

A FAMOUS REFORMER.

REV. C. J. FREEMAN SPEAKS OF HIS LIFE AND WORK.

He has written and preached on both sides of the Atlantic—Recently the Victim of a Peculiar Affliction from which he was Released in a Marvelous Manner.

From the Boston Herald.

No. 157 Emerson St. South Boston, is the present home of Rev. C. J. Freeman, B. A., Ph. D., the recent rector of St. Marks Episcopal Church at Annapolis, Md. During the reform movement which swept over Boston, Dr. Freeman has been frequently heard from through the various newspapers, and although a resident of a comparatively recent date, he has exerted much public influence, which has been increased by the fact that he was ten years ago on a commission appointed in England to investigate the troublesome question of the vest of great cities.

He has preached before cultured audiences in the old world, as well as to the rough pioneers in the mining towns of the Rocky mountains, and his addresses as well as his writing have been in the line of progress and liberality, well-seasoned with practical common sense. Dr. Freeman has written this paper a letter which will be read with interest. He says:—

"Some five years since I found that I was suffering from a peculiar and excessive literary work, in addition to my ordinary ministerial duties, were undermining my health. I felt that I was unable to understand things as clearly as I usually did; that after but little thought and study I suffered from a dull pain in the head and great weariness, and all thought and study became a trouble to me. I lost appetite, did not relish ordinary food, after eating, suffering acute pain in the chest and back. There was soreness of the stomach, and the most of my food seemed to turn to sour water, was most sickly and suffocating feeling in vomiting up such sour water.

REV. C. J. FREEMAN, B. A., PH. D.

At this time I consulted several physicians. One said I had chronic indigestion; but this I do know, that with all the prescriptions which they gave me I was not improving; for in addition, I had pains in the regions of the kidneys, a very sluggish liver, so much so that I was very much like a yellow man, was depressed in spirits, imagined all sorts of things and was daily becoming worse and felt that I should soon become a confirmed invalid if I did not soon understand my complaints. I followed the advice of physicians, most severely, but with all I was completely unable to do any ministerial duty, and all I could possibly do was to rest and try to be thankful. After eighteen months' treatment I found I was the victim of severe pituitary of the heart, and was almost afraid to walk across my room. Amid all this I was advised to take absolute rest from all mental work. In fact, I was at one time to take any duty for the reason that the feeling of complete prostration after the least exertion, precluded me from any duty whatever, and it appeared to my mind that I was very near being a perfect wreck. As for taking absolute rest, I could not take more than I did, unless it was to absolute rest in the grave. Then it would have been absolute enough.

It is now quite three years, since, in addition to all the pains and peculiarities which I endured, I found creeping upon me a peculiar numbness of the left limbs, and in fact could not walk about. I tried to walk I had to drag the left foot along the ground. The power of locomotion seemed to be gone, and I was consoled with the information that it was partial paralysis. Whether it was or not I do not know, but this I do know, I could not walk about and I began to think my second childhood had commenced at the age of 41 years.

Just about two years ago or a little more, a ministerial friend came to see me. I was sick in bed and could hardly move, and he was something like old John's comforter, although not quite. He had much regret and commiseration which was a very poor balm for a sick man. But the best thing he did say was this: "Did you ever see Pink Pills?" I said, "Who in the world is he?" He said, "Why do you not try Pink Pills?" He said good bye very affectionately, so much so that I thought he thought it was the last farewell. Nevertheless, after thinking a little, I just came to the conclusion that I would make an innovation and see what Pink Pills would do. I looked at them, and I said can any good possibly come out of those little pink things? Anyway I would see. I was suspicious of Pink Pills, and I remember of the old proverb: "Sopetto licentia fede," "suspicion is the passport to faith." So Pink Pills I obtained, and Pink Pills I swallowed. But one box of them did not cure me, nor did I feel any difference. But after I had taken nine or ten boxes of pills I was decidedly better. Yes, I was certainly improving, and after eight months of Pink Pills I could get about. The numbness of the left limb was nearly gone, the pains in the head had entirely ceased, my appetite was better, I could enjoy food and I had a free, quiet action of the heart without palpitation. In fact, in twelve months I was a new creature and today I can stand and speak over two hours without a rest. I can perform all my public duties which devolve upon me, without fatigue, and do all the walking which I have to do, and am thankful for it. I can safely say I was never in a letter state of health than I am to-day, and that I attribute it to the patient, persevering use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

I fully, cordially and strongly commend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all, any who suffer in a similar way, and feel sure that any one who adopts Pink Pills with perseverance and patience cannot find their expectations unrealized or their reasonable hopes dashed. But he will find that blessing which is the reward of a full trust in a true and reliable remedy. I shall always wish and desire the greatest success for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and always cherish a deep feeling of gratitude to the friend who first said to me try Pink Pills. I have tried them and know their true value, and am truly glad I did, for I have found them from a good experience, to do more than is actually claimed for them.

