

FIGHTING OF PAST THREE DAYS MOST VIOLENT SINCE BATTLE ALONG THE AISNE BEGAN

Battle Raged Yesterday Along Two-thirds of Front-- Germans Hurl Themselves Furiously Against Allies in Effort to Break Through, but Fail -- Fierce Bayonet Charges Mark Day's Operations -- Same Tenacity which Marked Beginning Still in Evidence -- Hand-to-Hand Encounters -- French Make Progress Against Left -- Famous Prussian Guard Suffers Defeat -- Enemy in Retreat in Russian Poland -- Zeppelin Attack on Paris--Tide of Battle Still With Allies.

On the Battlefront, via Paris, Sept. 27.—A French lieutenant, M. Verlin, is the hero of the day as the result of an affair in which he was the main figure yesterday.

The lieutenant and fifty men of his company were reconnoitering ten miles in advance of the main body on the Oise river when they encountered five thousand Germans. The Frenchmen took refuge in nearby woods and from this shelter fired volleys until only thirteen of their detachment remained alive and of these four were wounded. The party then crept away. The Germans hesitated to attack the woods for fear of a trap.

MOST FURIOUS FIGHTING SINCE BATTLE BEGAN.

Desperate attempts made by the Germans on the western end of the long line of battle to break through the allies forces which are engaged in a turning movement, have resulted in the most furious fighting which has taken place since the beginning of the campaign. After fighting without respite night and day corps after corps of Germans was hurled against the flower of the French and English armies today only to be thrown back.

The infantry bore the brunt of the incessant fighting but the artillery of both armies continued about twenty-four hours to bombard each other's positions. Hand-to-hand combats occurred at many points and bayonets were used freely.

SCOTS GREYS DYE HORSES BROWN.

The French colonial infantry, most of whose men wear medals for bravery displayed in colonial campaigns, was to the front and beside these men fought the Black Senegalez troops, while along the line the British troops held an important point with the greatest determination.

TO CREATE HOME MARKET FOR CANADIAN APPLES

Department of Trade and Commerce to Conduct Campaign to Increase Consumption of Canadian Apples in the Dominion, and Create New Sources of Demand to Replace European Markets Cut Off by War.

Ottawa, Sept. 26.—The Department of Trade and Commerce under the direction of Sir George E. Foster will conduct a Dominion-wide advertising campaign to increase the consumption of Canadian apples throughout Canada.

Although the finest apples in the world are produced in this country many Canadians have had to content themselves in previous years with apples imported from the United States. This was due to the fact that Europe, appreciating the quality of Canadian apples, imported them in very considerable quantities. The exports of Canadian apples to the United Kingdom have been running 1,500,000 barrels a year. In addition, seventy-five per cent. of all the apples evaporated have been exported to Germany, Austria-Hungary and other countries in continental Europe.

The war has resulted in a curtailment of the market for Canadian apples in Great Britain. It has also resulted in jeopardizing for this year the trade in evaporated apples with continental Europe, for Germany was the clearing house for most of that trade.

In view of these conditions the Department of Trade and Commerce, as a general effort to assist in creating new sources of demand to replace those cut off by the war, has been seeking to devise some means of assisting Canadian apple growers in quickly changing the market for Canadian apples from export to domestic channels. In order to effect the change in the quickest possible way the Minister of Trade and Commerce, Sir George E. Foster, has decided, after several conferences during the past week with the manager of the Canadian Press Association, Mr. John M. Irvine, to use the means that would confront with a similar situation, namely: To advertise Canadian apples to the people of Canada in order to increase the demand for them in the home market. All that is necessary in order to secure the increased consumption of Canadian apples in Canada is to let the Canadian know the food and other values of the Canadian apple and that instead of using imported fruits they may have this year the products of Canadian apple orchards that in previous years has graced the tables of Europe's nobility.

As the apple crop is now ready for harvesting the announcement of Sir George Foster's plan will be welcome news to the apple growers throughout Canada. As the message to the public had to follow immediately and the preparation and handling of the campaign involved a great deal of work that had to be crowded into a short period the Department of Trade and Commerce decided to entrust the whole campaign to J. J. Gibbons, Limited, who handle the advertising campaigns of many Canadian manufacturers. Expert advertising men are now in consultation with Sir George Foster, Hon. Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture, and other officials of the Department of Agriculture, and the advertisements in the campaign will commence in a few days in public locations throughout Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

MAJ. GEN. ALDERSON MAY COMMAND THE CANADIAN FORCES

Served in Boer War and in Egypt — Author of Several Works on Military Subjects.

London, Sept. 27.—The question as to who is to command the Canadian contingent is one on which an announcement may be expected at any moment, but no information is yet forthcoming from official quarters. The names of two or three leading figures in English military life have, it is understood, been submitted by the Imperial Government to the Canadian minister of militia. Of these, your correspondent has every reason to believe that Major General Edwin Alfred Hervey Alderson, C. B., may be considered as the choice for the appointment.

Major General Alderson was born at Poyle House, Ipswich, April 8, 1859. He received his education in the grammar school at Ipswich, and the Royal West Kent Regiment in 1878. He became a major in 1886 and served in the Boer war. He was in command of the Mounted Infantry and troops in Mashonaland, and also commanded mounted infantry in South Africa in 1900-01. He has held many other high offices in connection with the Empire's forces. He is the author of several interesting works connected with the operation of British forces.

Bordeaux, Sept. 26, 4.15 p. m.—The Germans are paying marked attention to the home of President Raymond Poincaré and the members of his family. The president's country house at Campigny in the department of Meuse, 25 miles south of Verdun, was bombarded with special violence yesterday, and according to news received here by the French government, the Germans previously had pillaged the house of the president's parents at Nubécourt, and the home of Lucien Poincaré at Triaucourt, a cousin of the president.

"The Russians approached the city from the southwest, forcing the Austrians to take shelter in the eastern forts where the entire garrison is now concentrated and is preparing to make a final resistance. The situation of the garrison is critical as it is entirely surrounded."

"Russian troops are advancing from Grodek on the Austrian positions while the right wing continues to attack from the north. Troops are being poured into the city of Przemyśl to press the attack from the southwest."

The Petrograd correspondent of the Daily Telegraph has forwarded the following semi-official statement regarding the operations in Russian Poland:

"The movement of German troops from East Prussia in the direction of Warsaw has come to nothing. In the government of Suwalki (Russian Poland) the Germans have suffered a serious reverse. The left flank of the Russian army has defeated the troops under the command of Gen. Von Hindenburg near Suwalki."

HON. MR. COCHRANE'S NAME MENTIONED AS SUCCESSOR TO SIR JAMES WHITNEY

Mr. Hearst, it is rumored here that Hon. Frank Cochrane, minister of railways and canals, may be chosen for the position. Mr. Cochrane was formerly minister of lands, forests and mines for Ontario, and was very highly regarded by his colleagues in the provincial cabinet.

GERMAN ATTEMPTS TO BREAK THROUGH ALLIES' LINES ARE REPULSED

DEADLY CANNON FIRE SERVANS' ANSWER TO ENEMY

Servian Commander Replies to Demand for Surrender by Opening Battery Fire on Austrians' Position.

London, Sept. 27, 6.30 p. m.—A Paris despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company says:

"Wounded men have arrived at Mostoucon give details of the siege of Fort Troyon, near Verdun. They say that while the Germans were bombarding the commander of the fort did not reply. The enemy, believing that the fort had been evacuated, approached in order to destroy a redoubt."

"The commander of the fort then set fire to two cart loads of straw inside the structure, and the Germans, convinced that their shells had started the fire and that they could easily take the place, advanced in close formation."

"The French suddenly unmasked their mitrailleuses, which opened a deadly fire. The number of German bodies abandoned on the slopes around Fort Troyon is estimated at 7,000."

Answer From the Cannon's Mouth

Nish, Servia, via Paris, Sept. 27 (6.05 p.m.)—According to reports reaching here from Belgrade when a representative of the Austrian commander, bearing a white flag, was admitted to the presence of the Servian commander with the demand for the surrender of the capital, the Servian officer replied:

"Return to your camp and in three hours you will receive my answer from the cannon's mouth."

"Three hours later a Servian battery opened fire upon the Austrian positions across the Danube."

