AT ERIEAU

Many Extensions and Developments Contemplated by Lake Erie Railroad.

Pavillion and Band Stand to be Moved—New Coal Hoist Will Be Erected.

The Lake Erie & Detroit River Railway have made many changes at Erieau and spent a large amount of noney on the improvements they have made at this point. The steel coal hoist and slip dock cost a goodly sum to build, but still the railroad finds its growing trade necessitates additional facilities for handling coal.

It has been rumored all summer that the railroad contemplated add ing a new coal hoist to their equipment, and there now appears to have been good grounds for the rumor.

The scheme, so far as known, is to nove the Bungalow, Pavillion and Bandstand to the bar in the vicinity of Crawford's property. It is reported that Philander Crawford, the pioneer of Ericau, has been approached with an offer for his property. Another coal hoist will be erected where the pavillion now stands, and a channel will be dredged out up to the coal nel will be dredged out up to the coal hoist.

The moving of the Bungalow and pavillion will have a big effect on Ericau. It will have its result in narrowing the extent of Ericau and cutting off communication with the piers. They will soon be forgotten, and few of the cottagers will venture the walk through the sand to the piers, and they will only take this walk occasionally. Thus will a once favorite strolling place be forgotten.

The change in location of the dancing pavillion will be a great thing for the cottagers, as it will bring the band concerts right to their doors and the long walk on band nights will be the long walk on band nights will be a thing of the past. The piers are al-most cut off now, and have been prac-tically described this year.

The business of the Lake Eric Coal Company has been so successful and has increased so rapidly that the com-pany have decided to build another coal hoist at Rondeau. The work of building the hoist will be commenced at once. It will be modelled upon the same plan as the present hoist, with the excaption that it will befitted up with a box car loading attachment. This is a machine that takes the coal This is a machine that takes the coal from the bucket of the hoist and places it in the ends of the box cars. Coal thus loaded will be destined for Michigan points. It will also relieve the run on coal cars. The hoist is being made by the Dominion Iron Co. of Toronto, and the box car attachment has been purchased from a firm in Ottuma, Wis.

The dock on which the present coal hoist is built will be extended 300 feet west and the channel will be dredged out so that boats will come up and unload where the pavillion now stands.

The pavillion and the dancing plat-form will be moved from their present location to a point west of the station on the lake shore and the pas-senger track will be laid between the pavillion and the station. This will make room for another freight track make room for another freight track where the passenger track now is. It might be well to suggest to the Lake Erie that the dancing platform be enlarged and extended around the band stand and a cover put over it. The company should realize now that the band concerts are a success and this would make them even more popular and financially successful to the company.

There are at present about 25,000 cons of coal at the Eau. The Lake Erie Coal Company are purchasing a large steel coal boat for service in bringing the coal across the lake.

CANNERS' PTEITION.

Scarcity of Salmon in the Fraser River.

Vancouver, B.C., Aug. 27.-The following message was sent to the Minister of Fisheries by the Fraser River Canners' Association. It indicates the almost total failure of this year's salmon canning industry in British Col-mon canning industry in British Columbia:

"Hon. Raymond Prefontaine, Ottawa:
The Fraser River Canners' Association, in view of the iamentably short run of seines on the Fraser River, and the entire absence of salmon from the spawning grounds, respectfully pray that your department will prohibit all fishing on the Fraser River from Aug. 29 to Sept. 2 inclusive, in order that the balance of the sockeyes remaining outside may be enabled to reach the spawning grounds and the hatcheries get some supply of spawn. If the close season be not ordered the future of the industry will be seriously threatened. Immediate consideration and favorable reply by wire is earnestly requested in the Interests of the canners and of the fishermen. (Signed) Burdish, Secretary."

The total pack for the Fraser is officially announced to-day at but 177,992 cases.

TELEGRAPH CHANGES.

Western Union May Absorb the Great Northwestern.

Ottawa, Aug. 26.-Negotiations are Ottawa, Aug. 26.—Negotiations are stated to be in progress for the absorption of the lines of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company of Canada by the Western Union. The latter is the great telegraphic corporation whose lines form a network all over the United States, and also in the Maritime Provinces of Canada. The G. N. W. lines cover the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, and Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, and extend to the west. Mr. N. W. Bethune, district manager of the G.N.W.; stated to-day that he had heard rumors of negotiations, but had no official information on the subject.

YUKON CONCESSIONS. everal Charges of Misrepresentation

Dawson, Aug. 27.-Matson & Doyle pacessions case is still before the commission at Dawson, and proceedings are dragging as interest in the Treadgold matter is keener than in all others combined. The allegation is that Matson & Deyle used fraud in obtaining their stant. The application relies that the stround is more suitable for hydraulies antaing, than placer. Evidence tends to show that the time the application was made, in 1898, men were prospecting extensively and had located good pay claims worked by rocker, and made better than wass. It is held by the opposition that the advite filed were false. The same line of davits filed were false. The same line of davits filed were false. The same line of argument will probably follow in respect to other concessions, fraud being alleged in obtaining them.

Complaints have been filed against the Krager concessions on Indian River.

AN INDIAN COUNCIL.

HOW THE CHIEFS CONDUCT AFFAIRS OF THE SIX NATIONS.

