ROJY'S BAD DREAM

St. Petersburg, Jan. 3. - The remarkable allegation that the British fleet was held in readiness to destroy the Russian fleet if the battle of the Sea of Japan had gone in the Russians' favor, is made by Admiral Rojestvensky in a letter published in the Novoe Vremya today, with the permission of the Minister of Marine. Referring to the absolute secrecy of Admiral Togo in regard to the disposition of his forces, Rojestvensky declares:

"This was unknown even to the admiral of the British fleet allied with the Japanese, who concentrated his forces at Wei Hai Wei in expectation of receiving an order to annihilate the Russian fleet if this, the final object of Great Britain, was beyond the Folk Lore Also Disappears From Christmas Magazines and Current Fiction.

London, Dec. 1.—"If a census were taken of the amusements which occupied the guests at the country houses during the Christmas holidays it probably would be found that in 60 per the round, rowdy games associated with the old-fashioned Christmas festivities," says the Daily Express. "If the pamphlet, and quotes approvingly there were one or two children in the which are a portion of the preface. A early as possible, and the house party settled down in religious silence to bridge. In many houses the game was played on the four successive afternoons and nights without a thought of turkey, plum pudding or crackers. The one anxiety was to rush through a short meal as quickly as possible. Bridge, in fact, has killed, in certain circles, the old-fashioned Christmas."

In London several "waifs and strays" parties were given on Christmas Day, the idea being to gather together the lonesome souls who dislike noisy festivites, pull down the blinds, play bridge from luncheon until the small hours of the morning. Tea and a short dinner were regarded as interruptions and small talk as super-

Among the destructive effects of bridge is a total discomfiture of ghosts. Ghost stories, without which in the good old-fashioned days no Christmas annual could be complete, have had no place in this year's Christmas periodical literature, and current flction equally is silent on the subject of the ghostly visitant who contributed to the Christmas festivities of a decade ago. White ladies, headless monks, gray friars, wicked lords, and all the vast army of spooks who were wont to wax obstreperous on Christmas eve, no longer are a part of the novelist's stock in trade. Women who anxiously inquire for a really good ghost story at the shops meet with a date," was the terse explanation of a clanking chains, rattling bones

Suffered for years with Stomach Trouble

Fruit-a-tives" promptly cured her.

Stomach Trouble is usually bowel trouble. The bowels become constipated. Poisonous matter, which should leave the bowels every day, stays in the bowels, two and three days at a time. These poisons paralyze the stomach muscles, prevent the digestive juices from reaching the food, and stop the whole process of digestion.

cure Stomach Troubles because they tone, sweeten and stimulate the stomach and they cure the Constipation which is the chief cause of dyspepsia. These concentrated and specially combined fruit juice tablets act directly on the liver-increase the flow of bile—and make the bowels move regularly and naturally every day.

More than that. "Fruit-atives' regulate the kidneysstrengthen them-make them excrete more urine-and rid the system of excessive urea and uric acid. They stimulate the glands of the skin to increased action-take away pimples and redness-and keep the skin clear, soft and lovely.

spects, Yerkes was unfortunate from a worldly point of view, in that he was made to suffer for things from which fact remains that he did suffer many things, and was punished by the law and society for what he dared to do. He was a constructive financier who ther his interests and, whatever his moral and ethical shortcomings, he achieved many things that of themselves were desirable. He made the underground railways of London a public convenience and comfortable avenues of traffic. His imagination ran to the practical, and he could foresee things and the ways to accomplish them in a degree that few have equaled.

Such a life cannot be called successful in any proper sense. No right feeling man would care to live it, not for ten times its yield in gold. This country contains now a million men really more successful than Yerkes.

When Charles T. Yerkes died it might be said that from the standpoint of material achievement he was one of the most successful men in the world. There were few who had made such a large fortune as he, for most of those possessing larger ones had started with more than a competence. The figures as to the Yerkes fortune are variously given, and most of them are probably exaggerations. Nevertheless, he had the unusual experience of having accumulated several fortunes in his lifetime, and in widely separated places. Philadelphia, Chicago, New York and London have been spheres of his financial activities, and omitting any reference to those transactions of his which have been adversely criticised, he was undoubtedly a man of extraordinary intellectual force, and indomitable courage. Jack O'Brien is a foxy boy. He's just picked on Gus Ruhlin for a fight. Jack's not going to get his, while he can pick out the soft ones.

We are glad to announce that B. Nelson and T. McGovern have been matched to fight. This is official-until tomorrow.

The Beavers have a game scheduled here on Monday night next with Woodstock. Water polo will be substituted, if the weather does not soon

The fight pictures at the Grand last night were fine, and showed very clearly one of the greatest lightweight fights of the century. Jimmy Britt is one of the swiftest boxers ever seen, while Nelson is strong, aggressive, and can take a world of punishment. They will be at the Grand this afternoon and evening.

