INSURANCE CO. LOSES VERDICT

Court Case Over a $50,000 Policy on Life of a Toronto Man.

Toronto, April 4.—In December 1918 the Mutual Insurance Company of New York issued to Frederick Joseph Schuch of Toronto, president of the Ontario Metal Products Co., Ltd., a $50,000 policy payable to his business. On March 1, 1920, after paying two premiums of $1,125 each, Schuch went into the hospital. An operation had been commenced when the surgeons discovered cancerous growths and realized that if they proceeded the patient would die on the operating table in any event he could live only a few days. He died on April 8.

The company disputed liability under the policy on the ground that an- had concealed when the surgeons discovered cancerous growths and realized that if they proceeded the patient would die on the operating table in any event he could live only a few days. He died on April 8.

Mr. Justice Magee has given judgment holding the Ontario Metal Products Co. entitled to judgment for $50,000, with interest from the date of proof of death, and costs. It is held that non-statement of the fact that Schuch had constantly had hypodermic injections for a nervous and run down condition was not a material misrepresentation.

HON. DR. ROBERTS ON BUDGET TODAY

Liquor Warehouse Decision Likely to be Deferred

Proposal to Permit Drug Stores to Employ Certified Clerks is Before Committee—Banquet for Premier Veniot.

(Special to The Times.) Fredericton, N. B., April 4.—Hon. Dr. W. F. Roberts will speak in the Legislature this afternoon, when the debate on the budget is resumed. He will be followed by A. Chase Fawcett, Progressive leader, and Mr. Hunter, Conservative. Mr. Fawcett's resolution calling for the abolition of the liquor export warehouses in the province is also in the order paper for this afternoon, but Hon. A. A. Dymart, the Speaker, is likely to defer until tomorrow his ruling as to whether the resolution is in order.

The committee on laws and practice this morning considered a bill offered by the New Brunswick Pharmaceutical Society. A new feature in it is that it seeks to create a status known as that of "certified clerk." A certified clerk might compound prescription under the general supervision of a registered druggist. The bill seeks to legalize what is already the practice in many cases. The certified clerk would have to pass an examination of his own work to satisfy the council of the society. The bill is expected to pass in the course of the afternoon.

Hon. P. J. Veniot is to be the guest of honor this evening at a banquet to be given in the Barker House by the Ontario and Dominion governments.

Seven other members of the House of Assembly are Knights of Columbus. Hon. J. P. Byrne, Attorney General; Hon. J. E. Michaud, Dr. S. R. Legere, C. K. Morrissey, W. E. Scully and Dr. L. J. Violette.

Rev. M. T. Murphy of Milltown, who was the first chaplain of the Legislature, is here to attend. There are also numerous other guests from outside points.

WHAT DID HON. MR. FOSTER MEAN? Fredericton, N. B., April 4.—There is much speculation about the significance of the statement by Hon. Walter E. Foster yesterday when in defending the administration of the prohibition act during his term of office as Premier, he said: "There may be an opportunity to declare ourselves on something regarding prohibition in this province."

No one in authority has yet been found who would explain what the true meaning of the statement is. One conjecture is that there will be another prohibition.

Decides Against Relief of Obligation Under Musquash Contract—The Other Proposal to be Considered Today.

BOND ISSUE FOR LIGHT SYSTEM FURTHER DELAYED

When the matter of a recommendation from the Civic Power Commission regarding the installation of an ornamental street lighting system and the purchase of switching equipment was before the Common Council yesterday afternoon Commissioner Thornton took occasion to criticize the work of the Commission. He charged that it was acting without authority, owing to the fact that there was a vacancy. He maintained that the articles creating the Commission called for a stated number of members. One of them had resigned and the Commission had gone on transacting business.

The City Council yesterday afternoon rejected the proposition made by the New Brunswick Power Company to assume the obligations of the city in its contract with the N. B. Electric Power Commission for Musquash current. A second proposal that the company purchase the energy from the city will be considered this afternoon.

Speak's colorful setting of Kipling's "The Wreck of the Hesperus" in the "The Wreck of the Hesperus" and one of the new popular negro cantata "The Wreck of the Hesperus" entitled "How It Rained." Another delightful cantata by Lawrence was that old favorite, "Rolling Down to Rio." Refinement and artistry characterized the all the program programming for the Imperial instrumentalists in chosen selections under real concert conditions was more than ordinarily enjoyable. St. John is justified in its pride of this band. Director Jones was in charge of the program, and he accepted to all the demands for more selections, although he did respond with a little concert. Mr. Lawrence, who has been heard on several occasions in concerts here and is a member of Trinity choir, is a splendid baritone and sang his numbers with musical culture and due appreciation of the varied types. He is to appear in a subsequent concert at the Imperial as are Mrs. S. Kent Scott, Miss Beryl Blanch, pianist, and the St. John Choral Society, Mrs. E. J. Gunn, violinist, Mrs. Louis Lecheir and others. The Imperial's effort is a sincere one.

Montreal, April 3.—By a vote of 23 to 11 the City Council this afternoon decided against the adoption of daylight time for the coming season.

WIFE ON STAND.

In the case of John Sargson vs. Smith E. Gordon of Belleisle on an action for $5,000 for alleged alienation of the affections of his wife, the case of the plaintiff was finished and the defence begun before Chief Justice McKewen in the Circuit Court yesterday. The direct evidence of the plaintiff was concluded in the afternoon session and he was cross-examined by E. P. Raymond for the defence. The testimony of Mrs. Charles Murphy of the plaintiff was given in the afternoon. Raymond called Mrs. Helen Sargson, city was taken. For the defence, Mr. Raymond called Mrs. Helen Sargson, wife of the plaintiff, but Daniel Mullin, K. C., for the plaintiff, objected that she was not a competent witness against her husband. As there were no other witnesses, the court adjourned until this morning.

A chimney fire in Lombard street gave the firemen a run about 8:15 last night, in response to an alarm from box 153. There was no damage.

The Evening Times and Star

ST. JOHN, N. B., APRIL 4, 1923. The St. John Evening Times is printed at 27 and 29 Canterbury street, every evening (except Sundays) by The St. John Times Printing and Publishing Co., Ltd., a company incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act.