Conspicuous Contrast With the Line-Fence Disputes of the White Men's Courts of Law Furnished in Their Dignified Treatment of Disputes Among Themselves-A Lesson for the Palefaces-Interesting Deliberations.

Five miles east of Brantford, along the Grand River, lies 52,000 acres of splendid farming land, dotted with the homes of 4,160 descendants of the Six Nations of Indians who for immemorial years have grown maize amid the forests of Ontario. For six miles on either side of the Grand, down to Caledonia, stretch fields of wheat, oats, corn and hay, trimly fenced and interspersed with trees, with regularly recurring and uniformly neat houses and fine barns; all guarded with rich stacks of hay and gradn. Here and there a village nestles and dusky children play at baseball as you pass, with merry shouts in an unknown tongue, or go to buy candy or cotton of a Mohawk chief, whose ancestral tomahawk is replaced by the more peaceful yard-stick.

Friends of England.

Originally the nations who were the followers of Tecumseh and the friends of England were given in re-serve a belt of land six miles wide on both sides of the Grand River from source to mouth. Later, as land was needed for incoming white men, they surrendered all but the present Reserve, in consideration of which the lands so surrendered were which the lands so surrendered were sold; and the proceeds held in trust by the Government as a common tribal possession. From this resource an annual interest of about $48,000 accrues, which is paid into a Reserve current account. Out of this about $14,000 is annually paid in salaries to agent, secretary, forthis about $14,000 is annually paid in salaries to agent, secretary, forest-keepers, grants for funeral expenses, pensions to the old, maintenance of roads and schools. The remaining sum is divided among the Indians, the seventy chiefs receiving a pro rata division of $3,200 annually, paid quarterly, and the warriors being apportioned the balances standing at the year's end.

It will be seen then that these 4,000 of our fellow-subjects, owners by right of prowess originally of the country we call ours, are very com-country we call ours, are very com-fortably settled financially, with a communal possession of land and money so extensive, and so well guarded from alienation by a paternal government.

Mold Monthly Council. Nor are the Indians of the Brant Reserve unappreciative of their peaceful, prosperous lot as 20th cen-tury aborigines. Their traditional tribal customs are still extant, used tribal customs are still extant, used mainly as the machinery of their enlightened self-government. For over 800 unbroken years a council of the allied Mohawk, Seneca, Oneida, Onendaga, Cayuga, and Tuscarora nations has been periodically summoned to discuss common interests and policy. This council holds a monthly session, sitting in the same half circle, and addressed by chiefs chosen cle, and addressed by chiefs chosen as of old—addresses in support of justice as per the King's code. War-rior chiefs whose ancestral peers met in savage array, sitting cross-legged on the ground to smoke as they talk-ed of offence and defence, now occupy comfortable armchairs, wearing the modern working garb of farmer or carpenter, mill-owner or storekeeper; and the ancient duties of the Onon-daga "firekeepers" are now deputed to the caretaker of the council house, to the caretaker of the council house, while those who formerly laid faggots on the central blaze sit motionless now at their traditional post. The writer spent a day recently at this interesting assembly at the country village of Ohsweken, driving there along a beautiful road, which wound beside the river through the crop-laden fields of the Reserve. Impassive faces viewed his arrival beprop-laden helds of the Reserve. Impassive faces viewed his arrival before the council house, and watched with grave reserve as he was given the guest-seat beside the superintendent. At, his left were the ranged seats of the Mohawks and Seneca chiefs. On the right sat the chiefs of the Oneidas, Tuscaroras, Cayugas and Delawares—a small tribe long and Delawares—a small tribe ago adopted into the Nations. the central space the Onondagas sat, making in all a usual assemblage of 60 out of the 70 chiefs. Behind all, the warriors filled the benches to hear the deliberations of their chiefs on matters of imminent concern to many of their men and women. Close at the side were the secretary and the speaker of the council, and the interpreting chief sat beside the In-dian superintendent, Mr. Cameron.

Interesting Deliberations. . The council opened at 10 a.m. An Onondaga chief stretched his huge bulk to its full height, and, with outstretched hand, invoked the Great Spirit in his solemn, dignified native tongue to bless their deliberations, to secure justice therein for all, thanking him for safe arrival of the to secure justice therein for all, thanking him for safe arrival of the chiefs and asking a safe return home for all. The superintendent then arose, and, addressing the chief in English, presented the first matter of reserve business under his notice. This being interpreted in the Mohawk language to the chief on the left, they debated like a jury in an English court of law as to the action to be taken by the council in the case—one of a dispute as to title of occupation. Advised by the superintendent as to the law, they gave it the impress of their views in equity, and their "speaker" then gave the chiefs sitting on the right their decision, where the discussion was renewed, and another and differing decision proposed. The fire-keepers in the centre thereupon gave the casting vote after consultation in the same low-toned gutterals. So the business proceeded until 1 p.m., the cases propounded, discussed, settled or "lid on the table." in some cases rapidly, in others with the delays of reiterated but always dignified and self-unconscious expressions of what differing chiefs held to be just. through the day the guidance of the tactful, superintendent, the shrewdness of the chiefs, and above all their unbought sense of justice, gave reason for the evident smooth prosperity of the Six Nations. In conspicuous contrast with the line-fence disputes which disgust the white man's courts of law, was a case of an Indian who had himself built his neighbor's fence for him, the negligent one; and, though building it entirely on his, the builder's land, asked only for payment of the cost of materials and labor from the annual through the day the guidance of the materials and labor from the annual payments due the delinquent, and asked it without passion. At times a rippling smile of a burst of laughter greeted some unconscious humor in the uncouth, aspirate Indian lang-uage in which all discussions are held. At others grey-haired duskily-pallid faces bowed in taciturn agreement or sought the eye of the speaker in token of contrary views. All was subdued, quiet, an object lessen to the Parliaments of the pale-face. Question of Education One of the most real problems moving the minds of the Brant Inthe brim