ASIATIC CHOLERA ADDS TO TROUBLES OF AUSTRIAN ARMY

Vienna, via Rome, Sept. 26.—The government bacteriologists sent to the concentration hospital, where the wounded are being cared for, have established the presence of genuine Asiatic cholera. Every effort is being made to isolate and stamp out disease and all patients who exhibit the slightest signs of illness are rushed to an isolated camp where they remain under observation. The fact that there are probably 70,000 wounded in the camp, and in the city, adds to the seriousness of the situation.

Enemy Renews Attacks on Allies' Front, but Fails to Make an Opening and is Driven Back --- Morale of The Troops Is Excellent Despite Terrible Onslaughts Made by Germans for Three Days, Almost Continuously --- Commanders Having Hard Job to Keep Men From Rushing Enemy in His Defences --- Progress on Right Wing and General Situation Satisfactory.

Paris, Sept. 27.—The official communication issued tonight says that the Germans continued night and day attacks of unprecedented violence but have not been successful. The text follows:

"It is confirmed that since the night of the 25th to the 26th and up to far into the day of the 27th, the Germans have not ceased, night or day, to renew on the entire front attacks of unprecedented violence, with the determined purpose of trying to break through our lines."

"These attacks were made with a uniformity which denotes instructions from the highest command to seek the solution of the battle."

"Not only have they not been able to accomplish it, but during the action we have captured one flag, some cannon and many prisoners. The flag was taken from the enemy by the Twenty-fourth Regiment of Colonial Infantry."

"All our army commanders make special mention of the fact that the morals of our troops, notwithstanding this uninterrupted struggle, continues to be excellent and that they themselves even have trouble to hold back the troops in their desire to rush on the enemy who is sheltered in defensive positions."

The following official war bulletin was issued this afternoon:

"First—On our left wing the battle has been continued with perceptible progress on our part. On the front between the Rivers Oise and Somme and on the north of the Somme from the Oise to Rheims very violent attacks by the Germans have been made at several points, some of them being at the point of the bayonet but they were all repulsed. In many places the French and German trenches were not more than one hundred meters apart."

"Second—In the centre from Rheims to Souain the Prussian guard has undertaken unsuccessfully a vigorous offensive, being hurled back in the region of Berry-Aux-Bac, (eleven miles northeast of Rheims and about 25 miles east of Soissons) and Negent L'Abbesse, (three miles due east of Rheims.) From Souain yesterday the enemy made an unsuccessful attack between the highway leading from Somme to Chalons-Sur-Marne and the line of the railway from St. Menchould to Youldier. At the end of the day our troops regained the ground that they had lost."

"Between the region of the Argonne and the Meuse the enemy has not manifested any activity. On the heights of the Meuse nothing new has developed. In the southern part of the Woëvre district the Germans occupy a front which passes by St. Mihiel and to the northwest of Pont-A-Mousson."

"On our right wing in Lorraine, the Vosges and Alsace there has been no important change."

A despatch to the Havas Agency from Amsterdam says that in order to prevent the exportation of contraband articles to Germany the Netherlands government has declared martial law in the eastern provinces.

German and French Red Cross Officers Exchanged.

CHEAPER MARRIAGE RATES FOR THE MEN GOING TO THE FRONT

Archbishop of Canterbury Urges a Reduction in Fees.

London, Sept. 27, 5.29 p. m.—The Archbishop of Canterbury has sent a letter to all the bishops urging them to reduce the marriage license fees so that soldiers and sailors summoned to active service may marry before leaving home. The marriage fee aggregate ten dollars, which includes $2.50 in stamped duty to the government. The archbishop has requested the government to waive the payment of this duty in the case of recruits and expects that his request will be granted.

Many dioceses already have lowered the license fee to $2.50 and the clergymen are waiving their right to personal fees. The wholesale encouragement of marriages on the part of the soldiers and sailors of Germany, Austria and France has attracted much attention in England and probably inspired the archbishop's action.

STATION CONTINUES FAVORABLE TO THE ALLIES

FIGHTING OF PAST THREE DAYS MOST INTELLIGENT SINCE BATTLE ALONG THE AISNE BEGAN

The French troops showed more than their accustomed dash in attack and everywhere acts of wonderful courage were performed. The cavalry also participated in the engagement at many points, the allies horses having enjoyed a long rest which enabled this part of the service to distinguish itself. The famous Scots Greys, finding that the color of their horses conferred a prominent mark for the German riflemen, had dyed their mounts brown.

Another prominent French officer, Gen. Marquet, has met death on the field.
At Nubecourt, home of the parents of President Poincare, the Germans broke open the German family vault, it is reported, and buried a number of their dead there. The Germans placarded the town of Valenciennes, demanding from the mayors of neighboring communes lists of the available supplies of clothing and food.

Along almost two-thirds of the great battle line across northeastern France the armies of the allies and Germany fought fiercely today, at some points with the bayonet and tonight statements from both sides are worded with the optimism which has characterized all these official announcements. It was agreed that the allies had continued their advance.

The French claimed "marked progress," the German announcement, from Berlin, though insisting that the advance had been repulsed, nevertheless referred to it as an advance. Elsewhere along the battle front neither side seems to have achieved any notable success.

The continued forward movement of the Russian troops in Galicia; the appearance of German air craft dropping bombs over various places in Belgium, and again in Paris and Warsaw, and the movement of vast bodies of German troops into Russia by way of East Prussia were chiefly significant in a summary of the events in both theatres of war.

Of the German bombs thrown none seems to have done extensive damage. One man is reported to have been killed in Belgium and one in Paris.

There is an unconfirmed report that an attack on Antwerp is impending. Neither army has achieved anything notable since the allies have reported progress in one direction. The allies at one point claim to have thrown back a desperate advance by the crack Prussian guard, and the Germans insist that today, with a weaker force, their right has checked the advance of a mixed French and British force brought up by rail.

Recurring references to bayonet charges seem to prove conclusively that this picturesque and heroic phase of warfare, which it was thought had been killed by the advent of the great guns and other equipment of modern armies is not all a thing of the past.

The French official communication says that at some points the trenches are only a few hundred meters apart; thus a small portion of the millions engaged have known the stimulation and thrill of hand-to-hand fighting.

Despatches from Petrograd report that fierce fighting still goes on in Galicia, though Cracow, towards which the Russian hosts have been marching ever since Pzemysl was invested and the communications cut, has not yet been attacked.

To the north, the German invasion is assuming vaster proportions, notwithstanding the Russian war office insists that the Germans are being repulsed at the frontier. It is estimated here that the German front extends from the Baltic coast to the southern boundary of Silesia, a distance of about 400 miles.

What opposition the Germans have met is believed to have been little more than a cavalry screen. The fighting centered again today along the River Niemen, from Druskenki, in Suwalki, Russian Poland, to Sopotzka. The official statement issued tonight at Petrograd says that the German artillery has been unable to assume the offensive at Sopotzka and that their retreat was more or less general.

There has been a dearth of naval news in the last twenty-four hours, and although the fall of the Austrian seaport Cattaro has been reported imminent for several days, that event has not yet been recorded.

The German emperor's illness variously described last week as a severe cold and influenza, is now said to be inflammation of the lungs, due to the emperor falling into a water filled trench.

To the cholera, heretofore reported among the Austrian troops, has been added, according to an Antwerp despatch typhus fever, which is said to be raging in the German camps around Brussels and near Termonde. It is reported that several hundred Germans have already succumbed to this disease.

London, Sept. 27 (1.10 p.m.)—The French have surrounded and annihilated the 10th Regiment of German Reserves," says the Basel correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company, in a message sent by way of the Exchange Telegraph Company, in a message sent by way of Rome. The despatch adds: "The German wounded include a colonel, a major, two captains and two lieutenants."

One bomb was dropped at Rollegheem but did no damage. The Zeppelin disappeared in the direction of France.

London, Sept. 27 (6.18 p.m.)—A despatch to the Reuter Telegram Company from Antwerp says that the bombardment of Malines. The people were obliged to quit their homes and take refuge in the cellars. Heavy guns firing is also heard in the direction of Hofstade.

London, Sept. 28 (5.15 p.m.)—The official press bureau this afternoon issued a statement reading as follows: "There has been much activity on the part of the enemy along the line in France."

"Some heavy counter attacks have been repulsed and a considerable loss has been inflicted on the enemy's side."