Very faithfully yours,
C. J. FREEMAN, B. A., Ph. D.
Lute rector of St. Mark's, Montana.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give a new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of a gripe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion, all forms of weakness either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, (30 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50—they are never sold in bulk or by the 100) by address to Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N. Y.

EFFECT OF CO-OPERATION.
An Offer of Momentous Interest.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST WEEKLY WITH THE UNION ADVOCATE FOR $1.75.

Our readers will be pleased to know that we have made special arrangements by which the UNION ADVOCATE and the FAMILY HERALD and WEEKLY STAR of Montreal together, may be had for $1.75.

The Family Herald is the greatest weekly family newspaper in the world, and has been wonderfully successful. So greatly has it grown that its publishers have had to enlarge it to sixteen pages, and even now it is hard to get all the good things in. No family can afford to do without the Family Herald, for not only does it amuse and instruct but it repays its subscription price many times over. All the successful farmers, breeders and dairymen endorse it because they find in it advice and instruction that is priceless to them, and which they can get nowhere else. Housewives find it a valuable aid to thrifty housekeeping. The young folks are enraptured with the pages given them. It contains material to interest every member of the family.

This year every subscriber will be given as a premium a lovely picture called "Little Queenie," an artistic gem which every one will want, but which can be got only through the Family Herald.

Every subscriber, at no cost to himself, has his life insured for $200 against death by rail way accident.

You can get the Family Herald with its premium and free insurance, and the UNION ADVOCATE for $1.75. This is an offer so generous that everybody should accept it.

Simple copies may be seen at the ADVOCATE office or they will be forwarded upon application to the Family Herald Publishing Co., Montreal.

That Enquiry.

The so-called McCully investigation has been brought to a close, no witnesses being called for the defence, which was just as well perhaps, as what they might have said would not influence the judgment of the Court which was to pass sentence. It is a matter of expediency with certain lawyers, who because they can not force the Police Magistrate to side with their clients irrespective of law and justice are endeavoring to get him displaced and a more pliant tool appointed to the office.

The government will decide, after the report of the Commissioner has been handed in, whether they will order his dismissal or not, with the odds largely in favor of the former course. It is not a question of either innocence or guilt but one of expediency and the government is forerunners that what elicits its members and continues them in power.

Lectures.

Dr. Lucas has been delighting our people with his intellectual discourses and lectures.

On Sunday morning he preached in St. James Church, and in the evening in the Methodist Church.

On Sunday afternoon in the Temperance Hall Dr. Lucas gave a few incidents showing the dreadful evils with which we have to contend, among them the heinous crime of New Zealand of a man who killed his wife and four children with an axe while under the influence of liquor. The Dr. asked can this great evil of intemperance ever be cured? Some have said it is so great it cannot, he begged his hearers to repeat such an expression for it showed a lack of faith in God who sympathized with righteous work upon earth and who was always ready to co-operate with men in the destruction of every evil which whenever he found a willing people.

The Dr. was listened to throughout with marked attention and such addresses cannot fail of being under the blessing of heaven, a great good.

On Monday evening he addressed a full house in St. James Hall on the subject of Australia. Last night he lectured in the Methodist Church on the subject of "Thumbs up, thumbs down." To-night Dr. Lucas will address a meeting in St. James Hall on "Shots from the muzzles of a gun." To commence at eight o'clock. Admission 10 cents.

To-morrow night (Thursday evening) there will be a public temperance meeting held in the Temperance Hall where will be addressed by Dr. Lucas on "The liquor traffic and political economy." Silver collection at the door.

Resolution of Condolence.

