

FRANK BARNED MUST FACE MURDER CHARGE

British To Demand Sirdar's Assassilants Be Apprehended

TWO BARNS AND CROPS DESTROYED

Frank Rykman, Concession 4, Delaware Township, Suffers $10,000 Loss.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

Neighbors Believe Blaze of Incendiary Origin, But Owner Differs.

Two large barns containing the season's crop, owned by Frank Rykman, concession 4, Delaware, were destroyed by fire at an early hour this morning, entailing a total loss of about $10,000.

The London fire department responded to a call sent in to the city at about 6:40 o'clock. Three hundred neighboring farmers and residents of Delaware fought the fire for more than an hour, but the blaze had gained such great headway before discovered that little could be done to prevent a total loss.

According to Mr. Rykman, the fire started at about 4 o'clock this morning, but was not noticed until two hours later. Farm implements which were stored in one of the barns and several head of cattle were saved.

More than 1,600 bushels of grain, 20 tons of hay and 45 tons of straw, besides several hundred dollars worth of corn stalks, were destroyed. The crop itself, according to Mr. Rykman, is worth about $4,000.

The cause of the blaze is not definitely known, although Fire Chief John Aitken believes spontaneous combustion is responsible. Neighbors claim that several suspicious-looking characters were seen about the farm shortly before the fire was discovered and it is their opinion that the blaze was of incendiary origin. Mr. Rykman, however, places little credence in this theory.

The loss is partly covered by insurance.

A strong wind which was blowing at the time saved other buildings on Mr. Rykman's property from becoming ignited, and the efforts of the several hundred volunteer fighters were an important factor in preventing serious spread of the fire to other buildings.

Ten men from the London fire department and a pumper arrived on the scene 15 minutes after the call was received.

The foreign office estimates include an appropriation for raising the Peking legation to the status of an embassy.

REPUBLICANS VICTORIOUS IN DAIL BY-ELECTIONS

Dublin, Nov. 20.—By-elections to the Dail Einn in South Dublin city and North Mayo have resulted in the return of Republicans by substantial although not overwhelming majorities. This is regarded in some quarters as a serious setback to the government, but the results were apparently largely due to the apathy of the electors, fewer than 50 per cent in Dublin voting.

SHAKE HANDS WITH JOHN ANDERSON, HE'S SIX-FEET-TWO AND A REAL MAN

Ten Years Ago Anderson Had an Empty Purse, But a Plucky Heart.

Today He Owns a $500,000 Business—He Made Good Here Is His Story.

John Anderson is a man worth knowing.

He is worth knowing not merely because he is a candidate for mayor of London but because of himself and what he has done.

Anderson doesn't talk very much, but he does do things. Ten years ago when his father died he inherited a little butcher shop on the market square. The shop had no money and neither had Anderson. He borrowed one thousand dollars, took off his coat, shut his jaw hard, and went to work.

Today the little butcher shop and the thousand dollar debt are both gone. In their place Anderson has a wholesale meat company with a business of over half a million dollars a year, his own abattoir on a farm out in Westminster township, and his own factory in South London.

Anderson has made good because he had pluck and brains and because he was ready to work hard and keep quiet.

There aren't any frills about John Anderson. His forefathers didn't bring any when they came out from Scotland two generations ago. But when you meet him with his six feet two, his steady eyes, square jaw, firm handclasp and quiet voice, you know you're meeting a real man with no tricks up his sleeve.

You understand then why the people in ward one who know him well gave him the biggest vote last year any alderman has ever received in London.

The Advertiser thinks that the story of John Anderson, both as a man and as a candidate for mayor, is worth telling to its readers. You'll find it on page three of this edition.

Domestic Rows Soothed By Veteran Court Clerk

John Moule Called Upon To Advise Many With Troubled Minds.

INTERPRETS LAW

Country Girl Has Implicit Faith in Police To Find Her "Boy Friend."

In the straightening of domestic grievances and marriage tangles, Dorothy Dix has little on John Moule, veteran police court clerk. Wives who disagree with their husbands and husbands who disagree with their wives, come to Mr. Moule for advice and sympathy every day.

"They seem to think I am an authority on marital problems," Mr. Moule said today. "As a matter of fact all I can do is interpret the law for them and explain just what provision is made in the cases."

Many believe Mr. Moule's office is the port of missing people, and some look on it as a general information bureau. Yesterday a young girl called on Mr. Moule and informed him that she had come to London from the country to meet a man. She had been in the city for some time, she stated, and received no word of her "boy friend," as she called him.

"Surely you can find him for me," she pleaded. "I don't know his address, but the police do such wonderful things. All you would have to do is to write him a letter telling him that I am waiting for him."

To all cases Mr. Moule lends a sympathetic ear, and points out to them their best course to take according to the law.

SISTINE CHOIR SINGERS DECLARED A FRAUD

New York Impresario Sued by Montreal Man—$7,500 Involved.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, Nov. 20.—Charged with obtaining $4,500 "from the public in general" by false pretences and $3,000 from Hector Durtisac, impresario, of Montreal, Emmett T. Moore, known also as Emmett Finnegan, impresario, of New York, appeared before Judge Decarie yesterday and was remanded for preliminary trial Friday.

Mr. Durtisac's complaints are to the effect that eight singers known as the "Roman Singers," who appeared in Montreal three weeks ago and who it was advertised formed part of the famous "Sistine Choir of the Vatican," are not part of that illustrious choir. The local theatre manager alleges that some of them in effect were at one time hired to sing as soloists for the Sistine choir, but others had no connection with it.

FRENCH MARSHALS MAY BE INCREASED TO EIGHT

Supporters of Castelnau and Sarraill Now Gaining in Strength.

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, Nov. 20.—The marshals of France, now six in number, may be increased by two in consequence of agitation started by friends of Gen. Sarraill, who commanded the third French army during the battle of the Marne.

Supporters of Gen. de Castelnau, who outranked Gen. Sarraill all through the war, have declared they will oppose the elevation of the latter unless their candidate is chosen at the same time, hence the possibility that Joffre, Foch, Petain, Lyautey, Fayolle and Franchet d'Esperey may have two new comrades.

The radicals supporting Sarraill's candidature prevented the nomination of De Castelnau when Fayolle and Franchet d'Esperey were named, and do not favor him now, but as they will find some difficulty in obtaining the honor for Sarraill otherwise, it is expected in political circles that they will finally consent, and that France will have eight marshals before the end of the parliamentary session. A marshal of France is always in active service.

FIVE LIVES LOST IN PLYMOUTH FIRE

Blaze of Undetermined Origin Breaks Out in Boarding-House.

Associated Press Despatch.
Plymouth, Pa., Nov. 20.—Five lives comprised the toll of a fire which destroyed seven frame buildings in the business section here today. The dead are Mrs. Martin Sherako, her niece, Emily Petroski, 11 years of age, and three unidentified boarders in the Sherako home. Another boarder, Edward Alexton, was taken to a hospital at Wilkesbarre in a serious condition.

The fire, which was of undetermined origin, started in the basement of the Sherako boarding house. The flames, fed by the wooden-frame construction of the building, gained rapid headway and soon spread to six other small buildings.

A number of boarders were carried safely from the houses by a deputy sheriff.

The loss was estimated at more than $75,000.

TORY-PROGRESSIVE AGREEMENT CHARGED

P. L. Hyde, Saskatchewan M.P., Conducts Probe Into Recent By-Election.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Regina, Sask., Nov. 20.—An animated display of political fireworks was given in the Saskatchewan legislature yesterday, when P. L. Hyde, government member for Maple Creek, conducted a probe to find out something about an agreement said to have been reached between the provincial Progressive and Conservative parties in the Wynyard by-election.

Mr. Hyde quoted Angus McKay, Conservative nominee in the Last Mountain constituency, as his authority, and he was corroborated by J. M. Parker, government member for Touchwood, who declared he also heard Mr. McKay speak of the agreement in definite terms.

Harris Turner, leader of the opposition, declared positively no such agreement or pact had any existence in fact.

CONDITION STILL SERIOUS.

Associated Press Despatch.
Cairo, Nov. 20.—Major-General Lee Stack, the sirdar of the Egyptian army, who was wounded by assassins yesterday, passed a good night and there was some improvement noted, but his condition this morning was still very serious.

Six or more gunmen, using both bombs and automatic pistols were concerned in the attack and the sirdar was struck with three bullets, suffering wounds in the abdomen, hand and one foot. After an operation for transfusion of blood last night, his physicians expressed hope for his recovery.

In a statement to the newspapers, the Egyptian premier, Zagloul Pasha, declared the government would take every possible step to solve the mystery of the crime and capture the assassilants.

"The outrage," he continued, "will cause a very bad impression with everyone everywhere. I deplore this crime. I do not know to what end the criminals are acting or to what class they belong, but I am convinced that the authors want to disturb the peace of the country. They shall not attain their end."

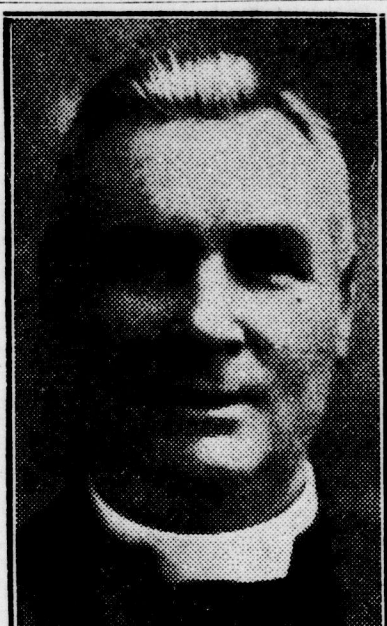

The newspapers publish many messages, indicating universal reprobation of the outrage.

WIDOW TESTIFIES

Prisoner Removed to Welland Jail to Await Trial in Spring.

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Reporter.
Niagara Falls, Nov. 20.—After hearing only a few witnesses today at the preliminary hearing of Frank Bamed of London, on the charge of murdering Smylie Muirhead in this city on Sept. 27, Magistrate Fraser committed him for trial at the spring assizes.

