

ZEPPELIN RAIDS SEND HUNDREDS OF YOUNG MEN INTO RANKS

London Streets Yesterday Crowded Like on Election Nights, and Every Person Holds For Huns Feelings of Bitterness and Contempt.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, Oct. 15.—The London correspondent of The Tribune cables under yesterday's date:

The censorship strictures, which forbid publication of any details as to damage or location, necessarily prevent me from giving a comprehensive story of last night's Zeppelin raid over London but it is possible to relate some of a hundred and one incidents showing the futility of such form of barbarous attack on non-combatants.

RUSH TO RECRUIT

The official statement says: "The material damage was small." This is not right, but nevertheless it is enough to congest the streets as they have not been since the early days of the war, to bring out dozens of recruiting bands, to send hundreds of young men into the ranks and to make the city the busiest place in Europe.

In Berlin they say the raids are for military purposes, and also to "terrorize" London. Perhaps the German general staff is satisfied with the extent of military damage done by this raid, which killed fourteen soldiers and terrorized people who are supposed to rush away in panic or hide in their homes.

"BITTERNESS AND CONTEMPT"

"To-day you must push your way through the streets, as on election night on Broadway. But for the absence of confetti, ticklers and cowbells, it might be the same crowd as you will have next month in front of the newspapers' bulletin boards on election night. If you could read its mind, you probably would find a feeling of bitterness and contempt."

A few demolished buildings, broken windows and blown holes—that's the visible extent of damage to be found to-day. This raid came earlier than the others and, naturally, more people were about the city. If the Zeppelin pirates aim to kill, they have poor luck, as shown by the official statement.

FREAKS OF THE BOMBS.

The freaks of the bombs are as odd as those of lightning. In one building every window was broken; in another alongside not a pane was smashed. In one block all extension signs except one were wrecked.

A bomb burst within fifty feet of where a member of The Tribune staff sat reading a paper. A piece of it came crashing through the window at his back, passed over his shoulder and buried itself in the wall. Glass and window sashes fell about him, but he was not scratched. The same bomb wrecked a taxicab.

ENGLISH DEVOID OF FEAR

An English crowd is the sanest and coolest in the world. No one could dispute this now. The Germans might just as well try to frighten mummies in a museum with Zeppelin attacks, for the English seem devoid of fear.

Charlie Chaplin was cutting up on a screen in one cinema when a bomb fell by. "The commissionaire, one of those uniformed ex-soldiers, full of red braid and authority, walked in and raising his hand, said: "Don't get excited. The audience walked out without the slightest sign of a panic and probably sorry to desert Chaplin for a Zeppelin."

Americans are unashamed to admit that the Zeppelins take the starch out of them for a moment and then they straighten up into the air, showing a contemptuous light, signaling a number of the flying crowd (1-2-3, for instance, stands for John Bull, near Berlin); still others, again, are fitted with a rotating light. The above picture, drawn especially for this newspaper, the New York Herald and the London Sphere, shows one of these lighthouses with the keepers signalling to the crew of a passing airship.

LIGHTHOUSES FOR ZEPPELINS TO GUIDE THEM HOME ~ FROM THE SPHERE, LONDON

Toward the end of 1913 the German government promoted a series of trials of new lighthouses to be built for the guidance of aviators flying at night. Many electrical concerns competed, and apparently satisfactory results were obtained. These lighthouses have been erected all over Germany. Some of them project a strong beam of light straight up into the air; others show a disappearing light, signaling a number of the flying crowd (1-2-3, for instance, stands for John Bull, near Berlin); still others, again, are fitted with a rotating light. ## BULGARIAN OFFICIAL REPORT SAYS SERB ATTACKS FAILED

German Newspapers Welcome Effusively Bulgaria Into Teutonic Alliance, Not Only to Fight With it But to Conquer With It.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, Oct. 15.—Official announcement was made here to-day that Serbia had declared war on Bulgaria.

The announcement states that war has been declared on account of Bulgarian attacks on Serbian armies on the Zaitichen and Radovitch fronts.

On Oct. 14 via London, Oct. 13, "Navigation of the Danube has been virtually closed by the Bulgarians," says a Bucharest despatch to The Corriere della Sera. At Lom-palanka, the Bulgarians seized seven barges and three tugs sent up the Danube by Russia with wheat for Serbia. Bulgaria has laid mines all along its bank of the Danube, thus closing the river in effect, as the Roumanian side is unnavigable.

BULGARIAN TROOPS IN RESERVE.

"Roumanian papers state there are only 150,000 Bulgarian troops on the Serbian frontier. The remainder are held in reserve, partly to guard the Roumanian frontier and partly in preparation for some diversion by the allies. Bulgar troops are actively entrenching and fortifying themselves along the Dobrudja border and at Rouschuk."

SUBMARINES AT VARNA

"It has been learned that there are now five German submarines at Varna."

OFFICIAL STATEMENT

Sofia, Oct. 15.—(By wireless to London.)—The Bulgarian general staff issued to-day its first official statement relating to military operations. The communication which charges the Serbs with being the aggressors, follows:

FIGHTING CONTINUES

"Tuesday night the Serbians attempted a surprise attack at several points near Trem, Basilovgrad, and Kustendil with the object of taking possession of Bulgarian strategic points commanding the road to Sofia. The attempt was frustrated by Bulgarian troops posted near the threatened points. Later our troops succeeded in driving back the Serbians. The fighting continues."

WELCOMES NEW ALLY.

Berlin, Oct. 15.—Bulgaria is welcomed by the Lokal Anzeiger as a new ally of Germany the paper asserts the Bulgarians would have remained at peace if it had been possible, but that war was forced upon them as it was upon Germany.

"Reports that Bulgaria had attacked Serbia first came as a surprise," says The Anzeiger; "but now we know Serbia crossed the Bulgarian border without a previous declaration of war. Bulgaria thus was fully justified in her attack. Our new ally not only will fight with us, but conquer with us."

London, Oct. 15.—A despatch to the Times from Athens says the Serbians still hold the heights around Belgrade at a distance of 1 1/2 miles from the city. Serbian refugees are beginning to arrive at Saloniki, and the despatch adds railway communications have been cut near the Bulgarian frontier.

ATTACKING IN GREAT FORCE

Paris, Oct. 15.—The Germans are attacking in great force near Passarowitz, which commands the Morava valley, according to a Nish despatch to the Matin. The Serbs are resisting stoutly, and it is asserted that the invaders have not advanced more than four miles south of the river at any point on the Danube front. The Bulgarians have been held in the Timok valley, where a new action is in progress along the entire front.

Mayors of villages along the Macedonian frontier have been made officers in the Serbian army, and have been instructed to organize bands of irregulars who will be armed with Mauser rifles.

If Nish is seriously menaced by the Austro-German-Bulgarian invasion, it has been decided to transfer the government to Milrovia, close to the Montenegrin frontier. Milrovia is the terminus of a branch railroad which connects with the main line from Nish to Saloniki at Uskup.

SERB DRIVE MADE READY IN BERLIN

Differs Essentially From Austrian Plan of Campaign Last Year.

INVADERS' LOSSES ALREADY HEAVY

Coming of the Allied Troops to Serbian Front May Prove Turning Point of War.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, Oct. 15.—"The present plan of attack on Serbia," says a Nish despatch to The Daily Telegraph, "was prepared by the German staff and differs essentially from the Austrian plan of last year, which provided for the taking of Serbia from the west."

DIFFERS FROM OLD PLAN.

In accordance with the new plan the Austro-Germans have started to occupy the head of the railway line from Belgrade to Nish and the valley of the Morava, mostly by frontal attacks, sending men by tens of thousands in order to save time and penetrate quickly and deeply into Serbia. As the success of this enterprise depended on Bulgarian reports of the Austro-German generals began their campaign only after Bulgaria had mobilized, thus obliging Serbia to deflect her troops as a protection against sudden Bulgarian attack.

ENTHUSIASM AT NISH.

The most dangerous feature of the Serbian situation, however, is the presence of Turkish troops under German command on the Serbo-Bulgarian frontier. News of the landing of Austro-British troops at Saloniki has caused the greatest enthusiasm at Nish, which is decorated with allied flags and is preparing a hearty welcome for the foreign troops.

Serbian reports of the fighting stress emphasis on its sanguinary character and the heavy German losses. One commander reports the taking of the Save before Dediyaya literally covered with dead bodies.

SIGNIFICANCE OF SERBIA.

M. Vinovitch, under secretary of foreign affairs, said in an interview that the coming of the allied troops to the Serbian front may prove the turning point of the war. England and France, he asserted, realized the paramount importance of Serbian territory for both belligerent parties. Slightly through Serbia is Russia connected with the Balkans, through Serbia can Germany reach Turkey to make an unbroken front from Bagdad to Oostend.

DESTROYER SUNK BY THE BRITISH

Report That British Submarine Sent German Destroyer to Bottom.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Copenhagen, Oct. 15.—A British submarine torpedoed and sank a German destroyer this morning at the southern entrance to the Sound, a narrow strait between Denmark and Sweden, which connects the Baltic with the North Sea.

The German cruiser followed the striking of the torpedo, and the destroyer foundered immediately. A message from Falsterbo, Sweden, which brought news of this incident, said that another German destroyer and a cruiser which were accompanying the destroyer that was sunk speeded to the southward.

The information received here indicates that all the members of the destroyer's crew were lost.

Additional details were given in a subsequent despatch. According to this version, a German cruiser and three destroyers were engaged with the British submarine. The German craft moved in circles to avoid the attack of the submarine, which was heavily damaged. This continued for some time until the submarine lodged on the destroyer, which sank with a terrific explosion. The other German warships said to have retreated. The submarine rose to the surface and remained on the scene for some time before it disappeared. A sharp lookout from the Danish coast is being kept, but no survivors have been found.

Pte. Logan is Killed in Action

Mrs. Logan, 165 Darling street, received a telegram to-day from military headquarters at Ottawa conveying the sad intelligence that her only son, Herbert John, had been killed in France on Sept. 28th. The last letter received from him announced that he was leaving for that country on Sept. 14th.

Pte. Logan, who was 22 years of age, had been working in Pittsburg, but returning home on a visit, decided to enlist, which he did with the 18th at London. He was a bright young man, whose life has gone out all too soon, although in a glorious cause.