NORTHUMBERLAND LODGE NO. 17, A. F. & A. M., Nov. 12th, 1895.
Whereas it has pleased the Supreme Architect of the Universe in his infinite wisdom, to summon our late beloved brother, Past Master William W. McCallum, after a lingering illness, to that earthly Lodge to the Supreme Lodge, not made with hands, eternal in the Heavens;

Resolved, That this Lodge hereby express its deep sorrow for the loss it has sustained by the death of our deceased brother, and tenders its sincere sympathy to his sorrowing family in the sad affliction, which has deprived them of a beloved husband and father.

Resolved, That these resolutions be recorded on the records of the Lodge and that a copy be transmitted to the bereaved family, and also published in the "Union Advocate."

Derby Items.

Derby, Nov. 25th, 1895.
The ladies of the Methodist Church will give a hot supper and apron sale, on the evening of Thursday, Nov. 5, at the Temperance hall in Millerton. Look out for the hand-bills.

Many people reading the Indian notes in last week's ADVOCATE would be surprised to notice that there is a brass band in Millerton. It takes something of importance to call a brass band into existence. In this case the reason is that our respected citizen, Mr. John Betts and bride from their wedding tour. The band assembled before the residence of the above mentioned gentleman and discoursed sweet music, accompanied by volleys from brass and stated intervals. Mr. Betts then came out and greeting them with a short but pleasant speech, invited them to where they were graciously received by Mrs. Betts, and treated to a bountiful repast.

On the Monday evening following, Mr. Betts was presented with a fountain pen from the members of Nelson Division No. 99, as a small token of esteem, accompanied by their best wishes for their future happiness and prosperity.

Rev. W. T. Crocker is seriously ill. Rev. H. Pons will fill his usual appointment at Blackville, on Monday evening, Dec. 2nd.

The New Convent Building.

The opening of the new Convent of the Congregation de Notre Dame, Newcastle, took place on Monday last. An unfortunate accident to one of the boilers on Saturday evening prevented the building being so well heated as usual, but repairs will be made at once, although the accident will delay the moving in for a few days, or until repairs are made. The building throughout is thoroughly finished and the rooms ready for furniture. The floors and wainscoting, door frames, doors, window-frames and sashes are finished in hard oil. The rooms, dormitories, corridors, bath rooms with hot and cold water, school rooms with large blackboard surfaces, neat desks and seats, all show that close attention to detail so necessary in institutions such as this is intended to be, every advantage being taken of all the space. With plenty of water and ample heat so thoroughly warm the building, it is fully up to the requirements of modern times, and it will doubtless prove a pleasure to teachers, boarders and day pupils to be domiciled therein. Roomy staircases at each end of the building give ample egress from every story, a great safeguard in case of fire, while the first floor has an entrance to the front or main entrance. The view from the windows in the upper part of the tower is a beautiful one, both up and down river.

The chapel, on the upper side of the main corridor on the first floor is a capacious room, the neat and beautiful interior is the eastern end, while in the rear is an alcove or recess shut off with heavy piers, and useful for grouping children in, when there are entertainments.

The opening consisted of a religious ceremony which commenced at 10 o'clock, p. m. The Very Rev. Vicar General Barry officiated in presence of the Lord Bishop of the Diocese, assisted by several clergymen. The formula prescribed by the Roman Ritual for such occasions had been gone through, by the Rev. Father Carter, of Petit Rocher, County Gloucester, delivered a discourse on Education. Father Carter is one of the Newcastle boys who "abroad" has achieved fame. We give his address in full.

The opening of this magnificent building gives us thought for much serious meditation. The edifice is vast, considering the locality; its design and finish are stupendous for the means at hand; its completion is so comparatively short a time speaks volumes for the energy that brought it forth, and crowns it in perfection, a figure and forecast, we firmly believe, of the quality of intellectual and social and spiritual work that hereafter shall be performed within its walls, which to-day are hallowed by having the blessing of God worked into them.

The work which it is dedicated, is, primarily and especially, the education of youth, but which no work is grander and nobler, nor more productive of the results that are sought in the expenditure of energy and effort. This work requires a special aptitude in the person engaging in it, as tutor and preceptor. The intellect of the person engaged in it must be fitted to the intelligence of the individual, but may be a complete failure as to the rest of the necessities of the developing subject.

Such necessities requiring direction, man, the teacher, must be a man of the highest order of intellect, and one who is always ready to co-operate with men in the destruction of every evil which whenever he found a willing people.