The evidence given by Mrs. Muirhead, the widow of the deceased, and other witnesses of the tragedy was a repetition of that given at the inquest and the special hearing for extradition proceedings. Bamed was neatly dressed and looked well and watched the proceedings with great interest. His father sat beside him in court. He was taken back to Welland jail this afternoon.

The city hall held almost a capacity crowd and by the beginning of the trial the hall was so packed that intense interest has been aroused by the case. Bamed stepped briskly out of the car and seemed in good spirits. He talked with the officers on the way to the station. He was dressed in a gray suit and light overcoat. Every one was excluded from the police station as Bamed was taken out of the car.

Prisoner is Composed.
Bamed appeared quite composed when he took his seat in the prisoner's dock. Magistrate Fraser presided, and J. D. Cowper, crown attorney, watched the case for the crown. As the trial progressed, Bamed began to show traces of strain and had considerable difficulty in repressing his tremors. Just as the time set for the starting of the trial it was found necessary to close the doors of the courtroom, as the jam was becoming very difficult.

Mr. Hyde, K.C., and Bamed's father took seats as close to the accused as possible. Bamed was asked to stand up and hear the charges, which were read by the crown.

Mrs. Muirhead, widow of the deceased, was the first witness. She told of the events leading up to the tragedy. She knew Mrs. Bamed. She was at home on the morning when the tragedy occurred. Bamed came to the house around 10, but did not see her after that.

At 2:20, Mr. Muirhead, J. M. McEvoy, K.C., and Bamed's father took seats as close to the accused as possible. Bamed was asked to stand up and hear the charges, which were read by the crown.

WITNESSED HUSBAND'S DEATH.

Bamed went down Victoria avenue after trying to hit it. The three walked down West avenue and along Epworth circle about one half way in the block when the car ran into the party. Mrs. Bamed and Muirhead were injured. Witness saw husband lying dead.

Mrs. Muirhead had no very clear recollection of the car after the accident.

Cross-examined by Mr. McEvoy. Mrs. Muirhead did not see the car following, and could not say anything about the speed of the car. She did not pay very much attention to the car after the tragedy. Mrs. Muirhead said she was still on Victoria avenue, walking three abreast. Bamed came up behind them and stopped. Bamed called, "Ruth, but the three kept on walking. While walking Bamed kept on calling "Ruth." Bamed was driving his car on the street.

Firing of Squad Ends Career Of Famous Mexican Bandit

Hippolito Villa Executed Ten Minutes After Court-Martial Hearing.
Associated Press Despatch.
Houston, Texas, Nov. 20.—The last of the famous Villa family, notorious Mexican bandits, has met death before a federal firing squad, according to reports here. Confirmation of the death of Hippolito Villa, brother of Pancho Villa, near Jimenez, Chihuahua, was received from the Mexico City correspondent of La Tribuna, local Mexican language newspaper.

According to the correspondent, Villa was "tricked" by the Obregon government. After several months of guerrilla warfare with a hand of rascals followed by open warfare with General Arnulfo Gomez, military chief of Chihuahua, for surrender, Villa agreed to lay down arms if given the "hacienda" Canutillo, when Pancho Villa set up a model ranch for his followers after making peace with Obregon. Gomez asked Villa to come to Mexico City to confer with President Obregon. There the agreement to give him the hacienda was reached. Bitter against the breaking of the pact, Villa started for El Paso. At Jimenez he was taken from the train by Obregon troops.

A court-martial was summoned, and in less than 10 minutes he was executed by a firing squad.

Disease Blamed To Landlords

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Nov. 20.—The practice of landlords in papering over dirty walls upon the advent of new tenants is, in many cases, responsible for the spread of disease, according to the annual report of the medical officer for Poplar, a congested London area.

Recent cleansing of premises after cases of smallpox revealed that rooms had as many as eighteen thicknesses of wallpaper. The medical officer advocated laws requiring owners of buildings to clean the walls before repapering them.

STURGEON FALLS DEFIES THE LAW

Council Instructs the Chief of Police To Enforce O. T. A.

Associated Press Despatch.
Sturgeon Falls, Nov. 20.—If the chief of police of Sturgeon Falls accepts the recommendation of the town council he will refuse to enforce the Ontario temperance act here. The council, at its regular meeting passed a resolution last night, as follows:

"That in view of the fact that residents of the town of Sturgeon Falls, according to the last referendum, are not in favor of the Ontario temperance act, and that our constables are put to extra duty to enforce the said act, that the chief of police be instructed not to enforce the said law and not to do any provincial work in this connection, and that a copy of this motion be sent to the attorney-general."

In the plebiscite held on Oct. 23 last, Sturgeon Falls voted 1,646 for government control, against 109 in favor of a continuance of the Ontario temperance act.

Toronto, Nov. 20.—"It is the sworn duty of every officer to enforce the laws of the province as well as the law of the municipality by whom he is employed," stated Attorney-General W. F. Nickle this morning when his attention was drawn to the report that the town council of Sturgeon Falls had passed a resolution ordering the chief of police not to enforce the Ontario temperance act. "I had heard of the action of the council," stated Mr. Nickle. "All I can say is that one volunteer is worth at least three constables."

ONE-MAN RULE IN CITY IS SCORED BY ANDERSON

Candidate For Mayoralty Seeks To Harmonize Working of Council, and So Urges Change in Chief Magistracy—Wenige Describes Work of Year.

OTHERS SPEAK AS CAMPAIGN IS OPENED

Harmony in the council and abolition of the "one-man" system of government gave John Anderson, mayor-alty candidate, a leading point for urging a change in the chief magistracy when he addressed an exceptionally-attended meeting of electors at Riverview school last night. Ald. Anderson and Mayor Wenige, the two mayoralty candidates, as well as a number of other citizens seeking office, were given attentive hearing by the 150 citizens who crowded into the auditorium and heard the opening guns fired in the municipal election campaign.

Keener interest in the election than in some years was evident all the through. The speakers secured attention and there was much applause for Mr. Anderson and Mr. Wenige. Many questions were flung at the speakers, a slightly rattling feature of the order generally preserved being the presence of several of Mr. Wenige's friends, who attempted to perturb Ald. Anderson with their heckling.

That the London street railway had been an incorrigible boy, and that he had put it "in its place" was the profession of Mr. Wenige, the first mayoralty candidate to speak. He was sure that the street railway question had been treated as fairly as could be and future action was up to future councils.

"If the estimates have been padded as my opponent says they have," declared Mr. Wenige, "then the city treasurer is involved. We don't want a scandal like they had in Hamilton." He boasted of improvements made at the Western fair, for the G. W. V. A. in pavements and in sewers. The tax and relief departments had been improved by changing officials and courtesy now came where it had been lacking.

The oath of office and the municipal act required him to enforce the law, and there were certain things that he "had got to do." If he were a dictator it was because he was required to be one.

Did His Level Best.

"I served by level best and did what I could, without coercion of any sort," was John Anderson's frank statement, when called on, following the cheers of the audience. "The aldermen have acted to the best of their ability, but we couldn't get co-operation from our leader."

Mr. Anderson hadn't a lot of planks, he admitted. He contemplated no great things or great expenditures by the council, but advocated a change in leadership as a means of getting co-operation in the council and with the other elected bodies of the city. The estimates had been padded, he said, but later the mayor "had found" money for new expenditures. If this money were available it should have been used in reducing the tax-rate. Much has been done for unemployment relief with the money that was available.

The city should state its own price for the street railway purchase were being considered. The L. and F. S. problem was a serious one, as the city's money was involved. He regretted the suspension of License Inspector McCallum, after long and faithful service. The heads of city hall departments should be permitted responsibilities and should not constantly be interfered with.

Never Saw Complaints.

"The mayor said he had complaints against Mr. McCallum. He never laid those complaints before the committee. He's been going to but he never has." The mayor had carried his "evidence" around in his pocket without letting the committee have it. When the estimates were struck the mayor recommended the removal of appropriations for advertising. Six weeks ago when recommendations came up for $1,000 worth of advertising the mayor had voted in favor of the motion. Mr. Anderson treated the mayor and Jack Hothersall, two of his hecklers, in a genial way, giving ready answers to their inquiries. Capt. Tom Robson, county treasurer, acted as chairman. Besides the mayoralty candidates, speeches were given by Ald. Towse, Paul Doug, F. B. Kilbourne and James McCormick, ward one aldermanic candidates, and Mrs. Edith Tutt, Trustee S. F. Lawrason, David Mills, P. H. Greenlee and W. A. Murray asked indorsement as board of education trustees. Ald. Douglass and Ald. Bottrell of ward two also spoke briefly.

Ald. Towse spoke. "Success is a constant discontent, broken only by the satisfaction of doing some one thing particularly well," declared Ald. Allan Towse, a candidate for re-election in Ward One. His specialty in the council, he said, had been traffic and he had tried to make the enforcement of the traffic bylaw a protective measure rather than a revenue producer. When asked by a heckler why the city employees hadn't received a vacation last summer, Ald. Towse said that was a question the mayor would have to answer.

Offering faithful service and the benefit of 15 years' business experience, Paul Doug thought that businessmen were needed on the council and he was ready to do his best.

A resident of South London for 36 years, F. B. Kilbourne said he wanted to see the council pull together and co-operate one with the other. London was a fine city, but the type of its legislators could be improved on.

Asks Indorsement.

James McCormick, well-known "tailor" street merchant, asked the indorsement of the ward one electors in his aldermanic campaign. He had been in business for many years and believed that every man who had made a fair success of his business should give the city some of his time and ability, if the citizens desired it.

Two ward two aldermen addressed the electors briefly. Ald. L. H. Douglass did not solicit help from the electors, but urged the electors to give the six bylaws, which were to come before them, very earnest consideration before voting. Ald. Harry Bottrell supported Ald. Anderson's contention that the duties of office were heavy, and stated that it was difficult to attend all meetings to which they were invited.

Mrs. Edith Tutt, a candidate for the board of education, made no rash promises of her policy if elected. She had been prominent in women's organizations and offered her best efforts. Heckled by a supporter of abolition of school cadets, Mrs. Tutt had a ready answer, stating that she would thoroughly consider such a matter.

Deplores Apathy.