One of the most real problems moving the minds of the Brant Indians now and for years is that of the education of their children. The first schools of the Reserve were started, financed and managed by the propagandizing New England Company, a London organization of the Anglican Church. They so continued until 25 years ago, when by their proposal the council joined in their support with $1,500 per year, and in their governmee with three members on the School Board. The company had a like interest. The Indian agent was a member of the board, with a grant from the Indian Reserve Fund of $450 a year. Then, some years later, the Methodist missionaries put $250 into the annual fund for schools, and put their missionary on the Board of Trustees. About 15 years since, the New England Company withdrew $500 per year from their $1,500, and five years later ceased to contribute anything whetever to the support of the years fater ceased to contribute any-thing whatever to the support of the schools, but their appointees remain-ed on the board as "honorary" mem-

Now the schools, which number 10 are supported wholly by the Council and Reserve Fund, while they have but three out of seven members on the board. Of the rest, two are the board. Of the rest, two are clergymen of the New England Com-pany, as is their appointed inspec-tor; one is principal of the Brantford Central School, and the chairman is the Indian agent, Mr. Camdian Department to have the reserve placed under the Ontario Department of Education and its regulations, laws and county iospector.—G. G. Porter, in Toronto World.

USEFUL GOWNS.

Soft Makes of Linen-Tailor Made Check Gowns.

There are a great many soft makes of linen this year, and they are really more serviceable wear because they do not crease so easily and are so much easier to wash and iron even if they do cost a little more at first.

A feature of the early autumn will be checks, red and white, brown and white, green and white and blue and

A dress of this description should be tailor made, decorated perhaps, but at the same time neat and useful, with a skirt neither too short nor too long. A charming model was made with nar-row box plaits on the hips, down the front and in the center of the back, with a skirt just to clear the ground. The blouse bolero was also box plaited with a shoulder piece of very coarse Italian lace and some incrustations of black velvet. The waistband was of turquoise panne, and there was a suspicion of turquoise chiffon at the neck.

Altogether it was an essentially practical gown suitable for many occasions. The cut shows a costume of spotted canvas, with a box plaited bolero trimmed with embroidery and tassels.

KOREA'S SEVEN WONDERS

The Most Peculiar of Them Is the Famous Floating Stone.

Korea, like the world of the ancients, has its "seven wonders." Briefly stated, they are as follows: First, a hot mineral spring near Kinshantao, the healing properties of which are believed to be miraculous. No matter what disease may afflict the patient, a dip in the water proves efficacions.

The second wonder is two springs situated at a considerable distance from each other. In fact, they have the breadth of the entire peninsula between them. They have two peculiarities. When one is full the other is empty, and notwithstanding the obvious fact that they are connected by a subterranean passage one is of the bitterest bitter and the other pure

The third wonder is Cold Wind cave, a cavern from which a wintry wind perpetually blows. The force of wind from the cave is such that a strong man cannot stand before it.

A forest that cannot be eradicated is the fourth wonder. No matter what injury is done the roots of the trees, which are large pines, they will sprout up again directly, like the phenix from

The fifth is the most wonderful of all. It is the famous "floating stone." It stands, or seems to stand, in front of the palace erected in its honor. It is an irregular cube of great bulk. It appears to be resting on the ground, free from support on all sides; but, strange to say, two men at opposite ends of a rope may pass it under the stone without encountering any obstacle whatever!

The sixth wonder is the "hot stone," which from remote ages has lain glowing with heat on the top of a high hill.
The seventh and last Korean wonder is a drop of the sweat of Buddha. For thirty paces around the large temple in which it is enshrined not a blade of grass will grow. There are no trees or flowers inside the sacred square. Even the animals decline to profane a spot so holy.

STYLE IN TYPEWRITING.

Points by Which Each Operator's Work May Be Identified.

It will come as a surprise to many people to know that there is a great deal of character in typewriting. Were half a dozen operators to use the same machine, paper and actual words, each printing off a dozen sheets, and were all these to be mixed up indiscriminately, a practiced eye could distinguish each operator's work instantly.

In a recent law case, where a lengthy typewritten document of many sheets was in question, it was, alleged that one of the papers included had been substituted for another sheet. Although to a casual eye all the sheets seemed to be the work of one hand, experts showed that the spacing was quite different, especially between the end of one sentence and the beginning of another, and on the substituted sheet the new paragraphs began in quite a differ-ent position on the lines, and the letters were shaky instead of upright and firm, and the punctuation—the crucial test—was wholly different.