The Dr. was listened to throughout with marked attention and such addresses cannot fail of being under the blessing of heaven, a great good.

Many people reading the Indian notes in last week's ADVOCATE would be surprised to notice that there is a brass band in Millerton. It takes something of importance to call a brass band into existence. In this case the reason is that our respected citizen, Mr. John Betts and bride from their wedding tour. The band assembled before the residence of the above mentioned gentleman and discoursed sweet music, accompanied by volleys from brass and stated intervals. Mr. Betts then came out and greeting them with a short but pleasant speech, invited them to where they were graciously received by Mrs. Betts, and treated to a bountiful repast.

On the Monday evening following, Mr. Betts was presented with a fountain pen from the members of Nelson Division No. 99, as a small token of esteem, accompanied by their best wishes for their future happiness and prosperity.

Rev. W. T. Crocker is seriously ill. Rev. H. Pons will fill his usual appointment at Blackville, on Monday evening, Dec. 2nd.

The opening of this magnificent building gives us thought for much serious meditation. The edifice is vast, considering the locality; its design and finish are stupendous for the means at hand; its completion is so comparatively short a time speaks volumes for the energy that brought it forth, and crowns it in perfection, a figure and forecast, we firmly believe, of the quality of intellectual and social and spiritual work that hereafter shall be performed within its walls, which to-day are hallowed by having the blessing of God worked into them.

The work which it is dedicated, is, primarily and especially, the education of youth, but which no work is grander and nobler, nor more productive of the results that are sought in the expenditure of energy and effort. This work requires a special aptitude in the person engaging in it, as tutor and preceptor. The intellect of the person engaging in it must be fitted to the intelligence of the individual, but may be a complete failure as to the rest of the necessities of the developing subject.

Such necessities requiring direction, man, the teacher, must be a man of the highest order of intellect, and one who is always ready to co-operate with men in the destruction of every evil which whenever he found a willing people.

The Dr. was listened to throughout with marked attention and such addresses cannot fail of being under the blessing of heaven, a great good.

is largely made use of to perfect themselves in the teacher's art.

Hence, here, if anywhere, can an intellectual education be imparted, of the highest degree of excellence. Here, where noble and refined ladies are in daily contact with associates as noble and gentle and refined, shall all the grace of polished manners be communicated to their pupils. And, as those good nuns know, for many a sorrow has been confided to them, many a wounded spirit has sought the calm of consolation from them, how false and fleeting are the joys of this world, they have learned the art of living God, and know how to incline the hearts of the young to the same love and to so mould their characters that seldom shall they forget in their advanced age the God whom they loved in their youth.

I believe I have not erred in describing what education for men should be. I believe I am correct in asserting that such education can be had here.

There is something more that enters into our train of thought. The nuns, whose home it is, devote themselves to the handmaid of education, as a means of furthering their pupils the virtues which they thereby seek for themselves. Their earnest and fervent supplications proceeding from the front or main entrance. The view from the windows in the upper part of the tower is a beautiful one, both up and down river.

The chapel, on the upper side of the main corridor on the first floor is a capacious room, the neat and beautiful interior is the eastern end, while in the rear is an alcove or recess shut off with heavy piers, and useful for grouping children in, when there are entertainments.

The opening consisted of a religious ceremony which commenced at 10 o'clock, p. m. The Very Rev. Vicar General Barry officiated in presence of the Lord Bishop of the Diocese, assisted by several clergymen. The formula prescribed by the Roman Ritual for such occasions had been gone through, by the Rev. Father Carter, of Petit Rocher, County Gloucester, delivered a discourse on Education. Father Carter is one of the Newcastle boys who "abroad" has achieved fame. We give his address in full.

St. John Notes.

(From our correspondents.)

St. John, Nov. 25th, 1895.

Work on the $18,000 Baptist church, which the people of the north end are building, is progressing favorably. Last week these people held a bazaar which netted them over $800.00.

During the last few weeks the daily papers have been full of matters pertaining to the Beaver line of steamships. The first of this line is to leave this city for Liverpool on December 11th. The Beaver line people have promised to make forty, nightly trips from this port to England, and will carry almost everything that the farmer produces, hay, butter, grain, cheese, cattle and horses. A great deal of western produce, which has always been shipped from Portland, Me., and Boston, to England, will during the winter be sent from St. John. Warehouses, etc., are being erected and it is hoped a big business will be worked up. All the leading business men of this city look with much favor upon the new line.

