ALDERMAN SCANLAN FOR BOARD OF CONTROL.

THE PROGRESSIVE IDEAS OF A PROGRESSIVE CANDIDATE.

Halifax is at the "Parting of the Ways," and Men of MODERN AND AGGRESSIVE ASPIRATIONS ARE NEEDED to see that the most is made of the OPPORTUNITIES that will necessarily present themselves.

Alderman Scanlan's program is for Progress All Along the Line, More Light and Police for the North End, the Suburbs and Ornamental Lighting for the City's Center.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN :

On the 30th of April you will be called upon to select four men to serve on the Board of Control. WITH YOUR HELP I PROPOSE TO BE ONE OF THEM.

I believe in, and will work for, a BETTER, BRIGHTER and BUSIER HALIFAX. I believe that Halifax is at the "parting of the ways"; that the next year will be the TURNING POINT IN HER HISTORY, and that the dreams of years are to BECOME A REALITY. It is my ambition to take a hand in the building of the NEW and BETTER Halifax. I am an enthusiastic HALIGONIAN. I believe nothing is too good for our city. Millions of dollars will be spent in the making of the NEW Halifax, and it is necessary that the City's interests be carefully and honestly looked after. I have faith enough in myself to believe that I am qualified to assume a share of the task. I make no applogies for this statement. Having faith in myself, I have faith in my fellow-citizens and in OUR CITY'S FUTURE, and it will be a pleasure and source of deep gratification to me to be able to serve the citizens at this important period of our City's history.

You have my record in the City Council. It has been for PROGRESS ALL THE TIME. As a member of the Board of Control, you can expect me to continue the same PROGRESSIVE POLICY.

I AM DECIDEDLY IN FAVOR OF MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP OF OUR PUBLIC UTILITIES. I FAVOR GREATER POLICE PROTECTION IN THE NORTH END OF THE CITY AND SUBURBS.

I FAVOR MORE STREET LIGHTS IN THE NORTH END AND SUBURBS.

I FAVOR ORNAMENTAL STREET LIGHTING IN THE CENTER OF THE CITY. I FAVOR ALL MODERN AND PROGRESSIVE IDEAS TENDING TO IMPROVE THE CITY AND ENHANCE THE COMFORT AND PROSPERITY OF THE PEOPLE. If you like my ideas and approve of my programme, I ask you for your vote and kindest

The City is a big place in which to make a personal canvass. I will call on you personally, if it is a physical possibility.

I am in this contest to WIN, and desire all the assistance I can possibly secure YOUR VOTE AND INFLUENCE WILL BE HIGHLY APPRECIATED.

There was a time, and not so long ago, either, when one was not considered altogether "in the account. And some of thes accounts were of large proportions, too. It was said that to pay as you go was out of the quest The result was that owing to gro cery houses making losses thr bad accounts, they were compelled to charge higher prices. As all their customers paid the same price, this resulted in those who paid cash assisting to pay for goods that someone else bought. Then Wentzells Limited appeared on the scene-and what a change came over the scene. Buying large quantities for cash, direct from the producers, and selling for cash this firm was enabled to and does sell on the very clusest-margin of profit. The result is that hundreds, yes, thousands, who never thought of paying spot cash for groceries are doing so at the "Big Store." Now the way to get the benefit of the very lowest prices is to buy in fair sized quantities. Buy your Canned Goods by the dozen tins, Sugar by the 100 pounds or half-barrel, Tea by the quarter chest, Flour by the half barrel or barrel, and so on through the list. Make up such an order and just see what you will save at WENTZELL'S LIMITED.

At 8 celock the news spread through the house of commons, but at 9 men in the inner lobbles were goestping, not on much upon how far Russia, while outensibly upholding the shah, had pulled the strings by which the insurgents danced, as upon the manner in which the St. George's Gazette, the Tory evening newspaper, had selzed upon the incident and shaken it in the faces of the government.

Hore than once before Lakely, the owner and editor of the St. George's, had stepped outside the decorous circle of tradition and taken a plunge into modern journalism, but tonight he estaged deeper waters than before and under an almost sepastional heading declared that in this apparently innocent bender rising twe had less an outcome of mere racial antisgonism than a first faint index of a long cherished Russian scheme, growing to a gradual maturity under the "drift" policy of the present British government.

The effect produced by this pro-

the present British government.

The effect produced by this pronouncement, if strong, was varied.

Members of the opposition saw, or thought they saw, a reflection of it in the smiling unconcern on the minis terial benches, and the government had as uneasy sense that behind the newly kindled interest on the other side of the benche has some mysterious scenting of battle from afar off. But though these impressions ran like electricity through the atmosphere, nothing tangible marked their passage, and the ordinary business of the house proceeded until half past 11, when an adjournment was moved. The first man to hurry from his place was John Chilcote, member for East Wark. He passed out of the house anickly with the helf furtire anick ness that marks a self absorbed man, and as he passed the policeman standing stolia.y under the arched doorway of the big courtyard he swerved a lit tle, as if startled out of his thoughts He realized his swerve almost before it was accomplished and pulled him-self together with nervous irritability. "Foggy night, constable," he said,

"Foggy night, sir, and thickening up west," responded the man.
"Ab, indeed!" Chilcote's answer was absent. The constable's cheery voice jarred on him, and for the second time he was conscious of senseless irrita-tion. Without a further glance at the man, he slipped out into the courtyard and turned toward the main gate At the gateway two cab lamps show-ed through the mist of shifting fog like the eyes of a great cat, and the familiar "Hansom, sir?" came to him

He paned by force of custom and, stepping forward, had almost touched the open door when a new impulse caused him to draw back.