Trustee S. F. Lawrason deplored the apathy shown in previous elections and urged the electors to secure majority rule in all civic elections. He turned down requests of his friends to stand for the mayoralty because he thought the board of education needed much more attention than it had received in the past. He lauded the speedy example set by the research committee of the board in recently bringing in recommendations for improved administration, and asked for a chance to help put these changes into effect. He urged support for Mrs. Hunt, a trustee who was unable to be present, and said that she was a valuable member of the board.

Pairing of school expenditure and elimination of fads and frills was favored by F. H. Greenlee, candidate for the board of education. He has served as a trustee eleven years ago, before going overseas. His platform was efficiency with economy.

David Mills, the next educational candidate, declared progress would never come in education if the people were not ready to pay for it. He urged a special school for backward children, where subnormals would be in business for many years and a British soldier and a Canadian soldier, had instructed military students in France and in Japan, but was a peace advocate. He did not favor uniform cadets, but thought beneficial drills and exercises could be carried on without the necessity of brass buttons and khaki.

W. G. Murray was of the opinion that many educational developments were not really frills, but were good for the schools. He gave his word that he would pay attention to school matters if elected to office.

MONTEITH PLANNED TO START KLAN IN WEST LORNE VILLAGE

Arrest at Hamilton Shatters Dream of Ku Klux Organizer.

HIS NATIVE PLACE

Mother and Brother Puzzled Why Man Was Carrying Arms.

Special to The Advertiser by Staff Reporter.

West Lorne, Ont., Nov. 19.—Almond Charles Monteith, Ku Klux agitator, who was arrested yesterday in Hamilton, had planned organization of the Klan here in this quiet little village, where he was born and raised. He isn't Almond Charles Monteith in West Lorne; he is just "Al," one of the village boys, and his role of the Ku Klux organizer seems incongruous in the setting of his quiet home.

The Advertiser learned of Monteith's plans in a visit here today with the accused man's mother and brother.

"Al" has had a lot to do with the Ku Klux lately," Mrs. Monteith said. "You may see them here some day, mother," he used to tell me after his visits to Detroit, and then he would describe what a wonderful sight it was to see them dressed in their white robes and hoods."

"Al" had many friends here," Mrs. Monteith continued, "and I think he used to tell them more of his plans than he did me. They are all so mysterious and Al won't talk very much about the Klan to strangers. He never started the Klan in West Lorne to my knowledge, but he used to talk a lot about it to his friends, and he said before he went away to Hamilton that he would soon be back on business."

Al Monteith apparently took his brother, William Monteith, also a resident of this village, into his confidence, and told him of the Klan's activities in the United States, although he could not persuade him to become a member.

He became associated with the Klan in Detroit last winter, his brother said. He returned to West Lorne filled with the idea of starting the society here and spoke to several of his friends on the subject.

Shave In Station Costs Man $200

Special to The Advertiser. Chatham, Nov. 19.—V. E. Rhulst, a Belgian, was robbed of $200 while he indulged in a shave in the waiting-room at the C. P. R. depot. Having some time to wait for an eastbound train to take him over part of the journey to Cochrane, the Belgian decided to shave. While operating his razor he saw, in the mirror, a man going through the pockets of his coat which hung upon the opposite wall. He raised an alarm but the thief escaped.

carrying a revolver," William Monteith said in reference to his brother's arrest in Hamilton. "It is not against the law to be a member of the Klan, and I don't know why he should go about armed."

"No, the Klan was never definitely organized in West Lorne," Monteith went on, "although Al may have had plans to start the society soon. I don't think he will get into trouble, however, he's not that kind of a man. I don't know why he chooses to be mixed up with the Klan at all."

Several visitors claimed to have been approached by Monteith to join the Ku Klux Klan, that an Ontario organization might be started. They refused, they said, primarily because they did not believe in its aims, and secondly, because they placed little or no faith in its so-called representative. Al Monteith, according to the villagers, was too well known in West Lorne to be taken seriously on the question.

Returns On Visit.

Monteith was born and raised in West Lorne, having attended school here. His mother lives just outside the village limits, and his family is well known in this district. He left the village six years ago, but has visited West Lorne on many occasions recently to see his 6-year-old daughter, who lives with her grandmother. Mrs. Monteith, who is separated from her husband, resides in Niagara Falls. For some time Monteith has been working in Niagara Falls and Hamilton.

He appeared in Hamilton police court today on a charge of carrying a loaded revolver, and the case was adjourned until Monday at the request of the crown. Ball was fixed at $1,000. Monteith said he was a private detective of Niagara Falls and as such had a right to carry the weapon.

METHODISTS TO MEET ON MAY 21 NEXT YEAR

London Annual Conference Will Be Held in Centennial Church.

The annual conference of the Methodist church will be held on May 21, 1925. This was decided at the London annual conference special committee meeting held Tuesday afternoon. The conference will be held in Centennial Methodist church, this city.

At the meeting yesterday, Rev. W. D. Fagan of Cambridge tendered his resignation, but it was held over until the annual conference. The resignation of Culver, Pentland, a probationer, was also referred to the general meeting.

The reason the date of the convention of the London conference has been moved forward is because the church union bill becomes effective on June 10, and it was thought best to have the convention over by the time the amalgamation of the churches takes place.

The meeting Tuesday afternoon was presided over by Rev. H. J. Uren, president of the London conference. Rev. R. A. Copeland of Kirkton, secretary of the conference, the chairman of the various districts and five laymen were also present.

The conference of the special committee, which takes place between the convention of the London conference, will be held next year at Centennial church, this city. Grace church, St. Thomas, had asked the committee to meet there, but it was thought that it would be more convenient to meet in this city.

Brains, Pluck and Hard Work Spell Story of Anderson's Success

FROM LITTLE SHOP WITH $1,000 DEBT TO A HALF MILLION DOLLAR SUCCESS IS ANDERSON'S RECORD IN 10 YEARS

He Inherited No Money, But His Scottish Forefathers Gave Him Courage and Determination—Has Made Good in Ten Years Through Hard Work.

HIS FAMILY IN LONDON OVER FORTY YEARS

Comes From Old Pioneer Stock—A Big Upstanding Man With a Strong Arm, a Quiet Tongue and Honest Eyes.

The city directory will show that there are a dozen men in London who will answer to the name John Anderson, but for the moment the citizens are interested in one particular John Anderson. When a man steps out from his seat in council and enters the mayoralty contest there are always the questions: Who is he? What does he do? Has he made a success of his own business?

Quite natural, too, because we do attach a great deal of importance to the office of mayor, and to the kind of man to whom we entrust that position.

So meet John Anderson—the John Anderson who lives at 137 Wharnclyffe road south. There's a lot of him to meet, six feet two, and when you get the full effect of that height, backed up by about 240 pounds, put into a handshake, you realize that you have met a real man.

John Anderson is a graduate of a school that gives out no titles and no honorary degrees; it does not even give a parchment that can be framed to hang on the wall. Yet for all these drawbacks it has a very large attendance—the school of hard work and achievement.

Pioneer Stock. There is something in his manner suggestive of sturdy pioneer stock. As he talks one is impressed with his sincerity, but the reporter seeking information is equally baffled by his desire to talk of anything but himself. He is a Canadian by birth, Dundas, Ont., claiming him as a native son. On his father's side the family came from Glasgow, while on his mother's side the records show the family as having come from Dundee, Glasgow and Dundee—and he sits in the family pew at Knox church, so it is a safe guess that he can be put down as a Canadian with Scotch ancestry.

Although born in Dundas, London is home to John Anderson, at least it has been for twenty-six of his thirty-eight years. He was a boy of twelve when the family left Dundas to come to London, and his first introduction to this city was attending the Worthy road school—not the extensive training center it is today, but merely a two-room affair.

The place where he now carries on business on the London market has been in the family for forty-two years. His grandfather, John Park, carried on business there in a small way, when London had a population of 20,000 and when, no doubt, the people thought they were being overtaxed when they were assessed for a total of $11,000,000 and paying at the rate of 18 mills on the dollar.

Invested All. It was to take over this business that James Anderson and his family left Dundas, where he had been employed as a woodworker. Going into business at that time did not take as much money as it does today, neither was there as much money to be had. There was the family home in Dundas, and it was sold to provide capital for the new venture, bringing a price that seems very low compared to present-day values—$675.

"I remember driving past there this summer along with mother," remarked John Anderson. "Of course we stopped and had a look at the old home, as most people would, and I remarked at the time that if a person could buy it today at $675 it would be a pretty good stroke of business."

When John Anderson's father arrived in London he found the business waiting for him to take over, and the price paid for it was $300, another $300 being used to purchase stock, etc.

Getting John Anderson to talk about himself or the development of the family business to the proportions of today is not an easy matter. He admits that he has been hard up, and that today he has a business that includes a hundred-acre farm with an up-to-date abattoir at Hyde Park, a factory on Wharnclyffe road, and a very flourishing retail outlet in the market building, but when it comes to filling in the details one has to look elsewhere.

Over Thirty Employees. When John Anderson admits that there was a time when he was hard up he recounts in those few words something that actually did take place. On the death of his father, about ten years ago he undertook to take charge of the business, and for that purpose sent to Winnipeg for his brother, Charles, who was assistant manager of a department in a large retail store there. At that time the staff of the Anderson establishment consisted of one clerk; today there are over thirty employees.

No Money to Start. When the boys went to the bank the day they started in for themselves they found that the little money their father had there on account could not be touched, as it was his personal account, and he had died without making a will. They had no capital and there were bills to be paid and stock to be purchased for the new venture. They had the choice of two things, closing up the business or getting some money and going ahead, and they decided on the latter course. Gerald Pearson was then, as he is today, manager of the market branch of the Bank of Montreal, and it was to him that the Anderson brothers went with their problem. His decision was that they should bring to him an inventory of their possessions. They did, and $1,000 was placed to their credit. It was enough to make a start, and the rest of the capital was made up of hard work.

"My brother, who was killed two years ago," remarked Mr. Anderson, "had a good knowledge of merchandising. He believed in advertising, something that my father would never hear of, and I am certain that it was this that made our business grow. In those days we had a few customers, today I guess we have some thousands."

Four years later the business had developed to such an extent that it was decided to erect a plant on the Wharnclyffe road to prepare goods for the store, smoking and curing ham, bacon, etc.