Just about the time he had the deal closed the news came from Toronto that the conviction of President William Hendrie, for permitting gambling at Woodbine, had been quashed. This removes the last opposition to race track bookmaking in Ontario, and adds materially to Windsor's value.-Detroit

In the days of the Horton law in New York State, there were a half dozen heavyweights, anyone of whom is as good now as he was then could romp home with the championship. Think of Corbett, McCoy (a close second to Tommy Ryan in the matter of caginess), Jeffries, Fitzsimmons, Sharkey and Ruhlin, all in a bunch. Does anyone doubt that in shape and toting fair—and with the exception of Corbett and McCoy they all toted fair -anyone of the six boxers named could not clean up the heavyweight championship? But with the exception of Jeffries, now retired, they all went back together, and, unfortunately, they left no successors. It is this very ack of heavyweight material that should cause those who are inclined to beittle O'Brien's claim to the heavyweight championship to pull up and think bit. Who is there on the horizon that has a claim more legal than his? By common consent, Marvin Hart appears to be the next in line. It is true that Hart once gave O'Brien the time of his life, but since then O'Brien has gained in physique, and if anything has added to his knowledge of ring craft. Hart has doubtless profited by Tommy Ryan's teachings, but notwithstanding, if he is the only obstacle in O'Brien's path to the heavyweight championship, we are inclined to think that Jack will be able to read his title clear.

National League Has a Quartet Who Have Been in Baseball for the Past Seventeen Years.

A line went the rounds of the press last week informing the general public plainly and bluntly that Jake Beckley was now the oldest player in the National League in point of service. These lines sort of caught the oldtimer unawares and made him think hard. Beckley entered the league in Pittsburg in 1888, that is seventeen years ago. But he is not the only one still in the league who played in that year. There is "Kid" Gleason, now with the Phillies, who entered the Scranton. Gleason was then a pitcher and made good with the Phillies, and TRICKS OF FORTUNE is now considered one of the strongest second baseman in the business. And there is Hugh Duffy, who also entered cago team, coming from Salem and Game With 19 Hits and No Runs-Lowell, where he shone as center fielder and shortstop in 1887. Duffy is now manager of the Philadelphia team and last season took part in several games, playing center field in Sunday games in place of Roy Thomas. MR. CHAMBERLAIN STATES THE CASE

Says Home-Rule Policy Is Merely Negative One.

AND PLEADS FOR PROTECTION

Colonies the Equals of the Mother Country in Everything Save Wealth and Numbers.

London, Jan. 1.-In opening his own campaign last night at Birmingham, Chamberiain claimed that the late Government had done something to receive the prejudice and misunderstanding with the colonies who formerly had cause for complaint. He said: "We have disposed altogether of the idea that they were indifferent to the welfare that did not space their aspirations, and on the other hand, have shown that we had no intention whatever to dictate to those to whom was given the entire right of self-government, and whom we regarded as equals as well as kinsmen." After dealing at length with home rule, which, he said, was a negativeside policy, he turned again to the side. He recalled the days when Cobden adopted the present system of free trade. He did so in the belief that in fiv years every civilized country would follow the example. The plan had not worked out so that Britain's exports to protected countries Earle Moore, one of the Cleveland twenty-three millions sterling than were decreasing, and were now less by baseball team's star pitchers, will be thirty years ago. The old act stated specifically that a tie vote should be regarded as a negative vote, but the clause does not appear in the new act. However, the section quoted above, which says that a majority vote is necessary, pretty well clears up the point. As a consequence, if both parties do not come to terms there is a probability that many deadlocks over various matters will be occasioned during the year. But the prospects are that both sides will get together and do what is right.

New York, Jan. 3. - Noon. - After a somewhat irregular opening, with prices generally some lower than last night,a gradual improvement took place until at noon almost the whole list showed advances. The traders take a somewhat cheerful outlook of the situation, thinking that many weak accounts were closed out during the periods of high money and that money will gradually work easier. It is admitted in banking circles here that money has been attracted from the interior, but so far it has not arrived in sufficient volume to warrant even normal rates. Renewals were made at 25 per cent, early loans at 40 per cent, but subsequently the rate declined to 20 per cent. There is a good deal of bull talk to be well supported. In spite of the

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Toronto, Jan. 2. -It was a sharp market today. The run was small, and was cleaned up in short order. The bulk of the offerings were butcher cattle; quality medium. Dealers expect a large run on

The total run was 30 cars, consisting of 536 sheep, 16 hogs and 17 calves. Export Cattle—Only a few lots were of-fered, with a sprinkling of bulls. Ocean freights are up, but the demend is steady, as a number of shippers have space to fill. Prices ranged about as follows: Picked lots, from $4.50 to $4.75 per cwt; medium, from $4 to $4.40; bulls, $3.50 to $4, and constant to $4.50.

Butcher Cattle-The demand readily absorbed all that were offered, at prices a little firmer than last day. George Rown-tree bought 100 cattle, paying for fairly kood culis $3 55 to $4 10 per cwt; for good cows, $3 25 to $3 75; for medium to fair cows, $2 50 to $3, and for canners, $1 50

Feeders and Stockers-Practically none were on the market. One buyer reported a purchase of odd lots at $350 to $4. In a week or so a large supply is expected. Prices are nominally as follows: Best feeders. 1.000 to 1,150 lbs, at $3 50 to $4 per cwt; medium feeders, 1,000 to 1,150 lbs, at $3 30 to $3 90; best feeders, $50 to 1,000 lbs. at $3 15 to $3 60; best yearling steers, 600 to 800 lbs, at $2 75 to $3; good stock heif-700 to 850 lbs, at $2 50 to $2 75; medium