"No," he said hurriedly; "no. I'll walk."

The cabman muttered, lashed his borse and, with a clatter of hoofs and harness, wheeled away, while Chilcote, still with uncertain hastiness, crossed the road in the direction of Whitehall. the road in the direction of Whitehall.

About the abbey the fog had partially lifted, and in the railed garden that faces the houses of parliament the statues were visible in a spectral way. But Chileote's glance was unstable and Indifferent. He skirted the railings heedlessly and, crossing the road with the speed of long familiarity, gained Whitehall on the left hand side.

There the fog had dropped, and, looking upward toward Trafalgar square, it seemed that the chain of lamps extended little farther than the Horse tended little farther than the Horse guards and that beyond-lay nothing.
Unconscious of this capricious alternation between darkness and light, Chilcote continued his course. To a close observer the manner of his going had both interest and suggestion, for though he walked on apparently self engrossed, yet at every dozen steps he started at some sound or some touch, like a man whose nervous system is painfully overstrung.

Maintaining his haste, he went deliberately forward, oblivious of the

at the sudden isolation, his second a thrill of nervous apprehension at the oblivion that had allowed him to be so entrapped. The second feeling out-weighed the first. He moved forward, then paused again, uncertain of him-self. Finally, with the consciousness that inaction was unbearable, he moved on once mere, his eyes wide open, one hand thrust out as a protec-tion and guide.

The fog had closed in behind him as heavily as in front, shutting off all possibility of retreat. All about him in the darkness was a confusion of voices—cheerful, dublous, alarmed at asset, Now and then a sleeve brushed his or a hand touched him tentatively. It was a strange moment, a moment of possibilities, to which the crunching wheels, the oaths and laughter from the blocked traffic of the roadway, made a continuous accompaniment.

Keeping well to the left Chilcote still beat on. There was a persistence in his movements that almost amounted to fear-a fear born of solitude filled with innumerable sounds. For a space he groped about him without result, then his fingers touched the cold sur-face of a shuttered shop front and a thrill of reassurance passed through him. With renewed baste and clinging to his landmark as a blind man might, he started forward with fresh impetus. For a dozen paces he moved rapidly and unevenly, then the natural result occurred. He collided with a man coming in the opposite direction.

ing in the opposite direction.

The shock was abrupf. Both men swore simultaneously, then both laughed. The whole thing was casual, but Chilcote was in that state of mind when even the commonplace becomes abnormal. The other man's exclama-tion, the other man's laugh, struck on his nerves. Coming out of the darkness, they sounded like a repetition of his own.

Nine out of every ten men in London, given the same social position and the same education, might reasonably be expected to express annoyance or amusement in the same manner, possi-bly in the same tone of voice, and Chilcote remembered this almost at the moment of his nervous jar.

"Beastly fog!" he said aloud. "I'm trying to find Grosvenor square, but the chances seem rather small."

The other laughed again, and again the laugh upset Chilcote. He wondered uncomfortably if he was, becoming a prey to illusions. But the stranger spoke before the question had solved that?

"I'm afreid they are small," he said. "It would be almost hard to find one's way to the devil on a night like this."

Chilcote made a murmur of amusement and drew back against the shop. "Yes. We can see now where the blind man scores in the matter of salvation. This is almost a repetition of the fog of six years 250. Were you out in that?" It was a habit of his to jump from one sentence to another. a habit that had grown of late "No." The stranger had also groped his way to the shop front. "No, I was out of England six years ago."

"You were lucky." Chilcote turned up the collar of his coat. "It was an atrocious fog, as black as this, but more universal. It was the night Lexington made his great sugar speech. Some of us were found on Lambeth bridge at 3 in the morning, having left the house at 12.% Chilcote seldom indulged in reminiscences, but this conversation with an unseen companion was more like a soliloquy than a dialogue. He was almost surprised into an exclamation when the other caught up his words. when the other caught up his words.

"Ah! The sugar speech!" he said.

"Odd that I should have been looking it up only sesterday. What a magnificent dressing up of a dry subject it was! What a career Lexington promised in those days!"

Chilcote changed his position.

"You are interested in the muddle down at V estminster?" he asked sarcastically.

"I?" It was the turn of the stranger to draw back a step. "Oh, I read my newspaper with the other 5,000,000, that is all. I am an outsider." His voice sounded curt. The warmth that admiration had brought into it a mo-ment before had frozen abruptly. "An outsider!" Chilcote repeated.
"What an enviable word!"

"Possibly, to these who are well inside the ring. But let us go back to Lexington. What a pinnacie the man reached, and what a drop he had! It has always seemed to me an extraordinary instance of the human leaver running through us all. What was the real cause of his collapse?" he asked suddenly. "Was it drugs or drink? I have often wished to get at the truth. Again Chilcote changed his attitude.
"Is truth ever worth getting at?" he asked irrelevantly.
"In the case of a public man—yes.

He exchanges his privacy for the inter-est of the masses. If he gives the masses the details of his success, why not the details of his failure? But was it drink that sucked him under? "No." Chilcote's response came after a pause.