GET ON WITH THE WORK

When did the Federal Light and Traction Company of New York turn philanthropist?

It is here to get interest and dividends on $2,000,000, along with a return on whatever it paid for the common stock of the New Brunswick Power Company—and any pickings that may be within reach as time goes on.

One was almost tempted to regret being compelled to live in this doomed city as one and another of the delegation at City Hall yesterday afternoon painted the city's future in awful shades of gloom—unless it handed over the Musquash current to the Federal Light and Traction Company.

There is no need to say that the power is not at Musquash in sufficient quantity; that it will not be constant; that it is not too much money that public ownership is a failure; that the Civic Power Commission is not competent; that if the city competes with the company in electrical energy the gas will not come down and the street car fares will go up; that competition spells high taxation if not ruin; that the street railway extension to Lily Lake, the continuation of that priceless bond, the possible realization of the dream of a new city on the Millidgeville road; the golden key to greater progress; and the end of the horrible nightmare of competition and taxation.

Let this glorious picture should fail to attract attention a shock was administered to focus the universal gaze upon it. If the city refused to hang the picture on its walls up would go the street car fares, to add to the terrors of taxation, and by inference the ten new cars might go elsewhere. And there you are.

But while Mr. Sanderson and others are telling about the wonderful things the Federal Light and Traction Company would do, they neglected to stress the fact that while pouring these benedictions upon a happy people they would be gathering in the interest and dividends on well up to four million dollars. They have great faith in Musquash. Shall the people of St. John have less?

The City Council did not need to waste time, but to bring the matter to a head this afternoon. Indeed the Council threw out the proposition made when it turned down the sub-section which provided for handling over the Musquash current to the company; for the second sub-section, "to purchase energy from the city in such quantity as the city is required to take and pay for" means the whole amount contracted for by the city, and that would give the company control of the distribution. The people have three times as much power as they would have had if the system was not for sale. As to threats of higher street car fares, the city can cross that bridge when it comes to it, and may even have something to say about the quality of the service for which it pays.

Mayor Fisher exposed the real purpose of the Power Company's latest drive when he pointed out that they were after interest and dividends on $2,000,000 and a return on what the Federal Light and Traction paid for control of the Musquash current.

What the Federal Light and Traction Company wants from St. John is a fat return on a capitalization of $2,000,000. Does any citizen believe that much real money is invested? Give the company control of Musquash or the distribution of the current and it will have the city by the throat again.

The real get-together that is needed in St. John is one that would inspire those who are now shedding gloom to have a little more faith in themselves and their city. They really do not need the Power Company as a crutch to lean upon.

If with control of Musquash the Power Company can do so much, the value of Musquash becomes all the more obvious. What we have we hold.

DO THE PEOPLE RULE, OR NOT?

A public meeting in the interests of the New Brunswick Power Company is to be held this evening. It is called by citizens who are opposed to a civic distribution system. Some of them perhaps are interested in the Power Company. Some are avowed enemies of public ownership. All of them apparently want the city to surrender to the company, as the latter has declined to sell its distribution system, and the only offer made is one that would hand over to the company the distribution of hydro.

All this talk about getting together and co-operating merely means handing the Musquash current over to the Power Company and confining the city to its own affairs. Three times the people have declared their purpose. They are now told that they are not competent to judge in such matters and that their will must prevail. Slighting references were made to them at the City Hall meeting yesterday. Commissioner Frink pointedly referred to when he said: "Why should I stand up here and say that fifteen hundred of my fellow citizens are merely imps and mountebanks?" The fifteen hundred were merely the majority. Aspirations cast upon that number are also cast upon all who voted for the Fisher plan. And these aspirations are cast in the face of the fact that the action taken by the people has already brought down the price of light and power until one of the gentlemen responsible for tonight's meeting admitted yesterday that his bill had been cut in two.

The "inspiration" that was accomplished that much, in the teeth of the bitter opposition of those who are now clamoring to have the Power Company put back in the saddle.

It is useless to attempt to argue that the action now sought by the Power Company advocates is in the best interests of the city. Entirely too much is being made of the dangers of competition. The city can sell all the power it has contracted to take from Musquash, whether there is competition or not. If there is to be competition what St. John man will care to stand up before his fellow citizens and tell them they will be beaten?

The people are not losing sight of the real meaning of this agitation. It should succeed they would gain by it. If it fails, it is to be competition what St. John man will care to stand up before his fellow citizens and tell them they will be beaten?

There must be no delay. The city begins to pay for the Musquash current on May 1st. Mr. Sanderson blandly assures us that the company will assume that responsibility if—what? If his company gets its own way. That is the milk in the coconut. The proposition of offers he makes is the best that Britain get out of the deal. He would rely on his own astuteness to make fat profits for the company as soon as that control was assured. The course of the City Council is clear. It must get on with the civic distribution system.

WHAT THEY HAVE PROVED

If the Power Company can do all the things it says it can, and return a profit to those who have money invested in its securities, how much better can the city carry them out than it is not compelled to "take from the city" more than is necessary for the actual cost of the service?

This new message from the Power Company is a most complete endorsement of the Musquash development, an unintended announcement that the power at cost is even now at hand, and an undeniable acknowledgment that the new rates which the company made effective on January 1 can be still further reduced when the necessity of paying therefrom fat profits has ceased to exist.

Every day and with every new move of the Power Company comes the fuller realization that the citizens' action in voting for power at cost was a move in the right direction. All that is needed is steadfast resolve to see the thing through to the end. The crucial period in the history of the city is now being passed, and, with the rights of the people carefully guarded, there is bound to follow increased prosperity, better service and a more contented citizenship.

We are told the city now has to deal with new owners of the New Brunswick Power Company. But the same old watered stock is there.

In the Fairview Methodist church yesterday afternoon the Louise Lewin Mission Band met with Miss Muriel Kirkpatrick presiding. Miss Hennigar gave a very interesting and helpful address on the Japanese mission problem, speaking from experience. Her address occupied forty-five minutes at the conclusion of which refreshments were served.