The press bureau issued a statement this evening that seventeen persons lost their lives on Sept. 17, through the foundering of the Fishguard.

Zeppelin Which Attempted Raid on Warsaw Destroyed
London, Sept. 27 (4.50 p.m.)—A Zeppelin aircraft made a raid on Warsaw at five o'clock Saturday morning, says the Warsaw correspondent of the Reuter Telegram Company. The dirigible was shot down near the fortress Modlin and its crew was captured. The operators of the Zeppelin previously had dropped two bombs near the station of the Kalisz railroad, but the one on the bomb exploded and this caused little damage.

"At Bapaume (in Pas-De-Calais, fourteen miles southeast of Arras) an advanced French division was repulsed by a smaller German force."

"In the centre of the battle front we have made slight gains."

"The forts under bombardment south of Verdun have withdrawn their fire and our artillery is now engaged with forces which the enemy brought up on the west bank of the Meuse."

GERMAN SUBMARINE WHICH BLEW UP BRITISH WAR SHIPS.

She is 30 tons, and her armament consists of three 18-inch torpedoes and two 1-pounder guns. Her speed submerged is eight knots, while on the surface she travels at the rate of thirteen knots.

DECISIVE BATTLE IN EAST PRUSSIA PROBABLY FOUGHT WITHIN WEEK

German Reinforcement Being Rushed There to Offset Austrian Failures—Russians Have Advantage of Choice of Position.

London, Sept. 27, 24. 0 p.m.—"Germany is reinforcing her army in East Prussia at the rate of one army corps per day," says a despatch from Petrograd to Lloyd's News Agency. "The reinforcements are being carried by 250 trains on all four available railways. Other troops are being hurried from Austria and Schemmelmühl to Baltic ports and thence by sea to East Prussia."

"All this is in preparation for the great and decisive battle now being fought along the whole western line. At least 800,000 German troops are now gathered in an effort to balance the Austrian failures. The armies are already in touch and the big battle is bound to come soon. The Russians will have the advantage, however, because the fighting will be on ground chosen by the Russian leaders."

PARIS BOMBARDED BY SHELLS FROM GERMAN AEROPLANES

Man's Head Blown Off and Little Girl Crippled—Congregation Panic Stricken, Flee from Church—Bombs Aimed at Eiffel Tower Damage Houses in Vicinity.

Paris, Sept. 27, 4.10 p.m.—Four bombs were dropped on the city from German aeroplanes today, one of which, exploding in Avenue Du Trocadero at the corner of Rue Dufrenoy, killed a man and wounded a girl. The other bombs did little damage.

Crowds, taking advantage of a beautiful autumn day, were promading on the banks of the Seine when the aerial warbler appeared almost directly over the Eiffel tower. It is believed that the first bomb dropped was intended for the wireless station on the tower, or possibly for the nearby buildings containing arm stores. It landed, Avenue Du Trocadero, not far from the tower with a crash, and the explosion was heard for many blocks around the vicinity were badly damaged, many of the walls cracking, while windows were shattered and a block from the American embassy where Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, who is in the city, was struck.

In the wake of the bomb fluttered a German flag. A crowd of women first rushed for shelter and then as the alarm moved on they hurried to the scene of the havoc. A cordon of police which was quickly thrown about the debris and the mangled body of the man killed was found and removed.

Nearby the body, the girl was found, her lower limbs being severed. A crowd of women gathered around the child as she was borne to a hospital.

Among the houses damaged was the residence of the Prince of Monaco. The buildings containing arm stores suffered considerably. At the time of the attack services were being conducted in the American Holy Trinity church in Avenue De L'Alma. Many of the congregation fled to the streets, and so far as to reserve the right to seize food stuffs, military stores, raw materials, etc., that may be required for the defence of Holland. The commissioner states, however, that the freedom of Dutch ports to German imports or exports is of little moment at present, as practically no grain ships and few of any kind were en route when he wrote on September 17th.

Mr. Lithgow says that as a result of the interruption of traffic 60,000 men are out of employment at Rotterdam. The Dutch troops called out before September 1st totalled 240,000 men.

Mr. Stephen J. Leard, North Tron, P. E. I. writes:—"At seventy-five years of age my heart gave out and became very irregular and weak in action and would palpitate. My nerves also became weak, and I could do nothing but lie in bed in a languishing condition, losing strength and weight. In that condition I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and am cured. Had I not obtained this treatment I would now be in the box with the rest of my race. At eighty-one I have an energy which means to me that I am writing this letter so that old people like myself may prolong their health and strength by using this great medicine." 50c. a box six for $2.50. French Velvet Hats

Most Recent Paris' Fad in Late Autumn and Early Winter Wear
That Velvets would dominate feminine headwear fashions for fall and early winter, was predicted by French millinery style authorities just prior to the war. The truth of the forecast is already apparent in the growing popularity of velvets as the season advances.

We secured this year an unusual large and fine line of Real French Velvets, and as we have plenty of these to meet the season's needs, we have decided NOT TO ADVANCE THE PRICE.

THE LAST WORD IN FASHIONS is expressed in our Models and Trimmings, and, as we make a point of sending four of our milliners to New York to obtain the newest style developments, those who seek Fashion's final decrees in feminine headwear should consult our millinery artists.

from His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, intimating that a draft for $285,000 is being mailed from the women of Canada. Of this $100,000 will be handed to the war office, while the balance will be devoted to the establishment and equipment of a naval hospital near Portsmouth. The Admiralty had not anticipated that the promise of aid by the Canadian women would be so generously carried out. The war office has no definite plan of allocation for the money but will try to devote it to a scheme with which the name of the Canadian women will be associated.

The military hospital established by the Canadian War Contingent Association is likely to be opened the latter part of this week.

Most Recent Paris 'Fad' in Late Autumn and Early Winter Wear

That Velvet would dominate feminine headwear fashions for fall and early winter, was predicted by French millinery style authorities just prior to the war. The truth of the forecast is already apparent in the growing popularity of velvets as the season advances.

THE LAST WORD IN FASHIONS

We secured this year an unusually large and fine line of Real French Velvets, and as we have plenty of these to meet the season's needs, we have decided NOT TO ADVANCE THE PRICE.

"John, in God's name, come 'ere an' take a peek through this glass. I'm dreamin'!"
The mate jumped and took the glass.
"Where away, sir?"
"A pint off th' sta'board bow. See something white bobbin' up?"
"Yes! Looks like some one dropped a bolster 'r a pillow overboard. . . . Cod's whiskers!" he broke off.

"There I ain't seen things," cried the mate. "St. Y' lubbers!" he yelled to the crew; "lower th' dory. They's a woman in th' water out there. I seen her leap th' rail. Look alive! Sharp's th' word! Mate, you go long."

The crew dropped their tasks and sprang for the davits, and the starboard dory was lowered in shipshape style.

It takes a good bit of seamanship to haul a body out of the sea into a dancing-balleted dory, when one moment it is clinging frantically to the side of the boat and the next heading for the bottomless pit. They were very tender with her. They laid her out in the bottom of the boat, with the life buoy as a pillow, and pulled energetically for the schooner. She was alive, because she breathed; but she did not stir so much as a cyloid. It was a stiff bit of work, too, to land her aboard without adding to her injuries. The mate ordered the men to put her in his own bunk, where he nearly strangled her by forcing raw brandy down her throat.

"Well, she's alive, anyhow!"
When Florence finally opened her eyes the gray of dawn lay on the sea, dotted here and there by the schooners of the fleet, which seemed to be hanging in midair, as at that moment there was visible to the eye no horizon.

"Don't seem 't recognize nothin'!"
"Mebbe she's got a fever," suggested the mate, rubbing his brittle chin.
"Fever nothin'!" Not after bein' in th' water half an hour. Mebbe she got one o' them wooden foos in her. Tactem digged liners keep on crowdin' us," growled Barnes, with a fisherman's hate for the floating hospital. "Went by with never a touch. See 'er, jes' like th' banker's wife goin' 't church on Sunday? A mile a minute; for or no fog, it's all the same 't 'em. What 'r tarraion we goin' to do? She'll buff 't stay aboard till th' run is over. I can't afford 't yank up my mudhook th' time o' day."

"Guess she can stand three 'r four days in our company, smellin' oolloths, fish, kerosene, an' punk 'bacco."