"Drugs?"
Again Chilcote hesitated. And at the moment of his indecision a woman

"So I imagined," he said, "though, on my soul, I never really credited it. To have gained so much and to have thrown it away for a common vicer" He made an exclamation of disgust. Chilcote gave an unsteady laugh.
"You judge hardly," he said.
The other repeated his sound of contempt. "Justly so. No man has the right to squander what another would give his soul for. It lessens the gen-eral respect for power," "You are a believer in power?" The tone was sarcastic, but the sarcasm "Yes. All power is the outcome of in-dividuality, either past or present. I find no sentiment for the man who plays with it." The quiet contempt of the tone stung

"Do you imagine that Lexington made no fight?" he asked impulsively. "Can't you picture the man's struggle, while the vice that had been slave gradually became master?" He stopped to take breath, and in the cold pause that followed it seemed to him that the other made a murmur of incredulity. "Perhaps you think of morphia as a pleasure?" he added. "Think of it, instead, as a tyrant that tortures the stead, as a tyrant that fortunes me mind if held to and the body if cast of." Urged by the darkness and the silence of his companion, the rein of his speech had loosened. In that mo-ment he was not Chilcote, the member for Rast Wark whose moods and stlences were proverbial, but Chilcote the man whose mind craved the relief of speech.

"You talk as the world talks—out of ignorance and self righteousness," he went on. "Before you condemn Lexington you should put yourself in his

"As you do?" the other laughed. Unsuspecting and inoffensive as the laugh was it startled Chilcote. With a sudden alarm he pulled himself up "I?" He tried to echo the laugh, but the attempt fell flat. "Oh, I merely speak from—from De Quincey. But I believe this fog is shifting—I really believe it is shifting. Can you oblige me with a light? I had almost forgotten that a man may still smoke though he has been deprived of sight." He spoke fast and disjointedly. Churchill letters, British press. The British press has been dealing pretty freely with the letters of Mr. Churchill to Mr. Borden on the Naval question, and many journals are questioning both his logic and his propriety. Some of them are frankly outspoken. The "Evening Standard and St. James Gazette," of Eondon, puts it this way:

In the original memorandum of Cotober last, the British Admiralty explicitly declared its intention of refraining from exercising any influence, however indirect, on the Dominion Parliament. When, nearly two months later, Mr. Borden applied to Mr. Churchill for information with regard to the early stages of the construction of large cruisers, the First Lord, in reply, argued at length that Canada had not the necessary plat for the construction of battle-ships; in another letter he repeated and amplified his arguments against a Canadian Navy. Not entirely corect in his statements, and, in any quest the admiralty, Mr. Churchill has given great offence to Canadian Liberia, whether one thinks them right owner, one may sympathize with them in their procest against the First Lord's methods. In the end Canada may be relied upon to choose the best course, but meanwhile it is best for Mr. Churchill to snawer the questions he is asked. He is sometimes The "Sporting Times" grows sarcastic at The British press has been dealing

The "Sporting Times" grows sarcastic at
Mr. Churchill's expense:
We have every respect for the Canadians, but when they begin criticizing Wipston Churchill's figures we feel bound to warn them that they are going just a little too far. But the London "Daily Star" is the most emphatic and outspoken of all, as will be seen by the subjoined editorial from that paper of a fortnight since, which we quote esting Mr. Unurchill to "let him have an estimate which night be used in Parliament if necessary." That last proviso ough to have put Mr. Churchill on his guard, but it didnot.

guard, but it did not.

His business was to state the facts, and leave the Canadians to draw the inferences. He did state the facts, but he also drew the inferences. He did more. He gave advice for which he had not been asked. He wrote:

"It is clear that it would be wholly unwise for Canada to attempt to undertake the building of battleships at the present moment."

That is an opinion at a factor.

he building of battleships at the prescribe building of battleships at the prescribe building of battleships at the prescribe moment."

That is an opinion, not a fact. The Canadians are quite capable of forming their own opinions upon the facts as stated by Mr. Churchill. It would have been by Mr. Churchill. It would have been been ough to state the facts, and leave the canadians to draw their own conclusions. Only the control of the con enough to state the facts, and leave the Canadians to draw their own conclusions. It they choose to spend £15,000,000 on plant, they can do so. If they please to face the trouble and endure the delay and bear the cost, it is their affair and not ours.

There is no urgency in the matter, because when our Jingoes refuse to count the Canadian ships as a relief for the British taxpayer. They insist on treating them as extras. Therefore the Laurier policy is quite compatible with our naval security, and if Canadian pride demands a Navy built, manned, and maintained by Canada, we need not weep.

The plain truth is that the conflict ba-

The plain truth is that the conflict batween the Government and the Opposition in Canada over this question is so acute that it nots the gift of the three battle-ships of all grace and dignity. In our officion, it would be wise for the British Government to intimate that such a contibution would not be acceptable upless made by the Canadian Parlisment with practical unanimity. The Canadian Liberals are too strong to be ignored in a crucial matter of this kind. When they came back to power, as they are bound to office back, they may reverse the Borden policy, and there will be more rancour, more strife, more making of bad blood. To sum up, we hope the Government will have the courage to put an end to a painful and dangerous situation by saying that there is no immediate need for the three Canadian battleships, and that a united Canada is more valuable to the Edopire than all the battleships in the verid.

seen by the subjoined editorial from that paper of a fortnight since, which we quote in full:

The moral of the correspondence between Mr. Churchill and Mr. Borden is that British, Ministers ought to be careful to avoid even the appearance of meddling with the internal policy of the Dominions. Canada is a high-spirited and independent nation. She is mistress of her own house, and ashe is rightly vigilant in guarding herself against any kind of dictation from Downing Street or Whitehall. One half of Canada wants a Canadian-built navigners of Canada wants a Canadian-built navigners. The other half wants to pay for three British-built battleships. The two parties are equally matched. Although the Borden Party are in office to-morrow. There is a bitter guestion. It is, therefore, unfortunate that Mr. Churchill has in his memorandum and in his letter taken the Borden side against the Laurier side. The result is that the Laberal Farty in Oanada houly resents his interference and cries Hands Off!