Purchase Farms. By 1918 the brothers had decided that the erection of their own abattoir, and part of the finishing of their stock should be under their own management, and a farm of one hundred acres was purchased at Hyde Park, on which they erected an up-to-date abattoir. Money was needed for this, but it was no longer necessary to take in a list of securities; their credit was an established thing.

In addition to this John Anderson is a large exporter of beef, cattle, particularly to the British markets. It is stated on very reliable authority that the total turnover in his undertakings will run over half a million dollars a year, an accomplishment of which any man of 38 years, with $1,000 borrowed capital as a starter ten years ago might well view with some degree of satisfaction.

Amateur sports, particularly baseball and hockey, have claimed John Anderson's attention. The old merchant's league that used to play its games at Springbank, found him heading up one of the teams, and he is now on the hockey executive of the London athletic association.

Mrs. Anderson was formerly Irma Wiley, daughter of Andrew Wiley of Rodney. One daughter of six goes to Victoria school and a son of four, the image of his father, is booked as a prospective student when a year or so more passes over his young head.

KINTORE W. I. The November meeting of the ladies' aid and W. M. S. of the Presbyterian church, Kintore, was held at the home of Mrs. C. J. Howes recently with about 60 ladies present. The president, Mrs. F. R. Thornton, presiding for the ladies' aid. Miss May Tye and Miss Lenora Armstrong were given permission to purchase one dozen chairs for the primary class. Women of the congregation are invited to attend a special meeting to be held at the home of Miss Belle McKenzie on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 22. A committee was appointed to look after the program.

The W. M. S. meeting took place immediately after the ladies' aid. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Walter Oliver, Mrs. I. H. McDonald presided. The topic for the month was taken from the new study book, "The Black-Hearted Barbarian," by Mrs. Walter Rose. Mrs. I. H. McDonald finished her report of the Provincial W. M. S. held recently.

Mrs. McDonald reported that the church's missionary, Miss Lenora Armstrong, would leave the first of the year for Korea. Mrs. Alex. McDonald reported on visits to the sick and shut-ins. Mrs. J. C. Henderson and Mrs. D. R. Calder volunteered to do the visiting this month. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting, and a pleasant social period enjoyed.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK IS NOW OPTIMISTIC

Bell Telephone Report Comments on Bumper Crops in Ontario.

A generally optimistic outlook on business conditions as far as Ontario and Quebec are concerned is contained in the monthly statistical report issued by the Bell Telephone Company of Canada for November. In brief this report says:

"With reports of the best crops for years throughout Ontario and Quebec and of increased employment, together with a general feeling of confidence apparent nearly everywhere, we can safely assume that conditions are now on the up grade, which we mentioned last month, and further, that the upward movement will be accelerated as the months pass."

"Increased labor efficiency, together with low material cost, make the cost of construction today lower than it has been for a number of years. This condition promises considerable activity not only in the building itself but in all the industries manufacturing the necessities to carry on the work. That many concerns are taking advantage of these conditions immediately is evident in Toronto, where two large office buildings to cost $1,000,000 each are now under construction and a number of other large undertakings are being contemplated."

"Retail trade is reported as fairly good, despite unseasonable weather in many parts, and with the coming of the frost should improve."

The total building activity for Canadian construction are given as $21,066,800, of which Ontario has 49 per cent, and Quebec 30 per cent.

"A quotation from the United States federal reserve board report is as follows: 'Canada is now enjoying a 'cost of living' condition nearer that existing before the war than are the people of the United States, England, France, Belgium or Italy.'"

"The actual percentages of increase over the pre-war period in the cost of living are stated as follows: Canada, 43; United States, 55; England, 79; France, 295; Belgium, 393, and Italy, 412."

More Cruisers Now Planned

Associated Press Despatch. London, Nov. 20.—One of the first acts of the admiralty under the new government will be to lay down a further number of cruisers, according to the Daily Mail. Recalling that the last Conservative government decided to build eight and that the Labor government laid down five of these, the paper says the balance, with further fresh replacements, may be begun in the near future.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND USE TENNIS COURTS IN 1924

Municipal Season Closes Most Successful Year—Proceeds $735.

From the fact that $735 was collected by the playgrounds commission for tennis permits during the year just closed it is estimated that 15,000 people made use of the courts during that period.

The tennis nets at Victoria, Queens and Thames parks were taken down on Tuesday and the season brought to a close after a bumper year.

Since this is the first year that a charge has been made for the permits figures for last year are not available for purposes of comparison. While permits were issued last year no record was kept as to their number, since no charge was made for them.

The permits were issued this year, 10 cents for the morning, and 20 cents for the afternoon and evening. The total number of permits issued is estimated at between 3,500 and 4,000.

The revenue derived from the permits will provide not only for the upkeep, which is comparatively small, but it will also take care of the interest payments on the investment.

DOMINION BACKS U.S. OPIUM PLANS

Boland Insists Remedy for the Evil Lies in Hands of Conference.

CHINA APPROVES

Associated Press Despatch. Geneva, Nov. 20.—Canada and China threw their support to the United States proposals for the control and ultimate eradication of the narcotic evil when the international opium conference resumed its sessions today. Dr. Henry S. Boland, speaking for Canada, pointed out that the United States had enacted laws, the enforcement of which would be sufficient to eradicate the opium evil if clandestine and organized smuggling did not flood the whole land with heroin, morphine and cocaine.

Dr. Boland insisted that the remedy against the invading plague lay in the hands of the conference and he appealed to all the nations to free humanity "from these hideous monsters."

Alfred Sze, Chinese minister to the United States, said that the speech delivered yesterday by Bishop Charles H. Brent of the United States delegation in elucidating the United States proposals had brought the first ray of sunlight he had seen in Geneva for the last fortnight. This was an allusion to the failure of the preceding conference—that which dealt with far eastern opium problems.

On behalf of China, Mr. Sze thanked Bishop Brent for recommending that nations deriving profit from the sale of opium to smoking addicts should expend this revenue for the unfortunate from whom the profits were obtained, remarking he had fought for this principle at the first conference. He conceded that there had been a recrudescence of the cultivation of opium in China.

REPRESENT TOWNSHIP. Miss Mary Grant, clerk of London township, and Reeve A. C. Hodgins, will represent the township at the meeting of the Ontario municipal electric association in Toronto on Nov. 26.

MAJORITY RACE IS WARMING UP

Candidates Meet Tonight Again in Ward Two—Aldermen to Speak.

With last night's election meeting at Riverview school setting a precedent for interest and attendance, the present municipal campaign shows indications of warming in intensity and a big gathering is expected at Talbot street school tonight.

John Anderson and George A. Wenige, candidates for the mayoralty will carry the election fight into ward two, where board of education and other aldermanic office seekers will also speak. Ald. L. H. Douglas and Ald. Harry Bottrell, who spoke briefly at Riverview school in the night, promised to fully discuss their policies at tonight's meeting. James Donahue and C. M. Linnell are also expected to speak as aldermanic candidates.

Prepares Meetings.

Ald. Anderson is preparing to hold mid-day shop meetings and will give as much of his time as possible to permit the electors to "size up" his policy of harmonious council for 1925 and the elimination of the one-man system of government.

Tomorrow night two meetings will be held, one at Aberdeen school at 7:30 o'clock, and the other at Empress avenue school at 8:30.

Mayor Wenige furthered his campaign when he spoke at the King street plant of the McClary Manufacturing Company at the noon hour. The mayor promised a new college institute would be constructed next year on a site named by the school board.

Attacks Statement.

Mr. Wenige attacked the statement that there had been padding of the estimates this year. If there had been, six other aldermen had to act in collusion with him, he said. He renewed his avowal that any city employee who did not meet his obligation to be courteous to the public would be dismissed by the mayor. The "time for a change" argument was scouted by the speaker, who said that he had his fingers on all the city's business after two years as chief magistrate.

MOTHER RAPS POLICE AS SON IS CHARGED

Court Warns John Smith, 30, He Must Answer in Disorderly Case.

A mother scathingly ridiculed law and the police in court this morning after she had made excuses for her son, who failed to appear on a disorderly conduct charge.

John Smith, 30 years old, was summoned to make his appearance in court several weeks ago, but, according to his mother, James, he never showed. Again last week he was too ill to leave his home, and when he was scheduled to appear today his mother presented herself in his stead armed with a physician's certificate of his illness.

"I know the boy is not sick," Magistrate Graydon said. "I will adjourn the case for one more week and you tell him he must appear at that date."

"Who laid the charge against him anyway?" Mrs. Smith cried out. "Whoever the man was that did it will suffer. My boy has done no wrong. He was in bed the night the charge was laid and we were pouting him at the time. The police hauled him out of bed one night at 12 o'clock and tried to prove he stole some tires. He was arrested at that time, too. It's not right and you'll suffer."

"Who laid the charge against him?" she repeated in excited tones. "I answer me that, because the man that did it is going to suffer."

Mrs. Smith then turned and addressed spectators in court and commenced to speak to them, mumbled to herself and asking for "the man that laid the charge."

Her speech was abruptly halted when chief Bell called for order and another case was commenced.

CONSTABLE REAL LOSER WHEN SON IS FINED

William Burch, of Muncy Reserve, Contributes $81 in Two Days.

William Burch of the Muncy reserve, who paid over $55 yesterday for indulging in too much Indian reserve whiskey, came before Magistrate Hawshaw this morning on an assault charge, pleaded guilty and was fined $20 out of his own pocket, amounting to $28. The fine was paid.

William admitted dishing a large coal oil can on the head of Peter Seneca on the night of Nov. 17, after he had ascertained that he had lost $9.

Bill's father is one of the constables on the reserve and it fell to his lot to summon five witnesses who were all set to give evidence against his son. The father received $3 for his work and in turn had to pay each witness $2.00 out of his own pocket, owing to the financial stringency of William. In other words the day was a total loss to the constable of $15.

Burch said Seneca had flashed a light on him and following a "little wrestling match," he found he had lost $9 and thought Seneca could unravel the mystery of his disappearance. He asked Seneca for the money and the battle was on, oil can and everything.

Seneca declared that Burch had hit him with the can, kicked him in the ribs and used his teeth on his hand.