"If 'y' don't like th' kind o' 'bacco I buy, buy your own. I ain't objectin' none."

The mate stepped over to the bunk and gingerly ran his hand over the girl's head.
"Cod's whiskers! Cap'n, there's a bump as big's a cork on th' back o' her head! She's struck one o' them floats all right. Where's th' arkna?"

Barnes turned to his locker and rummaged about, finally producing an ancient bottle and some passably clean cloth used frequently for bandages. Sometimes a man grew careless with his knife or got in the way of a pulley block. With blundering kindness the two men bound up the girl's head, and then went about their duties.

For three days Florence evinced not the slightest inclination to leave the bunk. She lay on her back either asleep or with her eyes staring at the beams above her head. She ate just enough to keep her alive; and the strong black coffee did nothing more than to make her wakeful. No one knew what the matter was. There was the bump, now diminished; but that it should leave her in this comatose state vastly puzzled the men. The truth is she had suffered a slight concussion of the brain, and this, stop of all the worry she had had for the last few weeks, was sufficient to cause this blackness of the mind.

The final cod was cleaned and packed away in salt, the mudhook raised, and the schooner Betty set her sails for the southeast. Barnes realized that to save the girl she must have a doctor who knew his business. Mrs. Barnes would know how to care for the girl, once she knew what the trouble was. There would be some news in the papers. A young and beautiful woman did not jump from a big Atlantic liner without the newspapers getting hold of the facts. A fair wind carried the Betty into her haven; and shortly after Florence was sleeping peacefully in a feather bed, ancient, it is true, but none the less soft and inviting. In all this time she had not spoken a single word.

"The poor young thing!" murmured the motherly Mrs. Barnes. "What beautiful hair! O, John, I wish you would give up the sea. I hate it. It is terrible. I am always watching you in my mind's eye, in calm weather, in storms. Pieces of wreck come ashore, and I always wonder over the death and terror back of them."

"Don't 'y' worry none about me, Betty. I never take no chances. Now I'm goin' int' th' village an' bring back th' sawbones. He'll tell us what 't do."

The village doctor shook his grizzled head gravely.
"She's been hurt and shocked at the same time. It will be many days before she comes around to herself. Just let her do as she pleases. Only keep an eye on her so that she doesn't wander off and get lost. I'll watch like the newspapers, and if I come across anything which bears upon the case I'll notify you."

But he searched the newspapers in vain, for the simple fact that he did not think to glance over the old ones.

The village took a good deal of interest in the affair. They gossiped about it and strolled out to the Barnes' cottage to satisfy their curiosity. One thing was certain to their simple minds: some day Barnes would get a great sum of money for his kindness.

They had read about such things in the family story paper. She was a rich man's daughter; the ring on the unknown's finger would have fitted out a fleet.

Florence was soon able to walk about. Ordinary conversation she seemed to understand; but whenever the past was broached she would shake her head with frowning eyes. Her main diversion consisted of sitting on the sand dunes and gazing out at sea.

One day a stranger came to town. He said he represented a life insurance company and was up here from Boston to take a little vacation. He sat on the hotel porch that evening, surrounded by an admiring audience. The stranger had been all over the idea of remaining in the village and accomplishing the work himself; but after deliberation he concluded that it was important enough for Braine himself to take a hand in. So the following night he departed for Boston, from there to New York. He proceeded at once to the apartment of the princess, where Braine declared that he himself would go to the obscure village and claim Florence as his own child. But to insure absolute success they would charter Mow's yacht and steam right up into the primitive harbor.

When Vron left the apartment Norton saw him. He was a man of impulses, and he had found by experience that first impulses are generally the best. He did not bully. Do you understand me?"

"I get you. But there's no need to go to Corrigan this trip. Bannock is in port and sails tonight for Norway. That's far enough."
"Bannock? The very man. Well, Mr. Norton, reporter and amateur detective, I guess we've got you fast enough this time. You may or may not come back alive. Go and bring around a taxi; some one you can trust. I'll dope the reporter while you're gone."

Long hours afterward Norton opened his aching eyes. He could hardly move and his head buzzed abominably. What had happened? What was the meaning of this slow rise and fall of his bed? Shantghailed!
"Come out o' that now, ye skulker!" roared a voice down the companionway.

"Shantghailed!" the reporter murmured. He sat up and ran through his pockets. Not a soundmark, not a match even; and a second glance told him that the clothes he wore were not his own. "They've landed me this time. Shantghailed! What the devil am I going to do?"

"D'ye hear me?" bawled the strident voice again.
Norton looked about desperately for some weapon of defense. He saw an engineer's spanner on the floor by the bunk across the way, and with no small physical effort he succeeded in obtaining it. He stood up, his hand behind his back.

"All right, me bucko! I'll come down an' git ye."

A pair of enormous boots began to appear down the companionway, and there gradually rose up from them a man as wide as a church door and as deep as a well.

"Wait a moment," said Norton, gripping the spanner. "Let us have a perfect understanding right off the bat. If you do you'll find a heap of trouble waiting for you the next time you drop your mudhook in North river."

"Is that so?" said the giant, eyeing the spanner and the shaking hand that held it aloft.

"I've been shantghailed, and you know it. Where are we bound?"
"Copenhagen."
"Well, for a month or more you'll beat me up whenever the opportunity offers. But I meanly wish to warn you that if you do you'll find a heap of trouble waiting for you the next time you drop your mudhook in North river."

"Is that so?" said the giant, eyeing the spanner and the shaking hand that held it aloft.

"It is. I'll take your orders and do the best I can, because you've got the upper hand. But, God is witness, you'll pay for every needless blow you strike. Now what do you want me to do?"

"Lay down that spanner an' come on deck. I'll tell ye what 't do. I was gon' 't while th' daylight's out o' ye; but ye're somethin' 'r a man. Drop th' spanner first."

Norton hesitated. As little as a tiger the bulk of a man sprang at him and crushed him to the floor, wrenching away the spanner. Then the giant took Norton by the scruff of his neck and banged him up the steps to the deck.

"I ain't gon' 't hurt ye. I had 't show ye that no spanner ever bothered Mike Bannock. Now, d'ye know what a cook's galley is?"

"I do," said Norton, breathing hard.

"Well, like there an' start in with peelin' spuds, an' don't waste 'em, neither. That'll be all for th' present. Ye were due to a wallopin', but I kinda like yer spunk!"

So Jim stumbled down to the cook's galley and grimly set to work at the potatoes. It might have been far worse. But here he was, likely to be on his seas for months, and no way of notifying Jones what had happened. The outlook was anything but cheerful. But a vague hope awoke in his heart. If they were still after him, might it not signify that Florence lived.

Meantime Braine had not been idle. According to Vron the girl's memory was in bad shape; so he had not the least doubt of bringing her back to New York without mishap. Once he had her there, the game would begin in earnest. He played his cards exceedingly well. Steamship up into the little fishing harbor with a handsome yacht in itself would alay any distrust. And he wore a capital disguise, too. Everything went well till he laid his hand on Florence's shoulder. She gave a startled cry and ran over to Barnes, clinging to him wildly.

"No, no!" she said.
"No what, my child?" asked the sailor. She shook her head. Her aversion was inexplicable.

"Come, my dear; can't you see that it is your father?" Braine turned to the captain. She has been like this for a year. Heaven knows if she'll ever be in her right mind again, sadly. "I was giving her an ocean voyage, with the kindest nurses possible, and yet she jumped overboard. Come Florence."

The girl wrapped her arms all the tighter around Barnes' neck.

"An idea came into the old sailor's head. "Of course, sir, y've got proof that she's your daughter?"
"Proof?" Braine was taken aback.

"Yes; something 't prove that you're her father. I got skinned out of a sleep once because I took a man's word at his face value. Black an' white, an' on paper, says I hereafter."

"But I never thought of such a thing," protested Braine, beginning to lose his patience. "I can't risk sending to New York for documents. She is my daughter, and you will find it will not pay to take this peculiar stand."

"In black an' white, 'y' can't have her." Braine thereupon rushed forward to seize Florence. Barnes swung Florence behind him.

stairs the floor dropped from under his feet and he was precipitated into the cellar.
This tenement belonged to the Black Hundred; it concealed a thousand doors and a hundred traps. Its history was as dark as its hallways.

When Vron and his companion, who had been waiting for him, descended into the cellar they found the reporter insensible. They bound, blindfolded, and gagged him quickly.