The experts were unable to trace the person who had done the bogus typewriting, but they agreed that it was a young woman and only a beginner at typewriting; that she was nervous, not very strong, and that her education was only moderately good.

The writer of the other sheets comprising the document was defined, from the evenness, correctness and firmness of the typewriting, to be an experienced operator.

Sneezing. A sneeze may mean various things in some parts of Turkey. It is regarded interrupts himself in order to address the sneezer as follows: "Health be to thee, for thou hast proved that I am speaking the truth." It is sometimes taken as a sign that absent enemies are speaking ill of the sneezer and the bystanders express the plous wish that those individuals, whoever they be, "may split." Sneezing is also considered as an indication of health, especially if the sneezer is just recovering

The First Automobile. In these days of fast motoring and high railway speeds it is interesting to recall that it was in July, 1829, some little time before George Stephenson had solved the problem of steam trans-port, that Sir Goldsworthy Gurney made his famous journey in a "stear carriage" from London to Bath and back. Gurney was a surgeon in Mary-lebone, greatly given to the working out of inventions in his spare time, and It took him some years to complete his first "motor" in his back yard in Albany street in London. He accomplis ed the journey to and from Bath at the rate of fifteen miles an hour, and there was only one disturbing incident, when a crowd assembled at Melksham set upon the machine and, having burned their fingers, threw stones and seriously wounded the stoker. This Gurney journey stands as the first example of notion by steam in England.

They Paid the Price. The corporation of the city of Glas-gow wanted to purchase the Whistler portrait of Carlyle and in due course waited on the master of the gentle art of making enemies about the price (1,000 guineas). They admitted it was a magnificent picture, but "Do you not think, Mr. Whistler, the sum a wee, wee bit excessive?"

"Didn't you know the price before you came to me?" asked the master with suspicious blandness. "Oh, aye, we knew that!" replied the corporation. "Very well, then," said Mr. Whistler in his suavest tones, "let's talk of something else." And as there was nothing else of interest to detain the "corporation" they paid the price andtrust a Glaswegian-made an excellent bargain.

Corresive Ink. With an impatient grunt the bo keeper threw away his pen and put a new one in the holder. "It's terrible," he said, "how ink corrodes pens. In six or seven hours a new pen will begin to scratch. It keeps me busy changing the blamed things, let alone the expense. There's money in it for the man who will invent a noncorrosive ink." An old man, a bill collector, re-marked to him: "My young friend, I'll tell you a sure way to stop your ink from corroding your pen. Take a few rusty iron nails and put them in your ink well. The ink's corrosive acid will play itself out on the nails, and in consequence your pen will escape. A pen that only lasts you a day now should, with my method, last at least a week."

Hospitality Pays.
Cities and communities frequently expend large sums of money in enter-taining conventions, conferences and other public gatherings, both because of a spirit of hospitality prevailing or through a sinister desire to "advertise the city." After the affair is over and the visitors have gone their several ways the people ask one of the other, 'Does it pay to spend money thus?' There never was a case of public hospitality that didn't pay, if not in dol-lars and cents, in the extension and broadening of that finest of all senti-ments the brotherhood of man.

His Auspicious Beginning.
"To gratify the curiosity of the pub-lic, Mr. Dollaraline," purred the young person with the notebook, "will you please tell me if the first contribution you ever sent to a magazine was ac-

Opportunities for Young Men in the Line of Shorthand.

To the Editor of The Planet:

Believing that the question of shorthand training and its advantages to young men, as set forth in my letter •••••• of last issue, is of vital importance to many of the readers of your valuable paper, and knowing that you are ever on the alert for that which will be of interest and profit to them, I shall take the liberty of following the question up still farther, with your kind permission, and will particularize in a few cases showing how a knowledge of shorthand placed these parties in a position where they could profit by these opportunities.

I shall take the case of Frederic Irland, Official Reporter, U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. "Mr. Frederic Irland, :whose name as reporter of congressional debates is known throughout the country, learned shorthand at the age of fifteen while attending school at Adrian, Mich., and worked half days in a country newspaper office. He always practiced with the idea of becoming a first class reporter and from the very first had a desire to become a reporter of congressional debates. Fifteen years later, after having done newspaper and railroad work, his wish was fulfilled, as he says, without any effort on his part except that he was ready for the chance when it came. How well Mr. Irland improved his opportunity is shown by his present commanding register in the start. his opportunity is shown by his present commanding position in the shorthand fraternity. Mr. Irland's faith in shorthand as a stepping-stone to success is well justified by his own experience and observation. Twenty experience and observation. Twenty years ago, he says, he was one of three shorthand clerks employed on the sixth floor of a railway building in St. Louis. One of these men is now the highest paid railread man-ing in St. Louis. One of these men is now the highest paid railroad managers in North America; the second is president of a great corporation and gets a bigger income every year than the President of the United States. With these notable examples before him of the success of his former associates, Mr. Irland says:

"If I were fifteen years old again, and wanted to be earning $25,000 a year in some great business by the time I was thirty, I would study to become a good amanuensis and get into the manager's office as a stengographer. There is no quicker nor easier way to 'burglarize' success.