To the sorely bereaved mother and sister (who is with J. M. Young and Co.) the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community will be extended.

LORD MILNER DEMANDS BRITISH WITHDRAWAL FROM DARDANELLES

Balkan Situation Gives an Opportunity For Giving Up an Enterprise Which is Hopeless, Says His Lordship.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

New York, Oct. 15.—A special cable to The Evening World from London says:

While one of the fiercest battles of the whole war is raging along the British front near Lens, while thousands are dying daily in terrific nights in Serbia, and while a renewal of the Anglo-French offensive in the Gallipoli peninsula is being reported here, Great Britain to-day is marveling at last night's debate in the House of Lords in which Lord Milner demanded the immediate withdrawal of British troops from the Dardanelles.

Lord Lansdowne, member of the coalition ministry, refused to guarantee that this would be done.

In his sensational speech Lord Milner said:

"How about the enterprise at the Dardanelles? I should have thought that whatever evils had resulted from the disastrous developments at the Balkans there was at least this advantage; that it might have given us an opportunity, which may never recur, for withdrawing from an enterprise the successful completion of which is now hopeless."

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER

"There may be, I will admit, reasons known only to his majesty's government why that course should not be pursued. I do not want to press for these reasons, but when I hear statements that it would be a terrible thing to abandon our Dardanelles venture because this would have so had an effect in Egypt, in India and upon our prestige in the east, I cannot help asking myself whether it will not have a worse effect if we persist in that enterprise and it ends in complete disaster."

Lord Milner then demanded that the troops be withdrawn from the Dardanelles and sent into some other theatre of war.

BALKANS LOOMING LARGE

London, Oct. 15.—Military operations in the Near East are once more holding chief place in the interest of the public, which, as indicated by the press comment, is not entirely satisfied with the plans made by the entente powers for meeting the offensive of their opponents. Even papers like the Manchester Guardian, which has been unwaveringly loyal in support of the foreign office, express dissatisfaction with the speech in the House of Commons on the Balkan situation yesterday of Foreign Secretary Grey.

Actual military operations in the Balkans show but little change since the capture of Belgrade, except for petty forays by Serbians and Bulgarians. Defending her action in declaring war, Bulgaria claims her neutrality was violated by Serbia. Official announcement that Serbia had declared war on her neighbor was made to-day.

STILL NEAR BELGRADE

The Serbians are clinging desperately to the heights above Belgrade, the present Greek Government is of the opinion that the treaty with Serbia does not call for intervention by Greece in the present circumstances.

Paris, Oct. 15.—While there is no doubt of Italian intervention in the Balkans, The Petit Journal's Milan correspondent says the question now under consideration is how contact can be avoided between the Italian and German contingents if Italy's share in the campaign comprises the use of land forces, as no declaration of war has been made on either side. It is reported that this diplomatic difficulty may be overcome by sending the Italians against either the Turks or the Bulgarians or both.

MILAN, Oct. 15.—The Greek Government is co-operating with the quadruple entente by keeping its army mobilized, and by this action alone warding off a possible Bulgarian attack on the base of operations

DARK STREETS MAKE THEATRES CLOSE NIGHTS

Result of New Regulations in London May Mean Matinees.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, Oct. 15.—Owing to the menace under which London lives at present, and the darkened condition of the streets, some theatre managers have been discussing the advisability of closing their houses at night or possibly having evening performances on only two nights a week. The Royal alty theatre, it is announced, will open in the afternoon instead of the evening next week, and H. B. Irving will present his new play at a matinee.

"Any change may involve further hardship and loss to a profession which already has suffered heavily, but possibly the consequences would be less onerous than many anticipate," says the Daily Telegraph.

The matter is one which rests in the main with the patrons of the theatres. If they decide not to attend at night, the temporary change in the theatre arrangements will follow in due course.

HUN AGENTS IN BULGARIA WON HER OVER

Skilfully Exploited Russian Retreat and Turned Sentiment Against Allies.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Paris, Oct. 15.—That the Russian retreat, skilfully exploited by German agents, was the immediate cause of turning against the allies the sentiment of the Bulgarian people who are intensely pro-Russians, was the assertion made by A. De Panafieu, French minister at Sofia, to the correspondent of The Journal at Piraeus. "The event coincided," he said, "with the visit of the Duke of Mackenbourg, who once a ready tool in King Ferdinand, a blind believer in Germany's victory. The Champagne success came too late to restore the balance. The Bulgarian people understand nothing of diplomatic calculations. They saw only Macedonia to be conquered. Certainly if the Russian flag appeared at Varna or Burgas it might rouse memories in their inmost souls, but interest comes before sentiment."

INTEREST COMES BEFORE SENTIMENT

No One Can Say Anything About Possibility of Revolt for a Month.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

"Russia, the great motherland, will henceforth be far away to the Bulgarian peasant. Mobilization was a sad and dreary proceeding, without songs or cheers, vastly different from the heroic frenzy of October 1912. Hundreds of German officers are acting as instructors of the Bulgarian people, who do not wear German uniforms, although a few Austrian uniforms are seen. Germans in Bulgarian uniforms organized the defenses of Dedegatch and the Black Sea ports and batteries and anti-aircraft guns at Sofia."

MOBILIZATION WAS SAD

"It would be premature to express an opinion about the possibility of a revolution for at least a month. The Bulgarian people, are embarking upon a risky adventure without joy, but it is beyond question that if they find out they have been deceived they will seek out and punish the guilty. The rupture of diplomatic relations stupefied the Bulgarians. Even when we went to get our passports, no one in Sofia believed we were going. We were treated with the greatest cordiality and our journey to Dedegatch was without incident."

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—The militia department could not confirm reports that the Canadians had been in Wednesday's charge of the British against the German lines.

It was pointed out that if the action took place over a 25-mile front, as stated in despatches, it was altogether probable the Canadians were engaged. Regarding the statement that 60,000 Canadians were in it, an official statement said that Canada now had 60,000 men in France.

"That the Board of Police Commissioners of the City of Brantford wish to record their deep regret at the loss to this Board of the services of Thomas Woodyatt, Esq., late Police Magistrate of this city for seventeen years. A member of the Commission almost from its organization, he took an active and leading part in all that pertained to its duties as the executive branch of Criminal Justice, entrusted with the maintenance of law and order in this city.

"He brought to the performance of his duties an unsurpassed thoroughness, wide knowledge of men and affairs, laborious investigation and a ripe judgment, free from every consideration other than the highest efficiency of the Police Department.

"In the exercise of these gifts he always felt it imperatively his duty, as it was constantly his care, to examine the minutest details of all matters affecting the expenditure, discipline and personnel of the department, the proper working of which was his daily concern.

"Those associated with him and knowing the value of his work wish at this, their first opportunity, to place on record their high appreciation of his services and fidelity to the interests of the public."

It was decided to send $20 to the Red Cross; Miss McIntyre then favored the audience with another solo, after which the meeting was closed with the singing of "The Maple Leaf Forever."

TUTELA INSTITUTE.
The regular monthly meeting of the Tutela Women's Institute was held on Tuesday, the 5th of October at the home of Mrs. H. McIntyre, 8-second Vice-president, Miss H. Morrison in the chair. Hargreaves on Thursday, October 14th, for the purpose of packing suitcases for the soldiers. The roll call was answered by "Time Saving Wrinkles."

Mrs. Fitzgerald gave a splendidly prepared paper on, "Our Motto for Home and Country." Mrs. Savage gave several vocal solos which were thoroughly enjoyed by all. Mrs. Alexander's paper on "The Ideal Home" was very interesting.

The meeting closed by all singing the National Anthem, after which all enjoyed the usual social time, and dainty refreshments served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Chapin, the first Tuesday in November when a full attendance is requested.

GERMANS SHOOT DOWN THOUSANDS OF BELGIANS Paris, Oct. 15.—A Havas despatch from Havre says: "Over 5,000 civilians have been shot in Belgium lately by order of the German military authorities, according to authentic reports received by the Belgian government. The figure is approximate and unofficial because no local authorities, who fear reprisals, would dare draw up official reports. The estimates so far made follow: "Antwerp, 200; Brabant, 200; Flanders, 100; Hainault, 400; Liege, 845; Limbourg, 40; Luxembourg, 100; Namur, 1,800."

THE IRON HEEL London, Oct. 15.—An Amsterdam despatch says that, according to a Brussels despatch to the Cologne Gazette, many persons have been tried by court-martial on the charge of treason for assisting Belgians of military age to cross the frontier and for facilitating the escape of French and British soldiers from Belgium. Five persons have been sentenced to death, four to 15 years penal servitude, one to 10 years and 17 to penal servitude or imprisonment for from two to eight years. Eight were acquitted.

Results of Zepp Raid Over London

London, Oct. 15.—Fifty-six persons were killed and 114 injured in the Zeppelin raid over London Wednesday night. Fifteen of the 56 persons killed and 13 of the 114 wounded were military casualties, according to an announcement made later by the Official Press Bureau.

The Press Bureau of the War Office announced that a fleet of hostile airships visited the Eastern Counties and a portion of the London area last night and dropped bombs.

The Home Office announces the following casualties other than the military casualties reported above:

Men. men. dren. Tj Killed 27 9 5 41 Injured 64 30 7 101

Totals 91 39 12 142 Of these casualties, 32 killed and 95 injured were in the London area, and these figures include those announced last night.

GERMAN OFFICIAL VERSION Berlin, Oct. 15.—(By wireless to Sayville)—An official report given out today by the German admiralty regarding the Zeppelin raid on London says that in addition to dropping bombs on the English capital, the water works at Hampton and the town of Woolwich, where there is a great arsenal, were heavily bombarded.

The Zeppelins returned safely, although they were vigorously attacked on passing over the British coast.

Paris, Oct. 15.—The Duke of Orleans addressed a letter to King Ferdinand of Bulgaria yesterday, requesting the monarch to take back jewels of Bulgarian orders which had been bestowed upon him, but the letter was to be published only on the day Bulgaria declared war.