Here are a few potatoes—the United States is credited with 282,148,000 bushels of potatoes this year—the —Deaver play is the only one of the Gentleman's Chew. Refuse to be taken in.

—The scenery. Mr. M. M. M. made the usual trip for the Nelson on Saturday, the latter having been handed up for the season. No trip has been made since Saturday.

—The steam ferry boat has not crossed since Sunday in consequence of ice in the river.

—Call at the Advocate office and use a sample picture and frame similar to those supplied to subscribers.

—Snow commenced to fall on Monday evening and several inches fell, but during the night it was succeeded by rain which continued all day Tuesday.

—Business failing, notices inserted in this column at ten cents per line.

—The river was frozen right across on Monday morning.

—Harkins Academy scribbles for sale at the Advocate office.

—Self-Portrait in the Salvation Army begins next Saturday.

—The price of single copies of The Union Advocate is only ten cents.

—The railway photo car leaves by the accommodation this morning.

Recent Deaths.

Mrs. Mary Gillis, late of Chatham, New Brunswick, died Wednesday evening at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. C. H. King, 93 Forrest avenue, in the 69th year of her age. Mrs. Gillis was attacked by the grip something over a year ago, and from the effects of which she died. Mrs. Gillis was a quiet and retiring person, and a sincere and earnest Christian. Her end was peaceful and contented. She leaves two sons and six daughters to lament the loss of a true and loving mother.

This clipping is from the Brockton "Enterprise." The remains of Mrs. Gillis arrived here on Saturday night last, accompanied by two daughters, Mrs. King and Miss Mary Gillis. The interment took place at Moorfields, from the residence of the son in law of deceased, on Sunday, 24th inst., which brought together many of the old residents of the parish.

The Irish Senator.

This company will perform in the Masonic Hall this Wednesday evening, and they claim to be the best company that has appeared in Newcastle for years. They are headed by Mr. Harry C. Gibson, the famous Irish comedian, and Miss Cecilia Lorraine, known throughout the whole of the United States as one of the cleverest actresses on the American Stage. Tickets at E. Lee Street's, 25 and 35 cts.

"The Common People."

As Abraham Lincoln called them, do not care to argue about their ailments. What they want is a medicine that will cure them. The simple, honest statement, "I know that Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me," is the best argument in favor of this medicine, and this is what many thousands voluntarily say.

Hood's Pills are the best after-dinner pills, assist digestion, cure headache, etc.

Sabbath Services.

Newcastle Methodist Church; Pastor James Cripp, 11 a.m. Preaching, subject, "Breathing up fallow ground." 2.30 Sunday School and Bible classes. 6.30 preaching, subject, "The Great Gulf Fixed." Strangers are cordially invited. Seats free.

Standard Dictionary.

On January 1st, 1896, the introduction price of the Standard Dictionary will be advanced about one-third. M. R. Denn, of Douglastown, General Agent for Northern New Brunswick, will supply it at the introductory price if ordered at once.

Major Markham's Report.

Major Markham, Commandant of this year's Bales team, has forwarded his report to the President of the Dominion Rifle Association. Major Markham makes several suggestions to the Association, the most important of which is a proposal to limit the eligibility of competitors for Bales. He points out that year after year some competitors win places on the team, it being exceedingly difficult for new men to secure positions. He thinks that if a man is limited to three trips in five years it will be a great incentive to young shots. Major Markham has also certain suggestions in reference to the messing of the team while in England.

The Christmas Number.

Of the "Standard" Delineator is a veritable surprise. The artistic cover is rendered seasonable by the addition of a wreath of holly, the colored fashion and millinery plates are handbatter than ever, and the new designs for ladies' misses' and children's costumes cannot be surpassed for style and beauty. In addition there are excellent articles, beautifully illustrated, on Fancy Dress, Christmas Gifts and How to take them, Presents for the Little Ones, Leather Work, Cookery and Etiquette. Floriculture is by Mr. Eben E. Rexford, the well known authority on the subject, and a large amount of interesting fiction gives a holiday air to the whole number. It is a genuine treat to be able to procure so interesting a magazine for the small sum of ten cents, and every woman who wishes to be up to the times will find help in the various departments.

THAT ACHING HEAD.