Mr. Irland addressed a convention of shorthanders a few weeks ago and gave expression so some terse remarks which are not at hand at present, but which I shall give in a later issue of your paper, if I am not trespassing too much on your valuable space.

I am determined to drive this matter home so forcibly to your young men readers that they will pay heed ter home so forcibly to your young men readers that they will pay heed to it and profit by the great oppor-tunities which this subject offers today to young men.

Thanking you again for your kindness in granting me space, I am,

Yours sincerely,

D. McLACHLAN.

New York, Aug. 27.—In spite of the light air and the prospects of the yachts being unable to finish within the time limit, the regatta committee fired the preparatory gum at 10.45. At that time both yachts were close together on the december side of the together on the beeward side of the line, sailing about with jib topsails set in order to maneuver more quick-

In the preliminary with more life The pretiminary work Reliance seemed to sail about with more life than the Shamrock, although neither boat maneuvered very fast.

Six minutes before the time set for the start, the wind had increased to about five miles am hour and the fight for position became brisk.

The fight for position at the start was very keen and was entirely in favor of the American boat. Four minutes before the starting gun was fired, Shamrock, being at a further distance to the south of the committee boat, headed back to the line. Reliance held away fon about a minute and then started after her.

The great sail spread of Reliance enabled Captain Barr to completely blanket Shamrock and from this position Captain Wringe was unable to extricate his boat. Captain Wringe, was able to prevent Reliance.

however, was able to prevent Reliance getting down into position.

The following bulletins are from the enterprissing King street stock and commission broker. Planet read-ers will appreciate Mr. Proctor's courtesy in supplying them:

10.45-Both yachts are moving out fast to the starting line. Shamrock wsa first to leave moorings, shortly followed by Reliance. Velocity of wind is about five knots to the hour, but somewhat fluky.

10.55-Boats jockeying at starting

11.10-Reliance crossed line first at 11.12-Light showers falling from north and north-west.

11.12-Shamrock crossed the line at at 11.00.07. Reliance is leading at both boats crossed at identically the same time. Given as _11.02. 11.15 -Official time of start is:-

12.55—Reliance will win race to-murdered.

2.00—The Reliance is six minutes ahead and still gaining.
2.05—The Reliance is maintaining her lead but mot increasing it.
2.06—The boats have passed the outer mark and are turned homeward.
The excursion fleet is starting homeward to see the finish of the race.
2.20—Reliance leads by eight minutes. 2.40—They could discern the Reliance coming out of the haze. She carried her mainsail to starboard and spinnaker to port. The Shamrock could not be observed at that time. Evidently there is a fog on.

With about ten miles to go the Reliance is over a mile ahead. Doubtful if the race will be finished within the time limit (unofficial).

In an effort to learn the truth Sir Thomas was approached on the subject. "The two men," he said, "occupy entirely distinctive positions. If they have been criticising each other I do not know it. It was said further on the Erin that Sir Thomas is deluged with anonymous letters and telegrams informing him that members of the crew are traiters to the interests. traitors to the interests of the boat.
Only a day ago a telegram signed by the captain of a coastwise steamer was received by Sir Thomas saying that the boatswain of Shamrock was the cause of that boat losing that race, and that the signer knew him as a traitor.

Sir Thomas said: "I throw such letters and telegrams overboard. I am not changing my crew."

Lloyd, who was Rev. I. N. Barr's assistant, but now head of the Barr Colony at Saskatoon, came to Montreal from Ottawa to-day to interview officials of the C. P. R. regarding the possibility of bringing out another colony of British immigrants next year. Before leaving for the west he said he expected that next May would see upward of 1,000 immigrants coming out in one party, but the arrangements would be different from the last party. They would be brought out under the management of the C. P. R. as individuals, but he would endeavor to get as many out as he could, although he said there would be no commissions in it for him. He is quoted as severely criticizing Mr. Barr's policy, as follows:—"The colonists are now well satisfied, as they would have been at first, had it not been for Barr's inordinate greed. He wanted to make a dollar out of everything he sold them, and I can give you an instance: When we arrived Mr. Barr bought up all the oats off fourteen farms, in fact the whole oat supply. For these oats he paid 40 cents a bushel, although 23 I-2 cents was the average price in the market, and when he bought them he sold them to his own people at $1 a bushel. Flour he sold at $6.25 for a sack of 98 pounds. Everything else was the same, and the result was a mutiny. The colonists refused to have anything further to do with Mr. Barr, and he returned east, after getting only as far as Battleford. He was never in the colony at all. Well, after he left and we got things in something like order, the colonists became more satisfied. We started our little settlement, which the immigrants have been kind enough to call Lloydminster, and now we have taken out 600 homesteads and have 1,000 people in the colony. When I get back home to Lloydminster I intend to write a letter to all the British papers, telling the whole story of the Barr party, the difficulties and the cause of them, as well as the success we have since achieved. This, I should think, would have a good effect upon those in England who are waiting for news

> ORIGIN OF TERM "POSTER." London Chronicle.

