau of Chemistry.

Of course they were only cats.

But there are plenty of people who dose themselves with enough caffeine every day to kill a cat and Cripple a Man, not at one blow, but by little blows repeated daily.

Of course some systems are strong enough to stand all kinds of abuse, but most systems are not. And when a man or woman observes a growing nervousness or sleeplessness, heart trouble, stomach, bowel or eye disturbance, it is time to quit both tea and coffee and turn to a real food-drink, free from the drug, "caffeine."

It is easy to shift from tea or coffee to

Belgian Parcels to Go Forward on Nova Scotia Steamer—Further Contributions To Both Funds

Owing to the announcement that the provincial government is undertaking relief work for the Belgians and will look after the forwarding of the contributions, the local committee was in doubt today regarding their next steps. A large quantity of material is on hand, and they had planned to send it forward to Halifax on Wednesday evening to go forward with the Nova Scotia government's steamer. This morning the heads of the committee got in touch with representatives of the government and, after consultation, decided to let the goods go forward as planned, so as to save delay, as they were advised that it would be some time before the New Brunswick shipment could be arranged for. In the meantime the need is pressing and it was thought better to send the goods along instead of risking any more delay than is necessary.

LOCAL NEWS

RECEIVED FOBS.
Very attractive souvenirs of their success as baseball players have been received by the members of the Thistles, of North End, champions in the St. Peter's League. The souvenirs are in the form of watch fobs, nicely designed and were presented by the A. J. Roach Co., of Philadelphia.

SUSSEX DONATIONS
A. S. Barnstead, secretary of the Nova Scotia Belgian Relief Fund, writes from Halifax that his committee wishes to acknowledge the receipt of eight cases of clothing, nine barrels of potatoes and two cases of beans and peas, received from the parishioners of the Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist, and Episcopalian churches of Sussex, N. B.

ROBBED IN BOSTON

Thief Got $30 From R. A. Johnston in Street Car
Robert A. Johnston, well known printer and pressman, was robbed of a pocketbook containing $30 in a Boston car last week. Mr. Johnston, with Mrs. Johnston, went to Boston to visit their son, Robert. While standing in a crowded street car Mr. Johnston felt a hand in his pocket. The thief rushed off the car, but the alarm was given and the pursuer caught him, however, in getting away with the money.

COMMON COUNCIL

The weekly meeting of the common council is due this afternoon although there is but little business to come before the commissioners. As a mark of respect to a former member of the council His Worship the mayor attended the funeral of T. Barclay Robinson and on this account the meeting of the council probably will be delayed until four o'clock.

CONFIRMATION

In St. Peter's church yesterday afternoon His Lordship Bishop LeBlanc administered the sacrament of confirmation to 190 boys and girls, and twelve adults. He was assisted by Rev. Hector Belliveau and Rev. A. J. O'Neill of Silver Falls. The latter gave a forceful sermon in which he was followed with keen interest. There was a large congregation present. As His Lordship passed into the church an escort from the men of the parish was provided in his honor.

CONSTABLE CASE

Fredrick Selby gave evidence this morning in the case against Constable George Blair charged with standing on the corner of Charlotte and North Market streets and not moving on when requested to do so by Policeman McLeese. He said that he had been with Blair nearly all evening and left him before nine o'clock. The case was adjourned until the afternoon when an assault charge laid by Dr. W. B. Campbell against the policeman will also be taken up.

BOYS ARRESTED

Two boys, one aged ten and the other twelve, were brought before Magistrate Ritchie in the juvenile court this morning to face charges of stealing lumber and nails from the property of Beverly & Millidge, and Mrs. Powers in Cranston avenue. The fathers of the boys were not in court, although they had been notified to appear and the magistrate told the boys that they would have to be remanded until their fathers were present. He told them that besides being liable to be imprisoned themselves, their parents would be liable to be fined for their actions. The elder boy has already a record in police circles. Both were arrested by Policeman George Briggs.