Hundreds attended the funeral of Thomas Shaw this afternoon, testifying to his great popularity in London and district with a flood of floral tributes.

The former popular East London grocer was buried in Woodland cemetery and funeral services were held at the home of his son, Dr. Frank Shaw, at 296 Huron street. Rev. Mr. Boyd of Toronto officiated.

Mr. Shaw, the father of Alderman Ernest Shaw, was one of London's best known men. He died on Wednesday following a long illness, although up until the last his condition was not considered critical.

Mr. Shaw took a prominent interest in sporting activities in the city for years and many of his associates of various sporting organizations of London attended today's funeral.

Anderson Was First Mayor

London's first chief magistrate, when it became an incorporated city in 1855, was Mayor Anderson. By a curious coincidence another Mr. Anderson is offering his services for the mayoralty after nearly 70 years of the absence of the name from the list of civic leaders. Murray Anderson, though, was not a relative of John Anderson, the present candidate.

CITY YOUTHS LONGING FOR JOBS ON FARMS

City youths who have been laid off by various factories and other local concerns owing to adverse business conditions, are now turning longingly eyes to Middlesex farms.

A number of young men, who candidly admit that they have no experience on farms, have applied to the immigration department for jobs with farmers for the winter months.

"If I like the work and get into a good home, I will be glad to stay all the year round," declared one husky young mechanic. "I am beginning to think that the cows and the chickens is the real life after all."

SKATING RINK WORK IS ALREADY STARTED

Officials Say Actual Flooding Unlikely Before the New Year.

Work has been commenced by the parks department under Supt. E. E. Graham in connection with the outdoor skating rinks and hockey cushions for the approaching winter.

Though it is likely little actual flooding can be attempted before the new year, the parks officials are preparing the shacks and side boards for the hockey cushions.

It is quite possible that this year the side boards of the hockey cushion will be made regulation height, 3 feet 6 inches, in accordance with popular demand.

Hockey cushions were operated by the parks commission last year at Queen's Vickers and Thames park, with skating rinks at the same three parks, and in addition at McGillivray's, near Mount Pleasant avenue and Edith street, the Coves, at the foot of Cove road.

The provision of the rinks and cushions is considered by officials of the commission to be even more important than the provision of playgrounds during the summer. The idea expressed was that in summer "all outdoors is a playground" while in the winter the opportunities for exercise and recreation are largely confined to walking and sport on the ice.

The parks commission provides the accommodation for skating and hockey, but attempts neither supervision or organization of them. The provision of the accommodation cost the commission between $3,500 and $4,000 each year.

It is understood that the commission's finances will not permit this year of any extension of the accommodation at present provided.

Applications for use of the cushions for hockey can be made, and should be made to Manager E. V. Buchanan of the commission as early as possible.

HUSKY GARBAGE COLLECTOR SEEKS OWNER OF KITTENS

Somebody in London played a shabby trick on a mother cat and her six kittens yesterday. The husky garbage collector was going along a street in East London the driver noticed a sack lying in the center of the road. As a matter of fact he narrowly escaped running over it. Instead he got out and picked it up. It was tied at the mouth, and on opening it out fell a mother cat and her six kittens. He took them to the garage, where they stayed all night.

This morning the men found a way to provide some milk for the lost pussies and at the present time they are the guests of the city in the garage. The driver is hoping that he can find the man who left his pets to die this way, and as he is a husky cat weighing about 200, and fond of animals, the path of wisdom for the cat betrays is to remain anonymous as long as possible.

KING OF ALL BOOTLEGGERS FIRES MEN WHO CARRY GUN

Rocco Perri of Hamilton Lifts Veil From Liquor Business.

RIGHT TO VIOLATE

Believes Infliction of Penalties Is Sound Basis of Work.

Special to The Advertiser.

Copyright.

Hamilton, Nov. 19.—"Who killed Joe Baytoize and Fred Genesee?" Rocco Perri, self-styled "king of the bootleggers," suave, immaculate and untroubled, leaned far back into the luxurious cushions of the chair. There was a quick flash of sparkling white teeth; black eyes shone with sudden amusement; a carefully groomed pair of shoulders rose slowly in a gesture of perfect Italian indifference and then he spoke.

"Who knows?" he said with apparent indifference. Then, looking smilingly across at his charming Italian wife, "Rocco Perri did it. I suppose. Everything that happens there is my business. Why is it? Maybe because my name is so easy to say: I don't know, it is amusing." His wife joined him in the soft laugh which succeeded.

"It has been said that these two men met death at the hands of an Italian bootlegger king." The bootlegger persisted. "Why is it? The recognized leader of the Italian population of Hamilton. Have you not some theory to advance in respect to such an extraordinary sequence of murders?"

Signor Perri's face took on a more serious expression. "How come these two men were killed? I have heard and from what I have read, I would say that Joe Baytoize was out of the way because he was a snail. He was a Polish. I have been told that he was a stool pigeon. There was a case some time ago in which he helped the police. There may have been others. He said too much. He has paid the price. That's what I think, but I don't know."

Genesee was not a bootlegger. "As for Genesee?" "Fred Genesee, yes, but I do not know him. Maybe I have seen him. I don't remember. But he was not a bootlegger. I don't think. I have heard that he was. Why was he killed? I don't know, but I think there was a woman in the case. I think it was spite."

The voice of Mrs. Perri slipped naturally into the conversation. "Ah, yes, a woman, there must have been a woman. I provide them with high time that man went to his death because of a woman, nor will it be the last."

There is a report that Baytoize and Genesee were killed in connection with a bootleg war. The advertiser suggested. Mrs. Perri was again the interlocutor. "Bootleg war, that is funny." She reached toward her silent husband and patted him easily on the back. "You tell me, Rocco, that there is no war. You are the king of the bootleggers. That is what they say. You should know."

Mr. Perri was quick to respond. "There is no bootleg war," he declared emphatically. "Next time I will be saying that it is the blackhand or the vendetta."

He was asked to differentiate between the latter two terms. "The vendetta is a put away a man if he demands for money are not met. The vendetta—that is to kill a man for revenge."

The parks commission provides the accommodation for skating and hockey, but attempts neither supervision or organization of them. The provision of the accommodation cost the commission between $3,500 and $4,000 each year.

It is understood that the commission's finances will not permit this year of any extension of the accommodation at present provided.

LEVEL CROSSING PREPARED TO OPEN

Board of Railway Commissioners Hear Arguments in Session Here.

INSPECTION TODAY

The board of railway commissioners for Canada, in session at the court house this morning, heard applications made by the city of London for crossing protection at the intersection of Dundas street with the C. N. R. tracks at Pottersburg and the C. P. R. Quebec street.

Assistant Chief Commissioner S. J. McLean of Ottawa, who presided, intimated at the close of arguments that the commission would deliver a ruling as soon as possible.

The other member of the commission present was Commissioner A. C. Hart, Secretary A. D. Cartwright and T. L. Simmons, assistant chief engineer also gave close attention to the facts as presented by the city. R. E. Laidlaw, Toronto, for the C. N. R., and Angus McMurphy, K.C., for the C. P. R.

Train Every 1 1/2 Hours.

Mr. Meredith stated that a train passed Dundas street at Pottersburg every 1 1/2 hours. The crossing was diagonally and the visibility not particularly good. Owing to increased motor traffic, it was deemed necessary by the city that some means of guarding the crossing should be provided. The crossing should have to pay more than 25 per cent of any precautions deemed necessary by the board.

R. E. Laidlaw, speaking for the C. N. R., declared that no protection was needed at the crossing. He stated that all passenger trains in and out of Pottersburg had to come to a halt, and the time card showed that the speed of all trains was lowered to 10 miles an hour at the crossing.

In asking for protection at the Quebec street crossing of the C. P. R., Mr. Meredith declared that there was considerable danger from light engines. A check taken on traffic on May 3 last showed that 122 light engines had passed the crossing in 12 hours. Thirteen trains were light engines, and in between times 650 pedestrians, 385 motor vehicles and 114 horse-drawn vehicles had negotiated the crossing.

Mr. McMurphy did not agree with Mr. Meredith in all his remarks, and pointed out that the question should be dealt with on a trade basis, not a superiority standpoint, which Mr. Meredith had stressed.

Two watchmen on 8-hour shifts could handle the matter, he claimed.

Meredith Agrees.

Mr. Meredith agreed that this was reasonable, and suggested that the crossing be manned from 6 a.m. until 10 p.m.

C. G. Groat, assistant divisional superintendent, Toronto, took exception to the remarks of Mr. Meredith regarding the danger from light engines. Light engines did not travel more than 6 to 8 miles an hour.

Mr. Meredith pointed out that the crossing from 8 to 9 in the morning, the school children's hour.

AGED CIDER CONNOISSEURS REVEL ON LOCAL MARKET

Many city people of ripe old age who attended the local market this morning were overjoyed when a number of considerate farmers brought in a couple of gallons of cider.

Glasses were supplied by the farmers, and the people of the market were age and disposed of it on the spot, commending the flattered farmers on its genuine taste.

One old man, who was evidently well pleased with the cider drank at least five glasses before he was satisfied, and to make it a perfect day he took a gallon home with him.

Cider is now being offered on the local square in large quantities and for the most part the quality is well up to the best standards.

BEGGAR IS SENTENCED TO TEN DAYS IN JAIL

Makes Mistake of Accosting a Detective in Hunt For Money.

John Murphy, resident of Toronto, made a fatal mistake when he accosted a plainclothesman yesterday, told a hard luck story and begged for money.

He was brought to the police station, lodged in jail and sentenced to court this morning to serve an additional ten days for his misdemeanor.

"He was begging from every man he came across on King street," the officer told Magistrate Graydon. He came up to me and said he needed 50 cents to get a meal. He only asked for 15 cents because he said he already had 35 cents which other people had given him. At the police station when he was searched he had more than a dollar.

"Do you think it is a decent thing to go around and impose upon people's generosity?" the magistrate asked the man. You will be fined $10 and costs and for failure to pay the fine you must spend ten days in jail."

STILL'S HIDING-PLACE FALLS BEFORE SLEUTHS

Fine of $200 Imposed on John Gossman, 24, of St. George Street.