Doubtless considerable interest will be taken in the exhibition of posters which opens Thursday in the White chapel gallery. Though it is only of recent years that much progress has been made in the artistic display now seen made in the artistic display now seen in posters, they date back to at least the sixteenth century. Before the great fire of London the spaces for foot passengers were defended by rails and posts; the posts served for theatrical placards and general annuncements, which were therefore theatrical placards and general announcements, which were therefore called "posters." The Puritanical author of a Treatise Against Idleness, Vanitie Playes and Interludes, printed about the middle of the sixteentheaptive, weither in his tirede against ed about the middle of the sixteenth century, writes in his tirade against the players: "They used to set up their bills upon postes some certain days before to admonish the people to make resort to their theatres."

STRAIGHTFORWARDNESS.

Straightforwardness is honesty down to a fine point. It is internahonesty-being just as honest with yourself as you are with others-just as honest with facts as you are with people.

The straightforward man knows to

The straightforward man knows tomorrow or next year just how he acted to-day or last year, even though he has forgotten the actual incidents.
He can always take the same facts and arrive at the same conclusions.
He has rarely the explain. There are few comebacks in his business.
Straightforwardness is economical.
It saves the loss of money and the waste of time involved in straightening things out. It affords a sure footing in case of throuble. It is a good preventive for insomnia.
Straightforwardness can be applied to the last detail of your business.
You should require it of your billing terk; of your hookkeeper; of your stenographer. The straightforward person does not slouch. You should demand it of your workmen, of your salesmen—not only common honesty, but straightforwardness. You need it yourself. It is the main thing.

Miss Haggart is visiting friends in Windsor and Detroit.

What might have been a serious accident would have happened on Monday last had not Miss Grace Landon jumped from her buggy. Miss Landon was out driving. At the cemetery she met an automobile, which frightened her horse. It shied and threw the buggy against the tie-post and smashed it badly. The wreck was left in the cemetery. It is said those in possession of the auto. were not gentlemanly enough to stop and render assibtance.

AUSTRALIAN LEGEND

HOW THE BOOMERANG TOOK THE PLACE OF BOW AND ARROW.

Boomerangs Not the Peculiar Preperty of the Australian Black Fellows-Trace of Poetry in the Rude Tale Which Gives the White Man the Knowledge of the Aberiginal-The Story.

The origin of most primitive tools or weapons is not, as a rule, difficult to trace, for the service they render is so direct and the need for their resistance is so manifest aven to present the control of their properties. to trace, for the service they render is so direct and the need for their existence is so manifest, even to men of to-day, that their evolution is a simple matter of observation and brief mental calculation. The hammer, the awl, the axe, and the saw were potentially invented when first a prehistoric man cracked a nut with a stone, bored a shell with a broken bone, chipped a log, with a sharp-edged flint, or cut a groove in a spear haft with a serrated flake of slate. As with the tools, so also with the weapons. A pointed stick proved its utility the first time it was hurled at an object, and so led the human mind to recognize the value of the spear and the arrow, the hammer, which cracked a nut, naturally suggested the club wherewith heads could be treated in a similar way, while the desire for shelter from attack would, in due course, lead to the invention of the shield, and the sword would grow out of the crude armory immediately men came to hand-to-hand conflicts. But what was the origin of the boomerang?

From the fact that it was found

But what was the origin of the boomerang?

From the fact that it was found in the hands of the Australian aboriginal when first the white man landed on the shores of the great southern continent, there has grown a belief that it is purely and particularly a weapon of the black fellow; and that it had its origin with him, an origin so much obscured by the mists of an unrecorded past as is his own, for whence the black fellow came is a conundrum which none dare to answer. But boomerangs reliew came is a conundrum which are not the peculiar property of the Australian aboriginal, as they were known to and used by the Egyptians in days before the pyramids were built, and are still to be found among some of the isolated aboriginal tribes of India. The peculiar property of the Australian black fellow, curiously enough, is not a possession, but the absence of a possession, but the absence of a possession, but the absence of a possession. It is not that he possesses the boomerang, but that he does not possess the bow and arrow. In this he is alone of all races and tribes of men upon the face of the earth, not even excluding those of the lowest human types, and in spite of the fact that the inhabitants of islands within a comparatively speaking short distance of his coast line are none dare to answer. But boomerang fact that the inhabitants of islands, within a comparatively speaking short distance of his coast line are among the finest and most powerful archers humanity has ever produced. Throughout the Pacific islands the bow and arrow will everywhere be found; in New Guinea it is the staple weapon, and at the Prince of Wales' Islands, just off the northern coast of Australia, the natives shoot a six-foot arrow with ease from a bow six-foot arrow with ease from a bow that a muscular white man can bare-ly draw to his elbow. But on the mainland of the continent bows and arrows are unknown, while the warriors wield the boomerang as it was wielded by the men who lived on the Nile centuries before Thebes or Memphis were built. Wherefore is it difphis were built. Wherefore is it dif-ficult to trace the origin of this curiosity, difficult, that is, for a white man. The black fellow knows whence it came and treasures the knowledge in a legend which is not altogether without trace of poetry, whatever may be its character as to whatever may be its character as to veracity.