"Saunders," said Vron, "you tell Corrigan that I've a sailor for him tonight, and that I want this sailor booked for somewhere south of the equator. Tell him to say to the master that this fellow is ugly and disobedient. A tramp freighter, whose captain is a

SURPRISES FOR GERMANY.

The present war in Europe has been prolific in surprises, as a writer in the Boston Transcript points out, and the Germans have suffered most from the happening of the unexpected. In the first place, it is reasonable to believe that the German Government held the idea that Great Britain would not enter the conflict, despite the agreements of the Triple Entente, or, if she did enter it, she would be ineffective because of the questions of internal importance by which she was divided. Those who held that view, however, were disillusioned when the announcement that Great Britain was in a state of war speedily cemented into one mighty force political parties into one mighty force actuated only by the sole idea of doing what was best for the nation without regard to political expediency.

Another surprise for the Germans was the defence put up by the Belgians. Germany expected to find through Belgium an easy road to Paris, but the men of King Albert's little fighting force, by their resistance at Liege, and their gallant conduct on every occasion on which they came into contact with the foe, caused this opinion to be quickly revised.

Then the speed with which the Russian army was mobilized, and its complete effectiveness after it got into action, proved another instance where, using baseball parlance, "the dope was all wrong." Germany fully believed that it would be possible to make a lightning march to Paris and render the French army ineffective before the Russians could exercise much pressure on the eastern frontier. In this they were astray, for the gallant resistance of the Belgians, and the quick bringing into action of the British and French forces, so hindered their progress toward Paris that even before the allies started to drive them back, the Russians had penetrated a considerable distance into Austrian and German territory, had captured a number of important posts, and had inflicted an incalculable amount of damage.

The fighting quality of the British troops was another eye-opener, and on this point the Boston Transcript remarks: "It may seem astonishing that anyone should have doubted the stubborn steadfastness of the British soldier, but the German military writers ever since the Boer War have assumed that the British learned no lessons in that contest." Military writers, writing in and for Berlin, have emphasized the easy surrenders of the British in certain instances to the Boers. From this the same writers have proceeded to assume that a nation of shop-keepers as they are fond of calling Great Britain, cannot be converted into a nation of soldiers. From this error of judgment, which had its origin in the self-satisfaction of militarism, the Germans have had the rudest kind of an awakening. They have found the soldiers of King George the sturdiest of antagonists and, withal, not lacking in dash. Tommy Atkins is now taking out in fighting satisfaction for all the accusations of "softness" levelled at him from Berlin, which in the piping times of peace he was compelled to endure in silence.

Not only have the British and French soldiers proven the superior in the attitude of the sister nations comprising the British Empire. Germany had been led to believe that India was seething with discontent and dissatisfaction, that Canada was awaiting but a favorable opportunity to drop away from the Empire like ripe fruit from the tree, that, in the face of the Home Rule question and other matters of lesser import, Great Britain itself could not unite in a struggle against a common foe. In all of their opinions German authorities were wrong. When too late to draw back they found that England was as one man, that the Belgians possessed fighting qualities of high order, that the Russian army, instead of the semi-barbarous, unwieldy organization they pictured, was an up-to-date, well-officed, well-equipped fighting machine of wonderful force and power, that the British soldiers, no matter what opinion the Germans formed of them in the South African war, could fight as well as at any time in Britain's glorious history, and that the immense resources of the British sister nations in men, money and materials, were at the disposal of the Motherland first, last and all the time.

For years much has been said and written regarding the effectiveness of the German intelligence departments of the legions of military and civil spies scattered all over the world and entrusted with the duty of keeping the Fatherland informed of conditions everywhere. If Germany's action in engaging in the present conflict was based upon information received from secret agents, then it looks as if the German secret service system is as much a bubble as the vaunted German army. Both will collapse at the same pricking.

If there is anything left of the Hohenzollern family after this war is over, it there still is a Germany and a German government, all of which may be seriously regarded as open to doubt, then it would seem that the first duty of the survivors will be to rid Germany of false prophets and reorganize on a better and firmer basis. The German people, as a people, have many qualities that are worthy of admiration, but, apparently, foresight and political shrewdness are not among them. Germany has made a terrible mistake and will pay dearly for it.

Another surprise for the Germans was the defence put up by the Belgians. Germany expected to find through Belgium an easy road to Paris, but the men of King Albert's little fighting force, by their resistance at Liege, and their gallant conduct on every occasion on which they came into contact with the foe, caused this opinion to be quickly revised.

"What of the faith and fire within us,
"Men who march away?"
"Ere the barcock saw,
"Night is growing gray,
"To hazards whence no tears can win us,
"What of the faith and fire within us,
"Men who march away?"
"Is it a purbling prank, O, think you,
"Friend with the musing eye,
"Who watch us stepping by,
"With the doubts and dolorous sigh:
"Can much pondering so hoodwink you,
"Is it a purbling prank, O, think you,
"Friend with the musing eye?"

"Nay, we see well what we are doing,
"Though some may not see—
"Dalliers as they may be—
"England's need are we,
"Her wars are ours we rue;
"Nay we see well what we are doing,
"Though some may not see."
"In our heart of hearts believing,
"Victory crowns the just,
"German wisprings must,
"Sorely bite the dust,
"March we to the fields ungriving,
"In our heart of hearts believing,
"Victory crowns the just."

"Hence the faith and fire within us,
"Men who march away?"
"Ere the barcock saw,
"Night is growing gray,
"To hazards whence no tears can win us,

"Men who march away?"

British Brothers.

What will the war mean to the British Empire? Of the titanic struggle now raging in Europe a new world will arise and a new British Empire. As Germany's victory over France meant a new Germany born on the battlefield, so Britain's victory over Germany will change the world for the British peoples.

The question is put and answered by a writer in the "New Zealand Herald." He says: "During the century of peace that has closed upon Britain—for since the fall of Napoleon there has been no war within reach of British ports, and no possibility of attack has concerned the peoples of three kingdoms—during this hundred years almost lost their sense of nationality. They have sent out missionaries, they have not preached a crusade against the slum or outlawed the wrongs endured by their own hapless fellow countrymen. They have boasted of the British flag, but they have allowed the British sailor to be crowded to the corners of the world by a flood of undesirable immigrants, and British industries to be crushed by the 'dumping' of cheap goods."

The greatest steamship company under the British flag could not take a single crew member from her seamen while her own unemployed swarmed in her cities, foreigners came by the tens of thousands to take work from the hands of the bread from British mouths. Her labor organizations denounced the Asiatic exclusion laws of the Dominion, and her officials wondered in blind wonderment at our "narrow" colonial temper. In a thousand ways, the British should be ashamed of the state into which she has fallen. They should help one another to better things and stand by one another against the world.

A Wicked Peace

"There was more wickedness and wrong done in England during the depth of its peacefulness than has been done in England by all its fighting and its wars. This belief that war is to be more, victor the police, man would keep order for ever, that there was no reason for loving one's countrymen better than any others, soaked like our poison into the very marrow of English society."

that shall never again be broken we shall insure, senseless, that every British boy grows fit to be a fighter and that every British girl grows fit to be a mother. We shall root out the slum and all the slum conditions. We shall see that no child lacks in a civilization bursting with peace and that every British child grows fit to be a world-wide British that can only live while for her they are glad to die."

Gen. A. Joubert - Pienaar fought against Field Mar. at Elandslaagte, going to front with British troops.

Bordeaux, Sept. 27, 7.45 p. m.—The Boer General Francois Joubert, Pienaar has arrived at Bordeaux to offer his sword to the allied armies. "I fought against General French in South Africa. Now I am going to fight with him," said the general to the correspondent. "I commanded a Boer army opposed to him at Elandslaagte where I received my baptism of fire in civilised warfare."

"I have offered my services unconditionally and do not know as yet how I will be employed, but expect that it will be in an advisory capacity and that I will be attached to General French's staff."

"The war will be long and fierce. The German army, which I know well, is the finest fighting machine in the world, but we shall beat it in the end because our armies are something better than a machine."