Her Play—Behold, man, the superior—ah—animal! Well, don't glare, my dear—you are forever patiently explaining to me that man is the superior animal. I am only repeating your own expression, you know! I can't help but wonder, though, where you men get that superior idea. Why, for example, does a man have a really profound aversion to the true comradeship of a woman? He wants a woman to either be a toy or a tyrant—you know that's the truth. A man is willing that a woman should be either his superior or his vassal—but he will never bring himself to consider her as a real equal, a comrade. Well, I'm waiting for your defence.

I can't help but wonder, though, where you men get that superior idea. Why, for example, does a man have a really profound aversion to the true comradeship of a woman? THE RETURN OF RELIGION.

(New York Tribune.) Statistics standing alone long ago lost their power to convince, but common observation confirms the declaration of the Federal Council of Churches that the religious bodies of America made an unprecedented growth last year. It is a matter easy to ascertain abroad in the land. It would be natural to find it reflected in the figures of church membership.

Such were the terms in the outlook of mankind are hard to judge justly from a near view. A long perspective will be needed before it will be possible to say with assurance why this return of religious interest came in the year following the war—or what it will lead to. The most that can be done now is to note the facts and suggest possible explanations between which time must select the true from the false.

Undoubtedly the great emotional explosion accompanying the war played a considerable part in the change. For all the pacifists and the men of spirit the war meant a stirring of deep primitive emotions, of righteous wrath of devotion to the general welfare, of sacrifice. Out of such a sudden release from the ordinary life of all anything might leap.

But it may well be doubted whether the war was not the real cause. For religion and whether it would not have come in some degree, war or no war, the dry, dusty rationalism of the nineteenth century could not long satisfy man. In his excitement over the marvelous strides of science and invention he became puffed up with pride in his reason and over-confident as to its scope and achievement. He forgot the vast spaces of his ignorance in fixing his eyes upon the small point of light therein.

From such an excess there was bound to be a reaction. That the war was only the real cause is suggested by the fact that the reaction came in the year following the war—or what it will lead to. The most that can be done now is to note the facts and suggest possible explanations between which time must select the true from the false.

THE RIDDLE OF THE SPINNING WHEEL

Being An Exploit in the Career of Hamilton Cleek, Detective. By MARY E. AND THOMAS W. HANSEW

(Continued from yesterday) Cleek sucked in his breath and, half-crouching, half-running, sped after her. What if the men had seen! He glanced back quickly over his shoulder, and then redoubled his pace. For, of a sudden, with the speed of a lightning-flash every flare in that valley had gone out—suffice it to say that. Every voice had dropped to stillness, and the night was a hideous thing of running footsteps, pattering, he knew only too well, up the hillside after them—those watchers who had seen the secret of the night, and tomorrow might give it forth to an unsuspecting world. Their lives wouldn't be worth much if this crew caught them, that was certain. Panting, he reached her side, caught hold of her elbow, and pinning it close to his fingers hurried her forward, every faculty alert, every nerve a-tremble. Her panting breath was like the breath of a spent runner; she wouldn't last far in those high heels, he knew; the going was too hard. It was only a matter of time now. The hurrying footsteps seemed to be coming nearer and nearer. He bent his face down to hers. "The motor-car? Where?" he said in a quick, panting voice. She managed to stammer out a reply, stumbling feet falling over the rough ground, tripping in clumps of heather, brushing themselves against harsh stones. "In the lane—beyond—over there. I've been a fool—leave me and go yourself!" she panted out in disjointed sentences that were ringing with despair. "Never! We'll get there yet. Gather up your skirts. God! you're coming!" It was his own voice that spoke to her, and for a sudden moment he had forgotten the part he played in the exigencies of this distressing situation. He heard her gasp suddenly, and started eyes up into his face, and then away against him, and realized his folly—too late. The shock of the thing had unnerfed her. In the darkness she could not see his face clearly, but the voice had been—different. He'd brought the whole structure about his ears by one foolish momentary mistake. Then quite suddenly she fainted against him. "Fool!" he apostrophized himself. "Blind fool!" and stopping instantly, caught her up in his arms just as she lane hove in sight, and throwing her across his shoulder, took the added burden in his best athletic fashion, and ran.

CHAPTER XXV The Man in the Black Mask They reached the motor only just in the nick of time, for already the darkness behind them was reat with cries of "There they are!" Head them off in your mad pursuit of Ross Duggan. What made you think I was he?" "I don't know. Only I had followed him from the castle down the lane, and then lost sight of him at the edge of the little burn which skirts that particular valley. And then I saw you. And somehow, to my untrained eyes in the darkness, you looked like him—perhaps I was so anxious to find him that I willed myself unconsciously to think that you were he—but he that as it may, I made the proper judgment, and you will meet out justice in a proper, unprejudiced fashion. "But Ross—you think he is guilty?" "Who knows? Time alone will tell. And his innocence will be better proved if he is not urged to fly away from the outcome of his actions. I must ask you, too, a favour. Rather, I must exact a promise. Please leave Ross Duggan alone until after tomorrow. "And then?" "If I know aught of anything, he will be beyond the power of my assistance—and perhaps not in need of it," he replied quietly. "Here is the wicket-gate that the tradesmen use, I believe, and get back to the house as quickly as you can. I'll give you orders to the chauffeur." She got out unsteadily, and then stood looking up at him, her eyes glowing darkly in the frame of her pale, serious face. And you won't tell me who your for Aygon Castle—as quick as you can!" he gave out in his sharp staccato of excitement. "And the quicker the better! There's trouble here, and if those men catch up with us tonight, I'll not answer for the lady's safety." "Yes, sir." Then with a white and a whirr the car was off, rocketing down the lane and taking the corners upon two wheels so that Cleek had hardly a breath left in his body, and the rush of air that swept them as they sped away began to revive the unconscious form of Catherine Dorr who lay upon the seat beside him. A drop of brandy, rather uncertainly administered because of the darkness and the jolting car, revived her still more, and in another moment she had opened her eyes and let them dwell upon his face. In the darkness they glowed like two lamps. And her face was very frightened. "My God! Not Ross!" she broke out uncertainly, shutting her hands together across her breast in her agitation. "Then—who are you?" "Who knows?" he responded with a touch of gallantry. "It was your mistake in the first place, remember, not mine. A friend in need, perhaps, who has been able to save you from the consequences of a very foolish action. You know what those men were doing?" She shook her head dumbly. "Then you will learn tomorrow from the lips of a man whom you have learned to distrust, because he has proved more than a match for you already. That is so, isn't it? You, Mr. Duggan, up at the castle. From what I heard, you have broken parole, and to do that—"