"Plenty long ago," was the beginning of the story as the writer heard it. "Plenty long ago" the moon was a beautiful young gin (or girl) and the sun a fierce, restless warrior of another tribe. The warrior, desiring the young girl as a wife, followed the orthodox aboriginal method of courtship and sought to pounce upon her unawares with the kindly intention of knocking her on the head and carrying her off to his gunyah (of hut.) But the young girl was opposed to his attentions, and in order to protect herself she wrapped herself in a rug of black possum skins posed to his attentions, and in order to protect herself she wrapped herself in a rug of black 'possum skins and only peeped round the end of it a little at a time lest her admirer should see her and carry her off. Sometimes he did see her, and pounced upon her, but ever was she able to dodge behind the shelter of the black 'possum skin rug and so elude him, for when she vanished behind the rug he was confounded and could only wander about wondering how she escaped. At last the constant disappointment made him grow angry and sulky; yet when next he had a glimpse of her face peering round the shelter he sprang forward. As was usual, the face vanished; but he, being sulky, swore he would try for her no more, and lay down to sleep then and there.

being sulky, swore he would try for her no more, and lay down to sleep then and there.

The young girl, crouching under the cover of her rug, listened for his raging footsteps to pass on. For a long time she listened, but heard nothing, and then, being like all gins, more curious than crafty, she must needs peep round the end of the rug again to see what the silence meant. The warrior, lying still, saw the gleam of the face, and gathered himself, silently, for a spring. With her curiosity unsatisfied the girl peeped further, and the warrior, impatient in his anger, leaped at her. His hands caught the edge of her face with a mighty grip, but she terrified at the sight of him, flung herself back with so much vigor that a fragment of her face broke off in the warrior's hands. Then did his rage burst all bounds, and with a yell he flung the thing he held down upon the earth. There, later, nice found it. Idly they picked it up, and, marveling at what it could be, threw it from them. At once it whirled through the air up toward the clouds, traveling round and round as the black cockatoos fly before the start on a long journey, but going further and faster than even anything thrown by man went before until suddenly it plunged down.

THE TRYING TIME

In a young girl's life is reached when Nature leads her uncertain steps across the line which divides girlhood from womanhood. Ignorance and neglect at this critical period are largely responsible for much of the after misery of womanhood. Not only does Nature often need help in the regular establishment of the womanly the womanly function, but there is almost always need of some safe, strengthening tonic, to overtonic, to over-come the languor, nervousness and weakness, com-monly experi-enced at this

"I wish to teil you the benefit we have received from using your remedies," writes Mrs. Dan Hall, of Brodhead, Green Co., Wis. "Two years ago my daughte"s health began to fail. Everything that it was of no use. When she to the head to be the picture of good health, until about the ago of fourteen, then in six months she was so rus down her weight was but 120. She kept failing and I gave up, thinking there was no use, she must die. Friends all said, 'You will lose your daughter." I said I fear I shail. I must say, doctor, that only for the weeken one half bottle the natural function was established and we bought and she completely recovered. Since then she is as well as can be."

ward and stuck in the earth at the feet of the black fellow who had thrown it. Again he picked it up and again he threw it, and then his comrades tried it, always with the same result, and at last the men, fearing "plenty debbil debbil" was in it, called a great gathering of the tribes to discuss it. To solve the problem each man who attended the corroborree set to work to fashion out an imitation of the strangely whirling thing, and when they had all succeeded they laughed at the fears of the discoverers. They did not know that what they had found was a part of the moon's face, and that its long flights were the result of its efforts to get back to its proper place; nor did they know that the warrior, in revenge on the beautiful young girl, made all the imitations travel the same way, so that when the moon looked down and saw them all whirling round and round in the air she would not know which was the missing part of her face and which was not, and so would be forever disfigured, in punishment for having rejected the love of her great admirer. And in proof of the truth of his tale the black fellow would point to the moon—when not at the full—and ask how else had it lost a part. On nights when the moon was full the black fellow was silent.—London Globe.

KING AS AN ORATOR.

Gladstone and Phelps Rank Him High

"There are few speakers," said the late Mr. Gladstone, "whom I listen to with more pleasure than the Prince of Wales. His speeches are invariably marvels of conciseness, graceful expression and clear elocution;" and Mr. Phelps, the late American ambassador, himself "a man of silver tongue," declared, says a writer in Tit-Bits, that there was probably only one better after-din-ner speaker in England, if indeed Lord Rosebery was the Prince's superior.

King Edward VII. has been endowed with that prime requisite of a public speaker, a clear and beautiful voice, which can make itself heard without apparent effort in the largest hall. This voice is largely natural, as anyone whe can recall his oratorical efforts of forty years or so ago will admit; but it is also partly the result of a long training in elecution by one of its best masters.

In the early years of manhood the King hated no part of his public duties so much as the necessity of makers. ties so much as the necessity of making speeches, but he early determined that "as he had to speak he would, that "as he had to speak he would, at any rate, make sure of being heard," and under the guidence of his father—himself a trained and effective speaker—and under an elocution master, he rapidly acquired that clearness of enunciation which makes clearness of enunciation which makes his speeches so pleasant to listen to. In those days he used to practice so assiduously that if ever he could not be found it was always concluded by his brothers and sisters that "Bertie was somewhere learning to spout," and stories are told of how he would try his 'prentice oratory on he would try his 'prentice oratory on his young brothers, planting shem at different angles and distances and practicing until each one heard every word.