In his communication, the Duke said: "The attitude your majesty has thought right to take in the present emergency, contrary to your previous policy, forces me to the duty of praying your majesty to take back the jewels of Bulgarian orders with which your majesty invested me, first upon the death of your venerable mother, and second, when your majesty was in Paris, to point out how much Bulgaria owes to France."

"I beg, your majesty to take back the Order of the Holy Spirit, which I send you, but your majesty has only to apply to his ally, who for more than a year has occupied my chateau in Belgium, and for whom my safe can have no secrets. I authorize giving up to your majesty orders I can no longer wear.

"Your majesty will understand I am obliged to warn your majesty the day he takes up arms against my country, France, his name will be struck from the chapter of Knights of the Holy Spirit. I do not ask your majesty to send back the jewels of the Order of Holy Spirit, but wish on the contrary that these souvenirs of the France he has betrayed shall keep alive perpetual remorse.

A letter the Duke wrote to Emperor Francis Joseph at the outbreak of the war also has been published. He asked the ruler of Austria-Hungary to take back the jewels of the order of the Golden Fleece and refers to his marriage to the Archduchess Maria Dorothea of Austria as "the misfortune of his life."

National League fans complained of Moran's judgment when he declined to send in Alexander's series final game. As a matter of fact, "Big Alex" was hit hard in his two appearances against the Sox. Chalmers, also a fast ball pitcher, was peppered freely.

Moran's play, after taking his speed merchants beaten, was to try Mayer or Rixey, curve ball specialists. The Red Sox failed however to recognize the difference between the speeders and the curvers.

The Situation.

Sir John French has been able to record another British advance of some moment. Part of the ground taken was lost, but the rest was held including the main trench of the Hohenzollern redoubt. In this assault the British used poisonous gases for the first time. It is a lamentable phase of warfare, but justified because of the diabolical conduct of the Huns in a like regard.

The French are making a violent artillery demonstration in the direction of Lens, and it is regarded as a prelude to another big drive in that quarter.

The news from the Eastern theatre is still reassuring, as far as the Russian operations are concerned. Sir Edward Grey's statement in the British House regarding the Balkan situation, was couched in the calm and unemotional language so characteristic of the British Foreign Secretary. He made it clear that the feeling among the nations in that region is not one making for union but division, and that nothing excepting a preponderant action successful, He expressed the opinion that in the long run Greece would have to stand by Serbia. Meanwhile the news despatches state that Germany is trying to force Roumania to define definitely her attitude towards the central powers.

There need be no cause for surprise that at a large public gathering in London, the demand was made that Zeppelin raids should be avenged by similar air attacks upon German cities. It would seem to be necessary, as in the case of poisonous gases, to answer this kind of butchery in kind.

The British Red Cross Society.

The special appeal of the British Red Cross Society has raised many questions in the minds of citizens with regard to the relation of the Canadian Red Cross Society to the British Red Cross Society, and, further, about the work done by the British Red Cross Society.

It should be borne in mind that it was at the Geneva Convention in 1864 that fifteen European nations agreed that neutrals and civilians could help the sick and wounded through Red Cross Societies without being classed as belligerents. This Convention, therefore, underlies the organization and the work of Red Cross Societies. Apart from any other considerations, this Convention itself is sufficient answer to the question which is frequently asked, "Why does not the Government look after the sick and wounded?" The emblem of the Red Cross was adopted and is recognized the world over as indicative of the humanitarian work which is done under it. It is also recognized as a safeguard in that no enemy is supposed to attack or destroy persons, places or property so marked.

As Canada was not an independent nation, and was not, therefore, a party to the Geneva Convention, the Canadian Red Cross Society has its standing and is able to minister to the wants of the sick and wounded through its affiliation with the British Red Cross Society. Although the Canadian Society has certain obligations which it has undertaken to fulfil, it works constantly in co-operation with the parent society. Its Commissioner in England has a seat on the British Council, and thus the closest affiliation of these two organizations is maintained. Both British and Canadian Red Cross Societies are managed by committees, all of whose members give their time freely. It is, therefore, an institution concerning which it may be said that its management is purely voluntary. There are expenses, of course, in connection with the offices, and with the packing, transportation, etc., of the materials sent, but these expenses are kept down to a minimum and all accounts are regularly audited.

The demands made upon the Red Cross agencies by the present war are of such magnitude, and the co-operation with the movements of the Army and Navy so vital, that the whole distribution of supplies and service, medical and otherwise, has been placed under the Director-General of the Army Medical Corps. In this way the Government has co-ordinated all these agencies, and each is able, therefore, to work with the maximum of efficiency and with the least possible loss due to over-lapping. Absolutely no discrimination is made among the men who need help. The British Red Cross Society cares for all alike, whether from the Motherland, from any of the colonies, or from any other of the British possessions. Thus, the British Red Cross Society co-operates, with every medical auxiliary in use by the British Army. More than that, its activities are not confined to the British Army. They extend also to the Allied forces, and it has met calls made upon it by all the Allies for doctors, nurses, ambulances and medical supplies. In Serbia in particular, it has been much in evidence in dealing with the typhus epidemic. The hospital equipment, served in whole or in part by the British Red Cross Society and the Order of St. John, is very complex, and no simple classification would deal with the facts fairly. Beginning just behind the fighting line with field hospitals, farther in the rear clearing hospitals are reached and still farther back base and general hospitals. Again, behind these there are voluntary hospitals of various sorts. Through all these hospitals the British Red Cross Society and the Order of St. John work. The following summary will give some idea of the demands which these Societies meet:

1. The British Red Cross Society and the Order of St. John, conjointly furnished auxiliary supplies of all sorts, from ambulances to bandages, to all hospitals of the Royal Army Medical Corps.

2. These Societies have also certain special hospitals which draw on their stores for exclusive support.

3. These Societies supply surgical and other stores to many hundreds of voluntary hospitals recognized by the War Office.

4. These Societies supply additional personnel, doctors, nurses and orderlies, at the request of the War Office, to serve in hospitals, hospital trains, hospital ships and ambulances.

What Gordon Predicted.

Many people with a gift for looking ahead foresaw the present European war. It didn't require extraordinary acumen to predict a great crash after the rise of the Triple Entente as a counterweight to the Triple Alliance. But a remarkable capacity for divination must be conceded to the prophet who way back in 1882 could see "1910 or thereabouts" as the date for a clash between Great Britain and Germany on the issue of world supremacy.

It was an extraordinary man who made this extraordinary prediction—Charles George Gordon ("Chinese Gordon"), an undoubted genius and one of the most picturesque and heroic figures in British military history. A letter by Mr. Gordon to Mr. James R. Purdy, dated 1882, has recently been published in the Morning Post of London, from which the following is an extract.

"Every Briton should think of the future of his own country and cause each one to insist on the Government passing a measure for compulsory universal military training. So far as England is concerned, she need not for the next quarter of a century be under any apprehension of serious difficulties arising with any of her European neighbors, but in 1910 or thereabouts there will have arisen a naval power which may prove mightier than she, and should she (Germany) gain the supremacy, England will become extinct both as a sea and a land power, and all her dependencies including India, will fall into Germany's clutches. You may live to see this. I shall not, but when that time comes, remember my words."

In 1882 Germany was not a sea power had no colonies, and had not been bitten by imperialistic ambitions. Bismarck was encouraging France to occupy more African territory and to dispute priority in that region with Great Britain. But Gordon looked far beyond the superficial friction of the hour between Britain and France, and had a true vision of Germany's role as the ultimate challenger of Britain's sea power and overseas pretensions.

Gordon was, part soldier, part statesman, part mystic. It has been granted to few humans to have his immense range of experience or to read the future as clearly as he did.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

President Wilson has had a private telephone wire installed so that he can talk to his fiancée at any time he likes. When it comes to a case of ring or instead of the ring of perhaps he won't be quite so anxious.

Those plucky Serbians continue to stand up to it in great style.

The Kaiser is after two more countries, making an offer to Spain of Morocco and Gibraltar, and to Sweden, Finland, a Grand Duchy of Russia. Instead of delivering these goods and others, it will pretty soon keep his Royal Niblets busy endeavoring to deliver himself.

Henry Ford has donated $10,000 to the Canadian Red Cross Association. In other words he has offered to put his auto-graph to a cheque for that amount.

SUGGESTED ROLL OF HONOR

The following letter has been sent by Lt.-Colonel Mewburn, A. A. G. at Niagara to City Clerk Leonard, and Mr. James Smith, Township Clerk:

"It is desired by the Honorable the Minister of Militia and Defence that a Roll of Honor, containing the names of residents of cities, towns, villages and municipalities, who have enlisted in the units of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, should be established. It is suggested that this Roll of Honor should be published with additions thereto from time to time in the local newspapers, and that a copy of such roll, after verification and revision, be posted in the municipal hall of the city, town or municipality in question.

3. It is also suggested that parents or other next of kin in the various localities, who have sons or relatives who are enlisted in units of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, at places other than their own city, town or village should furnish a list of the same, to the person compiling the Roll of Honor should be as accurate as possible.

4. Care should be taken in the preparation and revision of this Roll of Honor, so that the same should be not only correct as to names and so forth, but that it should include only those who are honorably entitled to be shown thereon.

5. The preliminary Roll of Honor might be sub-divided into members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force who have proceeded overseas, and those who are still training in Canada.

6. It is also desirable that a list should be made of members of the active militia employed on guard duty in Canada, but any such list should be kept separate and it does not appear to be entitled to the same honor of being posted in the municipal hall.

7. When these lists have been prepared a copy should be sent forward to the person for transmission to the Records Office, Militia Headquarters, Ottawa.

The above remarks are forwarded in order that you may establish a Roll of Honor covering your city.

Lieut.-Col. H. Mewburn, A. A. G., Sec. Dir.

TAGEBLATT COMMENTS ON DELCASSE

By Special Wire to the Courier. Berlin, Oct. 15.—(Wireless to Sayville)—The assertion is made by the Tageblatt that Theophile Delcasse, who recently resigned as the foreign minister of France, opposed the landing of troops at Saloniki.

Perceiving that popular opinion in France was turning against him," the Tageblatt adds, "Delcasse seized upon the pretext of the Saloniki expedition as a reason to resign. He was thus able to disappear from the political theatre in the attitude of a man who foresaw calamities and warned the nation while in reality he, together with President Poincare and War Minister Millerand brought about the present situation."