John Gossman, 24 years old, of St. George street, took all precautions to hide a whiskey still at his home. He even went so far as to have a special spiral-shaped hole dug in the room of his house. He had placed the worm of the still, but his efforts at concealment proved fruitless when License Inspector Walter Cecil Webb raided his home yesterday.

Inspector Bolton found the worm hidden in the especially constructed hole and covered over with cabbage heads. A complete set for the manufacture of liquor including a copper boiler and tub was seized.

In police court today Gossman pleaded guilty to a charge of having a still at his home without a license, contrary to the inland revenue act, and was fined $200 and costs, or six months in jail was imposed.

Troubled For Years With Indigestion

JARVIS APPEALS JOINT SENTENCE

Toronto Broker Declares Judgment Bad Law as Well as Harsh.

MATTHEWS LOSES

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Nov. 19.—Leave to appeal against the part of the recent court sentence on Aemilius Jarvis, Sr., of Toronto, which orders that $600,000 be paid as a fine by either Mr. Jarvis or Peter Smith, or both, will be asked in Mr. Justice Middleton's court on Friday. Notice of application has been given by the legal firm of Blake, Lash, Anglin & Cassels.

The sentence of Chief Justice R. M. Meredith on Jarvis was six months' imprisonment and on Peter Smith, tried jointly with Jarvis on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the province in connection with the sale of bonds, a sentence of three years was imposed. In addition a joint fine of $600,000 was imposed to be paid before either could leave the prison.

The application for leave to appeal sets out that the sentence is harsh, that it is bad law to impose a fine jointly on two people and to order that either must remain in jail indefinitely until it is paid, and that Jarvis is entitled to the $600,000 odd commission on the sale of bonds for the province, his handling of the loan having "admittedly" saved the province upwards of $2,000,000.

LOSES APPEAL.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Nov. 19.—After argument lasting fifty minutes, the provincial appellate court today dismissed an application for leave to appeal on behalf of C. A. Matthews, Jr., former assistant provincial treasurer, from his conviction on a charge of breach of trust, on which he was recently sentenced by Mr. Justice Mowat to two years' imprisonment.

The application for leave to appeal was refused both on grounds of law and fact.

The application was heard by Chief Justice Latchford and Justices Middleton, Orde, Hodgins and Masten. H. H. Gordon appeared for the former assistant provincial treasurer, while W. N. Tiller, K.C., and J. C. McRuer represented the crown.

In making the application, Mr. Gordon stated that he asked leave to appeal on the ground that the verdict of the jury should be set aside because it was unreasonable and could not be supported by the evidence. He claimed also that the trial judge erred in his charge to the jury.

Pronouncing the judgment of the court, Chief Justice Latchford declared that it was clear to any mind that the charge of trial judge was fair.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1924.

Mr. Drury Wins His Point.

Hon. E. C. Drury received from the hands of his friends in 1924 what was denied him when he was premier of the province—an opportunity to proceed with the organization of a political party in this province that was not confined in its numerical strength to those engaged in the pursuit of agriculture.

What progress he can make on these grounds remains to be seen. Had the same step been taken two or three years ago when Mr. Drury was in the position to work out his plans, he undoubtedly could have accomplished more than will be possible at the outset today.

His position when premier was that of being at the head of the government and leader of the Farmers' party, but always with the influence of J. J. Morrison standing at one side, or breaking into the center, to restrain him. The greatest mistake Mr. Drury made was in paying a visit to J. J. Morrison in his office in Toronto prior to the last general election and making terms with that gentleman. He should have fought then for what he has obtained today, and he would have had the backing of the great majority of U. F. O. members in his stand.

Only One Issue With Them.

J. A. Currie, M.L.A. for S.E. Toronto, brought out the views of the practical politician when the Conservative convention in Toronto was discussing the result of the recent plebiscite vote in Ontario. He said:

"I have found that this temperance or prohibition question always brings grief and no votes to the Tory party."

That is the viewpoint of the man who sees nothing ahead except the date of the next election. The view is that of the cramped mind of a ward politician. Every question considered, each bit of policy, must be measured only by its ability to secure a certain number of votes at the next election. There is nothing heroic, nothing daring about it—simply that the party must stay in power, and the sweets of office become more precious than the bearing of honorable scars in a battle where a principle is at stake.

Poor and spineless as was the Currie motive, it did not carry with it the colossal impertinence or the political stupidity of J. A. McCausland of Southwest Toronto, who made of himself a nuisance at the Conservative convention. Premier Ferguson's declaration that he was determined to have regard only to the vote expressed by the people on October 23 was not sufficient for McCausland, who fears that his political existence is at stake because he can do nothing for the wet majority in his riding. To him it is the only question of importance on the political horizon; he has closed his eyes to all other issues, and for that reason his usefulness in the legislature—if he ever had any—has departed.

Mr. McCausland has made the people weary with his threats of resignation. By all means he should carry that threat into operation at once. It might come as an awful shock to him, but it is a fact that things would run along very well without him.

Three Trustees Retiring.

Three members of the board of education have decided to retire, Rev. Quintin Warner, A. N. Udy and Dr. A. J. Grant. They have given excellent service, and have unselfishly placed much of their time at the disposal of the citizens.

Although life on the board of education may not be as spectacular as that on the city council, the members are responsible for the conduct of a far-reaching and extensive school system that touches the life of every boy and girl in the community from the first day the kindergarten opens until graduation takes place from the collegiates. It is here, too, that 40 per cent of the city's money is spent. It is fitting that recognition be given to those who have carried on this work, and the present seems the opportune time to do it.

Who Would Trade Places?

Woodstock Sentinel-Review has decided that a man sentenced to death, and waiting for the day of his execution in the jail at Lindsay, is not in such a bad condition after all. The Woodstock paper points out that he is putting on flesh, thirteen pounds in six weeks, and asks why such should not be the case, as "he is well fed and well cared for; he has nothing to worry about, not even about how he is to die, where he is to be buried or how the funeral expenses are to be paid."

The Sentinel-Review continues:

"There is a great deal of wasted sympathy for people under sentence of death. The condemned man knows when he is to die, and he knows that his death will be practically painless. As a matter of fact, we are all under sentence of death, but great masses of people are condemned to die miserably, lingeringly, often horribly. This is something the condemned murderer escapes."

After looking at that summing up of the situation one comes to the conclusion that the viewpoint is wrong. It is not necessary to stop to reason why at any great length, but it runs at cross purposes to all the instincts of human nature.

True, it is appointed unto man once to die, but the place, time and circumstances are features that have been mercifully and wisely withheld from human vision. Nor is the precision with which a condemned man's course marked out an appealing program. There are no thrills in thumbing over a calendar which says that a man shall stay locked up in a cell for a certain number of days, fed so many meals, and at a given hour on a stated day be led out and executed.

There is something to which man becomes heir at birth that finds life, though hard in spots, still worth living. As long as the mind remains normal, with all the instincts of self-preservation in operation, he retains that attitude. In times of depression it is the force that makes him hope for better days to come. It is that spirit that defies ultimate defeat that makes life worth while.

It may be that the condemned man at Lindsay has put on thirteen pounds of flesh in six weeks in the death cell, but who would change places with him on that score? A man as thin as a rail would ask at once of what use will the added weight be? True, that condemned man has his meals found for him, but where is the man who would not prefer tightening up his belt and going hungry to accepting prison meals knowing that his life was going to be demanded?

There is nothing appealing in the regularity of meals or the certainty of funeral expenses that are the lot of the man in the death cell.

Three Strikes and Out.

The idea of getting baseball started in Europe by a tour of the New York and Chicago teams has petered out. The games played in Britain were poorly attended, and those who did see them were not impressed. There were many things they could not understand, and fine points they were unable to appreciate.

National tastes differ. Baseball is a good game for those who understand it, and there are few in this country who do not. The British play other games, and they enjoy them. They are great at football; it is a national sport, with team traditions behind it that are woven right into the fabric of the community. The hundreds of thousands who attend the games know how it should be played; they know football as we know baseball.

The idea of trying to "sell" a sport to a nation that has not been brought up on it is something about as closely approaching the impossible as could well be imagined.

The City Manager Idea.

Guelph has had the city manager plan for six years, and at the last meeting of the city council there a motion was brought in to take a vote of the ratepayers on the continuance of the plan.

The powers given the present city manager there, according to remarks at the council, are not as great as enjoyed by the first occupant of the position. Several of the aldermen spoke in favor of a vote by the people. Ex-Mayor Howard, now an alderman, stating that he was sure citizens were not satisfied with the position, and suggested that if there were to be a city manager he should be elected by the people, an idea that would find few backers in any community. Guelph council decided against taking a vote by 11 to 6.

London has no need of a city manager, and the vote on that question should be an emphatic NO. There is plenty of municipal machinery here for the present.

Note and Comment.

People used to strive for a place in the sun, but the struggle now is to get the provincial highway to run through a place.

Mr. Meighen says the national policy will cure Canada's ills. Not if the country has as many of them as Mr. Meighen states.

Prof. Archie Leitch of Guelph O. A. C. is coming to Western to give lectures for a week. Fine, but how he'll hate to go back home.

Kitchener minister has been called to Hamilton, and in view of the tax scandals there he may feel the urgency of preaching to the heathen.

Down Chatham way a man has 45 potatoes that fill a bag. It couldn't have been from that section that the phrase "small potatoes" got its start.

The publication of income figures in the United States has thrown many families into an uproar. Wives know for the first time what their husbands are making.

Joys of Seasons

I read a thing the other day as how each season as she came, was different from the other ones, no two a-bein' just the same. And he went on to tell as how when these things was a-passin' by how we should grasp the thrills of each and grow new lustre in our eye.

Thus in the spring why folks should go and breathe great gulps of new-laid air, and wander 'round the brickyard pond and hear the frogs a-singin' there—how in this way they come in touch with all the livin' things around, and get their hearts toned up a spell by each new bird what made a sound.

Then in the summer, so he says, when things is growin' green and tall, we should stay out-doors then, no goin' into the hut at all. And we should draw new lessons then from all the things what come to pass, a notin' how green apples grows and ripens up for apple sassa.

This writer says the summer time was meant 'or workin' out of doors, for makin' goodly streams of sweat come spoutin' from a thousand pores. How we should enter in, right in, and catch the spirit of the day, and grow new corns upon our fist from forkin' fifty tons of hay.

