Silver and gold the rum-seller's wife had in plenty, but that sympathy which comes in contact with kindly human hearts she was a stranger to. It so happened that when Mrs. Lee put her resolve into execution she found the lady of the house away, and the rum-seller only at home.

"I hear," said Mrs. Harrison enough to "Yes, wife; I believe you will," was the solemn answer. "And now, Mrs. Lee, I want you to hear me promise before God to do in this matter new, and in the future, just as my wife directs, even if the doing makes me a beggar."

"As much as my husband loves me, I should never have succeeded alone," the wife continued, after he had left the room. "A coarse or a threatening word would have settled the question forever. You came pitying and loving both of us, and the work was accomplished. Oh, Mrs. Lee, how many are suffering and dying for the right word."

The Brown-Morris Race.

Some people are foeling themselves with the fancy that Brown played with Morris in the scull race between them, when the truth is that he had to do his very best to win. Morris led him slightly at the turn, and Brown made the quickest turn and gained a length. This lead he maintained only by a desperate struggle, spurting every time Morris spurted, and won by only three-quarters of a boat's length, about 22 feet, instead of a length and a half, as it appeared to those on shore. He says Morris is the coming man, and he would rather make a match with Sadler than another with Morris.

Anybody making statements concerning the Physiology of Lies would probably be regarded by most people as interesting but crazy. Yet if we are to believe ing but crazy. Yet if we are to believe Mr. Fitzjames Stephen, the clever author of "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity," the thing is not so absurd after all. He mentions in his observations upon the Law of Evidence, which precede his edition of the Indian Evidence Act, a curious fact told him by a barrister who had practiced in Ceylon Courts. This man said that he could always guess that a Cingalese witness was skipping that a Cingalese witness was skipping over the boundaries of truth if there were a peculiar twitch in his toes. This statement, valuable enough to be repeated in Mr. Stephen's dissertation, suggests the serious question as to whether the toes of perjurers in all other countries and climates also twitch. DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE RHEUMATISM!

This statement is substantially a FACT based pon evidence in the possession of the agent, in the shape of nu nerous te timonials from past u Terers, in all the walks of life, particularly DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE In its history, this invaluable Medicine occupie the most honorable position rossible for an remedy to attain. A few years since it was know only to the friends and neighbors and patients the proprietors, and alw ys sought for by the who never troubled with Rheumatism, and in the way came to the notice of physicians generally and through their favorable expression, and is acknowledged value as a Rheumatic Remedy the demand for it became so frequent and urger as to oblige its proprietors to increase their facilities for its manufacture. Its reputation rapidly cause our medicine finds ready sale, and is cousequently profitable to us, do we say this, but because we open a new field in medical science, and cure at once what the medical practitioners have for ages found so difficult even to rolley. We fill a place heretofore unocempied. We relieve the suffering and Minister to God's poor; we restore the laboring man to the use of his injured limbs, and save him scores of times its cost in doctor's bills; we carry contentment and gladness into the homes of the afficied, and consiquently are remembered by millions of gratof I sooils.

The proprietor of this medicine has walked the aisles of the hospitals in Jondon, Eng., for the pst twenty years, making Rhoumatism a speciaty, and the prescription from which this rem dy is compounded is all he ever used in the treatment of this disease.

This medicine is fr sale at all the druggists through Canada. If it happens that your druggist has not got it in stock ask him to send for at