A Re-Appearance!

During the Autumn and early Winter it was practically impossible to get Inver-NESS IMPERIAL COAL from the Mines. The situation has changed now, and we are again able to get full supplies. Inverness has secured a firm place among Halifax Coal Consumers entirely on merit. Beginning in a small way some years ago, its sales have to-day reached proportions of a very satisfactory nature. These are the reasons:

Inverness burns with a bright, clear flame, practically without soot, in this respect resembling Hard Coal. It is Coal which does not coke or run together, consequently, it required no poking. In other words "no coke, no poke." The Coal leaves very little ash, creates no hirsute appendages on stove or range covers, and is a very satisfactory fuel for broiling and toasting. IMPERIAL in name, it is Imperial in its burning qualities. We have Inverness in stock to fill all orders.

If you are subject to constipation, you should avoid strong drugs and cathartics. They only give temporary relief, and their reaction is harmful, and sometimes more annoying than constipation. They in no way effect a cure, and their tendency is to weaken the already weak organs with which they come in contact.

We hongetly believe that we have the best constipation treatment ever devised. Our faith in it is so strong that we sell it on the positive guarantee that it shall not cost the user a cent if it does not give entire satisfaction and completely remedy constipation. This preparation is called Rexall Orderlies. These are prompt, soothing, and most effective in action. They are made of a recent chemical discovery. Their principal ingredient is odorless, tasteless, and colorless. Compined with other well-known ingredients, long established for their usefulness in the tysakment of constipation, it forms a tablet which is eaten just like candy. They may be taken at any time, either day or night, without fear of their causing any inconvenience whatever. They do not gripe, purge, nor cause hausea. Adopted by the firm of Wm. Stairs, Son &

It has been said "the best advertise ment is a satisfied customer." With that truism as their lode-star, the ever-alert hardware firm of William Stairs, Son & Morrow, limited, of Halifax, have inaugu rated a basic business policy that bids fair to revolutionize maritime, and for that matter Canadian, trade. It's a fearless policy is the one in point, and announced policy, is the one in point, and announced to the public for the first time in this issue of the RECORDER—a policy having for its fundamental principle a radical aim to give absolute satisfaction. "Money-back innot-satisfied" policies, and their kin, have been shouted to the buying world for ages; but none, it may be safely said, quite so sweeping, and so near the cant-back-out point as this one.

"Whether you buy a needle or an anchor, direct or over our counters, throughour back-out point as this one.

"Whether you buy a needle or an anchor, direct or over our counters, through our representatives or by correspondence, you do so absolutely and unequivocally at the risk of William Stairs, Son & Morrow."

But it's not a risk, in the minds of the members of that firm—it's not a venture. They leave with one the deep-seated conviction that they repose full faith in their goods. "You are to be the judge." they say, "you who buy the article. Be it a screw-driver or a furnace, or a door-knob; be it shipped to Dartmouth or to Monitreal, we, and we alone, take the risk... If you are not satisfied, just come back to us, tell us the trouble—and we will cheerfully exchange the article, if we can do so to your satisfaction, pay the freight on your initial purchase both ways—or refund you your money If WE CAN'T SATISFY YOU."

That is, indeed a fearless policy! To be a control of the c dress delivered by the Rev. A. B. Cohoe who spoke on the brutal instinct of self-preservation. A difficult theme to handle, the speaker demonstrated how deep a grasp it had on humanity, but by careful analysis showed in many ways how such a problem could be overcome with effective results.

A hearty vote of thanks, moved by Dr. Bitchie and M. M. McLean, was tendered. Premier Murray, on being called upon, took occasion to express his appreciation of such an admirable address and heartily endorsed the action of the Halifax Lodge in inaugurating these Sunday afternoon addresses and which had proved so in spructive. PIERPONT MORGAN DEAD. Passed away at Rome just after noon to-day. Famed financier controlled $9,000,000,000

Rome, March 31. - Pierpont Morgan, th financier, died the five minutes past 12 o'clock noon to-day.

When his death was seen to be approaching rapidly, Prof. Bestianelli and Dr. George A. Dixon forced Mr. and Mrs. Dr. George A. Dixon forced Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Satterlee, his son-in-law and daughter, and Miss Helen Hamilton Morgan, who had been in constant attendance, to leave the room. Mr. Morgan toward the end showed that he was suffering internally only by a movement of his right hand. Otherwise he displayed no sign of vitality areas, by continuous sign of vitality except by continuou

Besides the four trained nurses in attendance, Miss Helen Hani ton, was of great assistance to the three physicians, Prof. Bastianelli, Dr. M. Allen Starr, and Geo. A. Dixon. From his arrival in Rome, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L Satterlee had feared a mistake had been under in brinning Mr. Morgan to Rome instead of taking him direct to London, where he would have been in his own house instead of ita a noisy hotel, and they thought too that the cilmate of Rome was too mild for him in his condition of health.

Coincident with Mr. Morgan's death, it became known that he had sustained ascrious attack before his departure for Europe, but had railied as rapidly that it was not considered a forerunner to fatal lilness. HIS BUSINESS CAREER.

John Pierpont Morgan started his business career balf a century ago on the Board of Directors of a large Maritme Insurance Co. He secured the position through the influence of his weathy father. For a year young Morgan attended the directors meeting, but never opened his mouth, except to vote. The president of the company told the elder Morgan that nothing could be done with his son, who seemed to take little interest in business. John Pierpont, however, all the time was laying his plans for his international consolidation, which when accomplished, established his standing in Wall Street as the only man who ever got the better of Jay Gould.