London, Sept. 27.—One reason that is being urged against the re-opening of the Stock Exchange is the difficulty of preventing Germans taking advantage of it and deriving some benefit. Regulations prohibiting trading with the enemy will render it impossible for Germany to sell direct, but fears are entertained lest sales should be made through neutral centres such as New York, Holland and Denmark. Strong efforts are being made to make a clean sweep of the German element in great commercial corporations, and detectives are busy calling on men who have hitherto been frequenters of the exchange.

One case cited by the Financial News shows that a professedly British company, with a capital of $250,000 which was doing business here was practically owned by Germans. German held 25,000 shares in the company while the balance was held by suburban residents, mostly of the Boer proprietors.

The general belief is that the government wishes an exchange to be reopened before the moratorium ends on November 4th.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Till, widow of Wm. Till, Jr., editor and proprietor of the New Brunswick, died Saturday morning of pneumonia, aged 85 years. Notwithstanding her age, Mrs. Till was in good health until a week ago, when she was attacked by pneumonia with fatal results. Mr. Till, who was of loyalist descent, survived his husband 24 years. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. J. Gillis and Miss Gertrude, and two sons, Ernest T. of the Canadian Express Co. and William, a collector. Many friends will regret to hear of her death.

Miss Emma Pearl Curtis, twelve year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Curtis of Whiteville, died of pneumonia on the 22nd, after an illness of ten days. The funeral was held on the 23rd, interment in the Whiteville Baptist cemetery. Rev. Dr. Wm. Harrison of Newcastle conducting services.

You Buy Service
When you buy a watch, you buy service—valuable service, for time is money in the business world and the man who has no watch handicaps himself unjustly.

Why deprive yourself of the money-making service a watch gives you when you can buy a good watch for a small sum.

The service a good watch will render you will gain for you in actual dollars and cents many times the cost of the watch. If that were not a fact, watches would still be luxuries and only the wealthy would buy them.

A watch is a necessity to all men and women who make the most of their time. If you are not an idler, you need a good watch.

Germany has committed unpardonable crime of ages, says Rev. J. A. MacKeigan. In forcing this war Germany has not advanced civilization, but has committed the unpardonable crime of the ages, said Rev. Rev. David Roberts says that after first panic everything settled down - All confident. "After the first few days of panic following the outbreak of war industrial conditions in Great Britain returned to the normal, and when I left there trade was brisk, with prices at about their usual level except in the case of a few articles, such as sugar," said Rev. David Roberts, a prominent minister and social worker of Glasgow, who arrived in the city on Saturday.

GERMANS LEVY WAR TAX ON VALENCIENNES. Last evening, in the First Presbyterian church, West Side, Rev. Dr. Morrison delivered the sixth sermon in the war series to a large congregation. Taking his text from Eps. 6:14: "Stand therefore," he said the present campaign indicates that the splendid valor of the Roman soldier to which St. Paul here refers has not vanished from the world and when this war with its cruel atrocities and unspeakable horrors shall have been enveloped in the mists of oblivion there shall still appear like the lamps of the infinite God burning amidst these dark clouds, the splendid heroes of Britain's soldiers, who in the hour of battle stood unmoved and unafraid. This war at least will demonstrate that the courage of Balacava and of Inkerman and of countless other scenes of England's old time glory has not departed from British arms.

PATRIOTIC FUND

The patriotic fund has reached nearly $31,000. Generous gifts from citizens who can afford to augment their first contributions would quickly raise it to $50,000. Among the amounts received Saturday was $60 from the St. John Power Boat Club, and $42.55 from Mrs. Thomas P. Burpee, a gift of the Ladies' Sewing Circle of Upper Gagetown and Burton. Mrs. Burpee also enclosed $10.00 from J. N. Travis, and announced that these donations were in addition to $19.50 collected by Miss Marion Weston and Miss C. Lunt for the Hospital Ship, and fifteen pairs of socks sent by Miss Bessie Estabrook.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

A Suburban Home For $4,000

This house is of the Colonial type—simple and artistic. The beautiful piazza, balcony and window effects are what give the charm. The balcony over the kitchen extension is a very convenient arrangement, and is entered by a door in the sewing room not shown on the plan. It is a good place to sit, or for children to play when the ground is damp, and may be enclosed for an out-of-door sleeping place. Reception hall is large and well arranged, with a beautiful staircase on which is the handsome window shown on the slide. There is a seat by the stair platform, and a closet under the stairs. The entrance to living room is by an arch with handsome columns; also that to the library makes this a beautiful suite. The library has a pretty bay seat and a hanging tile fireplace with overmantel. Both of these rooms are well lighted and arranged. The dining room has a bay, and paneled ceiling with narrow boxed beams and a plate rail. Pantry is well arranged and the kitchen a very convenient shape. There is a good sized laundry on the second floor, there are three good bedrooms, a hall room, and a sewing room. There are excellent closets, and a linen closet. On the third floor are three rooms and a bath. Two of the rooms are rather small, but suitable for single rooms for servants.

The house is frame, clapboarded, with a herringbone roof, stone brick or concrete foundation; cemented cellar brick chimneys.

The following items give cost of construction:

Excavation $150
Millwork 1,000
Stone work 250
Carpenter work 350
Painting and Glazing 215
Hardware 75
Plastering 300

SLIGHT GROWTH IN CONFIDENCE IN EVIDENCE DURING PAST WEEK

Little Change in Conditions, but what there was is Towards Resumption of Normal.

Montreal, Sept. 26.—Despatches to Dunn's Review from branch offices of R. O. Dun and Company in the leading trade centres of the Dominion of Canada indicate very little change in general conditions, although there are indications of a slight growth in confidence.

Montreal reports that business in manufacturing lines is not especially active, except where operations have been stimulated by government contracts. Retail business is rather quiet, but there is a fair movement at wholesale in reasonable commodities, and confidence is expressed in the outlook.

At Quebec trade has been very active on account of the many soldiers located in the vicinity of that city, and merchants expect a brisk fall and winter business.

There is little change at Toronto, but with a slight improvement in the money market, confidence seems somewhat more pronounced. Textiles are in better demand, but the iron and steel industry is very quiet. While the movement of general merchandise is hardly up to that of a year ago, it is regarded as fairly satisfactory considering all conditions.

The situation in the Far West and Northwest is becoming more satisfactory because of excellent crop results and high prices for all products.

Winnipeg reports that while merchants have not been placing very large orders, their purchases are quite numerous, and aggregate a very fair business, especially in footwear, clothing, furnishing and household supplies. The crops in the vicinity of Regina are turning out better than expected, and this has stimulated confidence in business circles.

The situation at Calgary is practically unchanged, but agricultural demand and municipal improvement is

BRITAIN GOING AFTER GERMAN TOY TRADE

British Board of Trade includes Toy Business in List in campaign to help British Manufacturers.

London, Sept. 26.—The Commercial Intelligence Branch of the Board of Trade has sent the following communication to Mr. Herbert Shaw, secretary of the Newcastle and Gateshead Chamber of Commerce:

"With reference to my letter of August 29, regarding the campaign which has been initiated by the Board of Trade for assisting British manufacturers and traders for exhibiting in this country samples of goods formerly purchased from German, Austrian or Hungarian sources.

Gross earnings of all Canadian railroads reporting to date for the first two weeks in September show a decrease of 5.2 per cent, as compared with the earnings of the same period for the corresponding period a year ago. Commercial failures in the Dominion of Canada this week number 71, as against 58 last week and 68 the same week last year.

New York, Sept. 26.—Trade in the western provinces of Canada, tends to improve, money returns from crops being the chief influence, but elsewhere business is quiet and of the hand-to-mouth type. Real estate as well as building is very dull, funds being undebited for operations.

Collections in the Northwest have improved and in other sections payments are said to be good as expected in view of the present conditions. Threshing of wheat in the prairie provinces is about finished and heavy shipments are going to elevator points. Business failures are numerous, the total for the week ending Thursday being 66, against 59 last week and 42 in the corresponding week of 1913.

Bank clearings at sixteen cities for the week ending with Thursday last aggregate $151,142,000, a drop of a fraction of 1 per cent. from last week and of 14.6 per cent. from the like week of last year.

THE CLEARING UP PROCESS ON WALLST.

Possibility of European liquidation may prove obstacle to early reopening of stock exchange.

New York, Sept. 26.—A financial authority of this city, a man who as a bank executive has gone through many panics and whose official position today entitles his views to respect as being exceptionally well informed, gave the Journal of Commerce his ideas of the progress that, recently has been made in reconstructing the credit fabric at this center. As to the probable date that the New York Stock Exchange could with a reasonable degree of safety be expected to resume unrestricted business, he said it was still too early to discuss that question as a definite proposition.