are? Something—somehow—seems familiar about you, but I cannot place it. You won't help me?" "Better let this night's doings be buried in the Limbo of Forgotten Things, dear lady," he said, his hand resting for a moment upon her shoulder. "And if you know not who the shaver of your hair is, adventure may be, surely it is better that way. Good-night and goodbye. You will keep your promise?" "Of course. Thank you for what you have done." "That is nothing. Good-night." Like a shadow she was fleeing up the wide drive, her feet barely making any sound upon it; then, even as she disappeared from view, Cleek turned swiftly to the chauffeur who sat in the front seat of the car, goggles hiding his eyes from view, and clapped him upon the shoulder. "Well done! Well done!" he rapped out with a soft laugh. "I thought it was your merrit, my friend. You saved my life, and your courage and your little bundle of indefatigability! How did you do it? Deuced keen of you, I must say!" Dollops grinned, and slipped his goggles from his pocket. "Yes," he returned, with a vigorous nod. "I caught the signal on right. So I listens, and then I makes a little plan all on my ownessome. 'The Guy's' up to summink," says I fer me, 'an' I'll lay 'e wants me ter tyke a little 'and.' And so I ups and makes fer the road, and there I find the shaver 'a-waitin' in this 'ere little snortin' machine. "Large as life and twice as nat'ral. 'Now, then, me lad,' I says ter me, 'git on the right side of me, an' if yer can't git on the right side git on the wrong side, s' long as yer gits 'im out of 'is seat.' But a couple er hob to a Scotsman is as big as a legacy, sir, an' I puts 'im strite wiv a message from me. 'Snoopy along an' send a wire ter town,' says I, 'Comin' later in the day, wait fer me, an' address it ter the Commander-in-Chief of the General Post Office, Lannoon.' An' he looks at me an' swallows the gaff like as it were plumage, and come 'er larked, sir—strite I could! And I gives 'im the tip ter get a drink, and before I'd finished speakin' 'e'd gone. "That little distance of a quarter of a mile might 'ave done for yer entire—an' I weren't tykin' no risks," he replied heavily. "An' if anyfink was to 'appen to you sir—well, it's me fer the river; for you kin wink an eye-lash. Dollops ain't a-stayin' 'ere wiv you on the upper side of the sky, sir, an' don't you make no mistake abait that. Where yer come, I goes, too—if it's to 'eaven or 'ell. An' I'm thinkin' I know the w'y the angels'll tyke you." "Well, they're not taking me yet, dear lad, so don't worry your ginger head about it," returned Cleek, with a little gulp of emotion for so staunch an adherent as this wisp of Cockney-donn who stood before him. "But it's friends like you and women like Miss Lorne that keep a man straight and strong and true, and don't let him turn down the wrong path instead of the right. Come, now, there's still more work to be done. Mr. Narkom will be waiting, and I told him midnight under the big gate. Slip up if you can see the coast lies."

Dollops disappeared forthwith, and it was but a moment or two later that he returned in company with the Superintendent looking a little round-eyed and scared until he saw Cleek standing in the shadow of the big gate, and going up to him flung an arm about his shoulders. "You've frightened me into forty bits and out of 'em again," he cried with a little sigh of relief, "for I'd made up my mind that something had happened, and was on the way down here to see if you'd kept your appointment, and if you hadn't—well, every man-jack of 'em at the house would have made an all-night search for you, till we'd found you, Cleek." "And now that you have, you bundle of fustian, you see I am still all of a piece and, as Dollops says, as large as life and twice as natural," returned Cleek with a smile. "God, but there's not much moon about now, is there? And it will be dark work climbing—" long chalk. I'll tell you all about it later on, when there's more time and less chance of being overheard. Now, then, step softly, you two. If there's any one there, we don't want to let 'em think an army's approaching. You gave Inspector Petrie the word if we needed him? That I'd ring Rhea's bell in case of immediate help required?" "Of course. And that one toll would mean one man, and two tolls, three; and three tolls, as many as they could spare from the duty of guarding the house and letting no one go out or in." "And they've already let almost every inmate of the place roam about at their leisure this night—to prove their trustworthiness!" threw in Cleek, with a short laugh. "A fine lot of disciplinarians up in this part of the world, I must say—though of course the country's difficult, and you want about fifty men up here to one in London. I'll have a word with the Inspector before I leave—with your permission, Mr. Narkom." "Certainly." "Well, get along now, Dollops. You stand here under the gate, and keep watch toward the castle; Mr. Narkom, you stand here, and guard the road-end, and make the usual signal of a night owl's hoot if you see any one approaching. I'll slip on my rubber sand-shoes to grip with, and slip in up a momenting the action to the word, that was practically what he did do—though the climb up there in the darkness was certainly more than monetary. For with no light and very little moon it was a more difficult task than Cleek had anticipated, and he had to tread carefully to avoid slipping on the narrow shelves of stone and iron that girt it about. Up, up, he went, like some dark grey crawling across the face of the night, and so close against the wall, that his hearts in their mouths at sight of his perilous progress (which at times they could not follow for the pitchy darkness, and knew not if he were safe or not), those moments seemed hours indeed. But Cleek had been in tighter corners and more difficult places than this in the course of an adventurous lifetime, and the noise and siveness of the man were amusing. Up, and along the stone parapet of the wall, he went, and he did not look back a little and look up at the night sky like a monstrous splosh of black ink in a lake of indigo-blue. He knelt cautiously upon one knee, preparatory to whipping out his electric torch, and even as he did so, he heard the sound of other footsteps stealing round from the other side and coming toward him with the tread of a cat. Instantly he stopped short—stock still, as though made out of marble, and leaned back against the parapet, while those sliding, soft, creeping, cat-like footsteps came steadily on. He became conscious of a black shape, slim as a woman's, against the midnight sky, that moved with panther-like precision across the face of the parapet. He could actually hear that other person's laboured breaths, and as the thing steadily approached, he felt it fan against his cheek. If Cleek had been in a less precarious position, the soul of the man would have relieved itself by laughing outright. For the situation seemed almost funny. But there was no time for humour. The moment he stirred and made himself known, upon that moment the creature wheeled and whatever it was—would pounce upon him, and dash them both down to sure death upon the stone below, and in full sight of the Superintendent's watching eyes. But what to do if he stayed where he was? Detection was certain in any case. There remained only a moment of moments before it actually would come. And in that moment, to be prepared for—what? The creature came on steadily, picking its way stealthily as a cat across the rugged stone parapet upon which Rhea stood, until it stopped a few inches away from him, face averted, one tense hand clinging to the vertical edge of the parapet, the other, spitting out furiously and clawing and scratching with his free hand to gain hold of the other. Your own doctor will approve of this principle—The only way to relieve constipation permanently. Seventy-five millions of dollars spent last year for cathartics and purgatives! Yet such drugs not only cannot cure constipation—they actually increase the trouble. At last we are realizing that only by strengthening the weakened intestinal muscles and gently encouraging them to act themselves can we get rid of constipation and all the ills which come from it. That is why so many physicians and hospitals are prescribing Fleischmann's Yeast today. Every cake consists of millions of tiny living plants, which soften and increase the bulk of our concentrated modern diet, and gently encourage the muscles to do their work. Every such action of the intestines gives the muscles normal, natural exercise and so gradually trains them back to healthy activity. Your own physician will heartily endorse this principle as the only way to relieve constipation successfully and permanently. Be sure you get Fleischmann's Yeast—yeast in its natural fresh form. Recent experiments have shown that yeast corrects constipation only when its cells are alive and active, and that it loses its laxative effect when these cells are "killed" and dried. Thousands of men and women the country over are eating Fleischmann's Yeast regularly—and finding it the key to such health and vigor as they have never known. Only a body free of poisons can enjoy the vigorous health which is every human being's birthright. Fleischmann's Yeast is in no sense a purgative, and produces no immediate violent action. It is a nourishing food—not a digestion-disturbing medicine—and like any other food, it must be eaten regularly to secure results. Eat two or three cakes a day—plain or dissolved in water, milk or fruit juices—preferably half an hour before a meal or the last thing at night. Get several cakes at a time—they will keep several days in a cool, dry place. Be sure you get Fleischmann's Yeast! All grocers have it. Send for free booklet, "The New Found Value of Fleischmann's Yeast in Building Health." The Fleischmann Company, 208 Simcoe Street, Toronto, Ont. "Constipated for 20 years—" A man in Stratford, Conn., had long been troubled with constipation and boils. "I have had to take physics for the last 20 years once a week," he writes. "I started to take yeast about two months ago and I am as regular as clockwork without physics ever since and my face is perfectly clear."

