Selected Literature.
A Child Hero.
A Touching Scene at Sea.
THE LEADING INTERESTS TAKEN FROM A N. Y. NEWSPAPER.
An English Steamship sped its way To Western regions bound, When, as it chanced, a stormy day A wee Scotch boy was found.
A poor bit wafel, of waxen hue, In ragged garments clad, His hair light-brown, his eyes were blue, His looks were very sad.
They brought him cowering to the mate Who said, with cruel loud, 'Confess, you imp, or else your fate Shall be a watery shroud.
Confess, you imp, who fed you here And stowed you in the hold, I know 'twas sailors, do not fear If but the truth is told.'
'Nay,' said the boy: 'No sailor knew Nor any good gave me, My stepfather brought me to the ship To sail across the sea.
From Glasgow town, to Auntie Bell Who will and money too Had told him, said, to keep me well Which he wasn't fit to do.'
'Stop!' cried the mate, that lying tongue, 'I know your tricks, too well, You shall be to the yard-arm swung Unless the truth you tell.'
Beneath the yard-arm, near the mate He hid the poor boy down, Upon the deck, to meet his fate When minutes ten had flown— Some passengers were gathered near And there were of the crew The mid-way watch, who felt small fear Of harm, the mate would do.
Eight minutes passed: 'Had' cried the mate Chromometer in hand, 'The boy is not to be seen, I hope you understand.
'You shall be hung from the yard-arm, Then thrown into the sea, But you speak the truth, no harm At all, shall come to thee.'
With head erect, and eyes with tears Suffused, and unsteady, But yet with fortitude, where fears Were mingled; 'ere I die'
The child said simply, 'may I pray?' 'Sign your name, no word The mate could speak to him, 'Till 'Ow all hearts were stirred.
When the poor child then knelt down to bare And with clasped hands, his eyes Heavenward upraised, repeats the prayer 'Lord, God, and sobbing, cries, 'O! Lord, dear Lord, do Thou me take Up to Thyself in Heaven.'
'Child!' cried the mate, the words you speak The best of proof you give.
Were truth—Served, I know at last Since death, and life, and fate And tears were falling thick and fast From him, and many a cheek.
'God bless thee boy!' the mate then cried And clasped him to his heart, 'Thou wouldst not have rather bravely died Than live by lying art.
'God bless thee for the lesson bright This day thou'st taught us all To stoop to what is lower, and right Whatever may befall.'
Nov. 14th, 1876. J. NORBETHORNE.

Centennial Echoes.
The following information concerning the receipts of the Centennial Exhibition will probably prove interesting to our readers:
OVER THREE MILLION STRANGER VISITORS.
According to the calculations of the Philadelphia Hotel-keepers, over three million people have visited the exhibition. Inquiries were made at the Pennsylvania Railroad yesterday as to the amount of travel, and from Philadelphia, divided as follows: May, 881,370; June, 981,997; July, 1,142,308; August, 1,115,155; September, 801,512; October, 800,000; Total, 2,778,669. This table includes about 200,000 passengers which, under a strict construction of the words, might not be classed as city travel, but this amount is made up by the traffic of the past ten days, not included in the above.

Centennial Success.
THE STOCKHOLDERS TO EXPECT ABOUT EIGHTY PER CENT. OF THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS.
While the Centennial Exhibition has exceeded in magnitude and in the display of articles on exhibition all preceding ones, it has remained for this country to inaugurate an international fair, receiving from the National Government a paper charter, and pushing it almost to completion before the Government contributed a cent. The total cash receipts of the Centennial for admissions will amount to about $3,850,000, and the total working expenses to about $1,800,000. According to this there should be a net profit of over $2,000,000. A question has arisen, however, which may prevent the distribution of this, but it is regarded as hardly among the possibilities. The act of Congress appropriating $1,500,000 for the Centennial Exhibition provided that the United States should be paid before profits were paid to the stockholders. Everything hangs on the word 'profits', and, of course, a judicial decision must be obtained to settle the question.