The Vossische Zeitung says: "Delcasse's whole career was based upon the idea of revenge. He entered parliament with a speech in favor of a French-Russian alliance. He always represented the idea of war in Germany. He was inspired by the late King Edward, one of the most active workers for the isolation of Germany.

In 1905 Clemenceau thought that Delcasse had disappeared from public life never again to return, but he did reappear and he is now abandoned for ever by his former associates, their decision comes too late for France."

TEACHERS' CONVENTION The annual convention of Brant County and City of Brantford Teachers is proving very interesting and instructive. About 200 teachers of the city and county are attending. Much interest is being shown and many points of interest are being brought out. Yesterday afternoon an address on "Sewing" by Miss E. Reynolds of Paris, was much enjoyed as was the talk on "Home Economics in our Schools," by Miss F. McNally of this city. An intelligent discussion was held on the "League of the Empire," several communications being read from various associations. The main point brought out and agreed upon was the closer union of the different parts of the Empire. This morning much interest centered around the topic "Superannuation" handled by Prof. M. A. Mackenzie, M.A. of Toronto. The Ontario Teachers Alliance" by Mr. E. S. Hogarth, B.A. of the Collegiate Institute, Hamilton, was both interesting and helpful, some very good points being brought out.

It is announced from Toronto that an unknown donor has offered to pay all expenses in connection with the Red Cross Day campaign throughout Ontario. It is estimated that the total will be about $5,000.

SURPRISE PARTY.

The Ladies' Guild of St. Paul's Church last night gave a pickle and fruit shower to Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Light at the rectory. The party was in the nature of a surprise, and was a pleasant evening of entertainment and refreshments.

LOST AGAIN.

The Brantford Collegiate Rugby team journeyed to Woodstock yesterday to play an exhibition game. The locals had seven men of the second team with them, because they understood they were to meet Woodstock's second team. When they arrived they found the first team lined up against them and as a result never had a chance. The score was Woodstock 37, Brantford 0.

LARGE FLOCK

A flock of many thousands of birds passed over the city about midnight. Some of them even invaded the streets. They were little larger than sparrows, and had white breasts.

THE EIGHTY FOURTH.

It is expected that the half battalion of the 84th to be quartered in Brantford for the winter will reach here about Oct. 25th, after marching from Niagara Camp.

SLIGHT MISHAP

What might have been a serious accident occurred this afternoon at the corner of Park Avenue and Colborne street. An automobile going south on Park Avenue, in making the turn down Colborne street, struck the lad, Reggie Reynolds, riding a bicycle. While the child was not badly hurt, the wheel was damaged considerably.

AT THE BRANT.

There is a very entertaining bill at the Brant Theatre for the last half of the week. Charlie Chaplin is on hand in a most diverting reel in the last part of which he takes the role of a woman in marvellous fashion. "The Fight" is a thrilling drama in five parts and in the vaudeville stunts there is a specially fine posing act by the Garrison sisters.

Y. W. C. A. LECTURES.

A crowded house greeted Dr. Chas. E. Barker, the popular lecturer at the Y. W. C. A. yesterday afternoon. Owing to the fact that Victoria Hall is being used by Teachers' Convention purposes, it was intended to hold it in the reading room, but this was found to be too small, and it was transferred to the club room and by special seating accommodation could not be found for all. The subject "How a woman can keep good health and be happy" was very instructive and much enjoyed by all. The lecture on "A woman's Responsibility to her daughter" for women only at the Congregational Church this afternoon, promises to be very interesting.

JOBS FOR ALL.

A prominent citizen of the city, and one who evidently understands what he is talking about, expressed his opinion to a reporter on "The Courier" staff this morning to the effect that "people should be very careful to whom they bestow charity at the present time. He quoted several instances that had come under his notice, where men who had nothing and were out of work refused to work when good jobs were offered and believed it only fair that such things should be brought to the notice of the public.

GOOD TURN OUT.

A good turn out of members and visitors greeted Noble Grand Tucker at the opening of Mohawk Lodge, I. O. O. F. Great interest is being taken in the membership contest by all the Bros. as shown by the number of applications received at each meeting. Noble Grand Scattergood and Bro. A. Harley, P. G. of Gore Lodge were present and addressed the Bros. with a few well chosen remarks. After a short programme of songs and music clay dabs with plenty of good tobacco were passed around and everyone proceeded to enjoy themselves at progressive euchre. Eleven games were played, the winner, Mr. Ballantyne, getting 10 games and a handsome cigar pipe as first prize. McLaren and Dickson were tie for booby prize, McLaren winning out. This is the first of a series of social gatherings to be held by the "Mohawks" and it certainly was a success.

SUPERANNUATION FUND.

Mr. W. Norman Andrews, chairman of the management committee of the Board of Education, speaking at the discussion which followed the address of Professor Mackenzie, on Teachers' Superannuation Fund, at Victoria Hall to-day, said in part: "I believe the scheme an admirable one. The teaching profession is the strongest moral force possessed by any country. This piece of National Machinery should be kept up to the highest state of efficiency. The Teachers' Superannuation Fund is simply creating a sinking fund for depreciation and providing not only for the future of the teacher but giving the state the highest educational efficiency. I fail to see why there should be any objection to the fund, but on the contrary an enthusiastic endorsement. The government is certainly generous in the matter and its operation will result in a benefit to teacher, school and country."

Good Lecture at Convention

The programme in connection with the Teachers' convention given in Victoria Hall last night, proved very interesting, and a large number of teachers and others were present to enjoy it. Judge Hardy, in the absence of Mr. W. F. Cockshutt, in his usual capable and efficient way presided, and delighted the audience with a few reminiscences of his old school-boy days, also giving the teachers a few good sound points of advice. Miss Marjorie Jones, the highly talented and renowned violinist, furnished the musical numbers, which were very much enjoyed. The lecture on "The Education of the Adolescent," by Dr. Peter Sanford, from the Faculty of Education at the University of Toronto, and formerly of the University of Manchester, England, was very instructive. Mr. Sanderson explained the meaning of the term adolescence, stating that it is in reality the essentials of secondary education how it should be dealt with in different countries, and its importance, and how necessary it is for every teacher to become thoroughly acquainted with its meaning that they may become better fitted to instruct the children under their care. The King George medals gave a couple of interesting patriotic songs.

Mrs. W. Bishop, 37, has three grand children and has just given birth to her 17th child.

LABOR MAN SPEAKS ON TAX REFORM

Mr. F. W. Dixon, M.P.P. for Winnipeg, Addressed Audience Last Night.

Mr. F. W. Dixon, M.P.P. for Centre Winnipeg, addressed a meeting last night in the Collegiate Institute under the auspices of the Trades and Labor Council. His subject was "Direct Legislation and Tax Reform." The audience was small, much too small for the character of the speech which was interesting and thoughtful throughout.

Direct legislation, Mr. Dixon defined as a proposed improvement in the system of government in order to give people more control in making the laws, especially between elections. It consisted of the adoption of three expedients—the initiative by which by petition, legislation must be enacted or referred to the people; the referendum by which laws can be held up after passing the legislature for consent of the people, and recall. The latter is not strictly a part of direct legislation and is rarely used. The speaker stated however, that a real democracy was not possible until there was established economic justice. The single tax set out to do this. Single Tax called for abolition of all taxes on industry and products of industry and placing the tax on the unimproved value of the land. Mr. Dixon avowed he was a Free Trader and did not believe in tariffs. In the West he stated, almost two-thirds of the land was held for speculation purposes. Under Single Tax this would be impossible. The ideal Single Tax system was in Banff where all the land was rented by the government at a small figure and the revenue devoted to town improvement. Make that system a federal one, and the Single Tax would be established. Single Tax was in operation in many places in the West. British Columbia had local option for municipalities in the matter while Alberta made the system compulsory for municipal purposes. There is also local option in Saskatchewan, but little progress has been made in Manitoba, although much is expected from the new Government. After the address Mr. Dixon answered several questions put to him. In answering those he emphasized the point that the root of the unemployment problem was land monopoly, and for temperance than men. The women of France, when they were admitted to the Franchise, voted 1,000 bars out of existence in one day. Mr. Dixon outlined the ideal as follows: Single Tax for the last few years; 80 years ago the only place women could vote was in Sweden; to-day in New Zealand, Australia, Tasmania, Norway, Denmark, Alaska and different parts of the United States. Both political parties in Manitoba to-day are in favor of equal franchise and Mr. Dixon believes women will have the vote before next April. In Alberta a bill has also been introduced in this cause. The women of to-day are giving men and boys a run for their money in all the higher walks of life. They have invaded fields of labor where men have gone and it is only reasonable to suppose we would be better for their invasion into politics. Equal guardianship of children is another thing women are striving for to-day, also the dower law, equal pay for equal work. The preceding lines are a few of the facts brought out by Mr. Dixon yesterday, and those wishing more information on the subject should read "The Legal Status of Women in Manitoba" by Dr. Mary Crawford. The meeting was also interspersed with musical numbers; piano solo by Miss Erma Coyne; songs by Misses Heath and Garvin. Addresses were also given by the pastor, Rev. G. A. Woodside, and Mrs. Secord.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE ADVOCATED BY MR. F. L. DIXON

In an Address the Visiting M. P. P. Gave Reasons for Its Adoption.

A very interesting meeting of the Equi Franchise Club was held yesterday afternoon in the lecture room of Zion Church when Mr. Frederick Dixon, M.P.P. of Winnipeg, was present and addressed the audience on "Equal Franchise" or "Votes for Women." Mr. Dixon is a brilliant speaker and one who thoroughly understands the handling of this delicate question, which is of so much moment to the people of the civilized world to-day. He pointed out by the use of facts that could not be disputed how women were entitled to a voice in the management of affairs equal to their men. One point in favor of Equal Franchise was this: Women are found to-day on the battlefields fighting to obliterate suffering; in the hospitals bringing all kinds of virulent diseases; in the sweat shops in most instances doing men's work at a far inferior wage; they are admitted to the jails, have to share taxes, in fact in almost everything else they are made to bear the burdens on an equal basis with men; then why are they not allowed at the polls? "Votes for Women" is now a frequent slogan said Mr. Dixon. The last century has been remarkable for its democracy, political harmony is what we are striving for and the ideal of democracy should always be kept before us, and this ideal can never be reached until men and women have equal rights. Many men say we have always got along without the voice of women in the government. Why should we bestir ourselves? Let things lie. Others buoyed up with a mistaken idea of chivalry say it is not right for women to be mixed up in politics or for them to enter the polling booth. To-day some classes are barred from voting, for example, idiots, lunatics, etc. These men, with their high chivalrous notions are in reality, if they stop to consider, putting their wives, sisters and mothers on an equal basis with these.