NEGRO THROWS BULL IN STREET

Animal Runs Wild in Baltimore, Frightening Hundreds of Women Shoppers

Baltimore, April 4.—Charging through Saturday afternoon crowds, a bull ran wild in the heart of the shopping district last week, spreading terror among hundreds of women shoppers and pedestrians. Many of the women ran screaming for shelter and the men joined in the chase of the animal. Several blocks away the bull was grabbed by the horns by a negro and thrown.

One of the pursuers was George Penkowitz, who ran out from a store hatless and coatless, but wearing a white apron and made a desperate effort to stop the bull. He grabbed the bull by the tail and got such a good grip that he held on for four blocks as the animal dashed from side to side in the street.

At the end of four blocks the bull threw Penkowitz against a curb and he lost his hold, but Penkowitz did not give up the chase. He was in the lead when the negro threw the animal and the chase ended with Penkowitz sitting on the bull's back. The negro sat on the bull's neck until the crowd came up.

WHEN YOUR BODY ACHES AND PAINS

THERMOGENE is a light, dry, medicated wool which generates heat when applied to the human body. It provides the quickest and most convenient way to treat pain caused by colds and chills. An aching knee, a sore throat, a stiff back, or a throbbing muscle is at once relieved by applying a pad of THERMOGENE.

Your Doctor will recommend THERMOGENE.

WOMAN THOUGHT TO HAVE BEEN POOR

Woman Thought to Have Been Poor Also Had $9,000 in Banks

Porchtown, N. J., April 4.—When relatives found money sewed up in the clothes of Mrs. John Cassidy, seventy-nine years old, who died on a farm near here three weeks ago, apparently in poor circumstances, they began a search of the premises.

It was announced that gold and sum of money have been found buried in various places about the farm. She also had kept secret from her family deposits of nearly $9,000 in different banks.

The Transformation she effected in two days

THE young housekeeper had an inspiration. She would make the little sun-room into a breakfast room. It would be more cheerful on dull mornings. Of course it must have enamelled furniture. A happy, sun-breakfast-room simply demanded gay, light-hearted furniture. Could she enamel it herself? She could—and she did. And because she wisely used Luxeberry Enamel the result was a joy to behold. Luxeberry Enamel makes success certain. It gives a glowing, pearl-like lustre that radiates sunshine, instead of the icy glare of other enamels. Luxeberry White Enamel is snow white perfection—the pure white that stays white. And it is easily kept immaculate by a damp cloth. Luxeberry also comes in ivory, cream, French grey and other colors, which can be blended to make any shade desired, light or dark. It is the ideal finish for wood, metal, plaster or cement.

SUES JUSTICE PAGE, CLAIMING OLD DEBT

Cousin Accuses Him of Refusing to Repay Money Left in His Care More Than 80 Years Ago.

New York, April 4.—Justice Alfred R. Page of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court was accused in papers filed in the County Clerk's office of refusing to repay money left in his hands more than thirty years ago. The suit is brought against him by his cousin, Mary C. McMillan, of Marshfield, Wis., who is granddaughter of the aunt alleged to have given the money to Justice Page, and who says that Justice Page has admitted owing to her and has made a number of payments on account.

The suit is based on allegations that in October, 1921, the plaintiff went to see Justice Page in his chambers at the Appellate Division and demanded payment of the money due, with interest from the date of her grandmother's death. Bernard G. Heyn, the attorney, filed an affidavit that John J. O'Connell, an attorney for Justice Page, who he expected to raise funds in ten days with which to make payment. Not long afterward an answer was filed in which Justice Page denied that he owed anything, and insisted that the alleged promise on which the suit was based was without consideration and of no value or legal effect.