The Centennial Hotels.
WHAT THEY HAVE DONE, AND WHAT THEY PROPOSE TO DO.
A Times representative yesterday called upon the proprietors and managers of the leading Centennial hotels in West Philadelphia—those built expressly for the accommodation of visitors to the Exhibition—to ascertain their purposes, now that the great fair is nearly over, and whether or not their season had been successful. Mr. Rice, of the Globe, said his home had made a plentiful of the money, and was spending a tremendous harvest at this time. He opened May 1, and since that time had housed and fed at least 250,000 people, his daily average being about 1,400. His intention was to remain open as long as business paid, and certainly until December 1. The manager of the Grand Exposition, which consists of 140 houses were built, 1,325 rooms, said his house had been full ever since he opened on May 1. He had accommodated 1,250,000 persons in all. The hotel will be closed December 1, and the houses of which it consists sold for private residences. The Atlas has averaged 1,500 guests daily since the opening of the Exhibition, and the manager said his season had been extremely successful. He will close about December 1, when the building will be demolished. Col. Duffy, of the Trans-continental, said his average had been 1,200 persons daily, and he estimated that at the close of the Exhibition he will have provided for 200,000 persons. The hotel is to be permanent. The United States, which was opened on January 15, 1876, will remain open until that date in 1877. It will close on Saturday, and then be altered into dwellings. Its daily average has been about 500, and its total 125,000. The Hotel Aubrey, which opened on April 29, had had 300 guests every day since, and has taken care in all of 50,000 people. After Monday it will be continued on the American plan. The Channing House has averaged 276 guests every day, and had an aggregate of 50,000. It will close on Saturday, and then be altered into dwellings. The Westminster, which averaged 160 daily, and provided for about 30,000 in all, closed on Monday. Congress Hall, which has a daily average of 600, and has accommodated 180,000 people, will remain open as long as business pays. It is a substantial brick building, and will not be taken down. The Belmont, with 400 daily and a total of 30,000, will close on Saturday. All its furniture and effects are to be sold at private sale, after which the building will be destroyed. The Grand Hotel, which has had 200 daily and a total of 24,000, will remain open until December 1. It will then be transformed into private residences. The East House, Lancaster, Elm Avenue, Metropolitan, Cosmopolitan and International Hotels have altogether had 114,000. They are all substantial brick houses, and will be kept open so long as they do a paying business. Afterwards they will be used either for dwellings or manufactories.

Perilous Achievement.
Directly opposite the Winter Palace in St. Petersburg, and one of the most conspicuous objects on the whole line of the Nova, is the citadel, or old fortress, in reality the foundation of the city—the golden spires of its church shooting toward the sky and glittering in the sun. This spire, which rises tapering till it seems almost to fade away into nothing, is surmounted by a large globe on which stands an angel supporting a cross. This angel, being made of perishable materials, once manifested symptoms of decay, and fears were entertained that it would soon be numbered with the fallen. Government became perplexed how to repair it; to raise and fold to such height would cost more than the angel was worth.

Mr. Moody's Meetings.
Chicago, despite the intense political excitement of the past week, has nevertheless, found time to attend upon the means of grace which these meetings so largely provided. Mr. Moody's visit to this his old home seems most providential. His town's people have provided for his better accommodation the capacious proportions of the Tabernacle, with a seating capacity of from eight to ten thousand. This building, situated at the corner of Monroe and—Streets, is transformed from what was intended to be a block of stores. Only two stories are completed, and as you enter the main entrance, you go down a short flight of stairs in order to reach the main floor. The galleries are reached by ascending a similar staircase. The seats consist of wooden chairs which are securely fastened to the floor. The gallery extends around three sides, and the seats are elevated like those of an amphitheatre. The choirs occupy the platform behind the speaker, while ministers, members of the press, etc., have each their appropriate place. On either side of the preacher's stand are inquiry-rooms which are invariably crowded with seekers after a religious life. Suggestive and appropriate passages of Scripture adorn the front wall and facings of the galleries, toward which the attention is constantly directed. Mr. Sauley with his small organ, and Mr. Moody with his simple music-rack as a pulpit, occupy the front of the platform which is shut in by a wooden railing. The appointments of the Tabernacle are severely plain, but the law of accents has been so carefully regarded, that Mr. Moody can be distinctly heard at its farthest limit.

At the hour for services approaches, you cannot but be impressed with the thoughts of people, young and old, rich and poor, black and white, threading the thoroughfares leading to the place of worship. All seem intent upon some absorbing work. Something is to be done, which ought not and cannot be neglected. A look of anxious expectancy pervades all countenances, born, perhaps, partly of curiosity; but let us rather believe, is indicative of their soul's pressing need.

Once within the building you find thousands have preceded you. Scarcely a seat is to be obtained, although it is forty minutes before the service will commence. Through the kindly services of gentlemen ushers a single seat in some remote corner is still obtained; and while your ears are charmed and your heart comforted by the sweet singing of the choir which always precedes the regular service, you look about striving to vaguely comprehend what sweet influence has called so many from the busy ranks of bustling Western life, into this religious retreat. In spite of the thousands present, nothing solemn or unimportant interrupts the impressiveness of the scene. Not a response—no vandalets dare intrude upon the sanctity of this house of God. All is as hushed and calm as though angels brooded over the hearts of the people in blessing.