In temperance questions, women to-day have been more active and done more in carrying on the propaganda for temperance than men. The women of France, when they were admitted to the Franchise, voted 1,000 bars out of existence in one day. Mr. Dixon outlined the ideal as follows: Single Tax for the last few years; 80 years ago the only place women could vote was in Sweden; to-day in New Zealand, Australia, Tasmania, Norway, Denmark, Alaska and different parts of the United States. Both political parties in Manitoba to-day are in favor of equal franchise and Mr. Dixon believes women will have the vote before next April. In Alberta a bill has also been introduced in this cause. The women of to-day are giving men and boys a run for their money in all the higher walks of life. They have invaded fields of labor where men have gone and it is only reasonable to suppose we would be better for their invasion into politics. An interesting event has just taken place in the musical world. Miss Edith Evans, the famous singer, has been married to Mr. Henry Coates, the well known composer and music critic.

Mr. Coates used to be rather serious as befitted a Wrangler at Cambridge, but a gift for composing waltzes worked wonders. He has written some beautiful orchestral works too, and one night at Covent Garden when a nocturne of his was produced, the sequel was an embarrassing one for Mr. Coates.

The stage manager then found that the light had changed, and it was necessary to postpone the conclusion of the filming till the next day.

MUST RETURN $70,000 TO HOLDERS OF SEATS

Terminating of Series Brings Sorrow With Joy in Boston.

Boston, Oct. 15.—The word that came from the home of the Red Sox yesterday was greeted with mixed feelings by a multitude of enthusiasts. The victory of the Red Sox was a smaller one, and Lewis and Hooper, who were the stars of the contest, were especially applauded, but through the street the cheering was voiced again and again as the game the wish that the Sox might return here for another season. There was no lack of support for the local team in defeat, only a yearning desire to enjoy again the thrills and thrills of another world series.

The termination of the series in Philadelphia makes necessary the return of $70,000 to seat-holders by the management of the club. This sum has been paid in for reservations for the possible third game here. Plans for returning the money to the ticket purchasers will be announced later. Proposals to celebrate the Red Sox victory by a banquet at which the players would be guests were discussed in several quarters but under limitations caused by a request of President Linnin that there be no such observance. Mayor Curley, after the Sox had won yesterday, said that his intention to celebrate the victory with a banquet was abandoned out of deference to the wishes of the club president. Mr. Linnin had told the Mayor said, that the members of the team probably would not remain together if they gained the title in Philadelphia.

Ottawa Wants to Join the O. H. A.

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—The admittance of an Ottawa club to the Ontario Hockey Association and the formation of an Eastern Section of the big amateur league are the suggestions embodied in an application to be filed shortly by Reg. Sims, manager of the Aberdeens. For several seasons there has been talk of an Ottawa club joining the O. H. A., and the latter will have an opportunity in the near future of deciding as to the advisability of expanding as far east as the capital. The Aberdeens have decided to apply, and will do so at the annual meeting of the O. H. A. in December.

Mr. "Jim" Sutherland, of Kingston, has been in the capital on business this week, and has suggested to the Aberdeens that they enter a group consisting of Kingston, Brockville and Ottawa. The Brockville club has decided to resign from the Interprovincial, and will also apply to the O. H. A. Queen's will likely play O. H. A. during the coming winter, as there is little possibility of the Inter-collegiate resuming. A Smith's Falls club is also ready to enter the O. H. A. Mr. Sutherland believes that such an eastern series would undoubtedly prove successful. The winners, of course, would saw off against the western finalists. Aberdeens made a good showing last year, beating Montreal in the Ross Cup saw-off.

Mr. Sutherland has received from Cornelius Fellows, of New York, a letter in which the St. Nicholas Rink manager offers to put up a handsome silver trophy for annual competition between the champions of the United States and the Ontario Hockey Association. He proposes to make it emblematic of the eastern amateur hockey championship, and will lay his suggestions before the O. H. A. executive at its next meeting. Amateur hockey slumped in the capital last year, but it is believed the entry of a local team in the biggest of the amateur leagues would quickly revive it.

Four movie actors doing a farce film on a Brooklyn street were arrested for causing a crowd to gather.

WHEN WORLD SERIES DREW OUT ONLY 3,000

Received About $3,000 for Providence and Metropolitans Series Played in 1884.

Nothing shows the growth of baseball more than a comparison of gate receipts taken in during the different series played for the baseball championship of the world. The series of 1912 between the Boston Americans and the New York Giants leads all series for cash receipts and attendance. In the year 1884 about 300 people attended the final game between the Providence team and the Metropolitan club, champions of their respective leagues, and the total attendance at all three games was less than 3,000. That amount of paid admissions a dollar each would hardly pay the umpires of the present series. Rabbourne and Keefe, the opposing hurlers were at the height of their respective careers, but they failed to draw the throngs. However, the players did not worry, as there was nothing in it for them except glory.

In the season of 1885 the series was a failure from all standpoints. Only 8,000 saw the six contests between the men of Anson and the Browns led by Charles Lomiskey. The series was marked by continual scrapping, and at times real fighting. It ended or broke up with honors in game two, and verbal scraps "fifty and fifty." In 1886 the first series for the world championship was pulled off in a successful manner. The six games drew out 40,000, and the net receipts were $14,000 which was handed over to the St. Louis Browns as per agreement. Anson and his merry men did not get even a pleasant smile out of the encounter.

A WONDERFUL AFFAIR
The series of 1887 was considered a wonderful affair at that period, with an attendance of fifty thousand and gate receipts amounting to $42,000, which amount caused unusual amazement in baseball circles at that time. The teams traveled in special cars, and the whole affair was carried forward on a scale of magnificence never before attempted in baseball. Fifteen games were played and ten cities got the privilege of witnessing the two best teams battle. Chicago had a "grouch," and when the Detroit and St. Louis played that city it sent out 365 spectators. Brooklyn turned out the largest crowd, 6,745. Detroit won hands down, with ten contests to their credit.

In 1888 the New York Giants and the St. Louis Browns were the contenders, ten games were played to an attendance of 35,800 people. Twenty-four thousand dollars were taken in and divided 60 and 40 per cent. between the owners and players were promised $200 each. The hitherto grand organization under Comiskey made a sorry showing, and Owner Von der Ahe was so thoroughly disgusted that he refused to pay his men the promised $200. Arie Latham got wise and drew his $200 before the series was half over. The other fellows had to wait many days before they received their share. Perhaps the best series of all early world's championship games was in 1890, between Brooklyn and the Giants. 47,000 fans saw the nine games and paid $46,000 for the privilege. New York won in easy fashion.

ANOTHER FAILURE
The season of 1890 was a failure as a world series year. One was played between the Brooklyn club and the New York Giants, champions of the Nationals and American Associations. The winners of the Players' League, the Boston, were by long odds the best club in the land that season, but they were regarded as outsiders, so the other law-abiding organizations ignored them entirely. The two above-named contenders played seven games of the ten agreed upon, and the struggle ended in a draw. The balance of the games for the supremacy of the baseball world were postponed until next Spring, but no record can be found of where they met and settled their argument, and it is probable that it isn't settled yet. Seven games were played, one being a tie, and 13,000 people attended the entire series.

From the year 1892 until 1897 no real world series games took place. Ties were held between the winners of the first and second seasons of the big twelve club National League, but they lacked the intense rivalry which exists to-day. For six years the fans of the country had to be satisfied with watching the annual struggle between the first and second contenders for the flag in their respective leagues. In the year 1903 the first big battle was staged for world championship honors in baseball, and from that date the crowning event in the grand national game has grown steadily, and to-day it is regarded as the greatest event in the athletic world.

Before playing with Midland, Lavigne was a member of the St. Paul intermediate team of Toronto.

Leonard Quit Music for Ball

San Francisco, Oct. 15.—"Dutch" Leonard, who pitched the Boston Red Sox to victory Tuesday in the world's series, forsook music as a means of livelihood to play baseball. Six years ago the Leonard family lived in Fresno, Cal., and was known for musical ability. "Dutch" was a trap drummer. Until his success as a pitcher altered his plans he was considering taking up professional orchestral work.

HEALTHY CHILDREN

A child's health depends upon the state of his stomach and bowels. If they are kept regular and sweet the little one is sure to be healthy. Baby's Own Tablets are the mother's best friend in keeping her little ones well. They act as a gentle laxative; are absolutely safe and are pleasant to take. Concerning them Mrs. David Label Ste. Perette, Que., writes: "My baby was so troubled with constipation that he could not sleep day or night. I gave him Baby's Own Tablets and now he is a big healthy boy." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NEW KIND OF SPORT

The latest excitement at the Canadian front has been the splendid bit of daring which brought a fine German machine into our possession the two airmen being killed. A Montrealer serving with the Canadian Engineers at the front in a letter dated Sept. 14, gives some interesting details. He says: "Had some more excitement yesterday in the shape of a scrap in the air immediately over head. It was a lovely morning and a German aeroplane came over, flying low, at about 6.30. One of our machines was waiting for him and attacked him. They exchanged a few shots and we saw that the German had 'got it,' as he planned down slowly. Our man made a few turns over him as he went, and acknowledged the cheers that our fellows gave him. The whole country for miles around is always on the qui vive for a duet of this sort, and as every field is inhabited, there are thousands of spectators. I got a bike at about ten and started to try to find the German. We had heard a burst of machine gun fire as he got low which wanted explanation. So in defiance of all out-of-bound rules I got off, though I had not the vaguest idea where the German had come down. There was not much chance of mistaking him though, as everyone for miles around who could lay hands on any kind of rig—horse, bike or car—had turned out to hunt him. I simply followed the crowd and found him about five miles away, near a town. The machine was a brand new Albatross, quite intact except for a hole in the oil tank. It looked a ripping machine, with a light machine gun and wireless and searchlight apparatus. It appears that while the aeroplane was 100 feet over the ground the flyers had got their engine going again. A platoon of infantry was route marching in the road, and one man ran across the field to the aeroplane. The observer promptly opened fire with his machine gun and shot the man to pieces. The infantry thereupon gave them five rounds rapid, and the first few shots killed both the airmen. Rather an unfortunate morning's fight for them!"