"The possibility of European liquidation seemed, he said, to contain the greatest danger. No real information as to the probable volume of this liquidation, for obvious reasons, was available. It was a question that would be determined by spectacular successes or reverses on the European battlefields in the near future.

A certain amount of liquidation must be counted upon in any event. But it was necessary, the speaker argued, to consider that quotations for American securities had declined to a very low basis and that at the figures at which securities can now be purchased the new value of money as expressed by interest and dividend rates had been discounted.

As to the general banking situation, progress has been made during the last fortnight in strengthening loans. This meant corresponding contraction in the probability of involuntary liquidation of bank loans when the change was finally re-opened for business.

There would unquestionably be the incentive of patriotism abroad to induce nationals of the various countries to purchase the securities offered by their own governments. This would in turn result in the sales of outside securities. Americans among the rest, for the purpose of securing the cash to be represented by the new purchase price. But holders of American securities abroad would be inclined to count the heavy cost very actively

With the view of making this exhibition of the greatest practical value to British manufacturers and traders, he has been decided to arrange a series of exchange meetings between buyers desirous of obtaining such goods and British manufacturers who may already produce or might be likely to produce similar goods in this country. These exchange meetings will be arranged by trade, and will be held at Wakefield House, 30 and 32, Chesapeake, E. C. Import houses, wholesale houses and shipping houses, who have formerly purchased goods from Germany and Austria or Hungary, will be asked to bring such samples of these goods as may be in their possession for inspection by manufacturers and suppliers, and the Board of Trade will also make other efforts to ensure that such exhibition is of a comprehensive character.

The seasonal demand for toys, electrical apparatus and appliances, and cutlery. The value of Germany's exports in these trades in 1913 was as follows:

Toys and games	2,275,500
Earthenware and china	3,556,000
Enamelled hollow ware	1,776,000
Electrical apparatus and appliances	8,024,000

LABOR MEN COMPLETE BUSINESS

Delegates left for homes Saturday afternoon after successful Convention - Pleased with St. John.

The Trades and Labor Congress finished its sessions here Saturday morning, and nearly all the delegates left by the afternoon trains for their homes.

The report of the committee on officers was read. Regarding a resolution previously published condemning the war and calling upon organized workers to exert their best efforts to terminate the war was taken up and dealt with in the report of the executive, which was adopted.

Fighting for Principle. Delegate Sinclair stated that he was opposed to war, but the Congress was trying to call upon all forces to interfere to have the war stopped.

He felt that the country was in the war and to make an expression of this sort at the time would be unwise. It would virtually be to tell Germany that the working classes of this country were not in sympathy with their government.

The executive report on the point was then adopted. While condemning the system of war and the capitalist system, the report, which was unanimously adopted, stated that in this unfortunate struggle is involved a principle which should have our individual support.

The German people should have the way made clearer towards their freedom. This is evident not a war of Great Britain's choosing, and with the inevitable struggle now on, we express the hope that despotism in Europe will be hurried to its final destruction, to make way for constitutional freedom in all the countries in Europe, in preparation for the last and great struggle of the working class to their actual freedom.

While ready to move in co-operation with the workers of the world to end the struggle, yet, as at all times our great care should be to stand by their dependents at home in this Dominion.

Proposed Legislation. The officers' report suggested that the labor movement take up at the next session of parliament the two big questions of the amendment of the Act and old age pensions legislation to provide for pensions also for mothers and children, and this was adopted.

The stand taken by the Minister of Militia on the question of technical education was condemned. Constructive comment to the officers was made on their various reports. The report, with slight changes, was adopted.

The suggestion to appoint a committee of three to arrange to inaugurate co-operative societies in labor organizations was recommended and altered to provide for the establishment of co-operative societies by the provincial executives.

Votes of Thanks. Delegate Kennedy read the report of the committee on thanks, extending the appreciation of the convention to the local reception committee for the entertainment provided; to the Mayor and City Council for their interest and recognition; and to the press for their reports of the proceedings. The report was adopted.

This concluded the business of the convention. President Watters closed the proceedings with thanks to the delegates for their attendance and conduct. The convention sang "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," followed by Auld Lang Syne and the delegates dispersed.

Speaking of the Congress sessions here President Watters said he believed it had been a success, but he regretted the amount of routine work which had to be done did not leave time for proper discussion of several important questions brought before the convention. The delegates were much pleased with St. John, its people, its weather, and its reception to them.

MEDICAL INSPECTION IN SCHOOLS ENDORSED BY CONVENTION

Newcastle, Sept. 26.—At the Teachers' Institute yesterday morning Dr. G. G. Melvin of St. John read an excellent paper explaining the current systems of medical inspection of schools and strongly recommending its adoption in New Brunswick. It would save the community much loss, save lost time in school, greatly help the health and, incidentally, the morals of the race.

The paper was ably discussed by Dr. B. A. Marven of Chatham. The idea of medical inspection was

AN INCIDENT IN THE NAVAL FIGHT OFF HELIGOLAND

RESCUED BY SUBMARINE - A STRANGE INCIDENT DURING THE NAVAL ACTION OFF HELIGOLAND FROM THE SPHERE

Philip Dadd, special artist for this newspaper, the London Sphere and the New York Herald, made this drawing from a sketch by G. H. Davis, an English lieutenant, who participated in the battle. The incident was related as follows: "The Defender, having sunk an enemy, lowered a whaler to pick up her swimming survivors; before the whaler got back an enemy's cruiser came up and chased the Defender, and thus she abandoned her whaler. Imagine their feelings, alone in an open boat, without food, twenty-five miles from the nearest land, and that land, the enemy's fortress, with nothing but fog and foes around them. Suddenly a swirl alongside, and up, if you please, pops His Britannic Majesty's submarine E-4, opens her conning tower, takes them all on board, shuts up again, dives and brings them home, 250 miles!"

The most romantic, dramatic and piquant episode that modern war can show. The same subject by Ex-Mayor James Nicol of Chatham an enthusiastic astronomer.

It was decided to meet, if possible, with Gloucester and Restigouche Institutes at Bathurst, or failing that, at Newcastle the last Thursday and Friday of next September.

Following officers were elected: President—G. H. Harrison, Chatham. Vice-President—Miss Jennie Green, Newcastle.

Secretary—Trade Union, G. A. Wathen, Doaktown, and the Past President, L. R. Hetherington, Newcastle.

Additional members of executive—W. C. Haines, Logteville; G. A. Wathen, Doaktown, and the Past President, L. R. Hetherington, Newcastle.

Another Change to Profit by War

The British Board of Trade and the Department of Trade and Commerce of Canada are now engaged in waging a war against Austria and Germany. The export trade of the two countries is at a standstill and Great Britain and her Colonies are out to capture all they can get of it.

In so far as the fisheries are concerned, Germany and Austria export, but very little to Canada, but it is interesting to note that we import glue, glue stock, mullage, powdered glue and sheet glue to the value of $38,380 during the year ending March 31st, 1914. Now that this source of supply is stopped what is to prevent us from supplying ourselves with fish glue manufactured right here in Canada? Fish glue of Canadian manufacture could be used to offset what we imported from Germany and an important industry would be encouraged.—Canadian Fisherman.

THE STEAMSHIP BUSINESS

Portland, Me., Argus: The 1914 sailing schedule of the various trans-Atlantic steamer lines which have been coming here in former years and are expected to do the same the coming season have not yet been made out, and considerable uncertainty prevails as to what boats will be sent. Fish glue of Canadian manufacture could be used to offset what we imported from Germany and an important industry would be encouraged.—Canadian Fisherman.

BOYS CONFERENCE

The annual conference of the Y. M. C. A. boys, held at Grand Bay ended yesterday. Most of the boys attending it were there on Friday, but some did not go until Saturday. W. Hutchinson, who is in charge of the arrangements, left the city yesterday for the Grand Bay and will return with all the boys on the Fredericton express this morning.