Attorney Heyn, in behalf of his client asked for summary judgment on the ground that the affidavits and documents showed that there was no valid defense, but the court refused to appear when the case was called, and it was marked off the calendar.

The papers, filed by the plaintiff's grandmother was Mrs. Henry Page, and that her death was followed by the death of both the plaintiff's parents, so that she is now the sole claimant to the money. It is alleged that Mrs. Page gave $2,000 to Justice Page to invest when she visited him here in 1888, and that when she left it here to settle up with her, he gave her notes. The plaintiff attaches to her papers a letter written to her mother in 1892, in which she said he had intended to pay the sum due, but could not collect moneys due her that month. She alleges that their letters had crossed. She alleges that he endorsed the February payment and wrote:

"Please bear in mind that I told you that there might be times when it would be impossible for me to make prompt payment, but if such time did occur I would make it up next month. Had it not been that I was able to collect money the latter part of January I would have had to make a loan to pay this month. Do not shoot the performer—he is doing his best. With love, your cousin, Alfred R. Page."

A programme held last evening under the auspices of the Natural History Society was enjoyed. Dr. J. Roy Campbell presided and a paper prepared by Dr. George F. Matthews was read by W. F. Burditt. It described the geological features of St. John and the address was illustrated by a series of lantern slides shown by William McIntosh. The Hutchinson medal for geological work, awarded to Dr. Matthew in 1917, was exhibited.

The W. M. S. of Coburg street Christian church were guests last evening of the W. M. S. of Douglas Avenue Christian church. They met at the residence of Mrs. R. Pugh, Lansdowne Avenue, Mrs. G. A. Horton presiding. Following a short business session Mrs. D. L. McRoberts read a paper on "Women's Place in Missions." Mrs. J. S. Gregory told of the expansion of the Christian W. M. S., after which a "Candle-Talk" was given by Miss Almada Edgett of Hillsboro. Refreshments were served during the evening.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

MORNING NEWS

OVER THE WIRES

A broken truck on a car loaded with rails on a freight train seven miles below Jaquet River, near Campbellton, caused a tie-up on the C. N. R. for a time yesterday. A wrecking crew from Campbellton repaired the damage. The truck had been torn up for a considerable distance. Senator O. Gardner of Maine, chairman of the International Joint Commission on waterways, has resigned. It is understood his place will be filled by former Senator Charles E. Towne of Michigan. H. A. Fowler, K.C. of this city was a member of the commission. Minnesota consists chiefly of a plateau from 600 to 900 feet above the sea, containing about 4,000 lakes and not much fall in its river courses.

SOLVE IRELAND'S LAND PROBLEMS

Conference to be Held in Dublin Next Week—Hope to Remove Landlordism.

Dublin, April 4.—The question of legislation that will solve Ireland's land troubles is now engaging the attention of the Irish government. A conference of representatives of the landlords, tenants and the government has been fixed for next Tuesday in this city, after which a bill embodying the terms of the agreement reached will be introduced without delay.

Proponents of the legislation hope to write into the measure a clause providing for the compulsory sale of land. The purchase price would be spread over a period of 10 years. It is hoped that landlordism may thus be removed.

MR. HARRIS STRUM.

MY CONDITION IS GREATLY IMPROVED SAYS HALIFAX MAN

Mr. Harris Strum of 58 West Street, Halifax, N. S., Tells How Drego Remedied Long Standing Ailments of His Digestive Organs, Restoring Them to Normal Functioning and so Benefiting His Whole System.

Says Mr. Strum: "I received very good results from Drego. The first bottle was so satisfactory, that I bought two more and my condition is greatly improved. Nothing ever seemed to take hold like Drego. My case is one of long standing, during which time I have tried almost everything. My stomach was in bad shape. I could hardly eat anything without being troubled by gas. My food would sour and my kidneys and liver were a constant source of trouble. I have always had a dull, heavy pain across my back and spots would float before my eyes. I used to get terribly dizzy at times and was greatly troubled by constipation. Since taking Drego I am regular, my nerves have been quieted down and I eat and sleep much better. Drego will always get a good word from me."

HOW DREGO ACTS

A spoonful of Drego, taken with your meals for a few days, acts upon everything you eat, first separating all the fats, oils, starches, sugar, vitamins and other ingredients from the useless waste matter, and then preparing all these strength-making, nourishing elements into a form which the blood can readily absorb and carry to the parts when Nature's call for help is strongest.

Drego is a new and scientific combination of herbal remedies, some of which have been in use for the last 5,000 years. It contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs.

Drego is being specially introduced in St. John by Ross Drug Co., 100 King St. Go there today and ask for Mr. Arthur, the Drego Expert, and he will sell you honestly if he believes Drego will benefit you. Drego is also sold in St. John by Moore's Drug Store, 105 Prince Edward Street, and by F. W. Hurro, 357 Main Street. It is also sold in Fairville by T. H. Wilson, 17 West St. John by Watson, 14 Denlop, and by a good druggist everywhere.

FEELING TIRED

Yanks' Stadium Big Engineering Task

About 116,000 Square Feet of Sod and 45,000 Cubic Yards of Earth Used. 25,000 Tons of Steel.

New York, April 4.—The task of converting ten acres of unused land into the largest baseball park in the country is an undertaking that few persons can appreciate until brought in contact with the figures on the work involved. Even then it is difficult to realize what a stupendous task has been involved and what has been expended in labor and material.

Major T. H. Birmingham, engineer for the New York American League baseball park, in charge of the construction of the Yanks' new stadium, gave out a few figures on the amount of work and material required.

Before any of the concrete work could be done it was necessary to fill and grade the field. A total of 45,000 cubic yards of earth was used to bring the playing field up to the required grade. About 116,000 square feet of sod was transported from Long Island to the largest baseball park in the country.

The excavation of 28,000 cubic yards of earth was required for the foundation of the big grandstand and the seating bowl. The excavation was made in a special type of soil having been selected as the best obtainable for a ball field.

Some of the figures on the material required for the Yankee Stadium are as follows:

Concrete—20,000 yards. This is made up from 45,000 barrels of cement, 80,000 yards of gravel and 15,000 yards of sand.