A large number of friends from the village and surrounding country gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Poss on Monday evening last. As Mr. and Mrs. Poss are about to move to their new home at Brant, the gathering was for the purpose of spending the evening with them in their old home. The evening was spent in singing and speech-making. The feature of the evening was the presentation of a complimentary address and two upholstered leather chairs to Mr. and Mrs. Poss. All regret their removal from our midst, but pleased that they are not going so far but that we will be able to see them often.

The Rev. Mr. Farrell acted as chairman. All reported a splendid time. Lunch was served and those present departed for home at an early hour, owing to Mr. Poss not being in the best of health, but was able to be present during the evening.

DIARY OF A MARINE AT DARDANELLES

THE WHITE GHURKAS

The following diary was written by a marine at the Dardanelles: Saturday, May 3.—We were awakened by heavy gun fire about 5 a.m. and the hill to the left of Gaba Tepa appeared to be absolutely covered with field guns. It did not seem possible that any human being could live in such a fire. Sharpshooters were to be burning everywhere, and there must have been plenty of machine-guns at work for they kept up an continual roar. The taking of the hill must have cost a lot of lives. We had the pleasure of seeing the Australians strike the Turks in front of the hill before night. The fighting was kept up as heavily as during the day. As a couple of sergeants of the regulars afterwards told me, they were shot down by the men who had attempted what these men did in many places; they seemed more like madmen when their blood was up.

Monday, May 3.—Again at Gaba Tepa when we once more embarked wounded Australians and New Zealanders. They were as grand a lot of patients as any I have ever seen. Some of the shells falling too close to us to be comfortable, we moved a little farther away. After waiting a lot of shells they remained to hit the transport care and on a lighter alongside of her. Tappelo destroyed dashed to her assistance. The crew taken off, and she was safely beached.

Thursday, July 10.—Left Lemnos for Alexandria with 47 patients. Wednesday, Aug. 4.—Back at Lemnos. Saturday, Aug. 7.—Arrived at Suvla Bay before daylight, where some very heavy fighting was being done. Our troops had landed all right and had made fine progress, but the loss of life must have been heavy. We were full of joy to see the wounded dark men being taken to the hospital.

THE ROYAL EDWARD Monday, Aug. 14.—Back at Suvla Bay, embarking wounded all day. A Tappelo flew over us twice, the first time dropping a bomb each side of us and very close. The second time they dropped two, just above us, but whether they were meant for us or not I cannot say. It was just possible for the airman to be under the impression that we were enacting a coup, for there were a good many boats around us, but they contained wounded.

Friday, Aug. 13.—About nine a.m. we passed H.M.S. Royal Edward, and at 4 1/2 a.m. we received a message by wireless to say that she had been torpedoed, so we put back for assistance, arriving on the scene about 11 a.m. We remained there until three p.m.; picking up the survivors. What a scene it was! There were boats right way, wrong way up; batts, wreckage of all kinds, barrages, covers, etc. Some men were even clinging to oars; some swimming. Poor mortals, they had not much chance to prepare to leave their ship, as they went down well inside five minutes. In one case we got about seven or eight men off a boat which had floated keel uppermost. When we got them alongside they said there were two men underneath! We thought their wits had left them, as they seemed scared. Well, we got a line attached, and with the help of a crane lifted one end of the boat, which was a steel one, by the way, up a little out of the water, and, sure enough we got two poor R.A.M.C. chaps from under. They had managed to get a little air through the plug, hole at the bottom to keep them alive. They could not have lasted much longer, for the poor fellows almost collapsed when they got aboard, which was a difficult job. The total number saved by the Soudan was 44. Every one as he came on board was stopped naked, given a good rubbing, a hot drink of beet tea or porridge and wrapped up in a blanket laid at one side. It was the time of our lives and everyone worked right well. We only lost two by death after bringing them on board. About three p.m. we continued on our way. Alexandria was visible in many places; they seemed more like madmen when their blood was up.

Friday, Aug. 20.—Arrived at Malatya about nine a.m. and at about 1 p.m. received orders to go alongside the hospital ship Clan Macquillar, which had caught fire, and take off her crew and bed cases. Her light corps had been taken off in numerous attacks to other ships. We are bound to drop in for some adventure or other wherever we go.

RID STOMACH OF GASES' SOURNESS, AND INDIGESTION

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable. You must injure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's Digestin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmlessness; its certain unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs, its millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach troubles. It has made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—keep it in a large fit case from any drug store and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them, if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours, and makes gas, causes headache, dizziness and nausea, eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Digestin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.

The military authorities have prohibited Dublin publicans from serving wounded soldiers with intoxicants. Sergeants from the headquarters recently visited licensed premises in the city and confiscated the premises against selling drink to wounded men. One prominent publican, in the course of an interview, said that it was not always possible to distinguish wounded soldiers from ordinary civilians.

Text of the Lesson, 11 Kings v. 1-14. Memory Verses, 7, 8—Golden Text, Ex. xv. 26—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

In our last lesson we saw the triumphant entry into glory, without dying, of the discouraged man who wanted to die. If we would keep our eyes on the glory which surely awaits us we would not be so easily cast down (Rom. viii. 18). We also saw the Spirit of God in Elijah so manifestly upon Elisha that others recognized it. So it should be with us. Elisha longed for a double portion of Elijah's spirit and in today's lesson we behold his resurrection. The Lord wrought through Elijah six miracles and through Elisha at least twelve. Like Elijah he divided Jordan, restored a boy to life, multiplied bread and oil and did other wonders which Elijah did not.

Pre-occupied with his duties, he forgot those just mentioned, there was the healing of the waters at Jericho and of the poisoned pottage and the waters that filled ditches without wind or rain.

The multiplying of the widow's oil to pay her debt and save her sons (1:7) is a beautiful illustration of the privilege which we were given when we believed God. The bringing to life of the Shunammite's son brings us face to face with Him who is the resurrection and the life, who alone doth ponder and still liveth. The people in today's lesson are a proud, mighty kingdom, and the host of the king of Syria, very self-important, but a leper; a little maid of Israel, who loved to magnify the God of Israel; a man of God, who lived before God and sought nothing from man, and some servants who were wiser than their master.

How sad and how suggestive the words concerning this mighty man in valor who had wrought deliverance for Syria, "an incurable sick man with the most loathsome of all diseases. What did his greatness amount to under these circumstances? Leprosy was a terrible plague for what emblem of sin in the Bible, and all are by nature children of wrath, dead in trespasses and sins, spiritually lepers (Eph. i. 13). What profit was there in the abundance or the riches of the men of Luke xii and xvi when their souls were required of them? What does it profit a man to be great in this world if he loses millions of money if he is not a saved man? If he dies out of Christ the fate of the rich man of Luke xvi must be his.

This little captive maid of the land of Israel, if she had been an ordinary child, might have said: "I am glad that he is a leper, why did he come away from my home?" and other such rebellious words; but, though she must have had an aching heart, she was evidently a true child of God and, like Joseph in the house of Potiphar, sought to glorify God even in her very trying circumstances. She was like Pollyanna. She was wiser for Naaman and told his wife, of whom she waited, of the prophet of God in Israel who could do such wonderful things.

How she puts to shame the complainers who are so prone to murmur because of their circumstances and also all who know of the redemption that she is a leper, why did she tell others of it? Where is the spirit of Him who said, "As much as in me is, I am ready to preach the gospel"; "By all means save some" (Rom. i. 14-16; I Cor. ix. 22). Because of the little maid's testimony kings are moved and brought to the leper, but we do not hear of any conversions at the first. The Lord will not forget her in the resurrection (Luke xiv. 14; Matt. x. 42).

The king of Syria sent Naaman to the king of Israel with a letter and much silver and gold and ten changes of raiment. Jesus, but never tell others Israel was the wrong man to go to, but Elisha heard of it and said, "Let him come now to me, and he shall know that there is a prophet in Israel" (verse 8). ## LETTERS OF INTEREST FROM DARDANELLES

In the Trenches For Night Without a Rest—No Sign of Let-up.

MOONLIGHT NIGHTS ARE VERY BRIGHT

When British Troops Cheer the Turks Are Disturbed and Open Fire Wildly.

GALLIOLI.

Interesting letters are sent from the Dardanelles by a sergeant of the 4th Royal Scots. He writes:

"We seem to be up in the trenches for a long spell this time. We have been up for a fortnight now, and are not getting back for a rest yet—only back to reserve. I read my letters this morning at two o'clock by moonlight with the greatest ease. We got some good news in the firing line last night about Italy's having come in against Turkey and other things. An order came round that a cheer was to be raised by the whole firing line from right to left at a given time. Three great cheers were heard for miles on either side, and the Turks did not know what on earth had happened. They got quite a fright, and started their machine guns and rapid fire all along the line. It has been done before for other reasons; so the Turks are not quite new to it; but they always get very 'nervy'."

In a letter dated two days later the sergeant says: "All day yesterday we were employed in shifting back to reserve. As the Turks call them 'Eski' lines. They are very comfortable indeed, and clean, just like cement, and we are near a nice well, where we can wash. What a lovely night it is, clearer than I have seen it; and we had a fine view of Krithia, with its obelisk wind-mills and white buildings, mostly roofless and shell-holed. Last night we were treated to a magnificent wild fire display behind a huge black cloud in the west. It lasted for more than an hour and it lit up all the layers and fringes of this cloud, some flashes lasting five or six seconds."

Writing on a latter date, he writes: "We are back to a nice quiet part of the firing line, which should be put to commercial purposes for the winter. It has all sorts of funny places, long tunnels out away underground, which are used for listening in, and rather a dismal job listening in is pitched darkness. The best of these are full of funny little frogs, which hop about all round you. One advantage you have while you are inside—you are not tormented with flies. But while it is nice and cool, there is not very much fresh air to play with. Then we have bombing stations, where we throw very nasty, noisy things across into the Turkish trenches—that is, when we aim well, which, of course, cuts both ways."