What Causes it and How to Overcome. How often the remark, "Oh, my head aches," and there are so many varieties of aches and pains the head is subject to all along a line from the dull and heavy and pressed feeling over the eyes to the persistent, racing and torturing misery of Sick Headache.

A FAMOUS REFORMER.

REV. C. J. FREEMAN SPEAKS OF HIS LIFE AND WORK.

He Has Written and Preached on Both Sides of the Atlantic—Recently the Victim of a Peculiar Affliction from which He Was Released in a Marvelous Manner.

From the Boston Herald.

No. 157 Emerson St. South B. Freeman, B. A., Ph. D., the recent rector of St. Marks Episcopal Church at Annapolis, Mont. During the reform movement which has swept over Boston, Dr. Freeman has been frequently heard from through the various newspapers, and although a resident of a comparatively recent date, he has excited much public influence, which has been increased by the fact that he was ten years ago on a commission appointed in England to investigate the troublesome question of the vice of great cities.

He has preached before cultured audiences in the old world, as well as to the tough pioneers in the mining towns of the Rocky mountains, and his utterances as well as his writing have been in the line of progress and liberality, well-seasoned with practical common sense. Dr. Freeman has written this paper a letter which will be read with interest. He says—

"Some five years since I found that deep study and excessive literary work, in addition to my ordinary ministerial duties, were undermining my health. I detected that I was unable to understand things as clearly as I usually did; that after but little thought and study I suffered from a dull pain in the head and great weariness, and all thought and study became a trouble to me. I lost appetite, did not relish ordinary food, after eating, suffering acute pains in the chest and back. There was soreness of the stomach, and the most of my food seemed to turn to sour water, with most sickly and suffocating feeling in vomiting up such sour water.

REV. C. J. FREEMAN, B. A., PH. D.

At this time I consulted various physicians. One said I was run down, another said I had chronic indigestion; but I do know, that with all the prescriptions which they gave me I was not improving; for in addition, I had pains in the regions of the kidneys, a very sluggish liver, so much so that I was very much like a yellow man, was depressed in spirits, imagined all sorts of things, and was almost afraid to walk across my room. Amid all this I was advised to take absolute rest from all mental work. In fact, I was already unable to take any duty for the reason that the feeling of complete prostration after the least exertion, precluded me from any duty whatever, and it appeared to my mind that I was very near being a perfect wreck. As for taking medical rest, I could not take more than I did unless it was so absolute as to rest in the grave. Then it would have been absolute enough.

It is now quite three years, since, in addition to all the pains and penalties which I endured, I found creeping upon me a peculiar numbness of the left limbs, and in fact could not walk about. If I tried to walk I had to drag the left limb along the ground. The power of locomotion seemed to be gone, and I was consoled with the information that it was partial paralysis. Whether it was or not I do not know, but this I do know, I could not walk about and I began to think my second childhood had commenced at the age of 41 years.

Just about two years ago or a little more, a ministerial friend came to see me. I was sick in bed and could hardly move, and he was something like old Job's comforter, although not quite. He had much regret and commiseration which was a very poor balm for a sick man. But the best thing he did say was this: "Did you ever see Pink Pills?" I said, "Who in the world is he?" He said, "Why do you not try Pink Pills?" He said good by very affectionately, so much so that doubtless he thought it was the last farewell. Nevertheless, after thinking a little, I just came to the conclusion that I would make an innovation and see what Pink Pills would do. I looked at them, and I said can any good possibly come out of those little pink things? Anyway, I would see. I was suspicious of Pink Pills, and I remembered the old proverb: "Sopetto licentia felle," "suspicion is the passport to faith." So Pink Pills I obtained, and Pink Pills I swallowed. But one box of them did not cure me, nor did I feel any difference. But after I had taken nine or ten boxes of pills I was decidedly better. Yes, I was certainly improving, and after eight months of Pink Pills I could get about. The numbness of the left limb was nearly gone, the pains in the head had entirely ceased, the appetite was better, I could enjoy food and I had a free, quiet action of the heart without palpitation. In fact, in twelve months I was a new creature and today I can stand on my feet, and my public letter state of health than I am to-day, and that I attribute it to the patient, persevering use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"I fully, cordially and strongly commend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all of any who suffer in a similar way, and feel sure that any one who adopts Pink Pills with perseverance and patience cannot fail their expectations unrealized, or their reasonable hopes blasted. But he will find that taking which is the reward of a full trust in a true and reliable remedy. I shall always wish and desire the greatest success for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and always cherish a deep feeling of gratitude to the friend who first said to me buy Pink Pills. I have tried them and know their true value, and am truly glad I did, for I have found them from a good experience, to do more than is actually claimed for them."