At the hour appointed, Mr. Moody and Mr. Sauley appear. After divine guidance has been invoked, Mr. Sauley sings in his impressive manner one of his most thrilling songs. Mr. Moody is heartily supported by all the pastors of the city. The co-operation is truly remarkable. There is no feeling of sectarianism here. The great business seems to be that of saving souls, and God may garner them into any fold he pleases. Baptists, Presbyterians, Congregationalists and Methodists are actively engaged in such noble work. The hearts of the ministers have been greatly refreshed and strengthened by the outpourings of grace which flow from Mr. Moody's labors. New converts are given them, and greater suggestiveness adds a new impetus to the conscientious discharge of duty. In fact, every age and condition of humanity in this hurrying city is more or less affected by the presence of this godly man and his Christian enthusiasm. The religious interest is steadily increasing. Monday evening of each week he holds a special meeting at Farwell Hall for new converts and those seeking religion. These meetings are crowded. In his sermon he is terse and brief, always preaching to the point. His texts are the most simple. He seems to attire old truths in more attractive guises. He urges, persuades, entreats you to accept the Saviour he has found so precious. There is no obtruding of self. It might be Jones or Brown addressing you. You are never made to feel it is Mr. Moody. He is peculiarly simple and unaffected in his manner. His work is to save souls, and with God's help he intends to do it. He pours into your enraptured hearing the peculiar richness of the Gospel—its permanence in blessing, the all-wise peace it dispenses. He compares love for Jesus to the strong, abiding affections of earth life, and enlarges upon this thought, until to love and obey the Master seems the most legitimate and most desirable attainment in this world.

Editor "Union Advocate": I have had the pleasure to receive your issue of the 22nd inst., and to find therein a notice of the death of my friend, Mr. John A. Smith, of North East, Miramichi, aged 41 years, leaving a wife and three children, died.

Canada's Winter Port

It is stated that the Government intend giving Halifax a trial as the Canadian Winter Port, during the ensuing winter. If the trial proves successful, the English mail can be forwarded by Halifax and the Intercolonial as expeditiously as by the Portland route.

The Timber Trade

A recent number of the Quebec Telegraph refers to our staple export as follows:—From general appearances, we are inclined to believe that the price of this staple article of our's has touched bottom.

Small Pox

We have advised from Carleton on the 27th inst., to the effect that during the night previous the schooner Providence arrived from Montreal with Small Pox on board. The captain and one of the crew died of the disease and were buried at a place called the Brandy Pot, and when our correspondent wrote there was one man sick on board. It does appear strange that almost every vessel touching our shores with small pox on board, fails from Montreal. It is well known that the dreaded disease maintains a firm hold of that city, adding largely to its death roll, but whether this is owing to the want of proper sanitary regulations, or rather to their not being enforced by the authorities, we are unable to say.

General Intelligence

One of these steamers arrived last year at 7 o'clock Sunday morning, but never before have they on Saturday. The High Allan, one of the owners of the line, was among the passengers.—Vancouver Press.

Another Methodist Church

The members of the Upper Sackville Church held a meeting on Monday evening and decided to build a $2000 house. The sum of $1400 was subscribed at the time. Messrs. George and Fawcett. The following were appointed a building committee, viz: Messrs. Wm. George and John Fawcett. Preparations to build will be made at once.—Post.

Acquitted

William Schaff, of Pittsburg, who will defeat E. W. Morris for the championship in a five mile race, declines to accept Morris' offer. He has been acquitted of the charge of having been in the possession of a loaded revolver.

Presentations

Rev. Patrick Farrel was presented the other day by the people of Nerepis and LaRocque with a handsome single seat carriage, made by Messrs. Kelly & Murray. The carriage is a very nice one, and is living at the Nerepis for many years, and is deservedly popular with its people.

of the air passages and prevent the accumulation of phlegm, so distressing to the patient. The hard, dry cough, so fatal to elderly people, is safely and certainly relieved by the salutary effect of this balsam.

There are certain seasons in every year, changes in the blood of every person; changes which may cause serious results; changes which may lead to loss of life if not attended to at once. Take warning in time before it is too late. Purify your blood with Dr. Wilson's Family Anti-Bilious Pills, the most life-investigating medicine in the world.

We do not recommend Clark's Derby Condition Powders to cure a confirmed case of leucorrhoea, but they will relieve it, and in recent cases effect a cure. Farmers, teamsters, and those having charge of horses, would save time and money by having these powders always on hand, to administer on the first symptoms of decline or disease.

Our experience of Dr. Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment is that persons who use it once come back again for more, as it gives them every satisfaction. It is every day becoming more and more popular.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For all the purposes of a Family Physic, and for curing Constiveness, Jaundice, Indigestion, Piles, Stronens, Headache, Erysipelas, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, and a Duers Pills for Purifying the Blood.

Div the most effective and congenial purgative ever discovered. They are mild, not effectual in their operation, moving the bowels surely and without pain. Although gentle in their operation, they are still the most thorough and searching cathartic medicine that can be employed, cleansing the stomach and bowels, and even the blood. In small doses of one pill a day, they stimulate the digestive organs and promote vigorous health.

Ayer's Pills have been known for more than a quarter of a century, and have obtained a world-wide reputation for their virtues. They correct diseased action in the several assimilative organs of the body, and are so composed that obstructions within their range can rarely withstand or evade them. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are, at the same time, the safest and best physic for children. By their aperient action they grip much less than the common purgatives, and never give pain when the bowels are not inflamed. They reach the vital fountains of the blood, and strengthen the system by freeing it from the elements of weakness.

Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates, containing neither calomel nor any deleterious drug, these Pills may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar-coating preserves them ever fresh, and makes them pleasant to take; while being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

PREPARED BY Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass., and Analytical Chemists, BOSTON. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.