"SOUR GRAPES." "From our place we can see a vineyard, where, we have been told, the big black grapes are just about ripe. However, this is just a casual 'sour grapes' as, while you might be quite successful in getting a bunch or two, why you might never get back far enough to eat them, and the grapes rot on the vine and spoil the bunch. Of course I have a staff, I am very little danger, really, for I never stay in the firing line. Getting the rations up the communication trenches is the worst of my duties."

Of all the misbegotten animals in this world, the mule is the limit. All the transport is done by mules in charge of Indians (Hindus). If the French 'Zis' started and spoiled the rations have to go up after dark; then you get dropping bullets. You have the time of your life on a pitch dark night, with shells shrieking overhead, bullets dropping all around, a blessed mule bucking off its load, in a communication trench too narrow to allow anyone alongside the mule to put the pack on again—then the language is 'quiet and painful and feet'. But we always manage to do our work and laugh over our troubles afterwards, which is as it should be.

"In a trench opposite us the Turks have a big black dog, which we have seen knocking about among them. It must either be a watch dog or a 'Red Crescent' (or ambulance) dog. It will get a bullet nevertheless if it exposes itself too often for being of Turkish blood."

SCORPION STING IS VERY PAINFUL

Some Vivid Experiences by British Troops at Aboukir, in Egypt.

A member of the 17th Royal Scots serving with the Mediterranean Expeditionary Force, Edinburgh, dated 25th August, writes, "I give the following account of his experiences:— We landed here three weeks after leaving Liverpool. En route warrant officers got half a day at Malta (Valletta) another half-day. At Alexandria. It was all very strange and interesting, and I could have spent days going around, but, alas, the time was all too short. We were four days at Aboukir, about 15 miles from Alexandria. That place was the limit. The heat was terrific, or, at least, we found it so. There is one Egyptian plague which was not interdicted—that is flies; but the scorpions were the worst. As soon as night fell, out they sailed. Evering had to be carefully shaken before turning in and as carefully shaken in the morning. Their sting is not dangerous but very painful, as a number of our fellows found. There are no scorpions here, but the flies are awful—probably owing to the large numbers of dead bodies lying around. They lie between the opposing trenches, and it is sudden death to get on top of them, but it is not in. The stench is awful in the front line."

GETTING USED TO SHELLS It is curious how soon one gets used to shells. They shelled the camp one morning very early—half a dozen shells falling within fifty yards of my dugout, and they did not even awaken me. They were small shells. When we first landed, however, it was rather nerve racking. The Turks had a big gun on a trench to which sent a few shells occasionally. The first week we were here we got a present of two. The first intimation you get is its shriek. I was "off my mark" for the rest of the trench, but it fell and burst before I got very far.

The concussion threw me flat on the ground, but you can bet I was lying close to mother earth at the bottom of a trench when the second one arrived. It was funny too. Two cooks who were working at their fires jumped, banged into each other, both fell, then up and off again. No damage was done. I paced the distance afterwards and found it was sixty yards from where I had been standing. The crater it made was six feet deep and ten feet across. My duties take me all over the Peninsula. I draw supplies from the depot and take them to camp, and if the battalion is in the trenches, pack them on mules up to the firing line. Of course I have a staff, I am very little danger, really, for I never stay in the firing line. Getting the rations up the communication trenches is the worst of my duties."

CHILDREN HATE PILLS, CALOMEL AND CASTOR OIL

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them. With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them. If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleaning, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach; and that a teaspoonful given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Use any other kind with contempt.

MONTREALER MISSED ROYALTY BY AN HOUR

The prominent role played in the Balkan imbroglio by Ferdinand, Czar of Bulgaria, recalls to Montrealers that only by one hour did he snatch his throne from a prince of adventures, who spent two years in St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary for swindling a Montreal bank—Nicolas Eramme de Savine, self-styled Count de Toulouse Lautrec, pretender, Nilhilist, Siberian exile, soldier of fortune and crook of international repute.

It was in April, 1900, that he made a sensational descent on Montreal. By using false securities he secured $500 from the Bank of Nova Scotia, then fleeing to Chicago. Extradition proceedings were instituted. Detectives Eramme de Savine and Judge Desnoyers sent him to the penitentiary for five years. Released on ticket-of-leave, the distinguished convict was furnished by the Prisoner's Aid Society with a ticket to Chicago. At Toronto he sold the portion of the ticket remaining, forged an order and secured furs worth $500, and crossed to Buffalo. There he sold his booty and made for New York, only to meet arrest. The Toronto authorities refusing to extradite their man, the Count regained his liberty.

These Canadian happenings, however, were but insignificant incidents in the romantic life led by the ex-Montrealer, who left his mark on the many parts of the world he visited.

His greatest achievement was virtual nomination by Russia to the throne of Bulgaria; his greatest disaster was losing sway over the country by one hour's ride from Sofia.

WOUNDED AT PLEVNA.
Nicolas Eramme de Savine was born in Moscow in 1853, the son of a Russian general, whose brother-in-law, Count George de Toulouse-Lautrec, later adopted Nicolas, who took his guardian's name.
Educated in Petrograd, young Nicolas joined the Petrovskii Guards as a lieutenant, fought and was severely wounded in one of the Russian attacks made on the Turks at Plevna during the Russo-Turkish campaign of 1877. His army experience made Nicolas anything but patriotic; in fact he left the army, and retired to his country estates, ostensibly leading the life of a country gentleman, but in many ways assisting the Nilhilists.
It was during this period that he just missed being Czar of Bulgaria. The Bulgarian throne was vacant; Russia and Austria were at variance, each was wanting its own candidate to occupy the Bulgarian throne, and time was passing. Nicolas seized his chance. He made his way to Bulgaria, gathered around him several thousand Bulgarians and laid formal claim to the throne, at the same time preparing to enter Sofia, Russia learned of his act and while not accrediting him officially, prepared by arms if necessary to sustain the adventurer. Austria, too, was preparing her candidate for the throne.
No sooner did Vienna hear that the Count was descending on Sofia than she sent her own candidate, Prince Ferdinand, and claimed as ruler of the country. Formalities had to be completed before Ferdinand could take the throne, and meanwhile the Count was slowly approaching the capital. En route he was proclaimed king by the people as king, and he was anticipating a triumphant entry into Sofia, but to his chagrin he reached the capital just one is every woman's right; but many are troubled with sallow complexions, headaches, backaches, low spirits—until they learn that sure relief may be found in hour after the last ceremony had been completed by which Ferdinand became Czar of Bulgaria.

EXILED TO SIBERIA.
Returning to Russia, the Count again joined the Nilhilists, he was suspected more and more and finally was arrested in Berlin in 1888, taken to Moscow and thrown into prison. There he languished for three years, was tried before a secret court and exiled to Siberia. His indomitable spirit refused to be crushed. He intoxicated his guards, and made a perilous six-weeks' journey through the Asiatic snows to Vladivostok, on the Pacific coast, where he caught an English vessel and sailed for Vancouver.

Once in America, the Count re-nounced his Russian nationality and became an American citizen after he had travelled about the country for several years, in the course of which he fell into the hands of the New York and Chicago police for minor crimes. April 27, 1899, was an eventful day for the Count; he not only left the Russian nation; he joined the United States volunteer army, and within a fortnight was in Cuba, fighting in the Spanish-American War. At the battle of Santiago de Cuba, the Count was severely bayoneted, but recovered and went to Europe. Visiting Paris in 1899, Toulouse-Lautrec met Marie Claire Vervoot, a beautiful nineteen-year-old girl of good family, and though he was forty-four years old, married her. The couple crossed to Chicago, and it was during this trip that the Count entered Canada and experienced the hospitality of St. Vincent de Paul.

ONCE MORE IN SIBERIA

In 1902, the Count rejoined his wife, and the two crossed to Europe. The Countess was left in Paris with her parents while her husband went to Portugal. At Lisbon he was reminded of the leg arm of the Russian Government. Russian agents found him, discovered it was impossible to extradite him, so they persuaded the Portuguese Government to banish Toulouse-Lautrec from the country. He was given his choice of destination; he chose England—but the agents had been busy and instead of landing in England, the Count found himself in Bremen, Germany. In Germany extradition was possible and the Count was arrested; for three years he was kept in Germany, then hurried to Petrograd and placed in a small cell in the famous fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul.

Protest that he was an American citizen availed the Count little, and for the second time in his life he was a Siberian exile. Two years later he again escaped—this time by bribery, crept stealthily to Petrograd, where he enlisted the sympathy of the American consul who soon procured his release. The Count journeyed to England, then to Paris, only to find that in the five years his wife had gone mad. He took his child and prepared to request the American Government to enter protest against such treatment of one of its citizens.

From then little is known of the Count's life. The last word came to Montreal in 1903, when O. Campeau, chief of police, received a request for information about the man from the Antwerp, Belgium authorities who held Toulouse-Lautrec charged with forgery.

OLD WORLD NEWS.

Statistics issued recently by the Department of Agriculture for Ireland show that the number of persons who emigrate each year for agricultural labor has fallen from 32,000 in 1900 to 13,000 last year. Their weekly earnings in England and Scotland range from 20s to 35s. The report adds—These annual emigrations would suggest a permanent glut in the Irish agricultural labor market, but such a state of affairs does not exist. On the contrary there has been for many years a marked scarcity of agricultural laborers in Ireland and the numbers that have joined the ranks since the outbreak of the war have further intensified farmers' difficulties.

CENTRAL POWERS OUTBID ALLIES FOR BULGARIA'S AID

Sir Edward Grey Stated Feeling in Balkans Was One of Division.

London, Oct. 14.—The diplomatic rather than the military side of the situation was the subject of Sir Edward Grey's eagerly-awaited statement relative to the Balkan situation which he delivered yesterday to a crowded House of Commons.

"I propose to confine myself," the British Foreign Secretary said, "to a resume of our diplomatic objects since the war. At the outset we desired that the war should not spread, and in common with our allies we assured Turkey that if she remained neutral Turkey and Turkey's territory should not suffer. This situation was completely changed by the entrance of Turkey into the war, and all obligations on the part of the allies then ceased.