The president of the insurance company had mistaken taciturnity for indolence. The sobriquet of "Sphinx of Wall Street" later was the appellation applied to the man, who at first was believed to have been without business acquiren, but later became the supreme head of the finances of the American continent. Morgan's control over men and money was the dominant keynote of his life. Others, perhape, were wealthier than Morgan, but he commanded his wealth and that of others. At nant keynote of his life. Others, perhaps, were wealthier than Morgan, but he commanded his wealth and that of others. At the height of his power, he is said to have controlled $9,000,000,000. In addition to finance, art, literature, philanthropy and sport, all came under his influence. His prestige was not confined to his own country-Kings and Emperors and even the Pope were wont to call him into consultation.

Tope were wont to call him into consultation.

Mr. Morgan same from an old Puritan New England family, which dates back in this country to 1630. He was born in weath. His father, Junius Spencer Morgan, left him $10,000,00, and also young Morgan inherited important banking connections. J. S. Morgan had scoumulated his fortune in the dry goods business with Levi P. Morton, and later as an as-ociate of George Peaboly, merchant, banker and philanthropist.

J. Pierpout Morgan was born April 17, 1837, in a modest red briek cottage in Hartford, Conn. As a youngster his tendency to write patery gave him the nickname of "Pip." When he was fourteen Morgan was sent to Hoston to the English High School. He showed a particular bent-for mathematics, but had no gifts indicative of unusual mental power.

STOCK MARKET CALM.

NEW YORK, March 31.—The spock market bore up well under the news of Mr.

Morgan's death. Opening prices showed decilines which in almost no case exceeded a point. Supporting orders ralled the market quickly. Trading showed no evidence of nervousness. News of the death of the financier came an hour before the opening of the Stock Exchange, allowing simple time to take measures for the protection of the market.

The Scotian, Capt. Blanchard Henry, arrived this morning from Glasgow, and is this afternoon landing 1147 nessengers, 197 second and 950 third class. The Scotian had two rough days on the way out, but the rest of the voyage the weather conditions were good.

Among those landed at Halifax were 95 boys for the Quarrier Home at Brockville, Ont.; they came out in charge of Mr. Douglas. During the passage a steward became very violent and had to be cared for. Some years ago he had a sunstroke in India and this caused him to become insane. Among the passengers was Stanley Jeffrey, a noted sprinter, of Glasgow. He is coming to this country and intends going into the farming business in the Northwest.

The Russian-American steamer Birma arrived last evening from Libau, and this morning landed 339 passengers at the Terminal piers. She vas de layed at Copenhagen, and later there was a slight mishap to her machinery when nearing Hailfax.

The first delay was only about fifteen hours and the second about five. She left the Russian port on March 13 and on March 15 she was at Copenhagen. With the exception of two or three days rough weather the passage was a nice one. There was one death on board, that of Polischuk Wassily, who died on Thursday last from heart disease. He was buried at sea. He was 67 gears of age and was bound to the North West.

There were large and interested con-gregations at St. Paul's on Sunday. The Easter music was repeated, Mr. F. N. Clarke presiding at the organ. Some new Easter music was repeated, Mr. F. N. Clarke presiding at the crgan. Some new Easter hymns were sung, notable an Easter Carol by Mary Nicholson: "Easter Flowers are Blooming Bright."
Archdeason Armitage presched at both services. In the morning the subject was, "The Lord's Day," the weekly festival of the resurrection. The pervading motive for its celebration by Christiane is that it marks a completed redemption, just as the Jewish Sabath marked a completed creation. The Archdeacon pleaded for a richer observance of the day, and that it should be lifted to a higher plane. It has too long been associated with ideas of restraint and outward laws. It is the spirit that is of importance. If man were a mere animal, rest would be sufficient. But he was made by God, and made for God.

In the evening, the Archdeacon dis markable proofs of the character of the resurrection.

Archdescon Armitage referred to the death of Mrs. Osborne, of Wight Avenue, mother of Mrs. Osborne-Bowser, who passed away on Easter Monday, while on a visit to British Columbia with her daughter. Mrs. Osborne was a ripe Christian, and had for many years been associated with St. Paul's, where her services in St. Paul's Mission were greatly prized. The hymn, "On the Resurrection Morning," was sung as a memorial hymn.

PLACER MINING. | bas

B. C. Goldseeker Secures the Precious Metal.

There are few people not connected with the business who have any clear comprehension of what placer gold is, or what the difference may be between the methods of getting the precious metal from placers and from veins of quarts. Yet ever since the rush of Cariboo nothing has lent more to the color of pioneer life in the Far West of Canada than this same placer mining.

Placer is a Spanish word meaning pleasure. It expresses the idea of surface mining, or the mere winnowing and washing of gold from the surface sands of stream beds, but with improved machinery the term has been extended to cover mining of all kinds except that of ores in veins or denosits.

stances in nature and while being carried down the slopes by newly-born streams it continually forms deposits, the stones and sand with which posits, the stones and sand with which it is environed being carried farther by the water. Often the gold has been carried into the placid breast of a lake, and then spread into a stratum upon its floor. After many years the depression has been filled, the lake disappears and a stratum of mud or shallow earth forms over the stratum of gold-bearing sand. The gold has been ground into veritable dust, although it has been common enough to discover large nuggets in placer digging.

discover large nuggets in placer digging.