A-reading on some morn' I found that we relax some in the fall, not that we come a-stoppin' dead and not a-movin' 'round at all, but we should note the falling leaf and watch the robin headin' south, and speculate upon the time when we'd been livin' long enough.

The chill November days has come was what I know he meant to say, but usin' other words than that he put the thing another way—intendin' folks to look more sad in keepin' with the autumn hue, and not go tearin' 'round like mad. As folks in spring is apt to do.

The winter season was the next, a time when nature takes a rest, and when the grey equine takes his tail and keeps the draft from off his chest. I was a-thinkin' he was right, I tried to line my thoughts with him, and put wool socks upon my feet, and wrapped a shawl around my chin.

And while I was a-thinkin' thus a youngster stole up in the rear, he poised a snowball in the air and swatted me behind the ear.—Ark.

Rarebits By Rex

YOU'LL NEVER KNOW.

You'll never know, Marie,
Just all you meant to me
Through those dear days of yore
That never will be more.
The longing and the aches
Your years of absence makes—
You'll never know.

You'll never know, my dear,
That, as I'm sitting here,
How lovingly I trace
The outline of your face.
The pulsing of my heart
The day we had to part—
You'll never know.

You'll never know the cost
Of that old snap I lost
Which showed you, dear Marie,
So sweetly kissing me.
What change it made in life
When found by my dear wife—
You'll never know.

The effect of so much motor driving will be to make people lose the use of their legs, says Norman Haggood. Already it has made some pedestrians lose the use of theirs.

THESE COLD DAYS.

The man laid down as if to die;
"A wounded derelict," thought I,
"Mayhap his lying down's a token
His collarbone is bent or broken."

"What's wrong," I said. "You're in a pickle.
Perhaps you're broke without a nickel."
"No, I'm not broke," he said. "It's Liz—Her goldarn radiator is."

In his autobiography Mark Twain calls the human race "unappreciative of genius, vicious, conceited and rotten to the core." Which only goes to show that even a humorist requires a liver pill once in a while.

"What will an open door policy entail?" Mr. Meighen asked in Toronto. In our house it entailed several colds in the head.

Our idea of a hard-worked wife is the wife of a Klansman who does all the family washing.

In olden days if a girl allowed a man to clip off a lock of her hair it meant the man was her lover. Nowadays it means the man is her barber.

Editorial Opinion

THEY FOUGHT IT OUT.

(From the Regina Leader)

Old-timers in Saskatchewan may be defined as old, older, oldest. Anyone who arrived in what is now the province of Saskatchewan before 1890 should be entitled to be called an old-timer. Anyone who trailed his ox-cart into Saskatchewan before 1880 obviously is an older-timer. Oldest-timers are those who came in before 1870. One of these died this week at the ripe age of eighty-three.

Thomas Kavanagh's life story is worth repeating. As a young boy he was taken by his parents from Ireland to the United States. At that time sailing vessels still controlled the ocean traffic. At the outbreak of the war of the states in 1861, young Kavanagh joined the union army; fought for four years and was mustered out at the end of the war a sergeant-major. Coming to Canada in 1868, Mr. Kavanagh filed the first application that was made for a homestead in Saskatchewan. That was east of Fort Qu'Appelle, where he spent fifty-six years of his life. At various times he was a councillor and reeve of the municipality and filled many other public positions. When the end of a long and useful life came he was buried among the hills and streams of his adopted province.

We do not know; but we doubt very much if at any time during the fifty-six years he spent in this country Sergeant-Major Kavanagh was a member of the Farmers Union of Canada or any other debt-evading organization. We doubt very much if he ever looked to Ottawa to do those things for him which God intended he should do for himself. Very few of our old-timers and still less of our oldest-timers were "learners." When these men came west there was nothing here but limitless prairie and unlimited opportunity. That was all they asked, all they expected to find, all they required to make an honest living by honest toil. They were sprung from splendid stock. They did not stain it by whimpering when times were hard. All times were hard in Saskatchewan in the days which preceded the coming of the railways and the hundred and one other conveniences which now surround those who dwell here. There would be no Saskatchewan today if the men who came into it in the seventies and eighties of last century had whined and quit. They stuck it out and smoothed the path for those who came after them. Their lives should be an inspiration to the present and future generations—a bulwark against despair and discontent, when the skies are momentarily overcast.

And Out of the Tires Too.

Poland To Enter Little Entente

Negotiations Under Way To Strengthen Central Europe Combination.

Associated Press Despatch.
Paris, Nov. 19.—Pourparlers are shortly to be opened looking to the entry of Poland into the "little entente." Le Matin's Belgrade correspondent says he learns, "Political circles in the Jugo-Slavian capital, he adds, believe the addition of Poland is made imperative by the fact that recognition of the Russian soviet by the "little entente" cannot now be long delayed.

The entry of Poland, it is conceded, would strengthen the entente as regards Russia and help to maintain peace in Central Europe. It is possible, the report adds, that representatives of Poland and the little entente governments will meet in Bucharest next month to settle the question.

If Beethoven Lived—

YEARS ago Beethoven dreamed of a perfect instrument which would adequately express his marvellous compositions. Each charming sonata, each magnificent concerto was a challenge to the craftsmen of his day to build an instrument upon which they could fittingly be played.

How wonderful it would be if he had but lived to practice his artistry on modern Mason & Risch Pianos! They have more than satisfied the world's greatest pianists ever since they were first created. Not even a Beethoven or the most exacting of present-day masters can overtax their resources.

The Mason & Risch has attained an unequalled perfection unheard of in Beethoven's time. The rich, mellow tone equals the dreams of the most extravagant imagination. Responsive to every mood, the Mason & Risch Piano is the source of inspiration to the most discriminating musicians of to-day.

TAKE VOTE ON UNION

Wednesday Meeting Sets Date 22 as Opening Date of Poll.

The vote on church union will be taken in New St. James Presbyterian church, North London, on Dec. 22 and the following fourteen voting days.

Such was the unanimous decision arrived at last evening at a special meeting of the session of the church.

The unionist members of the session pointed out that they would like to have had a longer period in which to present their side of the question to the members of the congregation but since further postponement of the vote would tend to disrupt the church, had decided that they would not oppose a vote being taken at the earliest possible moment.

Y. W. C. A. MOVES FOR NEW BUILDING

Board Takes Steps Towards Raising Funds For Structure.

The Y.W.C.A. board at the regular meeting held yesterday afternoon at "Lenmore," King street, took definite steps toward the raising of funds for a new Y.W.C.A. building, with the appointment of a building committee. This committee includes Mrs. Donald McLean, president of the association, Mrs. A. E. Miller and Mrs. T. P. McCormick. And it is expected that within a short time some plan of campaign will be mapped out.

The report of the general secretary, Miss Morten, and the other secretaries of the association, showed a healthy growth of the institution. Registration for gymnasium work and for club activities is the largest it has ever been. Three clubs are now waiting to be organized as soon as a meeting place can be secured for them.

Need New Building.
Miss Bessie McCamus, convener of the girls' work committee, stressed the need for a new building. From the point of view of the girls' department there is great need for more accommodation. And the committee has sent in an appeal to the board to take immediate steps towards getting a new building. The report indicated that the King street building was altogether inadequate to meet the needs of the growing girls' work. There was no accommodation for recreation on a large scale, such as gymnasium work. The rooms were too few and not suitable for club purposes.

Miss McCamus' report showed the rapid growth of the department. The girls' clubs include the Polyannas, with a membership of 15; the Echoes, with a membership of 7; the Girl Guides, numbering 18; the girls' Canadian club, with a membership of 42; the Nightingales, 27; the Optimists, 39; the Count-on-Me's, 18; the Brownies, 15; two new clubs from Westerville's, with an initial attendance of 48; the Merry Mads from Perrin's, with an initial attendance of 21; the Orendaga club, with a membership of 25.

Miss Edy h. Yenne-Price's report of the physical department showed that the class registration exceeds that of any previous year.

Travellers' aid reports for the month of October, given by Mrs. McIntyre and Miss Simons, show that 326 travellers had been assisted by the secretaries, who meet 36 trains daily. In all, 837 trains had been met and 16 special visits made on people from overseas.

The immigration department of the federal government has asked the Y. W. C. A. to co-operate in the caring for the girls brought to Canada for household service under the empire settlement scheme until these girls are placed.

The girls' work department brought in several interesting suggestions for the new building.

Yesterday's meeting closed a series of meetings which have been held at the Y. W. C. A. in connection with the Y. W. C. A. week. As a special guest the board had invited the Rev. Quintin Warner, who gave a most inspiring address on "Prayer." Following the address the board members, committee members and staff were entertained at tea.

CLUB NEWS

SALEM W. I.
The Salem W. I. institute held the November meeting at the home of Mrs. Chas. Jackson recently. Twenty-six members and friends were on hand to take part in the community hall discussion. Since not enough funds were on hand for a building, the suggestion was made that the schoolroom be used temporarily. A committee was appointed to find out if this could be done and the seats made movable to give room for chairs or a cleared space. The committee will report at the next meeting. Interesting reports were heard from the delegates to the London convention, and the humorous stories told in answer to the roll call caused much laughter. Community singing and the social half-hour over the teacups completed a pleasant afternoon. The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Lew Carrothers.

London "Old Boy" Tenders a Luncheon at Highland Golf Club Following Campaign.

The London women's temperance campaign committee, the ward chairwomen and their secretaries and the sub-executive of the W. C. T. U. were tendered a luncheon today at the Highland golf club by a London "old boy," now living in Chicago, who has been deeply interested in the progress of the campaign. After luncheon, over which Mrs. Alex Calder presided, a general discussion of the present situation showed clearly the need of educational work and that the interest and enthusiasm of the women has not waned with the close of the campaign.

The following resolutions were heartily indorsed by those present: "Resolved, that we indorse the determination of the provincial women's prohibition committee to continue to function along educational and law enforcement lines. We are also delighted to learn that the general temperance campaign committee of our own city purposes to reorganize and to remain an active working unit."

"Resolved, that while today we are closing our activities as a campaign committee, we shall hope to be of assistance to the general committee in its educational propaganda."