In these early days the Prince was obviously and painfully nervous: and even to-day, although long familiarity has moderated his tremors and he has better learned the art of concealing his sensations, he has confessed: "I always have a bad quarter of an hour before I make a speech in public, and there are times when I would give much to slip when I would give much to slip quietly away."

And yet to all appearance the King, as he chats genially with one and another or listens with a smile to an address, is the most solt-possessed man present; but a close observer will detect certain nervous movements—the furtive stroking of his moustache, the toying with his watch chain, hat or stick—which prove that after all the King is human and has nerves.

In his infancy as speaker his speeches were carefully prepared, copied out and committed to memory. On one memorable occasion the Frince had forgotten to take his

On one memorable occasion the Frince had forgotten to take his manuscript, and although he rarely referred to the copy of a speech, the knowledge that in this case it was not available for emergencies so unnerved him that his memory completely failed him and he had for one to trust to his own impromptu once to trust to his own impromptu efforts.

efforts.
Fortunately he succeeded so well that he was encouraged to trust less in future to memory and more to inspiration, with the happiest results. Now his speeches are only typed in

Now his speeches are only typed in outline.

"Brevity," he considers, "is the soul of oratory," as of wit; and he not only makes short speeches himself, but expects them of others. Has studiously avoids quotation, especially of poetry, and never tries to be funny, although he succeeds in being both bright and witty. His attitude is easy and unconventional, his left hand resting on the table or on his hip and the right hand left free for the very limited gestures with which he emphasizes the points of his speech.

AUSTRALIA'S MILITIA POLICY.

General Hutton's Scheme Adopted by the

The Federal Executive Council has army organization ared by Major-General scheme, prepared by Major-General Hutton, commanding the Australia Commonwealth troops. The scheme proposes to raise a mobile field force Hutton, commanding the Australia Commonwealth troops. The scheme proposes to raise a mobile field force well equipped and capable of undertaking military operations at the shortest notice wherever the Commonwealth desires, and a garrison force not necessarily mobile for the protection of pre-determined strategical points and places of commercial importance to the Commonwealth. General Hutton, in his scheme, explains that the field force will comprise eighteen regiments of light horse organized in six brigades, twelve regiments of infantry organized in brigades and complete artillery departments. This force will consist entirely of militia. The troops will number 13,911 men, with sixty guns, but may be increased in time of war to 27,753 men, with eighty-four guns. The garrison force, which will include the small local reserve, will consist largely of volunteers, and will number 11,988 men and twenty-six guns. Thus under the new scheme there will be available 25,807 men and eighty-six guns, which number could in time of war be increased to 39,649 men and 110 guns. The garrison force does not include the rifle clubs.

Facts About London.

In London a child is born every three minutes and a death is registered every five minutes. Daily a million persons travel on the underground railways, 7,000 hansoms, 14,000 cabs and 7,000 tram cars. Four thousand postmen deliver 10,000,000 letters weekly, walking a distance equal to twice the circumference of the globe. Sixty thousand letters are written a day, consuming thirty gallons of ink. Ten thousand miles of everhead telegraph wires almost shut out the smoky canopy, which spreads above the same London streets, and the number of telegraph messages received in London last year was over 6,000,000. Ninety million gallons of water are consumed daily.

A FIGHTING JUDGE.

Knocked Political Opponent Off the Platform-A Little Rock Incident.

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 27.-Judge Carroll L. Wood of the Arkansas Supreme Court, who is opposing Governor Davis as a candidate for a third time, knocked Governor Davis off a speaking stand, four feet, to the ground during the campaign at Bismarck Tuesday. Governor Davis was not hurt and friends prevented further trouble. Judge Wood was immediately arrested on a charge of assault and battery. Governor Davis publicly asked Judge Wood questions, and before they could be fully answered interrupted with more questions, which so angered Judge Wood that he knocked Governor Davis from the platform. ## PURITY.

'The Beer That is Brewed In Glass'

Ours is the only plant in Western Ontario having a glass-lined, closed tank tem, which is the only system affording absolute security against pollution of System, which is the only system affording absolute security against pollution of the beer.

Wood rots, green wood rots faster than dry, quickly seasoned wood rots quickest of all, and when exposed to air and water in Brewers' cellers wet rot comes on rapidly, and the beer brewed in open tanks is injuriously affected by it.

Our tanks are like a bottle inside, clean, no mould, no slime, no chance for rot. Which is better, beer made in a closed, glass lined, skeel tank, or in an old mouldy wooden one?

Color is no indication of strength as producers of thin, washy beer resort to coloring matter and other materials to conceal its weakness. A good beer gives a "full mouth" feeling when drank.

A heavy foam is no indication of good quality, in fact in many localities they demand less foam and more solid beer. Brewers of weak beer often try to tempt the consumer by furnishing a beer charged with Kreusen (beer 24 hours old) and having a beautiful cream, but if used to any extent is sure to produce sickness.

Poor goods are navy competition and the public should sustain those producing the better goods.

A pure beer is a pleasant beverage and very healthful and should always give off a delicate aroma of hops and malt only. Any other smell or taste is almost POSITIVE EVIDENCE OF AN INFECTED AND IMPURE BEER.