In placer mining, whatever may be the character of the ground worked, whatever may be the nature of the tools employed, whether in dry diggings or wet washings, the fact that gold will fall to the bottom and the rest roll off on top is the phenomenon upon which all the means of extricating the metal from its sit are based. The early mining of Asia Minor was dry and done with a knife and pan. The miner loosened the gold-bearing earth, filled his pan and winnowed it against a strong wind, the heavy gold particles falling upon an animal's hide spread at his feet.

The miners have a winnowing machine arranged with screens of different sizes of mesh, and a revolving fan. The earth is sifted through from one grade of mesh to another, the gravel and sand being blown out of the end of the box, while the gold finds its way below and is caught in the bottom.

The great source of placer gold-getting, however, is through the separation of the metal from its sands by the aid of water; and the most primi-tive utensil by which this is effected the aid of water; and the most primitive utensil by which this is effected is the pan—a strong, round, sheetiron vessel, holding about half a peck.
The miner fills this with what he thinks is gold-bearing earth, takes it to the creek and sinks it under the water. Then he shakes it slightly, inclining the side nearest him upward and the sand and mud begin to spill out over the farther rim. He continues the operation until but a tablespoonful of the contents remain, when a slight turn of the pan discloses the gold, if there is any.

The next most simple and useful implement used in placer mining, is the rocker—a wooden box on a pair of rockers, with a hopper at one end, set above the floor of the box. The bottom of the hopper is punctured with halfinch holes. Sand is shoveled in and water poured on it while the machine is being rocked. The coarser gravel is picked out, while the finer passes through the perforations and runs down the slightly-inclined floor, the gold being caught against a riffle bar placed shout two-thirds of the distance to the end.

The alunce box is the next implegold being caught against a riffle bar placed about two-thirds of the distance to the end.

The sluce box is the next implement of importance. This is made of boards and is about 12 feet long and three wide, with riffle bars fixed to its bottom a few feet apart. Many such boxes are joined together and inclined about an inch to the foot, forming a line two or three hundred feet long. The dirt is shoveled into the head of the sluice, a stream of water turned on it and the dross washed down, the gold being caught by the riffle bars. Sometimes instead of using riffle bars. Sometimes instead of using riffle bars the sluice box is paved with rocks, to resemble a natural watercourse. Quicksilver is thrown among the dirt and units with the gold, the amalgam being caught in the interactices of the rocks. When collected it is placed in backstin bags, through which the free quicksilver oosee when squeezed, leaving a hard knob of gold and mercury. This is placed in a retort, the volatile metal is distilled off and the gold remains.

Fundy Grindstones.

From the bottom of the Bay of Fundy come some of the finest grindstones in the world, and the manner in which they are procured is simple and ingenious, the stonecutters making the exceptional tide perform the hardest part of the work. When the tide is out, which happens twice every day, the workmen quarry the stones from the solid rock and fasten them to a big flathost. Then in somes the tide, a mighty flood rushing in as though the great ocean had suddenly changed its mind. Wonderful sight is, rising often as high as a house. And now the men have nothing number to do. The tide lifts the boat, and up comes the stone with it. Boat and stone are then brought close inshore, where the stone is removed at leisure Coveted Membership In the Most Ex. Has Gone to an Architect, Three Artists and Two Sculptors-Henry Sproatt Becomes a Full Member Result of His Achievements.

It is pretty generally understood that the Royal Canadian Academy is the most important art organization in Canada, and that it is modeled very closely, with modifications to suit the conditions of a newer and larger country, after its original, the Royal Academy of England, with its yearly exhibitions in London. The membership of the academy, in both England and Canada, is made up of painters, sculptors, and architects, all painters, sculptors, and architects, all included under the term "artists," and to be a R.A. (Royal Academician) in England, or an R.C.A. (Royal Canadian) in England, or an R.C.A. (Royal Canadian Academician) in Canada, is a distinction to be proud of.

What may not be quite as well appreciated is the title of A.R.A. (Associated Royal Academician), or translated into terms of Canada, an A.R. (A. This is an honor conferred by the academy as a first step towards becoming an academician in full, since from the ranks of the associates the year academician as a first step towards becoming an academician in full, since from the ranks of the associates becoming an academician in full, since from the ranks of the associates the new academicians are chosen.

This is merely introductory to the fact that at the last annual meeting of the Royal Canadian Academy at Ottawa, one associate, Mr. Henry Sproatt, of Toronto, was made an academician, and from the ranks of the artists, five associates were chosen, these being Mr. C. W. Jefferys, Toronto; Mr. Ernest Fosbery, Ottawa, M. Henri Hebert, Montreal; Mr. J. H. Macdonald, Toronto, and M. Laiberte, Montreal.

The selection of Mr. Henry Sproatt, R.C.A., architect, to fill a vacancy among the academicians is a tribute of his fellow academicians to the fine artistic sense shown in the buildings, of which he has been the designer.

Mr. Sproatt, has had to do with many-simpertant buildings in Toronto and throughout Ontario, among the latest being Burwash Hall, the residence and dining hall in connection with Victoria University, and also Hart House, which contains the dining room, Y.M.C.A., and student symnasium of Toronto University.

Mr. C. W. Jefferys, A.R.C.A., is a good Canadian, but he is a "made" one, not a "born" one, since England is his native land. He studied under Mr. G. A. Reid and Mr. C. M. Manly, but considers that his best training was received in journalistic work. Mr. G. A. Reid and Mr. C. M. Manly, but considers that his best training was received in journalistic work.
Mr. Jefferys is equally well known as painter and illustrator. In the first capacity his pictures are seen at every exhibition. In them he is the exponent of the great plains of our Northwest, and of the laborer in the open.