Structural steel—2,500 tons. Reinforcing steel—1,000 tons. Lumber for bleachers and concrete forms—2,000,000 board feet.

Lumber for grand stand seats—600,000 lineal feet. Piping for rails in boxes, reserved seats and bleachers—about four miles. Iron in seats—500 tons.

Time spent in construction—eleven months. Workmen employed—Up to a maximum of 600.

Other figures on the plant, besides those involving material in construction tend further to express one with the magnitude of the work. The plot takes in about ten acres and from extreme corner to corner it measures about 500 feet.

The distance around the outer edge of stand and bleachers figures 1,200 feet. The distance around the inner edge of the seating bowl is about half mile. Between the playing field and stands is a running track, twenty-four feet wide and 400 yards in length, with a straightaway of 120 yards in front of the third base wing of the grandstand. This track has been approved by officials of the Amateur Athletic Union and pronounced O. K. by any records made there will be official.

Aisles Are Wide. The front of the big grandstand, from the right field bleacher to the bleacher front in left center, measures 1,176 feet. The lower deck, depth of the three tiers, is 127 feet from front to back.

Alkali in Shampoos Bad for the Hair

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful when you wash it. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much lye alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Multifid coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Multifid in a cup of glass with a little warm water, is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub the Multifid in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multifid coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it is very cheap, and a few pennies will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure you get Multifid. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

Any breaking out of the skin, even itchy, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Jarol Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist.

Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly breaks case from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up to the roots.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and discomfort. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Jarol Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like a cold cream.

LOCAL NEWS

Coroner Dr. F. L. Kenney announced last night that because one of the jurymen had been called into the country on urgent business it had been decided to postpone the inquest into the cause of the death of Ralph Peterson until Wednesday of next week.

A fire broke out yesterday afternoon in a house situated at 123 Sydney street, owned by the McAfee estate of Boston. It is estimated that approximately $200 damage resulted. Yesterday's fire was said to have been the third in that building in the last two years.

E. N. Sanderson said yesterday that if his company had the Musquash current no new sub-station would be necessary. Hydro men corrected him last evening by pointing out that a 66,000-volt current could not be carried through the city, no matter who owned or distributed it.

Rev. W. Berhard Waddington, rector of Holy Trinity church at Hammond River has notified his congregation that he intends resigning the parish next month to take over another charge elsewhere in the province. His leaving will occasion great regret.

A house in Main street declared to be unfit for human habitation was ordered closed yesterday at a meeting of the Board of Health with John Kelly in the chair. Several reports were received, among them being the result of three examinations on the city which showed it to be in excellent condition.

The concert put on by the children of the Sunday school of St. Phillip's church in the school room of the church was largely attended last evening. The entertainment was under the able direction of Miss McCallum, and he also acted as organist. A. F. Skinner acted as chairman.

J. S. Nell, manager of the Kaufman Rubber Co. was the successful bidder for the stock of Henry W. King, hatter and dealer in men's furnishings at a meeting of the creditors in the office of the Canadian Creditors' Trust Association. There were twenty bidders for the stock. The sale will be continued with Mr. King as manager.

Six new members were received last evening at the regular monthly meeting of the local branch of the G. W. U. A. who the president, S. G. C. Pett, in the chair. The sports committee reported progress with plans for a social meeting at the club house, and expressed with the report of the Royal Commission on pensions. The opinion of the committee was that the pension which would be used in the erection of the War Memorial should be the product of New Brunswick.

The monthly financial report presented at yesterday's council meeting shows the following payments on departmental accounts for March: Treasury, $251.06; public safety, $1,284.07; public works, $1,936.88; water and sewerage, $2,255.88; harbors, ferries, $2,125.50. Other payments amounted to $146,011.24. The report was adopted.

Questioned regarding a report around the city yesterday that the 88 head tax for people crossing the line into the United States had been increased to $25, United States immigration officers last night emphatically declared that the rumor was without foundation. They said they also had heard the report.

There were two slight accidents on the harbor front yesterday afternoon. Gabriel Gavin, 39 Hilyard street, had a finger jammed between a truck and a case of goods, and Joel Gaudet, 116 Pitt street, had his right thumb painfully crushed while working at No. 15 shed. Both men were treated at the C. P. E. emergency hospital.

Her Three Children HAD Whooping Cough

Many mothers make the mistake of thinking that whooping cough is not of serious importance, but it is one of the most dangerous diseases of infancy, and nearly always fatal in the case of very young children.

DR. WOODS' NORWAY PINE SYRUP is highly recommended by mothers everywhere for the relief of this trouble as it helps to clear the clogged-up air passages of the mucous membrane which has collected, and in this way brings on the "whoop" which brings the so-much-sought-for relief and soothes the lungs.

Mrs. W. H. Mahar, Kenville, N. S., writes: "My three children had whooping cough. I tried every medicine I could think of until an old general told me to try Dr. Woods' Norway Pine Syrup. Before they had one bottle taken the cough seemed better and after the second bottle it was all over. I had to buy a second bottle. It cost me 50c and I feel sure it is worth ten times as much."

Dr. Woods' is 85c and 50c a bottle. Put up by Dr. T. M. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts.

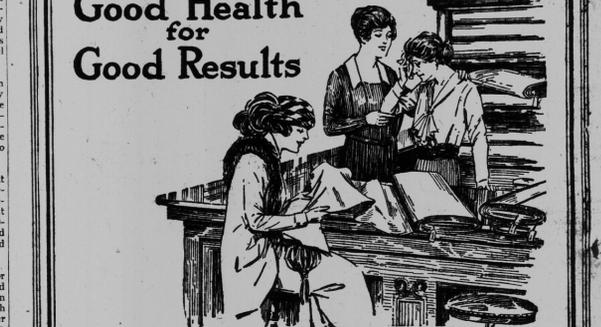

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and you should be free from all these troubles in a few days.

Dr. Child said that he found Mrs. Furness very "nervous" and obviously drinking too much. At this time her condition was consistent with her having taken only alcohol.