"We and our allies then concentrated upon securing an agreement among the Balkan States, and we used all our influence to secure an accord. Unfortunately the feeling in the Balkans is not one of union, but of division. It was clear nothing but a decisive preponderating advantage for the allies would have enabled us to secure a policy of union.

"We were given to understand in the course of the negotiations that except with regard to Thrace, the central powers had offered to Bulgaria more to secure her neutrality than the allies could in fairness offer. The promises which induced Bulgaria to declare war were given by the central powers at the expense of her neighbors and without any corresponding advantage to them.

FRIENDLY WITH ROUMANIA.
"We have remained throughout on friendly relations with Roumania who has favored the policy of a Balkan union.

"It is the policy of bringing about a Balkan war that the sovereigns and Governments of Germany, Austria-Hungary and Bulgaria—the sovereigns and governments have succeeded in carrying into effect. We were given to understand that in order to secure a Balkan union there were certain concessions Bulgaria would require especially in Thrace and Macedonia.

"The allies were ready to do all in their power to secure these for Bulgaria, but to obtain the consent of Serbia and Greece, it was an essential preliminary that Bulgaria take sides with the allies against Turkey. In other words, if Bulgaria was to realize her hopes and aspirations she must co-operate in a common cause in which the hopes and aspirations of other neighboring States were engaged.

"It will be enough to say that these reasonable hopes and aspirations were, in the main, founded upon opportunity to the peoples of the same races, the same sentiments and the same religion to join themselves to a state under a government most akin to them."

OBLIGATIONS OF GREECE.
In his remarks Sir Edward Grey, alluding to Serbia, praised the skill and courage with which she had turned upon her foes and driven them out of her country as one of the outstanding features of the war. Once again, he said, the crisis was upon Serbia, and she was meeting it with the same splendid courage. The entry of Bulgaria made a great difference in the situation and raised the question of treaty relations between Greece and Serbia.

Regarding the attitude of Greece, Sir Edward Grey referred to the statements made by Premier Venizelos and the new Grecian Premier, M. Zaimis, and said it must be obvious that the interests of Greece and Serbia were now one. In the long run, he said, they must stand or fall together.

Through Greek territory alone could assistance be sent to Serbia, continued the Foreign Secretary, and that this assistance was welcome was sufficiently proved by the reception accorded the allied troops. Great Britain was giving Serbia all the help in its power freely and unconditionally.

"In view of the treaty between Greece and Serbia," said the Foreign Secretary, "how can there be any other attitude on the part of Greece towards the assistance offered her to Serbia? In the steps taken we acted in the closest co-operation with France, and the co-operation of Russian troops is promised as soon as they can be made available."

BASED ON SOUND STRATEGY.
"The military measures adopted to meet the requirements of the new situation are the subject of continuous attention by the military authorities of the allies, and they will be taken in close consultation with each other. It is not my province to make a public disclosure of the military plans, and I can only say I believe they will be based on the principles of sound strategy. Serbia is fighting for her national existence, and with her the struggle is just now intense and acute, but the same issues arise. It is one, in whatever phase of war fighting, that we must face."

"All the allies are fighting for national existence, and for all who are fighting the same issues arise. It is a fight for the right to live, not under the shadow of Prussian militarism, which does not observe the ordinary rules of humanity in war, and to leave us free from the menace of oppression."

WILL NOT BE DEBATED.
Premier Asquith in the House of Commons declined to grant a day for debate on Sir Edward Grey's statement on the Balkan situation. In the House of Lords the Marquis of Crewe made a statement similar to that of the Foreign Secretary, and concluded:

"This attack on Serbia will only make sterner and fiercer the determination of the allies to carry the war through to a definite victory at whatever cost. Nothing has occurred in any part of the world to weaken that resolution, and we will maintain it."

During the discussion which followed the Marquis of Crewe's statement, Viscount Milner suggested the withdrawal of the troops from Gallipoli and their transfer to some other theatre of the war.

Lord Lansdowne, in reply, said it was impossible for any member of the Government to give an undertaking that the troops would continue in the Dardanelles operations or would be withdrawn from them. It would be unpatriotic and improper, he said, to force the Government to make a fuller disclosure of the operations in which the country is engaged.

The present situation, he declared, was a grave and critical one; there were new developments and new factors in addition to the entrance of Bulgaria into the struggle. The attitude of Greece at the present moment had not been quite fully defined, and that was another factor in the calculation.

PALE, FEEBLE GIRLS

Girls upon the threshold of womanhood often drift into a decline in spite of all care and attention. How often one sees girls who have been strong and lively become suddenly weak, depressed, irritable and listless. It is the dawn of womanhood—a crisis in the life of every girl—and prompt measures should be taken to keep the blood pure and rich with the red tint of health. If the blood is not healthy at this critical stage the body is weakened and grave disorders follow. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have saved thousands of young girls from what might have been life-long invalidism or an early death. They are a blood-builder of unequalled richness, strengthening weak nerves and producing a liberal supply of red, healthy blood which every girl needs to sustain her strength. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved their great value over and over again to young women whose health was failing. Miss Minnie Quilfield, Eramosa, Ont., says: "It gives me great pleasure to tell you what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me. When I was approaching the age of womanhood I suffered greatly from bloodlessness, or anaemia. My work was a drag to me. I had no appetite, and never felt rested in the morning. I could scarcely walk for five minutes at a time without taking a rest. I was troubled with severe headaches, and things looked gloomy indeed. I doctored for a long time and got but little, if any benefit. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and did so and after taking them for a time I felt better. I continued taking the Pills until I had used six boxes, when I felt like a new person, and was again enjoying splendid health. I would strongly advise any girl who is weak or run down to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills from any dealer in medicines or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $3.00 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

New York, Oct. 15.—A copy of the manifesto of King Ferdinand of Bulgaria, portions of which were guarded from Sofia recently, reached London to-day. The manifesto implies Bulgaria's withdrawal from the entente, and explains that they, like Germany, prepared to give Bulgaria the part of Macedonia.

"Our treacherous neighbor alone remained in the camp of the advice of her friends as the manifesto continues. The listening to their counsels I amostly stupidly attacked. I, and our brave troops, were forced to fight for the defense of our soil."

In concluding King Ferdinand said: "The European war is no close. The victorious army of the Central empires in Serbia are army rapidly. I command our army to drive the enemy to the limits of my kingdom and of my neighbors. We shall attack the Serbs at the same time as the armies of the Central empire."

A Call from the Motherland—an Appeal from the

for funds to aid in the noble work of providing medicines, hospital supplies, equipment of all sorts for our sick and wounded sailors and soldiers at the front

People of Ontario

Bring this right home to yourselves. There may well be friends or relatives of yours now languishing in their pain on the heroic battlefields of France and the Near East because the British Red Cross is in dire need of funds to succour them. Will it be said that this, the first appeal of any kind made directly to the people of Ontario by the Mother Country—fell short of anything but a magnificent response.

Read this Cabled Appeal from the Marquis of Lansdowne

Sept. 29th, 1915.

Sir John S. Hendrie, C.V.O., Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Ontario, Toronto.

I beg to inform you that the British Red Cross Society and the Order of St. John, in view of the great demands upon their resources, both in France and the Near East, have decided to make an appeal throughout the Empire, by street and other collections, upon the twenty-first day of October next.

The money received from this appeal will be devoted entirely to relieving the sufferings of our wounded soldiers and sailors, from home and overseas, at the various seats of war, from all parts of the King's Dominions. We have already received generous assistance in our work, but with the increase of British and Overseas forces at the front, there is a corresponding increase in our expenditure, and we shall be truly grateful to you if you will help us by organizing an appeal and sending the proceeds to us, for the objects which I have named.

I shall be greatly obliged if you will kindly communicate the foregoing to your Government. Their Majesties the King and Queen and Her Majesty Queen Alexandra are giving us their gracious patronage, and I trust that you will also be able to see your way to help.

LANSDOWNE,
President of the British Red Cross Society, 83 Pall Mall, London.

Ontario's Answer—$500,000

Nothing less than this sum will fully express Ontario's deep appreciation of British Red Cross work. A work in which our own soldier and sailor boys share in arid Mesopotamia, at the bloody Dardanelles, on the shell-torn fields of France and Flanders. Give—give freely and lovingly—your gift may be an angel of mercy to some stricken hero who is making the Great Sacrifice for you and yours.

The emblem of mercy—wear it—Give to it on "Our Day," October 21st.

"I gave myself for them—what will they do for me?"

We who stay at home must and will gladly give to the utmost in such a splendid cause as British Red Cross work, and his Honor Lieutenant-Governor Sir John S. Hendrie has appointed as a day of public giving in response to Lord Lansdowne's appeal. Ontario's quota has been set at $500,000. We will not fail the British Red Cross.

"OUR DAY" for Sailors and Soldiers

Your Mayor or Reeve has authority to accept your subscription, or he will depute collectors to receive it on Oct. 21st. Your donation will be speeded direct to London, without waste or expense.

Give as liberally as you can. Give a day's pay. Get others to do so. Better go without luxuries for a week or two than some brave Defender may be eased and comforted in his pain. Give on October 21st.

That, Says Aviat Defence Again

By Special Wire to the Courier
London, Oct. 16.—The Courier system of protective aviat against Zeppelin attacks is to be replaced by a layer of searchlights, making the vast carpet of light, according to G. Grey, a widely known expert, writing in the Express, the best way to prevent an enemy from doing serious work, says, is to blind him with light.

"For this reason," declares the proposed plan of aviat aeroplanes at night to attack is ridiculous, because, Zeppelin is lit up by searchlight, and as soon as the aeroplanes are in the beam of the searchlight the pilot is made helpless. One hears much about aeroplane patrols over the night sky, but the minds of the people, and the tecton of Paris is a ring of lights completely enclosing it. I submit the following sketch the protection of London.

FOUR LIGHTS PER HA
"Divide the city into squares, and in the corners square place searchlights with wide beams vertically upward beam of each searchlight over that of its neighbor. Thus, would be covered with a ring of light so blinding that passing could see nothing below, with