Summer after summer he has camp

Summer after summer, he has camped on the prairies, studied and painted their beauties, giving in his smaller pictures the beauties of vivid blue sky and prairie bloom, and in his bigger ones interpreting these immense stretches, whose vastness is accentuated by the solitary horseman or the lonely shack.

Ernest Fosbery, A.B.C.A., of Ottawa, was a student first under Mr. Franklin Brownell of Ottawa, when he won the Government medal for painting from life, then for several years under Fernand Cormon, in Paris. Coming from abroad, he settled in Boston, giving his time to portrait painting and illustrating, following which he was appointed instructor in painting at the Art Student's League, and while there won the Fellowship prize in 1909, and the prize of the Society of Artists in 1910. Since moving to Ottawa, his birthplace, a little over a year ago, Mr. Fosbery has been a member of the Union International des Beaux Arts and des Beaux Lettres. At present his entire time is given up to painting portraits, many of the most prominent statesmen having been among his sitters. A series of portraits of his nent statesmen having been among his sitters. A series of portraits of his little son, whom he paints nearly every year, are interesting records of child life.

Monsieur Henri Hebert, A.R.C.A., of Montreal is the veritable "son of his father," M. Philippe Hebert, the famous sculptor, in his choice of his life work. He probably cannot remember the day when he did not model in clay, first as child's play, then more seriously with his father. Late, he studied in Paris in the Ecole des Arts Decoratifs, and then three years in the Ecole des Beaux Arts, wader the direction of Thomas A. In. years in the Ecole des Beaux Arts, under the direction of Thomas A. Injabert. Since his return he has collaborated with his father for the group which surmounts the "Ecole des Hautes Etudes Commerciales" in Montreal, and also in the group at the Ecole Technique of the same city. ENGLISH WOMAN IN CANADA Housework Should Be Avoided, Ex Much interest was shown in an address delivered by Ella Sykes the other day before the Reyal Society of Arts in Bondon, concerning openings for educated women in Canada. Earl Grey presided. Missi/Sykes was so anxious to find out what openings existed that she went to the Dominion for six months as a working woman, and took five temporary posts a home help in four provinces. She reseived the hospitality of chicken ranches and prairie farms at the outset. She met a rebuff at Winnipeg, where she was told, "What a pity it is that finglish women are so seldom trained to do anything properly." Miss Sykes sad this was humiliating but true. She was surprised to find how low, accordingly, was her market value.
When she thought of being a hone help, she found it in reality very diferent from what she had imagined it. The Canadian is a capable house wife, and the work of keeping her home in good order seemed endless.
Her experience in several situations
could do do do the seemed endless.
Her experience in several situations could form that the post of home help was unsuitable for educated English women, except perhaps on the Pacific slopes.

Miss Sykes recommended that educated English emigrants consider becoming probationers in large western heapitals, elementary school teachers, stengraphers on dressmakers. Poulty farming was fucrative if women could do the week themselves.

"We are accused of wishing to drain Housework Should Be Avoided, Ex could do the work themselves.

"We are accused of wishing to drain the United Kingdom of all its capable the United Kingdom of all its capable with the United Kingdom of the United Ki wemen," concluded Miss Sykes. "We replied that with one and a half milreplied that with one and a half millos more women than men a few frandreds can well be spared. If England is so anxious to keep her dauchters let her give them better salarie."

The Lord Mayor of Liverpool farmally opened sew waiting-rooms there for steerage! thissengers provided by the C.P.R. in their offices. The Liverpool authorities commended this thoughfulness, poorer emigrants arriving at Merseyaide in early morning intherto being compelled to wait the steamers on the landing stage.
This so far is the only waiting-rooms of, the kind.

The Novelist and the Lawyer.

Sir Gilbert Parker is a brilliant novelist. He is also—next to Sir George Doughty—the best platform asset of the Unionist party. Last, but not least, he is a "jolly good fellow," and has won troops of friends among his opponents. He does not, however, know much about Ireland, and a few days ago a speech of his provoked from Mr. Lardner, the young and brilliant M.P. for Monaghan, a very effective reply which left nothing of Sir Gilbert's structure standing. Mr. Lardner persisted, however, in referring to Sir Gilbert Parker as "the right honorable gentleman"—a title reserved for Privy Councillors—until the gallant knight interjected: "I am not right honorable gentleman"—a title reserved for Privy Councillors—until the gallant knight interjected: "I am not right honorable." One of the Irishmen promptly rejoined: "Well, you ought to be: many a worse man is." Hearty laughter betokened general approval of the compliment, to which the recipient bowed his acknowledgments. Mr. Lardner proceeded to correct himself by explaining that he meant to speak of Sir Gilbert as "the honorable baronet." Arsin the member for Gravesend had The Novelist and the Lawyer.

bert as "the honorable baronet."

Again the member for Gravesend had to dissent: "I am not a baronet, to dissent: "I am not a baronet, either", whereupon that same small, smooth voice from the back Irish bench spoke encouragingly to the member for Monaghan: "Iry noble lord on him, and see how he takes it." The speaker, Sir Gilbert, and everybody else had to join in the merriment that ensued, for the respected novelist "took it."