Very faithfully yours,

C. J. FREEMAN, B. A., Ph. D., Late rector of St. Mark's, Manhattan.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give a new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as leucorrhoea, anæmia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, after effects of a grippa, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion, all forms of weakness either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50—they are never sold in bulk or by the 100 by address—Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N. Y.

EFFECT OF CO-OPERATION.

An Offer of Momentous Interest.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST WEEKLY WITH THE UNION ADVOCATE FOR $1.75.

Our readers will be pleased to know that we have made special arrangements by which the Union Advocate and the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal together, may be had for $1.75.

The Family Herald is the greatest weekly family newspaper in the world, and has been wonderfully successful. So greatly has it grown that its publishers have had to enlarge it to sixteen pages, and even now it is hard to get all the good things in. No family can afford to do without the Family Herald, for not only does it amuse and instruct but it repays its subscription price many times over. All the successful farmers, breeders and dairymen endorse it because they find it a valuable and instructive paper in its advice and instruction that is priceless to them, and which they can get nowhere else. Home wives find it a valuable aid to their housekeeping. The young folks are enraptured with the pages given them. It contains matter to interest every member of the family.

You can get the Family Herald with its premium and free insurance, and the Union Advocate for $1.75. This is an offer so generous that everybody should accept it.

Sample copies may be seen at the ADVOCATE office or they will be forwarded upon application to the Family Herald Publishing Co., Montreal.

Every subscriber, at no cost to himself, has his life insured for $500 against death by railway accidents.

Supper will be served from 5.30 to 9 p.m.

Youths Corner.

THE ORGAN—GRINDER'S MONK.

The funny old Italian with a velvet coat and pink pantaloons and a little blue cap on one side of his head always played down our street every afternoon, and used to stop before our door every time and play his whole set through.

I kept a ten cent piece in my pocket and gave it to the Italian when all the tunes were done, because twice, when I gave it to him first, he played just two tunes and went away.

One day the Italian had a monkey on his shoulder—a little black fellow with a white face and bushy tail. He was dressed in a red Zouave suit trimmed with gold, and had a gilded collar around his neck with a red cord to it.

As soon as the man stopped at the door he let out the cord, and the monkey jumped to the balcony and sat there and looked at us.

Then the man began to play a waltz, and the monkey came down and began to dance. The man gave the monkey a drum and sticks and played 'Johnny Comes Marching Home,' and the monkey began to drum and march about. Then he gave him a flag and he waved it while the organ played 'Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue'; and then he gave him a gun, which he fired three times, and after that he played all the tunes and said something to the monkey, who clapped his cap and came up the steps holding out his paw. I gave him my money, and he put it in his mouth.

All this time the boy in the next house, who opens Doctor Squill's door for him, was looking out of the office window, and now he shoved it up and called the monkey. Of course, the organ-man bowed and smiled and sent the little creature up to the window, and the boy gave him a coin.

The monkey closed his paw upon it, but the next instant began to chatter as if he was angry and threw it into the street.

On this the organ-man dragged at the cord and ordered the monkey to find the money, but he seemed to refuse. Then the man took a dreadful little whip with thongs on it from his pocket and flogged the poor creature furiously. He shrieked and chattered, but just at that moment who should come around the corner but my father, and in a minute he caught the whip from the organ-man and asked him how he dared to ill-use the animal.

'He my monk,' said the man.

'How I live if my monk throw away my money?'

At this moment my father saw an old-fashioned two-cent piece under the edge of a paving-stone.

'There's your money,' picking it up. 'Poor little soul! No wonder he threw it away; it is hot yet. Some wretch has heated it. It must have been red hot when it was thrown.'

'Ze boy at ze window,' cried the organ-man.

My father looked up. Doctor Squill's boy was grinning as if he enjoyed himself very much.

Papa made the Italian come into the kitchen, and put something on the monkey's paw that eased the burn, tell me, and his cuts, too.

'Gentle me,' said my father, turning to the organ-grinder—'would you sell this monkey, and what would you ask?'

'I sell him for five dolla,' said the organ-man. 'No goods now—'fraid.'