Dr. Child then spoke of an occasion in January, 1921, when he was called to attend Mrs. Furness at Park Lane. He found her lying unconscious, and when she came to he gave her "a talking to." It was then arranged that she

Good Health for Good Results

Keep Efficient by Keeping Well

This Letter Will Tell You How

Brantford, Ontario—"I was always tired and the least exertion would put me out for a day or two. I had a pressing pain on the top of my head, pain in the nape of my neck, and when I stooped over I could not get up without help because of pain in my back. I did not sleep well and was nervous at the least noise. I keep house but I was such a wreck that I could not sweep the floor nor wash the dishes without being down afterwards. A friend living near me told me what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for her, so I began to take it. With the first bottle I felt brighter and got so that I could wash dishes and sweep without having to lie down. I have taken ten bottles all told and am now all better. I can truly say that your wonderful medicine cannot be best for putting health and vim into a woman."—Mrs. JAMES H. MACPHERSON, 309 Greenwich Street, Brantford, Ontario.

This letter is but one of a great number received every year from women, young and old, and from almost every walk of life. These letters testify to the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Wiley suffered mentally as well as physically, because her home and her children demanded the care and attention which she was unable to give because of her wretched health. Finally she tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and in this letter tells what it did for her.

The Vegetable Compound contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and can be taken in safety by any woman. Your livelihood depends on your health. So try

A MULTITUDE OF WOMEN RECOMMEND IT

The strongest recommendation possible for any medicine to have is the sound testimony borne by the vast multitude of women who have used it. It has been proved that 98 out of every 100 women who will of ailments that caused suffering and despair have been restored to the joys of health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This marvelous remedy shows its power over the ills of women, and the letters of recommendation we are continually publishing in this paper should induce every all-

MARRIED 50 YEARS, HAS HIM ARRESTED

Mrs. O'Brien Says Her Husband Spends His Time in Hunting Rum.

New York, April 4.—When Harry O'Brien, 78, was arraigned before Magistrate Charles A. Oberwar in the Night Court on a charge of using "loud and boisterous" language in his home at 808 East Sixty-ninth Street, a few hours before his wife, Margaret, 72, told the magistrate that ever since her husband retired from business a year ago "he had been uncontrollable."

She said they were married a little more than fifty years ago and that when they recently celebrated their golden wedding their sons, who had prospered in business, got the father to give up work on the promise of reimbursing him to the equivalent of his salary.

The strain of idling proved too much for her husband, Mrs. O'Brien said, and he eventually spent more of his time in quest of liquor. More than that he became an annoyance about the house, and he went to such extremes, she said, that she had to call in Police-man Frey and have her husband arrested on a disorderly conduct charge. O'Brien told the magistrate that he had no defense to offer. He said that it was the first time in his fifty years of married life that he had been arrested, insisted that he had not been drinking, as his wife intimated, and declared that he was merely "feeling bad." He asked for an adjournment of the case for a few hours "to prove that I'm all right," but the court said: "I don't think you are all right just now. O'Brien, I'll hold you in $100 bail, to appear in the first trial in the Harlem Court."

"Well, I'll have to go to a cell for the first time in my life, your Honor," replied O'Brien.

As a court attendant was leading him to a cell the old man blurted: "When you and I were young, Mag."

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Suffers From Indigestion or Stomach Trouble CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic 'acid stomach,' says a well known authority. Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis accompanied by dangerous stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestants that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little hot water and Bisurated Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. It soaks up the harmful excess acid much as a sponge or blotting paper soaks up ink. It is a natural, safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is safe, laxative and is not at all expensive.

GERMAN PLAYS ARE POPULAR

Are Crowding British Pieces Off the English Stage—Thousands of Pounds are Paid Weekly in Royalties.

London, March 29.—(By Mail)—A German actress, Miss Fritz Mackens, is studying English at her home in Garmisch, preparatory to coming to England to "star" at a West End theatre. In the meantime plays of German origin are crowding British pieces off the English stage—the majority of London musical comedies being adaptations from the German.

Thousands of pounds in royalties are being paid every week to German authors.

In London today there are many plays and musical comedies of German origin. The latest move is to introduce German acts as actresses to London audiences while unemployment stalks through the ranks of our own theatrical people.

These actresses are not being brought over to act their parts in German, but are to be "starred" in English productions, and to act the parts in English.

Were these productions frankly presented to the British public as German pieces, one could then judge more exactly the attitude of the British to the German play. But only in the minority of cases is the country of their origin indicated. Generally the characters of the English translators are printed, the inference being that the public will take these names as being the work of English writers.

There is one slight difference between the German and the English as presented in England and as produced in Germany. Their principal characters are not the same as the actors of all German musical plays are—Princes, Dukes, Counts, and the like. They are the same as the characters in the German action takes place in a German principality. For English productions have proved popular, and their number is added to every month. Thus the English playgoer is paying high prices for seats in theatres in order that the royalties of German authors might be paid. The German Government exacts a high income tax on this money, which is sent from England, claiming that it is needed for the payment of reparations to England.

We have therefore the paradoxical spectacle of Britishers paying the royalties which they themselves have demanded that Germany should pay!

THE SHOOTING THIS YEAR AT BISLEY
London, March 5.—(By Mail to Canadian Press)—This year's meeting of the National Rifle Association will be held from Saturday, July 7th, till Saturday, July 21st. An extra day has been found necessary on account of the enlarged programme and to meet the convenience of competitors from the territories, and particularly from the territorial Army.

Not only are the same competitions reserved for tyros as was the case last year, but special provision has been made for the encouragement of competitors who have not won a prize of merit in the past five years, by appointing to them over half of the prizes in most of the squad and team competitions. This step has been taken in pursuance of the policy announced last year of offering special encouragement to the younger men. It is on their support that the future of the N. R. A. must depend. Incidentally it is also an inducement to the older generation, who, perhaps, have recently been less successful than when they were in their prime, to continue to persevere.

The Army Rifle Association and possibly others are holding their championship meetings on the Bisley ranges during the five days previous to the meeting and it is hoped that increased numbers will remain in camp and compete in the N. R. A. meetings.

One of the most important innovations at Bisley will be the competition for the King's Medal. This is a revival of the old Best Shot in the Army Medal, re-instituted by His Majesty both for the land forces at home and separately in each of the Dominions. The conduct of the contest at home has been entrusted to the National Rifle Association by the War Office. It will be shot for under N. R. A. standardized service conditions.