The loyalty and patriotism of Canadians during this crisis have warmed the hearts of all Britons. Her magnificent response in the way of men, supplies and money has evoked admiration in every part of the universe.
 We feel it our duty to tender our thanks to all Canadian patrons for their loyalty to our brand of Scotch whisky during the past few weeks. It is gratifying to us, the distillers of ROYAL ARMS, to note that not only have our sales in Canada kept up to the usual mark but there has been an appreciable increase.
 ROYAL ARMS will continue to maintain the same high quality, as has characterized it for over a century.

"Cells" and "Sells"
 Consider these facts before you decide on your war-time advertising policy:
 When a firm advertises a brand of merchandise it thereby pre-empt's certain brain cells in the minds of a certain number of people.
 Those cells, in each brain, store away the arguments in favor of that brand; and become factors in inducing their owner to purchase the advertised, branded merchandise.

Now, along comes War, with all unsettling of business, all its disturbance of trade; and the manufacturer, faced with the apparent advisability of saving money, begins to consider whether advertising is one of the features on which he can retrace.
 But let him cease advertising—and soon, very soon, the public will begin to waver and drift away to other brands. Stop the appeal to those brain cells and soon, very soon, the cells will forswear their allegiance and become acquired by other manufacturers who make a fresh appeal to them.
 The brain of every human being is in constant process of change. The cells are shifting, shifting, all the time. Ordinarily, by steady persistent advertising, the manufacturer of a sound article is not only holding the brain cells his goods have won, but is surely, steadily adding to the number of his acquired cells—surely, steadily increasing his hold on the public mind.
 Let him stop the advertising and the process of cell capture not only closes, but the cells he has been at such pains to win over, will become lost to him—perhaps forever.
 Even a War scarcely excurses the unsound business policy which permits such a catastrophe. Even in war-time, it behaves every manufacturer to keep his advertising at full pressure.

SEWERAGE AND WATER EXTENSION

Work in Cedar Grove Crescent and Adelaide Sts. will be continued—Arranging programme.

The extension of the water and sewerage systems in Cedar Grove Crescent and Adelaide Road will be continued during the winter. Much of the work to be done in these places is through rock and the cutting may be carried on in cold weather.

A great amount of the work planned for the summer has already been completed by the water and sewerage department. Paradise Row has been made ready for the new permanent service. New sewer and water pipes have been placed there.

The Marble Cove sewer has been completed and connected up with the main trunk in Indian town. Practically all the sewage of that section is now dumped into the main river at a point near Rowan's wharf.

New fire plugs, too, to the number of about fifty have been connected up to the water mains during the summer and these should be a great help in prolonging the life of the fire hose while at the same time giving a greater supply of water for fire purposes.

THE BRAMAN MURDER

Jury returned verdict at 8.30 Saturday evening—Prisoner heard without show of emotion—Sentenced next Friday morning at eleven o'clock.

The trial of John H. Braman, indicted on the charge of murdering Police Officer Frank O'Leary in the former's house off St. Patrick street, on the morning of July 6 last, terminated on Saturday at 8.30 p. m. when the jury returned a verdict of manslaughter.

When the court resumed on Saturday morning Mr. Sweeney, the prisoner's counsel made an eloquent plea for a verdict of acquittal in an address which lasted over an hour and a half.

When the court resumed at half past two Attorney General Clarke continued his address to the jury. He spent some time in examining the evidence of the accused and that of his father. He termed Braman's story as inconsistent and untrue and prepared for the purpose. He observed that Braman showed no remorse over the shooting, as he had remarked, "I am sorry I shot him, as it would have gone easier with me had I not shot him."

"No expression of remorse, no apparent feeling of regret that the life of a fellow being was ebbing away, only a thought of self," said Mr. Clarke.

The Court—"Please do not interrupt the Attorney General. I'll direct the jury on these points." Mr. Clarke asked the jury if O'Leary lied in his statement as contained in the deposition, or was Braman telling the truth on the witness stand.

"Here was O'Leary, a young man respected by all, against whom there was no suspicion of wrong doing, lying in his bed in the hospital shut down in the discharge of his duty, prepared according to the solemn rites of his church, and then given his version of the shooting as contained in the depositions admitted in evidence.

The out-of-town guests including Mrs. Randolph Churchill of Hantsport, N. S., and Miss Grace Armstrong of Moncton. The hours to midnight were delightfully spent in dancing and singing. A pleasant feature of the evening was the presentation of a humorous address to Mr. and Mrs. Paterson by Mr. R. E. Armstrong, after which they were made the recipients of a beautiful tea set of Limoges china. Mrs. Paterson also received a bouquet of bride's roses. The presentation was entirely unexpected, but the popular couple proved equal to the occasion and replied in kind terms. Refreshments were served at 11 o'clock. The evening's pleasure concluded with the singing of Auld Lang Syne and the Spiritual Air.

PEOPLE OF EMPIRE MUST BE COURAGEOUS

Courage, not only among the fighting men and the leaders, but among all the people of the Empire, was the chief essential for the successful outcome of the present European struggle, was the opinion expressed by Rev. Mr. Barraclough at the evening service in Centenary church last evening. The speaker took for his text the passage, "Only be strong and of good courage," and from this showed that courage had been one of the chief necessities in a great undertaking. At the present time the Empire was facing a great crisis and it was necessary to show courage in all places. While there was need of men, money and supplies the greatest need of all was courage.

Mr. Barraclough pointed out that the war was thrust upon Britain and it seemed necessary to subdue the German nation so that a lasting peace would be secured. Should the work be only partly accomplished there was the danger of a later and worse struggle. The speaker thought that what the war was finished naval armament of the nations should be taken over by an international congress and used for the purpose of protecting the coast and coasts of the different countries.

THE WAR SHOULD BOOM FISHING INDUSTRY.

"The war should have a good effect on the fishing industry of Canada, for people must have food no matter what else they have to do without," said G. E. Jennings, editor and proprietor of the Fishing Gazette of New York, who has been making a trip through the Maritime Provinces. "At the present time, however, the fish merchants of Nova Scotia are rather pessimistic, a feeling they apparently share with other classes of business men. After the war is over there should be a general boom both in Canada and the United States, with an increasing demand for fish products."

Mrs. Hannah Mourier. The funeral of Mrs. Hannah Mourier took place at 7.30 o'clock Saturday morning from her late residence, 113 Sherbrooke street, St. Peter's church, where regular high mass was celebrated by the Rev. Sloan Grosjean, C.S.S. R. Interment was in the old Catholic cemetery.

PATRIOTIC COMMITTEE MEETS THIS MORNING TO CONSIDER REPORT

Mayor Frink will speak of his trip to Ottawa in connection with National Fund.

A meeting of the executive of the Patriotic Committee will be held at 11 o'clock this morning when Mayor Frink who has been to Ottawa will make a report on what he found out of the organization of the National Patriotic Fund with which it is proposed to merge the local funds. The Mayor went to Ottawa especially to gather information as to the plan of organizing the national fund, and it is expected his report will be of considerable interest. The local committee have the work of looking after soldiers' families well in hand; but the nature of the appeals coming in make some of the committee think that if the war is prolonged there will be a big tax upon the local fund.

RESCUED FROM BURNING MOTOR BOAT.

Florence LaBadie, heroine of the Million Dollar Mystery. Meets with Another "Fading Experience"—Conspirators Thwarted in a Daring Attempt at Kidnapping.

The little village of Glasgow far on the coast of Newfoundland was awakened from its peaceful slumber a few days ago by a most startling incident that transpired there. Miss Florence Hargreaves, known in every day life as Flo LaBadie, was being cared for in Glasgow by a respected family of the community. She was picked up by the head of the house in the waters of the ocean, after having jumped from the upper deck of a luse liner. Braine the head of the Russian Four Hundred who has made several attempts to make Miss Hargreaves a prisoner, repaired to the fishing village and succeeded in taking the girl on board a large gasoline launch. Through some mishap the boat caught fire while in mid ocean and if it was not for the timely meeting with a tramp steamer it is safe to say all on board would have been lost. Miss Hargreaves and Braine were taken to the ship and there by a most strange coincidence the young lady met her sweetheart, Jas. Norton, who had in the meantime been shanghaied. Upon Braine's retreating for the night, Norton succeeded in making him a prisoner in the cabin, and according to reports donated the disguise of the Russian and with Miss Hargreaves landed safely at the first stopping place. Whether or not the young couple were successful in returning to their homes Braine's fork will be told in the tenth chapter of the Million Dollar Mystery at the Unique today and tomorrow.