So my father actually took the monkey from his pocket and paid the man for the dearest little pet any one ever had. We call him 'music.'

He is as gentle as a bird, and loves us dearly; and as for the bad boy next door, Doctor Squill's dismissed him as cruel as he heard the story.

'A cruel wretch like that,' he said, 'I could never trust again.'

And he sent the monkey some nice medicine, and, as he said, 'attend to him' until he was well again.

The organ man still comes to play before the door on Saturday afternoons, but when Music hears him he runs away and hides, without so much as looking out until the last tune has died away along the street, then he comes out and capers about joyfully.—New York 'Ledger.'

CHAINED TOGETHER.

The mail-car stood at the garden gate, with baby strapped into it. Mother waited at the hall door to give Mary, who had just lifted the mail-car down the steps, some directions about the dinner.

Jack and Oscar came rushing through the hall, snatching their caps as they passed; they were going out, too, for a walk with mother and baby.

'It's my turn to push the mail-car,' shouted Jack, jumping the steps with a bound and seizing the handle.

'No, it isn't,' said Oscar.

'You had it all the way to the post-office on Wednesday. Let go!' And Jack roughly twisted Oscar's hands from their grasp on the car.

Oscar struck at him, and then began to cry, while baby looked with solemn blue eyes at them both.

'Boys, hush! I am ashamed of you. What are you quarrelling about?'

'Mother, Oscar wants to wheel the mail-car, and it's not his turn, and he knows it, mean meek!'

'For shame, Jack! Don't let me hear you call your little brother such names. No matter whose turn it is, I could not allow either of you to roll the car to-day after showing such selfish ill-temper to each other.'

'Let me,' pleaded Oscar, while Jack walked sullenly ahead.

'No, Oscar, certainly not. I could not trust baby to either of you. It makes me very sad to see you so often quarrelling with each other. Only this morning at breakfast your father had to speak to you, and now again it is the same.'

As the boys walked on, silent and ashamed, all their pleasure gone, there was a quick, light sound of horse's hoofs coming down the bridge across the river, and a horseman cantered past.

'Look, boys,' said mother.

Jack raised his head, and Oscar turned quickly.

Then both stood still and laughed.

Two little dogs were running swiftly, keeping close to the horse's heels. In quick even trot they went, head to head, chained together by a short steel chain which glistened brightly in the afternoon sun. As if with one purpose straight on they ran, so evenly that the little chain hung loosely between them without a strain.

Oscar clapped his hands with delight.

'Aren't they funny, mother? How fast they go; and they don't pull each other a bit.'

'They don't seem to know they are chained at all,' said Jack.

The boys stood and watched until the little dogs were only a speck in the cloud of dust at the horse's heels, then they ran after their mother, who had sat down on the bank of the river.

'I wish,' said she, 'my two boys were as wise as those two little dogs.'

'As wise as those dogs, mother,' exclaimed Jack.

'Yes. You are both chained together by the chains of relationship which keeps brothers or sisters, living in one house, sharing meals, lessons, play, everything. Your lives run as close together every day as those two little dogs. But unlike them, instead of running evenly, you are always pulling each other in different directions. Jack wants this, and Oscar wants that, and neither is willing to give up their own way, and so the chain, which ought to be the bright chain of love, is always clanking and straining instead of hanging easily. And mother feels so disappointed and ashamed that she wishes she had little boys like the two little dogs.'

'Oh, mother!' said Oscar.

'We'll try to be like the dogs, mother,' said Jack, smiling at Oscar; and Oscar smiled back. And presently they were racing, hand in hand down the bridge.

'We'll never let mother wish us to be like dogs again,' said Jack, as they paused for breath.

'Never?' said Oscar, decidedly.

'—P. K. in Great Thoughts.'

WILLY WISPS TEMPERANCE LECTURE.

Father and mother went off one cold day last spring, and left me at home alone.

I went out to the hen-house for the eggs, and there I saw Speckle sitting all humped up, and looking very dumpy. I thought she was going to die.

I picked her up and carried her into the house. She seemed to tremble and shiver. I thought she was cold.

I hardly knew what to do for her, but I remembered what mother does for young lambs when they are chilled, so I warmed a little milk, and put in a few drops of whiskey that she keeps on purpose for the lambs. I would have you know we don't keep it for anybody else. No