A Record Shipment. Cobalt, the world's greatest silver-nining camp, added another remark-ble adhievement to its long list of mining ceamp, added another remarkable adhevement to its long list of interesting records in production when a few days ago the largest shipment eyen sent out of the Dominion was made. There were 23 bars of bullion leaded on the Montreal T. & N. O. express, which is was necessary to hold tip for eighteen minutes. Each of the bars weighed about 86 pounds and the value of them was between $500 and $600, and the total value of the shipment amounted to $187.567. It required the united efforts of every employe of the express company to move one of the trucks on which the eleven and a quarter tons of bullion were piled and to load the bars with as little delay as possible to the friday. Insurance was at the rate of 71.2 cents on every $100, and it came to about $1,500 on the entire shipment.

Costs $40 To Save a Cent. According to the Canadian postoffice officials the practice of enclosing letters and so forth in newspapers is ters and so forth in newspapers is increasing.

This seems to be carried on particularly by the foreign population who have recently come to this country, most of the papers and periodicals being addressed to the old country. The sender, according to the officials, is liable to a fine of from $10 to $40 for each offence. An enclosure in a newspaper is sent immediately to the dead letter office. There is also a practice of mailing newspapers without sufficient postage, the rate being one cent per four ounces.

Toronto's Italian Cops. Toronto's Italian Cops.

Six Italians are to be added to the Toronto police force. In view of the rapid growth of the Italian colony, Chief of Police Grasett has found it necessary to engage foreign officers. When these men have served sufficient time on the force one or two of them will be made dectectives and be attached to the stations near the sections of the city where the Italians live. Interpreter Michael Basso is gelting the recoruits.

LENT IN RUSSIA. Unique Customs in the Season Before

Easter.

The period of Lent, covering aix weeks, is very strictly observed in Russia, especially as the conduct and food. No butter, meat "fellie" or eggs are eaten, and sustements, comes from a diet of fish and pancakes or other edibles made from flour. During the week before Easter, known as the Passover, all state and Government officials must confess, the one occasion during the year when this is obligatory.

The first service of interest to the onlooker takes place the week before Easter, on Saturday night, and is known as "Willow Saturday." The palm does not grow in Russia, and the pussy-willow is the first tree which shows signs of life in early spring. The peasant brings a branch of this to the church at night and has it blessed by the priest, after which he carries it to his home and keeps it as sacred through the year. On the following Thursday night, known as Passion Thursday, there is a custom of carrying home lighted candles in paper lanterns, and when the doors open and the crowd issues the church, it is beautiful in-shown as Passion Thursday, there is a custom of carrying home lighted candles in paper lanterns, and when the doors open and the crowd issues the church, it is beautiful indeed in the darkness of the night to see these tiny lights moving leisurely that in the square or street, scattering in every direction. Upon crossing, the threshold of the home, the candle is held aloft, and a cross is drawn above the head. This prevents the candle is held aloft, and a cross is drawn above the head. This prevents of the particular of the candle is held aloft, and a cross is drawn above the head. This prevents of the candle is held aloft, and a cross is drawn above the head. This prevents of the particular of the candle is held aloft, and a pasqua. They are pyramidal and mountainous in shape and are decorated with candied flowers. On Saturday there is the roasting of chicken, turkey and baby pigs. The table is prepared this day and the fowl and breads are placed whole upon it, decorated with greens. The traditional vodks or Russian brandy, has its place. Hundreds of eggs are colored, and some of these are carried to the Saturday night service, as well as a portion of the koolitsch and fowl to be blessed by the priest. This service is a continuous one, but as midnight is sounded the people break forth into song, and general kissing takes place with the expression: "Christ is risen," and the response: "He is risen, indeed." After this the worshipers repair to their homes and their dining-rooms, standing around the big table. The red egg is then divided and eaten, and for the first time in six weeks they partake of meat.

All "aater Sunday the church bells."

All Saster Sunday the church bells are rung, and for two days, in fact as long as the food lasts, they dine and visit.

Sundials.

Sundials are of great variety—horizontal, vertical, polar, spherical and portable. Of this last description one in use by the Pyrenean peasantry consists of two wooden cylinders, the smaller carrying a stylet and fitting into the other.

The oldest sundial on record was that of King Hezekiah about 740 B.C. On a column of a chapel perilously situated upon a rock in the Gironde River in France may be seen a sundial of 1866. The most recent and remarkable of sundials for its size and decoration is that of Juvisy, built in 1910, on the front of the Flammarion Observatory. This has a trapegoidal form, with a vertical surface and measures about thirteen feet in height and twenty-seven feet at the base.

Humidity is a term which is com ito general use and is often spoken of ithout a definite understanding of without a definite understanding of what it means. It refers always of course to the moisture in the atmosphere, but does not always mean the same proportion. There is at all times some moisture in the air, and the amount, expressed in number of graims to the cubic foot of air, is the absolute humidity, a term seldom used. When we speak of it we usually mean the relative humidity, which is the difference between the amount of moisture in the air and the amount it could hold at the present temperature, if it were sat-

The first pump ever invented was the heart of a man or animal, and it is to-day one of the most perfect pumps in use. The heart as a pump is decidedly up to date, and engineers unanimously agree that its principles of construction for the highest efficiency are correct and that it is not surpassed by any pump invented by man. It is not only a powerful force pump of incredible efficiency, but it is self-repairing and self-renovating. While the mechanism is in action it cleanses and purifies itself. For its aise and work it is the greatest pump of the age. Loan Co., Ltd.

Needless Alarma
A nervous man took his wife to a party and, having laid aside his things, waited for her to come downstairs from the dressing-room. The hostess saw him standing alone in the hall and exclaimed excitedly:
"Oh. Mr. Jenks, hasn't your wife come too?"
"Dear me, madam," screamed the nervous man, "nobody told me she had fainted!" And he rusred upstairs before the hostess could explain.