ELECTORS OF WARD 3.

L. R. Menzies
Solicits your Vote and Influence for his election as Alderman for 1925.
LABOR PARTY CANDIDATE

ALD. JOHN ANDERSON

FOR SEVERAL GOOD REASONS Anderson Is a Strong Candidate

AT THE very outset of the race for the mayoralty, Ald. John Anderson found a strong support from the public, and this support is increasing daily. Anderson's platform made a decided impression and swelled the number of people in every walk of life who are working for his election. All the 1924 aldermen who are standing for re-election are Anderson supporters, a significant fact in itself. It is certain that the majority of the 1925 council will be men who have pledged themselves to work in harmony with Anderson as mayor. Anderson's good-natured contempt for the unsportsmanlike threat made in an effort to frighten him from the field has boosted his stock enormously and reacted seriously against the opposition. Citizens at large, however, are chiefly interested in Anderson's clean-cut program. Ald. Anderson in the mayor's chair in 1925 means:

HARMONY— The welding of the council into a much-needed unit for the city's advancement.

ECONOMY— An actual reduction in city taxes. No false surpluses.

CO-OPERATION— Not a one-man administration or a dictatorship, but co-ordination of city departments.

SERVICE— Consideration for every taxpayer and value for his dollar. Honest service from every civic department and utility.

COMMON SENSE— Needed reforms in the form of civic government. Fair play for every class and help where it is needed.

LAW ENFORCEMENT— A clean administration. The people will have all the facts on municipal issues. Four-square handling of the street railway question.

Shaky Planks In Wenige's Platform

1. Wenige points with pride to the "opening of the London South library despite threats of illegality." From library sources it is discovered that the credit properly belongs elsewhere, as may be judged by the following extract from a report dated September 11: "It was through the persistent efforts of Alderman Anderson that a solution of the library problem was found. He suggested a plan, which was adopted, whereby a suitable place could be secured for the library without calling on the city for a debenture issue this year."
2. In Wenige's platform he dismisses the street railway issue with the ambiguous words: "The Great Transportation Problem." You can take whatever meaning you like out of that, but there is no question about where Alderman Anderson stands. In number one committee Anderson opposed the idea of sending a street railway plebiscite to the people on immature consideration, and suggested other ways of dealing with the situation. In council he voted against the submission of a vote on EITHER clause. Wenige was the only member of the council who voted to submit BOTH clauses of the half-baked plebiscite to the people.

DRURY MAY SIT IN HOUSE AS PROGRESSIVE LEADER

W. E. Raney Expected To Surrender Seat in East Wellington
To Former Premier, Who Will Then Take Over Leadership of Unofficial Opposition From Manning Doherty.

PREPARING PLATFORM FOR NEW PARTY

Toronto, Nov. 19.—After preparing the framework of the party machinery, drafting a part of the platform which is to show the difference between the new and the old line parties, and electing an executive committee, the first convention of the Ontario Progressive association today dissolved, leaving to its officers the task of completing the organization.

While E. C. Drury, former U. F. O. premier, was elected president of the party, Manning Doherty still remains, for the present, leader of what is now officially the Progressive group in the legislature. It is said to be a settled course, however, for W. E. Raney, former attorney-general, to resign his seat in East Wellington in order that the former premier may enter the house as leader of the unofficial opposition.

Attacks Farmers' Sun.
During the dying hours of the convention the Farmers' Sun was the centre of a storm of criticism. R. H.
Halbert, M.P., charging that the official organ of the farmers had tried to sow dissension in the party.

Manning Doherty and W. C. Wood,
M.P., had a lively tilt as to the actual reasons behind the purchase of the Sun. Mr. Good stated that the paper had been purchased as the official organ of the U. F. O., while Mr. Doherty insisted that the undoubted purpose was to further the political purposes of the farmers.
Mr. Doherty stated that he should know, as he had negotiated the deal and paid over the money.

The dispute over the policy of The Sun arose during debate on the question of securing adequate publicity and an official newspaper for the new party. Finally a committee comprising E. C. Drury, Manning
Doherty, J. G. Whitmore and F. M.
Chapman was appointed to consider the matter.

Pass Resolutions.
In a series of resolutions the convention condemned the action of the federal government in licensing a number of breweries and distilleries in Ontario; lamented the decreased revenue from farm lands and forests under the Ferguson administration; and called for a dominion progressive convention at an early date.

The following were appointed to the executive committee: Bert Taylor, Peet, F. M. Chapman, South Ontario; Newton Smale, Lindsay; J. G.
Whitmore, West York, and Joseph Little, Dufferin.

The convention went on record as solidly behind the Ontario temperance act and its rigid enforcement. It also expressed its opposition to liquor licensing under order-in-council in Ontario, going on record as of the opinion that such plebiscites should be under the immediate control of the legislature.

Oppose Protection.
The convention unanimously indorsed a resolution expressing itself as opposed to the policy of protection by tariff and as in sympathy with any practical measures for decreas-ing the cost of the necessities of life.

Indorsement was given a resolution proposing confidence in the principle of provincial banks. Another urging the provincial government to inquire into and give such encouragement to co-operative marketing of farm products as may be necessary, restricting its efforts, however, to legislation facilitating co-operative efforts in the keeping of records and general leadership along co-operative lines, was carried without discussion.

Another called for assistance in local cold storage plants to secure decentralization and the prevention of monopoly. The fourth plank demands that in view of the successful fortes in the keeping of records and of constituencies to the selection of candidates for parliamentary honors,
uncontrolled by central executive,
and that the funds to pay the expenses of candidates should rest on the local directors; also that members of parliament should remain responsible to their respective electorates only.

Resolution number seven laid down
as a fundamental principle of political organization the inviolable right of constituencies to the selection of
candidates for parliamentary honors,
uncontrolled by central executive,
and that the funds to pay the expenses of candidates should rest on
the local directors; also that members of parliament should remain responsible to their respective elector-
ates only.

LOGUE TRIBUTE PAID BY FALLON

Roman Catholic Bishop of London Mourns Death of Personal Friend.

A NOBLE PATRIOT

Rt. Rev. M. F. Fallon, bishop of London, for 31 years a close personal friend to the late Cardinal Logue, primate of Ireland, who died suddenly yesterday, paid a tribute of affection this morning to the memory of his friend.

Speaking to The Advertiser, his lordship said:

"I first met Cardinal Logue while a student in Rome, in 1893, when he had just received the red hat from the hands of Pope Leo XIII. The following day he visited us at the college just beside the coliseum. He was accompanied by the late Cardinal Vaughan, who had been given the Roman purple at the same consistory. Naturally it was a gala day for the students. This acquaintance established 31 years ago continued to the day of the death of his eminence, the primate of Ireland, and during its existence I was favored with many evidences of Cardinal Logue's friendship.

"He was the great leader of the Irish Catholic people, and at the same time he was the revered friend and honored fellow countryman of Irishmen, who were not Catholics.
"He was a great churchman and a big-hearted Christian, a scholar and a noble patriot. Not only Ireland, but the whole world is made the poorer by his death.

The news of his death came as a shock. Yet when we thought of his 84 years, we felt that we must soon be deprived of his interesting and lovable personality. I recall an incident that made us laugh when his eminence arrived in New York. In 1910 to attend the eucharistic conference in Montreal. There was nothing impressive about Cardinal Logue's personal appearance. He was small of stature, round-shouldered, and of somewhat irregular features. With these facts the cardinal was acquainted better than I by his close association with him. Not only Ireland, but there was a keen sense of humor in the opening sentence of an address presented by him.

"Ladies and gentlemen, he said, 'I would have you distinctly understand that I have not entered this country as a work of art.'

The remainder of his discourses showed very clearly that while he might not qualify as an Apollo, he had the intellectual depth, the clearness of mental vision, and the felicity of verbal expression that placed him amongst the great leaders of the world."

MEAT HANDLERS' STRIKE NOW LOOMS AS SERIOUS

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Nov. 20.—A strike of meat handlers, originating in the London dock cold storage warehouses this morning, spread rapidly and by 11 o'clock all the storage warehouse handlers in London, numbering about 1,000, were out. The strike is over the question of priority in employment.

It is feared the situation may become serious if the movement spreads to other food workers, including those at the Covent Garden market, who have exhibited restlessness since the last strike.

To-day I saw

Dear Aunt Jane:

It's wonderful to be in a department store these days! It means that I can poke just anywhere I'd like to, in the search for gifts. Honestly, aunt, I think your favorite niece is going to shop more easily than anyone in the whole city of London.

I know you'd love to penetrate behind the swinging door into the Receiving Room. And be free to spend eight hours a day wandering into departments where everything one sees is a potential Christmas gift.

But since you can't!—then the very next best thing is for me to write daily, and tell you about everything that goes on.

Gifts are coming daily from New York and Paris. And from heaps of other places which haven't so large a dot on the map, but are almost as important when it comes to producing Christmas gifts.

And I propose to go everywhere in this big, beautiful store—then as a sort of advance Christmas present for you, write each day, and tell you of all the things I've seen.

It really ought to be a help in your own shopping, don't you think? For it isn't everyone who is allowed to spend as many hours a day as she pleases in just "buying things."

Tomorrow I'm to go shopping for those aunts of ours in Edinburgh, and when the box is ready for "overseas," I'll write at once, to tell you what I chose for them.
With heaps of love from myself, and good wishes from old "Santy Claus,"

As ever, your

Judith

FORD COMPANY CHANGE TO LONDON COMPLETE

Plant in City Will Handle
Wholesale Business
Only.

The transfer of the business of the Ford Motor Company of Canada from the border to London is now completed.

The London plant under the direction of P. N. Maloney is the wholesale distributing center for cars and parts in Western Ontario.

The work carried on is merely wholesale and has connection with only Ford dealers. The retail business of the Ford Company in London is handled entirely by the Middlesex Motors Limited.

The change of the distributing base of the company from Ford City to London was made because the officials felt that London was the logical distributing point for Western Ontario.

W. R. YENDALL TO SPEAK.
W. R. Yendall, president of Richards-Wilcox, will address the members of the young men's division of the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow evening on the subject of "Salesmanship." The meeting will take place in the association building right after gym class.
